A sermon followed the reading of the Scripture, explaining the portion which had been read. The sermon in the synagogue at Nazareth was in full keeping with the regular procedure of the day. The sermon was closed with a blessing, pronounced by some priestly member of the congregation. If no person with priestly qualifications was present, a prayer was substituted for the blessing.

Jesus Himself attended regularly the service of the synagogue and took part in it.

His disciples also had been accustomed to its ritual.

Paul in his travels visited the synagogues first whenever he entered strange cities, and he preached and debated with the Jews and proselytes who gathered to hear him.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Church followed to some degree the procedure of the Synagogue. As a matter of fact, some early Christian worship may have been carried on within the synagogue; for the Epistle of James implies that the Christian community to whom it was written was still worshipping there (Jas. 2:1, 2).

Because of the summary and persistent rejection of the gospel of Christ by the Jewish people, the church and the synagogue parted company as it is today.

See the [Extra Note 1] in Chapter XXII for additional photos and maps regarding the synagogue of Capernaum during the time of Jesus.

See also*:

Synagogue Services During the Time of Jesus

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others.

Hebrew Tabernacle and Temples of Israel

Tabernacle

1st Temple of Solomon

2nd Temple of Zerabubbel

Herod's Temple
(During the time of Jesus; the "upgraded" 2nd Temple)

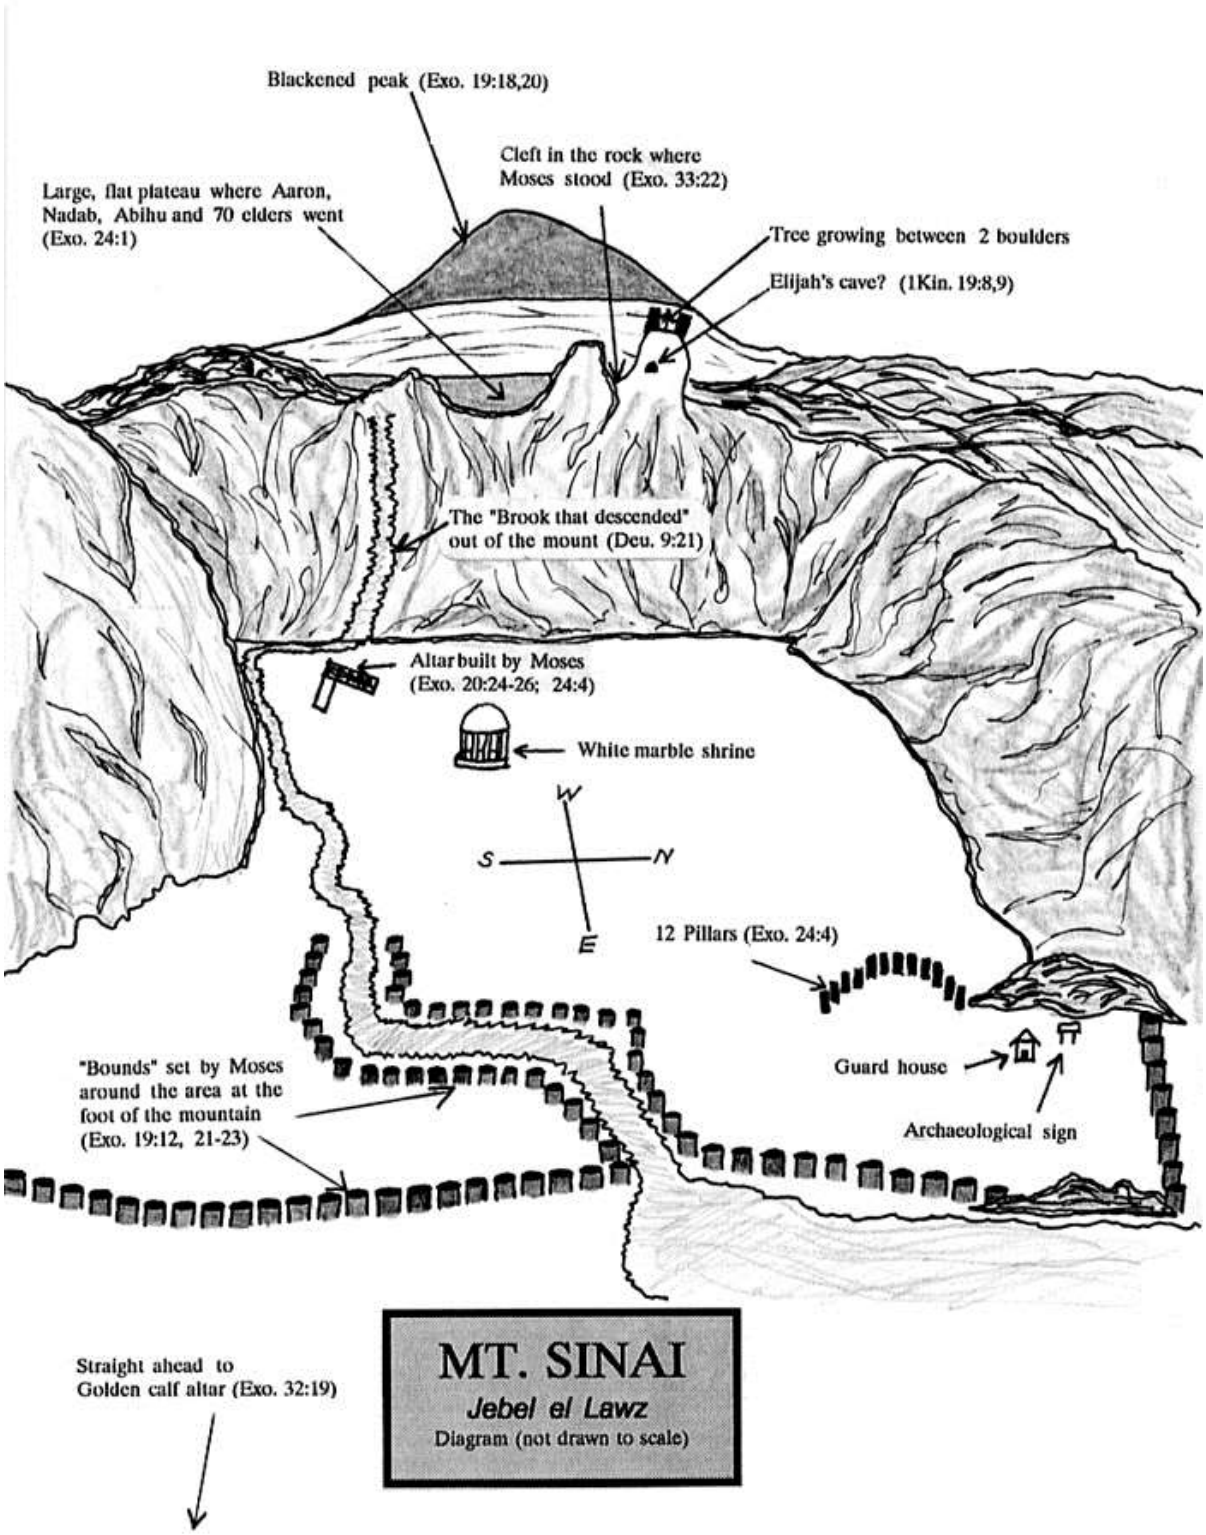
Ezekiel's Temple
(3rd Temple; yet to be built)

Jerusalem and the Temple and Palaces of Herod

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Tabernacle

The new religious observances taught by Moses in the wilderness centered on rituals connected with the tabernacle and amplified Israel's sense of separateness, purity, and oneness under the lordship of Yahweh.

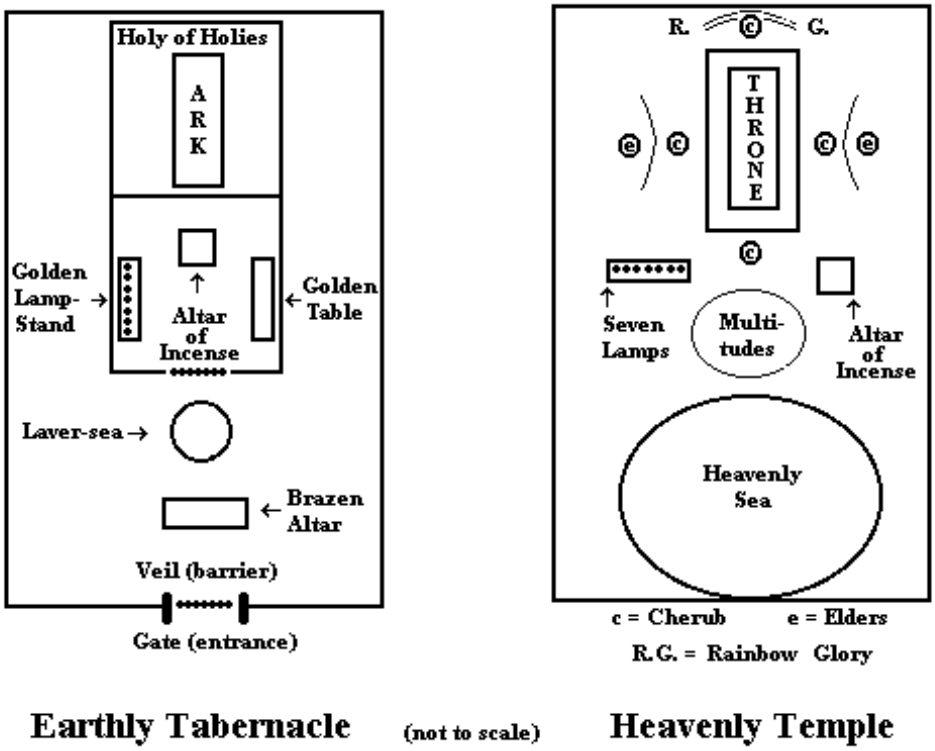


© 2011 by Zondervan. All rights reserved.

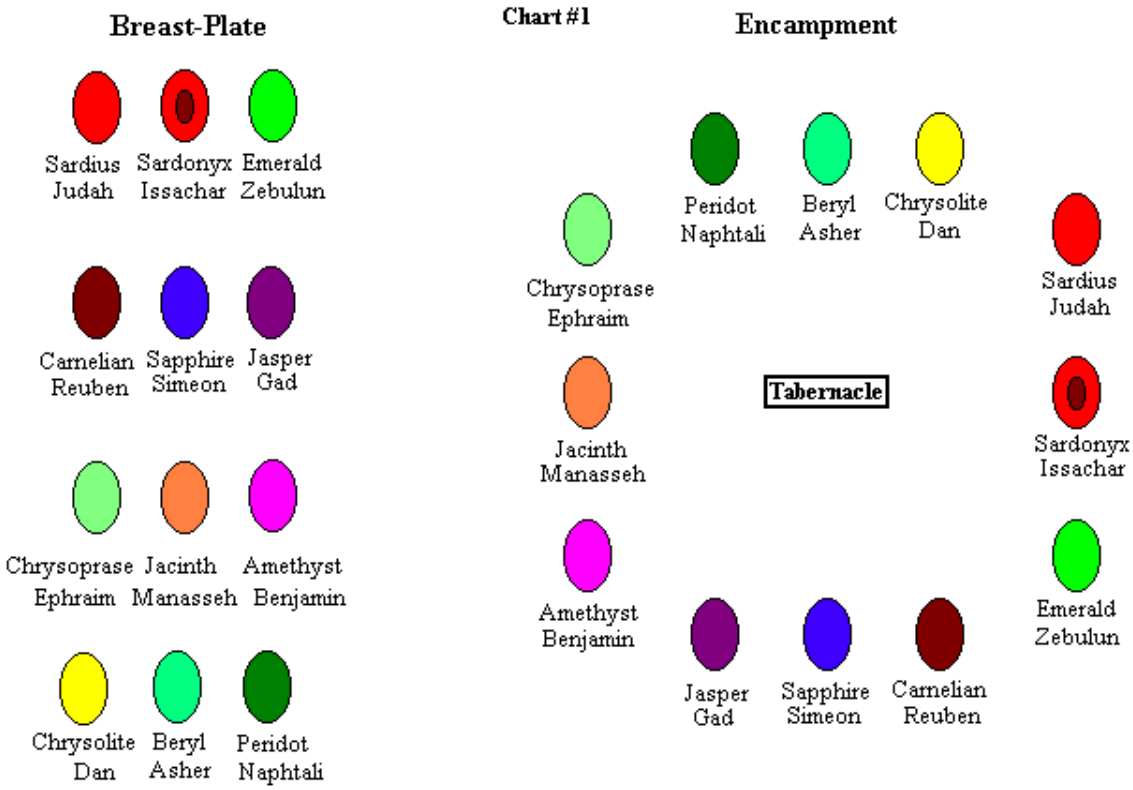
A few desert shrines have been found in Sinai (notably at Serabit el-Khadem) and at Timnah in the Negev. They show marked Egyptian influence.

Specific cultural antecedents to portable shrines carried on poles and covered with thin sheets of gold can be found in ancient Egypt as early as the Old Kingdom (2800–2250 B.C.), but they were especially prominent in the Eighteenth and Nineteenth Dynasties (1570–1180). The best examples come from the fabulous tomb of Tutankhamun, c. 1300 B.C.

Comparisons of construction details in the text of Exodus 25–40 with the frames, shrines, poles, sheathing, draped fabric covers, gilt rosettes, and winged protective figures from the shrine of Tutankhamun are instructive. The period, the Late Bronze Age, is equivalent in all dating systems to the era of Moses and the Exodus.



[Source: NKJV Study Bible]



(Prior to the Tabernacle)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Earthly Tabernacle and Temple as a Type of the Heavenly Temple:

Earthly Tabernacle (not to scale) Heavenly Temple

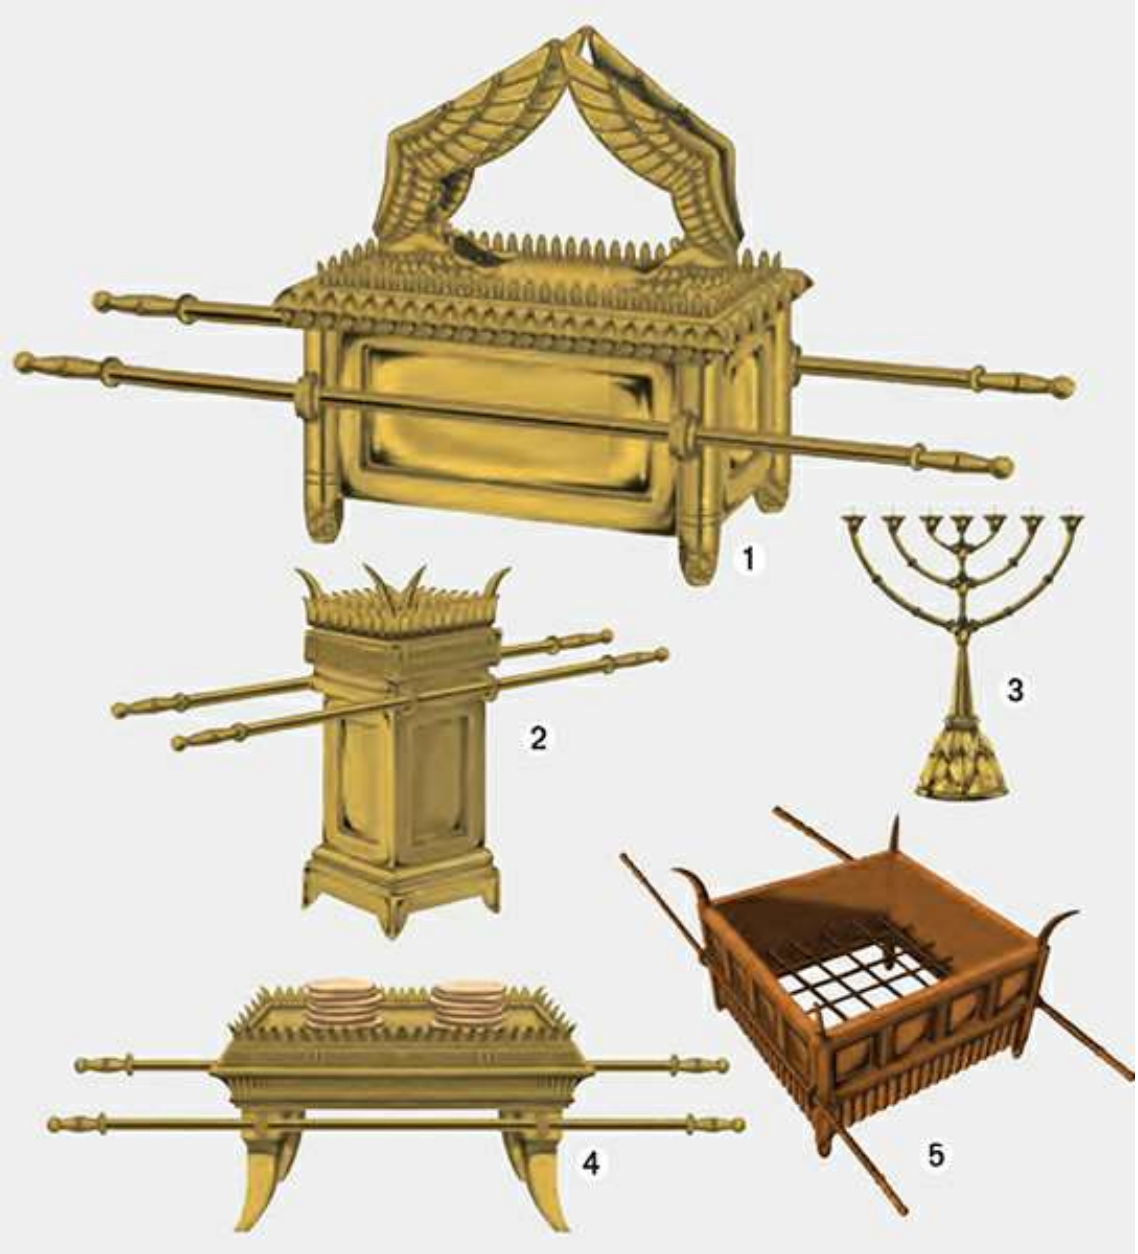
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Tabernacle

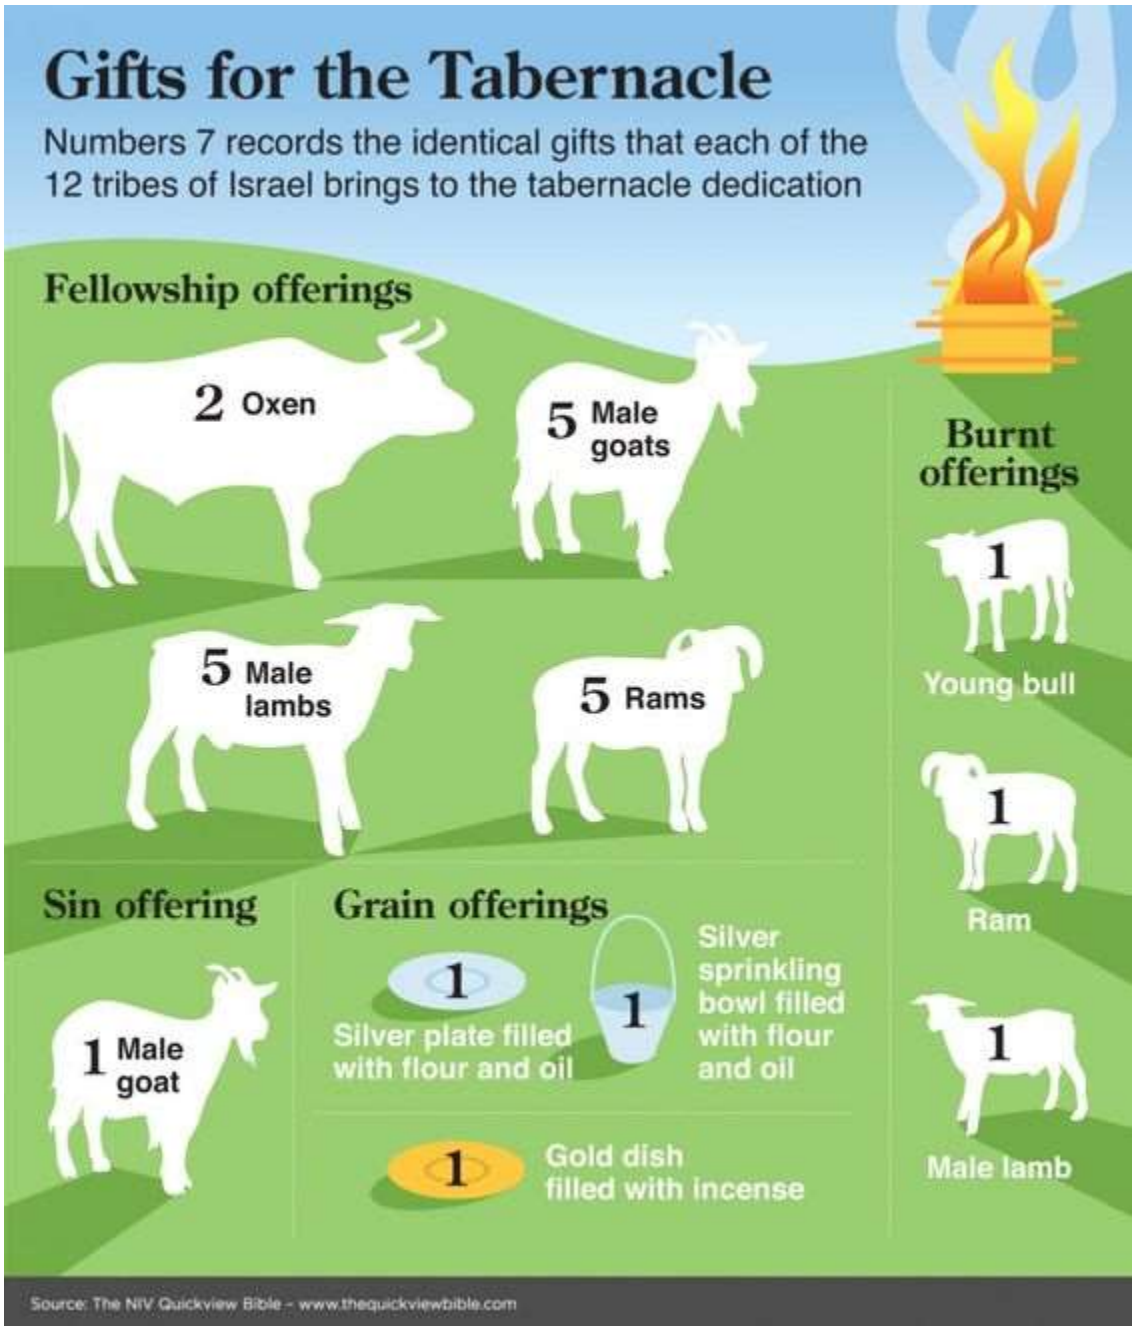
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



The Tabernacle

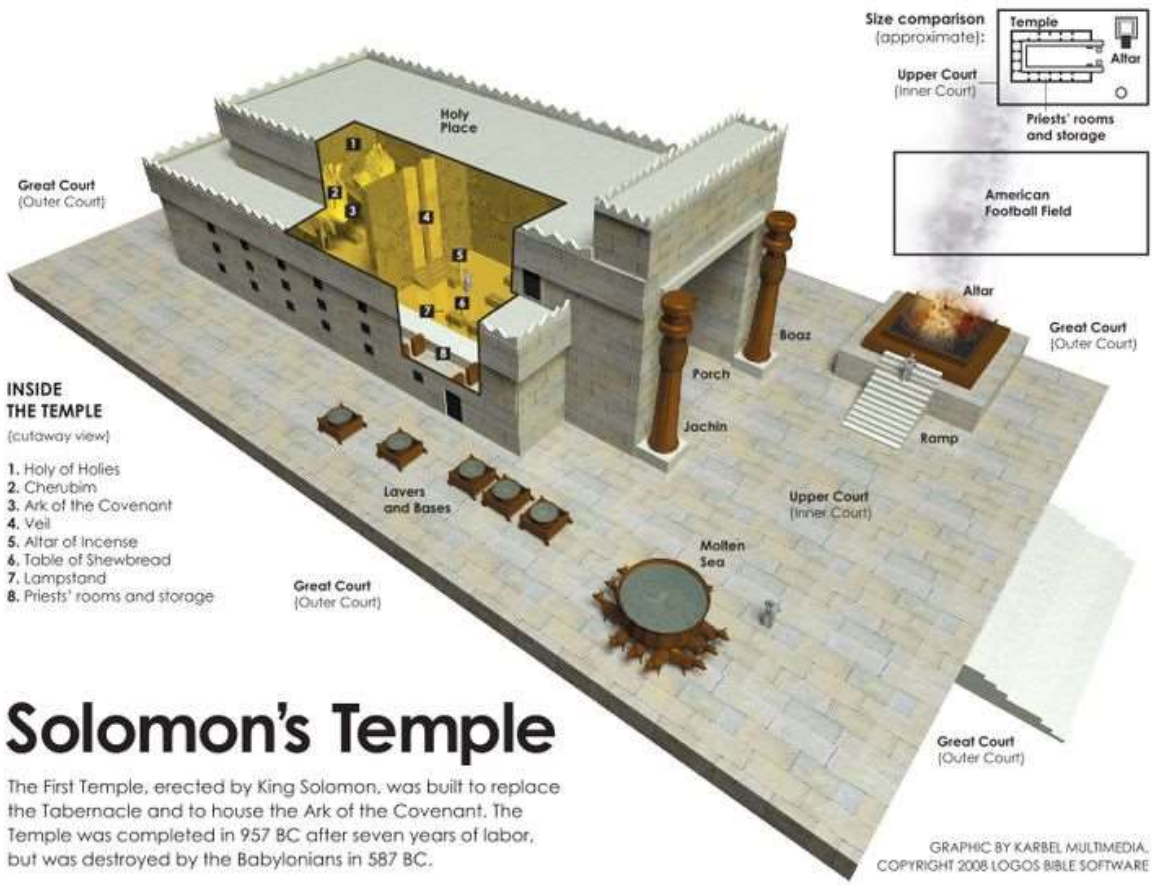
This portable temple was built in the wilderness by the Israelites circa 1450 BC after they were freed from Egyptian slavery. The tabernacle was the first temple dedicated to God and the first resting place of the ark of the covenant. It served as a place of worship and sacrifices during the Israelites' 40 years in the wilderness.

GRAPHIC BY KARBEL MULTIMEDIA,
COPYRIGHT 2011 LOGOS BIBLE SOFTWARE



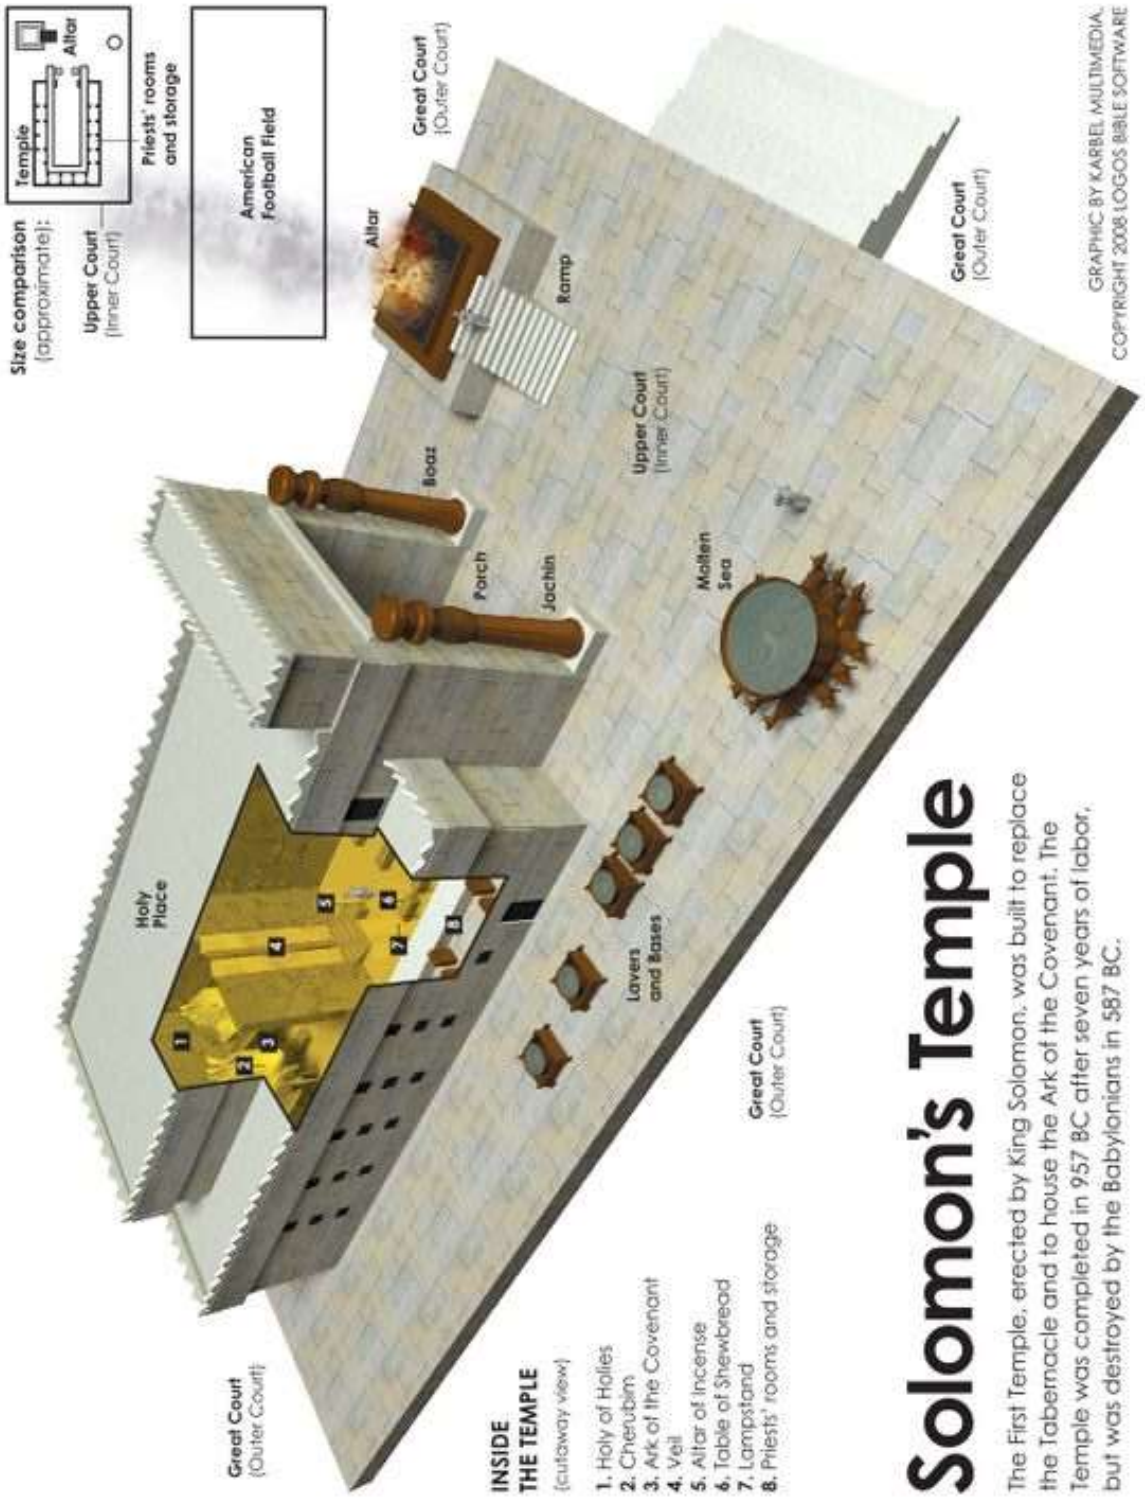
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: NKJV Study Bible]



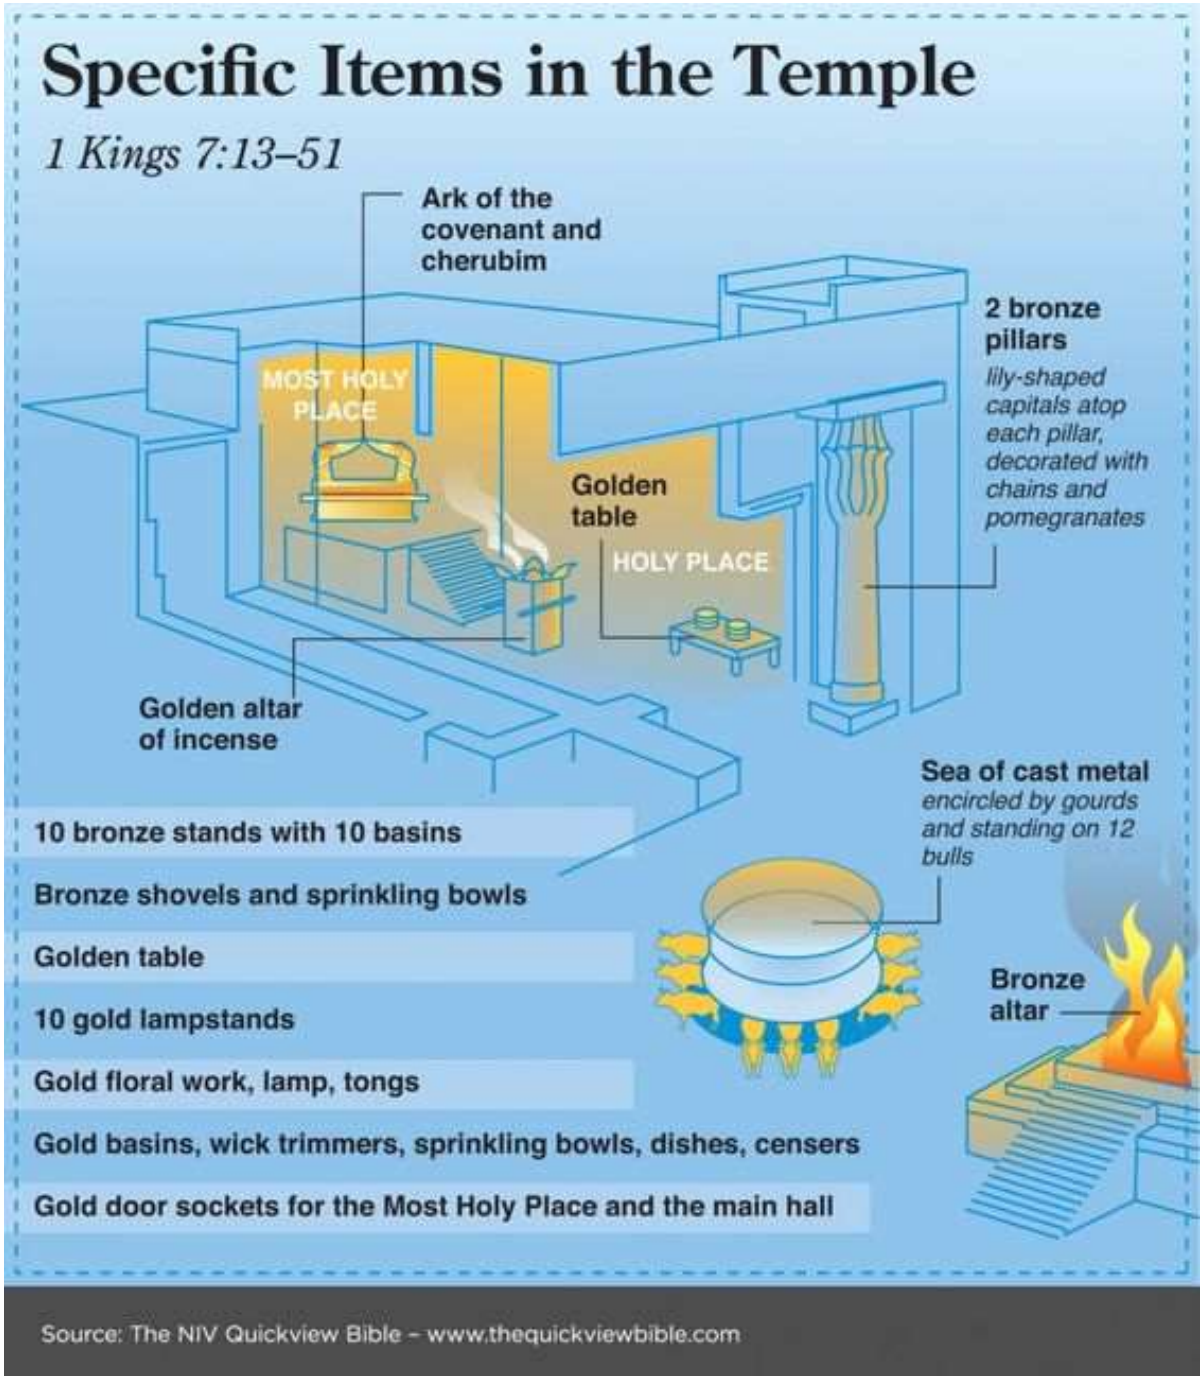
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Gifts for the Tabernacle Dedication



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Solomon's Temple (1st Temple)



See enlarged landscape view on next page

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Temple Show Bread

Says Alfred Edersheim in The Temple: Its Ministry and Services, the showbread was baked and prepared with painstaking care, so that in appearance and color the lower should be exactly the same as the upper part of it. The loaves of the showbread were kneaded separately and baked in pairs. They were made ready in a mould; and when they were taken from the oven, they were once again put in a mould, lest they should suffer any hurt (p. 140).

The Showbread Table with the bread and two flasks of frankincense. Below: Pitcher for the drink offering - wine, likely - and drinking cups. Behind: A lamp stand with seven branches. Solomon made ten tables and ten lamp stands and posted them on the left and right sides of the Holy Place. "Rings" for carrying poles are fixed to the table's legs. The light from the lamps is meant to shine upon the 12 loaves or cakes of unleavened bread which, along with the wine, depict Israel.

Edersheim adds that this showbread was "made of the finest wheaten flour that had been passed through eleven sieves. There were twelve of these cakes, according to the number of the tribes of Israel, ranged in two piles, each of six cakes. Each cake was made of two omers of wheat (the omer = about five pints). Between the two rows . . . two bowls with pure incense were placed, and, according to Egyptian tradition, also salt. The cakes were anointed in the middle with oil, in the form of a cross. As described by Jewish tradition, they were each five handbreadths broad and ten handbreadths long, but turned up at either end, two handbreadths on each side, to resemble in outline the Ark of the Covenant" (p. 142-143).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: ESV Study Bible note]

The Showbread:
Who they represent, were they unleavened, and why it matters.

Historians tell us that in the time of Jesus the twelve breads (later called the “Showbread” in English) were actually unleavened—even though they were always called “breads” in scripture. Made from the grain offerings of the Israelites, these breads were always present in the Temple. In this Course, we will consider if God really meant for these twelve breads to be made unleavened when He gave His commandment to Moses, or if He intended something else. Along these same lines, we will consider if making the Showbread unleavened was one of the doctrines of the Pharisees who, as the Messiah said, made void the word of God by their traditions (Mark 7:13).

The twelve breads were a part of the pattern that God gave to Moses and, just like other aspects of the Tabernacle and Temple, they point forward to spiritual truth in the New Covenant:

> NAS Hebrews 8:5 who serve a copy and shadow of the heavenly things, just as Moses was warned by God when he was about to erect the tabernacle; for, “See,” He says, “that you make all things according to the pattern which was shown you on the mountain.”
>
> NAS Hebrews 10:1 For the Law, since it has only a shadow of the good things to come and not the very form of things, can never by the same sacrifices year by year, which they offer continually, make perfect those who draw near.

Before we look at what these breads foreshadow and the “good things” to which they point, it’s crucial to first see what these breads were in the natural or literal sense.

> NAS 1 Corinthians 15:46 However, the spiritual is not first, but the natural; then the spiritual.

The reason it’s so critical to see what these twelve natural breads in the Temple pointed to is they show forth God’s plan and pattern for the spiritual bread, being all those who love Him and are filled with His spirit.

Important doctrines have been clouded by a failure to understand the difference between the word “bread” in its normal usage as daily leavened bread and its figurative usage, when on rare occasions it refers to something that is actually unleavened. This Course sets out to make this difference clear, because understanding it will help shed light on many scriptures and therefore on various truths. These truths include what Jesus intended with the Last Supper bread, what the twelve Temple breads pointed to spiritually, and what “breaking bread” referred to for early Jewish believers. It even sheds more light on how the modern-day ritual of Communion (or “Blessed Eucharist”) with unleavened bread was inherited from Rome and was not a ritual kept by the early Messianic Jews.

Continue reading…
http://themessianicfeast.com

Excerpts from above publication continued related to leave/unleavened questions…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Excerpts…

Why It Matters Whether These Twelve Breads Were Leavened or Not

Now that we've seen that the twelve breads definitively point to the twelve tribes of Israel, let's turn our attention to why it matters whether the breads were leavened or not.

Some argue that Jesus eating bread at the Last Supper (which they believe was the Passover) would have been fine, because in the Old Testament scriptures matzah was sometimes called "bread." They say that the "bread of God," which was given as a fire offering on the altar to God, was commanded by Him to be made unleavened; yet it was sometimes referred to figuratively as "bread."

Others also argue that, since they believe the Showbread was matzah and was always called "bread" in scripture, it would have been normal for the Jewish disciples to announce that they and Jesus had eaten bread at Passover. These people claim that bread is bread, which can mean either unleavened or leavened. But even today, one would never go around the orthodox sections of Jerusalem announcing they were eating bread during Passover, and in Jesus's day the Jewish nation was much more strict concerning the laws of Moses.

These twelve breads were a commandment of God that pointed to spiritual truths in the New Covenant, just as those things in the first covenant under Moses (the Passover, three Festivals, sacrifices, altar, lamp stand, etc.) point forward and show spiritual truth in the New Covenant.

If the Last Supper was not the Passover, and Jesus was therefore eating regular bread as all the scriptures show, then it shows that someone else came up with the ritual of Communion using unleavened bread; it was not Jesus or the Jewish disciples.

Jesus said some of the Pharisees' traditions made the word of God void. One of these traditions was likely their making of the twelve breads unleavened. This changed the breads to matzah, voiding the word of God by leaving no typology that could accurately be drawn out.

Typology is a method of biblical interpretation whereby an element found in the Old Testament is seen to prefigure one found in the New Testament. The initial one is called the type and the fulfillment is designated the antitype. Either type or antitype may be a person, thing, or event, but often the type is messianic ...[6]

A simple example would be the lamb sacrifices being a "type" of Christ, who was called the "lamb of God" and also Christ "our Passover." He was the fulfillment of what these sacrificial lambs prefigured.

Below we will see which typology fits better for these twelve breads that represent the twelve tribes: regular leavened breads or matzah.

❦

Moses, David, and all the scriptures continually refer to these loaves as "bread." The Messiah and Paul also called them bread. If these twelve breads were commanded by God to be unleavened, that would point out certain spiritual truths. If they were leavened, that would indicate other spiritual truths and types.

But the fact is that in the scriptures, He does not command for them to be either unleavened or leavened. God leaves this mysteriously unspoken. Therefore, it would have been the legal decision of the Israelite leaders throughout history to decide how the twelve breads were made.

However, while many scriptures refer to these twelve breads as "bread" (lechem in Hebrew), not a single scripture calls them "matzah" (unleavened). This alone is a huge hint as to their original makeup at the time the instruction was given to Moses. If God had expected the twelve breads to be made as matzah, He would not have called them "bread" without qualifying that they were to be unleavened. If God required this, clearly He would have commanded it to Moses and made it unambiguous for future leaders and other believers.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

While it is true that certain rare offerings were referred to figuratively as “bread” when they were actually matzah, we will see later in this Course that in each of those instances, God clearly qualified the “bread” to be matzah.

The twelve Temple breads (Showbread) are different, though, because they were never once called “matzah,” nor were they commanded to be made without leaven, whereas the “bread of God” (such as in Leviticus 21:6) that was placed directly on the altar as a fire offering to the Lord was commanded by God always to be made without leaven. Therefore, the word “bread” in the phrase “bread of their God” is obviously being used figuratively.

> NAS Leviticus 2:11 ‘No grain offering, which you bring to the LORD, shall be made with leaven, for you shall not offer up in smoke any leaven or any honey as an offering by fire to the LORD.

> NAS Leviticus 21:6 ‘They shall be holy to their God and not profane the name of their God, for they present the offerings by fire to the LORD, the bread of their God; so they shall be holy.

The difference is this: The twelve breads (Showbread) were not offered in the fire to God, but rather they were eaten by the priests. Only the frankincense in the bowls on top of the breads actually went in the fire to God (Leviticus 24:7), so no commandment or any inferred command existed for these twelve breads to be made unleavened.

Pharisaic Tradition That the “Breads” Are to Be Unleavened

If you read Josephus or Philo, who both lived near the time of Christ, you’ll notice that these breads were unleavened at that time, as the authoritative McClintock and Strong Cyclopedia relates:

II. The Bread and its Significance. — Whether the bread was to be leavened or unleavened is not said. The Jewish tradition holds it to have been unleavened (Josephus, Ant. iii, 6, 6; 10, 7; Philo, De Congr. V, 1); and as Josephus and Philo could scarcely be ignorant of what on such a matter was customary in their time, it is not to be doubted that, according to the later practice at least, the bread was unleavened, affording ground for the inference that the same was the case also in earlier times.[7]

McClintock and Strong Cyclopedia says that since (according to Josephus and Philo) the breads were unleavened at that time, it could be inferred that they were also unleavened in earlier times. Our concern is not with how these breads were made during the rule of the Pharisees, but with how they were made under the more spiritual leaders such as Moses and David before the legalism of the Pharisees was established.

Josephus and Philo both lived during the time when the Pharisees exercised much control, and Jesus often rebuked the Pharisees and their scribes because they forced certain traditions on the people that were not from God. Jesus spoke of this as he quoted from the Jewish prophet Isaiah:

> NAS Mark 7:7 ‘But in vain do they worship Me, Teaching as doctrines the precepts of men.’

Josephus and other sources documented the Pharisees’ great power over their people during the time of Christ. The Sadducees, descended from the high priestly lineage of Aaron through Zadok, were given authority over the twelve breads according to God’s law. They were seen as a wealthy ruling class who had some authority as ministers in the Temple, but the Pharisees exerted even more control, which they used to instill their doctrines, as Josephus relates:

What I would now explain is this, that the Pharisees have delivered to the people a great many observances by succession from their fathers, which are not written in the law of Moses; and for that reason it is that the Sadducees reject them and say that we are to esteem those observances to be obligatory which are in the written word, but are not to observe what are derived from the tradition of our forefathers. (298) And concerning these things it is that great disputes and differences have arisen among them, while the Sadducees are able to persuade none but the rich, and have not the populace obsequious to them, but the Pharisees have the multitude on their side;[8]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Jesus also bears witness to this, telling how the scribes and the Pharisees inserted themselves into the place of authority by taking the “chair” of Moses:

> NAS Matthew 23:2 saying, “The scribes and the Pharisees have seated themselves in the chair of Moses;

It must also be remembered that the Pharisees were jealous of the Sadducees and greatly despised them (this can be seen both in the New Testament and in the Talmud). The Pharisees may have been jealous of the Sadducees’ authority over these hallowed breads (see also Ezekiel 44:15, 16), and this jealousy probably led in part to the eventual making of the twelve breads as matzah, without leaven.

The legalistic Pharisees could have felt justified in wanting these breads to be more “holy” by making them unleavened. This would also have forced the Sadducees to then eat the much less flavorful matzah (i.e., the “bread of affliction” as mentioned in Deuteronomy 16:3). This parallels the Roman Catholic Church changing the Communion bread from leavened to unleavened after the ninth century.[9] These two disparate groups both preferred the unleavened bread of affliction—the bread of liturgy and ritual—over the more pleasing (leavened) breads of God’s presence and true spiritual communion with Him.

❦

Below, Josephus writes of the Essenes and their regular bread (not matzah) service which, as we saw in Course 6, emulated the Showbread:

They work until about 11 A.M. when they put on ritual loincloths and bathe for purification. Then they enter a communal hall, where no one else is allowed, and eat only one bowlful of food for each man, together with their loaves of bread. They eat in silence. Afterwards they lay aside their sacred garment and go back to work until the evening. At evening they partake dinner in the same manner. During meals they are sober and quiet and their silence seems a great mystery to people outside.[10]

A historical connection runs from the Zadokite priests under David (who I believe ate their Showbread leavened as it had been since the time of Moses) all the way down to the Sadducees, then to the Essenes, and thus to the Dead Sea Sect (who all ate regular leavened bread in their service that emulated the Showbread).

Course 6 documented that the Dead Sea sect was another Jewish group that held a reverent service with bread and wine that most likely emulated the Showbread and definitely pointed to a Messianic banquet. Most scholars agree that Josephus’s account of the Essenes shows a close and similar belief system to the Dead Sea Sect.

Judaic scholar Lawrence Schiffman states that the Dead Sea Sect was probably started by Sadducees.[11] The Sadducees derived their name from Zadok (meaning “righteous”), the high priest who remained faithful to David. (The Greek word for “Zadok” is Saddouk, and for “Sadducee” is Saddoukaios.)

If it is true that the Showbread was made as regular leavened bread in David’s day, then the Zadokite priests—the forerunners of the Sadducees—would have passed down this same understanding of the breads being leavened to the Essenes as well as the Dead Sea Sect. This would explain why all these groups ate regular leavened breads that emulated the Showbread.

Naturally, the requirement to eat these breads as the far less appetizing matzah would have angered some Sadducees. This could have played a part in their eventual withdrawal from Pharisaic control at the Temple services. Hence, these sects that withdrew from the Temple services to protest the Pharisaic injunctions would continue with their own communal bread service using regular leavened breads, which is what we see.

Philo (20 BC–AD 50), who lived in Alexandria, Egypt, wrote of another Jewish group in Egypt called the Therapeutae. They also held a holy meal with regular leavened bread (as mentioned in Course 6) that emulated the Showbread table in the Temple:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

... Philo describes the Therapeutae as deliberately introducing slight differences in their practices from those at the Temple, as a mark of respect for the Temple's shewbread.[12]

Philo put it thus:

> (81) And when each individual has finished his psalm, then the young men bring in the table which was mentioned a little while ago, on which was placed that most holy food, the leavened bread, with a seasoning of salt, with which hyssop is mingled, out of reverence for the sacred table, which lies thus in the holy outer temple ....[13]

Philo, who lived when the Pharisees were in control (and the twelve breads were unleavened), asserted that the Therapeutae ate their bread leavened out of reverence for the table of Showbread in the Temple (i.e., to be slightly different). However, another possibility is that they were a similar offshoot of the Zadokites/Sadducees/ Essenes/Dead Sea Sect. And if this were true, it would explain the true reason their breads were leavened. Otherwise, it would make no sense for the Therapeutae and the other groups to "taint" God's plan by making their breads leavened.

One further point: In the Talmud (which was written by rabbinic successors of the Pharisees), there is discussion and debate among the rabbis about a previous rabbinic school's decision concerning not having "large loaves" during the Passover. They deliberate over what this meant and what size is considered "large," to which one rabbi responds that it meant the size of the Showbread. Another retorts that it would not have meant this because the Showbread bakers were very careful (using many oscillations, hot ovens, etc.) to ensure that these breads remained unleavened; thus, the prohibition of "large" more likely applied to the breads made by the common people, who might not be skilled enough to keep larger loaves unleavened.[14]

However, it is also possible that this previous rabbinic school's writing referred to an earlier time when the twelve breads were made leavened ("large loaves" would thus have referred to the risen Showbread). If this is accurate, then what was actually intended was that the breads were not to be made as the usual "large loaves" but rather unleavened during the Passover Festival (when all leaven was forbidden). Jewish scholars often had to decide which law superseded or took precedence when a conflict occurred. Since God did not command the Showbread to be either leavened or unleavened, it would have been acceptable to have them unleavened during Passover.

It is true that the Mishnah (the first major written record of Jewish oral traditions) mentions a complex contraption with 28 ventilation tubes placed on the Showbread table to prevent the twelve matzahs from leavening. However, God never gave Moses instruction for such a device in the scripture, so it would have been a later addition by the Pharisees when they changed these breads to unleavened (matzah). Most likely the Pharisees took a few scriptures out of context (such as Ezekiel 4:13, Hosea 9:4, or Malachi 1:7) to justify making the twelve breads as matzah; in these scriptures the Hebrew speaks of "defiled bread."

Since God never commanded these breads to be unleavened, it makes sense that the priests who lived in those earlier, less legalistic days would have preferred the more flavorful leavened breads to matzah. Knowing the true nature of God's heart as to this offering, the leaders like Moses, Samuel, and David would have made the breads leavened, as this was both allowable and more appetizing for the priests. They would have understood that the truths God was showing in the twelve breads did not require them to eat these breads unleavened. The fact that they were called "breads" in the Torah without ever being qualified as matzah would have strengthened this understanding.

The scripture continually refers to these twelve breads in the Temple as "bread" (lechem in Hebrew), and not once as "matzah" (unleavened). Even the English term for them is "Show-bread," not "Show-matzah." So we should consider the possibility that this making of the twelve breads unleavened in the time of Jesus was a tradition forced by the Pharisees, one that actually made void God's word by painting a false picture and invalidating what these breads pointed to:

> NAS Mark 7:13 thus invalidating the word of God by your tradition which you have handed down; and you do many things such as that."

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

With this invalidation of God's word by making these breads matzahs, the spiritual truths these breads pointed to became lost to the Jewish scholars who followed. For instance, here is what prominent Jewish Torah scholar Moses Maimonides wrote concerning these twelve breads in his book The Guide for the Perplexed:

"The use of the altar for incense and the altar for burnt-offering and their vessels is obvious; but I do not know the object of the table with the bread upon it continually, and up to this day I have not been able to assign any reason to this commandment."[15]

It is very possible that the forcing of these breads to be made unleavened, when God's commandments did not require it, hid their true spiritual meanings to successive generations.

God Commanded Certain Breads to Be Made with Leaven

Let us consider two other Tabernacle and then Temple offerings that were commanded by God to be baked with leaven. Like the twelve breads, they too were always called "bread" and never "matzah." The original Hebrew referred to them as lechem and in the Greek Septuagint as arton (i.e., regular bread).

The first of these was a sacrificial offering of thanksgiving that was commanded to be made with leaven and was called "bread":

> NAS Leviticus 7:12 'If he offers it by way of thanksgiving, then along with the sacrifice of thanksgiving he shall offer unleavened cakes mixed with oil, and unleavened wafers spread with oil, and cakes of well stirred fine flour mixed with oil.
>
> NAS Leviticus 7:13 'With the sacrifice of his peace offerings for thanksgiving, he shall present his offering with cakes of leavened bread.
>
> The other offering, also called "bread," was for the Festival of Pentecost (Shavout) and was commanded to consist of two leavened breads. The Greek word Pentecost means "50," as this festival under Moses happened after the 50 days counting from the morrow of the first regular Sabbath after Passover:
>
> NAS Leviticus 23:16 'You shall count fifty days to the day after the seventh sabbath; then you shall present a new grain offering to the LORD.

It was on this day, following the true Passover of Christ, that God began to pour out His spirit on all flesh (Joel, Acts 2, 10), causing the two leavened "breads" (Jews and Gentiles) to become "one bread," i.e., the spiritual body of Christ (Acts 2:16).

These two breads were made with the same measure of flour as the Showbread and were baked with leaven. And like the Showbread, and the leavened sacrifice for thanksgiving, they were never called "matzah" but always "bread":

> NAB Leviticus 23:17 For the wave offering of your first fruits to the LORD, you shall bring with you from wherever you live two loaves of bread made of two tenths of an ephah of fine flour and baked with leaven.
>
> NAS Leviticus 23:18 'Along with the bread, you shall present seven one year old male lambs without defect, and a bull of the herd, and two rams; they are to be a burnt offering to the LORD, with their grain offering and their libations, an offering by fire of a soothing aroma to the Lord.

Since the thanksgiving offering (also called "thank offering") and the Festival of Pentecost offering are both made with leaven, it makes sense that they are never called "matzah" (unleavened). Along the same lines, since the twelve breads were called "bread" and never "matzah," this affords some proof that in the time of Moses they were made as regular leavened bread. Some say that the leaven in bread always refers symbolically to malice and wickedness, but then this would have God commanding offerings to Him of malice and wickedness.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

At some point in history an argument began between the Pharisees and the Sadducees concerning the true starting point for the countdown to Pentecost, which began with the waving of the sheaf (Leviticus 23:12) and the first-fruits offering.

The Pharisees argued that this 50-day counting was to begin after the Sabbath of the Passover (i.e., the Sabbath of the 15th special day of rest when the Israelites came out of Egypt). The Sadducees argued that since in Hebrew the regular word for the Sabbath (i.e., Saturday Sabbath) was used, that the first Saturday Sabbath in the Festival is what was meant.

God decided the matter by raising Christ from the dead on the morrow of the Saturday Sabbath, and Paul called Christ our “first fruits.” Thus Pentecost also would always fall on a Sunday. The scriptures also bear this out, because Leviticus 23:16 says to count 50 days until the “day after the seventh Sabbath,” and for that 50-count to end on the day after a Sabbath, it had to begin on the day after a regular Saturday Sabbath.

It is possible that the Pharisees changed this date so that events did not align so closely with Christ being both sacrificed at the 14th-day Passover and then resurrected, fulfilling the unleavened first-fruits offering on the morrow of the Sabbath (i.e., Sunday). This change to the Pharisaic doctrine probably took place sometime shortly after Christ fulfilled this first-fruits offering, but either way the change was not scriptural. (See also: Feast of Firstfruits / Counting of the Orem)

God Also Clearly Commanded When Unleavened Was Required

As we saw in Course 1, God commanded to eat only matzah during the Passover and the seven-day Festival of Unleavened Bread—26 Old Testament verses listed there bore this out. So the question to ask is why the twelve Temple breads were always called “bread” and never “matzah” if they were really matzah under Moses?

When comparing the two leavened bread offerings (the thank offering and those breads at the Feast of Pentecost) to the Festival of Unleavened Bread, we see a marked contrast. Although the English translations add the word “Bread” to this Festival of Unleavened, the original Hebrew and Greek scriptures never connected the word “bread” at all to this festival name.

Here are a couple of examples where the Hebrew text simply says “matzah” (unleavened) and the Greek Septuagint says azumwn (unleavened), but the word “bread” has been added to the English translation:

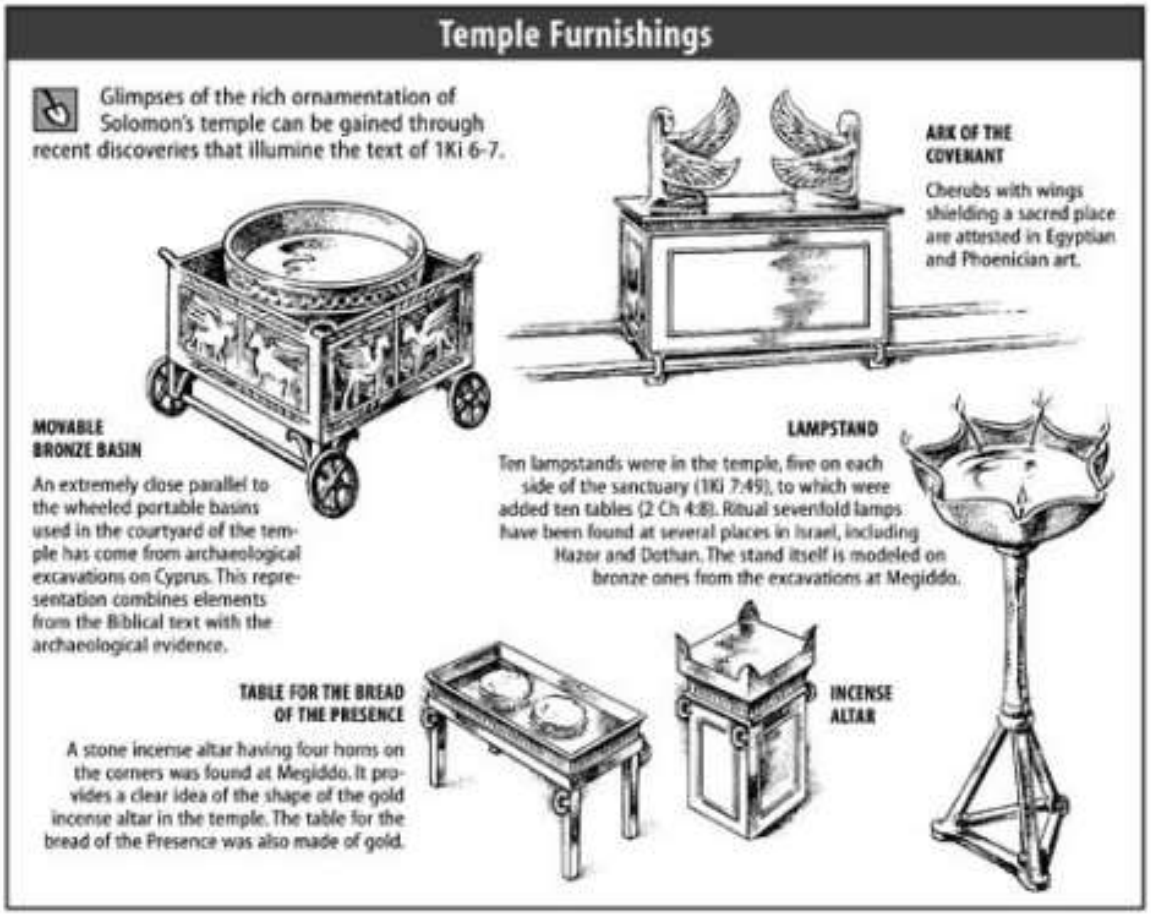
> KJV Leviticus 23:6 And on the fifteenth day of the same month is the feast of unleavened bread unto the LORD: seven days ye must eat unleavened bread.
>
> LXT Leviticus 23:6 καὶ ἐν τῇ πεντεκαιδεκάτῃ ἡμέρᾳ τοῦ μηνὸς τούτου ἑορτὴ τῶν ἀζύμων τῷ κυρίῳ ἑπτὰ ἡμέρας ἄζυμα ἔδεσθε
>
> KJV Exodus 12:8 And they shall eat the flesh in that night, roast with fire, and unleavened bread; and with bitter herbs they shall eat it.
>
> LXT Exodus 12:8 καὶ φάγονται τὰ κρέα τῇ νυκτὶ ταύτῃ ὀπτὰ πυρὶ καὶ ἄζυμα ἐπὶ πικρίδων ἔδονται

Whether or not the word “bread” was added to bolster the translator’s concept of Jesus supposedly eating bread at what the translator believed to be the Passover, it has created confusion. In reality, bread had nothing to do with this seven-day festival.

So you would have to ask yourself why is the exact opposite true with the Showbread? Why are they never called “matzah” in any scripture (Hebrew or Greek)? And why are they never qualified by God or any prophet as being unleavened? On the contrary, they are simply called breads (lechem in Hebrew), just like the other two leavened grain offerings seen earlier—the thank offerings and the Feast of Pentecost bread offerings.

Are we to believe that this exact opposite usage is just a coincidence?

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



One more thing—in addition to all the times the twelve breads are called “bread” in scripture, there is an occasion when they are called “cakes” or challah in Hebrew (Leviticus 24:5). However, this doesn’t add much to our investigation since “cakes” in the Temple offerings were either leavened or unleavened depending on God’s direction, but the scripture specifically qualifies them each time as either leavened or unleavened (Leviticus 7:13; Exodus 29:2).

[End Excerpts from http://themessianicfeast.com]

See also: The Last Supper (Eucharist) Section of the Appendix for related excerpts.

(See also: Feast of Firstfruits / Counting of the Orem)

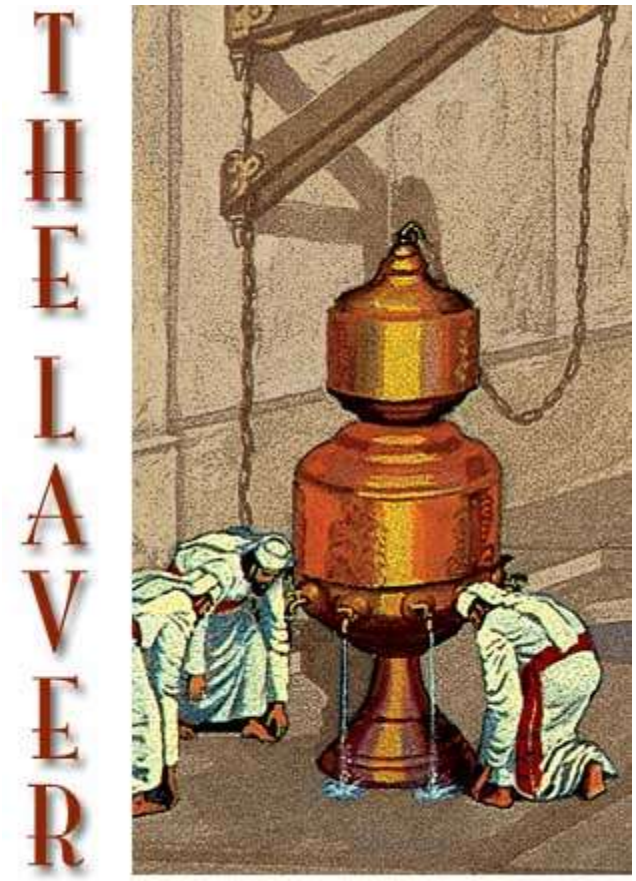
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: ESV Study Bible note]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Ark of the Covenant



- The Ark of the Covenant was made of acacia wood and covered with gold. The Ark was the first item of furniture constructed after God told Moses to build the Tabernacle. It was the place where God met with and talked with Moses (Exodus 25:10-22).
- The Tabernacle was built to house the Ark of the Covenant. The Ark of the Covenant was intended to be the central focus of the Most Holy Place in the Tabernacle, and 400 years later in the Temple (Ex. 40:1-21).
- The Ark of the Covenant rested in the Most Holy Place behind a thick curtain. This heavy veil in the Temple was torn from top to bottom at the moment of Jesus' death (Exodus 26:31-33; Matthew 27:50, 51).
- God set apart the tribe of Levi to carry the Ark and stand before him, to serve him, and to bless his name. Only the High Priest was allowed to enter the Most Holy Place. He entered once a year on Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, to sacrifice and to sprinkle blood on the Mercy Seat to atone for the sins of the people (Deut. 10:8; Lev. 16; Ex. 37:6-9).
- The Mercy Seat was placed on top of the Ark of the Covenant. It included the winged cherubim that faced each other. God dwelled between the cherubim and spoke to the priest (2 Samuel 6:2 and Psalm 99:1).
- There are two lists in Scripture about the contents of the Ark of the Covenant.
  - Hebrews 9:4 says that the Ark contained the stone tablets with the Ten Commandments (the "tables of the covenant"), a golden jar (pot) of manna, Aaron's rod (stick) that budded.
  - Exodus 25:16 and Deuteronomy 10:5 list the stone tablets with the Ten Commandments. Other verses mention that a jar of manna (Exodus 16:32-34) and Aaron's rod (Numbers 17:10) were laid before the testimony and were to be kept for future generations.

Atonement for Sins

	OLD COVENANT (OLD TESTAMENT)		NEW COVENANT (NEW TESTAMENT)
Type of Sacrifice	Blood of animals	Exodus 12:5 Leviticus 1–7	Blood of Jesus	Hebrews 9:12; 13:12 1 John 1:7
Quality of Sacrifice	Not enough Offered over and over	Leviticus 1–7 Hebrews 9:7-9; 10:4	Enough Offered just once	Hebrews 9:12, 26
Quantity of Sacrifice	Many	Leviticus 1–7 Hebrews 10:1	One	Hebrews 9:25, 26
Effectiveness	For a day, for a year	Exodus 29–30 Hebrews 10:1-4	Forever	Hebrews 7:26, 27 Hebrews 9:12-15
Action or Result	Temporary	Exodus 30:10 Hebrews 9:25	Final	Romans 6:10 Hebrews 9:25-28

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

"And you shall make a laver of copper, and its pedestal of copper... " (Ex. 30:18)

The laver, a large vessel which appears like a kettle, is actually the first vessel which the priests have contact with every day, for they must sanctify their hands and feet from its waters before commencing any sacred task in the Holy Temple.

The original laver which was constructed for the desert tabernacle in Moses' time included 2 spigots for releasing the water. In the era of the Second Temple, the High Priest Ben Katin, who fashioned the muchni, also fashioned 12 faucets for the laver, so that the entire shift who participate in the offering of the daily sacrifice may sanctify themselves at once.

The Laver Must Be Constructed of Copper

According to the verse above wherein God commanded Moses to make the laver, it must be constructed of copper. Although many other Temple vessels were constructed of costlier metals such as gold or silver, thus giving greater honor to the will of God - the laver was to be made exclusively from copper. Even later, throughout all the subsequent generations of the Holy Temple, and even when the nation knew times of great prosperity and decorated the entire Second Temple in gold, the laver still remained of copper.

The Midrash (Bamidbar Rabbah 9:14) relates that the original laver was made from the contributions of the righteous women of Israel, who donated their shiny mirrors towards this cause. These mirrors, made of highly polished copper, were melted down and it was from these that the laver was created. This act of sacrifice was precious in the eyes of the Holy One - the fact that the women cared more about fulfilling the word of God than about their own appearance. He declared that the laver must be of copper throughout the ages, to invoke the merit of these righteous women, so the memory of their action will always be before Him.

The Reason for the "Muchni"

There is a specific concern of the laws of Biblical purity with regard to the copper laver, although the same problem can effect certain other vessels as well: anything left overnight in a sacred vessel becomes unfit for use in the morning. If water was left in the laver overnight, the priests would not be able to sanctify themselves with this water. Thus, the laver had to be emptied of its contents at the end of the day. But how could it be refilled quickly with enough water? In addition to this priest who officiates at the removal of the ashes, all 12 priests who will soon be offering the daily morning sacrifice must also wash their hands and feet at the laver!

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Ben Katin, one of the High Priests who served during the era of the Second Temple, devised a system whereby this problem of ritual impurity can be circumvented: the mechanism of the muchni, meaning "machinery," or possibly derived from the word for "prepared." By emptying the laver of its contents from the previous day and then submerging in into a specially-made pool under the court, fresh water was obtained for the new day when the laver was hoisted up by the first priest in the morning - he who goes to remove the altar ashes. It was this sound of the laver being raised up with the muchni that could be heard by the other priests in the court, on the other side of the altar.

[Source: https://www.templeinstitute.org/laver.htm]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Lampstand (Menorah)

Exodus 25:31-40 (NASB)

31"Then you shall make a lampstand of pure gold. The lampstand and its base and its shaft are to be made of hammered work; its cups, its bulbs and its flowers shall be of one piece with it.

32"Six branches shall go out from its sides; three branches of the lampstand from its one side and three branches of the lampstand from its other side.

33"Three cups shall be shaped like almond blossoms in the one branch, a bulb and a flower, and three cups shaped like almond blossoms in the other branch, a bulb and a flower--so for six branches going out from the lampstand;

34and in the lampstand four cups shaped like almond blossoms, its bulbs and its flowers.

35"A bulb shall be under the first pair of branches coming out of it, and a bulb under the second pair of branches coming out of it, and a bulb under the third pair of branches coming out of it, for the six branches coming out of the lampstand.

36"Their bulbs and their branches shall be of one piece with it; all of it shall be one piece of hammered work of pure gold.

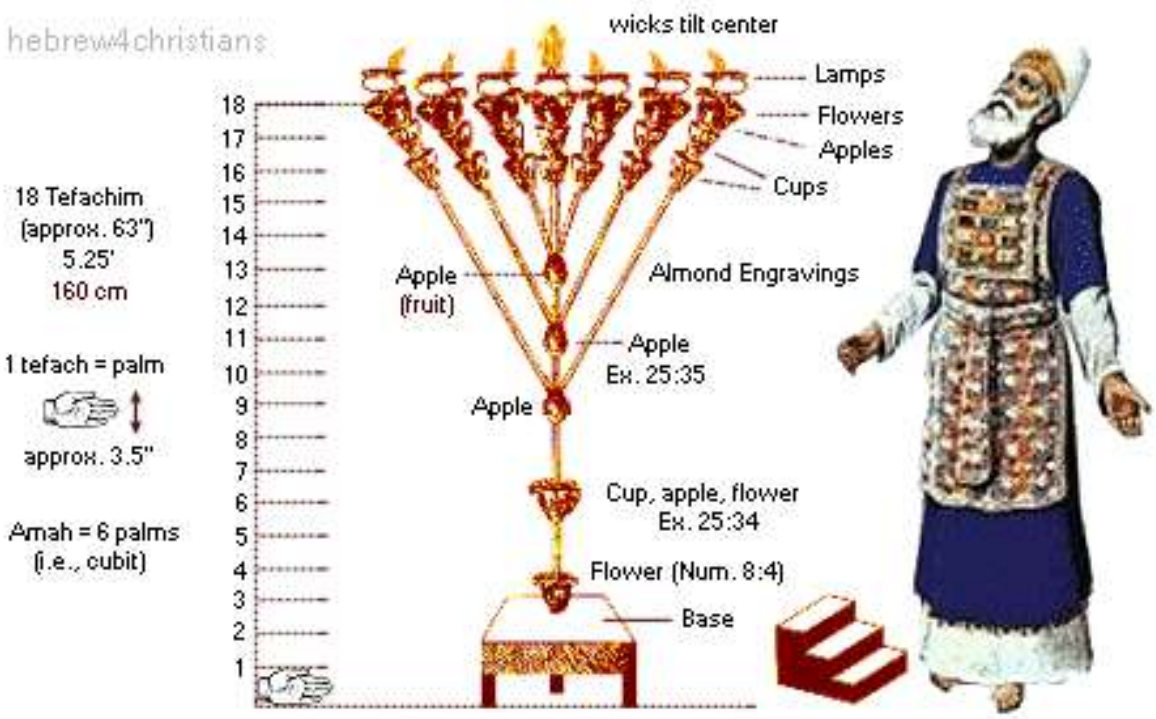
37"Then you shall make its lamps seven in number; and they shall mount its lamps so as to shed light on the space in front of it.

38"Its snuffers and their trays shall be of pure gold.

39"It shall be made from a talent of pure gold, with all these utensils.

40"See that you make them after the pattern for them, which was shown to you on the mountain.

Details of Construction



Exodus 25:31-40 gives a general description of the lampstand (Menorah). It was hammered from one piece of solid gold as opposed to several pieces being joined together. It had 7 branches and there were bulbs and flowers design on the branches. According to Jewish traditions, the Menorah was 18 handbreadths (4.5 feet) high. It weighed one talent (100 lbs).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Holy Menorah

Further thoughts on Terumah/Tetzaveh by John J. Parsons (www.hebrew4christians.com)

The holy menorah (מְ נ וֹ ר ה) was formed from one piece of pure beaten gold weighing 3,000 shekels of silver (nearly 100 pounds). It was a highly decorative work that had seven branches (with seven lamps), nine flower blooms, eleven fruits, and twenty two cups. According to the Talmud, the menorah measured eighteen tefachim (i.e., "palms") in height (from the base to the start of the lamps), or roughly 5.25 feet. It is called the "lamp of God" (3:3(. (נֵ ר ֹת יְ הֹ וָ ה .maS 1(serutpircS eht רוח

(Note: above image is meant to highlight the different features only, not exact)

The "lamp of God" was to be made by hammering a single piece of solid gold into shape (Exod. 25:36). Note that the word translated "hammered" or "beaten" (מִ ק ְ שָׁ ה) comes from the word for "difficult" in Hebrew (ק ְ שָׁ ה). According to midrash, the method for constructing the menorah was difficult for Moses to comprehend, so the LORD first showed him one in the fire and told him: "This is how you will make it." Moses was unable to do so, however, so the LORD told him to take a block of gold and have Betzalel (the carpenter from Judah) throw it into the fire. After a flash of dazzling light, a glorious menorah came out formed by God Himself.

Details of the Menorah

Although the details have been discussed (and debated) in the Talmud and related Jewish literature, the following are considered to be reliable details regarding the construction and function of the menorah. Refer to the illustration (above) for more information:

1. Seven lamps (i.e., nerot: נ ו ר ת). The menorah had seven lamps, one lamp on top of the middle stem and one on top of each of its six branches. Each lamp was made of the same gold used to form the rest of the menorah. The lamps were "boat shaped" with pointed ends that faced the center lamp. The center lamp, however, resembled a basin. Each lamp had a cover on it with a hole in the middle for the oil. The wicks were positioned by either bending them toward the center or by clamping them down between the bowl and the cover. The lamps themselves were lit daily, "from evening until morning," from right to left (Exod. 27:21). According to the Talmud (Shabbat 22b), each lamp held about 9 ounces of the purest olive oil, sufficient to burn throughout the night. Wicks were created from worn-out garments of the priests.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

2. Seven branches (i.e., kanim: קִ י נ ם , from קָ נ ה , a "reed" or "stalk") The middle branch (or "stem") ascended straight up from the center of the base, and the six branches emerged from three "apples" (or fruit) proportionately located on the stem. Two branches extended diagonally from each side of the apple until they reached the exact height of the middle stem. Unlike modern depictions of the menorah, it is thought that the branches were all straight (yashar), not curved. In that sense, the menorah itself resembled a tree, just as the Torah is referred to as a Tree of Life (עֵ ץ־ ח ַ י ִ ם). According to the Talmud, the height of the menorah, from base to the end of the branches, was 18 "handbreadths" (i.e., tefachim: טְ פָ חִ י ם), or roughly 63 inches (160cm). The first three tefachim were the base itself. The other elements (cups, buds, and flowers) were then placed up the tree.

3. Nine Flowers (i.e., perachim: פְּ ר ָ חִ י ם) These were ornamental parts intended to beautify the menorah. According to Targum Yonathan, the flowers were similar to roses. The flowers appeared at the top of each branch, just before the lamps (the other two occurred on the main stem, including one at the base of the menorah). According to Tosofot, all the ornaments of the menorah measured one tefach in height (i.e., 3.5" or the width of a handbreadth), except for the combined flower/cup/apple that appeared on the stem at tefach 6.

4. Eleven fruits (i.e., kaftorim: כַּ פְּ תֹּ ר ִ וֹ ת ם) These were functional ornamentations that protruded on the stem and formed the start of the pairs of branches for the menorah. The branches would extend outward from the top of the three fruits on the main stem, and also appeared at the top of each branch as well. The Talmud (Menachot 28b) states they were shaped like apples. They are sometimes likened to the "buds" that develop into fruit. All of the apples had almond decorations engraved on them.

5. Twenty-two cups (i.e., gevi'im: גְּ בִ ע ִ ים). The "goblets" or "flower cups" were really chalice-like containers used to hold larger quantities of liquid that resembled almond buds (Exod. 25:33; Jer. 35:5). They are likened to "stems" that supply the liquid for the blossoms and fruit. According to Rashi, the cups resembled long and narrow tubes rather than flower cups. There were three cups located at the top of each branch, and an extra cup located lower on the main stem.

6. One base (i.e., yarech: יֶ ר ֵ ך) with three legs. The base was either square or rectangular in shape and made of hammered pure gold. A flower that adorned its top (Exod. 25:31; Num. 8:4). The exact dimensions of the base are not stated. The Talmud (Menachot 28b) says that the base had three legs that rose three tefachim high (i.e., approx. 10.5").

7. Various Utensils (i.e., kelim: כֵּ לִ י ם). In addition to the menorah itself, "utensils for oil" (שֶׁ מֶ ן ה כְּ לֵ י) were created (Num. 4:9). These included tongs

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

(to place/remove the wicks), trays, and spoons to remove ashes from the wicks (Exod. 25:38). In addition, a three-stepped platform was placed in front of the menorah for kindling the wicks and cleaning the lamps. Like all other utensils of the Mishkan, these items were made out of pure gold.

As mentioned above, the lamps of the menorah were lit daily, "from evening until morning," starting from the central lamp (the shamash) and then moving right to left (Exod. 27:21). According to the Talmud (Shabbat 22b), while all the lamps received the same amount of olive oil, the "westernmost" lamp (according to Rashi, the center lamp, due to its orientation) miraculously never ran out of oil, even though it was kindled first in the sequence. In other words, when Aaron would rekindle the lamps every evening, he found the shamash still burning, so he simply refilled it with oil and trimmed its wick. This miracle is also said to have occurred during the Temple period, though it abruptly ended about 40 years before the destruction of the Second Temple (c. 30 AD), after the death of Yeshua the Messiah, the true Servant and Branch of the LORD. As it is attested in the Talmud: "Our Rabbis taught: During the last forty years before the destruction of the Temple the lot ['For the Lord'] did not come up in the right hand; nor did the crimson-colored strap become white; nor did the westernmost light shine" (Yoma 39a).

After the death and resurrection of Yeshua, the parochet of the Temple was rent asunder and the miraculous center light of the menorah began to shine throughout the whole world. "God is light" (1 John 1:5); in His light we do see light (Psalm 36:9). "For God, who said, "Let light shine out of darkness," has shone in our hearts to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Yeshua the Messiah" (2 Cor. 4:6).

The 49 Gates of Torah

According to the Malbim, the Menorah itself is said to reveal the light of the Torah. These are sometimes called the "49 Gates of Torah." The seven branches represent the first seven words (i.e., verse) of Genesis. 1:1; the eleven fruits represent the first eleven words of of Exodus 1:1; the nine flowers represent the nine words of Leviticus 1:1; and the twenty two cups represent the twenty two words of Deuteronomy 1:1. But what about the Book of Numbers? The seventeen words of Numbers 1:1 refer to the seventeen tefachim (handbreadths) of the Menorah's height (excluding the lamps on the top).

The Hidden Light of the World

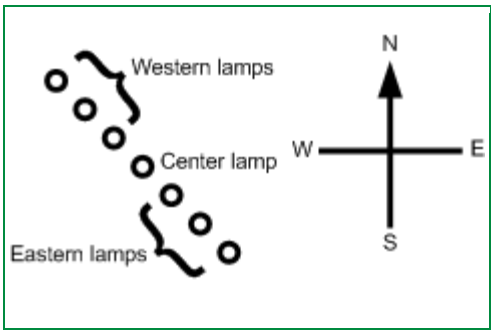
The light from the menorah is a spiritual light. It was not seen from the outside of the Tabernacle, but only while inside the holy chamber, before the holy place of sacrificial atonement. It enabled service to God to be performed, though it was not a light to be used for profane purposes. Notice that the six lamps faced the central lamp -- a picture of Yeshua, the Light of the World whose arms and legs were "hammered" for our sins.... He is the suffering servant (shamash) who lightens everyone in the world. He is the center, the supporting trunk for the other branches (John 15:5).

The light itself came from the burning of pure olive oil - a symbol of anointing and the Holy Spirit (הַ קָּ דָ שׁ ר וּ חַ). It was kindled by the hand of a man of peace and humility. Likewise, when we are given light to behold the sacrifice of Yeshua for our atonement (כַּ פָּ ֹר ה), we are filled with the divine light (John 8:12; 1 John 1:7, Eph. 5:8). When we come to the cross, we can behold the truth of God's unfailing love that draws us to be united with Him.

[Source: https://hebrew4christians.com/Scripture/Parashah/Summaries/Tetzaveh/Menorah/menorah.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

In A.D. 70, the Romans carried the booty of the Jerusalem Temple to Rome. A stone relief of that Menorah can be viewed in the Triumphal Arch of Titus, located just north of the Coliseum in Rome. This is the most accurate depiction we have of the Menorah.



In 1999, the Temple Institute had constructed a Menorah suitable for the next Holy Temple. According to the Institute, it was built to the exact specifications of the Torah. This Menorah however is hollow. It was built with a bronze substructure, which was then immersed in a vat of gold. It is thus plated with almost 95 lbs. of "one piece of gold".

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Service of the Lampstand

The original Menorah was placed adjacent to the south wall, just across the room from the table of showbread in the Holy Place of Moses' Tabernacle. Jewish tradition says it stood obliquely toward the east and toward the south. Some Rabbinic sources say the three eastern lamps faced northwest toward the center lamp and the three western lamps faced southeast toward the center lamp. The center lamp faced northeast toward the middle of the room. This center lamp was also called the "Western Lamp" because it stood just west of the three eastern lamps. Each lamp held "six eggs" measure of oil which would last half a day.

In the tabernacle in the wilderness, the lamps of the newly constructed menorah were cleaned by the priests in the morning and lit in the evening with the consecrated fire from the altar. Later tradition says that the center lamp burned continuously, both day and night, on the same amount of oil. Rabbis called this "the miracle of the Menorah."

Tradition from the days of the Second Temple says that a priest would service the lamps, except the two most easterly, twice every day, morning and evening. He trimmed and refilled the lamps that were still burning. If he found any lamps extinguished, he removed the wicked and old oil from those which had become extinguished, supplied fresh oil, and re-lighted them from the center lamp. But the center lamp might only be re-lighted by fire from the altar itself. The two eastern lamps were left burning until after the morning service. The center lamp was left burning all day and was refilled in the evening.

[Source: http://www3.telus.net/public/kstam/en/temple/details/lampstand.htm]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Holy Temple Menorah Today

The menorah which stands today in Jerusalem's old city Jewish Quarter, overlooking the Temple Mount, is the work of the Temple Institute. It was created exclusively to be used in the new Holy Temple. The menorah was painstakingly crafted after years of extensive research by the Temple Institute's full time staff of researchers. The conclusions upon which the construction of the menorah was based took into account archeological evidence and, of course, the halachic (Jewish law) requirements of materials, dimensions, ornamental affects and manner of manufacture as first delineated in the Book of Exodus, and further explicated by Jewish sages throughout the millennia.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The menorah weighs one-half ton. It contains forty five kilograms of twenty four karat gold. Its estimated value is approximately three million dollars. The construction of the menorah was made possible through the generosity of Vadim Rabinovitch, a leader of the Jewish community of Ukraine.

Since the menorah was moved from its former location in the old city's Roman Cardo to its current location alongside the Yehudah HaLevi steps leading down to the Western Wall Plaza and the Temple Mount, it has become a place where thousands of people stop daily, meet friends, learn about the menorah, marvel at its beauty and envision its ultimate standing place in the Kodesh Sanctuary of the rebuilt Holy Temple.

[Source: http://www.templeinstitute.org/history-holy-temple-menorah-1.htm]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Meaning Behind the Menorah – Jesus

[Source: Aleph-Tav, www.servantofmessiah.org]

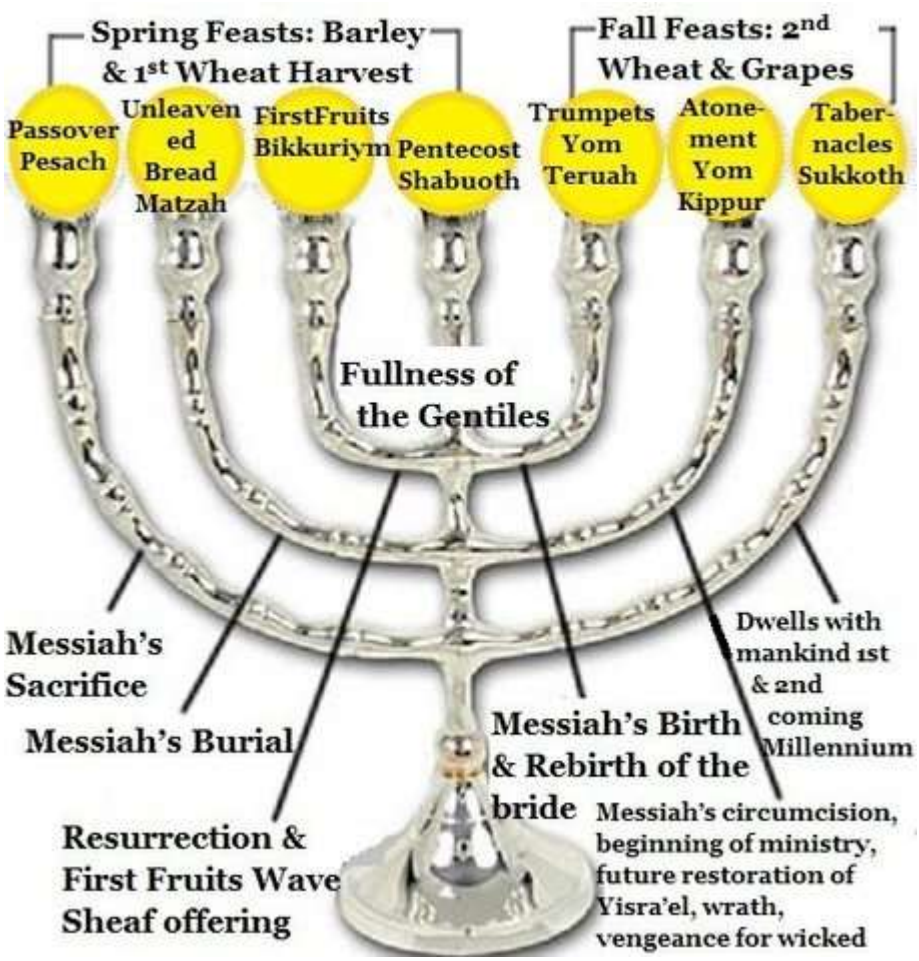
Jesus attended several of these feasts during his life. Upon the lighting of the candle, He once cried out, "I am the light of the world." (John 8:12)

Jesus was born on the date of the Feast of Tabernacle. The Angels reference this festival when they tell the shepherds that this is a time of great joy for all people. John tells us that "Jesus was the Word made flesh" that came to dwell or tabernacle among us. (John 1:14)

The Menorah was God's road map to the Christ. It laid out his birth, death, burial, resurrection, and eventual return. Christmas is the promise that God tabernacled with us on the great Feast Day of celebration. We are not alone. God is with us.

[Source: http://www.theblaze.com/contributions/jesus-is-the-meaning-behind-the-menorah/]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



[Source: http://www.pray4zion.org/thelast3fallfeastsofthelord.html]

See also:

http://www.awarenessministry.org/menorahlampstandofgodmoses.htm

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Messianic Judaism Menorah

Soure: unknown

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Services

The High Priest (Exodus 28)

The High Priest in his golden garments.

The High Priest was appointed to Aaron and his sons. He was in charge of the other priests and was allowed to enter the Most Holy Place once a year on the Day of Atonement.

The High Priest had two sets of uniforms:

1.Golden Garments which he wore all year round;

2.White Garments which was worn only on the Day of Atonement.

Ordinary Priest (Exodus 28:39-43)

An ordinary priest.

No priest, neither ordinary priest nor the High Priest himself, was fit to serve in the Temple unless he was wearing the priestly garments. The lay, or ordinary, priests must wear four garments - the tunic, the belt, the turban and the pants. These garments were made from white flax; hence they were referred to as the "garments of white," and they were also worn by the High Priest on the Day of Atonement.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Old Testament Priests & Priesthood

■ Definition: A priest is one authorized to perform the sacred rites of a religion, especially a mediator between man and God." (Webster)
■ The origin of dedicated priests is uncertain.
■ Melchizedek, King of Salem was a priest of God (Gen. 14:18)
■ Moses' father-in-law, Jethro, was priest of Midian. (Exodus 4:1)
■ There were priests among the Israelites when they came out of Egypt. (Exodus 19:22, 24)
■ There were false priests who served false gods:
- Priest of Midian (Exodus 18:1)
- Priests of On (Genesis 41:45)
- Priests of Dagon (1 Samuel 5:5)
- Priests of the high places (1 Kings 12:32)
- Priests "of them that are no gods." (2 Chronicles 13:9)

■ At Mount Sinai, God designated Aaron and his descendants to serve as priests. (Exodus 28:1, 44; 30:30; 40:13-15; Numbers 3:3)
■ All priests were Levites, but not all Levites were priests.
■ Only those designated could perform priestly duties.
- Not other Levites (Numbers 16:1-3; 1-10; 10:1-3)
- Not even Moses or his descendants (1 Chronicles 23:13)
- Not anyone other than Aaron and his descendants (Numbers 16:40)

■ QUALIFICATIONS FOR PRIESTLY SERVICE:
- Must be a male (Exodus 28:1)
- Must be a descendant of Aaron (Exodus 28:1) with a documented linage.
- Must be between 30 and 50 years old. (Numbers 4:3)
- Must be unblemished (not lame or blond). (Lev. 21:16-23)
- Must have a proper marriage. (Leviticus 21:9, 14)
  - Not married to a harlot.
  - Not married to a divorced woman.
  - Not married to a widow other than a priest's widow. (Ezekiel 44:22)
  - The high priest must marry a virgin of his own people.
- Must have no uncleanliness (leprosy, etc.). (Lev. 22:3-9)

- Must have an untrimmed beard with well trimmed (but unshaved) hair. (Ezekiel 4:20; Leviticus 21:5
- Must be properly dressed. (Exo. 28:1-4; Ezekiel 44:17-19)

■ DUTIES OF THE PRIEST
- Teach the people. (Leviticus 10:8-11)
- Serve as judges to resolve controversy. (Deut. 21:5)
- Offer sacrifices. (Exodus 29:38-42)
- Assess impurity. (Leviticus 13-15)
- Burn incense. (Exodus 30:7-8)
- Bless the people. (Numbers 6:22-27)
- Bless God (Deuteronomy 10:8)
- Keep the tabernacle. (Numbers 3:38; 4;16)
- Take care of the altar (Leviticus 6:8-13), the lamps, and the showbread (Leviticus 24:1-9)
- Prepare the holy things for each days journey. (Num. 4:5-15)
- Continue the sacred fire. (Leviticus 6;12-13)
- Blow the trumpets. (Numbers 10:1-10)

■ THE HIGH PRIESTS
- Also called the chief priest. (2 Chronicles 19:11)
- God's leader over the priests.
- Aaron served as the first High Priest. (Exodus 40:12-13)
- Aaron's son, Eleazer, replaced him as High Priest when he died. (Numbers 20:26-28)
- The position of high priests continued through the time of Christ (Matthew 26:3 and apparently to the time of the destruction of the temple by the Romans in 70 A.D.

■ DUTIES OF THE HIGH PRIEST
- Direct the work of the priests & Levites. (Numbers 3:4)
- Inquire of the Lord. (Judges 20:28)
- Consecration of the priests. (Exodus 29:1-37)
- Maintain the golden candlestand with its fire. (Lev. 24:1-4)
- Burning incense daily (Exodus 30:7-8), and in a special way on the Day of Atonement. (Leviticus 16:2, 12-13)
- Offering sacrifices on the Day of Atonement. (Hebrews 5:1; Leviticus 23:6, 11, 15, 20)

Barnes Bible Charts

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Golden Garments (Exodus 28)

The Golden Garments

All year round, the High Priest wore eight garments: The ephod, breastplate, robe, tunic, turban, belt, golden head plate, and pants. Over the white tunic, he put on the sky-blue robe, hemmed with decorative pomegranates and bells which rang as he moved around. Then he put on the ephod, which looked like an apron and was fastened by a long belt. There were two shoulder-straps sewn onto the belt. These straps went behind, up and over the priest's shoulders. Two sardonyx stones were attached at the ends of these straps, on the shoulders. He also put on a breastplate, set with twelve precious stones, one stone representing each of the twelve tribes of Israel. His turban differed from those of the ordinary priests, and had in front a golden plate inscribed "Holy to the Lord".

The White Garments (Leviticus 16:4)

The White Garments

Only on the Day of Atonement would the High Priest wear the white garments: tunic, belt, turban and pants. These garments are made from white flax; hence their designation "the white garments." This signifies that the High Priest came before God within the Most Holy Place humbly and simply. He did not come in the outward splendor of gold and rich colors, but in pure white. Furthermore, white is the color of forgiveness, and forgiveness is what the High Priest is seeking for himself and all Israel as he came before the Ark.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

After the conclusion of the Day of Atonement, he will never again wear the white garments in which he officiated on this day. They are hidden in the place where he removes them, as indicated by Leviticus 16:23.

The Services of the Priests (1 Chronicles 9:26-34; Ezekiel 42:13-14)

One of the side rooms

Cross-section of the Temple

These Bible passages gives us a glimpse of the services of the priests and Levites in these chambers:

- Some prepared the mixing of the spices and some prepared the showbread every sabbath
- Some were in charge of the utensils of service
- Some were the singers who lived in the chambers and were free from other duties
- Some guarded the treasuries
- Here they would change their priestly garments
- Here they would feast upon the holy sacrifices and portions for the priests

[Source: http://www3.telus.net/public/kstam/en/temple/study/side_room2.htm?study=on#]

See also "The Five Offerings in the Old Testament" in this Appendix.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Priestly Garments

"And draw near to yourself Aaron your brother, and his sons with him, from among the children of Israel, that he may minister to me in the priest's office; Aaron, Nadav, and Avihu, Elazar, and Itamar, the sons of Aaron. And you shall make sacred garments for Aaron your brother, for honor and for beauty. And you shall speak to all who are wise hearted, whom I have filled with the spirit of wisdom, that they may make Aaron's garments to consecrate him, that he may minister to me in the priest's office. And these are the garments which they shall make: a breastplate, and an ephod, and a robe, and a quilted undercoat, a mitre, and a girdle; and they shall make holy garments for Aaron your brother, and his sons, that he may minister to me in the priest's office ..."
(Exodus 28:1-4)

Moses was instructed by G-d that the garments of the priests were to be both dignified and beautiful; as precious as the garments of royalty. Indeed, the Talmud informs us that when the wicked Persian king Ahasuerus made a feast for his advisors and officers and sought to impress them with his greatness (as recorded in the scroll of Esther, which tells the story of Purim) he put off his own royal vestments and donned the uniform of the High Priest... which was more precious than his own. These priestly garments were in his possession since the First Temple had been destroyed by the Babylonians.

Understanding Life in the Holy Temple

It is noteworthy and revealing that one of the finest ways to gain insight into both the details of life in the Holy Temple, and to its inner spirit, is by a study of the priestly garments.

We shall see that these garments are essential in order for the priests to function in their sacred capacity; so much so that in their absence, the offerings made by the priests in the Temple have no validity! Without his uniform, the priest who serves in the Holy Temple is considered like a "stranger" serving before the L-rd - like an ordinary non-priest. What, then, is the basis for the garments' powerful significance?

The Garments Possess An Intrinsic Holiness

No priest, neither lay nor the High Priest himself, is fit to serve in the Temple unless he is wearing the sacred garments. As the Talmud states, "While they are clothed in the priestly garments, they are clothed in the priesthood; but when they are not wearing the garments, the priesthood is not upon them" (BT Zevachim 17:B). Conducting the service without these garments would render the priests the same as those who are not descendants of Aaron - all of whom are unfit for service in the Temple.

Why does the Bible attach so much significance to the garments? Because their quality is such that they elevate the wearers - Aaron and all his descendants - to the high levels of sanctity required from those who come to serve before G-d in the holy place. These garments themselves possess a certain holiness; powerful enough to sanctify all those who merely come in contact with them, as we read in the prophets: "... so as not to hallow the people with their garments" (Ezekiel 44:19).

Actually, the Hebrew expression which we are translating as "sacred" or "holy" garments also means "garments of the Temple;" that is, the garments themselves show that their wearers are standing in the Divine service.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Garments Atone for Sins

Another important quality of the priestly garments is that their very presence, worn by the priests during the Temple service, serves to atone for the sins of Israel. It is taught that just as the sacrifices facilitate an atonement for sin, so do the priestly garments (BT Zevachim 88:B).

This is one of the deeper aims of wearing these garments, and something for the priest to ponder while they are upon him. For his everyday actions in the Temple transcend his own personal idiom and take on a more universal theme... he makes atonement and spiritual rectification for all humanity.

Thus we are taught (ibid.):

1. The tunic, which covers most of the priest's body, atones for killing.
2. The pants atone for sexual transgressions.
3. The turban, worn on the head, atone for haughtiness.
4. The belt, wound about the body and worn over the heart, atones for "sins of the heart" - improper thoughts.
5. The breastplate atones for errors in judgment.
6. The ephod atones for idolatry.
7. The robe atones for evil speech.
8. The High Priest's crown atones for arrogance.

"For honor and for beauty"

The rabbis established that G-d's command for the priestly garments to be "for honor and for beauty" teach us that they must be new and dignified. If the garments were soiled, stained, or ripped, the priests may not conduct the service while wearing them - and if they did, the service would be invalid.

Another aspect of "honor and beauty" means that the uniform must fit each fit perfectly. It was forbidden for the pants, for example, to be too long or too short. The garments were made to order for each priest, tailored to fit his measurements exactly.

This tells us something of the tremendous work force needed to turn out these garments in such quantities that every priest in Israel could be supplied with his own garments. As we shall learn with regard to the incense offering, there were so many priests available for duty in the Holy Temple that no priest ever offered the daily incense service more than once in his lifetime, and it was offered twice daily for many hundreds of years! Yet each had his own garments.

The Garments Were Not Washed

Furthermore, although the priests were extremely neat, just as they were diligent and careful - still, they were working with the sacrifices. Any garment which became soiled to the extent that its stains could not be removed, those garments were not washed. When they became disqualified from use in this manner, they were shredded and used to fulfill another of the Creator's commandments! The tunics were used to make wicks for the menorah, and the belts and pants, wicks for the oil lamps of the Festival of the Water Libation which took place in the Women's Court during the Festival of Sukkot.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

This applies only to the garments of the ordinary priests, of which there were a great many. When the High Priest's uniform became unusable through wear and tear, it was not destroyed, but hidden away so that no other man could ever wear it.

The Three Categories of Priestly Garments

There are three separate categories of priestly garments:

1. The High Priest's uniform, which he wears all year round. These consist of eight garments, called the "golden garments."
2. The clothing worn by the High Priest on the Day of Atonement. These are four garments called the "white garments."
3. The uniform of the ordinary priests, consisting of four garments.

The Golden Garments

The eight garments worn by the High Priest all year round are as follows:

The ephod, breastplate, robe, tunic, turban, belt, crown, and pants.

These are the garments described in these verses: "And these are the garments which they shall make: a breastplate, an ephod, a robe and a tunic of checkered pattern, a turban and a belt. And they shall make the sacred garments for your brother Aaron and his sons, to serve me." (Ex. 28:4).

"And you shall make a crown of pure gold" (ibid. 36). "And make for them linen pants." (ibid. 42).

The White Garments

With regard to the High Priest's service on the Day of Atonement the Bible states: "He shall put on the holy linen tunic, and he shall have the linen pants upon his flesh, and he shall be girded with a linen belt, and with the linen turban he shall be attired." (Lev. 16:4).

The four garments worn by the High Priest on the Day of Atonement are the tunic, pants, the turban and the belt. These garments are made from white flax; hence their designation "the white garments." They must be woven, as mentioned above, and each thread used must be six-ply - woven from six individual strands of fabric.

The High Priest had two tunics which he wore on the Day of Atonement. One-he wore in the morning, and the other at the evening.

After the conclusion of the Day of Atonement, he will never again wear the white garments in which he officiated on this day. They are hidden in the place where he removes them, as the verse indicates "And Aaron shall come into the Tent of Meeting, and he shall take off the linen garments, which he put on when he went into the holy place, and he shall leave them there." (ibid. v. 23)

The Uniform of the Ordinary Priests

The ordinary priests wear four garments all year round-these are the same as the "white garments" worn by the High Priest on the Day of Atonement: tunic, pants, hat, and belt. Referring to these priests, the verse states "And for Aaron's sons you shall make for them tunics, and you shall make for them belts, and you shall make for them hats... and make for them linen pants... " (Ex. 28:40-42). These garment are to be made from flax, and they too must be created from threads consisting of six individual strands.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Materials

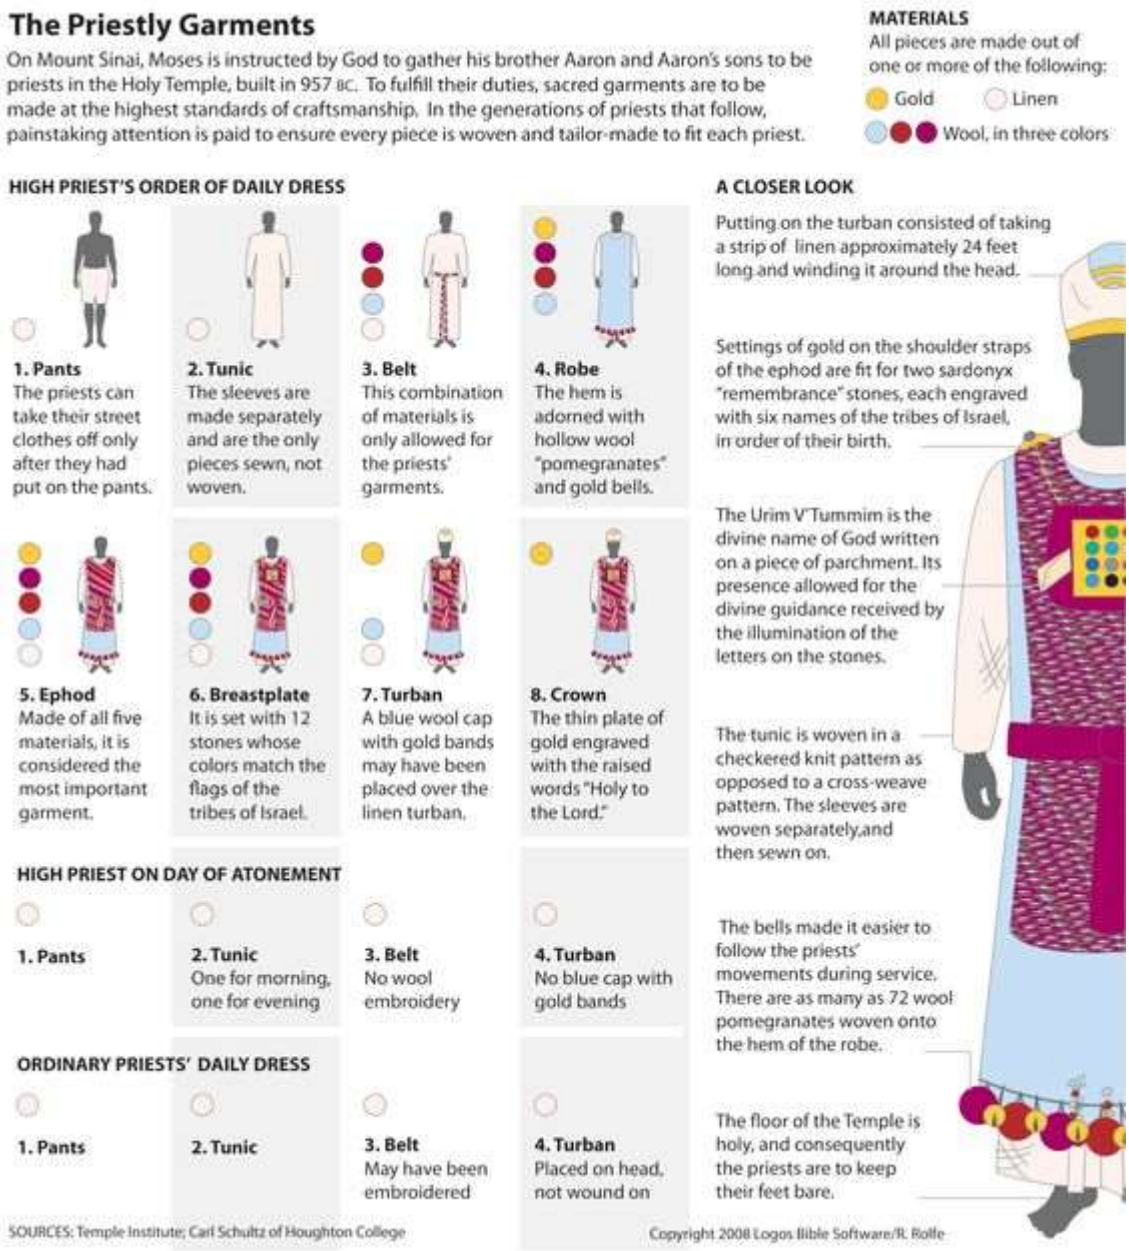
Five Components in the Garments

Five different materials were used to create the priestly garments:

1. gold
2. techelet, sky-blue wool
3. dark-red wool
4. crimson wool
5. twisted linen

The gold was beaten into thin sheets, and then cut into fine threads. The techelet sky-blue color (said by the Talmud to resemble indigo - BT Menachot 42:B) was a dye obtained from an aquatic invertebrate known as chilazon. The exact identification of this animal, and the method used to produce the dye, is the subject of extensive research. While various attempts have been made to conclusively identify the chilazon, most recently it has been classified to the Mediterranean snail known as murex trunculus.

The dark-red color (said by some to more closely resemble purple), argaman in Hebrew, is also derived from a snail; possibly the murex trunculus as well. According to this theory, the difference in color is a product of the amount of time the substance is initially exposed to sunlight.



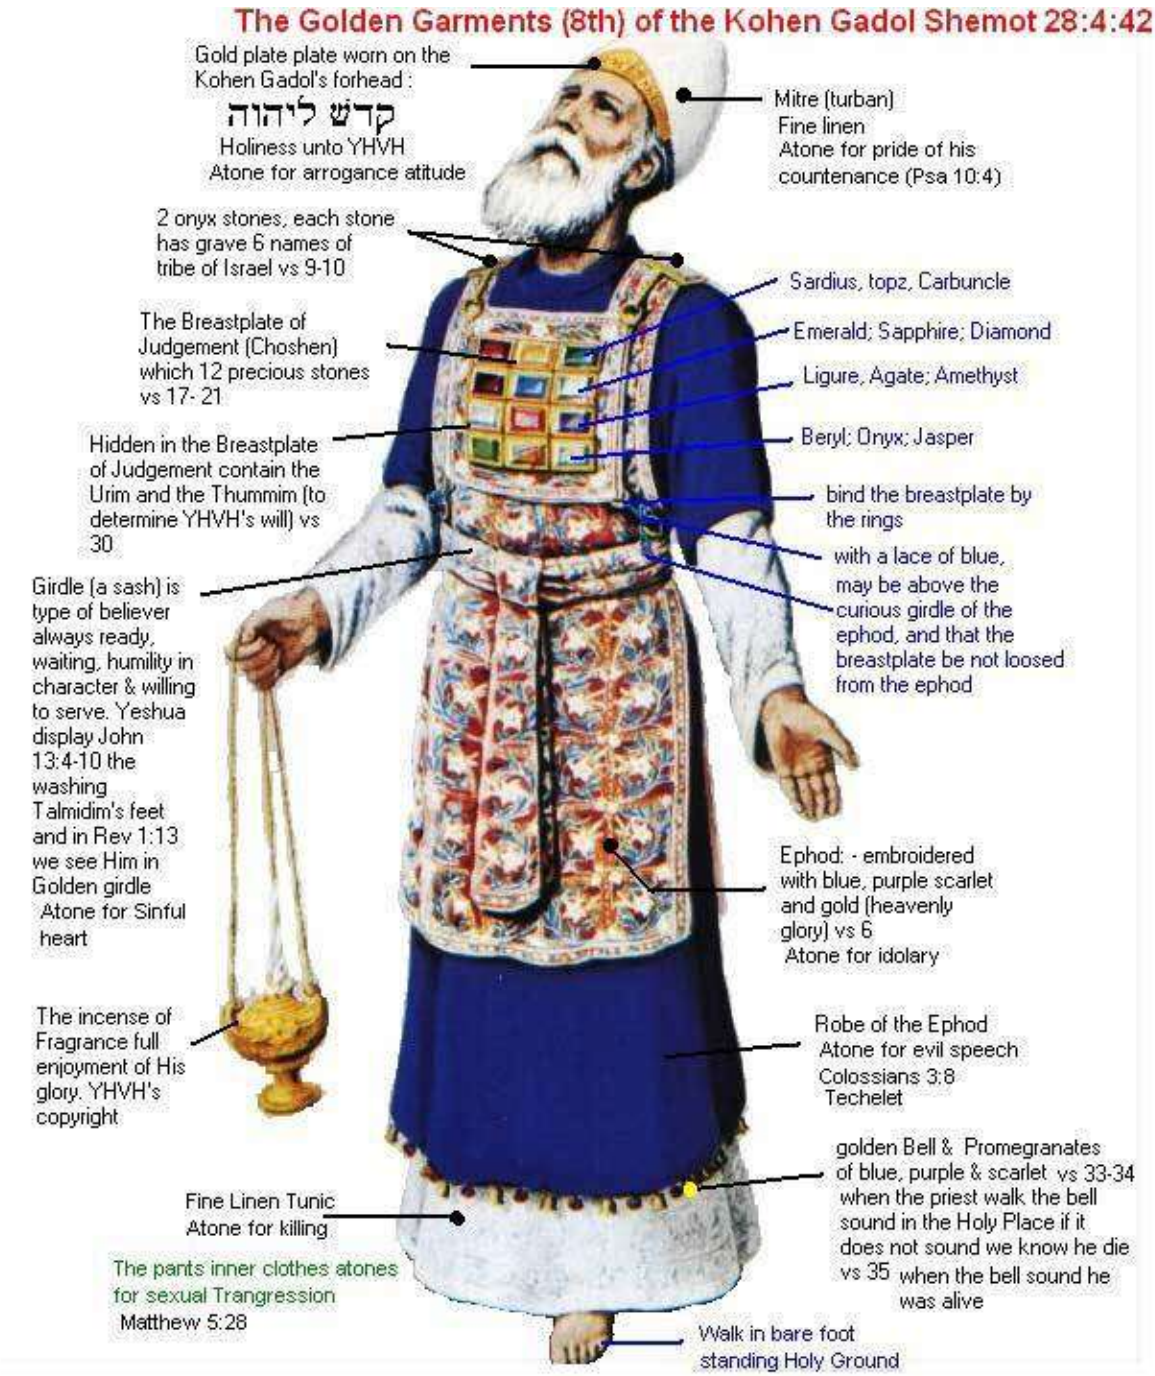
The crimson color is produced from a worm called by the Bible the "crimson worm," tola'at shani in Hebrew, a mountain worm which has been identified as kermes biblicus, the cochineal insect.

The Hebrew word which appears here for "linen" is shesh, which literally means "six." This indicates that each thread used in these garments is required to be a six-ply linen thread.

Some of the garments were composed of all five ingredients; some contained three or four; some contained only one.

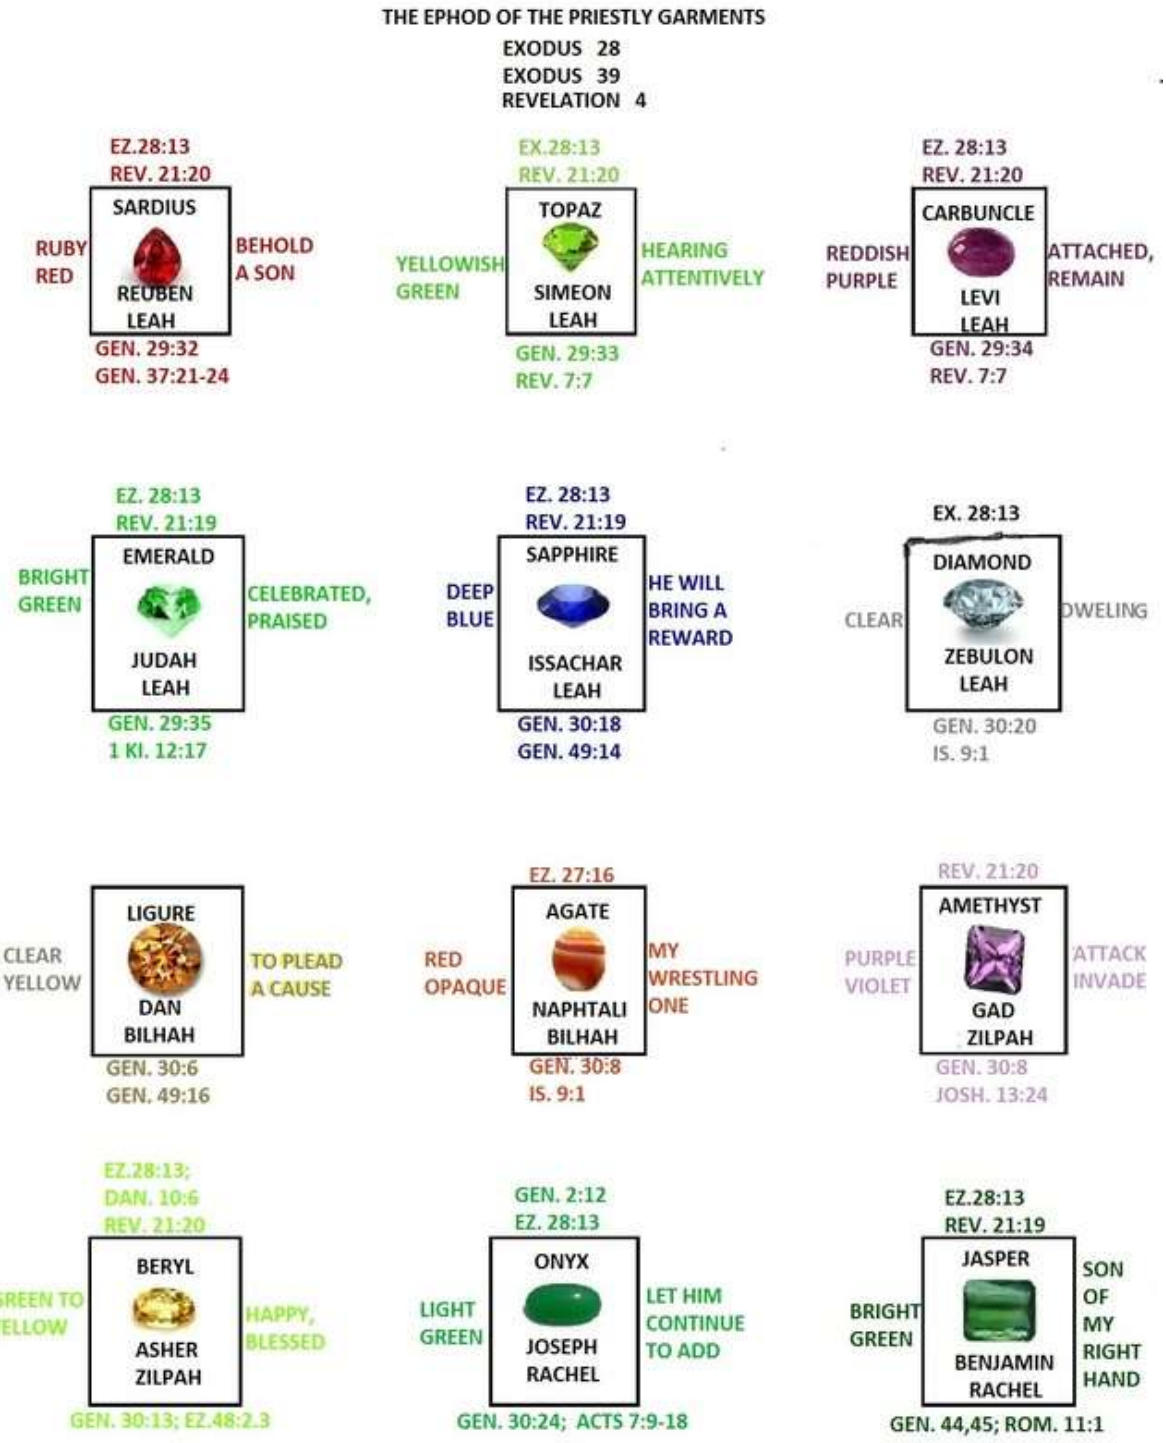
More details at: http://www.templeinstitute.org/beged/priestly_garments.htm

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Source: Christian Women Lifestyle xPress Online magazine

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



[Source: http://wwwrealdiscoveriesorg-simon.blogspot.com/2015/02/exciting-archaeological-find-high.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: https://workofheartandsoul.wordpress.com/2013/03/21/full-armor-of-god/]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Here's how to read the chart: On top of the square there will be 1 or 2 verses pertaining to the gem. Inside the square will be the gem's name, tribe, matriarch (though only the tribe name was on the actual gem in the ephod the priest wore.) To the left is the color of the gem. To the right is the meaning of the son's(tribe's) name -- which please pay attention to. They point to Jesus. Underneath each square are references to that family(son).

Co-incidentally, Rev. 4:3 is including all the tribes of Israel because the sardine and jasper stones represent the first and last son of Jacob(the father of the twelve sons/families).

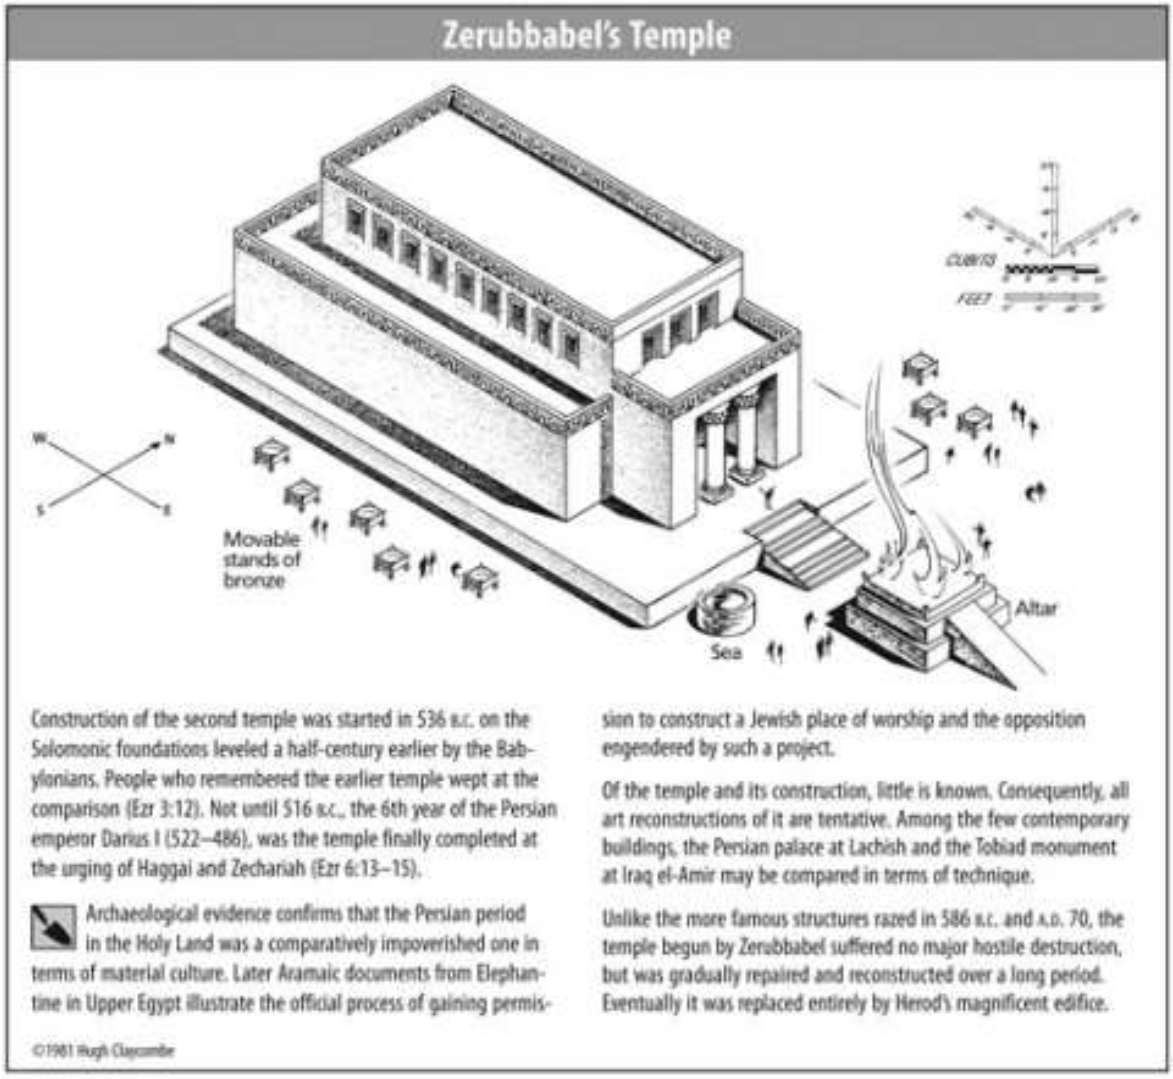
[Source: http://www.thewordwashing.com/the-ephod-of-the-priestly-garments.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Zerubbabel's Temple in Jerusalem

The rebuilding of Jerusalem's temple was done in stages (c. 536-516 B.C.). First, the altar was built, so that sacrifices could again be made (Ezra 3:2-3). The second phase was the laying of the foundation of the temple. This elicited mixed reactions from the people. Some rejoiced that the foundation was laid, while others, especially the elder priests, were sad, presumably because the quality of construction was inferior to that of the previous temple. Due to the opposition of the local population and the lack of motivation among the Jews, it took 20 years to complete the construction of the temple building.

The only information given in the biblical record about the architecture of the temple is the dimensions, which were sixty cubits (90 feet/27 m) high and wide (Ezra 6:3). As there is no mention of the length of the building, these dimensions must refer to the facade of the temple, i.e., the Porch.



Zerubbabel's Temple

The rebuilding of Jerusalem's temple was done in stages (c. 536–516 B.C.). First, the altar was built, so that sacrifices could again be made (Ezra 3:2–3). The second phase was the laying of the foundation of the temple. This elicited mixed reactions from the people. Some rejoiced that the foundation was laid, while others, especially the elder priests, were sad, presumably because the quality of construction was inferior to that of the previous temple. Due to the opposition of the local population and the lack of motivation among the Jews, it took 20 years to complete the construction of the temple building.

The only information given in the biblical record about the architecture of the temple is the dimensions, which were sixty cubits (90 feet/27 m) high and wide (Ezra 6:3). As there is no mention of the length of the building, these dimensions must refer to the facade of the temple, i.e., the Porch.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: NIV '08 Study Bible Notes]

Since some of the original artifacts were, according to the biblical account, lost after the destruction of the First Temple, the Second Temple lacked the following holy articles:

The Ark of the Covenant containing the Tablets of Stone, before which were placed the pot of manna and Aaron's rod

The Urim and Thummim[2][6] (divination objects contained in the Hoshen)

The holy oil

The sacred fire.

In the Second Temple, the Kodesh Hakodashim (Holy of Holies) was separated by curtains rather than a wall as in the First Temple. Still, as in the Tabernacle, the Second Temple included:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

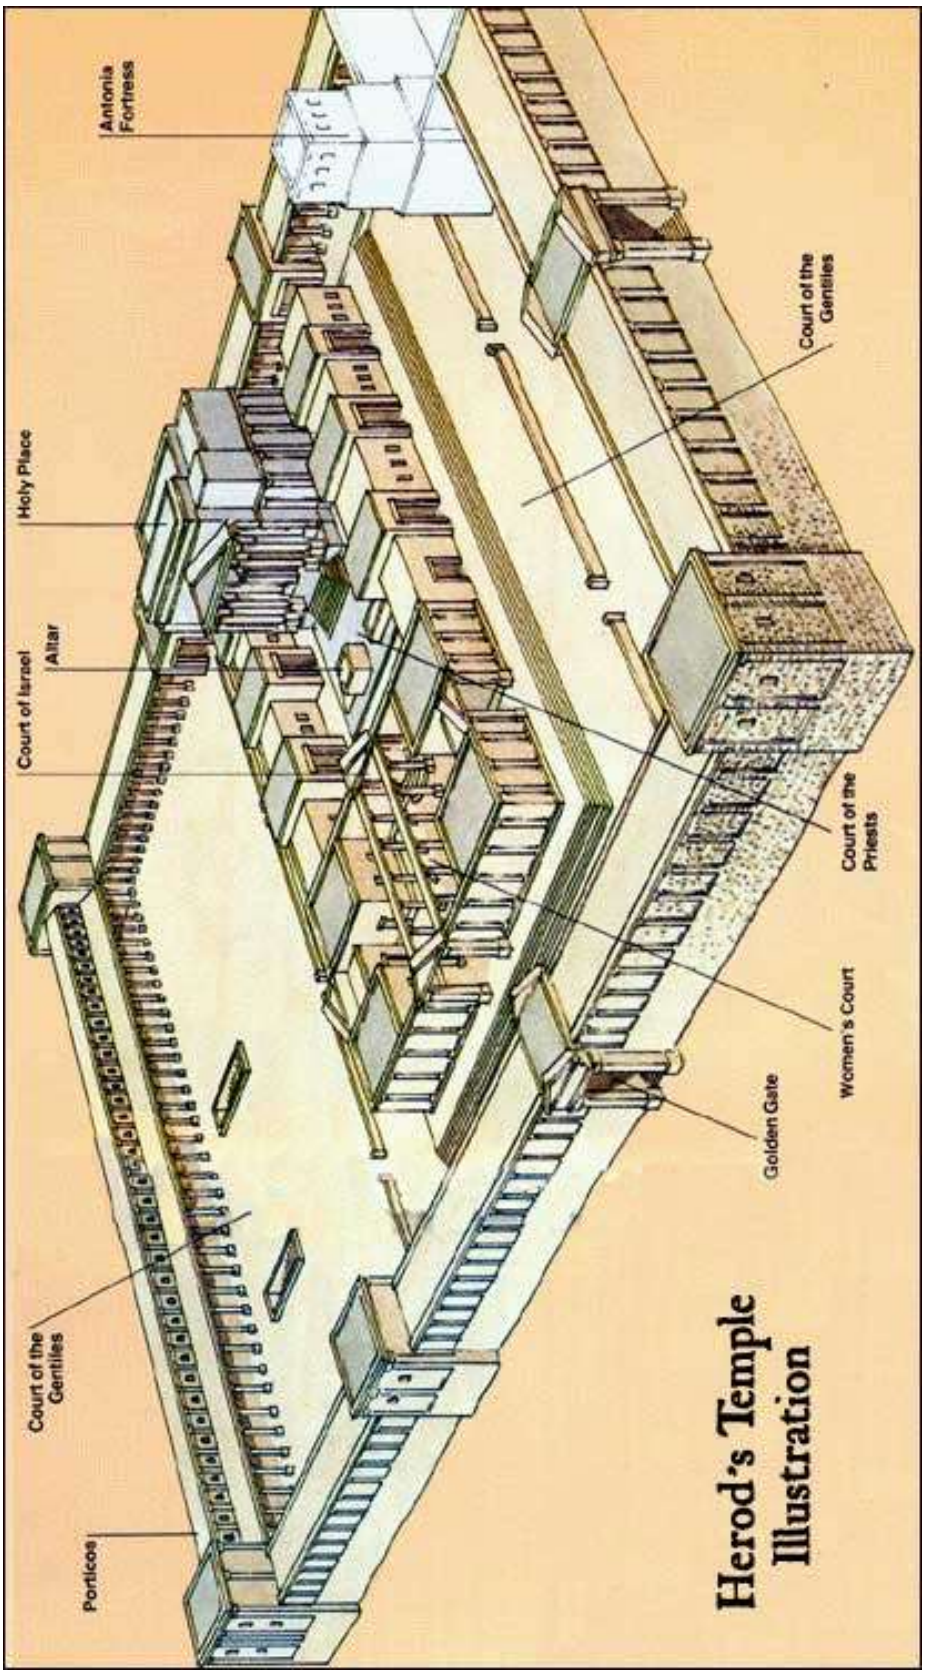
The Menorah (golden lamp) for the Hekhal

The Table of Showbread

The golden altar of incense, with golden censers.

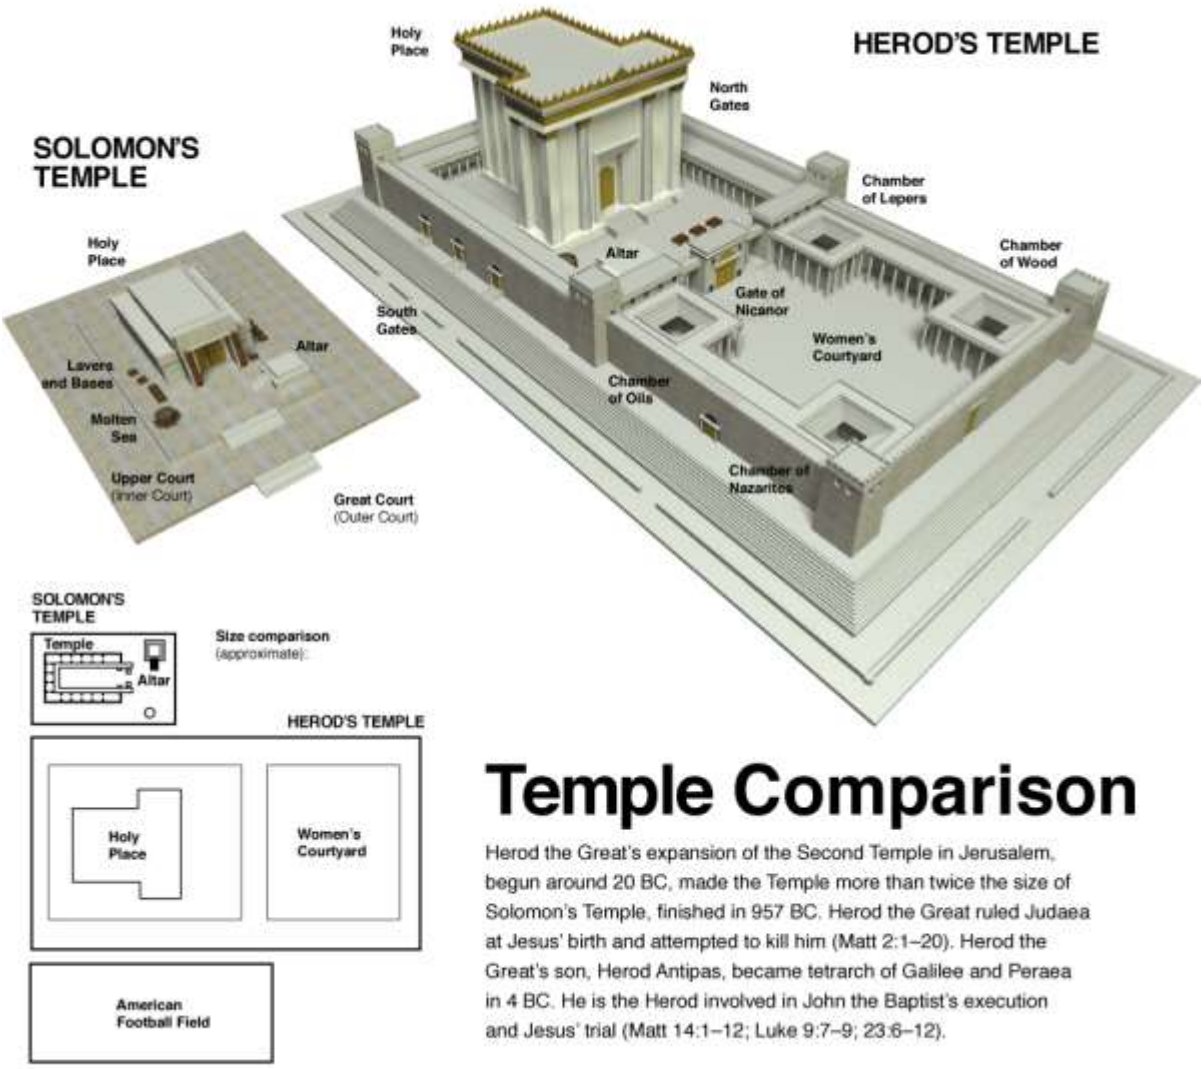
According to the Mishnah (Middot iii. 6), the "Foundation Stone" stood where the Ark used to be, and the High Priest put his censer on it on Yom Kippur.

The Second Temple also included many of the original vessels of gold that had been taken by the Babylonians but restored by Cyrus the Great. According to the Babylonian Talmud (Yoma 22b), however, the Temple lacked the Shekinah, the dwelling or settling divine presence of God, and the Ruach HaKodesh, the Spirit of Holiness, present in the first.



[Source: Wikipedia]

Continued on next page…



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Herod's Temple

See also*: Jerusalem and the Temple and Palaces of Herod

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

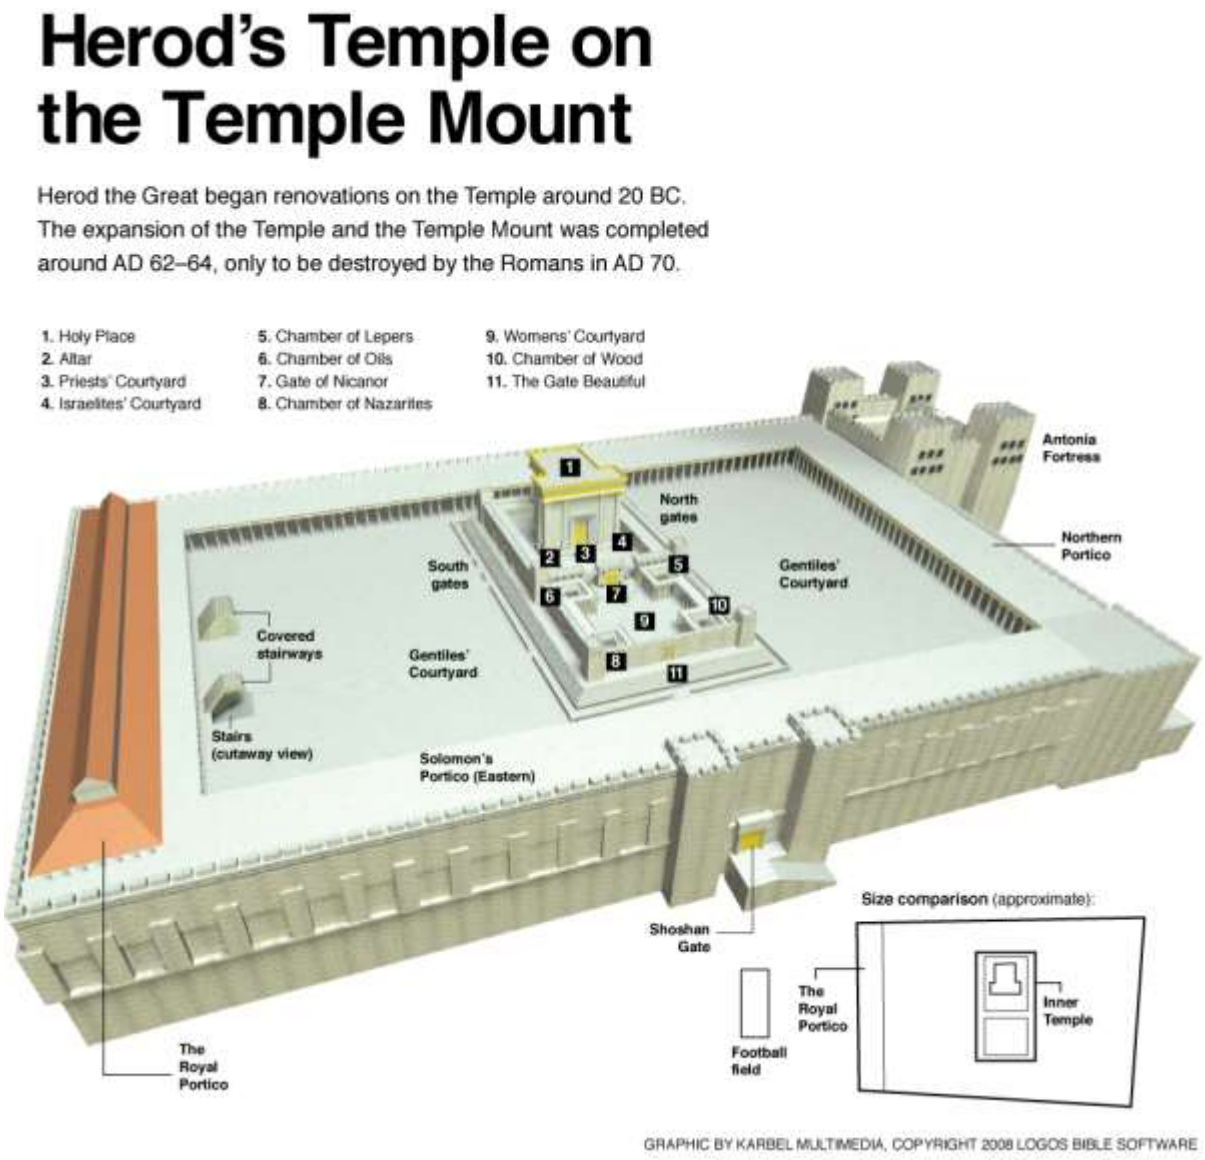
Temple Comparison

Herod the Great's expansion of the Second Temple in Jerusalem, begun around 20 BC, made the Temple more than twice the size of Solomon's Temple, finished in 957 BC. Herod the Great ruled Judaea at Jesus' birth and attempted to kill him (Matt 2:1–20). Herod the Great's son, Herod Antipas, became tetrarch of Galilee and Peraea in 4 BC. He is the Herod involved in John the Baptist's execution and Jesus' trial (Matt 14:1–12; Luke 9:7–9; 23:6–12).



GRAPHIC BY KARBEL MULTIMEDIA, COPYRIGHT 2008 LOGOS BIBLE SOFTWARE

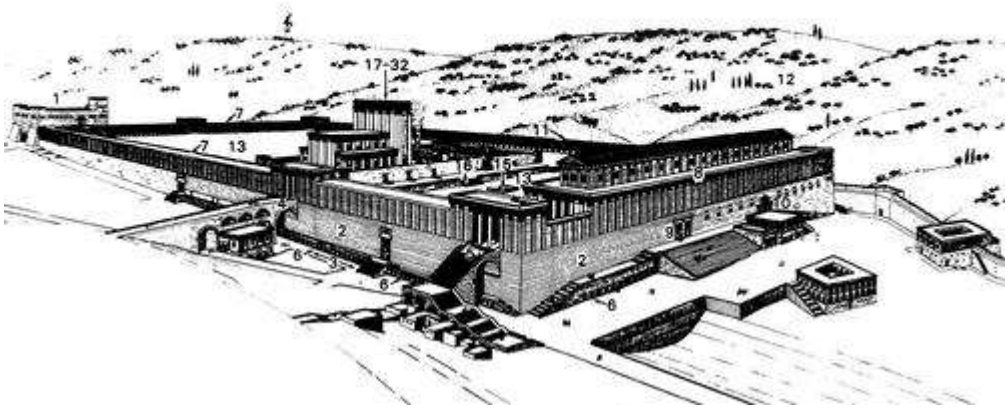
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Herod’s temple

The second temple was greatly expanded and beautified in a 40-year project undertaken by Herod the Great. Jesus taught in Herod's temple and drove tradesmen from it. This temple, one of the wonders of the ancient world, was destroyed by the Romans in A.D. 70.

[Source: The Bible Reader’s Companion]

Herod's Rebuilding of the Temple



Herod's motivation in rebuilding the temple is commonly assumed to be the glorification of his reign. Through it he also attempted to win the loyalty of his often restless Jewish subjects. And some Jewish writers of the past believed it represents an act of contrition for his sins.

In any case, Herod did rebuild the temple. He doubled the temple area with the construction of great supporting walls and the leveling of the surface inside. The western wall is the longest (1,590 feet) and the eastern wall somewhat shorter (1,536 feet). The southern wall is the shortest (912 feet) and the northern wall a little longer than that (1,035 feet). So the trapezoidal area covers the equivalent of twelve soccer fields, including the stands, and was almost a mile in circumference.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The retaining walls of the Temple Mount rose 98 feet above the paved area at the foot of the mount. And in some places the lower courses of these walls, always planted on bedrock, go as far down as 65 feet below the street, making walls at such a point more than 165 feet high. Most of the stones in these walls weighed two to five tons. But in the southwest corner of the Temple Mount are stones that weigh about 50 tons apiece. And in the western wall may be seen stones unequaled in size anywhere in the ancient world, according to Ben-Dov. One of these is 40 feet long, 10 feet high, and 13 feet thick and weighs some 400 tons. *

A reconstruction of the Temple Mount viewed from the southwest.

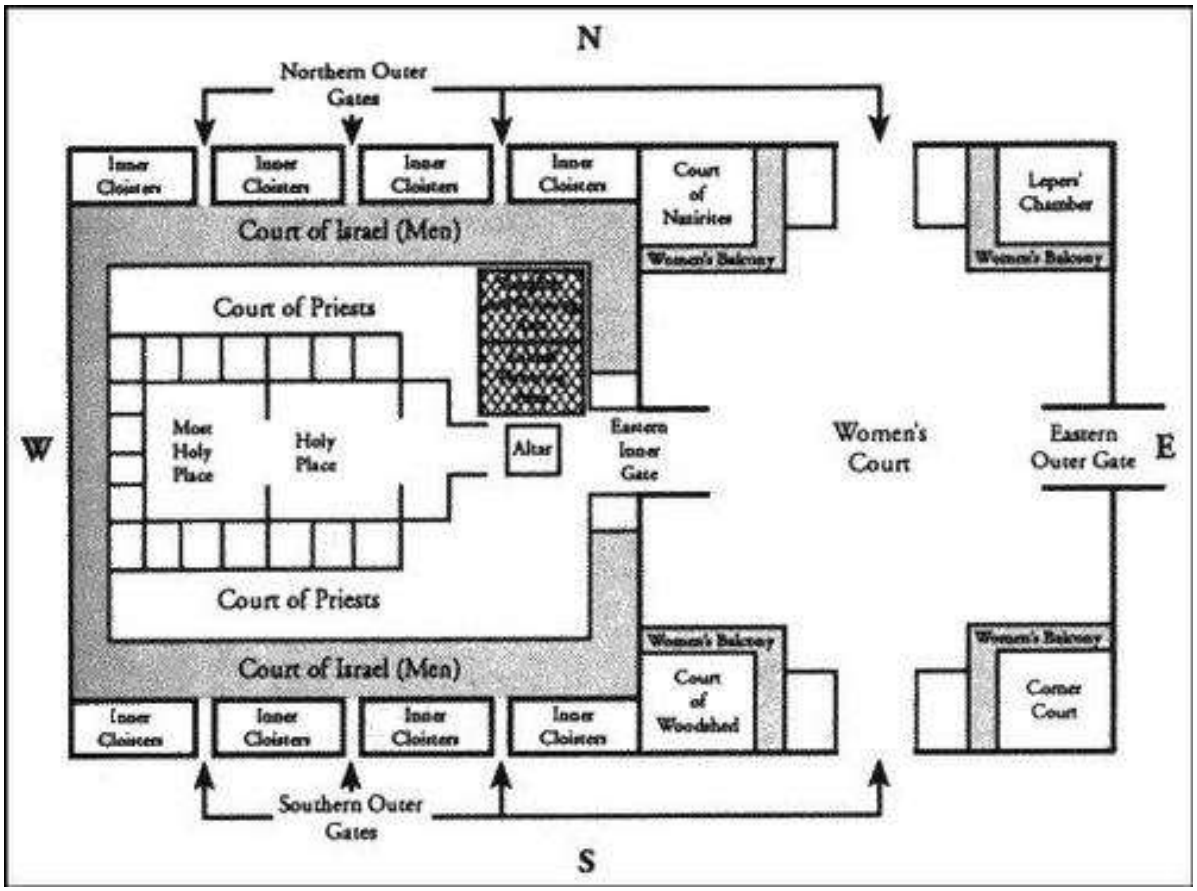
1. Antonia fortress
2. Retaining wall
3. Street
4. Wilson's Arch, spanning Tyropoeon Valley
5. Robinson's Arch, leading to street below
6. Shops
7. Porticoes/stoas
8. Royal Stoa
9. Exit gate
10. Entrance gate
11. Solomon's Portico (pre-Herodian)
12. Mount of Olives
13. Court of Gentiles
14. Entrance to platform
15. Exit from platform
16. Steps and railing prohibiting Gentiles.

(After Benjamin Mazar)

Ben Dov's enthusiasm must be tempered by discoveries at Baalbek in Lebanon, where larger cut stones appear in the temple complex. At Baalbek the three largest stones measure about 64 feet long, 14 feet high, and 11 feet thick, and each weighs some 1,000 tons.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Working with large stones avoided the necessity of using cement (which would have required huge quantities of fuel to manufacture), speeded construction, and assured permanence. A chiseled frame around the edge of each stone characterizes Herodian stone masonry, with each course of masonry set an inch or so further in than the one below it, for aesthetic reasons. That way the wall would not appear to lean but to stand up straight.



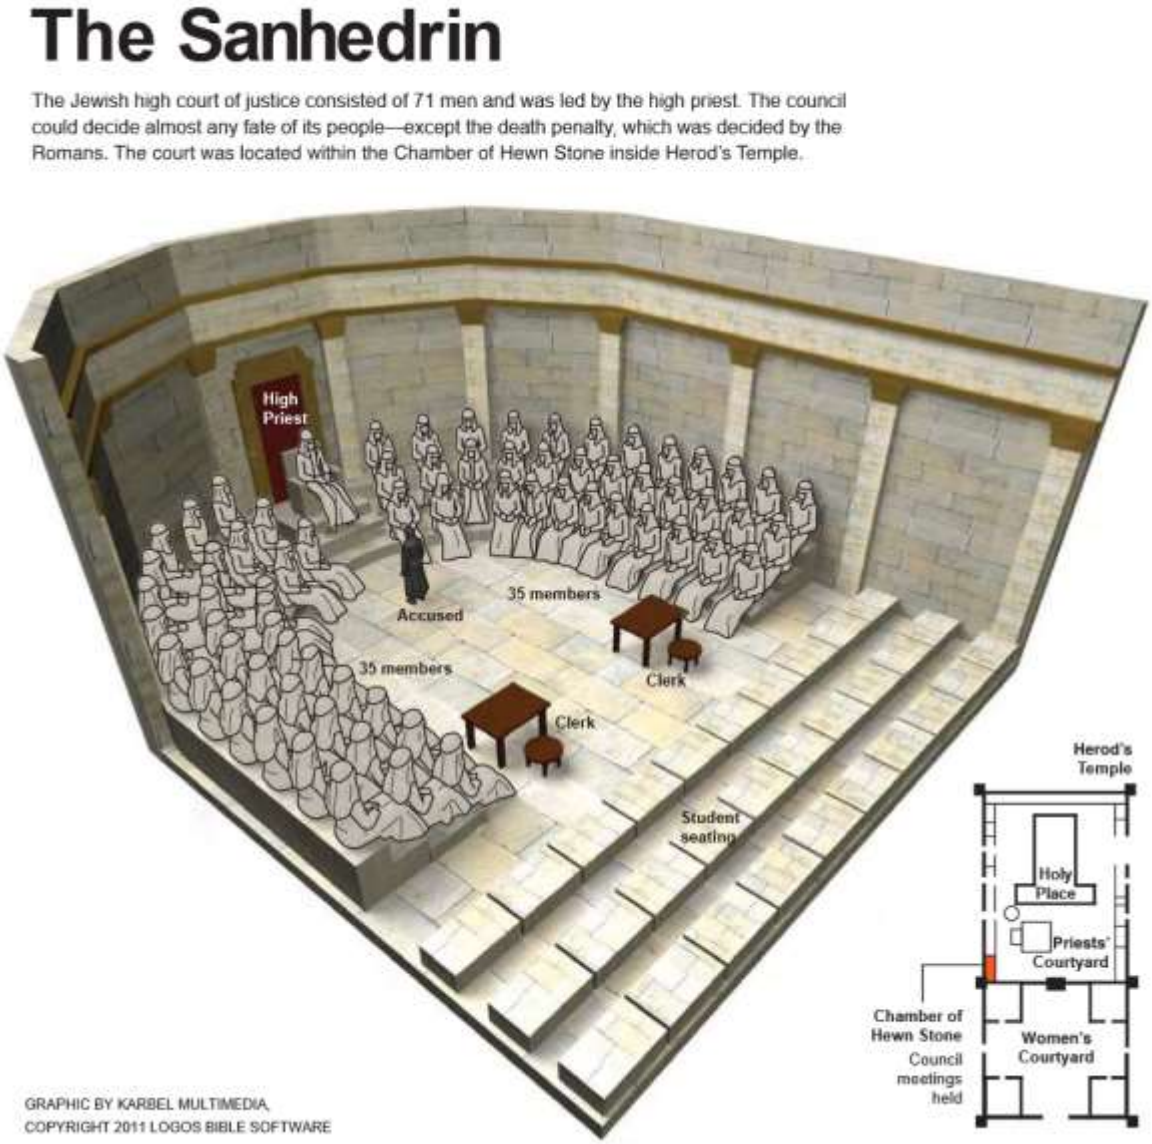
Herod began construction of the temple in his eighteenth year (20–19 B.C.). He respected the sacredness of the site by having most of the stonecutting and shaping done before he brought the blocks to the temple area. In that way he reduced the noise and clamor of hordes of workers in the temple. Moreover, 1,000 priests were trained to work in the religiously sensitive areas of the sanctuary itself.

Herod's men built the temple building in a year and a half, while the courts and porticoes required eight years. Josephus said that construction and repairs continued into the reign of Nero (54–68; Antiquities , XX.9.7). Moreover, Jn 2:20 says that it took forty-six years to build the temple. Scholars argue over whether the Greek indicates that it was complete then (when Jesus was about 30) or was still in the process of construction. Probably the latter is true.

Description of the Temple Area

Watchtowers stood at the corners of the temple wall. And the Antonia Fortress abutted against the northwest corner of the enclosure. Much wealth needed to be protected in the form of expensive decoration and utensils. And the temple and state treasuries were kept there, as was true of temples elsewhere in Mediterranean lands (for example, the Parthenon in Athens or the Temple of Saturn in the Forum at Rome).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Plan of the interior or Jewish section of Herod's temple

Along the southern side of the temple area broad stairways led through a triple gate at the southeast and a double gate at the southwest. These steps, as excavated, have special significance for modern Bible students. Jesus must have walked there and Paul probably sat there at the feet of the learned rabbi Gamaliel (Ac 22:3), as other students sat at the feet of their rabbis there. Also, the apostles must have preached on these stairways on the Day of Pentecost and subsequently.

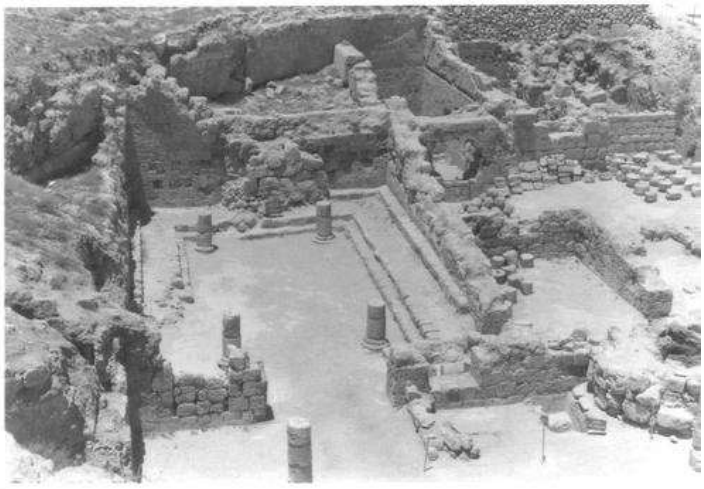
Interestingly, some thirty mikvehs or ritual immersion baths (pools and plastered cisterns hewn out of bedrock), where worshipers purified themselves before entering the sanctuary, came to light in the vicinity of these stairs during the excavations. These answer the question of where the large numbers converted on the day of Pentecost might have been baptized. Another stairway at the southwest corner (at what is called Robinson's Arch) descended to the street below. A bridge on the west side (at what is called Wilson's Arch) crossed over the Tyropoeon Valley and gave access to the Upper City.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Along the southern edge of the Temple Mount extended the Royal Stoa—a Roman basilica with a higher central aisle (nave) and two lower side aisles. Four rows of forty Corinthian columns each supported the roof. At the eastern end of the nave the Sanhedrin (the supreme Jewish legislative, religious, and judicial body) met in a semicircular apse. The northern colonnade was open and provided access to the temple court—the Court of the Gentiles.

Business could be conducted in the Stoa and the adjacent court. Pilgrims from abroad could change money into the sacred shekels there so they could pay their temple tax and buy sacrificial animals. When the Gospels talk about Jesus' kicking out of the temple those who did business there, they refer to this structure (Mt 21:12; Mk 11:15-16; Lk 19:45; Jn 2:14-16).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



On these steps of the temple, now excavated, learned rabbis taught.
Among them was Gamaliel, under whom Paul studied (Acts 5:33-40; Acts 22:3).

Some scholars believe that Jesus scourged the sons of Annas, including Caiaphas, the reigning high priest, who manned booths there and charged exorbitant rates for the sacrifices and their services. In effect, he broke up the religious mafia that controlled business transactions in the temple and enjoyed a handsome take. Others do not believe that there is enough evidence to make such a claim. They think that the temple licensed men to carry on trade in sacrifices there; the sons of Annas did not control the booths. They also suggest that Jesus opposed the noise and confusion caused by carrying on business in the temple.

At the minimum, entrepreneurs carried sacrificial birds into the temple in cages (see Mt 21:12; Mk 11:15-16; Jn 2:16). If instead of selling larger animals outside they actually stabled them in the temple and offered them for sale there, the activity was quite repulsive. Driving sheep and oxen up the temple steps, bedding them down, feeding them, and cleaning their stalls in the area of the Royal Stoa no doubt was totally out of character with what the temple complex ought to be. It is not clear from Jn 2:14-16 what Jesus saw for sale in the temple on this occasion. Clearly he found doves there, and He may have seen sheep and oxen, but we do know that he drove out sellers of sheep and oxen.

While there may have been no religious mafia involved in the sale of sacrifices, no doubt some crafty individuals took advantage of the opportunity to make an extra shekel. In any event, Jesus overturned the low tables of the moneychangers, behind which they sat on the ground, and the benches of those who sold doves and other animals, and expelled all those engaged in commercial dealings.

The synagogue at the Herodion

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The synagogue at Masada

A tunnel ran under the Royal Stoa and led to the Court of the Gentiles, where anyone could go. This court was separated from the area reserved for Jews by a railing about 4.5 feet high. On this railing warning notices forbade Gentiles further access. Excavators found one of these inscriptions in 1871 and it may now be seen in the Archaeological Museum in Istanbul. Translated from the Greek it reads, "Let no foreigner enter within the screen and enclosure surrounding the sanctuary. Whosoever is taken so doing will be the cause that death overtaketh him." * That this prohibition had real force is clear from Ac 21:28, where a mob scene erupted when a rumor spread that the apostle Paul had taken Trophimus, a Gentile, into the inner precincts. This fracas led to Paul's arrest and ultimately to his trial before Nero's court in Rome.

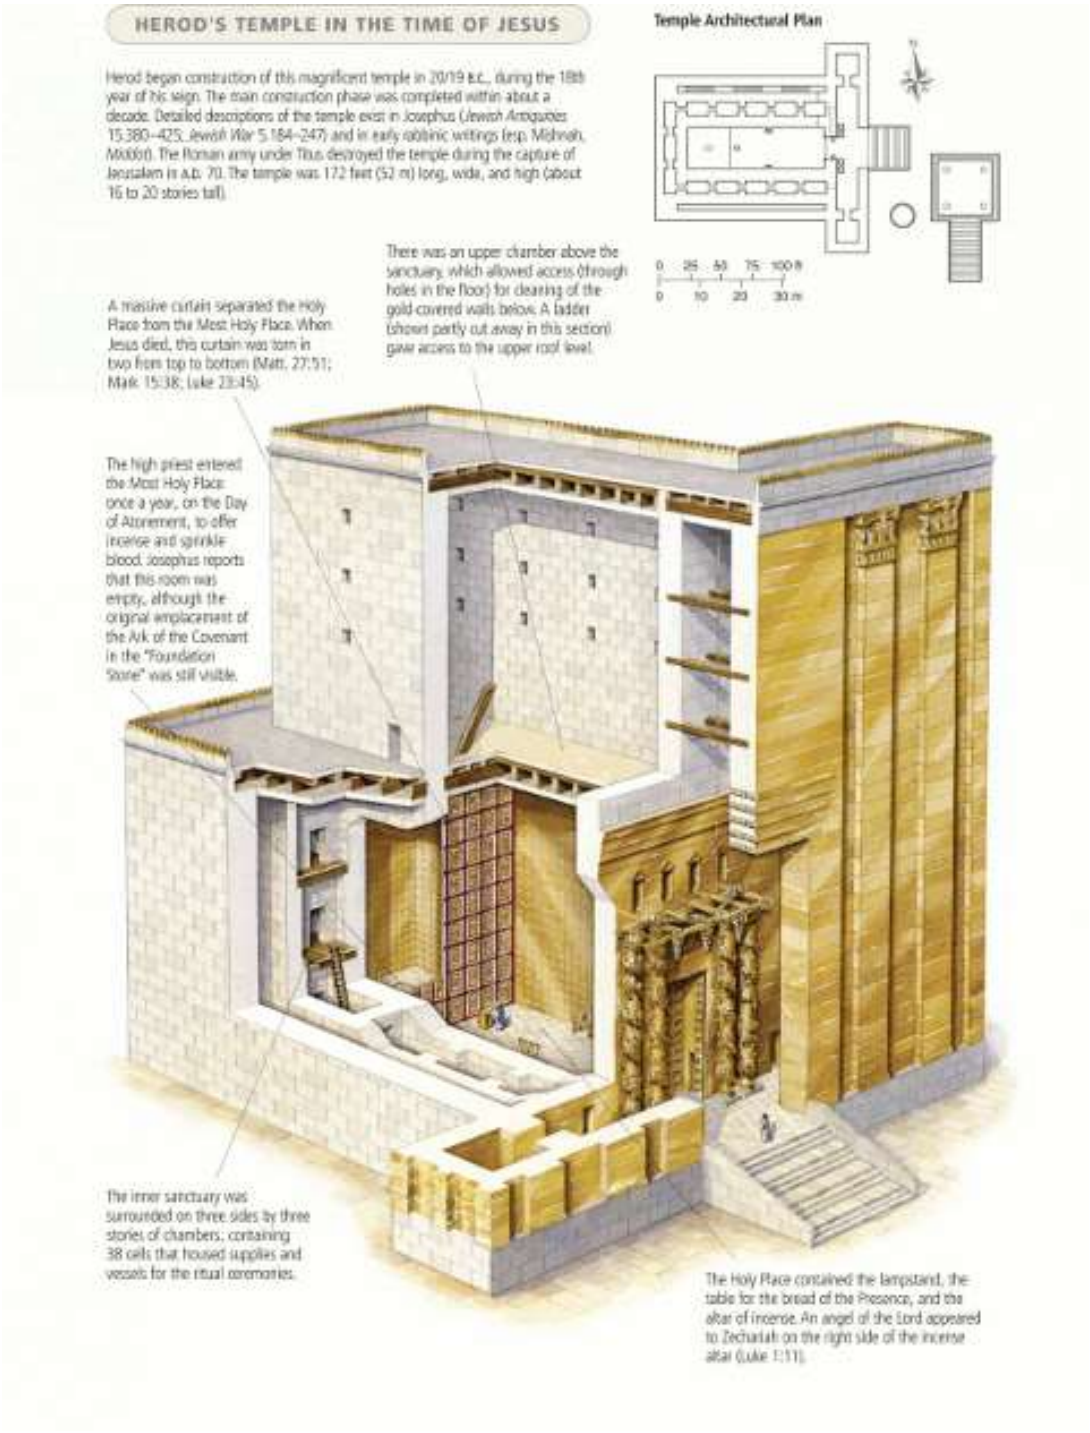
When Jewish worshipers moved on to the temple itself, they had to walk to the center of the temple area and turn left because the temple proper faced east. They passed the railing with its warning notices, climbed fourteen steps, crossed a terrace fifteen feet deep, and went up another five steps to the inner wall with its ten gates. Inside this wall lay first the Court of the Women. Apparently a gallery enabled women to see over the heads of the men into the Court of the Priests.

Men climbed fifteen more steps and went through a gate into the Court of the Israelites—for Jewish males who were not priests or Levites. There they could watch the priests at work from behind a low stone fence some eighteen inches high. In the court of the priests they saw the altar, the laver where priests washed their hands and feet, and the place where priests butchered animals.

[Source: Nelson's New Illustrated Bible Manners and Customs]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

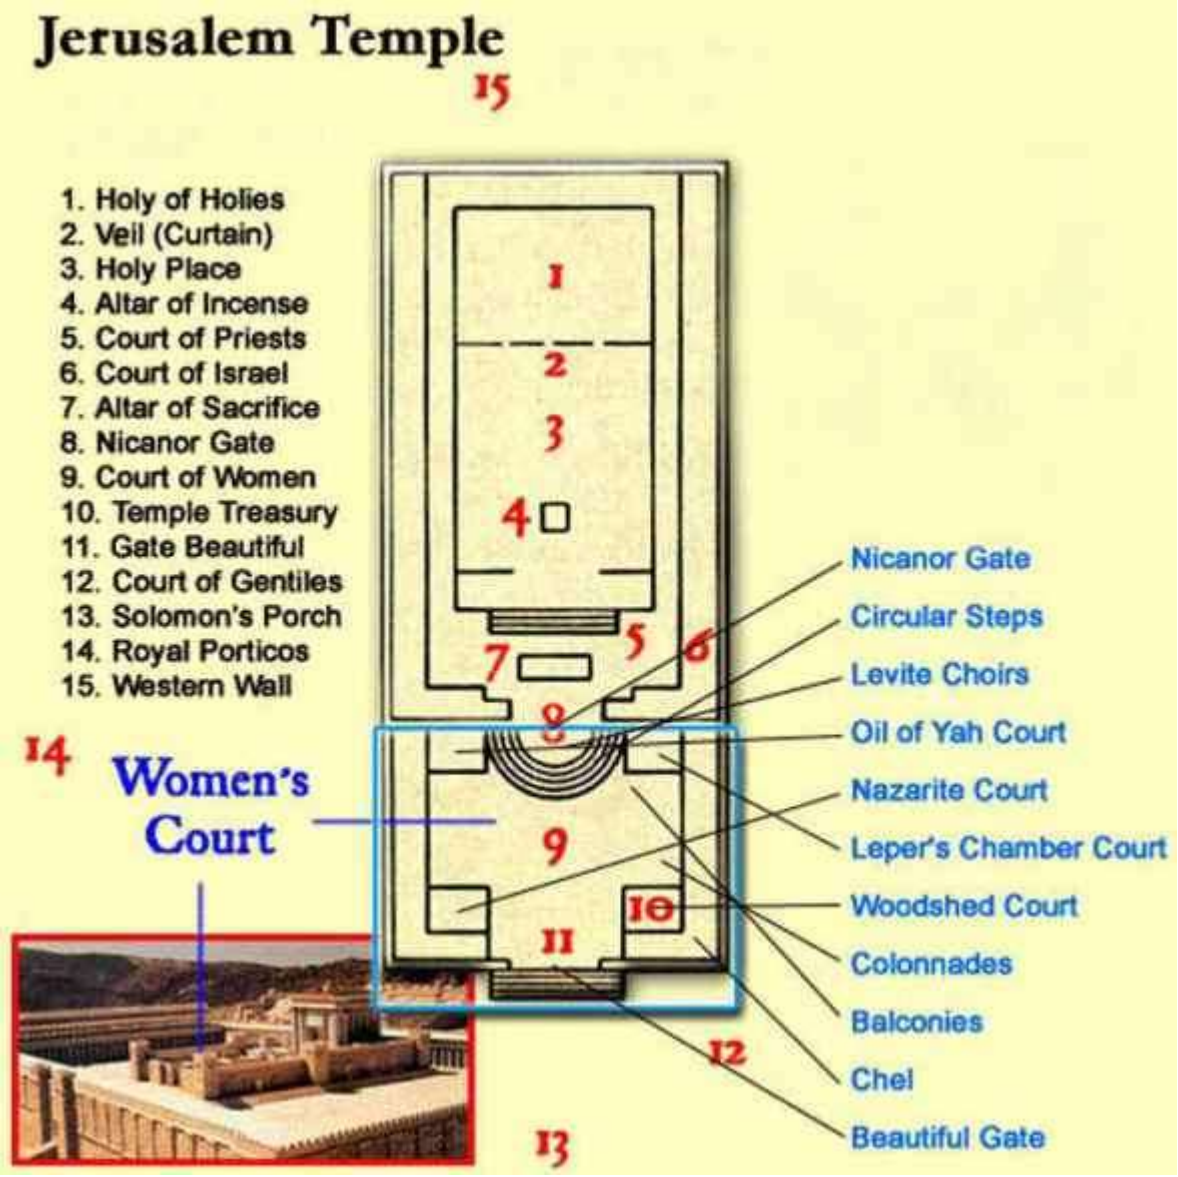
Herod’s Temple



Scale model of Herod's Temple. Gates from front to back: Golden Gate, Nicanor Gate, and the large double gates of temple proper. Semicircular stairs descent from Nicanor Gate into the Court of Women. The gates of the temple were left open so the public could gather in the Court of Women.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Herod's Temple in the Time of Jesus



Herod began construction of this magnificent temple in 20/19 B.C., during the 18th year of his reign. The main construction phase was completed within about a decade. Detailed descriptions of the temple exist in Josephus (Jewish Antiquities 15.380-425; Jewish War 5.184-247) and in early rabbinic writings (esp. Mishnah, Middot). The Roman army under Titus destroyed the temple during the capture of Jerusalem in A.D. 70. The temple was 172 feet (52 m) long, wide, and high (about 16 to 20 stories tall).

[Source: ESV Study Bible note]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Jerusalem (Herod's) Temple during Jesus' Time

The stalls of the money-changers were in the outer courtyard of the Temple (12). The colonnaded porticoes around the courtyard (14) probably contained Scripture colleges for young men.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Jewish Temple in the First Century A.D.

It is interesting that in the Middle East certain places have remained holy throughout the centuries, even if another religion may have taken possession of them. Today the Moslem Dome of the Rock in Jerusalem is the prominent building where the Jewish temple once stood.

When Jesus came to Jerusalem, the Temple had just been marvelously rebuilt by Herod the Great. The Temple area had been enlarged to a size of about thirty-five acres. Around the Temple area were double colonnades.

The Jewish historian Josephus describes the colonnades:

"All the cloisters were double, and the pillars to them belonging were twenty-five cubits in height, and supported -the cloisters. These pillars were of one entire stone each of them, and that stone was white marble; and the roofs were adorned with cedar, curiously graven. The natural magnificence, and excellent polish, and the harmony of the joints in these cloisters, afforded a prospect that was very remarkable; nor was it on the outside adorned with any work of the painter or engraver. The cloisters -(of the outmost court) were in breadth thirty cubits, while the entire compass of it was by measure six furlongs, including the tower of Antonia; those entire courts that were exposed to the air were laid with stones of all sorts" (Jewish War 5. 5. 2).

The eastern portico was named after King Solomon and the part to the south, which overlooked the Valley of Kidron, was called "Royal." On the east side the high corner was possibly the pinnacle of the temple, mentioned in the story of the temptation of Jesus (Matthew 4:5).

There were eight gates leading into the temple.

There were the two Huldah Gates or "mole" Gates from the south, which passed underneath the Royal Porch.

To the east was the Gate of Susa, still visible as the Golden Gate which was walled up by the Byzantines.

In the western wall was the main gate named the Gate of Coponius after the first procurator; it was decorated with the golden eagle as a sign that the Temple had been placed under the protection of Rome.

Anyone was allowed to enter the outer area, which was therefore called the Court of the Gentiles. The actual Temple was enclosed by a balustrade, and at the entrances to it were warning notices, one of them is now in a museum in Istanbul. It says that foreigners have freedom of access provided they do not go beyond the balustrade which went all around the central edifice and which no uncircumcised could cross without incurring the death penalty.

Fourteen steps led through the Beautiful Gate to the Court of the women where the poor boxes were, into one of which the poor widow cast her two mites (Luke 21:1-4).

Another fifteen steps led up to the famous Gate of Nicanor, to which Mary had brought the child at the time of his presentation; this led through the Court of the Men to that of the priests, which had in its center the altar for the burnt offerings and to the left of it a large basin called the Brazen Sea resting upon twelve bulls cast in bronze.

Further steps led up to the actual temple, a comparatively small building. A priceless curtain, embroidered with a map of the known world, concealed from view what lay beyond, and none except the priest on duty was allowed to go farther.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

It contained the golden altar at which incense was offered and next to it the seven-branched candelabrum and the table with the twelve loaves of shewbread, which were replaced by fresh ones every Sabbath. Beyond it, behind another large curtain, lay the Holy of Holies, which none except the high priest was allowed to enter, and he only on the Day of Atonement. A stone designated the place where once the Ark of the Covenant had stood.

Jesus came to the Temple at a very young age and in Solomon's Porch the boy argued with the rabbis, astonishing them with his questions and with his answers. He remained behind when his parents left, and when his worried mother at last found him he said to her enigmatically: "'Did you not know that I must be in my Father's house?"' (Luke 2:49).

It is one of the most original sayings of Jesus, in which he speaks of God for the first time as "avi" (My Father) which was an expression reserved for the Son of God.

Today the Western Wall, the so-called Wailing Wall, is all that remains of the ancient walls of Herod's Temple; one can still see the pilaster and the beginning of Robinson's Arch, which was part of a large viaduct leading to the upper city. Excavations in 1967, led by the well-known archaeologist Benjamin Mazar, revealed the cornerstone. Adjacent to it on the southern side remain traces of the road from which the pilgrims entered the gates.

[Source: http://www.bible-history.com/jewishtemple/JEWISH_TEMPLEThe_Golden_Gate.htm]

The Golden Gate

During the time of the First Temple the Eastern Gate (also called Shushan or HaKohan gate) was the main entrance into the Temple area. It was also the gate that Jesus entered on a humble donkey in His triumphal entry. If one were to stand on the Mount of Olives he could look over this Eastern Gate into the huge area presently north of the Dome of the Rock and see all the gates (at different levels) in a perfect line: the East (Shushan) Gate --Outer Court Gate --Inner Court Gate --Temple Entrance. The Talmud makes an interesting observation:

"All the walls which were there were high, except the wall in the east, so that the priest who burned the heifer, standing on the top of the Mount of Olives, and directing himself to look, saw through the gateway of the sanctuary, at the time when he sprinkled the blood." [Mishnah, Middot 2:4].

The Golden Gate (Eastern Gate) in the eastern wall of Jerusalem gave access to the courtyards of the Temple from the Kidron valley.

Tradition

According to Jewish tradition the Messiah (Mashiach) will enter Jerusalem from the east. The gate has a special holiness; legend has it that the Shechinah (Divine Presence) used to appear through this gate and will appear again, and that in the meantime it must be left untouched.

The Arabs (Moslems) call this gate The Mercy Gate (Bab el Rahmeh) and according to the Koran, the just will pass through this gate on the Day of Judgment.

The Sealed Gate

It is interesting that this gate is the only one of the eight gates in Jerusalem that is sealed. The Arabs believe that since the Jews expect that Messiah would come through this gate (Sha'ar harachamim) they would try to prevent any possibility of His return.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The East gate was walled up by its Muslim conquerors (the Ottoman Turks) with great stones in 1530 A.D. and a cemetery was planted in front of it thinking that the Jewish Messiah could not set foot in a cemetery and therefore would not be able to come. Many believe this was done to prevent the entrance of the Jewish Messiah through that gate as was foretold by known Old Testament prophecies. However, Ezekiel prophesied the shutting of this gate itself around 600 B.C. -- that it would be shut "because the LORD (Jehovah or Yahweh), the God of Israel, hath entered in by it, therefore it shall be shut."

[Source: http://www.bible-history.com/jewishtemple/JEWISH_TEMPLEThe_Golden_Gate.htm]

Why is the Eastern Gate to the Old City of Jerusalem closed, and what does it have to do with Bible prophecy?

When He came the first time, Jesus rode a donkey from the Mount of Olives down into the Kidron Valley and up to the Eastern Gate where He entered the Temple Mount for His last days of teaching. As He made that ride, the Valley of Kidron was filled with thousands of admirers who had heard about the resurrection of Lazarus. They waved palm branches and chanted, "Hosanna to the Son of David!" Within a few days that same fickle crowd was shouting, "Crucify Him!"

We are told in Revelation 19 that when Jesus returns He will come as a victorious military conqueror, riding through the air on a supernatural white horse. In Isaiah 61 we are told that He will come from the east, and in Zechariah 14 we are told that he will touch ground on the Mount of Olives.

Revelation 19:14 says that all the Redeemed will come with the Lord. Think of it! You and I will be there to witness the Lord's return. Zechariah 14 says He will speak a word that will supernaturally destroy the Anti-Christ and his forces.

Then, I believe we will witness a replay of the Lord's triumphant entry into Jerusalem. With angels hovering above and millions of the Redeemed filling the Kidron Valley, Jesus will ride up to the Eastern Gate on His white horse, and as He approaches the Gate, it will blow open. He will then enter the City of David, and to the triumphant shouts of "Hosanna to the Son of David," He will be crowned the Kings of kings and the Lord of lords.

http://www.raptureready.com/featured/reagan/dr27.html

This picture shows the temple as imagined in 1966 in the Holyland Model of Jerusalem.

Reconstruction of the temple under Herod began with a massive expansion of the Temple Mount. Religious worship and temple rituals continued during the construction process. When the Roman emperor Caligula planned to place his own statue inside the temple, Herod's son Agrippa I was able to intervene and convince him against this. Following the Great Revolt of the Province of Iudaea, the Temple was destroyed by Roman troops under Titus during the Siege of Jerusalem in 70 CE (74 years after Herod died). The most complete ancient account of this event is The Jewish War by Flavius Josephus.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Destruction of the Temple

Siege and Destruction of Jerusalem by the Romans (1850 painting by David Roberts)

In 66 CE the Jewish population rebelled against the Roman Empire. Four years later, in 70 CE, Roman legions under Titus retook and subsequently destroyed much of Jerusalem and the Second Temple. The Arch of Titus, located in Rome and built to commemorate Titus's victory in Judea, depicts a Roman victory procession with soldiers carrying spoils from the Temple, including the Menorah; which were used to fund the construction of the Colosseum. The sects of Judaism that had their base in the Temple dwindled in importance, including the priesthood and the Sadduccees. Although Jews continued to inhabit the destroyed city, Emperor Hadrian established a new city called Aelia Capitolina. At the end of the Bar Kokhba revolt in 135 CE, many of the Jewish communities were massacred and Jews were banned from living inside Jerusalem. A pagan Roman temple was set up on the former site of Herod's Temple.

The destruction date according to the Hebrew calendar was the 9th of Av, also known as Tisha B'Av.

The Temple itself was located on the site of what today is the Dome of the Rock. The gates let out close to Al-Aqsa mosque.

[Source: Wikipedia]

See also*: Jerusalem - Temple & palaces; scale models, reconstructions

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Why was the Jewish Temple in Israel not rebuilt [today]?

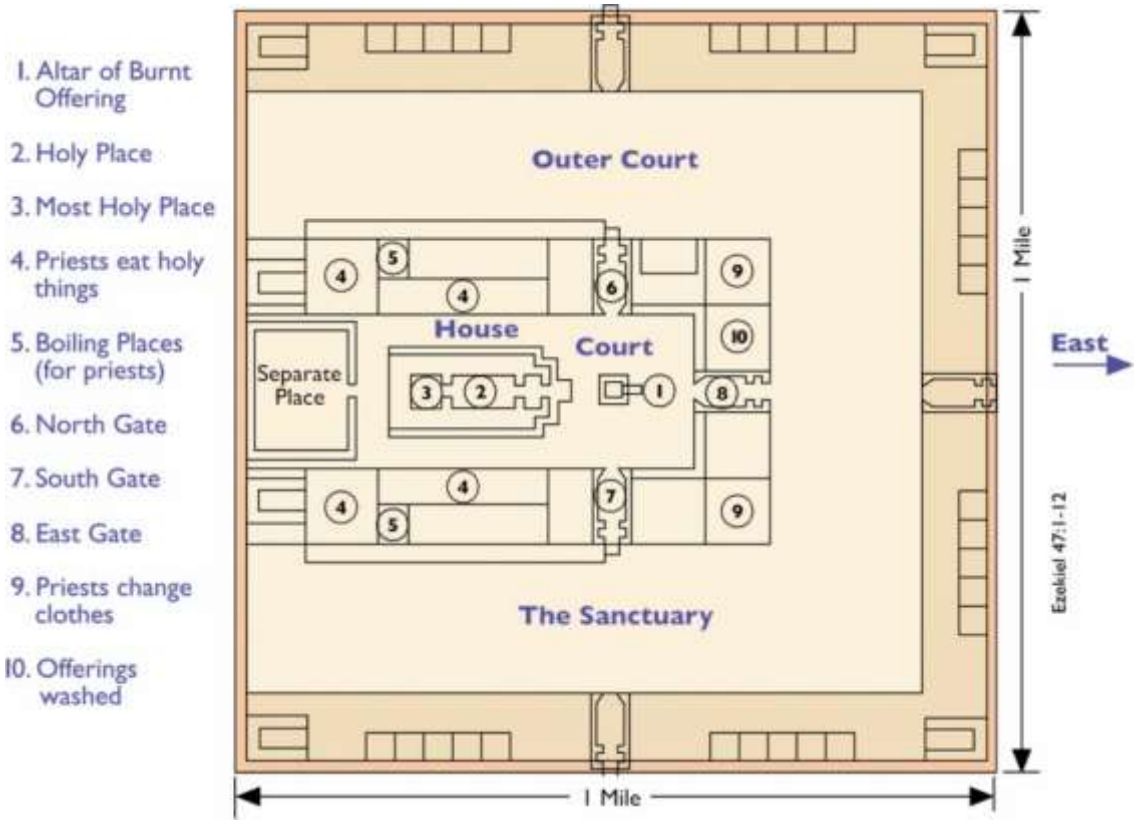
One of the main reasons the Temple was never rebuilt is that the Temple's function is to give sacrifices to God. The people who are supposed to serve in the Temple are the priests, descendants from Aaron's family. The problem is that a priest must be of proven pedigree to serve in the Temple (see Mishna Midot 5:4). Those currently designated "priests" (Cohanim) are "presumed priests," inasmuch as there is no legally sufficient proof testifying to their descent from ancient priestly families (see Maimonides, Issurei Bi'ah 20:1-2;). Thus they would not be fit to serve in the Temple.

Another important impediment to the rebuilding of the Temple is that on its place are standing two mosques, and politically and morally, Israel cannot destroy them. However there is in Israel a small group of people who would like to rebuild the Temple and to reestablish sacrifices now, but they are really a minority. Generally when people speak about the building of the "Third Temple", they speak about the Messianic Times.

I want to add that I personally feel that it does not seem that sacrifices are a means by which men and women in modern times want to relate to God. With the destruction of the Temple, and the lost of the priest's genealogy, sacrifices were replaced by prayers, the Temple by a multitude of "Minor Temples", our synagogues, and maybe this is the way it was meant to be.

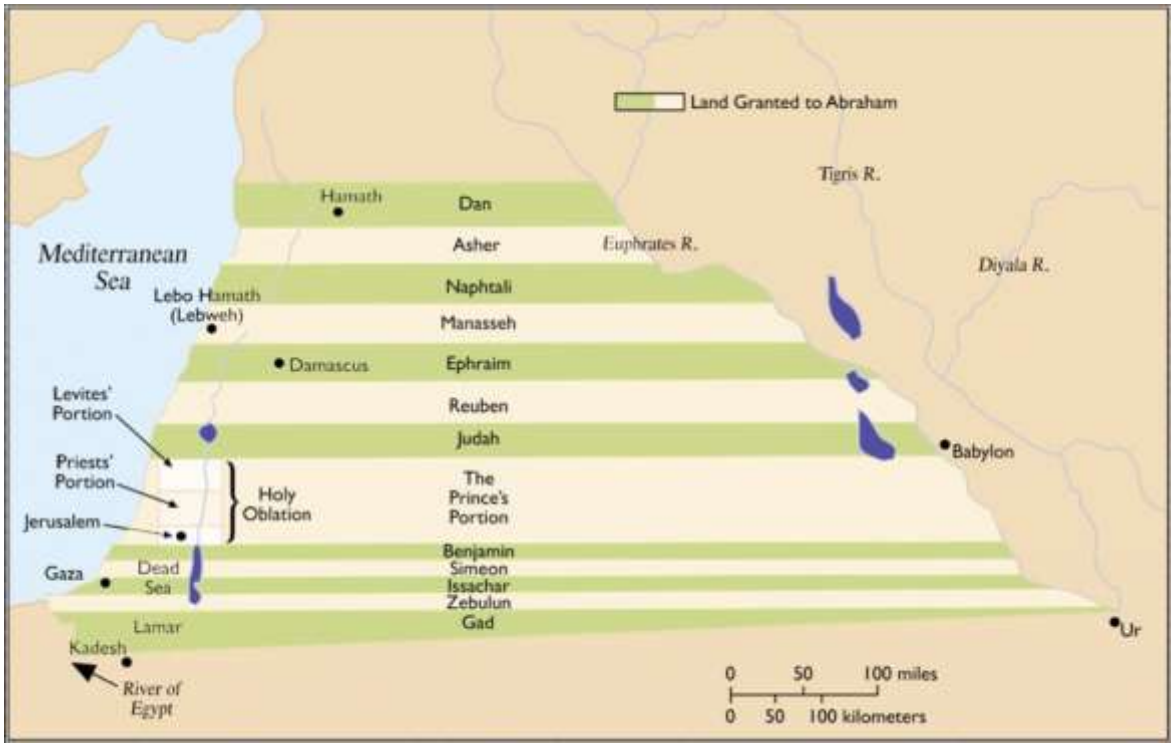
[Source: http://www.schechter.edu/AskTheRabbi.aspx?ID=441]

As far as I know, there are no plans to rebuild the Temple. It is true that there is a very little fringe group, very extreme in their political views who are "preparing" for the building of the third Temple and did build some instruments used for the sacrifices.



There are major impediments to rebuild the Temple. The first one is that on the very place of the Temple are now standing two mosques, the Dome of the Rock and the Al Aksa mosques. They are important Muslim shrines and nobody would think about destroying them. This would lead to a war with the Muslim world, and Israel has enough political difficulties to make itself accepted in the world.

The second thing is that only priests related genealogically to the Levite tribe could serve in the Temple. Obviously, there were intermarriages with non Levites during the generations since the destruction of the second Temple, and nobody today can ascertain that he is purely a Levite.

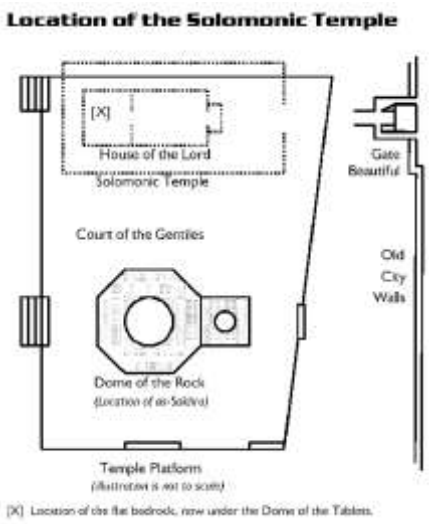


[Source: http://www.schechter.edu/AskTheRabbi.aspx?ID=440]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Millenial Temple

Land Granted to Israel During the Millenium



[Source: theWord Bible Software]

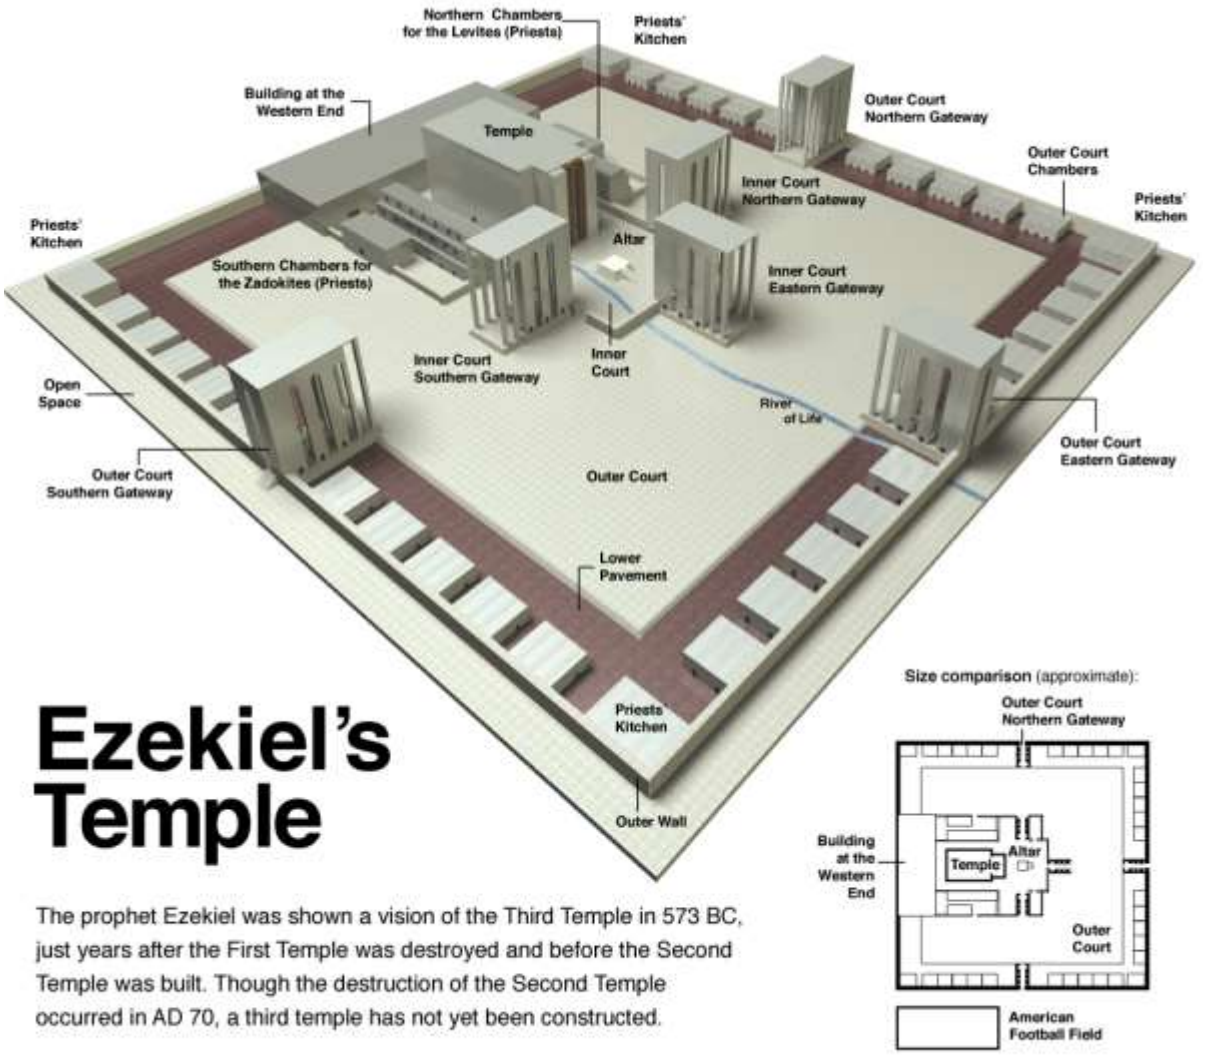
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Ezekiel's temple

The Prophet Ezekiel predicts that yet another temple will be constructed in the same place when Messiah comes. Today the Mosque of Omar (Dome of the Rock), the second most holy place in Islam, rests on the Temple Mount.

[Source: The Bible Reader's Companion]

Note: There have also been reports that claim Islam's Dome of the Rock has been discovered to be not directly on the original temple, but about 300 yards away in an area for gentiles:



http://www.beholdthebeast.com/the_wrong_rock.htm

http://www.bible.ca/archeology/bible-archeology-jerusalem-temple-mount-dome-of-rock.htm

http://askelm.com/temple/t001211.htm

http://www.contenderministries.org/prophecy/templelocation.php

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Ezekiel's Temple

The prophet Ezekiel was shown a vision of the Third Temple in 573 BC, just years after the First Temple was destroyed and before the Second Temple was built. Though the destruction of the Second Temple occurred in AD 70, a third temple has not yet been constructed.

GRAPHIC BY KARBEL MULTIMEDIA, COPYRIGHT 2008 LOGOS BIBLE SOFTWARE

Go to Beginning of*: Tabernacle and Temples

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

MAPS

plus Charts and Illustrations

Contents:

Map, Atlas, Timeline, Charts Resources (Links)

Table of Nations and Geneologies

Regarding Race

Lifespans Before and After the Flood

God's Promise to Abraham Fulfilled (Exodus, Promised Land, 12 Tribes)

Abraham Through Joseph and Tribes of Israel (Graphic)

General Maps (Ancient (OT/NT) and Current)

Jerusalem - Temple & palaces; scale models, reconstructions

Important Places During Time of Jesus

Travels of Jesus, Appearances

Jerusalem at the Time of Jesus

Maps of New Testament Asia

Map of Books of Bible in the Lands of the Bible

Paul's Journeys

Current Maps, including of the Levant

See also*: Tabernacle and Temples, Maps/Layouts

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

See Also:

Moody's Atlas of the Bible
http://www.cartogis.org/images/winners/moody.pdf [PDF]

Bible Atlas by Access Foundation [Recommended]
http://abideinme.net/maps/bible_atlas.pdf [PDF]

Alt. link: http://www.ultimatebiblereferencelibrary.com/001_The_Bible_Atlas.pdf [PDF]

http://searchingthescriptures.net/main_pages/free_bible_land_maps.htm [Maps Online]

http://www.holybooks.com/bible-atlas/ [links to PDF]

Online Bible Atlas
http://www.godweb.org/atlasindex.htm

http://bibleatlas.org/

http://www.searchingthescriptures.net/main_pages/free_bible_land_maps.htm

Atlas Downloads (as Zip files)
1. Smith Bible Atlas Download click here

2a. Bible Maps Download click here

2b. Bible Times Maps Dowload click here

More Map Links:
https://keyoptimize.com/bible/bible-maps-pdf-download/

NetBible Maps
https://bible.org/maps

http://classic.net.bible.org/map.php

Bible Maps and Charts
https://www.knowingthebible.net/bible-studies/maps-and-charts

http://www.preceptaustin.org/bible_maps1

http://www.gods-word-first.org/bible-maps.html

http://classic.scriptures.lds.org/en/biblemaps/contents

Bible Maps and Illustrations http://www.biblesnet.com/maps.html

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Digital Resources for Biblical Mapping (includes links to more maps)

http://www.scrollandscreen.com/biblicalmapping/

GenerationWord.com Resources

Maps of the New Testament (plus a few OT maps and maps from the days of the Macabees)
http://www.generationword.com/maps_NT.html

Maps of the Old Testament (plus Gospels and Acts) http://www.generationword.com/maps.htm

Diagrams and Charts
http://www.generationword.com/diagrams_and_charts.html

General Timelines / Charts

https://amazingbibletimeline.com/timeline_online/ (Adam-Eve through present)

https://www.bing.com/images/search?q=printable+biblical+history+timeline&qpvt=printable+biblical+history+timeline&qpvt=printable+biblical+history+timeline&qpvt=printable+biblical+history+timeline&FORM=IGRE

http://biblehub.com/timeline/

https://www.pinterest.com/dlackey49/bible-timeline/

http://www.christianityoasis.com/Keyword/BibleTimeline.htm

http://downloads.signaturewebsites.com/pdf/Tyndale/9781414339276.pdf [PDF] [Alternate link]

http://www.bibletimelines.net/article/183/available-timelines-sorted-by-category/theater-of-our-universe-timeline

http://www.bibletimelines.net/article/80/available-timelines-sorted-by-category/the-gospel-timeline

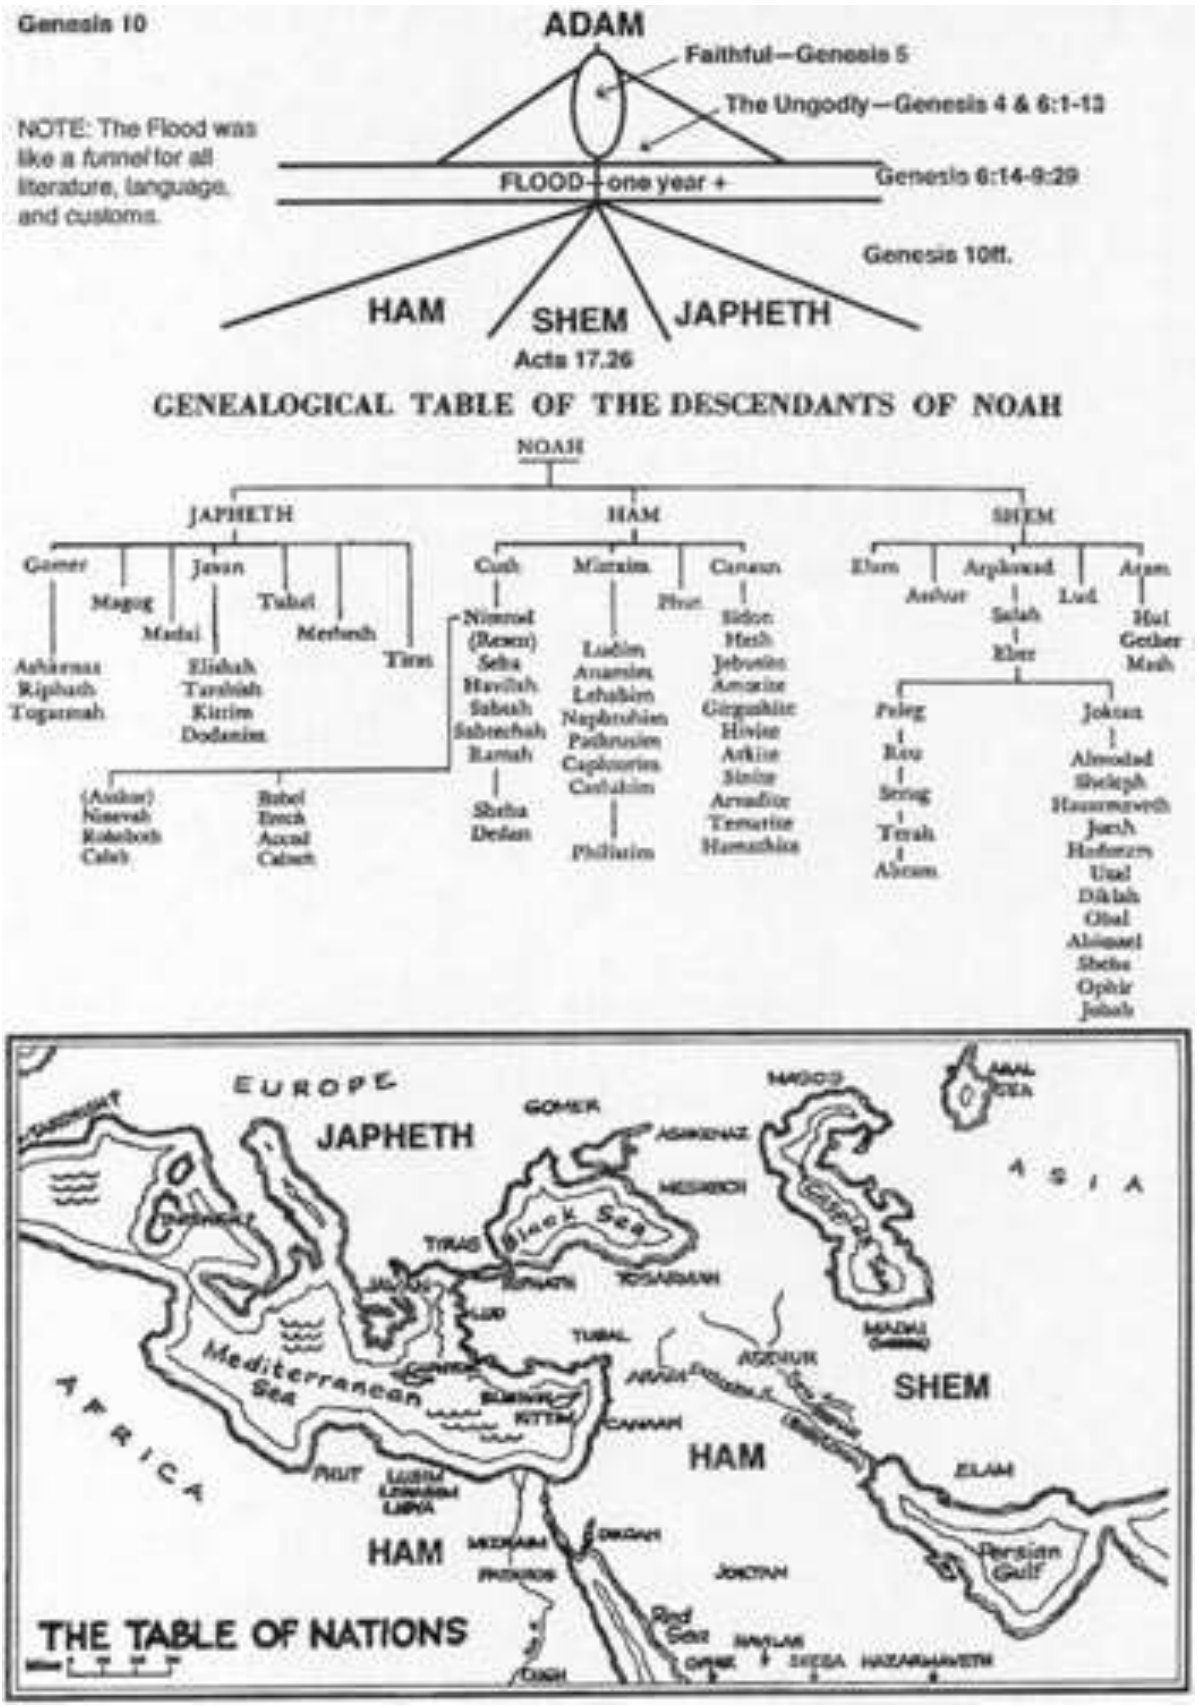
http://www.bibletimelines.net/article/364/print-timelines-posters-postcards-bookmarks-and-business-cards/print-timelines-large-versions

http://www.creation-science-prophecy.com/timeline.htm [PDF]

http://www.biblechronology.org/charts.html

https://www.template.net/business/charts/timeline-chart-template/ [Word, Excel, PDF]

http://creation.com/real-history-the-timeline-of-the-bible [PDF]



http://www.linearconcepts.com/theology/bible-timelines/bible-history more later in this appendix…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Table of Nations Charts

The Table of Nations is the list in Genesis 10 of Noah's decendents after the flood (charted below).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Table of Nations is a list found in Genesis 10 that includes the list of the founders of 70 nations descended from Noah's three sons Shem, Ham, and Japheth. The list includes 26 descendants of Shem, 30 descendants of Ham, and 14 descendants of Japheth.

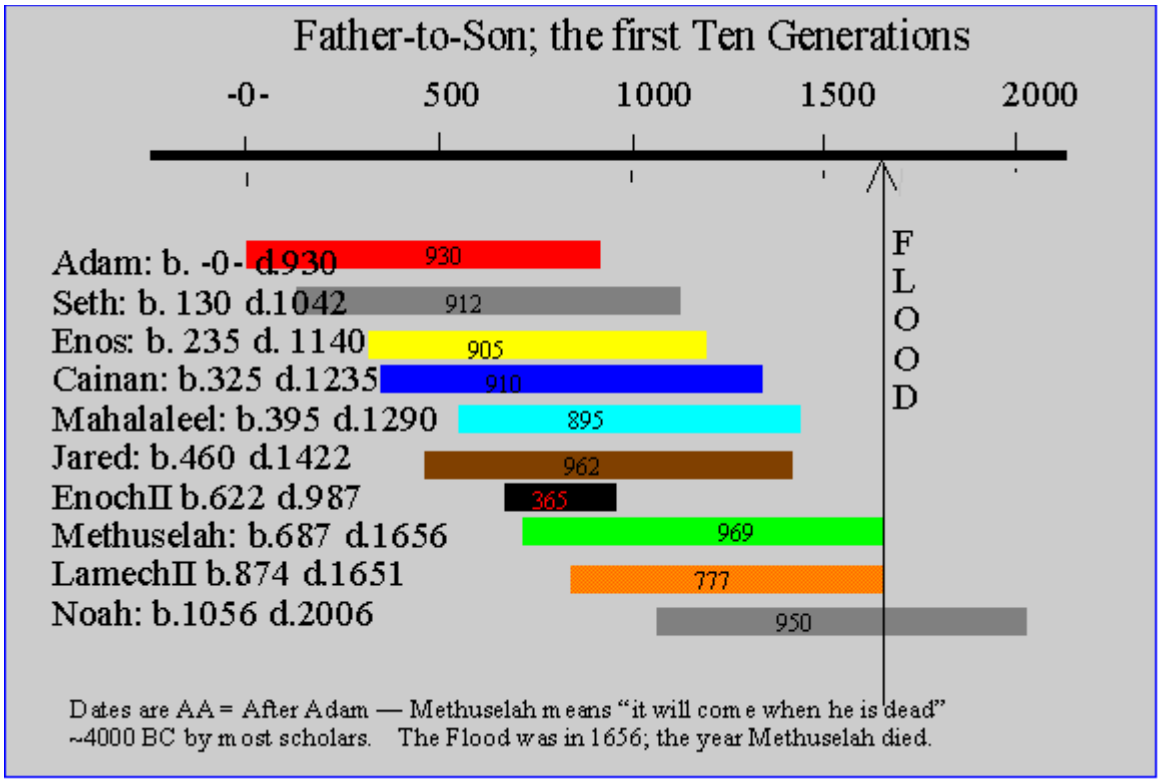
While some interpret this list of descendants as exhaustive, many understand the list as not intended to include every descendant from Noah. As with other biblical genealogies, this list appears to include representative figures to bring readers from Noah to Abraham.

Where are or were these nations? Some of these nations have been easily identified. Others remain unknown. Shem's descendants are listed as those who would become the Arabian people. Ham would become forefather of the southern people of Northeast Africa. Japheth's descendants would migrate toward what is now known as Europe.

The first century Jewish historian Josephus produced a list that sought to connect the Table of Nations to ethnic groups existing in his time. Many later writers followed his example and based their work upon his to varying degrees. Though imperfect, his research offered insight into what people in the first century understood regarding many of these early people groups.

Some important selected examples from this Table can be noted. For example, Shem was noted as the ancestor of Eber (v. 21), the word from which the word "Hebrew" would originate. Abraham would descend from Shem, becoming the father of the Hebrew people.

Shem's son Elam would become father of the Elamites. Ashur would become the ancestor of the Assyrians. Japheth's descendants included Gomer, Magog, Tubal, and Meshech, all nations mentioned centuries later in Ezekiel 38 as nations that will arise against Israel in a future war.

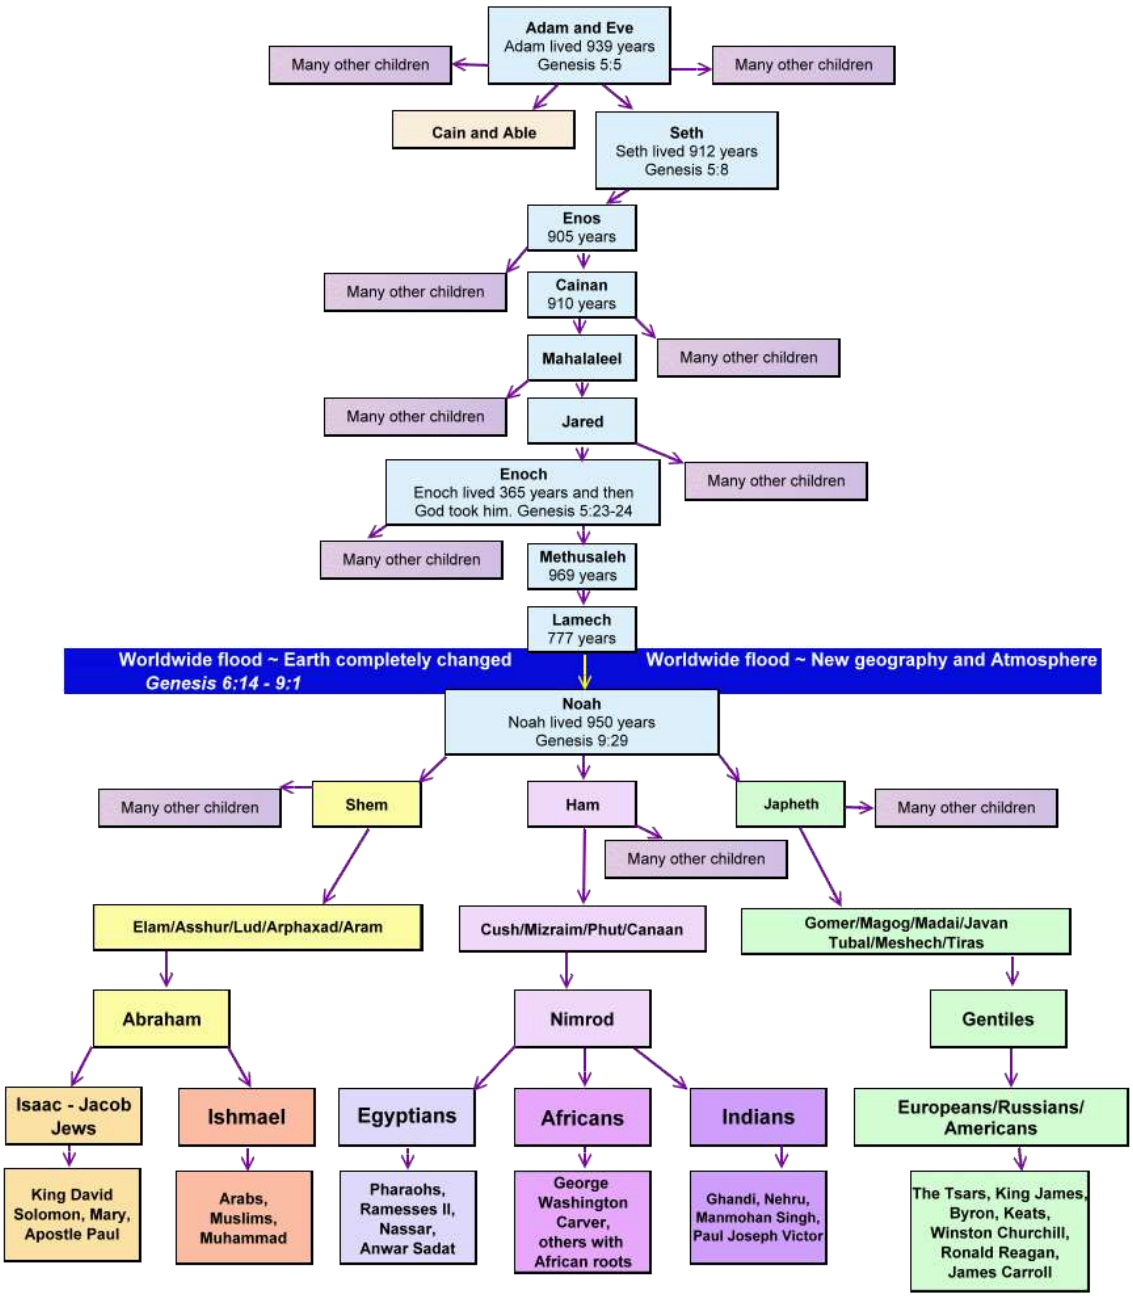


Another interesting note is the mention of Peleg in verse 25: "To Eber were born two sons: the name of the one was Peleg, for in his days the earth was divided, and his brother's name was Joktan." The division of the earth in his time referred to the Tower of Babel and the account found in Genesis 11 in which God created many languages as a judgment upon the people of Babel.

The Table of Nations offers a unique and important resource of information regarding the early history and migration of humans prior to the time of Abraham. Of great importance is the influence God showed over rescuing one family and then repopulating the earth through Noah's family as part of His redemptive, sovereign plan.

[Source: https://www.compellingtruth.org/table-of-nations.html]

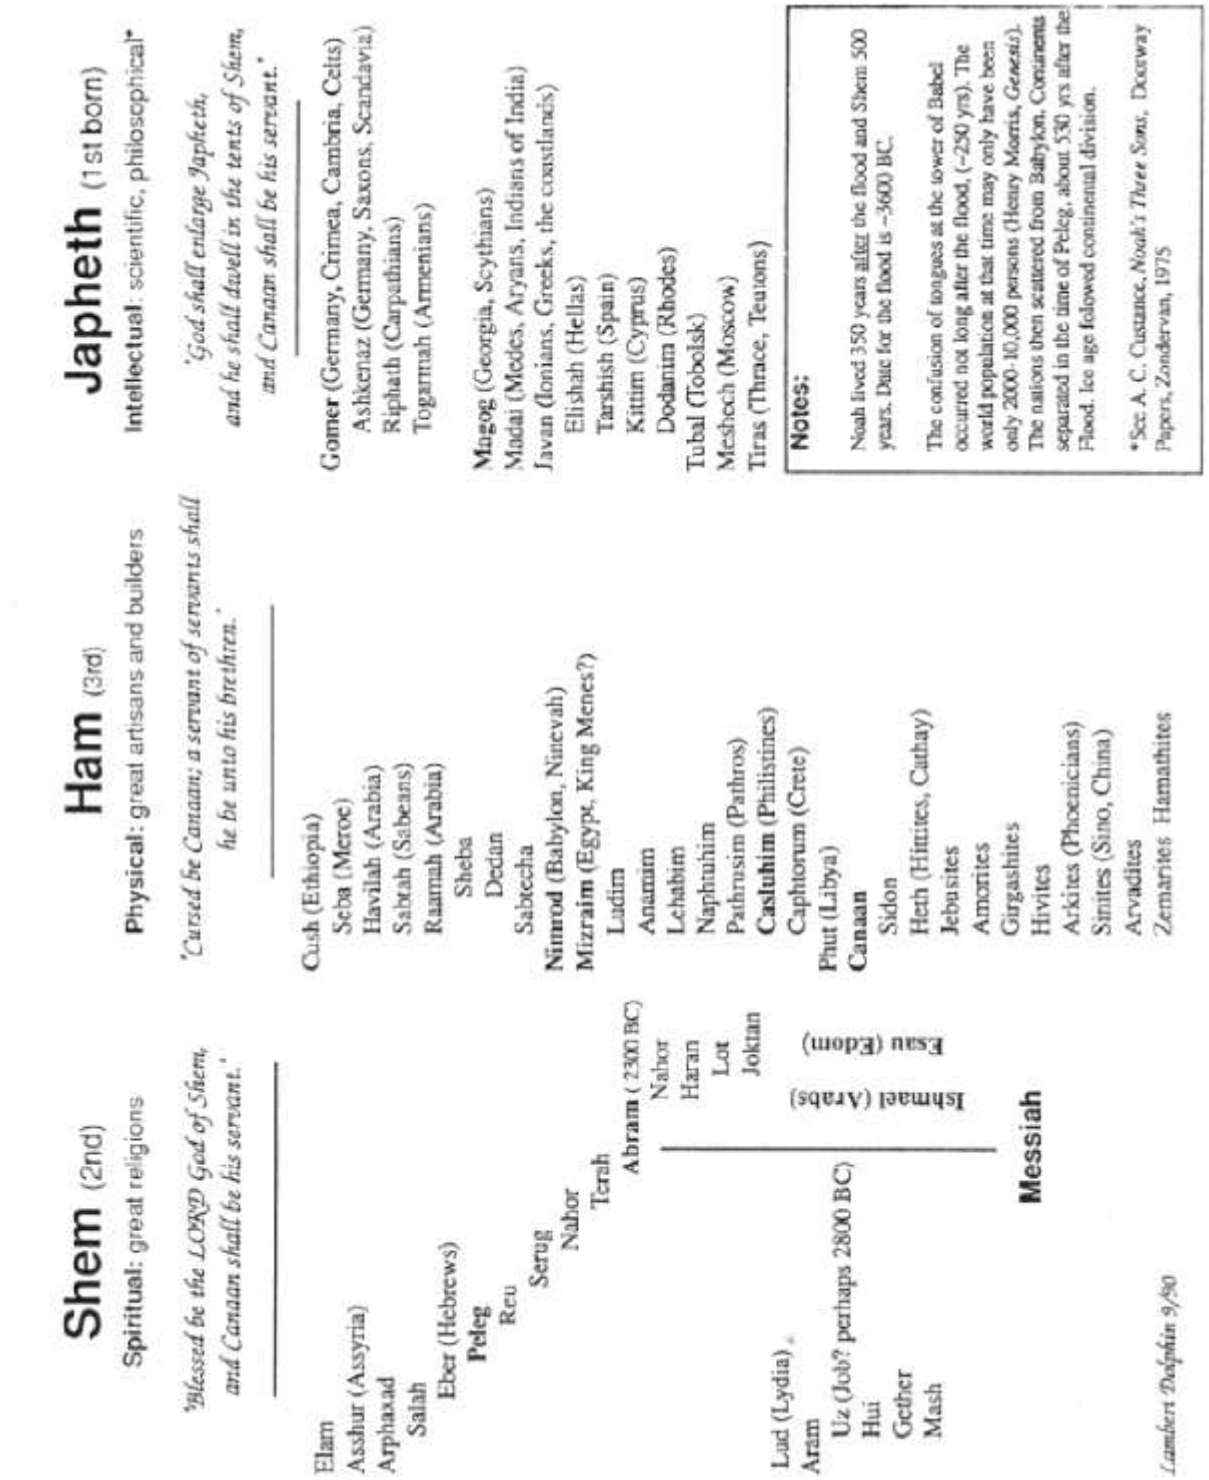
Charts continued next page…



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: NIV '08 Study Bible Notes]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



We are all descendants of Adam and Eve and then Noah and his sons. Genesis 1-11. According to the Bible there is no such thing as different "races" of people. We are all part of the human family. We are all physical brothers and sisters. Acts 17:26. The idea of different "races" of people is more evolutionary poppycock and is used by people, white and black skinned, to try to gain an advantage over others. I have known Christians who tried to justify their biases by using the subject of "races." Mostly those who use this erroneous teaching are trying to undermine the authority of the Scriptures. The color of our skin is determined by the amount of potential melanin produced by our skin and that is determined by our genes. However, just being a member of the human family does not guarantee one a place in heaven. In the Garden of Eden (Genesis 3) Adam and Eve disobeyed God and lost their position in God's family, and that curse followed all of their descendants. Now, one must be born again to enter the spiritual family of God. John 3:3-16.

Source: http://opbm.org/from-Adam.html

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

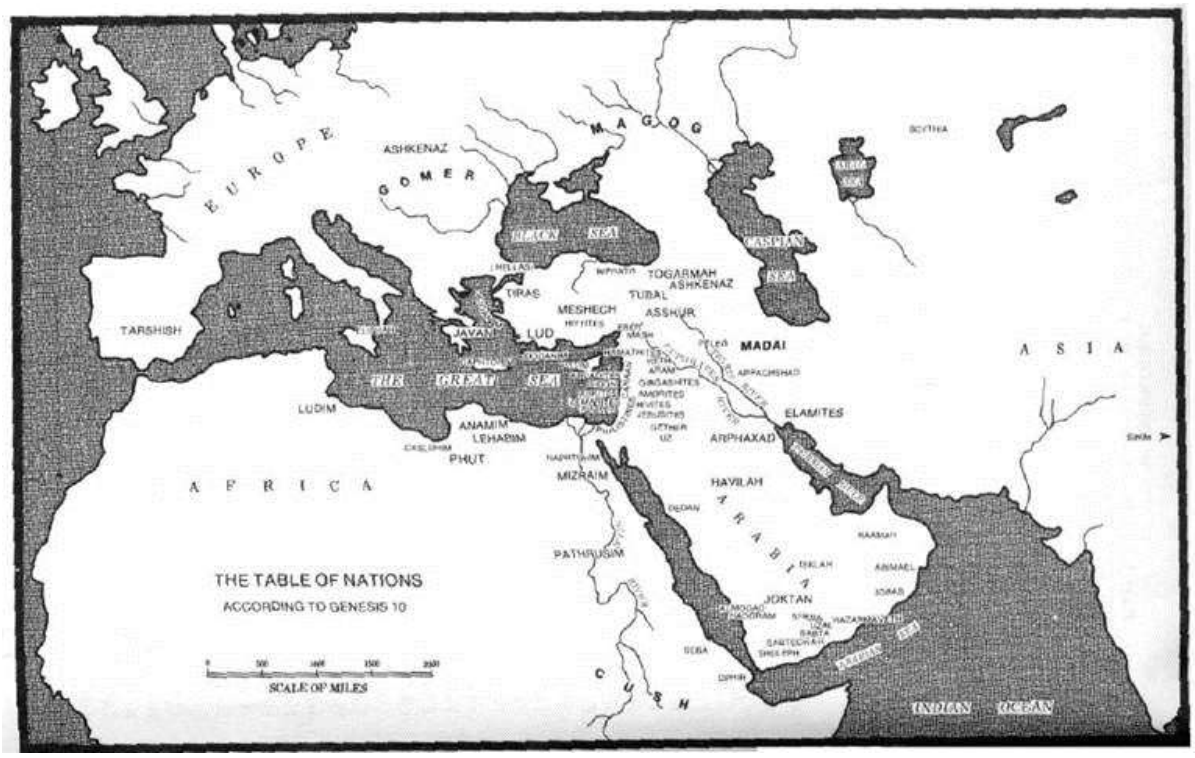


Table of Nations

Sources: http://jimbomkamp.com/Genesis/Gen9p1.htm

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Table of Nations Map – Genesis 10

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Table of Nations – Expository Notes – Jim Bomkamp

http://jimbomkamp.com/Genesis/Gen9p1.htm

1. INTRO:

1.1. In our last study we looked at chapters 7 and 8 of Genesis.

1.1.1. That study dealt with all that those chapters tell us about the flood itself and how that the Lord kept alive on the ark all eight people along with every species of animal on the face of the earth for 377 days.

1.1.2. Our study ended with the Lord revealing to Noah His commitment to mankind that He would never destroy the earth by water again.

1.2. In our study today, we are going to look at chapters 9-10 of Genesis.

1.2.1. We are going to study first of all more about the covenant that the Lord God made with Noah and his descendants, as well as all of the other land creatures on the earth, to never destroy the earth by water again. The Lord will give mankind the token of the rainbow in the sky as a reminder of His promise to never again destroy the earth by flood.

1.2.2. We will look at how the Lord begins to prepare Noah and his descendants for post-flood life by establishing that mankind may now eat meat (anything on the face of the earth-no dietary restrictions) as well as capital punishment

1.2.3. Noah gets drunk and uncovers himself and his son Ham discovers his father's nakedness and does something to his father, then when Ham tells his brothers about this they come and cover up their father's nakedness without looking on him. However, when Noah finds out about what Ham has done he pronounces a curse upon Ham's son Canaan, and a blessing upon his other two sons Japheth and Shem

1.2.4. Finally, in chapter 10 we will study what is called, "The Table Of The Nations." We will see that it is detailed for us how each of the sons of Noah spread out over the face of the earth and form the various nations and people groups that exist to this day.

2. VS 9:1-3 - "[1] And God blessed Noah and his sons and said to them, "Be fruitful and multiply, and fill the earth. [2] "The fear of you and the terror of you will be on every beast of the earth and on every bird of the sky; with everything that creeps on the ground, and all the fish of the sea, into your hand they are given. [3] "Every moving thing that is alive shall be food for you; I give all to you, as I gave the green plant. [4] "Only you shall not eat flesh with its life, that is, its blood." - The Lord tells Noah and his sons to be fruitful and multiply, then tells him that the every beast on the earth, bird of the sky, everything that creeps on the ground, and every fish of the sea will live in fear and terror of man, and, everything that is alive whether beast or plant shall be able to be eaten, with the exception of blood.

2.1. It is interesting here to note that it was at this time that the Lord states that all of the animals and creatures on the face of the earth will now fear and be in terror of mankind. In a recent National Geographic documentary the program stated that many of the game animals in Africa will unprovoked attack white skinned people much more readily than others and the reason for this is that over many years most of the white skinned people who have come to Africa have come for safaris. It stated that it is now within the very psyche of the animals to fear the white skinned people and thus they are much more prone to unprovoked attacks. Now that mankind is given permission to eat meat and men and women now switch from being herbivores to being omnivores, the animals will allow be terrified and dread mankind.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

2.2. When the Lord states that everything shall be for food now for mankind this does not mean that it would be a good idea for men and women to eat anything. Rather, this is just to state that there are for now going to be no dietary restrictions and that people are free to eat what the want to eat.

2.3. The only dietary restriction given to mankind here in this post-flood prior to the giving of the Law of Moses is to not eat blood. This is probably a restriction because of the fact that the Lord wants men and women to realize how incredibly unique and special are the blood of their sacrifices which point to the blood of Christ. If people routinely drank and ate blood then their hearts would become dull and hardened to the good news of what the blood of Christ has procured for the cleansing and covering of our sins.

2.4. One of the principles of interpretation of scripture that we have already talked about in our study of this book is the fact that it is believed that the Lord institutes anything for His people prior to the giving of the Law of Moses that it is something which God's people of all times are to keep. In the book of Acts, we read about how that there was a controversy that arose in the Gentile churches because certain Judaisers came into the churches and told the people that in order to get to heaven they would need to keep the Law of Moses plus believe in Christ. They taught that this was the practice of the mother church in Jerusalem. To resolve this crisis Paul and Barnabas in Acts 15 go to the church in Jerusalem to find out if the Gentiles did in fact have to keep the Law of Moses to be saved. James, the pastor of the church in Jerusalem, finally determined after the arguments were given that the Gentiles did not need to keep the Law of Moses. However, he gave them two conditions that they had to meet. They must not eat anything with the blood in it, and they must not commit fornication. Now, we can understand why blood was forbidden for to the church.

3. VS 9:5-7 - "[5] "Surely I will require your lifeblood; from every beast I will require it. And from every man, from every man's brother I will require the life of man. [6] "Whoever sheds man's blood, By man his blood shall be shed, For in the image of God He made man. [7] "As for you, be fruitful and multiply; Populate the earth abundantly and multiply in it."" - Capital punishment is established as a basis for government, and the Lord again commands Noah and his sons to be fruitful and multiply and populate the earth

3.1. In our country today, people are constantly arguing about whether or not there should be such a thing as "capital punishment" for crimes of murder which are committed. However, here we see that before the instituting of the Law of Moses that the Lord tells Noah and his descendants that one of the cornerstones of government shall be that of "capital punishment."

3.2. The punishment of death for committing murder is only to be given to those who premeditatedly commit murder. Under the Law of Moses there is a different sentence associated with accidental murder, or what we call "manslaughter."

3.3. The death penalty has been proven to be a deterrent to crime, especially the crime of murder. Actually, in our country today because sentences are not executed today and when a person commits a murder he knows that he will be out on appeals for 10-12 years before he is put to death, the death penalty is not the deterrent that it is in many other countries.

4. VS 9:8-17 - "[8] Then God spoke to Noah and to his sons with him, saying, [9] "Now behold, I Myself do establish My covenant with you, and with your descendants after you; [10] and with every living creature that is with you, the birds, the cattle, and every beast of the earth with you; of all that comes out of the ark, even every beast of the earth. [11] "I establish My covenant with you; and all flesh shall never again be cut off by the water of the flood, neither shall there again be a flood to destroy the earth." [12] God said, "This is the sign of the covenant which I am making between Me and you and every living creature that is with you, for all successive generations; [13] I set My bow in the cloud, and it shall be for a sign of a covenant between Me and the earth. [14] "It shall come about, when I bring a cloud over the earth, that the bow will be seen in the cloud, [15] and I will remember My covenant, which is between Me and you and every living creature of all flesh; and never again shall the water become a flood to destroy all flesh. [16] "When the bow is in the cloud, then I will look upon it, to remember the everlasting covenant between God and every living creature of all flesh that is on the earth." [17] And God said to Noah, "This is the sign of the covenant which I have established between Me and all flesh that is on the earth."" - The Lord reiterates to Noah and his sons His commitment to never again destroy the earth by flood, giving them a token of His promise in the rainbow

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

4.1. This is the very first 'covenant' that the Lord has ever made with mankind. As such we need to look at what this 'covenant' involves.

4.1.1. A 'covenant' is an agreement that is made between two people regarding something that they will do. The Lord states here that He will no longer destroy the earth by flood. This is His commitment to mankind.

4.1.2. There are two types of covenants in the scriptures: "unconditional covenants" and "conditional covenants." This 'covenant' is "unconditional" because the Lord does not require anything of mankind in order for the Lord to keep His part of the 'covenant.'

4.2. Since rainbows typically occur at the end of a rain storm after the clouds have dropped their rain I would speculate that perhaps the rainbow has occurred because of the post flood lessening of the amount of water vapor in the sky and barometric pressure. This is only speculative, but there could be a scientific correlation.

4.3. After having gone through what they went through with the flood I can imagine that Noah and his descendants might have gotten a bit nervous every time that they saw a rain cloud on the horizon, or a thundershower came. In His goodness and grace the Lord provided this token to calm the fears of generations of mankind.

4.4. The Lord even had compassion upon all of the animals that were upon the face of the earth we see here for He promises to remember them in this covenant.

4.5. An interesting point to consider here is the fact that those who adhere to this having been a local instead of a universal flood have a real problem with this covenant. If it was a local flood then the Lord has broken His covenant to mankind because throughout history there have been numerous very substantial floods that have cause great damage and loss of life.

5. VS 9:18-27 - "[18] Now the sons of Noah who came out of the ark were Shem and Ham and Japheth; and Ham was the father of Canaan. [19] These three were the sons of Noah, and from these the whole earth was populated. [20] Then Noah began farming and planted a vineyard. [21] He drank of the wine and became drunk, and uncovered himself inside his tent. [22] Ham, the father of Canaan, saw the nakedness of his father, and told his two brothers outside. [23] But Shem and Japheth took a garment and laid it upon both their shoulders and walked backward and covered the nakedness of their father; and their faces were turned away, so that they did not see their father's nakedness. [24] When Noah awoke from his wine, he knew what his youngest son had done to him. [25] So he said, "Cursed be Canaan; A servant of servants He shall be to his brothers." [26] He also said, "Blessed be the LORD, The God of Shem; And let Canaan be his servant. [27] "May God enlarge Japheth, And let him dwell in the tents of Shem; And let Canaan be his servant."" - Ham discovers his father, Noah, naked after Noah has gotten drunk on wine and uncovers himself, then Ham proceeds to tell his brothers about finding his father in this condition, so Ham and Japheth cover up Noah with a blanket without looking at his nakedness, but when Noah finds out what happens he pronounces a prophetic curse on Ham's son Canaan, but a blessing upon Japheth and Shem

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

5.1. Noah and his family were the only righteous people that were on the earth and thus they were delivered from the flood that destroyed the world and everyone else upon the planet. However, Noah and his sons still had sin natures and sin was not destroyed in the flood. This strange and sad story reveals that mankind had a sin nature after the flood, and that righteous people still commit sinful acts.

5.2. There is an amazing similarity between the fall of Adam recorded in chapter 3 of this book and the fall of Noah recorded here, especially if we consider that Noah was sinning by getting drunken at this time. Adam's sin came in a garden because of a piece of fruit, Noah's sin came when he was a farmer in his vineyard also from fruit: Genesis 3:6 & 9:21. The sin exposed both men's nakedness; Genesis 3:7 & 9:21. After both sins a curse took place: Genesis 3:14/17 & 9:25.

5.3. We see here that Noah became a farmer and that he planted a vineyard. This type of career is perfectly acceptable. However, we see here that Noah drank a bunch of wine and 'became drunk.' We are not told if he was aware at this point in time of the potential to become 'drunk' on wine, nor whether or not Noah realized that he should not become 'drunk.'

5.4. In the scriptures, it is not considered a sin to drink wine. Many scriptures even correlate wine with blessing. In fact, if it were a sin to drink wine Jesus would not have had His first miracle after beginning His public ministry to turn water into wine at the wedding a Cana. What is decried as a sin in scripture is "drunkenness." Many passages of scriptures command mankind to avoid this type of behavior.

5.5. This story though that is described in these verses has been interpreted in many different ways by good commentators. The questions to consider regarding this story are these:

5.5.1. What did Ham do to his father, Noah? Verse 24 tells us that when Noah woke he realized what Ham had 'done to him.'

5.5.2. What was sinful about what Ham did to Noah, and why was Noah enraged by what he did?

5.5.3. Why did Noah pronounce a curse upon Ham's youngest son, Canaan, as a result of this incident instead of pronouncing it upon Ham himself?

5.5.4. How was this curse fulfilled since it does not appear that Canaan's descendants nor the descendants of the rest of the sons of Ham became slaves of others?

5.6. Question #1: What did Ham do to his father?

5.6.1. Many Jewish rabbis have taught and believed that Ham actually castrated his father at this time. However, there is really no support for this view.

5.6.2. Many good commentators have argued that when Ham saw his father unclothed at this time that he performed some sort of homosexual act upon him. When Noah awoke he realized then what had been done to him. Again, this is only speculation.

5.6.3. Some have suggested that Noah's being unclothed like this was actually a reference to his wife and that perhaps either Ham had sex with his mother or if his mother were no longer alive with his father's new wife or concubine. There are instances in scripture where this type of sin is referred to as uncovering someone's nakedness (see for instance Lev. 18,20; Deut. 27:20).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

5.6.3.1. Some have taken this farther and speculated that Canaan might have been the incestuous offspring that resulted. All of these views are mere speculations.

5.6.4. Perhaps Canaan did this to Noah rather than his father, Ham.

5.7. Question #2: What was sinful about what Ham did to Noah, and why was Noah enraged by what he did?

5.7.1. Ham appears to have come to his brothers and tried to use this finding of his father in this condition to his advantage, for the word that is used for describing how he told his brothers about finding his father in this state indicates that he "rejoiced or gloated" over this discovery. Perhaps Ham was trying to use this incident to usurp his father's authority over his brothers in some way.

5.7.2. Whatever Ham did to Noah had to be significant in order for Noah to pronounce such a curse on his grandson, Canaan.

5.8. Question #3: Why did Noah pronounce a curse upon Ham's youngest son, Canaan, as a result of this incident instead of pronouncing it upon Ham?

5.8.1. Arthur Custance in his book "Noah's Three Sons" explains that the blessing or a curse of a father was visited on his son and the blessing or the curse of a son was visited upon his father. So, if Noah were to curse Ham he'd be cursing himself as he was Ham's father. In cursing Canaan, Ham's son, he was able to curse his son and miss the judgment upon himself. In 1 Kings 11 where God was angry with Solomon He didn't bring judgment upon him for the sake of his father David.

5.8.2. By passing judgment upon Ham's son he was bringing the greatest shame upon him.

5.8.3. Since Canaan was Ham's youngest son by cursing him Noah was stating that the curse extended to all of Ham's sons.

5.9. Question #4: How was this curse carried out since it does not appear that Canaan's descendants nor the descendants of the rest of the sons of Ham became slaves of others?

5.9.1. This is possibly the hardest of the questions for us to answer since by in large we do not see the descendants of Ham, nor his son Canaan, enslaved by the descendants of Japheth or Shem. The Phoenicians, Hittites, and Canaanites were descendants of Canaan and they were some of the greatest of nations for many hundreds of years. In addition some of the African tribes and Mongolian groups, including possibly the American Indians, were also descendants of Canaan. Some of the other descendants of Ham include the Egyptians and Sumerians who also were great empires of antiquity.

5.9.2. Henri Morris has suggested that the word 'servant' here can also be translated 'steward' and that this could suggest the fulfillment. He suggests that they invented many things and were the first to do many things but that in the end they territories and inventions were taken over by others and utilized to their advantage. He states that the descendants of Ham were:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

5.9.2.1. The original explorers and settlers of practical all parts of the world after the dispersion at Babel.

5.9.2.2. First cultivators of most of the basic food staples.

5.9.2.3. Developed most of the basic structural forms, building tools, and materials.

5.9.2.4. First to develop most of the fabrics used for clothing.

5.9.2.5. First discovered and invented a wide variety of medicines, surgical practices and instruments.

5.9.2.6. Invented most of the concepts of basic practical mathematics, as well as surveying and navigation.

5.9.2.7. The machinery of commerce and trade-money, banks, and postal systems.

5.9.2.8. Developed paper, ink, block printing, movable type, and other things involving writing and communication.

5.10. Though Ham was still one of God's people, his heart was not right with God and thus because of this sin he was cursed. However, Japheth and Shem walked closely with God and were thus blessed by their father, Noah.

6. VS 9:28-29 - "[28] Noah lived three hundred and fifty years after the flood. [29] So all the days of Noah were nine hundred and fifty years, and he died." - Noah lives 350 years after the flood to an age of 950

6.1. In our last study, I mentioned that after the flood that life had changed radically upon the earth. Probably some sort of water canopy in an atmosphere that was able to contain much more water vapor than earth's atmosphere can contain today was destroyed, perhaps the barometric pressure on the earth was lessoned to be perhaps half of what it was before, and perhaps even the tilt of the earth's axis was modified. I mentioned at that time that these new conditions allowed harmful rays from the sun now to more easily penetrate the earth and that now mankind would not be able to live as long. Psalm 90:10 tells us here that the normal post flood longevity of man has been about 70 years, "[10] As for the days of our life, they contain seventy years, Or if due to strength, eighty years, Yet their pride is but labor and sorrow; For soon it is gone and we fly away." Maybe the new diet also contributed to a shortened longevity for mankind. However, this verse and a few others present a problem for these new post flood conditions causing this lessening of the average longevity of a person from several hundred years to 70 years. The problem is that Noah lived 350 years after the flood. Later we will see that Shem lives 500 years after the birth of Arphaschad, and others continue to live a long time.

6.2. As I was preparing this study a pastor friend posted an email about something that some believed might have triggered the lessening of longevity for mankind. There are, on the end of our chromosomes, "caps" called "telomeres." They are kind of like a string of beads…every time a cell divides, one of the beads drops off. Once the limit is reached the cell can no longer divide. There is no reason our cells could not go on reproducing themselves forever, except for this built in limiting system. Cancer cells, for example, have no age limit, they go on dividing forever. If your organs had the same unlimited potential for cell division (in this case, controlled cell division) you would not have an expiration date. Scientists studying aging are very excited about a new enzyme that replicates telomeres. They've actually modified some human cell lines to live many times past their "age limit." This was accomplished in Petri dishes. Human aging could have a number of variables including possibly longer telomeres were probably the genetic norm for those before the flood. In any case, it appears that some sort of genetic shift in mankind must have begun occurring post flood that brought about the shortening of longevity for mankind.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

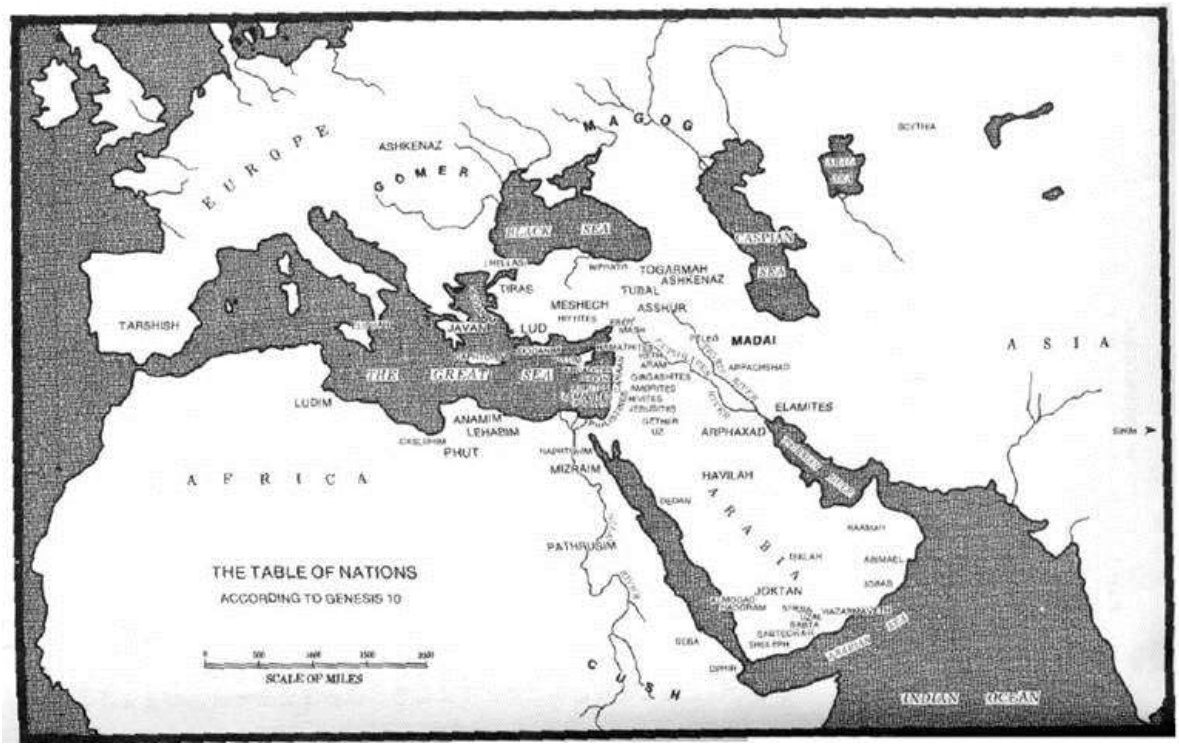
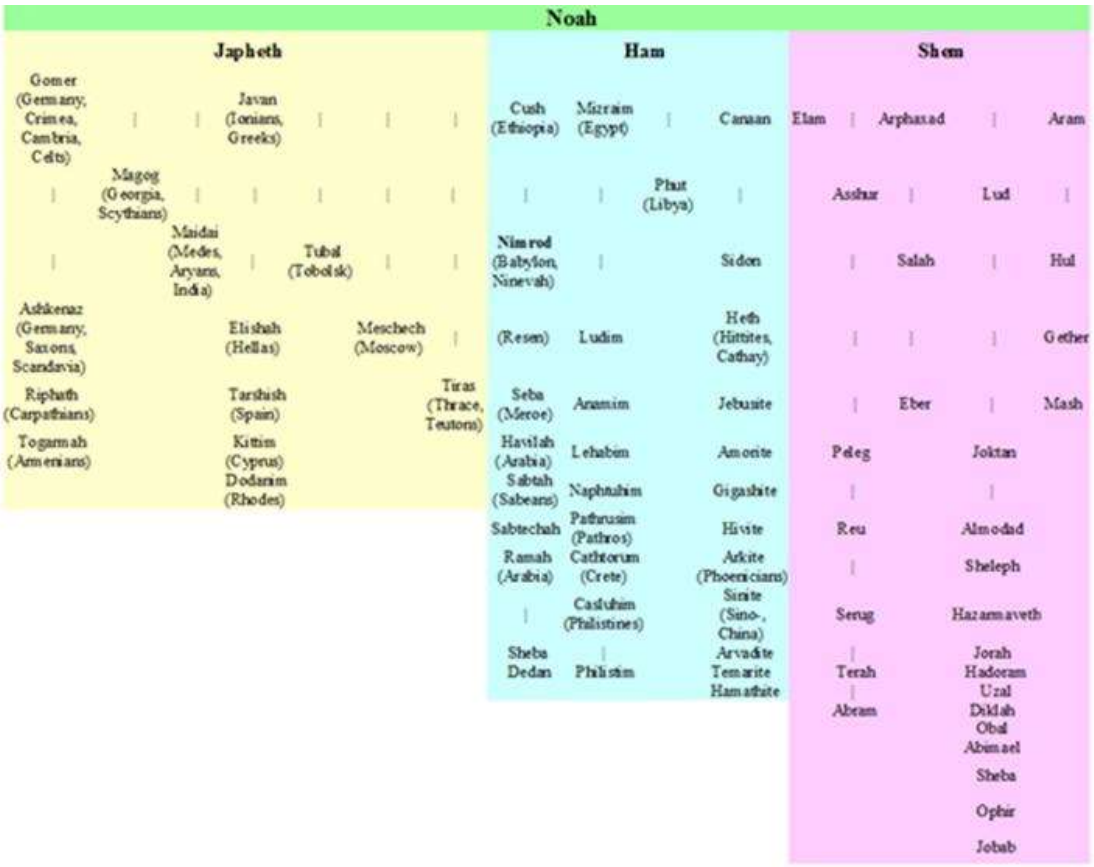
6.3. When it says here that Japheth would 'dwell in the tents of Shem' this is just a phrase to mean that they and their descendants would have fellowship with each other. The same cannot be said of the descendants of Ham.

7. We come next to the "Table Of Nations" which lists the genealogy of Noah's descendants which tells us where the various people groups and nations throughout history originated. Not only is this a remarkable chapter, it is also a remarkably accurate historical account which is even acclaimed by those not of the faith as Henri Morris writes, "Dr. William F. Albright, universally acknowledged as the world's leading authority on the archaelogy of the Near East, though himself not a believer in the infallibility of Scripture, said concerning this table of nations, "It stands absolutely alone in ancient literature, without a remote parallel, even among the Greeks, where we find the closest approach to a distribution of peoples in genealogical framework…The Table of Nations remains an astonishingly accurate document." This chapter is the key that links the pre-historical world to the modern world, chapters 1-11 of Genesis to chapters 12 and beyond where we are introduced to the great Jewish patriarchs of Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, and Joseph.



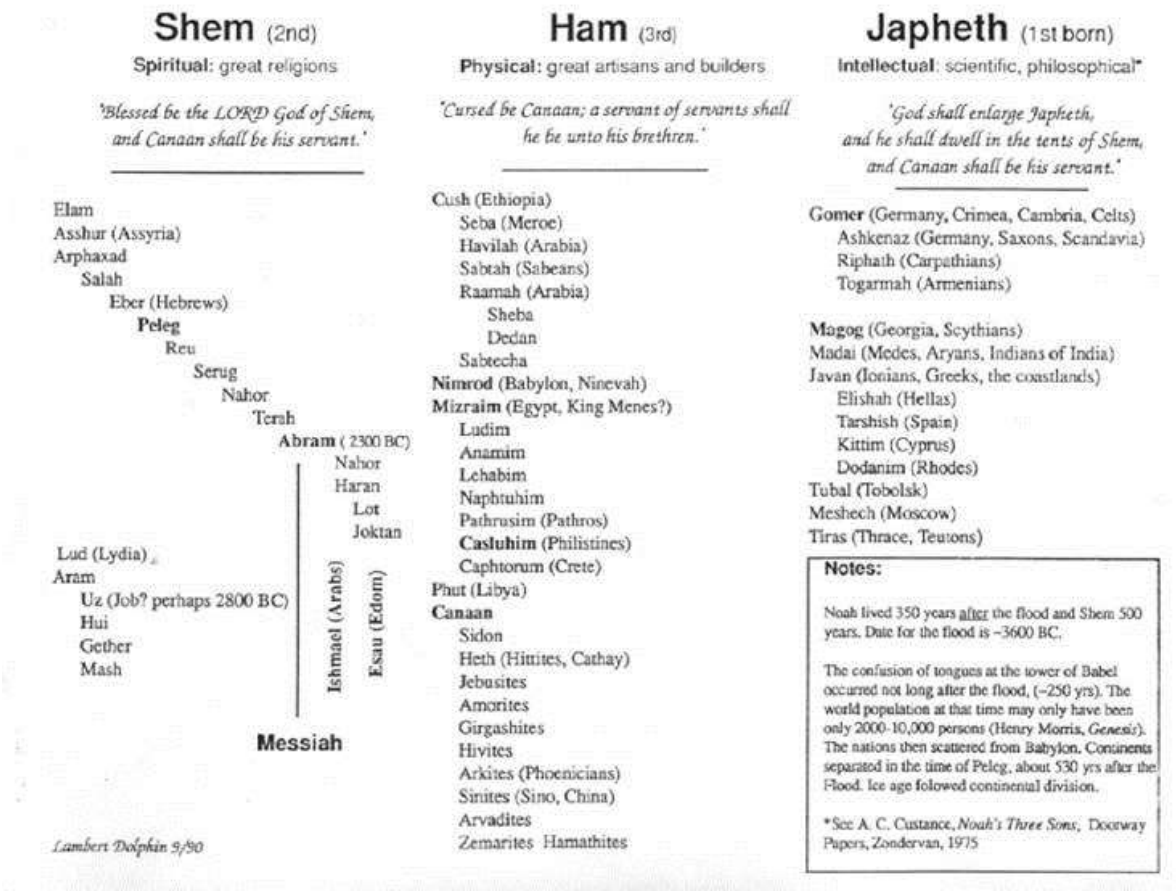
8. This graphic by Barry Setterfield shows the date of birth and date of death for each of those in the lineage of Jesus Christ, from Adam through Jacob:

See also: [Lifespans Before and After the Flood]



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

9. This map from Lambert Dolphin's web page shows where each of these descendants of Shem, Ham and Japheth settled and the nations in which they formed:



10. These two tables taken from Lambert Dolphin's web page describe the nations from which each of the descendants of Noah's sons were derived:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Table of Nations – Descendants of Noah

11. The number 70 has significance. There were 70 elders under Moses and 70 disciples of Jesus. We will see here that there were 70 descendants of Noah from which came the nations that are upon the earth. Likewise, in Genesis 46:26-27 we see that there were 70 descendants of Jacob with him who went into Egypt, "[26] All the persons belonging to Jacob, who came to Egypt, his direct descendants, not including the wives of Jacob's sons, were sixty-six persons in all, [27] and the sons of Joseph, who were born to him in Egypt were two; all the persons of the house of Jacob, who came to Egypt, were seventy." The Jews believed that 70 nations resulted from the separation of the nations by language in Babel.

12. In Deuteronomy 32:8-9 it states that it was the Lord who established each of the nations on the earth, "[8] "When the Most High gave the nations their inheritance, When He separated the sons of man, He set the boundaries of the peoples According to the number of the sons of Israel. [9] "For the LORD'S portion is His people; Jacob is the allotment of His inheritance."

    12.1. Through the way that the Lord tells us in His word the nations were established, He would have men and women realize that it is really He who is in control of all the world and establishing His plans in the earth.

13. In Acts 17:22-31 Paul speaks of the fact that it is the Lord who has formed the boundaries of all the nations, "[22] So Paul stood in the midst of the Areopagus and said, "Men of Athens, I observe that you are very religious in all respects. [23] "For while I was passing through and examining the objects of your worship, I also found an altar with this inscription, 'TO AN UNKNOWN GOD.' Therefore what you worship in ignorance, this I proclaim to you. [24] "The

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

God who made the world and all things in it, since He is Lord of heaven and earth, does not dwell in temples made with hands; [25] nor is He served by human hands, as though He needed anything, since He Himself gives to all people life and breath and all things; [26] and He made from one man every nation of mankind to live on all the face of the earth, having determined their appointed times and the boundaries of their habitation, [27] that they would seek God, if perhaps they might grope for Him and find Him, though He is not far from each one of us; [28] for in Him we live and move and exist, as even some of your own poets have said, 'For we also are His children.' [29] "Being then the children of God, we ought not to think that the Divine Nature is like gold or silver or stone, an image formed by the art and thought of man. [30] "Therefore having overlooked the times of ignorance, God is now declaring to men that all people everywhere should repent, [31] because He has fixed a day in which He will judge the world in righteousness through a Man whom He has appointed, having furnished proof to all men by raising Him from the dead.""

14. One of the mistakes that the church has made in understanding the various people that came from these people groups is to believe that the these three sons of Noah end up producing what people refer to as the three main races of people, with the Hamites representing the black skinned people, the Japhethites the white skinned Caucasion people, and the Shemites the Oriental people. However, the concept of race is not found in the Bible and it is a myth of modern day thinking. All people on the face of the earth are descended from Noah and the characteristics that typically define races are merely genetic characteristics that can be calculated through the existence of recessive and dominant genes. Henri Morris has written the following about this in his commentary on Genesis, "Note that these three streams of nations are not three "races." Though some have thought of the Semites, Japhethites, and Hamites as three races (say, the dusky, the white, and the black races or the Mongoloid, Caucasian, and Negroid), this is not what the Bible teaches, nor is it what modern anthropology and human genetics teach. There are dusky and black people found among all three groups of nations. The Bible does not use the word "race" nor does it acknowledge such a concept. The modern concept of "race" is based on evolutionary thinking. To the evolutionist, a race is a subspecies in the process of evolving into a new species, and this idea is the basis of modern racism..."

15. VS 10:1-5 - "[1] Now these are the records of the generations of Shem, Ham, and Japheth, the sons of Noah; and sons were born to them after the flood. [2] The sons of Japheth were Gomer and Magog and Madai and Javan and Tubal and Meshech and Tiras. [3] The sons of Gomer were Ashkenaz and Riphath and Togarmah. [4] The sons of Javan were Elishah and Tarshish, Kittim and Dodanim. [5] From these the coastlands of the nations were separated into their lands, every one according to his language, according to their families, into their nations." - The sons of Japheth are recorded 15.1. Japheth was the firstborn of Noah's sons.

15.2. The descendants of Japheth split into to groups one of which became the family of European nations and the other the Indian people of India.

15.3. The first son of Japheth is 'Gomer´ and it is from him that German, Crimea, Cambria, the Celts came.

15.3.1. From Gomer's son 'Ashkenaz' came Germany, the Saxons, and Scandavia.

15.3.2. From Gomer's son 'Ripath' came the Carpathians.

15.3.3. From Gomer's son 'Togermah' came the Armenians.

15.4. The second son of Japheth is 'Magog' and it is from him that Georgia and the Scythians came.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

15.4.1. It is important for us to know what people group came from 'Magog' because we see this name as the people group who come from the north and attack Israel in the Ezekiel 8-39 battle. The people of 'Magog' are the people of the nation of Russia, who are descendant from the Scythians.

15.5. The third son of Japheth is 'Madai' and from him came the Medes (modern day Kurds who once were part of Persia), Aryans, and Indians of India.

15.6. The fourth son of Japheth is 'Javan' and from him has come the Ionians, the Greeks, and the coastlands.

15.6.1. From Javan's son 'Elishah' came Hellas.

15.6.2. From Javan's son 'Tarshish' came Spain.

15.6.3. From Javan's son 'Kittim' came Cyprus.

15.6.4. From Javan's son 'Dodanim' came Rhodes.

15.7. The fourth son of Japheth is 'Tobal' and from him came the people of the city of Tobulsk, Russia.

15.8. The fifth son of Japheth is 'Meshek' from whom came the people of the city of Moscow.

15.9. The sixth son of Japeth is 'Tiras' from whom came the people from Thrace and Teutons.

15.10. Notice here that each of these people groups are said to have gone 'every one according to his language, according to their families, into their nations,' and notice that the division was according to 'language.' We will see in chapter 11 that it was the Lord who created all of the various languages, which caused all of these various people groups to separate according to their languages.

15.11. This table of nations description of chapter 10 is a parenthesis that occurs before the next chapter that tells us how all of the various languages came about in the first place, at the Tower of Babel. Chapter 10 is a parenthesis in the book of Genesis then as it explains where the nations came from.

16. VS 10:6-20 - "[6] The sons of Ham were Cush and Mizraim and Put and Canaan. [7] The sons of Cush were Seba and Havilah and Sabtah and Raamah and Sabteca; and the sons of Raamah were Sheba and Dedan. [8] Now Cush became the father of Nimrod; he became a mighty one on the earth. [9] He was a mighty hunter before the LORD; therefore it is said, "Like Nimrod a mighty hunter before the LORD." [10] The beginning of his kingdom was Babel and Erech and Accad and Calneh, in the land of Shinar. [11] From that land he went forth into Assyria, and built Nineveh and Rehoboth-Ir and Calah, [12] and Resen between Nineveh and Calah; that is the great city. [13] Mizraim became the father of Ludim and Anamim and Lehabim and Naphtuhim [14] and Pathrusim and Casluhim (from which came the Philistines) and Caphtorim. [15] Canaan became the father of Sidon, his firstborn, and Heth [16] and the Jebusite and the Amorite and the Girgashite [17] and the Hivite and the Arkite and the Sinite [18] and the Arvadite and the Zemarite and the Hamathite; and afterward the families of the Canaanite were spread abroad. [19] The territory of the Canaanite extended from Sidon as you go toward Gerar, as far as Gaza; as you go toward Sodom and Gomorrah and Admah and Zeboiim, as far as Lasha. [20] These are the sons of Ham, according to their families, according to their languages, by their lands, by their nations." - The sons of Ham are recorded for us

16.1. Ham was the third born of Noah's sons.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

16.2. The first son of Ham was 'Cush' from who came the nation of Ethiopia.

16.2.1.'Nimrod' the son of Cush founded the cities of Babylon, Ninevah, and Resen.

16.2.1.1. Nimrod was a mighty hunter we see here, but also a man who was in rebellion against the Lord and sought to cause the curse put upon his father, Ham, to be a servant to his brothers, by creating mighty nations and defying the God of heaven.

16.2.1.2. In some ways, Nimrod is a type of the anti-Christ just as Babylon is a type of the anti-city of God

16.2.1.3. It has been documented in a few books that all of the false religions upon the face of the earth can be traced by to Babylon and to this man Nimrod. This is well documented in a few very respected books such as "The Two Babylons."

16.2.1.4. Let's look at some of the religion and traditions that have come from Babel or Babylon and infiltrated themselves in Christian traditions today because of the Universal Church or Catholic Church:

16.2.1.4.1. Nimrod made himself to be a god and his mother Simaranus would be worshipped also because he concocted that she was the mother of a god.

16.2.1.4.2. A priesthood was established where the people would come and enter into confession booths and speak with the priest. The priests were actually there to control the city or town. When the people would tell them things they would have the low-down on what was going on with the people, they could control them. This was a cultic and ANTI-GOD movement.

16.2.1.4.3. They would celebrate Nimrods birth on December 25.

16.2.1.4.4. They would cut down trees and nail them inside their homes and decorate them.

16.2.1.4.5. The government implemented the trading of gifts to keep the economy strong in the winter months.

16.2.1.4.6. In the spring they worshipped the rabbit because it was a sign of fertility and they were a very sexual society and they would color eggs because eggs were a sign of new birth and fertility.

16.2.1.4.7. All of this was institutionalized into the Roman Empire and the Empire knew that no army could take them out but only the Christian movement could, so the Romans starting herding up the Christians and killing them in the arenas.

16.2.1.4.8.Then under Constantine they adopted the priesthood and confession booths and Constantine stated that every citizen was now a Christian and would attend confessions.

16.2.1.4.9. The pagan ceremonies were given Christian significance and observed.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

16.2.2. From ‘Seba’ the son of Cush came Meroe.

16.2.3. From ‘Havilah’ the son of Cush came Arabia.

16.2.4. From ‘Sabtah’ the son of Cush came the Sabeans.

16.2.5. From ‘Ramah’ the son of Cush came Arabia also.

16.2.5.1. ‘Sheba’ and ‘Dedan’ were sons of Ramah.

16.2.6. ‘Sabtechah’ is another son of Cush.

16.3. The second son of Ham was ‘Mizraim’ from whom came Egypt.

16.3.1. The sons of Mizraim were:

16.3.1.1. ‘Ludim.’

16.3.1.2. ‘Anamim.’

16.3.1.3. ‘Lehabim.’

16.3.1.4. ‘Naphtuhim.’

16.3.1.5. ‘Pathrusim’ (from whom came Pathros).

16.3.1.6. ‘Casluhim (from which came the Philistines).’

16.3.1.7. ‘Caphtorim (Crete).’

16.4. The third son of Ham was ‘Phut’ from whom came Lybia.

16.5. The fourth son of Ham was ‘Canaan’ from whom came the Phoenicians, Hittites, and the Canaanites.

16.5.1.From ‘Sidon’ the son of Canaan came the people of the city of the same name.

16.5.2. From ‘Heth’ the son of Canaan came the Hittites and Cathay.

16.5.3. From ‘Jebusite’ the son of Canaan came the people who lived in the vicinity of Jerusalem.

16.5.4. From ‘Amorite’ the son of Canaan came the people of the same name who lived in the land of Canaan.

16.5.5. From ‘Gigashite’ the son of Canaan came the people of the same name.

16.5.6. From ‘Hivite’ the son of Canaan came the people of the same name.

16.5.7. From ‘Arkite’ the son of Canaan came the Phoenicians.

16.5.8. From ‘Sinite’ the son of Canaan came the people Sino, or China.

16.5.9. From ‘Arvadite’ the son of Canaan came the people of the same name.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

16.5.10. From 'Temarite' the son of Canaan came the people of the same name.

16.5.11. From 'Hamathite' the son of Canaan came the people of the same name.

17. VS 10:21-31 - "[21] Also to Shem, the father of all the children of Eber, and the older brother of Japheth, children were born. [22] The sons of Shem were Elam and Asshur and Arpachshad and Lud and Aram. [23] The sons of Aram were Uz and Hul and Gether and Mash. [24] Arpachshad became the father of Shelah; and Shelah became the father of Eber. [25] Two sons were born to Eber; the name of the one was Peleg, for in his days the earth was divided; and his brother's name was Joktan. [26] Joktan became the father of Almodad and Sheleph and Hazarmaveth and Jerah [27] and Hadoram and Uzal and Diklah [28] and Obal and Abimael and Sheba [29] and Ophir and Havilah and Jobab; all these were the sons of Joktan. [30] Now their settlement extended from Mesha as you go toward Sephar, the hill country of the east. [31] These are the sons of Shem, according to their families, according to their languages, by their lands, according to their nations." - The sons of Shem are recorded for us 17.1. Shem was the second born of Noah's sons.

17.2. 'Elam' was the first son of Shem.

17.3. 'Assur' was the second son of Shem.

17.4. The third son of Shem was 'Arphaxad,' and here we begin the lineage of Jesus Christ.

17.4.1. From Arphaxad came 'Salah.'

17.4.1.1. From Salah came 'Eber' (it is from his name that the name "Hebrew" came).

17.4.1.1.1. 'Peleg' begat

17.4.1.1.2. 'Reu' begat

17.4.1.1.3. 'Seleg' begat

17.4.1.1.4. 'Nahor' begat

17.4.1.1.5. 'Terah' begat

17.4.1.1.6. 'Abram' begat

17.4.1.1.7. 'Isaac' begat

17.4.1.1.8. 'Jacob,' 'Esau,' and 'Ishmael.'

17.5. The fourth son of Shem was 'Lud' from whom came the people of Lydia.

17.6. The fifth son of Shem was 'Aram' from whom came the people of the same name.

17.6.1. From 'Uz' the son of Aram perhaps came the people from whom Job came.

17.6.2. 'Hui' was a son of Aram.

17.6.3. 'Gether' was a son of Aram.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

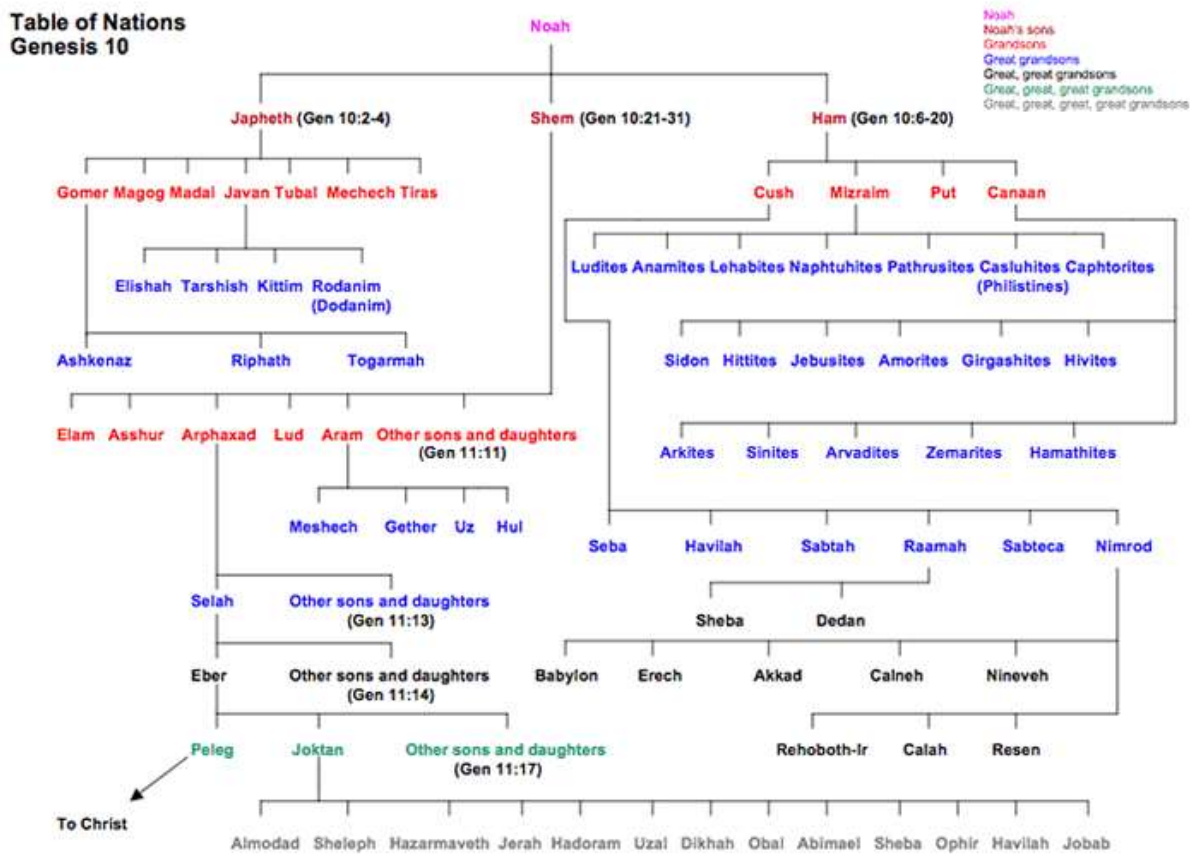
17.6.4. ‘Mash’ was a son of Aram.

18. VS 10:32 - “[32] These are the families of the sons of Noah, according to their genealogies, by their nations; and out of these the nations were separated on the earth after the flood.” - The chapter is summarized as providing for us the families of Noah by their genealogies, explaining from whence the nations of the earth emerged

Regarding Race:

Addition References Regarding Notes on Race (Highlighted Above in Yellow):

The Bible Speaks on Race
http://mail.erlc.com/article/the-bible-speaks-on-race



Preaching about race: Keeping the big picture in view https://erlc.com/resource-library/articles/preaching-about-race-keeping-the-big-picture-in-view

What Does the Bible Say About Race https://www.exploregod.com/what-does-the-bible-say-about-race

Bible verses containing the word, ‘RACE’ https://www.openbible.info/topics/race

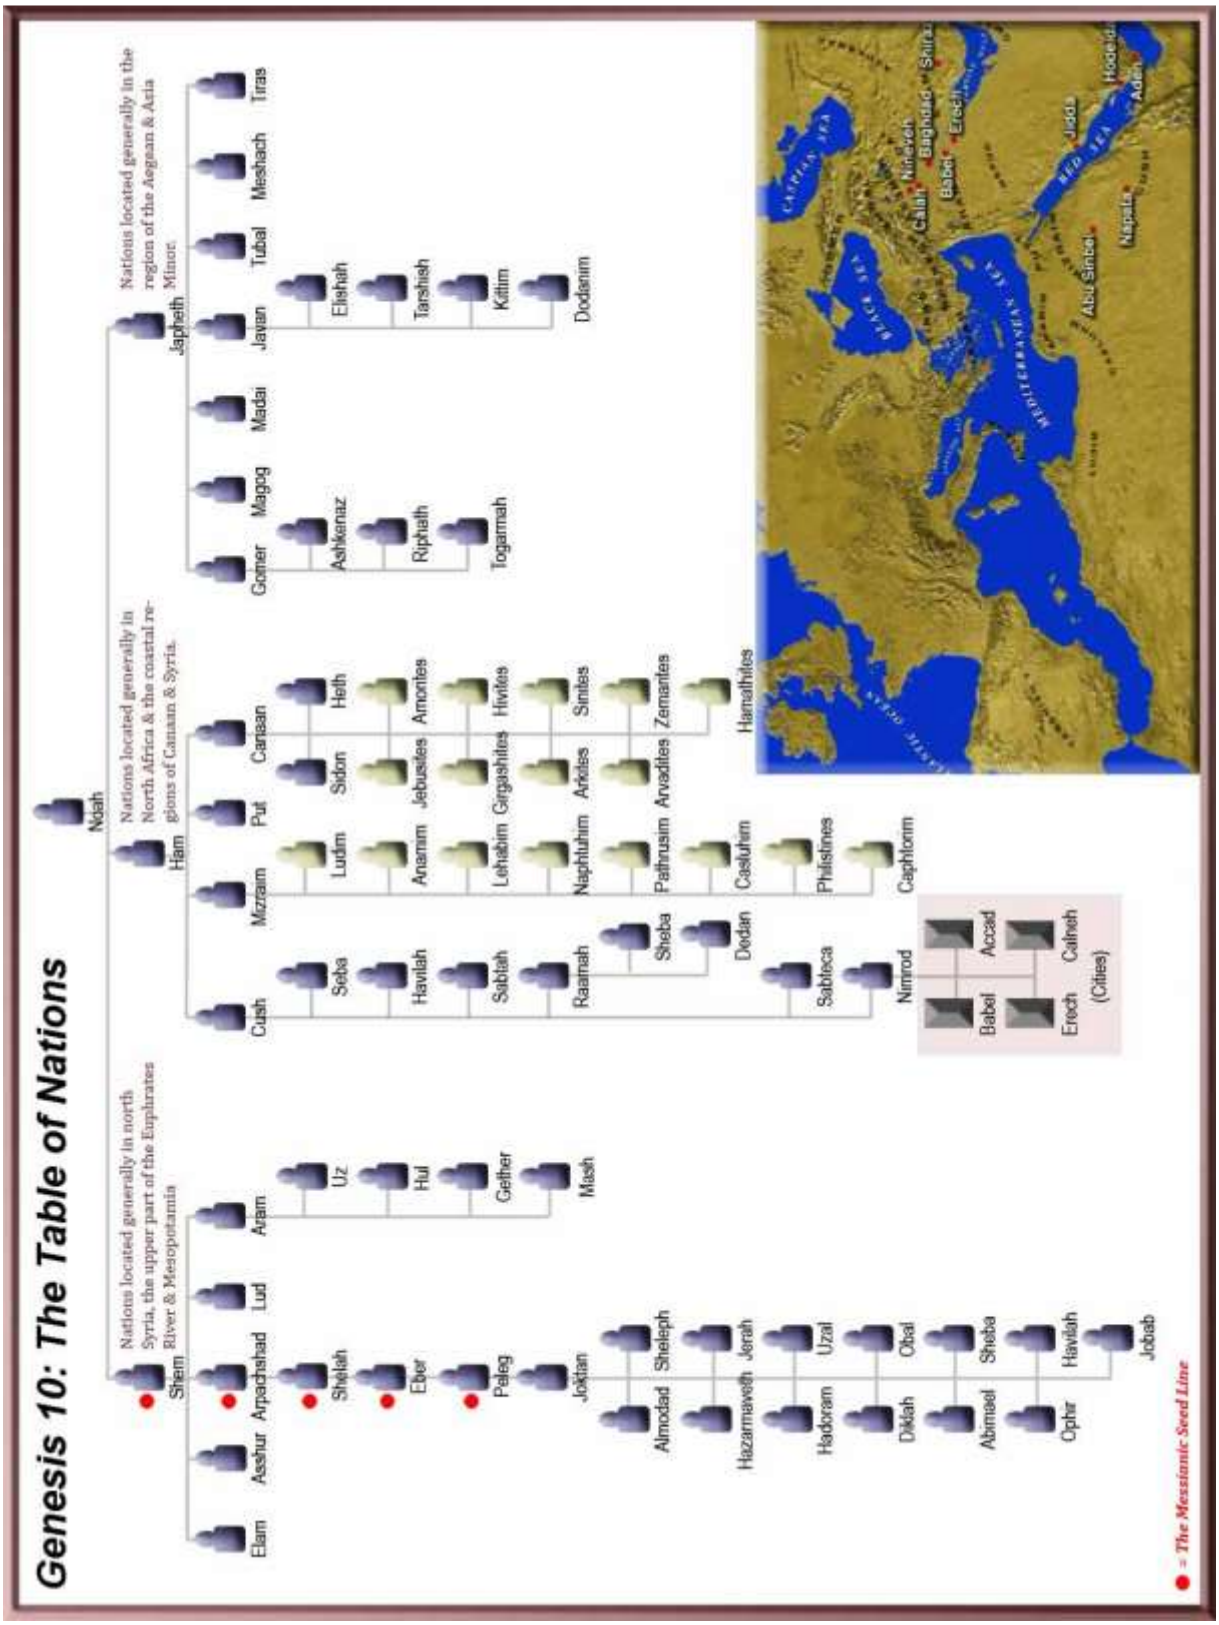
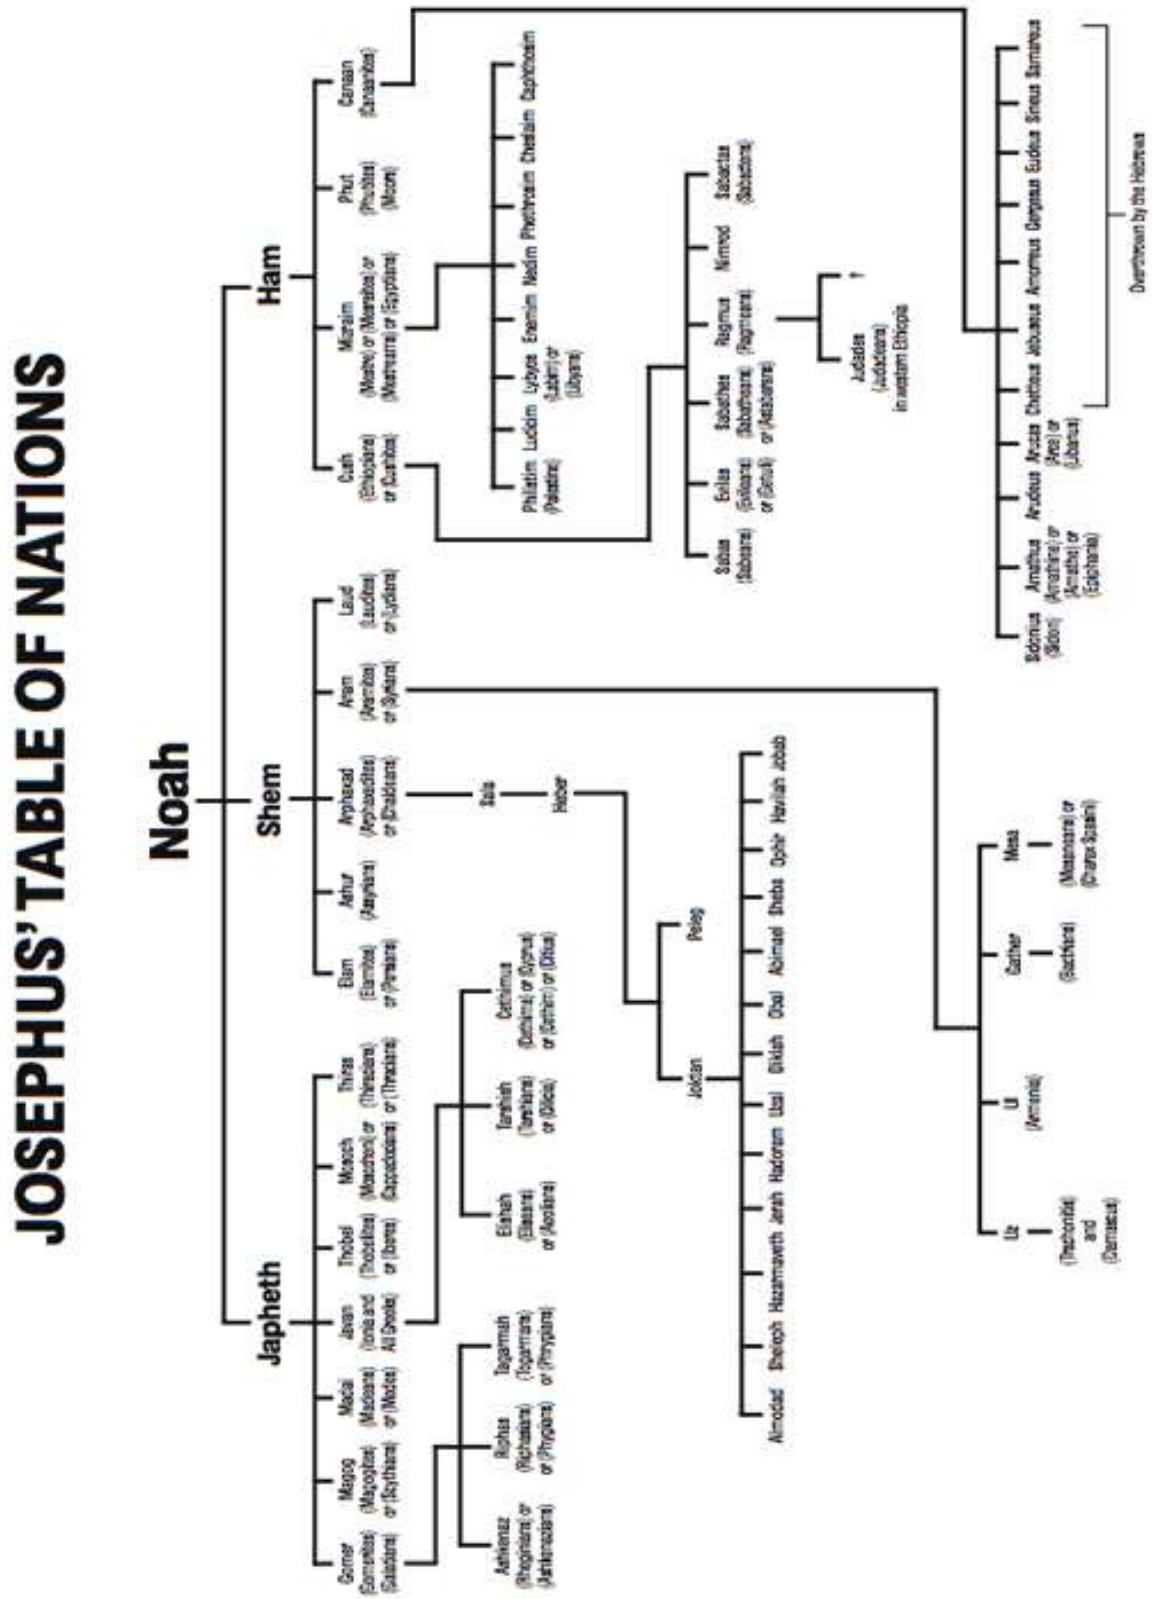
Why are people different colors—black, yellow, brown, etc? [Recommended]
https://bible.org/question/why-are-people-different-colors%E2%80%94black-yellow-brown-etc



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

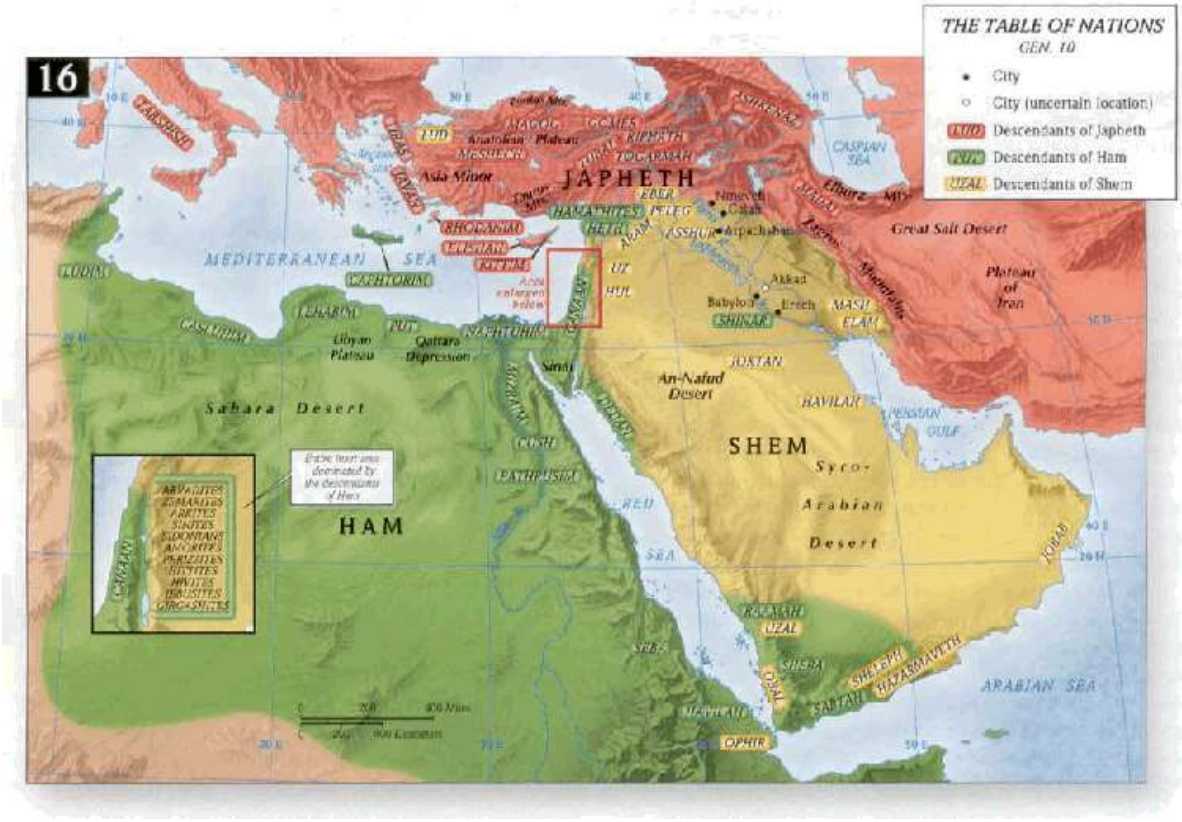


Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Genesis 10 Table of Nations

Josephus' Table of Nations

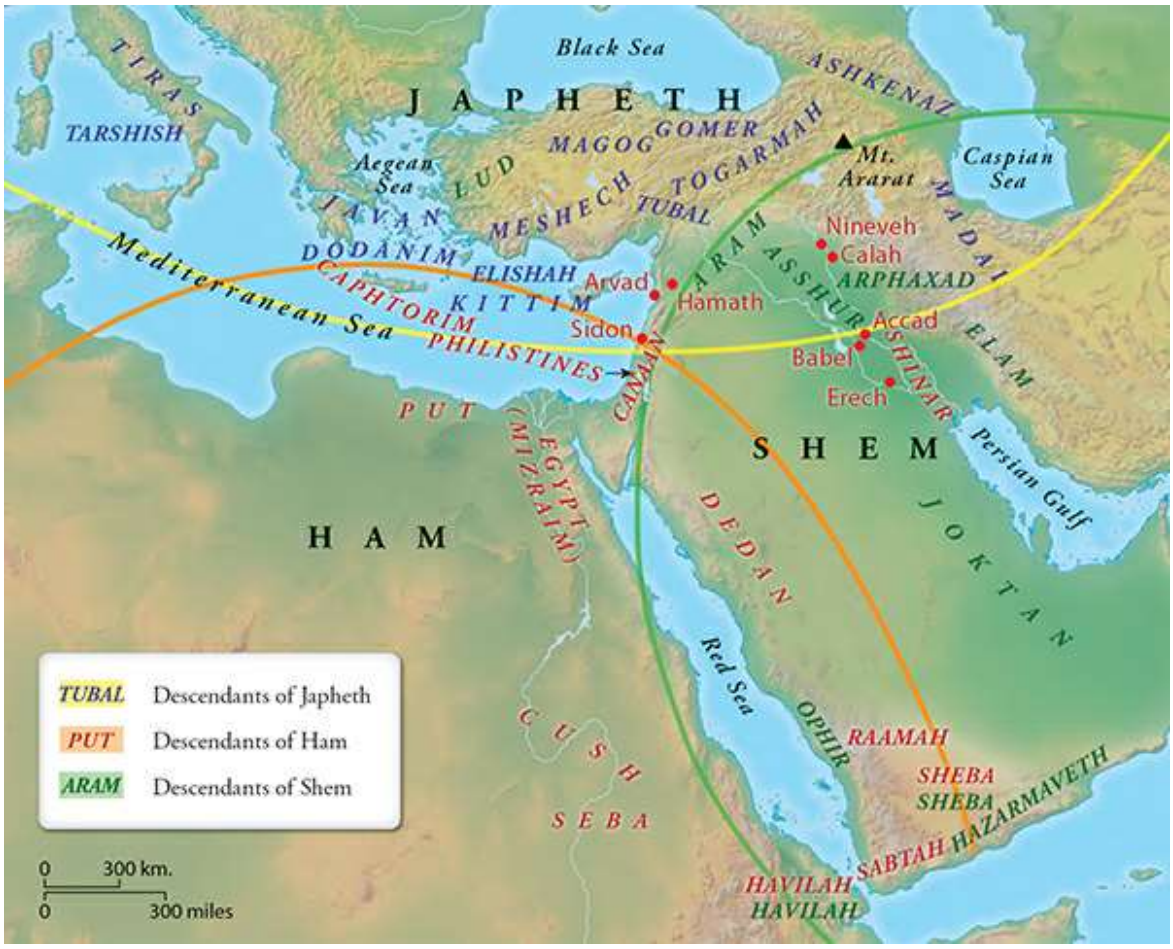
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



THE TABLE OF NATIONS

Genesis 10 presents a list of nations descended from the three sons of Noah: Japheth, Ham, and Shem. This "Table of Nations" is unique in the ancient world and contains seventy names of ancestral heads of nations and peoples known to Israel. The list proceeds from the less important, for the purposes of the writer, to the most important. The fourteen descendants of Japheth are named first. Japheth's descendants generally are associated with areas north and northwest of Canaan, including mainland Greece, Asia Minor (modern Turkey), certain Mediterranean islands (Crete, Cyprus, and Rhodes), and the mountainous areas from Armenia to the Caspian Sea.

The list next names thirty descendants of Ham. The Hamites generally are located in North Africa (Egypt and the Sudan), along the coast of Somaliland and the west Arabian coasts, and in certain sections of Mesopotamia. Canaan along with many of the people-groups Israel encountered as she entered the promised land (Amorites, Jebusites, Perizzites, Hivites, Girgashites, and others) are listed as Hamites.



The last and most extensive part of the list contains twenty-six descendants of Shem, the ancestor of Israel. Genesis 11:10–26 connects Shem with Abram (Abraham), who received God's gracious covenant of blessing and hope for the human race (Gen. 12:1–3).

Identification of many of Shem's descendants remains uncertain. Some of the names seem to refer to areas of northwest Mesopotamia (Eber, Peleg, Aram). Elam was at the bend of the Persian Gulf, while Asshur and Arpachshad are in the upper Tigris region. Several names can be located plausibly in Somaliland (Havilah, Ophir). The thirteen sons of Joktan are related to the tribes of the Arabian Peninsula.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Table of Nations

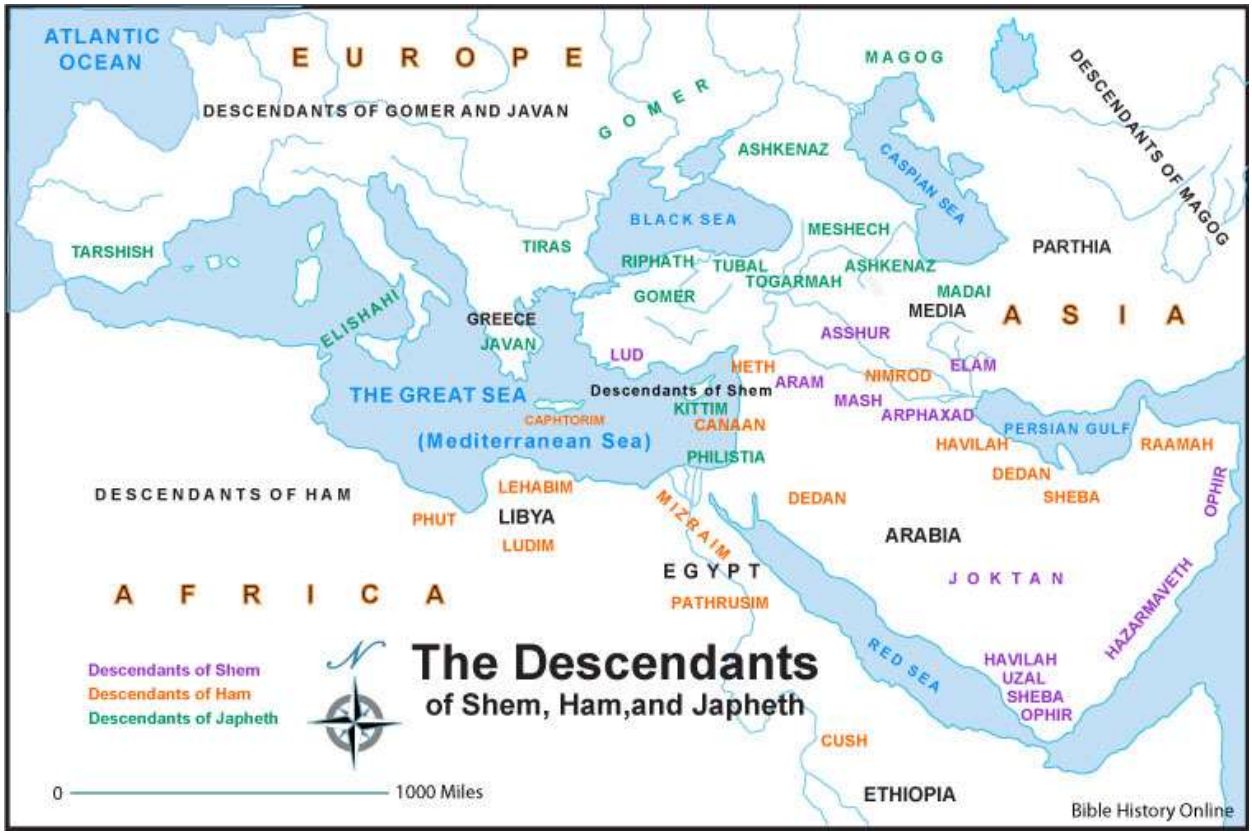
[Source: NKJV Study Bible]

The Table of Nations and the Origins of the Races [Recommended]

http://soundchristian.com/man/

> Modern genetics shows that when a large, freely interbreeding group is suddenly broken into many smaller groups which from then on breed only among themselves (as the Biblical description of the language dispersion at Babel would imply), different racial characteristics will arise very rapidly. It can be shown that one pair of middle-brown parents could produce all known shades of color, from very white to very black, in one generation. The racial characteristics which exist today have not evolved, and generally speaking, are simply different combinations of pre-existing (created) genetic (hereditary) information.
>
> We can safely conclude that all people in the world are descended from the inhabitants of Babel, the first civilization after Noah's flood

Josephus and Genesis Chapter 10



https://answersingenesis.org/genesis/josephus-and-genesis-chapter-ten/

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Table of Nations in Genesis 10

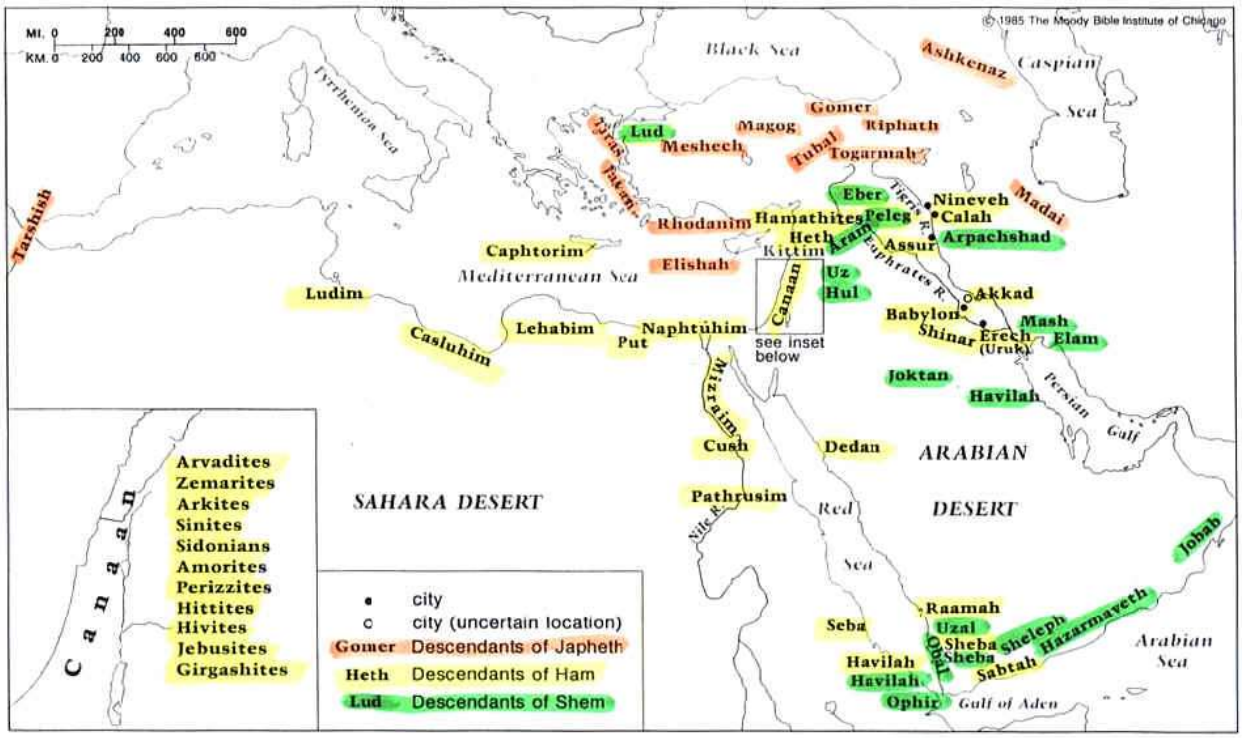
http://www.bible-history.com/old-testament/table-of-nations-genesis-10.html

According to the Bible the sons of Noah were Shem, Ham, and Japheth... these three sons of Noah represented the three great races of mankind. The map below (see link for corresponding table [list]) shows God's dispersion of the nation's after they migrated from the Tower at Babel.

Wikipedia: Table of Nations

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Generations_of_Noah

Tables of Nations



http://www.bible-history.com/maps/2-table-of-nations.html

https://www.bibliotecapleyades.net/sitchin/sitchinbooks03_03a.htm

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Table of Nations – Ham, Shem & Japheth

http://www.freemaninstitute.com/RTGham.htm

Map with slightly different placements of named nations than prior map.

The Settlement Of The World, (The Table Of Nations)

https://bible.org/seriespage/4-settlement-world-table-nations

Excerpt:

Space does not permit an extensive discussion of the table of nations presented in Genesis 10 beyond a general identification of the peoples. Custance (The Three Sons of Noah), an anthropologist, posits an interesting theory on the dispersal of man. The eight point summary of his thesis is as follows:

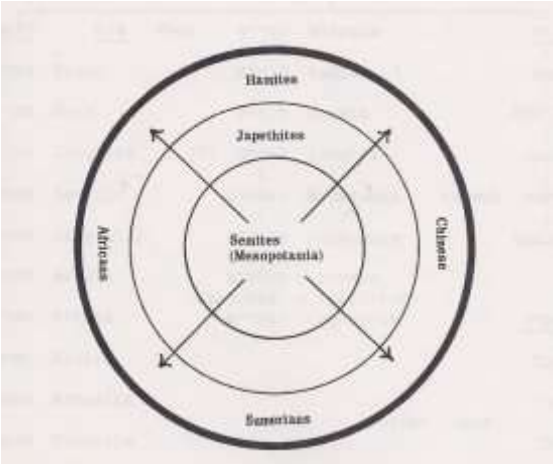
The geographical distribution of fossil remains is such that they are most logically explained by treating them as marginal representatives of a widespread and in part forced dispersion of people from a single multiplying population established at a point more or less central to them all, and sending forth successive waves of migrants, each wave driving the previous one further toward the periphery.

The most degraded specimens are those representatives of this general movement who were driven into the least hospital areas, where they suffered physical degeneration as a consequence of the circumstances in which they were forced to live [such as the Neanderthal man in Europe].

The extraordinary physical variability of fossil remains results from the fact that the movements took place in small, isolated, strongly inbred bands; but the cultural similarities which link together even the most widely dispersed of them indicate a common origin for them all.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

What I have said to be true of fossil man is equally true of living primitive societies as well as those which are now extinct.



All the initially dispersed populations are of one basic stock: Hamitic, the family of Genesis 10.

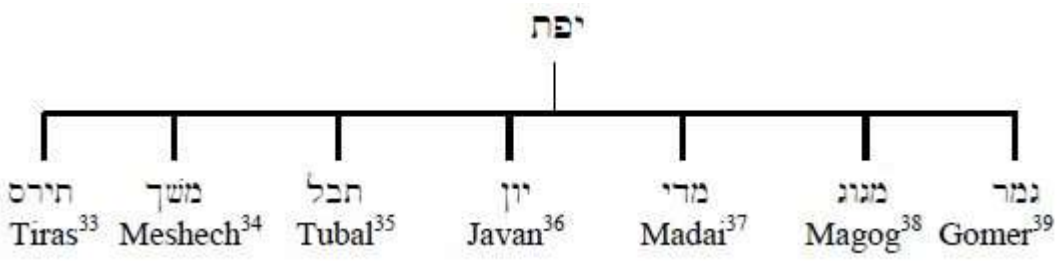
The initial Hamitic settlers were subsequently displaced or overwhelmed by Indo-Europeans (i.e., Japethites), who nevertheless inherited, or adopted, and extensively built upon Hamitic technology and so gained an advantage in each geographical area where they spread.

Throughout the great movements of people, both in prehistoric and historic times, there were never any human beings who did not belong within the family of Noah and his descendants.

Finally, this thesis is strengthened by the evidence of history which shows that migration has always tended to follow this pattern, has frequently been accompanied by instances of degeneration both of individuals or whole tribes, usually resulting in the establishment of a general pattern of cultural relationships which parallel those archaeology has revealed.[1]

In Graph form, Custance's theory looks this way:

The Genealogical List



Generally speaking, the Hamites are the most dispersed and diverse people, both ethnically and linguistically. They will be found, according to Genesis, in Asia Minor, Canaan, Egypt (North Africa), South Africa, and Mesopotamia.

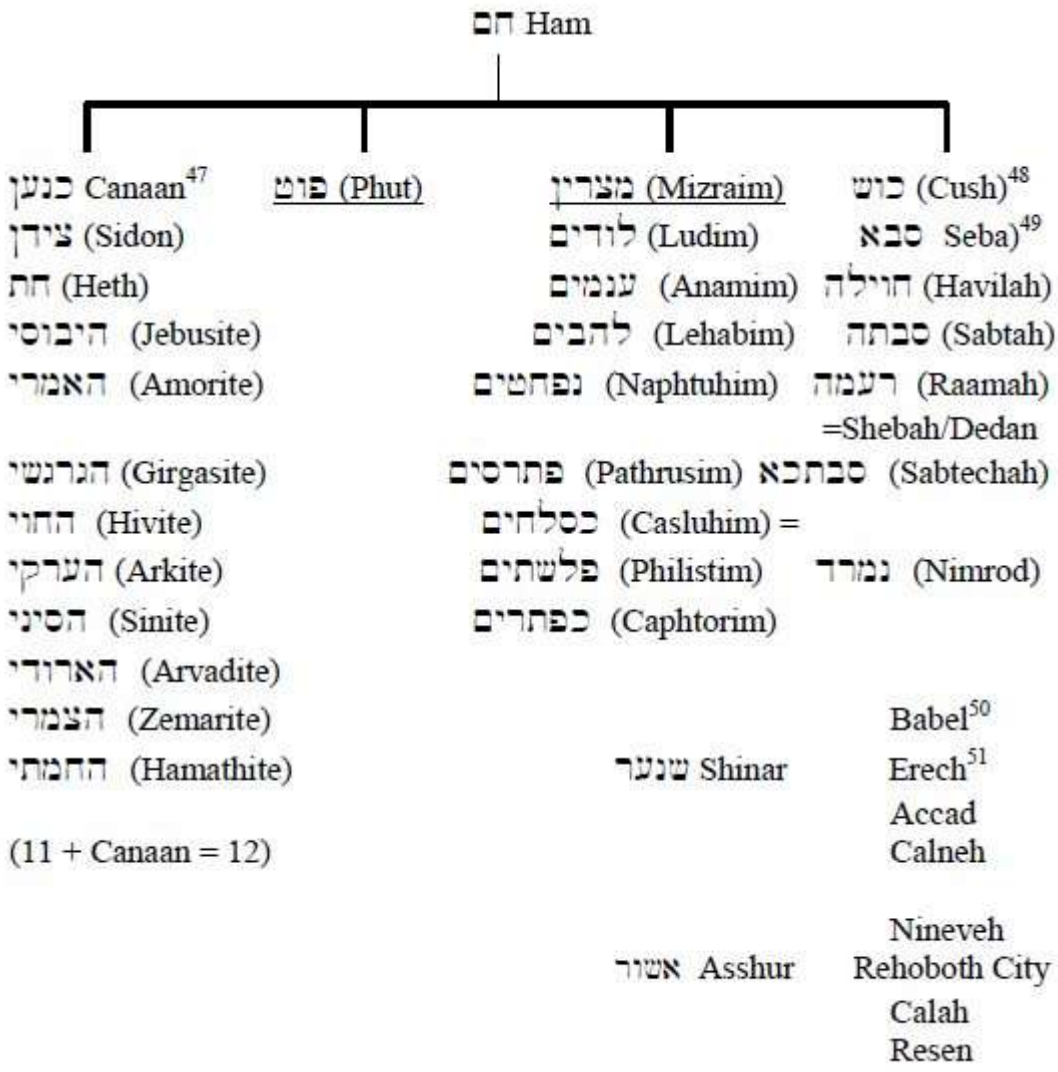
Likewise, the Japethites represent the Indo-European peoples, that is, from Europe to India. This classification is usually referring to linguistic similarities rather than ethnic, although the latter is also a consideration. Looking at a relief map of the world, one can see that these people are often mountain people.

Finally, from a biblical point of view, the Semites are the center of God's work. Semitic people come out of the desert. They are Assyrian, Babylonian, old South Arabians, and, of course, the descendants of Abraham. It is no coincidence that the three great monotheistic religions had their origin among Semitic people.

There is ongoing debate about the identification of all the names listed in the genealogies. Some are quite clear, others are not. Below is a list of all the biblical names in Hebrew and English with notes as to the assumptions about their identity.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

(Tiras33[2], Meshech34[3], Tubal35[4], Javan36[5], Madai37[6], Magog38[7], Gomer39[8])



אלישה
Elishah[40]
תרשיש
Tarshish[42] (4)
כתין Kittim[44]
דודנין
Dodanim[46]

אשכנז Ashkenaz[41]
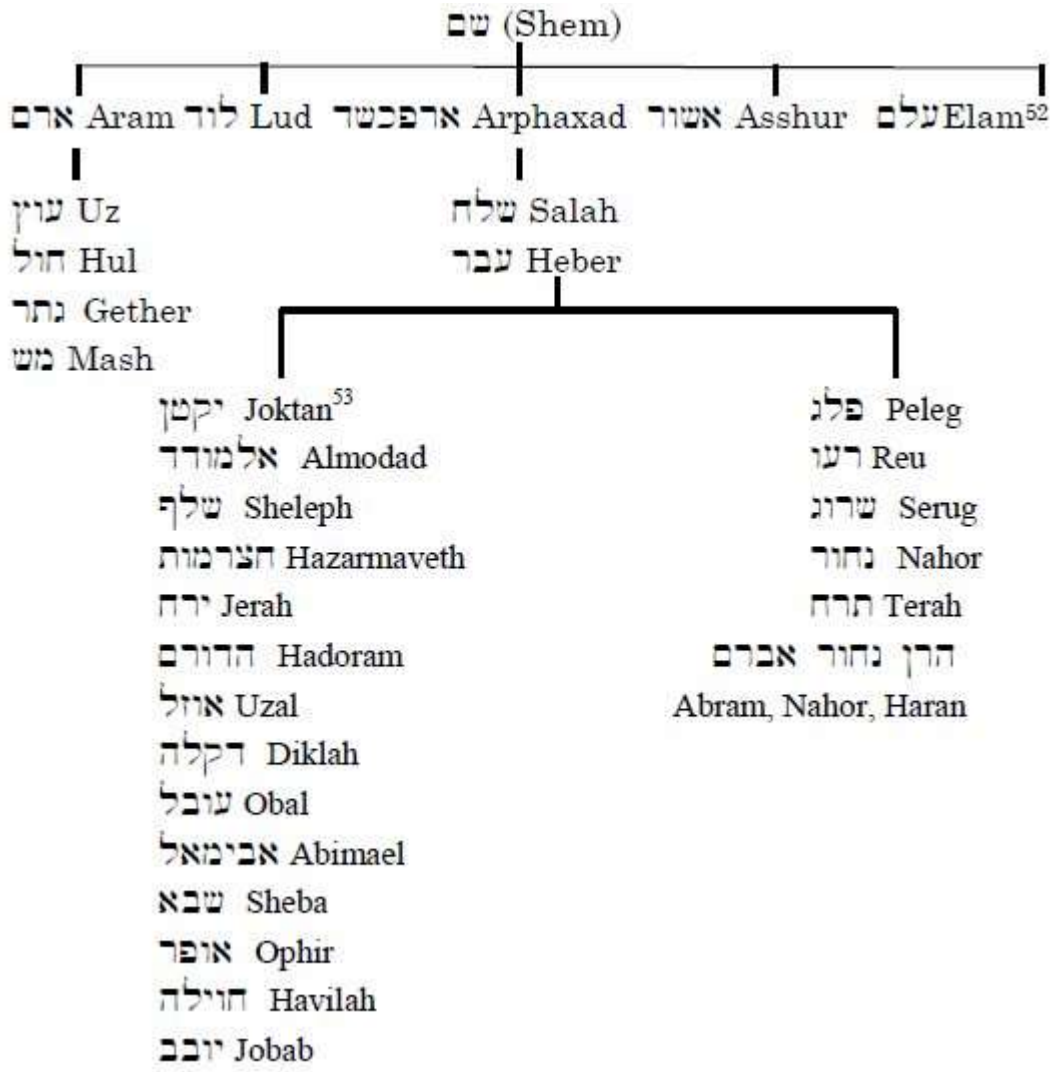
ריפת
Riphath[43] (3)
תגרמה
Togarmah[45]

(Elishah40[9], Ashkenaz41[10], Tarshish42[11] (4), Riphath43[12] (3), Kittim44[13], Togarmah45[14], Dodanim46[15])

continued next page…



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

(Canaan47[16], Cush48[17], Seba49[18], Babel50[19], Erech51[20])

continued next page…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

(Elam52[21], Joktan53[22])

Some General Observations

As with many genealogical lists, this one is selective and oriented toward a certain position--namely, the history of Abraham.[23] Also in characteristic fashion, the most remote person (Japheth) is dispensed with and the family in the center of interest is taken up last and amplified (Shem and in ch. 11 Terah).

There are numerical considerations. Japheth has seven sons but descendants are listed for only Javan (four descendants) and Gomer (three descendants). The sons and grandsons of Cush total seven (Nimrod is dealt with as a separate entity). Mizraim has seven descendants. There are fourteen members of Yaktan's family and ten of Shem's consummating in Abraham (both numbers are favorites in genealogies). There are seven from Heber to Abraham. Canaan and his descendants total twelve which might be used to counterbalance the twelve tribes of Israel.

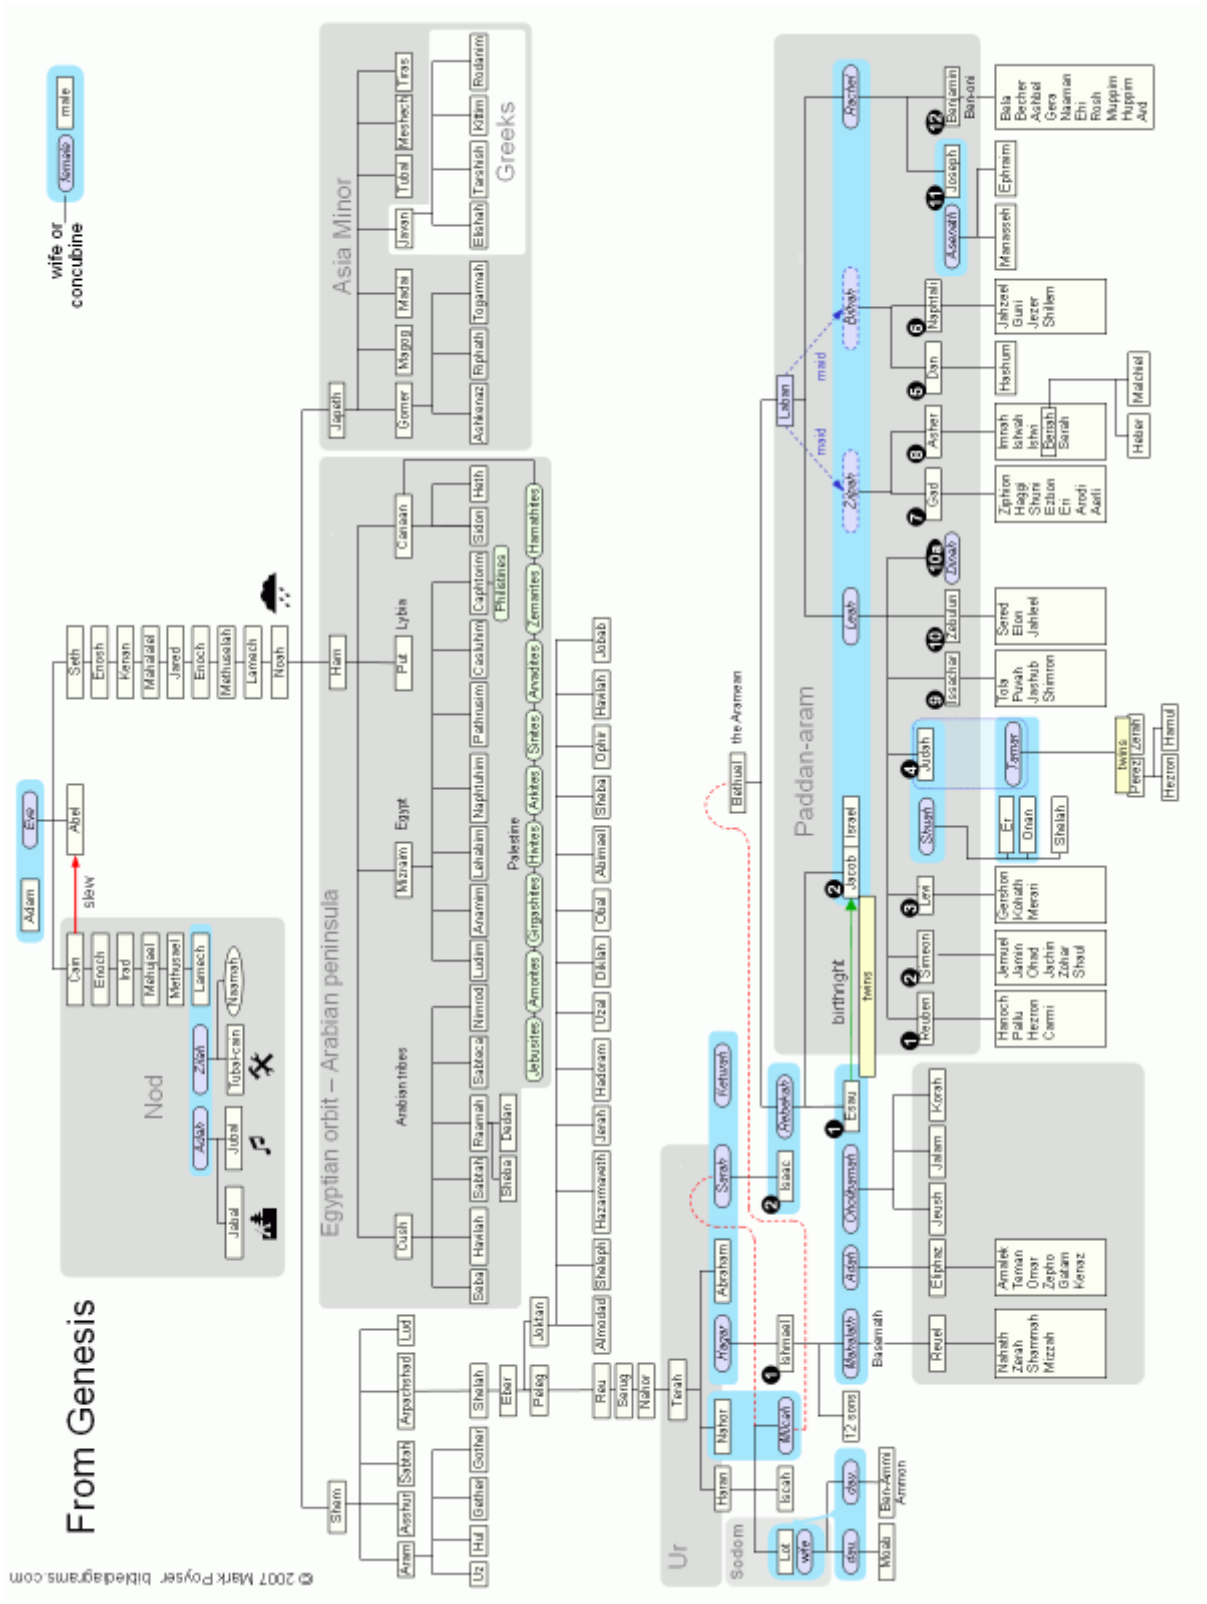
The descendants of Canaan and Mizraim are treated as peoples rather than individuals, but this is not to deny that an individual headed up the group originally.

The Israelites are linked with Heber (Gen. 10:21) apparently associating the names Heber and Hebrew.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

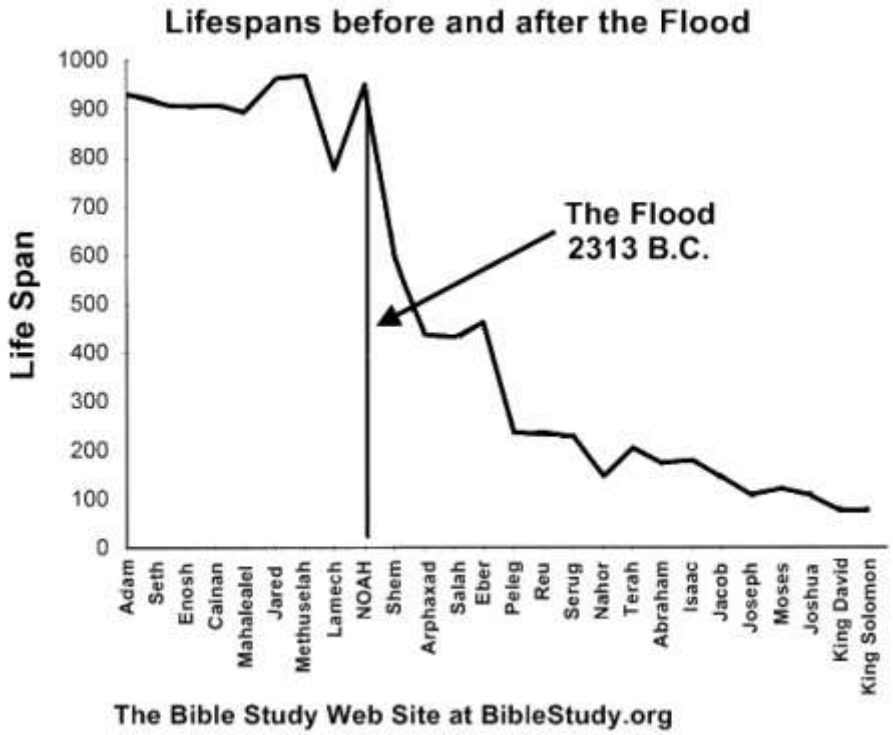
The fact that Cushites (Hamites) are mentioned as the founders of the Mesopotamian cities shows that they must have been pushed out later by Semites (Custance argues that the Sumerians were Hamitic).

The division of the earth into languages probably took place during the time of Peleg (in his days the earth was divided) or four generations after the flood.

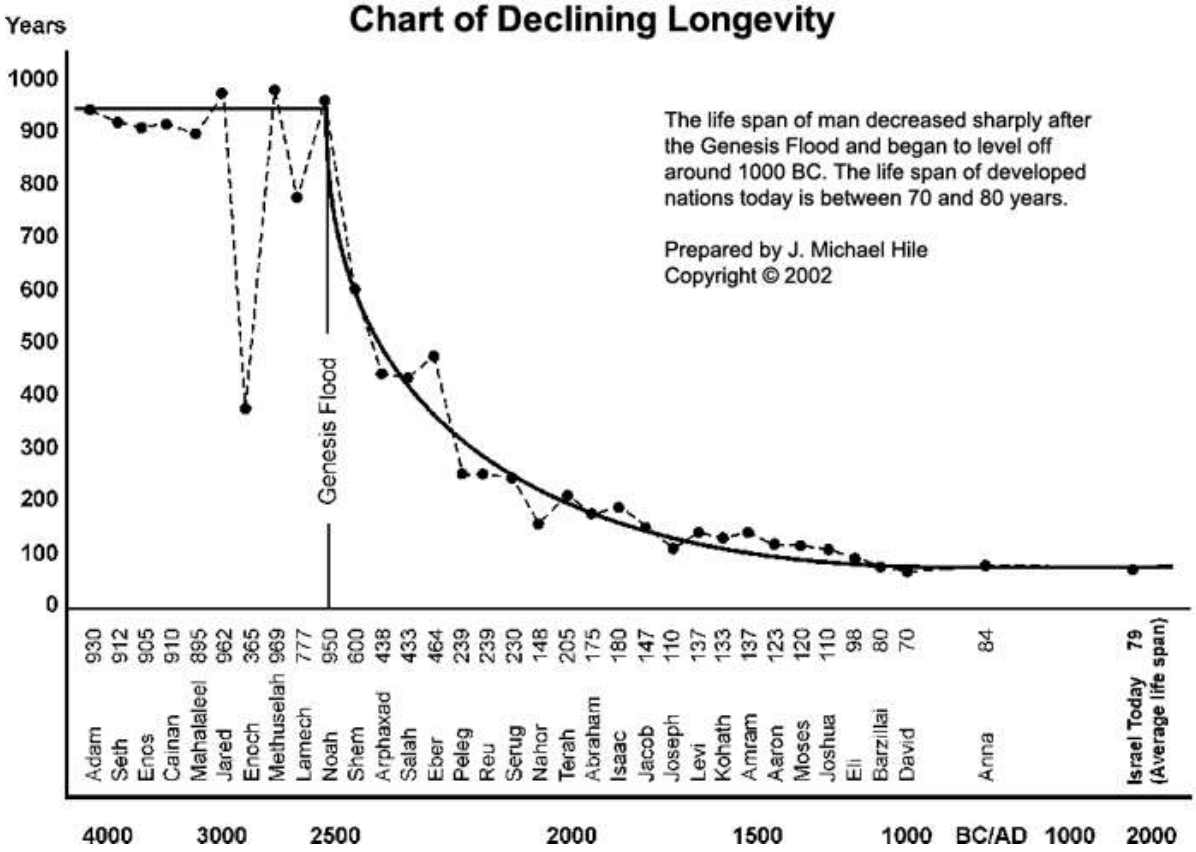


Excursus on Nimrod: This text presents a very tantalizing situation. A descendant of Cush became so famous his name was a household word. His very name means “rebellion” and the LXX is an early witness to an interpretation of “before the Lord” (לִפְנֵי יהוה) as “against the Lord” (ἐναντίον). All the cities mentioned are of great antiquity and are referenced in the earliest writing (cf. the Gilgamesh Epic). There is a problem of whether Asshur went out and built cities or Nimrod (or his descendants) went to Asshur and built. The latter is grammatically feasible (although a little unusual) and since Shinar has four cities, then Asshur would be given four to balance it. This would mean Semitic people in Asshur who were influenced by Nimrod.

The Roots of the Nations (Genesis 10:1-32)
https://bible.org/seriespage/lesson-22-roots-nations-genesis-101-32

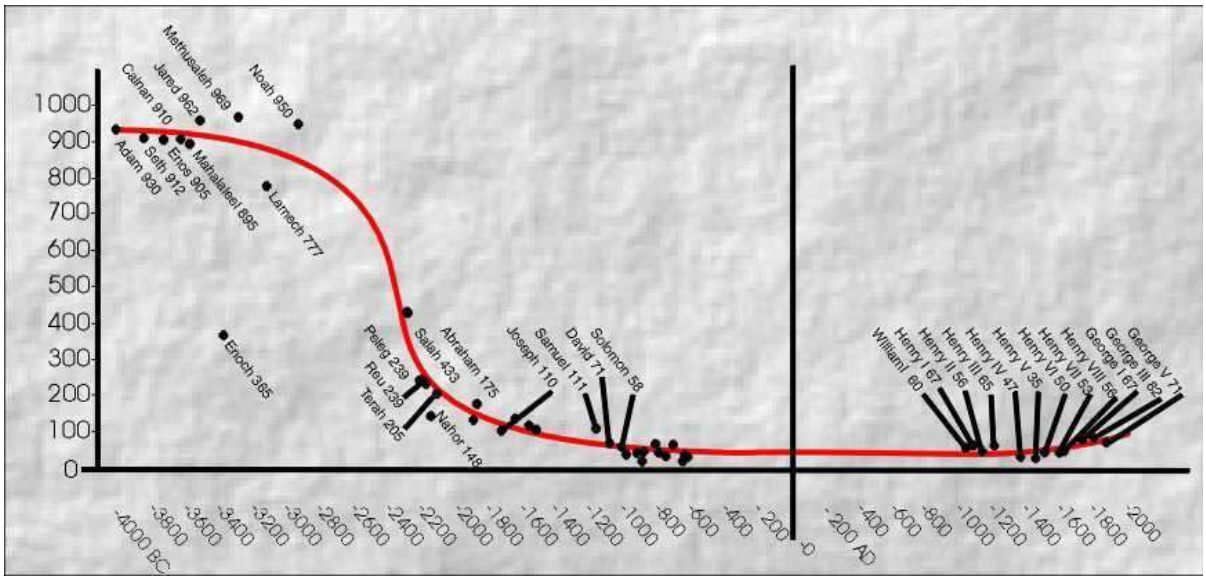


The Confusion of Languages at Babel (Genesis 10:1-11:25)
https://bible.org/seriespage/4-confusion-languages-babel-genesis-101-1125



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Descendants of Adam in Genesis



From Genesis
Nod
Egyptian orbit – Arabian peninsula
Asia Minor
Greeks
Paddan-aram
Ur
Sodom Palestine birthright twins wife or concubine male female slew
Adam Eve
Abel
Cain
Seth Enosh
Kenan
Mahalalel
Jared
Enoch Methuselah
Lamech
Noah
Shem
Ham
Japeth
Egypt
Canaan
Lydia
Put Mizraim
Cush
Arabian tribes
Philistines
Hittites
Amorites
Girgashites
Jebusites
Arkites
Sinites
Arvadites
Zemarites
Hamathites
Sidon
Heth
Gomer
Magog
Madai
Javan
Tubal
Meshech
Tiras
Ashkenaz
Riphath
Togarmah
Elishah
Tarshish
Kittim
Rodanim
Abraham
Sarah
Hagar
Ishmael
Keturah
Isaac
Rebekah
Esau
Jacob
Israel
Laban
Leah
Rachel Bilhah
Zilpah
Reuben
Simeon
Levi
Judah
Issachar
Zebulun
Dinah
Dan
Naphtali
Gad
Asher
Joseph
Benjamin
Manasseh
Ephraim
Gershon
Kohath
Merari
Jamuel
Jamin
Ohad
Jachin
Zohar
Shaul
Hanoch
Pallu
Hezron
Carmi
Shuah
Er
Onan
Shelah
Tola
Puvah
Jashub
Shimron
Sered
Elon
Jahleel
Ziphion
Haggi
Shuni
Ezbon
Eri
Arodi
Areli
Imnah
Ishvah
Ishvi
Beriah
Serah
Heber
Malchiel
Jahzeel
Guni
Jezer
Shillem
Hushim
Aher
Rimmon
Tabrimon
Bela
Becher
Ashbel
Gera
Naaman
Ehi
Rosh
Muppim
Huppim
Ard
Reuel
Nahath
Zerah
Shammah
Mizzah
Amalek
Timnah
Omar
Zepho
Gatam
Kenaz
Jeush
Jalam
Korah
Elphaz
Eliphaz
Mahalath
Basemath
Aram
Uz
Hul
Gether
Mash
Arphaxad
Shelah
Eber
Peleg
Joktan
Ophir
Havilah
Jobab
Uzal
Diklah
Obal
Abimael
Sheba
Almodad
Sheleph
Hazarmaveth
Jerah
Hadoram
Reu
Serug
Nahor
Terah
Haran
Milcah
Iscah
Lot wife
Moab
Ben-Ammi
Ammon
Edom
Seir
Hori
Lotan
Timna
Alvah
Shobal
Zibeon
Anah
Dishon
Ezer
Dishan
Aijah
Anah
Zibeon
Ezer
Dishan
Uz
Aram
Ashur
Sabtah
Raamah
Sabteca
Nimrod
Ludim
Anamim
Lehabim
Naphtuhim
Pathrusim
Casluhim
Caphtorim
Seba
Havilah
Sabtah
Raamah
Dedan
Sheba
Ludim
Mizraim
Pathrusim
Casluhim
Caphtorim
Philistines
Sidon
Heth
Jebusites
Amorites
Girgashites
Hivites
Arkites
Sinites
Arvadites
Zemarites
Hamathites
Ophir
Havilah
Jobab
Sheba
Abimael
Obal
Diklah
Uzal
Hadoram
Jerah
Hazarmaveth
Sheleph
Almodad
Reu
Serug
Nahor
Terah
Haran
Milcah
Iscah
Lot
wife
Moab
Ben-Ammi
Ammon
Ishmael
Abraham
Sarah
Hagar
Keturah
Isaac
Rebekah
Esau
Jacob
Israel
Laban
Leah
Rachel Bilhah
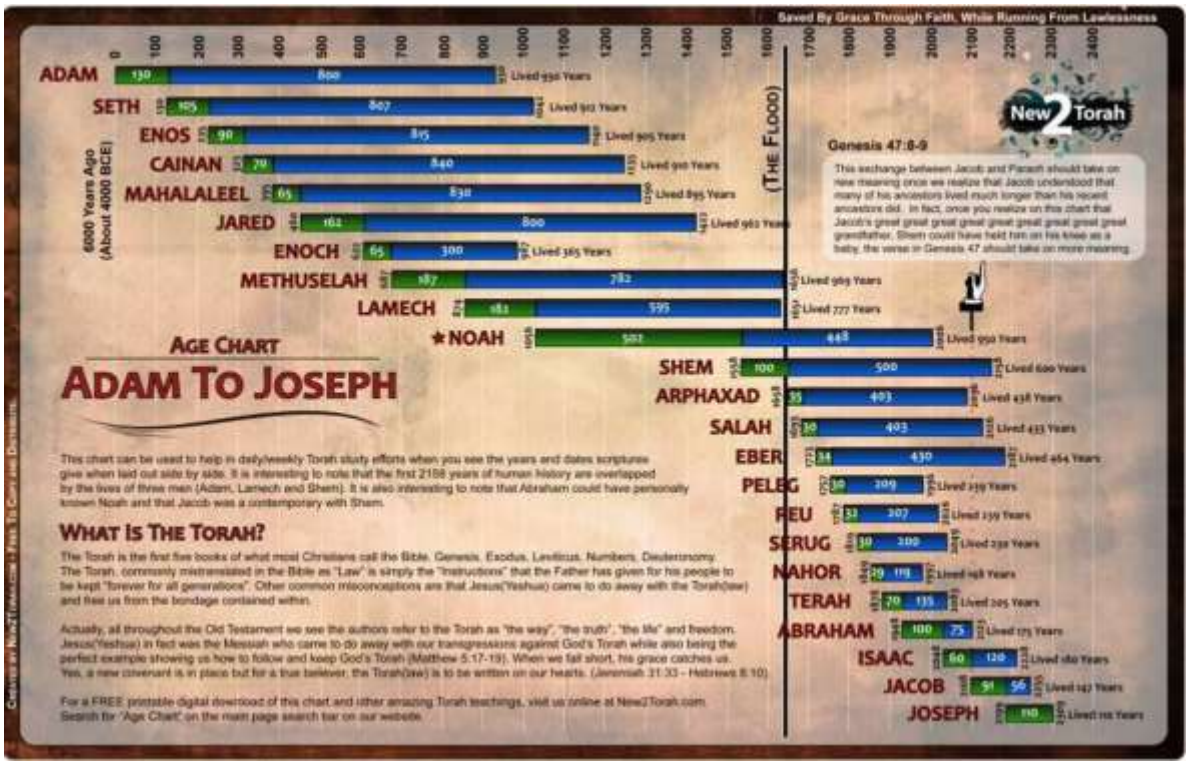
Zilpah
Reuben
Simeon
Levi
Judah
Issachar
Zebulun
Dinah
Dan
Naphtali
Gad
Asher
Joseph
Benjamin
Manasseh
Ephraim
Gershon
Kohath
Merari
Jamuel
Jamin
Ohad
Jachin
Zohar
Shaul
Hanoch
Pallu
Hezron
Carmi
Shuah
Er
Onan
Shelah
Tola
Puvah
Jashub
Shimron
Sered
Elon
Jahleel
Ziphion
Haggi
Shuni
Ezbon
Eri
Arodi
Areli
Imnah
Ishvah
Ishvi
Beriah
Serah
Heber
Malchiel
Jahzeel
Guni
Jezer
Shillem
Hushim
Aher
Rimmon
Tabrimon
Bela
Becher
Ashbel
Gera
Naaman
Ehi
Rosh
Muppim
Huppim
Ard
Reuel
Nahath
Zerah
Shammah
Mizzah
Amalek
Timnah
Omar
Zepho
Gatam
Kenaz
Jeush
Jalam
Korah
Elphaz
Eliphaz
Mahalath
Basemath
Aram
Uz
Hul
Gether
Mash
Arphaxad
Shelah
Eber
Peleg
Joktan
Ophir
Havilah
Jobab
Uzal
Diklah
Obal
Abimael
Sheba
Almodad
Sheleph
Hazarmaveth
Jerah
Hadoram

Lifespans before and after the Flodd



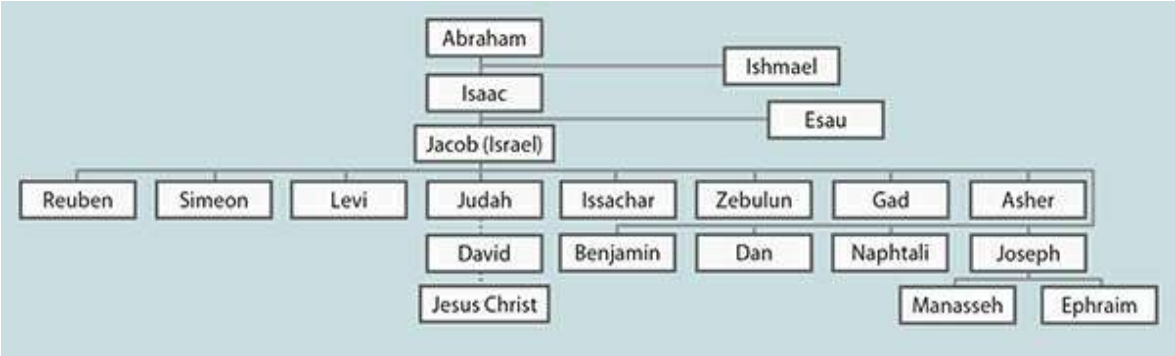
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: http://www.angelfire.com/mi/dinosaurs/patriarch.html]

See next page for larger view…

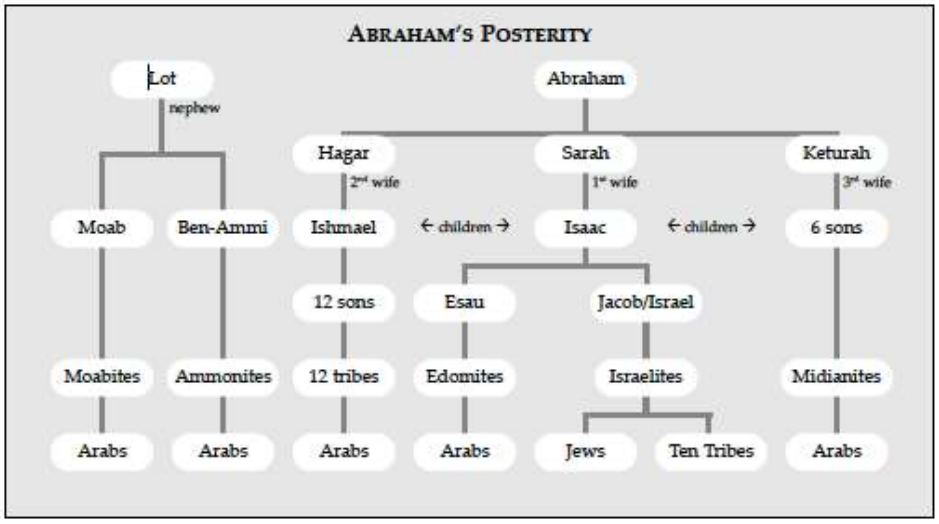
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



God's Promise to Abram Fulfilled

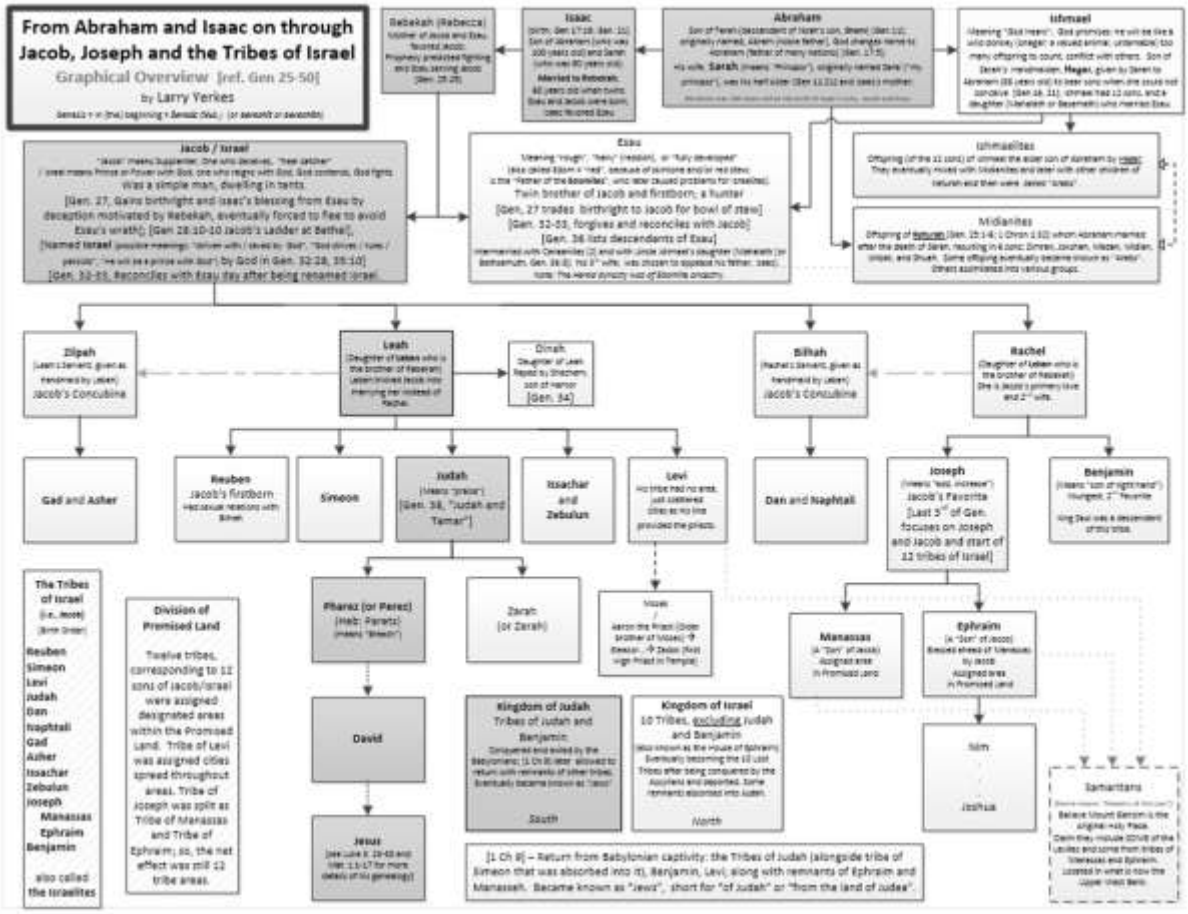
God promised to make Abram's (Abraham's) descendants into a great nation (Genesis 12:2). God fulfilled this promise in the birth of Isaac and then later Jacob, through whom the twelve tribes of Israel were born (Joseph's sons Ephraim and Manasseh became two of the tribes). Abraham's descendants did indeed become great nations.



More importantly, however, God promised Abraham that "in you all the families of the earth shall be blessed" (Genesis 12:3).

Through the birth of Christ — direct descendant of Abraham through Isaac, Jacob and Judah — God fulfilled this promise as well.

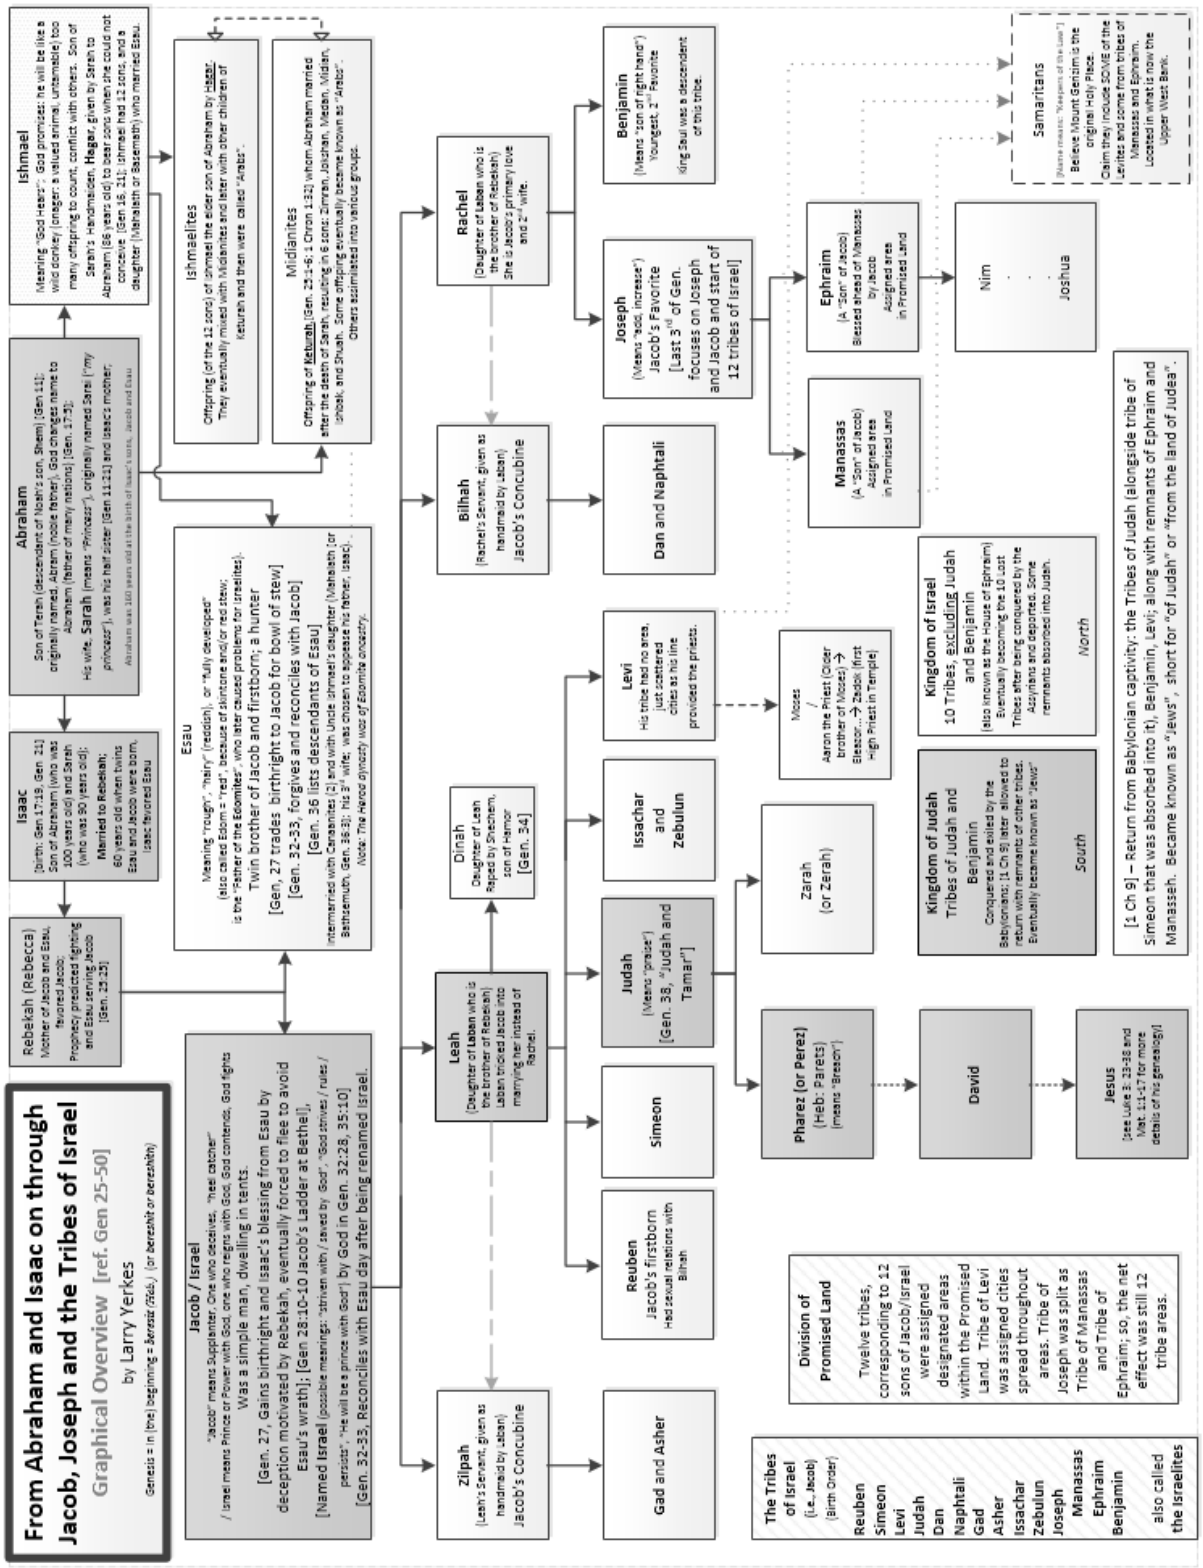
In this way Abraham's "seed" has indeed blessed all the nations of the earth.



[Source: NKJV Study Bible]

[Source: https://rsc.byu.edu/archived/window-faith-latter-day-saint-perspectives-world-history/scattering-and-gathering-israel] [LDS – Mormon perspective]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



From Abraham and Isaac on through Jacob, Joseph and the Tripbes of Israel; from Judah on through David and to Jesus…

See larger view next page…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

From Abraham -> Isaac -> … -> Jacob -> … -> David ->… -> Jesus

[Source: LY]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Exodus

The exodus and conquest narratives form the classic historical and spiritual drama of OT times. Subsequent ages looked back to this period as one of obedient and victorious living under divine guidance. Close examination of the environment and circumstances also reveals the strenuous exertions, human sin, and bloody conflicts of the era.

(1) It was necessary for Moses to take refuge in Midian, where the Egyptian authorities could not reach him. The decades spent in the desert wilderness (Exodus3:1) were an important formative part of his life.

(2) The exact crossing place through the biblical “Sea of Reeds” (Heb. Yam Suph) is unknown.

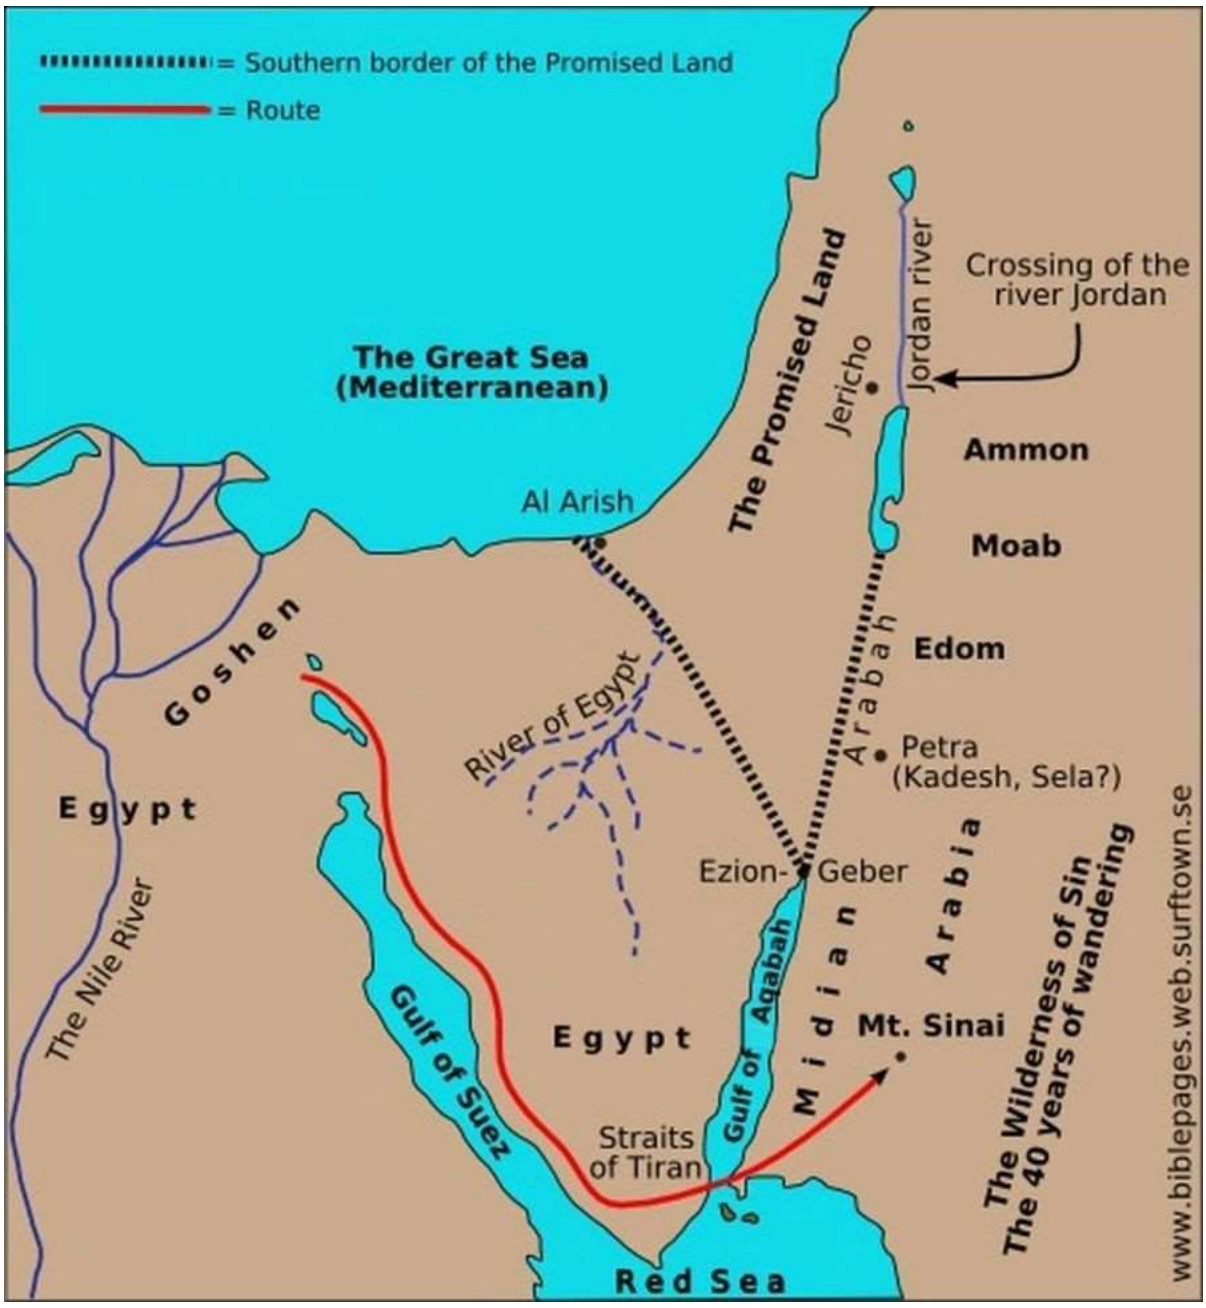
(3) The Israelite tribes fled past the Egyptian system of border posts, through the “Red Sea” and into the wilderness, where they avoided the main military and trade routes leading across northern Sinai. Their route possibly took them past the remote turquoise and copper mining regions northwest of Mount Sinai.

In historical terms, the exodus from Egypt was ignored by Egyptian scribes and recorders. No definitive monuments mention the event itself, but a stele of Merneptah (c. 1209 B.C.) claims that a people called Israel were encountered by Egyptian troops somewhere in northern Canaan.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Finding precise geographic and chronological details of the period is problematic, but new information has emerged from vast amounts of fragmentary archaeological and inscriptional evidence. Hittite cuneiform documents parallel the ancient covenant formula governing Israel's national contract with God at Mount Sinai.

The Late Bronze Age (c. 1550–1200 B.C.) was a time of major social migrations. Egyptian control over the Semites in the eastern Nile delta was harsh, with a system of brickmaking quotas imposed on the labor force, often the landless, low-class "Apiru." Numerous Canaanite towns were violently destroyed. New populations, including the "Sea Peoples," made their presence felt in Anatolia, Egypt, Canaan, Transjordan, and elsewhere in the eastern Mediterranean.



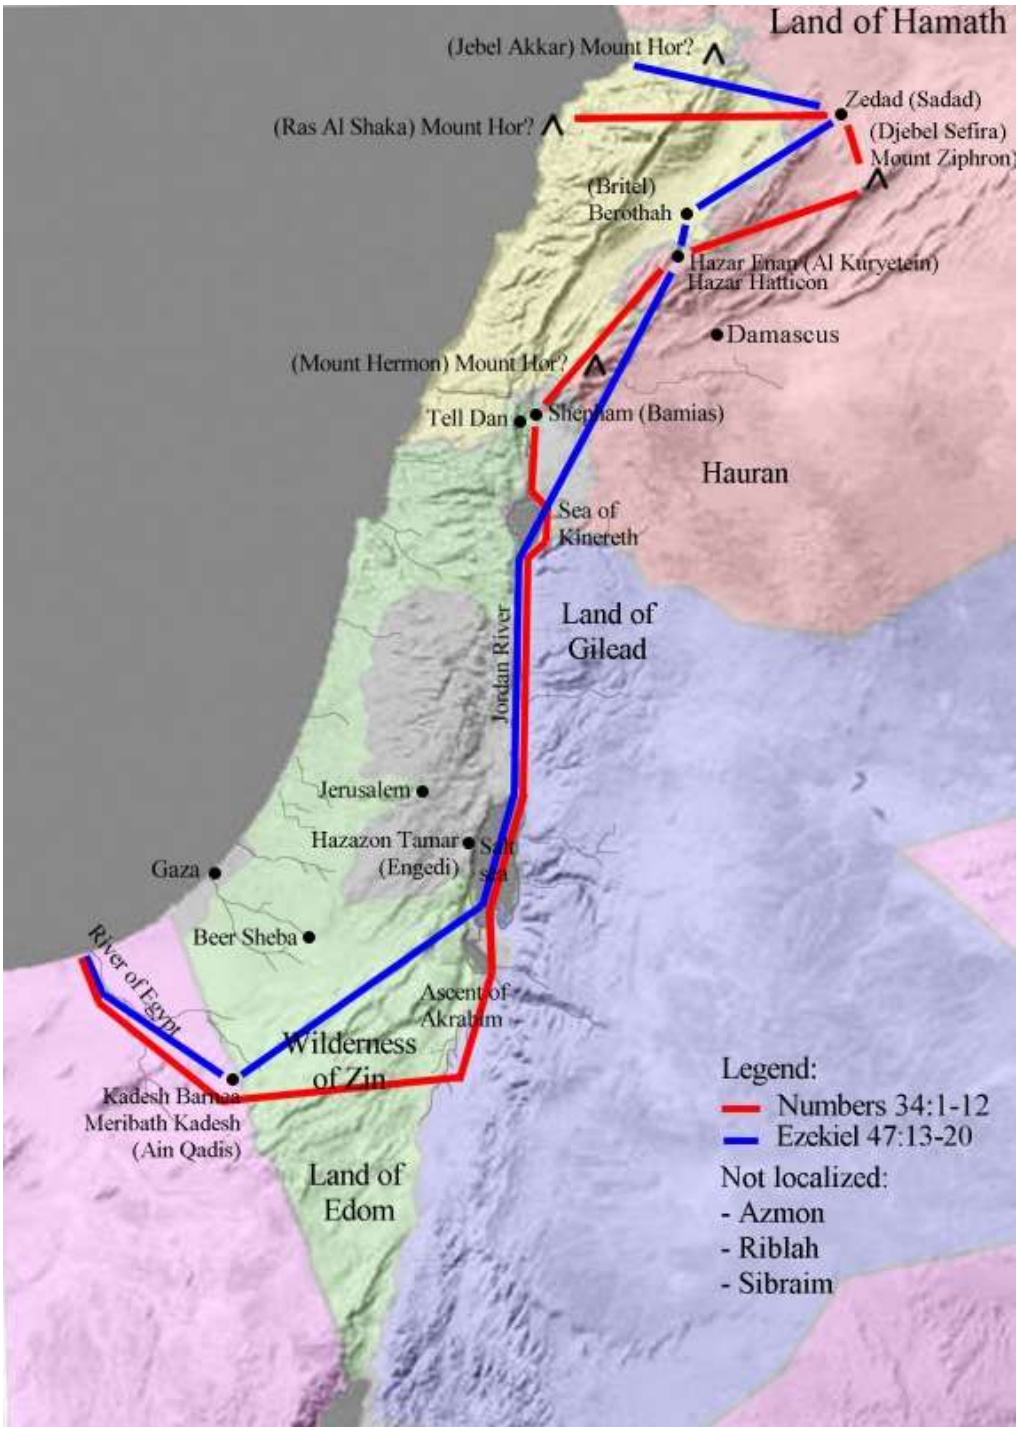
Correspondence from Canaanite town rulers to the Egyptian court in the time of Akhenaten (c. 1350 B.C.) reveals a weak structure of alliances, with an intermittent Egyptian military presence and an ominous fear of people called "Apiru" (= "Hapiru").

[Source: NKJV Study Bible]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Alternate: Mt. Sinai in Saudi Arabia

http://antipas.net/sinai_map.htm

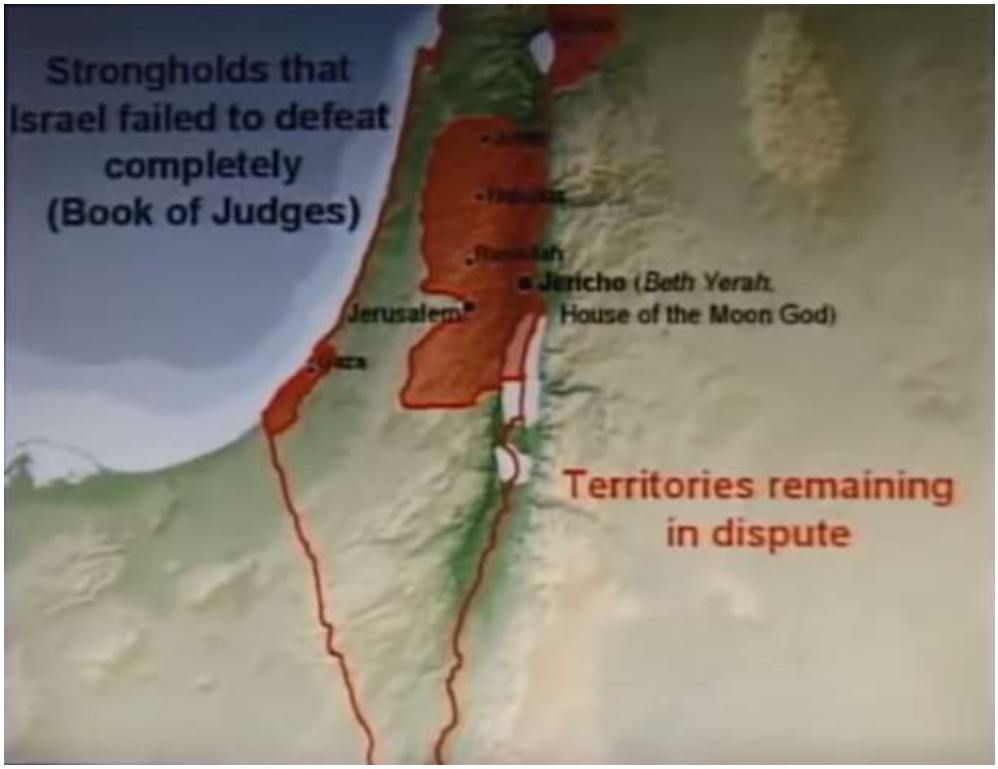


Problems with Mt. Sinai in Saudi Arabia :
http://ldolphin.org/sinai.html

http://www.christiananswers.net/dictionary/midianite.html

http://www.ldolphin.org/franz-sinai.html

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

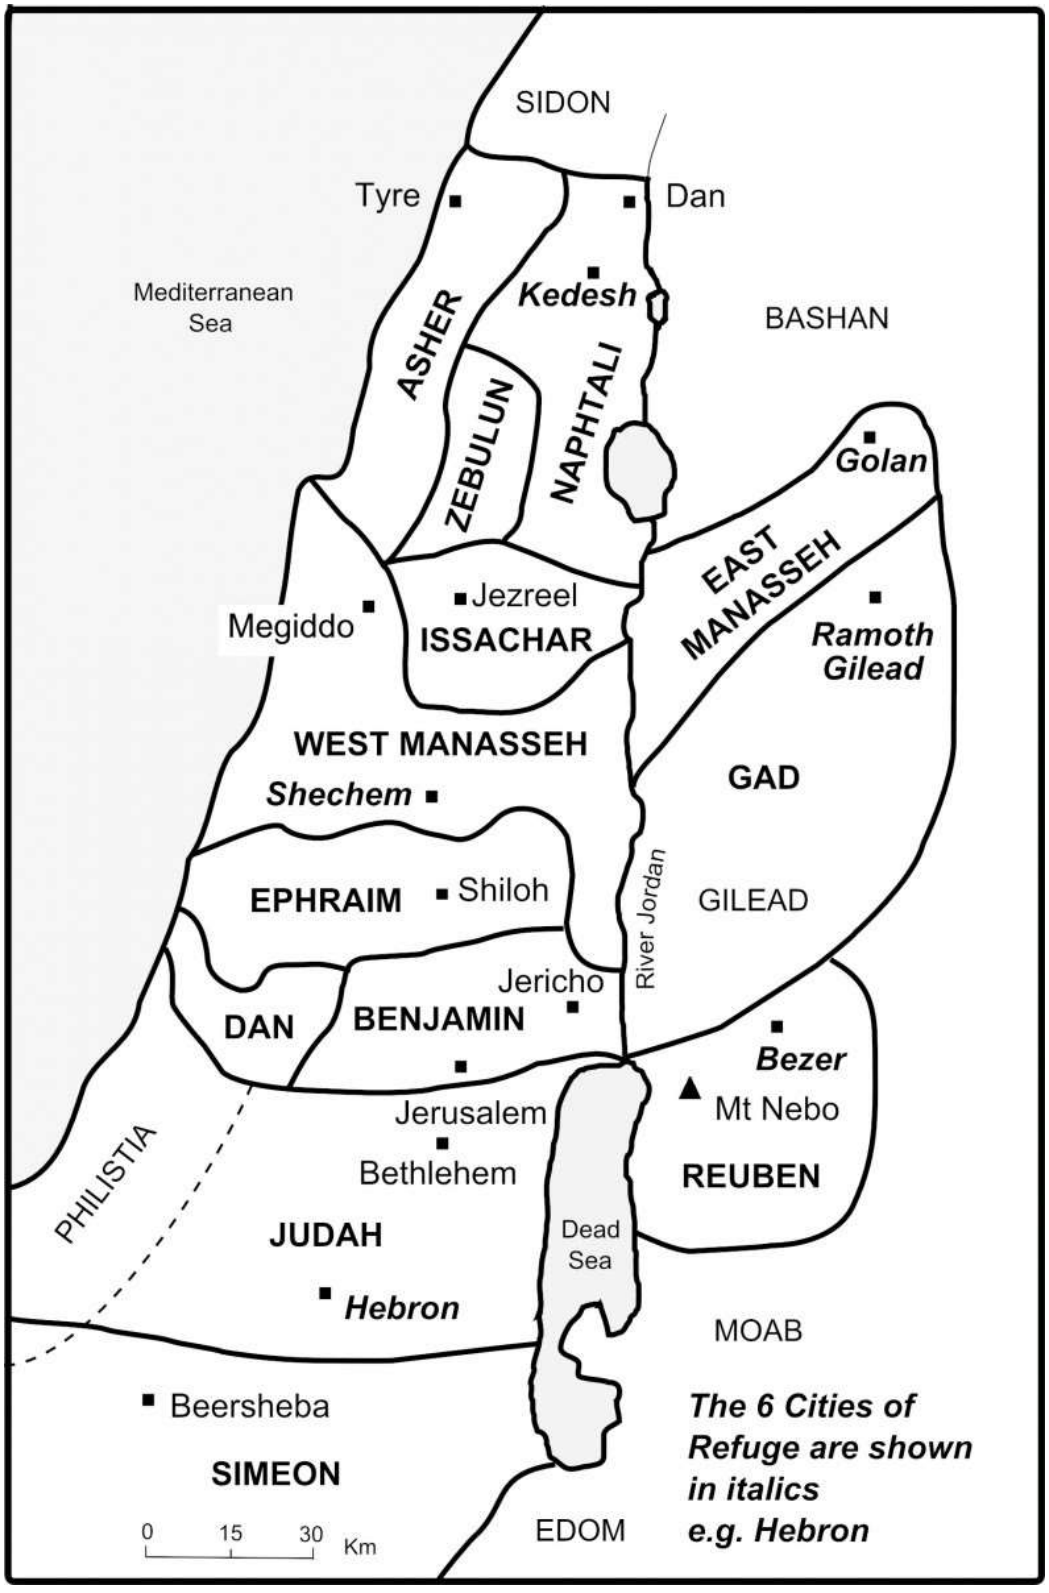


Promised Land:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Strongholds that the Israelites failed to defeat when taking the Promised Land..

This map highlights something that impacts Israel today: those same strongholds they failed to defeat are in the areas that we know today as the West Bank and Gaza territories, which are in dispute and threaten them to this very day.



[Source: Chuck Missler (1934-2018), Koinonia House: https://www.khouse.org/ (screen capture from a video)]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Canaan is divided among the twelve tribes

Josh 13:8 – 17:18 The conquered land of Canaan is allocated between the twelve tribes of Israel

Continued next page…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

After the invasion of Canaan in c.1406BC, the conquered land was divided between the twelve tribes of Israel.

The land east of the Jordan, in Gilead and Bashan, captured earlier from King Sihon and King Og (see Numbers 21:23-35) was allocated, as agreed by Moses, to the tribes of Reuben, Gad and half the tribe of Manasseh (see Numbers 32:1-19).

The other nine and a half tribes drew lots to divide the land on the west bank of the River Jordan (see Joshua 14:2 & 18:1-10). The tribe of Levi was not allocated a separate territory as they were given land throughout Canaan wherever they served their fellow Israelites as priests and levites. On the other hand, the descendents of Joseph were divided into two tribes named after his eldest sons Manasseh and Ephraim. Ephraim received the lightly wooded territory in the central hill country near Shiloh (later referred to as the Forest of Ephraim), while Manasseh took over the hilly land to the north in the area around Mt Gerizim, Mt Ebal and the Vale of Shechem (see Joshua 16:1-17:18). In addition, Joshua was personally rewarded with the town of Timnath Serah in the hill country of Ephraim (see Joshua 19:49-50).

Further north, land around the Vale of Jezreel was allocated to the tribe of Issachar (see Joshua 19:17-23), while the tribes of Asher, Zebulon and Napthali were granted territory stretching from the coastal foothills near Tyre to the inland basin occupied by the Lake of Kinnereth (the Sea of Galilee) (see Joshua 19:10-16 & 24-39).

On the southern boundary of Canaan, the tribe of Simeon received the semi-arid foothills of the Negev Desert between Beersheba and Kadesh Barnea (see Joshua 19:1-9), while the tribe of Judah gained the hill country between Beersheba, Bethlehem and Jerusalem (see Joshua 15:1-63). In addition, the city of Hebron was allocated to Caleb in recognition of his faithfulness to God after spying out the 'promised land' forty years earlier (see Joshua 14:6-15).

The most controversial allocations of territory were made to the tribes of Benjamin and Dan. Benjamin received land bounded on the south by the Jebusite fortress of Jebus (Jerusalem) (which remained a Canaanite stronghold for the next four hundred years until conquered by King David in 1004 BC) (see Joshua 18:11-28 & 15:63). Dan was allocated land on the coastal plain of Philistia, but was never able to wrestle this lowland territory from the Philistines. As a result, the tribe later conquered land in the far north around the city of Leshem (Laish), which was renamed Dan after it was captured (see Joshua 19:40-48 & Judges 18:1-31).

Israelite Gateway at Tel Dan (Adrianlw)

Josh 18:1-10 The Ark of the Covenant and the Tent of the LORD's presence (see Genesis 26:1) are set up at Shiloh between Bethel and Shechem (see Map 49). This becomes the principal sanctuary during the time of the Judges. Samuel's parents, for example, join the annual pilgrimage to Shiloh (see 1 Samuel 4:3).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Josh 18:11-19:51 The remainder of the land is allocated amongst the tribes of Israel.

Josh 20:1-9 Six 'cities of refuge' are set up, to which a man can escape if he kills someone accidentally (see Map 49). The man must stand trial before the city's assembly, but must not be handed over to anyone seeking to avenge the blood of a relative if he killed his victim unintentionally.

Josh 21:1-45 Forty-eight cities, with the surrounding pasture lands, are assigned to the levites (see Numbers 35:1-5) including the six 'cities of refuge'. They include Hebron, Libnah, Debir, Beth Shemesh, Gibeon, Shechem, Gezer, Beth Horon, Golan, Kedesh in Galilee, and Ramoth in Gilead.

Stone steles at Gezer (הניאוליתי)

The Cities of Refuge

When the 'promised land' of Canaan was divided up amongst the twelve tribes of Israel after the conquest in c.1406BC, the levites, who served the other tribes by their priestly functions, received no exclusive territory. Instead, they were allocated forty-eight cities and the surrounding grazing lands within the other tribal areas (see Joshua 14:3-4 & 21:1-45).

Six of these cities were also designated as 'cities of refuge' to which a man could escape if he killed another person accidentally (see Map 49 & Numbers 35:6-15). The six 'cities of refuge' were

To the west of the Jordan:

Kedesh in Galilee, in the territory of Naphtali
Shechem in the hill country of the tribe of Ephraim Hebron (Kiriath Arba) in the territory of Judah

To the east of the Jordan: (see also Deuteronomy 4:43)

Bezer in the territory of the tribe of Reuben
Ramoth in Gilead, in the territory of Gad
Golan in Bashan, in the territory of Manasseh

Remains at Beth Shemesh (ישי טייכר)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Josh 22:1-8 Joshua sends the tribes of Reuben, Gad and East Manasseh home to Gilead and Bashan on the east bank of the River Jordan (see Map 49).

Josh 22:9 The eastern tribes leave the other tribes at Shiloh (see Map 49).

Josh 22:10-14 Before crossing the River Jordan they build an imposing altar at Geliloth (meaning 'circle' of stones). This may be the same site as Gilgal (also meaning a 'circle' of stones) (see Joshua 4:20).

The western tribes object that the eastern tribes have set up an alternative altar to the one at Shiloh (see Joshua 18:1) and send Phinehas – the son of Eleazar the priest – to investigate.

Josh 22:15-34 Phinehas accepts the eastern tribes' explanation and their reassurance that they will continue to offer their sacrifices to God at the sanctuary at Shiloh. The replica altar at Geliloth is called "Proof that we believe the LORD is God" (Joshua 22:34).

Josh 23:1-16 Joshua summons the elders of Israel. He reminds them to remain faithful to the LORD their God – or calamity will strike.

Josh 24:1-27 Joshua gathers all the people together at Shechem for his final speech.

He sums up the journey so far – from Mesopotamia to Egypt, and from Moab to the conquest of Canaan – and urges the people to serve the LORD alone and to throw away their idols and foreign gods. Joshua renews the covenant at Shechem and sets up a large stone as a witness.

Josh 24:28-29 Joshua dies in c.1404BC and is buried at Timnath Serah in the hill country of Ephraim (the town he had been given as a personal reward after the conquest of Canaan) (see Joshua 19:49-50).

The hill country of Ephraim

Josh 24:31-32 Joseph's bones, brought from Egypt, are buried at Shechem in the field that Jacob bought from the sons of Hamor (see Genesis 33:19).

Josh 24:33 Eleazor dies and is buried at Gibeah in Ephraim.

[Source: https://www.thebiblejourney.org/biblejourney2/27-the-israelites-move-into-canaan/canaan-is-divided-among-the-twelve-tribes/]

The Twelve Tribes of Israel

http://www.israel-a-history-of.com/twelve-tribes-of-israel.html

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Did the tribe of Dan move? (Does Judges 18:1 contradict Joshua 19:48?)

A quick comparison of Judges 18:1 to Joshua 19:40-48 leaves the impression that the two passages are contradictory. However, there is no contradiction as a careful examination of scripture will prove.

Joshua 19:40-48 – Original Territory Given the Danites

Joshua 19:40 tells us that the tribe of Dan was the seventh tribe allowed to choose their territory. The territory is described in Joshua 19:41-47. Verse 48 gives us this report.

This was the inheritance of the tribe of the sons of Dan according to their families, these cities with their villages. Joshua 19:48 (NASB)

The territory the tribe of Dan selected was west of Jerusalem and extended to the Mediterranean Sea. It extended north of the territory assigned to Judah and south of the territory given to Ephraim.

Judges 1:34-35 – Tribe of Dan Could Not Occupying Territory

Joshua 1:34-35 reveals that the tribe of Dan was not able to fully occupy their territory due to the Amorites .

Then the Amorites forced the sons of Dan into the hill country, for they did not allow them to come down to the valley, yet the Amorites persisted in living in Mount Heres, in Aijalon and in Shaalbim; but when the power of the house of Joseph grew strong, they became forced labor. Judges 1:34-35 (NASB)

Also, the Philistines fought against the Danites (Judges 13:1; 14:4; 15:11). Judges 13:1 indicates that they were prevented from occupying their territory due to sin and God “gave them into the hands of the Philistines forty years.” Judges 14:4 states that the Philistines “were ruling over Israel,” that is, specially over the tribe of Dan.

The following quotes help us understand what happened to the tribe of Dan.

The plight of the tribe of Dan was first mentioned in [Judges] 1:34-35, where the Amorites prevented the Danites from taking possession of their inheritance. Caught in a squeeze between the Amorites and the Philistines to the west and the territory of Judah to the south, the Danites sought out a new homeland. They clearly felt that the boundary lines had not fallen for them “in pleasant places” (Ps. 16:6). Their desire to move revealed a lack of faith in the Lord who had allowed to them their original territory.[1]

So although land had been allotted to them, it had not fallen to them in the sense of fully becoming theirs, and their hold on the part of it they had managed to occupy became increasingly tenuous over time.[2]

The Danites were quite unable to occupy the territory located to them (Jos. 19:41-46) due to the opposition of the Amorites and pressure from the Philistines. Pressed up into the hill-country, they were confined to a very small area in the region of Zorah and Eshtaol . . .[3]

Continued next page…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Judges 18:1 – Tribe of Dan Moves To New Territory

Since the tribe of Dan could not fully occupy their allotted territory, due to their lack of faith and holiness, the tribe of Dan looked for new territory. Judges 18:1-31 describes their move to the north and the establishment of the city called Dan.

Conclusion:

The tribe of Dan is like some Christians who have been blessed with “every spiritual blessing in the heavenly places in Christ” (Ephesians 1:3). We have blessings in this life and not just in the future. That is also the message of 2 Peter 1:2-3.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Grace and peace be multiplied to you in the knowledge of God and of Jesus our Lord; seeing that His divine power has granted to us everything pertaining to life and godliness, through the true knowledge of Him who called us by His own glory and excellence. 2 Peter 1:2-3 (NASB)

Yet, many Christians struggle and complain, which is a sin (James 5:9). But we do not need to complain and be upset. 2 Peter 1:2-3 says Christians have been given everything related to life and godliness. We need to ask God to give us wisdom to understand how to appropriate our blessings.

[Source: https://www.neverthirsty.org/bible-qa/qa-archives/question/did-tribe-dan-move-does-judges18-1-contradict-joshua19-48/]

The Tribe of Dan

The tribe of Dan originally occupied land under Philistine influence. The Danites were unable to settle in the land, and eventually migrated to the northern city of Dan.

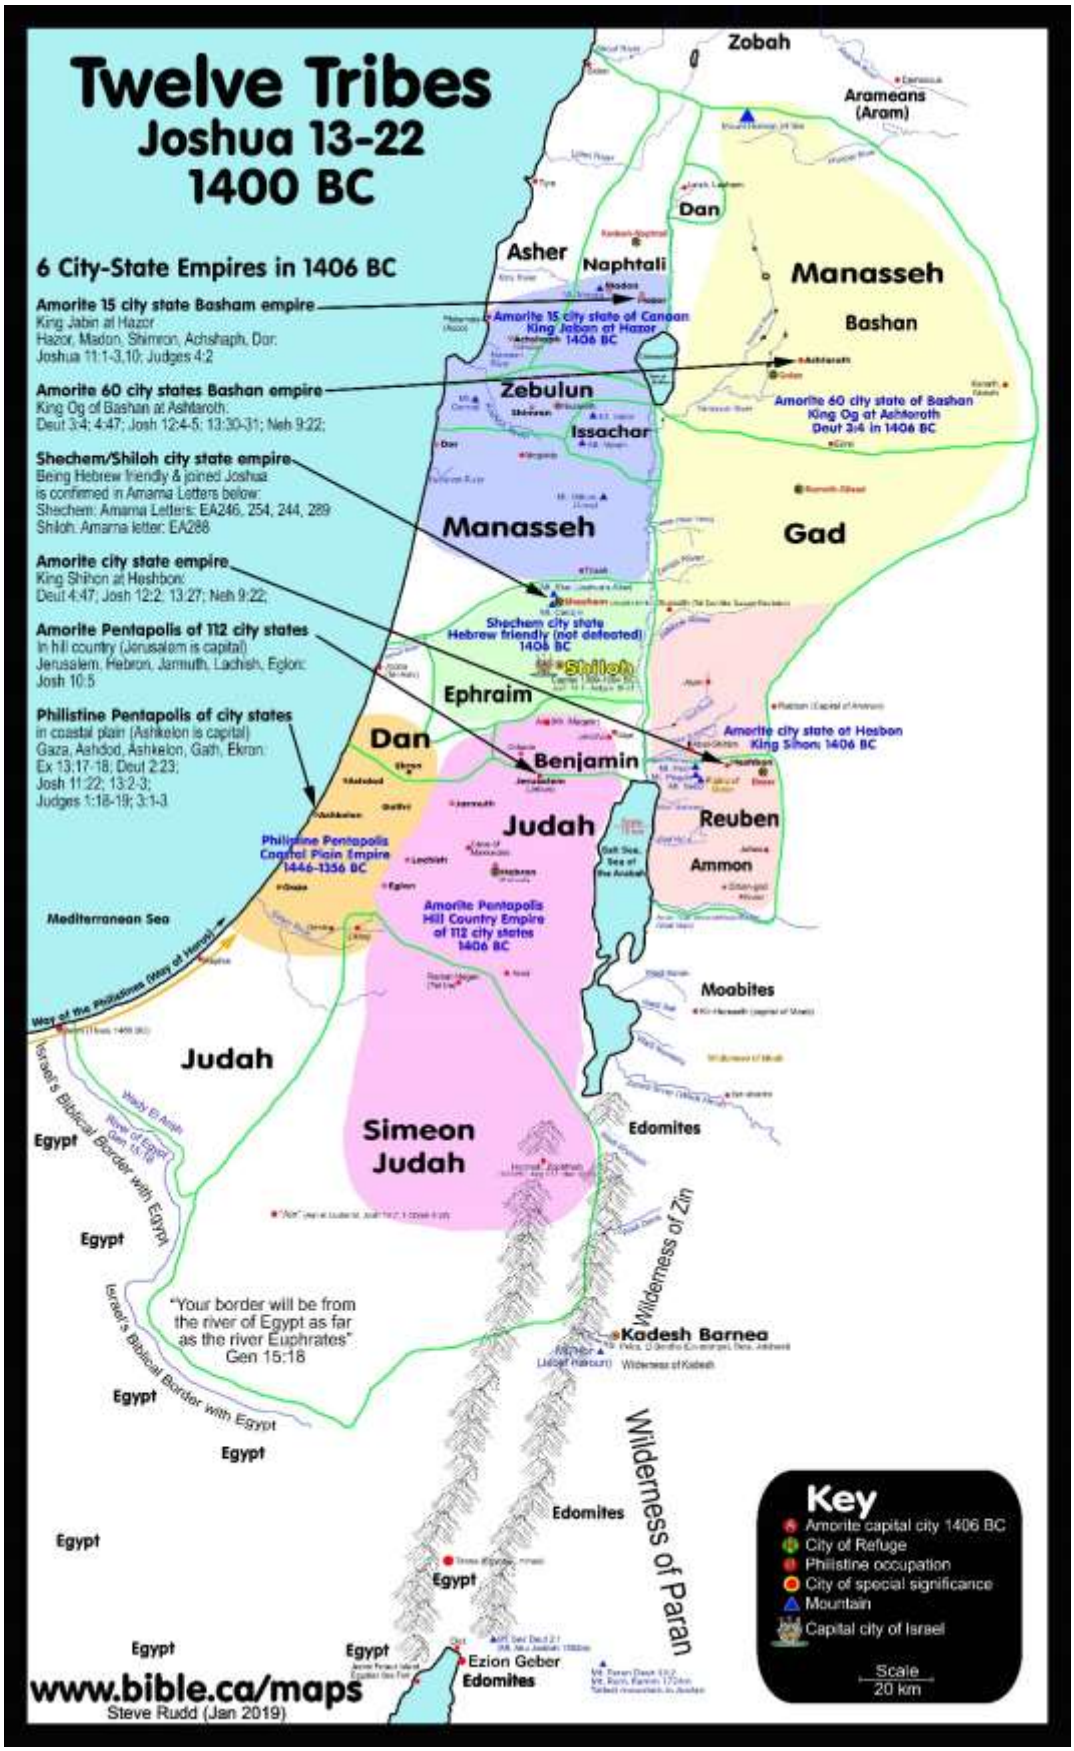
The Northern Kingdom of Israel. The tribe of Dan conquered Laish, renamed it Dan, and eventually built a temple in Dan, which has been unearthed by archaeologists.

A city map of the tribe of Dan. Notice the Philistines occupied cities (names in red) which cut the Danites in half. The tribe of Dan was unable to defeat the Philistines, and eventually migrated north.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The tribe of Dan faced threats from both Philistines and Canaanites in the north. They were unable to permanently settle their original allotment - thus migrated to the extreme north of Canaan near Mt. Herman.

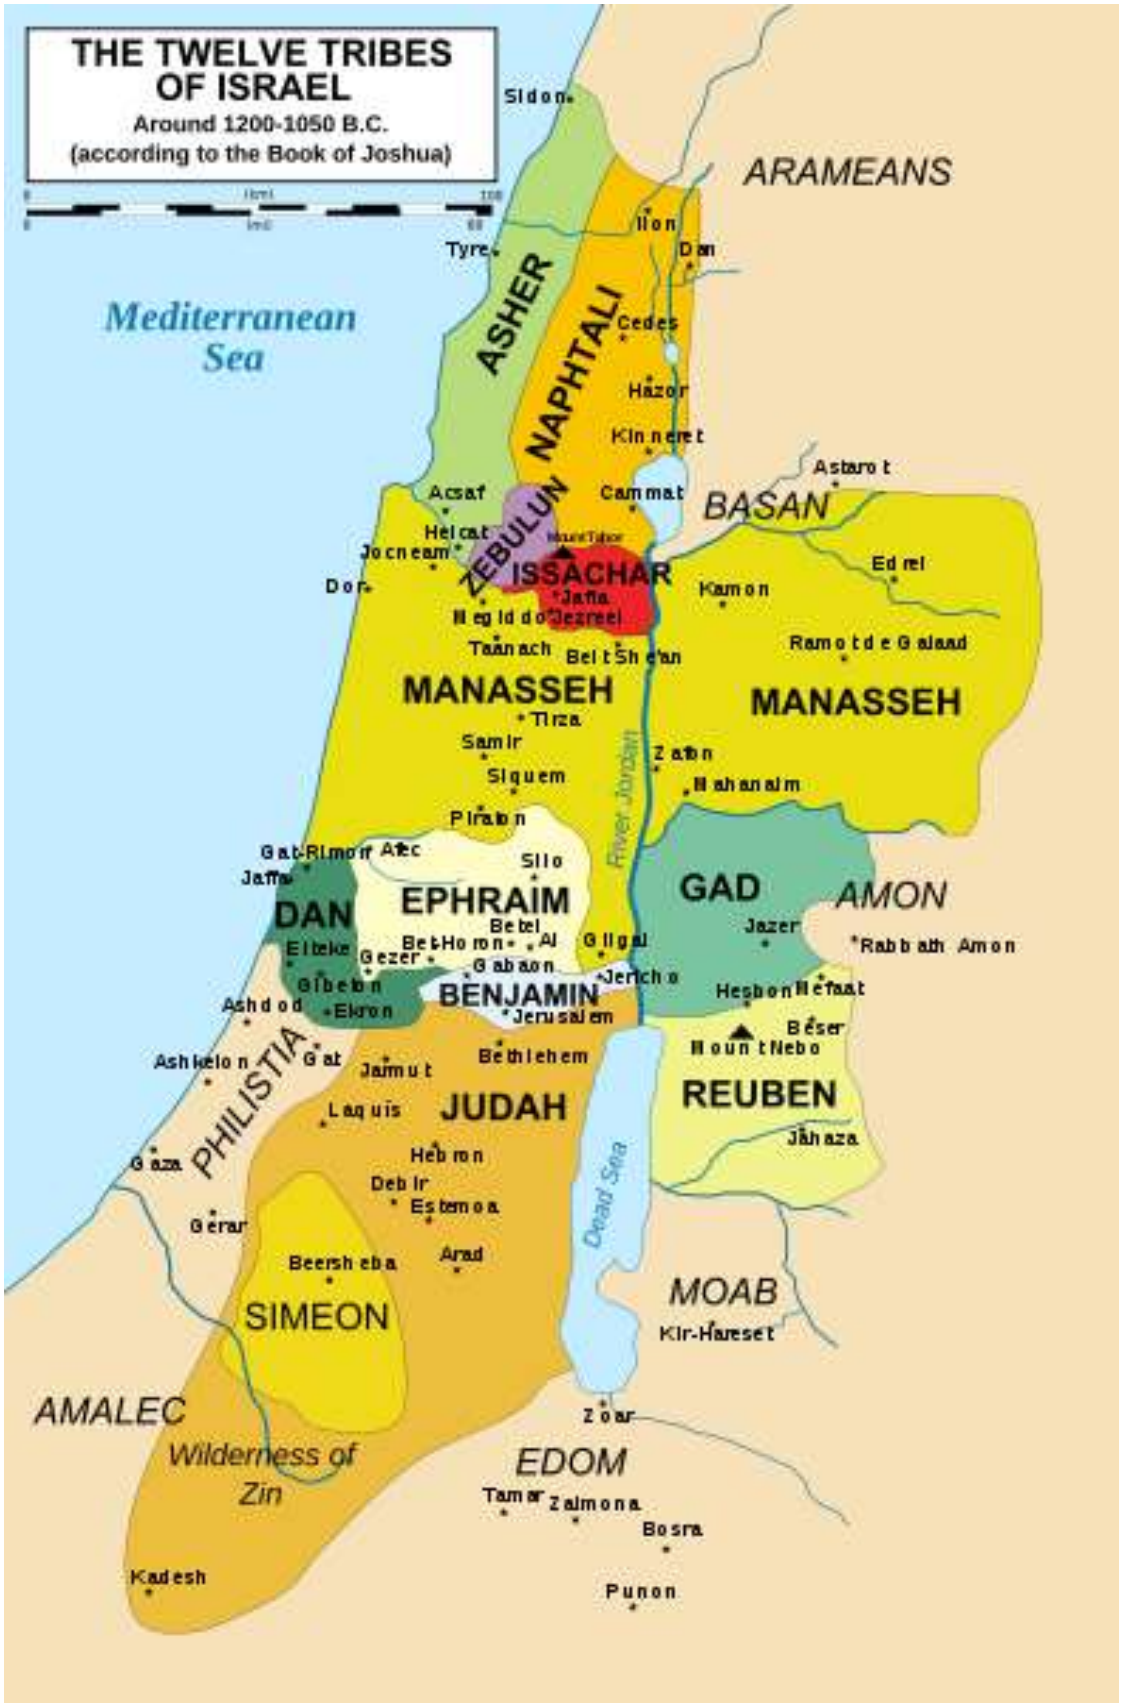
The tribe of Dan migrated from central to northern Canaan, settling near Mt. Herman. Ancient Laish would be renamed Dan after the Danites took the city.



The land has ancient ties to Israel and other cultures. This land, however, was not part of Dan's original allotment.

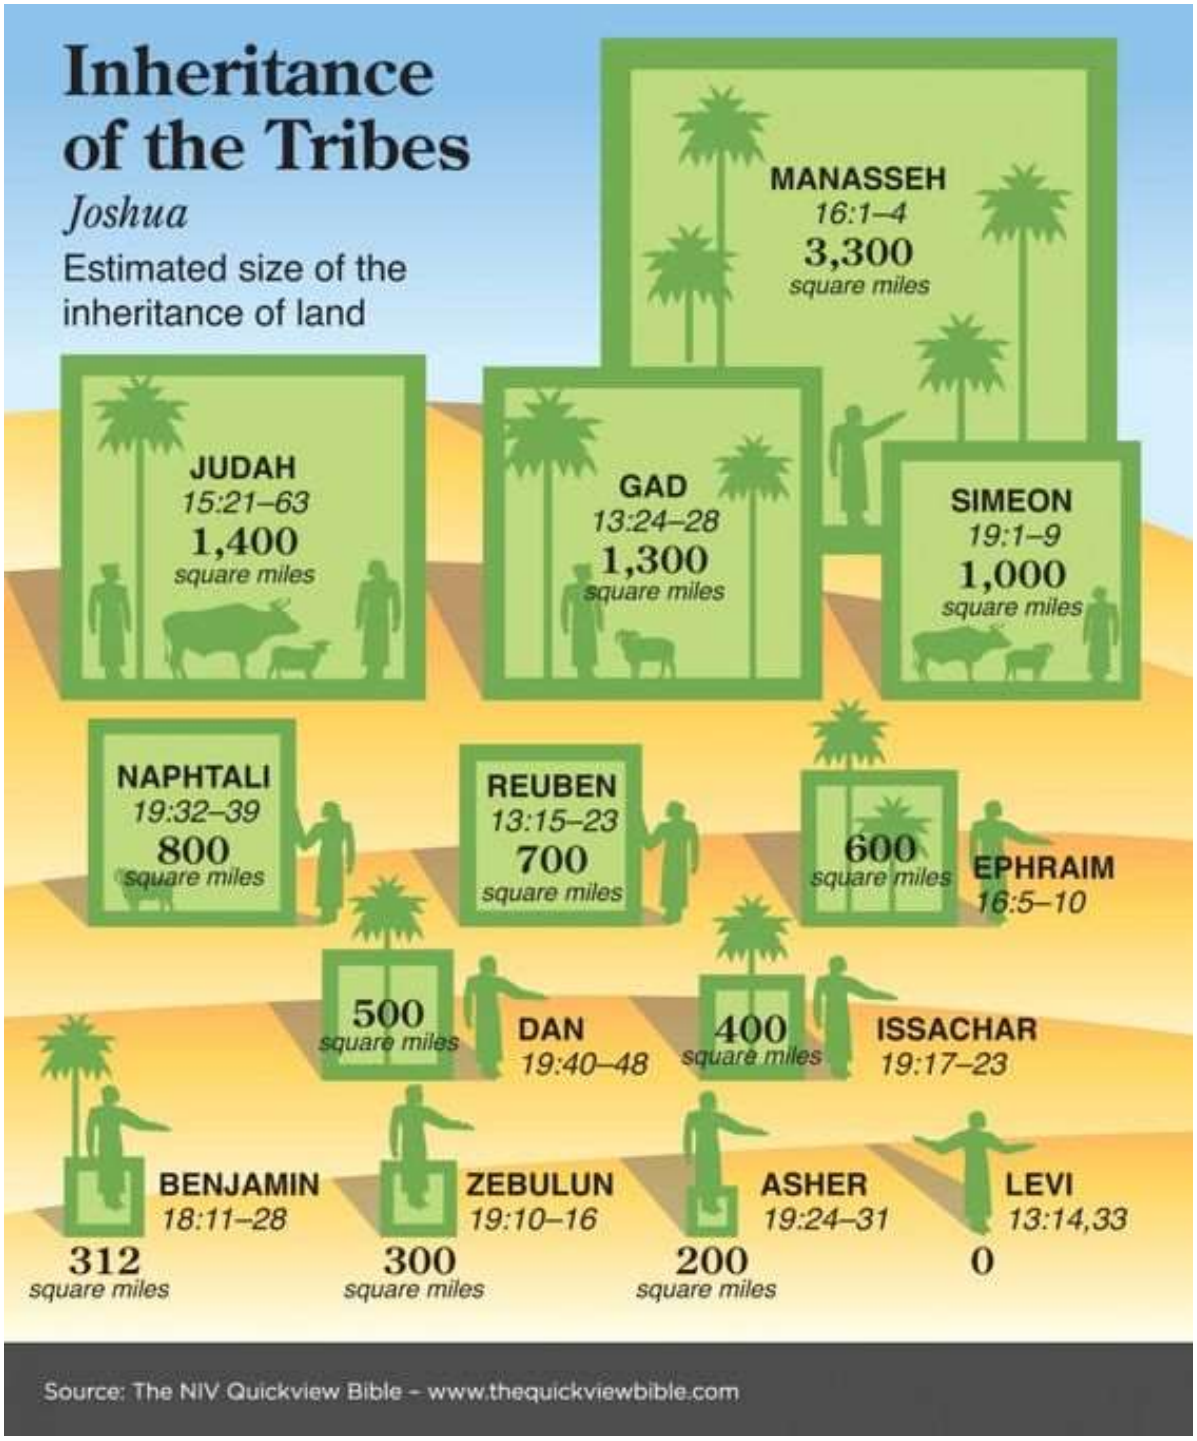
[Source: http://www.israel-a-history-of.com/tribe-of-dan.html]

What Can We Learn From the Tribe of Dan?
https://www.gotquestions.org/tribe-of-Dan.html



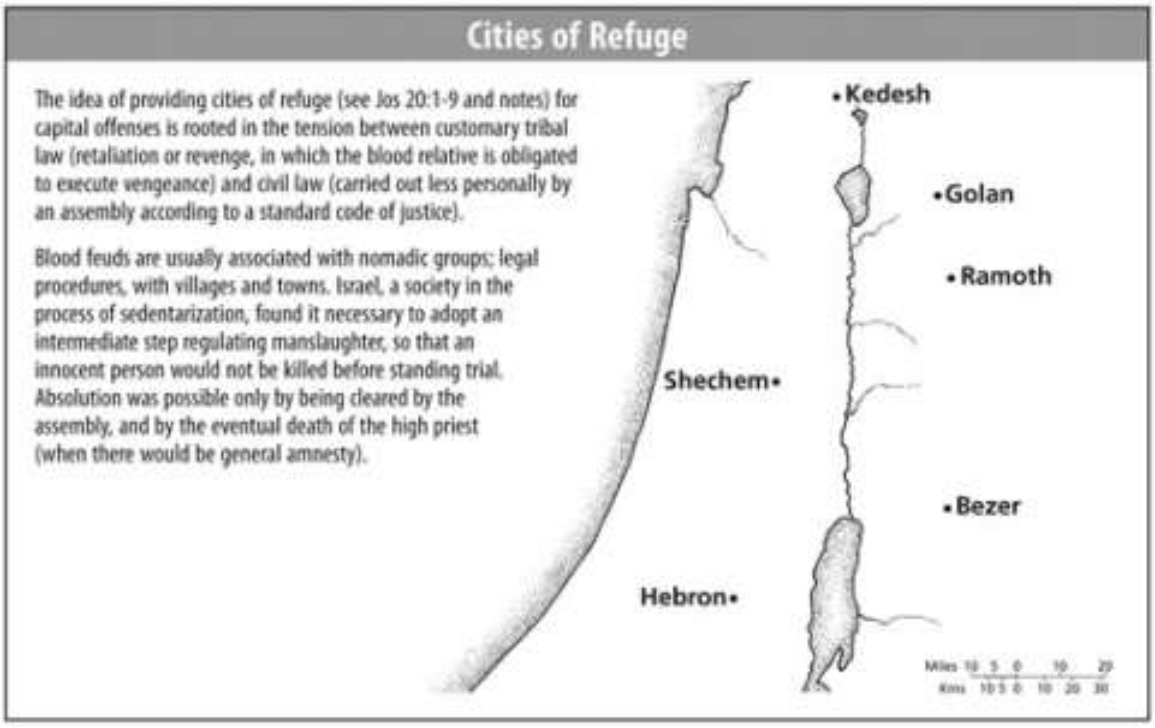
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Areas settled/claimed by the twelve tribes of Israel (dates approximate)



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

(note dates approximate)



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: ESV Study Bible note]

Cities of Refuge

Refuge Cities West of the Jordan River	Refuge Cities East of the Jordan River
Kedesh (in land of Naphtali)	Golan (in land of Bashan)
Shechem (in land of Manasseh)	Ramoth-Gilead (in land of Manasseh)
Hebron (in land of Judah)	Bezer (in land of Reuben)

God designated six 'cities of refuge' for the children of Israel (Joshua 20:7, Deuteronomy 4:41-43). Three of these were on the west side of the Jordan river and three others were on the east side. They were strategically placed so that anyone in Israel could flee to a city of refuge in a day or less. These Levitical cities were specially chosen as places where those who unintentionally killed a person (involuntary homicide) could flee to and be protected from the possibility of revenge.

Once they arrived in the refuge city those who accidently killed someone were to seek out the leaders in the area and explain to them what happened. The city's leadership was then responsible to give the person a place to live. They were also strictly forbidden from handing the person over to anyone who wanted to exact revenge over the unfortunate death. God then laid out the conditions for the Israelites by which the person who (not in anger) killed another human could leave the city.

> 6 You may stay in the city until you have received a public trial and until the death of the man who is then the High Priest. Then you may go back home to your own town, from which you had run away.' (Joshua 20)

[Source: http://www.biblestudy.org/maps/location-of-old-testament-events-large-map.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Livite Cities – as listed in Joshua 21

LEVITE CITIES - as listed in Joshua 21

Also listed in 1 Chron.6:45-81. Compiled by Asher Munger, 11/1/2013.

STRONG'S	No.	CITY	TRIBE	REFUGE	LEVITE BRANCH
H2275 (H704)	1	Hebron (city of Arba, given to Caleb)	Judah	yes	Aaron (Kohath)
H3841	2	Libnah	Judah	no	Aaron (Kohath)
H3492	3	Jattir	Judah	no	Aaron (Kohath)
H851	4	Eshtemoa	Judah	no	Aaron (Kohath)
H2473	5	Holon	Judah	no	Aaron (Kohath)
H1688	6	Debir	Judah	no	Aaron (Kohath)
H5871	7	Ain	Judah	no	Aaron (Kohath)
H3194	8	Juttah	Judah	no	Aaron (Kohath)
H1053	9	Beth-Shemesh	Judah	no	Aaron (Kohath)
H1391	10	Gibeon	Benjamin	no	Aaron (Kohath)
H1387	11	Geba	Benjamin	no	Aaron (Kohath)
H6068	12	Anathoth	Benjamin	no	Aaron (Kohath)
H5960	13	Almon	Benjamin	no	Aaron (Kohath)
H7927	14	Shechem (Mt Ephraim)	Ephraim	yes	Kohath
H1507	15	Gezer	Ephraim	no	Kohath
H6911	16	Kibzaim	Ephraim	no	Kohath
H1032	17	Beth-horon	Ephraim	no	Kohath
H514	18	Eltekeh	Dan	no	Kohath
H1405	19	Gibbethon	Dan	no	Kohath
H357	20	Aijalon	Dan	no	Kohath
H1667	21	Gath-rimmon	Dan	no	Kohath
H8590	22	Tanach	W. Manasseh	no	Kohath
H1667	23	Gath-rimmon	W. Manasseh	no	Kohath
H1474	24	Golan	E. Manasseh (Bashan)	yes	Gershon
H1203	25	Beesh-terah	E. Manasseh (Bashan)	no	Gershon
H7191	26	Kishon	Issachar	no	Gershon
H1705	27	Dabareh	Issachar	no	Gershon
H3412	28	Jarmuth	Issachar	no	Gershon
H5873	29	En-gannim	Issachar	no	Gershon
H4861	30	Mishal	Asher	no	Gershon
H5658	31	Abdon	Asher	no	Gershon
H2520	32	Helkath	Asher	no	Gershon
H7340	33	Rehob	Asher	no	Gershon
H6943	34	Kadesh/Kedesh (in Galilee)	Naphtali	yes	Gershon
H2576	35	Hammoth-Dor	Naphtali	no	Gershon
H7178	36	Kartan	Naphtali	no	Gershon
H3362	37	Jokneam	Zebulon	no	Merari
H7177	38	Kartah	Zebulon	no	Merari
H1829	39	Dimnah	Zebulon	no	Merari
H5096	40	Nahalal	Zebulon	no	Merari
H1221	41	Bezer	Reuben	yes	Merari
H3096	42	Jahazah	Reuben	no	Merari
H6932	43	Kedemoth	Reuben	no	Merari
H4158	44	Mephaath	Reuben	no	Merari
H7433	45	Ramoth (Gilead)	Gad	yes	Merari
H4266	46	Mahanaim	Gad	no	Merari
H2809	47	Heshbon	Gad	no	Merari
H3270	48	Jazer	Gad	no	Merari

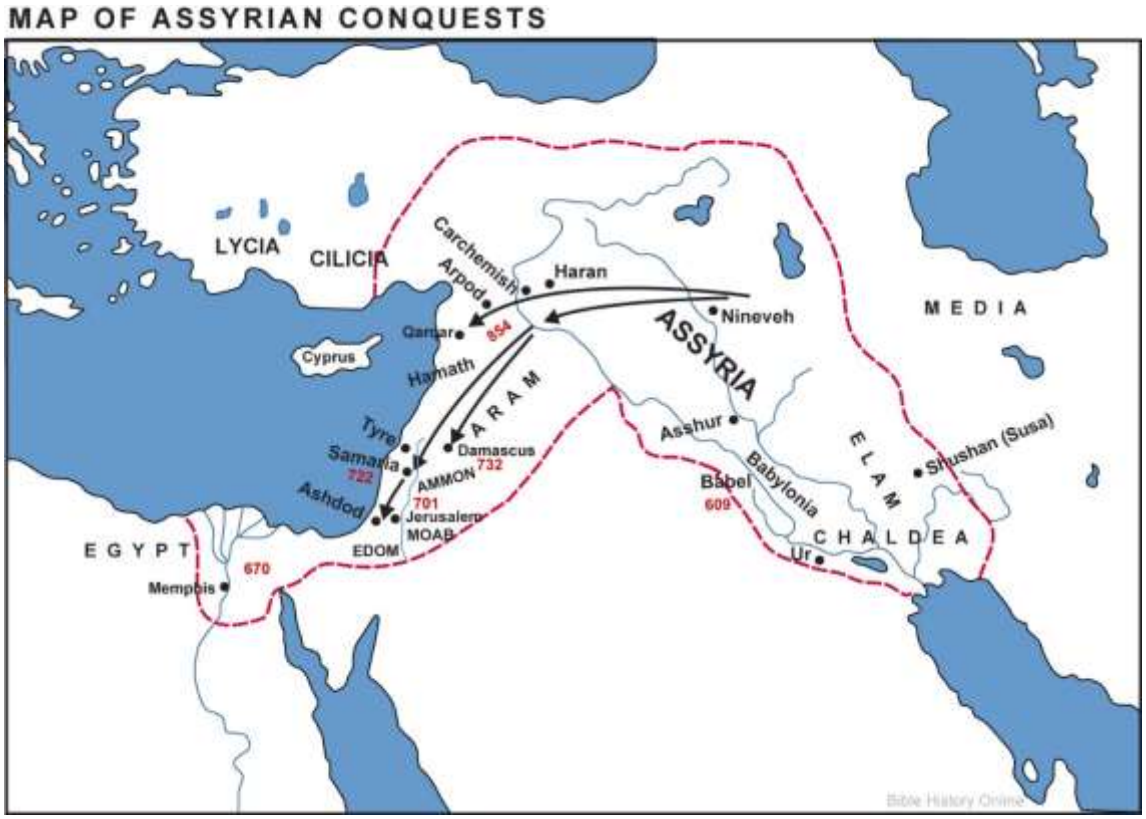
[Sources: https://s-media-cache-ak0.pinimg.com/originals/a9/e3/92/a9e3928c09dc1625f5b9174b91251687.jpg

and https://www.pinterest.com/pin/283304632783150479/]

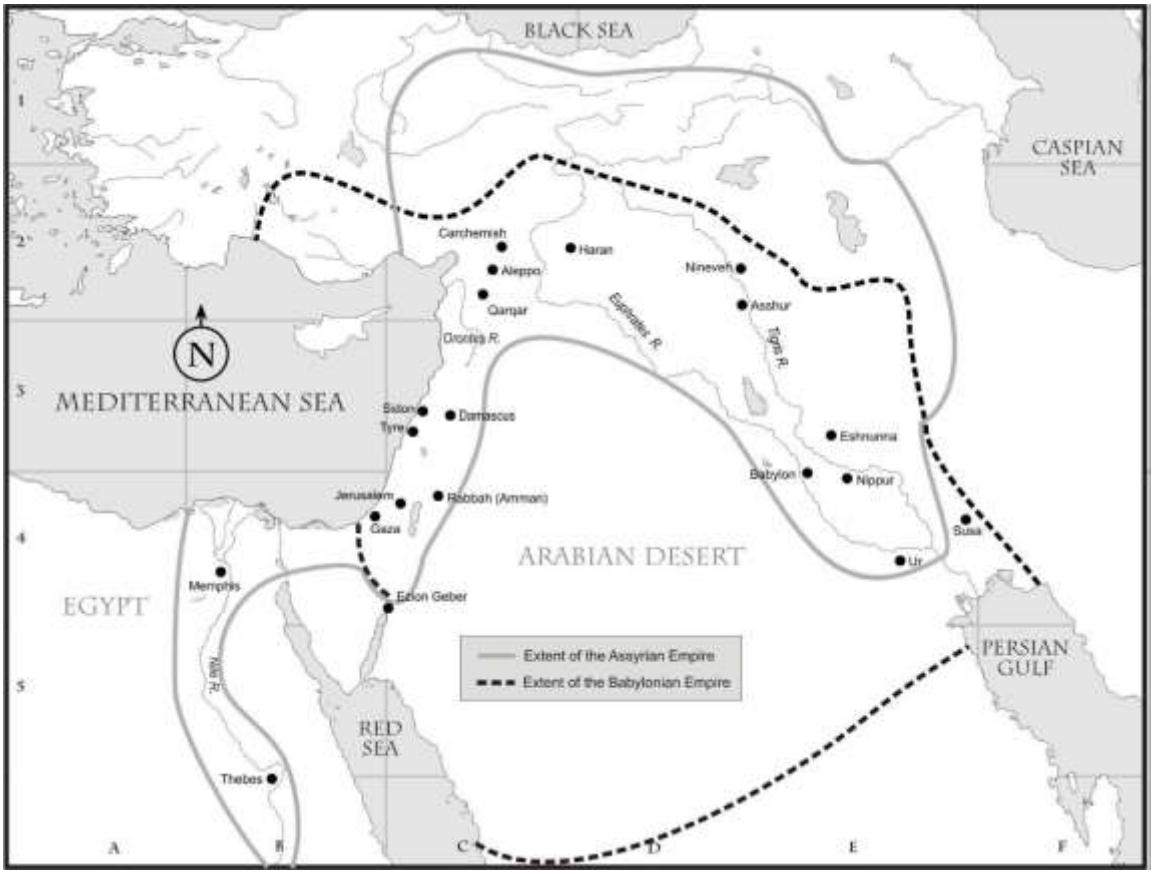
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Old Testament Events

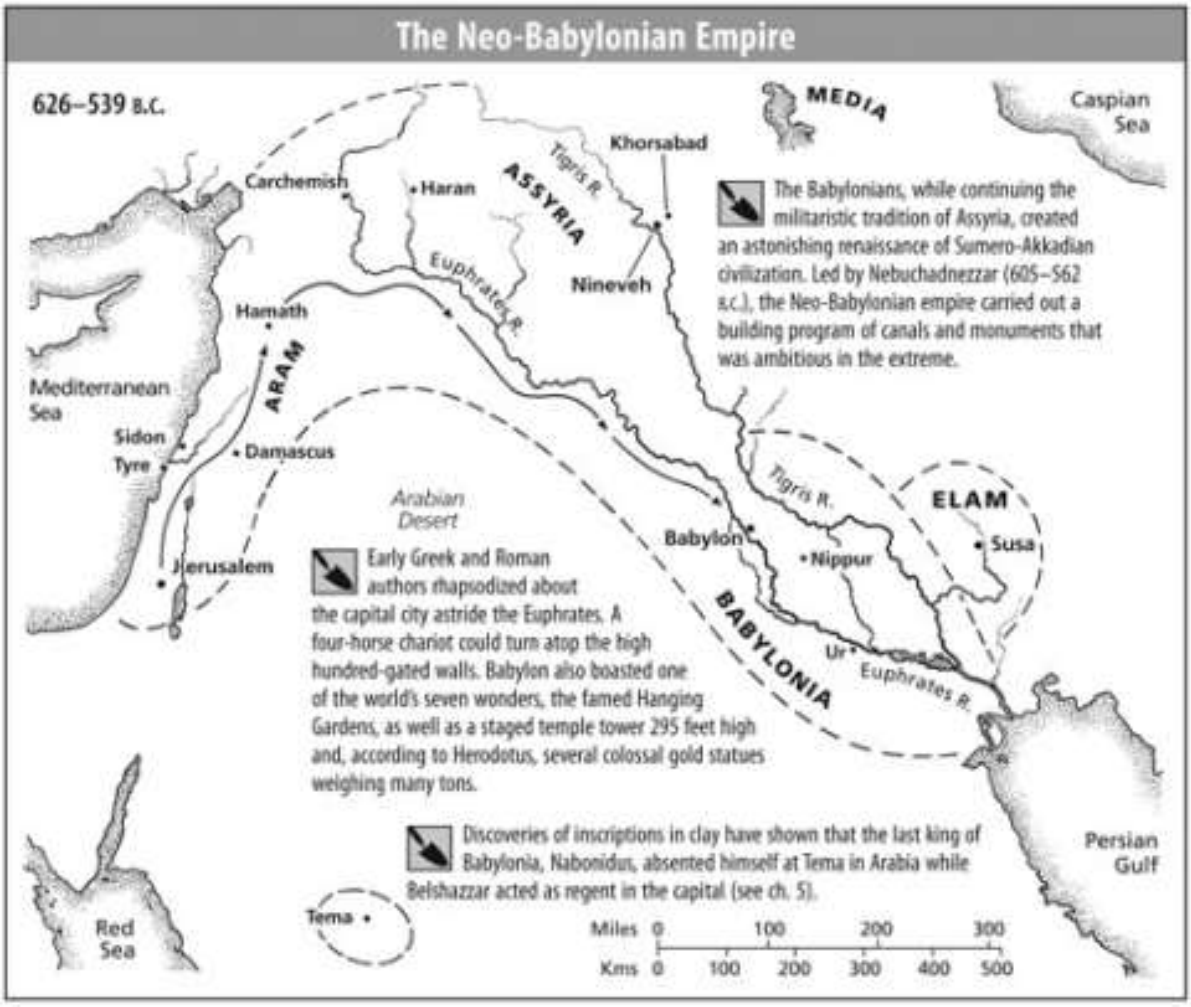
See also: The Promised Land, Exodus, 12 Tribes



Source: [http://www.biblestudy.org/maps/location-of-old-testament-events-large-map.html]

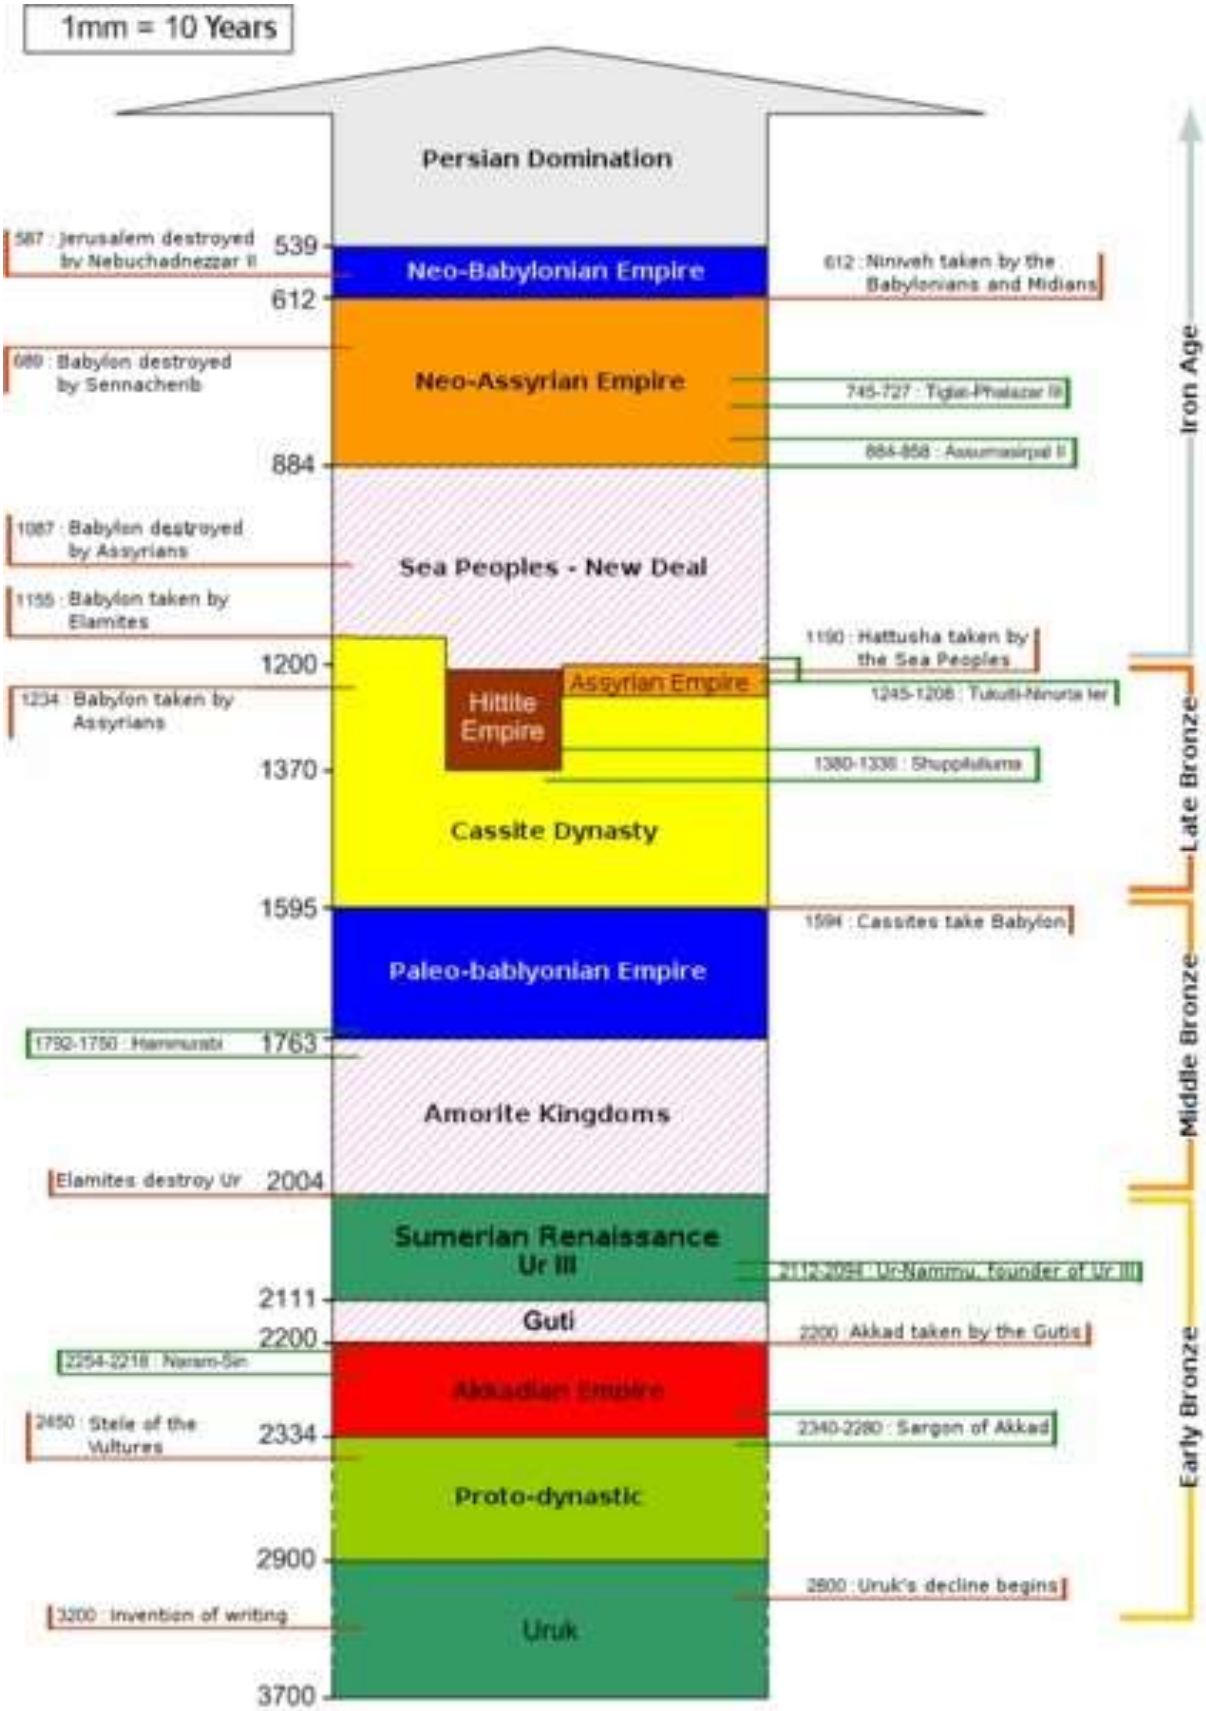


Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

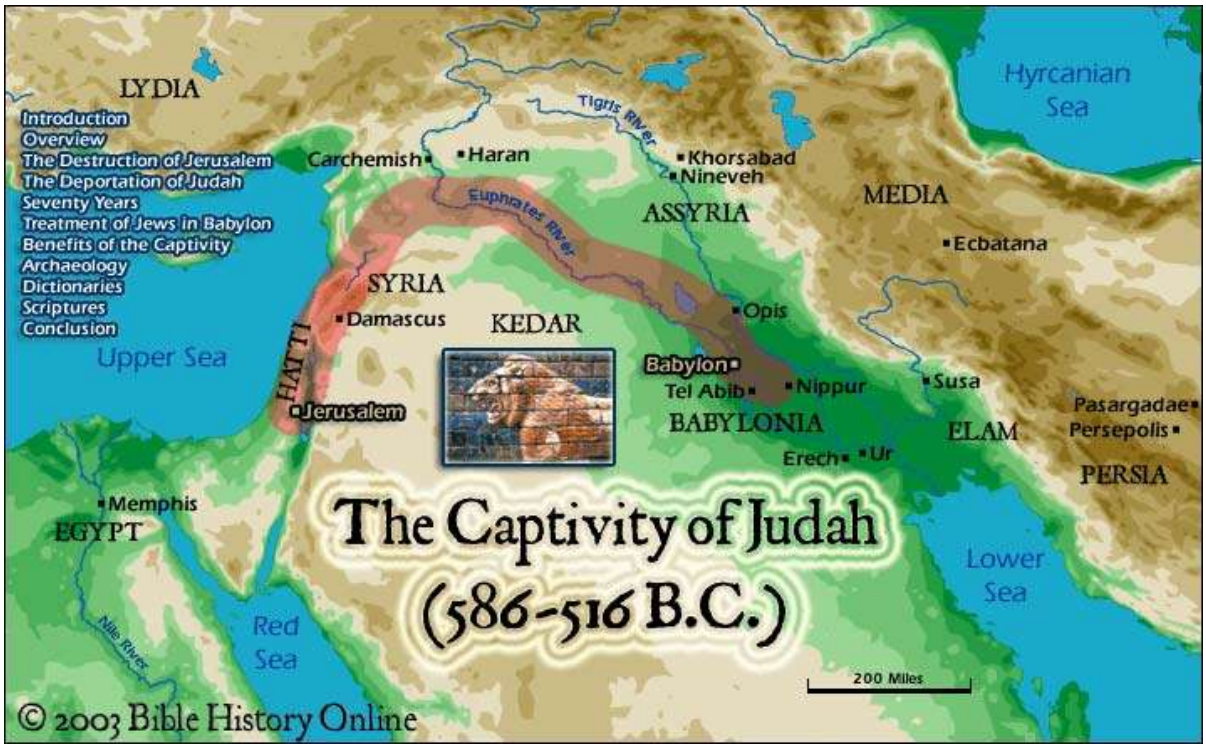


Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Babylonian / Assyrian Empires



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



[Source: NIV '08 Study Bible Notes]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Mesopotamian Chronology

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

http://www.bible-history.com/map_babylonian_captivity/map_of_the_deportation_of_judah_treatment_of_the_jews_in_babylon.html

Because of the Babylonian Captivity, Babylonia became the most important center of Jewish life during the Exile. We know a bit about Jewish thought and life because of some Jewish communities in Egypt, but virtually nothing from the Assyrian Captivity in 722 B.C. and of the 10 lost tribes.

The Jewish people survived in Babylon because the Babylonian policy allowed the Jews to settle in towns and villages along the Chebar River, which was an irrigation channel. The Jews were allowed to live together in communities, they were allowed to farm and perform other sorts of labor to earn income. Many Jews eventually became wealthy. This was probably because of the influence of certain Jews who ministered in the palace of Babylon, like Daniel and his friends. It is also likely that the Lord purposed that the Jews would settle down there and get comfortable. Then after the 70 years were complete it would be a test of faith to pick up and return to Jerusalem.

In any case the Jews were treated well, and tablets were found near the Ishtar Gate which indicate that even in captivity Jehoiachin was referred to as the "king of Judah" and he received abundant food supplies from the royal storehouse.

During captivity the Jews were encouraged by the prophet Jeremiah from Jerusalem to take wives, build houses, plant gardens and take wives and take advantage of their situation because they were going to be there for seventy years:

Jeremiah 29:4-11

4 Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, to all who were carried away captive, whom I have caused to be carried away from Jerusalem to Babylon:
5 Build houses and dwell in them; plant gardens and eat their fruit.
6 Take wives and beget sons and daughters; and take wives for your sons and give your daughters to husbands, so that they may bear sons and daughters -- that you may be increased there, and not diminished.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

7 And seek the peace of the city where I have caused you to be carried away captive, and pray to the LORD for it; for in its peace you will have peace.
8 For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Do not let your prophets and your diviners who are in your midst deceive you, nor listen to your dreams which you cause to be dreamed.
9 For they prophesy falsely to you in My name; I have not sent them, says the LORD.
10 For thus says the LORD: After seventy years are completed at Babylon, I will visit you and perform My good word toward you, and cause you to return to this place.

The Exile was truly God's punishment to a rebellious people but they were to learn the lesson from His chastisement, and maintain hope for the coming redemption. But many were discouraged, as written in the Psalms:

Ps 137

1 By the rivers of Babylon, There we sat down, yea, we wept When we remembered Zion.
2 We hung our harps Upon the willows in the midst of it.
3 For there those who carried us away captive asked of us a song, And those who plundered us requested mirth, Saying, "Sing us one of the songs of Zion!"
4 How shall we sing the LORD's song In a foreign land?

They were to keep their hope alive and not be assimilated into the Babylonian way of life. To prevent this and to preserve their identity the religious leaders had Scribes copy the Scriptures. They also wrote much literature and taught the people to observe the Sabbath and to circumcise their male children.

In the Book of II Kings we read of the deportation of the Jews from their land to the land of Babylon, and then the Book ends 37 years later with the account of Jehoiachin who was blinded and in captivity in Babylon. After 30 years of imprisonment, Evil-merodach ascended the throne of Babylon and at the beginning of his rule he chose to honor the Judean prisoner Jehoiachin. The Jewish king was given appropriate garments and an income and made a member of the court of Babylon, with other deposed kings. This was no doubt a comforting sign to the Jewish captives who were still in the "land of bondage."

In all actuality it was the Lord who had given favor to Jehoiachin, and it was the Lord that had allowed the promised Seed (Messiah) to pass through the loins of Jehoiachin as Matthew states:

Matt 1:11-16

11 Josiah begot Jeconiah (Jehoiachin) and his brothers about the time they were carried away to Babylon.
12 And after they were brought to Babylon, Jeconiah (Jehoiachin) begot Shealtiel, and Shealtiel begot Zerubbabel.
13 Zerubbabel begot Abiud, Abiud begot Eliakim, and Eliakim begot Azor.
14 Azor begot Zadok, Zadok begot Achim, and Achim begot Eliud.
15 Eliud begot Eleazar, Eleazar begot Matthan, and Matthan begot Jacob.
16 And Jacob begot Joseph the husband of Mary, of whom was born Jesus who is called Christ.

God was faithful to His promises that they would remain in the land of Babylon for seventy years, and the "Son of David" would still come to bring salvation to the world.

Even in bitter captivity there was hope for God's people, the promises were being fulfilled and the Scriptures continued to be written:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Ps 137:1-6

1 By the rivers of Babylon, There we sat down, yea, we wept When we remembered Zion.
2 We hung our harps Upon the willows in the midst of it.
3 For there those who carried us away captive asked of us a song, And those who plundered us requested mirth, Saying, "Sing us one of the songs of Zion!"
4 How shall we sing the LORD's song In a foreign land?
5 If I forget you, O Jerusalem, Let my right hand forget its skill!
6 If I do not remember you, Let my tongue cling to the roof of my mouth -- If I do not exalt Jerusalem Above my chief joy.

Timeline of the Babylonian Captivity:

612 Babylonians and Medes conquer Assyria

605 Babylonians battle Egyptians at Carchemish

605 Nebuchadnezzar becomes king of Babylon

605 The Babylonians invade Judah

605 First wave of deportation of Jews to Babylon

605 Daniel is taken captive and begins to prophesy

601 Babylonians battle Egypt, both sides suffer losses

601 Judah decides to realign itself with Egypt, Jeremiah warns

597 Jehoachin becomes king of Judah

597 Babylonians capture Jerusalem

597 Second wave of deportation to Babylon from Judah.

597 Ezekiel is taken captive to Babylon

597 Zedekiah becomes king of Judah

593 Ezekiel begins to prophesy

586 The Babylonians destroy Jerusalem and the Temple (9th of Av)

586 Jerusalem’s walls and gates are burned with fire

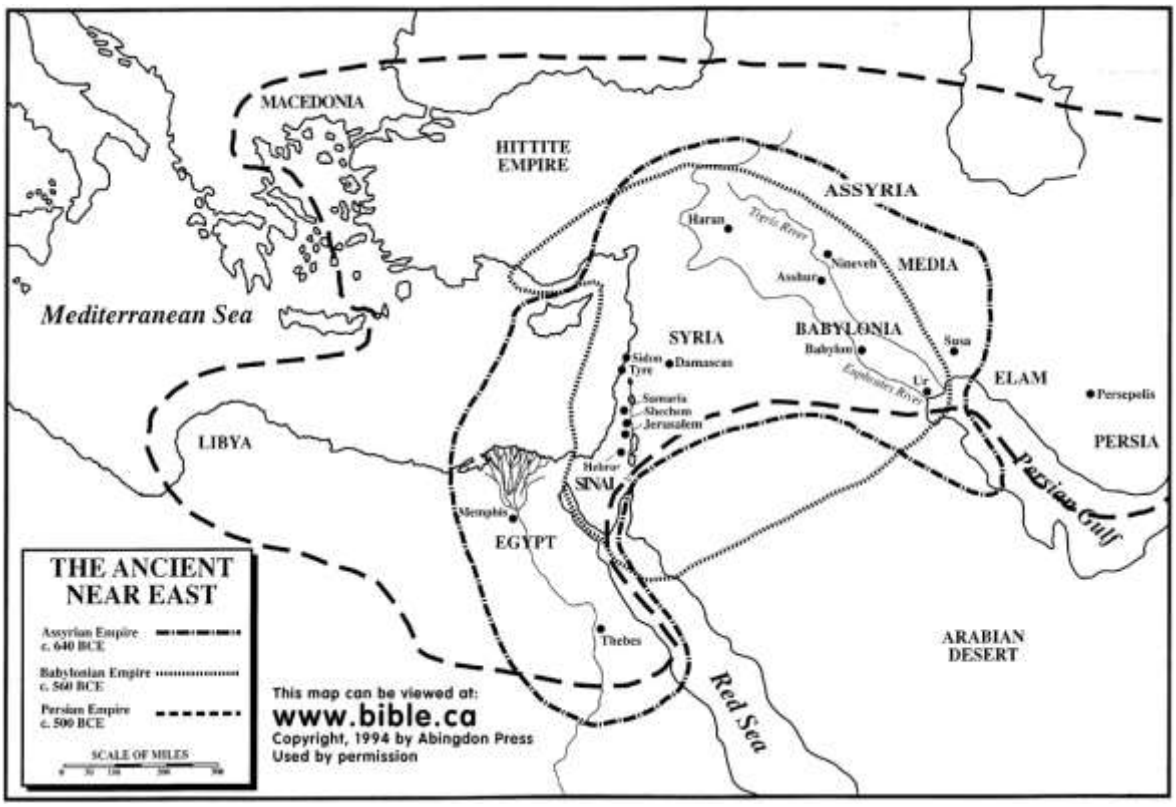
586 Third wave of Jews deported to Babylon

586 Babylonian Exile (Galut Bavel) begins

586 End of Biblical (First Temple) Period

586 The end of the monarchy in Judah

539 The Fall of Babylon



539 Beginning of the Persian Period to 332

539 The Decree of Cyrus II allowing Jews to return

516 The Jews rebuild their Temple (70 years)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Assyrian -> Babylonian -> Persian Empires

Assyria was founded by colonists from Babylon and for many centuries was subject to, or in conflict with, Babylon. Assyria was a world empire from around 884 B.C. to the fall of Nineveh, its capital, in 612 B.C.

It was the Babylonian Empire that broke the power of Assyria, and, in its westward sweep, destroyed Judah and conquered Egypt. The Empire's capital was in Babylon and as a world power it lasted from 612 B.C. to 536 B.C. Cyrus, king of Persia, conquered Babylon in 539 B.C. The Persian Army took the Babylonian empire without a battle during the days of Babylon's King Nabonidas and his first son King Belshazar.

Note: The Modern nation of Iraq was the location of Nebuchadnezzar's Babylon while the neighboring modern nation of Iran was the location of Cyrus the Great's Media-Persia.

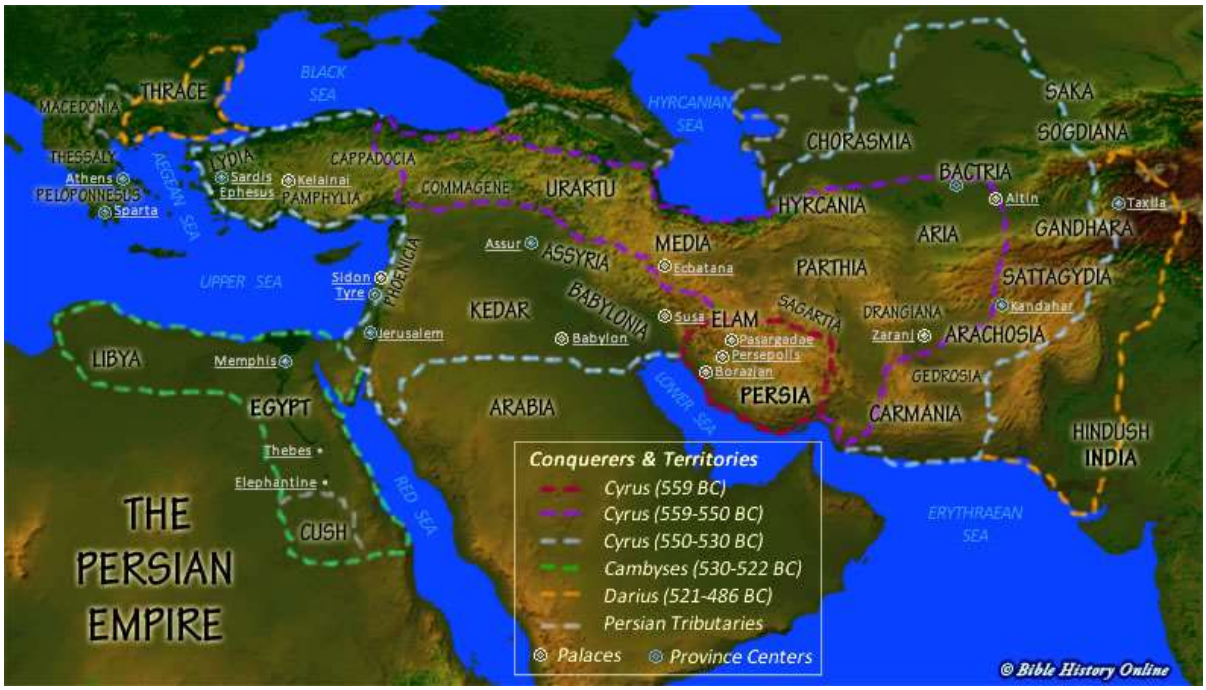
Media and Persia

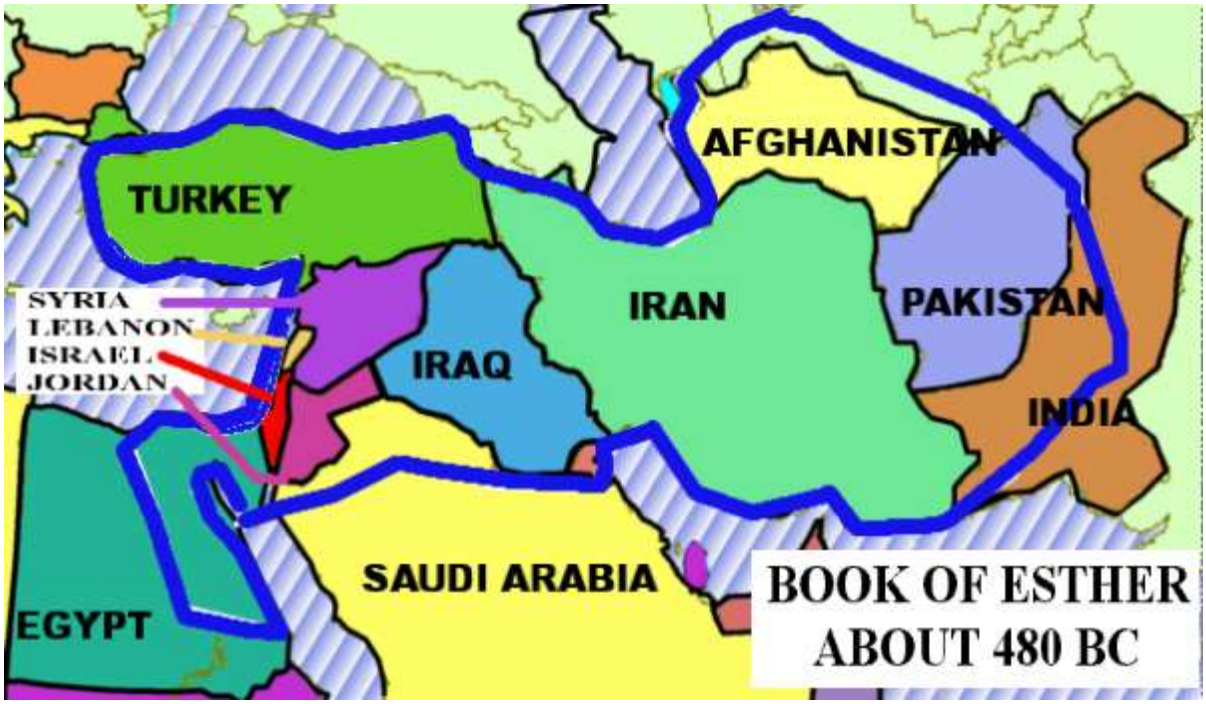
[Source: https://hope-of-israel.org/separatekingdoms.html]

1st Persian Empire



2nd Persian Empire (Sassanid)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

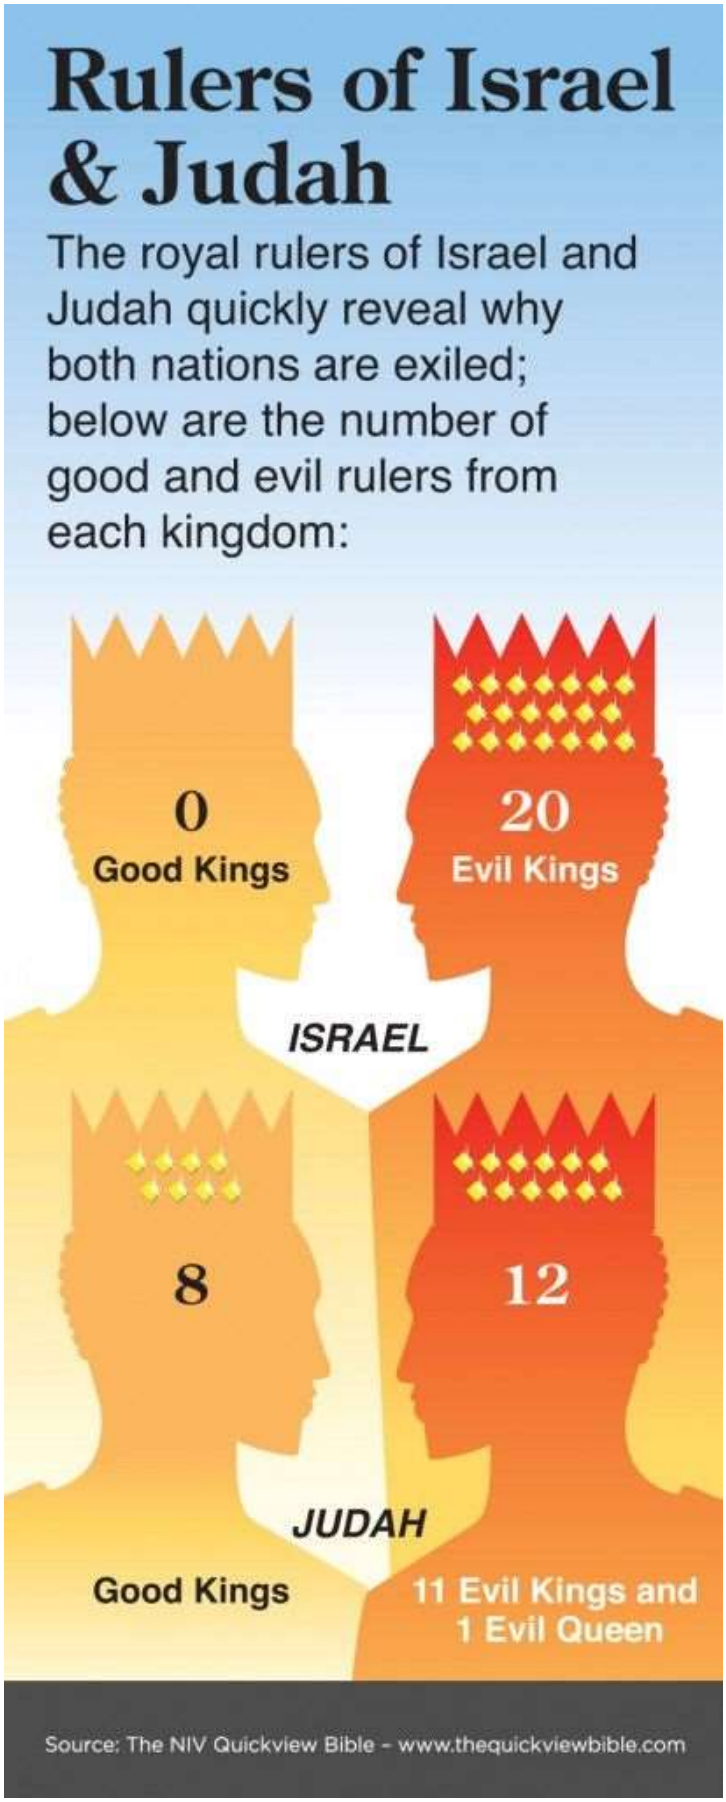


Map of the Persian Empire (550-486 B.C.)

[Source: https://www.bible-history.com/maps/maps/map_persian_empire.html]

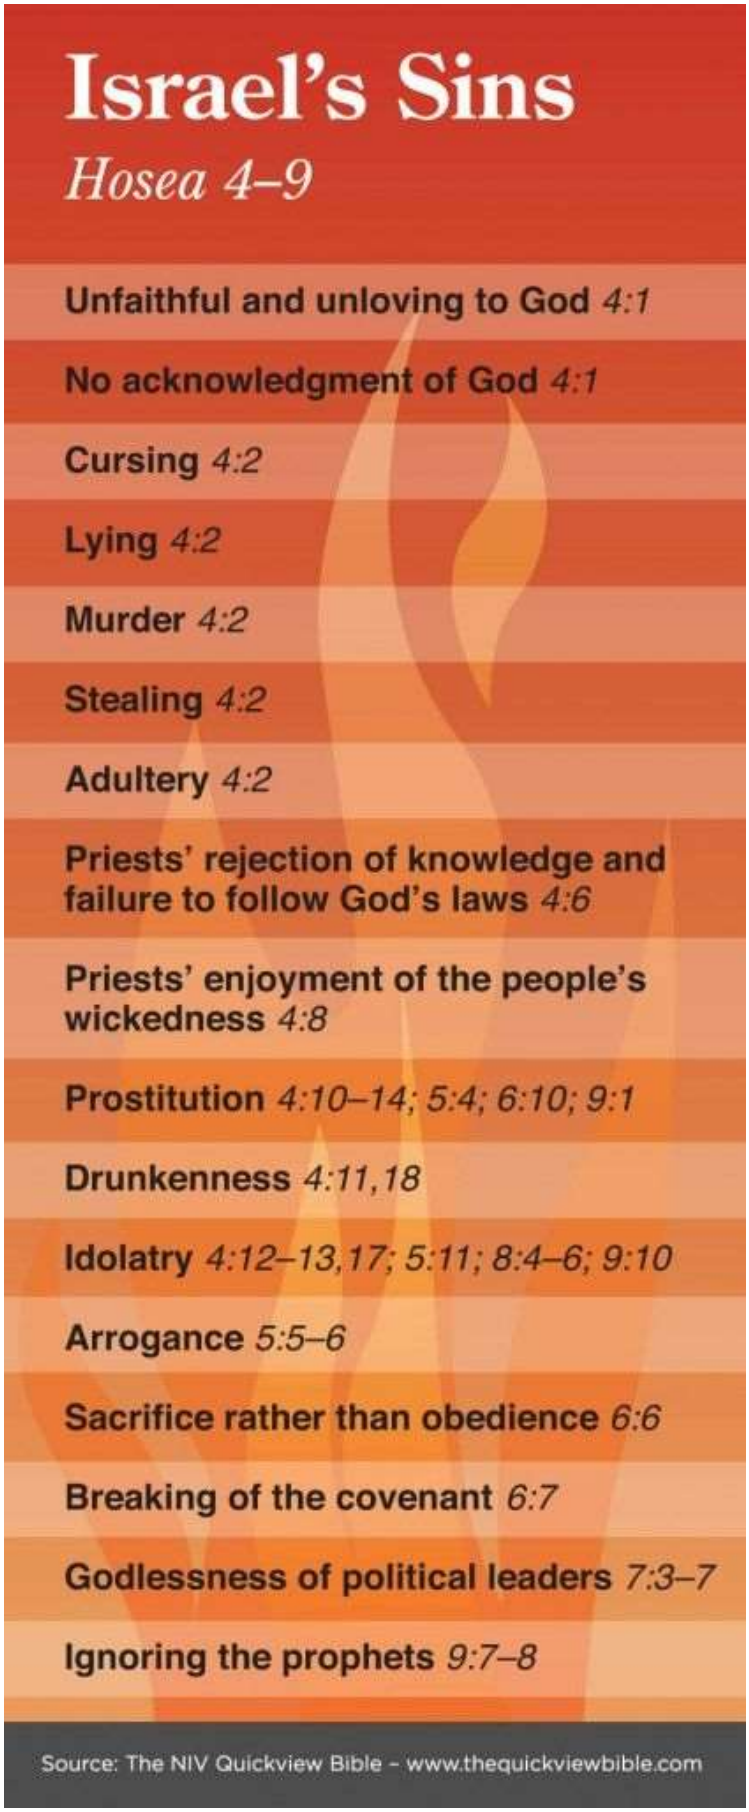
http://www.bible-history.com/map_babylonian_captivity/map_of_the_deportation_of_judah_treatment_of_the_jews_in_babylon.html

Persia about 480 BC



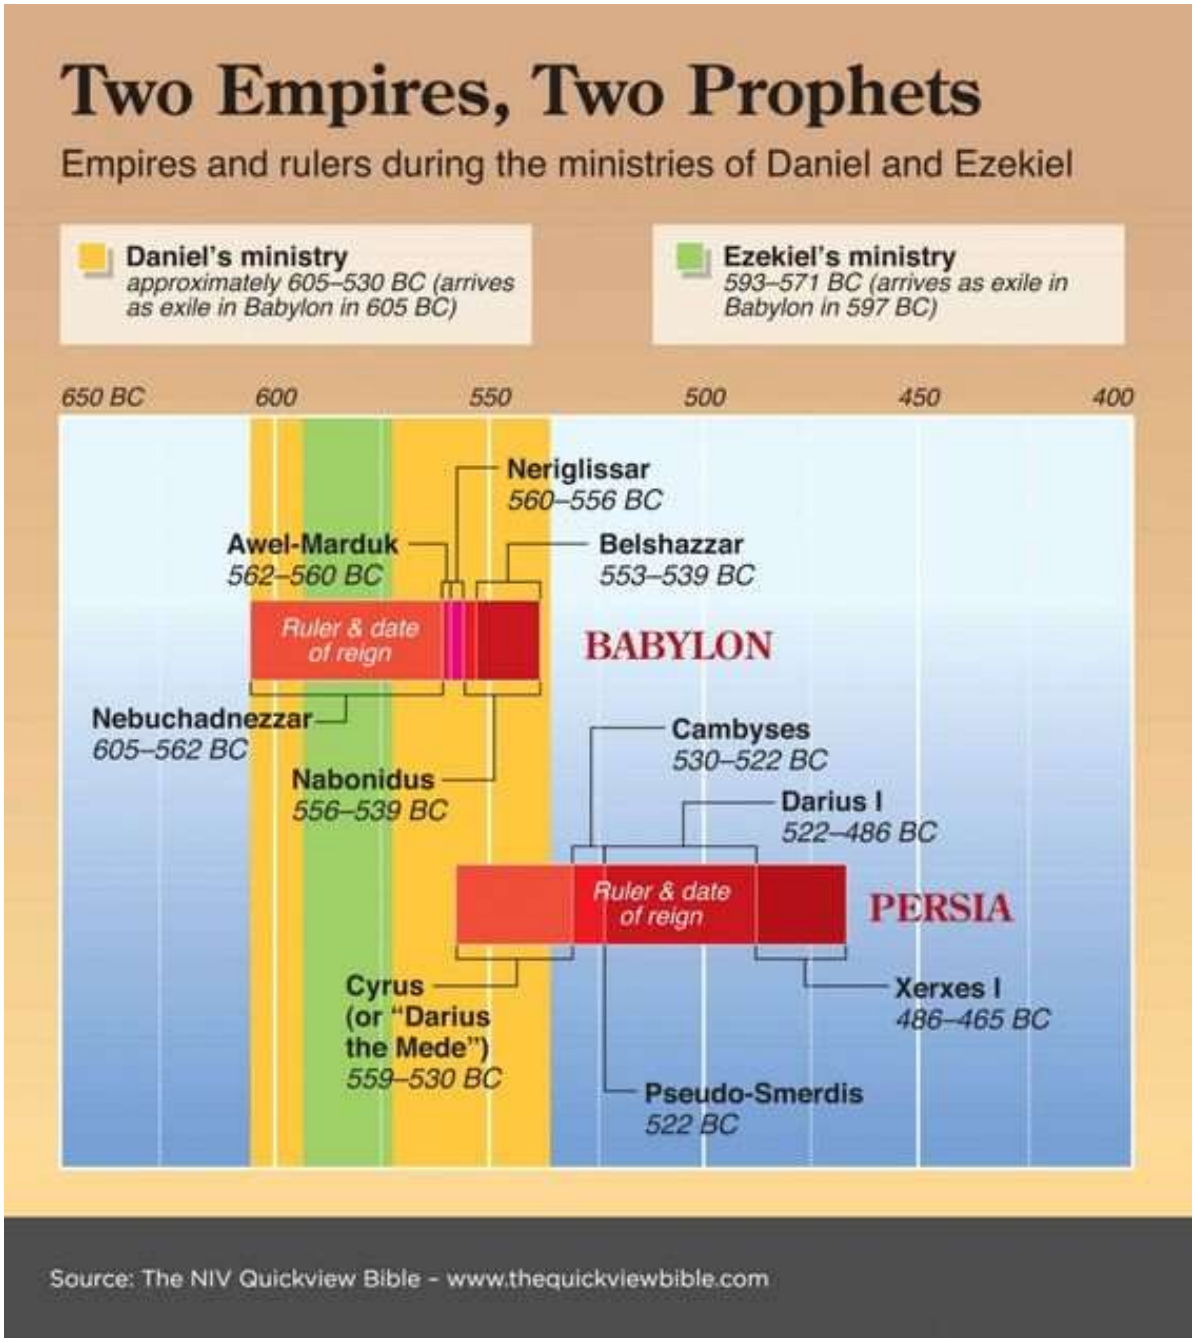
[Source: http://arab-israelites.tripod.com/cush.htm]

Source note: The problem with maps of ancient empires is, the boundaries of the empires all depend on who's map you are looking at. Do people actually create their own maps?... No, they copy the general outlines out of some one's book or chart, who created their maps by the same method.



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Rulers of Israel and Judah

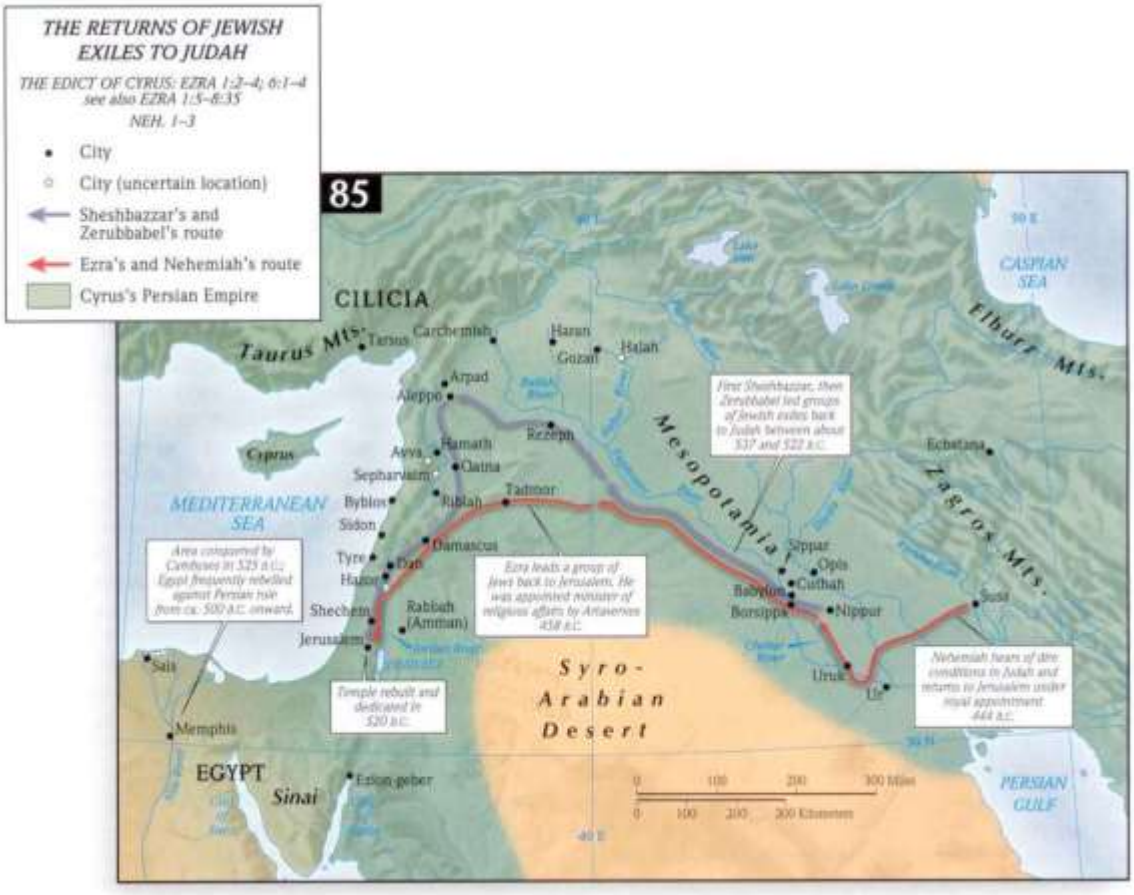


Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

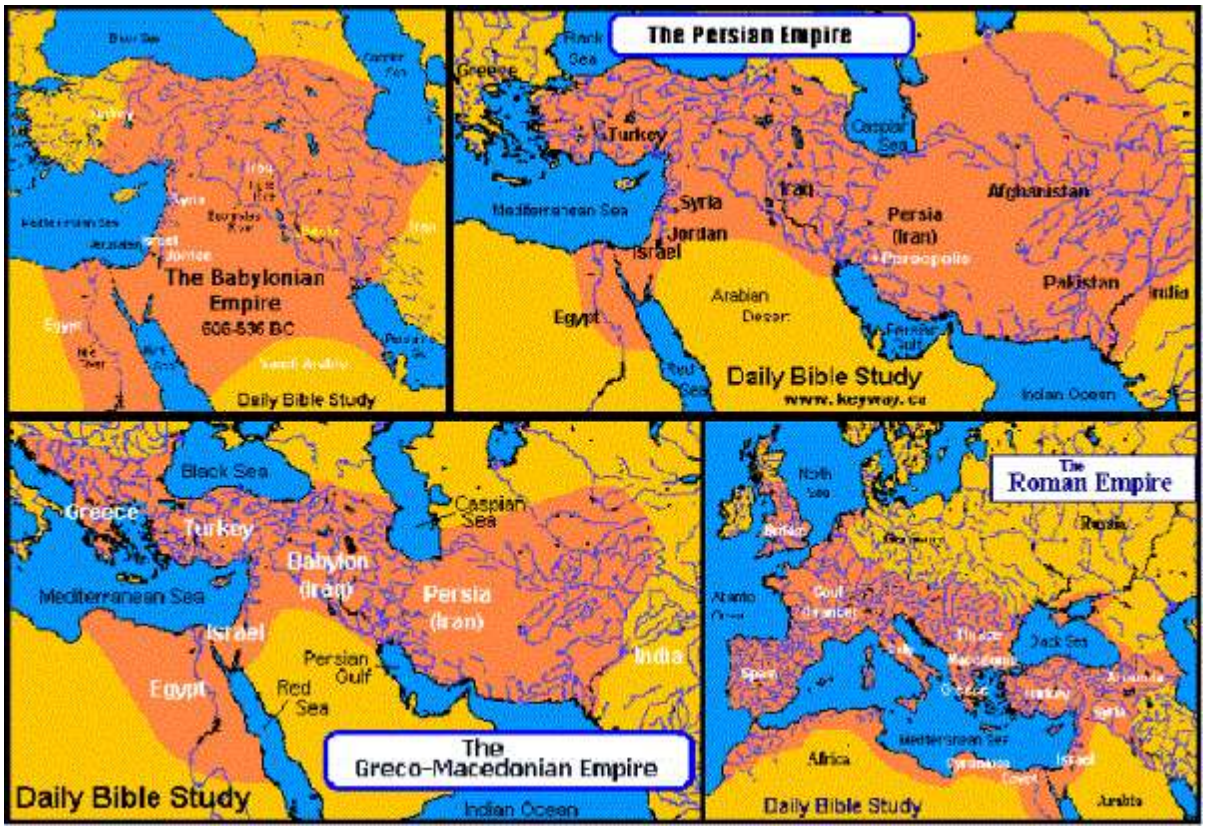
Israel's Sins

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Two Empires, Two Prophets (Daniel, Ezekiel)



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



[Source: http://searchingthescriptures.net/main_pages/free_bible_land_maps.htm]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: http://searchingthescriptures.net/main_pages/free_bible_land_maps.htm]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Roman Empire Timeline and Old Testament Events

Roman Republic

753 - Legend states Rome is started by Romulus.

753 to 715 - Romulus reigns.

715 to 673 - Roman senate created

753 to 509 - Period Ruled by the Seven Kings

617 to 578 - Rome's largest Circus called the Circus Maximus is built.

534 to 509 - Lucius Superbus reigns as the last king

509 - What is known as the Roman Republic starts

396 - The Republic captures and sacks the Etruscan city of Veii after a 10-year siege.

390 - At Allia the army is soundly defeated by the Gauls

326 - Second Samnite War begins.

304 - Second Samnite War ends and the Republic begins to establish many new colonies.

Old Testament Timeline

814 to 723 - Jehohaz, Jehoash, Jeroboam II, Zechariah, Shallum, Menahem, Pekah, Pekahiah and Hoshea reign over Israel

798 to 711 - Prophetic books of Jonah, Amos, Hosea and Micah written.

796 to 598 - Amaziah, Azariah (Uzziah), Jotham, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Manasseh, Amon, Josiah, Jehoahaz (Shallum) and Jehoiakim reign over the Kingdom of Judah

723 - FALL OF SAMARIA. Samaria, the capital of Israel (northern 10 tribes) falls to Assyrian King Shalmaneser V. Israelites are taken captive to Assyria.

711 - Prophetic book of Nahum written.

597- FALL OF JERUSALEM. Jerusalem falls at the hands of King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon. He captures Judah's King Jehoiachin and takes him as prisoner to Babylon. He sets up Zedekiah as the new King of Judah 586- King Nebuchadnezzar attacks and conquers Jerusalem. The city is left in ruins and the temple is burnt to the ground.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: http://www.biblestudy.org/maps/palestine-under-the-herods.html]

c. 72 B.C.
Herod the Great is born to Antipater I the Idumaean (which means 'from the land of Edom'), who is the founder of the Herodian dynasty of rule.

63 B.C.
Roman troops, led by Pompey, occupy Palestine in the name of the Roman Republic. The empire conquers Jerusalem and she falls.

49 B.C.
A contention between Pompey and Julius Caesar over the leadership of the Roman state leads to what is known as the Great Roman Civil War.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

48 B.C.
Pompey, who fled to Egypt after his defeat by Caesar in the Battle of Pharsalus, is murdered by an officer of King Ptolemy XIII.

47 B.C.
Julius Caesar appoints Antipater I the Idumaean to be procurator of Judea in recognition of the aid he gave him during Rome's civil war. Antipater is also given the right to collect taxes. He makes his son governor of Galilee.

44 B.C.
Julius Caesar is assassinated on March 15th (commonly known as the Ides of March).

43 B.C.
Antipater I is murdered by poison.

41 B.C.
Mark Antony elevates Herod the Great to the rank of tetrarch of Jerusalem and Galilee.

40 B.C.
Herod is appointed, in Rome, as King of Judea ("King of the Jews") by the Roman Senate.

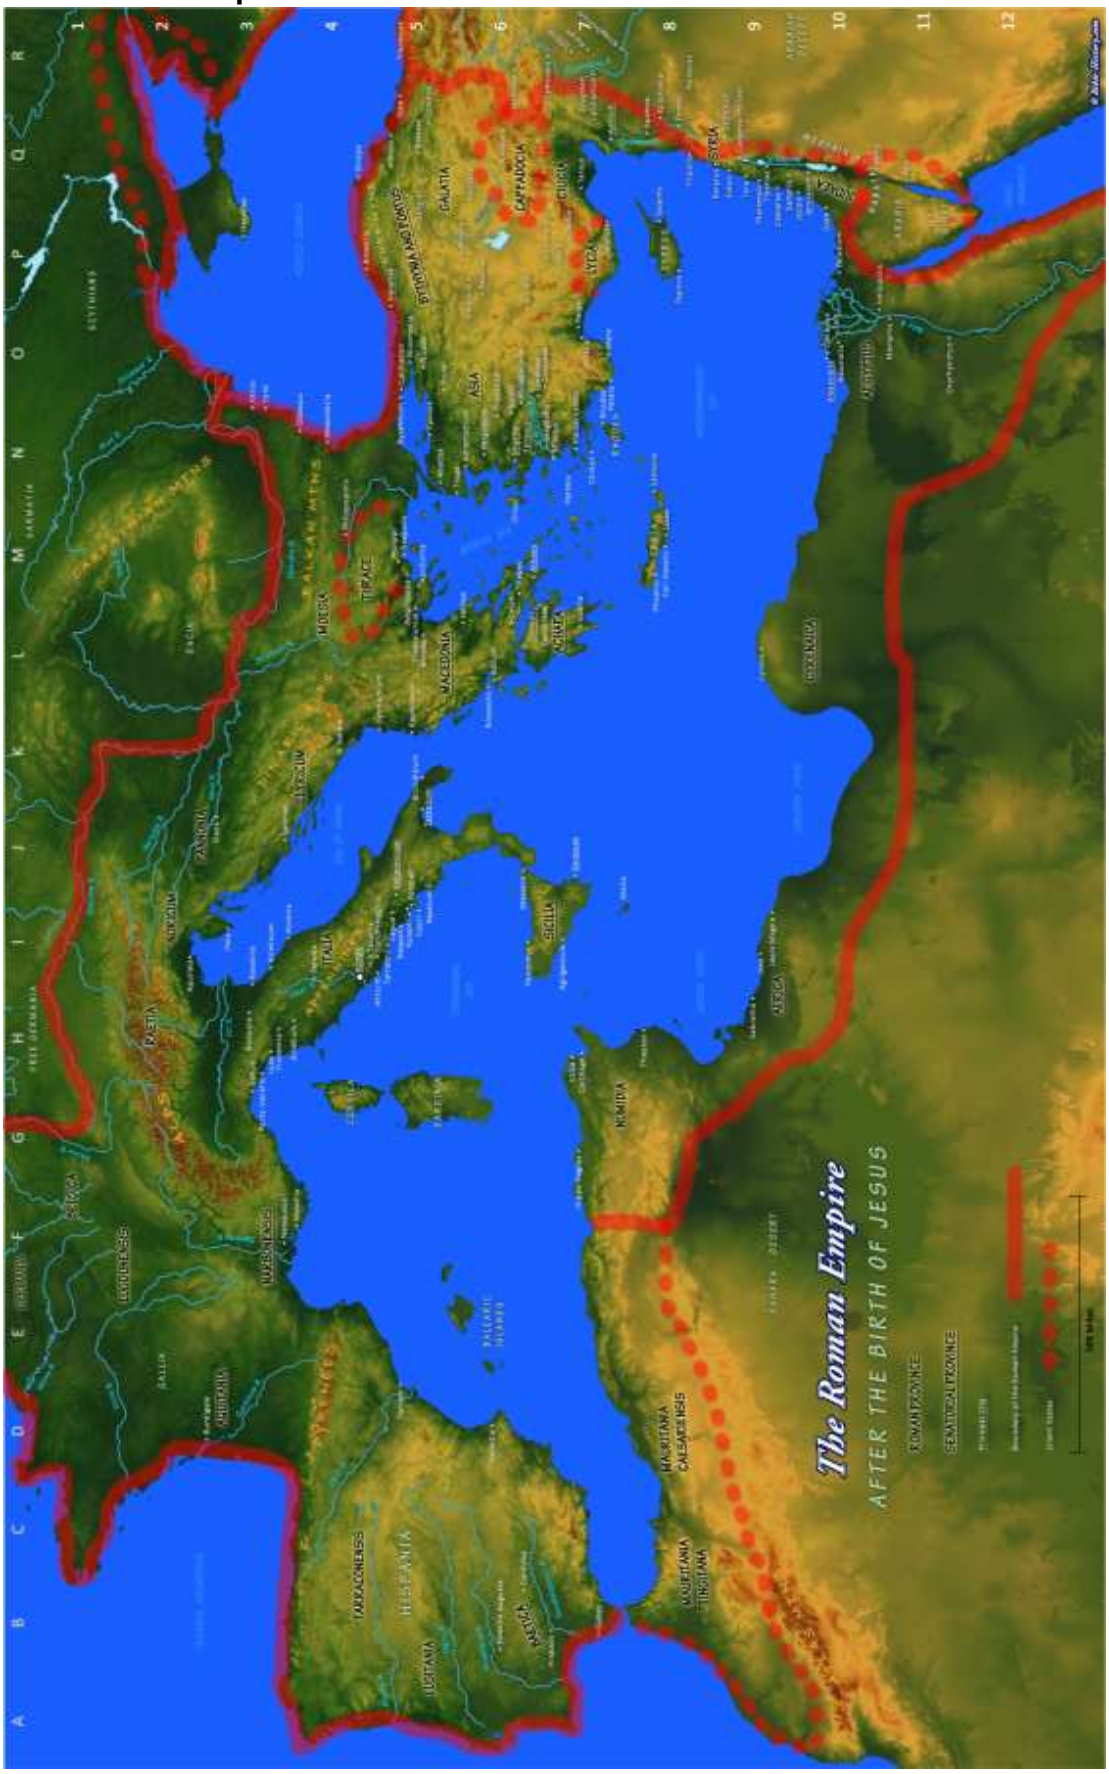
37 B.C.
Although appointed King of Judea in 40 B.C., it takes another three years before Herod and the army travel to Palestine and conquer Jerusalem. He eventually becomes sole ruler of Judea.

31 B.C.
Aristobulus IV (31 to 7 B.C.), son of Herod and his second wife Mariamne, is born.

27 B.C.
End of the Roman Republic. Augustus Caesar becomes Roman Emperor.

23 B.C.
Herod Archelaus is born.

before 20 B.C.
Herod Antipas is born.



The Roman Empire

See larger view next page…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Roman Empire

[Source: http://www.bible-history.com/maps/romanempire/roman-empire-time-of-christ.jpg]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Jerusalem, David's Holy City - Temple & palaces; scale models, reconstructions

[Source: http://www.bible-architecture.info/Jerusalem.htm]

See also*: Tabernacle and Temples, Maps/Layouts

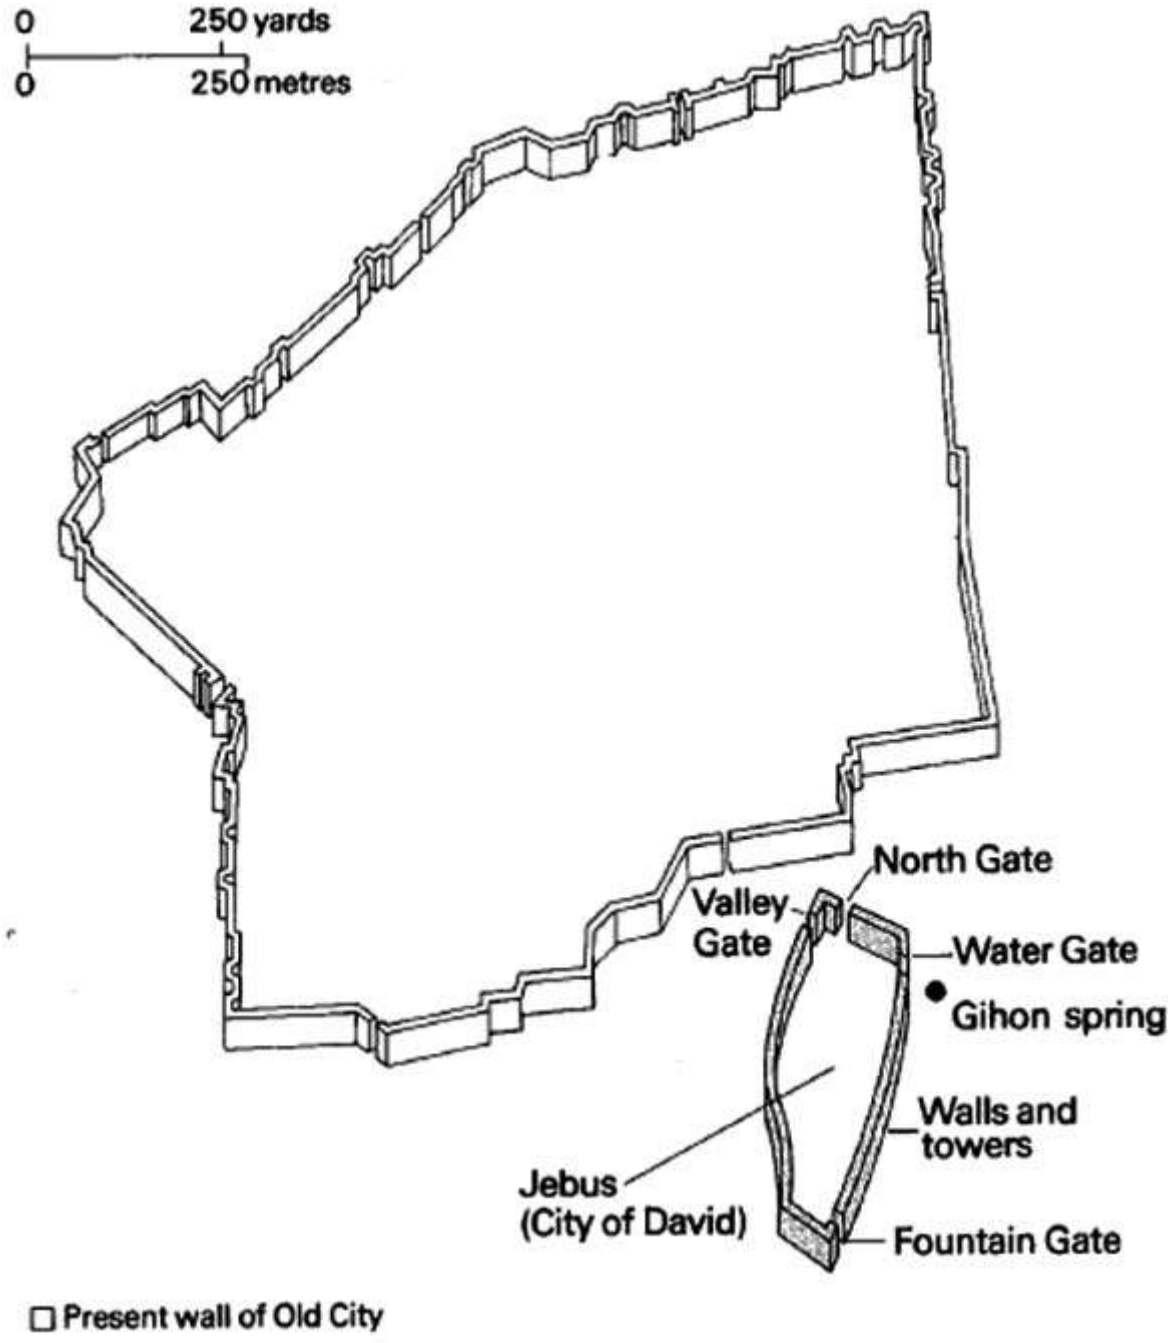
The Temple of Jerusalem was a place of worship, but unlike modern churches it was not designed for communal use. Its inner chamber was a focal point for the deity's presence, and entrance was prohibited to ordinary people.



The First Temple was completed in 957BC, the Second Temple in 515BC, and Herod's Temple was completed in 26AD. Solomon completed the First Temple, the exiles returned from Babylon built the Second Temple, and Herod the Great completed a rebuilding of the Temple during the Roman era.

The commanding site

The site of the Temple was probably originally a threshing floor (see an example above), used to process grain after the harvest. The rock floor on which the Temple was built provided a solid foundation for monumental buildings.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Jebus, the walled area in the lower right of the diagram, marks the original city of David. It sat on a small spur of land that juts out from the flat rock plateau to its north.

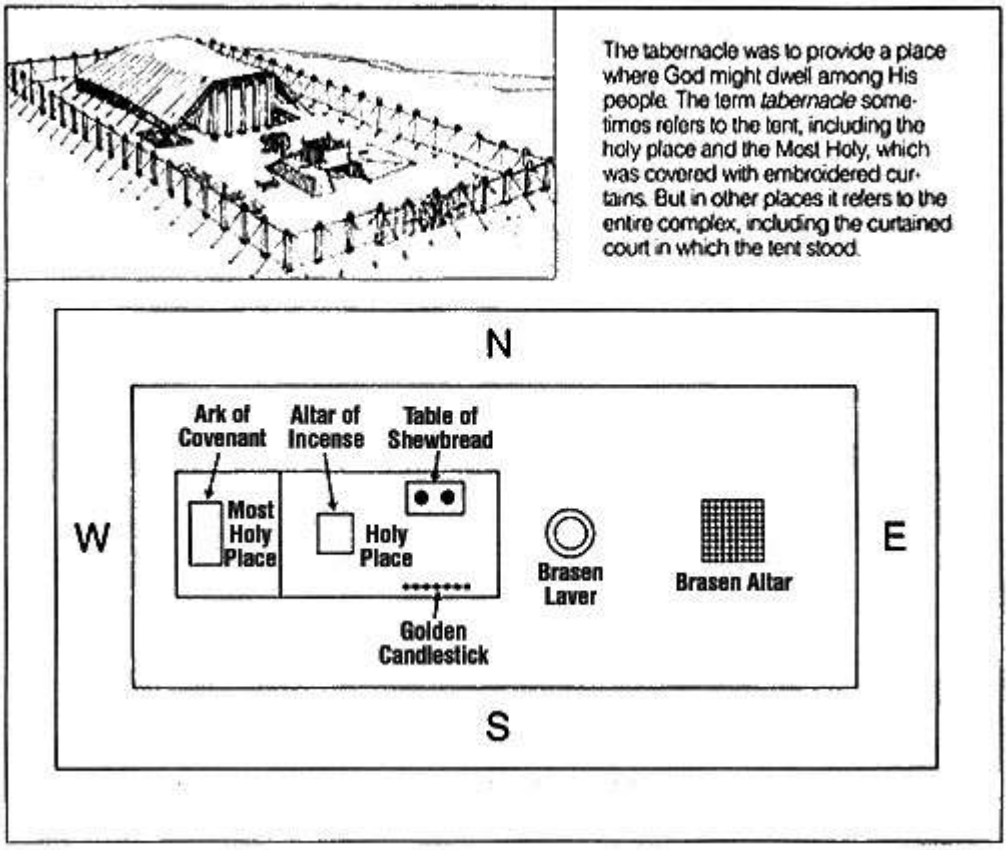
Solomon's Temple: the First Temple

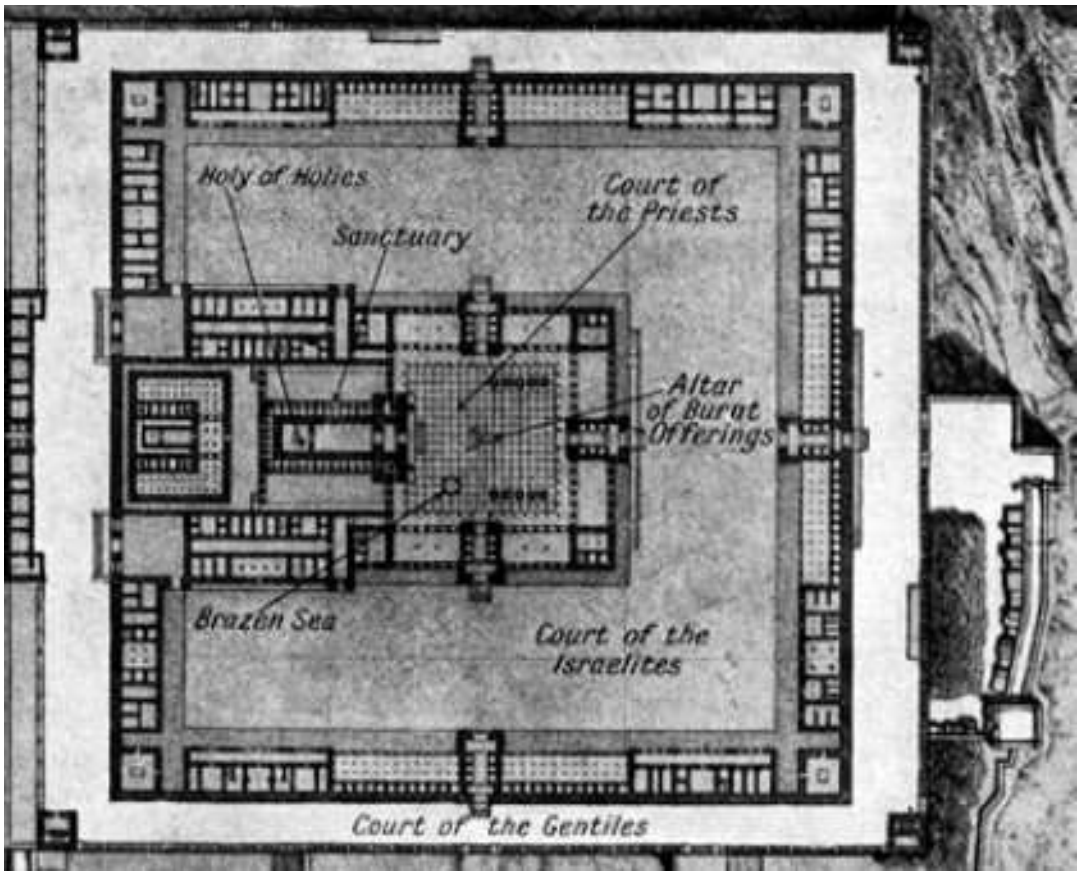


The architecture of the First Temple reflected designs used in surrounding cultures - the inhabitants of Israel/Palestine never developed a style unique to themselves.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Until the time of Solomon, the Ark of the Covenant was housed in a moveable tent, suitable for a nomadic people

The Plan of the Tabernacle

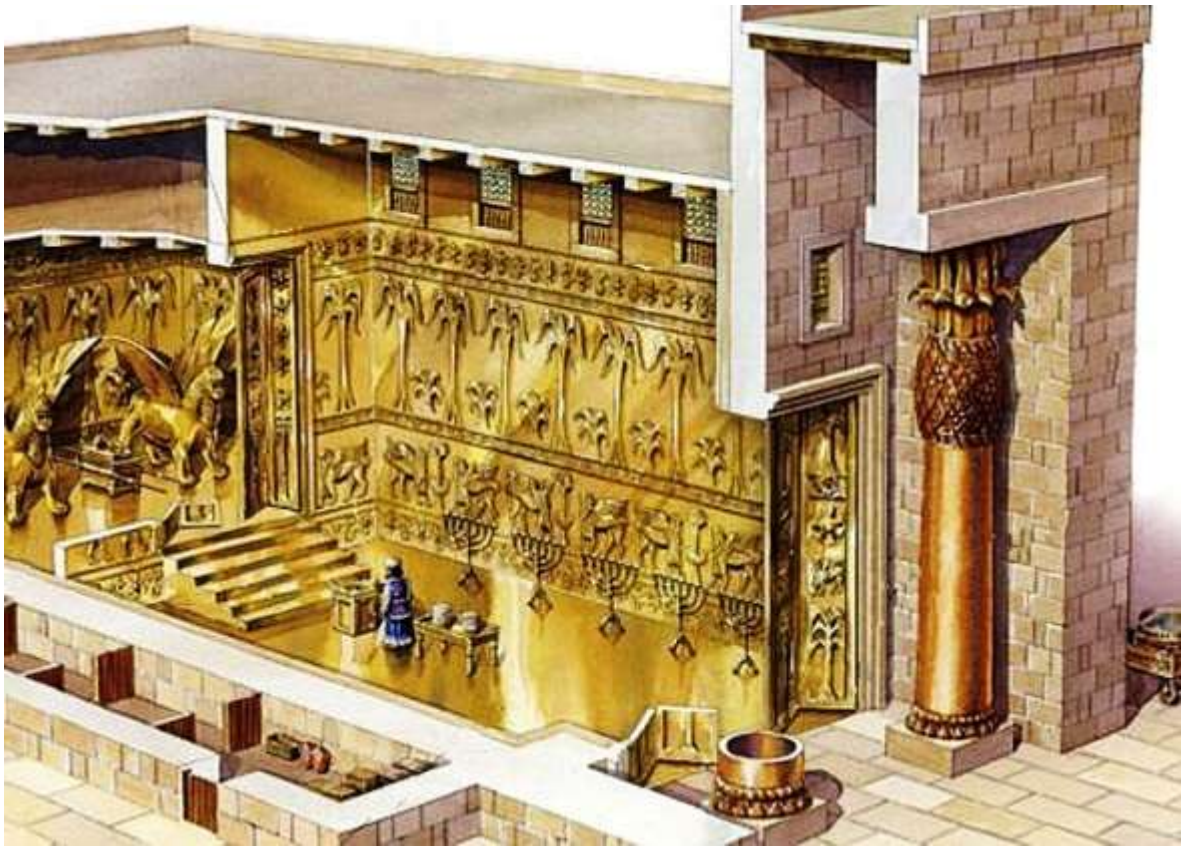


The floor plan of the Temple was based on the layout of the moveable Tabernacle in which the Holy of Holies had been housed, up until David gave it a more permanent home in his new capital, Jerusalem. The Tabernacle was well suited to the needs of a nomadic people, as it could be set up and dismantled quickly. The plan of the Tabernacle was similar to the layout of tribal tents.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

David's son Solomon completed the First Temple in 957BC - see King Solomon for a short version of his life. The building was not large. It had three rooms: a porch, the main room of worship, and the Holy of Holies where the Ark was kept. A storehouse surrounded three sides of the Temple. This Temple was destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon in 586BC. The Temple treasures, including the Ark, were lost.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Detailed ground plan of the Temple of Solomon and its precincts

Reconstructions of Solomon's Temple are often over-large. The First Temple was probably of a more modest size, perhaps similar in scale, or smaller, to the Egyptian Temple of Dendur pictured here.

Judging from the description in the Bible, the central building in Solomon's Temple had a floor-plan similar to the one above

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Interior of the Temple with a view of the Holy of Holies - the curtain was normally closed. The walls of the sanctuary were lined with expensive wooden panels, with gold overlay. The real Temple would probably have been more modest in scale.

The Temple of Jerusalem is talked about as if it was a single building, but in fact the term refers to separate buildings built during different eras.

In the early years of the Israelite kingdom, the Ark of the Covenant was periodically moved about among several sanctuaries, for example those at Shechem and Shiloh. But after David moved his court away from Hebron into the fortress/city of Jerusalem, the Ark was moved there as well. By doing this, he joined Israel's major religious object to himself and the monarchy - he was trying to consolidate the loosely governed tribes into accepting him as a king. It also turned the city of Jerusalem into a central symbol of union for the tribes. David chose Mount Moriah, now known as the Temple Mount, as the site for his temple, largely because it was believed to be the place where Abraham had built the altar on which to sacrifice his son Isaac.

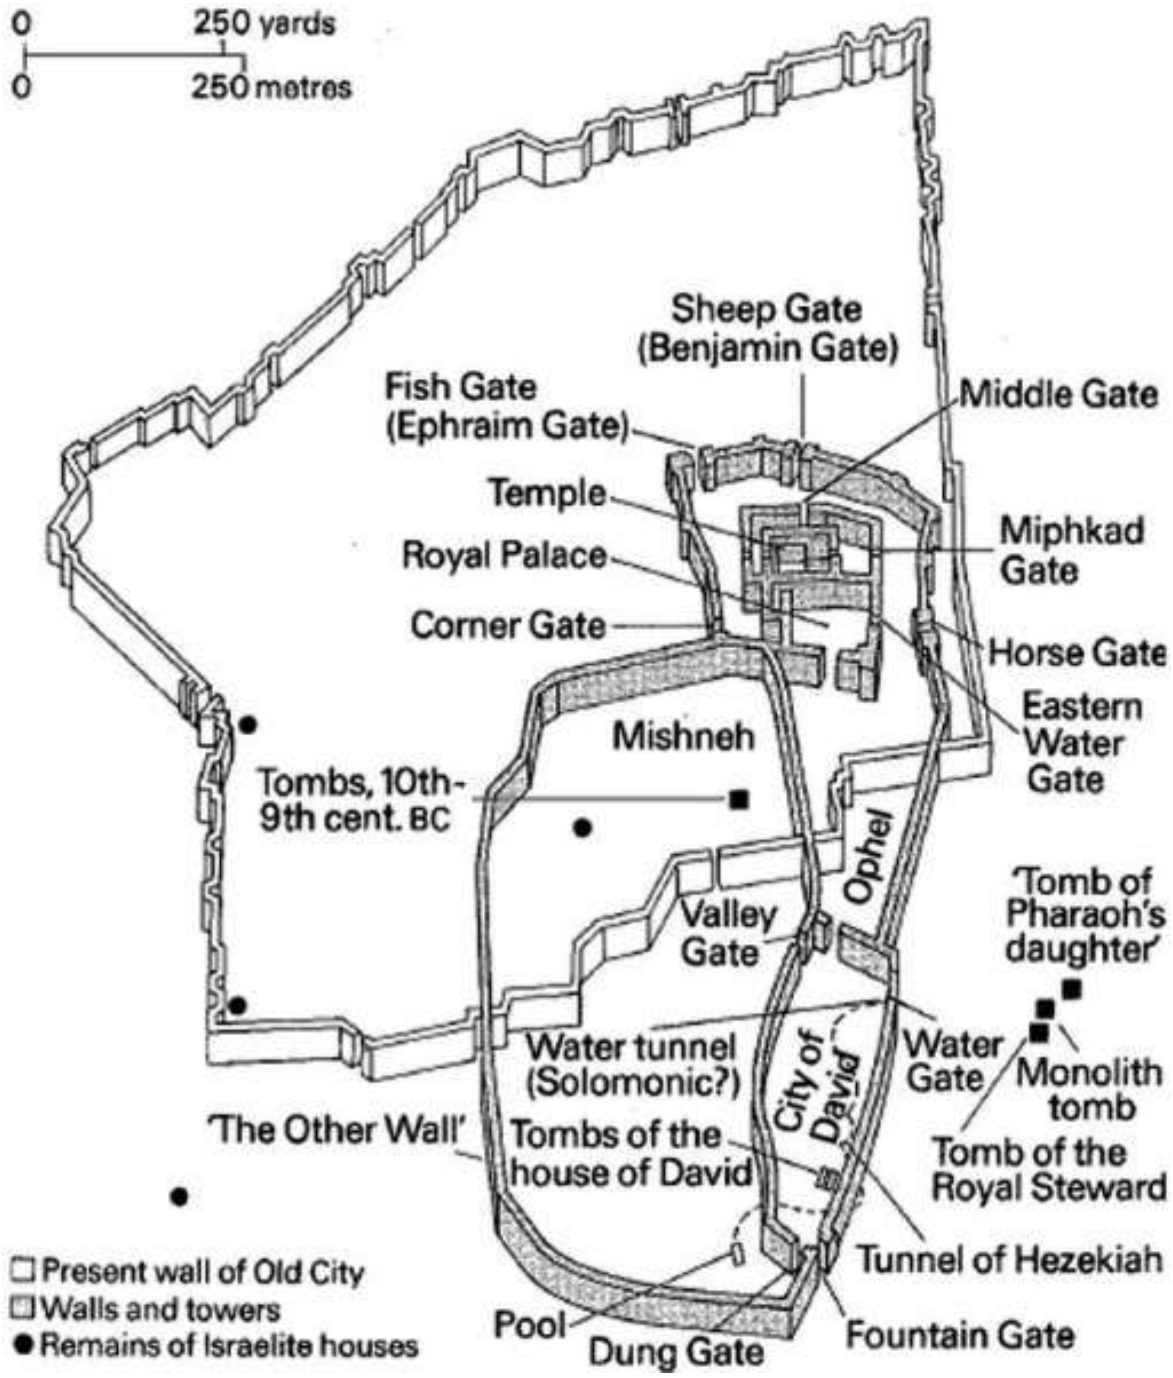
The First Temple was built during the reign of David's son Solomon, and completed in about 957BC. It was built primarily as an abode for the Ark and a place of assembly for the people. The building itself was not large - as modern cathedrals are - but the courtyard made up for this, far outdoing the surrounds of a modern church. The courtyard, or series of courtyards, was the place of assembly for the people.

The Temple building faced east. It was oblong and consisted of three rooms of equal width: the porch or vestibule, the main room of religious offering, or Holy Place, and the Holy of Holies in which the Ark rested. A storehouse surrounded the Temple except at its front (east) side.

The First Temple had five altars: one at the entrance of the Holy of Holies, two others within the building, a large bronze one in front of the porch, and a large tiered altar in the courtyard. A huge bronze bowl in the courtyards was used for the priests' ablutions. Within the Holy of Holies, two cherubim of olive wood stood with the Ark. This innermost sanctuary was considered the dwelling place or focus of the Divine Presence and could be entered only by the high priest, and then only on the Day of Atonement (Yom Kippur).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

From Solomon to Hezekiah



In 604BC and then again in 597BC Jerusalem was attacked and taken by Nebuchadnezzar II of Babylon. The city was sacked, the Temple treasure was stolen, and the Temple itself was totally destroyed. A large section of the Jewish population, including all the educated and wealthy people, were deported to Babylon - Nebuchadnezzar had a policy of population resettlement.

This might have been the end of it, but in 538BC Cyrus II, founder of the Achaemenian dynasty of Persia, issued an order allowing the Jewish population to return to their homeland and rebuild the Temple. This they did, but on a more modest scale than Solomon had been able to do.

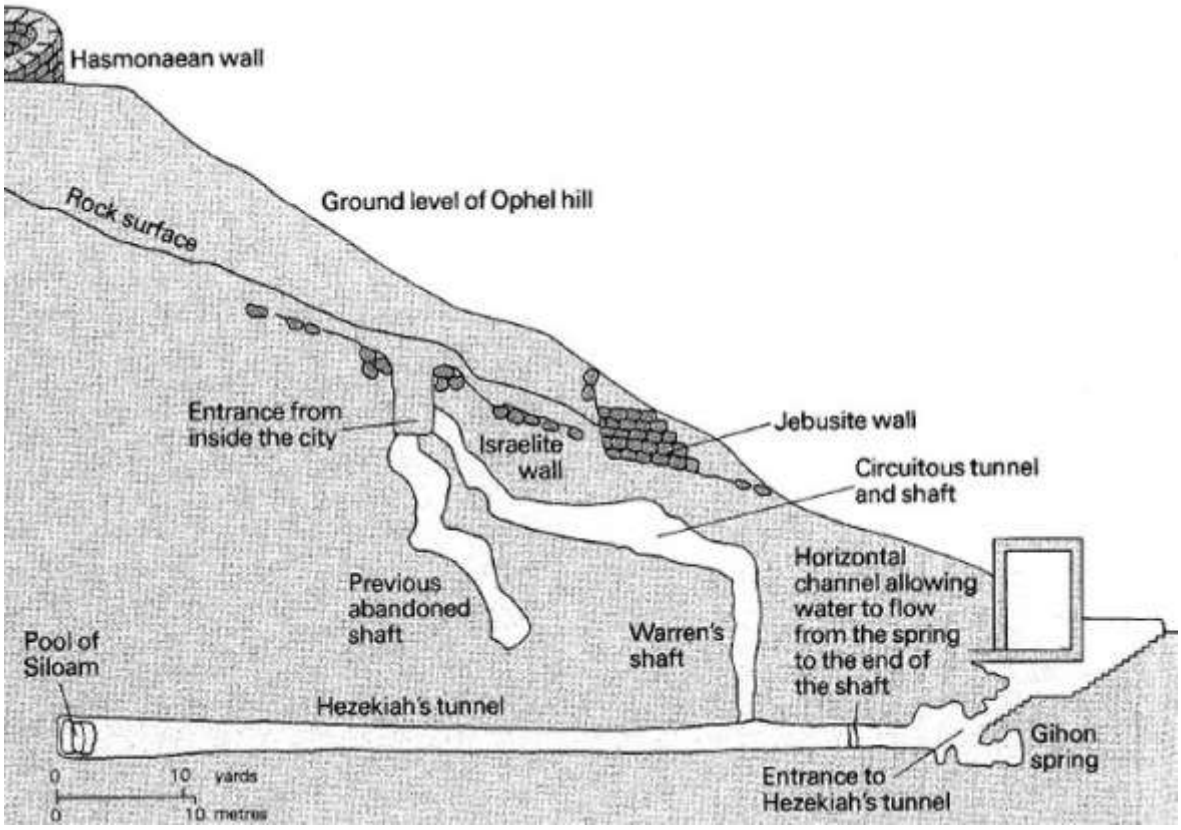
The rebuilt Temple, for which there is no exact description, was surrounded by two courtyards with chambers, gates and a public square. It did not have the ritual objects of the First Temple. The Ark had been lost, and money was short, since the whole of Jerusalem had fallen into a state of ruin and had to be rebuilt. To compensate, ritual became even more elaborate than before, and it was conducted by hereditary families of Levites.

During the 4th-3rd centuries BC, the Temple was respected by Judea's foreign rulers. Antiochus IV Epiphanes, however, desecrated it by offering sacrifice to Zeus on the altar in 168BC, sparking the Hasmonean revolt, led by the Maccabees. Judas Maccabaeus cleansed and rededicated the Temple, and this is celebrated in the annual Jewish festival of Hanukka.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Map of the city as it was in the period from Solomon to Hezekiah

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Excavations of the Stepped Stone Structure, circa 10thcentury BC, believed to be part of Jerusalem's walls

Quoted from 'David and Solomon: In Search of the Bible's Sacred Kings', Israel Finkelstein and Neil Silberman, p269-70:

'Beginning with the assumption that the biblical narratives were reliable historical sources, the researchers identified these ruins as features mentioned in the Bible. And they used the hypothetical identifications as archaeological "proof" that the biblical descriptions were true.
A prime example is the so-called "Stepped Stone Structure," first uncovered in the 1920's. It is an imposing rampart of fifty-eight courses of limestone boulders, extending for more than fifty feet, like a protective sheath or reinforcement over the upper end of the eastern slope of the City of David. Later excavations by Kenyon and by Shiloh discovered a network of stone terraces beneath it, probably constructed in order to stabilize and expand the narrow flat surface on the spine of the ridge, and perhaps to support a large structure built there. The early excavators suggested that the Stepped Stone Structure was part of the fortification of the Jebusite city that David conquered.....
Yet the pottery retrieved from within the courses of the Stepped Stone Structure included types of the Early Iron Age to the ninth or even early eighth centuries BC. It seems therefore that this monument was constructed at least a century later than the days of David and Solomon. Who used it, when exactly, and for what purpose still remains - archaeologically, at least - a mystery.'

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

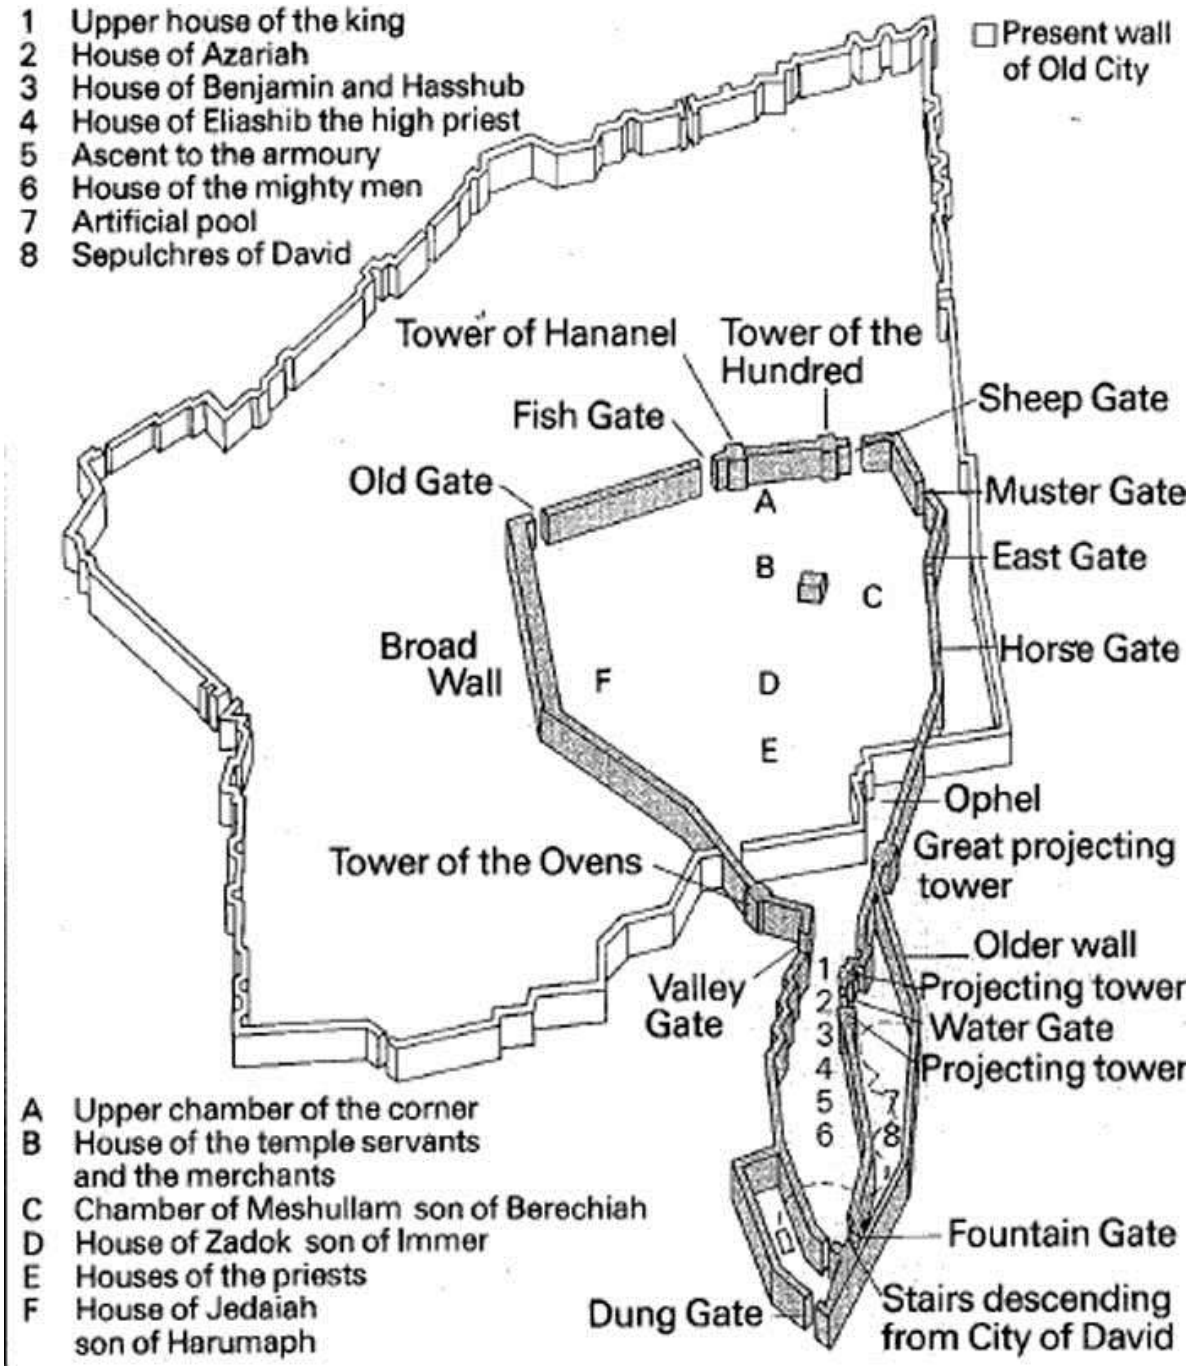
Above and below: the water system including Hezekiah's tunnel

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The rock tunnel of Hezekiah

When Solomon died, the ten northern tribes broke away from the federation, setting up their own kingdom in the north. Solomon's son Rehoboam was left with sovereignty over only two tribes. But he still had Jerusalem.

In 922BC the Egyptian pharaoh Sheshonk I led a raid into Judah, and sacked the city, stealing the treasure of the Temple (and probably the royal women's jewelry as well). He was followed in the next century by the Philistines and Arabs, and then in 786BC Joash of Israel invaded Judah and tore down part of the wall surrounding Jerusalem.



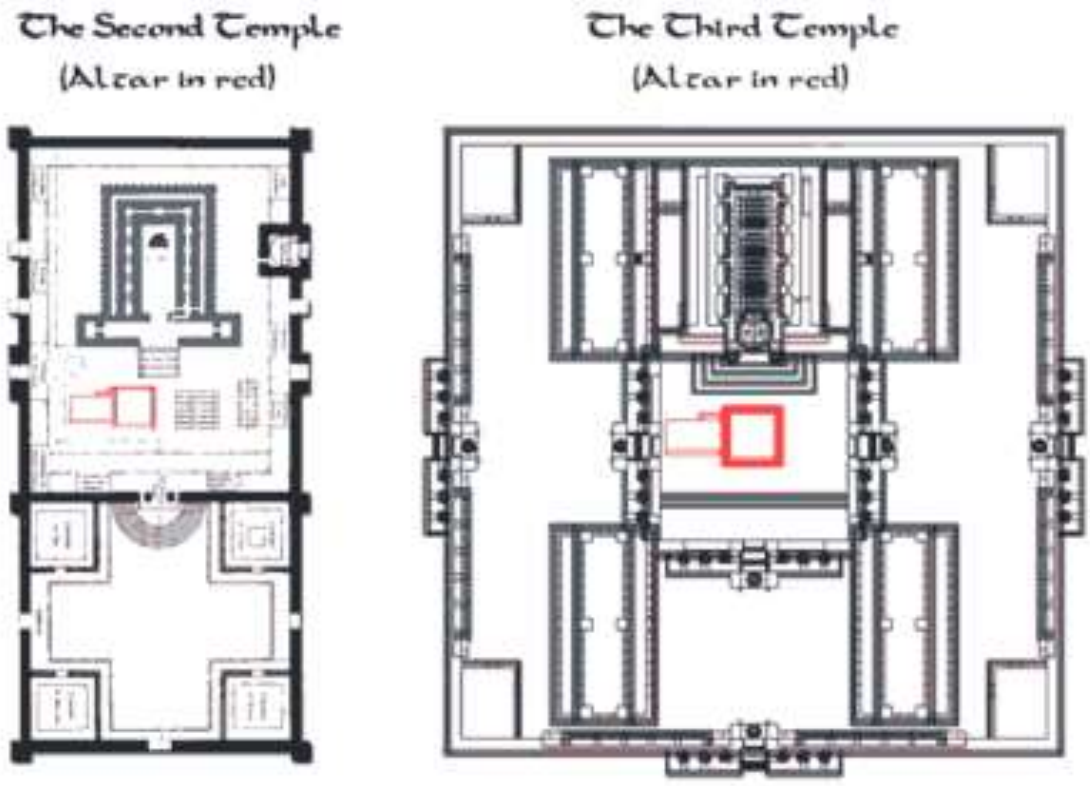
After Hezekiah became king of Judah, he built new fortifications and an underground tunnel (see illustration at left), which brought water from the Gihon Spring to the Pool of Siloam inside the city. This was an extraordinary engineering achievement, done with what are primitive tools by modern standards.

In 1880 an inscription was discovered. It had been cut into the tunnel wall, and describes the meeting of the two groups of stone-cutters who were digging from opposite ends of the tunnel: 'And this was the way in which it was cut through: While [...] (were) still [...] axe(s), each man toward his fellow, and while there were still three cubits to be cut through, [there was heard] the voice of a man calling to his fellows, for there was an overlap in the rock on the right [and on the left]. And when the tunnel was driven through, the quarrymen hewed (the rock), each man toward his fellow, axe against axe; and the water flowed from the spring toward the reservoir for 1200 cubits.'

Despite his best efforts, Hezekiah was no match for the Assyrians, and in 701BC Sennacherib of Assyria 'came down like a wolf on the fold', extracting a heavy tribute from Jerusalem. Eight years later Jerusalem was laid waste and its king deported to Babylon. In 586BC the city and Temple were completely destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar, and the long exile in Babylon began.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The post-Exilic period



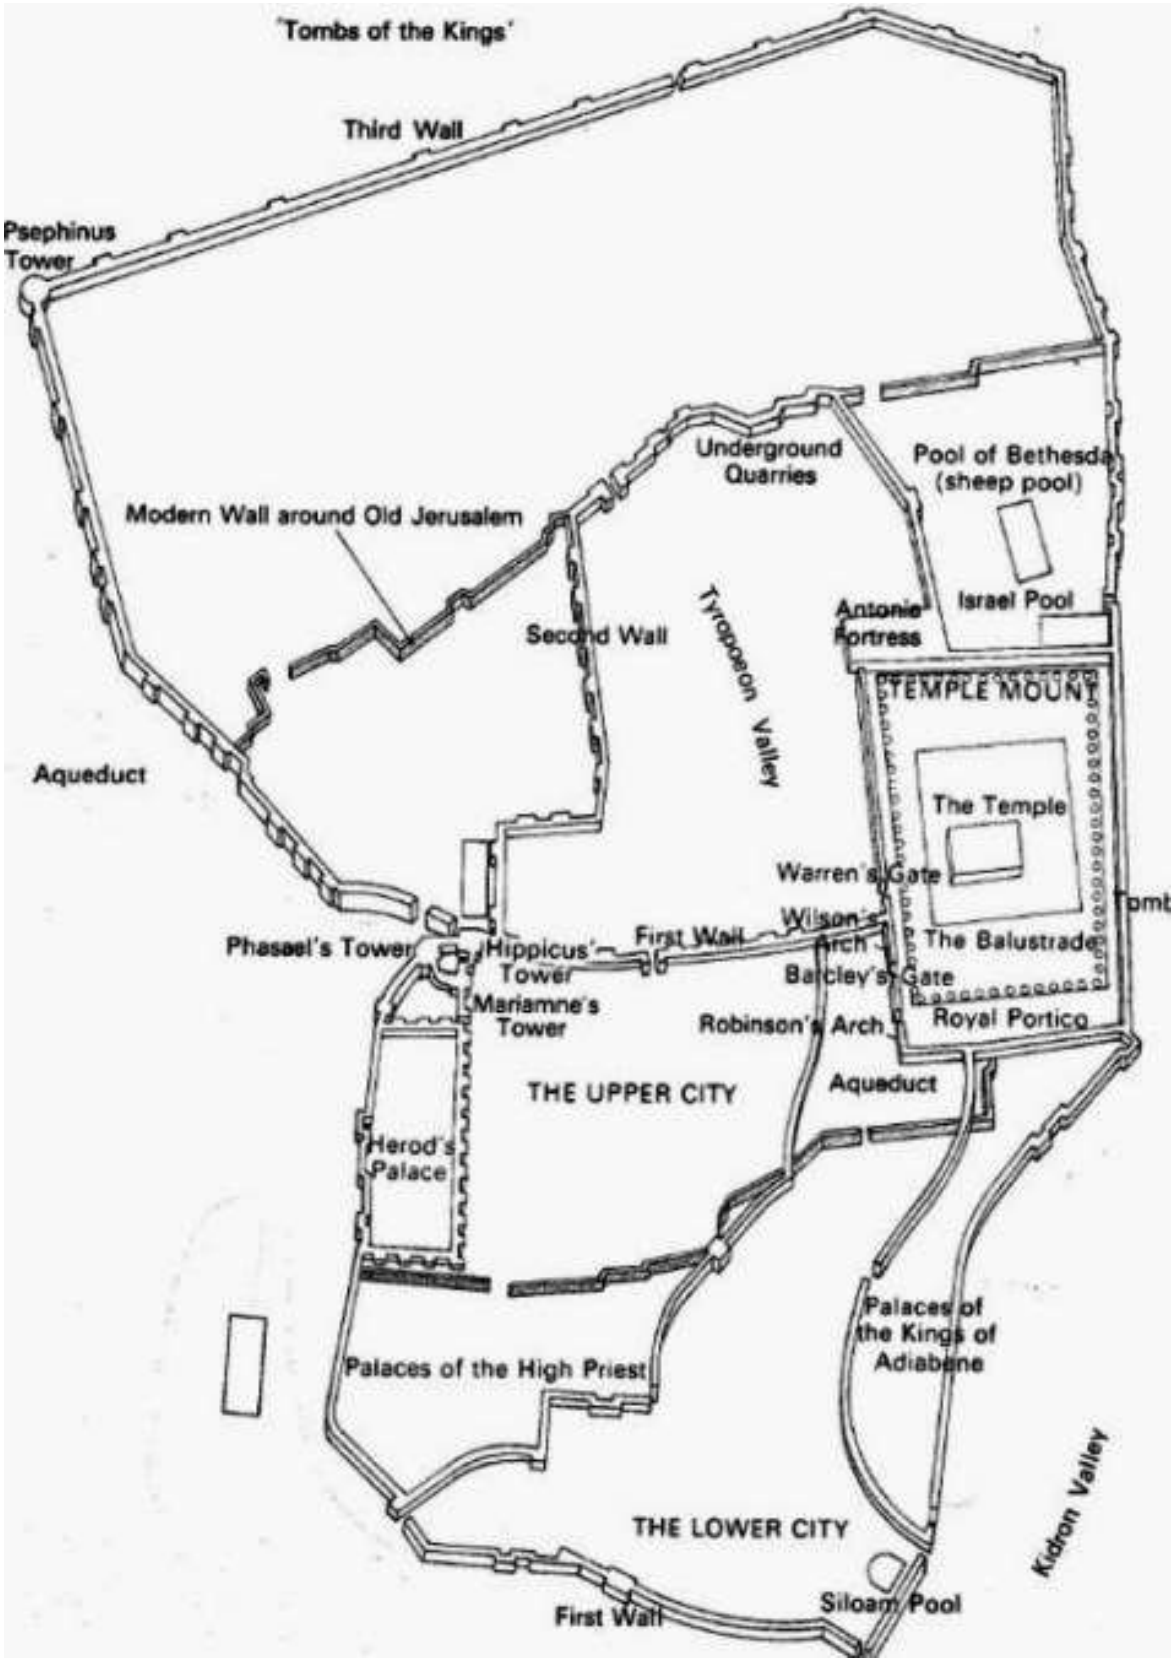
Layout of the city as it would have been in Nehemiah's time - 5th century BC

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

'Then Eliashib the high priest and the other priests started to rebuild at the Sheep Gate. They dedicated it and set up its doors, building the wall as far as the Tower of the Hundred, which they dedicated, and the Tower of Hananel.'

Comparison of the modestly rebuilt Post-Exilic Temple (at left) and the later, grander Temple of Herod the Great

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



The buildings of Herod the Great

Quoted from 'Jerusalem, One City, Three Faiths', Karen Armstrong, p128:

'Herod did not begin the real transformation of Jerusalem until about 23BC, when he had just won a good deal of respect in Palestine by his efficiency in providing food and grain for the people during the famine of 25-24BC. Many Jerusalemites had been ruined and were able to find employment as builders once work had begun in the city. Herod began by building a palace for himself in the Upper City on the Western Hill; it was fortified by three towers, which he named after his brother Phasael, his beloved wife Mariamme the Hasmonean, and his friend Hippicus. ..... The palace itself consisted of two large buildings, one of which was called Caesareum in honor of Octavian, which were joined by enchanting water gardens, where the deep canals and cisterns were lined with bronze statues and fountains. Herod seems to have also redesigned the streets of the Upper City into a gridded system, which made traffic and town planning easier. In addition, the Upper City had a theater and a hippodrome, though we do not know the exact location of these buildings. Every five years, games were held in honor of Augustus, which drew crowds of distinguished athletes to Jerusalem.'

Go to Herod's story for a brief version of the life story of this extraordinary man: one of the ancient world's greatest builders, yet also a paranoid murderer who killed most of his family

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The city of Jerusalem in the Herodian period

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

A model of the city in King Herod's time. All available land within the walls would once have been covered by buildings

A model showing the view across Jerusalem towards the Temple of Herod the Great. At left is the Antonia Fortress; in the middle is the palace of the Judean royal family

Herod the Great rebuilt the Second Temple on a grand scale. It took 46 years to build, and was completed in 26AD. It was used not only for worship, but as a repository for the Scriptures and a meeting place for the Sanhedrin, the highest Jewish law court. This Temple was destroyed in 70AD after the Jewish Revolt.

The Temple of Jerusalem: general information

During the Roman conquest, Pompey entered the Holy of Holies but did not damage or steal from the Temple. However, in 54BC Crassus plundered the Temple treasury.

Most people know Herod the Great as the king who ordered the Massacre of the Innocents at roughly the time of Jesus' birth. But as well as this he was one of the greatest builders of the ancient world. Probably acting out of political expediency (the people did not accept him as fully Jewish), he decided to rebuild the Temple on a grand scale.

Construction began in 20BC and lasted for 46 years. The area of the Temple Mount was doubled and surrounded by a high wall with massive gates. The Temple was raised, enlarged, and faced with beautiful white stone. Its courtyards served as a gathering place and its shaded porticoes sheltered merchants and money changers.

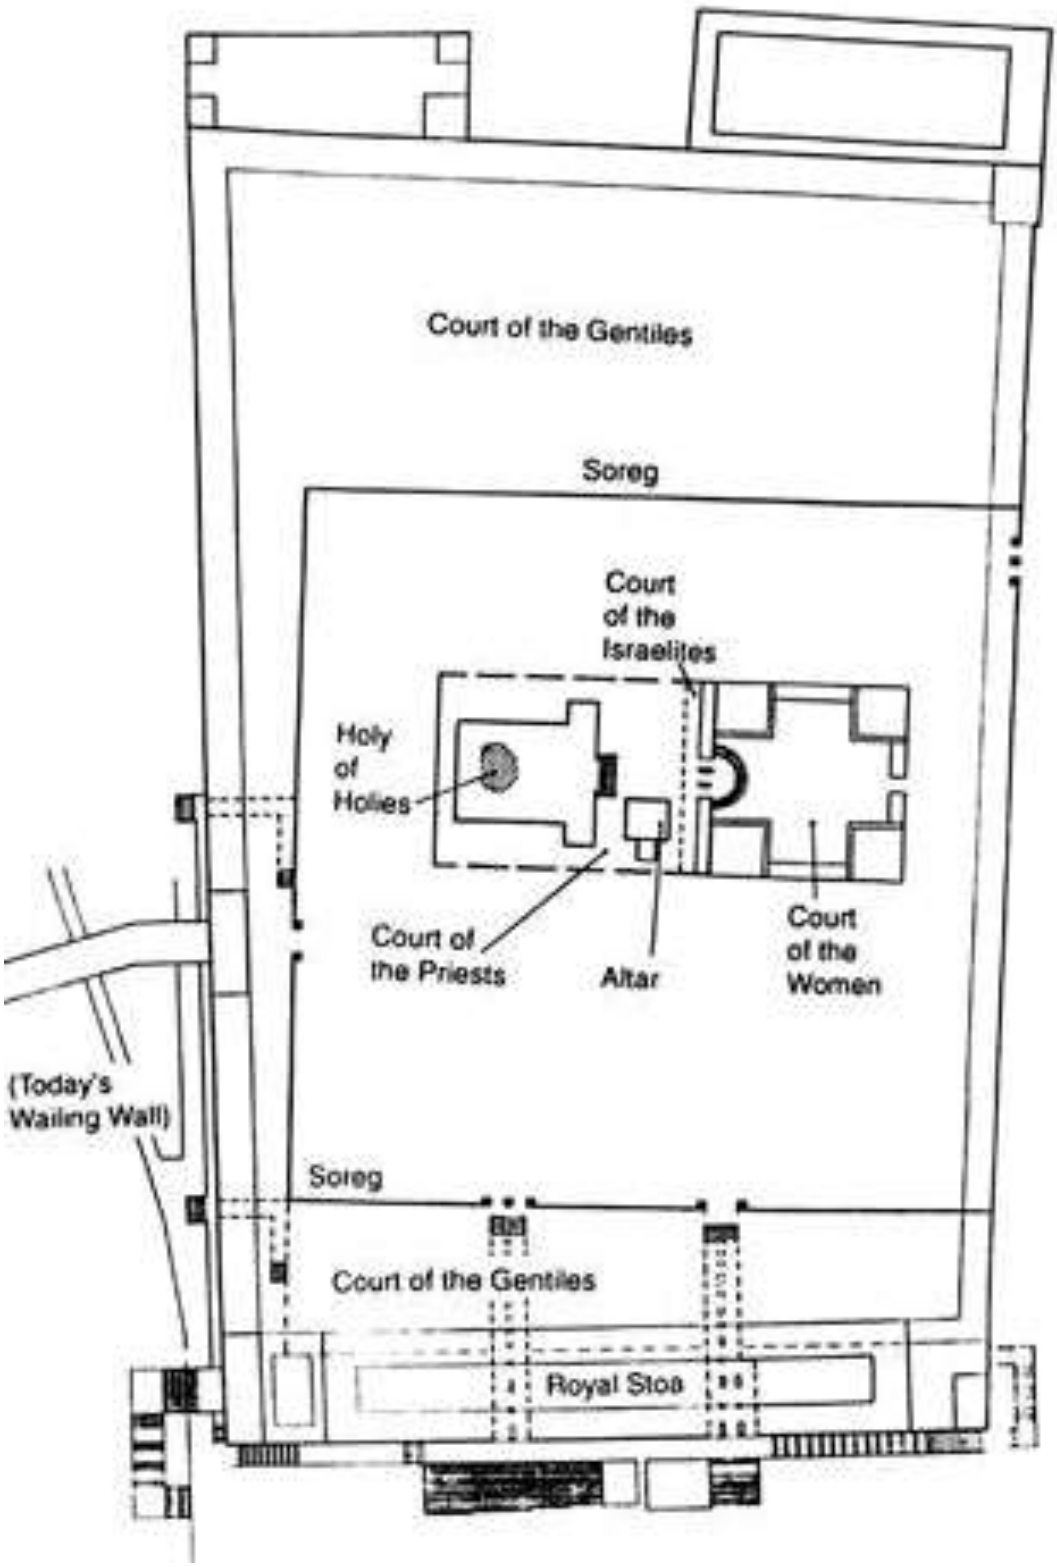
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

A stone fence and a rampart surrounded the inner consecrated area which was forbidden to Gentiles. The Temple itself began with the Court of Women, each side of which had a gate. The court was named for a balcony running around the courtyard from which women watched the annual celebration of Sukkot.

The western gate of the courtyard, approached by a semicircular staircase, led to the Court of the Israelites, open to all male Jews. Next came the Court of Priests which contained the sacrificial altar and a copper laver or basin for the priests to wash in. The Temple building was wider in front than in the rear. Its eastern facade had two pillars on either side of the gate to the entrance hall. Within the hall, a great door led to the sanctuary, and the western end of which was the Holy of Holies.

The Temple was not only the center of religious ritual. It was also the place where the Holy Scriptures and other important Jewish literature was held. It was the meeting place of the Sanhedrin, the High Court of Jews during the Roman period.

In 66AD rebellion broke out. It was focused on the Temple, and when the rebels were defeated the Romans destroyed almost every part of the Temple, stone by stone. All that remained was a portion of the Western Wall, called nowadays the Wailing Wall. This spot is the focus of Jewish pilgrimage and prayer.



A reconstruction of the Temple built by Herod the Great and the surrounding city of Jerusalem as it was at the time of the Roman occupation

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Reconstruction of the facade was based on the image found on this coin, which was struck by Bar Kochba, leader of the revolt in 132AD

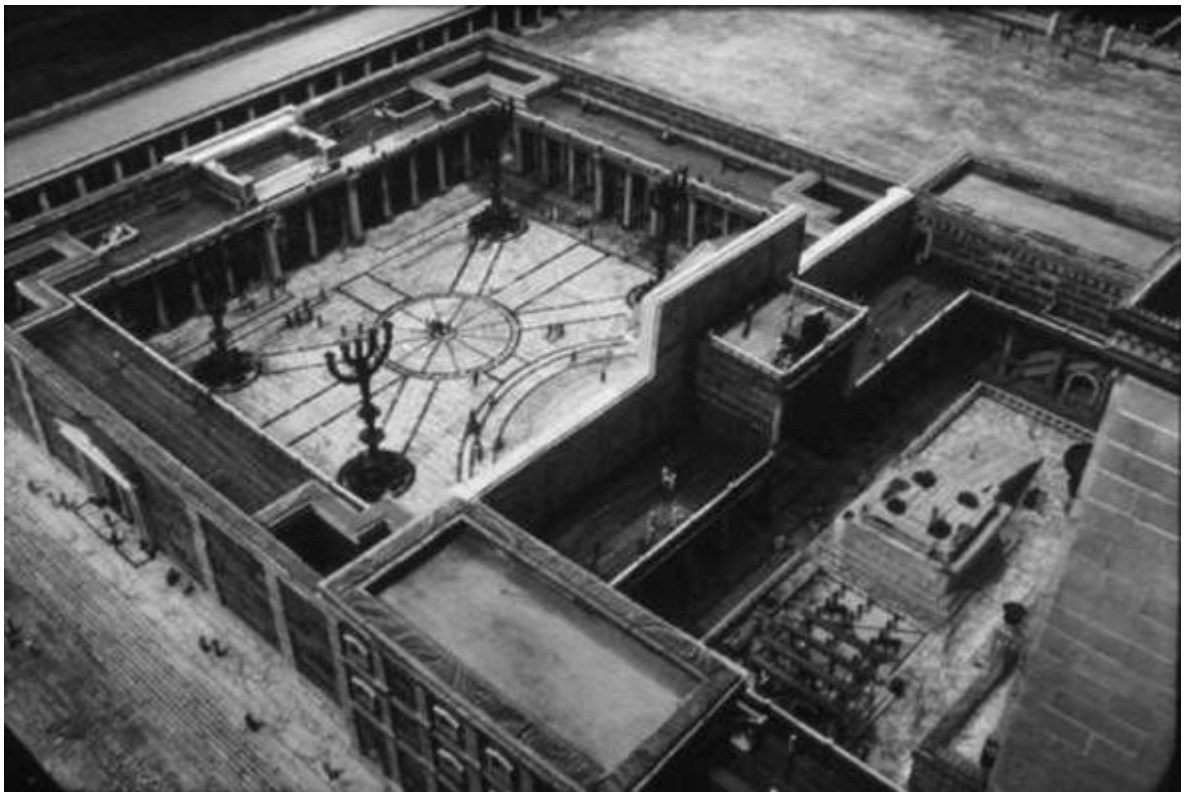
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

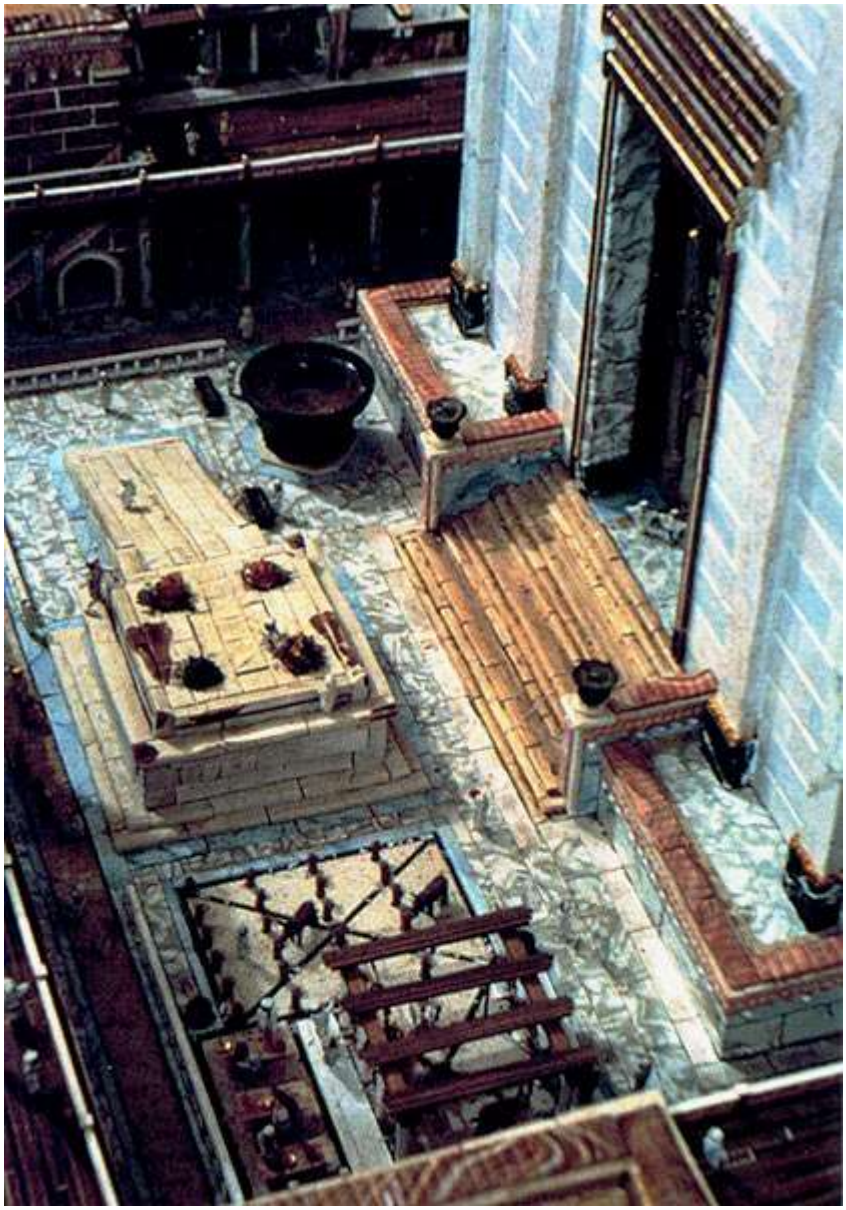
Ground plan of the Temple built by Herod the Great

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



A model of the southern face of the Temple, showing the grand stairway leading to the stoa or entrance portico. Model by Professor Avi-Jonah

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



The Temple built by Herod the Great was surrounded by the Court of the Gentiles.
Note the vast stone platform on which the Temple precinct stood.

The Women's Court (with patterned floor) and surrounding Court of the Gentiles.
At right is the Court of the Israelites and the Court of the Priests

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

(reconstruction by Alec Gerrard)
It was within one of these courts that Jesus was confronted with the woman taken in adultery - see Adulterous Woman and Jesus for her story.

The Court of the Priests with the sacrificial altar

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Wailing Wall, all that is left of Herod's magnificent Temple, formed part of the platform on which the Temple stood

---

The ancient city of Jerusalem - its story

Jerusalem is one of the oldest continuing cities in the world. There were people living there as early as the 4th millennium BC, but the fortress/city began to be famous after David captured it and made it his capital.

Hebron, to the south, had been his capital, but he had good reasons for moving his court. Jerusalem was in a better geographical position on the border between Judah and the northern tribes, and despite the fact that he himself had taken the citadel, its position atop steep cliffs made it difficult to overrun.

At David's death, the city was still quite small. David had been too busy with court intrigue and hard-fought battles to think about renovations. His son was more ambitious. Solomon used Phoenician craftsmen and enforced labor to carry out the great construction program that resulted in the building of the First Temple and the palace in Jerusalem (1 Kings 7.52, 5.27). Nothing but the best. He imported wood (cedar) from Lebanon, and the Temple was embellished and decorated with the over-the-top style then fashionable. Less was definitely not more.

The royal palace probably stood north of the city. There are no traces of this site now, since Herod demolished everything that was there to extend the astonishing Temple he built. But according to 1 Kings 7:1-12, the royal palace was built from Lebanese cedar, with a vestibule hall of columns, a throne room, residential quarters and a luxurious palace for the women of the harem - Solomon's 'thousand wives'. There would also have been extensive courtyards, onto which the palace rooms opened. The palace was quite independent of the city, with a high wall surrounding it. It was necessary to pass through a guard-house to enter it.

According to 1 Kings 6:2-3, the First Temple was a long-room temple with a vestibule hall and a separate room for the Holy of Holies (see illustration at left). There were two columns in the vestibule hall, and splendid furnishings and fittings. The walls were covered with wooden panels embellished with gold-leaf overlay.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The houses of the citizens of Jerusalem were far simpler. Of course, this meant that people were crammed together closely, and as time passed the more affluent citizens began to build houses just outside the city walls.

All these buildings are long gone - destroyed in war or demolished to make way for later buildings. The only part left from David and Solomon's reigns may be ramparts from the city wall. Excavations have revealed a stepped stone structure, possibly foundations, dating from the 10th century BC.

Eventually, in 538BC, the people were allowed to return to Jerusalem. The once magnificent city was a sorry sight. Nothing seemed to remain, just a few small buildings and a demoralized peasantry living in huts, where once there had been the Temple, palaces, houses and commercial buildings.

Bit by bit the people, led by Zerubbabel of the house of David, began to rebuild Jerusalem. They were determined to re-establish their sacred city. The Temple was restored by 515BC, and Jerusalem once more became the center of the new state. Its position was strengthened when Nehemiah restored the fortifications surrounding the city.

With the coming of Alexander the Great, Jerusalem entered the world of Western power politics. After Alexander's death, Palestine was taken over by his marshal, Ptolemy I, who had occupied Egypt and made Alexandria his capital. In 198BC Jerusalem was taken over by the dynasty descended from Seleucus I, another of Alexander's marshal.

This was significant in cultural terms, since the new rulers promoted Greek culture and religious ideas, and tried to suppress Jewish practices. In 167BC Antiochus IV desecrated the Temple, and a revolt against the Seleucid rulers broke out. This revolt was led by the Maccabees, who were able to expel the Seleucids. Jerusalem regained its position as the capital of an independent state ruled by the priestly Hasmonean family.

Then came the Romans. They had for some time been expanding into the eastern Mediterranean world, and in 63BC Pompey captured Jerusalem. The way for peaceful co-existence was smoothed by the machinations of the Herod family, and in 40BC Herod, who had distinguished himself as governor of Galilee, was appointed a 'client king' of Judaea by the Roman Senate. He was the friend of Mark Antony, and when Mark Antony was defeated at the Battle of Actium and committed suicide, the wily Herod was able to persuade Octavian, later Augustus, that he should remain as king of Judaea.

Herod was king for the next thirty-six years, and in this period Jerusalem enjoyed its greatest period of greatness. The Temple Mount esplanade was artificially enlarged with supporting walls (including the Western Wall, now called the Wailing Wall), to provide a platform for Herod's greatest achievement, the new Temple, which took more than a generation to build. The new royal palace was strengthened by immense towers that were built into the older walls, and the Temple was defended by a new citadel. Jerusalem also acquired a Hellenistic amphitheatre.

Jerusalem was now the religious center, the goal of obligatory pilgrimages, the capital of the ruler, and the seat of the autonomous court of the Sanhedrin or Jewish Council of Elders.

Nothing lasts forever. In 66AD the Jewish people rebelled against Rome and in 70AD the city was besieged and almost completely destroyed by the Roman forces under Titus. The Temple, Herod's most splendid building, was reduced to ashes.

A Biblical city

A city in biblical times could be anything from 6 hectares (15 acres) - Megiddo, to 10 hectares (25 acres) - Ai, Gezer and Arad. It was protected by a ring of walls, with gates or posterns. The fortification could be a wall or a rampart. Inside the walls there were houses of varying shapes and sizes, but also monumental buildings which covered a substantial part of the area inside the wall. Among these were the temple and the palace, often at the center of the settlement or in a prominent position. All the houses were accessible via streets.

A city had to be situated near a water supply, with wells in the nearby plains or valleys.

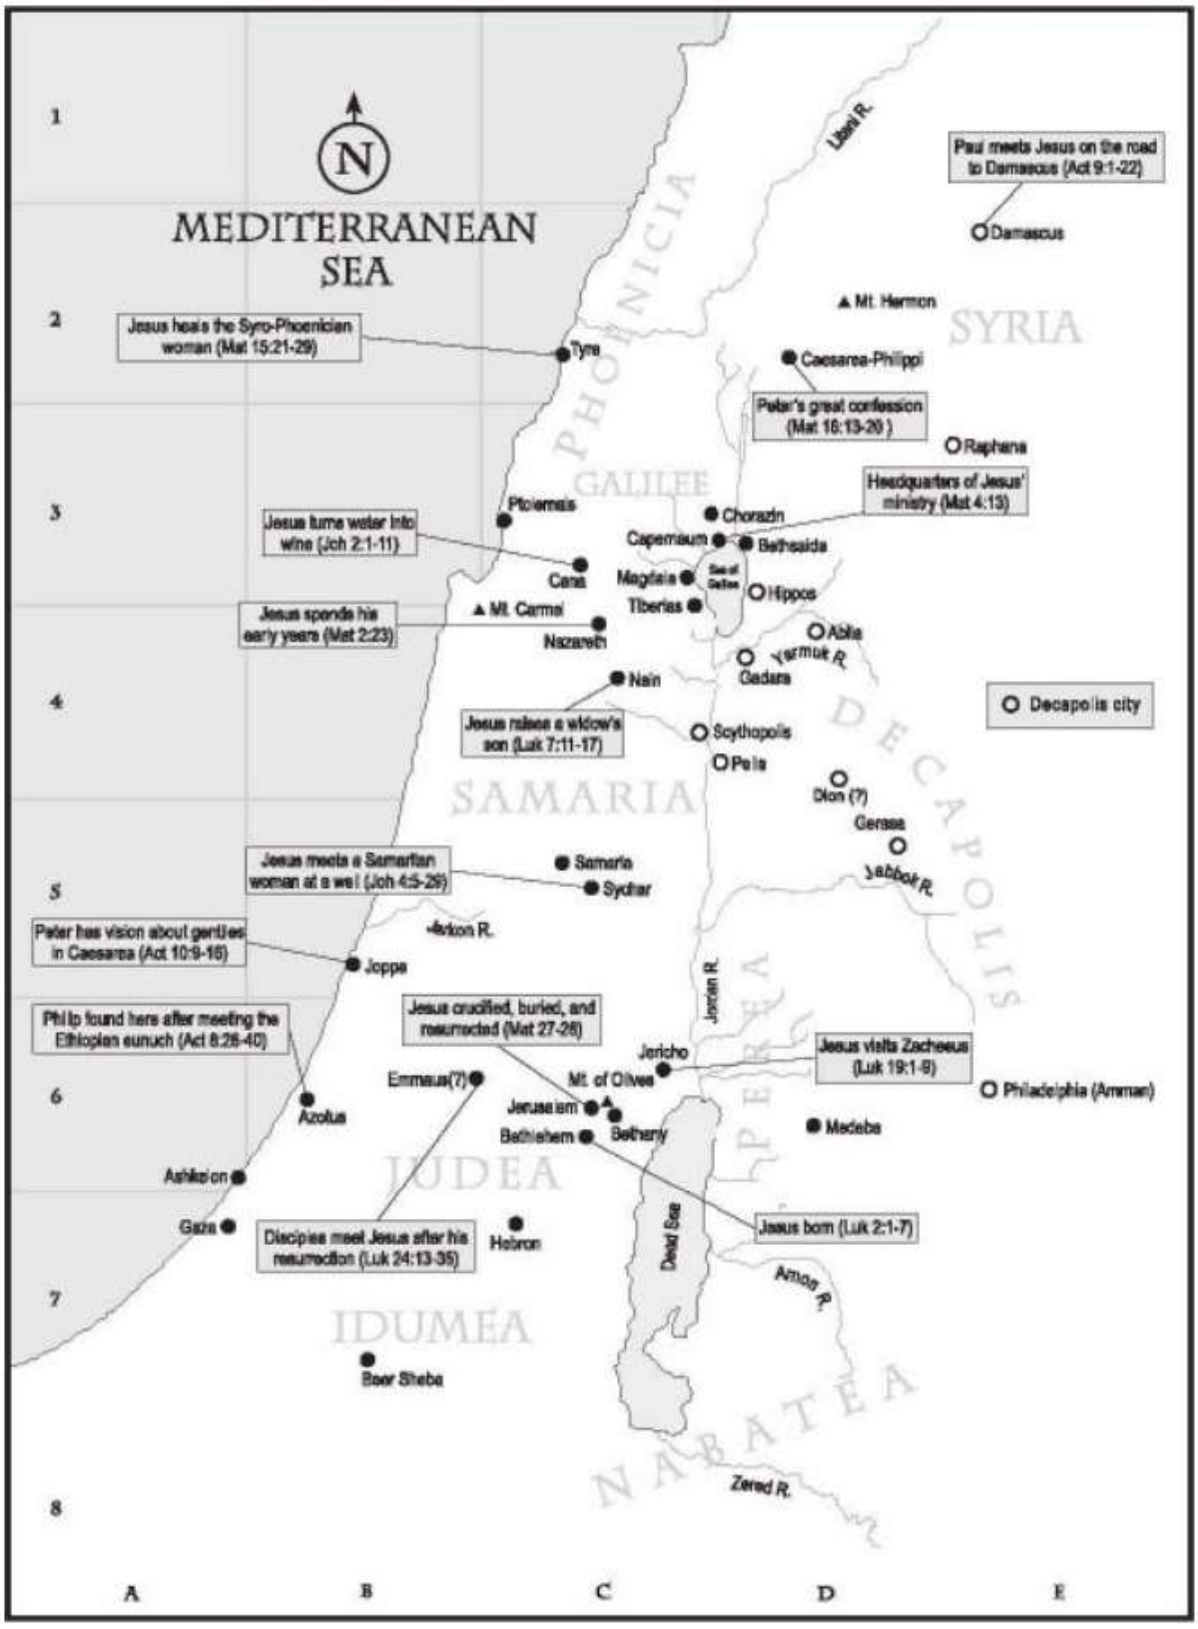
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

City walls had different methods of construction and size. There are mud brick walls from 2 to 6 meters thick on stone foundations, with projecting semicircular or rectangular towers. In another case, the walls were 8 to 10 meters wide. The gate had towers flanking it on either side.

The earliest type of house was the wide-room house. Its floor was below ground level and the house was entered by two steps. Benches ran along the walls. This basic form was enlarged by the addition of annexes and additional rooms, and a house often had several rooms, in which the entrance from the street was in the shorter wall.

Who	David, Solomon, Rehoboam, Hezekiah, Nehemiah, King Herod, Jesus of Nazareth
What	The great Holy City of the Bible: political capital, religious center, focus of pilgrimage, and seat of administration and law.
Where	Jerusalem lies on the southern spur of a plateau in the Judean Mountains, surrounded by valleys and dry riverbeds.
When	Jerusalem is one of the oldest continuing cities in the world. People have occupied the site for at least six thousand years.

[Source: http://www.bible-architecture.info/Jerusalem.htm]

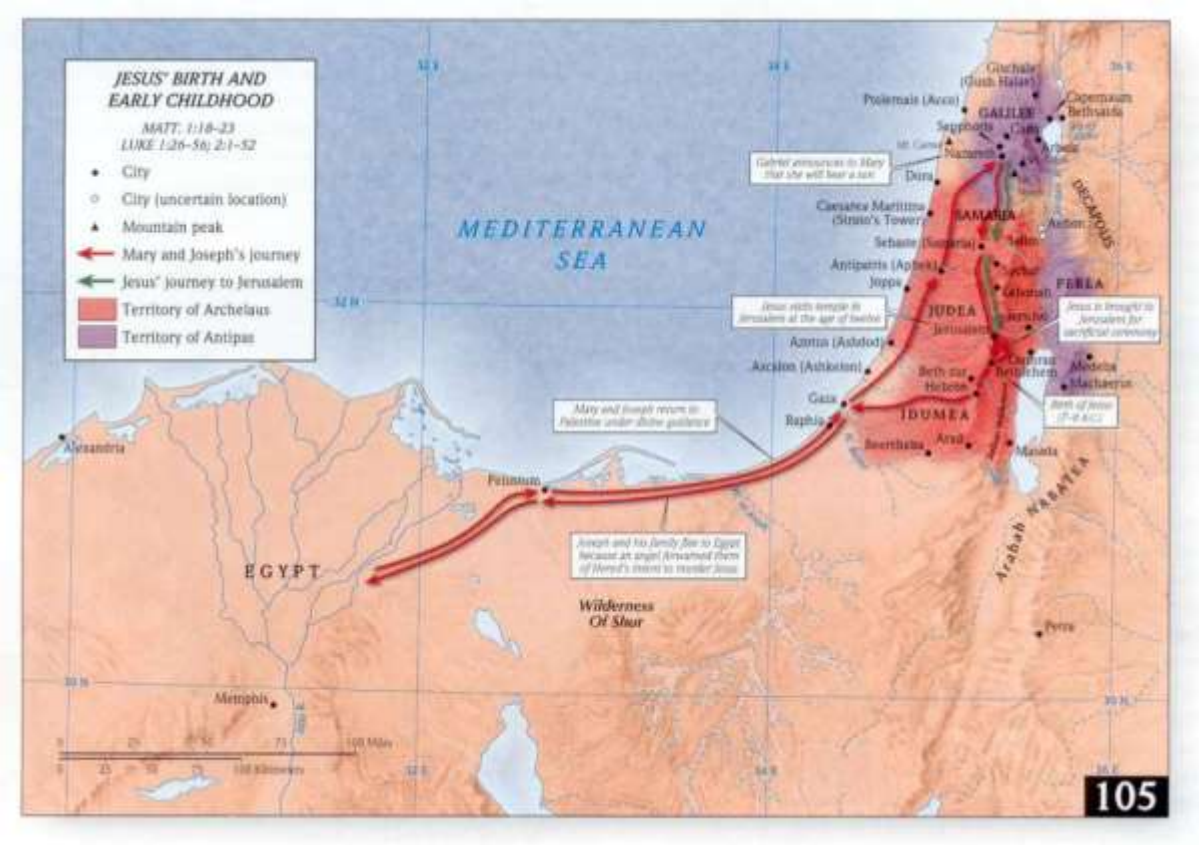


Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

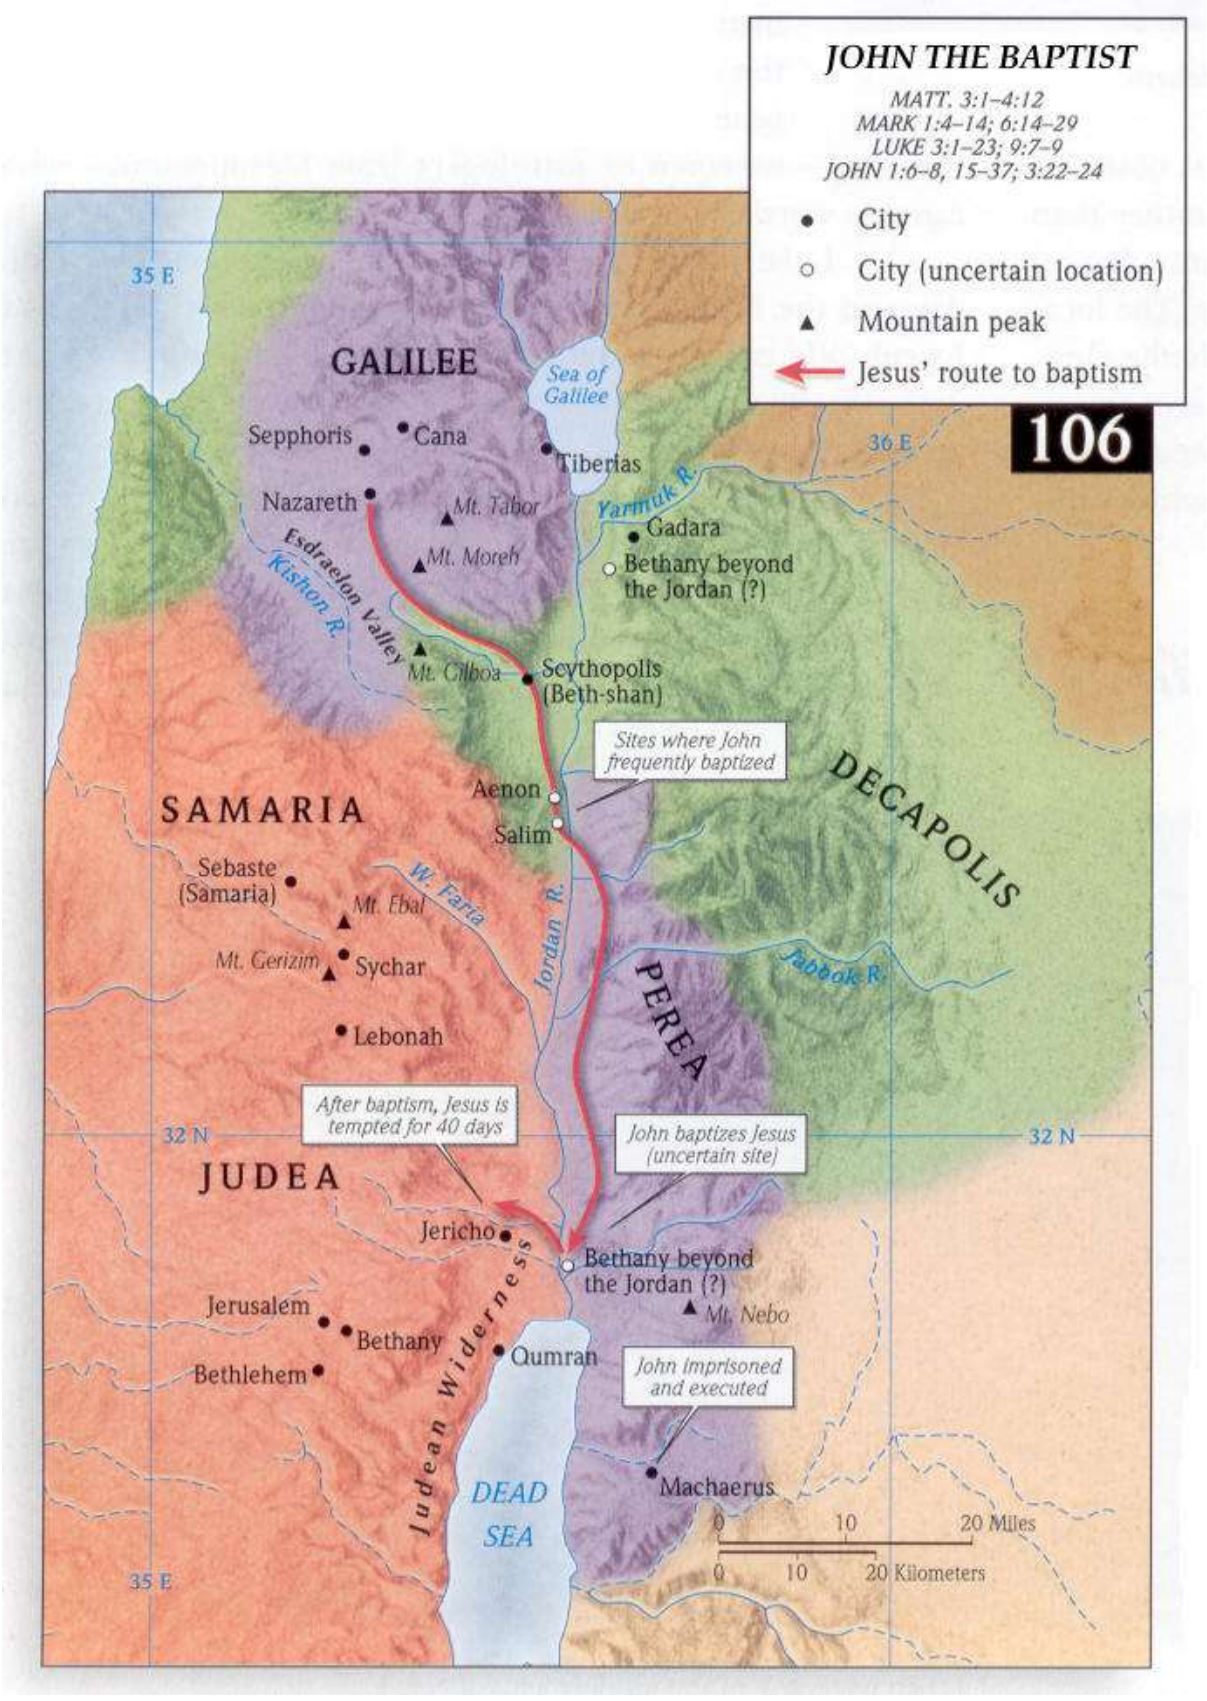
Important Places During Time of Jesus

Continue to next page..

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

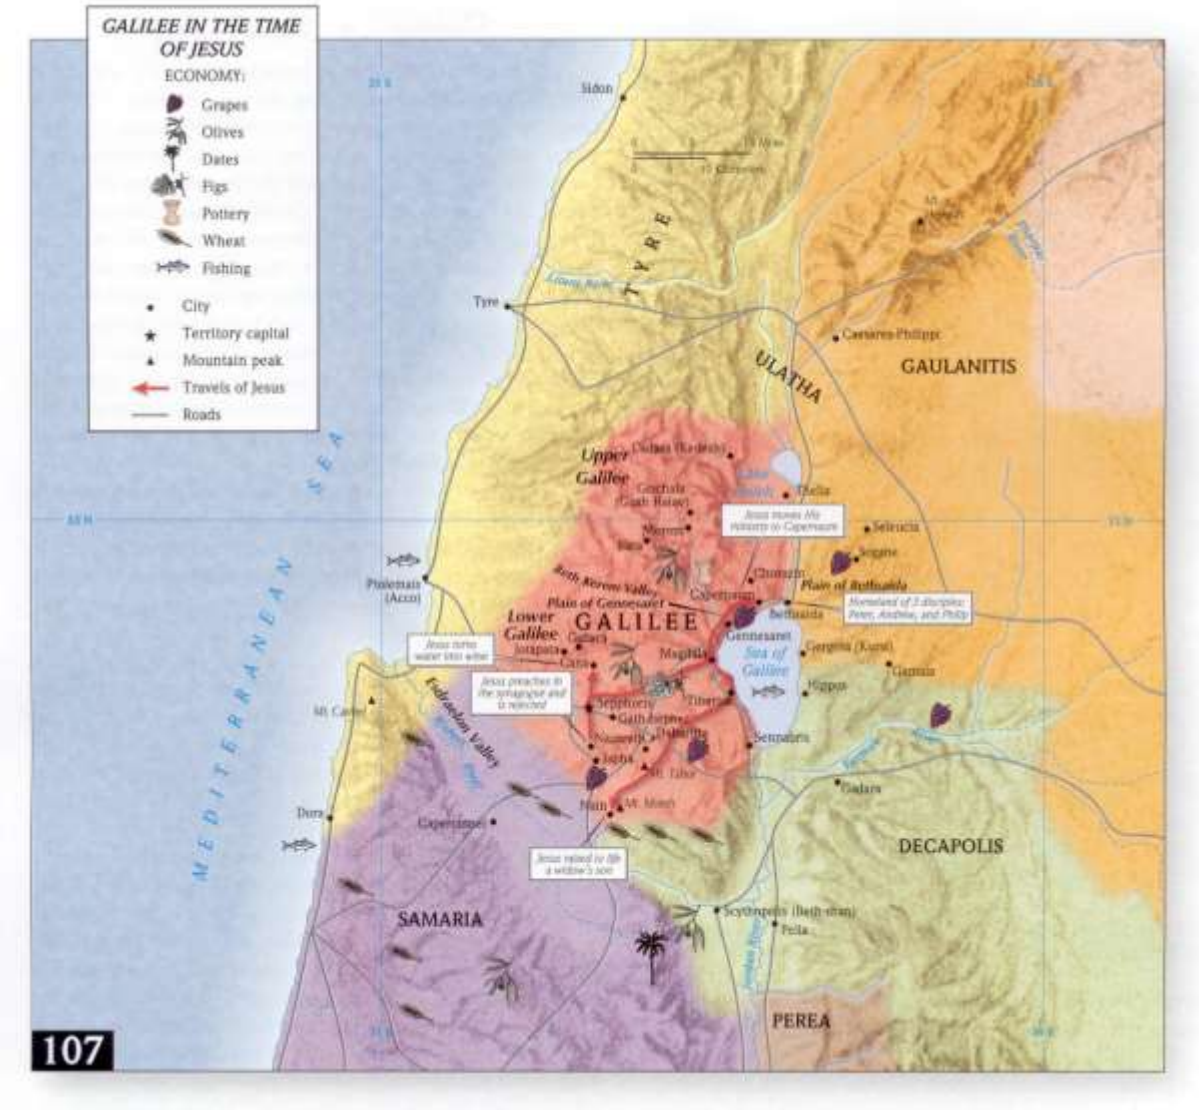


Israel During the Time of Jesus



Source: http://classic.net.bible.org/map.php?map=nt1

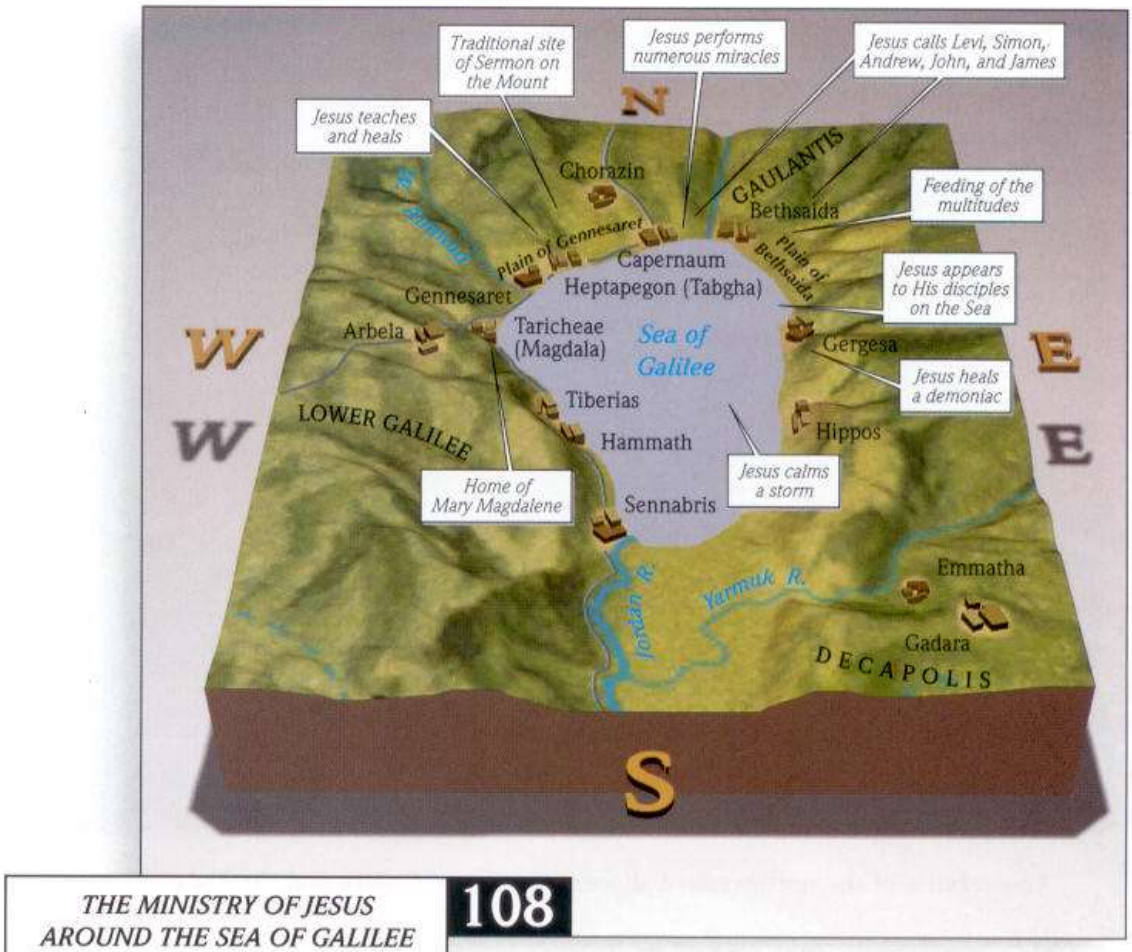
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Jesus' Birth and Early Childhood Travels

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Jesus' Ministry in Galilee and Journey to Jerusalem

Matthew 4.12–21.1; Mark 1.14–11.1; Luke 4.14–19.27
Jesus spent most of his ministry in Galilee, where he had grown up. He traveled mainly around Lake Galilee, with his home in Capernaum. He may have gone to Jerusalem by way of Perea to avoid going through Samaria.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

108

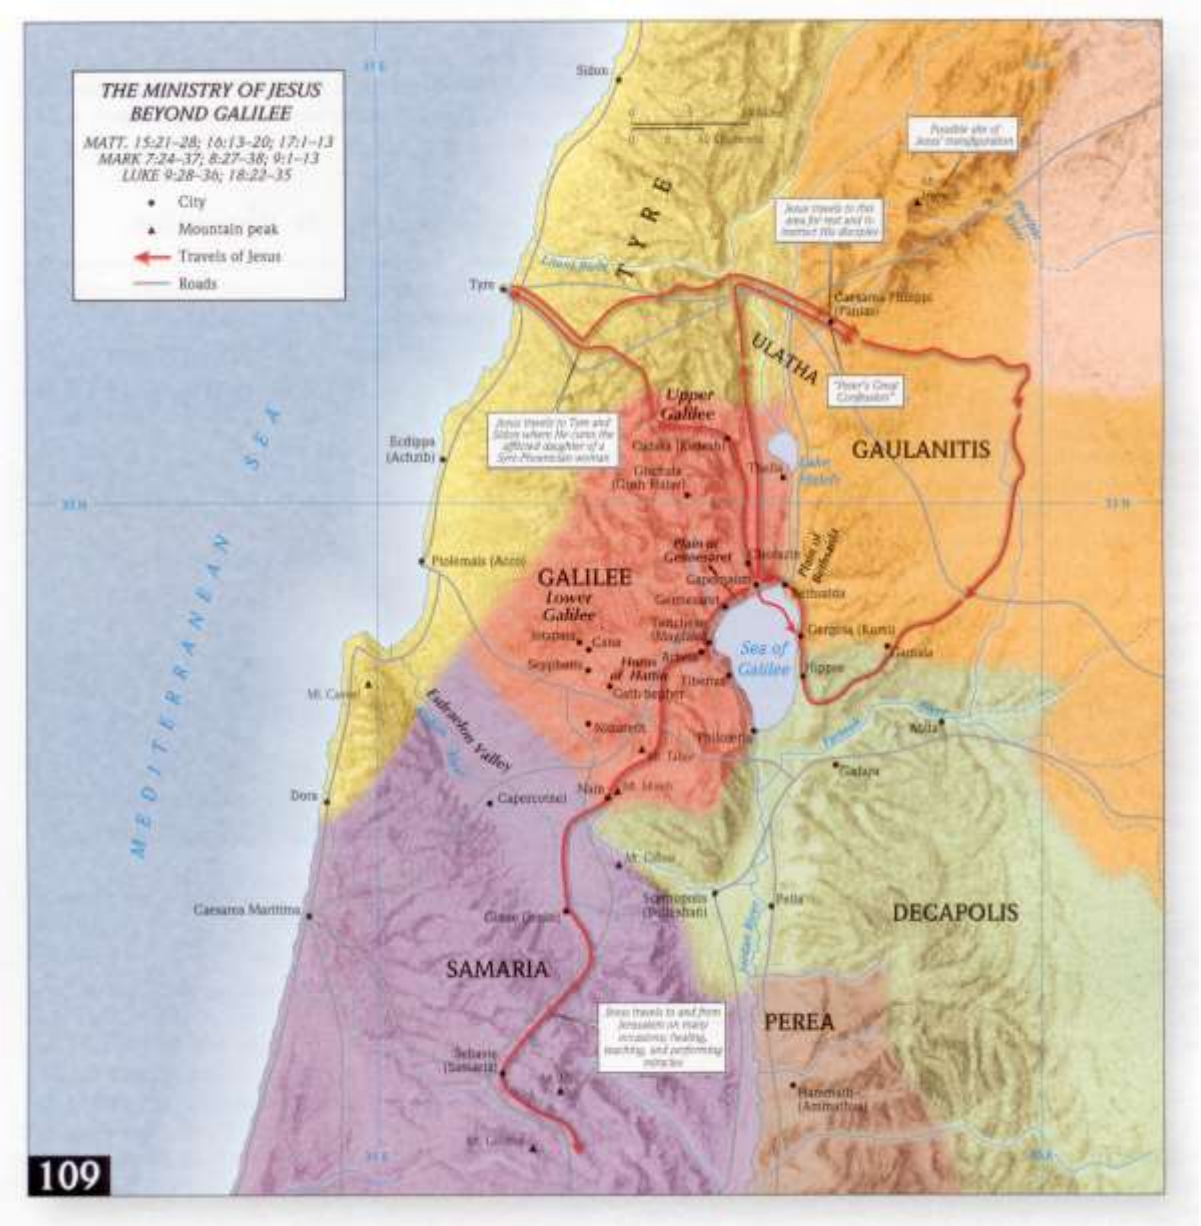
THE MINISTRY OF JESUS AROUND THE SEA OF GALILEE

MATT. 5–7; 9:1–9
MARK 1:21–34; 2:1–14; 4:–41; 5:1–20; 6:45–52
LUKE 7:1–10; 9:12–17
JOHN 6:1–25

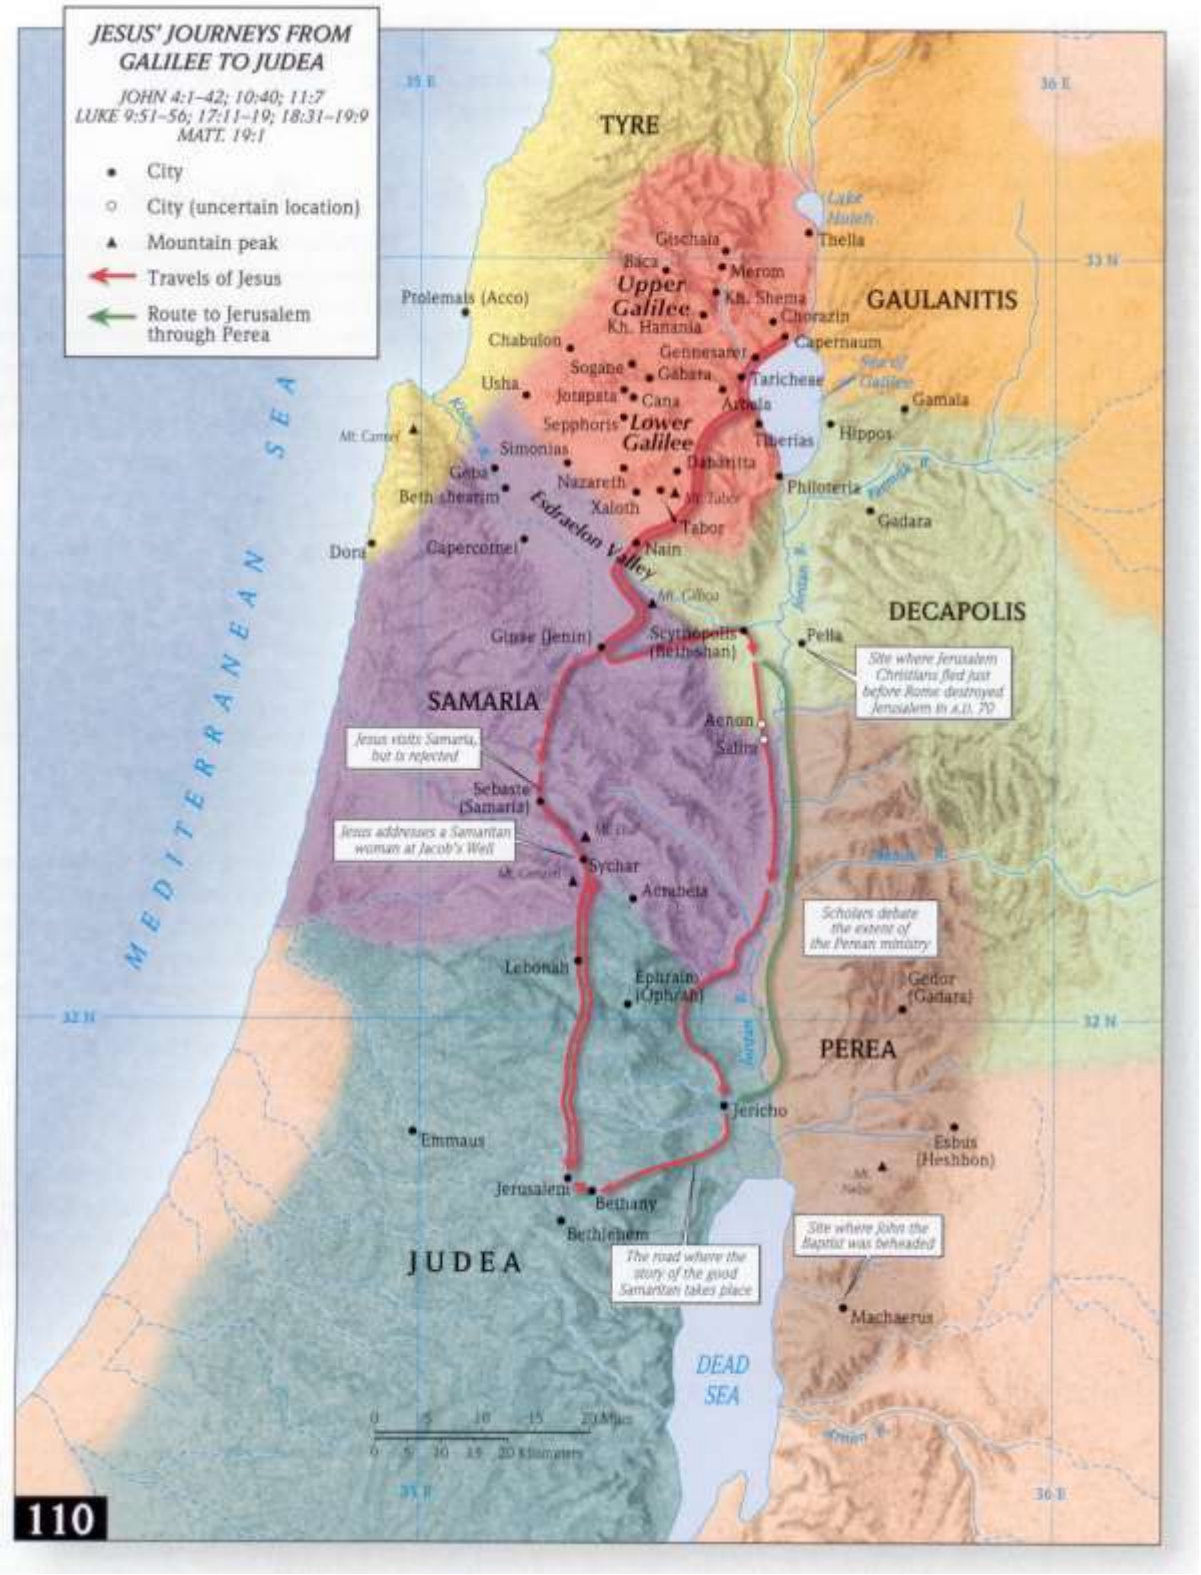
City

Road

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

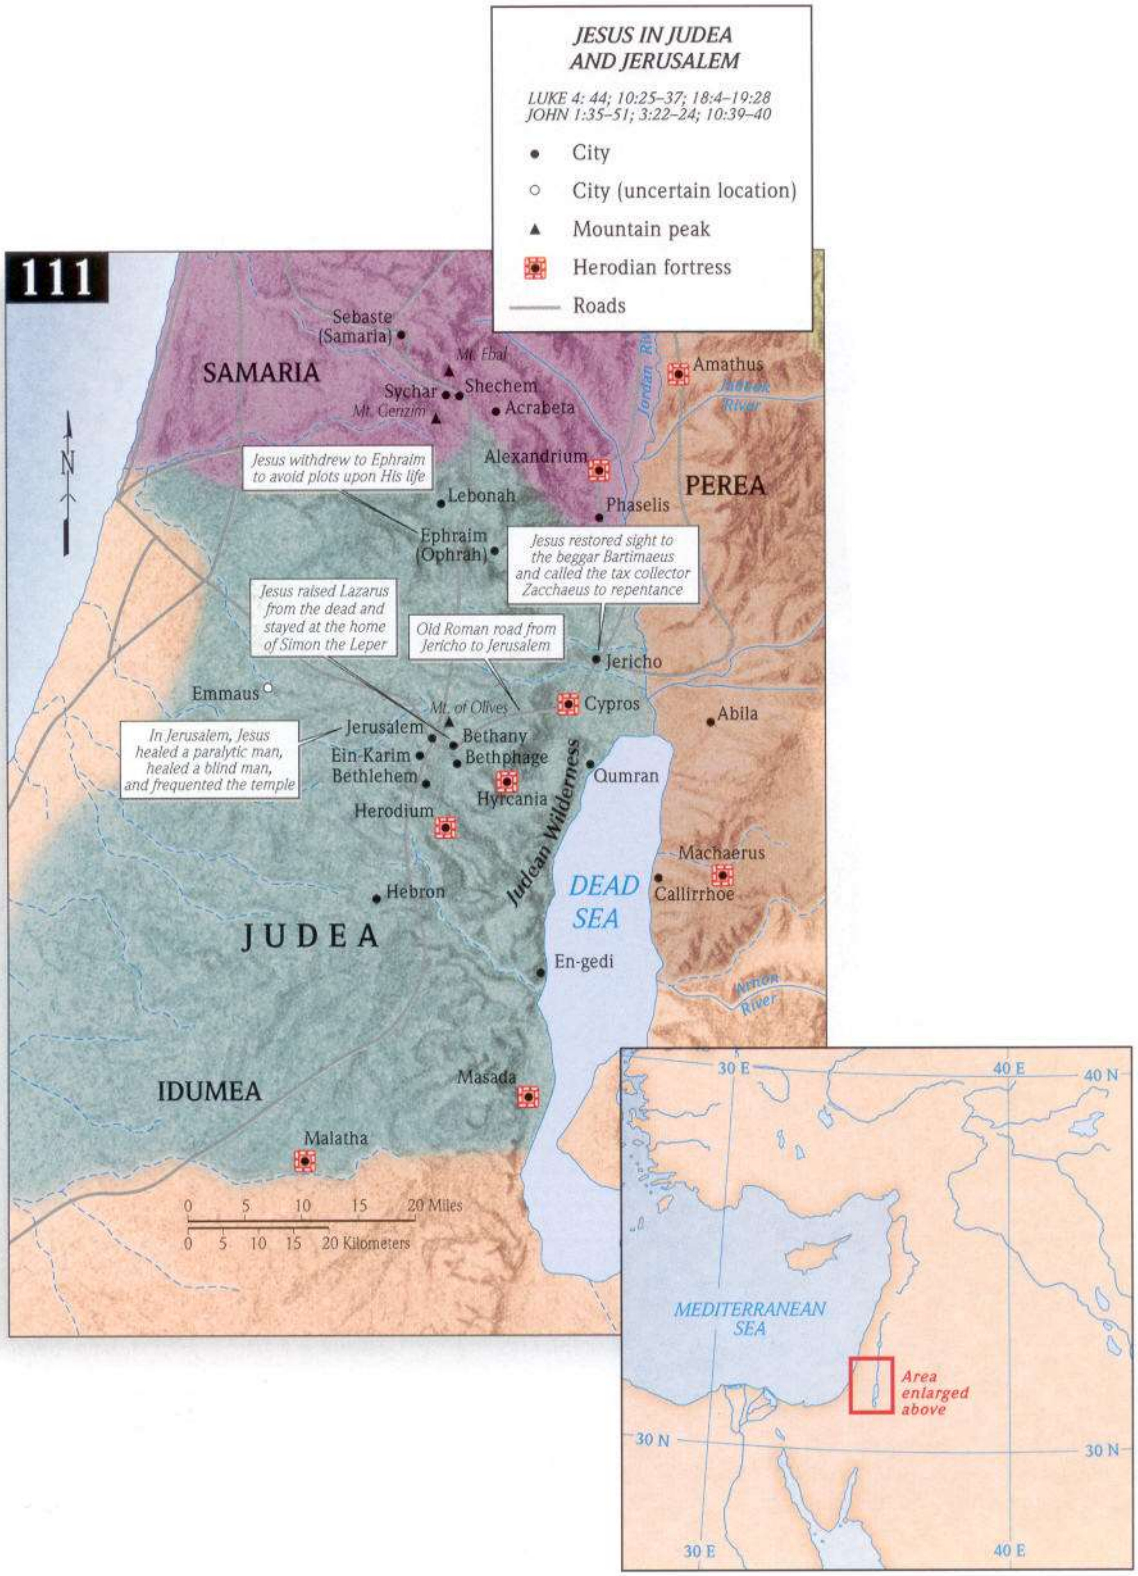


Jesus' Ministry according to John

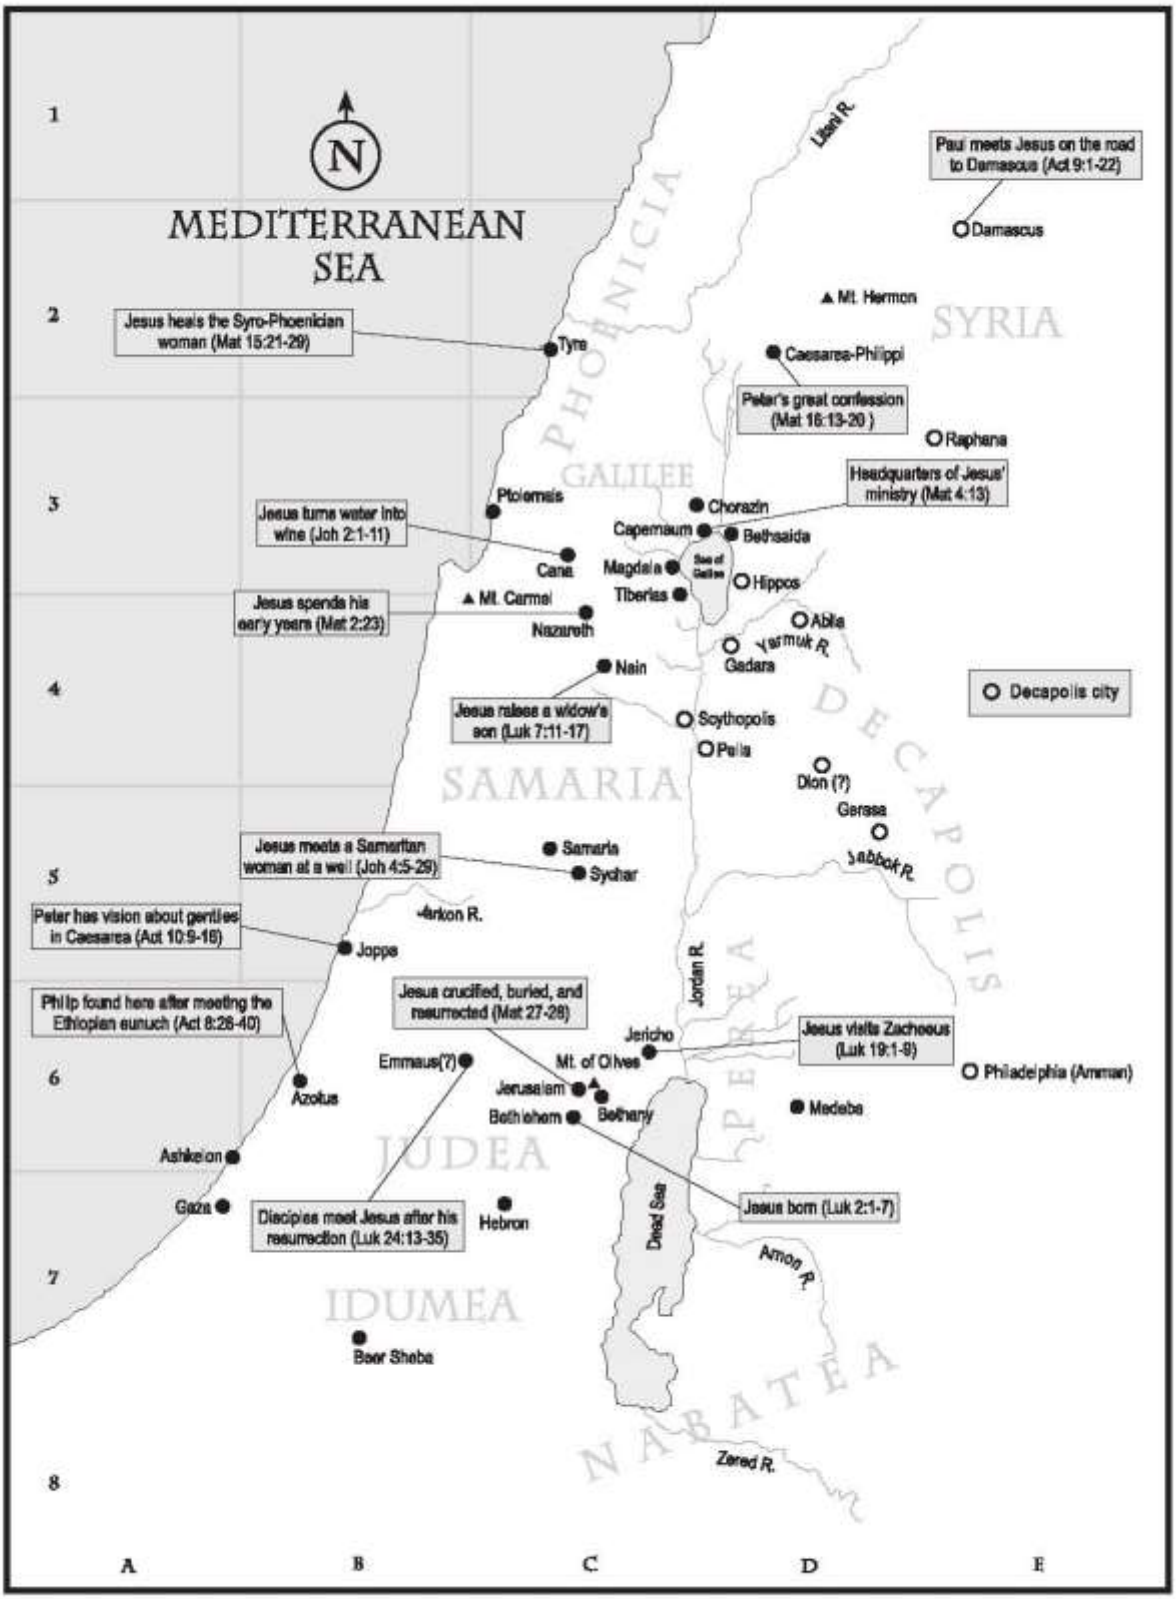


John

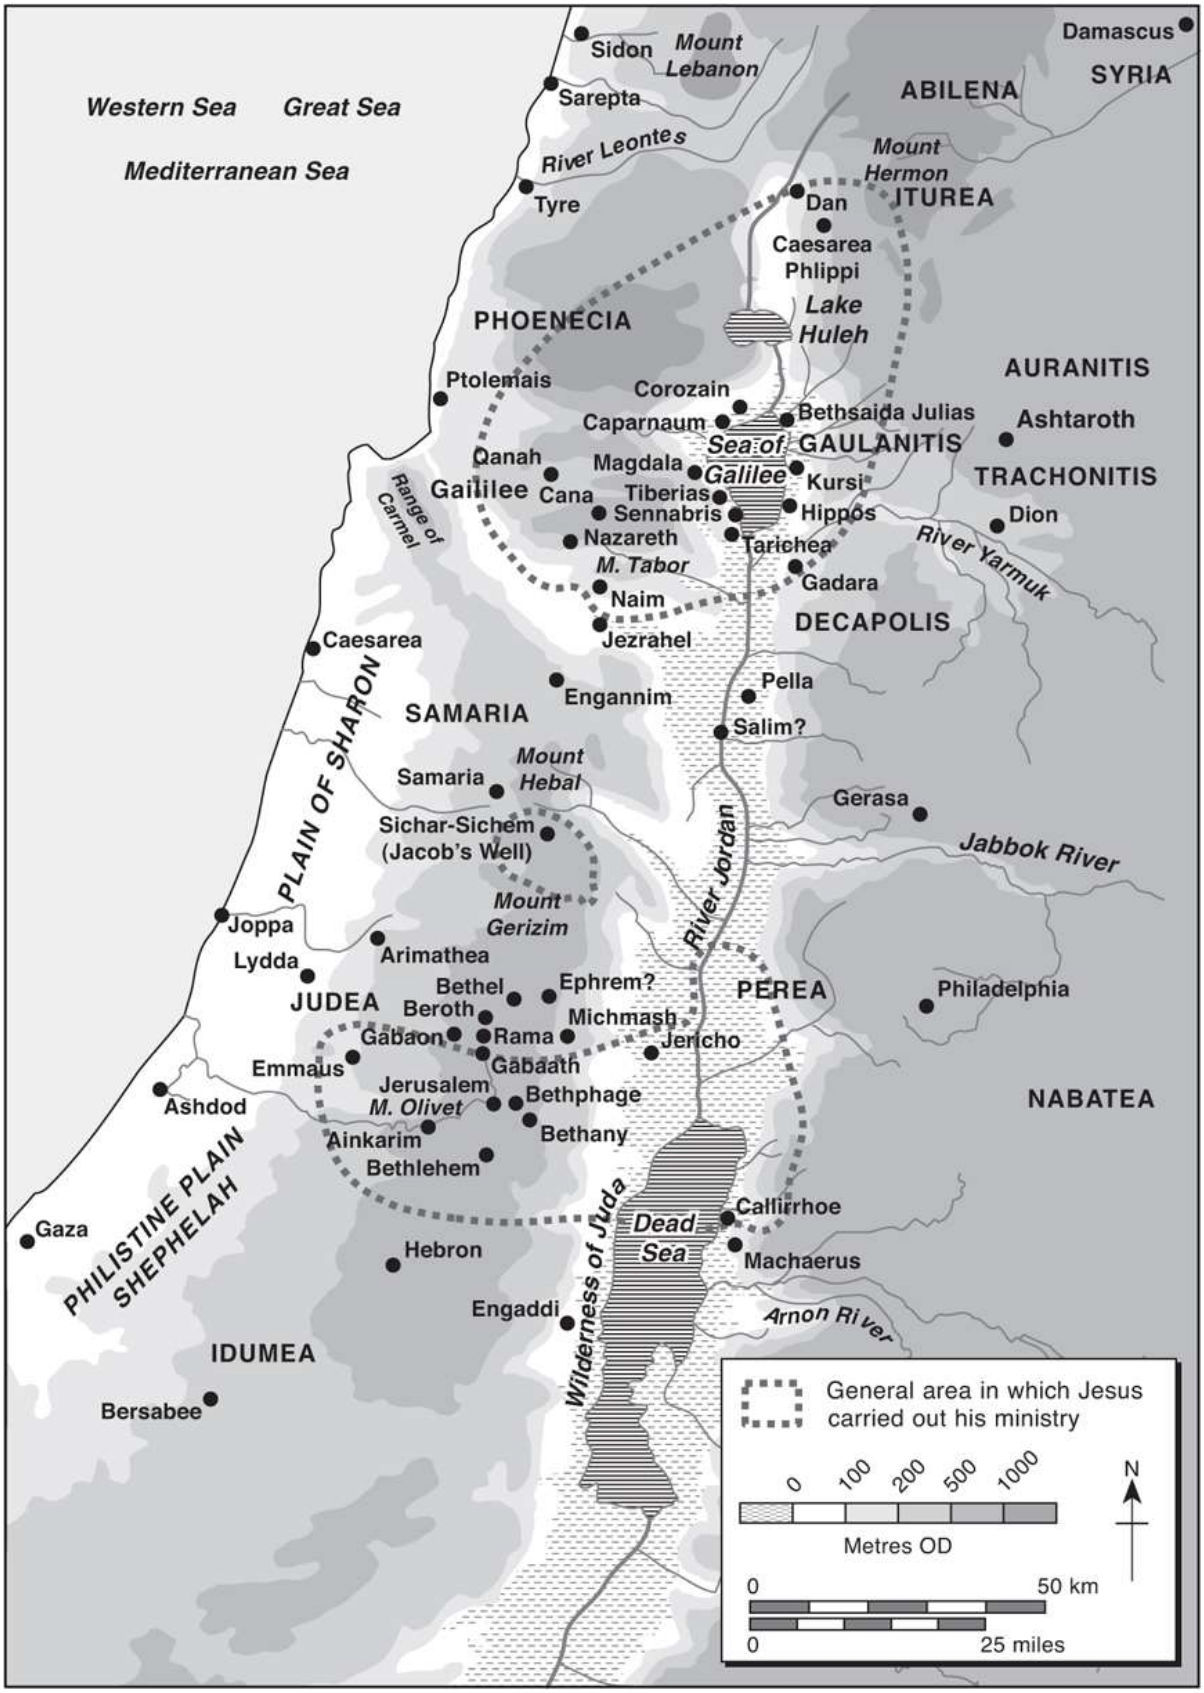
The account in the fourth Gospel differs in many ways from that of the first three Gospels. For example, Jesus visited Jerusalem more than once, and different places are named. This evidently represents an independent historical tradition which emphasizes events other than those in the synoptic Gospels.



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



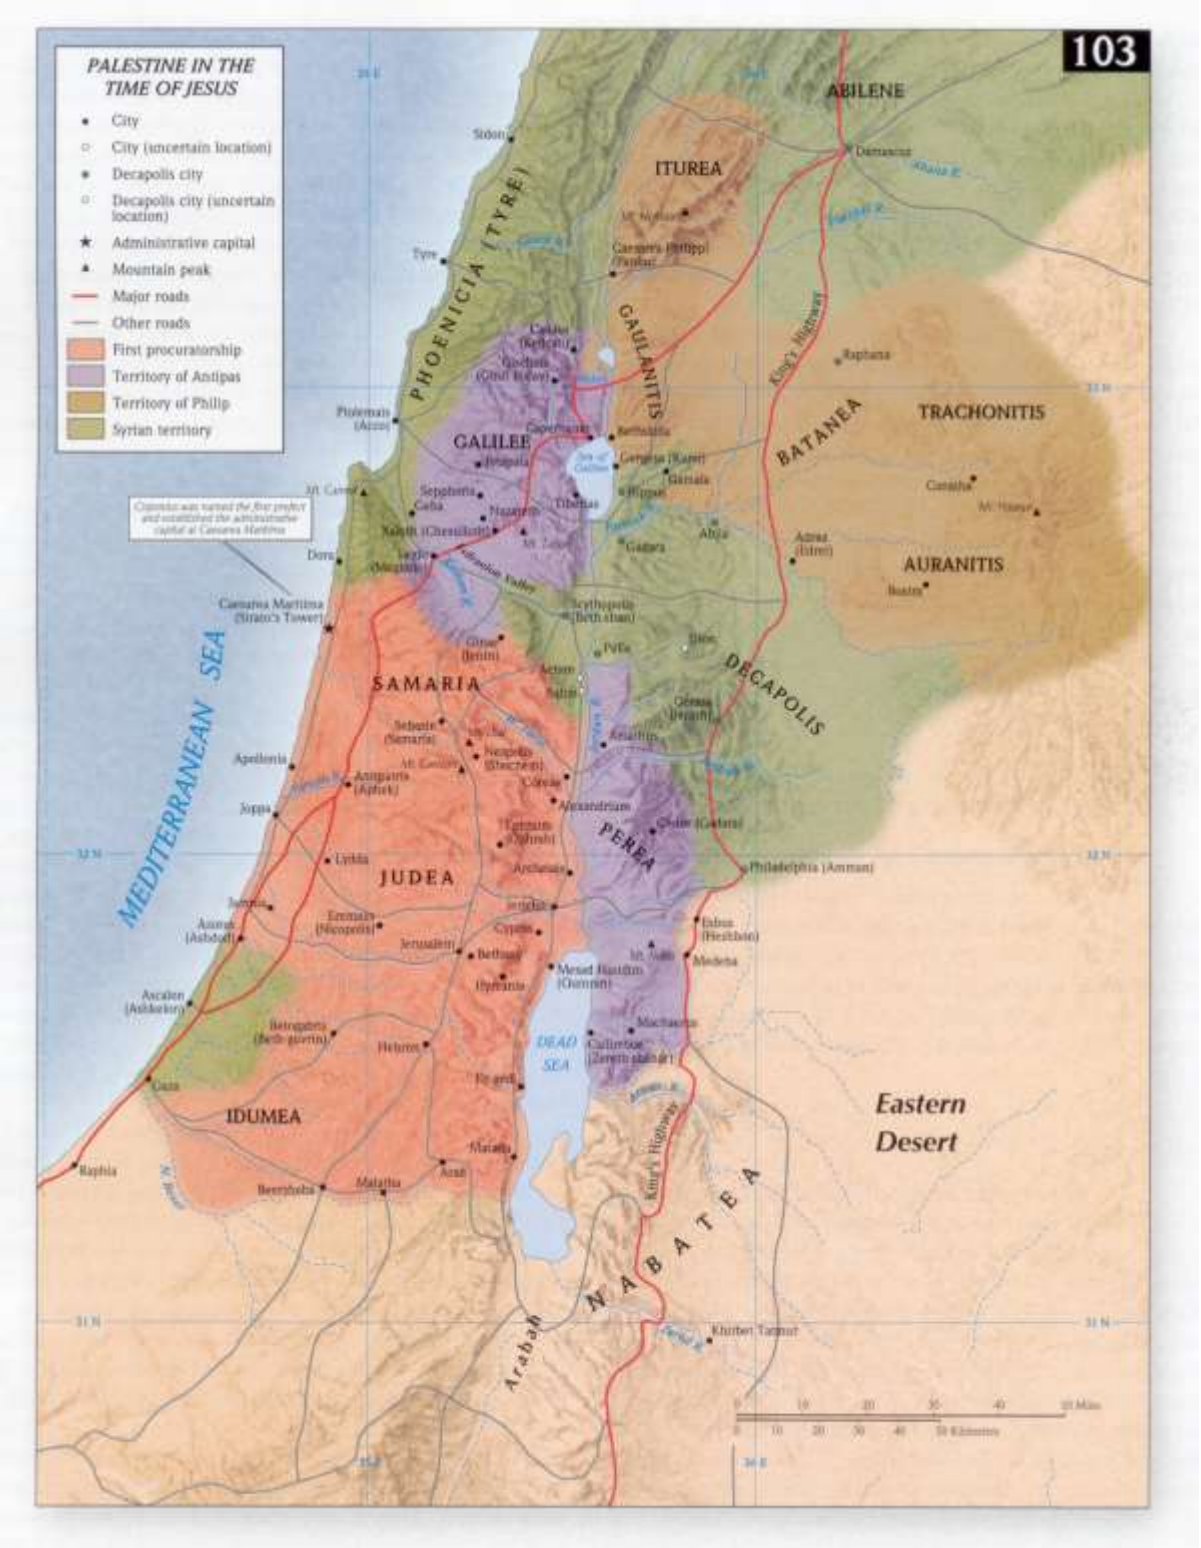
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



[Source: The Navarre Bible New Testament Commentary]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

103a
PHOENICIA
ABILENE
GAULANITIS
BATANEA
GALILEE
JEZREEL
SHARON
DECAPOLIS
SAMARIA
JUDEA
PEREA
IDUMEA
NABATEANS
ARABIA
Hermon
Carmel
Jordan
Sidon
Zarephath
Tyre
Ptolemais
Caesarea
Apollonia
Joppa
Lydda
Jamnia
Azotus
Ascalon
Gaza
Masada
Machaerus
Gadara
Hippos
Pella
Scythopolis
Gerasa
Philadelphia
Jericho
Jerusalem
Bethany
Qumran
Hebron
Beer-sheba
Nazareth
Tabor
Gischala
Capernaum
Bethsaida
Tarichaea (Magdala)
Tiberias
Gamala
Abila
Capitolias (Raphana)
Samaria
Neapolis
Tyrtha
Gerizim
Antipatris
Aphairema
Thamna
Gophna
Archelais
Emmaus
Betogabris
Bethlehem
Bethlehepha
Herodium
Engaddi
Callirhoe (Gedor)
Livias (Julias)
Esbus
Machaerus
Arabatta
Malatha
Petra
Sela
Obodas
Avdat
Mamshit
Oboda
Nessana
Elusa
Rehovot-in-the-Negev
Shivta
Ruheiba
Kurnub
Mampsis
Arad
Tell Arad
Tell Malhata
Tell Ira
Tell Beersheba
Tell Esdar
Tell Jemmeh
Tell Haror
Tell Sera
Tell Abu Hureira
Tell Gamma
Tell Sheva
Tell Ajjul
Tell el-Farah (South)
Tell el-Hesi
Tell Halif
Tell Eglon
Tell Zafit
Tell Erani
Tell Lachish
Tell Beit Mirsim
Tell Judeideh
Tell Zakariya
Tell Azeqa
Tell es-Safi
Tell es-Sakan
Tell Gezer
Tell Jarmuth
Tell Beit Shemesh
Tell Batash
Tell Aphek
Tell Mor
Tell Qasile
Tell Jerishe
Tell Ashdod
Tell Mevorakh
Tell Dothan
Tell Qiri
Tell Abu Zarad
Tell Abu Qudeis
Tell Abu Shusha
Tell Abu Sarbut
Tell Abu Zeitun
Tell Abu Hawam
Tell Abu K

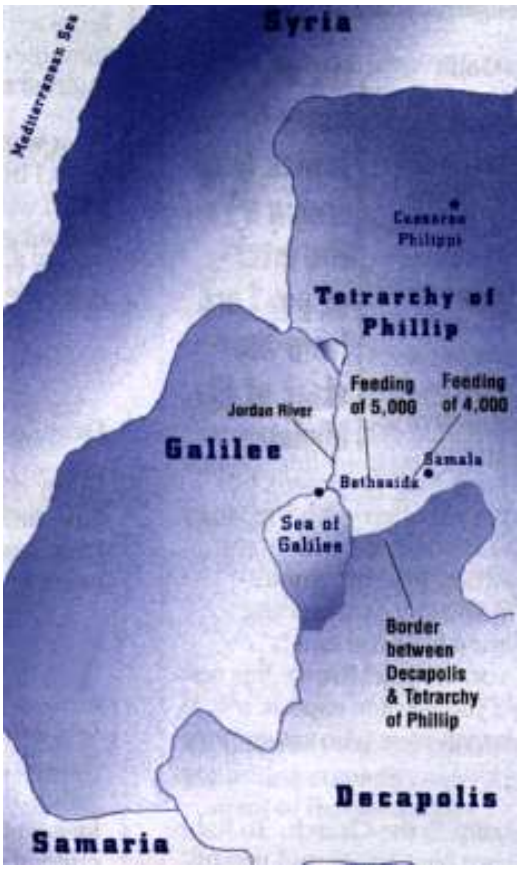
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Map Showing Route of Jesus' Ministry:

see route numbers key following:

1 Jerusalem

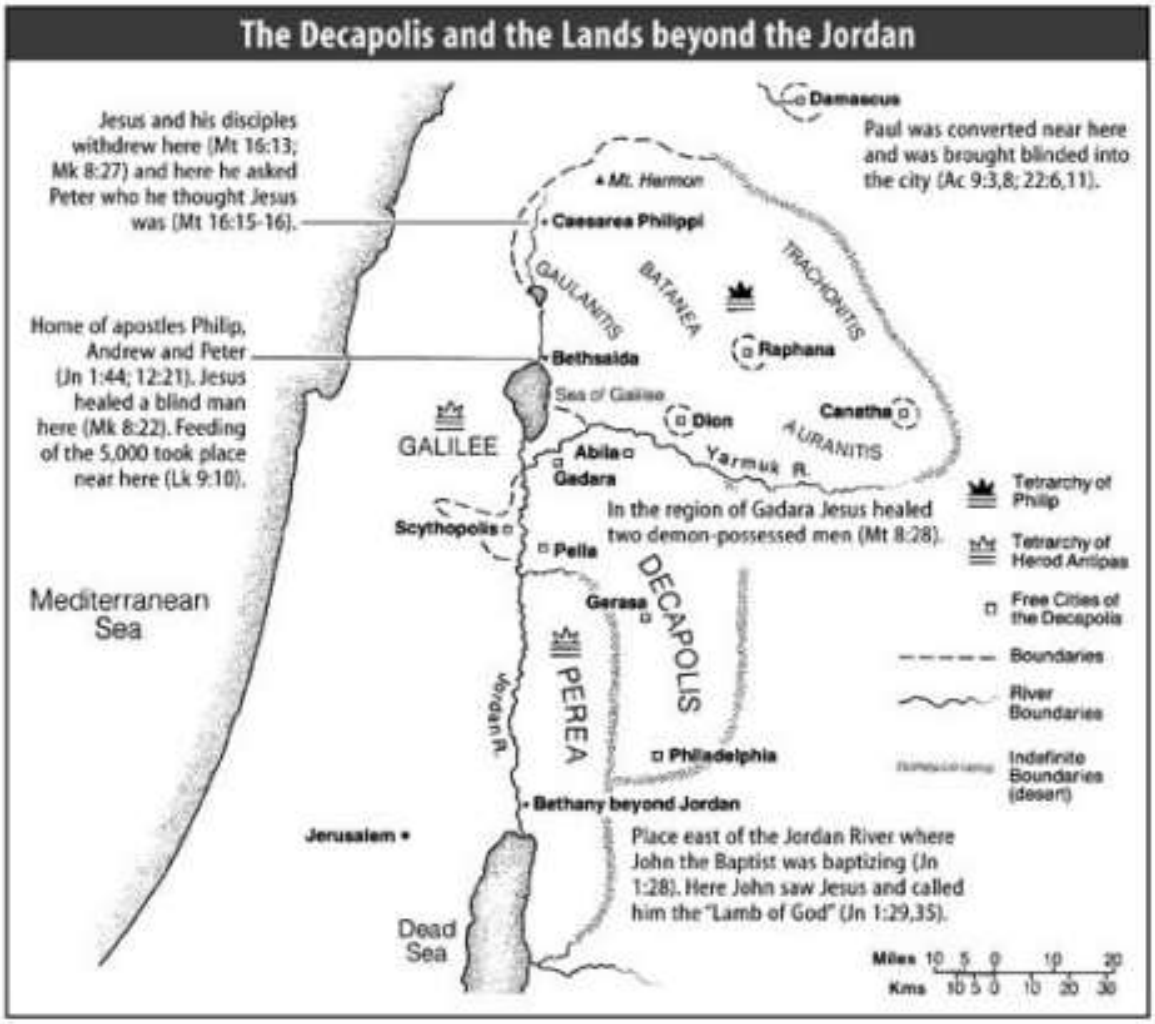


2 Nazareth
3 Bethlehem
4 Jerusalem
5 Egypt
6 Nazareth
7 Jerusalem
8 The Jordan River
9 The Wilderness
10 Cana of Galilee
11 Jerusalem
12 Samaria
13 Galilee
14 Nazareth
15 The Sea of Galilee
16 All Galilee
17 Capernaum
18 Jerusalem
19 Nain
20 Capernaum
21 Sea of Galilee
22 Nazareth
23 Sea of Galilee
24 Tyre and Sidon
25 Bethsaida
26 Caesarea Philippi
27 Capernaum
28 Jerusalem
29 Bethany
30 Jerusalem
31 Beyond the Jordan
32 Bethany
33 Ephraim
34 Judea
35 Jericho
36 Bethany

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others.

Feeding of 5000 and 4000

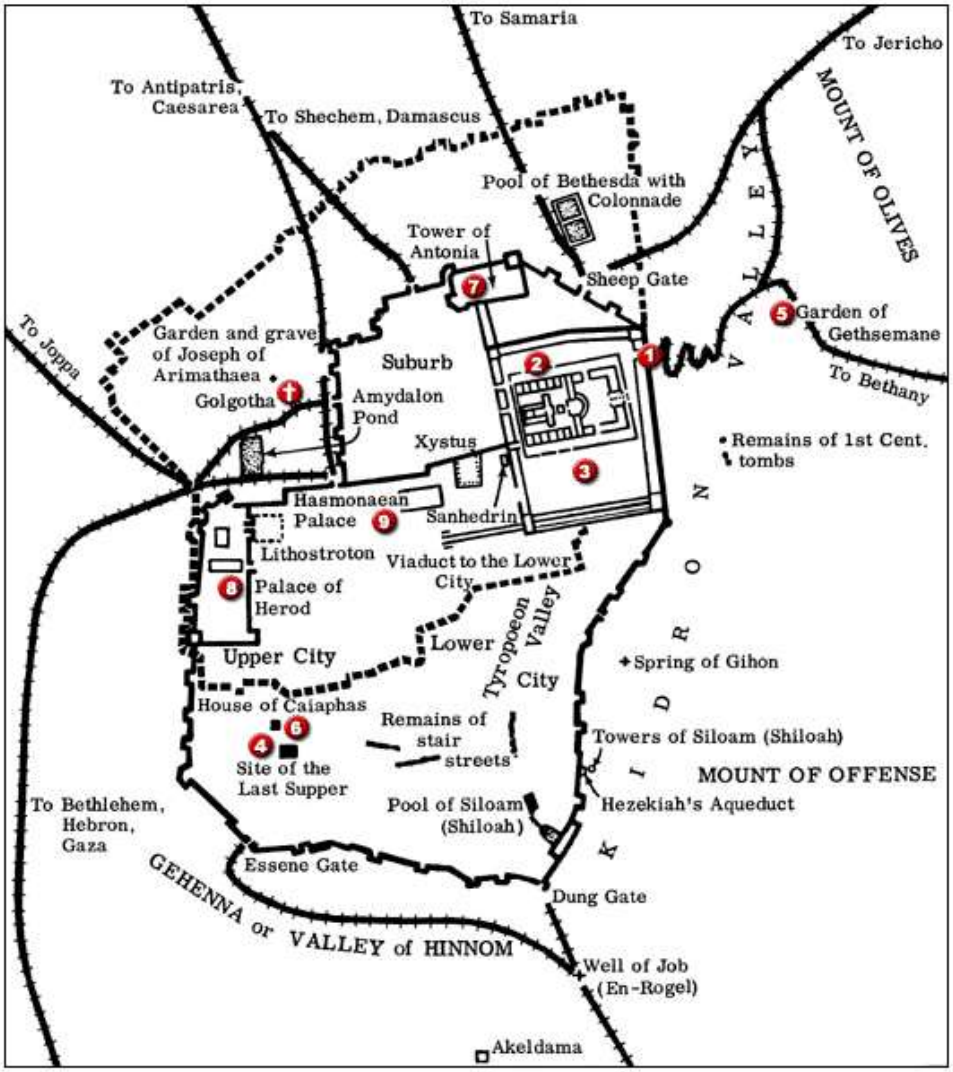
[Source: http://www.messiah-study.net/Feeding5000.htm]



Source: http://www.levitt.com/essays/feeding4000]

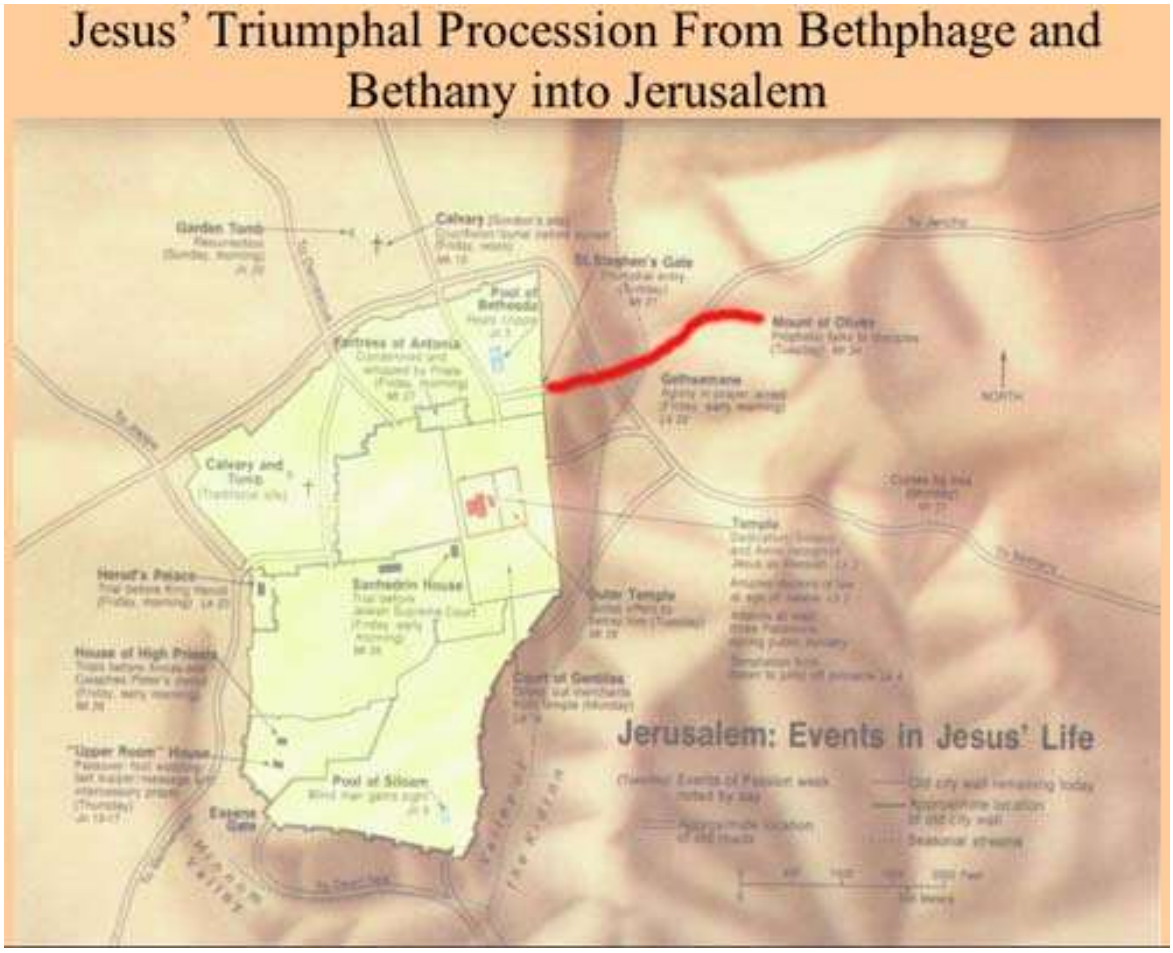
see also: http://dqhall59.com/feeding_5000.htm

http://dqhall59.com/feeding_5000.htm



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

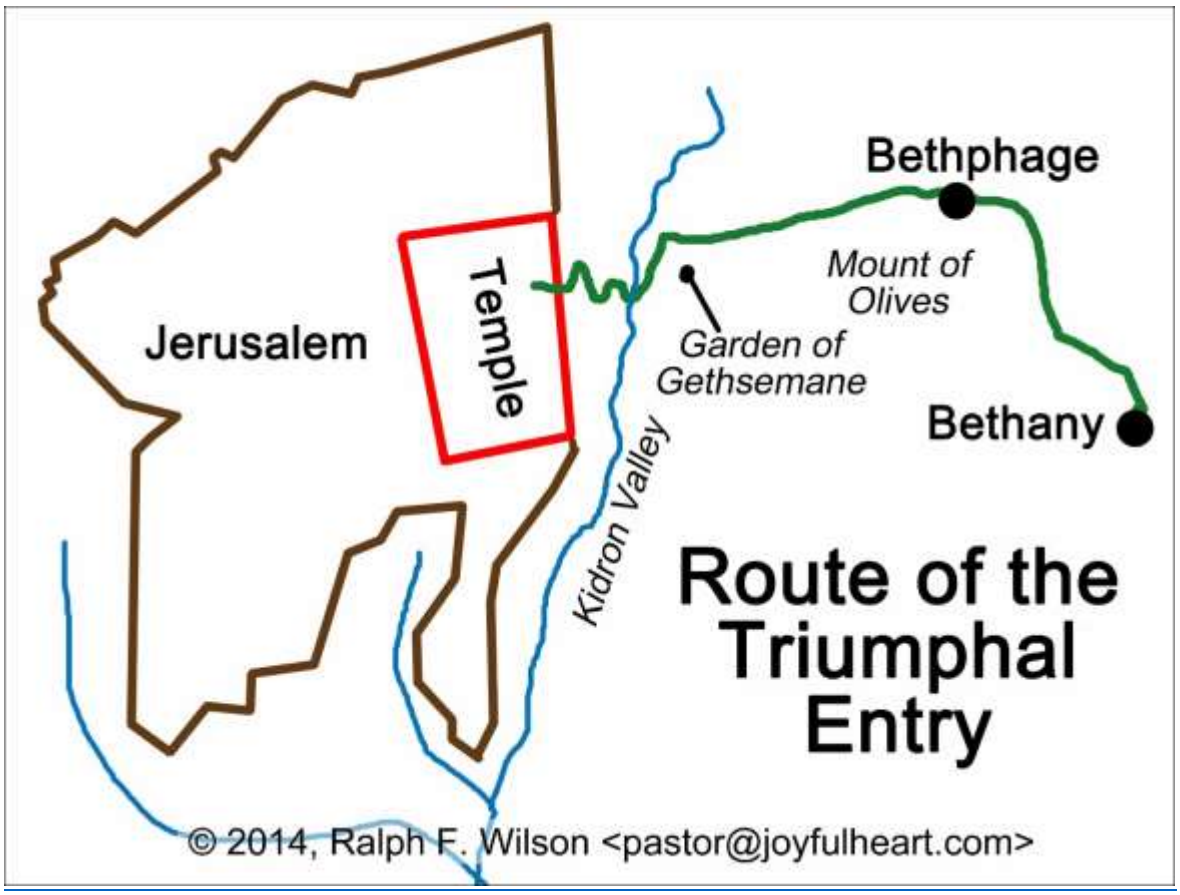
[Source: NIV '08 Study Bible Notes]



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Map of the Last Passover and Death of Jesus

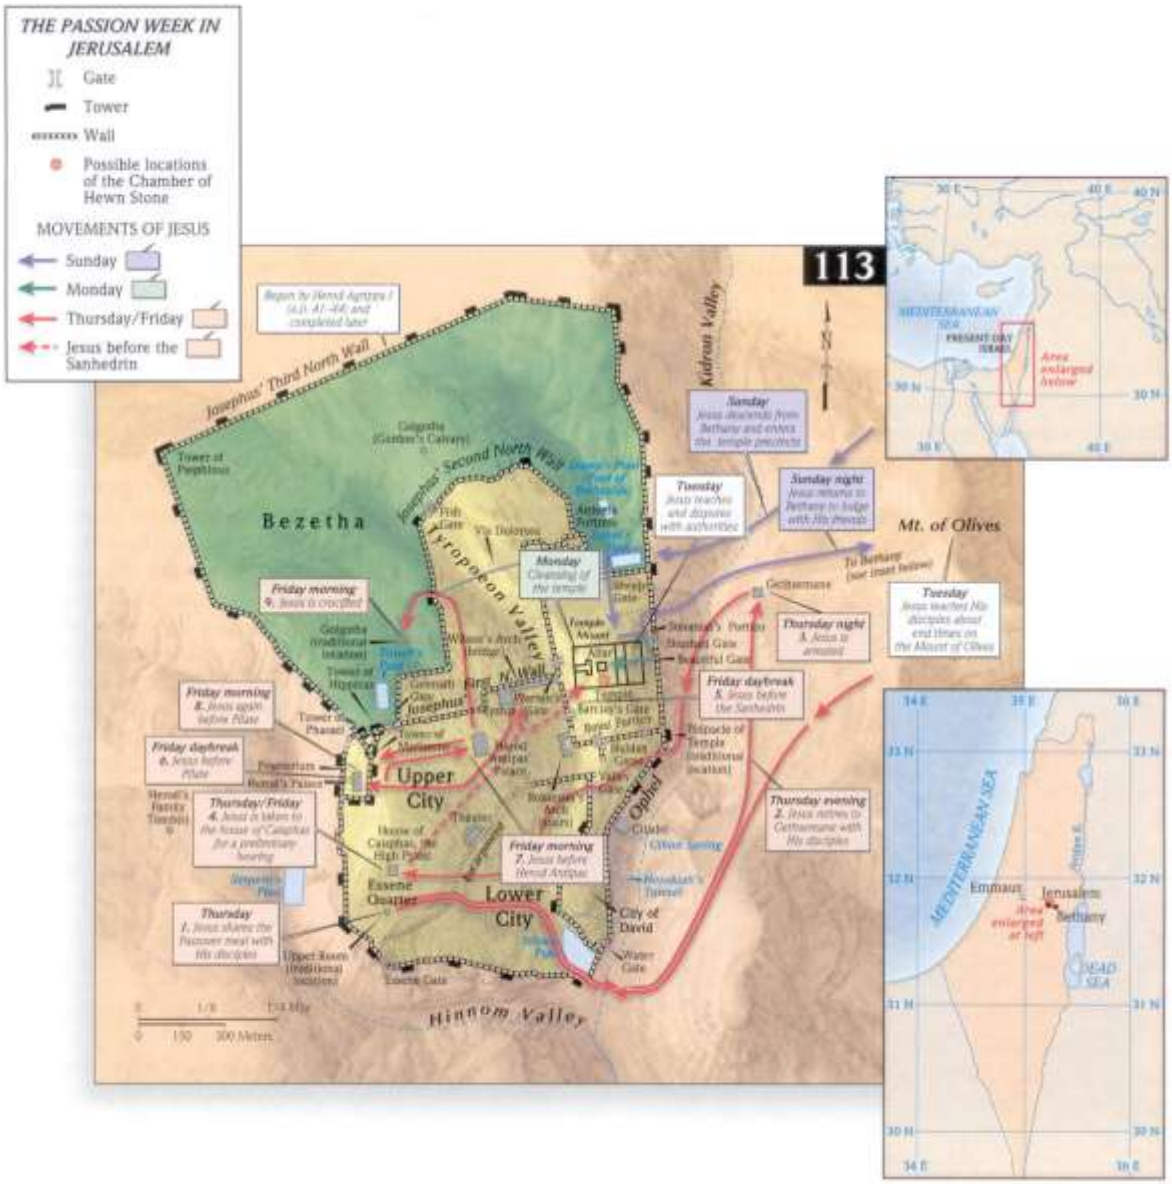
[1 The Golden Gate]
[2 The Temple]
[3 The Court of the Gentiles]
[4 The Last Supper]
[5 The Garden of Gethsemane]
[6 House of Caiaphas]
[7 Fortress of Antonia]
[8 Herod's Palace]
[9 Hasmonaean Palace]
[† Golgotha]



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

For more in-depth information about the "Triumphal Entry" of Jesus to Jerusalem and explanations about the corresponding dates/days of weeks see:
http://www.reasonablefaith.org/the-triumphal-entry

An Outline of the Story of Jesus Using MAPS
https://www.ccel.org/bible/phillips/CP051GOSPELMAPS.htm

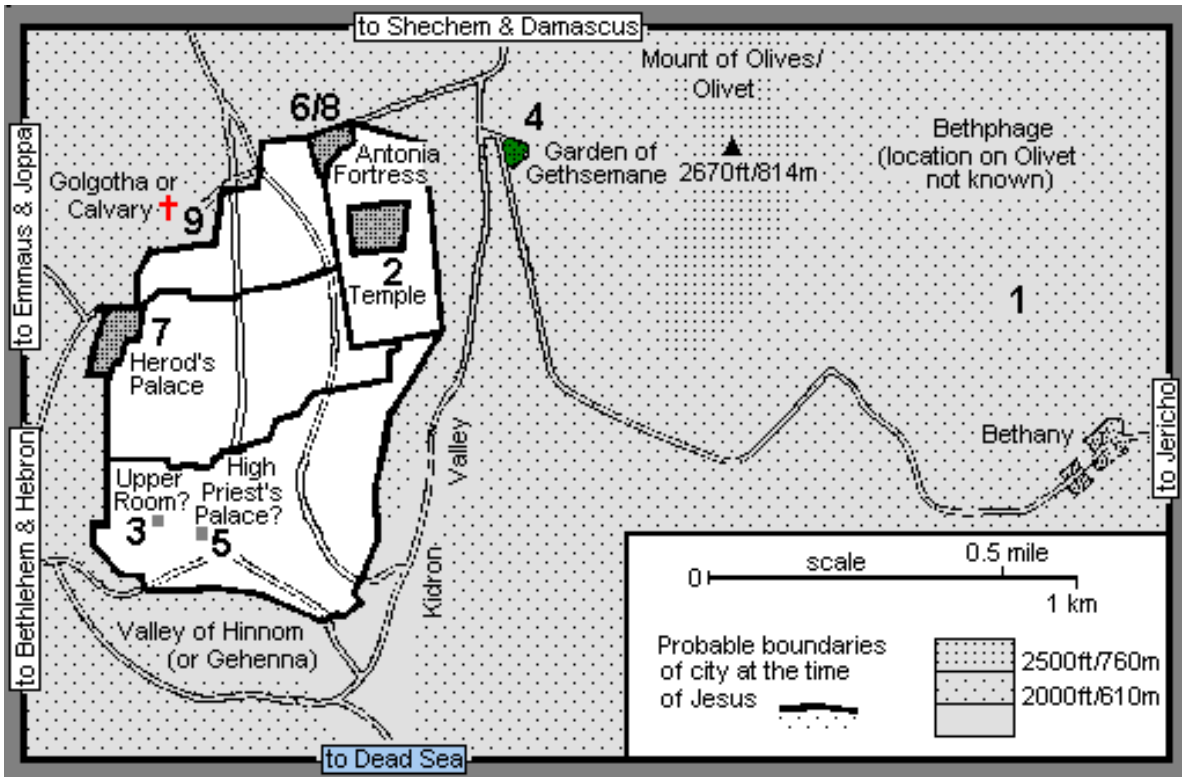


Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: http://www.jesuswalk.com/john/21_anointing.htm]

Matthew 21:1-11 [Donkey and Colt]
Mark 11:1-11 (looked around temple because it was late, then went to Bethany)
John 12:12-19 – the crowd was because they heard of the sign Jesus did (raising Lazarus)
Luke 19:28-38

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Assumming a Friday Crucifixion

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Towards the end of “Easter” Week…

THE MOVEMENTS OF JESUS AT THIS TIME (Spring c AD30)

Key: 1 - Approximate sequence of events, used in the list following

THE SUNDAY BEFORE EASTER

[1] From the area of the two villages of Bethphage and Bethany, Jesus makes his triumphal entry into Jerusalem (Mt 21:1; Mk 11:1; Lk 19:29; Jn 12:12). Each night he returns to Bethany (Mt 21:17-18; Mk 11:11-12;19; Lk 21:37)

MONDAY TO THURSDAY

[2] Jesus concludes his confrontations with the religious establishment, often in Jerusalem and the Temple area.

The plots to arrest and have him killed progress (Part 21). He describes the end-times and his return (Part 22); is possibly anointed at this time at Bethany (Part 23); and Judas Iscariot decides to betray him (Part 24)

THURSDAY EVENING AND NIGHT

[3] In the "Upper Room" (Mt 26:17; Mk 14:12; Lk 22:7) Jesus holds the Last Supper (Mt 26:20; Mk 14:17; Lk 22:14) and the apostles receive the bread and wine as his body and blood (Mt 26:26; Mk 14:22; Lk 22:19)

[4] After the Last Supper, Jesus and his disciples cross the Kidron (or Cedron) Valley just outside Jerusalem, to the western edge of the Mount of Olives (Mt 26:30; Mk 14:26; Lk 22:39; Jn 18:1). There in the Garden of Gethsemane as he prays, the disciples fall asleep (Mt 26:36; Mk 14:32; Lk 22:40)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

GOOD FRIDAY

[5] Jesus is arrested in the Garden of Gethsemane (Mt 26:47; Mk 14:43; Lk 22:47; Jn 18:3) and taken to the High Priest's Palace (not the Temple) for questioning (Mt 26:57; Mk 14:53; Lk 22:54; Jn 18:13). He then appears before members of the Council or Sanhedrin (Mt 26:59; Mk 14:55; Lk 22:66)

[6] The members of the Sanhedrin escort Jesus to the Judgement Hall or Praetorium (the Roman governor's residence, probably in the Antonia Fortress) for interrogation and sentence by Pontius Pilate (Mt 27:2,11; Mk 15:1; Lk 23:1; Jn 18:28)

[7] Pontius Pilate sends Jesus to Herod's Palace, the Jerusalem residence of the Jewish tetrarch of Galilee and Perea, Herod Antipas, for further questioning (Lk 23:6)

[8] On being taken back to Pontius Pilate (Luke 22:11) in the Antonia Fortress, Jesus is sentenced to death (Mt 27:26; Mk 15:15; Lk 23:24; Jn 19:16). He is also flogged and tortured

[9] - Jesus is taken from the Judgement Hall to Golgotha or Calvary - the Place of the Skull (Mt 27:31; Mk 15:20; Lk 23:26; Jn 19:16) where he is crucified (Mt 27:35; Mk 15:24; Lk 23:33; Jn 19:18)

Place of the Skull - "Golgotha" in Aramaic and Hebrew. "Calvary" = Calvaria, or "skull" in Latin

Source: https://www.ccel.org/bible/phillips/CN190-LAST_WEEK.htm

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Map 9: HOLY LAND IN THE TIME OF JESUS

[Source: NIV '08 Study Bible Notes]

Places Associated with Jesus
https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/New_Testament_places_associated_with_Jesus

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: ESV Study Bible]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Map 10: JERUSALEM IN THE TIME OF JESUS

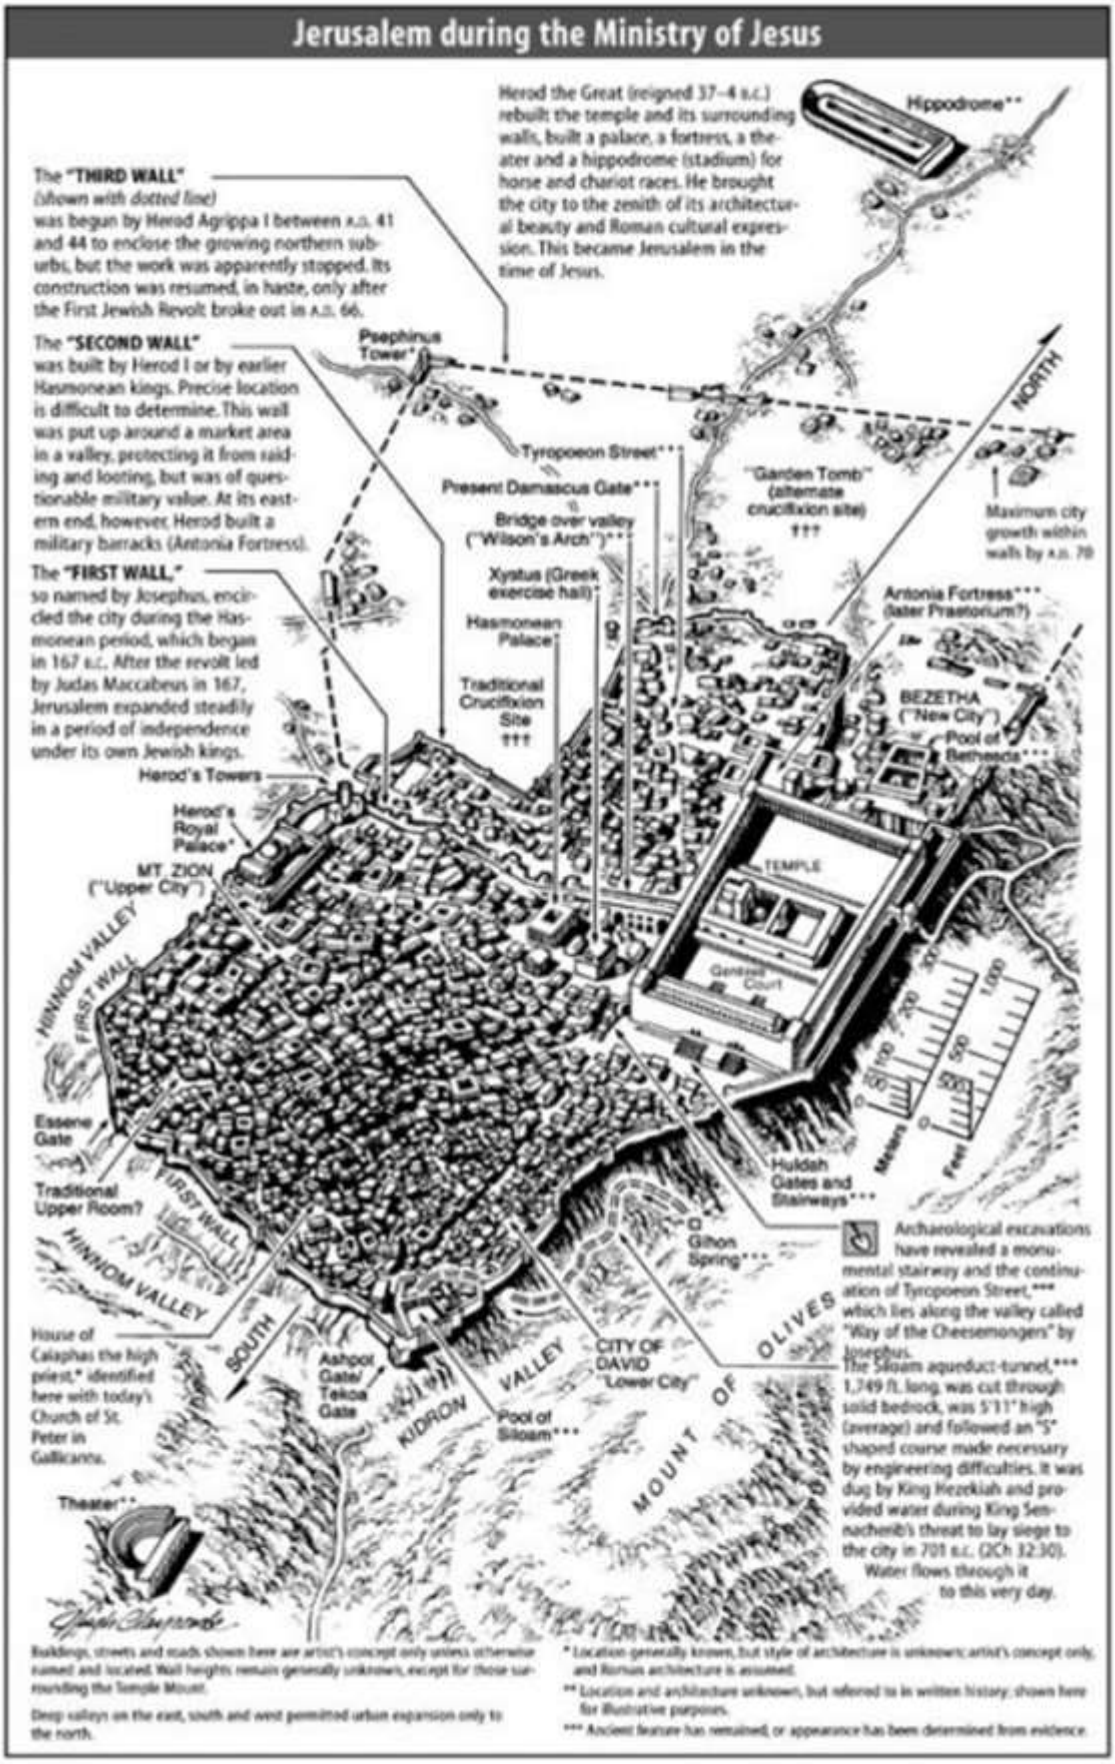
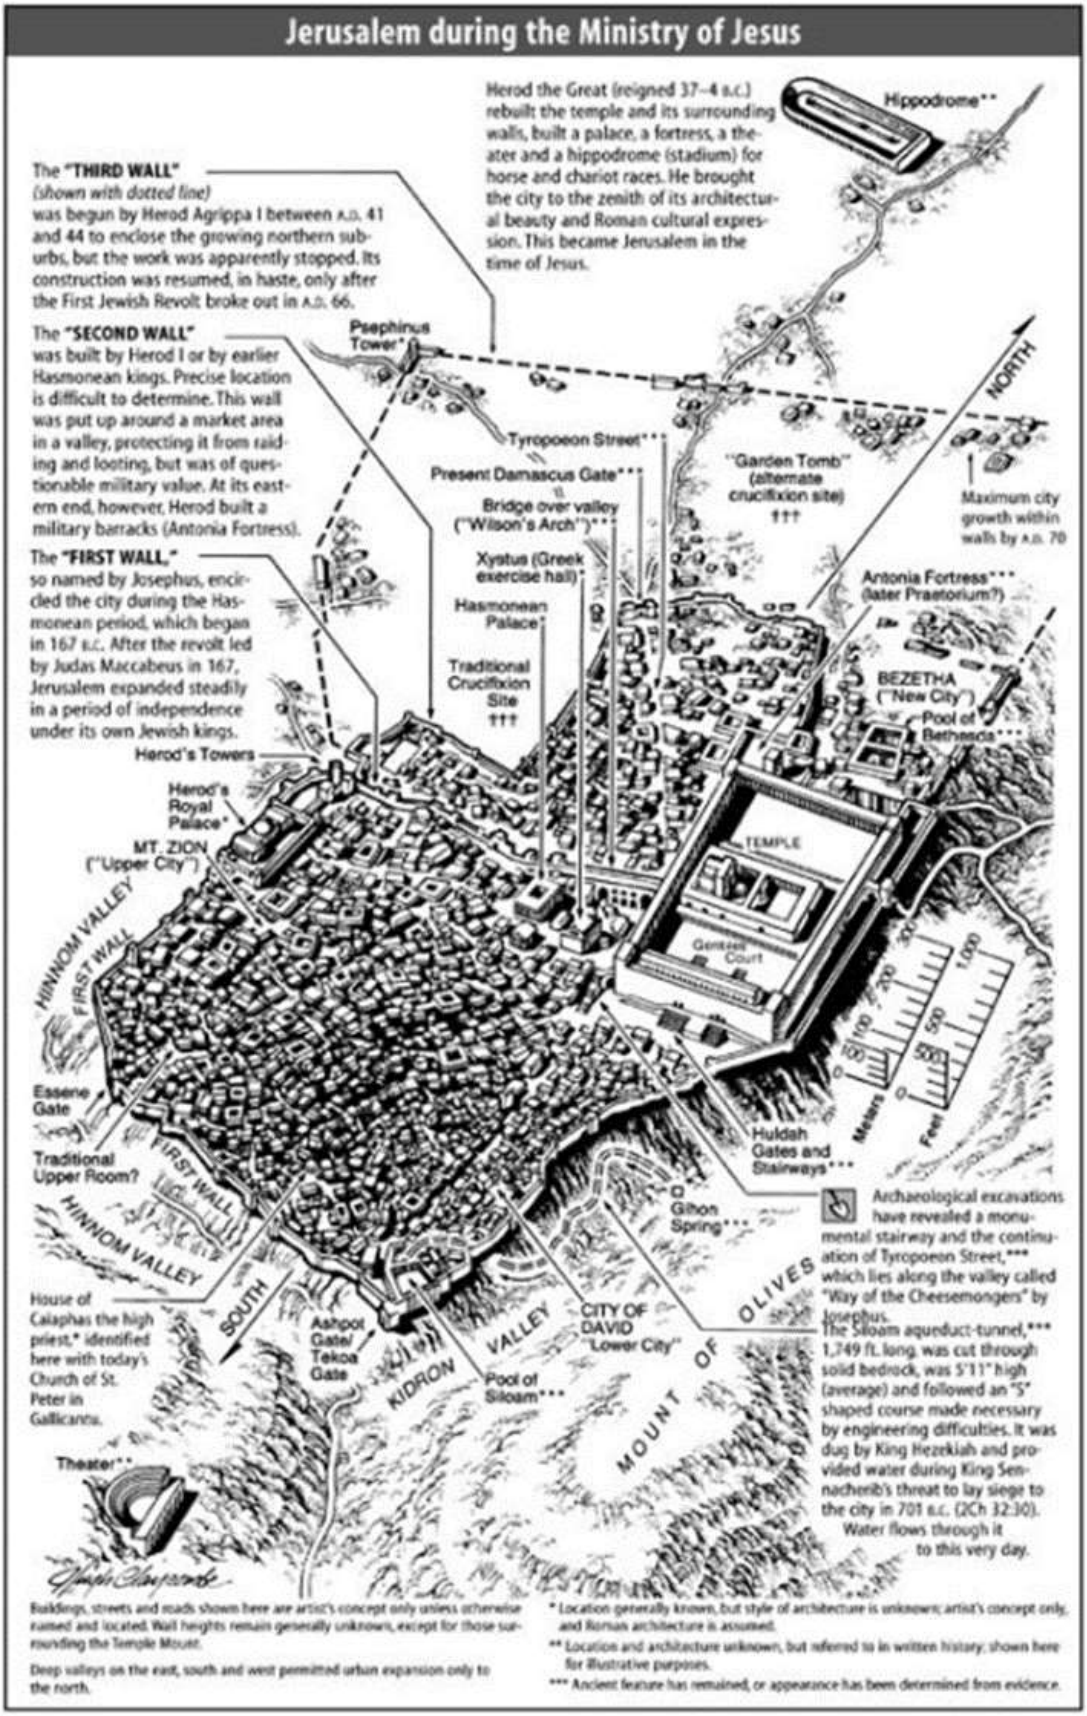
[Source: NIV '08 Study Bible Notes]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



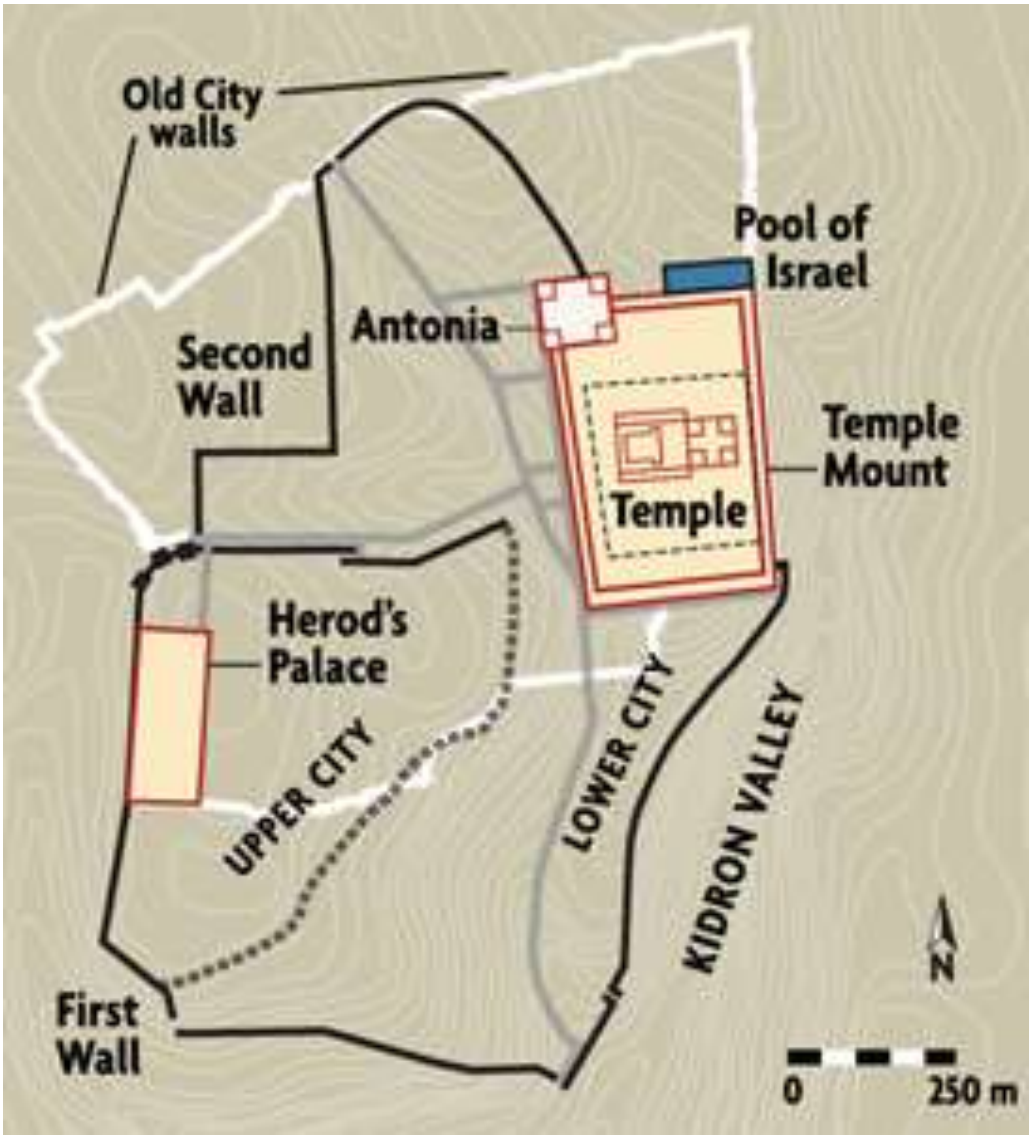
Jerusalem at the Time of Jesus



1. The Temple
2. Southern Wall and Royal Stoa
7. The location of the Western Wall (Wailing Wall)
11. The Mount of Olives
13. The Kidron Valley (as it appears today)
15. City of David (Mt. Ophel)
17. The Pool of Siloam
18. The Tyropoean Valley
20. Lower City (Poor section)
23. Upper City (Wealthy section)
24. David's Tomb
27. The Theater
29. The Market Place
29. Herod's Palace
36. Antonia Fortress (NT - Castle)

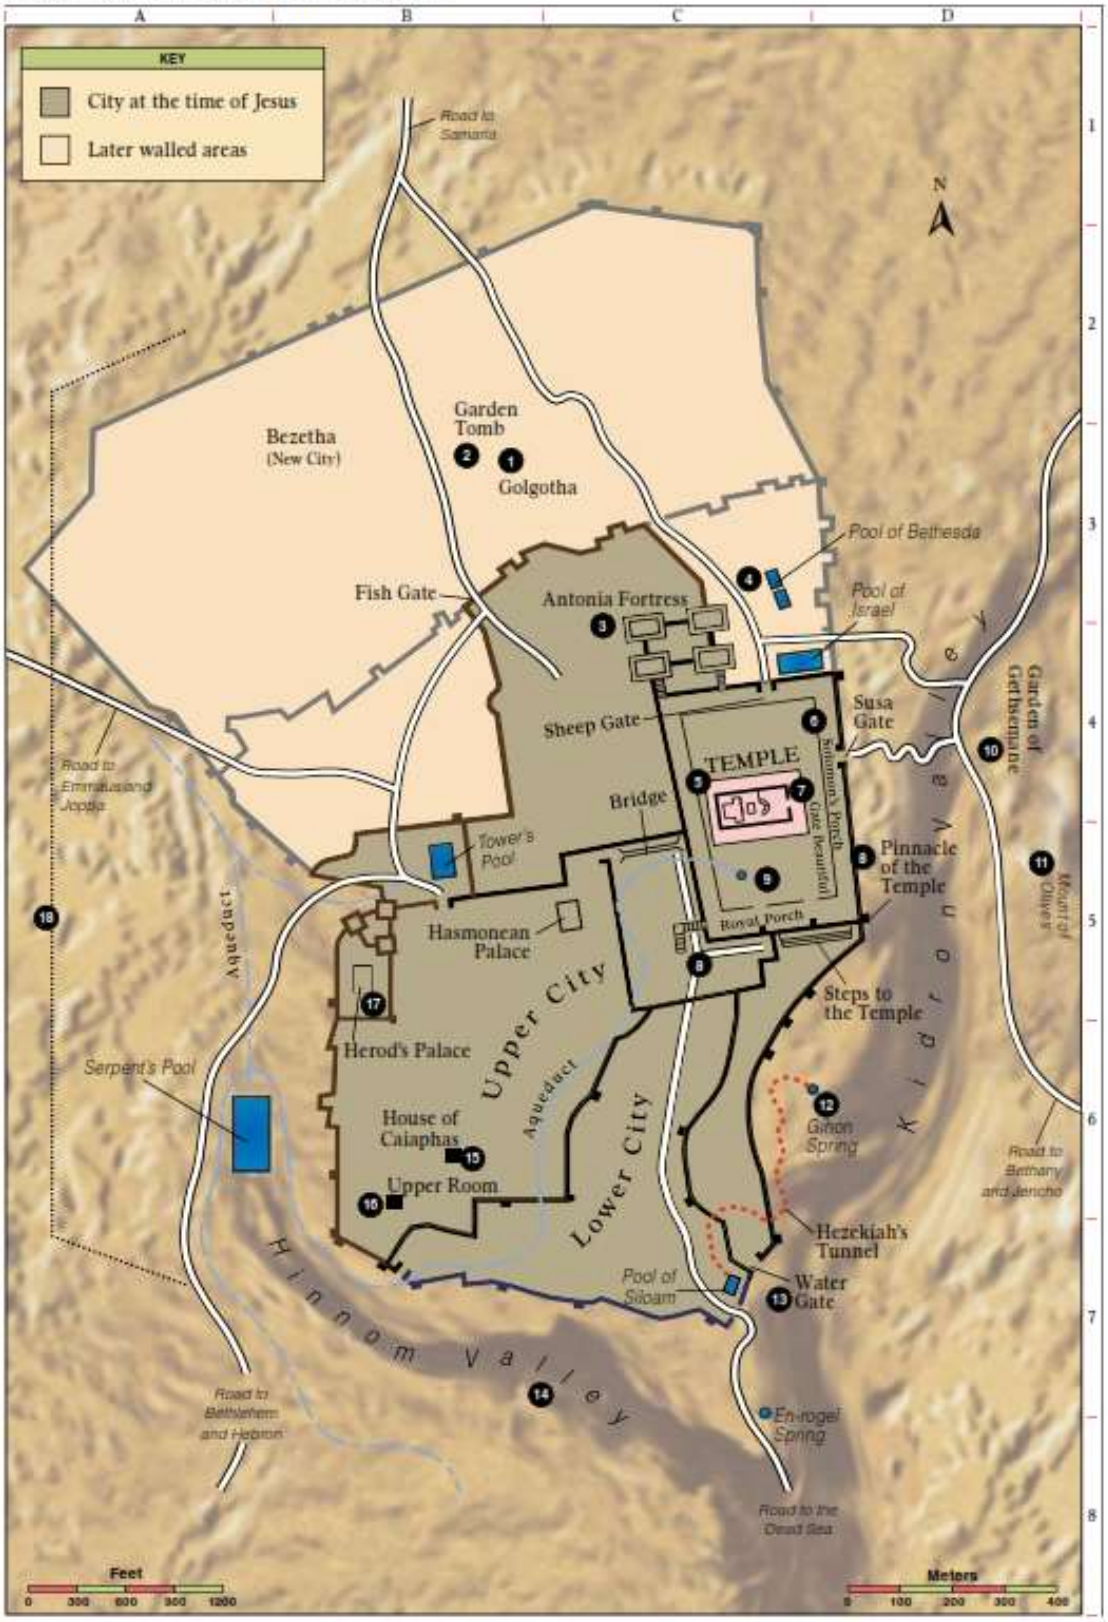
[Source: http://emp.byui.edu/satterfieldb/Jerusalem/JerusalemPhotoDisplay.htm]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: NIV Study Bible Notes]



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

http://members.bib-arch.org/publication.asp?PubID=BSBA&Volume=35&Issue=1&ArticleID=9

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

12. Jerusalem at the Time of Jesus

[Source: https://www.lds.org/scriptures/bible-maps/map-12?lang=eng; note link also contains details to numbered places on map; this is an LDS site]

1. Golgotha A possible site for Jesus' crucifixion (Matthew 27:33–37).

2. Garden Tomb A possible site for the tomb in which the body of Jesus was placed (John 19:38–42). The risen Christ appeared to Mary Magdalene in the garden outside His tomb (John 20:1–17).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

3. Antonia Fortress Jesus may have been accused, condemned, mocked, and scourged at this site (John 18:28–19:16). Paul was arrested and recounted the story of his conversion (Acts 21:31–22:21).
4. Pool of Bethesda Jesus healed an invalid on the Sabbath (John 5:2–9).
5. Temple Gabriel promised Zacharias that Elisabeth would bear a son (Luke 1:5–25). The veil of the temple was rent at the death of the Savior (Matthew 27:51).
6. Solomon's Porch Jesus proclaimed that He was the Son of God. The Jews attempted to stone Him (John 10:22–39). Peter preached repentance after healing a lame man (Acts 3:11–26).
7. Gate Beautiful Peter and John healed a lame man (Acts 3:1–10).
8. Pinnacle of the Temple Jesus was tempted by Satan (Matthew 4:5–7). (A likely location for this event.)
9. Holy Mount (unspecified locations)
    1. Tradition holds that here Abraham built an altar for the sacrifice of Isaac (Genesis 22:9–14).
    2. Solomon built the temple (1 Kings 6:1–10; 2 Chr. 3:1).
    3. The Babylonians destroyed the temple in about 587 B.C. (2 Kings 25:8–9).
    4. Zerubbabel rebuilt the temple in about 515 B.C. (Ezra 3:8–10; 5:2; 6:14–16).
    5. Herod expanded the temple plaza and rebuilt the temple starting in 17 B.C. Jesus was presented as a baby (Luke 2:22–39).
    6. At age 12, Jesus taught in the temple (Luke 2:41–50).
    7. Jesus cleansed the temple (Matt. 21:12–16; John 2:13–17).
    8. Jesus taught in the temple on several occasions (Matthew 21:23–23:39; John 7:14–8:59).
    9. The Romans under Titus destroyed the temple in A.D. 70.
10. Garden of Gethsemane Jesus suffered, was betrayed, and was arrested (Matthew 26:36–46; Luke 22:39–54).
11. Mount of Olives
    1. Jesus foretold the destruction of Jerusalem and the temple. He also spoke of the Second Coming (Matthew 24:3–25:46).
    2. From here Jesus ascended into heaven (Acts 1:9–12).
12. Gihon Spring Solomon was anointed king (1 Kings. 1:38–39). Hezekiah had a tunnel dug to bring water from the spring into the city (2 Chronicles 32:30).
13. Water Gate Ezra read and interpreted the law of Moses to the people (Nehemiah 8:1–8).
14. Hinnom Valley The false god Molech was worshipped, which included child sacrifice (2 Kings 23:10; 2 Chronicles 28:3).
15. House of Caiaphas Jesus was taken before Caiaphas (Matthew 26:57–68). Peter denied that he knew Jesus (Matthew 26:69–75).
16. Upper Room The traditional location where Jesus ate the Passover meal and instituted the sacrament (Matthew 26:20–30). He washed the feet of the Apostles (John 13:4–17) and taught them (John 13:18–17:26).
17. Herod's Palace Christ was taken before Herod, possibly at this location (Luke 23:7–11).
18. Jerusalem (unspecified locations)
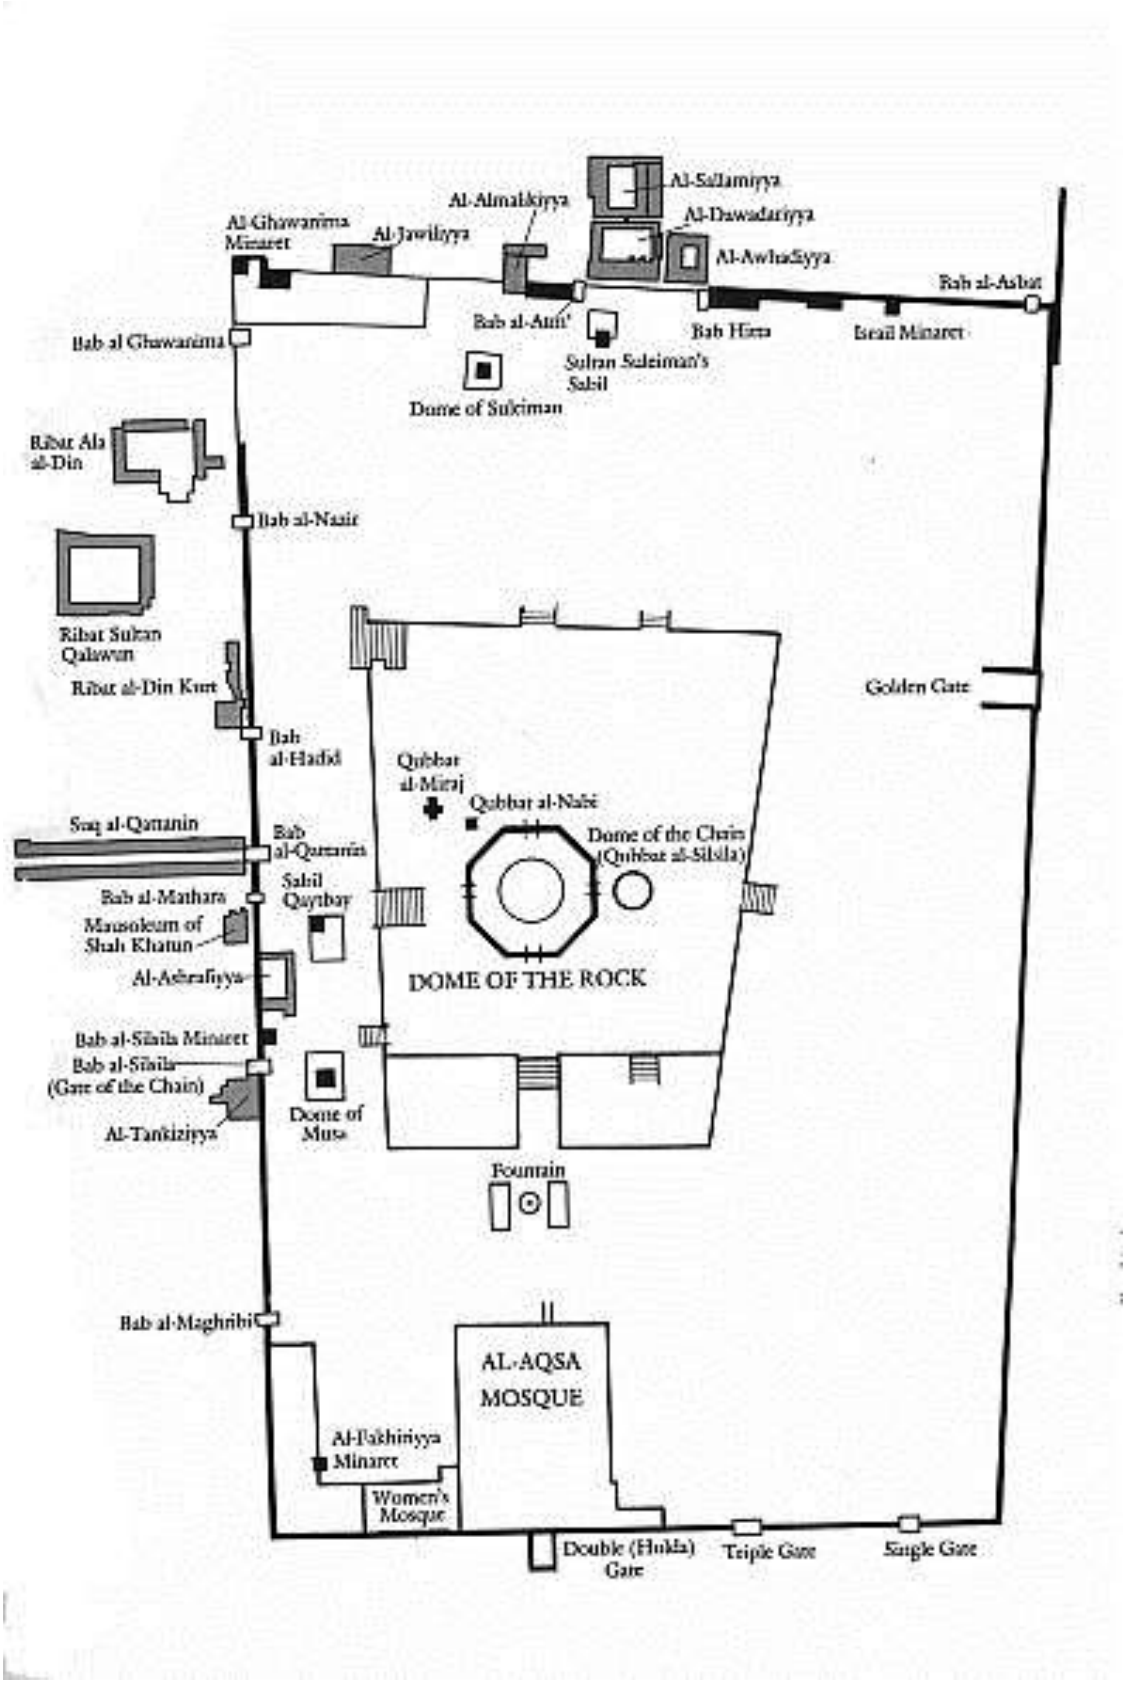
    1. Melchizedek ruled as king of Salem (Genesis 14:18).
    2. King David captured the city from the Jebusites (2 Samuel 5:7; 1 Chronicles 11:4–7).
    3. The city was destroyed by the Babylonians in about 587 B.C. (2 Kings 25:1–11).
    4. The Holy Ghost filled many on the day of Pentecost (Acts 2:1–4).
    5. Peter and John were arrested and brought before the council (Acts 4:1–23).
    6. Ananias and Sapphira lied to the Lord and died (Acts 5:1–10).
    7. Peter and John were arrested, but an angel delivered them from prison (Acts 5:17–20).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

8. The Apostles chose seven men to assist them (Acts 6:1–6).
9. Stephen's testimony to the Jews was rejected, and he was stoned to death (Acts 6:8–7:60).
10. James was martyred (Acts 12:1–2).
11. An angel freed Peter from prison (Acts 12:5–11).
12. The Apostles decided the issue of circumcision (Acts 15:5–29).
13. The Romans under Titus destroyed the city in A.D. 70.

[Source: http://www.biblecharts.org/thenewtestament.html]



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Jesusalem Today

http://www.templemount.org/visittemp.html

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

http://www.templemount.org/visittemp.html

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Panorama of the Temple Mount, as seen from the Mount of Olives. [Source: Wikipedia]

Mount of Olives today. [Source: Wikipedia]

Sunset aerial view – Mount of Olives. [Source: Wikipedia]

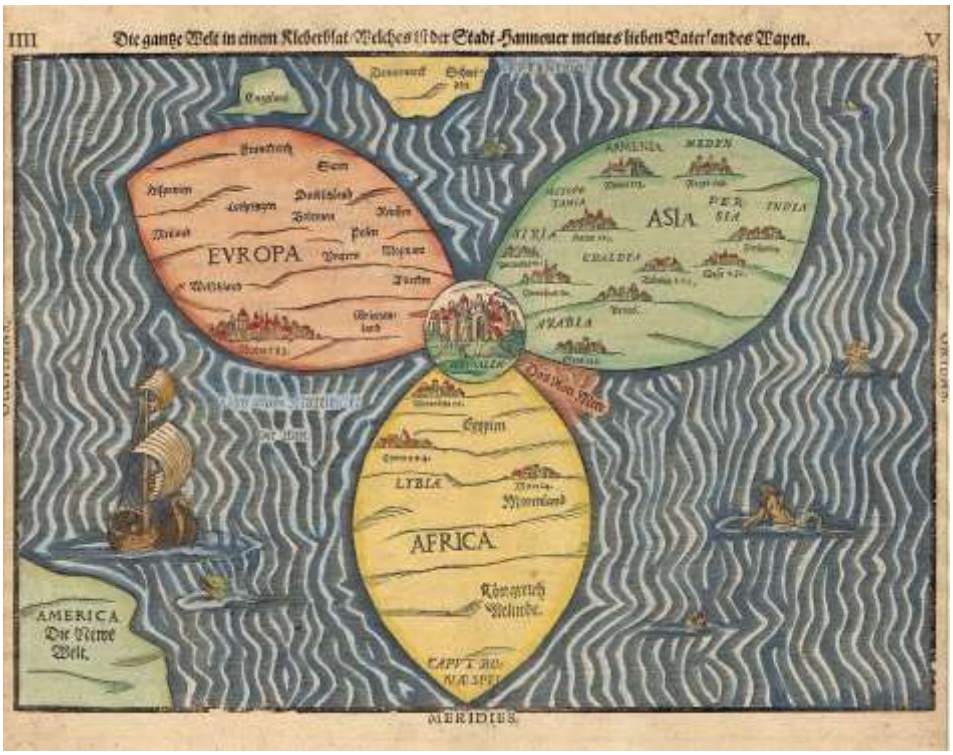
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Jerusalem – Old City – Aerial View from SW

Jaffa Gate and opening in wall

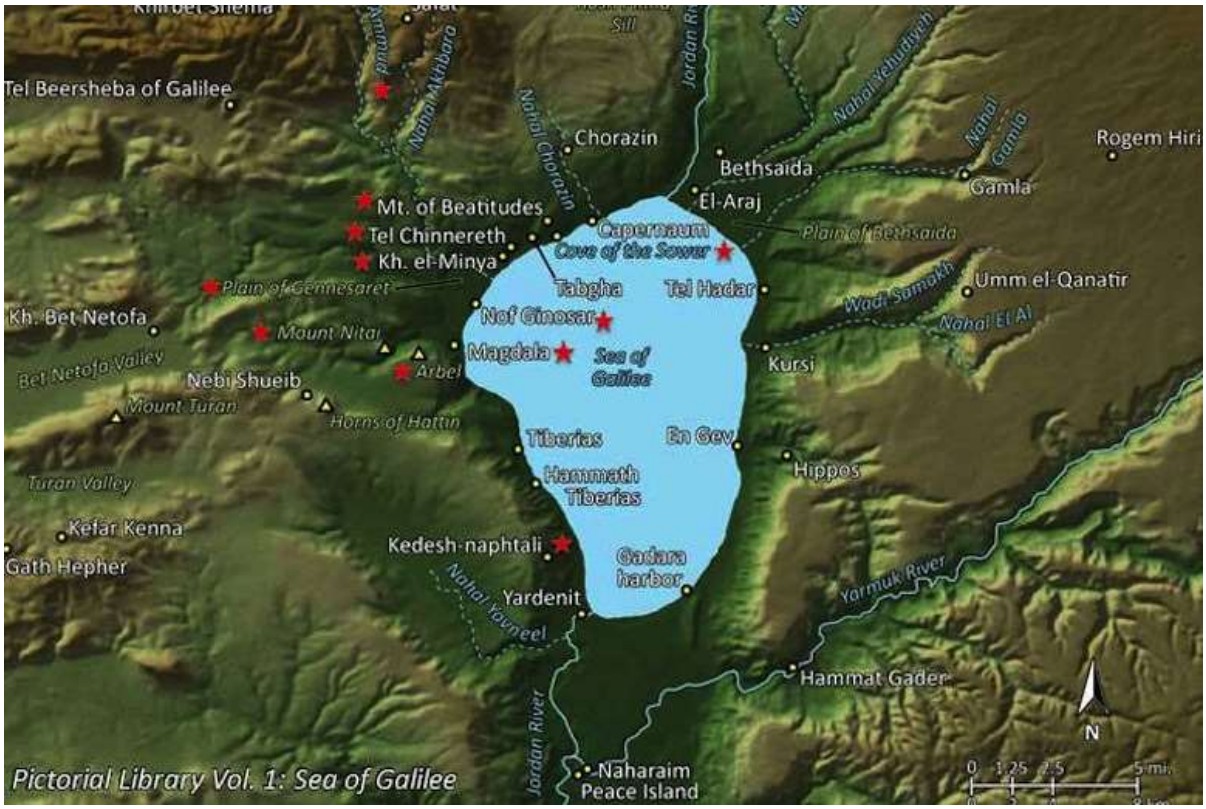
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Jordan River entering Sea of Galilee – Aerial View

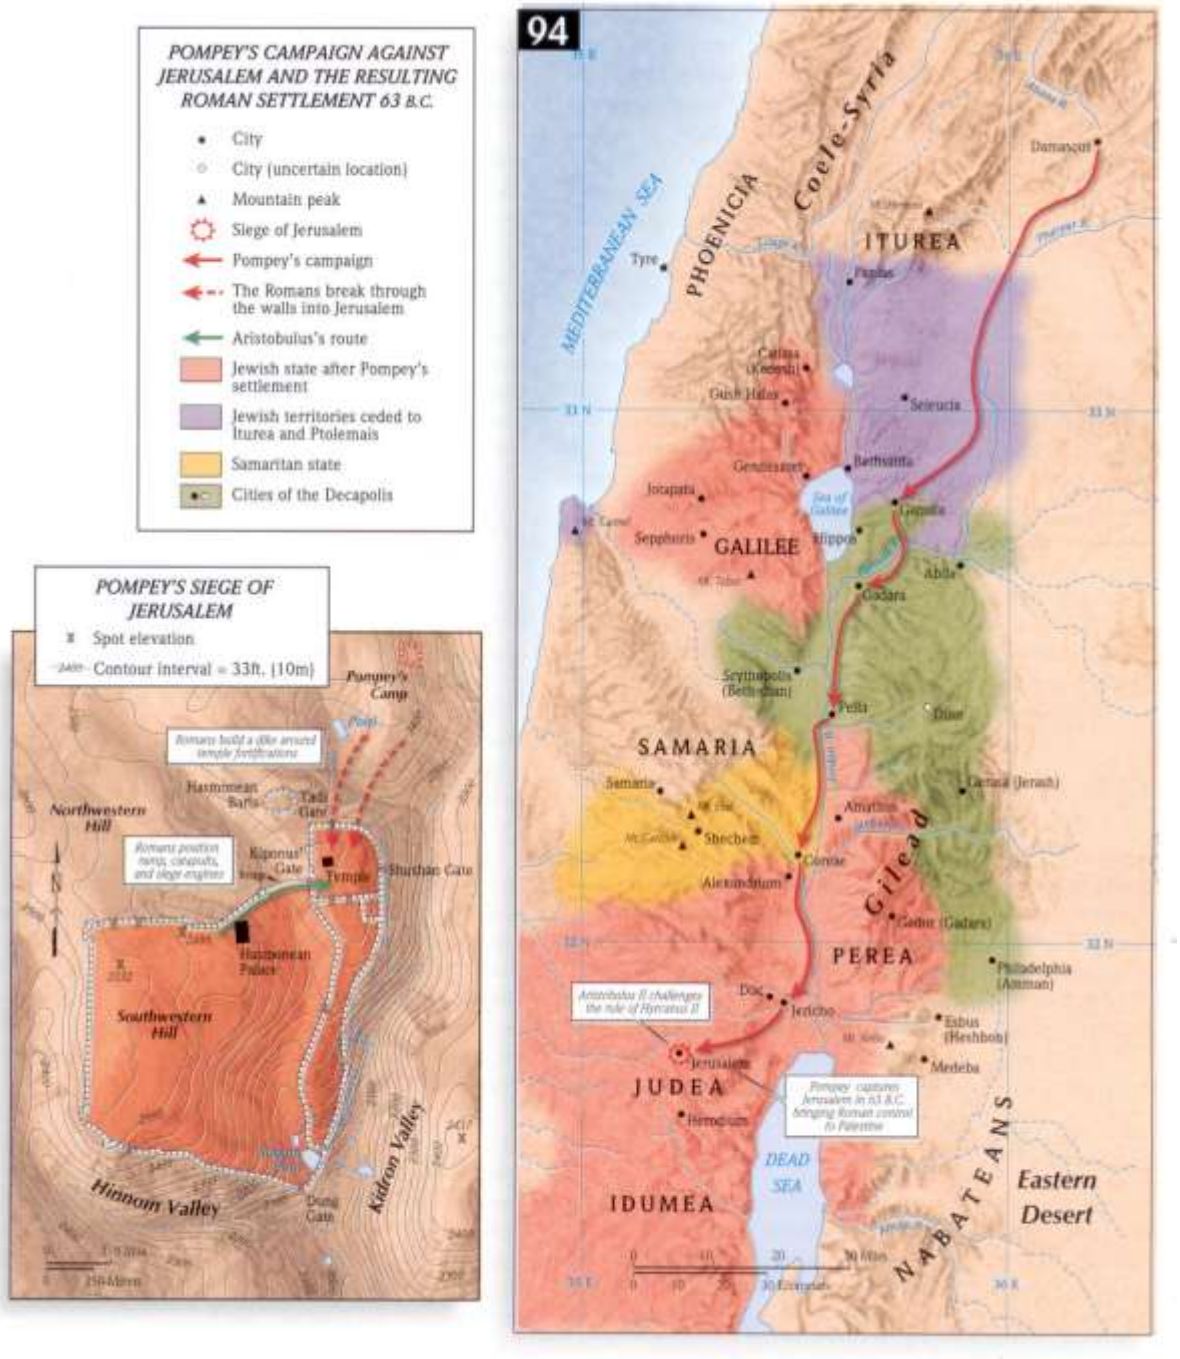


Kidron Valley – Views from Tomb of Zechariah

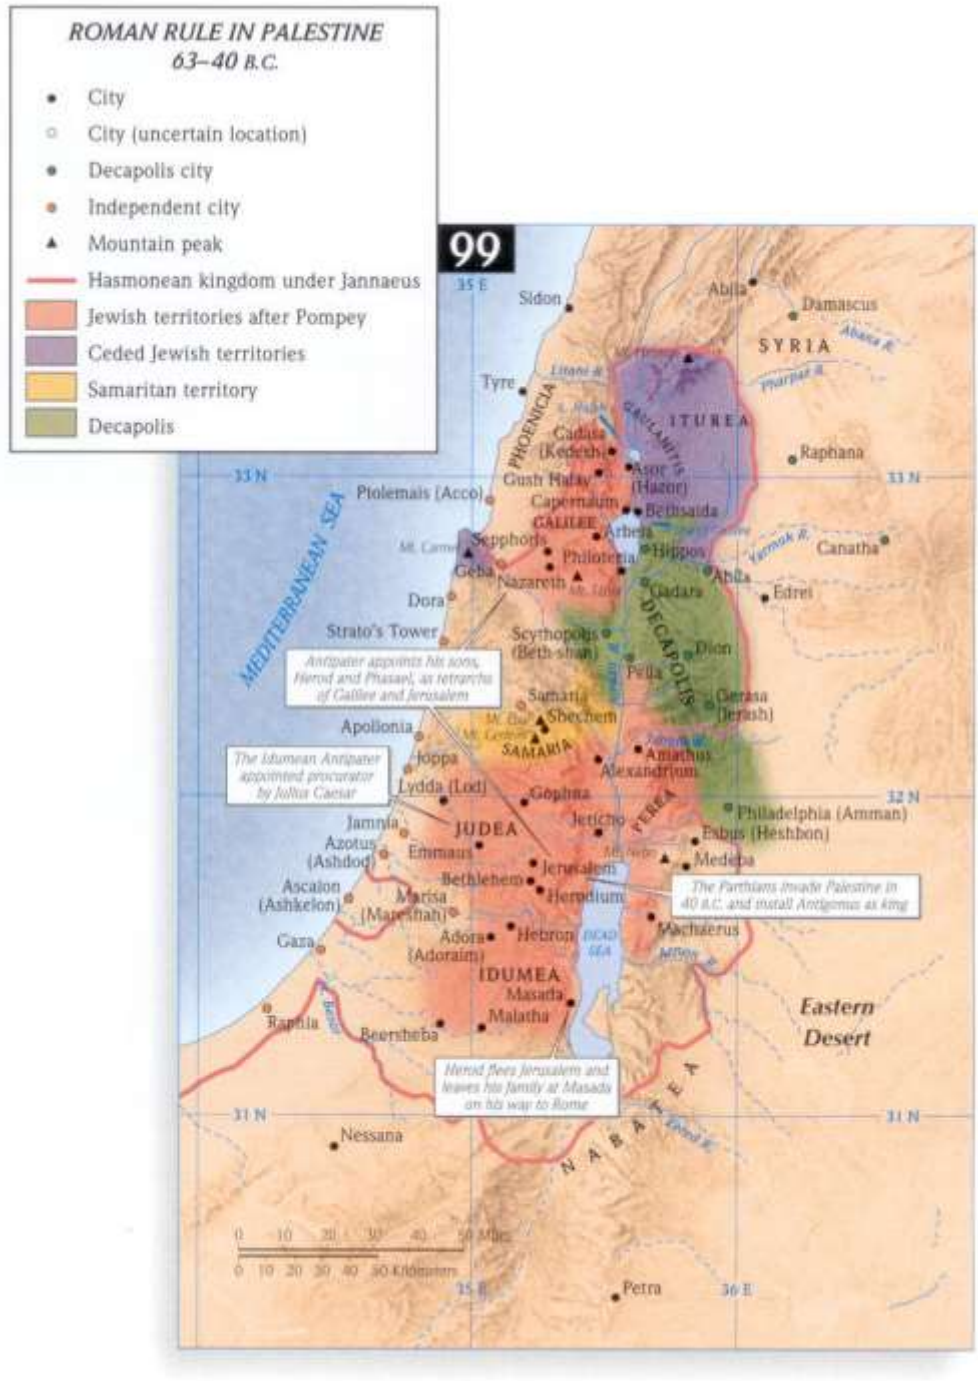
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



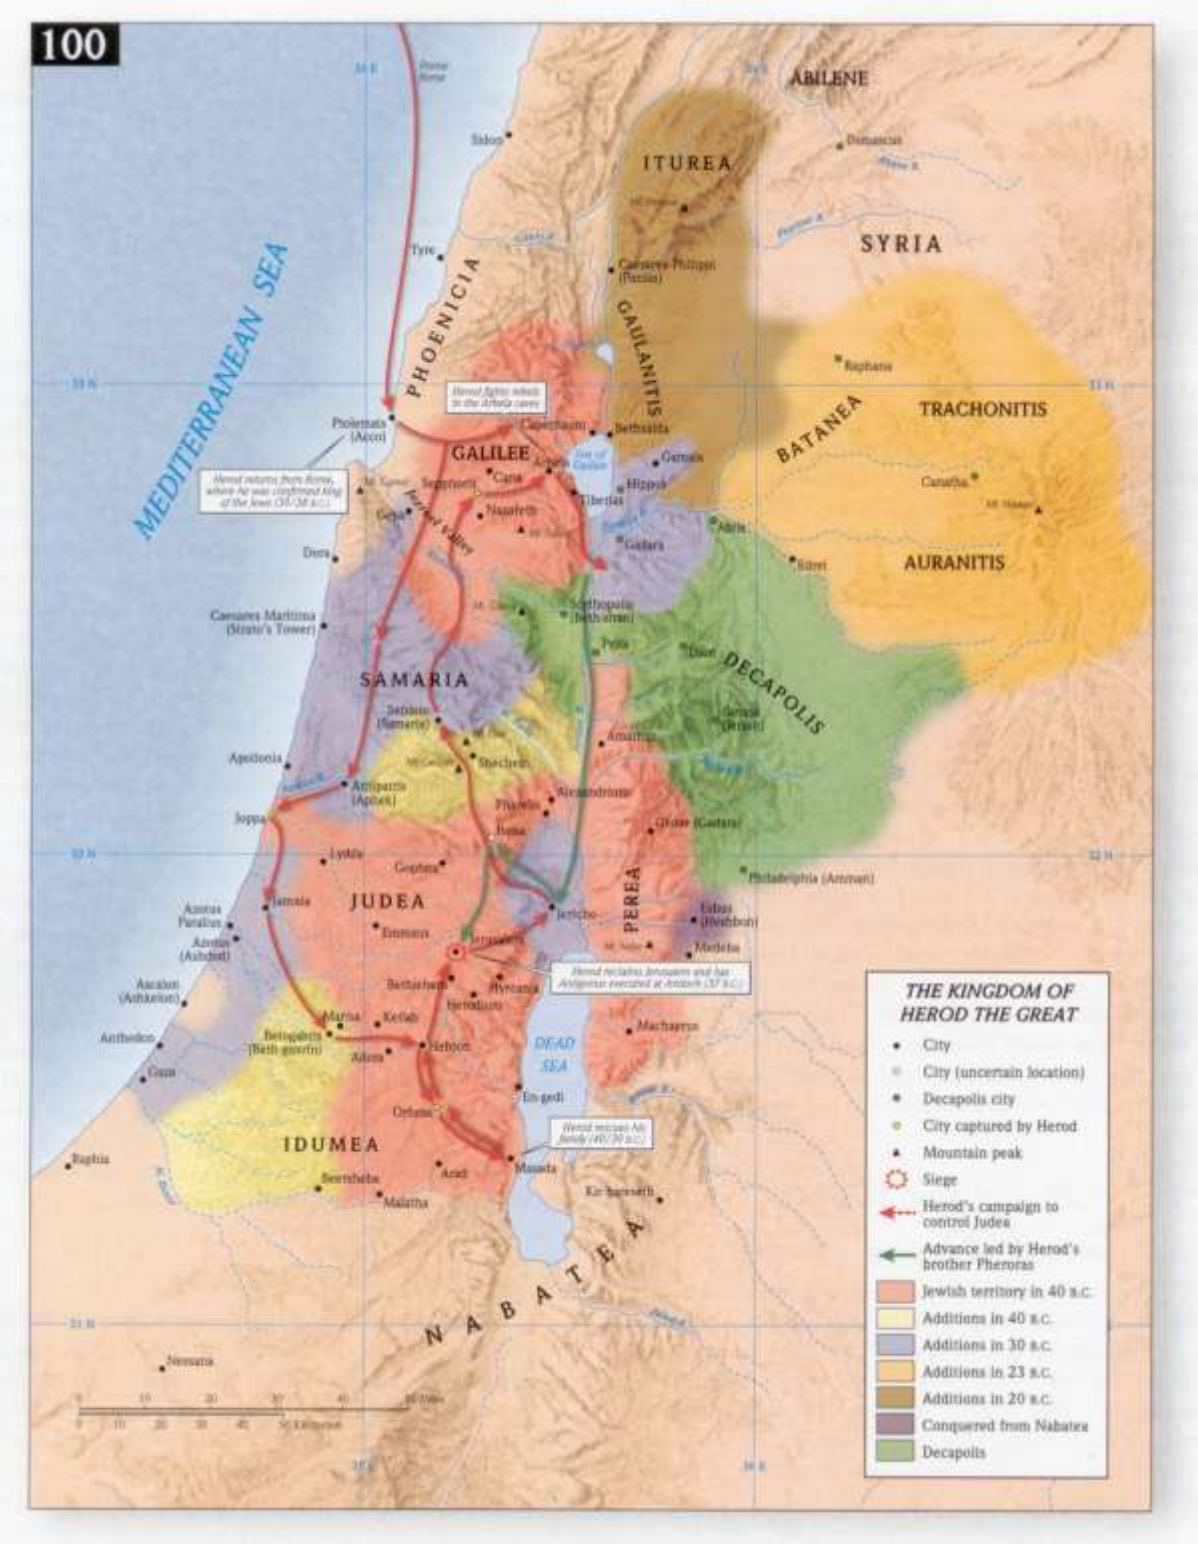
Flevit super illium (He wept over it.) [Source: Wikipedia]



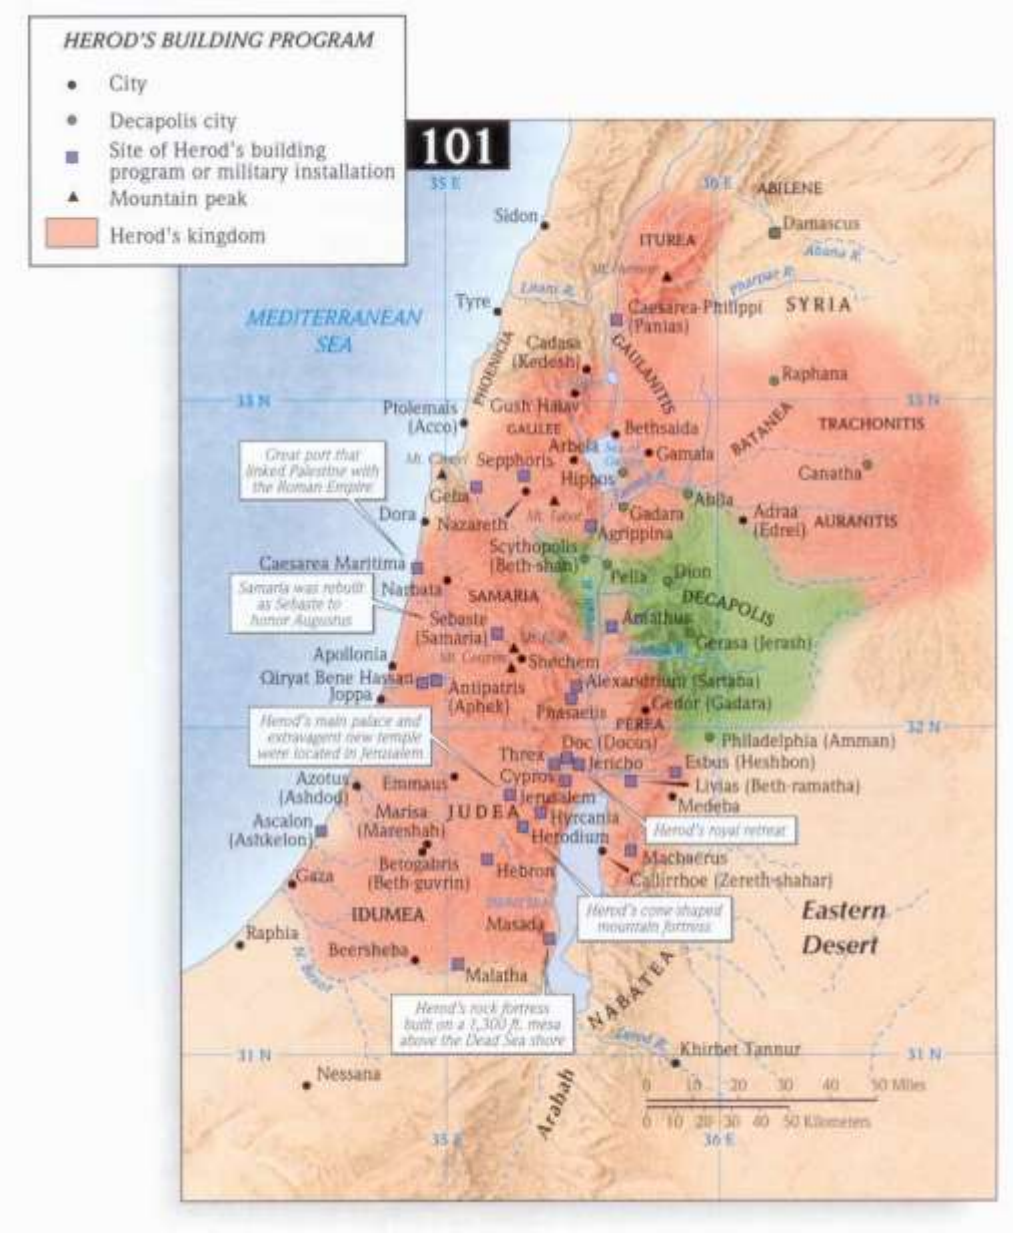
Bunting Clover Leaf Map, 1589 [Source: Wikipedia]



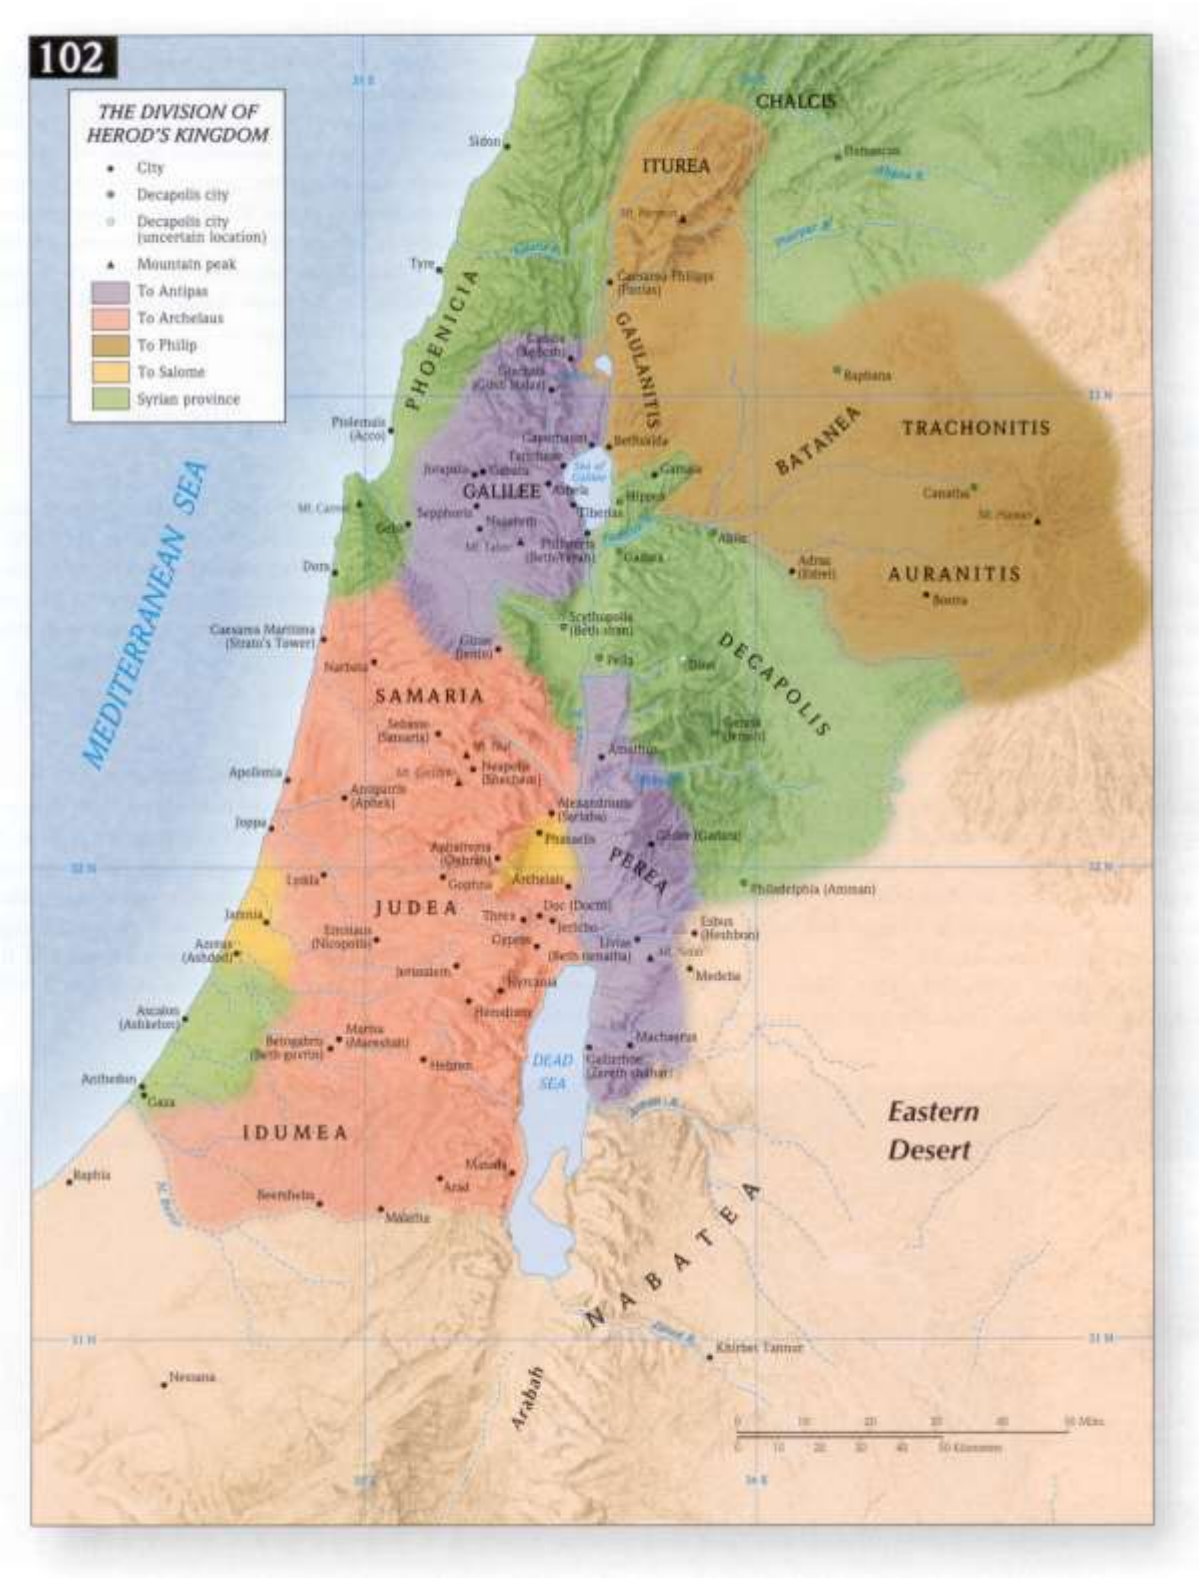
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

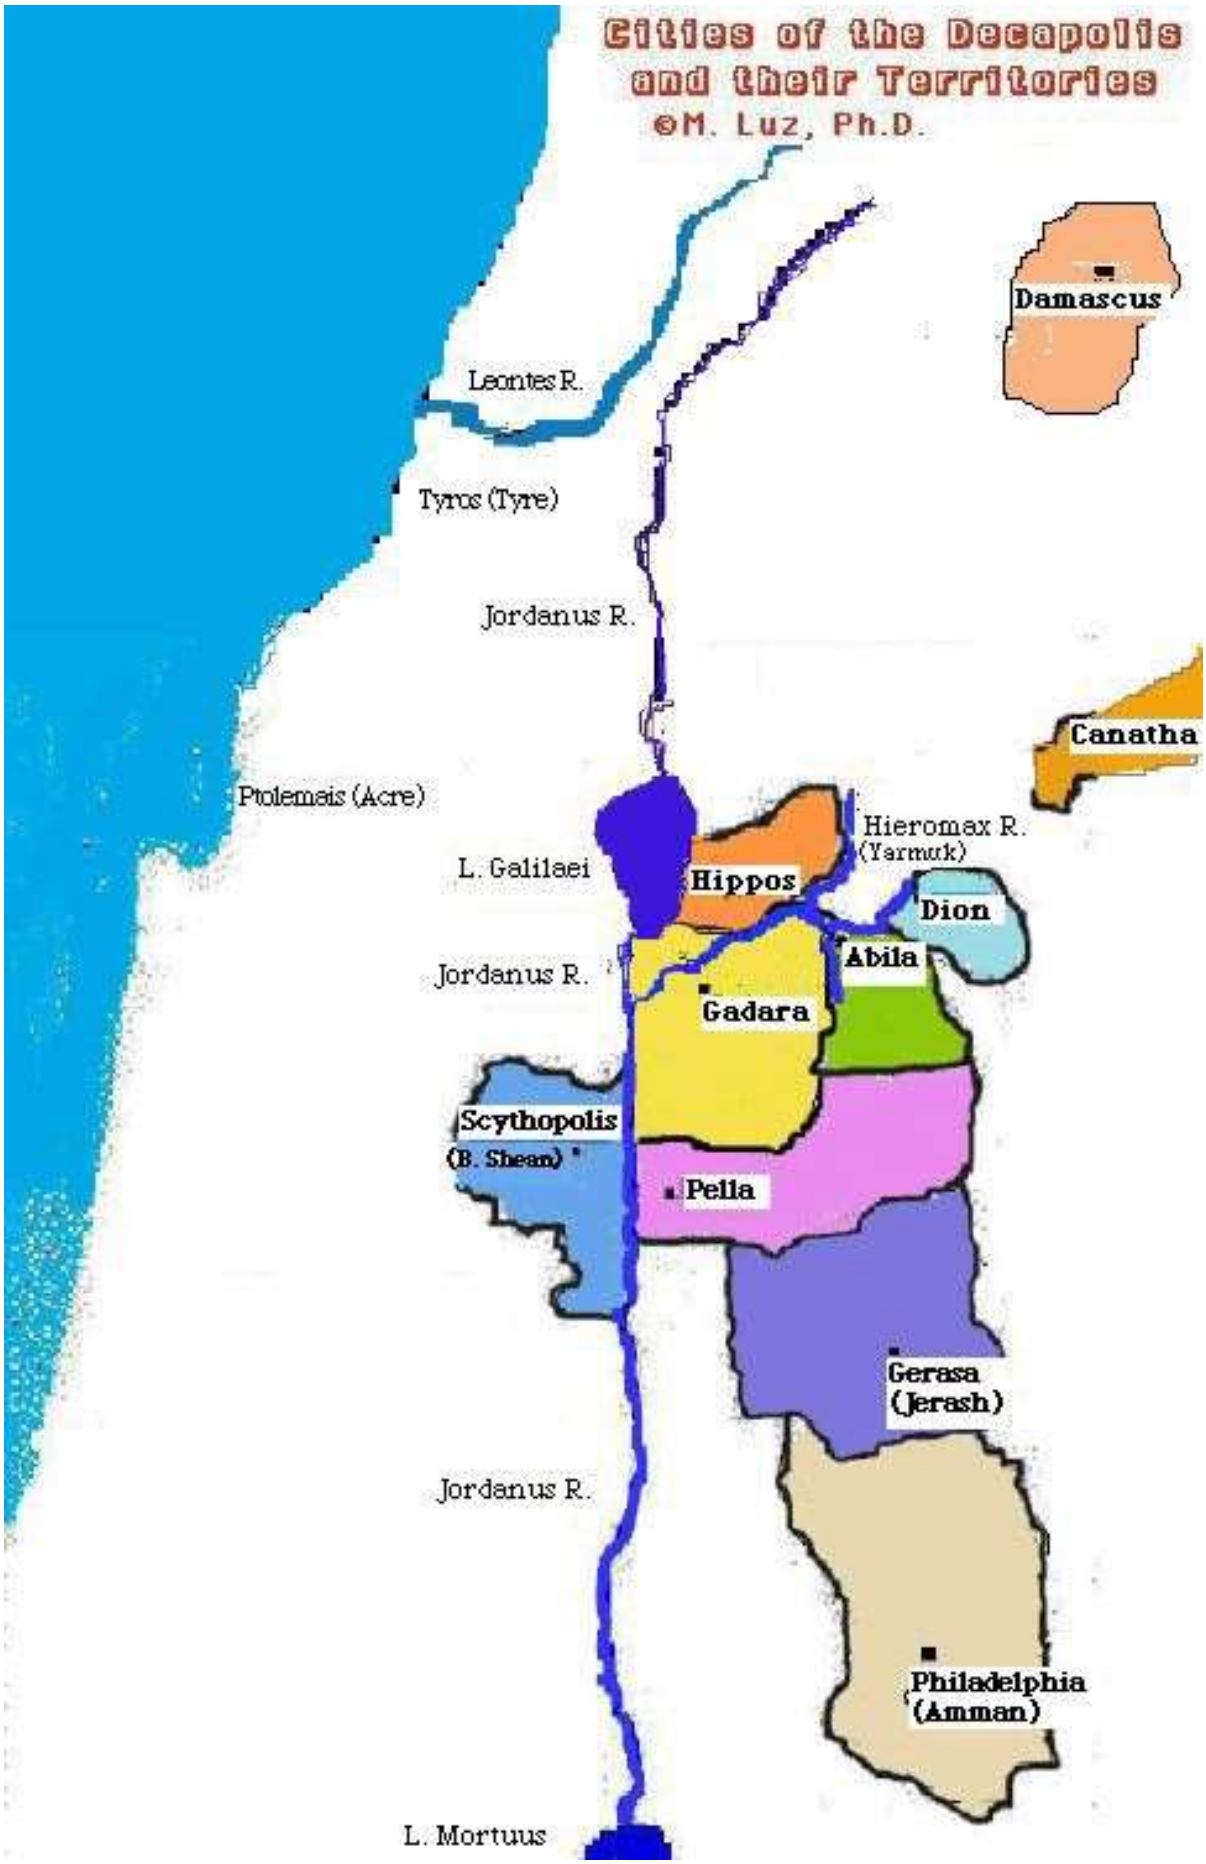


Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

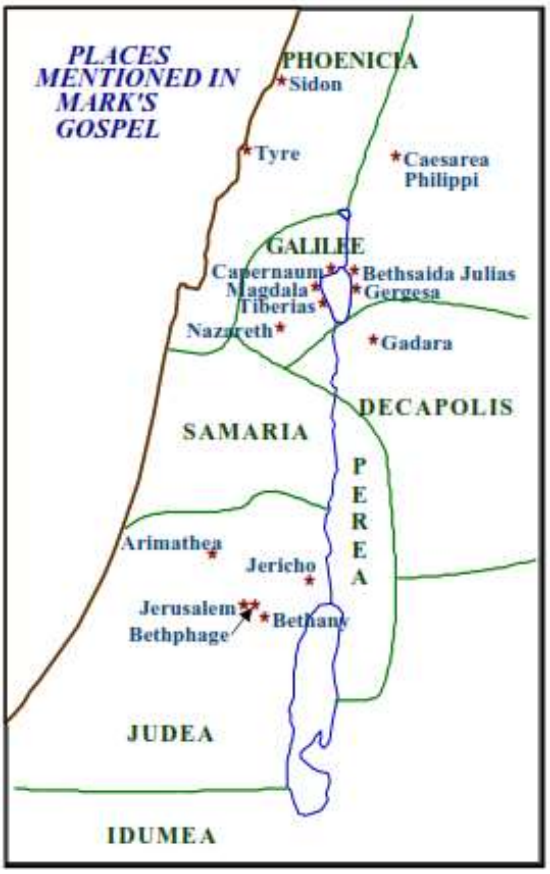
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

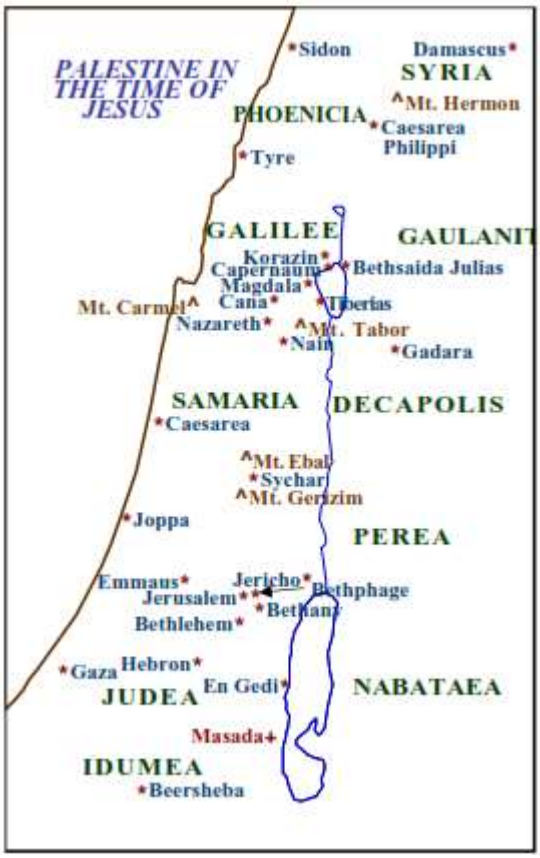
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



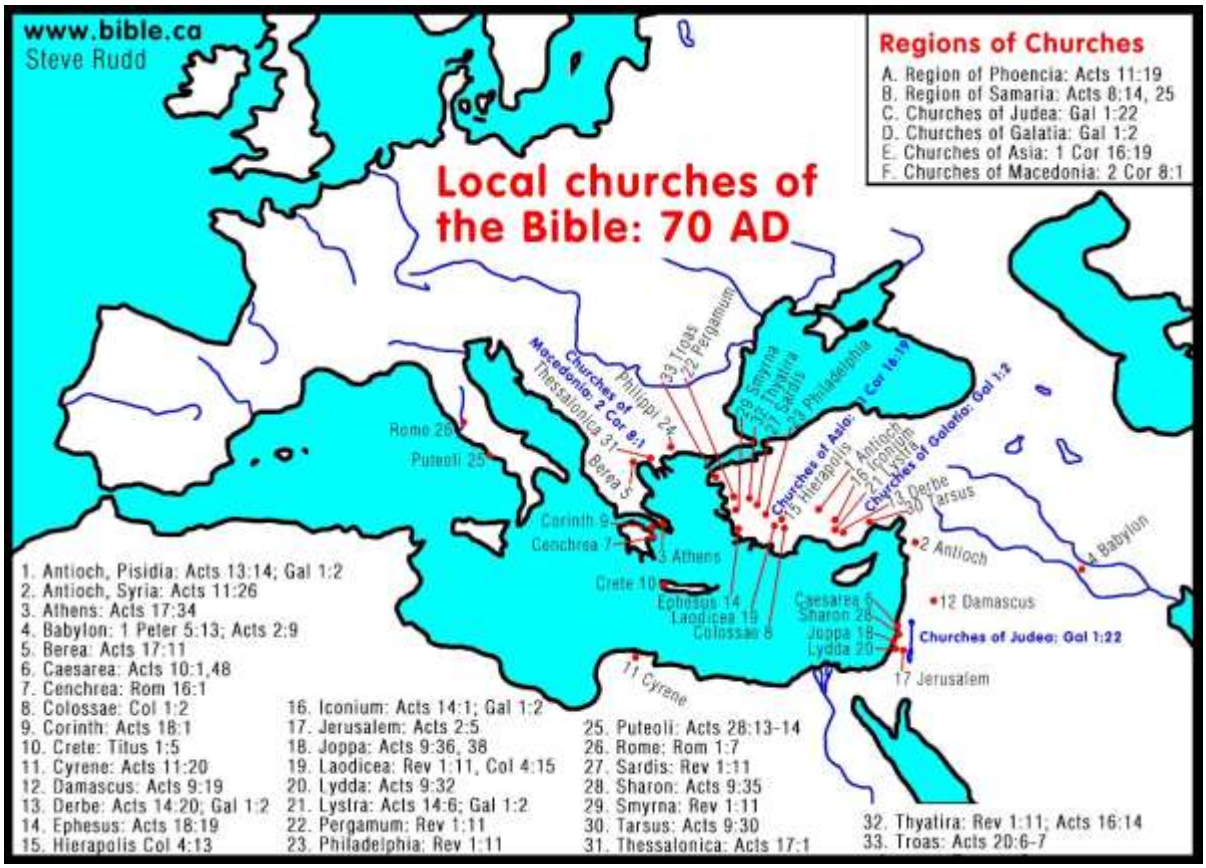
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



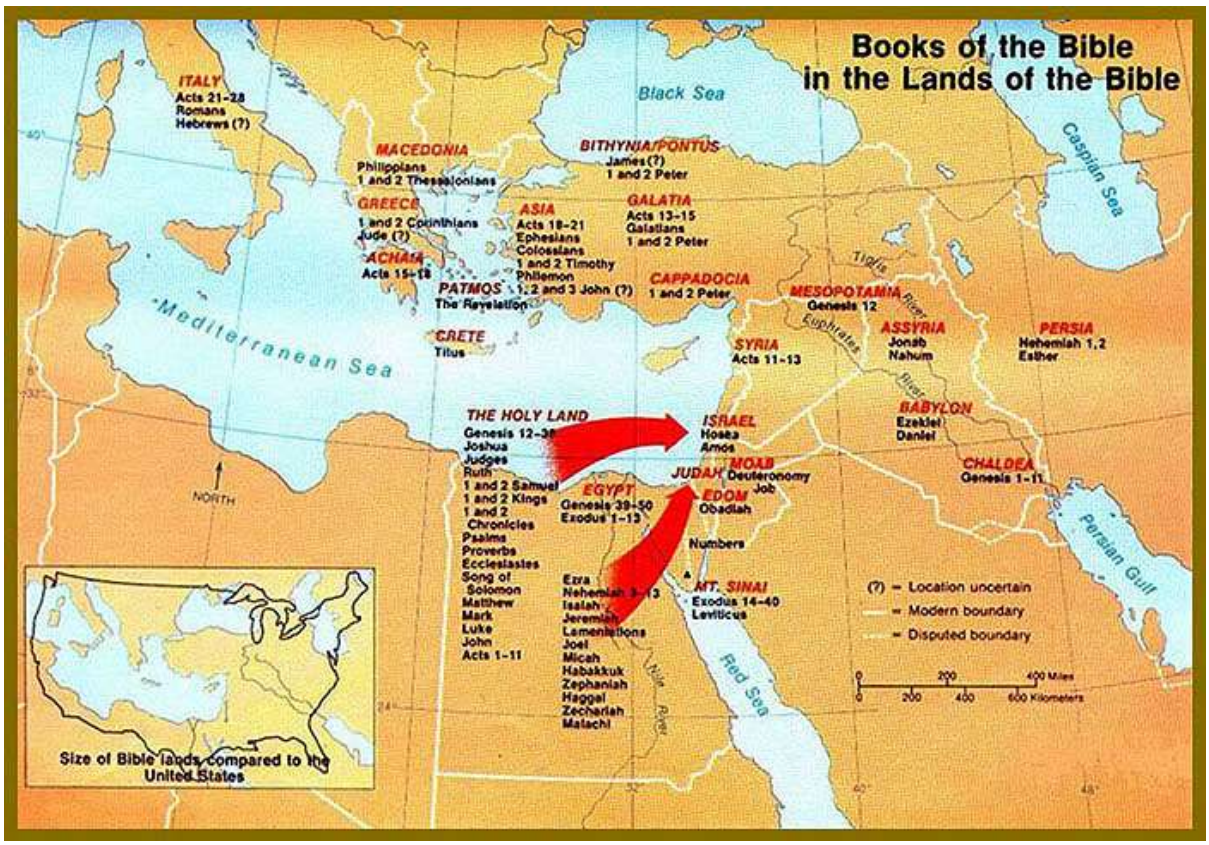
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Jesus' Appearances after His Resurrection



Each of the Gospels and a few other NT books mention various appearances by Jesus after his resurrection, but only Luke notes that Jesus ascended to heaven from the Mount of Olives just outside Jerusalem. Luke also recounts Jesus' discussion with the two disciples on the road to Emmaus (likely modern Qaluniyah, not the Emmaus of the intertestamental period, which lay too far west). Matthew and John note that Jesus also appeared to his disciples in the region of Galilee.

[Source: ESV Study Bible note]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Lands of the Bible (with references from the OT and NT)

Continued next page…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

…Continued from previous page…

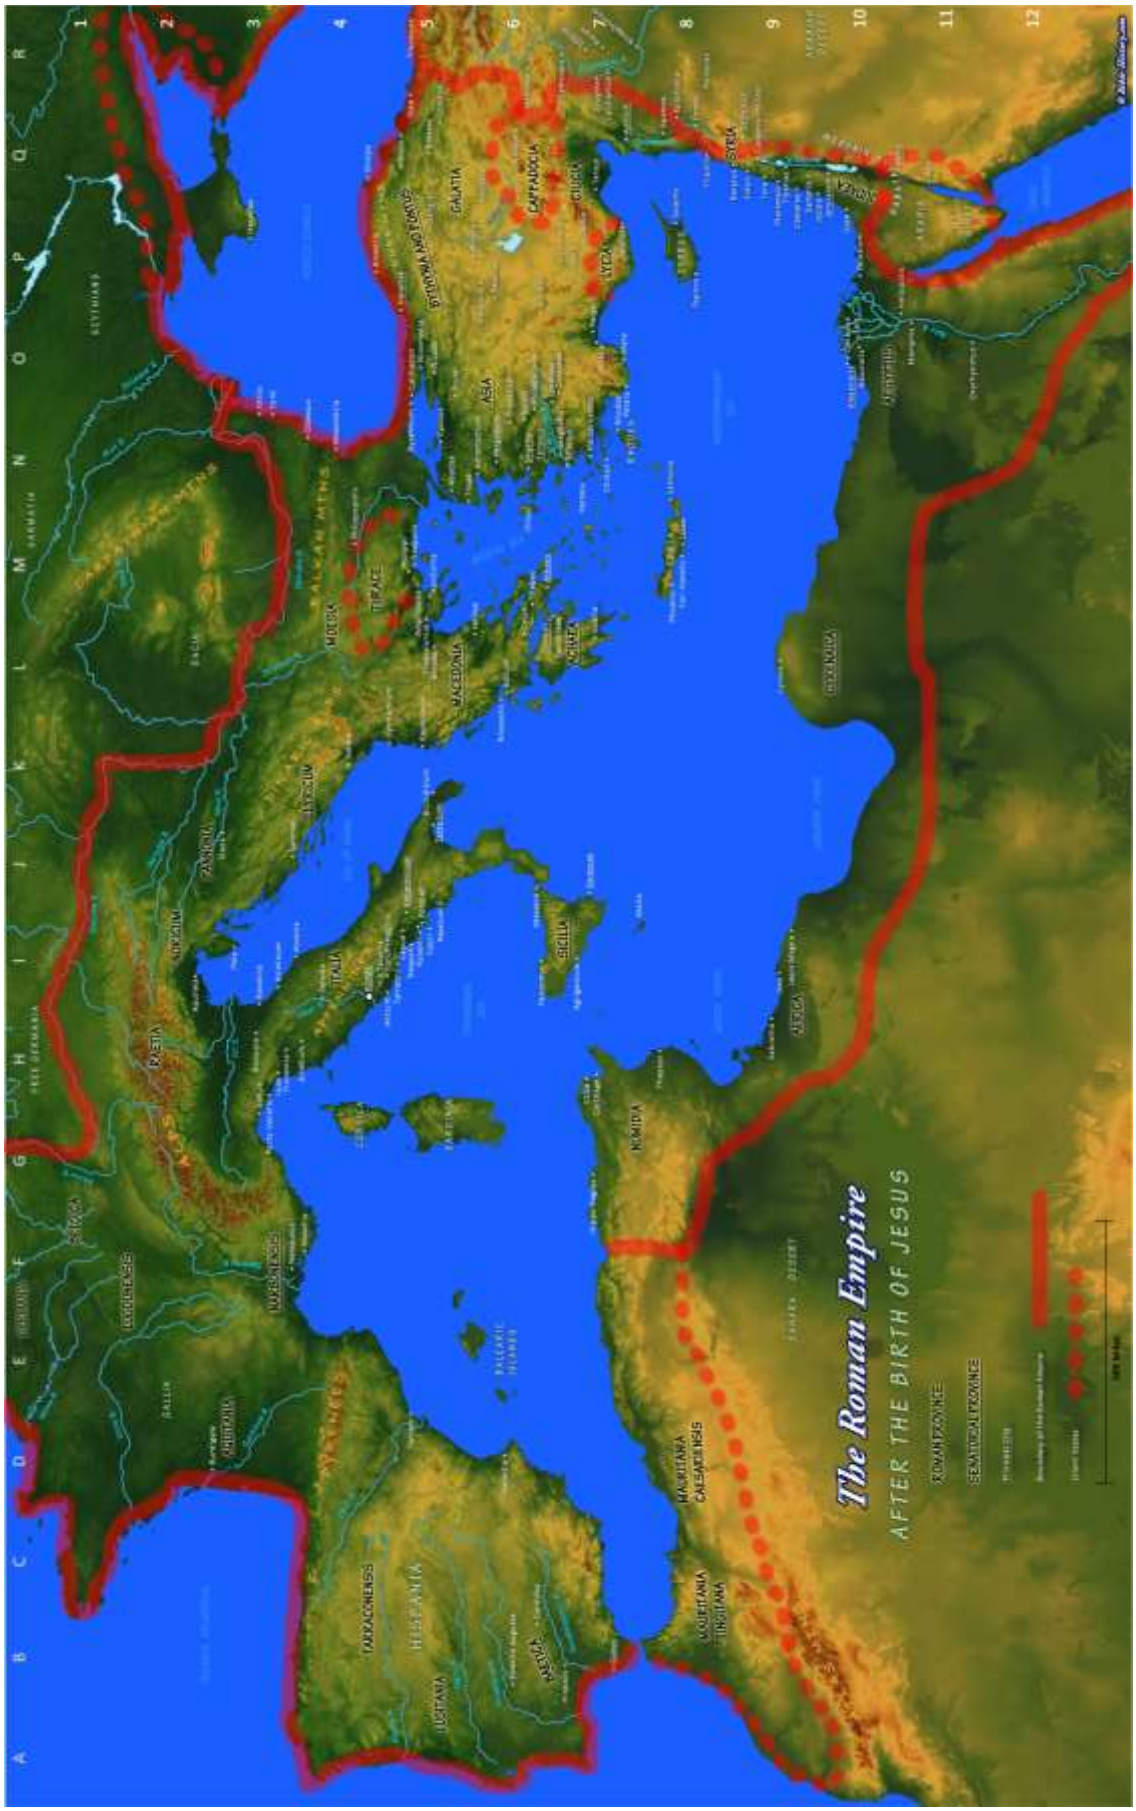
Source: New Bible Atlas (IVP, 1985)

(more physical, geological, climate, satellite, bodies and courses of water, etc. available in atlas)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

ISRAEL today

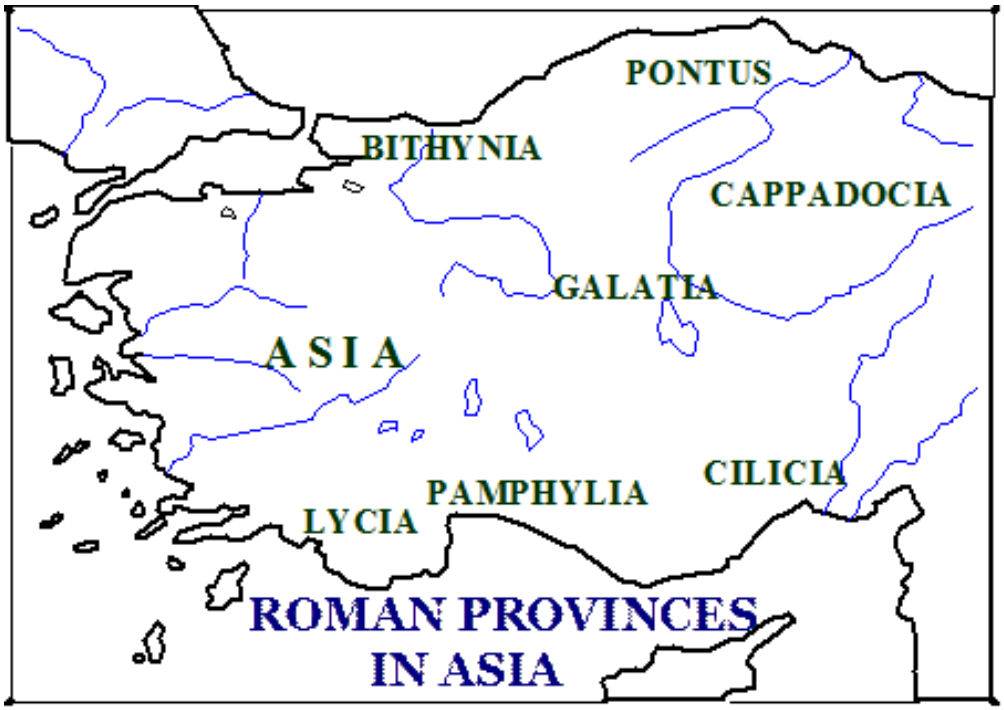
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Maps of New Testament Asia

See larger view next page…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



[Source: http://www.bible-history.com/maps/romanempire/roman-empire-time-of-christ.jpg]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Source: Gene Getz: http://www2.bhpublishinggroup.com/QR/GetzBible/1423/

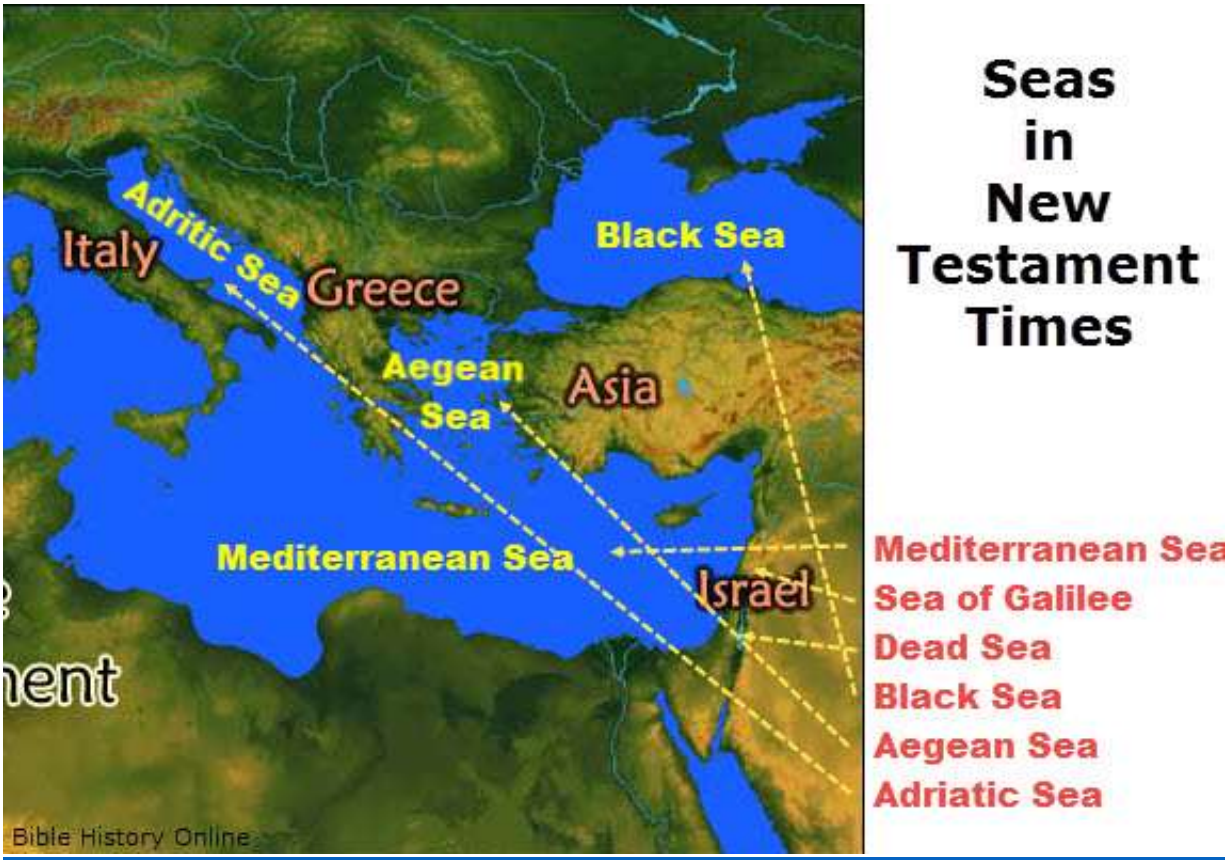
Source: Dr. Contables' Notes http://www.soniclight.com/constable/notes/htm/NT/1%20Peter/1Peter.htm



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Peter's Destination

Souce: Halley's Bible Handbook

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Seas (6 Great Seas)

There were six important seas in the New Testament World, some are mentioned in the Gospels and the Book of Acts.

1. The Mediterranean Sea which bordered the land of Israel on the east as far as Italy on the east.

2. The Sea of Galilee, also called the Sea of Tiberias, mainly associated with the life of Jesus.

3. The Dead Sea, Although it was not mentioned in the New Testament it was in southern Israel.

4. The Black Sea, it was just north of Asia Minor.

5. The Aegean Sea, located between Asia Minor and Greece.

6. The Adriatic Sea, located between Greece and Italy.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Roman Provinces in Europe (5 Provinces)

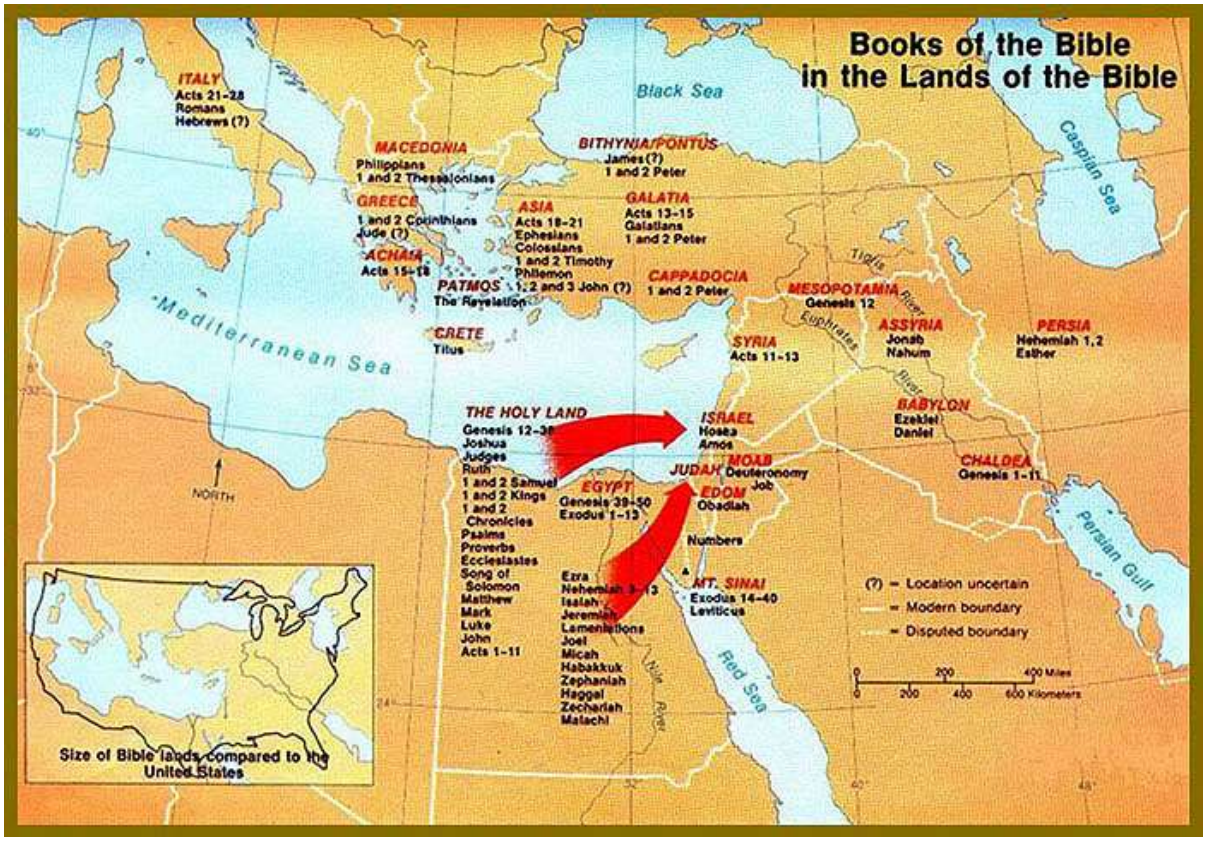
1. Thrace was the land bordering the southwest corner of the Black Sea.

2. Macedonia was the land at the northeast corner of the Aegean Sea, in-between Thrace, Illyricum, and Greece.

3. Greece or Achaea was the land southwest of Macedonia, bordering 3 seas.

4. Illyricum was the land north of Greece, northwest of Macedonia, and the eastern portion of the Adriatic Sea.

5. Italy was the country across the Adriatic Sea from Greece and Illyricum. Rome was the capital of Italy.



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Precepts for Life Map

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Books of the Bible in the Lands of the Bible

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

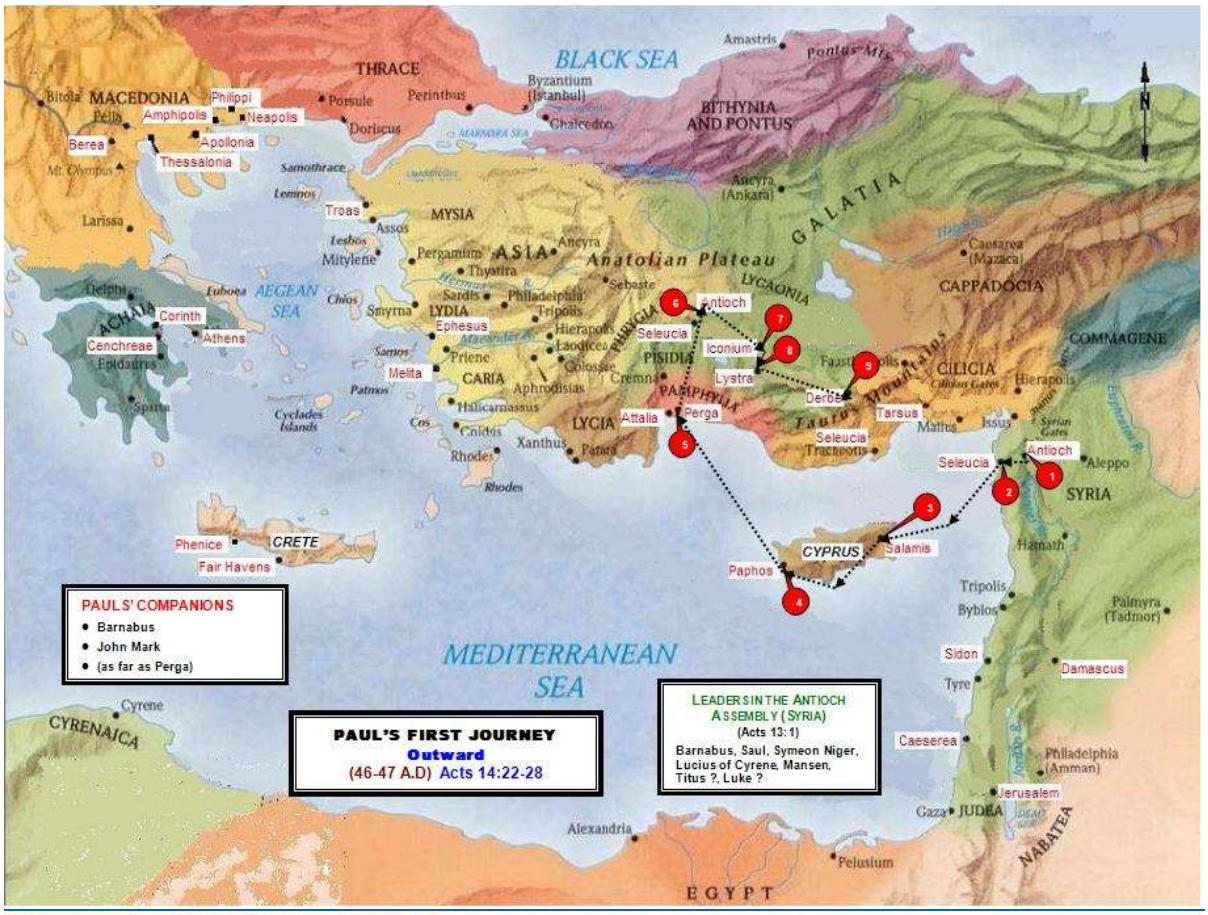
Paul's Journeys

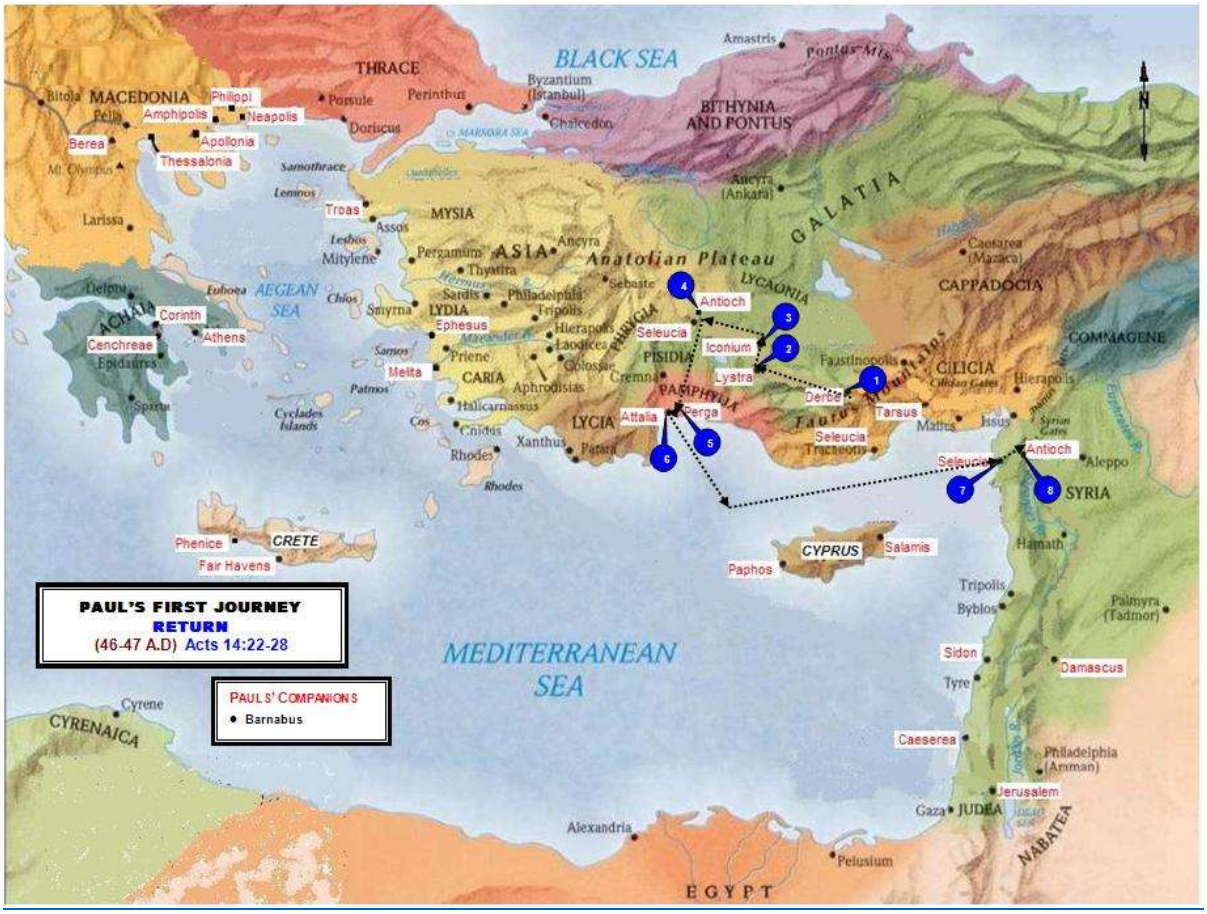
Acts 9.1-30; 11.25-30; 12.25; 13–14; 15.36–18.22; 18.23–21.17; 27.1–28.16; Galatians 1–2

While traveling to Damascus to persecute Christians there, Paul was himself converted, and in Damascus he was baptized. Then after some time in Arabia he returned to Damascus, visited Jerusalem briefly, and continued actively in evangelism in Cilicia and Syria with Antioch as his base. The church in Antioch sent him together with Barnabas on his first missionary journey. After visiting Jerusalem again he undertook his second and third missionary journeys which took him to Macedonia and Greece with extended periods of activity in Corinth and Ephesus.

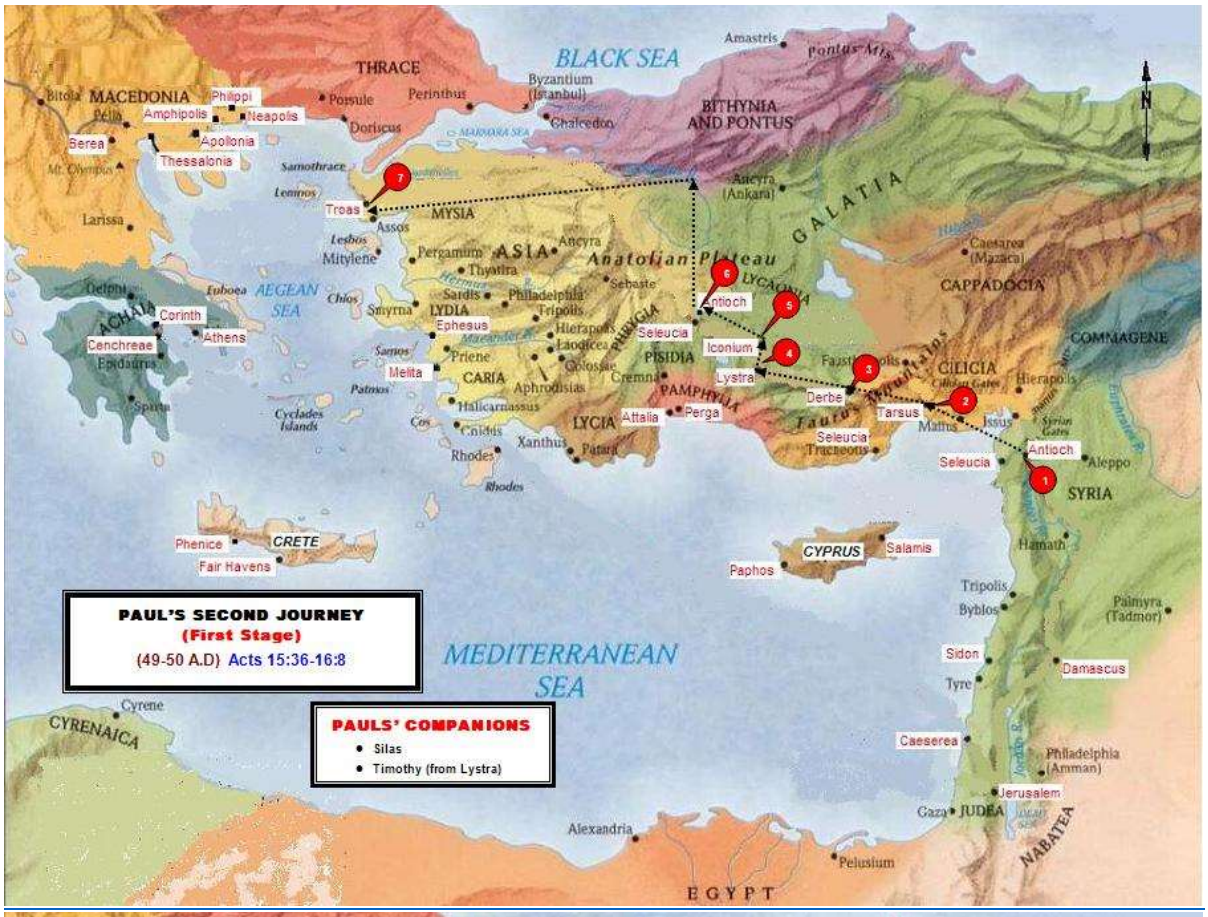
During his third and last visit to Jerusalem Paul was arrested and taken first to Caesarea, and then to Rome.

Maps below illustrate the sequence of events narrated in Acts. Paul's own letters would suggest a different reconstruction of the events.

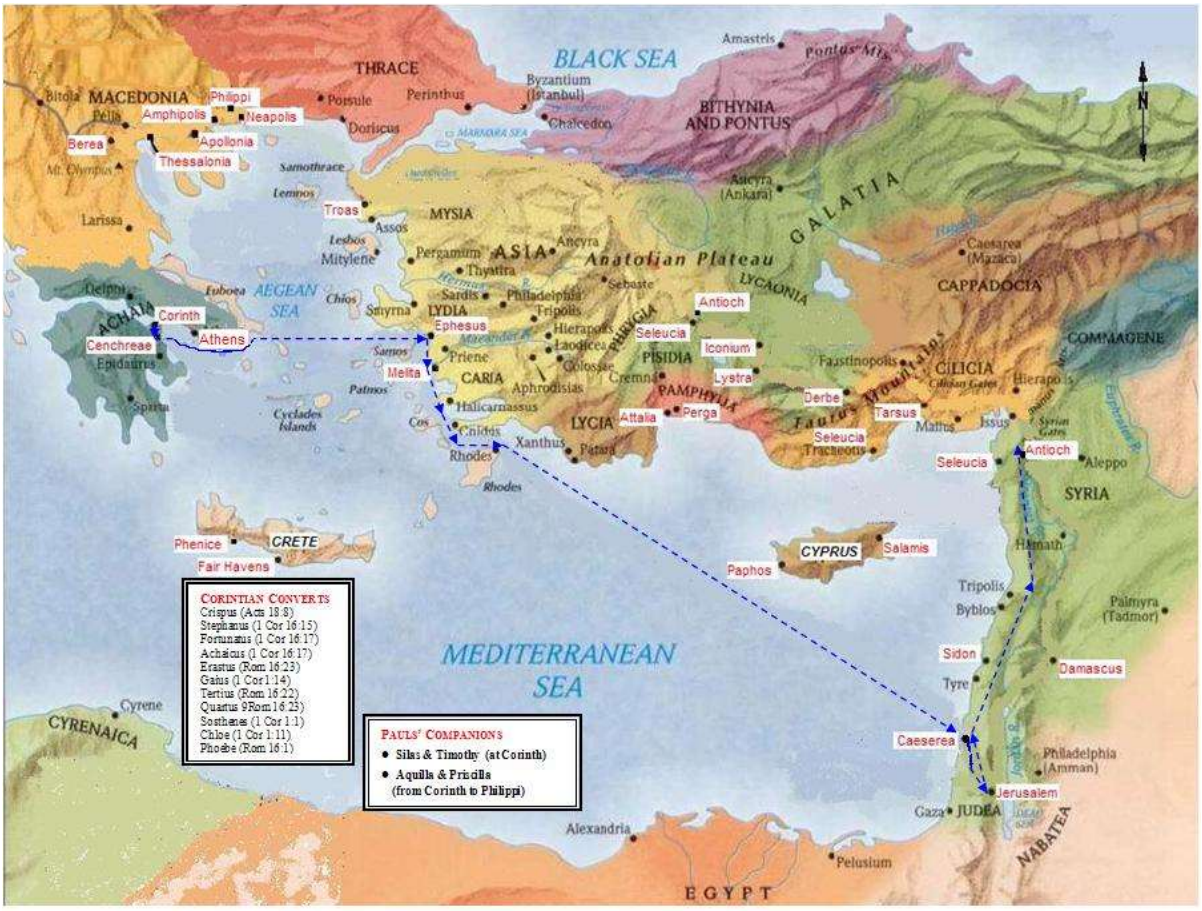




Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

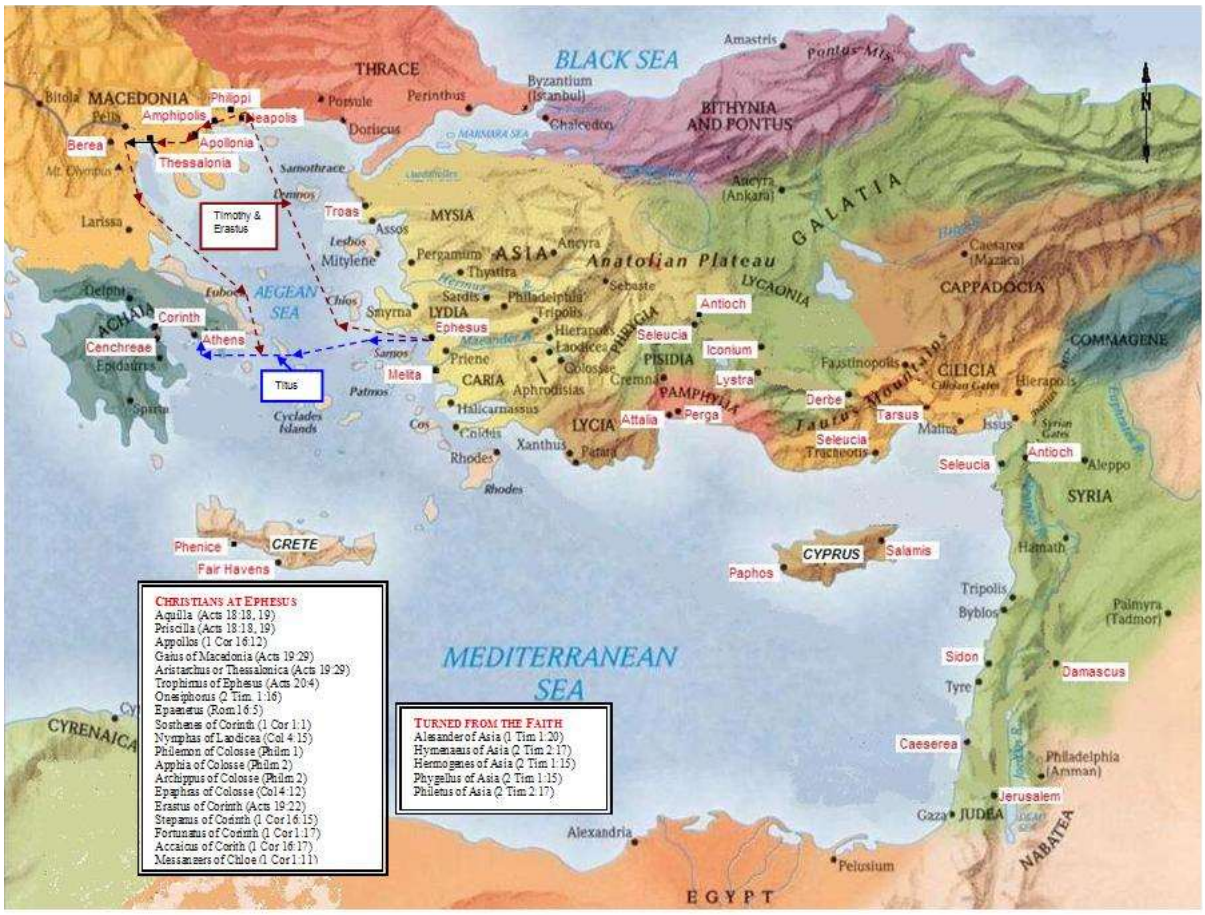
PAUL'S SECOND MISSIONARY JOURNEY (Second Stage) (51 A.D) Acts 16:8-17:31

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

PAUL'S SECOND MISSIONARY JOURNEY (Third Stage) (51-52 A.D) Acts 18:11-18:22

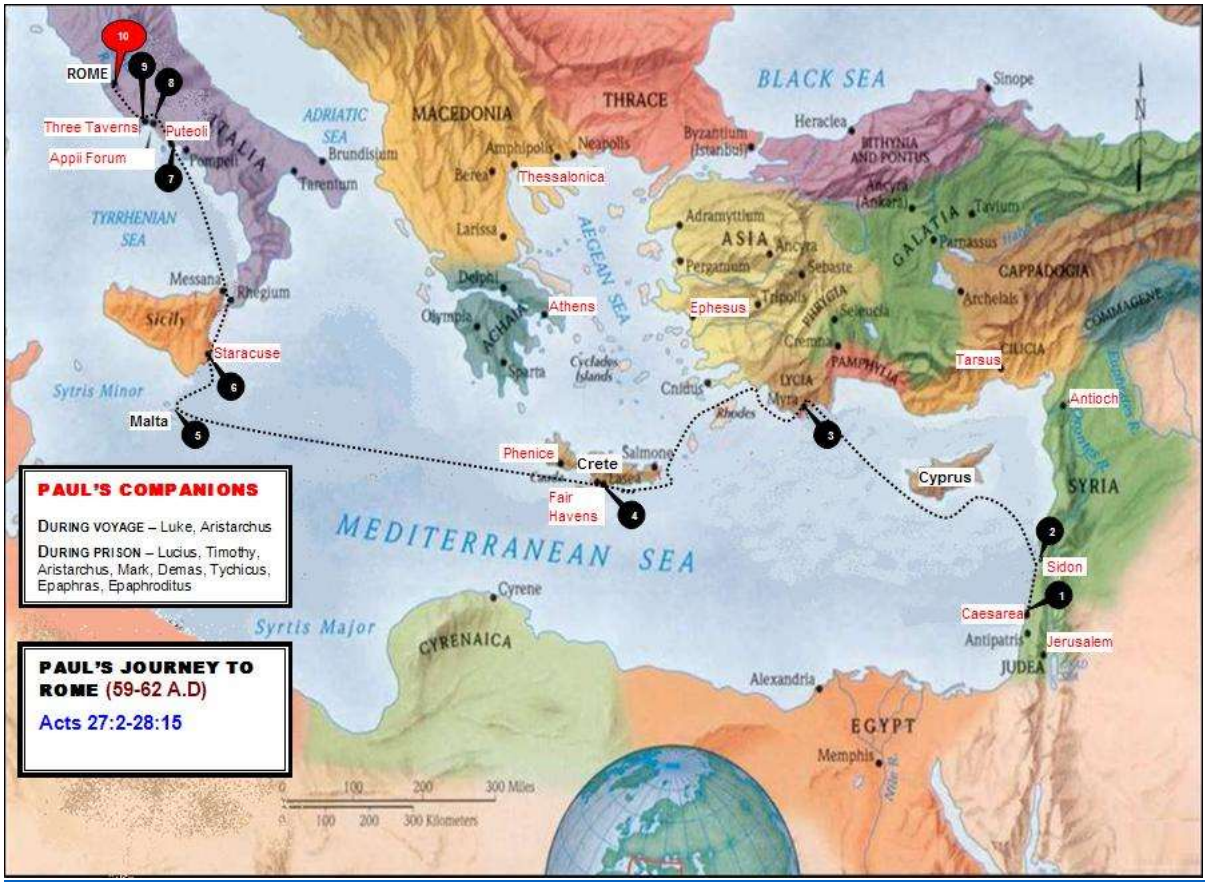
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

PAUL'S THIRD MISSIONARY JOURNEY (First Stage) (53-56 A.D) Acts 18:24-19:22



PAUL'S THIRD MISSIONARY JOURNEY (Second Stage) (56 A.D) Acts 18:23-21:17

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



PAUL'S THIRD MISSIONARY JOURNEY (Third Stage) (57 A.D) Acts 18:23-21:17

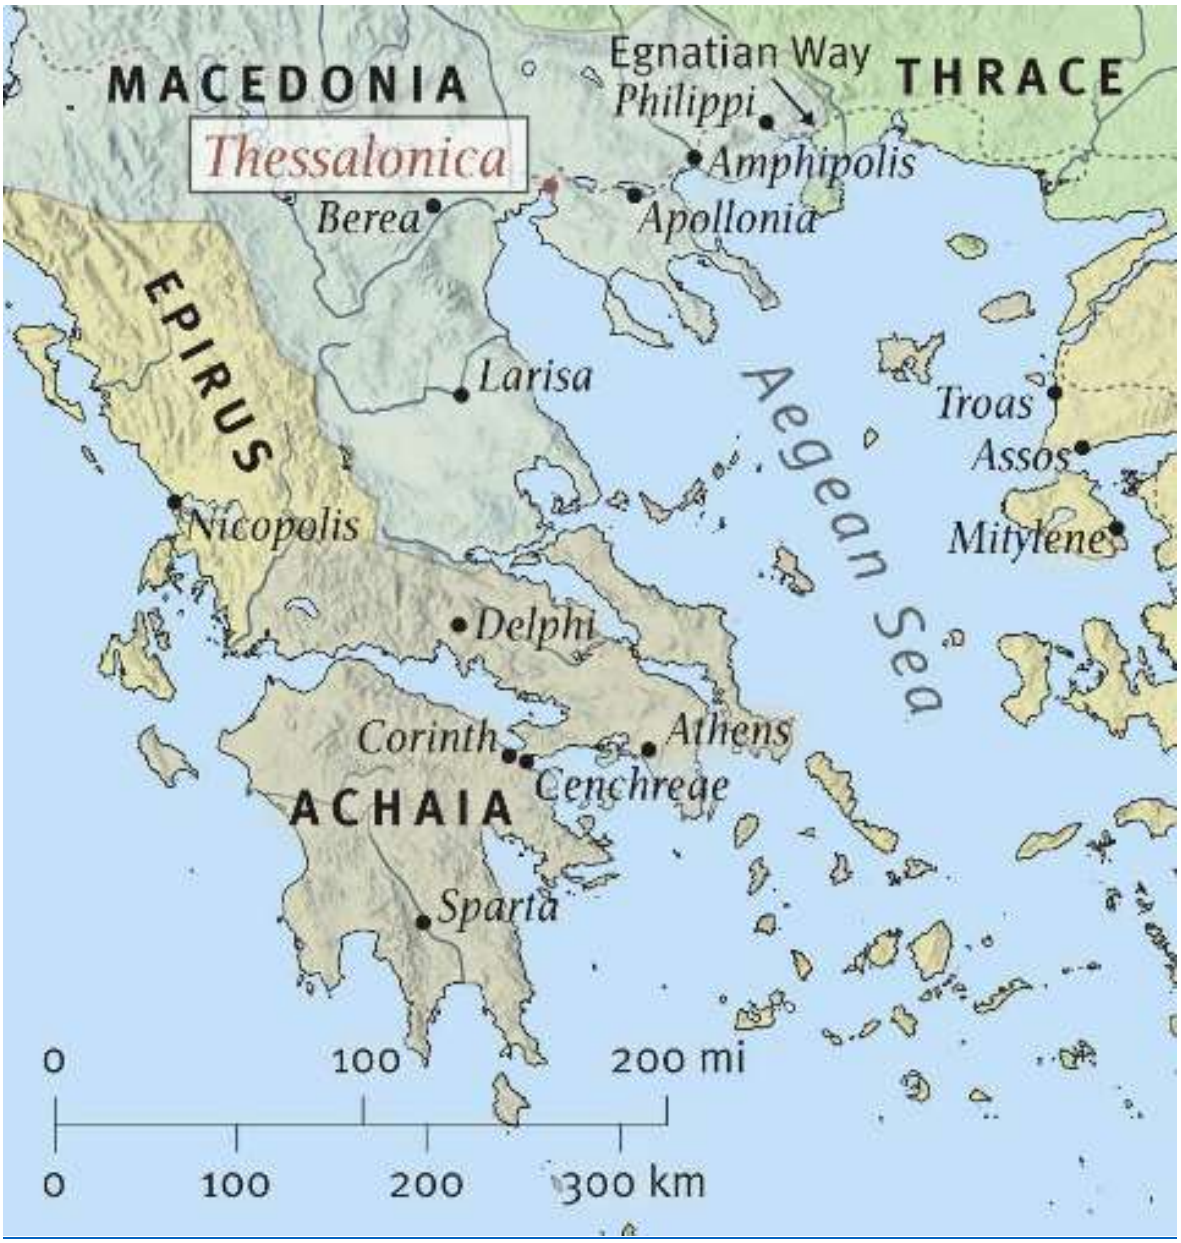
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

THE JOURNEY OF PAUL'S COMPANIONS during his sojourn at EPHESUS (54-56 A.D) Acts 18:23-21:17

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

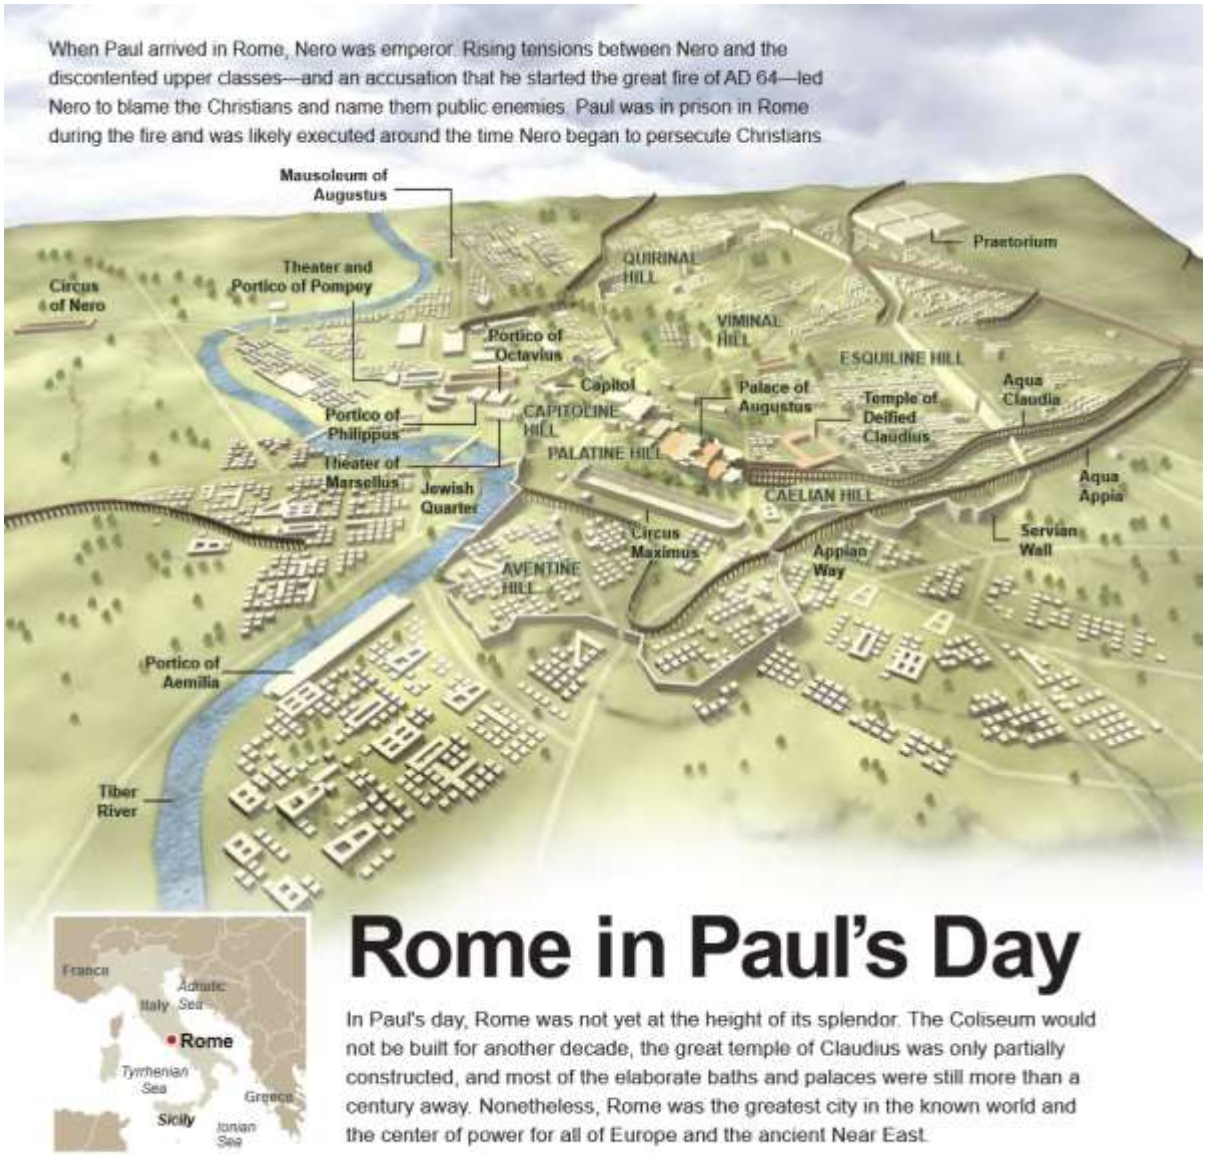
PAUL'S MOVEMENTS AFTER HIS AQUITTAL (62-63 A.D) Rom. 15:24-28; 1 Tim. 1,3,14; Titus 1, 3, 5, 12, 13; Phm. 22

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



PAUL'S ARREST, SECOND IMPRISIONMENT AND MARTYRDOM (64 A.D)
Col. 4:10; 2 Tim. 1:15-17; 2:9; 4:1, 10, 13-20

[Source: http://www.christianshepherd.org/bible_study_guides/biblical_maps_and_charts/new_testament/]

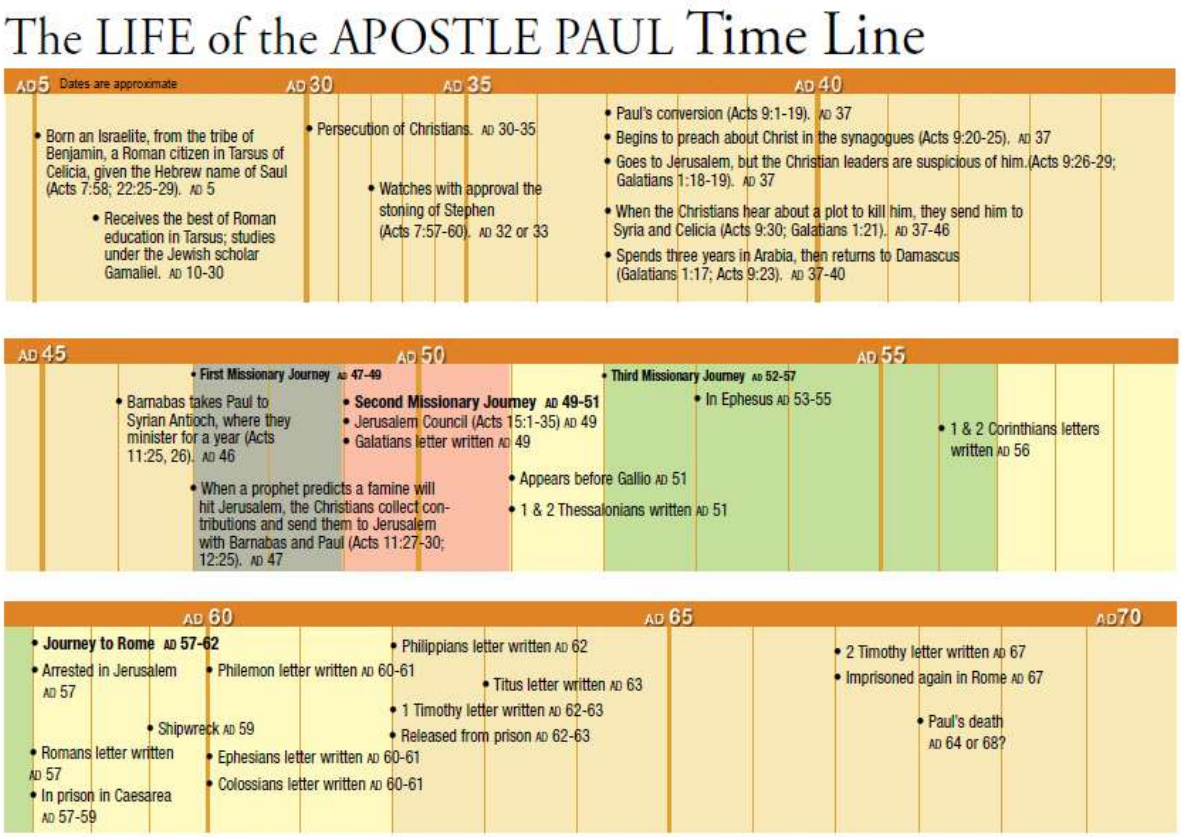


Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: ESV Study Bible Note]

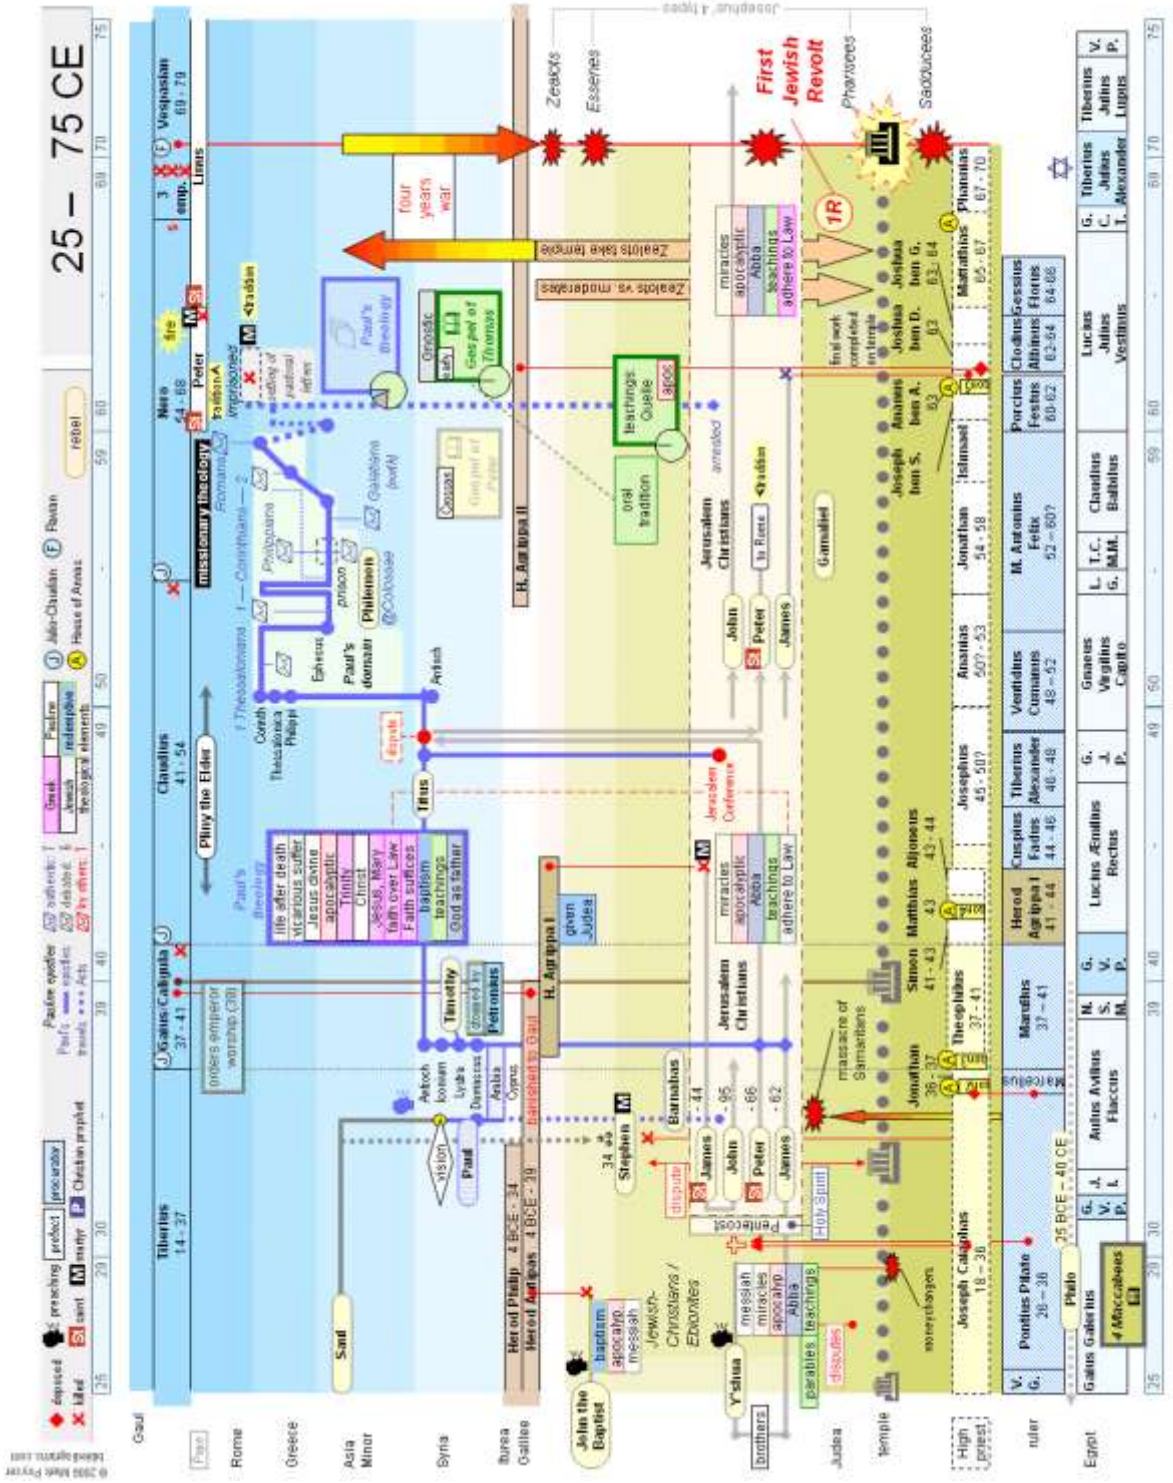
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

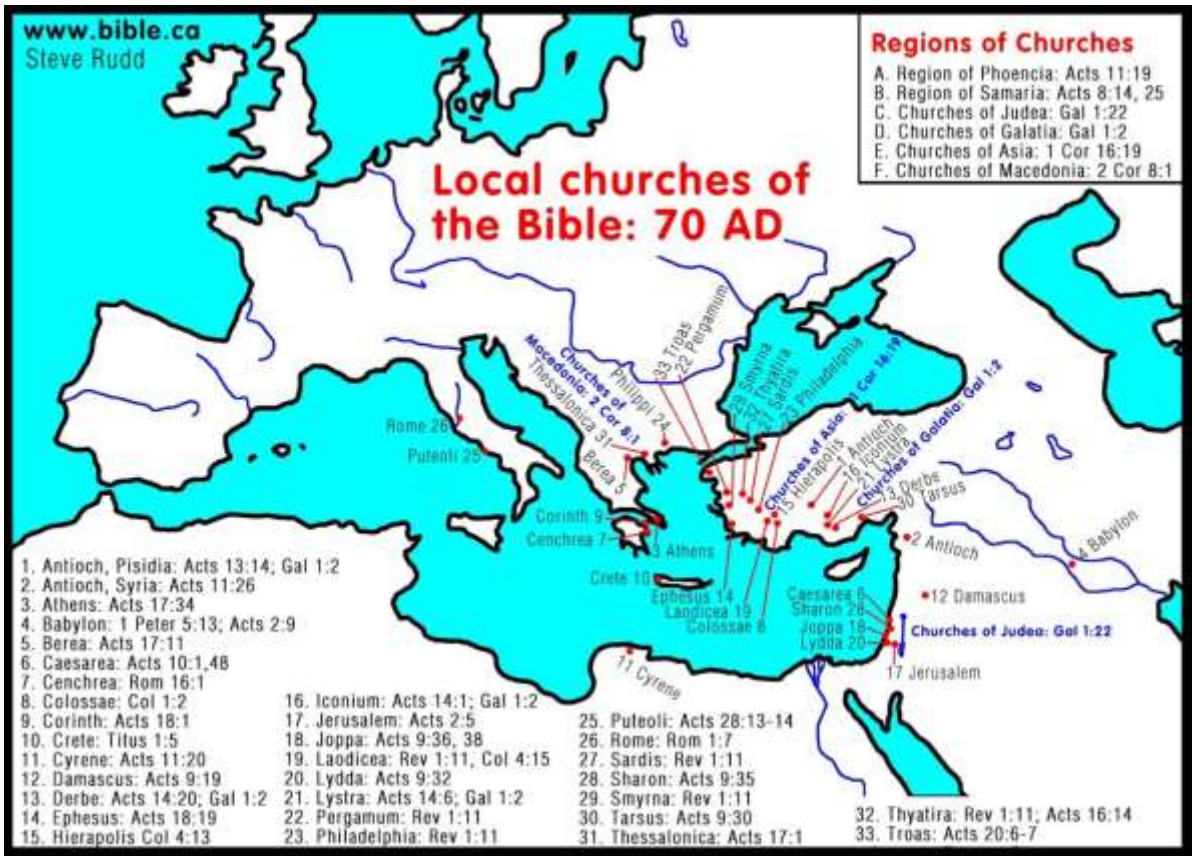


[Source: ESV Study Bible Note]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

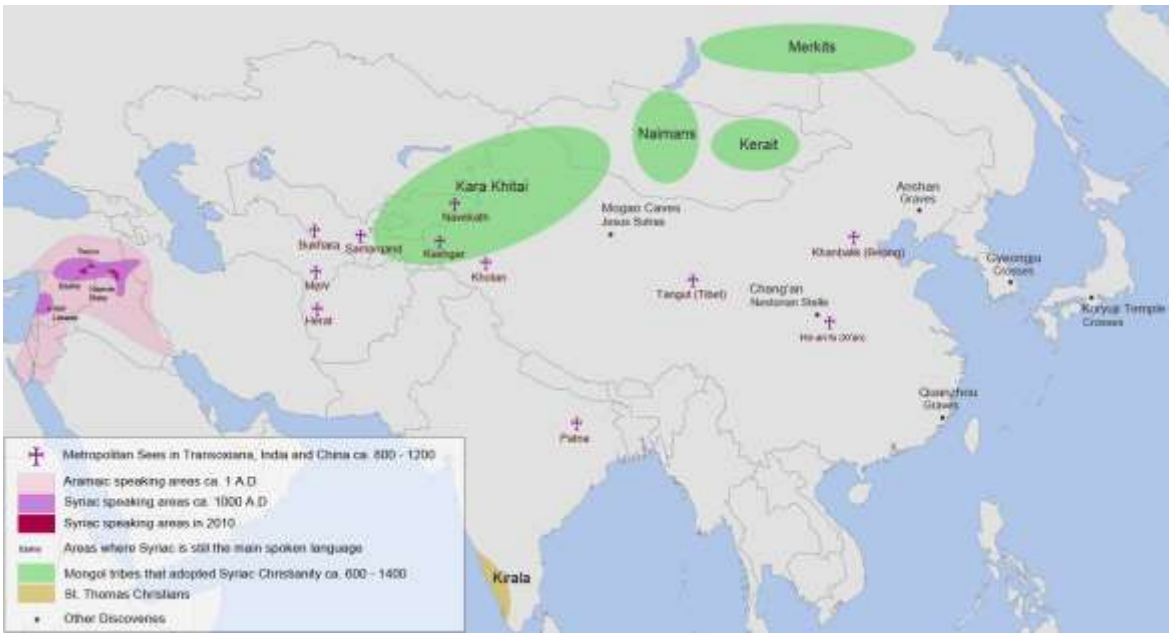


[See also the Paul and His Journeys section in this APPENDIX]



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The critical 50 years



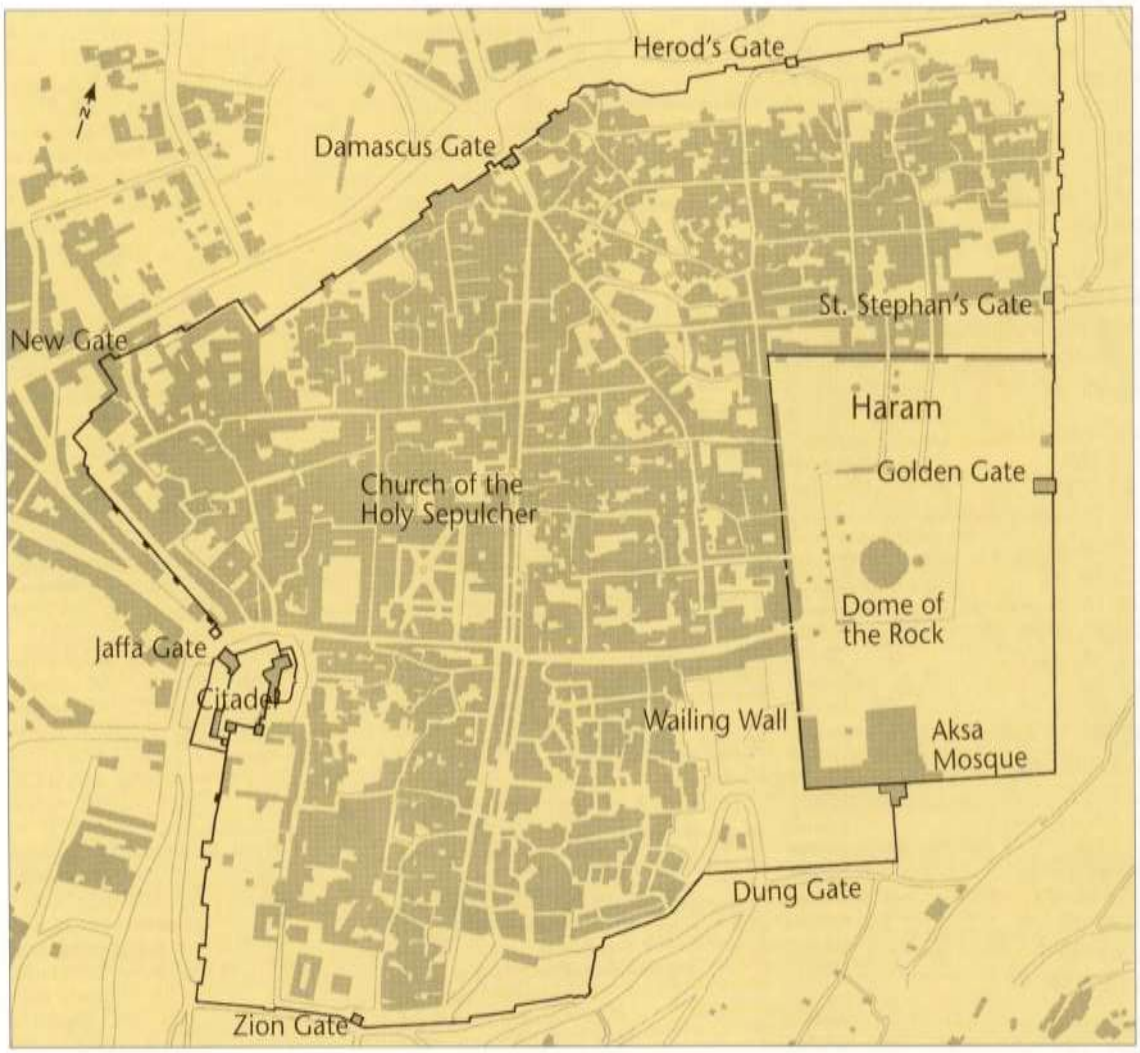
[Source: http://www.bblediagrams.com] (additional NT and Early Church charts and diagrams)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

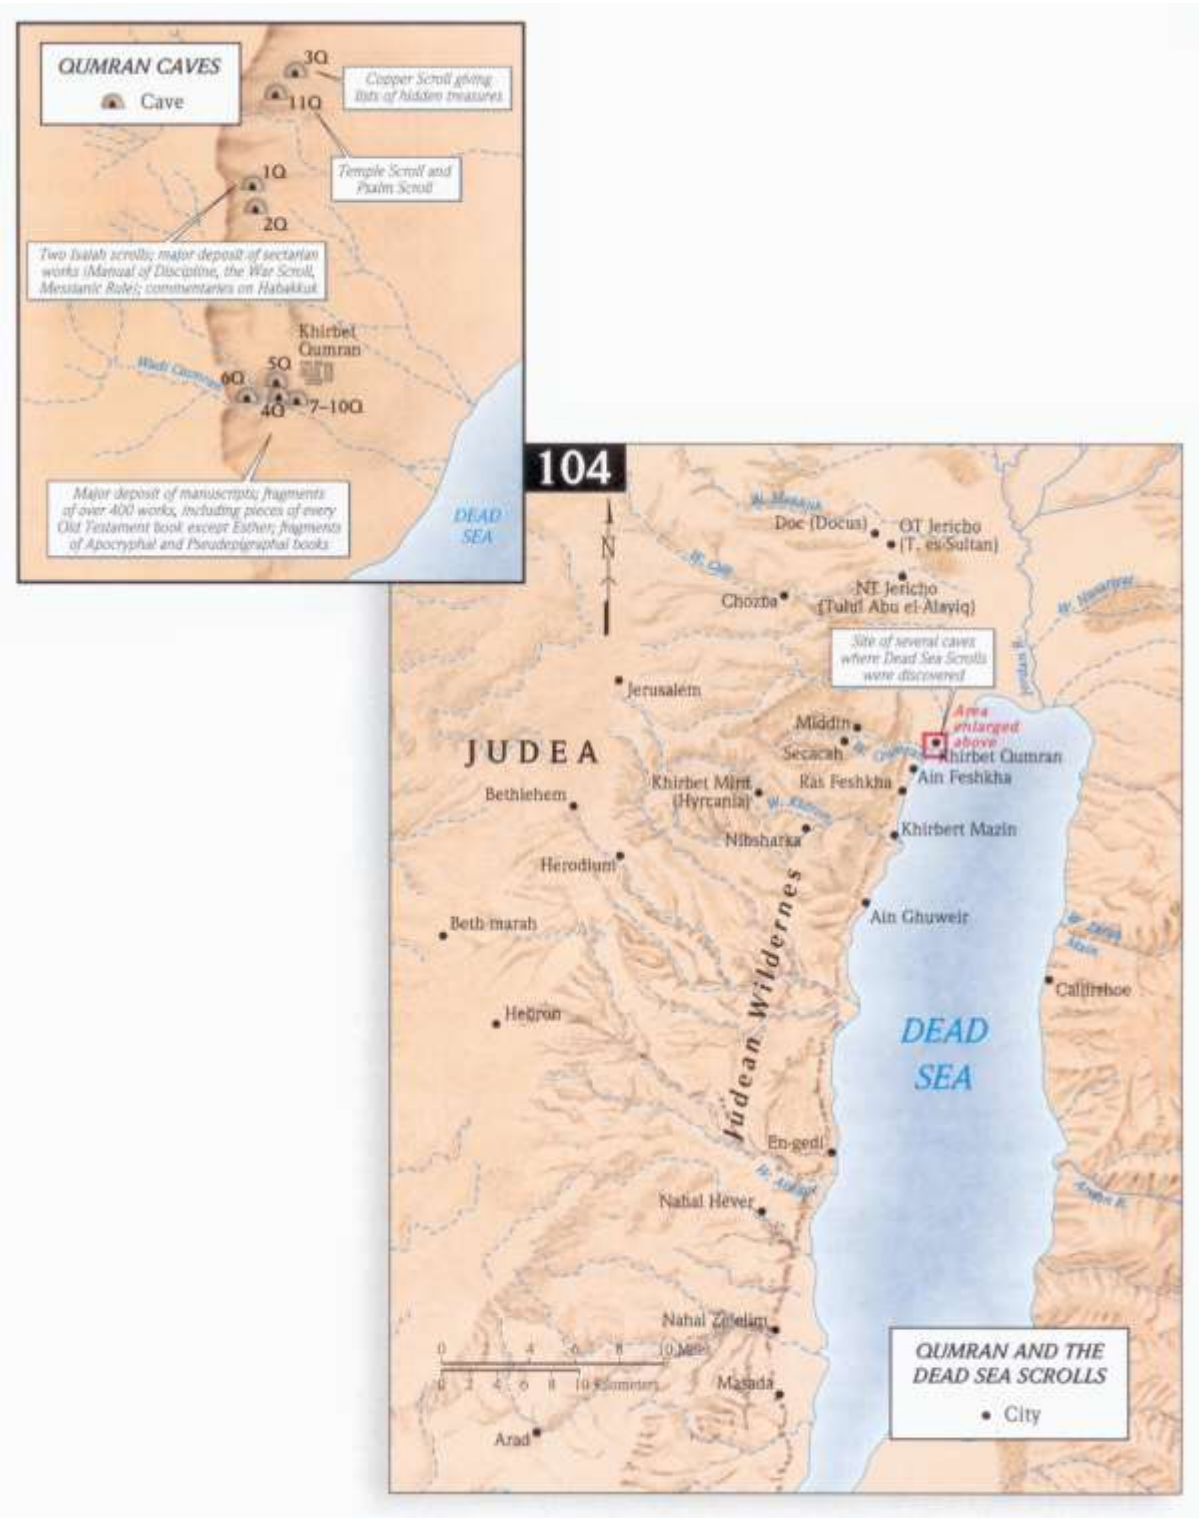
Syriac Christianity

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Current Maps



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Old City of Jerusalem Today

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Map of the Levant

The Levant is a geographic and cultural term referring to the region of the "eastern Mediterranean littoral between Anatolia and Egypt". The Levant includes most of modern Lebanon, Syria, Jordan, Israel, the Palestinian territories, and sometimes parts of Cyprus, Turkey and Iraq, and corresponds roughly to the historic area of Greater Syria; precise definitions have varied. The Levant has been described as the "crossroads of western Asia, the eastern Mediterranean and northeast Africa".

In earlier periods, the Levant encompassed all the "Mediterranean lands east of Italy". The term Levant, which first appeared in English in 1497, originally meant the East in general. It is borrowed from the French levant 'rising', that is, the point where the sun rises. Similar etymologies are found in Ancient Greek Ἀνατολή (cf. Anatolia), Germanic Morgenland and in the Hungarian Kelet which literally means the place of rising. Most notably, "Orient" and its Latin source oriens meaning "east", is literally "rising", deriving from Latin orior "rise".

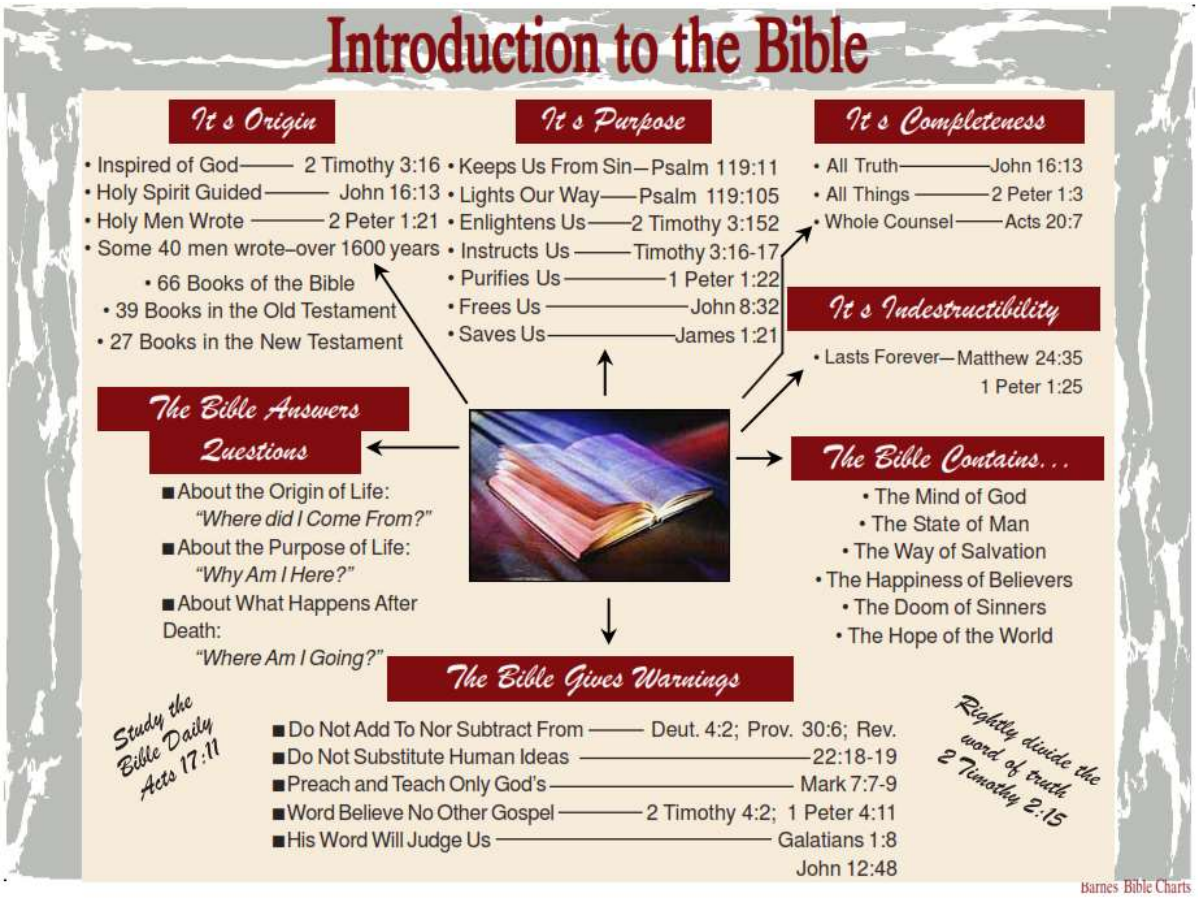
Today "Levant" is typically used by archaeologists and historians with reference to the prehistory and the ancient and medieval history of the region, as when discussing the Crusades. The term is also occasionally employed to refer to modern or contemporary events, peoples, states or parts of states in the same region, namely Cyprus, Iraq, Israel, the Palestinian territories, Jordan, Lebanon, and Syria (compare with Near East, Middle East, Eastern Mediterranean and Western Asia).



The largest religious and ethnic group in the Levant is Sunni Muslim Arabs, but there are also many other groups. Until the mid-20th century, there were Jews all across the Levant; now most are in Israel. There are many Christian Arabs, belonging to the Antiochian Orthodox (Greek/Eastern Orthodox), Maronite Catholic, belonging to the eastern Catholic, and Oriental Orthodox churches. There are Assyrians, belonging to the Assyrian Church of the East (autonomous) and the Chaldean Catholic Church (Catholic). There are largely Sunni Muslim Kurds. There are Shia Muslims (Alawite, Twelvers, and Ismailis) and Druze. There are Armenians, mostly belonging to the Armenian Apostolic Church. There are a few Arab and Armenian Protestant Christians. There are also Latin Catholics, called Levantines or Franco-Levantines.

[Source: Wikipedia]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Holy Bible

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Complete Bible Timeline

(Summary, from Chronological Life Application Study Bible appendix) https://files.tyndale.com/thpdata/firstChapters/9781414339276.pdf [PDF]

Chronological Life Application Study Bible Devotional

http://chronojourney.com/

Advanced Chronological Bible Study

https://www.freebiblestudy.org/Advanced_Chronological_Bible_Study.pdf [PDF]

Reading the Bible in Chronological Order in One Year (Chart)

http://70030.stablerack.com/images/BibleinChronologicalOrder.pdf [PDF]

The 66 Books of the Bible Study Guide

http://www.christadelphian.or.tz/sites/default/files/66_books.pdf [PDF]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Sections (Books) of the Holy Bible

The Bible ("Holy Bible") as we know it consists of two main sections – the Old Testament and New Testament

Old Testament

The Old Testament (OT) is an old book made up of several smaller books. It consists of thirty-nine books. According to the Jews the number was twenty-four. They considered the two books of Samuel, Kings, Ezra-Nehemiah, and Chronicles as single books (e.g. not first and second Samuel, but the book of Samuel). The twelve Minor Prophets were also known as the book of the Twelve, reducing them by eleven to a single book. The division of Tenach (abbreviation of Torah Nebi'im and Chetuvim) is as follows:

(1) The Torah (the Law). Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers, and Deuteronomy. The Hebrew names for these books are taken from the first word(s) of the book. Genesis for example is 'In (the) beginning', Exodus, 'names', Leviticus 'and he called', Numbers 'in the desert' and Deuteronomy 'words'.

(2) Nevi'im (the Prophets). The name of each book in the Nevi'im (Prophets) is based on the name of the main character, the supposed writer of the book, or a description of the contents. The prophets consisted of:

The early prophets: Joshua, Judges, Samuel, Kings.

The later prophets: Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, The Twelve (the Minor Prophets).

(3) Ketuvim (the Writings). This division is composed of:

the Book of truth: Psalms, Proverbs, and Job;

the Megilloth (Five Scrolls): Song of Songs, Ruth, Lamentations, Ecclesiastes, and Esther;

The Historical books: Daniel, Ezra-Nehemiah, Chronicles.

The number and order of the books in the Septuagint (the Jewish Greek version of OT translated from the Hebrew; it began with thr translations of the 1st five books of the OT [i.e., the Torah] around the 3rd century BC) differs from that of the Hebrew Bible. The order in the present editions of our English Bibles and the names of the books are based on the Septuagint, while the number is based on Tenach. As well as the books normally printed in our Bibles (according to Tenach) there are some books in the Septuagint, known as the Deuterocanonical books or Apocrypha.

New Testament

The New Testament (NT) was completed in period of about 50 years. With the spread of Christianity there was also a need to copy the writings of the apostles. In earlier days, individual copyists copied the manuscripts. In later times, it was the practice to dictate the text to a group of scribes. By doing that, a number of manuscripts were prepared at the same time. Just like in the case of the Old Testament, words in these manuscripts sometimes differ from each other. In order to establish the text as closely as possible to the original, scholars apply the discipline of textual criticism to it.

…

The early church did not use the Hebrew and Aramaic Old Testament. They used the Septuagint, the Greek translation of the Old Testament. That translation was their bible. The apostle Paul, under the inspiration of the Holy Spirit, quoted from that version, as did other writers of the New Testament.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Old Testament (OT) in the New Testatment (NT)

Jesus and the OT

An apparently distinctive feature of Jesus' understanding of OT Scripture was that it was fulfilled: not soon to be fulfilled, as at Qumran, but actually fulfilled in his ministry. The casting out of demons was tangible evidence that the kingdom of God had come upon those in his presence (Luke 11:20). This proclamation of the kingdom ('The kingdom of God is at hand!') is drawn from passages in Isaiah (* e.g. 40:9; 52:7; 61:1), through the interpretive lens of the Aramaic synagogue: 'The kingdom of your God is revealed!' (* Targum of Isaiah 40:9; 52:7). Jesus' proclamation of the fulfilment of Scripture thus established the hermeneutical matrix, in the light of which the NT interprets and utilizes the OT. [Source: New Dictionary of Biblical Theology]

Distinctive emphases in the four Gospels

Although the four Gospels cite and allude to many common Scriptures, their respective uses of the OT are distinctive and clearly serve their respective interests and purposes.

Mark

Mark apparently defines the 'good news' of Jesus Messiah in terms of the fulfilment of Isaiah's oracle of salvation and deliverance: 'See, I am sending my messenger ahead of you, who will prepare your way; the voice of one crying out in the wilderness: Prepare the way of the Lord, make his paths straight' (1:2-3, NRSV; cf. Mal 3:1 + LXX Isa 40:3). In other words, the good news of the Christian message is the fulfilment of that for which Israel had for many years longed. Qumran (* Rule of the Community 8:12-14; 9:19-20), as well as others (Bar 5:7; Testament of Moses 10:1-5), also understood Isa 40:3 as a prophetic text that spoke of restoration. At his baptism the heavenly voice echoed the words of Ps 2:7: 'You are my Son, the Beloved; with you I am well pleased' (1:11, NRSV; cf. Ge 22:2; Exodus 4:22-23; Isa 42:1). With this utterance Jesus' identity is made clear. Such recognition will not come forth from a human being until Jesus' death on the cross (* cf. Mk 15:39). At the mountain of transfiguration, where Jesus conversed with Moses, the heavenly voice once again spoke, only this time addressing the disciples: 'This is my beloved Son; listen to him' (9:7; cf. Ps 2:7; Ge 22:2; Dt 18:15). The injunction to listen is probably an allusion to Dt 18:15 ('The LORD your God will raise up for you a prophet like me [Moses] ... listen to him', NIV). These citations and allusions strongly suggest that Mark understood Jesus as the fulfilment of Jewish messianic expectation. As God's beloved Son and as the prophet who was to come (see 8:28), Jesus was the long-awaited Messiah of Israel.

Matthew

The extensive use of the OT in the Gospel of Matthew is well known. The Matthean evangelist was keenly interested in showing how Jesus fulfilled every aspect of the scriptures. All three components of the Bible, legal, prophetic, and wisdom/praise, have been fulfilled in Jesus. He not only has personally fulfilled the requirements of the law, but also is the law's master interpreter. He not only fulfilled messianic prophecies, but is also Israel's greatest prophet. Finally, he is the incarnation of Wisdom itself, an unparalleled master teacher. The evangelist's practice of finding new meaning in old tradition (whether OT or Christian tradition), which parallels that of Qumran, may very well be reflected in a verse found only in his Gospel: 'Every scribe who has been trained for [or by] the kingdom of heaven is like a householder who brings out of his treasure what is new and what is old' (13:52).

Luke/Acts

The OT functions in the writings of the Lukan evangelist in ways that are clearly distinct from its functions in the other three Gospels. He does not punctuate the tradition with proof texts as do Matthew and John; rather, he punctuates his narrative with speeches that are full of OT words and phrases (esp. the speeches in the birth narratives). Another distinctive feature is Luke's dependence upon the LXX. Indeed, the evangelist deliberately imitates the style of the Greek OT. But this imitation does not involve only style; it involves substance too. It is probable that the Lukan evangelist understood the story of Jesus (the Gospel) and the early church (the book of Acts) as the continuation of the biblical story. This is probably part of the meaning of the risen Jesus' statement to his disciples that ‘everything written about me in the law of Moses and the prophets and the psalms must be fulfilled’ (24:41-47; cf. 24:26-27).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

John

At first glance John's use of the OT appears to be very much the same as Matthew's. Like Matthew, the fourth evangelist formally quotes the OT several times, many times with reference to the ‘fulfilment’ of something. But in other important ways the OT functions in John quite differently. Even in the case of the quotation formulas, John's purpose is very different. Unlike Matthew's, John's formulas appear to make up a pattern, a pattern that accentuates the theological development of the gospel narrative. In the first half of his Gospel, the evangelist introduces Scripture in a variety of ways, though usually using the word ‘written’ (1:23; 2:17; 6:31, 45; 7:38, 42; 8:17; 10:34; 12:14). In the second half he invariably introduces Scripture with ‘in order that it be fulfilled’ (12:38, 39-40; 13:18; 15:25; 19:24, 28, 36, 37). What is the meaning of this pattern? The answer may be deduced from the summary in 12:37 and the citation that follows in verse 38: ‘Though he had done so many signs before them, yet they did not believe in him; it was that the word spoken by Isaiah might be fulfilled’. The ‘signs’ to which reference is made are those of the first half of the Gospel. The scriptural citations in the first half of the Gospel demonstrate that Jesus conducted his ministry in keeping with scriptural expectation (‘as it is written’). For example, Jesus' zeal for the temple is related to Ps 69:9; the feeding of the five thousand is related to Ps 78:24; his appeal to the testimony of two witnesses is related to Dt 17:6 (or 19:15); his claim to be God's Son is related to Ps 82:6; and his riding the donkey is related to Zec 9:9. In some of these instances the evangelist could have introduced the OT citation with reference to fulfilment (compare the citation of Zec 9:9 in Mt 21:4-5), but he did not. It is not until Jesus is rejected, despite his signs, that the Scriptures are said to be ‘fulfilled’. It is in Jesus' rejection and crucifixion that the Scriptures find their ultimate fulfilment. Far from proving that Jesus did not fulfil the Scriptures, and so could not be Israel's Messiah, Jewish unbelief and obduracy specifically fulfilled Isa 53:1 (‘Lord, who believed ...?’) and Isa 6:10 (‘He blinded their eyes ...’). In each action taken against Jesus, including the treachery of Judas, Scripture is fulfilled. It is apparent that the fourth evangelist wishes to show that it is in his passion, Jesus' ‘hour of glorification’ (17:1), that the Scriptures are truly fulfilled.

Paul

Paul cites the OT some one hundred times (slightly more, if the disputed letters are included). More than sixty of these quotations agree with the LXX, though many of these agree with both the LXX and the MT (some forty in all; e.g. Ro 2:6; 3:4,13,18; 4:17,18; etc.). Several quotations agree with the LXX, but not with the MT (some sixteen in all; e.g. Ro 2:24; 3:14; 4:3,7-8; 9:29; etc.). A small number agree with the MT and against the LXX (* e.g. Ro 1:17; 11:4,35; 12:19; 1Co 3:19; Ga 3:11). A larger number of others disagree with both the LXX and the MT (* e.g. Ro 3:10-12,15-17; 9:9,17,25,27-28,33; 10:6-8; etc.). Ten others are debatable (* e.g. Ro 3:20; 9:20; 11:1-2; 12:16-17; 1Co 2:9; etc.). Paul's allusions to Scripture are as important for his theology as his formal citations, as will be seen in the following example.

One of the most intriguing instances of Paul's use of the OT is seen in the allusion to Dt 30:12-14 (and 9:4a) in Ro 10:6-8. Whereas Moses spoke of God's ‘commandment’ not being too far off (either up in heaven or beyond the sea), so that failure to obey it cannot be excused, Paul speaks of Christ. As unusual as Paul's exegesis appears, it is not entirely novel. The author of Baruch has alluded to this passage from Deuteronomy, and has applied it to Wisdom: ‘Who has gone up into heaven, and taken her, and brought her down from the clouds? Who has gone over the sea, and found her ...?’ (Baruch 3:29-30). As already noted, comparisons between Christ and wisdom were sometimes made. But Baruch's parallel usage leaves some components of Paul's exegesis unclear. Scholars have called attention to the paraphrase of Dt 30:12-13 in the Fragmentary Targum, which reads (with italics showing departures from the Hebrew): ‘The Law is not in heaven that one may say: “ Would that we had one like the prophet Moses who would ascend to heaven and fetch it for us and make us hear the commandments that we might do them.” Neither is the Law beyond the Great Sea that one may say: “Would that we had one like the prophet Jonah who would descend into the depths of the Great

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Sea and bring it up for us and make us hear the commandments that we might do them."' The point of the Hebrew is that the law has been given once and for all. There is no need for a prophet to ascend to heaven or to traverse the sea to obtain it. The Aramaic paraphrase illustrates this point with two biblical characters whose experiences roughly match the language of the passage. Moses, it was believed, had ascended to heaven when he received the law from God. For example, in Targum Pseudo-Jonathan Dt 34:5 we are told that Moses 'brought it [the law] from heaven'; and in Pesiqta Rabbati 4:2: 'Moses went up to heaven' (see also Biblical Antiquities 15:6; 2Es 3:1-8). These traditions are based on Ex 19:3,20, where God summons Moses to meet him on the mountain. The reference to the sea, of course, provides the link to Jonah. In fact, the Targum's 'descend into the depths' draws the OT passage into closer alignment with Jonah's experience, for the prophet did not go across the sea; he went down into it (see the reference to 'abyss' in Jon 2:3; cf. v. 6). In the NT, of course, both Moses and Jonah are compared to Christ, at points that are relevant to the traditions just reviewed. Like Moses, Jesus brings a new law from heaven (Mk 9:2-8; Jn 3:13-14; 1:17); like Jonah, Jesus descends into the abyss (Mt 12:39-40; 16:4; Lk 11:29-30). Paul presupposes these Jewish and Christian traditions (* cf. Ep 4:8-10), and has combined them in his own way. His point in Ro 10:4-13 is that Christ has accomplished salvation. All that is now required is faith. No one needs to ascend to heaven to bring Christ down, for he has already descended. No one needs to descend into the abyss to raise him up, for he has already been resurrected. Redemption has been accomplished. All that remains is the confession of faith (Ro 10:8-10, citing and interpreting Dt 30:14). By faith in what God has accomplished through Christ, God's righteousness may be obtained.

Hebrews and the General Epistles

The author of Hebrews explicitly cites the OT some thirty-six times, alludes to it another thirty-five times, and summarizes OT passages or stories another eighteen times. The author makes use of the LXX, but it is not clear exactly which version of it is used. Use of the OT in Hebrews is distinctly un-Pauline. Never is Scripture introduced with gegraptai ('it is written'). While several studies have looked to Philo or Qumran as the background against which Hebrews might be understood, the exegesis of its author is neither allegory nor pesher. He has developed his own style of typological exegesis, in which he compares Christ and the church against OT figures and institutions (figures such as Moses, angels and especially Melchizedek; institutions such as the priesthood and the sin offering). Unlike midrash, pesher, or even allegory, typology is primarily interested in biblical events and not in the biblical text.

Revelation

In the book of Revelation Scripture is never cited. No introductory formula appears (such as 'as it is written'), nor is Scripture (graphē) even mentioned. Yet Revelation is full of echoes and allusions to words and phrases drawn from the Bible. The seer envisages conflict with representative beasts (drawing upon Ezekiel and Daniel), a new Jerusalem, a new temple, and a new covenant (drawing on Ezekiel and Isaiah), and a return to the bliss of Paradise (drawing upon Genesis and the 'tree of life'). This expectation returns the end to the beginning, as earthly and heavenly history comes full circle and human and cosmic redemption is completed.

Continuity Between the Testaments

One of the most important assumptions underlying the NT's use of the OT is that of fulfilment and continuity. NT usage of the OT cannot be reduced to mere proof-texting and apologetic. The purpose, structure and content of OT theology lie behind the major theological themes of the NT. Beliefs in and about the only God and Creator, who establishes a covenant with a chosen people and who promises redemption and salvation, are the beliefs presupposed in NT theology and its exegesis of specific OT passages.

The advent of Jesus not only fulfils prophetic and messianic expectations of the Scriptures of Israel; it also continues the story of Israel. Recognition of this important fact should warn Christians against neglect of the OT and failure to appreciate the inherently Jewish nature of Christianity. This means that Christian biblical theology must take fully into account the theology of the OT and never develop NT theology apart from it. [Source: New Dictionary of Biblical Theology]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Languages of the Bible

The Old Testament was written in Hebrew and some parts in Aramaic. Almost 99% of the Old Testament was written in the Hebrew language (23,213 verses). The Aramaic section is very small. It consists of a few chapters and verses in Genesis (31:47, two words); Ezra (4:8-6:18; 7:12-26); Jeremiah (10:11); Daniel (2:4-7:28).

The original language of the New Testament is Greek. Greek was the dominant language during the time when the New Testament was written. The Greek of the New Testament was called the Koinē, common Greek. It was the Greek used by all the Greek-speaking people at that time.

Even though the Greek conquerer, Alexander the Great, did not live long; he made a lasting impact on the world. He gathered an army that consisted of people from many parts of his empire. These people used Greek to communicate with each other. The cities that he conquered also took Greek as their language of communication. These developments led to a significant change in the Greek language. The so-called Classical Greek, in which the great Greek literature was written, became Koine Greek, common Greek. It was the lingua franca, the common communication language between the people of the Greek empire. The Greek culture and language conquered the world, and the world conquered the Classical Greek language. Greek became the language of the world. This period of the Greek language is known as the Koine Greek or Hellenistic period (330 BC-AD 330).

…

We do not know exactly when and how, but Palestine also came under Alexander's control. When Alexander died at the age of 32, his four generals divided his empire among themselves. One of these generals, Ptolemy, took control of Egypt and made the new city of Alexandria his capital. More Jews from Palestine were added by him to the Jewish population in Alexandria. The Jewish population of Egypt at this time was sufficient for Alexandria to become an important centre of Hellenistic Judaism. These Jews came under the influence of the Greek culture and language. Godly Jews, however, did not live by the morals of the Greeks. They kept the Law of God. Since most of them could no longer read the Hebrew language, the need for the Old Testament in the Greek language became evident. A translation of the Old Testament Pentateuch was prepared. This translation, which consisted of the Pentateuch, the five books of Moses, is known as the Septuagint (the Greek word for seventy) because of a tradition that said that seventy (actually seventy-two) elders translated the work in seventy-two days. It is said, that at a later period elders translated all the books of the Old Testament. The title Septuagint, abbreviated as LXX, was then applied to the whole Bible. The New Testament was heavily influenced by this translation.

More…

(From Introduction to Biblical Languages, by Dr Franklin S Jabini)

[Source: http://www.sats.edu.za/userfiles/Introduction%20to%20biblical%20languages%20March%202011.pdf] PDF

See also:
What Was the Original Language of the Bible?
http://www.bibleodyssey.org/en/tools/bible-basics/what-was-the-original-language-of-the-bible.aspx

The Languages Spoken by Jesus
https://www.tms.edu/m/tmsj20e.pdf [PDF]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Septuagint

Septuagint - What is It?
Septuagint (sometimes abbreviated LXX) is the name given to the Greek translation of the Jewish Scriptures. The Septuagint has its origin in Alexandria, Egypt and was translated between 300-200 BC. Widely used among Hellenistic Jews, this Greek translation was produced because many Jews spread throughout the empire were beginning to lose their Hebrew language. The process of translating the Hebrew to Greek also gave many non-jews a glimpse into Judaism. According to an ancient document called the Letter of Aristeas, it is believed that 70 to 72 Jewish scholars were commissioned during the reign of Ptolemy Philadelphus to carry out the task of translation. The term “Septuagint” means seventy in Latin, and the text is so named to the credit of these 70 scholars.

Septuagint - Influence on Christianity
The Septuagint was also a source of the Old Testament for early Christians during the first few centuries AD. Many early Christians spoke and read Greek, thus they relied on the Septuagint translation for most of their understanding of the Old Testament. The New Testament writers also relied heavily on the Septuagint, as a majority of Old Testament quotes cited in the New Testament are quoted directly from the Septuagint (others are quoted from the Hebrew texts). Greek church fathers are also known to have quoted from the Septuagint. Even today, the Eastern Orthodox Church relies on the Septuagint for its Old Testament teachings. Some modern Bible translations also use the Septuagint along side Hebrew manuscripts as their source text.

Septuagint - What Does It Contain?
The Septuagint contains the standard 39 books of the Old Testament canon, as well as certain apocryphal books. The term "Apocrypha" was coined by the fifth-century biblical scholar, Jerome, and generally refers to the set of ancient Jewish writings written during the period between the last book in the Jewish scriptures, Malachi, and the arrival of Jesus Christ. The apocryphal books include Judith, Tobit, Baruch, Sirach (or Ecclesiasticus), the Wisdom of Solomon, First and Second Maccabees, the two Books of Esdras, additions to the Book of Esther, additions to the Book of Daniel, and the Prayer of Manasseh.

The Apocryphal books were included in the Septuagint for historical and religious purposes, but are not recognized by Protestant Christians or Orthodox Jews as canonical (inspired by God). Most reformed teachers will point out that the New Testament writers never quoted from the Apocryphal books, and that the Apocrypha was never considered part of the canonical Jewish scripture. However, the Roman Catholic Church and the Orthodox churches include the Apocrypha in their Bible (except for the books of Esdras and the Prayer of Manasseh).

[Source: http://www.allabouttruth.org/Septuagint.htm]

Alternate source: http://www.septuagint.net/

See also:

Septuagint: Introduction [Note: Writer has Catholic training]
http://www.kalvesmaki.com/LXX/index.htm

Notes on the Septuagint (by R. Grant Jones) – includes comparisons of Septuagint, Masoretic, AV, etc. (190 pages) [Layman (Physicist)]
http://www.areopage.net/PDF/LXXNotesFeb06.pdf [PDF]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Historical importance of the Septuagint [Catholic Perspective]

The importance of the Septuagint Version is shown by the following considerations:

(1) The Septuagint is the most ancient translation of the Old Testament and consequently is invaluable to critics for understanding and correcting the Hebrew text (Massorah), the latter, such as it has come down to us, being the text established by the Massoretes in the sixth century A.D. Many textual corruptions, additions, omissions, or transpositions must have crept into the Hebrew text between the third and second centuries B.C. and the sixth and seventh centuries of our era; the manuscripts therefore which the Seventy had at their disposal, may in places have been better than the Massoretic manuscripts.

(2) The Septuagint Version accepted first by the Alexandrian Jews, and afterwards by all the Greek-speaking countries, helped to spread among the Gentiles the idea and the expectation of the Messias, and to introduce into Greek the theological terminology that made it a most suitable instrument for the propagation of the Gospel of Christ.

(3) The Jews made use of it long before the Christian Era, and in the time of Christ it was recognised as a legitimate text, and was employed in Palestine even by the rabbis. The Apostles and Evangelists utilised it also and borrowed Old Testament citations from it, especially in regard to the prophecies. The Fathers and the other ecclesiastical writers of the early Church drew upon it, either directly, as in the case of the Greek Fathers, or indirectly, like the Latin Fathers and writers and others who employed Latin, Syriac, Ethiopian, Arabic and Gothic versions. It was held in high esteem by all, some even believed it inspired. Consequently, a knowledge of the Septuagint helps to a perfect understanding of these literatures.

(4) At the present time, the Septuagint is the official text in the Greek Church, and the ancient Latin Versions used in the western church were made from it; the earliest translation adopted in the Latin Church, the Vetus Itala, was directly from the Septuagint: the meanings adopted in it, the Greek names and words employed (such as: Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers [Arithmoi], Deuteronomy), and finally, the pronunciation given to the Hebrew text, passed very frequently into the Itala, and from it, at times, into the Vulgate, which not rarely gives signs of the influence of the Vetus Itala; this is especially so in the Psalms, the Vulgate translation being merely the Vetus Itala corrected by St. Jerome according to the hexaplar text of the Septuagint.

[Source: http://www.newadvent.org/cathen/13722a.htm - New Advent (Catholic Encyclopedia)]

The Role of the Septuagint in the Transmission of the Scriptures

http://www.biblearchaeology.org/post/2012/02/17/The-Role-of-the-Septuagint-in-the-Transmission-of-the-Scriptures.aspx

See Development of the Bible Canon (and It's Variations) in this APPENDIX for more details about the history and development of our modern day contents (books) of the Holy Bible.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Additional Septuagint (and masoretic) background resources:

http://www.bible-researcher.com/brenton1.html - An Historical Account of the Septuagint Version (by Brenton)

http://www.kalvesmaki.com/LXX/index.htm - Septuagint - Introduction [Writer has Catholic training] http://www.kalvesmaki.com/LXX/texts.htm - Online Septuagint Finder http://www.kalvesmaki.com/LXX/NTChart.htm - Table of Old Testament quotes in the New Testament, in English translation (AV/KJV, LXX (Brenton), Masoretic)

http://www.areopage.net/PDF/LXXNotesFeb06.pdf [PDF]
Notes on the Septuagint (by R. Grant Jones) – includes comparisons of Septuagint, Masoretic, AV, etc. (190 pages) [Layman (Physicist)] [Note: referenced above link -- but the url is invalid; this is a valid link as of this writting]

http://joeykelly.net/hacks/ministry/The_Septuagint_A_Critical_Analysis.pdf - The Septuagint - A Critical Analysis [PDF]

https://www.chick.com/reading/books/158/158_09.asp - Chick Publications, which holds the position that the LXX is not a valid version (in fact, say "it's a figment of someones imagination") based on lack of sound historical proof. [NOTE: This site is also "KJV Only"] [Warning: Needs to be vetted, but included here FYI.]

http://www.creationliberty.com/articles/septuagint.php - Is the Greek Septuagint Real? [NOTE: This side is also "KJV Only"] (Verdict: No)

http://www.setterfield.org/Septuagint_History.html - The Alexandrian Septuagint History

http://www.setterfield.org/Septuagint_comments.html - Comments, Questions and Answers regarding the Alexandrian Septuagint History article http://dream-prophecy.blogspot.com/2013/11/is-masoretic-text-of-bible-most-reliable.html - Is the Masoretic Text of the Bible the Most Reliable? [Warning: This is from a Swedenborg (Christian cult) web site, but included here FYI as it provides some good information on subject in a somewhat objective attempt.]

http://christianity.stackexchange.com/questions/2248/can-we-trust-the-septuagint - Forum discussing the question, "Can We Trust the Septuagint?"

http://www.scionofzion.com/septuagint2.htm - Was the Septuagint the Bible of Christ and the Apostles? This articles says, No.

https://frted.wordpress.com/2009/08/13/in-defense-of-the-septuagint/ - Orthodox defense of the Septuagint.

http://www.ecclesia.org/truth/comparisons.html - Comparisons between the (KJV and NKJV) Bible and the Septuagint.

https://theorthodoxlife.wordpress.com/2012/03/12/masoretic-text-vs-original-hebrew/ - Masoretic Text vs. Original Hebrew and also looks at Septuagint.

https://cruxsolablog.com/2013/08/01/the-importance-of-the-septuagint-even-for-pastors-part-1/ - The Importance of the Septuagint (Even for Pastors…)

https://cruxsolablog.com/2013/08/02/the-importance-of-the-septuagint-the-apocrypha-part-ii/ - The Importance of the Septuagint (The Apocrypha)

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Septuagint - pros/cons of validity of Septuagint

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

http://www.2001translation.com/Septuagint.htm - Why the Greek Septuagint?

http://www.biblebelievers.org.au/masorete.htm - The Masoretic Text of the Old Testament http://www.agapebiblestudy.com/documents/Is%20the%20Catholic%20Old%20Testament%20Accurate.htm - The Septuagint Old Testament Translation versus The Jamnian-Palestinian and Masoretic Old Testament Translations [Catholic Perspective]

http://freedomfromdelusion.blogspot.com/p/septuagint-vs-masoritic.html - The Septuagint vs Masoritic – The Alexandrian Septuagint History.

http://www.catholic.com/quickquestions/in-which-passages-does-jesus-quote-the-septuagint-and-where-does-the-new-testament-al - In which passages does Jesus quote the Septuagint, and where does the New Testament allude to the Septuagint? [Catholic]

http://www.truthnet.org/Bible-Origins/6_The_Apocrypha_The_Septugint/ - The Apocrypha, The Septuagint and the canon https://blog.logos.com/2007/12/why_use_the_septuagint/ - Why Use the Septuagint?

https://blogs.ancientfaith.com/departinghoreb/ - Departing Horeb – A biblical studies blog exploring the intersection of modern academia and Orthodox theology, for example https://blogs.ancientfaith.com/departinghoreb/masoretic-hebrew-vs-septuagint-part-1/ - Part One is a 3-part series that looks at the Masoretic Hebrew vs the Septuagint.

https://blogs.ancientfaith.com/departinghoreb/masoretic-hebrew-vs-septuagint-part-ii/ - Part 2 – The Septuagint (LXX)

https://blogs.ancientfaith.com/departinghoreb/mt-vs-lxx-clarification/ - Parts 1 and 2 Clarifications

https://blogs.ancientfaith.com/departinghoreb/masoretic-hebrew-vs-septuagint-part-3-variations-happened/ - Part 3 - Variations and How they Happened

Other unrelated:

https://blogs.ancientfaith.com/departinghoreb/understanding-violence-old-testament-part-prisoners-war-forced-marriage/ - Understanding Violence in the Old Testament -- Prisoners of War and Forced Marriage

See Development of the Bible Canon (and It's Variations) in this APPENDIX for more details about the history and development of our modern day contents (books) of the Holy Bible.

For additional information about the different languages of the Bible, the Septuagint and Masoretic texts and more, see the separate references resource*:

Christian Scholarship: Biblical – Theological – Philosophical

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Languages of the Old Testament

The Hebrew Bible Moses Couldn't Read

https://theorthodoxlife.wordpress.com/2012/03/10/the-hebrew-bible-moses-couldnt-read/

Excerpt:

We no longer have original copies of the Old Testament.

Nor do we have copies of the originals.

We now have copies of the Scriptures transliterated into modern Hebrew, edited by scribes, compiled by the Masoretes in the 7th-11th centuries, and embellished with modern vowel points which did not exist in the original language. This is what we now call the "Masoretic Text".

The Orthodox Study Bible is faithful to the Septuagint translation of Scripture, the same translation used by Jesus and the Apostles.

We also have copies of the Old Testament Scriptures which were translated into Greek, over 1000 years earlier than the oldest existing Masoretic text. During New Testament times, Jesus and the Apostles quoted from this Greek translation frequently, and with full authority. They treated it as the Word of God, and as a faithful translation. This is what we now call the "Septuagint".

Masoretic Text vs Original Hebrew [Recommended]

https://theorthodoxlife.wordpress.com/2012/03/12/masoretic-text-vs-original-hebrew/

Excerpt:

The oldest copies of the Masoretic Text only date back to the 10th century, nearly 1000 years after the time of Christ. And these texts differ from the originals in many specific ways. The Masoretic text is named after the Masoretes, who were scribes and Torah scholars who worked in the middle-east between the 7th and 11th centuries. The texts they received, and the edits they provided, ensured that the modern Jewish texts would manifest a notable departure from the original Hebrew Scriptures.

Historical research reveals five significant ways in which the Masoretic Text is different from the original Old Testament:

1. The Masoretes admitted that they received corrupted texts to begin with.
2. The Masoretic Text is written with a radically different alphabet than the original.
3. The Masoretes added vowel points which did not exist in the original.
4. The Masoretic Text excluded several books from the Old Testament scriptures.
5. The Masoretic Text includes changes to prophecy and doctrine

…Perhaps that is why Jesus and the apostles frequently quoted from the Septuagint, and accorded it full authority as the inspired Word of God.

From Comments Section: There were actually two competing schools of Masoretes, one in Babylon, the other in Tiberius, each with its own set of traditions. For example, Zechariah 14:5 is rendered differently in the Palestinian manuscripts than it is in the Babylonian manuscripts. The latter reading is identical to the reading found in the targums (ie., Targum Jonathan to the Prophets), which suggests a Babylonian influence over Palestinian liturgy during a certain period. The western Masoretic reading of this verse eventually became the official Hebrew version. The LXX contains a reading that differs markedly from all of the above, and all evidence indicates that it is the correct reading – http://zechariahfourteenfive.wordpress.com.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Four Hebrew Bible (Old Testament) Scripts

[Source: https://www.bible.ca/manuscripts]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Charts, Timelines and Organizational Diagrams of the Bible

(See also: Harmony of the Gospels for additional charts/timelines)

Complete Bible Timeline (chart)
https://www.conazarene.org/hp_wordpress/wp-content/uploads/2015/10/Bible-Timeline.pdf

Bible Timeline - BibleHub
https://biblehub.com/timeline/

Bible History Timeline
https://amazingbibletimeline.com/timeline_online/

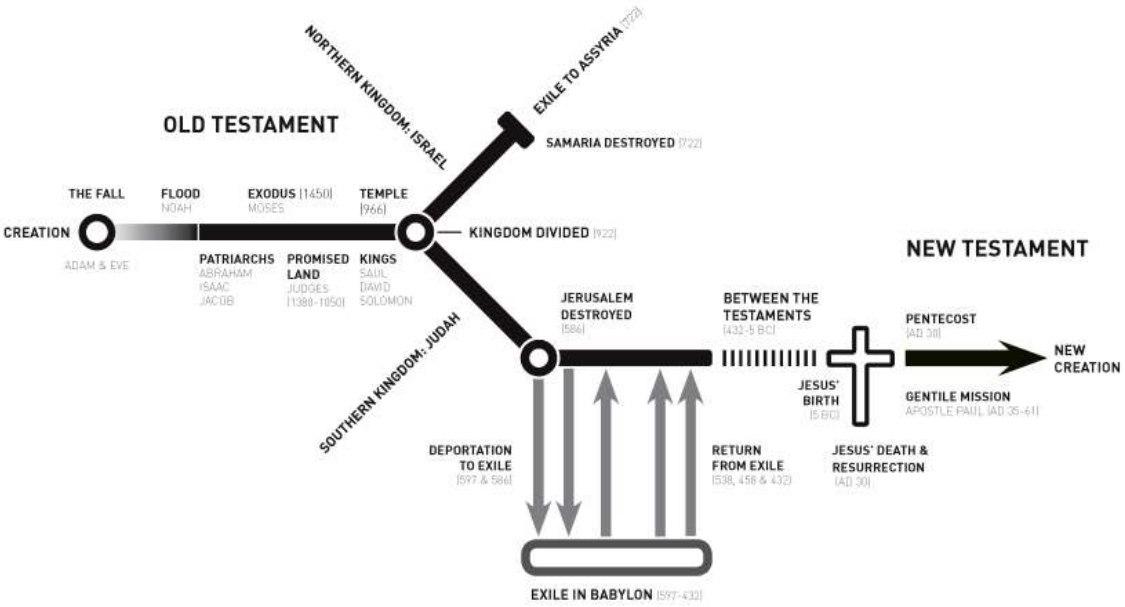
Bible Timeline – Answers in Genesis https://answersingenesis.org/bible-timeline/

The Bible Timeline
http://timeline.biblehistory.com/home

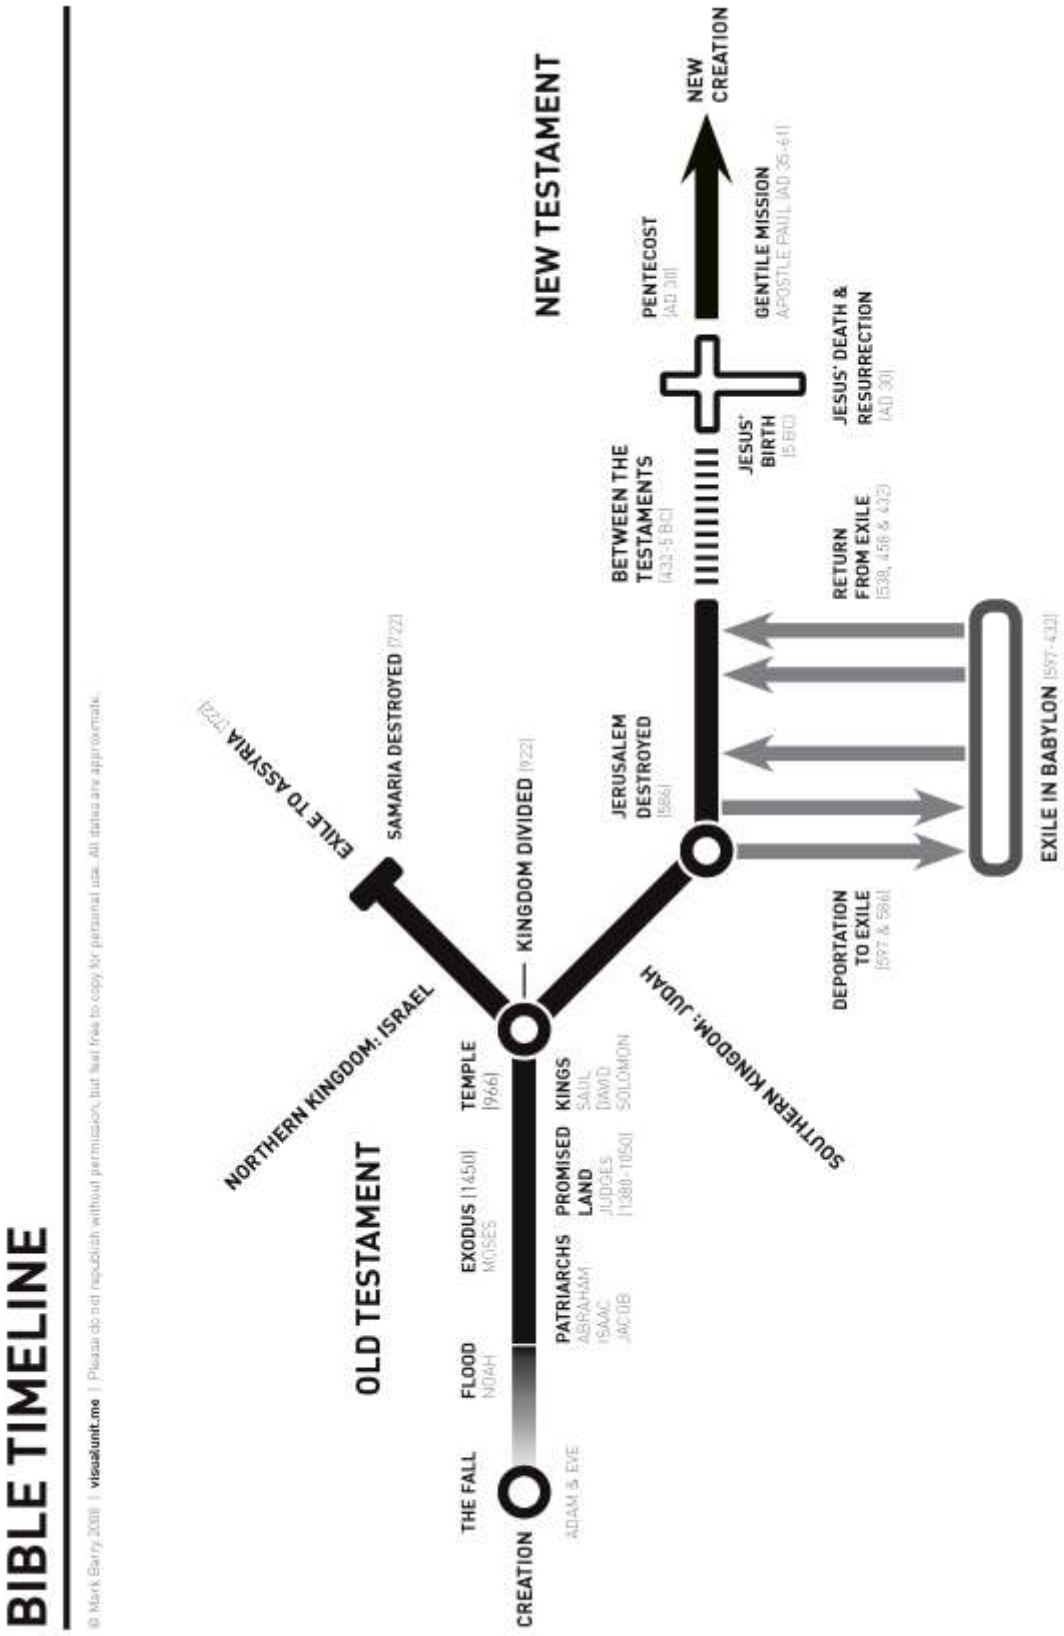
(See following pages for various charts/timelines)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others.

Bible Timeline Overview (VisualUnit.me)

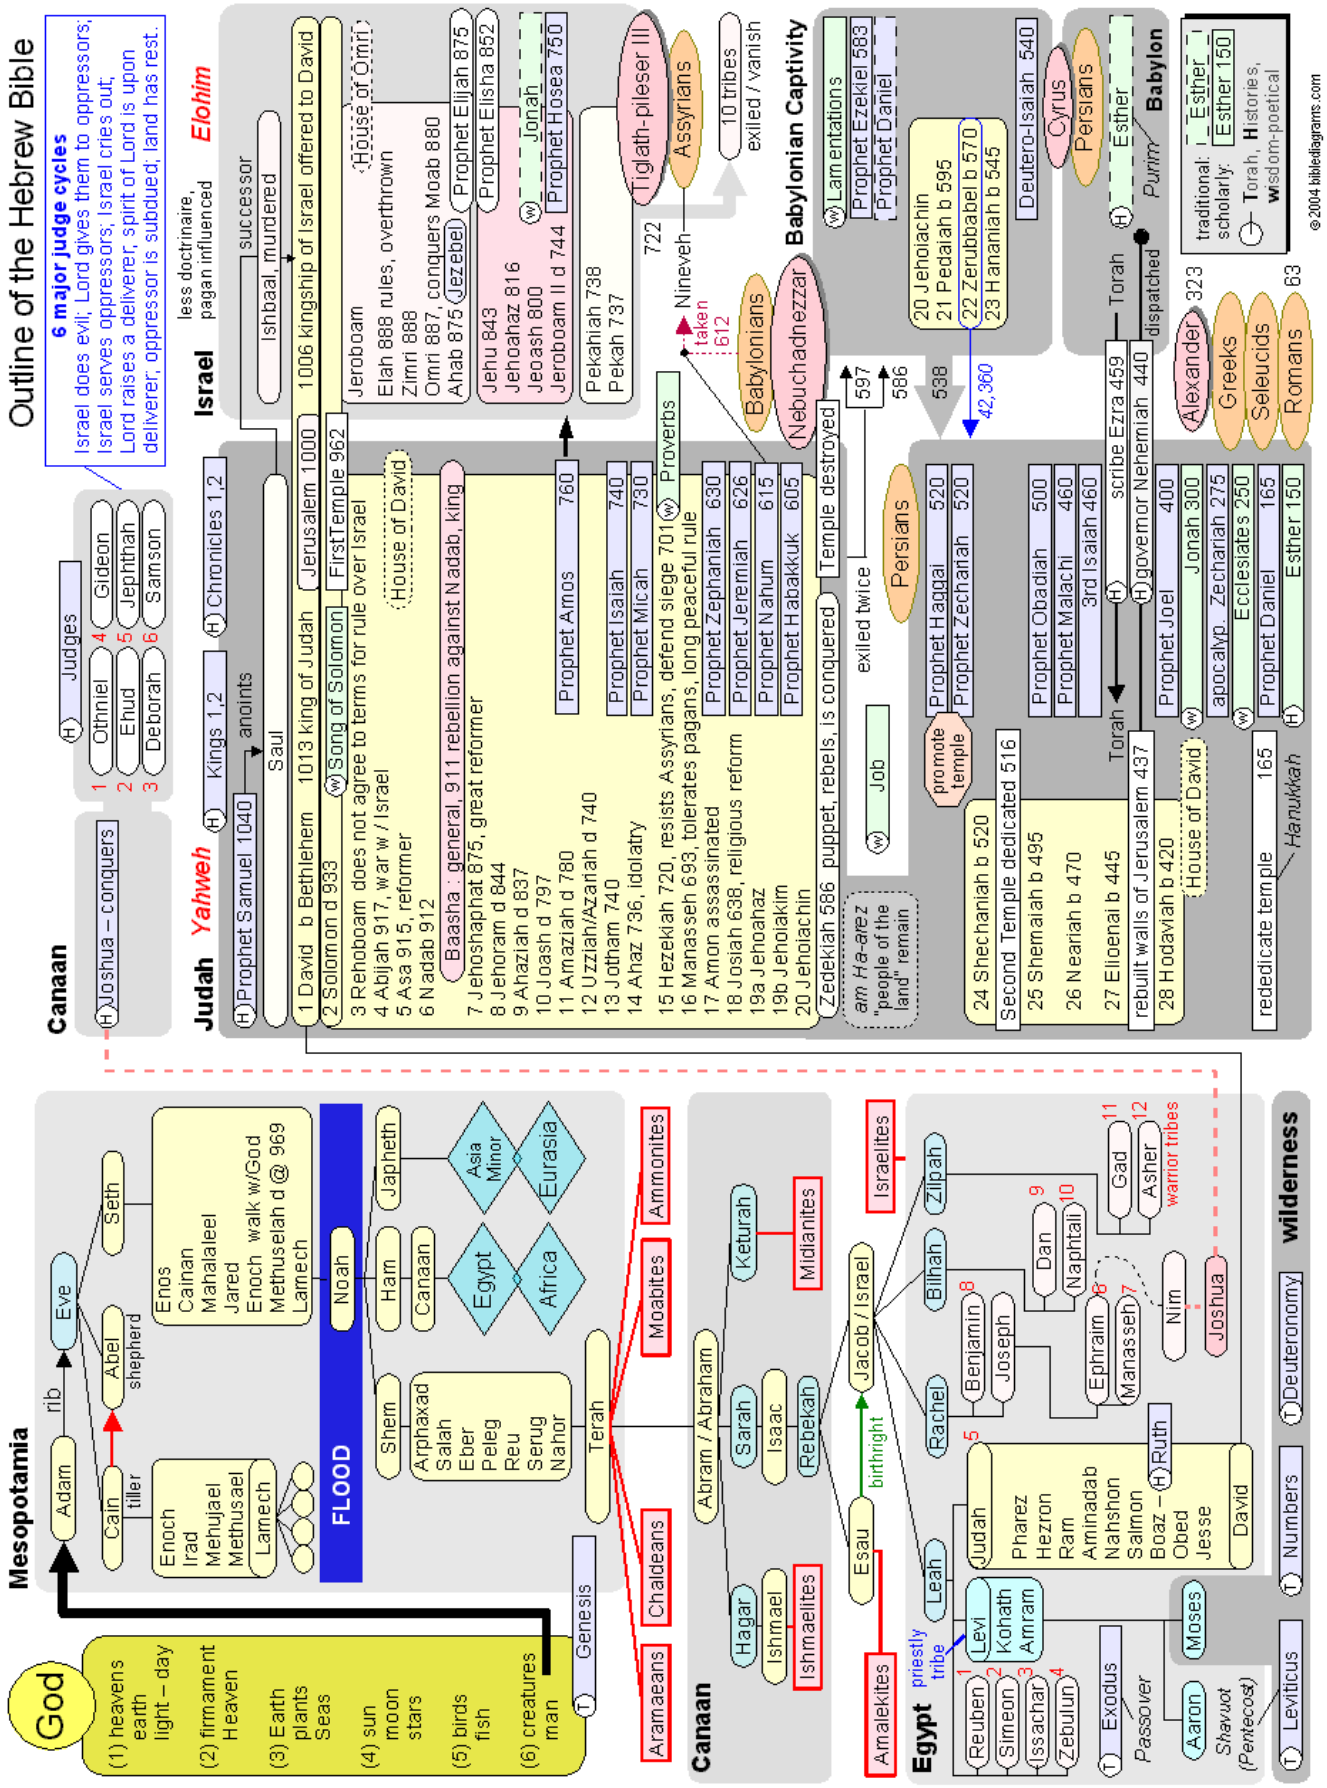


See next page for larger view …



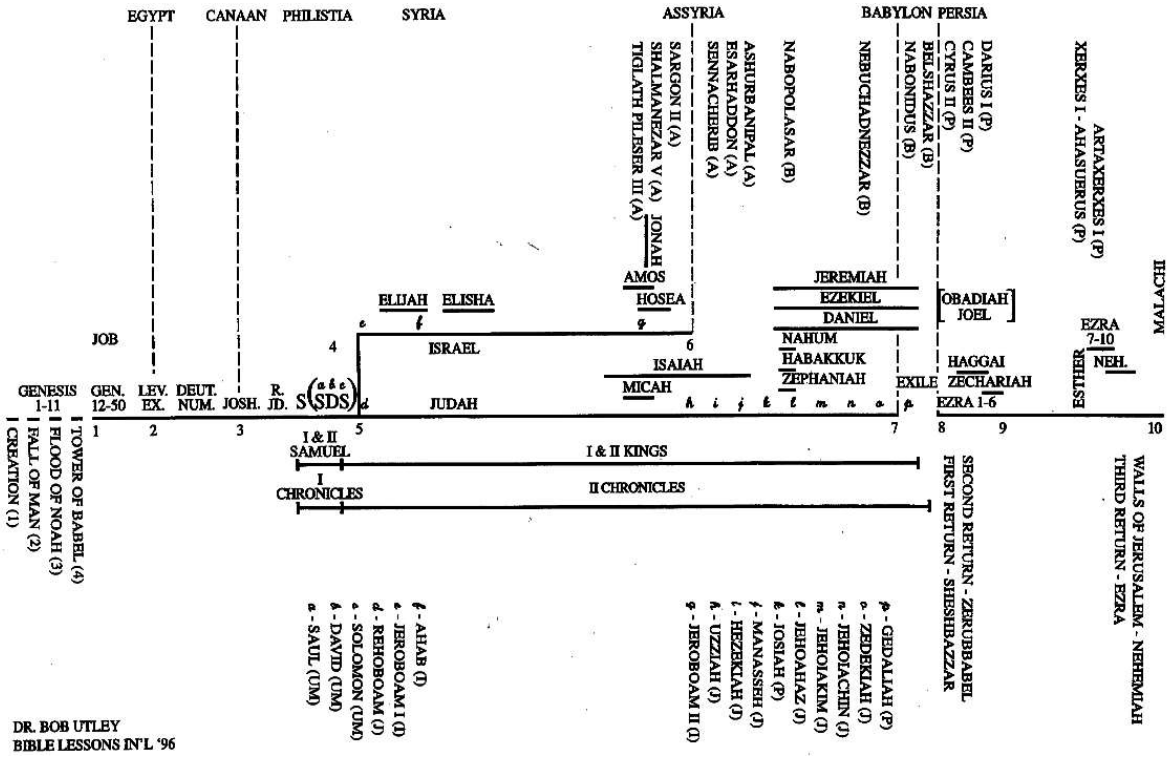
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

BIBLE TIMELINE



© Mark Barry 2008 | visualunit.me | Please do not republish without permission, but feel free to copy for personal use. All dates are approximate.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: http://www.bibliediagrams.com] (Additional OT and NT charts and diagrams)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

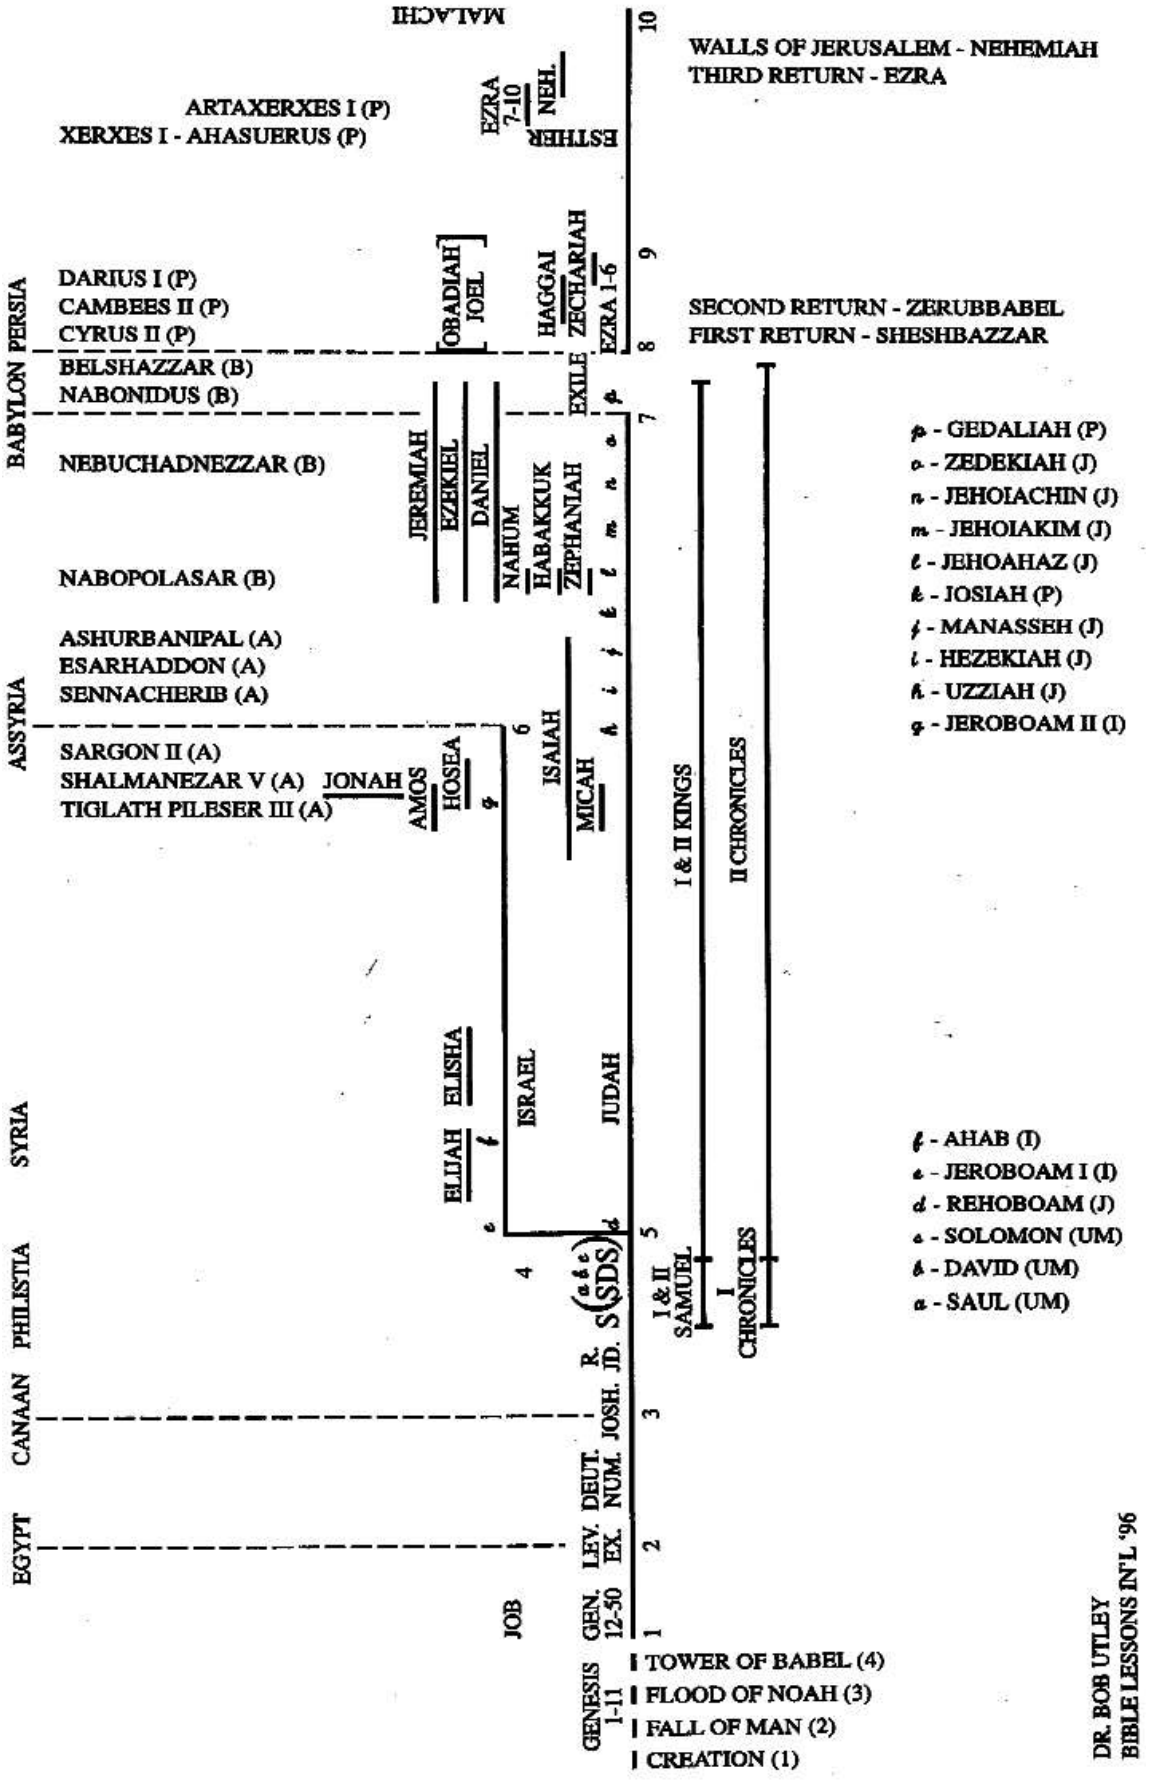


Chart of the Whole Old Testament

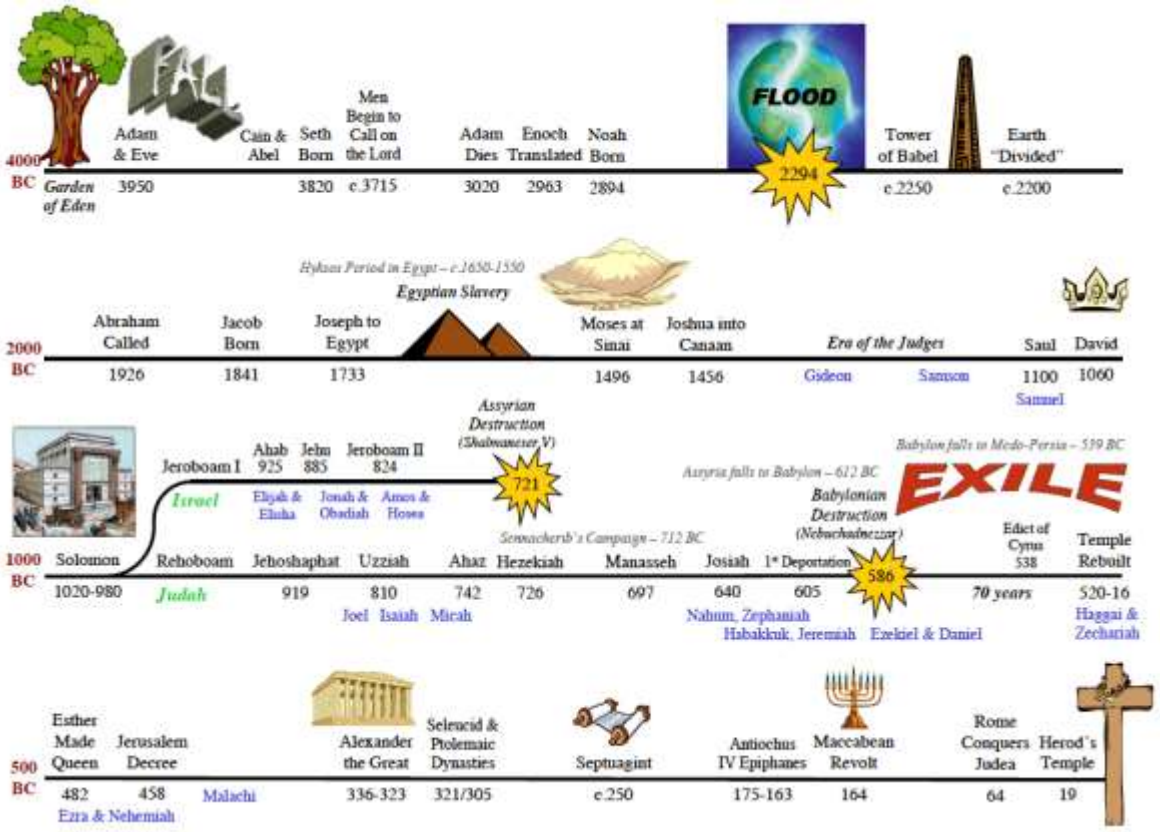
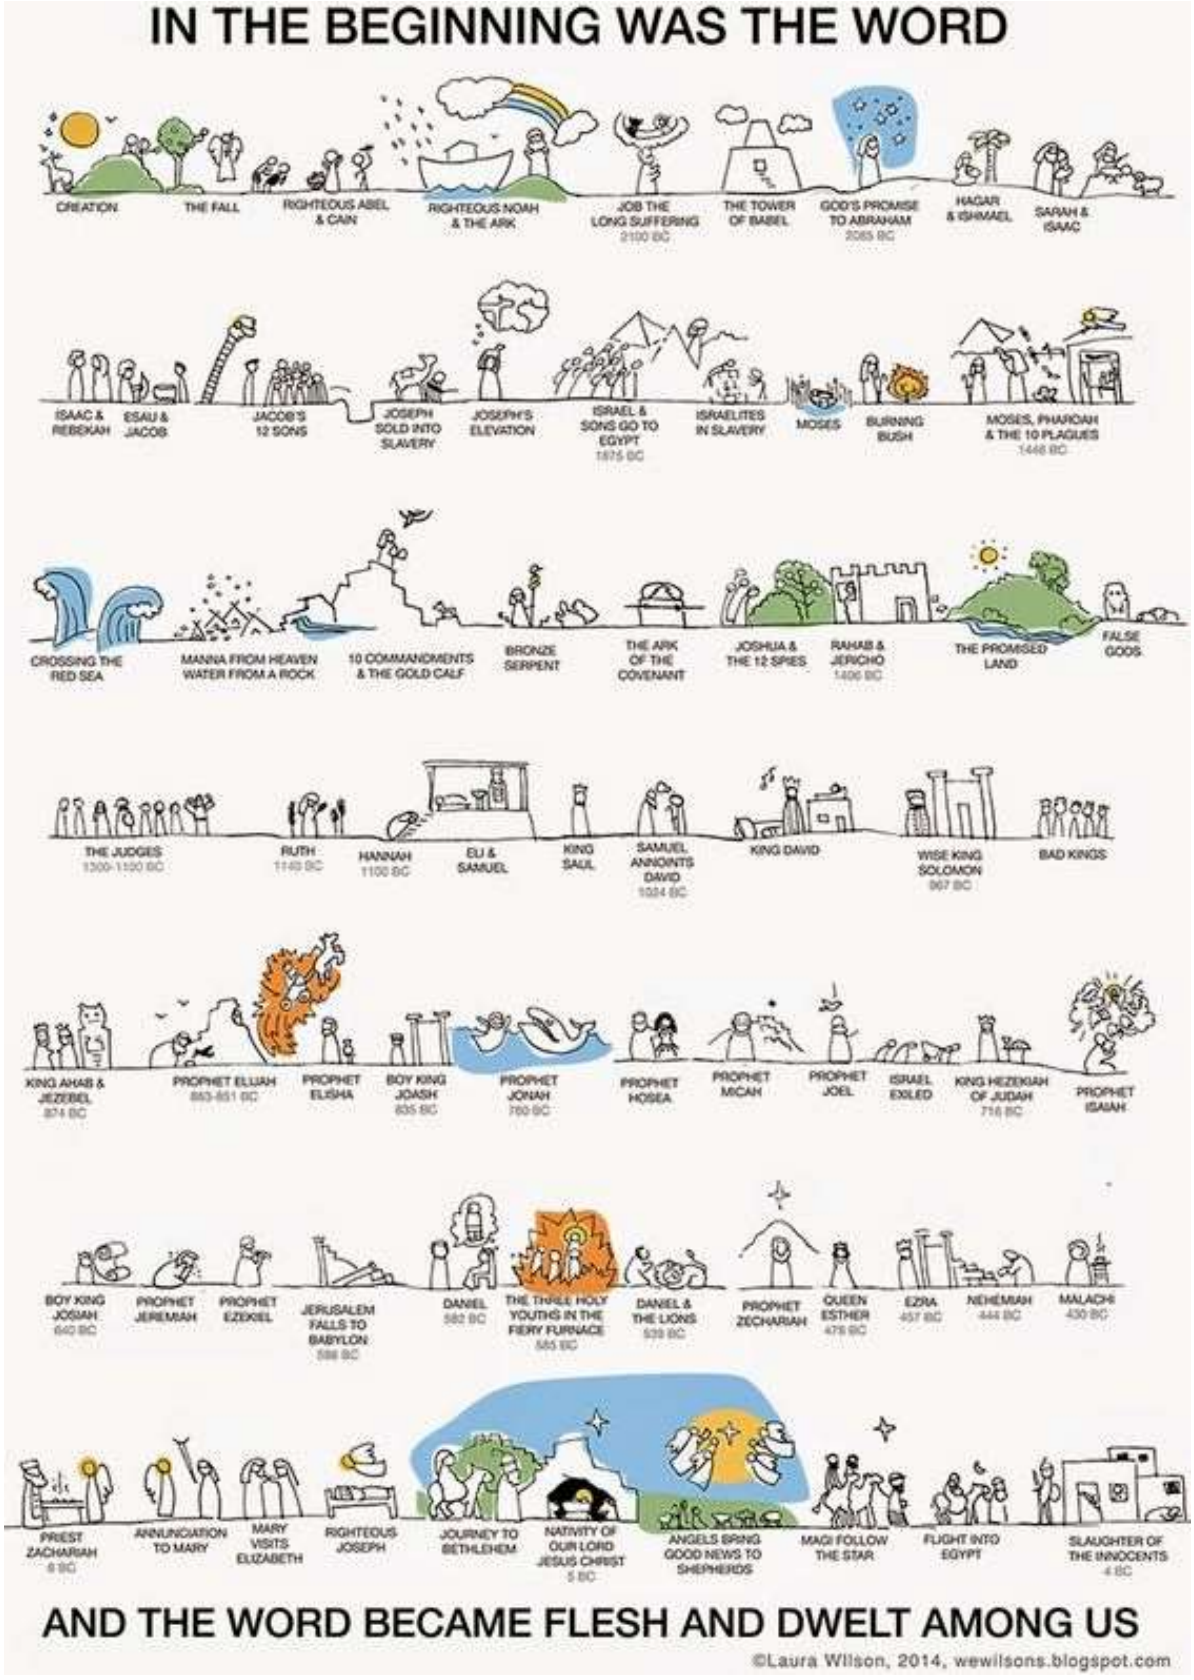
[Source: http://www.ibiblio.org/freebiblecommentary/pdf/EN/VOL09OT.pdf] [PDF]



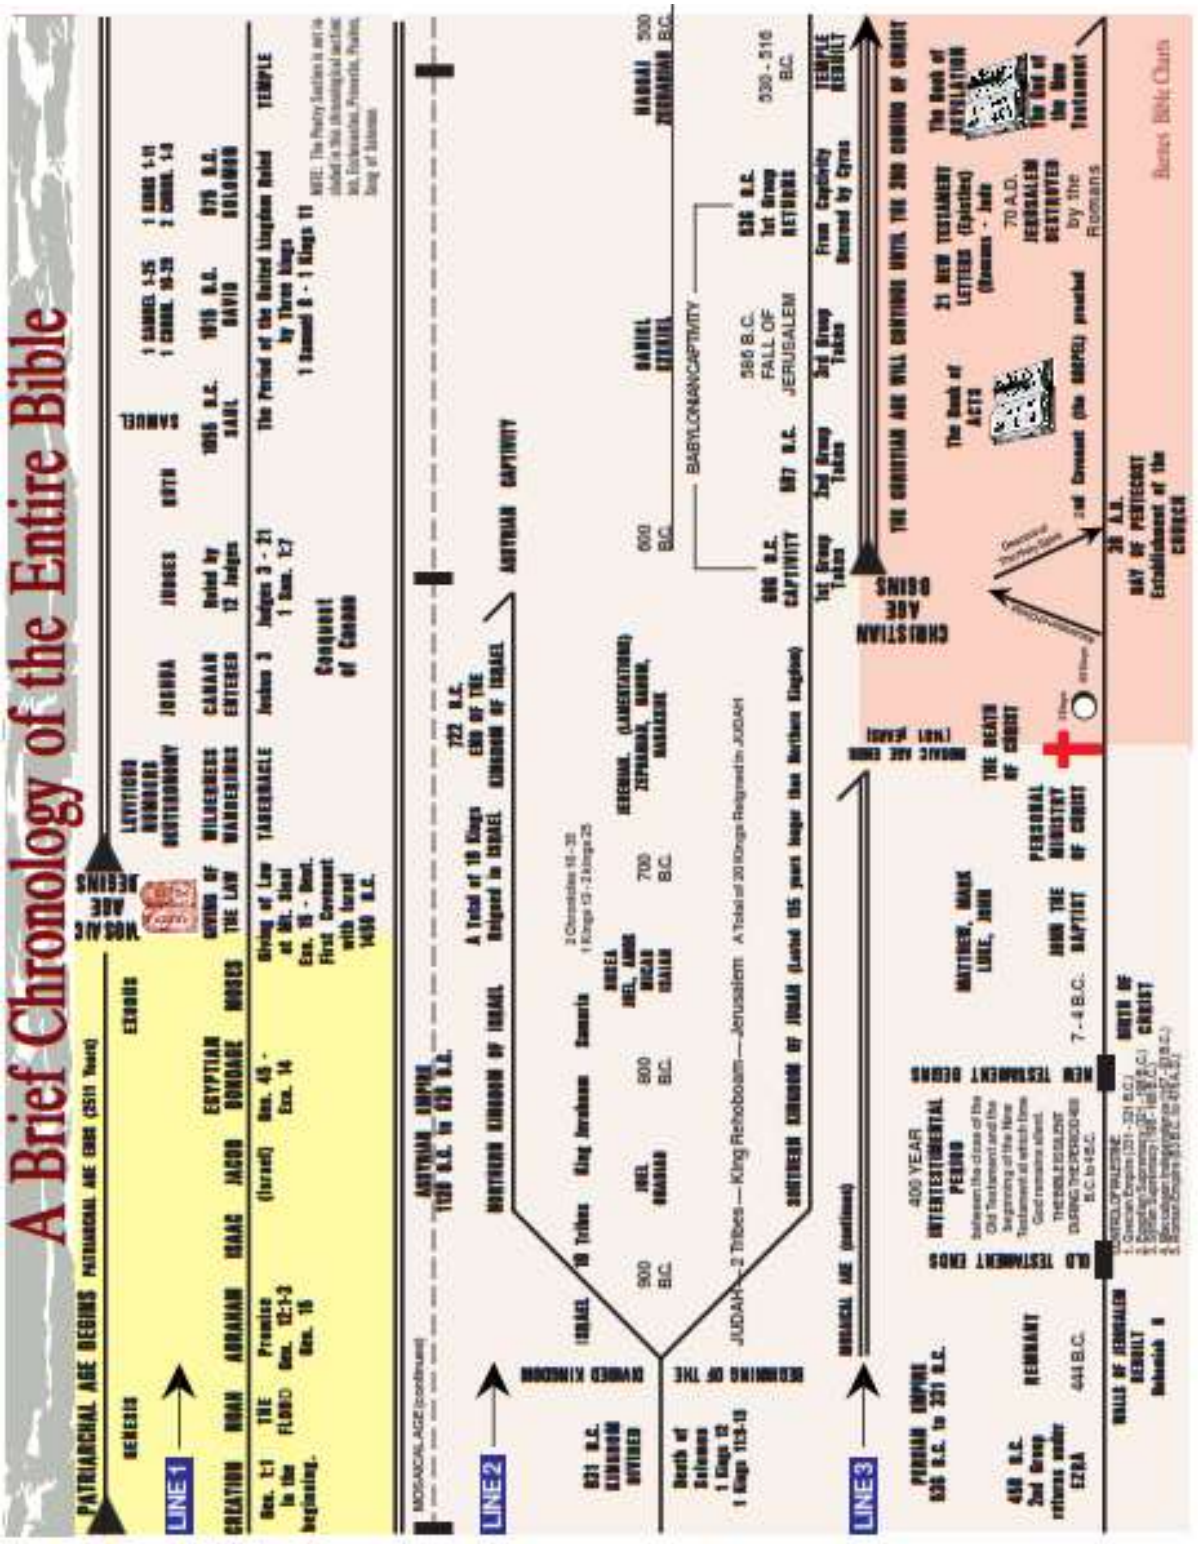
See next page for larger view…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Old Testament Timeline (with relative dating)



[Source: http://www.sirbradley.com/freebies]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: http://wewilsons.blogspot.com]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: http://www.biblecharts.org/thebible/abriefchronologyoftheentirebible.pdf] [PDF]

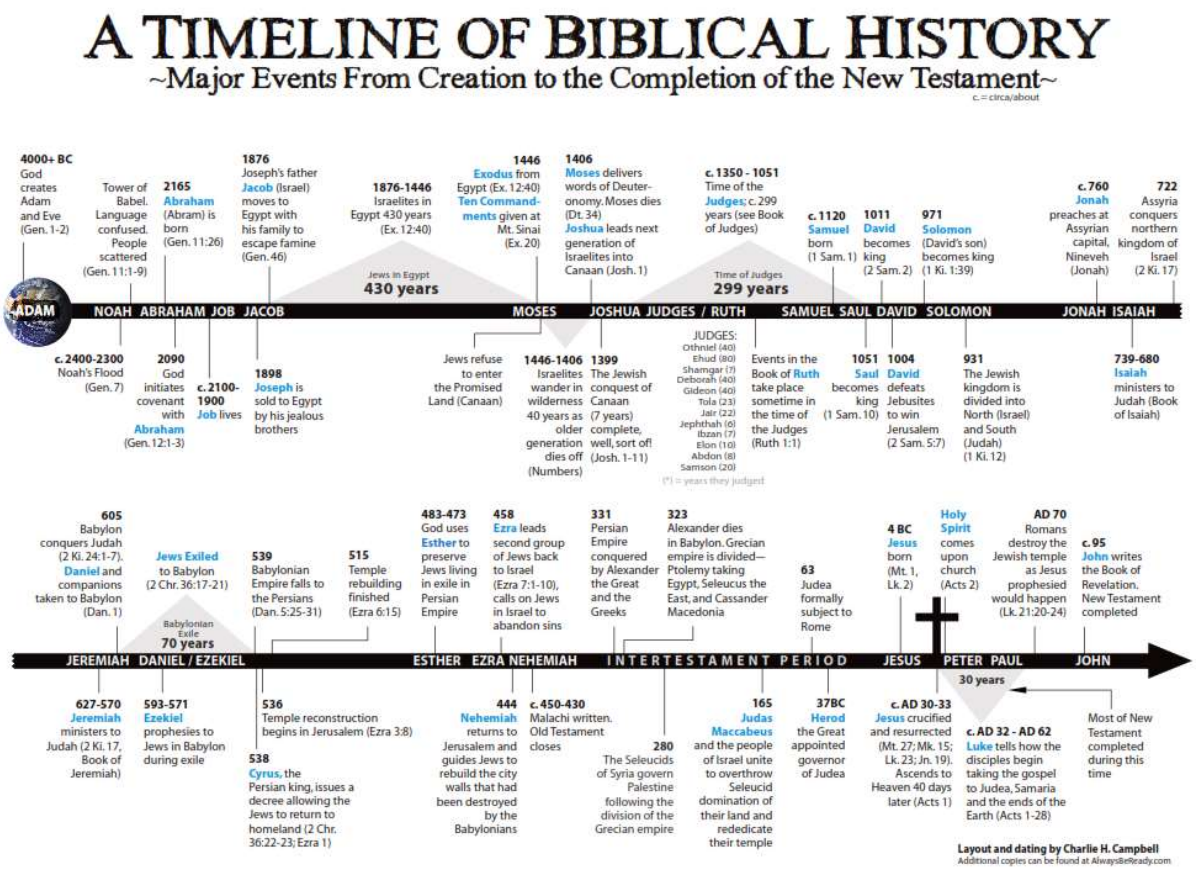
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

A Big Story of the Bible (Timeline Cards)

THE BIG STORY OF THE BIBLE

TIMELINE CARDS

© Mark Barry 2006 | visualunit.me
Please do not republish without permission, but feel free to copy for personal use.

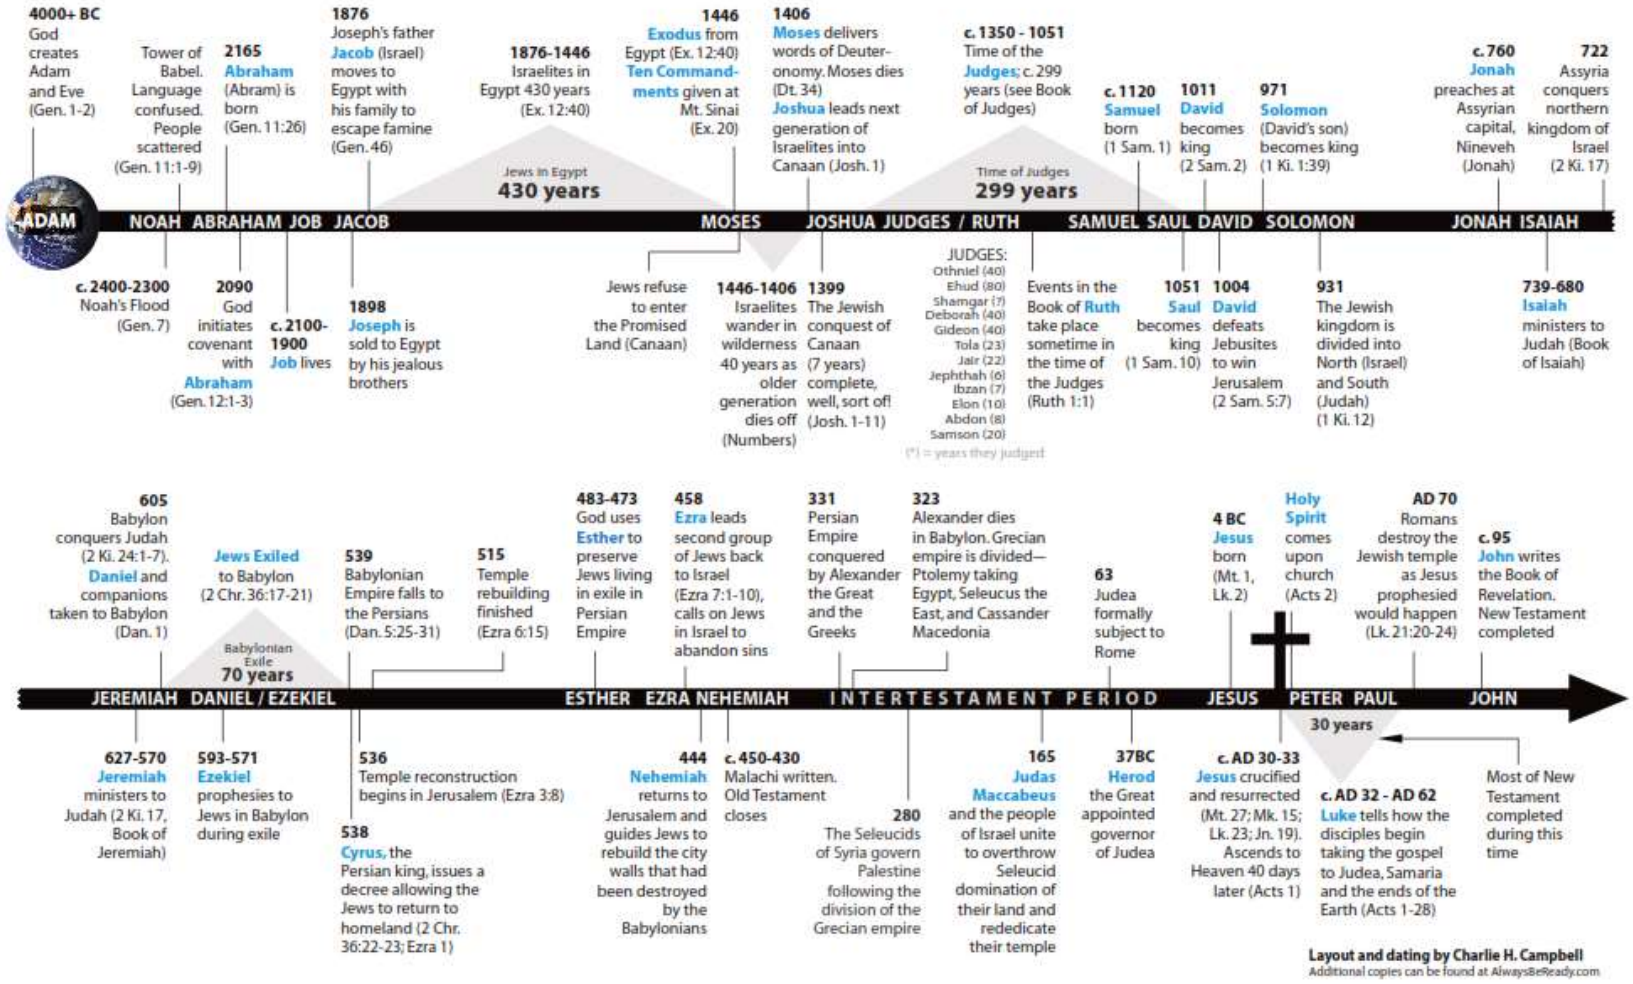


Continued…

…A Big Story of the Bible (Timeline Cards) (continued from previous page)

A Timeline of Biblical History

Source:
http://www.alwaysberready.com/images/stories/alwaysberready/Timeline%20of%20Biblical%20History,%208.5%20x%2011.pdf [PDF]



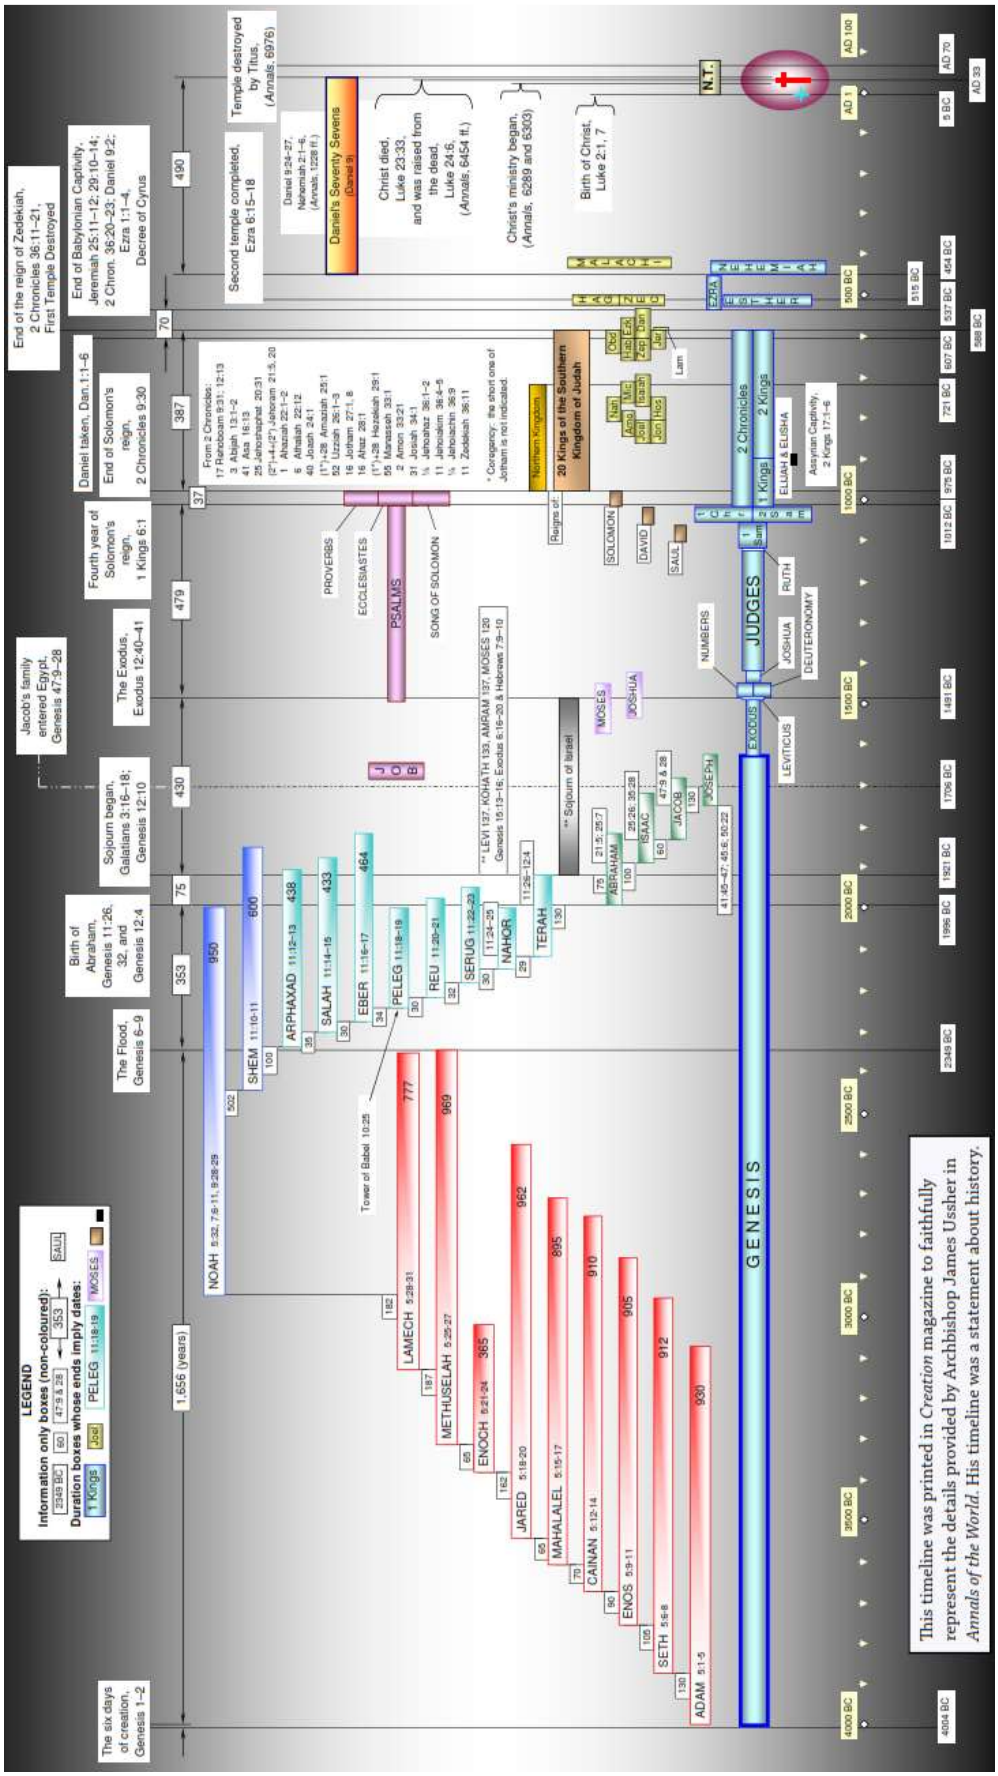
See next page for larger view…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

A TIMELINE OF BIBLICAL HISTORY

~Major Events From Creation to the Completion of the New Testament~

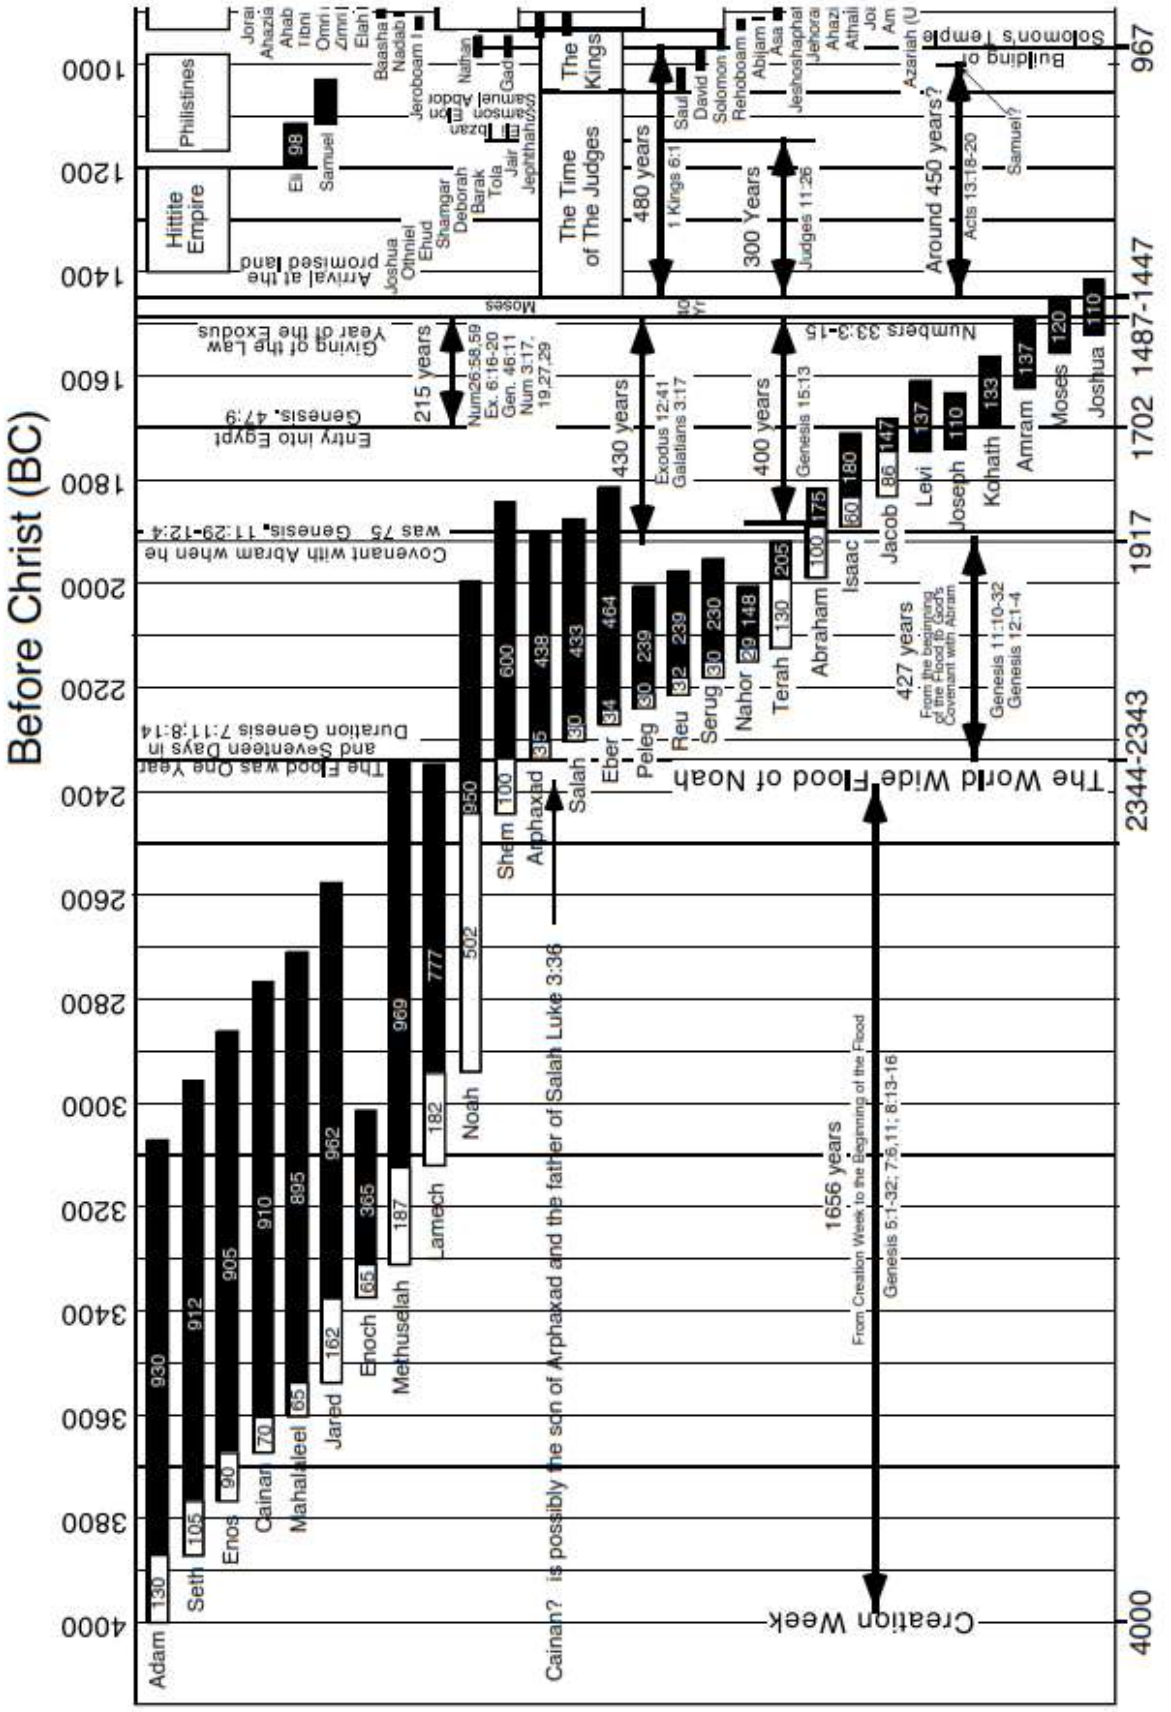
c. = circa/about



Layout and dating by Charlie H. Campbell
Additional copies can be found at AlwaysBeReady.com

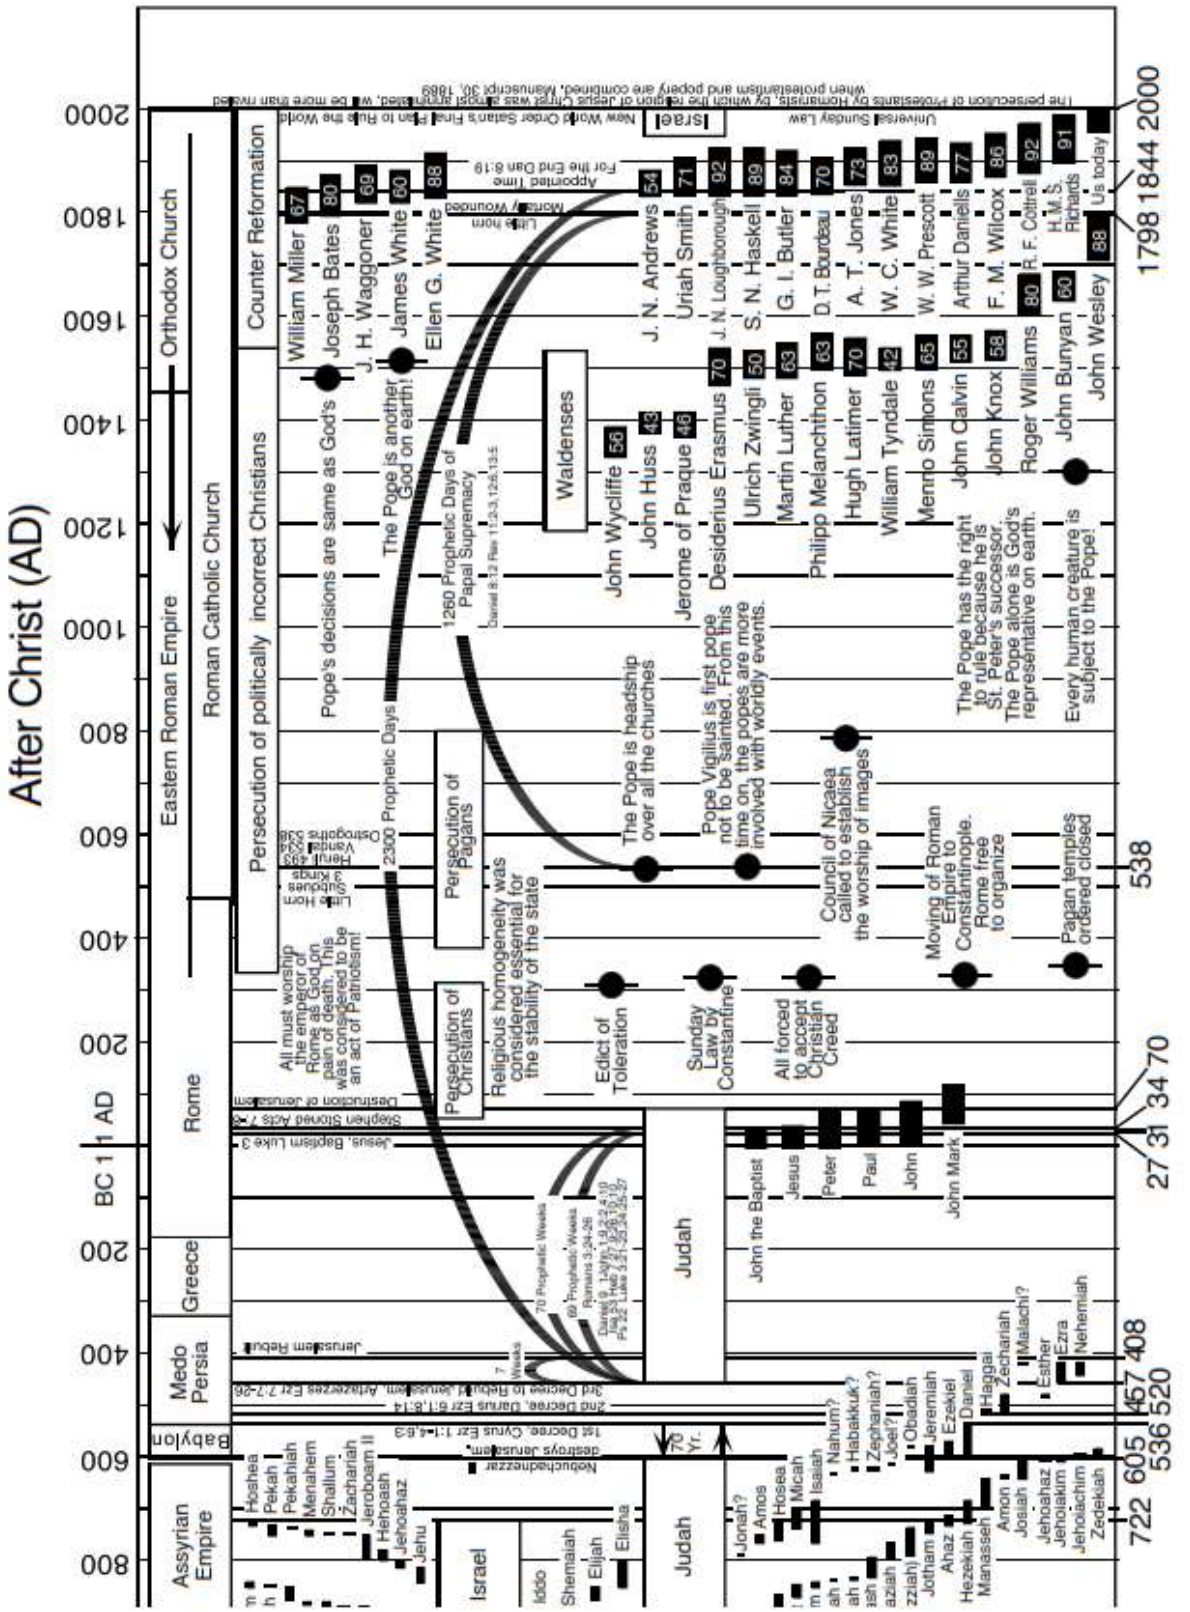
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others.

[TOC]



Timeline of the Bible

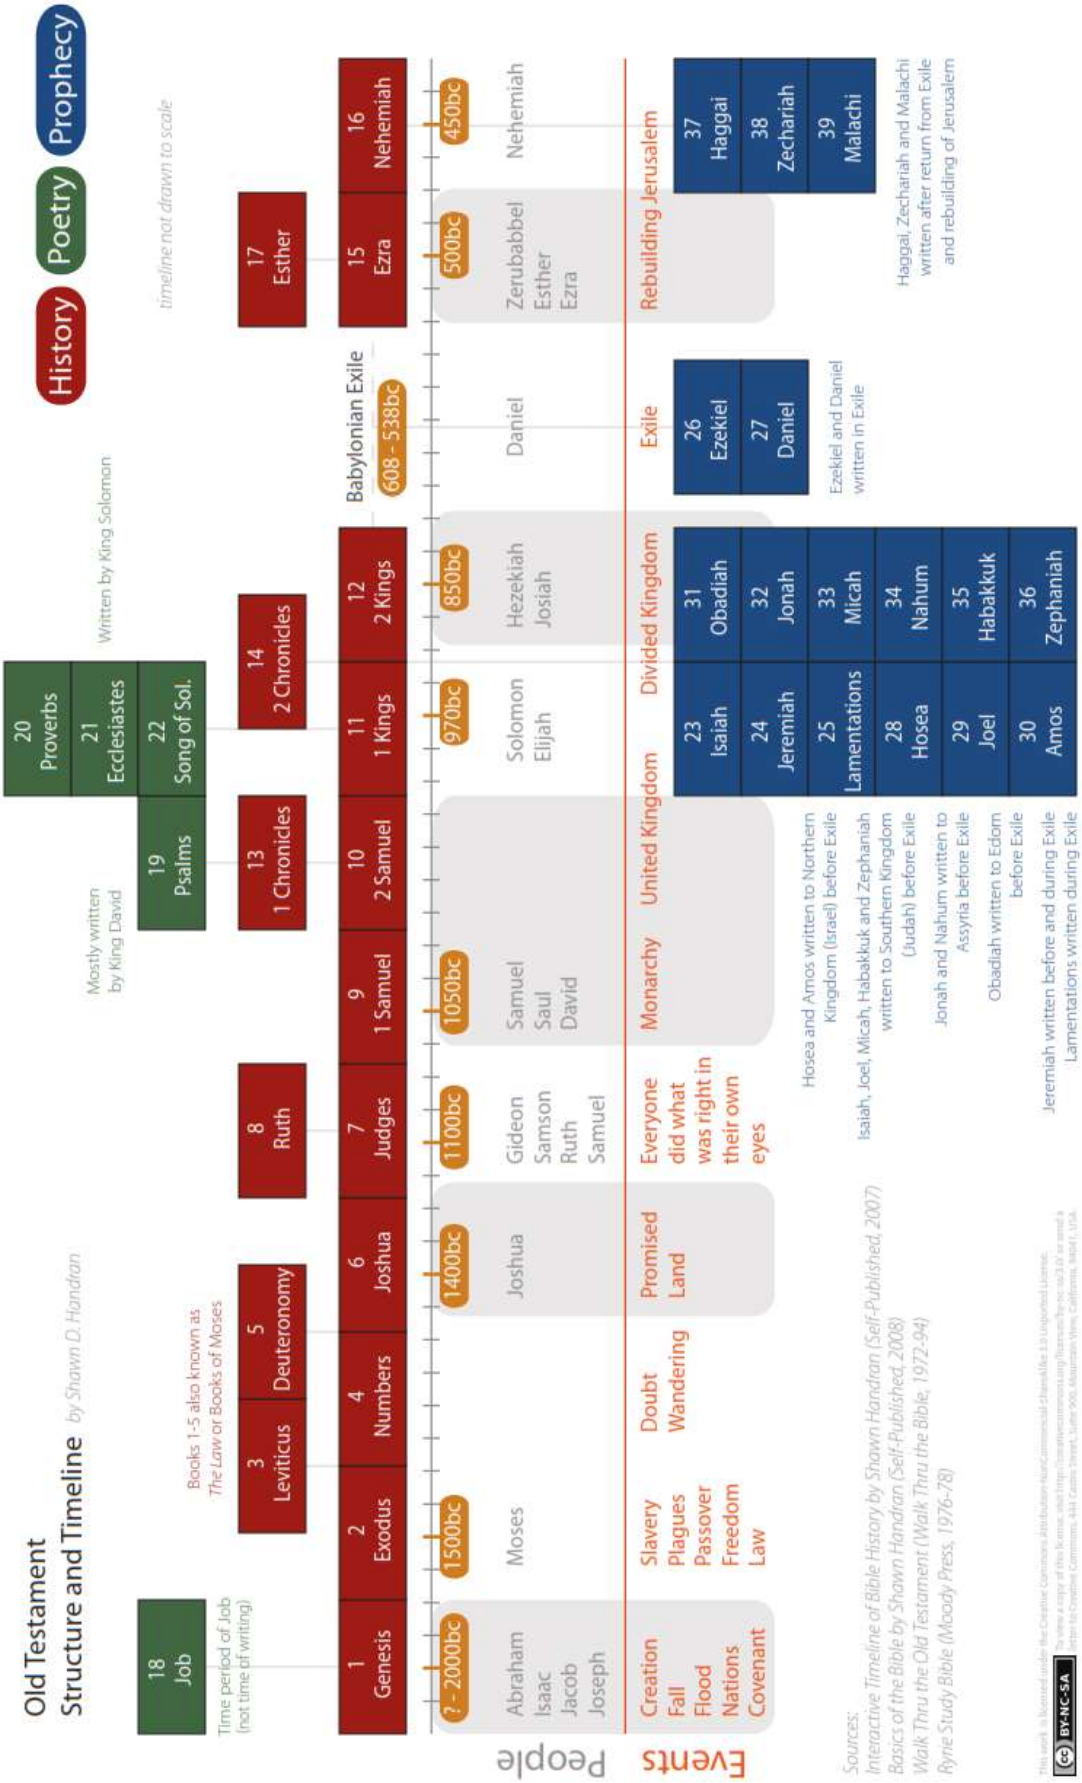
[Source: http://creation.com/real-history-the-timeline-of-the-bible] [PDF]



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

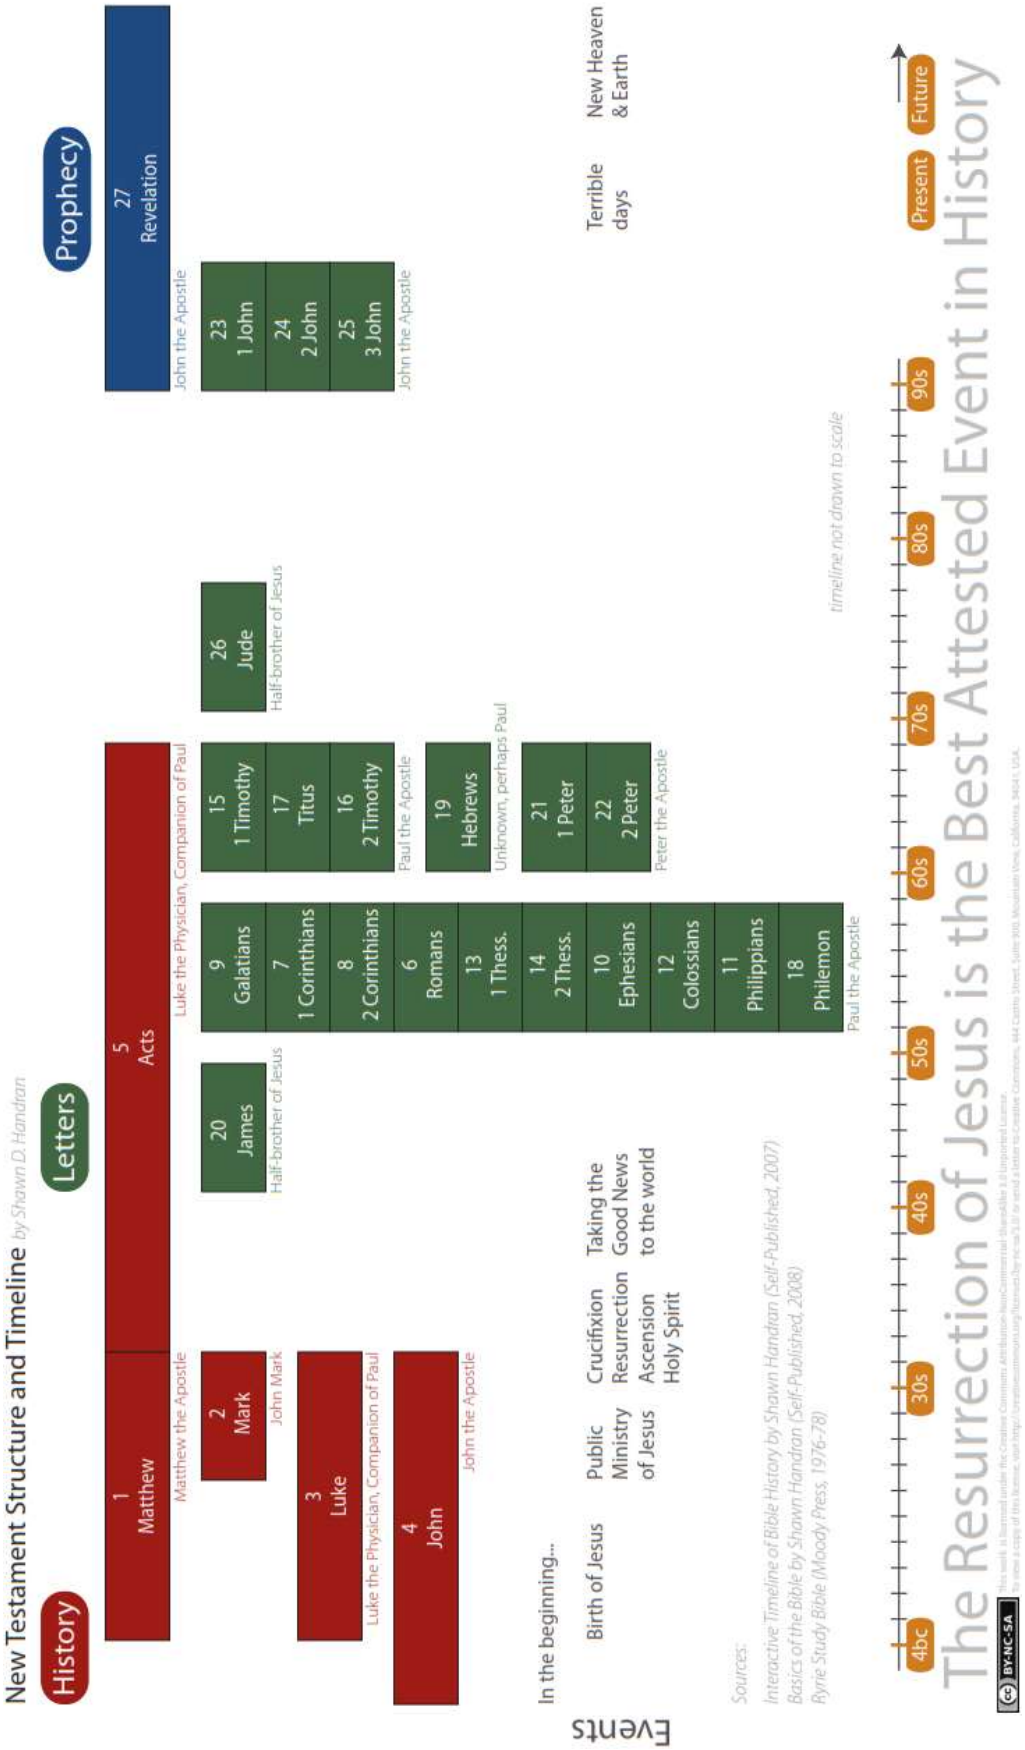
World History Chart – page 1 of 2

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



World History Chart – page 2 of 2

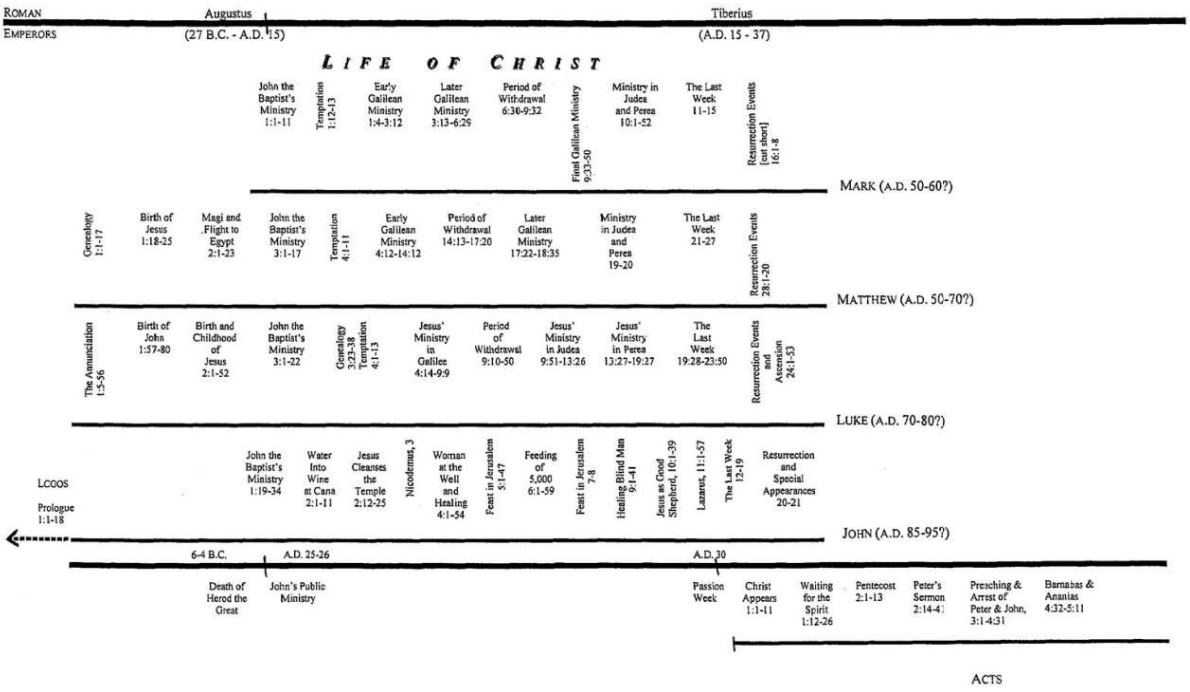
[Source: http://www.creation-science-prophecy.com/timeline.htm]



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Bible Structure and Timeline – OT

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



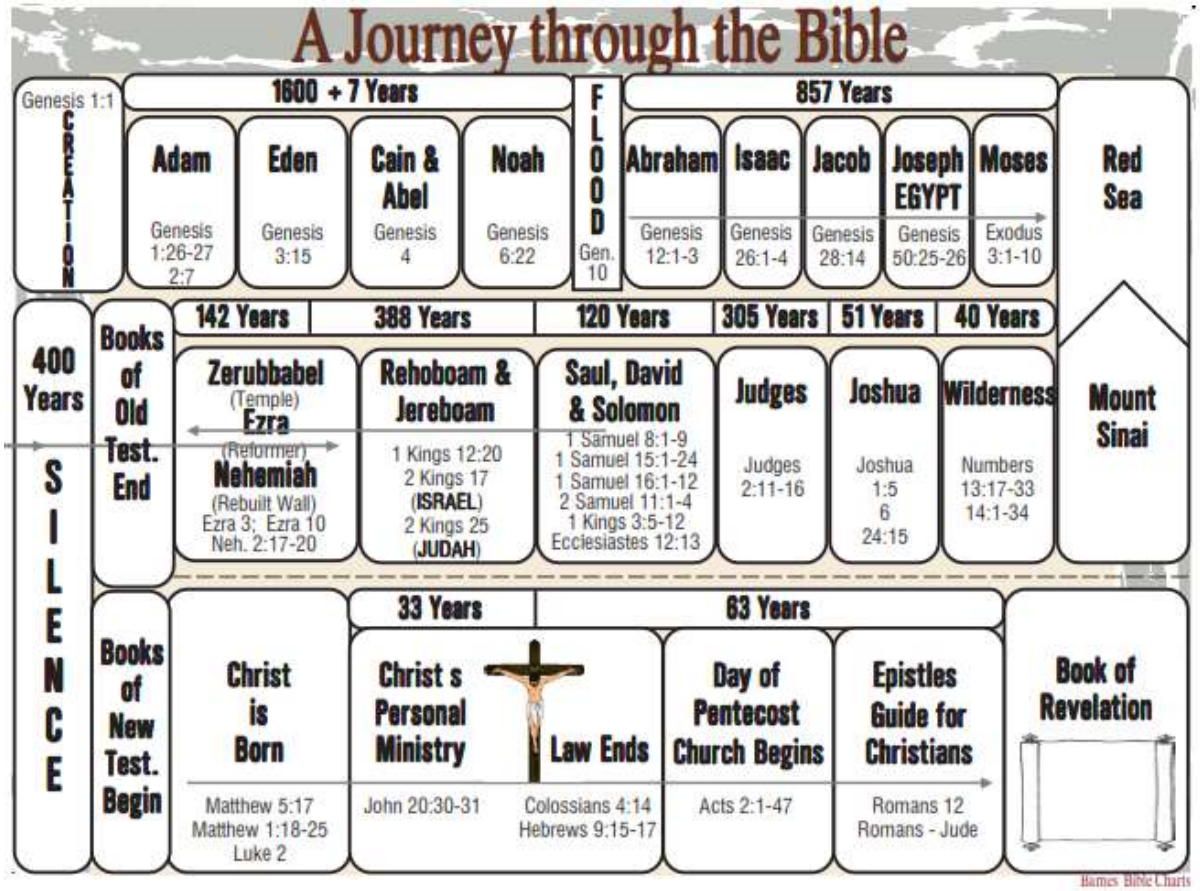
Bible Structure and Timeline – NT

[Source: OT/NT - http://www.basicsofthebible.org/files/BibleStructureAndTimeline.pdf] [PDF]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Timeline of the New Testament

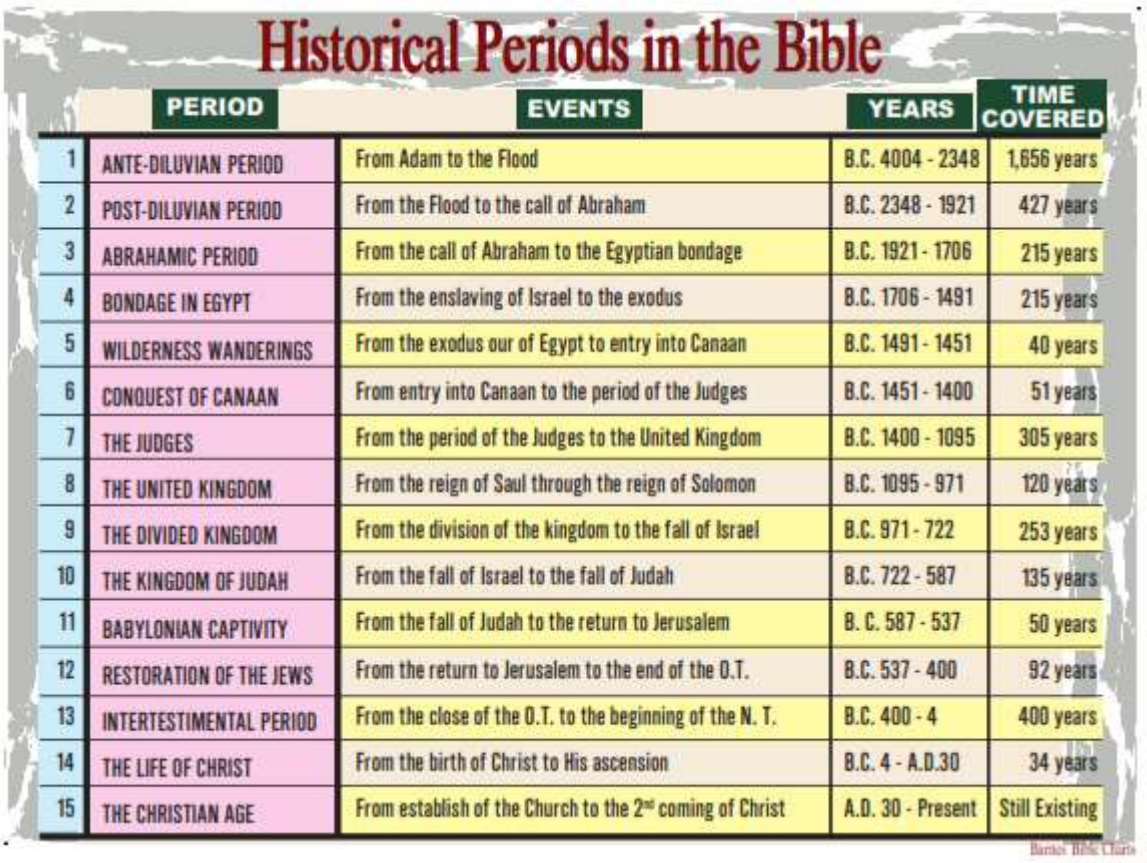
[Source: http://www.ibiblio.org/freebiblecommentary/pdf/EN/nt_timeline.pdf] [PDF]



http://www.ibiblio.org/freebiblecommentary/

See next page for larger view…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

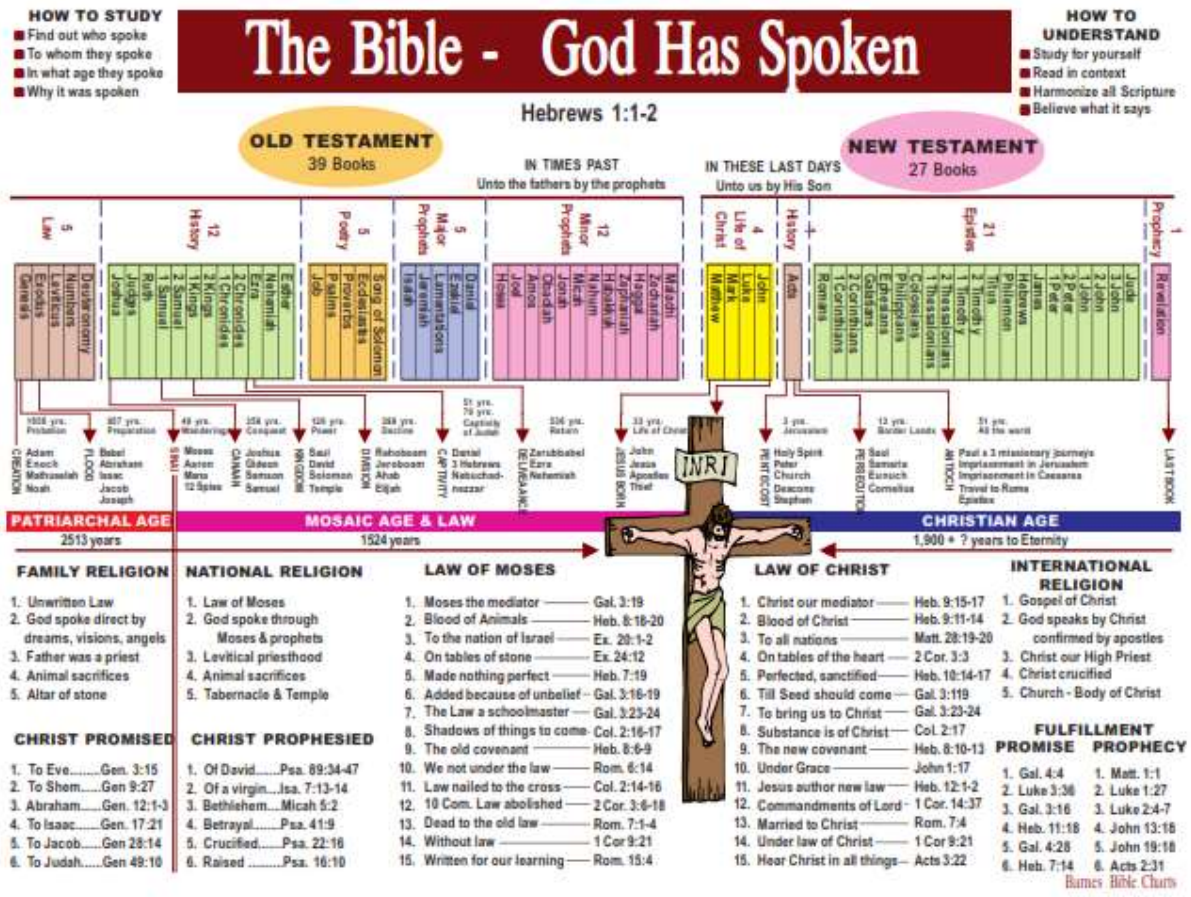
A Journey through the Bible

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

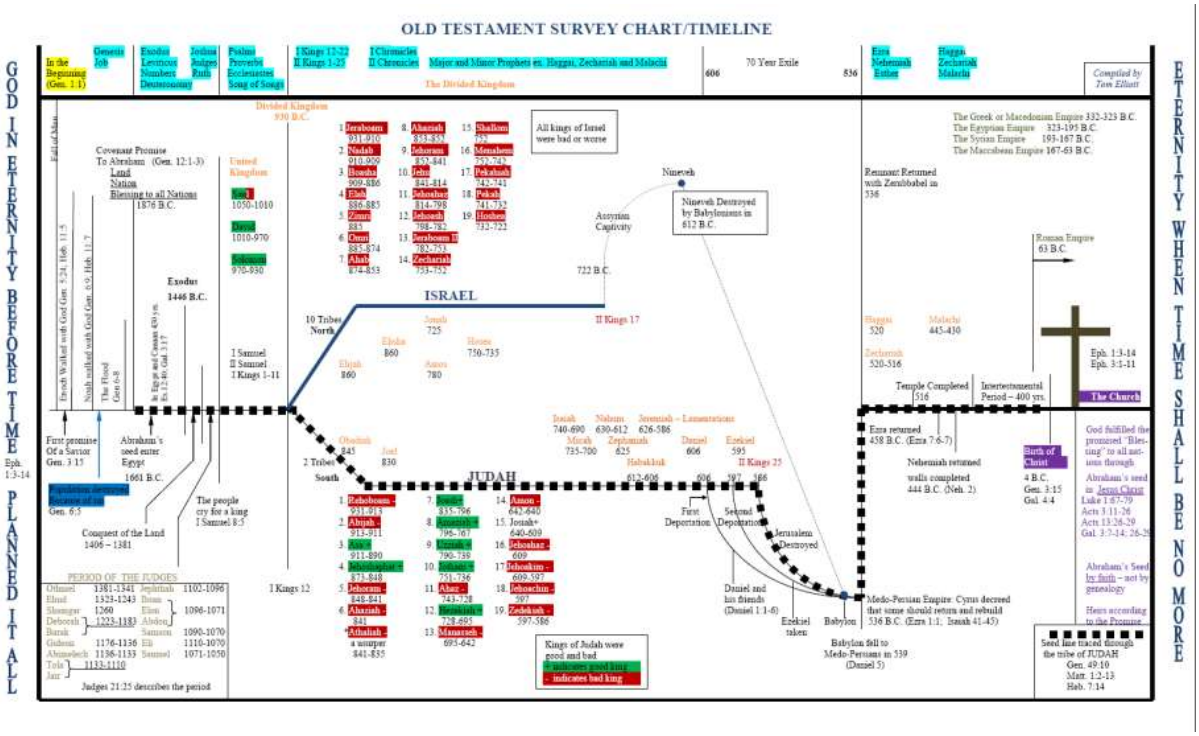
Historical Periods in the Bible

Historical Periods in the Bible

	PERIOD	EVENTS	YEARS	TIME COVERED
1	ANTE-DILUVIAN PERIOD	From Adam to the Flood	B.C. 4004 - 2348	1,656 years
2	POST-DILUVIAN PERIOD	From the Flood to the call of Abraham	B.C. 2348 - 1921	427 years
3	ABRAHAMIC PERIOD	From the call of Abraham to the Egyptian bondage	B.C. 1921 - 1706	215 years
4	BONDAGE IN EGYPT	From the enslaving of Israel to the exodus	B.C. 1706 - 1491	215 years
5	WILDERNESS WANDERINGS	From the exodus our of Egypt to entry into Canaan	B.C. 1491 - 1451	40 years
6	CONQUEST OF CANAAN	From entry into Canaan to the period of the Judges	B.C. 1451 - 1400	51 years
7	THE JUDGES	From the period of the Judges to the United Kingdom	B.C. 1400 - 1095	305 years
8	THE UNITED KINGDOM	From the reign of Saul through the reign of Solomon	B.C. 1095 - 971	120 years
9	THE DIVIDED KINGDOM	From the division of the kingdom to the fall of Israel	B.C. 971 - 722	253 years
10	THE KINGDOM OF JUDAH	From the fall of Israel to the fall of Judah	B.C. 722 - 587	135 years
11	BABYLONIAN CAPTIVITY	From the fall of Judah to the return to Jerusalem	B. C. 587 - 537	50 years
12	RESTORATION OF THE JEWS	From the return to Jerusalem to the end of the O.T.	B.C. 537 - 400	92 years
13	INTERTESTIMENTAL PERIOD	From the close of the O.T. to the beginning of the N. T.	B.C. 400 - 4	400 years
14	THE LIFE OF CHRIST	From the birth of Christ to His ascension	B.C. 4 - A.D.30	34 years
15	THE CHRISTIAN AGE	From establish of the Church to the 2nd coming of Christ	A.D. 30 - Present	Still Existing

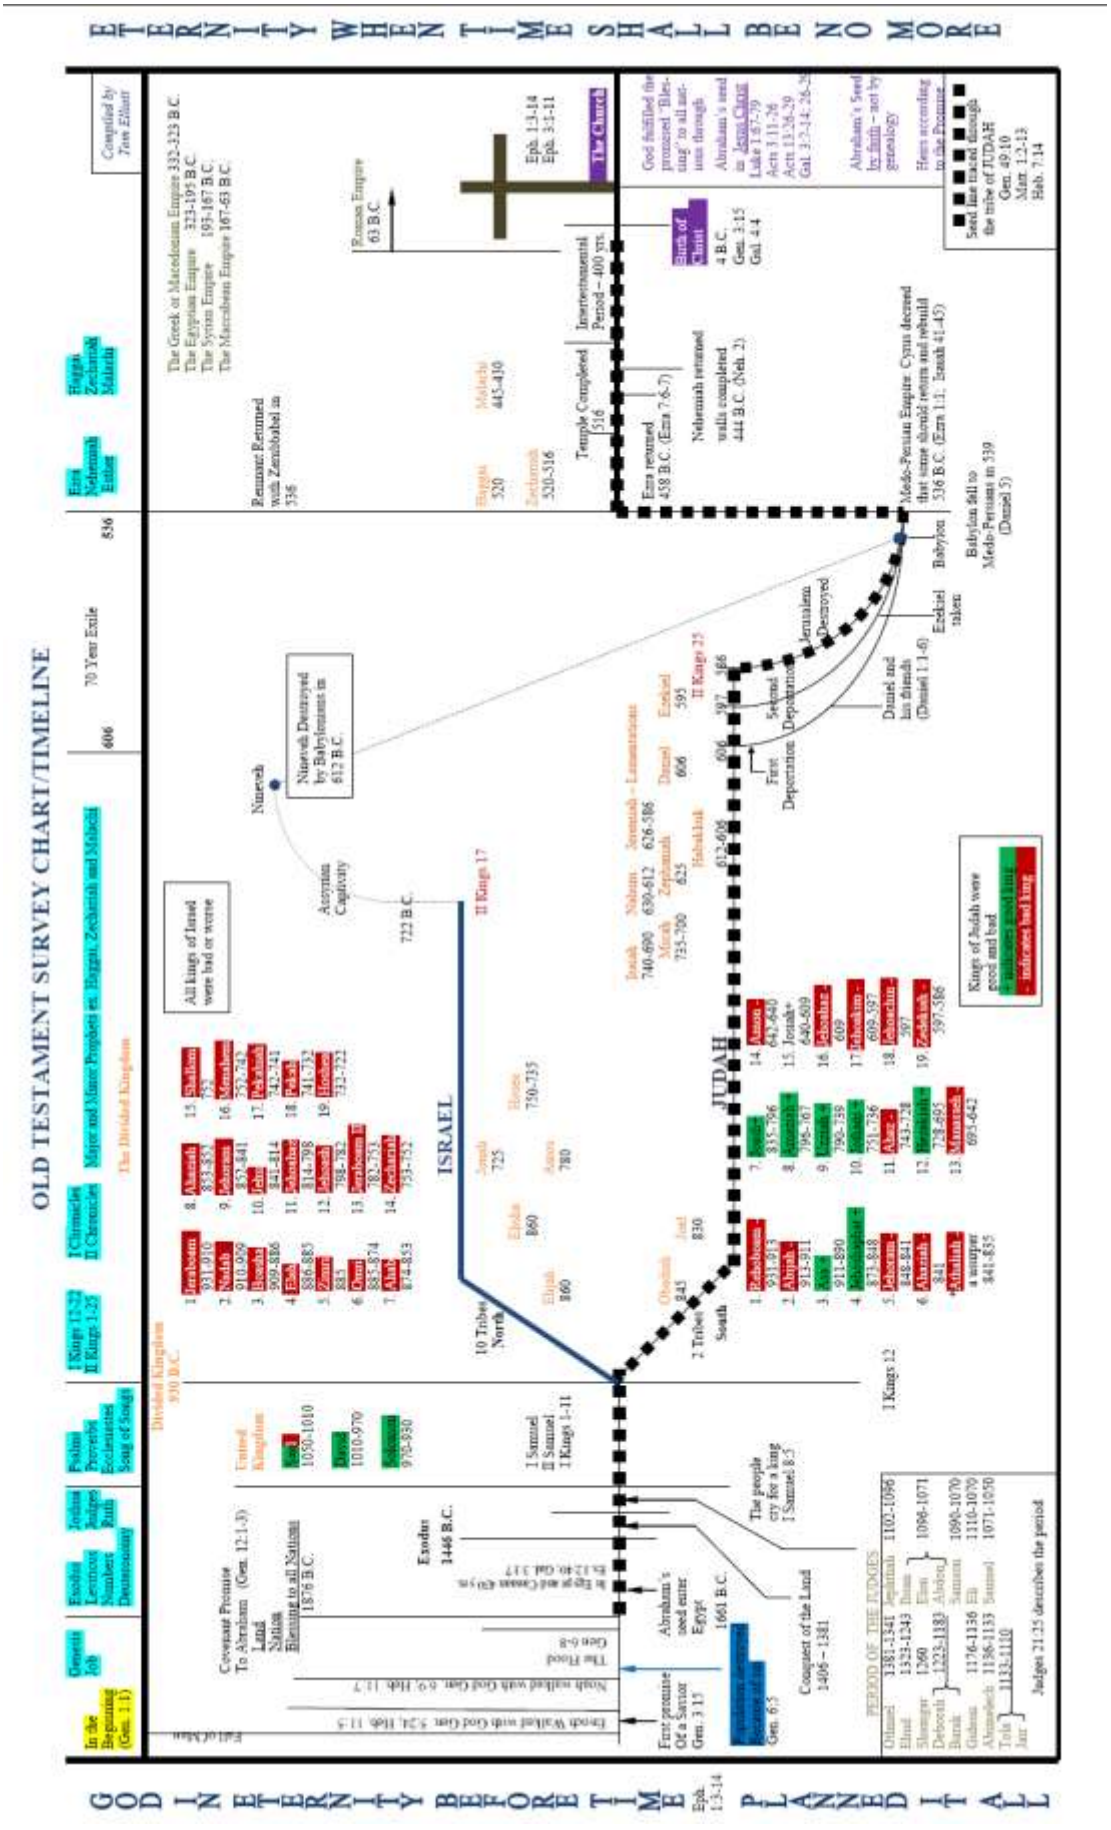


Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

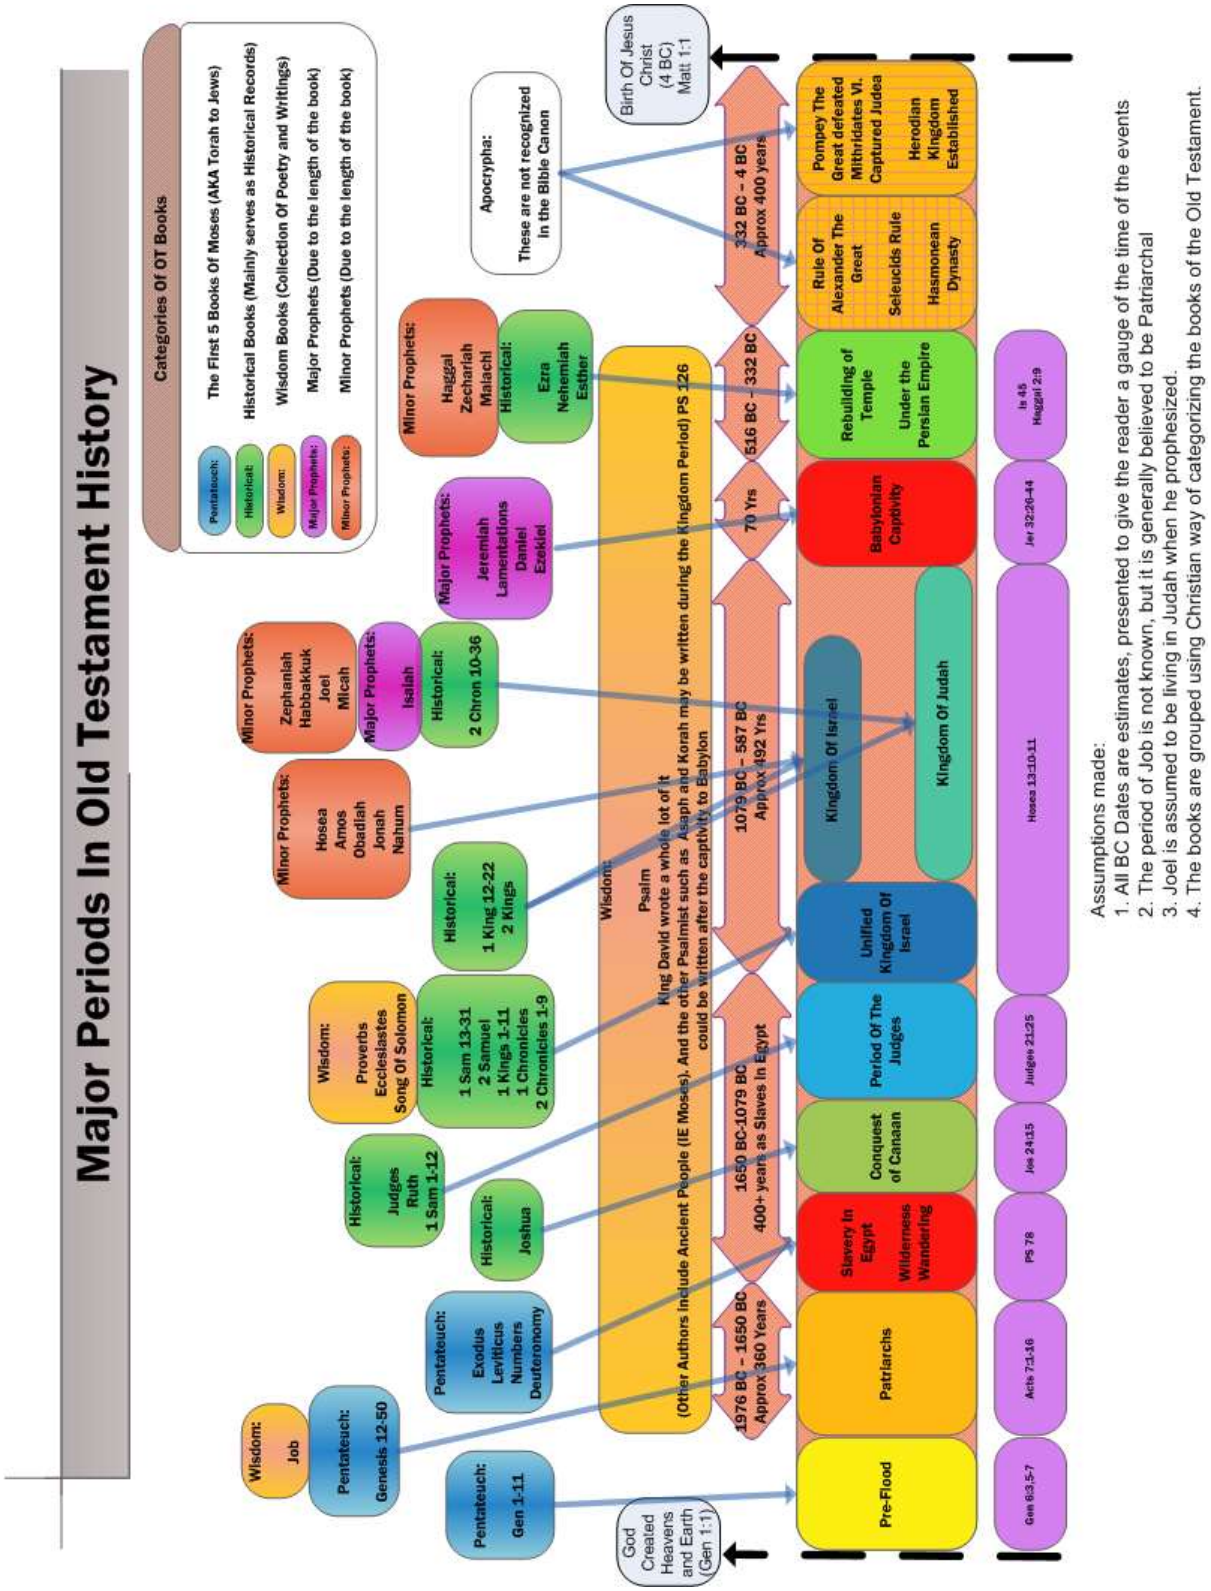


The Years of Recorded Bible History

[Source: http://www.biblecharts.org/thechrist.html]

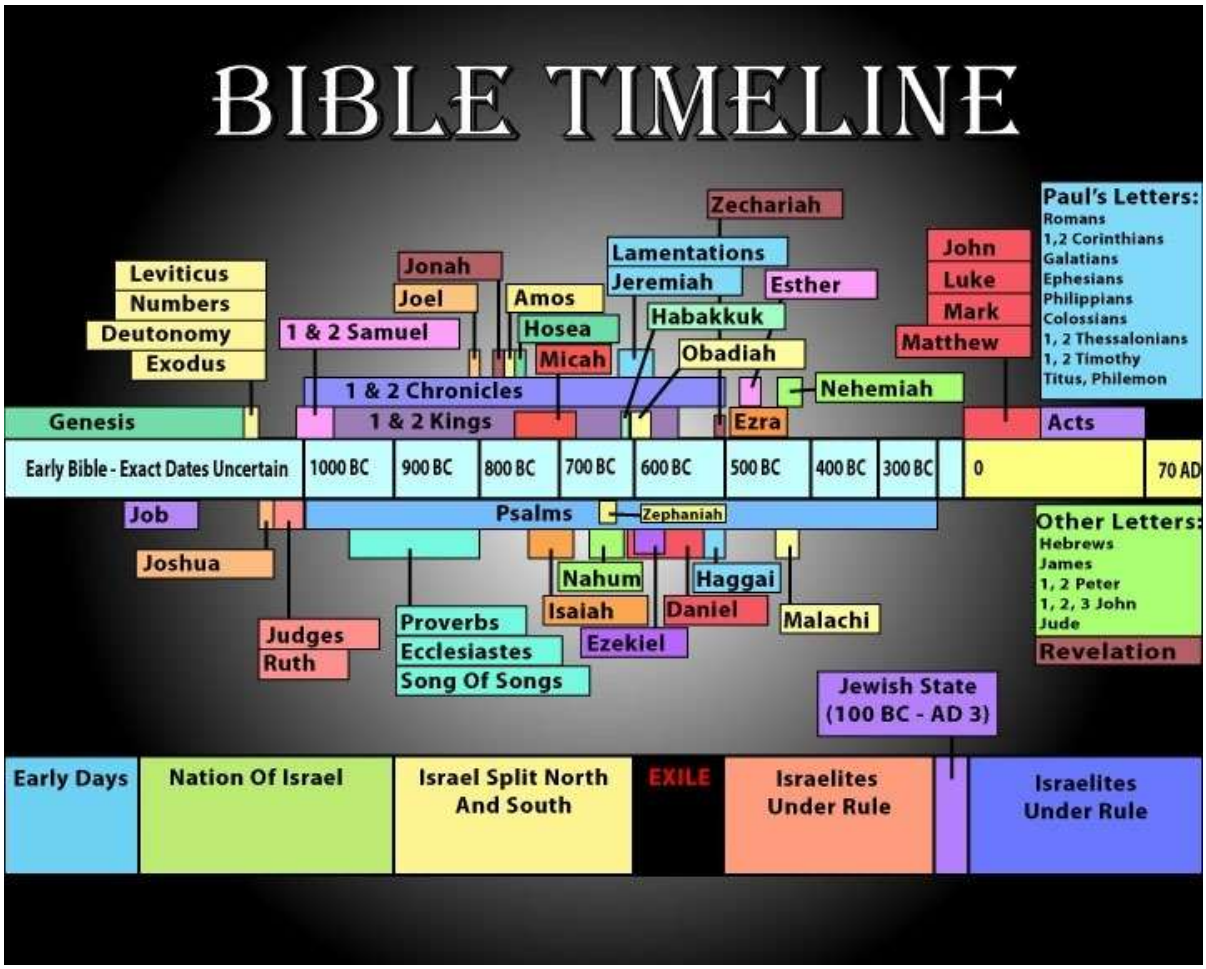


Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



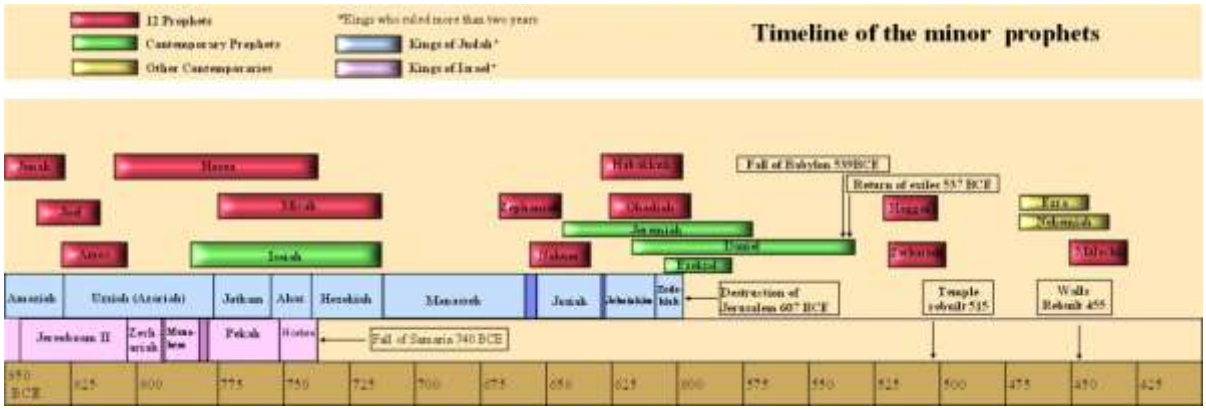
[Source: http://www.biblerays.com/church-history-chart.html] [See next page for larger view]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



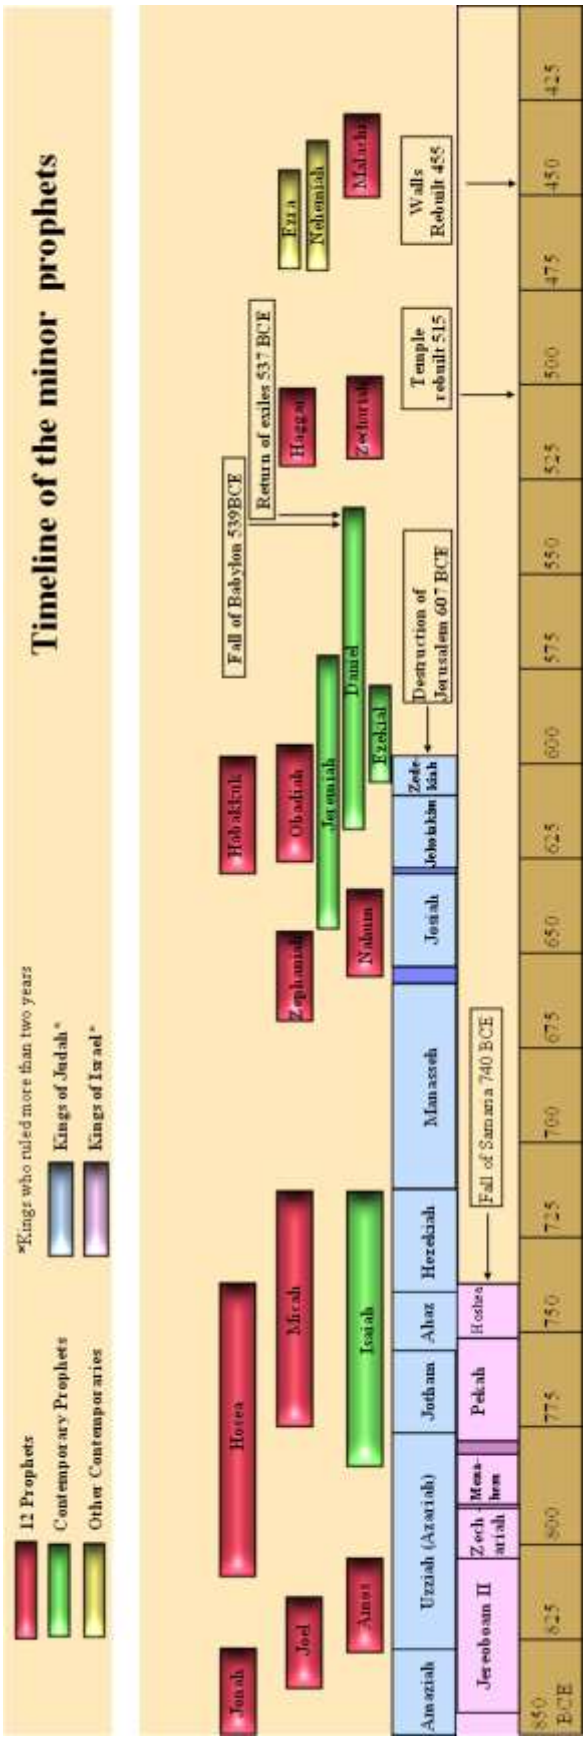
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Major Periods in Old Testament History



[Source: https://tben.wordpress.com/2010/11/17/]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



[Source: http://www.rapturewatch.net/timelines.htm]

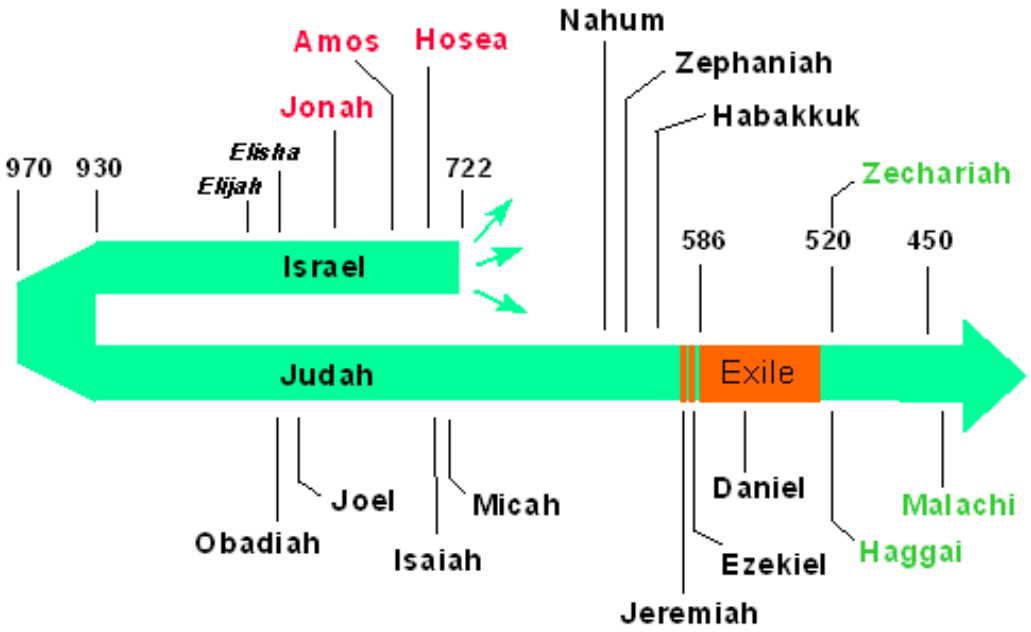
[Source: http://kenraggio.com/Minor-Prophets-Timeline.jpg]

See next page for larger view…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Figure 1: Chronology of the Writing Prophets



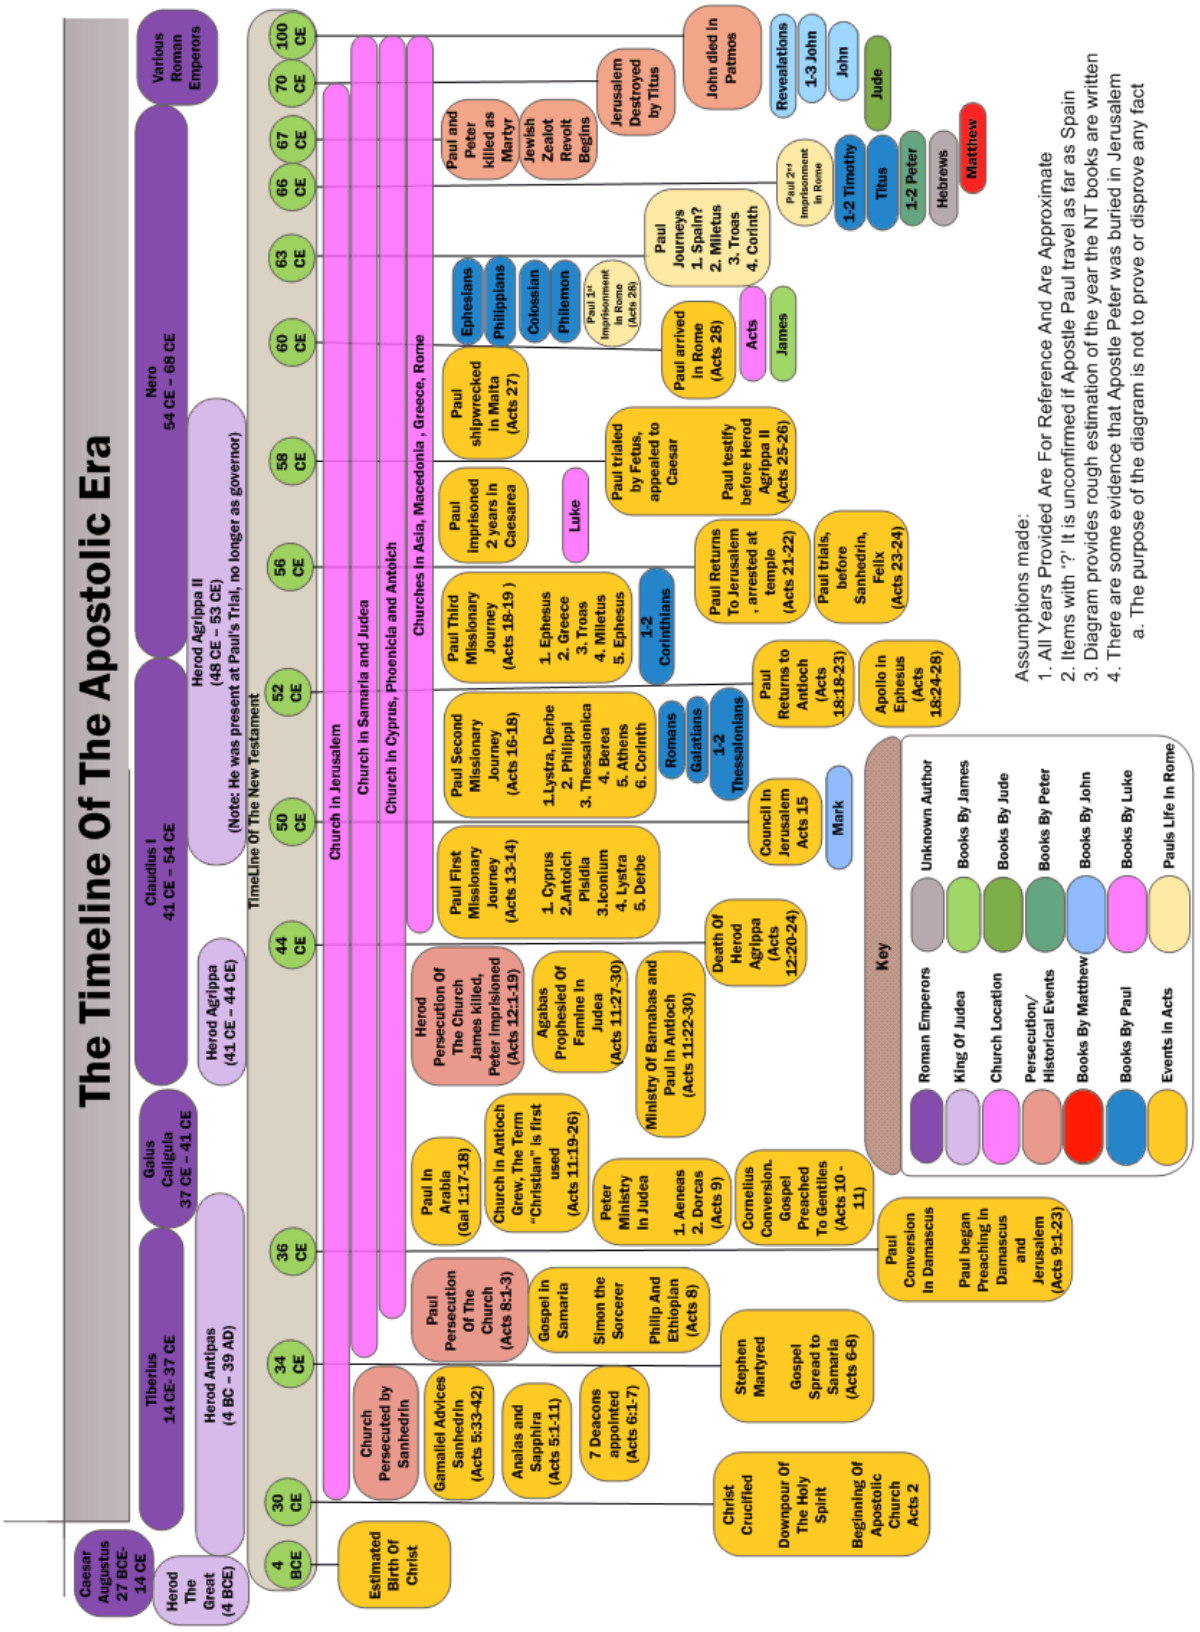


Figure 1: Chronology of the Writing Prophets

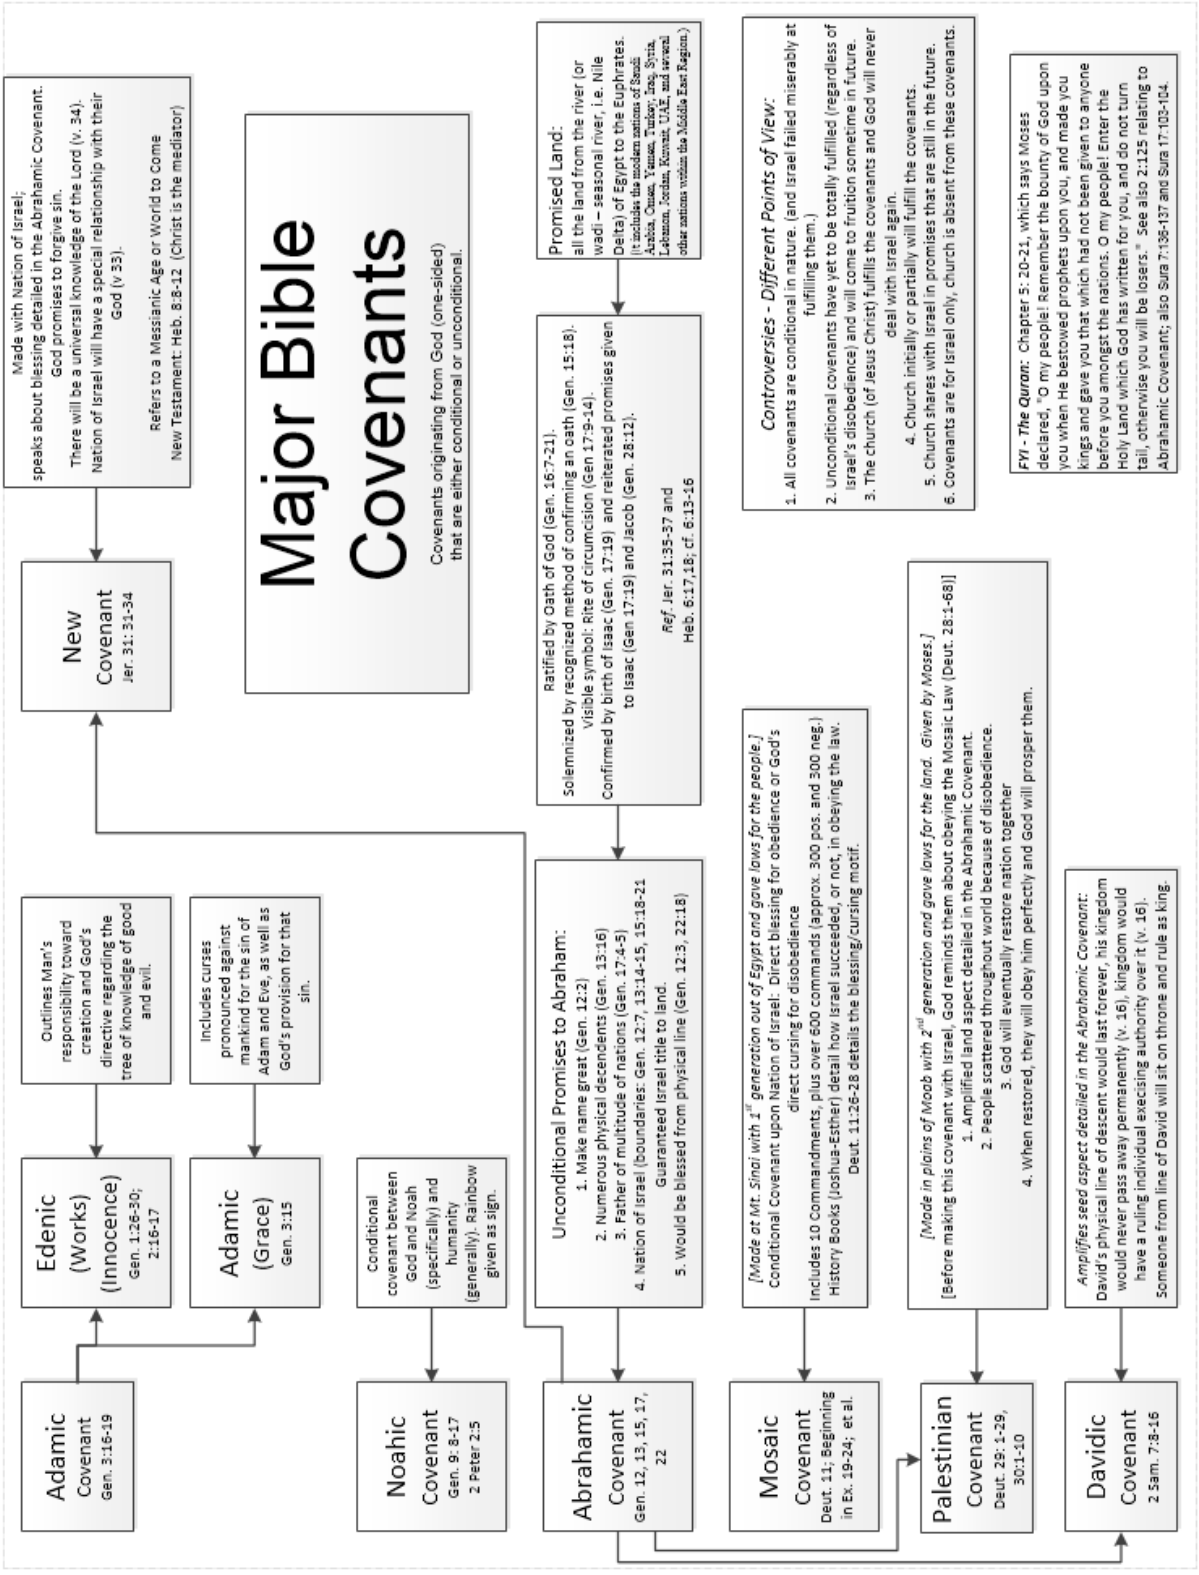
[Souce: Unknown]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: Unknown]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Authors of the Bible



Book	Author
Genesis Exodus Leviticus Numbers Deuteronomy	Moses
Joshua Judges Ruth 1 & 2 Samuel 1 & 2 Kings	Unknown
1 & 2 Chronicles Ezra	Ezra
Nehemiah	Nehemiah
Esther Job	Unknown
Psalms	Various David: 73 Asaph: 12 Sons of Korah: 11 Solomon: 2 Moses: 1 Ethan: 1 Heman: 1 (with Korah) Unknown: 50
Proverbs	Various Solomon: 29 Agur: 1 Lemuel: 1
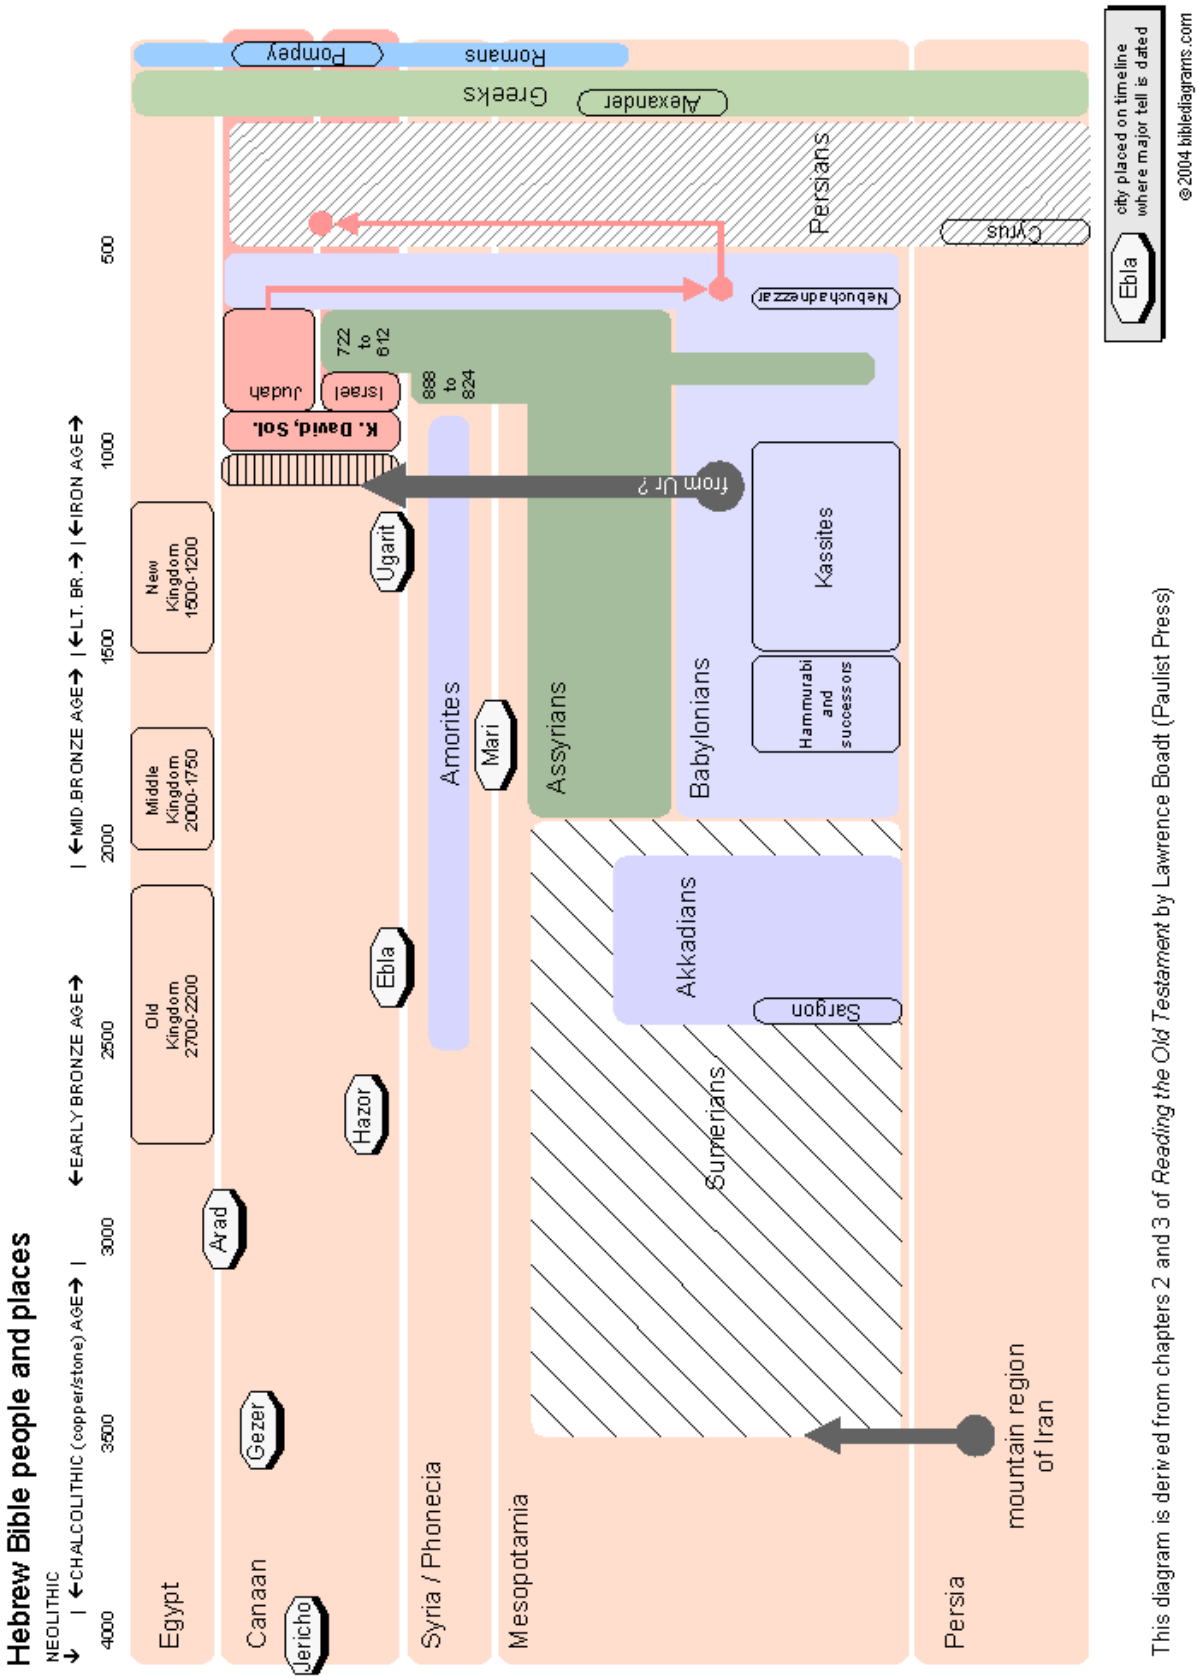
Ecclesiastes Song of Solomon	Solomon
Isaiah	Isaiah
Jeremiah Lamentations	Jeremiah
Ezekiel	Ezekiel
Daniel	Daniel
Hosea	Hosea
Joel	Joel
Amos	Amos
Obadiah	Obadiah
Jonah	Jonah
Micah	Micah
Nahum	Nahum
Habakkuk	Habakkuk
Zephaniah	Zephaniah
Haggai	Haggai
Zechariah	Zechariah
Malachi	Malachi
Matthew	Matthew
Mark	John Mark
Luke	Luke
John	John
Acts	Luke
Romans 1 Corinthians 2 Corinthians Galatians Ephesians Philippians Colossians 1 Thessalonians 2 Thessalonians 1 Timothy 2 Timothy Titus Philemon	Paul
Hebrews	Unknown
James	James (brother of Jesus)
1 Peter 2 Peter	Peter
1 John 2 John 3 John	John
Jude	Jude
Revelation	John

Copyright 2014, Jeffrey Kranz, OverviewBible.com

[Source: http://overviewbible.com/authors-who-wrote-bible/]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Major Bible Covenants



[Source: LY]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

OLD TESTAMENT OVERVIEW
Persons	Periods and Events	Contemporary Cultures	Old Testament Books Written
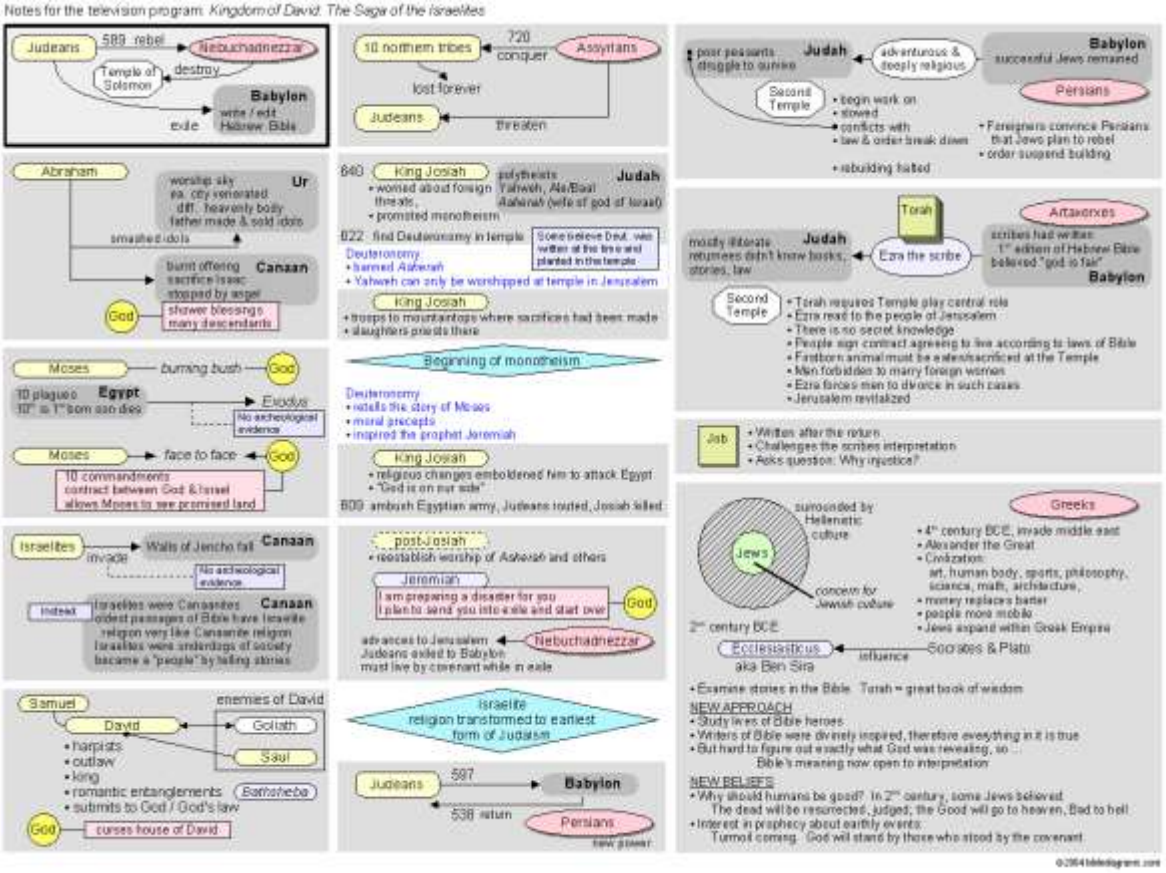
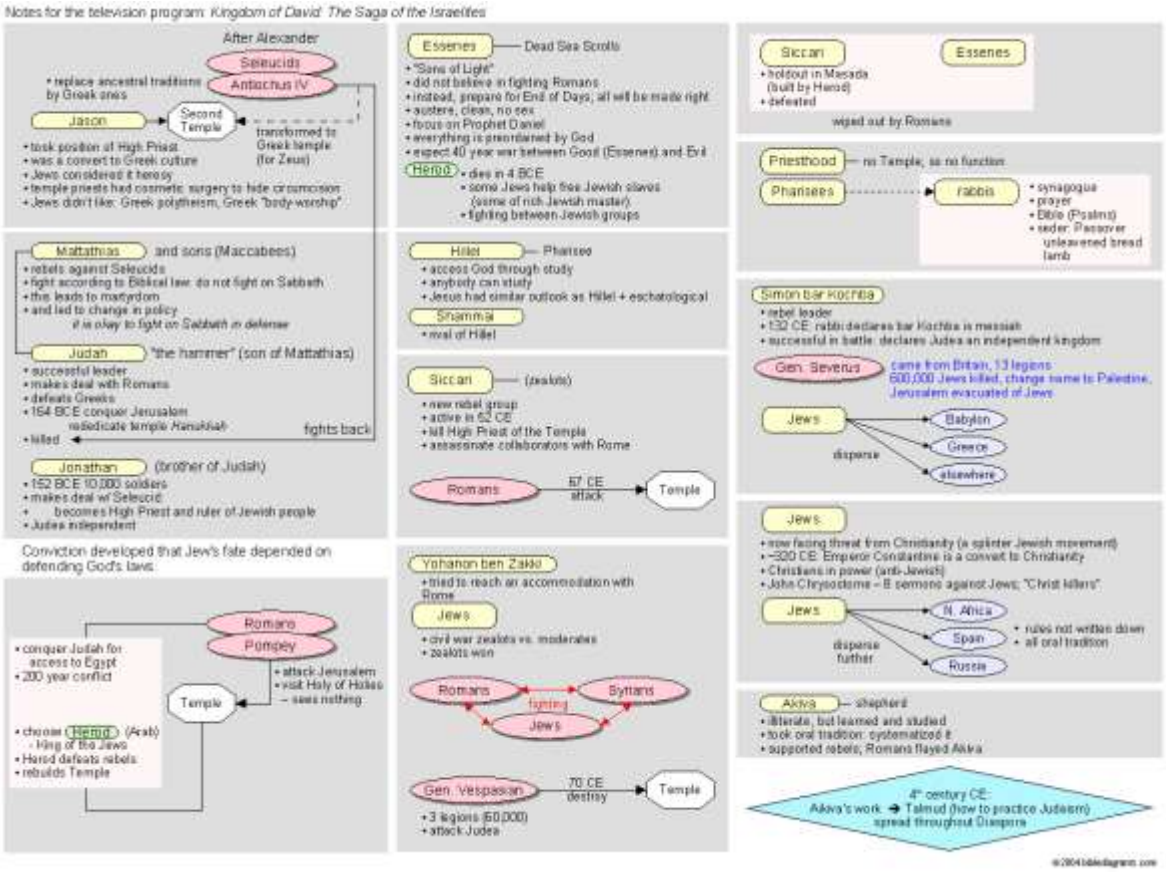
Adam	BEFORE THE PATRIARCHS Creation Flood	Prehistorical Era
Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Joseph	PATRIARCHS Abraham enters the land c. 2090 B.C. Joseph Prime Minister c. 1885–1805	Patriarchal Narratives reflect culture of Mesopotamia and Egypt	Job?
	EGYPTIAN SOJOURN c. 1875–1445	Egypt enslaves the Israelites
Moses	WILDERNESS WANDERING c. 1445–1405		Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers, Deuteronomy
Joshua, Deborah, Gideon, Jephthah, Samson	CONQUEST AND JUDGES c. 1405–1050	Palestine occupied, various nations oppress Israel	Joshua, Judges
Samuel, Saul, David, Solomon	UNITED MONARCHY Established 1050	Surrounding nations defeated by Israel	Ruth, Samuel, Psalms, Song of Solomon, Proverbs, Ecclesiastes
DIVIDED MONARCHY 931–722 Divided 931
SOUTH: Rehoboam	NORTH: Jeroboam I	Aramean Kingdom 931–732
Jehoshaphat Uzziah	Ahab Jeroboam II		Obadiah, Joel, Jonah, Amos, Hosea, Isaiah, Micah
Hezekiah		Fall of Aram c. 732 Assyrian domination of Palestine 745–650	Nahum, Zephaniah
	Fall of Samaria c. 722
Josiah	JUDAH ALONE 722–586		Jeremiah, Lamentations, Habakkuk, Kings, Daniel, Ezekiel
	Daniel's Captivity
	Ezekiel's Captivity
Jeremiah	Fall of Jerusalem c. 586	Babylonian Supremacy 625–539	Haggai, Zechariah
Zerubbabel Haggai Zechariah	RESTORATION 538–c. 400 Second Temple	Medo-Persian Rule 539–331
	Ezra's Return c. 458		Chronicles, Ezra, Esther
Malachi	Nehemiah's Return c. 444		Nehemiah, Malachi

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Hebrew Bible People and Places



[Source: http://www.bibilediagrams.com]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Notes for the television program: Kingdom of David - The Saga of the Israelites:

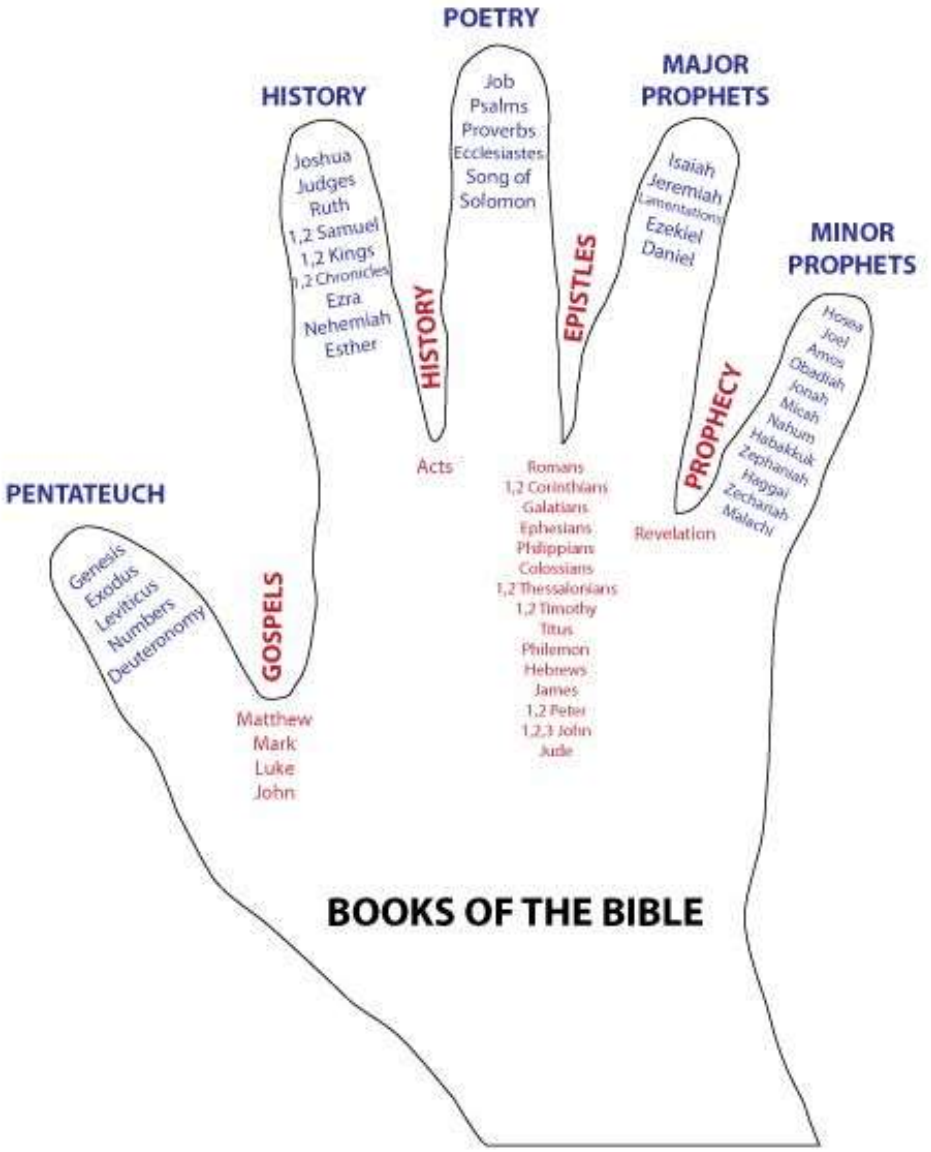
[Source: http://www.bblediagrams.com]



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Books of the Bible

A. P. G. ALFRED P. GIBBS

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

A handy illustration for memorizing the books of the Bible

Source: servantsclass.org

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Bible in 50 Words:

God Made.
Adam bit.
Noah arked.
Abraham split.
Joseph ruled.
Jacob fooled.
Bush talked.
Moses balked.
Pharoah plagued.
People walked.
Sea divided.
Tablets guided.
Promise landed.
Saul freaked.
David peeked.
Prophets warned.
Jesus born.
God walked.
Love talked.
Anger crucified.
Hope died.
Love rose.
Spirit flamed.
Word spread.
God remained.

Source: prettywhitty.com

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Development of the Bible Canon and It's Variations

The Canon of the New Testament

The foundations for a NT canon lie not, as some would assert, in the needs or the practices of the church in the second, third, and fourth centuries A.D., but in the gracious purpose of a self-revealing God whose word carries his own divine authority. Just as new outpourings of divine word-revelation accompanied and followed each major act of redemption in the ancient history of God's people (the covenant with Adam and Eve, the covenant with Abraham, the redemption from Egypt, the establishment of the monarchy, the exile, and the restoration), so when the promised Messiah came, a new and generous outpouring of divine revelation necessarily ensued (see 2 Timthy 1:8-11; Titus 1:1-3).

The OT Authorization

The prospect of a NT Scripture to stand alongside the OT was anticipated, even authorized, in the OT itself, embedded in the promise of God's ultimate act of redemption through the Messiah, in faithfulness to his covenant (Jeremiah 31:31-33; cf. Hebrews 8:7-13; 10:16-18). Jesus taught his disciples after his resurrection that "the Law of Moses and the Prophets and the Psalms" predicted not only the Messiah's suffering and resurrection but also that "repentance and forgiveness of sins should be proclaimed in his name to all nations, beginning from Jerusalem" (Luke 24:44-48). Prophetic passages such as Isaiah 2:2-3; 49:6; and Psalm 2:8 spoke of a time when the light of God's grace in redemption would be proclaimed to all nations. It naturally follows that this proclamation would eventuate in a new collection of written Scriptures complementing the books of the old covenant—both from the pattern of God's redemptive work in the past (mentioned above) and from the actual writing ministry of some of Jesus' apostles (and their associates) in the accomplishment of their commission.

The Recognition of New Covenant Scriptures

As God's word to mankind, the "God-breathed" Scripture (2 Timothy 3:16) is self-attesting, and thus the Canon may be said to be self-establishing. Yet history records that for centuries there were variations in local church practice and disagreements among churches and early theologians about several books of the NT. Such variations, however, are not unexpected, given that the process of recognition involved more than two dozen books that came into being over a period of perhaps 50 years, circulating unsystematically to churches as they were springing up in widely diffused parts of the Roman Empire.

In its deliberations about the particular books that make up the canon of Scripture, the church did not sovereignly "determine" or "choose" the books it most preferred—whether for catechetical, polemical, liturgical, or edificatory purposes. Rather, the church saw itself as empowered only to receive and recognize what God had provided in books handed down from the apostles and their immediate companions (e.g., Irenaeus, Against Heresies 3.preface; 3.1.1-2). This is why discussions of the so-called "criteria" of canonicity can be misleading. Qualities such as "apostolicity," "antiquity," "orthodoxy," "liturgical use," and "church consensus" are not criteria by which the church autonomously judged which documents it would receive. The first three are qualities the church recognizes in the voice of its Savior, to which voice the church willingly submits itself ("My sheep hear my voice . . . and they follow me," John 10:27).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Gospels according to Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John (the earliest Gospels known) gained universal acceptance while arousing very little controversy within the church. If the latest of these, the Gospel of John, was published near the end of the first century (as most scholars think), it is remarkable that its words are echoed around A.D. 110 in the writings of Ignatius of Antioch, who also knew Matthew, and perhaps Luke. At about the same time, Papias of Hierapolis in Asia Minor received traditions about the origins of Matthew's and Mark's Gospels, and quite probably Luke's and John's. In the middle of the second century, Justin Martyr in Rome reported that the Gospels (apparently the four)—which he calls “memoirs of the apostles” —were being read and exposited in Christian services of worship.

In 2 Peter 3:16, a collection of at least some of Paul's letters was already known and regarded as Scripture and therefore enjoyed canonical endorsement. Furthermore, a collection (of unknown extent) of Paul's letters was known to Clement of Rome and to the recipients of his letter in Corinth before the end of the first century, then also to Ignatius of Antioch and Polycarp of Smyrna and their readers in the early second century. The Pastoral Letters (1-2 Timothy and Titus), rejected as Paul's by many modern critics, are attested at least from the time of Polycarp.

By the end of the second century a “core” collection of NT books — 21 of the 27 — was generally recognized: four Gospels, Acts, 13 epistles of Paul, 1 Peter, 1 John, and Revelation. By this time Hebrews (accepted in the East and by Irenaeus and Tertullian in the West, but questioned in Rome due to doubts about authorship), James, 2 Peter, 2 and 3 John, and Jude were only minimally attested in the writings of church leaders. This infrequent citation led to the expression of doubts by later fathers (e.g., Eusebius, Ecclesiastical History 2.23.25). Yet, by some time in the third century, codices (precursors of the modern book form, as opposed to scrolls) containing all seven of the “general epistles” were being produced, and Eusebius reports that all seven were “known to most.”

An unusual case is the book of Revelation, which seems to have been accepted everywhere at first (in the West by Justin, Irenaeus, the Muratorian Fragment, and Tertullian; in the East by Clement of Alexandria and Origen). But due to its exploitation by Montanists and others, it was criticized by Gaius, a Roman writer in the early third century. Several decades later, Dionysius of Alexandria, while not rejecting the book, argued that it could not have been written by the apostle John. These factors led to enduring doubts in the East and to Revelation's absence from later Eastern canon lists, though its reputation in the West did not suffer.

To complicate matters, many documents were produced in the course of the second century which in some way paralleled or imitated NT books. Many of these made some claim to apostolic authority, and some gained considerable popularity in certain quarters. One or more “Gospels” written in Aramaic attracted interest because of a presumed connection to an original Aramaic Matthew. Other “Gospels” were essentially combinations of the four (i.e., The Gospel of Peter and The Egerton Gospel), a practice that culminated in Tatian's Diatessaron, a harmony of the four (c. A.D. 172), which was the first form of the Gospels translated into Syriac.

There was a profusion of “Acts” literature, usually following, in novel-like fashion, the fictional exploits of a single apostle (Paul, John, Andrew, Peter). Letters forged in the name of Paul (To the Laodiceans, To the Alexandrians, 3 Corinthians) sought to attract adherents to an assortment of special causes. Works in various genres written to advance unorthodox interpretations of Christianity often borrowed the names of apostles (Apocryphon of John, Gospel of Thomas). In addition, a few writings, probably never intended to be regarded as Scripture, were honored as such by some Christians partly because of assumed authorship by companions of apostles (1 and 2 Clement, The Letter of Barnabas, The Shepherd of Hermas).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

By the 240s A.D. Origen (residing in Caesarea in Palestine) acknowledged all 27 of the NT books but reported that James, 2 Peter, 2 and 3 John, and Jude were disputed. The situation is virtually the same for Eusebius, writing about 60 years later, who also reports the doubts some had about Hebrews and Revelation. Still, his two categories of “undisputed” and “disputed but known to most” contain only the 27 and no more. He named five other books (The Acts of Paul, The Shepherd of Hermas, The Apocalypse of Peter, The Letter of Barnabas, and The Didache) which were known to many churches but which, he believed, had to be judged as spurious.

In the year A.D. 367 the Alexandrian bishop Athanasius, in his annual Easter letter, gave a list of the NT books which comprised, with no reservations, all 27, while naming several others as useful for catechizing but not as scriptural. Several other fourth-century lists essentially concurred, though with various individual deviations outside of the most basic core (four Gospels, Acts, 13 epistles of Paul, 1 Peter, 1 John). Three African synods—at Hippo Regius in A.D. 393 and at Carthage in 397 and 419 — and the influential African bishop Augustine affirmed the 27-book Canon. It was enshrined in Jerome's Latin translation, the Vulgate, which became the normative Bible for the Western church. In Eastern churches, recognition of Revelation lagged for quite some time. The churches of Syria did not accept Revelation, 2 Peter, 2 and 3 John, or Jude until the fifth (Western Syria) or sixth (Eastern Syria) centuries.

The apostolic word gave birth to the church (Romans 1:15-17; 10:14-15; James 1:18; 1 Peter 1:23-25), and the written form of this word remains as the permanent, documentary expression of God's new covenant. It may be said that only the 27 books of the NT manifest themselves as belonging to that original, foundational, apostolic witness. They have demonstrated themselves to be the Word of God to the universal church throughout the generations. Here are the pastures to which Christ's sheep from many folds continually come to hear their Shepherd's voice and to follow him.

The Apocrypha

Larger editions of the English Bible — from the Great Bible of Tyndale and Coverdale (1539) onward—have often included a separate section between the OT and the NT titled “The Apocrypha,” consisting of additional books and substantial parts of books. The Latin Vulgate Bible translated by Jerome (begun A.D. 382, completed 405) had placed them in the OT itself—some as separate items and some as attached to or included in the biblical books of Esther, Jeremiah, and Daniel. In Roman Catholic translations of the Bible, such as the Douay Version and the Jerusalem Bible, these items are still placed in their pre-Reformation positions. In Protestant translations, however, the Apocrypha is either omitted altogether or grouped in a separate section.

How Jerome's Vulgate Came to Contain the Apocrypha

In distinguishing the Apocrypha from the OT books, the Protestant translators were not doing something completely novel but were carrying out more thoroughly than ever before the principles on which Jerome (A.D. 345-420) had made his great Latin Vulgate translation of the OT. The Vulgate was translated from the original Hebrew. But a translation prior to the Vulgate, the Old Latin translation, had been made from the Greek OT, the Septuagint (or LXX). At some stage, early or late, additional books and parts of books, which were not in the Hebrew Bible, had found their way into the Greek OT, and from there into the Old Latin version. Jerome retained these in his new translation, the Latin Vulgate, but added prefaces at various points to emphasize that they were not true parts of the Bible, and he called them by the name “apocrypha” (Gk. apokrypha , “those having been hidden away”). In accordance with his teaching—and with the understanding of the OT canon held by Jesus, the NT authors, and the first-century Jews (see The Canon of the Old Testament)—

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

the sixteenth-century Protestant translators did not consider those writings part of the OT but gathered them together in a separate section, to which they gave Jerome's name, “The Apocrypha.”

Jerome's reason for choosing this name is not readily apparent. He probably took a hint from Origen, who a century and a half earlier had stated that the Jews applied this name to the most esteemed of their noncanonical books. Origen and Jerome were two of the most distinguished students of Judaism among the Fathers, so it would be natural for them to use the term in a Jewish sense, though applying it to the noncanonical Jewish books that were most esteemed by Christians. Jews would never destroy respected religious books but, if unfit for use, hid them away and left them to decay naturally. So “hidden” came to mean “highly esteemed, though uncanonical.”

Jerome did not actually confine his name “apocrypha” to Jewish books but used it also of noncanonical Christian books, such as The Shepherd of Hermas, which were likewise popular religious reading among Christians. The modern expression “New Testament Apocrypha,” for late works that imitate NT literature, is similar.

[Source: ESV Study Bible note]

See also: Languages of the Bible and The Septuagint In this APPENDIX

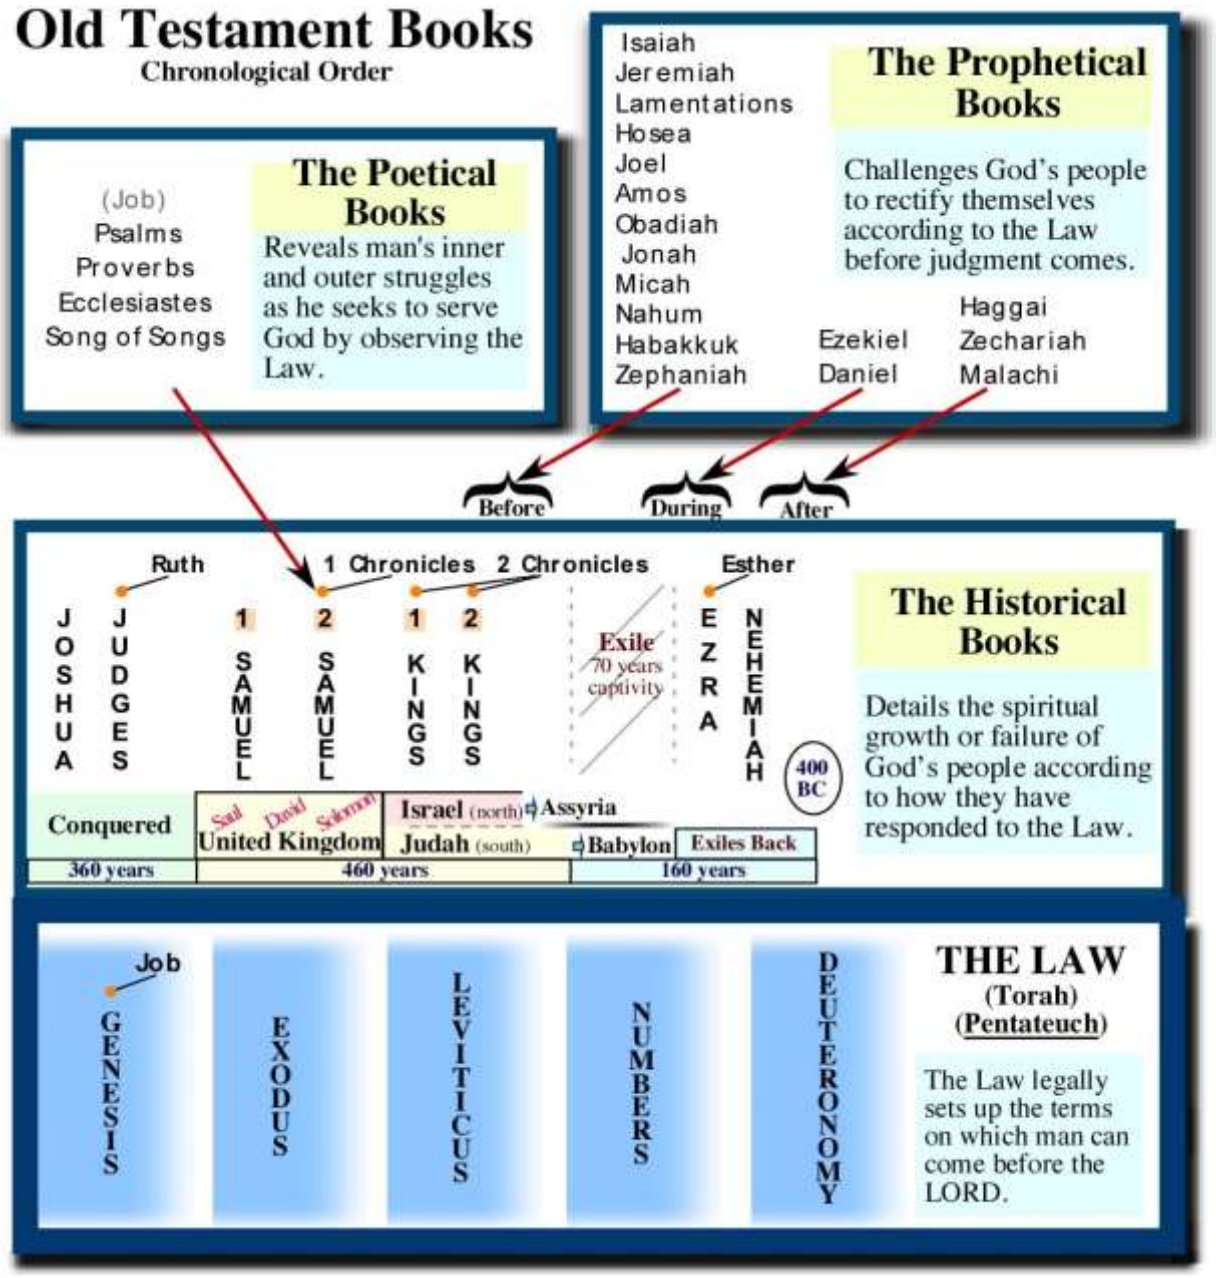
Various Charts of Books in the Bible

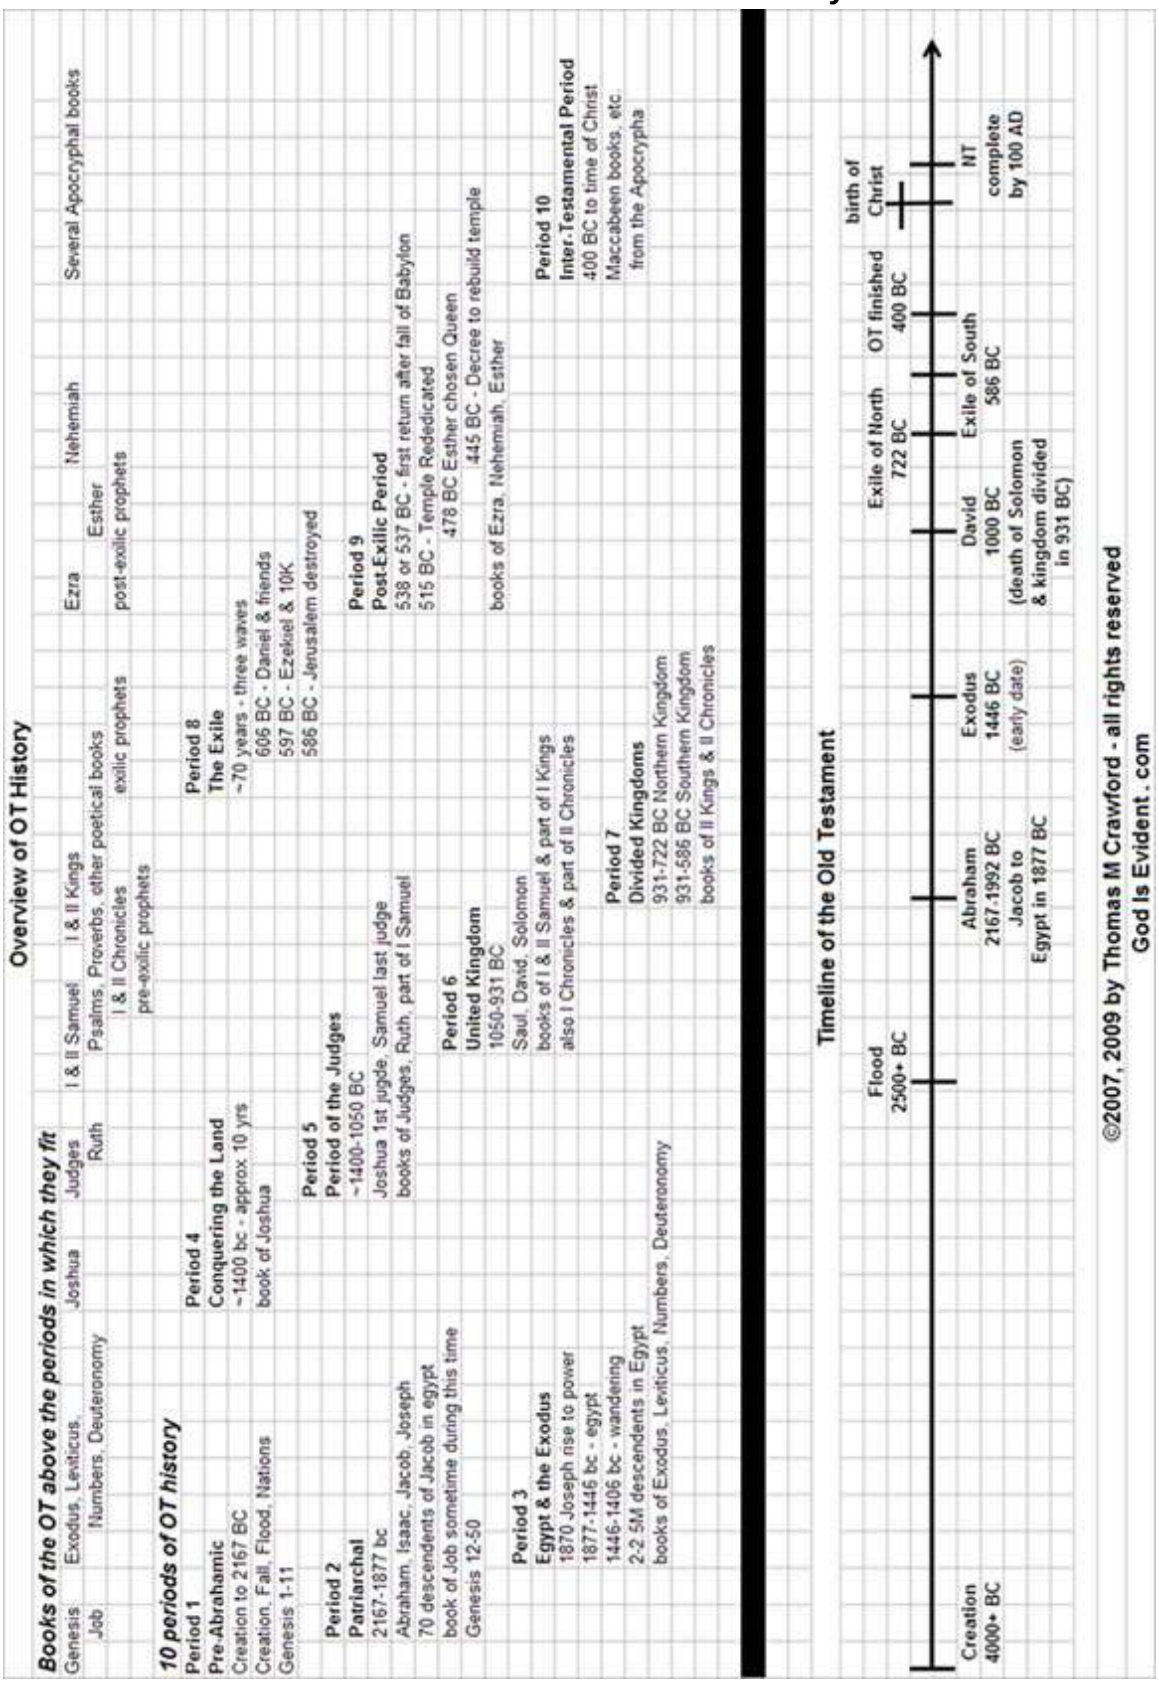
http://thewellcommunity.org/bible-charts



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

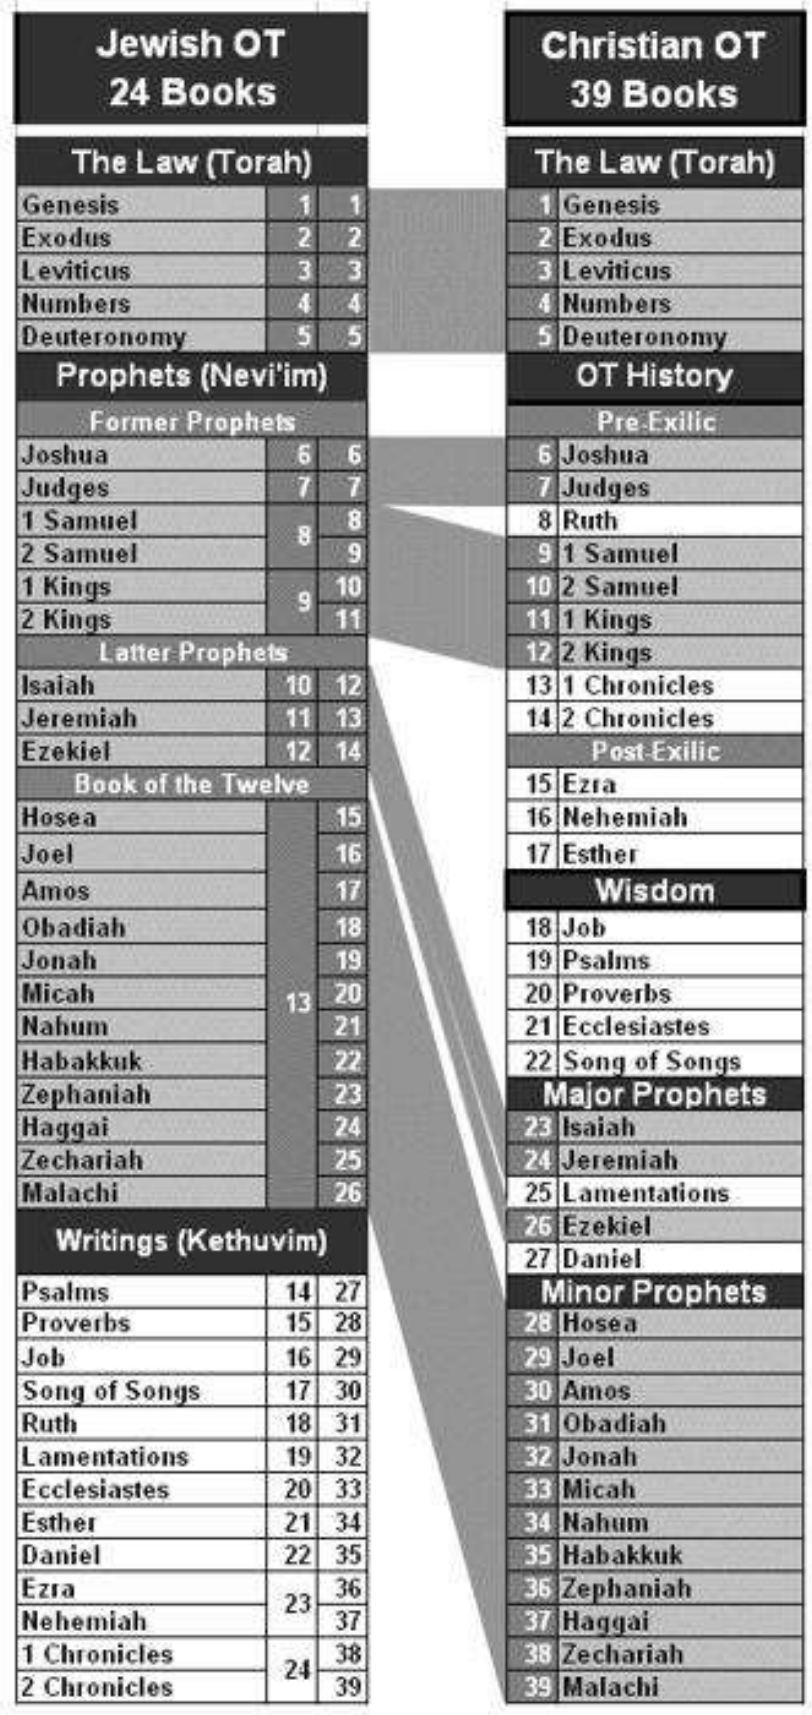
Timeline of Old Testament Books (dates approximate)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Old Testament Books (Chronological Order)

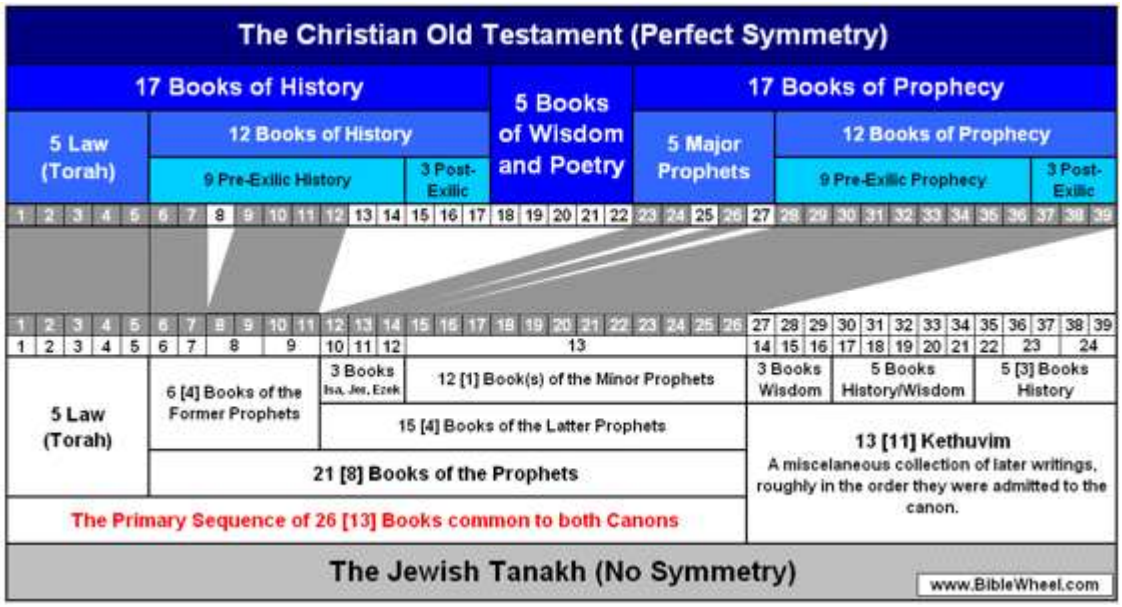
[Source: http://www.bblediagrams.com] (Additional OT and NT charts and diagrams)



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

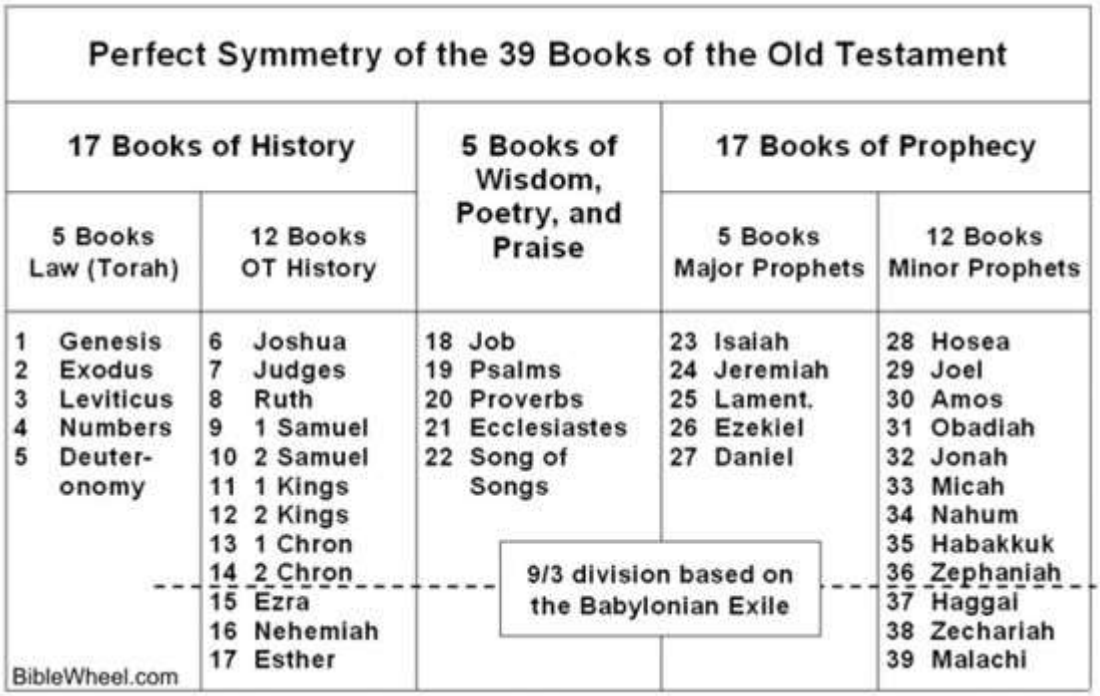
Overview of Old Testament History

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Jewish vs Protestant OT Canon

[Source: http://www.biblewheel.com/Canon/ChristianOT_vs_Tanakh.php]



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The question of which canon is correct is settled once and for all by the Perfect Symmetry of the Christian Old Testament, especially when it is compared with the complete lack of symmetry and material disorder - in both chronology and genre - of the Jewish Tanakh:

The Christian OT exhibits a 17-5-17 symmetry, with both groups of 17 Books subdividing into groups of 5 and 12, followed by both groups of 12 subdividing into groups of 9 and 3! This means that the symmetry continues down through THREE LEVELS! Futhermore, it fully integrates with the 27 Books of the New Testament and the meanings of the Twenty-Two Hebrew Letters as established by God in the Alphabetic Verses! We have witnesses lined up from here to eternity! There is no end to the glory of what God has done in His Holy Word! …

[Source: http://www.biblewheel.com/Canon/ChristianOT_vs_Tanakh.php]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

A Comparative Chart of Hebrew - Jewish and Christian Bibles by Prof. Felix Just, S.J.

Introduction to Chart ("OT Books of the Bible", below):

Although the "New Testament" contains the same twenty-seven books for almost all Christians, there are some major and important differences between the "Hebrew Bible" (HB) used by Jews and various versions of the "Old Testament" (OT) used by different Christian churches and denominations:

Notes:

- HB = Hebrew Bible;
  LXX = Septuagint;
  OT = Old Testament;
- Books in CAPITALS are found in Eastern Orthodox and Roman Catholic Bibles, but not in most Jewish or Protestant Bibles.
- Books in Italics are also in the LXX and considered

- The foundational texts are different:
  - Jewish Bibles are based on the HB;
  - the OT section in Christian Bibles is arranged according to the order of books in the "Septuagint" (LXX), the ancient Greek version of the Jewish scriptures;
  - however, the translations of individual OT books in Christian Bibles are now usually based on the texts of the HB.
- The total number of biblical books is different:
  - Jews count 24, Protestants 39, Catholics 46, Orthodox Christians up to 53;
  - certain books of the HB are subdivided in the LXX; e.g., "The Twelve" minor prophets are considered one book in the HB, while the LXX and Christian Bibles count these as twelve separate books;
  - the LXX contains several additional books not found in the HB; Orthodox and Catholic Christians regard these additional books as part of the OT canon (calling them the "Deuterocanonical Books"), while Jews and most Protestant Christians do not (calling them the "Apocrypha").
- The arrangement of the categories of books is different:
  - e.g. the "Latter Prophets" come before the "Writings" in the HB, but all the "Prophets" come after the "Wisdom" literature in the Christian OT.
    the order of the "Prophets" is also different between the LXX and the Catholic and Protestant OT.
- The titles of some of the books are different:
  - e.g. "Samuel" of the HB is split up into "1 Kingdoms" and "2 Kingdoms" in the LXX, which are renamed "1 Samuel" and "2 Samuel" in most Christian Bibles.
- The categorization of some books is different:
  - e.g. several of the books categorized as "Writings" in the HB are placed among the "Historical Books" or the "Prophets" in LXX and the Christian OT; the displacements of Ruth and Esther, Ezra-Nehemiah and Chronicles (1&2), and Lamentations and Daniel are indicated with highlighted colors in the chart below.

OT Books of the Bible - Comparative Chart:

HEBREW BIBLE (a.k.a. TaNaK or TaNaKh)	ORTHODOX BIBLES (based on LXX; editions vary)	CATHOLIC BIBLE (w/ Deutero-canonical books)	PROTESTANT BIBLE (w/o the Apocrypha)
Torah / Books of Moses 1) Bereshit / Genesis 2) Shemot / Exodus 3) VaYikra / Leviticus 4) BaMidbar / Numbers 5) Devarim / Deuteronomy	Pentateuch 1) Genesis 2) Exodus 3) Leviticus 4) Numbers 5) Deuteronomy	Pentateuch (Law) 1) Genesis 2) Exodus 3) Leviticus 4) Numbers 5) Deuteronomy	Law (Pentateuch) 1) Genesis 2) Exodus 3) Leviticus 4) Numbers 5) Deuteronomy
Nevi'im / Former Prophets 6) Joshua 7) Judges 8) Samuel (1&2) 9) Kings (1&2)	Historical Books 6) Joshua 7) Judges 8) Ruth 9) 1 Kingdoms (=1 Sam) 10) 2 Kingdoms (=2 Sam) 11) 3 Kingdoms (=1 Kings) 12) 4 Kingdoms (=2 Kings) 13) 1 Chronicles 14) 2 Chronicles 15) 1 Esdras 16) 2 Esdras (=Erza + Nehemiah) 17) Esther (longer version)	Historical Books 6) Joshua 7) Judges 8) Ruth 9) 1 Samuel 10) 2 Samuel 11) 1 Kings 12) 2 Kings 13) 1 Chronicles 14) 2 Chronicles 15) Ezra 16) Nehemiah 17) TOBIT	Historical Books 6) Joshua 7) Judges 8) Ruth 9) 1 Samuel 10) 2 Samuel 11) 1 Kings 12) 2 Kings 13) 1 Chronicles 14) 2 Chronicles 15) Ezra 16) Nehemiah Nevi'im / Latter Prophets 10) Isaiah 11) Jeremiah 12) Ezekiel 13) The Book of the

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Twelve: Hosea, Joel, Amos, Obadiah, Jonah, Micah, Nahum, Habakkuk, Zephaniah, Haggai, Zechariah, Malachi	18) JUDITH 19) TOBIT 20) 1 MACCABEES 21) 2 MACCABEES 22) 3 Maccabees 23) 4 Maccabees	18) JUDITH 19) Esther (longer version) 20) 1 MACCABEES 21) 2 MACCABEES	17) Esther (shorter version)
Khetuvim / Writings 14) Psalms (150) 15) Proverbs 16) Job 17) Song of Solomon 18) Ruth 19) Lamentations 20) Ecclesiastes 21) Esther 22) Daniel 23) Ezra-Nehemiah 24) Chronicles (1&2)	Poetic Books 24) Psalms (151) 25) Odes (w/ Prayer of Manasseh) 26) Proverbs 27) Ecclesiastes 28) Song of Solomon 29) Job 30) WISDOM of Solomon 31) SIRACH, a.k.a. Ecclesiasticus 32) Psalms of Solomon	Wisdom Books 22) Job 23) Psalms (150) 24) Proverbs 25) Ecclesiastes 26) Song of Solomon 27) WISDOM of Solomon 28) SIRACH, a.k.a. Ecclesiasticus	Wisdom Books 18) Job 19) Psalms (150) 20) Proverbs 21) Ecclesiastes 22) Song of Solomon
	Prophets 33) Hosea 34) Amos 35) Micah 36) Joel 37) Obadiah 38) Jonah 39) Nahum 40) Habakkuk 41) Zephaniah 42) Haggai 43) Zechariah 44) Malachi 45) Isaiah 46) Jeremiah 47) BARUCH 48) Lamentations 49) LETTER of JEREMIAH 50) Ezekiel 51) Daniel (two chapters longer): 52) SUSANNA 53) BEL and the DRAGON	Prophets 29) Isaiah 30) Jeremiah 31) Lamentations 32) BARUCH (w/ LETTER of JER.) 33) Ezekiel 34) Daniel (two chapters longer) 35) Hosea 36) Joel 37) Amos 38) Obadiah 39) Jonah 40) Micah 41) Nahum 42) Habakkuk 43) Zephaniah 44) Haggai 45) Zechariah 46) Malachi	Prophets 23) Isaiah 24) Jeremiah 25) Lamentations 26) Ezekiel 27) Daniel (shorter version) 28) Hosea 29) Joel 30) Amos 31) Obadiah 32) Jonah 33) Micah 34) Nahum 35) Habakkuk 36) Zephaniah 37) Haggai 38) Zechariah 39) Malachi

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

ORTHODOX OLD TESTAMENT	ROMAN CATHOLIC OLD TESTAMENT	PROTESTANT OLD TESTAMENT
Genesis	Genesis	Genesis
Exodus	Exodus	Exodus
Leviticus	Leviticus	Leviticus
Numbers	Numbers	Numbers
Deuteronomy	Deuteronomy	Deuteronomy
Joshua	Joshua	Joshua
Judges	Judges	Judges
Ruth	Ruth	Ruth
1 Kingdoms (= 1 Samuel)	1 Kings	1 Samuel
2 Kingdoms (= 2 Samuel)	2 Kings	2 Samuel
3 Kingdoms (= 1 Kings)	3 Kings	1 Kings
4 Kingdoms (= 2 Kings)	4 Kings	2 Kings
I Paralipomenon (= I Chronicles)	1 Paralipomenon (or Chronicles)	1 Chronicles
2 Paralipomenon (= 2 Chronicles) [1]	2 Paralipomenon (or Chronicles)	2 Chronicles
1 Esdras
2 Esdras [2]	1 Esdras	Ezra
Nehemiah	2 Esdras	Nehemiah
Tobit	Tobit
Judith	Judith
Esther	Esther	Esther [3]
1 Maccabees	1 Maccabees
2 Maccabees	2 Maccabees
3 Maccabees
Psalms [4]	Psalms	Psalms
Job	Job	Job
Proverbs of Solomon	Proverbs of Solomon	Proverbs of Solomon
Ecclesiastes	Ecclesiastes	Ecclesiastes
Asma (Canticle of Canticles)	Canticle of Canticles	Song of Solomon
Wisdom of Solomon	Wisdom of Solomon
Wisdom of Sirach	Ecclesiasticus (Sirach)
Hosea	Hosea	Hosea
Amos	Amos	Amos
Micah	Micah	Micah
Joel	Joel	Joel
Obadiah	Obadiah	Obadiah
Jonah	Jonah	Jonah
Nahum	Nahum	Nahum
Habakkuk	Habakkuk	Habakkuk
Zephaniah	Zephaniah	Zephaniah
Haggai	Haggai	Haggai
Zechariah	Zechariah	Zechariah
Malachi	Malachi	Malachi
Isaiah	Isaiah	Isaiah
Jeremiah	Jeremiah	Jeremiah
Baruch	Baruch (incl. Epistle of Jeremiah)
Epistle of Jeremiah
Lamentations	Lamentations	Lamentations
Ezekiel	Ezekiel	Ezekiel
Daniel	Daniel	Daniel [5]
4 Maccabees [6]

[1] Including the Prayer of Manasseh.
[2] Sometimes 2 Esdras and Nehemiah are combined into one book as 2 Esdras.
[3] Esther here does not include those sections called "Additions to Esther."
[4] The numbering of the Psalms diverges after Psalm 8. The Septuagint also includes one additional Psalm.
[5] Daniel here does not include those sections separately labelled as "The Song of the Three Children," "Daniel and Susannah," or "Daniel, Bel and the Snake (Dragon)."
[6] 4 Maccabees is always in an appendix.

[Source: http://www.stgeorgegreenville.org/OurFaith/Articles/BibleBooksChart.pdf]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Tradition OT Book	Luther	K.James/ English	Vulgate	Greek	Slavonic/ Russian	Syrian	Coptic	Ethiopian	Armenian
Pentateuch	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Joshua	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Judges	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Ruth	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Samuel	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Kings	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Chronicles	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Ezra	+	+	1 Ezra	2 Esdras	1 Esdras	+	+	+	+
Nehemiah	+	+	2 Ezra		+	+	+	+	+
Tobit	apocrypha	apocrypha	d	+	+	+	+	+	+
Judith	apocrypha	apocrypha	d	+	+	+	+	+	+
Esther	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Additions to Esther	apocrypha	apocrypha	d	+	+	+	+	+	+
Job	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Psalms	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Proverbs	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Qohelet	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Song of Songs	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Wisdom of Solomon	apocrypha	apocrypha	d	+	+	+	+	+	+
Sirach	apocrypha	apocrypha	d	+	+	+	+	+	+
Isaiah	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Jeremiah	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Lamentations	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Baruch	apocrypha	apocrypha	d	+	+	+	+	+	+
Letter of Jeremiah	apocrypha	apocrypha	d	+	+	+	+	+	+
Ezekiel	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Daniel	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Additions to Daniel	apocrypha	apocrypha	d	+	+	+	+	+	+
Twelve Prophets	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
1 Maccabees	apocrypha	apocrypha	d	+	+	+	+	different book with same name	+
2 Maccabees	apocrypha	apocrypha	d	+	+	+	+	different book with same name	+
3 Maccabees				+	+	+		different book with same name	extra-canonical
4 Maccabees				appendix
Prayer of Manasseh	apocrypha	apocrypha	appendix	+	+	+		+
3 Ezra		apocrypha 1 Esdras	appendix	1 Esdras	2 Esdras			+	extra-canonical
4 Ezra		apocrypha 2 Esdras	appendix		3 Esdras		+	+	extra-canonical
Psalm 151			appendix	+	+	+	+	+
Jubilees								+
Enoch								+
4 Baruch								+
Letter of Baruch (2 Baruch 78.1-86.1) [East Syrian only]						+

+ indicates that a book is canonical in that tradition;
d indicates the book is deuterocanonical in the Latin Vulgate tradition

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Deuterocanonical ("Second Canon") Books

Books Used by the Catholic Church, But Rejected by Protestants

BOOK	EVENTS DATE	BOOK DATE	COMMENTS
Susanna [Daniel]	c. 605 BCE	c. 90 BCE?	usu. before ch. 1
Prayer of Azariah and Song of the Three [Daniel]	c. 600 BCE	c. 175-164 BCE	usu. between 3:23 and 3:24
Bel and the Dragon [Daniel]	c. 600 BCE	1st cen. BCE	usu. after ch. 12
Esther [additions]	5th cen. BCE	2nd-1st cen. BCE	10 sections
1st Esdras [3 Ezra]	c. 530 BC	5th-1st cen. BCE	portions by the author of Chronicles?
Judith	?? early	c. 300 BCE	orig. in Hebrew
Wisdom of Solomon	--	? - 1st cen. BCE	chs. 1-6 maybe in Hebrew
Sirach		180-132 BCE	by Yeshua ben Eleazar ben Sira
Baruch	c. 600 BCE	c. 180 BCE	later editing?
Letter of Jeremiah	c. 600 BCE	c. 600-1st cen. BCE	usu. found with Jeremiah
1 Maccabees	c. 175-135 BCE	c. 103-64 BCE	history
2 Maccabees	c. 100 BCE	1st cen. BCE	historical commentary

Tobit – Set in 8th century BC. Written around the 2nd century BC. The author and his domicile are unknown. It was originally written in Aramaic, then translated into Greek. It contains non-historical details marking it as fiction. Key elements of story line: Tobit (patriarch of the clan) experiences financial reverses and is blinded, thereby forcing his wife Anna to support the family. Their son, Tobias (Tobiah) is eventually betrothed to Sarah, who has seven husbands die during her wedding night, and Tobias is set to be the eighth. The archangel Raphael, appearing in disguise as Tobit's relative Azarias (which means "God helps" in Hebrew), and the demon Asmodeus are also main characters. The bridal chamber demon-repellant is the heart and liver of a fish. One of the highlights is Sarah's and Tobias' bedtime prayer (Tob 8:4-9), where they are humbled by their non-compliance yet inspired by its ideals. (Ref: The How-To Book of the Bible, Karl A Schultz / a Roman Catholic perspective)

Books Approved by Eastern Orthodox Churches

BOOK	EVENTS DATE	BOOK DATE	COMMENTS
Prayer of Manasseh		2nd or 1st cen. BCE
Jubilees	? early	5th-1st cen. BCE	written in Hebrew; portions found at Qumran
Psalm 151			several versions exist; Hebrew version at Qumran
3 Maccabees	c. 146-117 BCE	c. 30-1 BCE	portions exaggerated
4 Maccabees	1st cen. BCE	before 70 CE	a reason discourse

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Approved by the Russian Orthodox Church

BOOK	EVENTS DATE	BOOK DATE	COMMENTS
2 Esdras	4th cen. BCE	1st cen. BCE or 1st cen. CE	used by Jesus?

Apocrypha Books – some notes…

These fourteen writings first appeared after the Old Testament was translated to Greek about 200-100 BC. This translation, called the Septuagint, was well done for the Pentateuch, not that well done for some of the prophetic books. Jews in Palestine never called it scripture. Greek speaking Jews and Christians outside of Palestine assumed it was scripture, since it was in the Septuagint.

When the early Christian monk Jerome translated the Old Testament from Hebrew into Latin, he had to answer a question: "Should he include these books or not?" Early in his life he thought all the Septuagint was inspired, but later he believed only the Hebrew originals, and not the apocrypha were scripture. Jerome coined a term to describe these books: Apocrypha from the Greek word for hidden, to distinguish these from both "true scripture" and other religious writings.

In 90 AD. the Jewish Council at Jamnia excluded from the Old Testament all but the writings Jews and Protestants accept today. Among Christians there was no consensus until Augustine championed the Apocrypha at the Council of Carthage in 397 AD (after Jerome's death). These writings were in Bibles used by Christians for over 1,100 years. Even the King James Bible originally included it.

When both some Catholic theologians and all Protestant reformers excluded the Apocrypha from the Bible, the Catholic Council of Trent in 1546 AD. took action. Besides condemning Luther to hell, the Council officially recognized all the books of the Council of Carthage as being in the Bible -- except for the Prayer of Manasses and 1 and 2 Esdras. (Some Catholic Bibles call Esther and Nehemiah 1,2 Esdras, which changes 1,2 Esdras into 3,4 Esdras.) Thus the Catholic Apocrypha today is three books shorter than the Apocrypha throughout most of history and the Orthodox Church today.

The books of the Apocrypha contain doctrinal, ethical, and historical errors. For instance, Tobit claims to have been alive when Jeroboam revolted (931 B.C.) and when Assyria conquered Israel (722 B.C.), despite the fact that his lifespan was only a total of 158 years (Tobit 1:3-5; 14:11)! Judith mistakenly identifies Nebuchadnezzar as king of the Assyrians (1:1, 7). Tobit has an angel prescribing the use of fish liver to ward off demons (6: 6,7)!

The theological errors are equally significant. Wisdom of Solomon teaches the creation of the world from pre-existent matter (7:17). II Maccabees teaches prayers for the dead (12:38-45/46) [which is used as a basis for support of Purgatory], and Tobit teaches the forgiveness of sins and salvation by the good work of almsgiving (4:11 and 12:9) -- contrary to standard canonical Scripture (such as John 1:3; II Samuel 12:19; Hebrews 9:27; Romans 4:5; Galatians 3:11).

Finally, the books of the Apocrypha abound in doctrinal, ethical, and historical errors. For instance, Tobit claims to have been alive when Jeroboam revolted (931 B.C.) and when Assyria conquered Israel (722 B.C.), despite the fact that his lifespan was only a total of 158 years (Tobit 1:3-5; 14:11)! Judith mistakenly identifies Nebuchadnezzar as king of the Assyrians (1:1, 7). Tobit endorses the superstitious use of fish liver to ward off demons (6: 6,7)!

The theological errors are equally significant. Wisdom of Solomon teaches the creation of the world from pre-existent matter (7:17). II Maccabees teaches prayers for the dead (12:45-46), and Tobit teaches salvation by the good work of almsgiving (12:9) -- quite contrary to inspired Scripture (such as John 1:3; II Samuel 12:19; Hebrews 9:27; Romans 4:5; Galatians 3:11).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Apocrypha consists of a set of books written between approximately 400 B.C. and the time of Christ. The word "apocrypha" (απόκρυφα) means "Hidden." These books consist of 1 and 2 Esdras, Tobit, Judith, the Rest of Esther, the Wisdom of Solomon, Sirach, (also titled Ecclesiasticus), Baruch, The Letter of Jeremiah, Song of the Three Young Men, Susanna, Bel and the Dragon, The Additions to Daniel, The Prayer of Manasseh, and 1 and 2 Maccabees.

The Protestant Church rejects the Apocrypha as being inspired, as do the Jews, but in 1546 the Roman Catholic Church officially declared some of the apocryphal books to belong to the canon of scripture. These are Tobit, Judith, 1 and 2 Maccabees, Wisdom of Solomon, Sirach (also known as Ecclesiasticus), and Baruch. The apocryphal books are written in Greek, not Hebrew (except for Ecclesiasticus, 1 Maccabees, a part of Judith, and Tobit), and contain some useful historical information.

Source: CARM.org

False Teaching in the Aprocrypha

- The command to use magic (Tobit 6:5-7).
- Forgiveness of sins by almsgiving (Tobit 4:11; 12:9).
- Offering of money for the sins of the dead (2 Maccabees 12:43-45).

See also:
http://www.truthnet.org/Bible-Origins/6_The_Apocrypha_The_Septugint/

https://cruxsolablog.com/2013/08/02/the-importance-of-the-septuagint-the-apocrypha-part-ii/ - The Importance of the Septuagint (The Apocrypha)

Abridging the Bible [Opposing view for retaining the Apocrypha]

Excerpts:

One of the first things one notices when one compares a Protestant Bible with a Catholic or Orthodox edition, is how much thinner the Protestant Bible is. This thinness has nothing to do with smaller print or finer paper, but is because seven entire books and significant sections of some other books have been removed from the Old Testament of Protestant Bibles. This seems an amazing thing to be done by people who claim to love and revere the Bible….

But I've Been Told That the "Apocrypha" are Never Quoted in the New Testament.

This is something that Fundamentalist Protestants often claim. Unfortunately for their arguments, it isn't true. See below:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Heb 11:35, "...Others were tortured, refusing to accept release, that they might find a better resurrection." The only place in the O.T. that you will find reference to that is 2 Macc 7:1-29. The first half of Heb 11:35 is found in 1 Kings 17:23 and 2 Kings 4:36.

Heb 11:38, "They wandered in deserts and mountains..."
This is found in 1 Macc 2:28-30 and 2 Macc 5:27.

Jn 10:22, "Now there took place at Jerusalem the feast of the dedication..." The inauguration of this feast is found in 1Macc 4:36 & 52-59.

Jn 14:23, "...If anyone love Me, he will keep My word..." This is in Sir 2:15. ["5" corrected from "8" in original text]

Rom 9:21, " is not the potter master of his clay..." Found in Wis 15:7

1Pet 1:6-7, "...gold which is tried by fire..." See Wis 3:5-6

Rom 1:20-23, "For since the creation of the world..." Found in Wis 13:1-7

Mt 7:12, Lk 6:31, "...all that you wish men to do to you, even so do you also to them..." Extension of Tob 4:15

Lk 25 35-36, "I was hungry and you gave me food....I needed clothes and you clothed me." Based on Tob 4:16.

Rev 21:18, "And the material of its wall was jasper; but the city itself was pure gold, like pure glass." See Tob 13 end.

Mt 13:43, "Then the just will shine forth..." Found in Wis 3:7

Mt 27:42, "...if He is the King of Israel, let Him come down now from the cross..." See Wis 2:18-20.

Lk 24:4, "...two men stood by them in dazzling raiment." Found in 2 Macc 3:26.

Rom 11:33, "...How inscrutable are His judgments and how unsearchable are His ways." Found in Judith 8:14.

1 Cor 10:20, "...they sacrifice to demons, not to God..." Found in Baruch 4:7.

[Source: http://aprofaith.tripod.com/bible.html] [note: needs some vetting]

Table of Old Testament quotes in the New Testament, in English translation

http://www.kalvesmaki.com/LXX/NTChart.htm (AV/KJV, LXX, Masoretic)

> Notes on the Septuagint (by R. Grant Jones) – includes comparisons of Septuagint, Masoretic, AV, etc. (190 pages) [Layman/Physicist] [Note: referenced above link -- but the url is invalid; this is a valid link as of this writting]
> http://www.areopage.net/PDF/LXXNotesFeb06.pdf [PDF]

See also: Languages of the Bible and The Septuagint In this APPENDIX

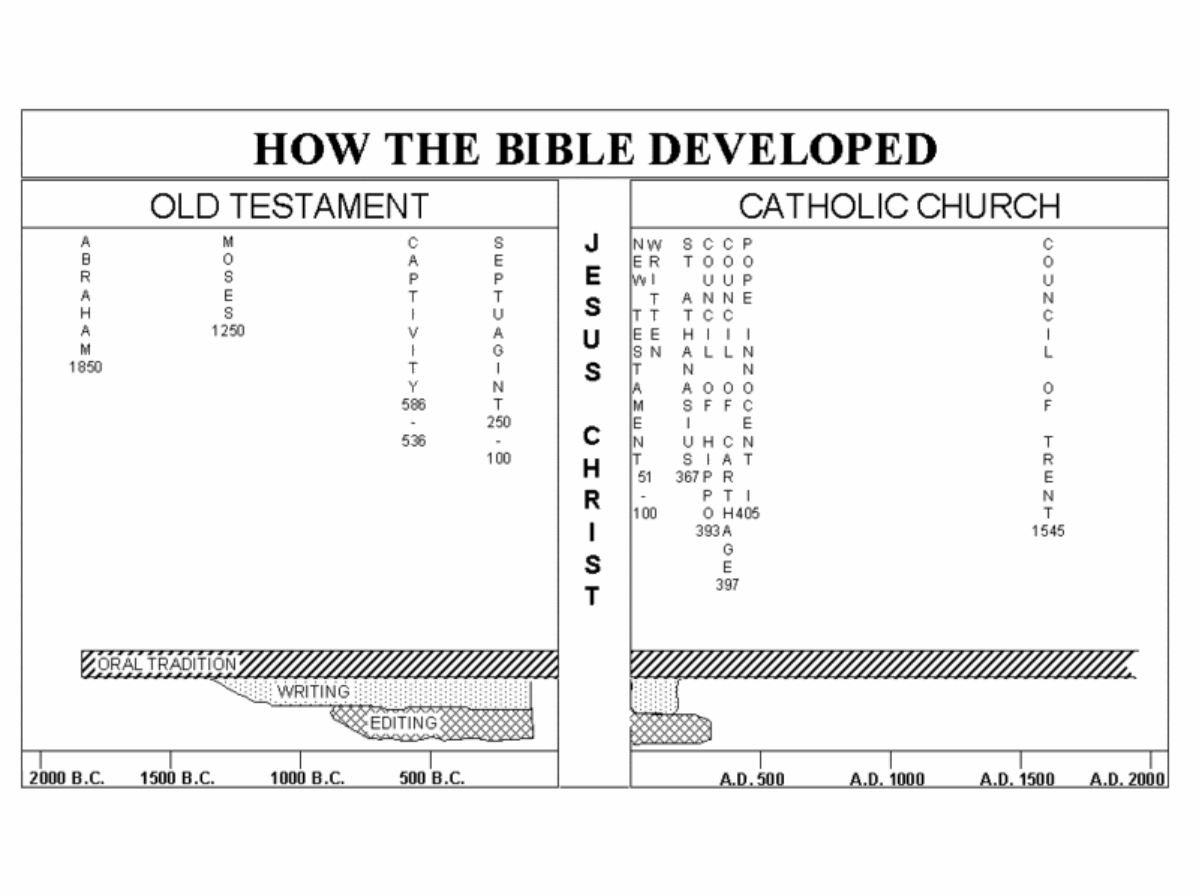
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Deuterocanonical/Apocrypha Comparison Chart



Deuterocanonical/Apocrypha Comparison Chart

Codex Vaticanus (B)	Codex Sinaiticus (א)	Codex Alexandrinus (A)	Greek Orthodox Deuterocanonical	Roman Catholic Deuterocanonical	Protestant Apocrypha
1 (3) Esdras	1 (3) Esdras	1 (3) Esdras	1 (3) Esdras		1 (3) Esdras
					2 (4) Esdras
Tobit	Tobit	Tobit	Tobit	Tobit	Tobit
Judith	Judith	Judith	Judith	Judith	Judith
Additions to Esther	Additions to Esther	Additions to Esther	Additions to Esther	Additions to Esther	Additions to Esther
Wisdom of Solomon	Wisdom of Solomon	Wisdom of Solomon	Wisdom of Solomon	Wisdom of Solomon	Wisdom of Solomon
Ecclesiasticus	Ecclesiasticus	Ecclesiasticus	Ecclesiasticus	Ecclesiasticus	Ecclesiasticus
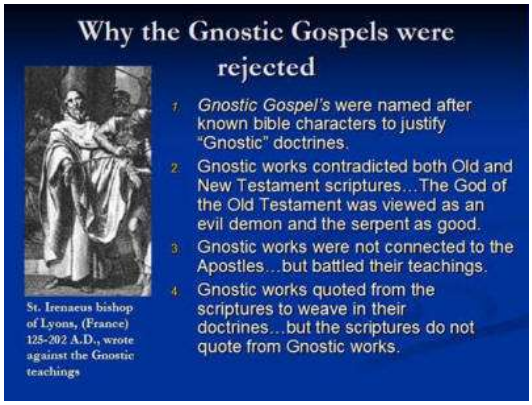
Baruch		Baruch	Baruch	Baruch	Baruch
Epistle of Jeremiah		Epistle of Jeremiah	Epistle of Jeremiah	Epistle of Jeremiah	Epistle of Jeremiah
Prayer of Azariah	[Prayer of Azariah	Prayer of Azariah	Prayer of Azariah	Prayer of Azariah	Prayer of Azariah
Story of Susanna	Story of Susanna	Story of Susanna	Story of Susanna	Story of Susanna	Story of Susanna
Bel and the Dragon	Bel and the Dragon]	Bel and the Dragon	Bel and the Dragon	Bel and the Dragon	Bel and the Dragon
			Prayer of Manasseh		Prayer of Manasseh
	1 Maccabees	1 Maccabees	1 Maccabees	1 Maccabees	1 Maccabees
		2 Maccabees	2 Maccabees	2 Maccabees	2 Maccabees
		3 Maccabees	3 Maccabees
	4 Maccabees	4 Maccabees	4 Maccabees
Psalm 151	Psalm 151	Psalm 151	Psalm 151

[Source: http://keywordteam.net/gallery/204075.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

How the Bible Developed (Catholic Perspective)

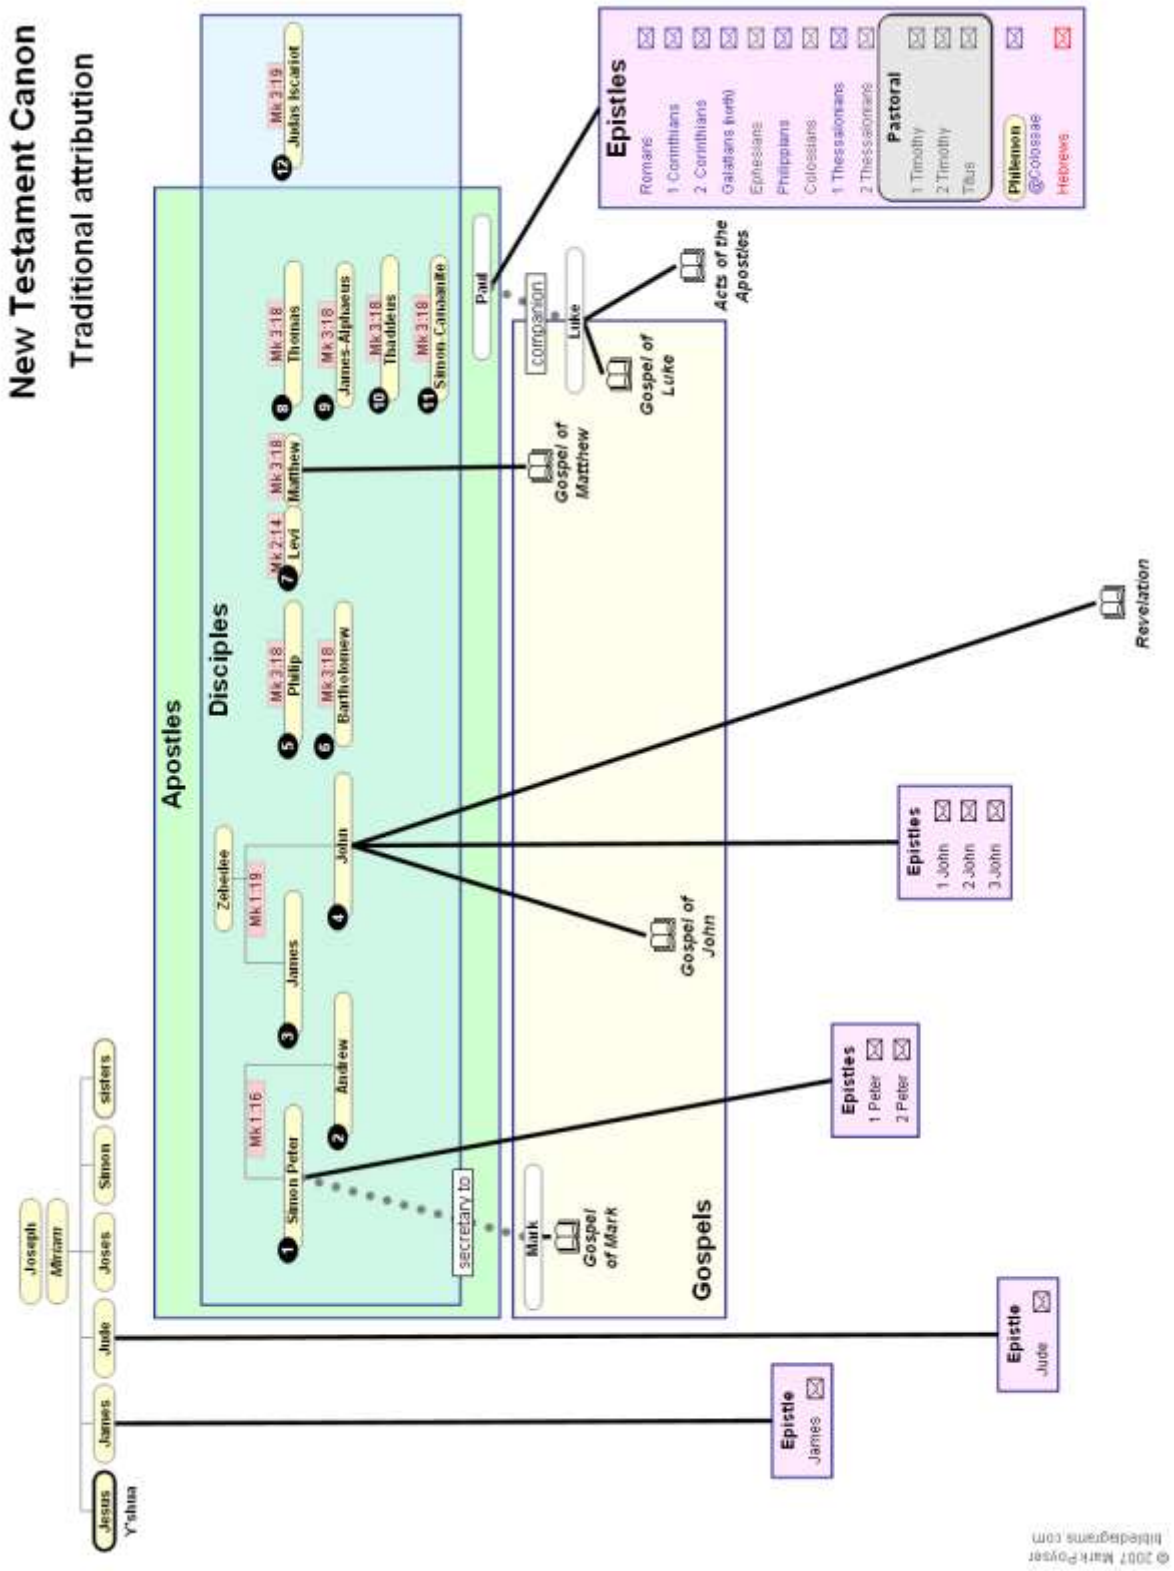


Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Development of the NT Over Time

Muratorian List 190s	Origen's List Egypt 250	Eusebius' List Caesarea 300	Athanasius' List Egypt 367 (The first listing of the 27 books of the NT)
Four Gospels Acts Romans I & II Corinthians Galatians Ephesians Philippians Colossians I & II Thessalonians I & II Timothy Titus Philemon I & II John Jude Revelation (of John) Wisdom of Solomon	Four Gospels Acts Romans I & II Corinthians Galatians Ephesians Philippians Colossians I & II Thessalonians I & II Timothy Titus Philemon I Peter I John Revelation (of John)	Four Gospels Acts Romans I & II Corinthians Galatians Ephesians Philippians Colossians I & II Thessalonians I & II Timothy Titus Philemon I Peter I John Revelation (of John)	Four Gospels Acts Romans I & II Corinthians Galatians Ephesians Philippians Colossians I & II Thessalonians I & II Timothy Titus Philemon Hebrews James I & II Peter I & II & III John Jude Revelation (of John)
For private use: Shepherd of Hermas Disputed: Revelation of Peter	Disputed: Hebrews James II Peter II & III John Jude Shepherd of Hermas Barnabas Didache Gospel of Hebrews	Disputed but well-known: James II Peter II & III John Jude To be excluded: Shepherd of Hermas Barnabas Gospel of Hebrews Revelation of Peter Acts of Peter and Paul Didache

[Source: http://www.christiantimelines.com/canonization_chart.htm]

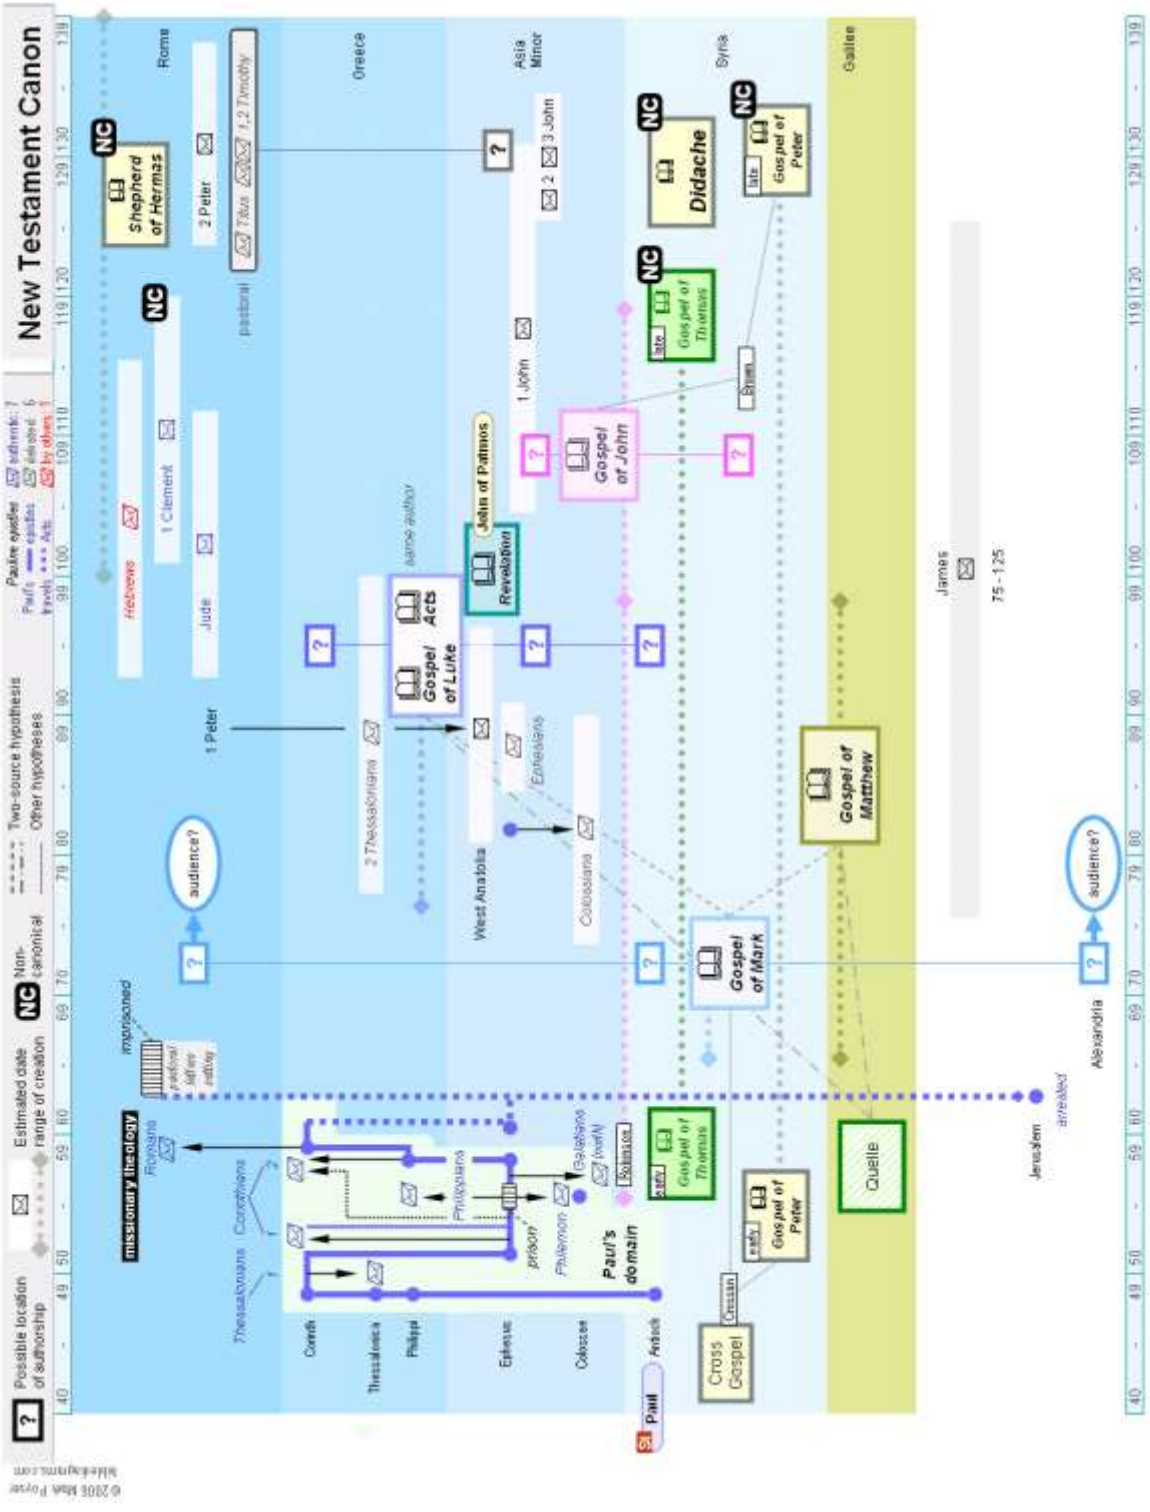


Rejected Gnostic Gospels

- The Gospel of Thomas (second century CE)
- The Gospel of Truth (second century CE)
- The Gospel of Judas (second century CE)
- The Gospel of Peter (second century CE)
- The Gospel of Mary (second century CE)
- The Gospel of Philip (second–third centuries CE)
- The Gospel of the Egyptians (second–third centuries CE)

https://www.exploregod.com/what-are-the-gnostic-gospels

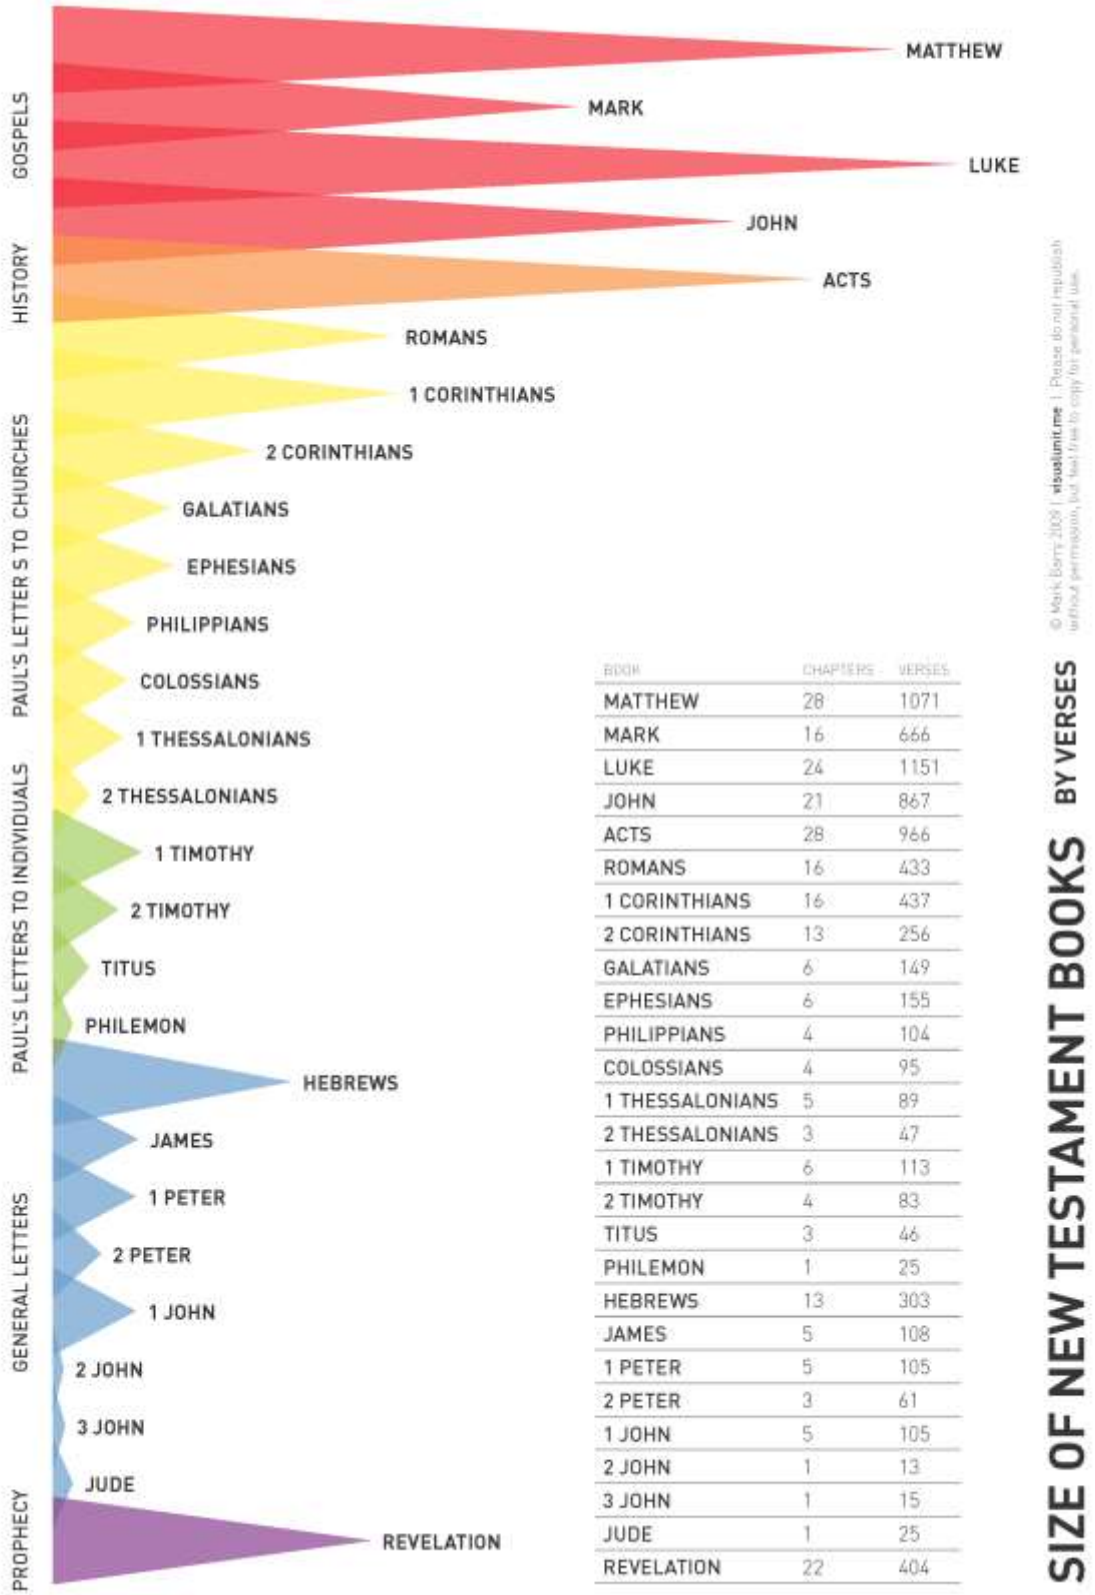
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



New Testament Canon (Traditional)

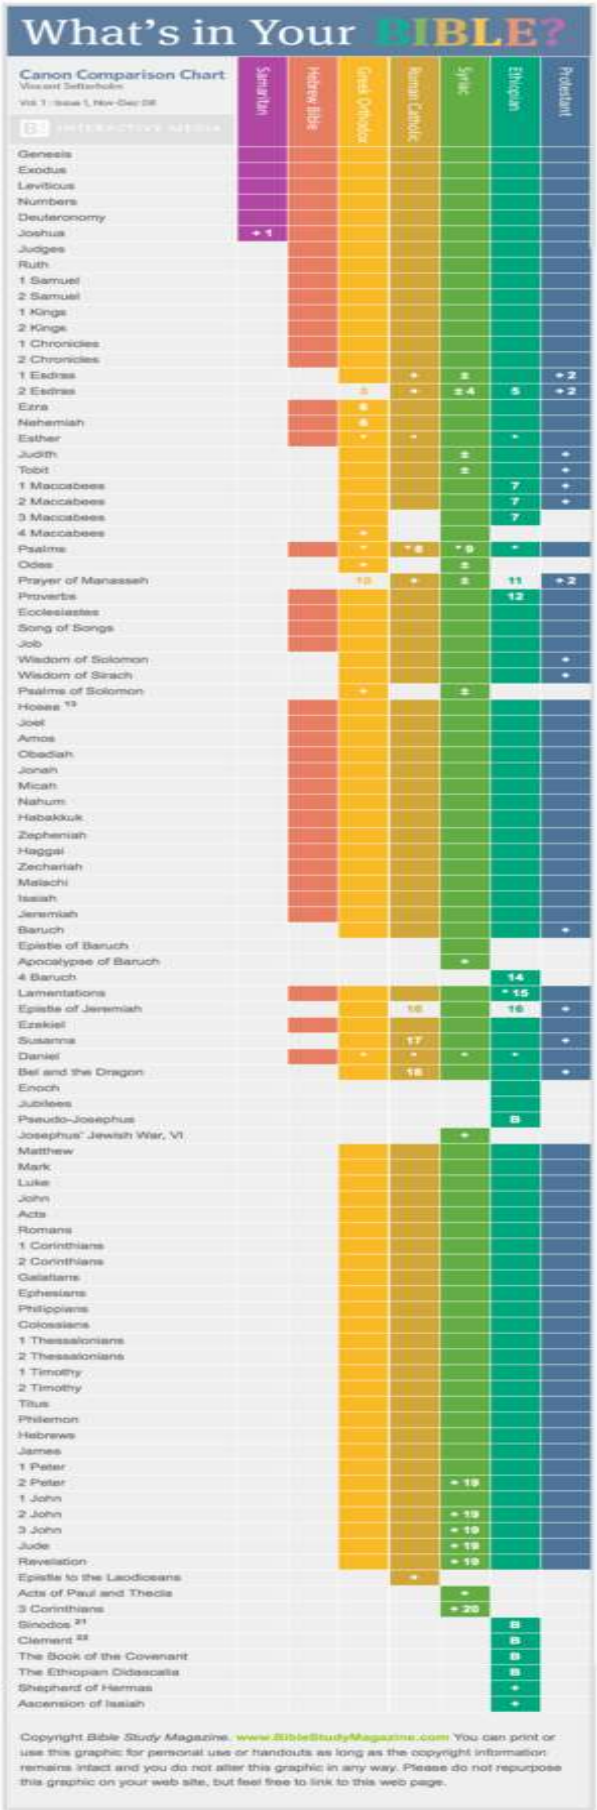
[Source: http://www.bblediagrams.com] (Additional OT and NT charts and diagrams)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



New Testament Canon (Scholarly)

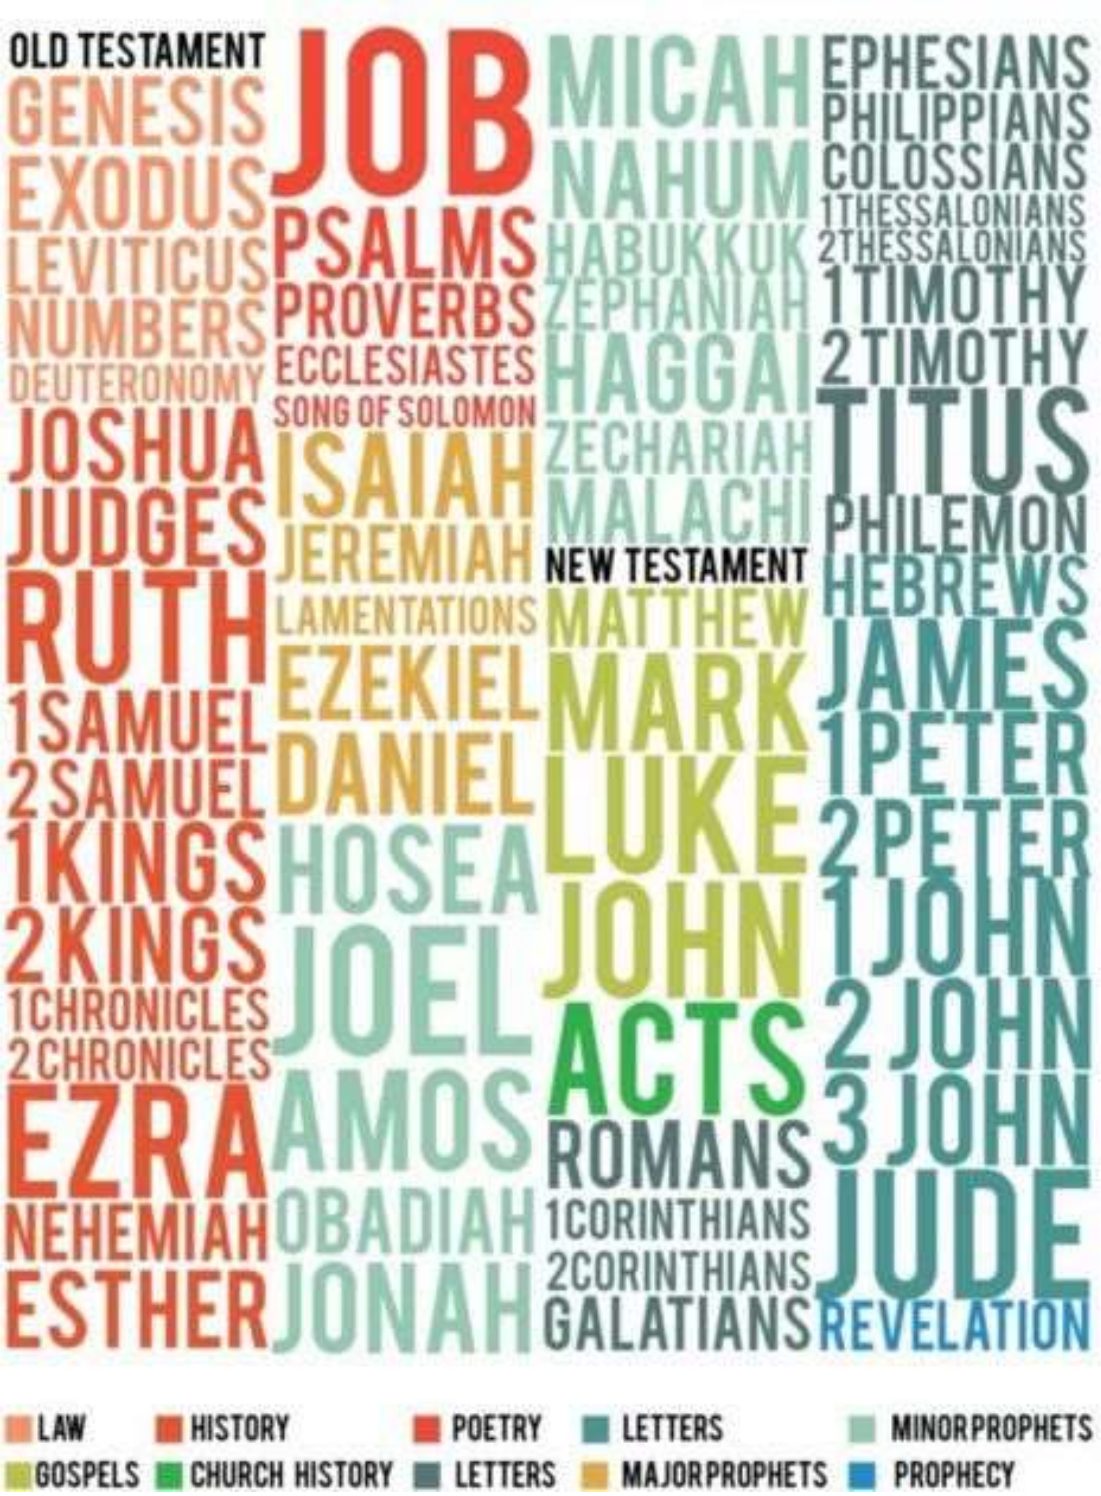
[Source: http://www.bblediagrams.com] (Additional OT and NT charts and diagrams)



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Size of New Testament Books

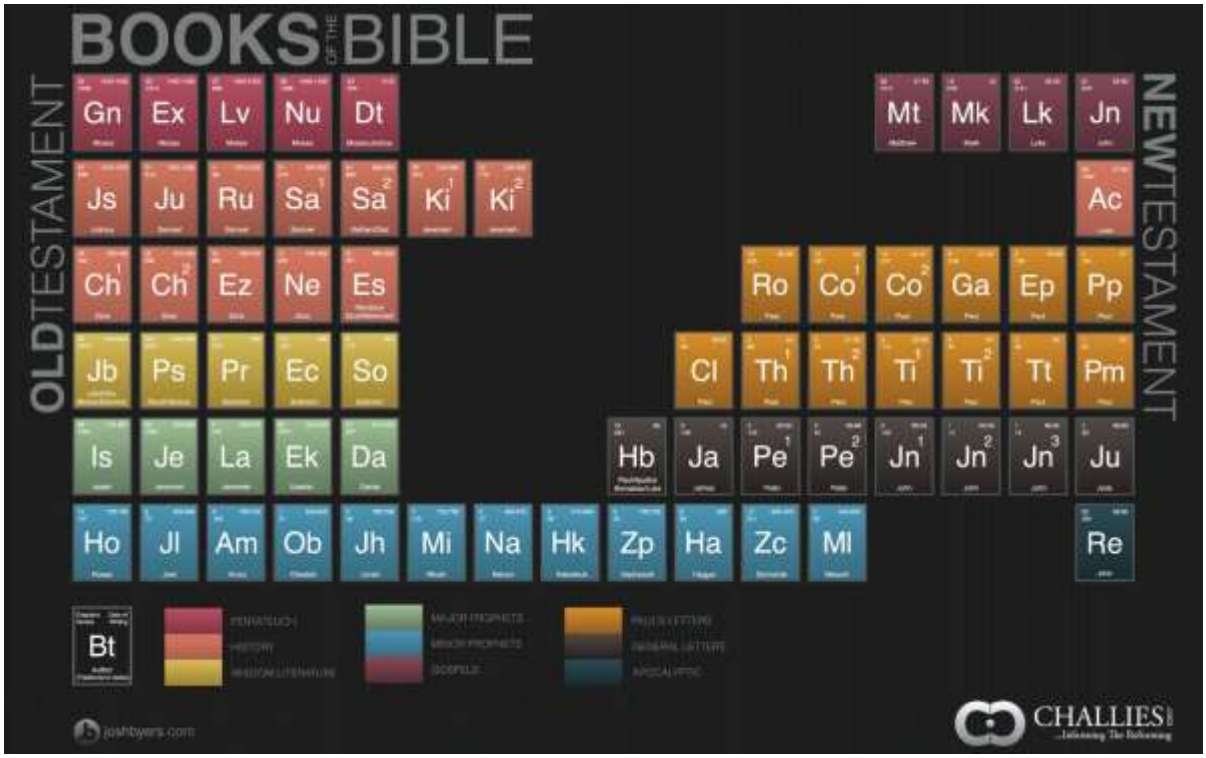
BOOK	CHAPTERS	VERSES
MATTHEW	28	1071
MARK	16	666
LUKE	24	1151
JOHN	21	867
ACTS	28	966
ROMANS	16	433
1 CORINTHIANS	16	437
2 CORINTHIANS	13	256
GALATIANS	6	149
EPHESIANS	6	155
PHILIPPIANS	4	104
COLOSSIANS	4	95
1 THESSALONIANS	5	89
2 THESSALONIANS	3	47
1 TIMOTHY	6	113
2 TIMOTHY	4	83
TITUS	3	46
PHILEMON	1	25
HEBREWS	13	303
JAMES	5	108
1 PETER	5	105
2 PETER	3	61
1 JOHN	5	105
2 JOHN	1	13
3 JOHN	1	15
JUDE	1	25
REVELATION	22	404



© Mark Barry 2009 | visualmit.me | Please do not republish without permission, but feel free to copy for personal use.

[Source: http://www.biblestudymagazine.com/extras-1/2014/10/31/whats-in-the-bible] (What's in Your Bible?)

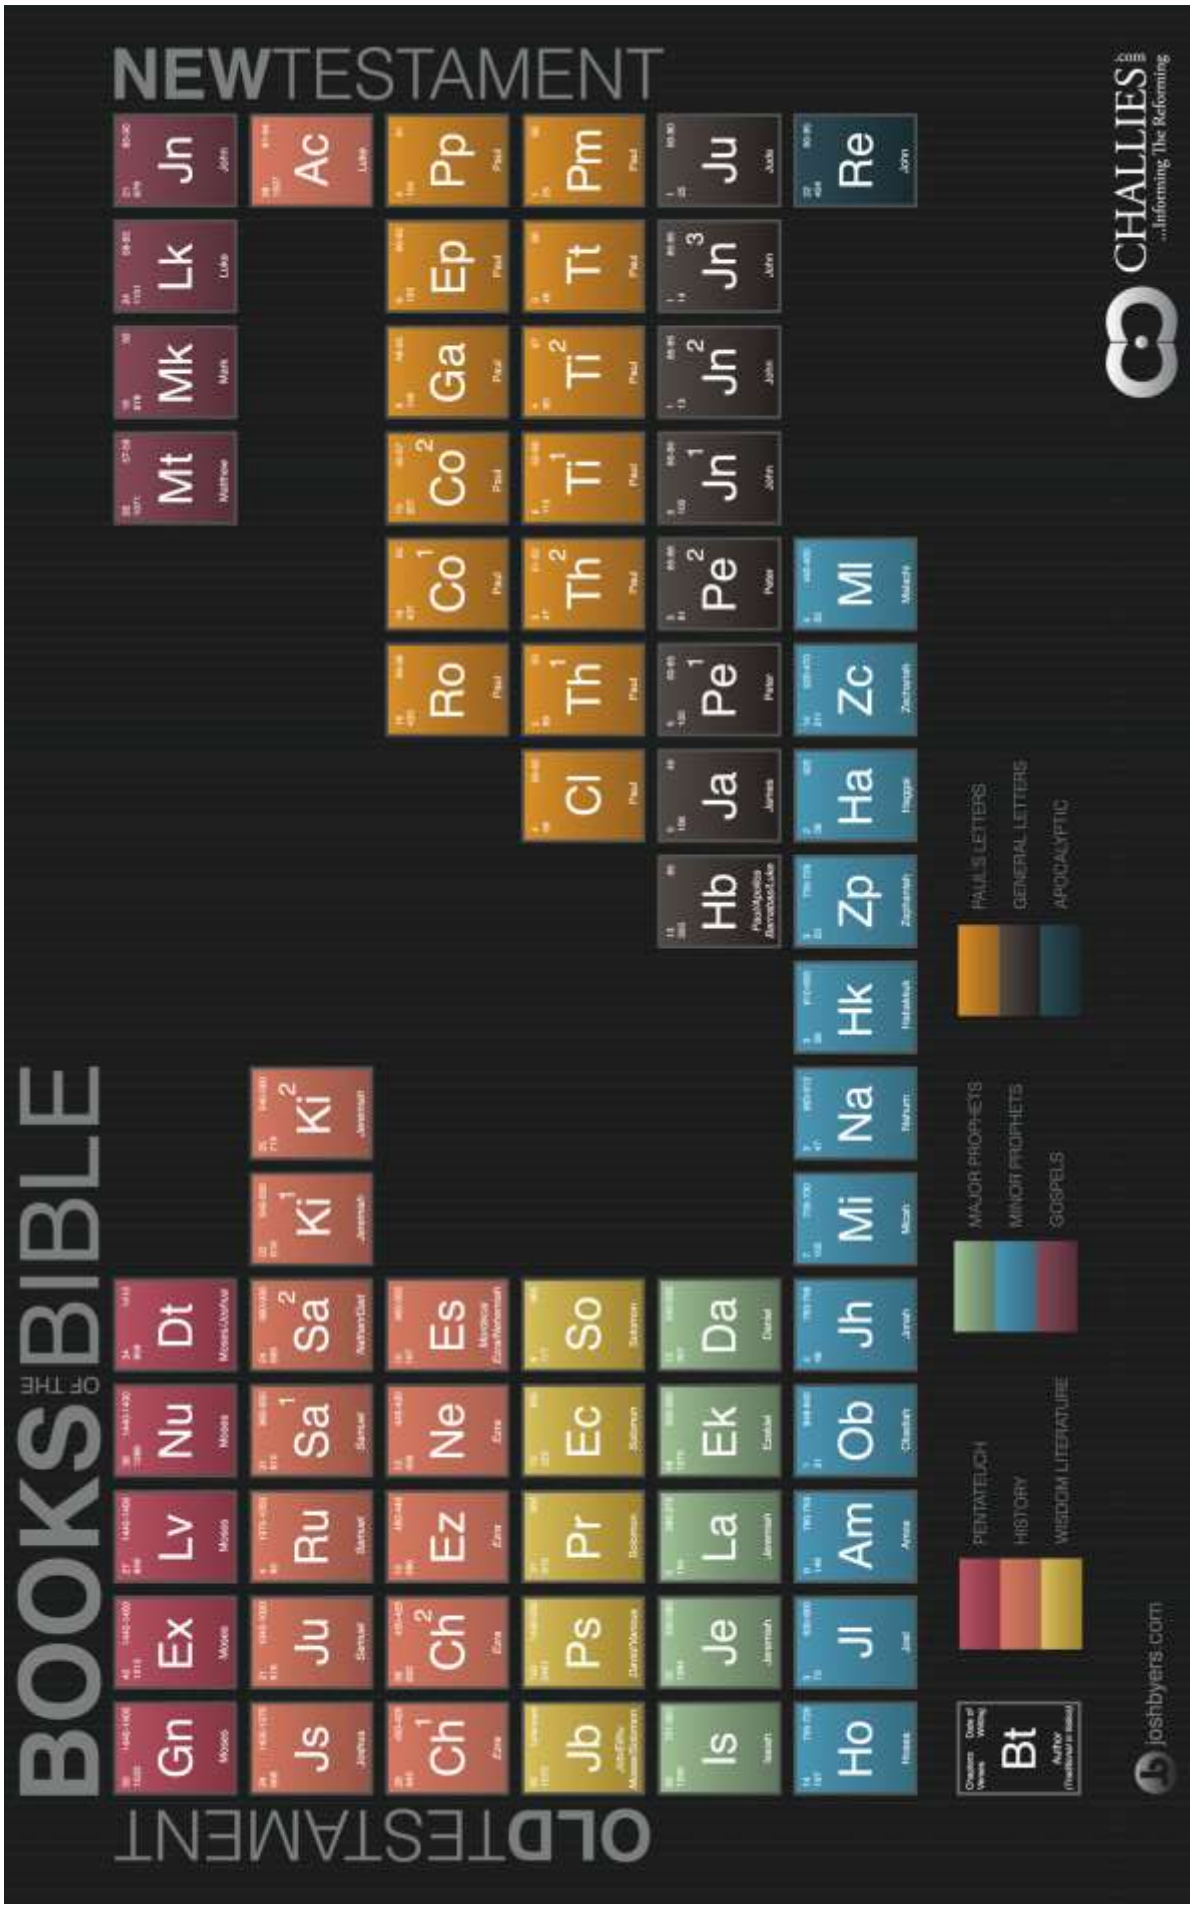
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



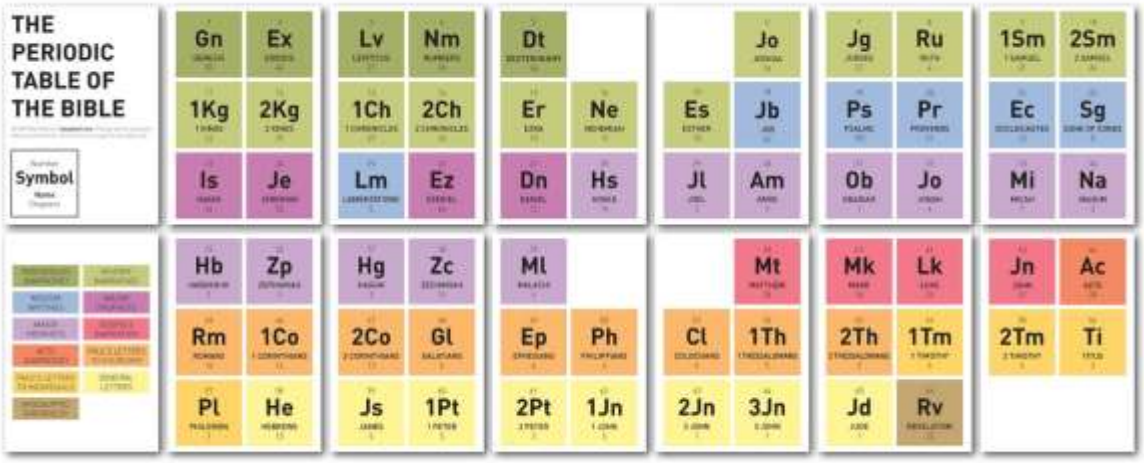
Genre Chart of the Books of the Bible (Protestant)

[Source: https://jsparkblog.com/2012/01/06/new-year-resolution-bible-reading-plans/]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



‘Periodic’ Books of the Bible (Protestant)

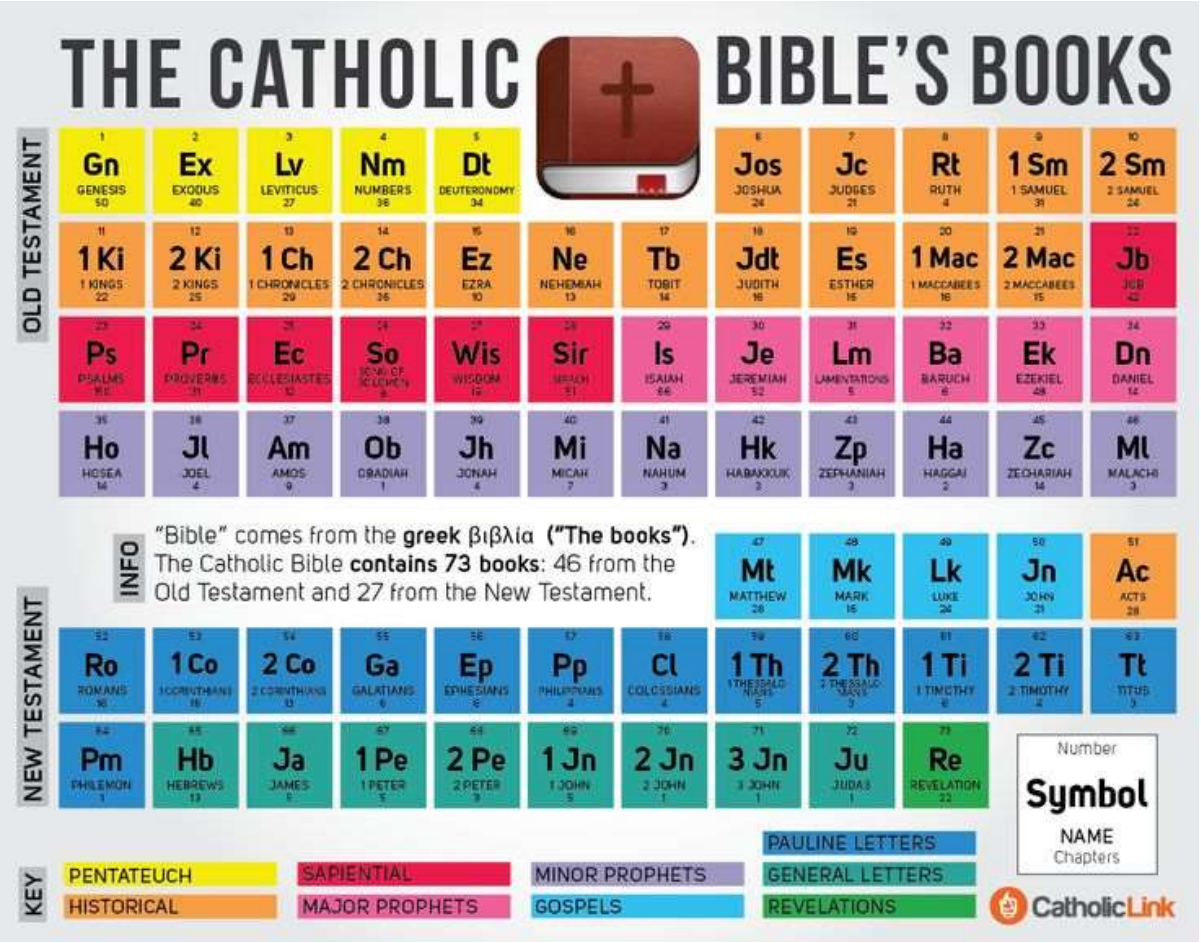


See next page for larger view of table…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

(Another) Periodic Table of the Bible



See next page for larger view of table…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Periodic Table of Catholic Bible Books

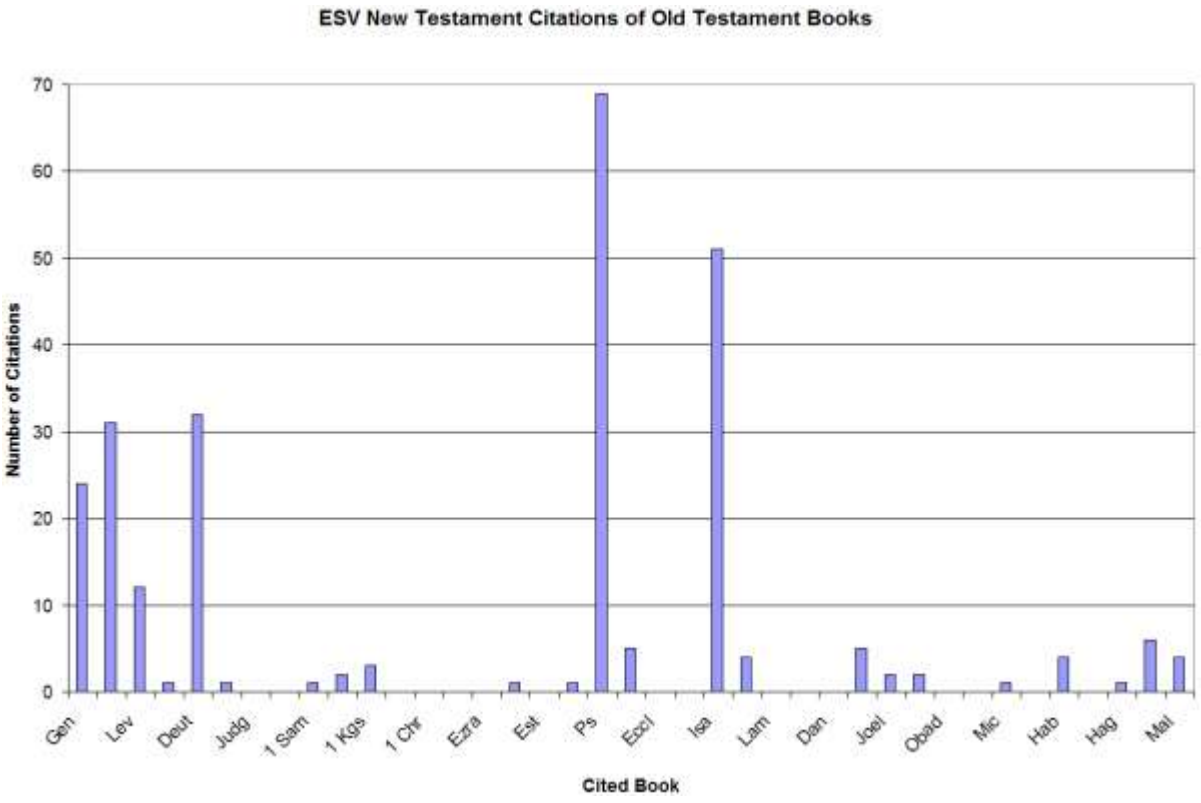
See next page for larger view of table…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Quotations from the Old Testament in the New Testament

New Testament Book	Old Testament Verse Occurence
The Gospel of Matthew	96
The Gospel of Mark	34
The Gospel of Luke	58
The Gospel of John	40
Acts of the Apostles	57
Romans	74
1 Corinthians	41
2 Corinthians	13
Galatians	16
Ephesians	11
Philippians	3
Colossians	3
1 Thessalonians	2
2 Thessalonians	2
1 Timothy	6



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

2 Timothy	2
Hebrews	86
James	16
1 Peter	20
2 Peter	10
1 John	6
Revelation	249
Total	855 Times ***

 Note: The occurrences as given by Johnson total to 845. -Ed.

[Source: https://www.blueletterbible.org/study/pnt/pnt08.cfm]

see also: https://www.blueletterbible.org/study/misc/quotes.cfm

[Source: https://www.crossway.org/blog/2006/03/nt-citations-of-ot/]

New Testament use of the Old Testament

http://www.theopedia.com/new-testament-use-of-the-old-testament

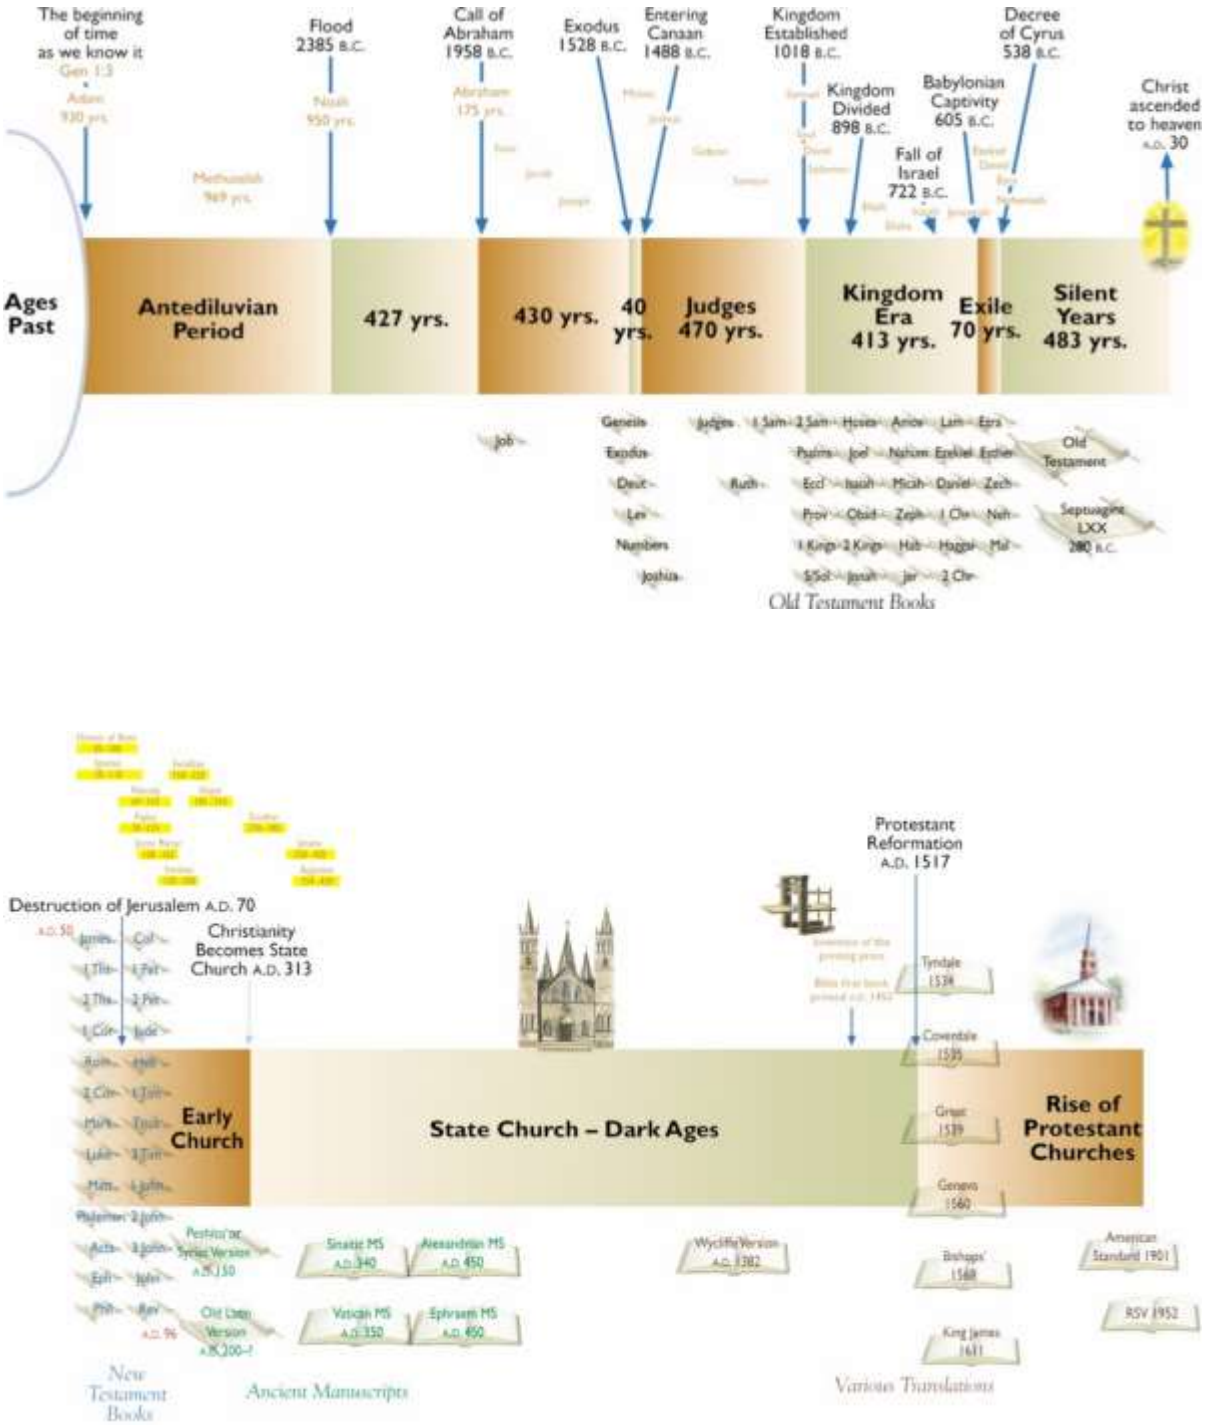
Jesus' References to Old Testament Scriptures

https://jewsforjesus.org/publications/newsletter/september-2008/05

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

% of the Old Testament Found in the New Testament

For whatever things were written before were written for our learning, that we through the patience and comfort of the Scriptures might have hope.
Romans 15:4



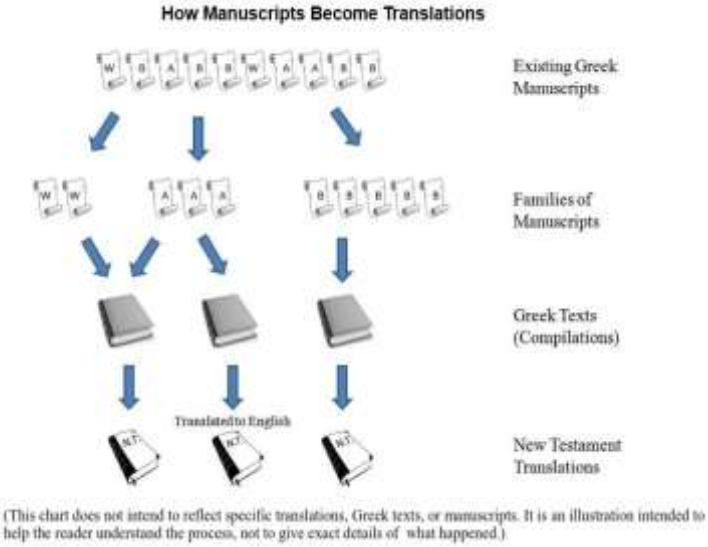
BOOK	% OF O. T. REFERENCES
Matthew	31%	310 in	1,071 verses
Mark	19%	131 in	678 verses
Luke	28%	328 in	1,151 verses
John	14%	129 in	890 verses
Acts	23%	231 in	1,006 verses
Romans	35%	153 in	433 verses
1 Corinthians	26%	115 in	437 verses
2 Corinthians	22%	57 in	257 verses
Galatians	19%	28 in	149 verses
Ephesians	30%	46 in	155 verses
Philippians	14%	15 in	104 verses
Colossians	10%	9 in	95 verses
1 Thessalonians	18%	16 in	89 verses
2 Thessalonians	34%	16 in	47 verses
1 Timothy	19%	22 in	113 verses
2 Timothy	14%	7 in	83 verses
Titus	15%	12 in	46 verses
Philemon	0%	0 in	25 verses
Hebrews	69%	210 in	303 verses
James	47%	51 in	108 verses
1 Peter	69%	72 in	105 verses
2 Peter	23%	14 in	61 verses
1 John	10%	10 in	105 verses
2 John	8%	10 in	13 verses
3 John	7%	1 in	14 verses
Jude	68%	17 in	25 verses
Revelation	150%	605 in	404 verses
TOTALS		2,606 of	7,967 verses

Barnes Bible Charts

[Source: http://www.biblecharts.org/oldtestament.html]

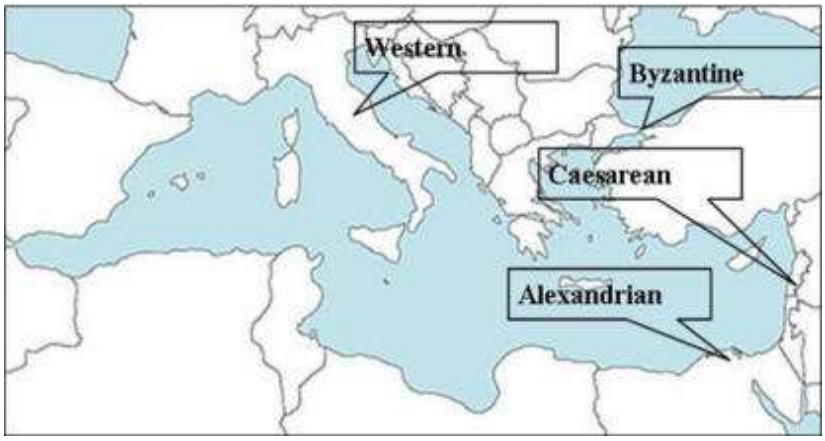
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

How We Got the Bible

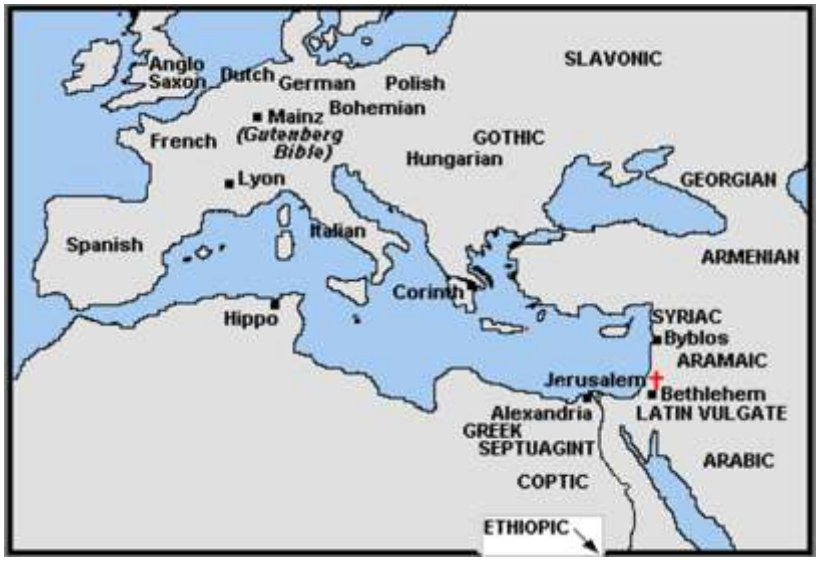


[Source: theWord software]

See also:
Bible.org: How We Got the Bible
https://bible.org/series/how-we-got-bible

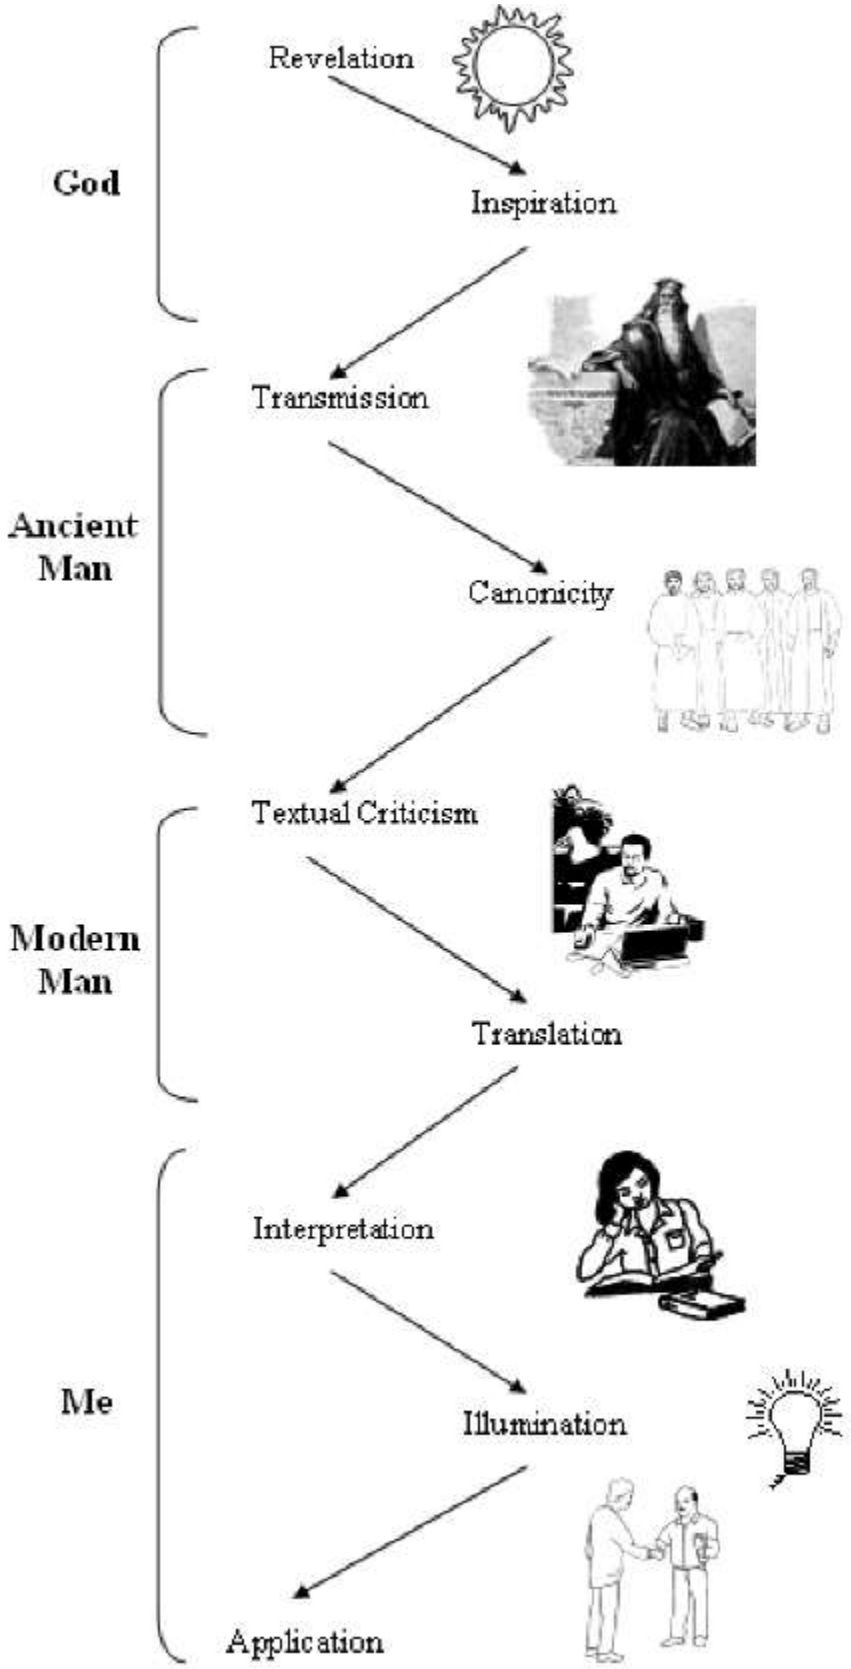


Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

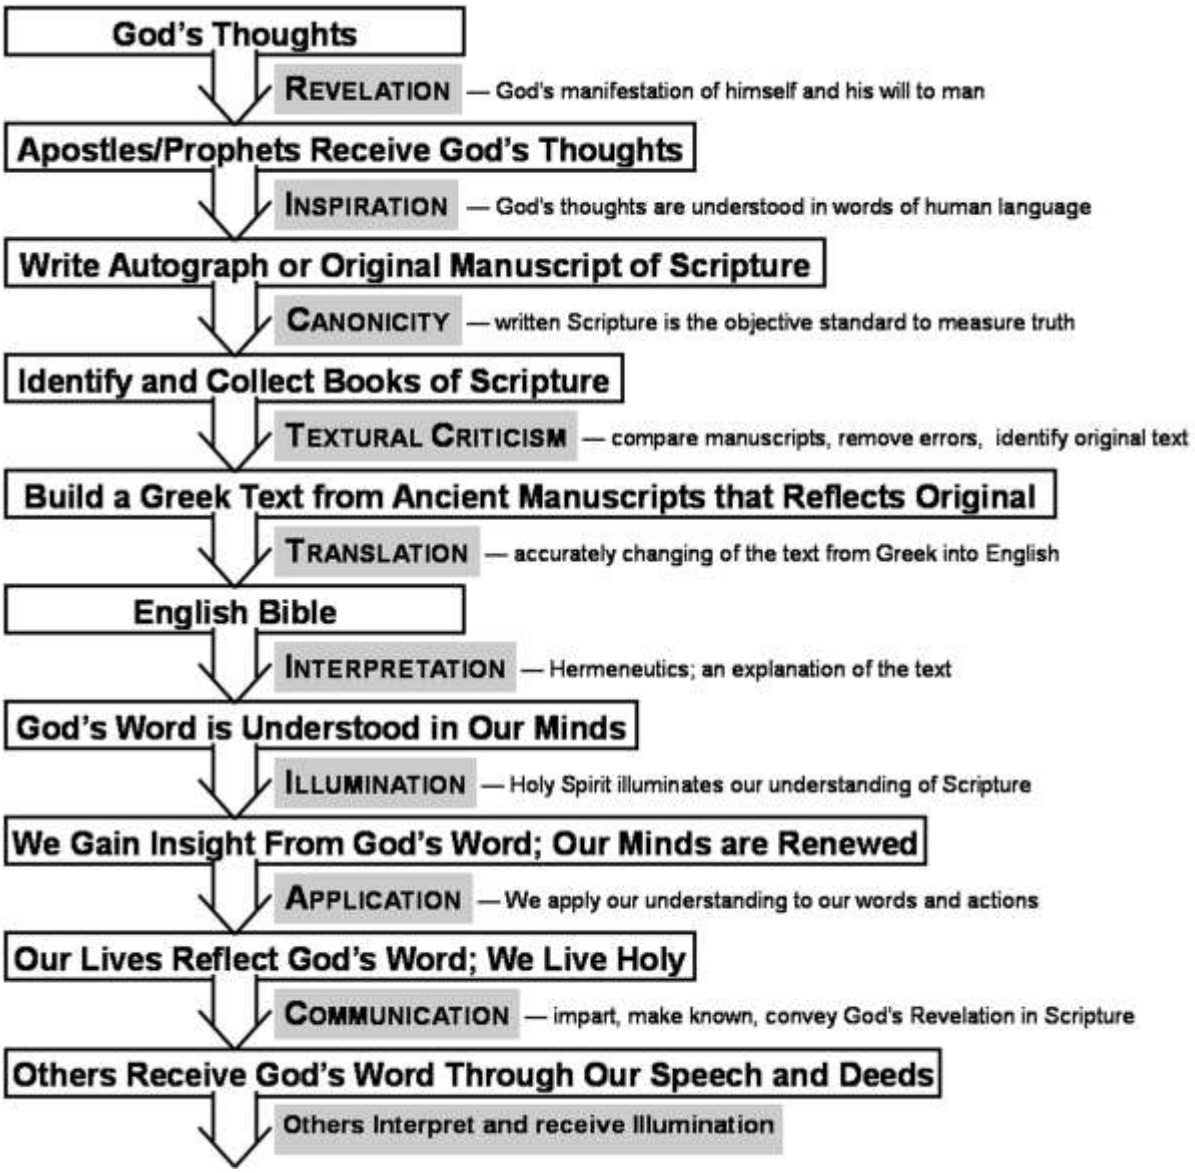


Bible Translations

(This chart does not intend to reflect specific translations, Greek texts, or manuscripts. It is an illustration intended to help the reader understand the process, not to give exact details of what happened.)



Main Manuscript Areas / Groupings

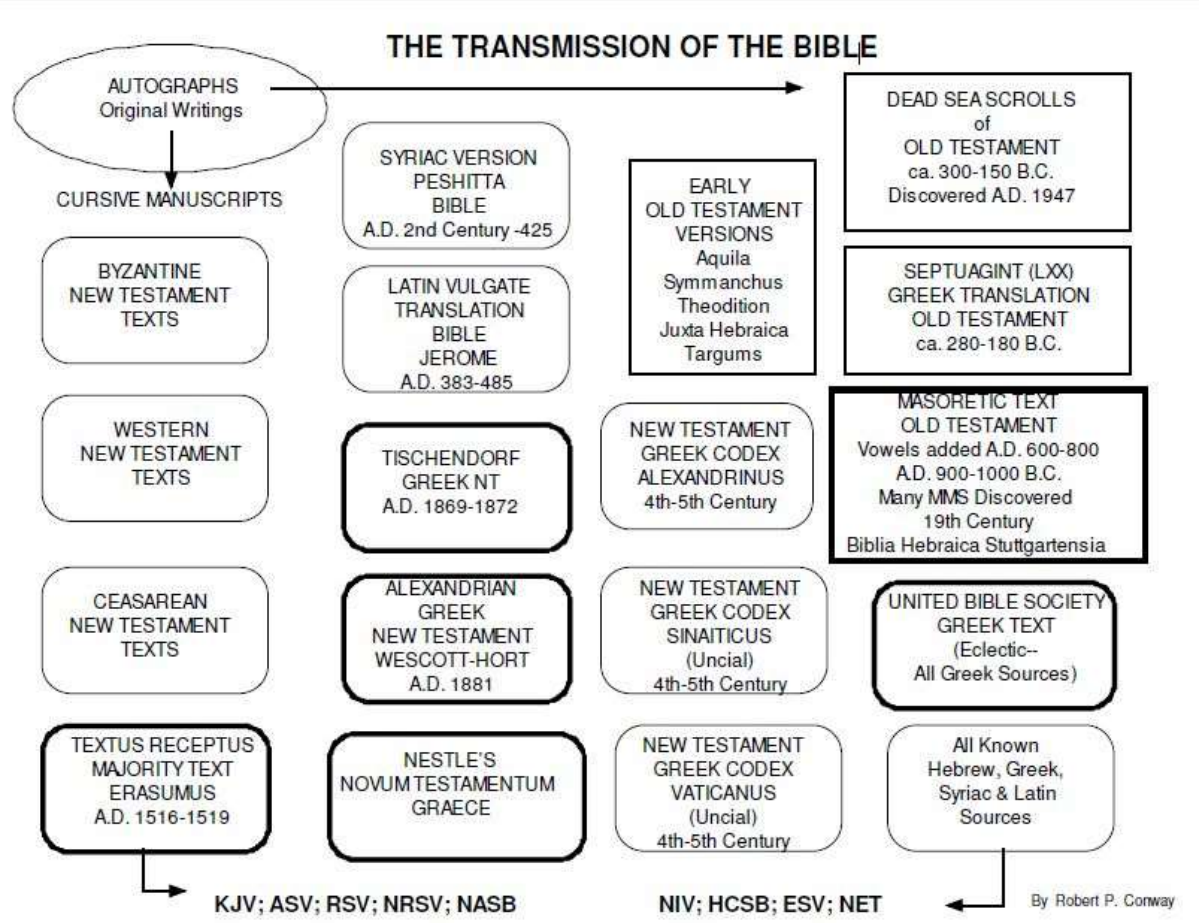


Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

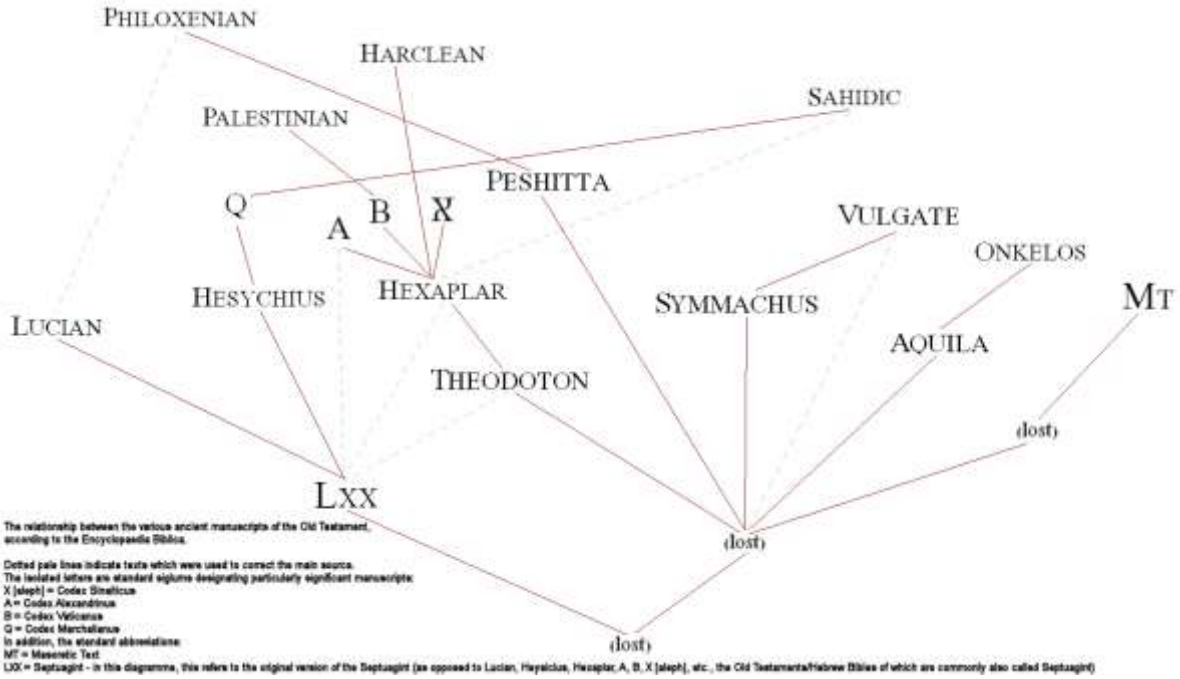
How the Bible Got From God to Us

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Diagram Chart Comparing Biblical Inspiration and Illumination



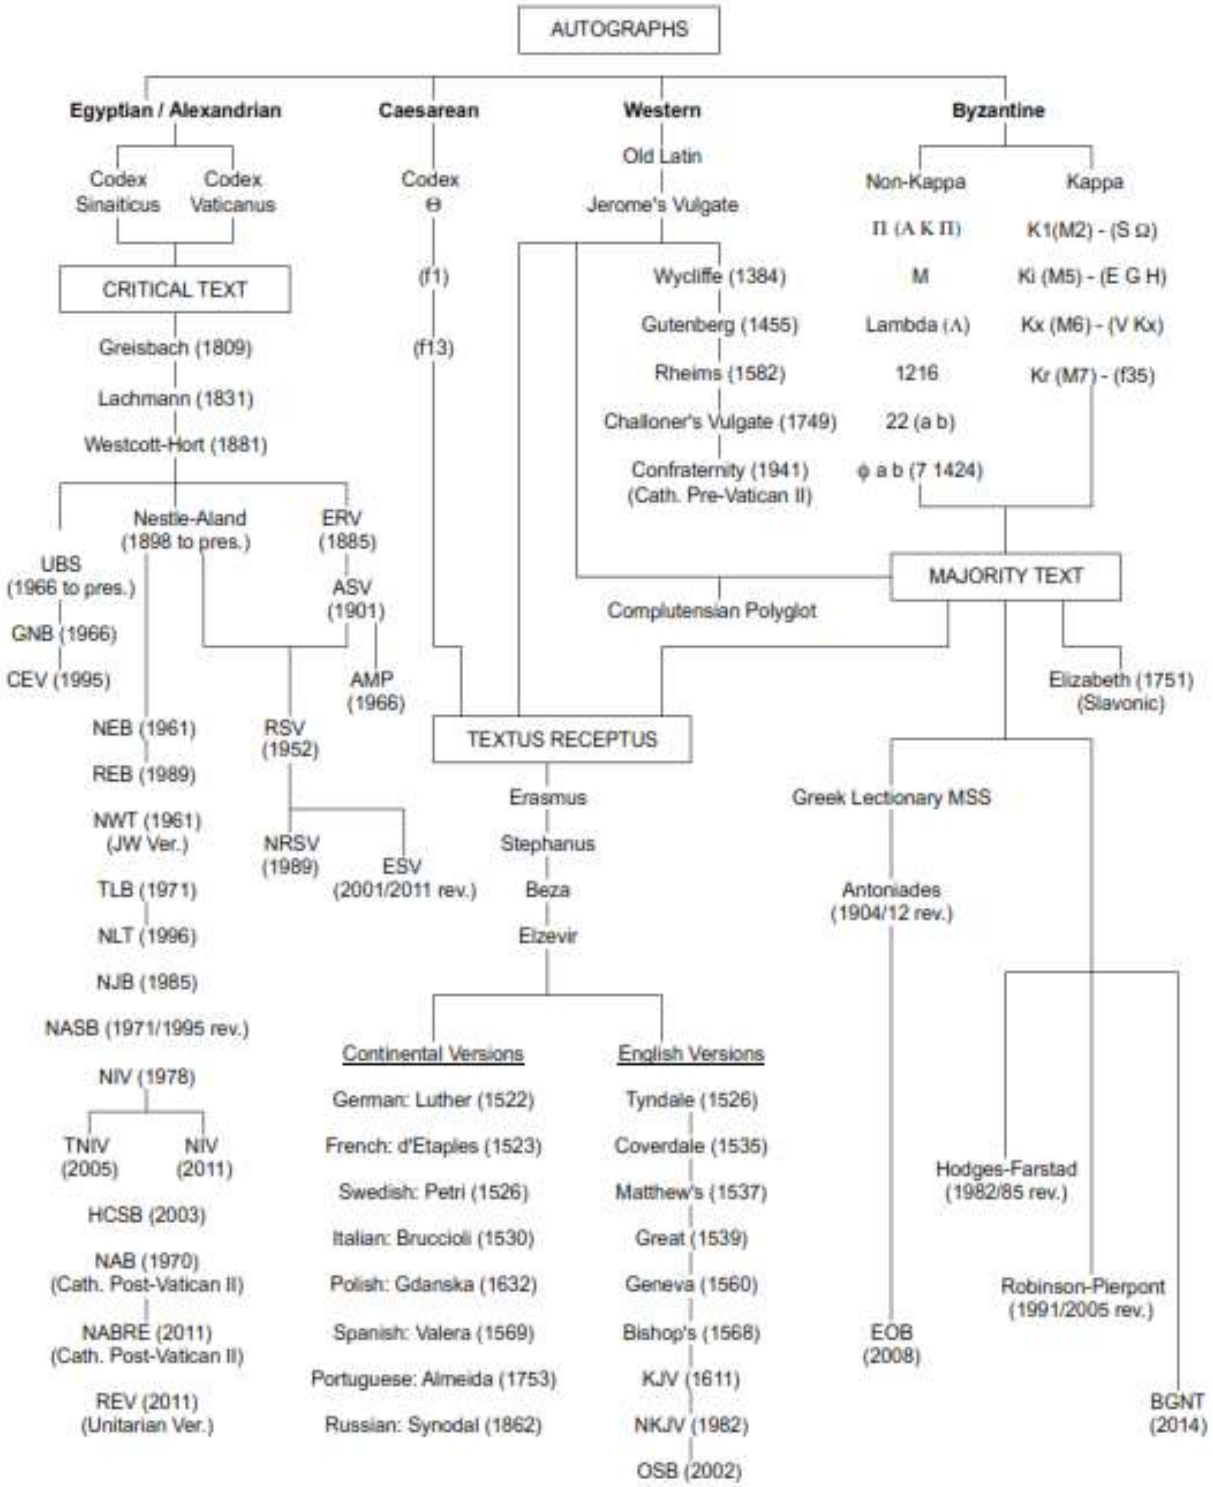
The Bible
http://www.quazoo.com/q/Bible



Bible Translations
http://www.quazoo.com/q/Bible_translations

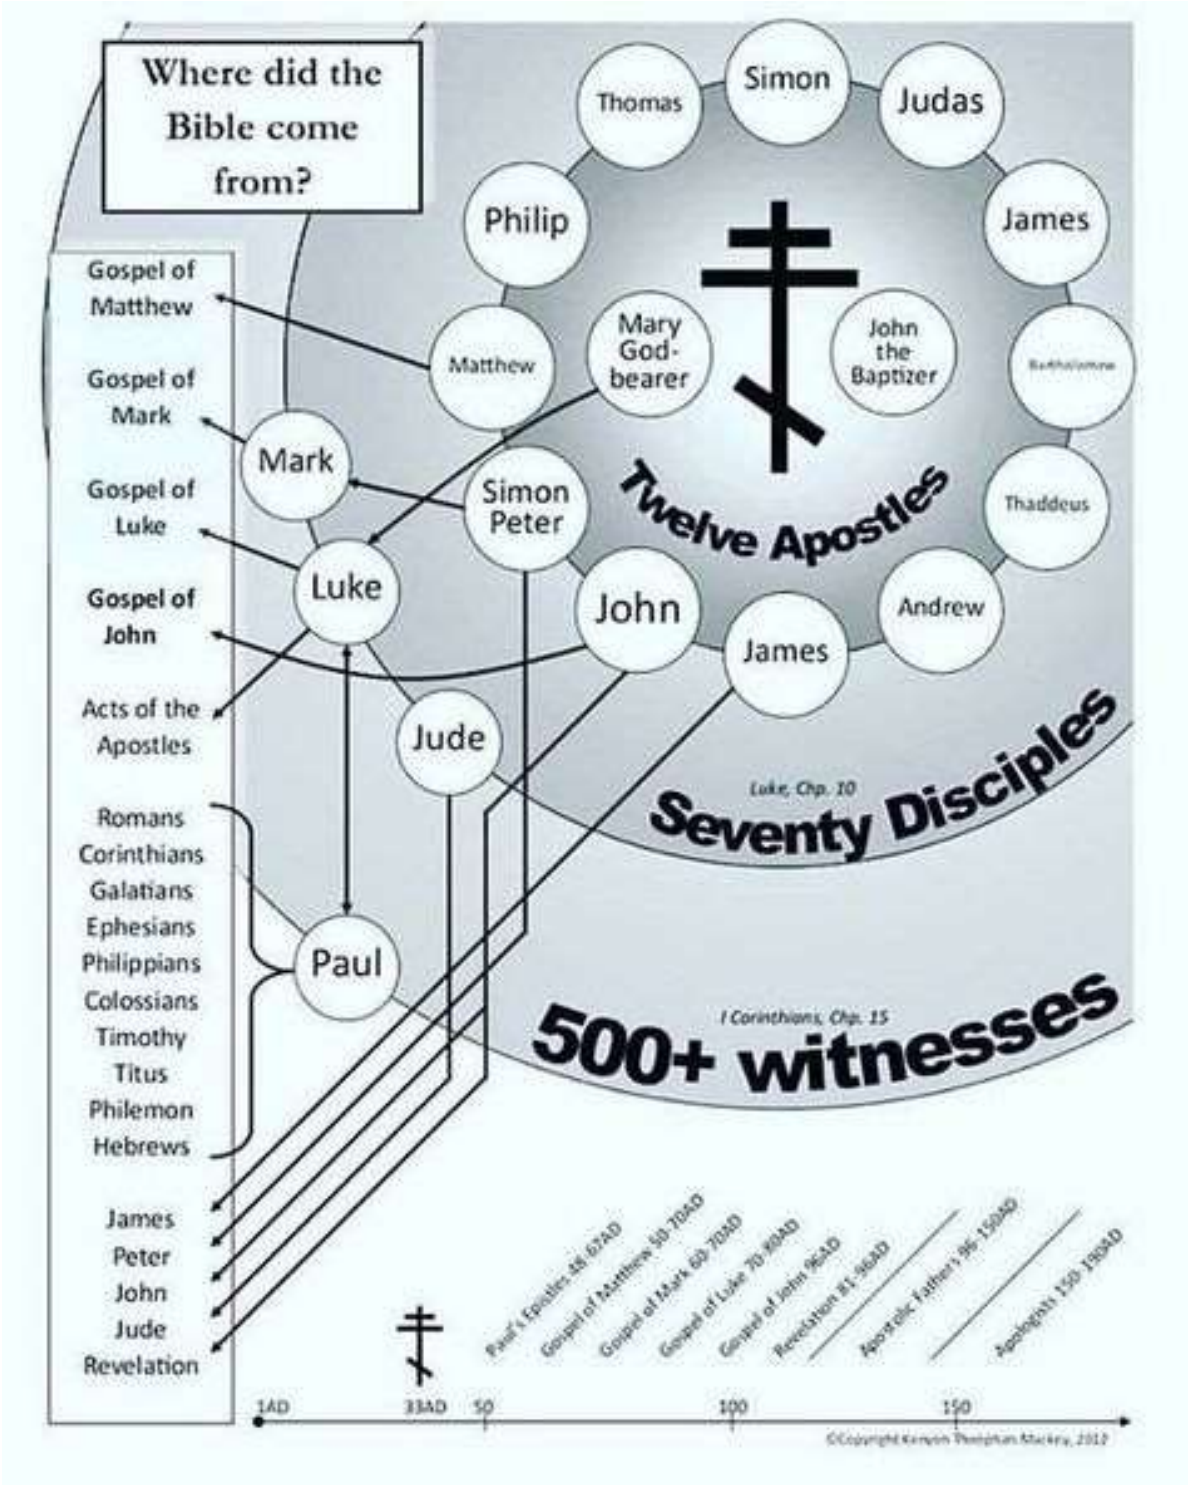
Bible Versions and Translations
http://www.quazoo.com/q/Bible_versions_and_translations

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

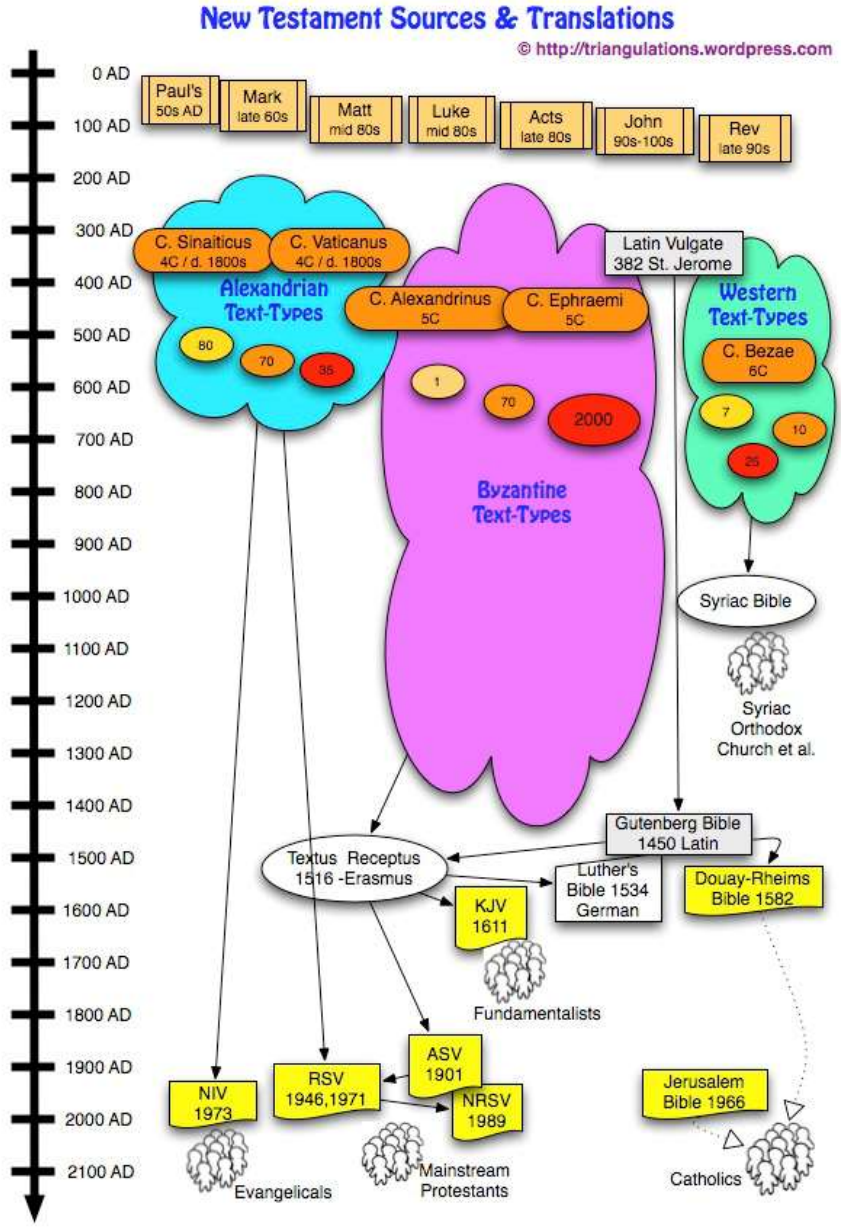


OT Texts:

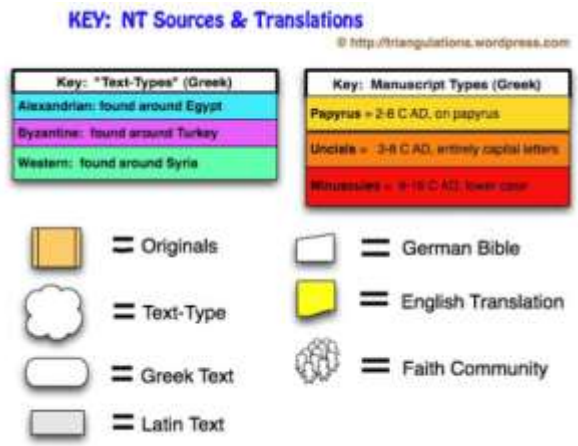
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



NT TEXT CHART

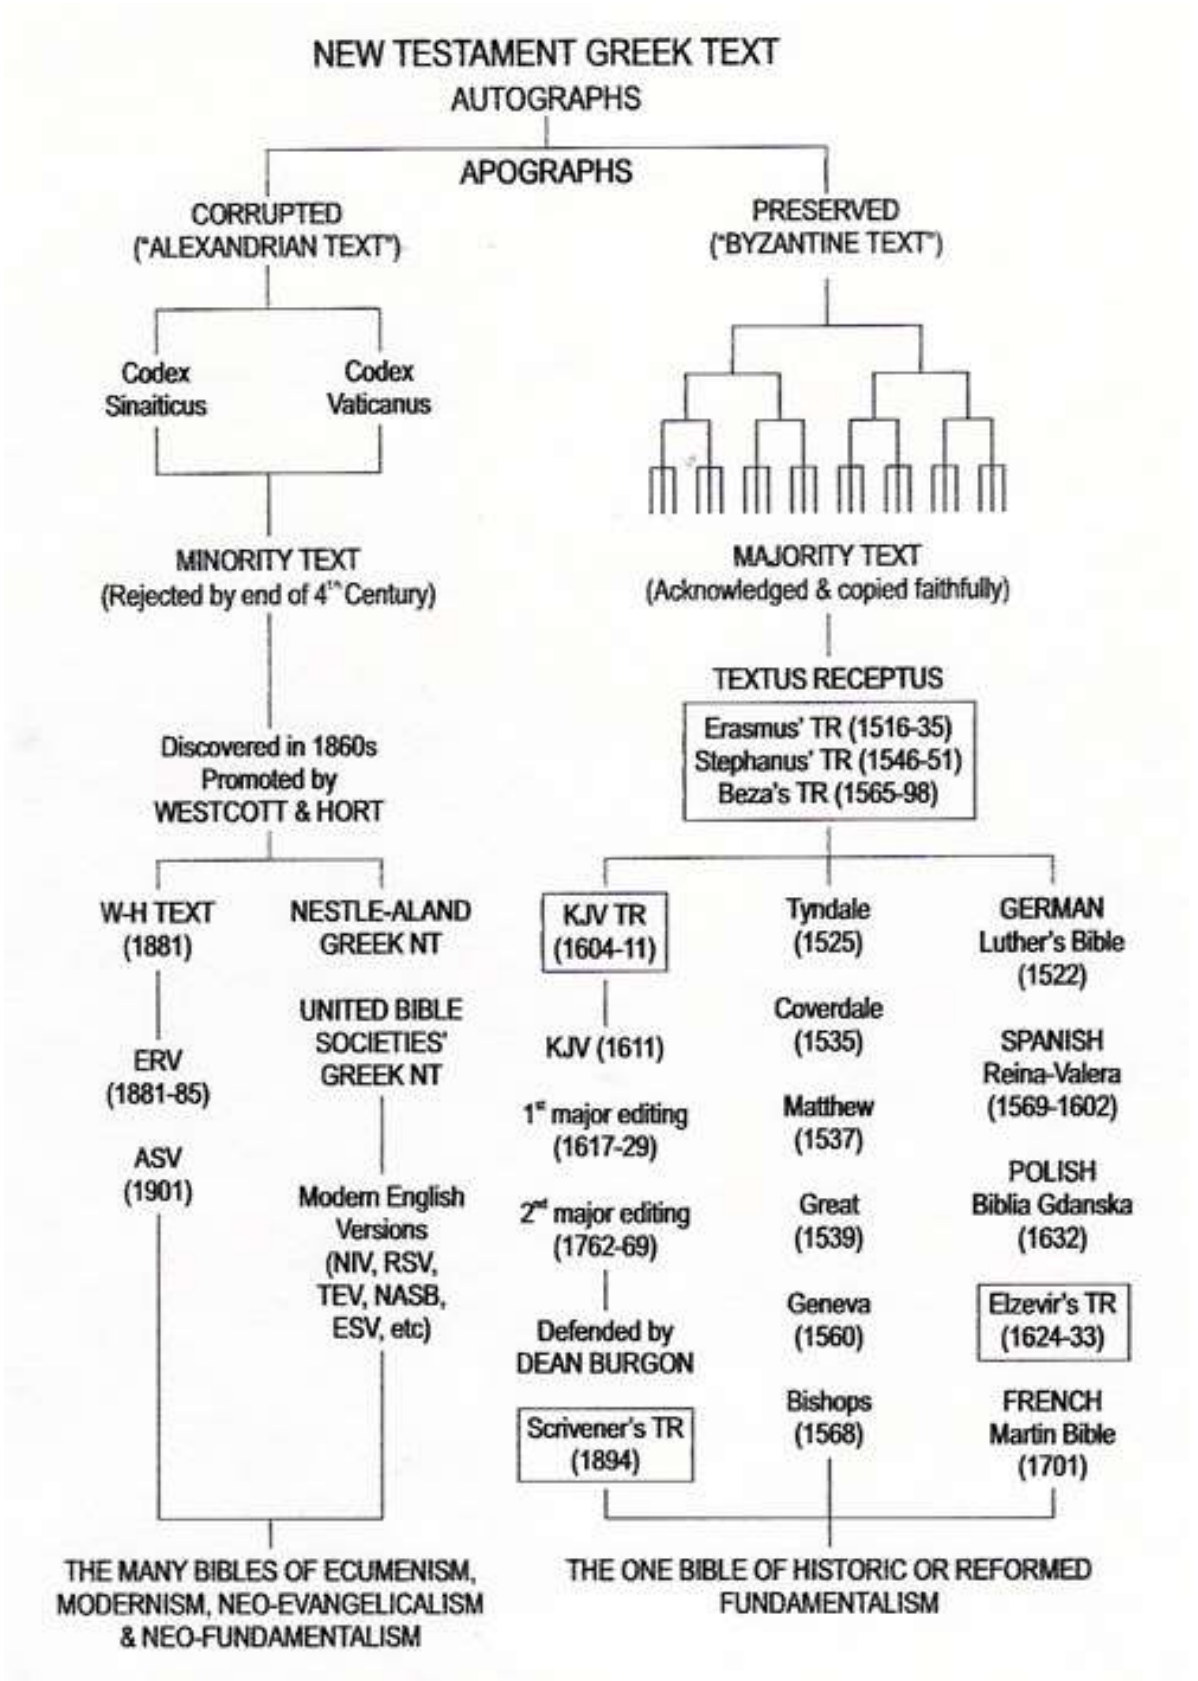


www.cspmt.org

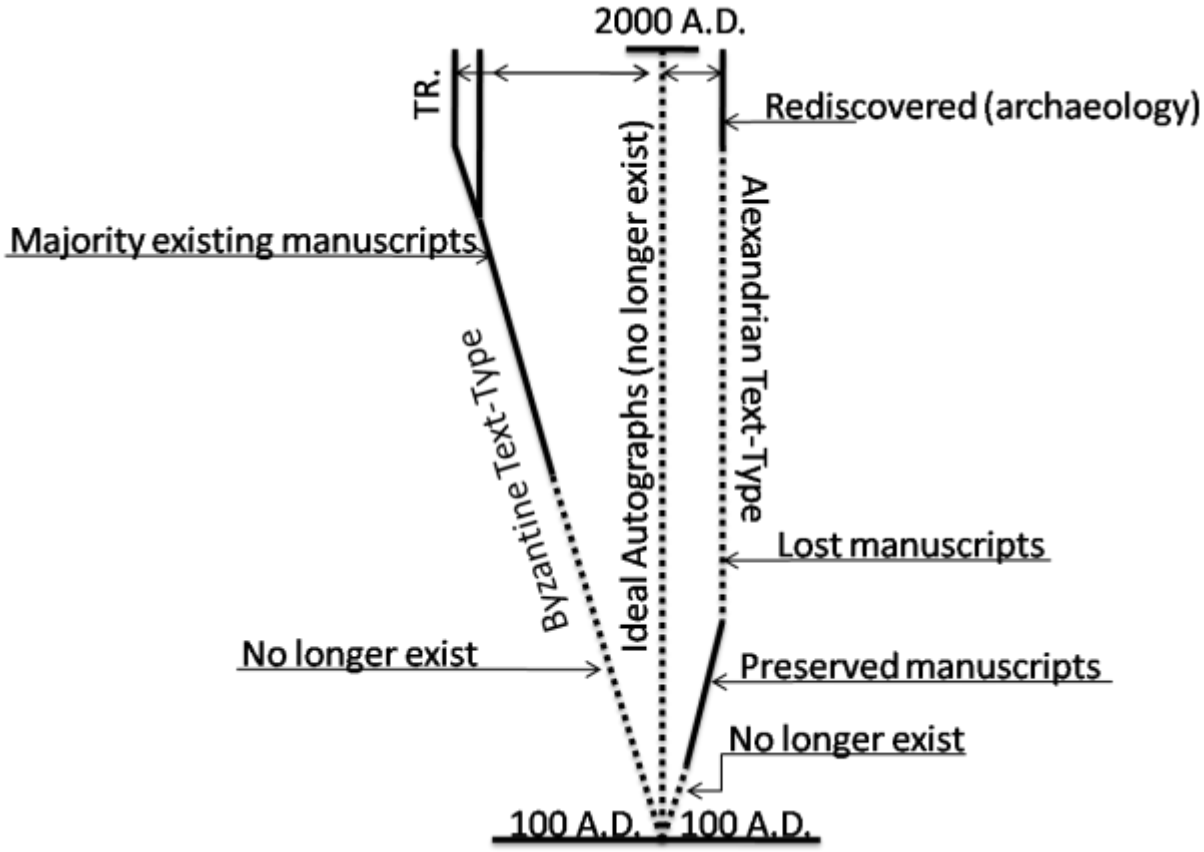


Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Where Did the New Testament Bible Come From?

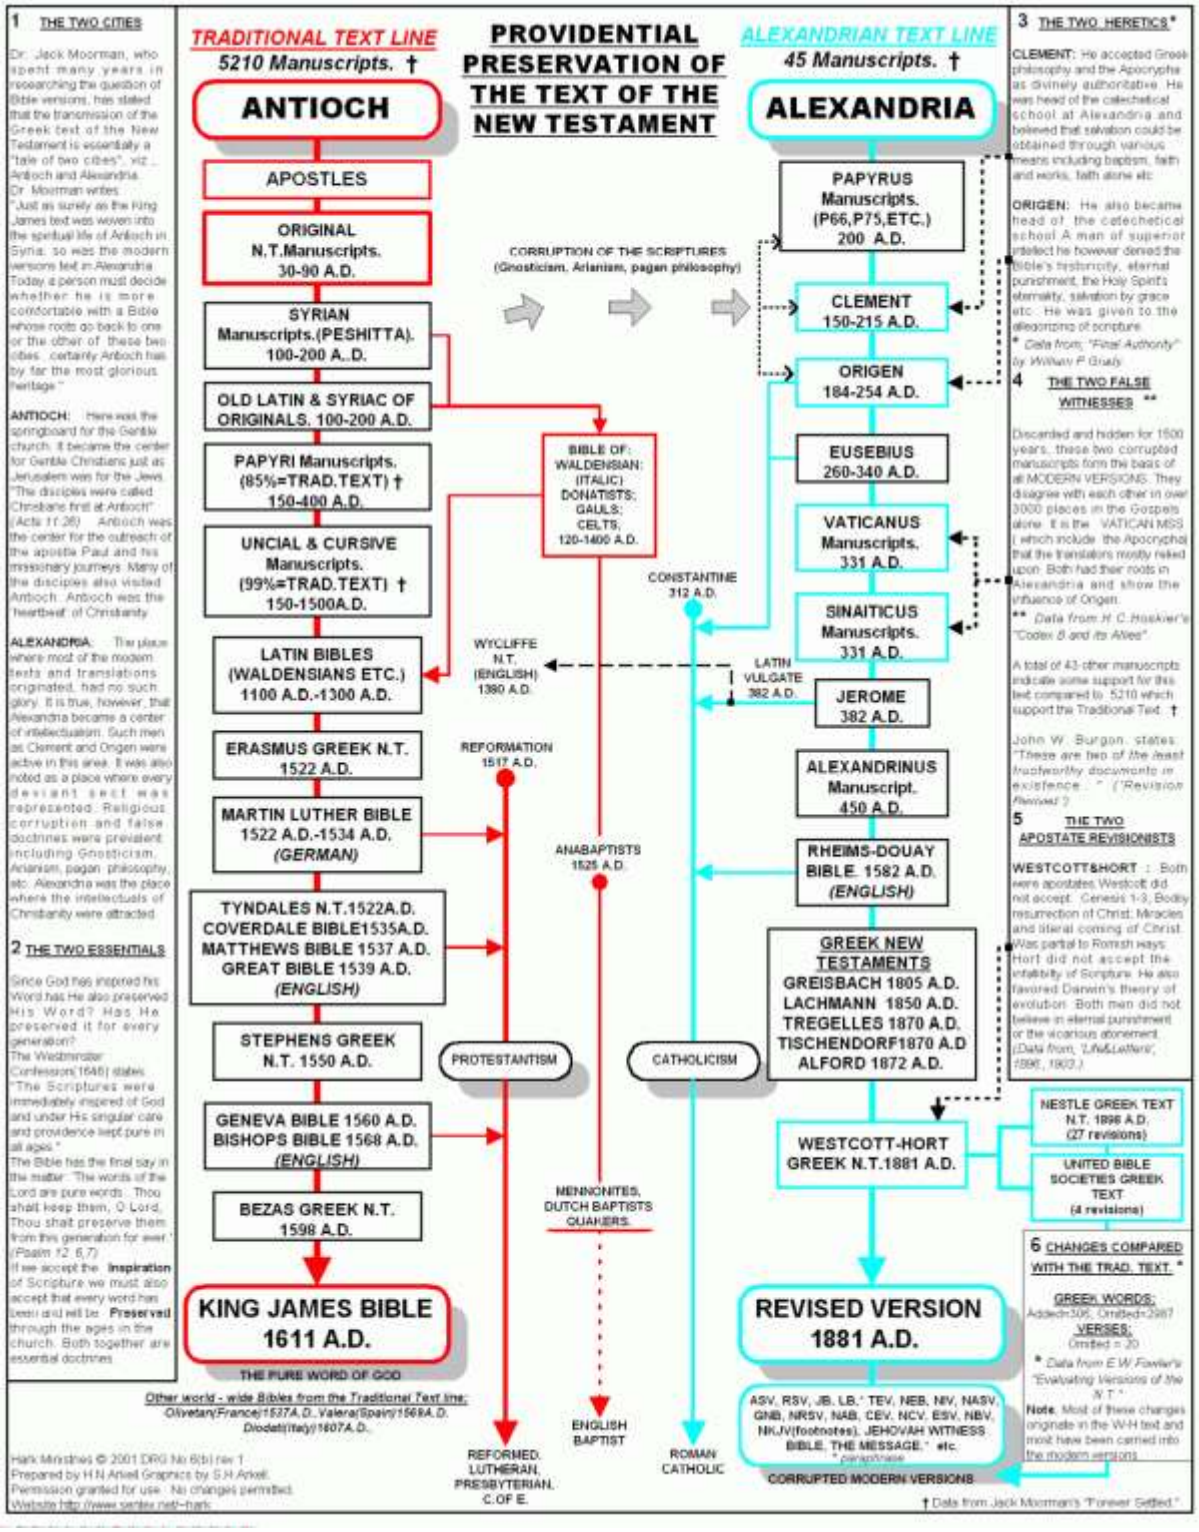


Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

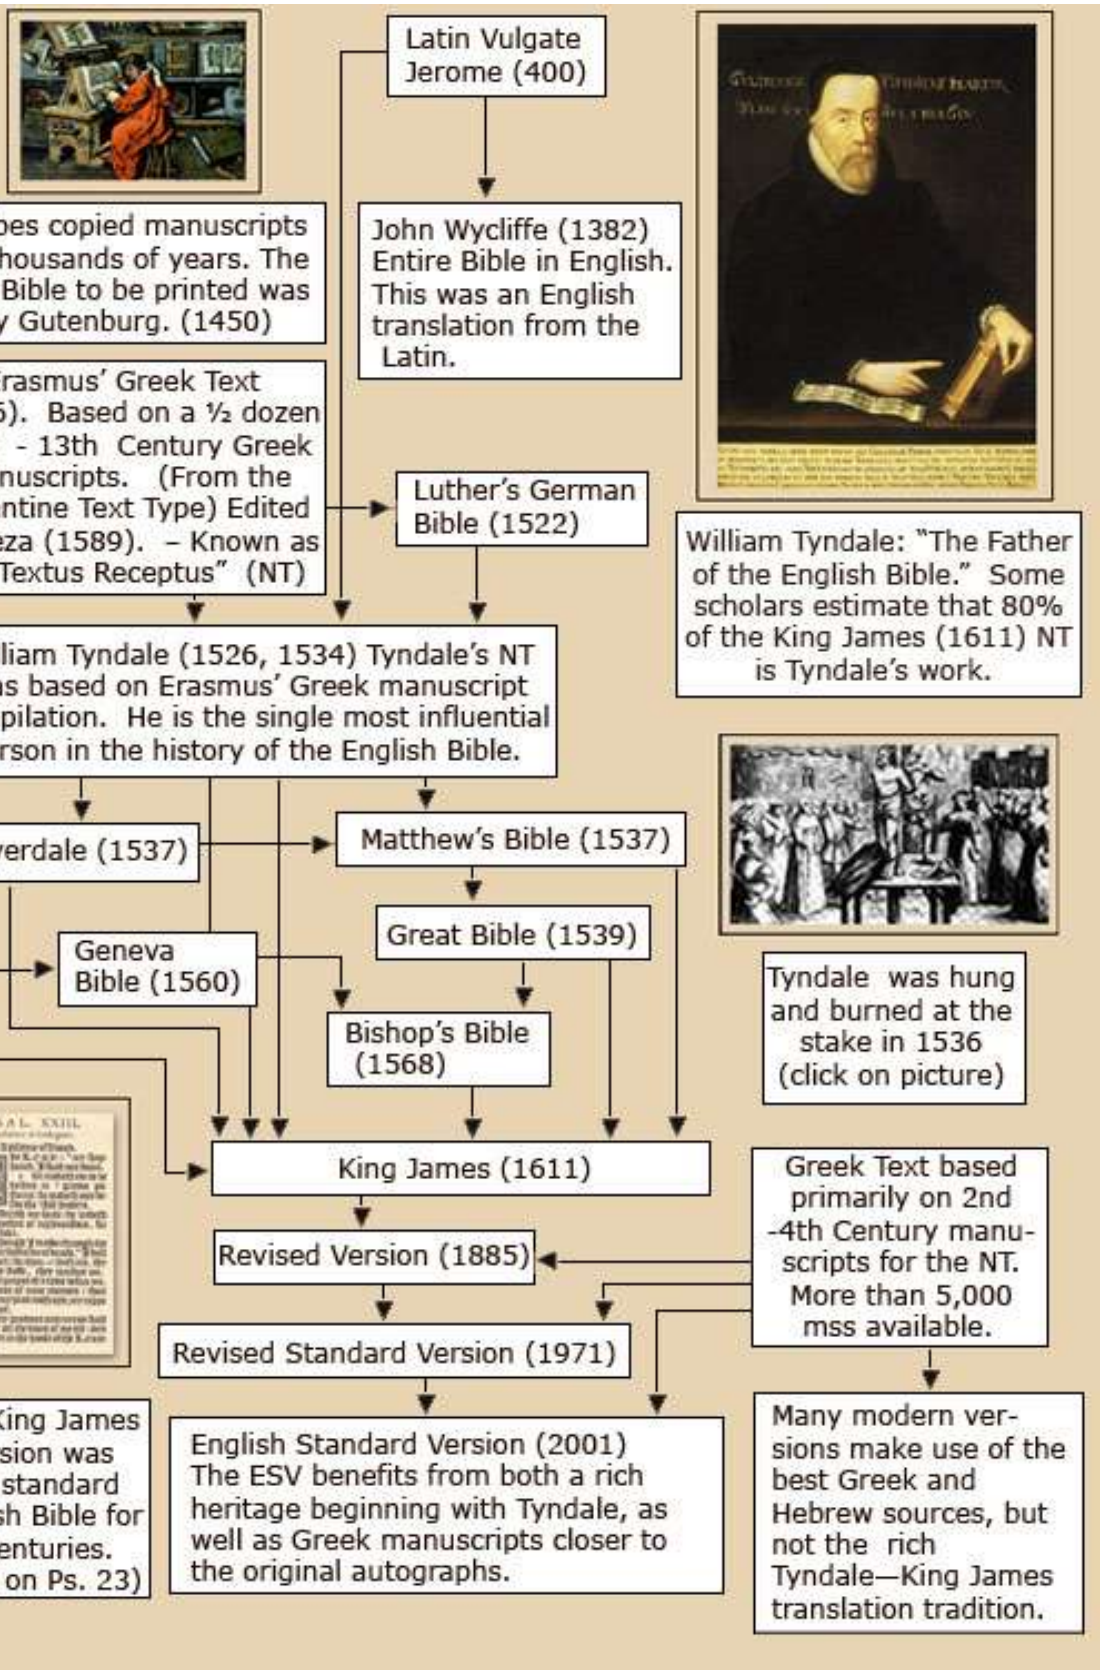
Obviously, Pro Byzantine



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

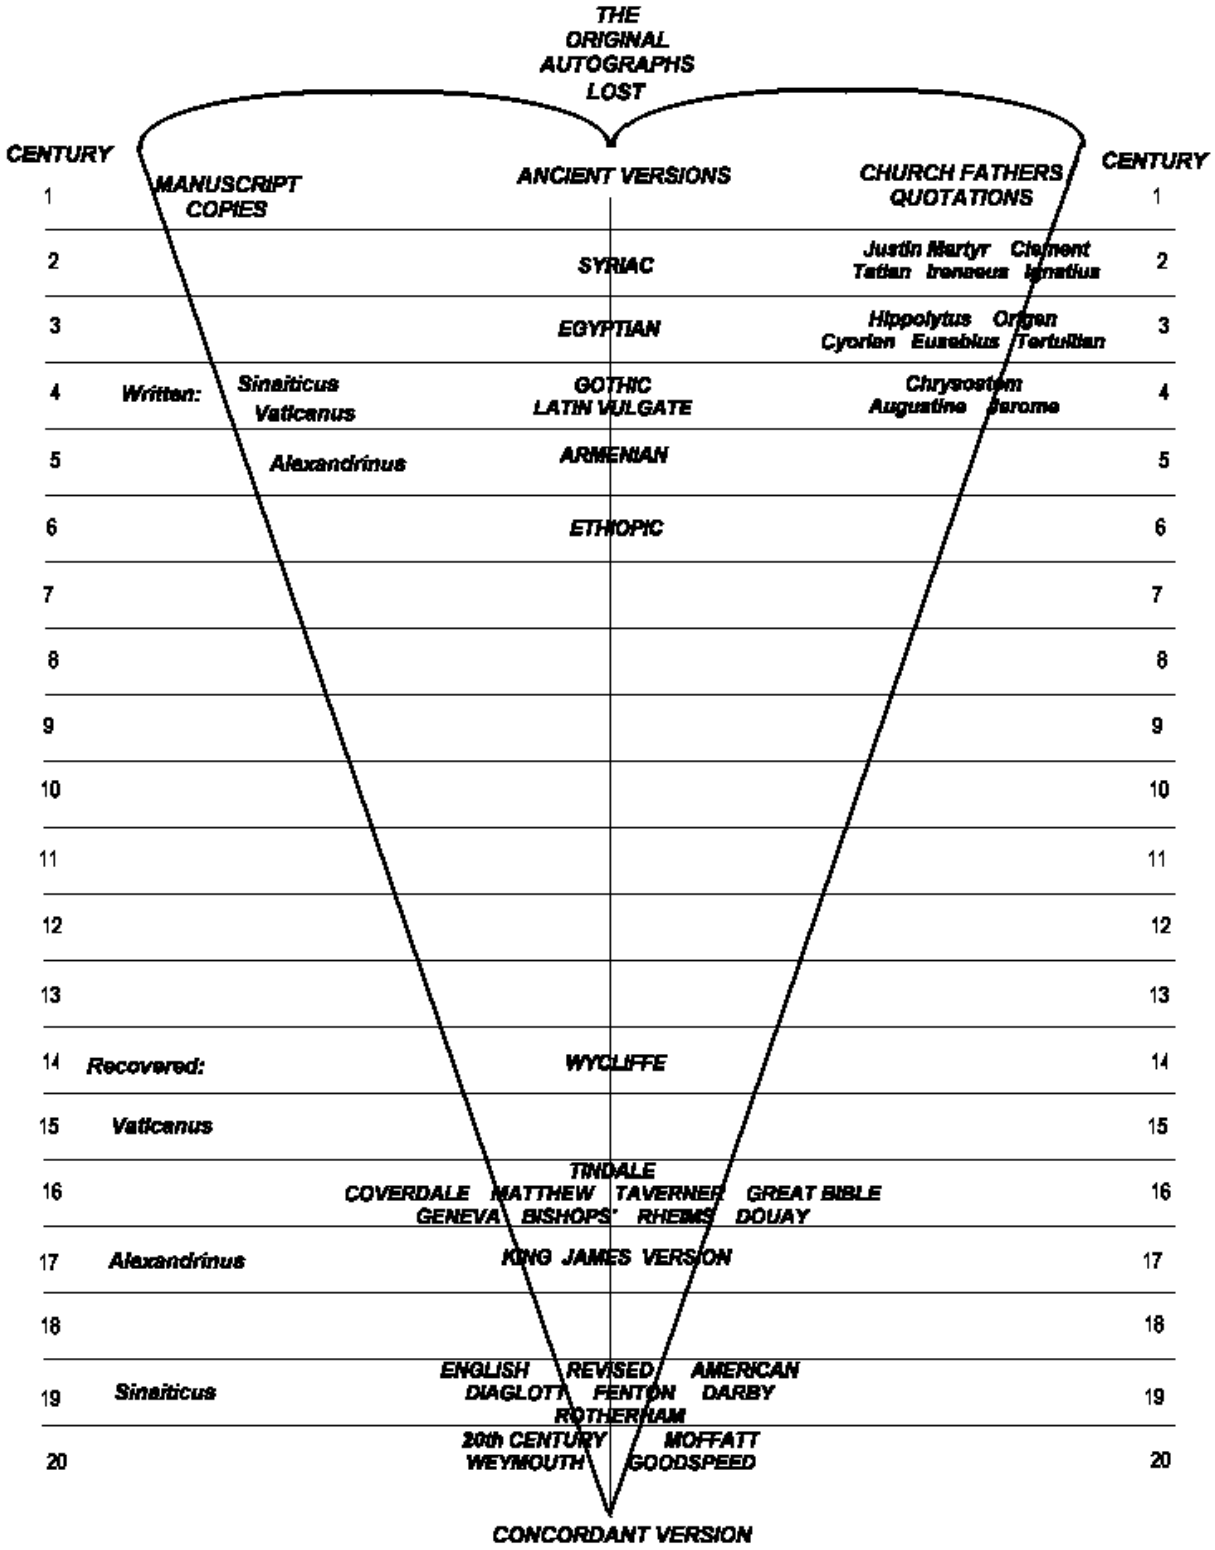
Greek Manuscript Sources of the New Testament

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Antioch (Byzantine) vs Alexandria Text Lines (via Greek NT)

Note: Pro Antioch (Byzantine) / KJV-Only

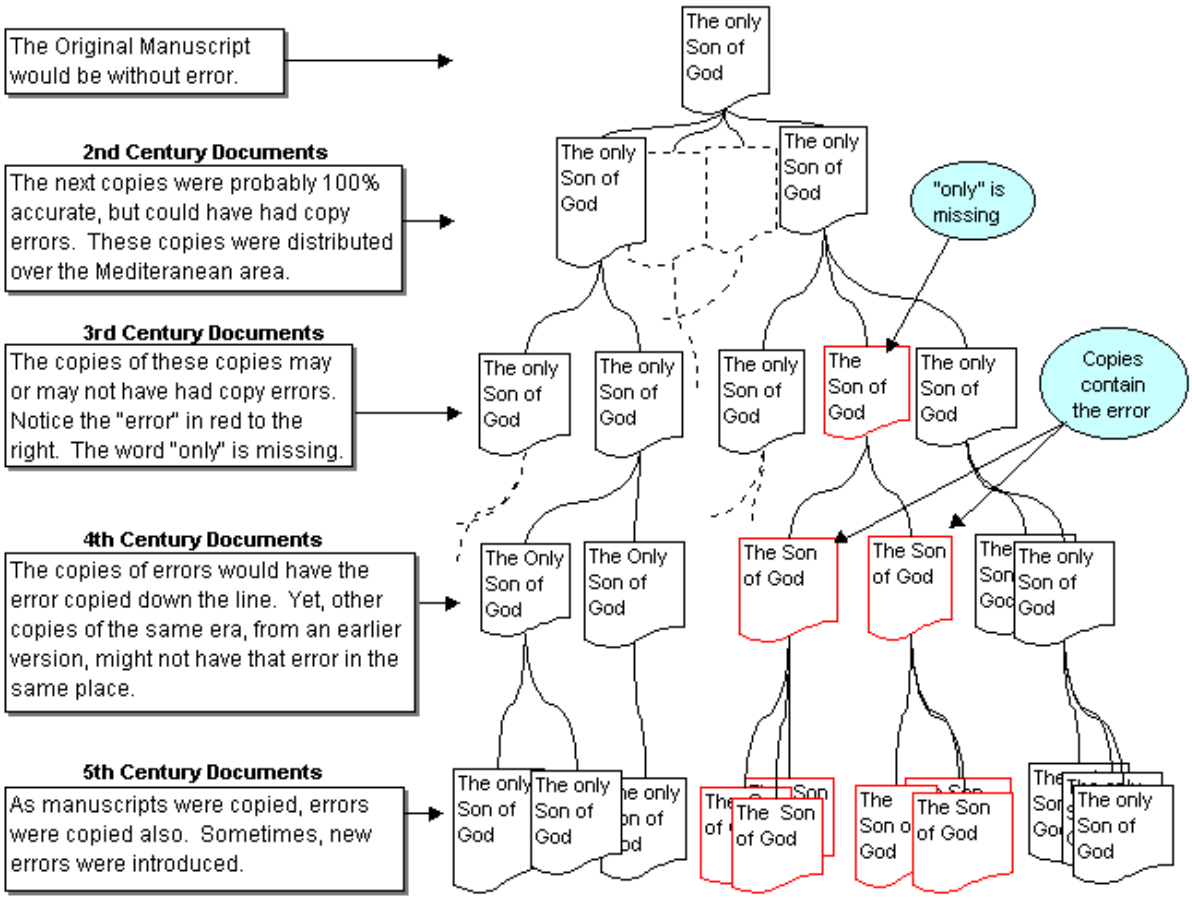


Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Development of Modern English Translations (flowchart):

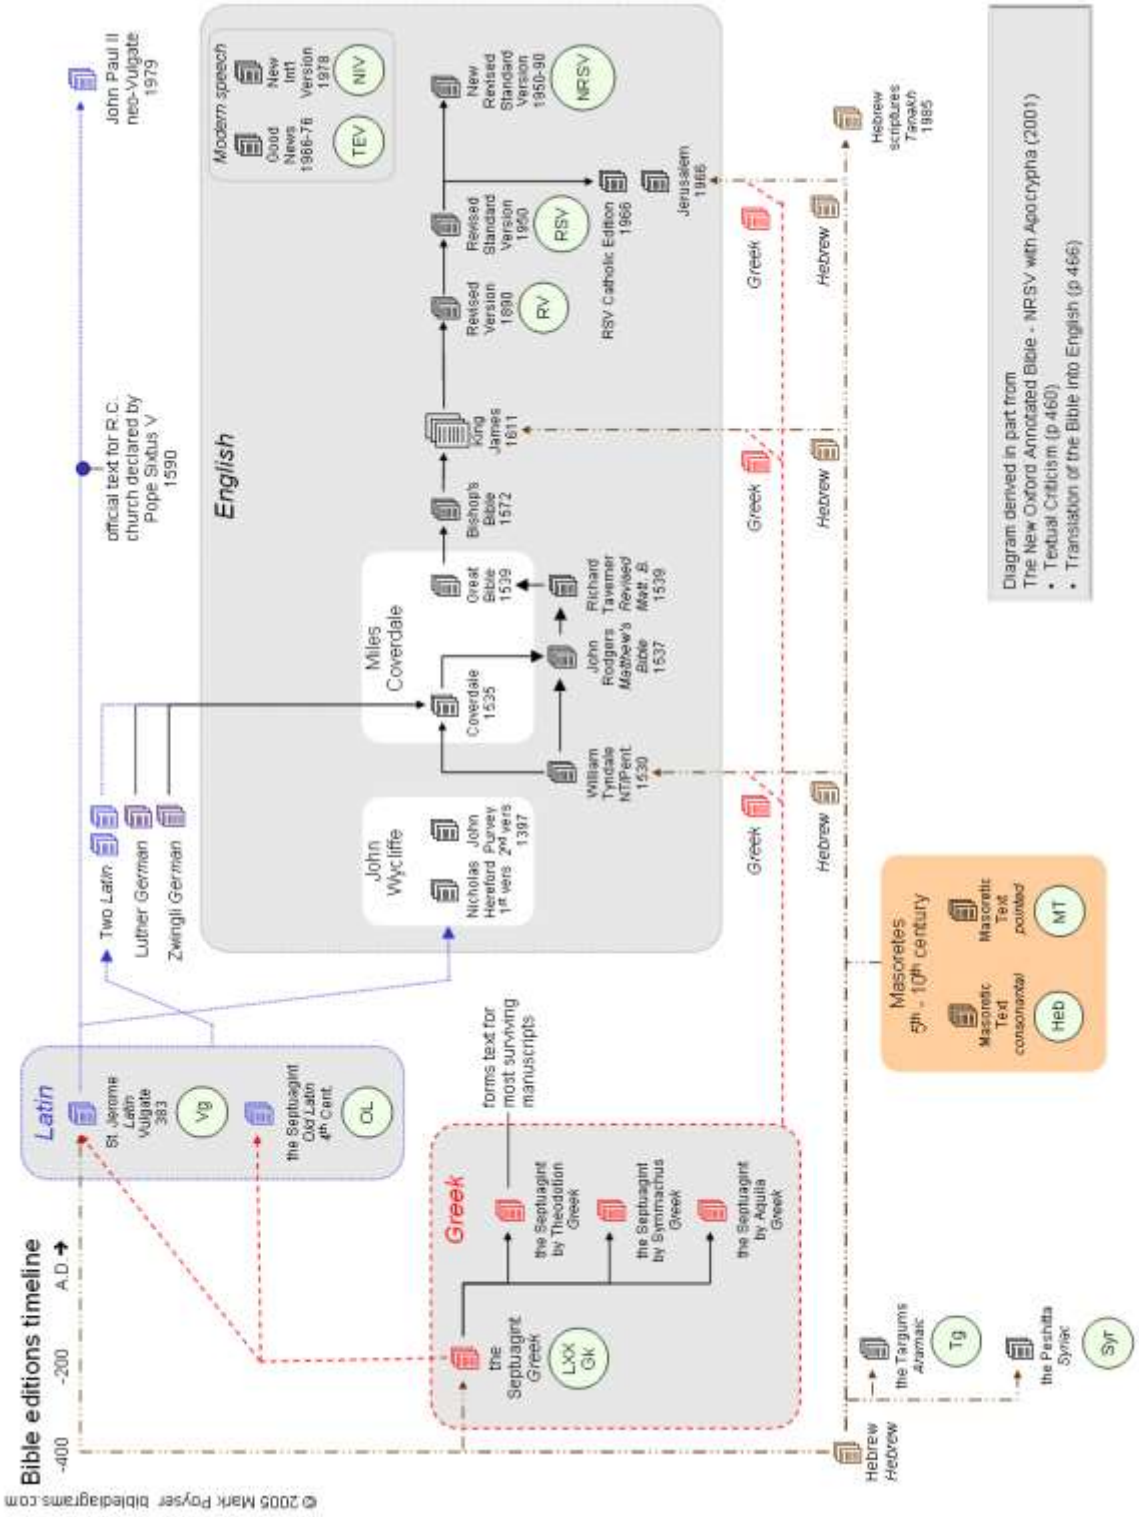
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Another example tracing the chronology of the written word from orginal to the "Concordant version" of the Bible…



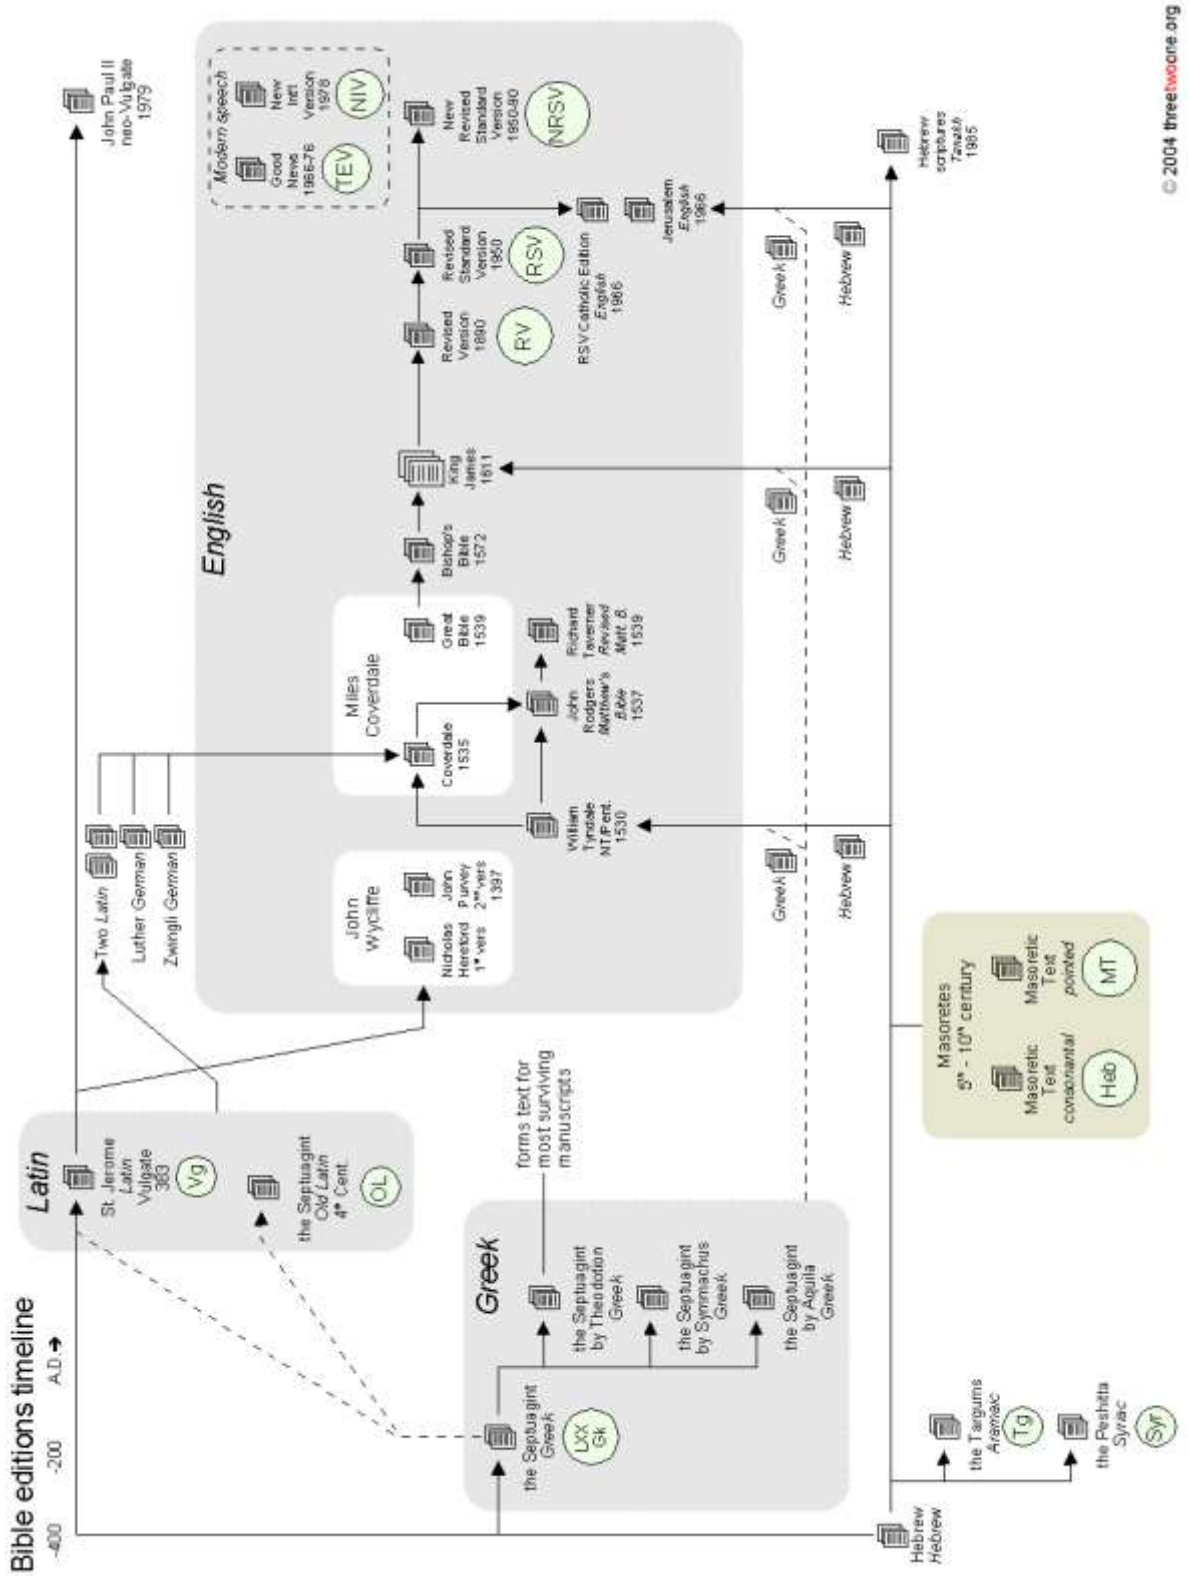
The above diagram graphically illustrates to the reader the way the Sacred Word has been preserved down through the centuries till the present, when we enjoy it in the CONCORDANT VERSION, based on a restored Greek Text, conforming as closely as possible to the Original Autographs.

[Source: http://www.theheraldofgodsgrace.org/images/LOUDY003.gif] [http://concordant.org/version/]



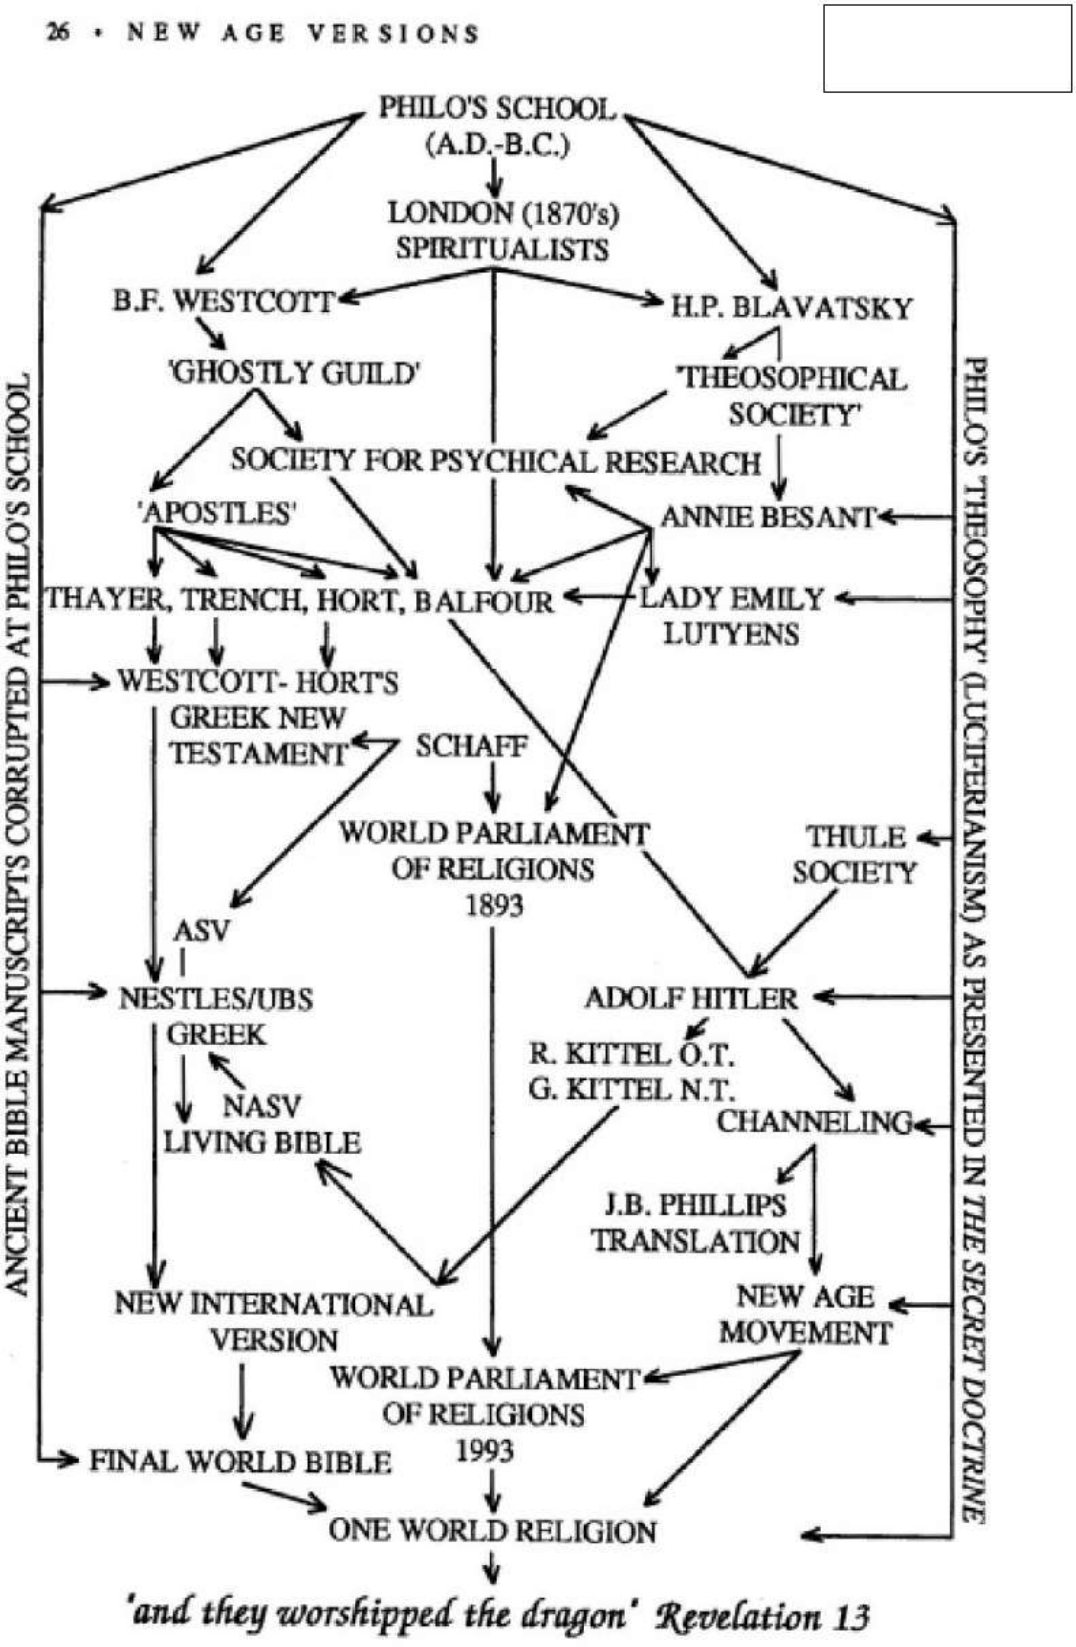
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Illustration of Bible Text Manuscript Tree and Varient Readings



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

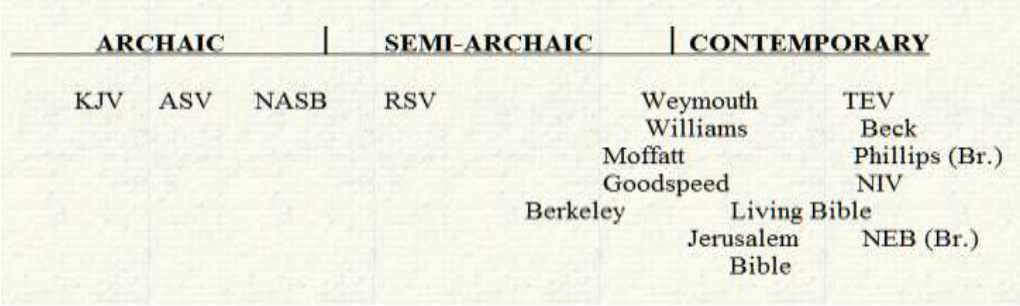
Christian Bible Translations development



[Source: http://www.bibleDiagrams.com] (Additional OT and NT charts and diagrams)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



??????????

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

LIBERAL	LIBERAL MIXED	MIXED CONSERVATIVE	CONSERVATIVE
Moffatt	RSV	ASV	NASB
Goodspeed	NEB	KJV	NIV
Jerusalem Bible		Weymouth	Living Bible
			Berkeley
			TEV
			Williams
			Montgomery
			Beck
			Phillips (?)

Table B: Theological Orientation of Translators

Relative language periods for various English translations…

re: King James Bible Controversy - Plain Truth Ministries [PDF]
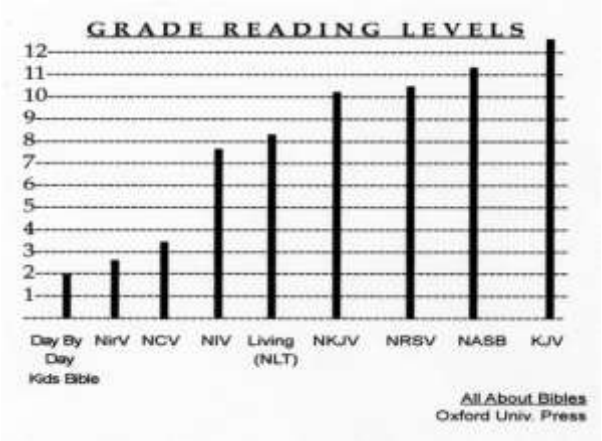
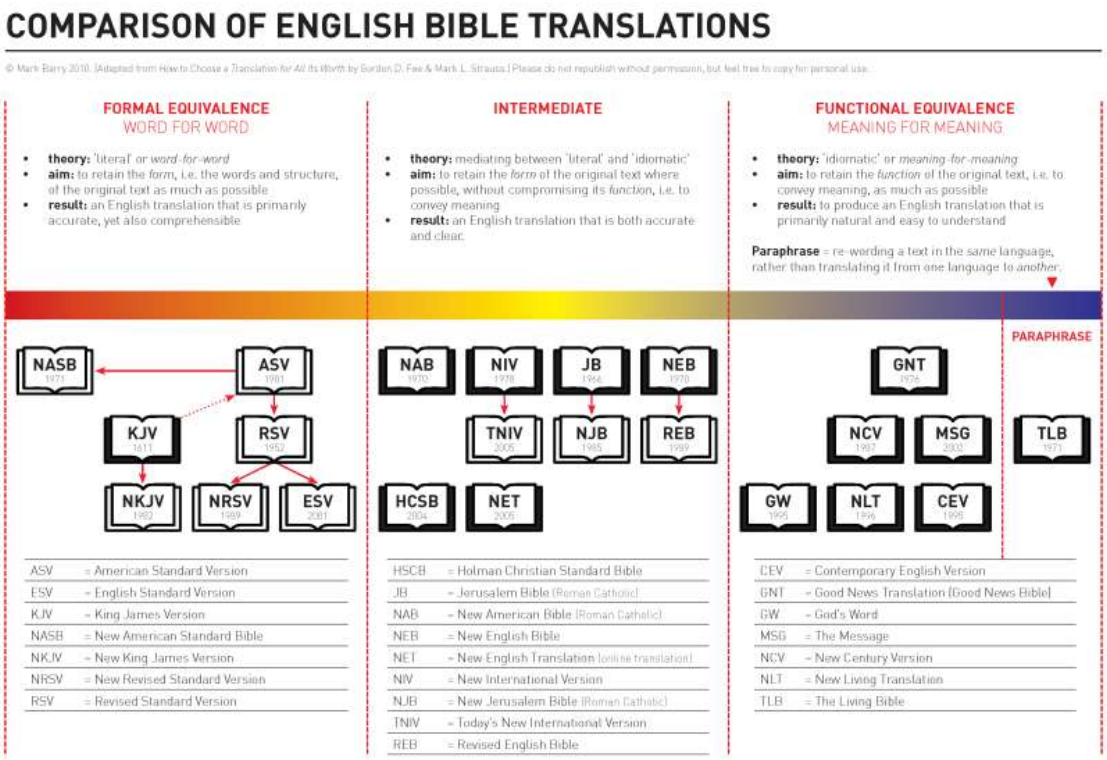
www.ptm.org/uni/resources/PDFs/BibleControversy.pdf

Important Eary Translations of the Bible – Bruce Metzger [PDF]
https://faculty.gordon.edu/hu/bi/ted_hildebrandt/new_testament_greek/text/metzger-earlytranslations01-bs.pdf



Introduction to Biblical Languages (Hebrew – Aramaic – Greek) [PDF]
http://www.enigstetroos.org/pdf/IntroductionToBiblicalLanguages.pdf

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Verbal Equivalence = Formal Equivalence = Word for Word Dynamic Equivalence = Functional Equivalence = Thought for Thought

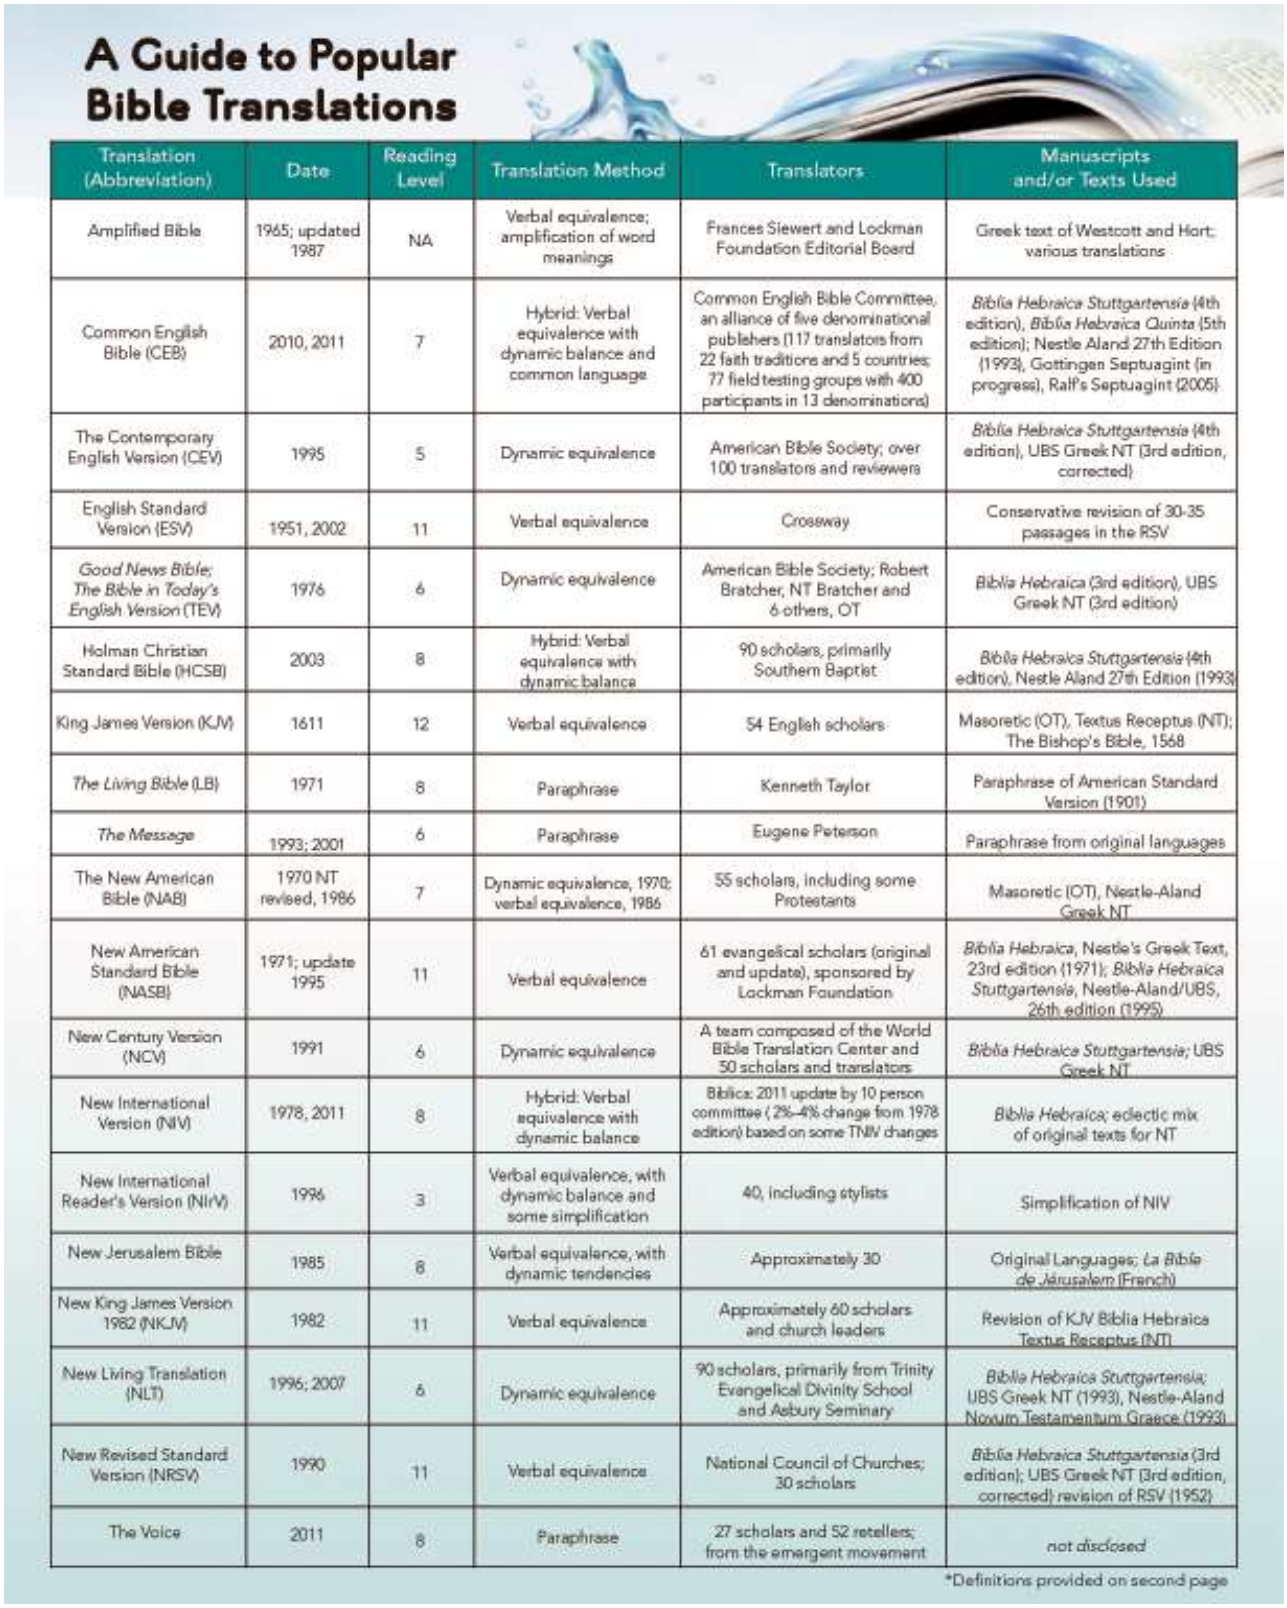
e.g., Soy azul / Ich bin blau / Je suis bleu / من آبى / אני כחול / IO sono blu / فأنا الأزرق / Ego sum puteulanus.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

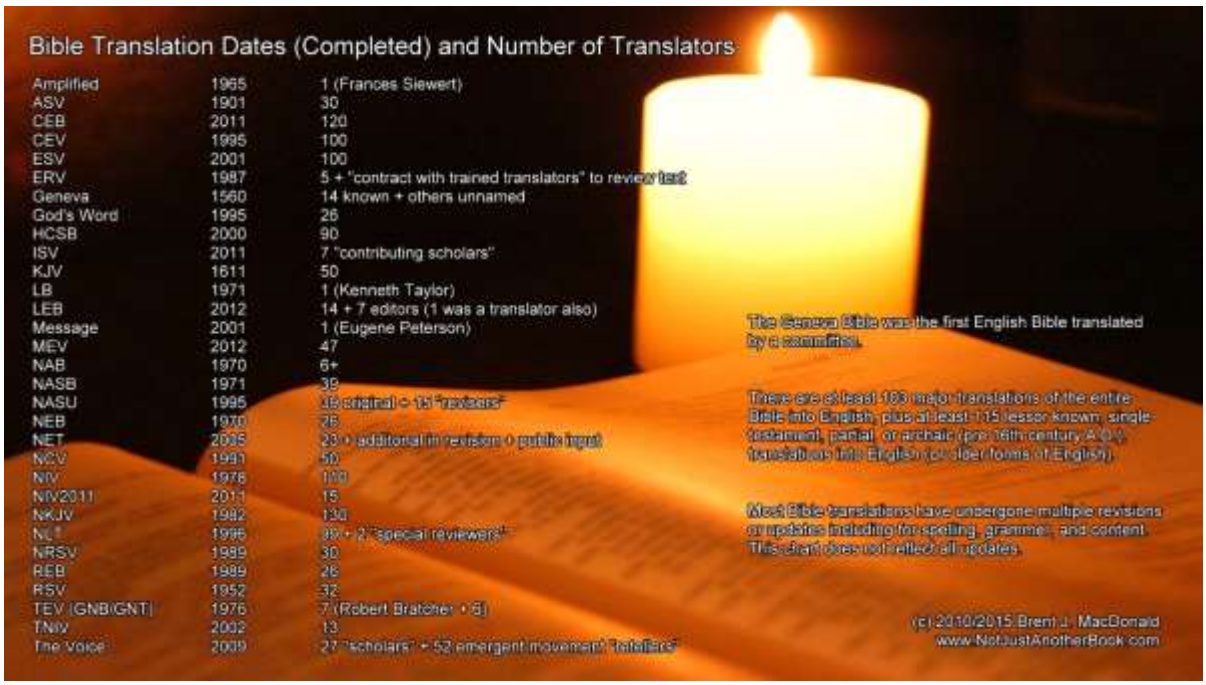


Comparison of English BIble Translations

See larger view on next page…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



A Guide to Popular Bible Translations

Translation (Abbreviation)	Date	Reading Level	Translation Method	Translators	Manuscripts and/or Texts Used
Amplified Bible	1965; updated 1987	NA	Verbal equivalence; amplification of word meanings	Frances Siewert and Lockman Foundation Editorial Board	Greek text of Westcott and Hort; various translations
Common English Bible (CEB)	2010, 2011	7	Hybrid: Verbal equivalence with dynamic balance and common language	Common English Bible Committee, an alliance of five denominational publishers (117 translators from 22 faith traditions and 5 countries; 77 field testing groups with 400 participants in 13 denominations)	Biblia Hebraica Stuttgartensia (4th edition), Biblia Hebraica Quinta (5th edition); Nestle Aland 27th Edition (1993), Gottingen Septuagint (in progress), Rahlfs Septuagint (2005)
The Contemporary English Version (CEV)	1995	5	Dynamic equivalence	American Bible Society; over 100 translators and reviewers	Biblia Hebraica Stuttgartensia (4th edition), UBS Greek NT (3rd edition, corrected)
English Standard Version (ESV)	1951, 2002	11	Verbal equivalence	Crossway	Conservative revision of 30-35 passages in the RSV
Good News Bible; The Bible in Today's English Version (TEV)	1976	6	Dynamic equivalence	American Bible Society; Robert Bratcher, NT Bratcher and 6 others, OT	Biblia Hebraica (3rd edition), UBS Greek NT (3rd edition)
Holman Christian Standard Bible (HCSB)	2003	8	Hybrid: Verbal equivalence with dynamic balance	90 scholars, primarily Southern Baptist	Biblia Hebraica Stuttgartensia (4th edition), Nestle Aland 27th Edition (1993)
King James Version (KJV)	1611	12	Verbal equivalence	54 English scholars	Masoretic (OT), Textus Receptus (NT); The Bishop's Bible, 1568
The Living Bible (LB)	1971	8	Paraphrase	Kenneth Taylor	Paraphrase of American Standard Version (1901)
The Message	1993; 2001	6	Paraphrase	Eugene Peterson	Paraphrase from original languages
The New American Bible (NAB)	1970 NT revised, 1986	7	Dynamic equivalence, 1970; verbal equivalence, 1986	55 scholars, including some Protestants	Masoretic (OT), Nestle-Aland Greek NT
New American Standard Bible (NASB)	1971; update 1995	11	Verbal equivalence	61 evangelical scholars (original and update), sponsored by Lockman Foundation	Biblia Hebraica, Nestle's Greek Text, 23rd edition (1971); Biblia Hebraica Stuttgartensia, Nestle-Aland/UBS, 26th edition (1995)
New Century Version (NCV)	1991	6	Dynamic equivalence	A team composed of the World Bible Translation Center and 50 scholars and translators	Biblia Hebraica Stuttgartensia; UBS Greek NT
New International Version (NIV)	1978, 2011	8	Hybrid: Verbal equivalence with dynamic balance	Biblica: 2011 update by 10 person committee (~2%–4% change from 1978 edition) based on some TNIV changes	Biblia Hebraica; eclectic mix of original texts for NT
New International Reader's Version (NIrV)	1996	3	Verbal equivalence, with dynamic balance and some simplification	40, including stylists	Simplification of NIV
New Jerusalem Bible	1985	8	Verbal equivalence, with dynamic tendencies	Approximately 30	Original Languages; La Bible de Jérusalem (French)
New King James Version 1982 (NKJV)	1982	11	Verbal equivalence	Approximately 60 scholars and church leaders	Revision of KJV Biblia Hebraica Textus Receptus (NT)
New Living Translation (NLT)	1996; 2007	6	Dynamic equivalence	90 scholars, primarily from Trinity Evangelical Divinity School and Asbury Seminary	Biblia Hebraica Stuttgartensia; UBS Greek NT (1993), Nestle-Aland Novum Testamentum Graece (1993)
New Revised Standard Version (NRSV)	1990	11	Verbal equivalence	National Council of Churches; 30 scholars	Biblia Hebraica Stuttgartensia (3rd edition); UBS Greek NT (3rd edition, corrected) revision of RSV (1952)
The Voice	2011	8	Paraphrase	27 scholars and 52 retellers; from the emergent movement	not disclosed

*Definitions provided on second page

Source: American Bible Society

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: http://notjustanotherbook.com/biblecomparison.htm]

Additional references:

qBible – Compare Versions - "A Website for Biblical Research".
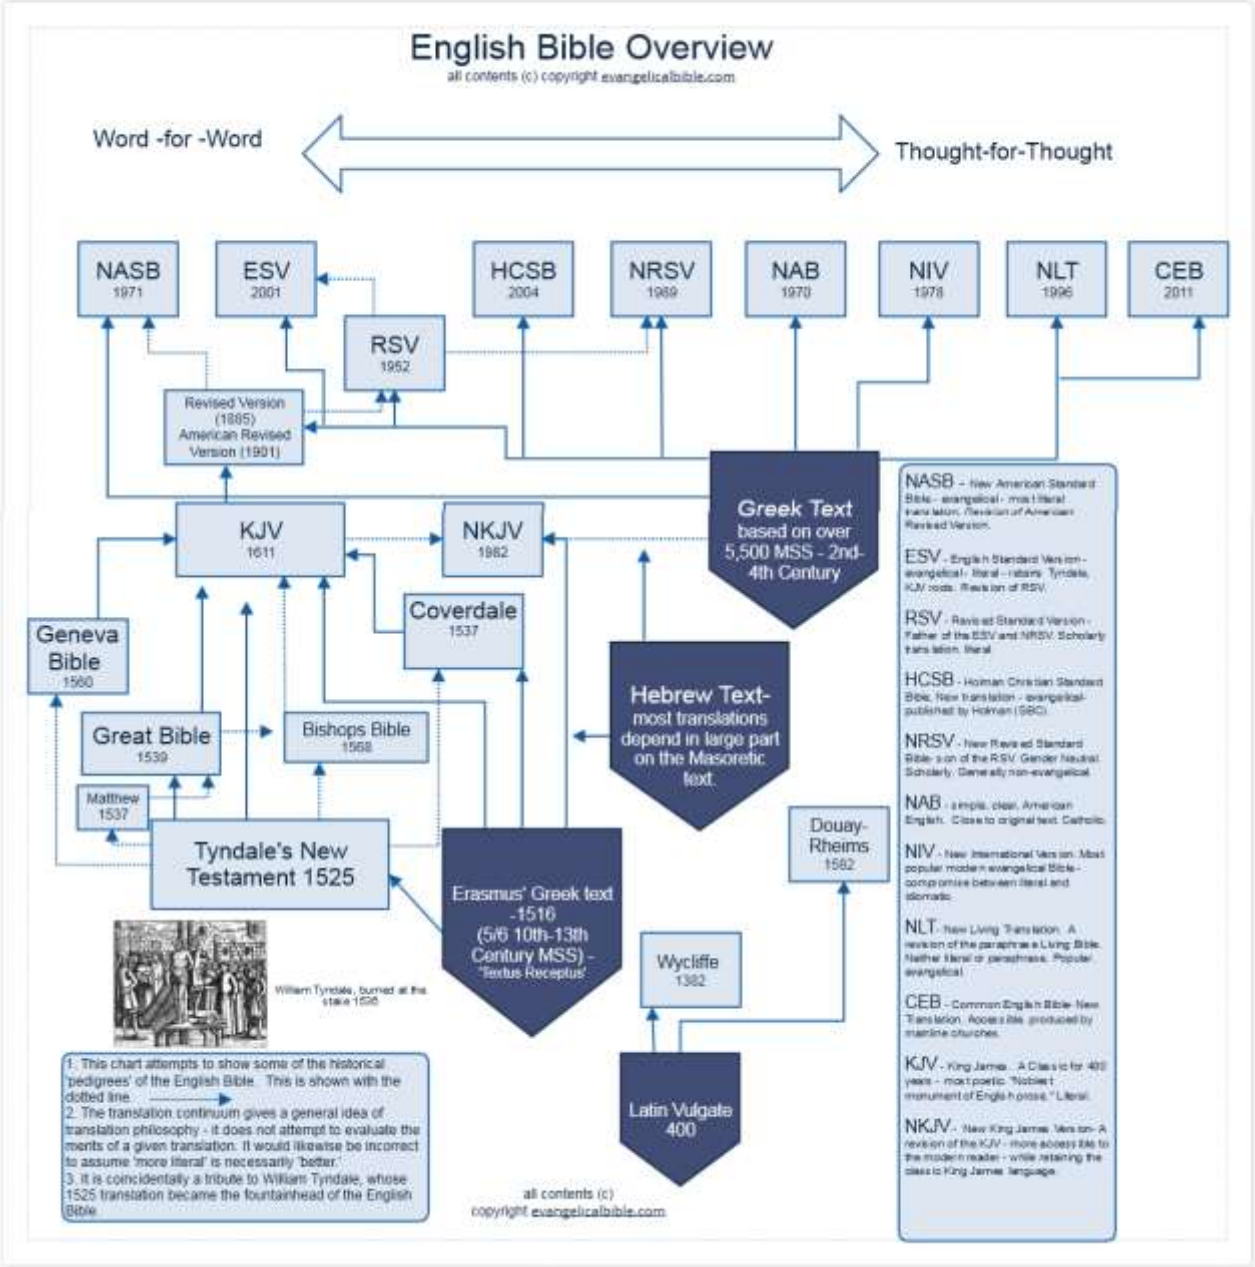
http://qbible.com/

Bible Versions Timeline
http://bibles.wikidot.com/timeline

Bible Versions
http://bessel.org/bibles.htm



Bible Version Differences
https://www.blueletterbible.org/versions.cfm

Jewish and Christian Bibles – A Comparison Chart
http://catholic-resources.org/Bible/Heb-Xn-Bibles.htm

Translation Comparitons Charts
http://www.apbrown2.net/web/TranslationComparisonChart.htm

Table of OT Quotes in the NT
http://www.kalvesmaki.com/LXX/NTChart.htm

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

1. This chart attempts to show some of the historical 'pedigrees' of the English Bible. This is shown with the dotted line.
2. The translation continuum gives a general idea of translation philosophy - it does not attempt to evaluate the merits of a given translation. It would likewise be incorrect to assume 'more literal' is necessarily 'better.'
3. It is coincidentally a tribute to William Tyndale, whose 1525 translation became the fountainhead of the English Bible.

[Source https://www.gliffy.com/go/publish/5242947]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

English language translations of the Bible

5th–11th century	• Wessex Gospels • Hatton gospels • Old English Hexateuch • Old English Bible translations
Middle English	• Wycliffe • Middle English Bible translations
16th–17th century	• Tyndale • Coverdale • Matthew • Great Bible • Taverner • Geneva • Bishops' • Douay–Rheims • King James
18th–19th century	• Challoner • Webster's • Young's Literal • Revised • Living Oracles • Darby • Joseph Smith • Quaker
20th century	• American Standard • Rotherham's Emphasized • Ferrar Fenton • Worrell New Testament • Knox • Basic English • Revised Standard • Anchor • New World • Modern Language Bible • New English Bible • New American Standard • Good News • Jerusalem • New American • Living • New International • New Century • Bethel • New King James • New Jerusalem • Recovery

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

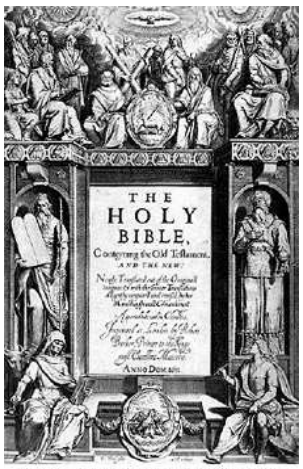
	• New Revised Standard • Revised English • Contemporary English • The Message • Clear Word • New Life • 21st Century King James • Third Millennium • New International Reader's • New International Inclusive Language • God's Word • New Living • Complete Jewish Bible • International Standard • Holman Christian Standard
21st century	• World English • English Standard • Today's New International • New English Translation (NET Bible) • New English Translation of the Septuagint • Orthodox Study Bible • The Voice • Common English Bible • WGC Illustrated • Apostolic Bible Polyglot • Open English Bible • Eastern Orthodox Bible • New American Bible Revised Edition • Lexham English Bible

Sourced from World Heritage Encyclopedia™

[Source: http://self.gutenberg.org/articles/orthodox_study_bible]

See also:

Bible History – Flowshart
http://www.gentles.info/BibleHistory/Index_History.html



A Book To Die For: A Practical Study Guide On How Our Bible Came To Us
https://bible.org/series/book-die-practical-study-guide-how-our-bible-came-us [downloadable as Word doc]

Inerrancy: https://bible.org/seriespage/part-iii-inerrancy-chapter-four-completely-trustworthy

History of the English Bible (Wallace): https://bible.org/series/history-english-bible

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The King James Version of the Bible

Title page of the first edition of the King James Version in 1611.

The King James Version (KJV), commonly known as the Authorized Version (AV) or King James Bible (KJB), is an English translation of the Christian Bible for the Church of England begun in 1604 and completed in 1611. In 1612, the first King James Version using Roman Type was issued. This quarto version is only second to the 1611 folio KJV.

First printed by the King's Printer Robert Barker, this was the third translation into English to be approved by the English Church authorities. The first was the Great Bible commissioned in the reign of King Henry VIII (1535), and the second was the Bishops' Bible of 1568. In January 1604, James I convened the Hampton Court Conference where a new English version was conceived in response to the perceived problems of the earlier translations as detected by the Puritans, a faction within the Church of England. The translation is considered a towering achievement in English literature, as both beautiful and scholarly.

James gave the translators instructions intended to guarantee that the new version would conform to the ecclesiology and reflect the episcopal structure of the Church of England and its belief in an ordained clergy. The translation was done by 47 scholars, all of whom were members of the Church of England. In common with most other translations of the period, the New Testament was translated from Greek, the Old Testament was translated from Hebrew and Aramaic text, while the Apocrypha was translated from the Greek and Latin. In the Book of Common Prayer (1662), the text of the Authorized Version replaced the text of the Great Bible – for Epistle and Gospel readings (but not for the Psalter which has retained substantially Coverdale's Great Bible version) and as such was authorized by Act of Parliament. By the first half of the 18th century, the Authorized Version had become effectively unchallenged as the English translation used in Anglican and Protestant churches, other than for the Psalms and some short passages in the Book of Common Prayer of the Church of England. Over the course of the 18th century, the Authorized Version supplanted the Latin Vulgate as the standard version of scripture for English-speaking scholars. With the development of stereotype printing at the beginning of the 19th century, this version of the Bible became the most widely printed book in history, almost all such printings presenting the standard text of 1769 extensively re-edited by Benjamin Blayney at Oxford; and nearly always omitting the books of the Apocrypha. Today the unqualified title 'King James Version' commonly identifies this Oxford standard text.

[Source: Wikipedia http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/King_James_Version]

FYI:

Preface to KJV Bible 1611 Edition: http://www.kjvbibles.com/kjpreface.htm;
Alternate Source with Commentary

King James' Instructions to the Translators: http://www.kjvonly.org/other/kj_instructs.htm;

Margin Notes: Original 1611 KJV Margin Notes

KJV Bibles - Original 1611 Preface — Alternate Source with Commentary
KJ Instructions to Translators #2 — Translators #2 #3

KJV Bible 1611 Marginal Notes — History, Commentary and Critiques

The Correct Meaning of "Church" and "Ecclesia" #2 #3 #4 #5 #6 #7 [PDF]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The REAL 1611 King James Version - What will you find in it?

Additional Margin Notes Viewpoint

Notes on the King James Translation and the So-Called Textus Receptus

The Debate Over the King James Version

The King James Bible Controversy (PDF)

The Geneva Bible and Its Influence on the King James Bible http://founders.org/fj86/the-geneva-bible-and-its-influence-on-the-king-james-bible/

Textual Differences Between the KJV and the Geneva Bibles
http://bibleversiondiscussionboard.yuku.com/topic/5708/20-Textual-differences-between-Geneva-Bible-and-KJV

The Bishops' Bible and Its Influence on the King James Bible https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Bishops%27_Bible

What Makes the King James Version Great http://www.reformation21.org/articles/what-makes-the-king-james-version-great.php

In the Beginning Was the Word (re: 400th anniversary of the KJV and its history) http://www.vision.org/visionmedia/religion-history-of-king-james-bible/50299.aspx

7 things you may not know about the King James Bible http://newlife.id.au/church-history/7-things-about-the-king-james-bible/

10 Things You Need to Know About the KJV
10 Things You Need to Know About the KJV

The King James Bible – New World Encyclopedia http://www.newworldencyclopedia.org/entry/King_James_Bible

Excerpt:

> King James' instructions included requirements that:
>
> 1. The ordinary Bible, read in the church, commonly called the Bishops' Bible, to be followed, and as little altered as the original will permit….
> 2. The old ecclesiastical words to be kept; as the word church, not to be translated congregation, &c.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

3. When any word hath divers significations, that to be kept which has been most commonly used by the most eminent fathers, being agreeable to the propriety of the place, and the analogy of the faith….
4. No marginal notes at all to be affixed, but only for the explanation of the Hebrew or Greek words, which cannot, without some circumlocution, so briefly and fitly be expressed in the text.
5. Such quotations of places to be marginally set down, as shall serve for the fit references of one scripture to another….
6. These translations to be used when they agree better with the text than the Bishops' Bible, viz. Tyndale's, Coverdale's, Matthew Bible, Whitchurch, Geneva.

On the King James Bible Versus Other Translations Controversy

http://www.tentmaker.org/Biblematters/King-James-version.htm

KJ Only -- Shock and Awe (by a Textus Receptus advocate - this discusses some of the main personalities/problems within the KJO movement -- long article)

Removing Verses from the Bible (KJV vs more modern versions)

The Majority Text and the Original -- Are They Identical? (includes discussion of their relation to Textus Receptus; also Byzantine vs Alexandrian)

FAQs on the Textus Receptus and the KJV

Video: Dr. James White (NASB, Reformed) with Steven Anderson (KJV-Only, Anti-Calvinism, Post-Trib) - Full Interview 'NWO Bible Versions' (2.5 hour discussion, Youtube)

Is Your Modern Translation Corrupt? (by James White) [Recommended]

Consipiracy Behind New Bible Translations

Is "Lucifer" the Devil in Isaiah 14:12? - The KJV Argument against Modern Translations

Demystifying the Controversy Over the Textus Receptus and the KJV

KJO page, including "Confessions by a KJO Advocate"

Fundamentalism and the King James Version: How a Venerable English Translation Became a Litmus Test for Orthodoxy [PDF]

The Best Cure for KJVOisms: A Real 1611 KJV

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

KJO Debate Blog Interview: Dr. Maurice Robinson on the superiority of the Byzantine Textform - Part 1, Part 2, Part 3 [Recommended] [Different site interview]

KJO Debate Blog - Additional discussions regarding TR and KJO [more] [Recommended]

Bible Version and KJO Information
http://www.unboundscriptures.com/

Founders Journal – KJV - 400 Years
http://founders.org/main/wp-content/uploads/fj86.pdf [PDF]

What About the Majority Text?

Textual Choices and Bible Versions

The Center for Study and Preservation of the Majority Text

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Thou, Thee, Thy, Thine and Ye; and the Advantage of King James English

The English words "thou, thee, thy and thine" are translated from an emphatic Greek and Hebrew personal pronoun, stressing the identity of the one being addressed to the exclusion of all others.

A "pronoun" is a word that "stands in for" another noun or noun-phrase. A "personal pronoun" is one which stands for a person. The personal pronouns are classified as first person, second person and third person by their relationship to the one speaking.

1st Person - The speaker himself, and any others he may include as part of his group.
2nd Person - Those to whom the speaker is speaking.
3rd Person - Those about whom the speaker is speaking.

Thus, we have the following table which we can construct in English, once we differentiate between the purpose of the various pronouns:

		Nominative	Objective	Possessive
1st Person	singular:	I	Me	My (or Mine)
	plural:	We	Us	Our (or Ours)
2nd Person	singular:	Thou	Thee	Thy (or Thine)
	plural:	Ye	You	Your (or yours)
3rd Person	singular:	He/She/It	Him/Her/It	His/Hers/Its plural:	They	Them	Their (or Theirs)

See the full article for examples of verses expressing the importance of using thou, thee, thy, thine and ye:
http://www.ecclesia.org/truth/thou.html

Also: http://alt-usage-english.org/pronoun_paradigms.html

http://av1611.com/kjbp/articles/bacon-theethou.html

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Bible Versions and History

6 Version English Interliner NT Bible [PDF] (Wycliff, Purvey-Wycliff, Tyndale (1534 and 1526 variants), Geneva, JKV)

The Bible Reader's Museum (Links to Bibles on the Internet)

Bible Researcher (Directory of Bibles on the Internet)

History of the English Bible (Wallace)

History of the English Bible

History of the Bible and Flowchart [Flowchart Image (PNG)]

History of Bible Flowchart (KJV-Only, Fundamentalist) (Flowchart has so many issues with it that I can't begin to list them, but provided FYI)

Bible Timelines with World History

English Bible Translation Prior to the KJV (Ohio State Univ.) (includes images of original pages from corresponding translations)

Early English Bibles

Bible NT Manuscripts - List of Doctrinally Significant Variants -- Pro Textus Receptus / Byzantine Textform (Word *.doc file) [Alternate link]

Trinitarian Bible Society - Holds to Authorized Version supremacy that is not divinely inspired (original Masoretic Hebrew/Aramaic and Byzantine Greek Received Texts are divinely inspired [ref.])

History of the New Testament Scriptures - Pro KJV - Textus Receptus, etc. (has some good background information regardless)

15 Myths About Bible Translation

Five More Myths about Bible Translations and the Transmission of the Text

Bible Translations Source Table
http://www.millpark.org/bible/doctrine-critical/Hort_and_Westcott_and_RT_versions.html

Faithful Translations
http://www.millpark.org/bible/doctrine-critical/_FAITHFUL_TRANSLATIONS.html

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Q. What Bible translation or version do you use? What Bible help do you recommend?

A. The Bible version I use most commonly in our publications and on this website is the King James Version (also called the Authorized Version).

Before continuing, I want to point out that I am not "King James only." Among the beliefs held by "King James Version only" supporters are the belief that the King James Version, and only the King James Version, is word-for-word the divinely inspired Word of God, and that no other versions or translations, including the Hebrew and Greek manuscripts are; the belief that there are no textual problems in the King James Version; the belief that all other versions are the work of Satan; that those who use other versions or translations are in danger of hell fire; and the belief that those who disagree with King James Version onlyism are apostate or heretics. This is cultism, pure and simple.

I use the King James Version because it is the most widely owned English-language Bible, it is still unmatched in literary beauty and grace, and it is at least as accurate as other translations.

On the other hand, the King James Version has its problems. William Tyndale, Myles Coverdale, and others risked their lives to translate the Bible into English to produce a Bible in the language of the common people. I don't know too many people now who go around speaking like the King James Version. The King James Version is no longer in the language of the common people. King James onlyists are actually working against the very reason the Bible was published in the English language in the first place!

In fact, the King James Version was never in the language of the common people, who for many years after its publication continued to prefer the Geneva Bible. The King James Version was in the oratory language of the High Church pulpit.

And that brings us to another problem. The King James Version was "fixed." What I mean is that "the King gave the translators instructions designed to guarantee that the new version would conform to the ecclesiology of the Church of England. Certain Greek and Hebrew words were to be translated in a manner that reflected the traditional usage of the church. For example, old ecclesiastical words such as the word 'church' were to be retained and not to be translated as 'congregation'. The new translation would reflect the episcopal structure of the Church of England and traditional beliefs about an ordained clergy" (http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Authorized_King_James_Version).

The King James Version's purposeful mistranslation of the Greek ekklēsia as "church" has ever since perpetuated a distorted view of Jesus Christ's ekklēsia. What Jesus intended as His body of called out people, gathered from all around the earth—the "four winds" (Matthew 24:31), is instead seen as an institution that meets in edifices. Similar problems occur where the English words "bishop," "deacon," "pastor," "office," "ordain," and "rule" appear in the King James Version. In fact, there are many such problems, and, Lord willing, I will write a full article on this subject. Unfortunately, most modern translations of the Bible follow in the King James Version's footsteps and continue to mistranslate many of these words.

There is a long-running controversy over which Greek text-type is most accurate. The King James Version is based on the Textus Receptus, which is compiled from a very few manuscripts that date from the twelfth century or later. The Majority Text is compiled from the largest number of surviving manuscripts, but only few English translations are based on it. Most modern English translations of the Bible are based on the text that is found in the Nestle-Aland Greek New Testament (N) and in the United Bible Society's third edition (U). This text is often referred to as the NU-Text. This text generally represents the Alexandrian or Egyptian type text of a relative few manuscripts found in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. Those who advocate the use of these manuscripts do so because these manuscripts are older than the majority of manuscripts. The Textus Receptus and the Majority Text are more similar to each other than they are to the Alexandrian text-type. Yet, they differ from each other in 1,838 readings! It must also be pointed out that the Textus Receptus, the Alexandrian text-type, and the Byzantine text-type are 85% identical! My personal belief is that, although I prefer the Majority Text, far more errors are found in English translations because of poor translation from the Greek into the English than because of which text-form the English is based on.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

I have and use many English translations. Those that I use regularly include the New King James Version and Modern King James Version. Both of these are based on the Textus Receptus. They read fairly well, and may be good choices for those who have trouble with the seventeenth-century language of the King James Version. English readers may also benefit from the Literal Version of the Holy Bible translated by Jay P. Green (translated from the Textus Receptus). This version is now called the KJ3. Another choice, this time translated from the Majority Text, is the Analytical-Literal Translation of the New Testament of the Holy Bible translated by Gary F. Zeolla. Because they are such literal translations, these latter two Bibles do not read well in English, but they can be useful for in-depth Bible study.

Another translation that I think you will find eye-opening is The New Testament: An Expanded Translation by Kenneth S. Wuest. It can really give you a feel for what the writers of the New Testament were actually saying in the Greek. It uses as many English words as necessary to bring out the full meaning of each Greek word.

The truth of the matter is that there is no perfect English translation of the Bible and probably never will be. Nevertheless, I believe there is room for great improvement. The real answer is that each Christian must take it upon him- or herself to actually start studying, not just reading, the Bible. This means that they must become at least somewhat familiar with the original languages. Never before in history has this been easier. I cannot recommend highly enough a free Bible study software for your computer called e-Sword. It is incredibly feature rich. When you download the basic program, you will also get the King James Version, the King James Version with Strong's numbers (KJV+), and Strong's Bible Dictionary. With just this basic setup, you will be able to click on the English words in the KJV+ and instantly see the words in the original languages in Strong's. But you can also add other dictionaries, such as Brown-Driver-Briggs' Hebrew Definitions and Thayer's Greek Definitions. From the available commentaries, I highly recommend that you also add Robertson's Word Pictures in the New Testament and Vincent's Word Studies. So far, everything I have mentioned concerning e-Sword, plus much, much more is absolutely free.

So you have no excuse. Stop thinking that you are being spiritually fed because you are sitting in a pew once or twice a week while someone pours his predigested, preconceived notions of what he thinks the Bible says into your head. Let's grow the ekklēsia Jesus is building by learning what the Bible really says through feeding directly on His Word!

[Source: http://www.wordofhisgrace.org/BibleVersionQA.htm]

FYI: Preface to KJV 1611 Edition of the Bible:
http://www.kjvbibles.com/kjpreface.htm

The Majority Text and the Original -- Are They Identical? (includes discussion of their relation to Textus Receptus; also Byzantine vs Alexandrian)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Daniel Wallace: Choosing Bible Translations

https://www.christianity.com/bible/choosing-a-bible-translation-11631126.html

https://www.hopefaithprayer.com/books/Choosing-Translation-Daniel-B-Wallace.pdf [PDF]

Excerpt:

Anyone who has learned a second language knows that a word-for-word translation is impossible much or most of the time. Idioms and colloquialisms in a language need to be paraphrased to make sense in another language.

Even the KJV translators realized this. In a couple of places in the Old Testament, the Hebrew text literally reads, "God's nostrils enlarged." But, the KJV translates this as, "God became angry"—which is what the expression means. In Matthew 1:18 the KJV says that Mary was found to be with child. But the Greek is quite different and quite graphic: "Mary was having it in the belly!" In many places in Paul's letters, the KJV reads, "God forbid!" But the original has neither "God" nor "forbid." Literally, it says, "May it never be!" (as most modern translations render it).

Therefore, when we speak of a translation being faithful to the original, we need to clarify the question: Is it faithfulness to form? Or, faithfulness to meaning? Sometimes faithfulness to one involves lack of fidelity to the other. There are problems with each of the translation philosophies. The KJV, with its attempted fidelity to form, does not make sense in some passages. (In 1611, these instances did not make sense either). Likewise, The NASB often contains wooden, stilted English.

On the other hand, functional equivalence translations sometimes go too far in their interpretation of a particular phrase. The NIV, in Eph 6:6, tells slaves to "Obey (their masters) not only to win their favor." However, the word "only" is not in the Greek, and I suspect that Paul did not mean to imply it either. This reveals one of the problems with dynamic equivalence translations: the translators don't always know whether their interpretation is correct. The addition of one interpretively-driven word can change the entire meaning of a clause or a passage.

Some versions don't interpret—they distort. Some are notorious for omitting references to Christ's blood, or for attempting to deny his deity. In these instances, the translators are neither faithful to the form or the meaning. They have perverted the Word of God.

Yet, functional equivalence translators who are honest with the text often make things very clear. In Phil 2:6, for example, the NIV tells us that Jesus was "in [his] very nature God." But most formal equivalence translations state that he was in the form of God. The problem with these formally correct translations is that they are misleading: the Greek word for "form" here means essence or nature.

A formal equivalence translation lets the reader interpret for himself or herself. However, the reader often does not have the background information or the tools to interpret accurately. The net result is that he or she runs the risk of misunderstanding the text, simply because their translation was not clear enough.

On the other hand, a functional equivalence translation is usually clear and quite understandable. But if the translators missed the point of the original (either intentionally or unintentionally) they may communicate an idea foreign to the biblical text.

What Bible Should I Own? (Dan Wallace)

https://credohouse.org/blog/what-bible-should-i-own-dan-wallace

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Some additional thoughts when choosing a Bible translation version:

I came across the following quote by a person defending the King James as the only God inspired version (KJV Only):

> "What we DO know from Scripture is that God has promised to preserve His words. He says Heaven and earth shall pass away, but His words shall not pass away. He also says The Scripture cannot be broken. The Bible also tells us that God is a God of truth and He cannot lie. If I find lies in a "bible" version, then I know this is not the true words of God. This would be things like teaching that the children of Israel DECEIVED God as the NASB, NET versions have it in Psalm 78:36. Or that Jesus Christ had "origins" as the NIV, RSV, ESV 2001 edition have it in Micah 5:2. Or that teach that Jesus lied in John 7:8-10 as the NASB, ESV and NIV 2011 teach."

The above is a small sample of the types of questions/challenges given by someone who believes that only the KJV of the Bible is valid.

You need to determine for yourself which translation(s) is/are best for you.

My preference, since I believe ALL versions have strengths and weaknesses, is to use and compare several versions and their corresponding translator's notes; along with Hebrew and Greek concordances which allow you to see and understand the "original" word in the original language.

–LY

See Bible Study Recommentions elsewhere in the Appendix,

Some additional English Bible versions to consider:

HCSB [with Life Applications] – Holman Christian Study Bible
NET (esp. for it's extensive translation notes)
NKJV (esp. for casual reading instead of the KJV)
ESV Study Bible (esp. for the notes)
NASB – New American Standard Bible
NIV Study Bible (for the notes)
YLT – Young's Literal Translation
Hebrew/English and Greek/English Interlinear versions of OT and NT (various)

Of course, all the above with Strong's Hebrew/Greek references.

[I believe that when in doubt, one needs to look at the original Greek / Hebrew words and even compare with the original language -- multiple texts as necessary.

Also, I try to avoid taking verses out of context.]

-LY

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Aramaic Versions of NT (Phesitta)

Eastern vs. Western Peshitta readings

The Eastern & Western texts are very, very close in their readings; indeed, they are practically identical on every page, except for the Western 5 books (2nd Peter, 2nd John, 3rd John, Jude, and Revelation) and pericope adultera in John 7:53-8:11. In the few other places where they differ, there is essentially adoctrinal controversy at stake between the Eastern and Western churches, which is over the doctrine of the Person of Christ: Nestorianism in the East versus Monophysitism in the West. Nestorius taught that Christ had two natures (human and divine) and two "qnomas" (one human and one divine) in one Person. A "qnoma" is essentially translated "self" or "person" in the scriptures. Monophysitism teaches that Christ has only one nature and one qnoma, both divine. It is likely that the Nestorian church essentially modified a few verses to support their doctrines as the correct ones. If we look at the Greek mss., which representa 1st century translation of the NT, we find Eastern and Western type readings and mss, but in the pertinent places where the Peshitta mss. differ most significantly - Acts 20:28 & Hebrews 2:9,16 primarily, the Greek mss. almost universally support the Western readings. The items marked with an (*) are likely Nestorian modifications to the Western mss. There are also many words reflecting a difference in dialect that are not listed here; The name of God is written as ‘Marya’ in the Eastern texts, and ‘Morya’ in theWest, to name one. This is why the Eastern texts are commonly called the ‘Peshitta,’ and the Western scrolls are called the ‘Peshitto’ as well.

Matthew 6:32 - Eastern has ‘the Gentiles of the World.’ Western omits ‘World.’

Matthew 21:4 - Eastern has ‘All this happened.’ Western omits ‘All.’

Mark 14:31 - Eastern has ‘also all the disciples said’ at the end of the verse. Western omits ‘all.’

Luke 22:17-18 - Omitted in both Eastern and Western Peshitta.

John 7:53-8:11 - (pericope adultera) Omitted in Eastern texts, present in Western.

John 16:27 - Eastern has ‘from the father.’ Western has ‘from God.’

Acts 8:37 - Omitted in both Eastern and Western Peshitta.

Acts 15:34 - Omitted in both Eastern and Western Peshitta.

*Acts 20:28 - Eastern has ‘feed the church of the Messiah.’ Western has ‘feed the church of God.’

Romans 8:39 - Eastern has ‘to sever us.’ Western has ‘to sever me.’

2 Thessalonians 3:6 - Eastern has ‘that he received.’ Western has ‘that they received.’

2 Thessalonians 3:18 - Eastern ends with ‘with all of you my brothers; Amen.’ Western omits ‘my brothers.’

2 Timothy 4:22 - Eastern has ‘with us.’ Western has ‘with you.’

*Hebrews 2:9 - Eastern ends with ‘for He, apart from God, tasted death in the place of everyone.’ Western has ‘for God himself, by his grace, tasted death in the place of every person.’

Hebrews 2:16 - Eastern has ‘He did not take [the form] of angels, but he took [the form] of the children of Abraham.’ The Western has ‘For death was not authorized over the Angels, but over the children of Abraham it was authorized.’

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Here are “my” top recommendations (aside from the AENT) for the NT:

1. Aramaic Peshitta New Testament Translation by Janet Magiera

This comes in a Messianic Version also, which transliterates Aramaic names for places and people, and also titles. "Jesus Christ" becomes "Yeshue-Meshikha", "God" becomes "Alaha", "LORD" becomes "Marya". There is also a three volume Aramaic Peshitta New Testament Vertical Interlinear. This set comes with a parallel translations (Aramaic Peshitta New Testament Translation, Murdock New Testament, KJV New Testament), a dictionary number lexicon and a word study concordance. I recommend getting them all. I have all of them but the Parallel Translations volume. This is probably the purest of all the full modern translations of the Peshitta available. This translation is a mixture of Eastern Peshitta and Western Peshitto readings, leaning to the Western. MarYa is translated as "LORD".

2. Aramaic-English Interlinear New Testament by The Way International

A three-volume interlinear by the Way International. It also comes with an Estrangelo Aramaic New Testament, a Concordance, and an English dictionary supplement. There is some very subtle theological bias pertaining to the gift of the Holy Spirit, which the Way translates as "the gift of holy spirit", as in they believe that the gift of the Holy Spirit is actually not the Spirit of God Himself coming to indwell in a believer, but just a person's spirit being made holy. This doesn't show up very much though, and the Way did a great job at keeping their bias out of the translation/interlinear! It's probably my favorite of the published Aramaic-English Interlinear New Testaments. This is also a mixture of Eastern and Western readings, leaning to the Western. MarYa is translated as "lord".

3. The 1st Century Aramaic Bible in Plain English by Rev. David Bauscher

This translation is made to be used with Bauscher's The Aramaic-English Interlinear New Testament. He also has completed translating the Torah, Psalms, Proverbs, and Ecclesiastes from the Peshitta text. He translates the Aramaic MarYa as "THE LORD JEHOVAH" and transliterates most Aramaic names (like Yeshua and Kaypha). His translation is amazing, but it does two verses I can think of where he takes liberty with the text (Matthew 5:3 and 13:42). This translation sticks totally with the 1905 UBS Critical Peshitta New Testament (Western Peshitto).

4. The Syriac New Testament by James Murdock

James Murdock's public domain translation of the Peshitta. His translation is very honest and literal, and will read quite easy to someone familiar with the King James Version. He uses traditional, Anglicized terminology (like "Jesus", "God", and "Cephas"). This is a mix of Eastern and Western readings, but primarily sticks with the Western Peshitto. MarYa is translated as "Lord".

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

5. The Syrian Churches: Their Their Early History, Liturgies, and Literature: With a literal translation of the Four Gospels, from the Peschito, or Canon of Holy Scripture in Use Among Oriental Christians from the earliest times and The Apostolical Acts and Epistles, from the Peschito, Or Ancient Syriac: To Which Are Added, the Remaining Epistles, and the Book of Revelation After a Later Syrian Text by John Wesley Etheridge

John Wesley Etheridge's two-volume translation of the Peshitta, also public domain. This is one of the most literal translations of the Peshitta available. It transliterates Aramaic terminology ("Jesus Christ" is "Jeshu Meshicha", "God" is "Aloha"). It's my favorite besides the AENT. He sticks mainly to the Eastern Peshitta, but also has a few Western readings. He translates MarYa as "Lord".

6. The Holy Bible From the Ancient Eastern Text by George M. Lamsa

Dr. George M. Lamsa's translation of the Aramaic Peshitta Bible. This is the only translation of the entire Bible used by the Church of the East. The translation has some theological bias scattered throughout, primarily in the Gospels and Acts pertaining to demonic possession, which is frequently expressed as insanity. Lamsa sticks primarily to the Eastern text, but does use some Western readings. He translates MarYa as "LORD" in the Old Testament and "Lord" in the New Testament.

[NOTE: "my" was an online blogger who I lost the name of as well as the corresponding link to his article or forum entry]

Regarding the above mentioned "AENT" (Aramaic English New Testament) by Andrew Gabriel Roth):

AENT – Aramaic English New Testament (Peshitta) Netzari.org (TheRefinersFire.org)
Review (opposing) of Andrew Gabriel Roth's Aramaic English New Testament , 5th Edition
A (opposing) Review of Andrew Gabriel Roth's Aramaic English New Testament - Nazarene Space

Aramaic Primer (Part 1) Aramaic Primer (Part 2) [Video]

Note: Roth holds view that Aramaic (Peshitta in original version) has supremacy over Greek texts.

(Also, his view of the Trinity is not mainstream Evangelical.)

StudyLight.org - Aramaic Thoughts - The Peshitta (Part 1 of a 12-part Series)
http://www.studylight.org/language-studies/aramaic-thoughts/index.cgi?a=308

The Aramaic New Testament (Stephen Andrew Missick)
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=MFO-L-pWTk0 [Video]

See also:* Aramaic of Jesus in this Appendix

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Some online Aramaic text resources:

http://www.peshitta.org/

http://www.pshitta.org/

http://biblehub.com/aramaic-english/

http://www.v-a.com/bible/

http://aramaica.org/bibliotheca_aramaica/

http://www.hebrewaramaic.org/

http://www.dukhrana.com/peshitta/

http://aramaicnewtestament.org/

http://tyndaletech.blogspot.com/2005/03/you-too-can-read-syriac-bible.html

https://web.archive.org/web/20140209044349/http://www.aramaicpeshitta.com/OTtools/LamsaOT.htm

Other Aramaic related sites:

http://www.aramaicnt.com/

http://www.hebrewnewtestament.com/

http://www.bethmardutho.org/ (Syriac)

http://www.beith-morounoye.org/syriac/index1.html (Syriac)

http://www.nazarite.net/translation-hrv.html [HRV Bible translation by Trimm (???) PDF]

http://www.coyhwh.com/en/bible.php [HRB version – PDF]

Was Jesus forsaken on the cross? (Discussion of an Aramaic translation)

http://www.bible-researcher.com/syriac-isbe.html

http://www.bible-researcher.com/links14.html#syriac

http://aramaicherald.blogspot.com/2010/07/aramaic-resource-guide.html

http://aramaicnt.com/articles.htm

http://www.tertullian.org/rpearse/RightToLeft_Syriac/resources.htm

http://aent.org

http://cal1.cn.huc.edu/

http://tanakh.info/

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Accuracy of the New Testament Bible

Accuracy of the New Testament Bible

Authors/Works	Recorded	Dates of Mss.	Time Span	Copies Survived
Caesar	100–44 B.C.	A.D. 900	1,000 YRS	10
Livy	59 B.C.–A.D. 17	A.D. 300	400 YRS	27
Plato	427–347 B.C.	A.D. 900	1,200 YRS	7
Tacitus (Annals)	A.D. 56–120	A.D. 800	900 YRS	3
Pliny the Younger (History)	A.D. 61–113	A.D. 850	750 YRS	7
Thucydides (History)	460–400 B.C.	A.D. 100	600 YRS	20
Suetonious (De Vita Caesarum)	A.D. 69–140	A.D. 800	900 YRS	200+
Herodotus (History)	484–425 B.C.	A.D. 100	600 YRS	75
Sophocles	496–406 B.C.	A.D. 1000	1,400 YRS	193
Catullus	54 B.C.	A.D. 1550	1,600 YRS	3
Euripides	480–406 B.C.	A.D. 1100	1,500 YRS	9
Demosthenes	383–322 B.C.	A.D. 1100	1,300 YRS	200
Aristotle	384–322 B.C.	A.D. 1100	1,400 YRS	40
Aristophanes	450–385 B.C.	A.D. 900	1,200 YRS	10
Homer	900 B.C.	400 B.C.	500 YRS	643
New Testament	A.D. 35–100	A.D. 100–150	5–30 YRS	5,700

New Testament copies include (1) fragments, (2) some incomplete copies of the NT, (3) the complete NT, which are all in Greek. Another 10,000+ manuscripts exist in Latin plus more than one million quotations from the church fathers.*

Manuscript Evidence for Ancient Writings

Author	Written	Earliest Fragment/copy	Time Span in Years	Number of Manuscripts
Caesar	100 to 44 B.C.	A.D. 900	1,000	10
Plato	427 to 347 B.C.	A.D. 900	1,200	7
Thucydides	460 to 400 B.C.	A.D. 900	1,300	8
Tacitus	A.D. 100	A.D. 1100	1,000	20
Suetonius	A.D. 75 to 160	A.D. 950	800	8
Homer (Iliad)	900 B.C.	400 B.C.	500	643
New Testament	A.D. 40 to 100	A.D. 125	25 to 50	24,000

Information in this chart can be found in various sources. This chart was adapted from: Christian Apologetics, by Norman Geisler, 1976, p. 307; and Evidence That Demands a Verdict, by Josh McDowell, 1979, pp. 42,43.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Manuscript evidence for superior New Testament reliability

https://carm.org/manuscript-evidence

There are presently 5,686 Greek manuscripts in existence today for the New Testament. If we were to compare the number of New Testament manuscripts to other ancient writings, we find that the New Testament manuscripts far outweigh the others in quantity.

Author	Date Written	Earliest Copy	Approximate Time Span between original & copy	Number of Copies	Accuracy of Copies
Lucretius	died 55 or 53 B.C.		1100 yrs	2	----
Pliny	61-113 A.D.	850 A.D.	750 yrs	7	----
Plato	427-347 B.C.	900 A.D.	1200 yrs	7	----
Demosthenes	4th Cent. B.C.	1100 A.D.	800 yrs	8	----
Herodotus	480-425 B.C.	900 A.D.	1300 yrs	8	----
Suetonius	75-160 A.D.	950 A.D.	800 yrs	8	----
Thucydides	460-400 B.C.	900 A.D.	1300 yrs	8	----
Euripides	480-406 B.C.	1100 A.D.	1300 yrs	9	----
Aristophanes	450-385 B.C.	900 A.D.	1200	10	----
Caesar	100-44 B.C.	900 A.D.	1000	10	----
Livy	59 BC-AD 17	----	???	20	----
Tacitus	circa 100 A.D.	1100 A.D.	1000 yrs	20	----
Aristotle	384-322 B.C.	1100 A.D.	1400	49	----
Sophocles	496-406 B.C.	1000 A.D.	1400 yrs	193	----
Homer (Iliad)	900 B.C.	400 B.C.	500 yrs	643	95%
New Testament	1st Cent. A.D. (50-100 A.D.	2nd Cent. A.D. (c. 130 A.D. f.)	less than 100 years	5600	99.5%

Chart Showing Accuracy of the Bible New Testament Compared to Other Accepted Documents

As you can see, there are thousands more New Testament Greek manuscripts than any other ancient writing. The internal consistency of the New Testament documents is about 99.5% textually pure. That is an amazing accuracy. In addition, there are over 19,000 copies in the Syriac, Latin, Coptic, and Aramaic languages. The total supporting New Testament manuscript base is over 24,000.

Almost all biblical scholars agree that the New Testament documents were all written before the close of the First Century. If Jesus was crucified in A.D. 30., then that means the entire New Testament was completed within 70 years. This is important because it means there were plenty of people around when the New Testament documents were penned--people who could have contested the writings. In other words, those who wrote the documents knew that if they were inaccurate, plenty of people would have pointed it out. But, we have absolutely no ancient documents contemporary with the First Century that contest the New Testament texts.

Furthermore, another important aspect of this discussion is the fact that we have a fragment of the gospel of John that dates back to around 29 years from the original writing (John Rylands Papyri

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

A.D. 125). This is extremely close to the original writing date. This is simply unheard of in any other ancient writing, and it demonstrates that the Gospel of John is a First Century document.

Is the New Testament Text Reliable

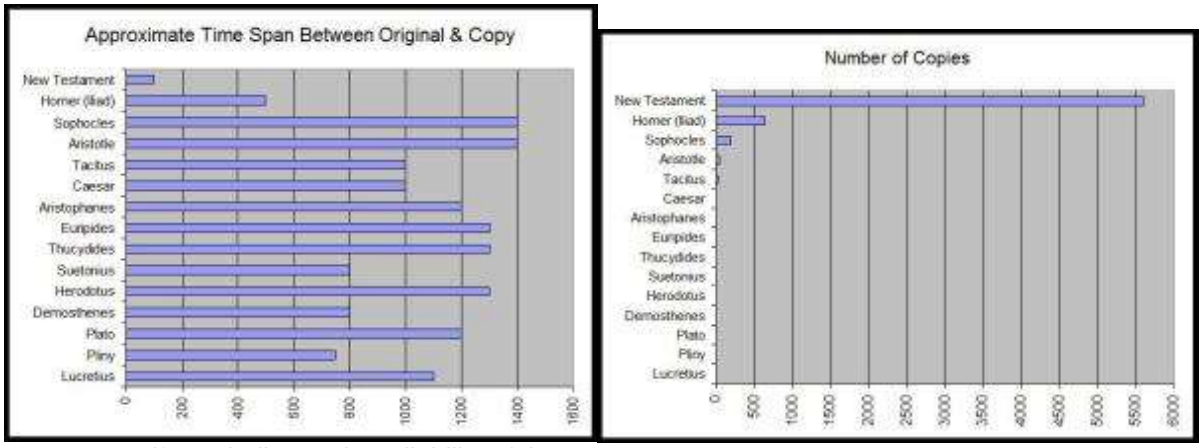
https://www.str.org/articles/is-the-new-testament-text-reliable

Facts for Skeptics of the New Testament

http://www.equip.org/article/facts-for-skeptics-of-the-new-testament/

Archaeology and the Historical Reliability of the New Testament

https://www.bethinking.org/is-the-bible-reliable/archaeology-and-the-historical-reliability-of-the-new-testament



How Accurate is the Bible?

http://www.cslewisinstitute.org/webfm_send/410 [PDF]

Bibliographical Evidence

https://michaeljscott.wordpress.com/jonathan-munro-adventures/the-lost-scrolls-a-jonathan-munro-adventure/biblical-evidences/

Here are a pair of charts illustrating the differences between the age of ancient manuscripts, and the extant number of ancient manuscripts available today:

So you see, if we challenge the reliability of the New Testament manuscripts based on the notion that they've been corrupted over centuries of copying, we must allow all of classical antiquity to fall as well. And the simple fact is, we don't have centuries as it is. We have decades, and we have thousands of manuscripts and fragments of manuscripts from which to compare and choose. Therefore, we can confidently assert that the New Testament we have today is a reliably accurate version of the original text.

I Don't Have Enough Faith to Be an Atheist: Is the New Testament True?

http://www.plumbbobblog.com/?p=7077

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Extra-Biblical Christian Sources

Quotations from early Church Fathers concerning the New Testament

Writer	Gospels	Acts	Pauline	General	Revelation	Totals
Justin Martyr	268	10	43	6	3	330
Irenaeus	1,038	194	499	23	65	1,819
Clement (Alex)	1,107	44	1,127	207	11	2,406
Origen	9,231	349	7,778	399	165	17,992
Tertullian	3,822	502	2,609	120	205	7,258
Hippolytus	734	42	387	27	188	1,378
Eusebius	3,258	211	1,592	88	27	5,176
Grand Totals	19,368	1,352	14,035	870	664	36,289

Taken from Josh McDowell, The New Evidence That Demands a Verdict, p. 43

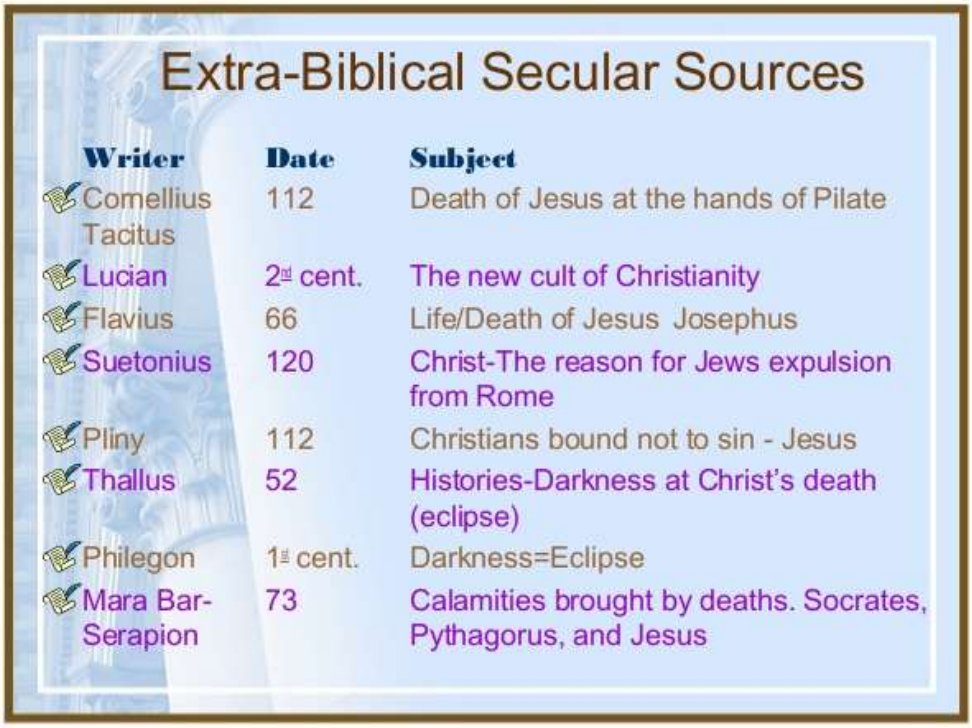
External Evidence Test



"Indeed so extensive are these citations that if all other sources for our knowledge of the text of the New Testament were destroyed, they would be sufficient alone for the reconstruction of practically the entire New Testament."

Bruce Metzger, The Text of the New Testament, p. 86

Source: https://www.slideshare.net/oknishan/reliability-of-the-bible

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Flavius Josephus…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Dead Sea Scrolls

- The Dead Sea Scrolls demonstrated the meticulous care in recording the manuscripts for Jews.
- The Dead Sea scrolls attest to textual accuracy

The Significance of the Dead Sea Scroll discoveries?

The earliest manuscripts up until the discovery of the Dead Sea Scrolls was the Cairo codex dated about A.D. 895 containing both the latter and former prophets.

The Dead Sea Scrolls date from the third century B.C. to the first century A.D.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

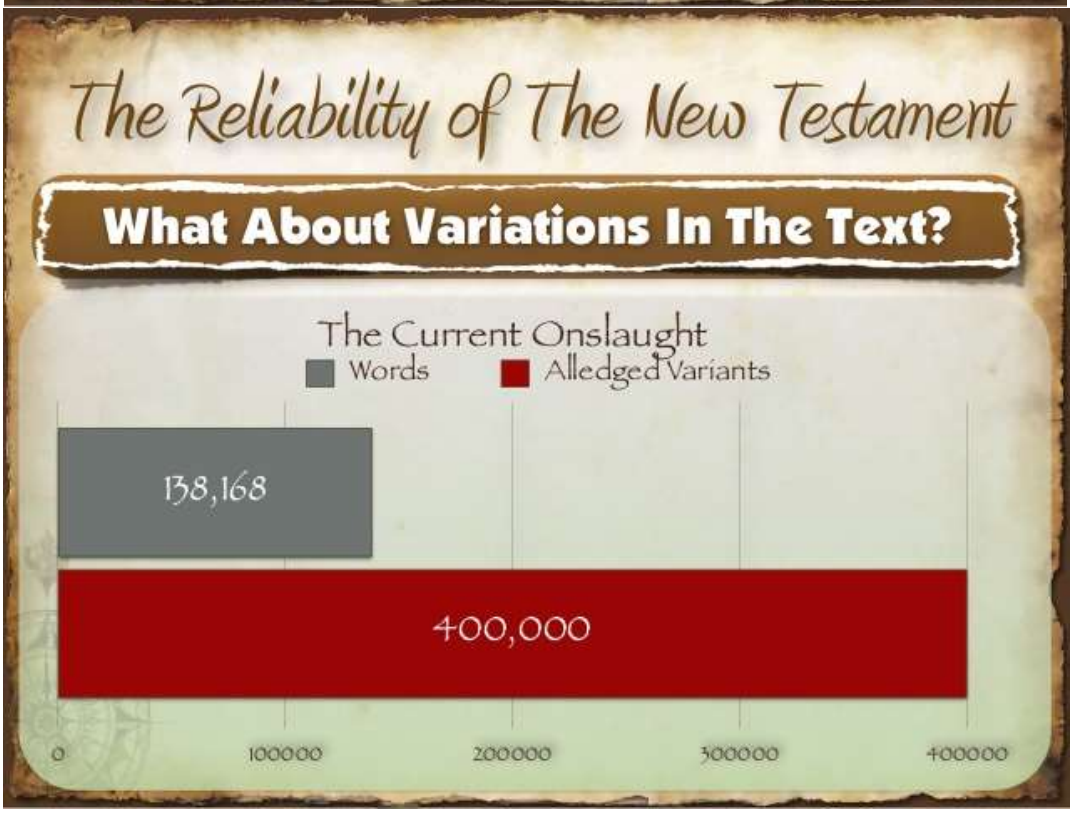
For another example of how Dead Sea Scrolls improve our knowledge/understanding of Bible and the history/culture of the times during which it was written, see:



4QMMT

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

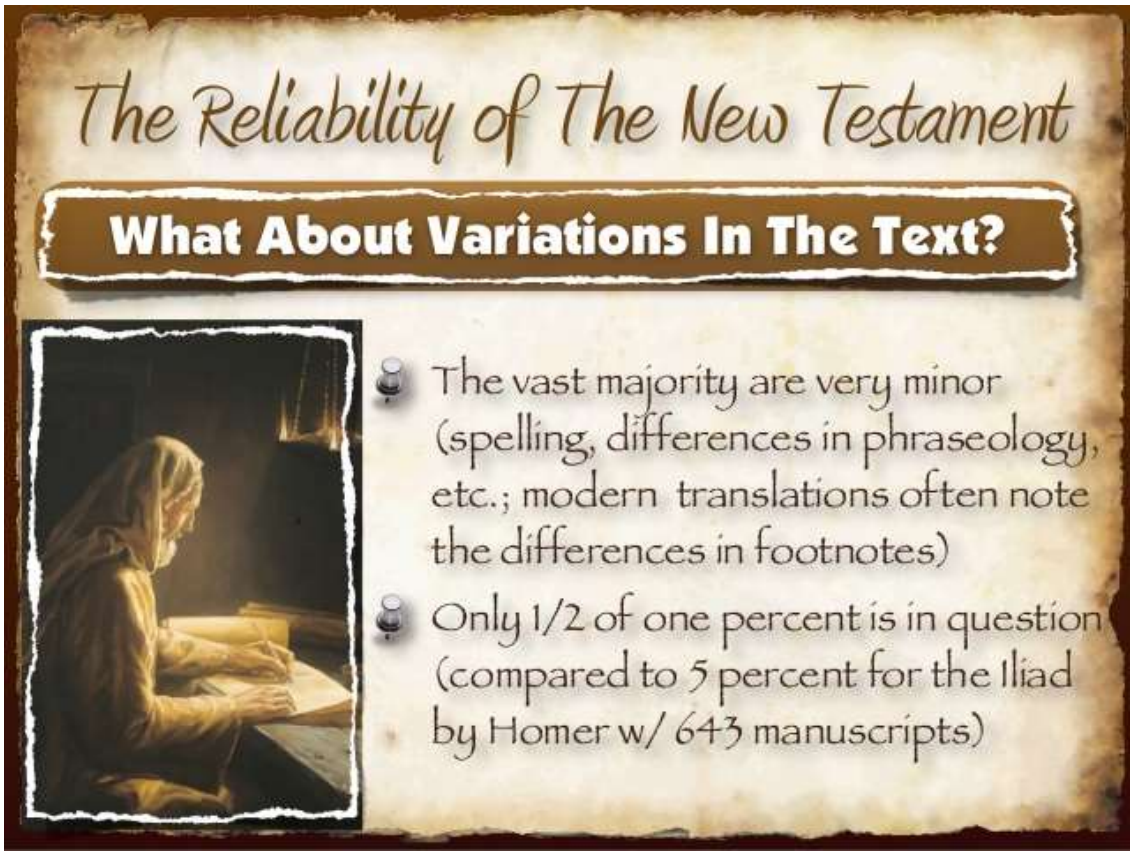
What About Variations in the Text?



Source: https://www.slideshare.net/DonMcClain/the-reliability-of-the-new-testament-text

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Source: https://www.slideshare.net/DonMcClain/the-reliability-of-the-new-testament-text

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Book of Genesis in 11 minutes and 18 seconds! (The Bible Project)
http://jmsmith.org/blog/bible-project-genesis/

https://thebibleproject.com/explore/genesis-1-11/

https://thebibleproject.com/explore/genesis-12-50/

also Revelation: https://thebibleproject.com/explore/revelation/

Was the Jesus story based on older pagan mythologies?
http://jmsmith.org/blog/pagan-jesus/

The Gospel Plain and Clear
http://jmsmith.org/downloads/The-Gospel-Plain-and-Clear.pdf

DigitalCommons@Liberty University
http://digitalcommons.liberty.edu/
Source for conservative Christian scholarly papers (pdfs) and links to articles on a wide range of theological topics. (Just enter your search parameters to discover related publications.)

See also my other separate resources*:

Christian Scholarship: Biblical – Theological – Philosophical

For information on the writings of Paul and related resources, see:
Reference Notes on Paul and Romans (and Galatians plus Ephesians

Return to*: Accuracy / Reliability of the New Testament Bible

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Series: Examining Jesus by the Historical Method

Does Jesus meet the scrutiny of the historical method?

This series of articles discusses how Jesus' historicity meets and exceeds the standards of the historical method as they also show that the NT record about Jesus is extremely trustworthy.

"Examining Jesus by the Historical Method (Part 1: Multiple Sources)." (Dec. 27, 15). https://bellatorchristi.com/2015/12/27/examining-jesus-by-the-historical-method-part-1-multiple-sources/

"Examining Jesus by the Historical Method (Part 2: Enemy Attestation)." (Jan. 4, 2016). https://bellatorchristi.com/2016/01/04/examining-jesus-by-the-historical-method-part-2-enemy-attestation/

"Examining Jesus by the Historical Method (Part 3: Embarrassing Admonitions)." (Jan. 11, 2016). https://bellatorchristi.com/2016/01/11/examining-jesus-by-the-historical-method-part-3-embarrassing-admonitions/

"Examining Jesus by the Historical Method (Part 4: Pre-NT Traditions)." (Jan. 18, 2016). https://bellatorchristi.com/2016/01/18/examining-jesus-by-the-historical-method-part-4-early-testimony-pre-nt-traditions/

"Examining Jesus by the Historical Method (Part 5: Early NT Texts)." (Jan. 25, 2016). https://bellatorchristi.com/2016/01/25/examining-jesus-by-the-historical-method-part-5-early-testimony-early-nt-texts/

"Examining Jesus by the Historical Method (Part 6: The Case for the Gospels)." (Feb. 1, 2016). https://bellatorchristi.com/2016/02/01/examining-jesus-by-the-historical-method-part-6-eyewitness-testimony-the-case-for-the-gospels/

"Examining Jesus by the Historical Method (Part 7: The Gospel Witnesses)." (Feb. 8, 2016). https://bellatorchristi.com/2016/02/08/examining-jesus-by-the-historical-method-part-7-eyewitness-testimony-the-gospel-witnesses/

"Examining Jesus by the Historical Method (Part 8: Two Final Methods and Conclusion)." (Feb. 15, 2016). https://bellatorchristi.com/2016/02/15/examining-jesus-by-the-historical-method-part-8-2-final-methods-and-conclusion/

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Reliability of the Bible

See also*: Accuracy / Reliability of the New Testament Bible

Reliability of the Old Testament
http://www.theopedia.com/Historicity_of_the_Old_Testament

Evidence from Archaeology for the reliability of the Bible
http://www.facingthechallenge.org/arch2.php

Why We Can Believe the Bible
http://www.everystudent.com/features/bible.html

Archeology and the Old Testament
http://www.apologeticspress.org/apcontent.aspx?category=13&article=1347

Archeology Confirms the Bible
http://www.biblestudysite.com/arch.htm

How Was The Bible Written and Transmitted?
http://www.bibleodyssey.org/tools/bible-basics/how-was-the-bible-written-and-transmitted.aspx

Bible Versions Differences
https://www.blueletterbible.org/versions.cfm

Why You Can Believe the Bible
http://www.everystudent.com/features/bible.html

Lecture - Dr Peter Williams - New Evidences the Gospels were Based on Eyewitness Accounts https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=r5Ylt1pBMm8 [Video]

N.T. Wright: How Can the Bible be Authoritative? (1991)
http://ntwrightpage.com/2016/07/12/how-can-the-bible-be-authoritative/

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Center for the Study of New Testament Manuscripts [Facebook] [iTunes]

(Daniel B. Wallace,(LinkedIn) PhD, Executive Director CSNTM), Professor at DTS
Dr. Wallace is a recognized expert on koine Greek. (Wikipedia: Daniel B Wallace)
Many of his books on Greek grammar are required standards at colleges and seminaries.

New Testament: Introductions and Outlines (for each book in the NT) includes discussions of different points of view regarding authorship and authenticity for each book of the NT, in addition to the introductions and outlines. (Also downloadable as Microsoft Word documents.)

Video: An Embarrassment of Riches (Youtube)
The Myth of Theological Liberalism (blog article, read also the comments)

The Center for Study and Preservation of the Majority Text - resources on the various families of the Majority Text, as well as the study of the Textus Receptus and the Greek lectionary tradition.

Reliability of the Gospels (physical and literary evidence of authenticity see also: the Appendix of "Complete Sayings of Jesus - NKJV" above

Evidence from Archeology for the Reliability of the Bible #2 #3 #4 #5 #6 (BAS) #7 News

History of the English Bible (Wallace): https://bible.org/series/history-english-bible

Dr. Wallace: Earliest Manuscript of the New Testament Discovered?
https://voice.dts.edu/article/wallace-new-testament-manscript-first-century/

How a Surf Bum Learned to Trust the Bible
https://voice.dts.edu/article/how-a-surf-bum-learned-to-trust-the-bible-wallace-daniel/

How Badly Was the New Testament Corrupted? | Veritas at SDSU (2018)
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=zZ5cgQUJnrI [Video]

Dan Wallace - Recent Discoveries of NT Manuscripts https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=SqLSSZ-nRPU [Video]

Did the Early Scribes Corrupt the New Testament? - Dan Wallace, PhD https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=wiWKifMu6f8 [Video]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

NT Authorship and Authenticity

Wallace: New Testament: Introductions and Outlines (for each book in the NT) includes discussions of different points of view regarding authorship and authenticity for each book of the NT, in addition to the introductions and outlines. (Also downloadable as Microsoft Word documents.)

See also*: Accuracy / Reliability of the New Testament

Reliability of the Bible continued on next page…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Case for the Reliability of the Old Testament

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Case for the Reliability of the New Testament

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The New Testament Chain of Custody

From J. Warner Wallace's book, Cold-Case Christianity: A Homicide Detective Investigates the Claims of the Gospels

The Importance of the New Testament Chain of Custody (Video) http://coldcasechristianity.com/2015/the-importance-of-the-new-testament-chain-of-custody/

Testing the Gospels From John to Hippolytus http://coldcasechristianity.com/2013/testing-the-gospels-from-john-to-hippolytus/

Did the New Testament Change Over Time?
https://www.appreasons.org/new-testament-change-over-time/

I Don't Have Enough Faith to Be an Atheist: Is the New Testament True?
http://www.plumbbobblog.com/?p=7077

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Four Reasons Why the New Testament Gospels Are Reliable

Four Reasons Why the New Testament Gospels Are Reliable

www.ColdCaseChristianity.com

They Were Written Early

A significant case can be built to establish the early dating of the Gospels. There are several missing historical events in Acts, including the destruction of the Temple (c. 70AD), the siege of Jerusalem (c. 68-70AD) and the deaths of Paul (64-67AD), Peter (64-67AD) and James (61AD). The absence of these events is reasonable if the Book of Acts was written no later than 60AD. Paul appears to have quoted Luke's Gospel twice; in 1 Timothy 5:18 (written in 63-64AD) he quoted Luke 10:6-7, and in 1 Corinthians 11:23-26 (written between 53-57AD) he quoted Luke 22:19-20. This means Paul would've had access to Luke's Gospel as early as 53AD. Luke quoted Mark's Gospel more than any other source. But this means the information in Mark's Gospel is even earlier than Luke's, placing Mark in the late 40's or early 50's.

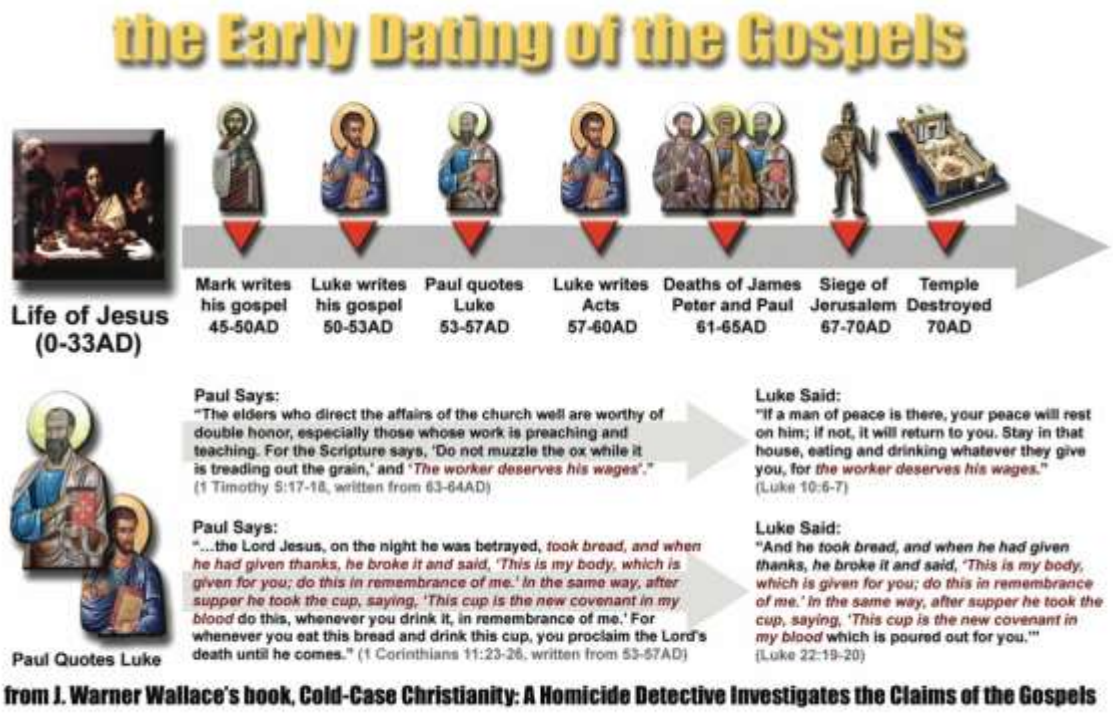
They Are Corroborated

Abundant touch-point corroboration exists to verify the New Testament accounts, even though this evidence is unsurprisingly fractional. From archaeology, to fulfilled prophecy, to the ancient statements of early non-Christian authors, to the internal evidence of language, proper nouns and cultural details, the New Testament Gospels are corroborated better than any other ancient text. Period.

They Haven't Changed Over Time

There is a New Testament "chain of custody" related to the transmission of the Gospels and letters of Paul. The Gospel of John, for example, can be traced from John to his three personal students (Ignatius, Polycarp and Papias) to their personal student (Irenaeus) to his personal student (Hippolytus). These men in the chain of custody wrote their own letters and documents describing what they had been taught by their predecessors. The evidence is clear, the foundational claims related to Jesus have not changed at all from the first record to the last.

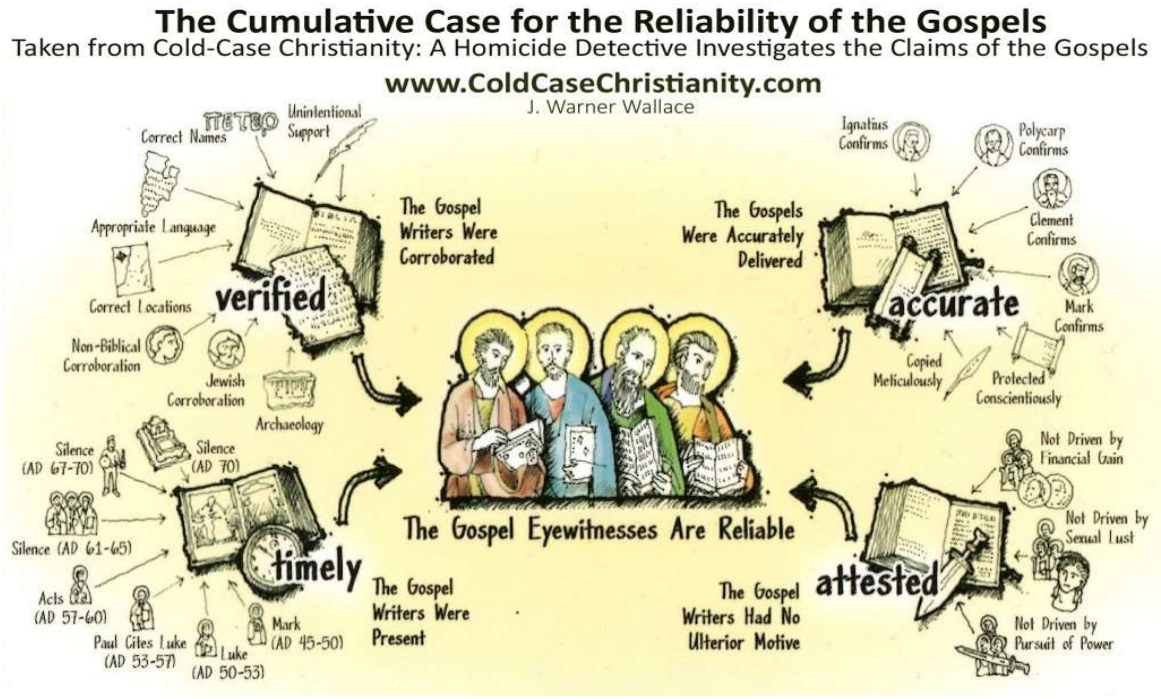
They Are Not Biased



If the authors of the Gospels are lying about their claims, their only lying for one of these three reasons: (1) financial greed, (2) sexual or relational lust, and (3) the pursuit of power. Did they get rich from their claims? No. Did they get a bunch of girlfriends as the result of their claims? No. What about power? Couldn't it be argued that these men became important leaders within their religious community? While this might seem a reasonable motive, apply it to the foremost leader of the early movement: Paul. Paul started off with the authority and respect of his religious community. Why would he leave this if this was his motivation? None of the Gospel authors gained anything from their testimony and instead suffered persecution and death for their claims. The authors lacked motive and bias.

COLD-CASE CHRISTIANITY:
A Homicide Detective Investigates the Claims of the Gospels

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

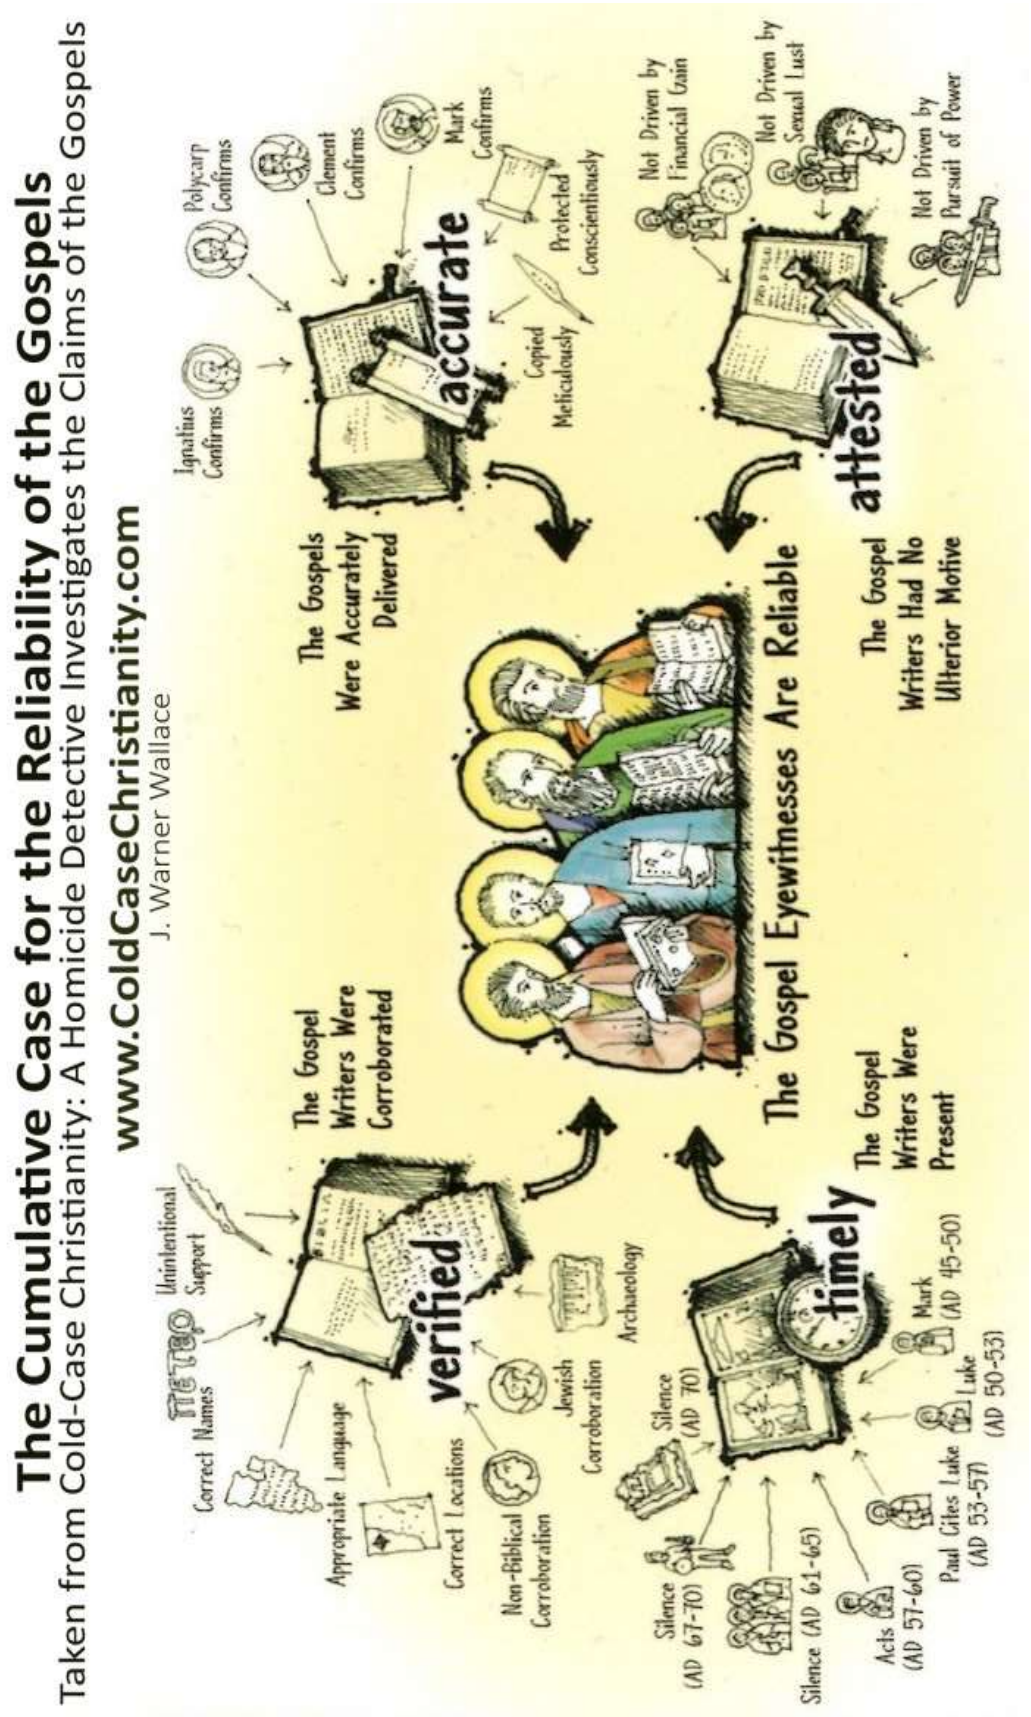


The Early Dating of the Gospels

Is the Bible True? The Cumulative Case for the Reliability of the Gospels - Christian cold-case: a homicide detective looks at the claims of the Gospels. (See following pages)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Cumulative Case for the Reliability of the Gospels



[Source: http://coldcasechristianity.com/2014/is-the-bible-true-the-cumulative-case-for-the-reliability-of-the-gospels-free-bible-insert/]

(Note: Above graphic makes use of abductive reasoning)

Why Does Every Christian Need Abductive Reasoning? (Cold-Case Christianity)
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=IsnRLOExbe0 [Video]

See enlarged view of next page…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

TRADITIONAL EVIDENCES FOR THE DIVINE INSPIRATION OF THE BIBLE

1. Supernatural unity
2. Historical accuracy
3. Scientific accuracy
4. Fulfilled types and prophecies
5. Philosophical depth
6. Moral grandeur
7. Literary beauty
8. Life-changing power
9. Civilizing influence
10. Testimony of Christ and the biblical authors
11. Trustworthiness of Christ and the biblical authors
    - A. Character
    - B. Sacrifice
    - C. Miraculous attestation
12. Providential preservation
    - A. Abundance of biblical manuscripts
    - B. Quality of biblical manuscripts

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Major Archaeological Finds Relating to the NT

SITE OR ARTIFACT	LOCATION	RELATING SCRIPTURE
	ISRAEL
Caiaphas ossuary	Jerusalem	Mt 26:3
Herod's temple	Jerusalem	Lk 1:9
Herod's winter palace	Jericho	Mt 2:4
The Herodium (possible site of Herod's tomb)	Near Bethlehem	Mt 2:19
Masada	Near western shore of Dead Sea	Cf. Lk 21:20
Early synagogue	Capernaum	Mk 1:21
Pool of Siloam	Jerusalem	Jn 9:7
Pool of Bethesda	Jerusalem	Jn 5:2
Pilate inscription	Caesarea	Lk 3:1
Inscription: Gentile entrance of temple sanctuary	Jerusalem	Ac 21:27-29
Skeletal remains of crucified man	Jerusalem	Lk 23:33
Peter's house	Capernaum	Mt 8:14
Jacob's well	Nablus	Jn 4:5-6
	ASIA MINOR
Derbe inscription	Kerti Hüyük	Ac 14:20
Sergius Paulus inscription	Kythraia, Cyprus	Ac 13:6-7
Zeus altar (Satan's throne?)	Pergamum	Rev 2:13
Fourth-century B.C. walls	Assos	Ac 20:13-14
Artemis temple and altar	Ephesus	Ac 19:27-28
Ephesian theater	Ephesus	Ac 19:29
Silversmith shops	Ephesus	Ac 19:24
Artemis statues	Ephesus	Ac 19:35
	GREECE
Erastus inscription	Corinth	Ro 16:23
Synagogue inscription	Corinth	Ac 18:4
Meat market inscription	Corinth	1Co 10:25
Cult dining rooms (in Asklepius and Demeter temples)	Corinth	1Co 8:10
Court (bema)	Corinth	Ac 18:12
Marketplace (bema)	Philippi	Ac 16:19
Starting gate for races	Isthmia	1Co 9:24,26
Gallio inscription	Delphi	Ac 18:12
Egnatian Way	Neapolis (Kavalla), Philippi, Amphipolis, Apollonia, Thessalonica	Cf. Ac 16:11-12; 17:1
Politarch inscription	Thessalonica	Ac 17:6
	ITALY
Tomb of Augustus	Rome	Lk 2:1
Mamertine Prison	Rome	2Ti 1:16-17; 2:9; 4:6-8
Appian Way	Puteoli to Rome	Ac 28:13-16
Golden House of Nero	Rome	Cf. Ac 25:10; 1Pe 2:13
Arch of Titus	Rome	Cf. Lk 19:43-44; 21:6,20

[Source: ESV Study Bible note]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Chart listing some of the major archaeological finds...

ARCHAEOLOGICAL FIND	SIGNIFICANCE
Mari Tablets	Over 20,000 cuneiform tablets, which date back to Abraham's time period, explain many of the patriarchal traditions of Genesis.
Ebla Tablets	Over 20,000 tablets, many containing law similar to the Deuteronomy law code. The previously thought fictitious five cities of the plain in Genesis 14 (Sodom, Gomorrah, Admah, Zeboiim, and Zoar) are identified.
Nuzi Tablets	They detail customs of the 14th and 15th century parallel to the patriarchal accounts such as maids producing children for barren wives.
Black Stele	Proved that writing and written laws existed three centuries before the Mosaic laws.
Temple Walls of Karnak, Egypt	Signifies a 10th century BC reference to Abraham.
Laws of Eshnunna (ca. 1950 BC) Lipit-Ishtar Code (ca. 1860 BC) Laws of Hammurabi (ca. 1700 BC)	Show that the law codes of the Pentateuch were not too sophisticated for that period.
Ras Shamra Tablets	Provide information on Hebrew poetry.
Lachish Letters	Describe Nebuchadnezzar's invasion of Judah and give insight into the time of Jeremiah.
Gedaliah Seal	References Gedaliah is spoken of in 2 Kings 25:22.
Cyrus Cylinder	Authenticates the Biblical description of Cyrus' decree to allow the Jews to rebuild the temple in Jerusalem (see 2 Chronicles 36:23; Ezra 1:2-4).
Moabite Stone	Gives information about Omri, the sixth king of Israel.
Black Obelisk of Shalmaneser III	Illustrates how Jehu, king of Israel, had to submit to the Assyrian king.
Taylor Prism	Contains an Assyrian text which detail Sennacherib's attack on Jerusalem during the time of Hezekiah, king of Israel.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

PAST CHARGES BY CRITICS	ANSWERED BY ARCHAEOLOGY
Moses could not have written Pentateuch because he lived before the invention of writing.	Writing existed many centuries before Moses.
Abraham's home city of Ur does not exist.	Ur was discovered. One of the columns had the inscription "Abram."
The city built of solid rock called "Petra" does not exist.	Petra was discovered.
The story of the fall of Jericho is myth. The city never existed.	The city was found and excavated. It was found that the walls tumbled in the exact manner described by the biblical narrative.
The "Hittites" did not exist.	Hundreds of references to the amazing Hittite civilization have been found. One can even get a doctorate in Hittite studies at the University of Chicago.
Belshazzar was not a real king of Babylon; he is not found in the records.	Tablets of Babylonia describe the reign of this coregent and son of Nabonidus.

[Source: http://www.everystudent.com/features/bible.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Additional References for Biblical Archeology:

Biblical Archeology News
http://www.bible-history.com/archaeology/news/

Christianity Today – Archeology
http://www.christianitytoday.com/ct/search/?query=Archaeology [main list page to archeology articles]

Ancient Sticky Notes Shift Secular Scholars Closer to Evangelicals on Bibles Age:

To-do lists written on pottery shards 2,600 years ago are causing some secular scholars to think the Bible was written years earlier than previously thought…

[Source: http://www.christianitytoday.com/ct/2016/april-web-only/ancient-sticky-notes-shift-secular-scholars-older-bible.html]

Biblical Archaeology's Top Ten Discoveries of 2015
http://www.christianitytoday.com/ct/2015/december-web-only/biblical-archaeologys-top-ten-discoveries-of-2015.html

http://www.biblicalarchaeology.org/daily/news/top-10-biblical-archaeology-discoveries-in-2015/

http://www.ibtimes.co.uk/most-significant-biblical-archaeological-findings-2015-1534072

Biblical Archaeology's Top Ten Discoveries of 2014
http://www.christianitytoday.com/ct/2014/december-web-only/biblical-archaeologys-top-ten-discoveries-of-2014.html

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Biblical Archaeology's Top Ten Discoveries of 2013
http://www.christianitytoday.com/ct/2013/december-web-only/biblical-archaeologys-top-ten-discoveries-of-2013.html

Top Ten Biblical Discoveries in Archaeology http://www.reclaimingthemind.org/blog/category/archaeology/

Top Ten Archaeological Discoveries of the Twentieth Century Relating to the Biblical World http://biblicalstudies.info/top10/schoville.htm

8 Jewish Archeological Studies http://www.nbcnews.com/id/28162671/ns/technology_and_science-science/t/jewish-archaeological-discoveries/

Factual Evidence to Support the Historicity of the Bible http://www.equip.org/article/biblical-archaeology-factual-evidence-to-support-the-historicity-of-the-bible/

Startling Discoveries (from book Review: The Signature of God)
http://www.grantjeffrey.com/article/article7.htm

Does Archaeology Support the Bible? A Look at the Evidence http://www.whatchristianswanttoknow.com/does-archaeology-support-the-bible-a-look-at-the-evidence/

Archaeological and External Evidence for the Bible: An Outline http://www.faithfacts.org/search-for-truth/maps/archaeological-and-external-evidence

Archaeological Finds That Support the Bible http://www.bibleuniverse.com/articles/bible-universe-blog/id/1584/archaeological-finds-that-support-the-bible

See also*: Accuracy / Reliability of the New Testament Bible

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Does the New Testament Misquote the Old Testament?

Sometimes when a New Testament writer quotes the Old Testament, the two passages do not match precisely. Is the New Testament writer misquoting the Old Testament? Or is there another explanation?

Luke records that when Jesus began His ministry, He went to the synagogue in Nazareth on the Sabbath day. When He stood up to read the Scriptures, “The scroll of the prophet Isaiah was given to him” (Luke 4:17). Jesus read the description of a climactic arrival of the anointed one from Isaiah 61:1-2, excluding the last half of verse two. That omission is understandable, but if you look at Luke 4:18-19 and Isaiah 61:1-2 side-by-side, several dissimilarities in what Jesus read are readily apparent.

In the original Old Testament passage, there is no reference to making the blind see. Conversely, Isaiah speaks of “binding up the brokenhearted,” a phrase absent in Luke. Since Luke is clear that Jesus was reading from a scroll, the divergence is not due to Luke (or Jesus) quoting from memory and messing up the passage! What’s going on here?

Most of the time when a divergence occurs between a New Testament quotation and the Old Testament, the answer is the Septuagint, the ancient Greek translation of the Hebrew Bible. It often does not match the Hebrew text from which most Old Testaments were translated. Jesus apparently either read from a Hebrew text that reflected the Septuagint, or Luke fills in the quoted passage with the Septuagint. (And since Luke was not Jewish and spoke Greek, the Septuagint would have been his Bible.)

Jesus (or Luke) gets the “recovery of sight to the blind” line from the Septuagint. The Septuagint also contains a line from the traditional Old Testament that isn’t in Luke’s record!

This example shows that it’s worth our time to check cross references, especially in quotations. Do it yourself by comparing New Testament quotations both to translations of the traditional Hebrew text, like the NASB or ESV, and an up-to-date English translation of the Septuagint (New English Translation of the Septuagint; Oxford, 2008).[1]

We often don’t realize that even biblical writers depended on translations that they considered the Word of God. In the same manner, we can consider our own translations the Word of God.

[Source: http://www.biblestudytools.com/bible-study/topical-studies/does-the-new-testament-misquote-the-old-testament.html]

See also*: Accuracy / Reliability of the New Testament Bible

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Ancient Texts Relating to the Old Testament

Major representative examples of ancient Near Eastern, non-Biblical documents that provide parallels to or shed light on various OT passages.

AMARNA LETTERS

Canaanite Akkadian —14th century B.C.

Hundreds of letters, written primarily by Canaanite scribes, illuminate social, political, and religious relationships between Canaan and Egypt during the reigns of Amunhotep III and Akhenaten.

AMENEMOPE'S WISDOM

Egyptian —early 1st millennium B.C.

Thirty chapters of wisdom instruction are similar to Pr 22:17-24:22 and provide the closest external parallels to OT wisdom literature.

ATRAHASIS EPIC

Akkadian —early 2nd millennium B.C.

A cosmological epic depicts creation and early human history, including the flood (cf. Ge 1-9).

BABYLONIAN THEODICY

Akkadian —early 1st millennium B.C.

A sufferer and his friend dialogue with each other (cf. Job).

CYRUS CYLINDER

Akkadian —6th century B.C.

King Cyrus of Persia records the conquest of Babylon (cf. Da 5:30; 6:26) and boasts of his generous policies toward his new subjects and their gods.

DEAD SEA SCROLLS

Hebrew, Aramaic, Greek —3rd century B.C. to 1st century A.D.

Several hundred scrolls and fragments include the oldest copies of OT books and passages.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

EBLA TABLETS

Sumerian, Eblaite —mid-3rd millennium B.C.

Thousands of commercial, legal, literary and epistolary texts describe the cultural vitality and political power of pre-patriarchal civilization in northern Syria.

ELEPHANTINE PAPYRI

Aramaic —late 5th century B.C.

Contracts and letters document life among Jews who fled to southern Egypt after Jerusalem was destroyed in 586 B.C.

ENUMA ELISH

Akkadian —2nd millennium B.C.

Marduk, the Babylonian god of cosmic order, is elevated to the supreme position in the pantheon. The 7 -tablet epic contains an account of creation (cf. Ge 1-2).

GEZER CALENDAR

Hebrew —10th century B.C.

A schoolboy from west-central Israel describes the seasons, crops, and farming activity of the agricultural year.

GILGAMESH EPIC

Akkadian —early 2nd millennium B.C.

Gilgamesh, ruler of Uruk, experiences numerous adventures, including a meeting with Utnapishtim, the only survivor of a great deluge (cf. Ge 6-9).

HAMMURAPI'S CODE

Akkadian —18th century B.C.

Together with similar law codes that preceded and followed it, the Code of Hammurapi exhibits close parallels to numerous passages in the Mosaic legislation of the OT.

HYMN TO THE ATEN

Egyptian —14th century B.C.

The poem praises the beneficence and universality of the sun in language somewhat similar to that used in Ps 104.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

ISHTAR'S DESCENT

Akkadian —1st millennium B.C.

The goddess Ishtar temporarily descends to the netherworld, which is pictured in terms reminiscent of OT descriptions of Sheol.

JEHOIACHIN'S RATION DOCKETS

Akkadian —early 6th century B.C.

Brief texts from the reign of Nebuchadnezzar II refer to rations allotted to Judah's exiled king Jehoiachin and his sons (cf. 2Ki 25:27-30).

KING LISTS

Sumerian —early 2nd millennium B.C.

The reigns of Sumerian kings before the flood are described as lasting for thousands of years, reminding us of the longevity of the pre-flood patriarchs in Ge 5.

LACHISH LETTERS

Hebrew —early 6th century B.C.

Inscriptions on pottery fragments vividly portray the desperate days preceding the Babylonian siege of Jerusalem in 588-586 B.C. (cf. Je 34:7).

LAMENTATION OVER THE DESTRUCTION OF UR

Sumerian —early 2nd millennium B.C.

The poem mourns the destruction of the city of Ur at the hands of the Elamites (cf. the OT book of Lamentations).

LUDLUL BEL NEMEQI

Akkadian —late 2nd millennium B.C.

A suffering Babylonian nobleman describes his distress in terms faintly reminiscent of the experiences of Job.

MARI TABLETS

Akkadian —18th century B.C.

Letters and administrative texts provide detailed information regarding customs, language, and personal names that reflect the culture of the OT patriarchs.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

MERNEPTAH STELE

Egyptian —13th century B.C.

Pharaoh Merneptah figuratively describes his victory over various peoples in western Asia, including "Israel."

MESHA STELE (MOABITE STONE)

Moabite —9th century B.C.

Mesha, king of Moab (see 2Ki 3:4 and note on 1:1), rebels against a successor of Israel's king Omri.

MURASHU TABLETS

Akkadian —5th century B.C.

Commercial documents describe financial transactions engaged in by Murashu and Sons, a Babylonian firm that did business with Jews and other exiles.

MURSILIS'S TREATY WITH DUPPI-TESSUB

Hittite —mid-2nd millennium B.C.

King Mursilis imposes a suzerainty treaty on King Duppi-Tessub. The literary outline of this and other Hittite treaties is strikingly paralleled in OT covenants established by God with his people.

NABONIDUS CHRONICLE

Akkadian —mid-6th century B.C.

The account describes the absence of King Nabonidus from Babylon. His son Belshazzar is therefore the regent in charge of the kingdom (cf. Da 5:29-30).

NEBUCHADNEZZAR CHRONICLE

Akkadian —early 6th century B.C.

A chronicle from the reign of Nebuchadnezzar II includes the Babylonian account of the siege of Jerusalem in 597 B.C. (see 2Ki 24:10-17).

NUZI TABLETS

Akkadian —mid-2nd millennium B.C.

Adoption, birthright-sale, and other legal documents graphically illustrate OT patriarchal customs current centuries earlier.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

PESSIMISTIC DIALOGUE

Akkadian —early 1st millennium B.C.

A master and his servant discuss the pros and cons of various activities (cf. Ec 1-2).

RAS SHAMRA TABLETS

Ugaritic —15th centuries B.C.

Canaanite deities and rulers experience adventures in epics that enrich our understanding of Canaanite mythology and religion and OT poetry.

SARGON LEGEND

Akkadian —1st millennium B.C.

Sargon I (the Great), ruler of Akkad in the last 3rd millennium B.C., claims to have been rescued as an infant from a reed basket found floating in a river (cf. Ex 2).

SARGON'S DISPLAY INSCRIPTION

Akkadian —8th century B.C.

Sargon II takes credit for the conquest of Samaria in 722/721 B.C. and states that he captured and exiled 27,290 Israelites.

SENNACHERIB'S PRISM

Akkadian —early 7th century B.C.

Sennacherib vividly describes his siege of Jerusalem in 701 B.C. making Hezekiah a prisoner in his own royal city (but cf. 2Ki 19:35-37).

SEVEN LEAN YEARS TRADITION

Egyptian —2nd century B.C.

Egypt experiences 7 years of low Niles and famine, which, by a contractual agreement between Pharaoh Djoser (28th century B.C.) and a god, will be followed by prosperity (cf. Ge 41).

SHALMANESER'S BLACK OBELISK

Akkadian —9th century B.C.

Israel's king Jehu (or his servant) presents tribute to Assyria's king Shalmaneser III. Additionally Assyrian and Babylonian texts refer to other kings of Israel and Judah.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

SHISHAK'S GEOGRAPHICAL LIST

Egyptian —10th century B.C.

Pharaoh Shishak lists the cities that he captured or made tributary during his campaign in Judah and Israel (cf. 1Ki 14:25-26).

SILOAM INSCRIPTION

Hebrew —late 8th century B.C.

A Judahite workman describes the construction of an underground conduit to guarantee Jerusalem's water supply during Hezekiah's reign (cf. 2Ki 20:20; 2Ch 32:30).

SINUHE'S STORY

Egyptian —20th-19th centuries B.C.

An Egyptian official of the 12th dynasty goes into voluntary exile in Aram (Syria) and Canaan during the OT patriarchal period.

TALE OF TWO BROTHERS

Egyptian —13th century B.C.

A young man rejects the amorous advances of his older brother's wife (cf. Ge 39).

WENAMUN'S JOURNEY

Egyptian —11th century B.C.

An official of the Temple of Amun at Thebes in Egypt is sent to Byblos in Canaan to buy lumber for the ceremonial barge of his god.

[Source: ESV Study Bible note]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Bible Trivia and Interesting Facts

* There are 66 books in the Bible, 39 (3 and 3x3) in the Old Testament and 27 (3x3x3) in the New Testament.
* The Bible was written over a 1500 year period!
* There are over 40 authors
* The Bible can be read in about 70 hours
* At an average pace one can read the Bible out loud in seventy hours and forty minutes.
* The longest word in the Bible is Maher-shalal-hash-baz.. It means "quick to plunder, swift to spoil" (see Isaiah 8:1).
* The longest verse in the Bible is Esther 8:9 – 89 words, 425 letters.
* The shortest verse in the Bible is John 11:35: "Jesus wept."
* The shortest Book in the Bible is 2 John (one chapter with 13 verse's – the fewest number of verses of any book).
* III John has the fewest number of words of any book in the Bible.
* Obadiah, with 21 verses consisting of 602 words, is the shortest book in the Old Testament, and the third shortest in the Bible.
* Job is the oldest book written in the Bible - it was written by an unknown Israelite around 1500 BC.
* Malachi, written about 400 BC, is the youngest book in the Old Testament.
* James, written around 45 AD, is the oldest book in the New Testament.
* Revelation, written about 95 AD, is the youngest book in the New Testament.
* The Longest Book is Psalms.
* The 8th, 15th, 21st, 31st Verses of the 107th Psalm are alike.
* Psalm 118 is middle book of Bible.
* Every Verse in the 136th Psalm has the same ending.
* Remember there is only one verse in the entire Bible that's repeated twice: "The fool saith there is no God!" Psalms 14:1 and Psalms 53:1.
* The longest book chapter in the Bible is Psalm 119, the shortest is Psalm 117.
* There are 594 chapters before Psalm 118 and 594 chapters after it.
* If you add up all the chapters in the Bible except chapter 118 in the Book of Psalms, you would get a total of 1188 chapters.
It's a fun fact to know that Psalm 118:8 is the middle verse of the whole Bible. Which reads: "It is better to trust the Lord than to put confidence in men."
* The shortest prayer in the Bible is Peter's: "Lord save me!"
(Matthew 14:30)
* Dogs are mentioned 14 times in the Bible, and lions 55 times, but domestic cats are not mentioned at all.
* The word "grandmother" appears in the KJV Bible only once: 2 Timothy 1:5.
* The word "Lord" appears 1855 times in the Bible.
* The word "God" specifically appears in every book except Esther, only once in Ruth (1:15), and only once indirectly as "flame of the Lord" in Song of Solomon (8:6, depending on translation).
* The word "Christian" appears only three times in the King James Bible: Acts 11:26; 26:28; 1 Peter 4:16.
* The word "eternity" is mentioned only once: Isaiah 57:15.
* The word "trinity" is not mentioned in the Bible.
* Seven suicides are recorded in the Bible.
* Zimri was king of Israel for only one week before he committed suicide by setting the palace on fire around himself (1 Kings 16:15-20)
* There are 7 different Jeremiahs in the Bible: 1 Chronicles 5:24; 12:4, 10, 13; 2 Kings 23:30; Jeremiah 1:1; 35:3.
* Methuselah is the oldest man on record: 969 years old (Genesis 5:27).
* The 19th Chapter of II Kings and the 37th Chapter of Isaiah are practically alike.
* The raven is the first bird mentioned in the Bible. It appears in Genesis 8:7, when it is sent out from the ark by Noah to see if the flood waters have abated. The second bird was a dove, in verse 8.
* Almonds and pistachios are the only nuts mentioned in the Bible.
* Matthew 18:10 indicates that children have personal angels.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

* Old Testament books were scrolls, a strip of animal skin that was rolled up on two sticks. One ancient copy of the book of Isaiah is twenty-four feet long.
* Engaged men were exempted from military service (Deuteronomy 20:7)
* Newlyweds were commanded by God to honeymoon for a solid year (Deuteronomy 24:5).
* Pharisees wore tiny leather boxes on their foreheads and arms. These boxes , called "phylacteries," contained four passages- from the Law of Moses---Exodus 13:1-10,11-16; Deuteronomy 6:4-9, 11:13-21
* In early Old Testament times, whenever two Israelites finalized a real estate transaction, one would take off his sandal and give it to the other to seal the deal (Ruth 4:7).
* Newborn babies were rubbed with salt (Ezekiel 16:4).
* To symbolize his desire for a permanent working relationship , a slave would have his master take an awl and stick it through the slave's ear into the master's doorpost (Exodus 21:6).
* When friends took a stroll together, they walked single file, not side-by-side.
* A guy named Dodo is listed in the Bible (Judges 10:1).
* Jehu was the original reckless driver (2 Kings 9:20).
* Ben-Hur is found in the Bible (1 Kings 4:8).
* In Mark 9:29 when the disciples couldn't cast the evil spirit out of the boy, the disciples asked Jesus, "Why couldn't we drive it out?" Jesus replied "This kind can come out only by prayer and fasting. KJV. However in the NIV, it says "This kind can come out only by prayer." What happened to "fasting?"
* In 1631 an English Bible printer forgot the NOT in one of the Ten Commandments. Here's how his mistake in Exodus 20:14 read: "Thou shalt commit adultery." Because of this colossal goof, the edition became known as The Wicked Bible, and the printer had to pay a large fine.
* The covering for the tabernacle was made out of ram skins and sea cow hides: Exodus 36:19.
* In Old Testament times the Mediterranean Sea was called the Great Sea.
* Nowhere in the Bible does it say there were three wise men - Matthew 2:1 only says: "Magi from the east came to Jerusalem" and later they present three gifts.
* The oldest almost-complete manuscript of the Bible still existing is the Codex Vaticanus, dating from the first half of the 4th century, now held in the Vatican library.
* One shekel was 4 days wages A chariot imported from Egypt cost around 600 shekels of silver (1 Kings 10:29). That would be over $77,000 today.
* The last word in the bible is Amen.

Division of Bible into chapters and the Numbering of Verses within the Chapters…

The person credited with dividing the Bible into chapters is Stephen Langton, the Archbishop of Canterbury from 1207-1228. While Langton's isn't the only organizational scheme that was devised, it is his chapter breakdown that has survived. (Langton is perhaps better known for his involvement in the conflict over the creation of the Magna Carta.)

But while chapters are a useful organizational tool, the ability to refer to specific phrases within those chapters would make the system even more usable. Robert Estienne, a French printer, better known by his Latin surname, Stephanus, created a verse numbering system in the mid-16th century and was the first person to print a Bible with verse numbers in each chapter.

Did Jesus confirm the use of the Hebrew Bible (TaNaK)?

Jesus Christ alluded to the three-fold division of the Hebrew OT, which division the LXX does not follow, when He affirmed, "These are the words which I spake unto you, while I was yet with you, that all things must be fulfilled, which were written in the law of Moses, and in the prophets, and in the psalms, concerning me" (Luke 24:44; cf. v. 27; also Acts 26:22). The law (Torah), the prophets (Nebiim), and the writings (Kethubim [of which Psalms was first]) made up the Hebrew OT and is called the Tanak. He elaborated on His use of the Hebrew OT when the Lord identified the Pharisees' persecution of the prophets with their murderous Jewish ancestors, saying, "From the blood of Abel unto the blood of Zacharias, which perished between the altar and the temple: verily I say unto you, It shall be required of this generation" (Luke 11:51). He surveyed the whole scope of the Hebrew OT, using the examples of the murder of the righteous Abel from the first book (Genesis 4:8) to the murder of the righteous Zacharias from the last book (II Chronicles 24:20-22). The Lord claimed that the Hebrew text was intact in His day as was the jots and tittles that make up the text of the Tanak and were not in the LXX.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Lectio Divina (Devine Reading) is a traditional Catholic practice of scriptural reading (lectio), meditation (meditatio), prayer (oratio) and contemplation (contemplatio) intended to promote communion with God and to increase the knowledge of God's Word. It does not treat Scripture as texts to be studied, but as the Living Word.

Devine Reading:
Read, Meditate, Pray, Contemplate

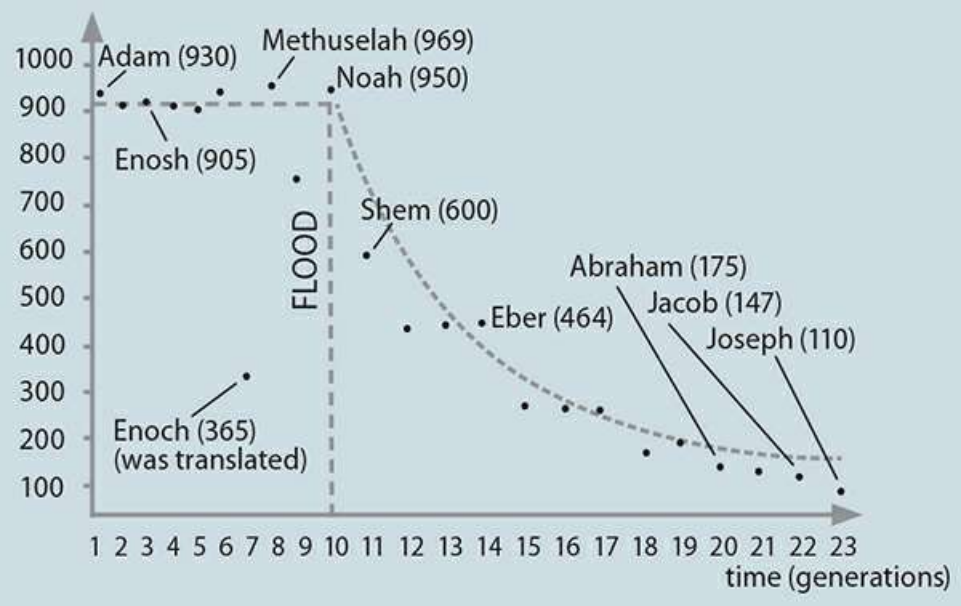
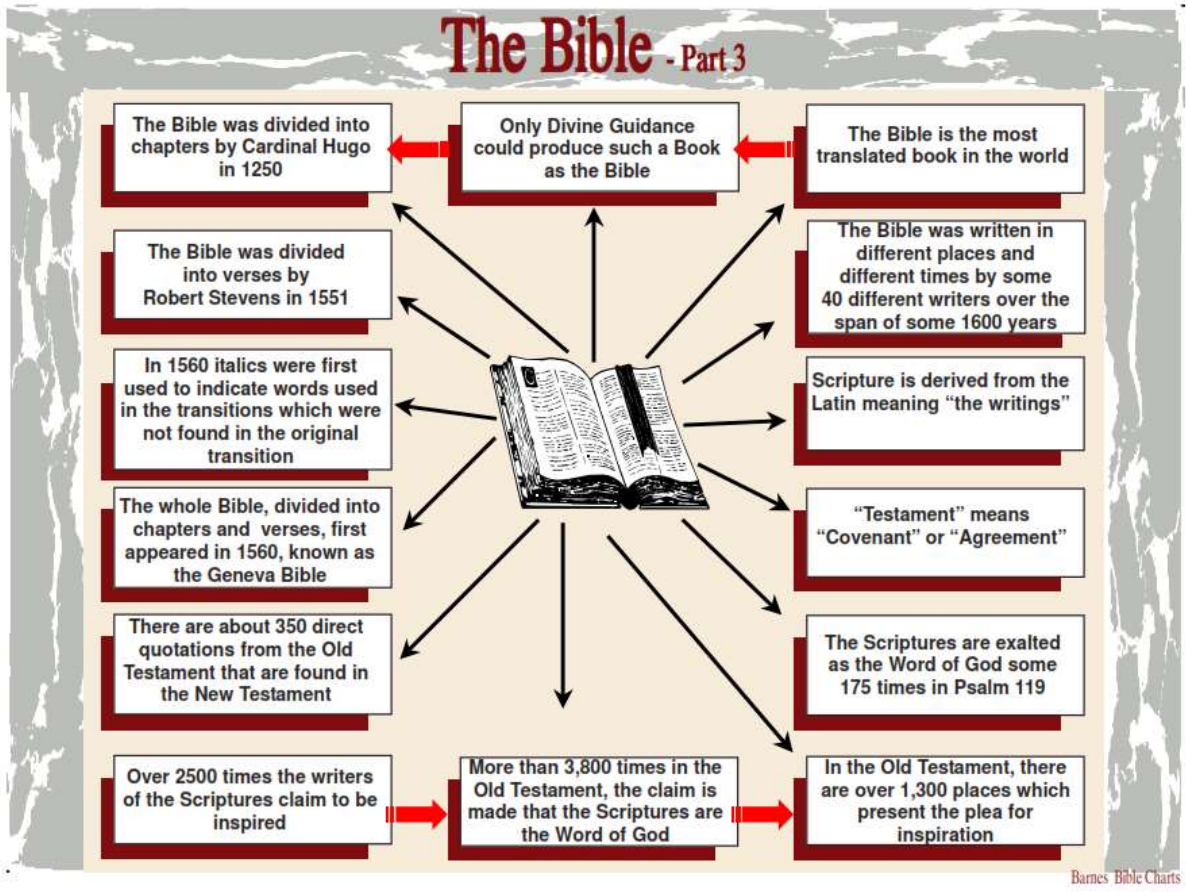
Scientific Facts in the Bible http://www.inplainsite.org/html/scientific_facts_in_the_bible.html

---



Source Books Mentioned in Scripture

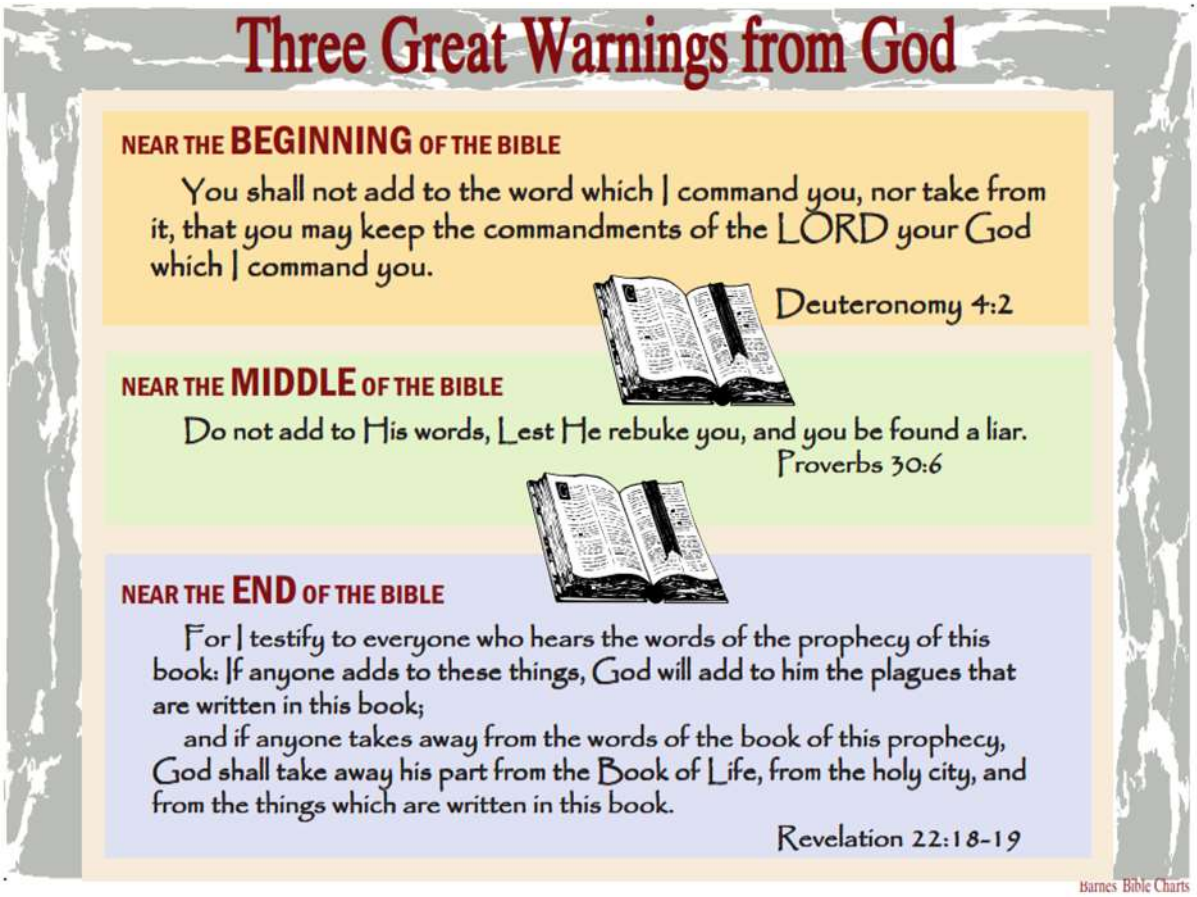
	SOURCE BOOK	REFERENCE
POETIC	Book of the Wars of the Lord	Num. 21:14
	Book of Yashar (the Upright)	Josh. 10:13; 2 Sam. 1:18
ROYAL COURT RECORDS	The Records of the Chronicles of King David	1 Chron. 27:24
	The Book of the Kings of Israel and Judah The Book of the Kings of Judah and Israel	2 Chron. 27:7; 35:27; 36:8 2 Chron. 16:11; 25:26; 28:26; 32:32
	The Book of the Kings of Israel	1 Chron. 9:1; 2 Chron. 20:34
	The Commentary on the Book of Kings	2 Chron. 24:27
	The Words of the Kings of Israel	2 Chron. 33:18
	The Decree of David the King of Israel and the Decree of Solomon his son	2 Chron. 35:4
RECORDS BY PROPHETS	The Words of Samuel the Seer	1 Chron. 29:29
	The Words of Nathan the Prophet	1 Chron. 29:29; 2 Chron. 9:29
	The Words of Gad the Seer	1 Chron. 29:29
	The Prophecy of Ahijah the Shilonite	2 Chron. 9:29
	The Visions of Iddo the Seer	2 Chron. 9:29; 12:15; 13:22
	The Words of Shemaiah the Prophet	2 Chron. 12:15
	The Words of Jehu the son of Hanani	2 Chron. 20:34
	The Deeds of Uzziah by Isaiah the Prophet	2 Chron. 26:22; 32:32
	The Chronicles of Hozai (Seers)	2 Chron. 33:19



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Ages of the Patriarchs

In the genealogy of Genesis 5, the patriarchs who lived before the Flood had an average life span of about 900 years. This contrasts with the genealogy of Genesis 11:10–26 where the ages of the post-Flood patriarchs dropped rapidly and gradually leveled off.



[Source: NKJV Study Bible]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Three Great Warnings from God in the Bible

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Additional Bible Information

Genesis Chapter 5. Here we have the genealogy from Adam to Noah. On the surface, this seems to be a record of Noah's lineage; however, when you dig a little deeper and examine the names, a profound message is there.

Genesis 5

Hebrew Name	Meaning
Adam	Man
Seth	Appointed
Enosh	Mortal
Kenan	Sorrow;
Mahalalel	The Blessed God
Jared	Shall come down
Enoch	Teaching
Methuselah	His death shall bring
Lamech	The Despairing
Noah	Rest, or comfort.

Man is Appointed Mortal Sorrow; but The Blessed God Shall Come Down Teaching His Death Shall Bring The Despairing Rest!

So what seemed to be a boring lineage actually turns out to be a prophecy of the Gospel laid out in perfect order in the meaning of the names. The book of Genesis was written 1,450 years before Jesus walked the Earth proclaiming this exact same message. For more information click here.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Numbers 2. Here God tells Moses and Aaron to have Israel camp in four specific groups, under the banners of those groups, around the Tabernacle. On the surface this seems to be a boring census but if we dig a little deeper and examine the groups, we will see a profound image.

In Numbers chapter 24:1-9, the pagan priest Balaam gets an aerial view of what this camp would have looked like and it's an image so profound that he gave a prophecy of Israels coming Messiah.

Here we see God has commanded the people to camp around the Tabernacle, which was where God dwelled, in such a way as to form a cross. And in the midst of the cross or centered on the cross we see God. It is a picture of Christ being crucified on a cross thousands of years before he actually did it and hundreds of years before death by crucifixion was invented. For more information click here.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

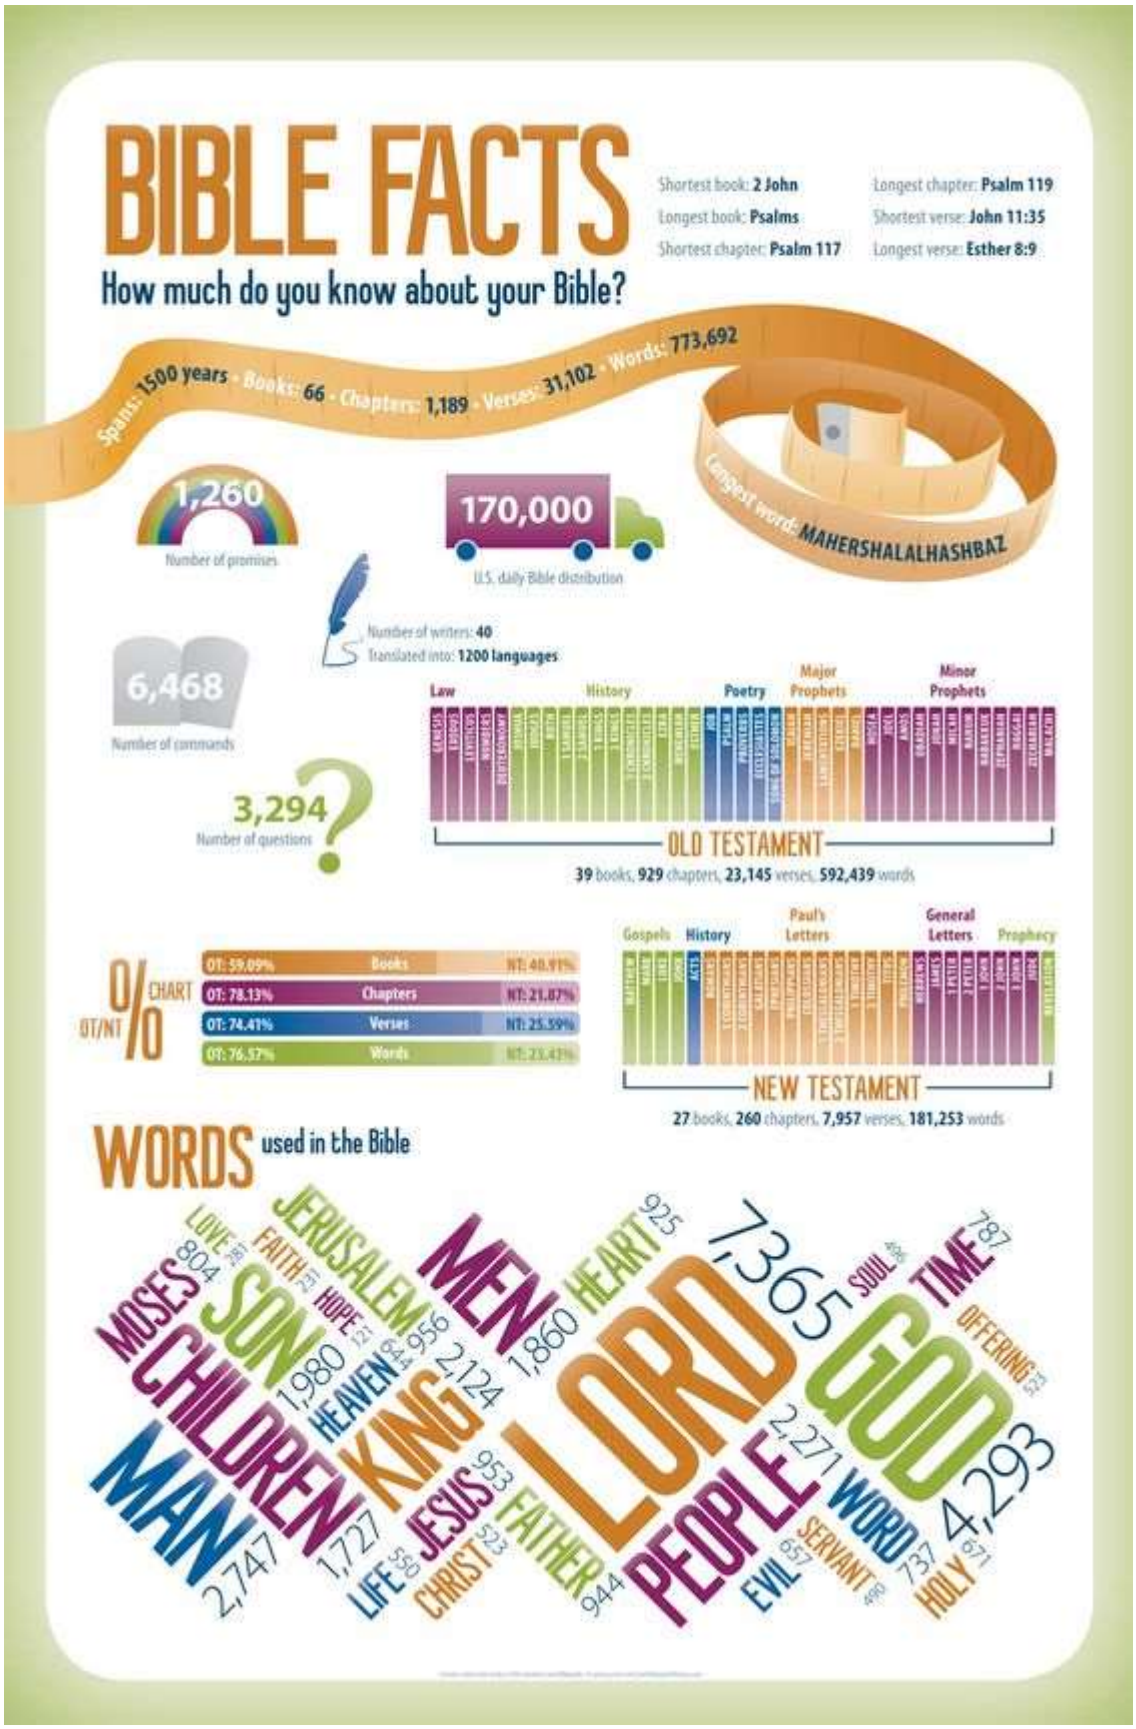
Furthermore, there are more layers to this prophecy. If we examine the banners of the 4 lead tribes, we come to another profound message and picture. Judah, who camped in the east, carried the banner of a Lion. Ephraim, who camped in the west, carried the banner of an Ox. Reuben, who camped in the south, carried a banner of a Man. And Dan, who camped in the north, carried the banner of an Eagle. Revelation Chapter 4 gives us a glimpse into the throne room of God.

6 and before the throne there was as it were a sea of glass, like crystal. And around the throne, on each side of the throne, are four living creatures, full of eyes in front and behind: 7 the first living creature like a lion, the second living creature like an ox, the third living creature with the face of a man, and the fourth living creature like an eagle in flight. 8 And the four living creatures, each of them with six wings, are full of eyes all around and within, and day and night they never cease to say,

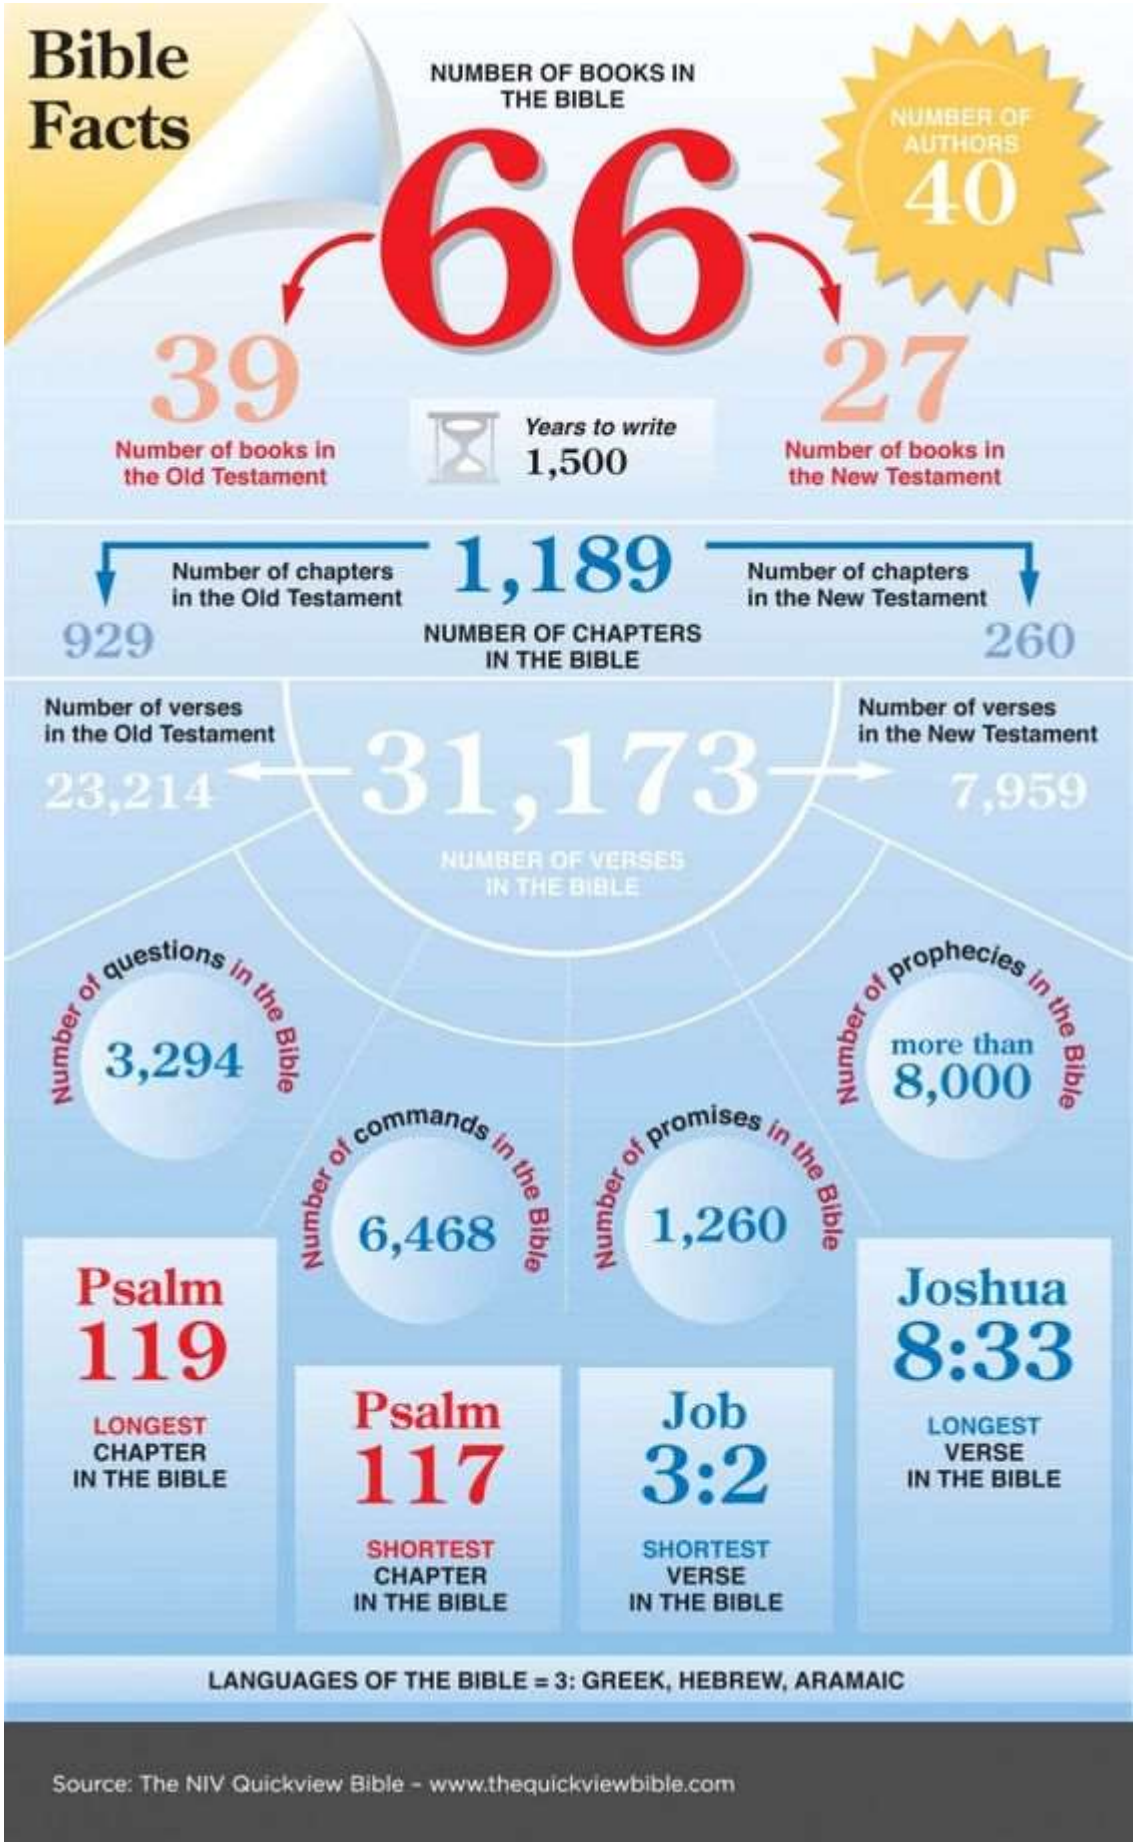
"Holy, holy, holy, is the Lord God Almighty, who was and is and is to come!"



So not only are the camping orders a picture of Christ's work on the cross, but of the throne room of God!

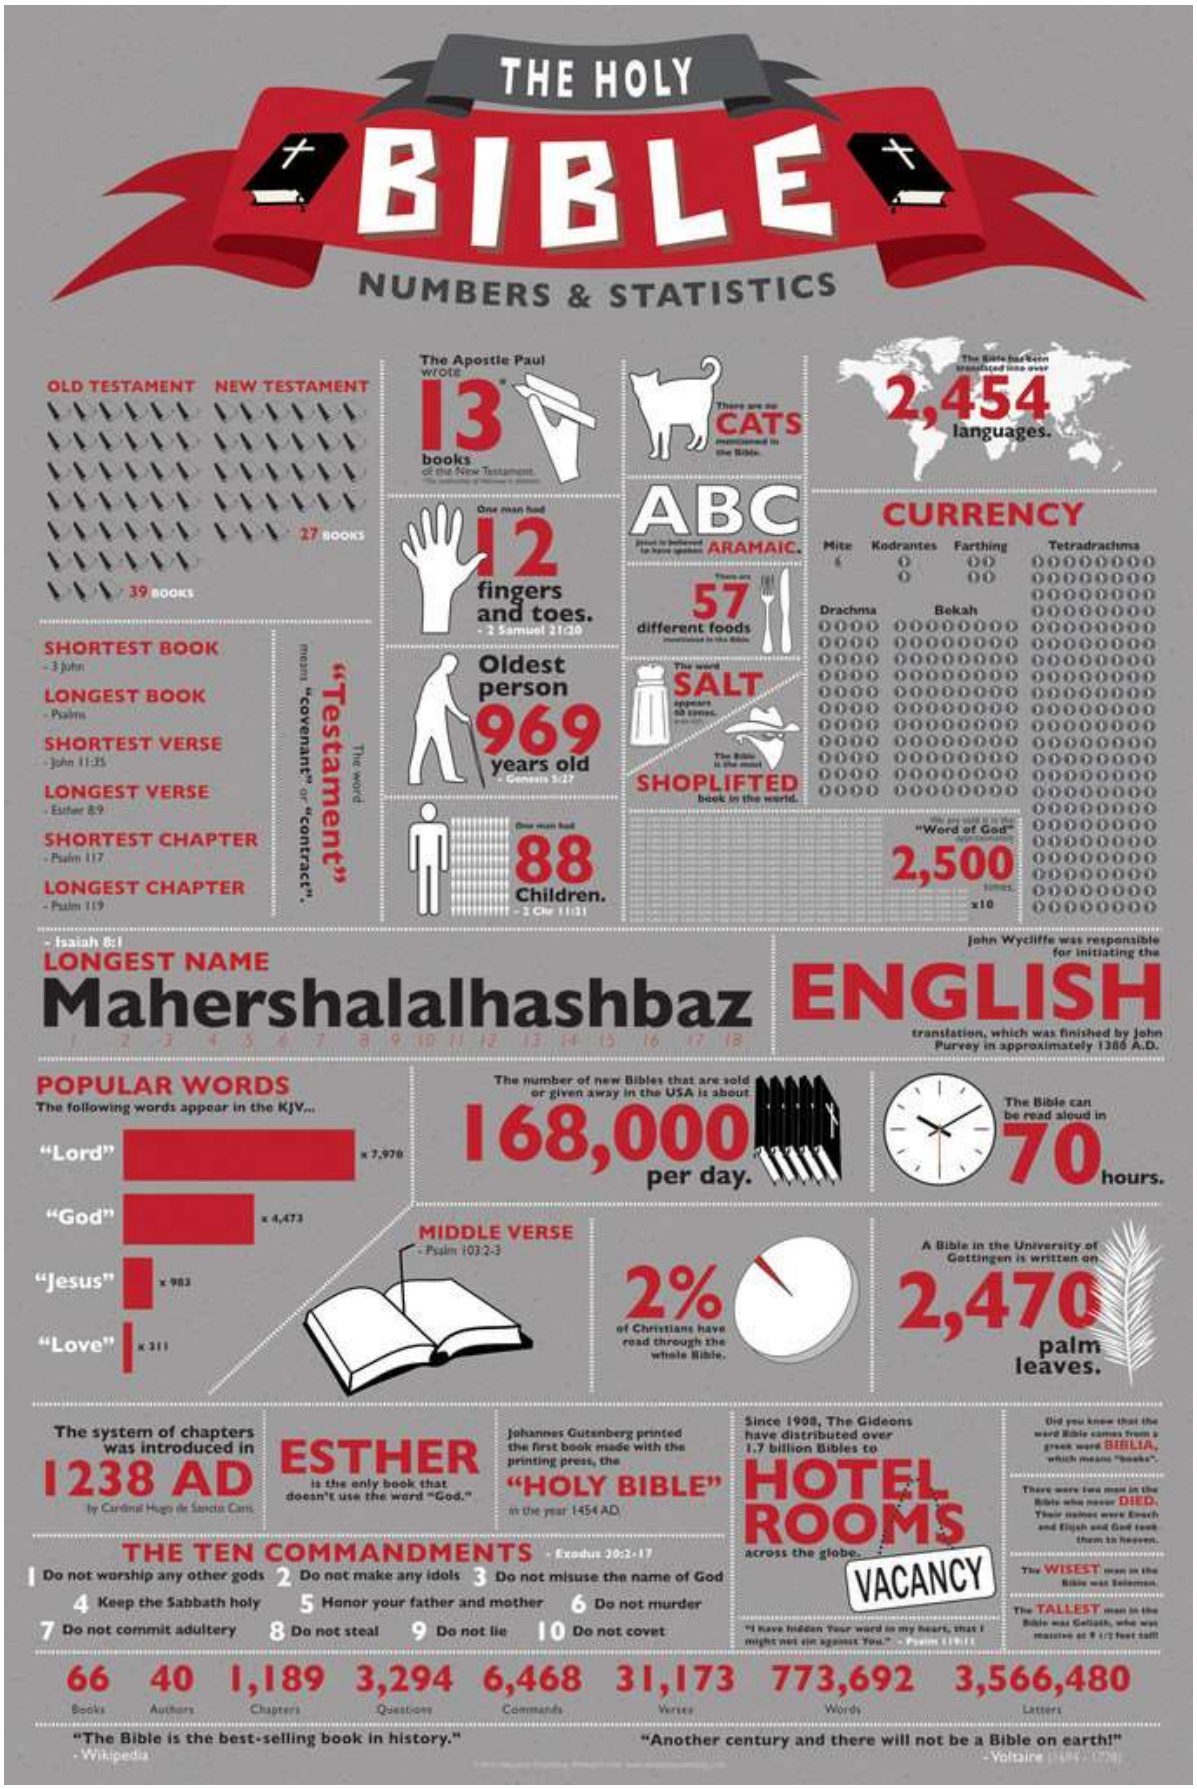
Lets look back at the banners for one more profound nugget. Have you ever wondered why there are four accounts of Jesus' ministry? The answer is found here. Judah's banner is a Lion which represents Royalty. Ephraim's banner is an Ox which represents Servanthood. Reuben's banner is a Man which represents Humanity. Dan's banner is an Eagle which represents Deity. How do these correlate to the gospels? Matthew's gospel focuses on Jesus' Kingship and shows his lineage is from Abraham through David (Matthew 1:1-17). Mark's gospel focuses on Jesus' Servanthood and doesn't show a lineage because the lineage of a servant doesn't matter. Luke's gospel focuses on Jesus' Humanity and shows his lineage from Adam (Luke 3:23-38). And John's gospel focuses on Jesus' Deity and shows his lineage from everlasting. (John 1:1-5).

Tribe	Banner	Represents	Gospel	Focus
Judah	Lion	Royalty	Matthew	Kingship (Mt 1:1-17)
Ephraim	Ox	Servanthood	Mark	Servanthood
Reuben	Man	Humanity	Luke	Humanity (Lk 3:23-38)
Dan	Eagle	Deity	John	Deity (John 1:1-3)



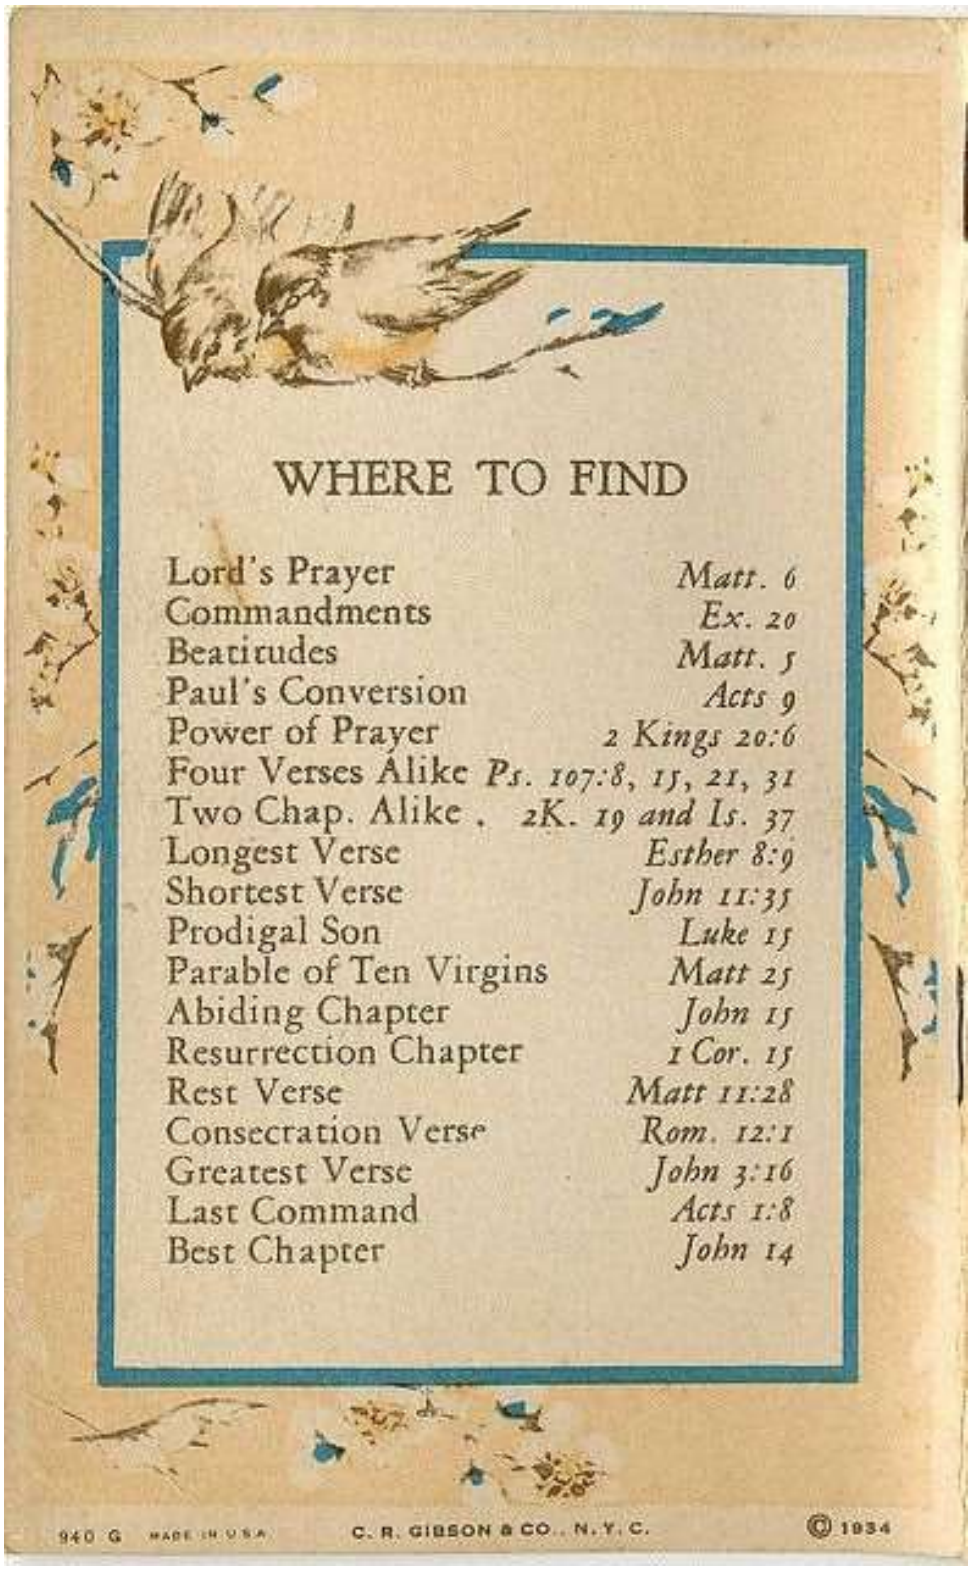
[Source: http://dcimin.org/authenticity-bible/]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



[Source: http://gladtidingspublishing.com/store/product.php?productid=27]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



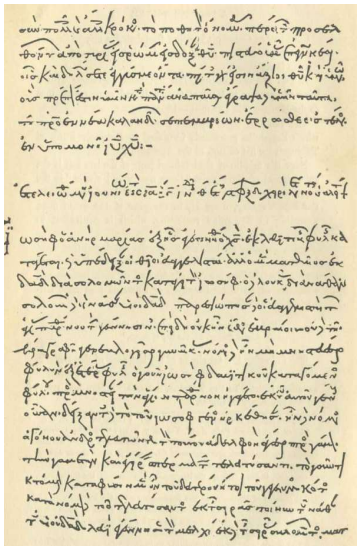
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: http://pastordavesdailytruth.weebly.com/]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: https://www.flickr.com/photos/takeabreakwithme/3298705636/in/photostream/]

Bible Helps for Little Children, Copyright 1934



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Didache

The Didache, or Doctrine of the Twelve Apostles, has long been known to exist due to quotes and references found in the writings of church fathers including Pseudo-Barnabas, Clement of Alexandria, Origen, the Apostolic Constitutions, Eusebius and Athanasius.

However, the exact contents of the Didache were unknown until 1873, when manuscripts of the Didache and other early Christian documents were discovered by Philotheos Bryennios, Orthodox metropolitan of Nicomedia, in a monastery at Constantinople. This Didache manuscript dates to 1056 AD, but comparison with earlier quotations of the work have demonstrated the accuracy of the surviving copy.

The Didache is a brief work, shorter than Jesus' Sermon on the Mount. It is unsophisticated in style and practical in intent. It begins with moral instructions, organized in terms of "Two Ways" (the Way of Life and the Way of Death). It goes on to give instructions concerning prayer, fasting, baptism and the Eucharist, as well as guidelines for dealing with itinerant preachers and recognizing false prophets. The Didache concludes with warnings to be vigilant in light of Christ's immanent second coming.

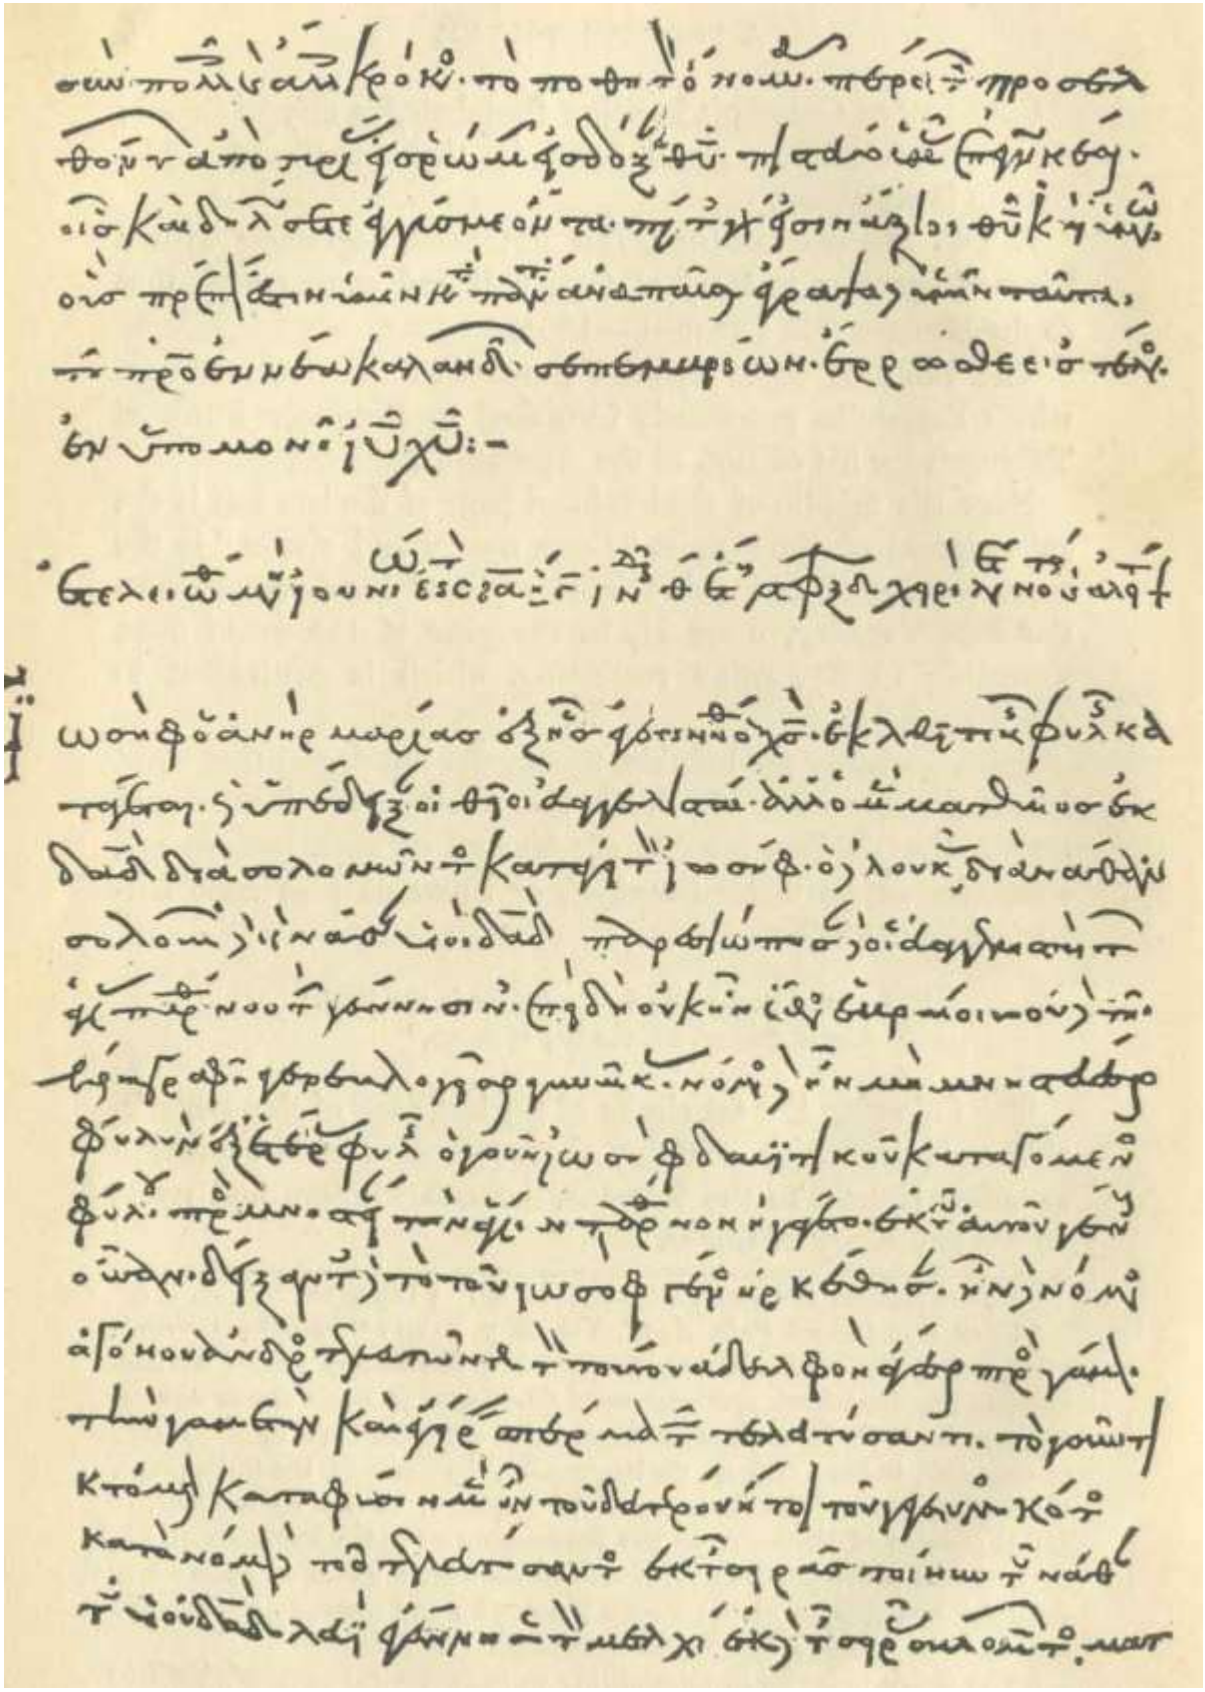
Source: http://www.religionfacts.com/christianity/texts/didache

What is the Didache?
The full title of the Didache (pronounced Did-ah-kay) is, 'The Teaching of the Lord, by the Twelve Apostles, to the Gentiles'. It includes instructions about Baptism, Eucharist, prayer and fasting, visitors, leadership and the events of the End.

When was it written?
The date is much disputed. Some scholars put it as early as AD 50, others as late as the third century. In reality it is unhelpful to talk about the Didache having a date - it seems to have been through a number of stages of development.

Is it important?
The Didache is potentially very important because it provides information about early Christianity that isn't provided anywhere else. It's true value can't be realised, however, until we have a firmer idea about who wrote it, to whom, for what purpose and when.

Why didn't it get into the New Testament?
The Didache was included in some versions of the early Christian canon - but it didn't make the cut in the end. It isn't possible to know the reasons for this exactly, but a few guesses can be made. First, the Didache is a practical document - so its instructions became quickly out of date. Second, it is a very Jewish text - which might have reduced its appeal by the time the canon came to be fixed in the fourth century. Third, most of the useful material is available in more accessible form in Matthew's Gospel.



Source: http://www.alangarrow.com/didache-basics.html
http://www.alangarrow.com/didache.html
Note: Anglican theologian has somewhat controversial views re: Matthew was dependent on the Didache, etc. e.g., see also Matthew Conflator Hypothesis and a new view of 'Q' http://www.alangarrow.com/synoptic-problem.html

How to Pronounce
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=sfvRx67z2U0 [Video]

The first pronunciation given is from Websters.
The others were given by priests. Bold = accented.

Didache = did - a - key' (a = schwa as in ma)
Didache = did - a - kay
Didache = did - ae - key (ae as in bat)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Last page of the Didache

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Additional Didache References:

http://www.ntcanon.org/Didache.shtml

http://www.earlychristianwritings.com/didache.html (also source of the above image)

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Didache

http://earlychurch.org.uk/article_didache.html

http://www.reformation21.org/miscellaneous/window-on-the-past-the-didache-editorial-director-reformation21.php http://www.ccel.org/ccel/richardson/fathers.viii.i.i.html

https://christianhistoryinstitute.org/study/module/didache/

Diatessaron

Diatessaron, the four New Testament Gospels compiled as a single narrative by Tatian about ad 150. It was the standard Gospel text in the Syrian Middle East until about ad 400, when it was replaced by the four separated Gospels. Quotations from the Diatessaron appear in ancient Syriac literature, but no ancient Syriac manuscript now exists. A 3rd-century Greek papyrus fragment was discovered in 1933 at Doura-Europus, northwest of Baghdad, Iraq. Whether the original writing was done in Greek or Syriac is unknown. There are also manuscripts in Arabian and Persian and translations into European languages made during the Middle Ages.

Tatian's Christology and Its Influence on the Composition of the Diatessaron:
http://www.tyndale.cam.ac.uk/Tyndale/staff/Head/Tatian.htm (background information)

Diatessaron (online)
http://www.earlychristianwritings.com/text/diatessaron.html

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Interesting Facts About Isaiah

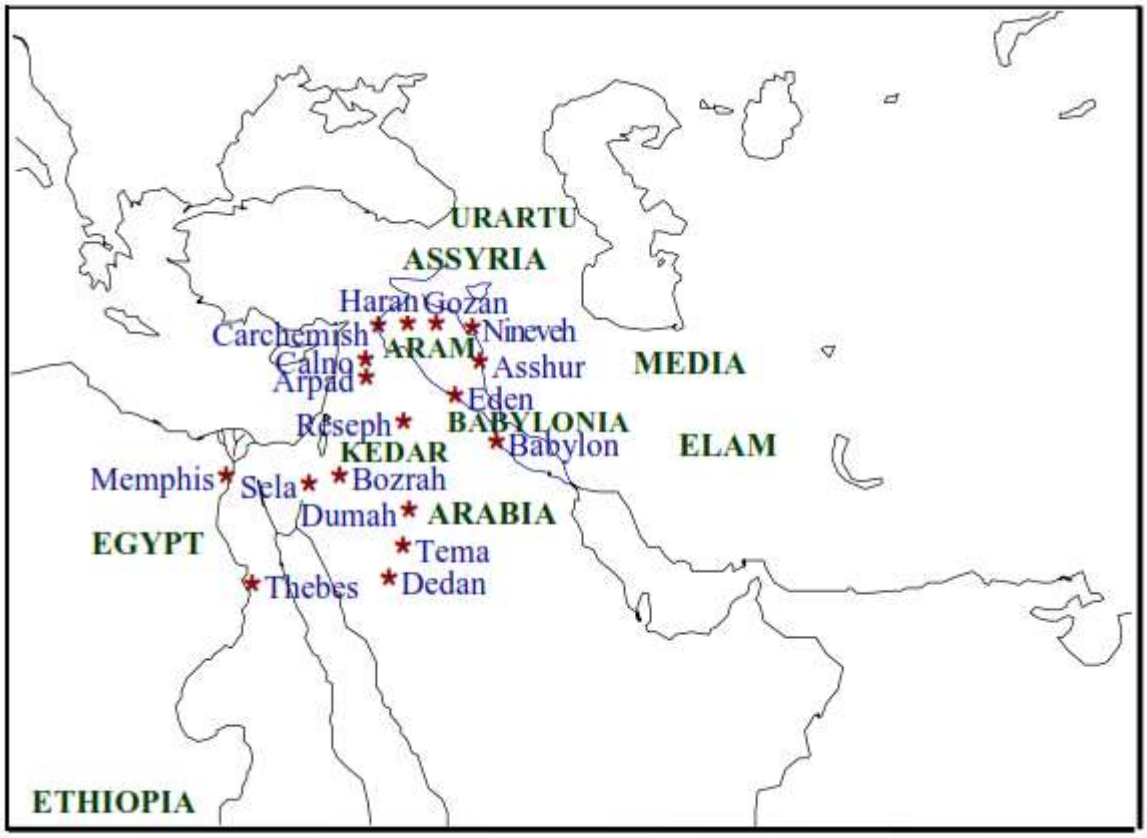
MEANING: Isaiah means Yahweh is salvation.
AUTHOR: Isaiah
TIME WRITTEN: Isaiah s long ministry ranged from 740 B.C. to 680 B.C. (40 to 60 years).
POSITION IN THE BIBLE:

23rd Book in the Bible
23rd Book in the Old Testament
1st of 17 books of Prophecy (Isaiah - Malachi)
1st of 5 major prophets (Isaiah-Daniel)
43 Books to follow it.

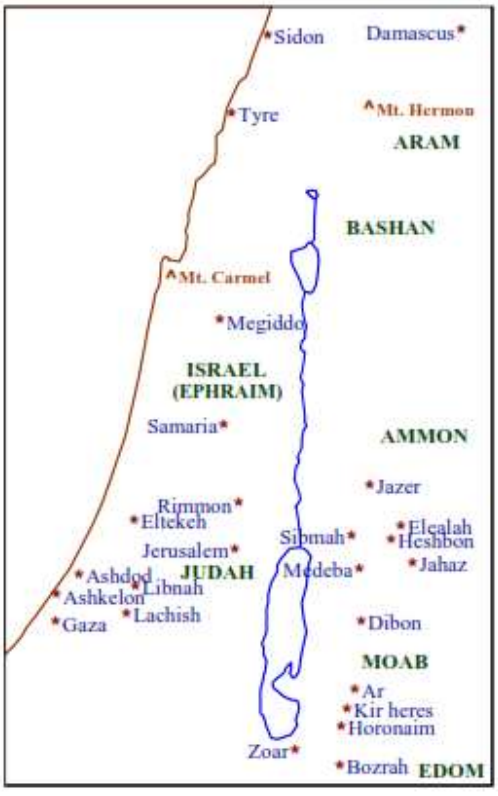
CHAPTERS: 66
VERSES: 1,292
WORDS: 37,044

ISAIAH

OBSERVATIONS ABOUT ISAIAH:



- Isaiah is like a miniature Bible:
  - The first 39 chapters, like the 39 books of the Old Testament, are filled with judgment upon immoral and idolatrous men.
  - The final 27 chapters, like the 27 books of the New Testament, declare a message of hope.
- Isaiah has been called:
  - The Messianic Prophet
  - The Paul of the Old Testament
  - The Shakespeare of the prophets
- The Book of Isaiah has been called The gospel according to Isaiah.
- Talmudic tradition says Isaiah s persecutors sawed him in two during the reign of Manasseh. Hebrews 11:37
- Isaiah s long tenure ranged from 740-680 B.C.
- Kings during Isaiah s ministry.
  - Uzziah (790-739 B.C.)
  - Jotham (739-731 B.C.)
  - Ahaz (731-715 B.C.)
  - Hezekiah (715-686 B.C.)
- Isaiah spent most of his time in Jerusalem.
- Isaiah was a contemporary with:
  - Hosea
  - Micah
- Isaiah was a prophet to the Southern Kingdom of Judah.
- Isaiah ministered in Judah at the same time the Assyrians conquered the Northern Kingdom of Israel.
- 96 years before Babylon became a world power, Isaiah prophesied that they would be involved in judgment of Judah.
- The word salvation appears some 26 times in Isaiah, but only 7 times in all the other prophet combined.
- Isaiah presents a series of oracles against:
  - Babylon
  - Assyria
  - Philistia
  - Moab
  - Damascus (Syria)
  - Ethiopia
  - Egypt
  - Babylon (again)
  - Edom
  - Arabia
  - Jerusalem (Judah)
  - Tyre



"Come now, and let us reason together," Says the LORD, "Though your sins are like scarlet, They shall be as white as snow; Though they are red like crimson, They shall be as wool. Isaiah 1:8

[Source: BibleCharts.org]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

THE ANCIENT NEAR EAST IN ISAIAH'S TIMES

CANAAN IN ISAIAH'S TIMES

JUDAH AND ISRAEL IN ISAIAH'S TIMES

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

IMPORTANT DATES FOR ISAIAH
Years	Events
745	Tiglath-pileser III of Assyria begins his reign
740	Uzziah of Judah dies; Isaiah begins his ministry
735	Ahaz of Judah begins his co-regency with Jotham; Pekah of Israel and Rezin of Aram ally against Assyria
733-32	Tiglath-pileser invades Aram and Israel
732	Damascus falls; Pekah and Rezin die; Jotham dies
727	Tiglath-pileser dies
722	Samaria falls; Shalmaneser V of Assyria dies and Sargon II begins to reign
715	Ahaz dies and Hezekiah begins his reign
711	Sargon attacks Ashdod and returns to Assyria
710	Sargon attacks Babylon
705	Sargon dies
701	Sennacherib of Assyria defeats Egypt at Eltekah and departs from Jerusalem; Merodach-baladan of Babylon sends messengers to visit Hezekiah
697	Manasseh of Judah begins his co-regency
690	Tirhakah of Egypt begins his reign
689	Sennacherib of Assyria defeats Babylon
686	Hezekiah dies
681	Sennacherib of Assyria dies and Esarhaddon begins to reign
671	Esarhaddon imports foreigners into Israel and defeats Egypt
612	Nineveh falls to Babylon
609	Nabopolassar of Babylon defeats Assyria and Assyria falls
605	Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon defeats Egypt at Carchemish; first deportation of Judahites to Babylon
597	Second deportation of Judahites to Babylon
586	Jerusalem falls to Nebuchadnezzar
559	Cyrus II of Persia begins to reign
539	Cyrus overthrows Babylon
538	Cyrus issues his decree allowing Jews to return to Palestine

[Source: Dr. Constable Expository Notes – Isaiah]
http://www.soniclight.com/constable/notes.htm

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

SIMILARITIES BETWEEN ISAIAH AND THE WHOLE BIBLE[28]
Isaiah	The Bible
66 chapters	66 books
Two sections: chapters 1—39 and 40—66	Two Testaments: 39 OT books and 27 NT books
Emphasis in chapters 1—39 on God's righteousness, holiness, and justice	Emphasis in the 39 OT books on God's righteousness, holiness, and justice
Emphasis in chapters 40—66 on God's glory, compassion, and grace	Emphasis in the 27 NT books on God's glory, compassion, and grace
Chapters 1—39 emphasize Israel's need for restoration.	The OT emphasizes humanity's need for salvation.
Chapters 40—66 predict God's future provision of salvation in the Servant.	The NT describes God's provision of salvation in the Messiah.
Isaiah begins with a description of Israel's rebellion and ends with predictions of restoration.	The Bible begins with a description of humanity's rebellion and ends with a depiction of salvation in Jesus Christ.
Message: A holy God will gain glory by judging sin and restoring His people.	Message: A holy God will gain glory by judging sin and saving those who call on the name of His Son Jesus.

[Source: Dr. Constable Expository Notes – Isaiah]
http://www.soniclight.com/constable/notes.htm

Isaiah 1—39	Isaiah 40—66
The focus is on Assyria.	The focus is on Babylon.
The primary theme is judgment.	The primary theme is deliverance.
Historical details are present.	Historical details are absent.
Messiah is the "shoot from Jesse."	Messiah is the "Servant of the Lord."
The life of Isaiah is prominent.	The life of Isaiah is absent.[420]

[Source: Dr. Constable Expository Notes – Isaiah]
http://www.soniclight.com/constable/notes.htm

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Isaiah, the mini-Bible

Isaiah began his ministry in 741 B.C. (the year that King Uzziah died) and his ministry lasted for 40 years through the siege of Jerusalem by the Assyrian army in 701 B.C. However, the Assyrian army did not take the city; Jerusalem was delivered. An angel of the Lord struck down the Assyrian army at the gates of Jerusalem without a single arrow being fired. It was Isaiah's preaching that saved the city from destruction.

Isaiah vs Bible
Isaiah's name means "Salvation of God" -- Jesus name means "Salvation"
66 chapters – 66 Books in Bible.

39 chapters (known as the "Book of Judgment") in the first part of Isaiah, like the 39 books of the OT, are filled with judgment upon immoral idolatrous men.
Judah has sinned, the surrounding nations have sinned; the whole earth has sinned. Judgment must come for God cannot allow such blatant sin to go unpunished forever.
Characterized by "condemnation" = Law.

27 chapters (known as the "book of Comfort") at the end of Isaiah, like the 27 books of the NT, declare a message of hope.
The messiah is coming as Savior and a Sovereign to bear a cross and to wear a crown.
Characterized by "consolation" = Grace.

The 27 chapters divide into three groups of 9 (3 groups of 3x3), each group of 9 is separated by the phrase "There is no rest [or peace] for the wicked".
The central chapter (53) foretells of Christ crucified.

Text of 40th chapter corresponds to text of 40th book of the Bible (Matthew):
Isa 40:3 vs Matt (40th book) Chp 3 -- "Voice … crying in the wilderness"
Isa 40 v 9 – first occurrence of Hebrew word, "MAVESERET" = 'Bringer of Good Tidings", which the LXX translates as EVANGELIZEMONOS = "Preach the Gospel".

Last Chapter (chapter 66) uses the words "New Heavens and New Earth"; same words found in Revelation (66th book of Bible).

770 Years
Isaiah wrote his eponymous book 770 years before the New Testament Gospel was preached.
Northern Kingdom (Kingdom of Israel) lasted 770 before destroyed by Assyrians.
Southern Kingdom (Kingdom of Judah) was spared as Hezekiah repented, were forgiven, and given a second chance for another 770 years until 70 AD.

40 Years
Isaiah preached his Gospel 40 years prior to siege of Jerusalem (from 741 BC until 701 BC).
Jesus' disciples preached Gospel for 40 years (prior to the siege of Jerusalem in 70 AD (from 30 AD until 70 AD).

"I AM"
There are seven distinct "I AM" sayings in John. (For list, see Chapter LXXVIII, Extra Note 1)
There are seven "I AM" sayings in Isaiah 43.

NOTE: Dates based on the Exodus date of 1491 BC.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Instances in the Bible where God made major changes and transformations after the period of 40

It rained for 40 days and 40 nights when God wanted to cleanse the world and start over.
(Gen 7:12 KJV) And the rain was upon the earth forty days and forty nights.

Noah waited another 40 days after it rained before he opened a window in the Ark.
(Gen 8:6 KJV) And it came to pass at the end of forty days, that Noah opened the window of the ark which he had made:

Embalming required 40 days (although this was an Egyptian custom, the Egyptians recognized the period of 40 for the preparation of going into a new life, what they called the afterlife)
(Gen 50:3 KJV) And forty days were fulfilled for him; for so are fulfilled the days of those which are embalmed: and the Egyptians mourned for him threescore and ten days.

Moses was on the mountain with God for 40 days (TWICE)
(Exo 24:18 KJV) And Moses went into the midst of the cloud, and gat him up into the mount: and Moses was in the mount forty days and forty nights.
(Exo 34:28-29 KJV) And he was there with the LORD forty days and forty nights; he did neither eat bread, nor drink water. And he wrote upon the tables the words of the covenant, the ten commandments.
(Deu 10:10 NIV) Now I had stayed on the mountain forty days and nights, as I did the first time, and the LORD listened to me at this time also. It was not his will to destroy you.

Moses' face shone after the 40 days on the mountain.
(Exo 34:29 KJV) And it came to pass, when Moses came down from mount Sinai with the two tables of testimony in Moses' hand, when he came down from the mount, that Moses wist not that the skin of his face shone while he talked with him.

It took the spies 40 days to search out the promised land and bring back fruit (Num 13:25 KJV) And they returned from searching of the land after forty days.

The Israelites spent 40 years in the wilderness, one year for each day they explored the Promised Land.
(Exo 16:35 KJV) And the children of Israel did eat manna forty years, until they came to a land inhabited; they did eat manna, until they came unto the borders of the land of Canaan.
(Num 14:33-34 NIV) Your children will be shepherds here for forty years, suffering for your unfaithfulness, until the last of your bodies lies in the desert. {34} For forty years--one year for each of the forty days you explored the land-you will suffer for your sins and know what it is like to have me against you.

Goliath came for forty days before being killed by David (1 Sam 17:16 NLT) For forty days, twice a day, morning and evening, the Philistine giant strutted in front of the Israelite army.

Elijah strengthened by one angelic meal went forty days to Mount Horeb where the Lord passed by and he heard the voice of God
(1 Ki 19:8 KJV) And he arose, and did eat and drink, and went in the strength of that meat forty days and forty nights unto Horeb the mount of God.

Jonah warned the City of Nineveh they had 40 days until God would overthrow the city. The people repented in those 40 days and God spared the city.
(Jonah 3:4 and 10 KJV) And Jonah began to enter into the city a day's journey, and he cried, and said, Yet forty days, and Nineveh shall be overthrown.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

And God saw their works, that they turned from their evil way; and God repented of the evil, that he had said that he would do unto them; and he did it not.

Jesus fasted for 40 days in the wilderness

(Mat 3:17 KJV) And lo a voice from heaven, saying, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.
(Mat 4:1-2 KJV) Then was Jesus led up of the Spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the devil. {2} And when he had fasted forty days and forty nights, he was afterward an hungered.

Jesus was seen in the earth 40 days after His crucifixion

(Acts 1:3 NIV) After his suffering, he showed himself to these men and gave many convincing proofs that he was alive. He appeared to them over a period of forty days and spoke about the kingdom of God.

[Source: http://www.40day.com/40_in_the_bible.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Comparison of Differences in the Four Gospels (charts)

Differences between John and the Synoptic Gospels:
http://www.religioustolerance.org/chr_john.htm
https://thechurchoftruth.wordpress.com/gospels-refute-one-another/ [alternate source]

Chronological Contradictions:
http://www.xenos.org/essays/problem-apparent-chronological-contradictions-synoptics

Synoptics Compared to John's Gospel:
http://www.yuriyandinna.com/how-to-obtain-eternal-life-synoptics-vs-john/

The Four Gospels: Some Comparative Overview Charts
http://catholic-resources.org/Bible/Four_Gospel_Chart.htm (PDF is available)

NET Bible - Synopsis of the Four Gospels
http://bible.org/sites/bible.org/files/ntsynopsis_download_ebook.pdf [PDF]

Conflicts between the Gospel of John and the remaining three (Synoptic) gospels
http://www.religioustolerance.org/chr_john.htm

The Synoptic Problem, by Daniel B. Wallace:
http://bible.org/article/synoptic-problem

Matthew	Mark
Date: A.D. 50 Emphasizes His Messiahship Christ Portrayed as King Christ as the Son of David Audience: Jews	Date: A.D. 57 Emphasizes His Miracles Christ Portrayed as Servant Christ as the Son of God/Man Audience: Romans
Luke	John
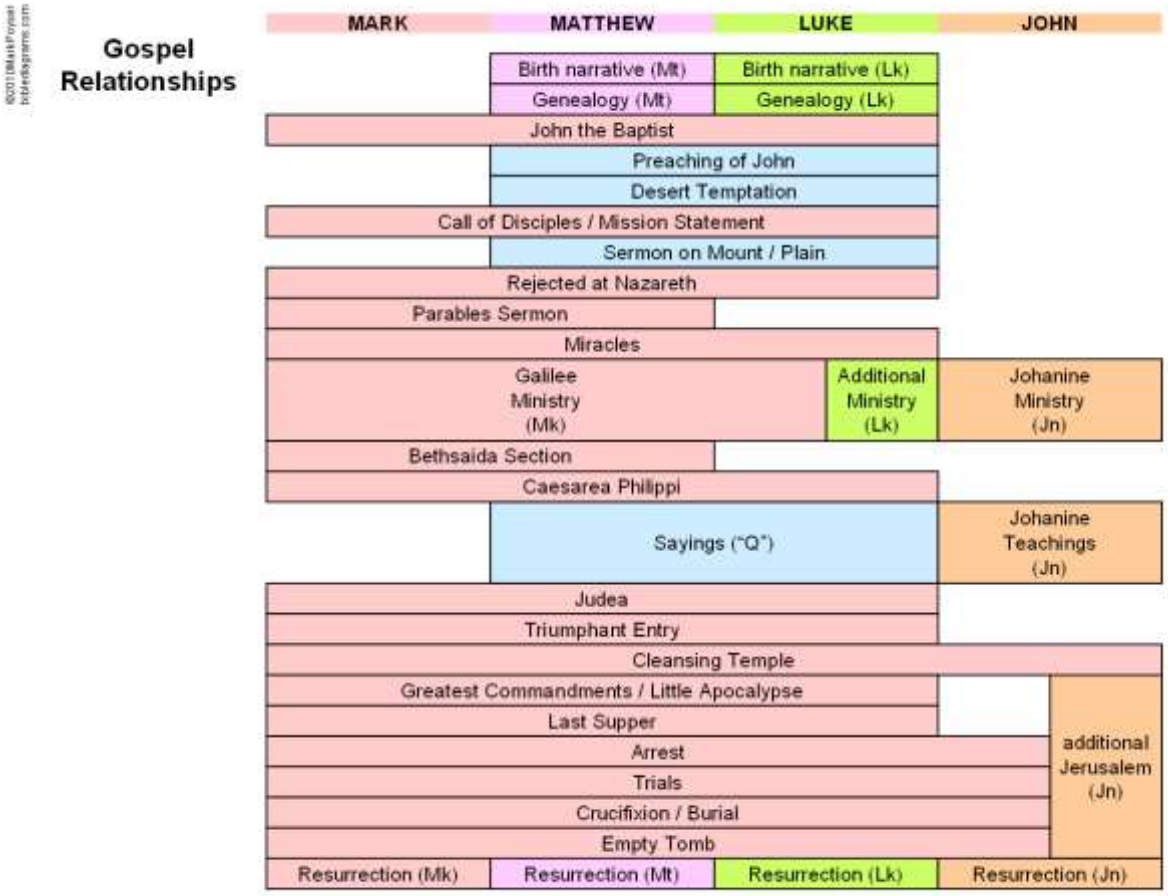
Date: A.D. 60 Emphasizes His Parables Christ Portrayed as Perfect Man Christ as the Son of Man Audience: Greeks	Date: A.D. 85 Emphasizes His Deity Christ Portrayed as God Christ as the Son of God Audience: The World

[Source: http://emmanuel-baptist-church.com/charts-on-the-new-testament]

Christianity Comparison Charts (Denominations and other Religions):
http://www.religionfacts.com/christianity/charts

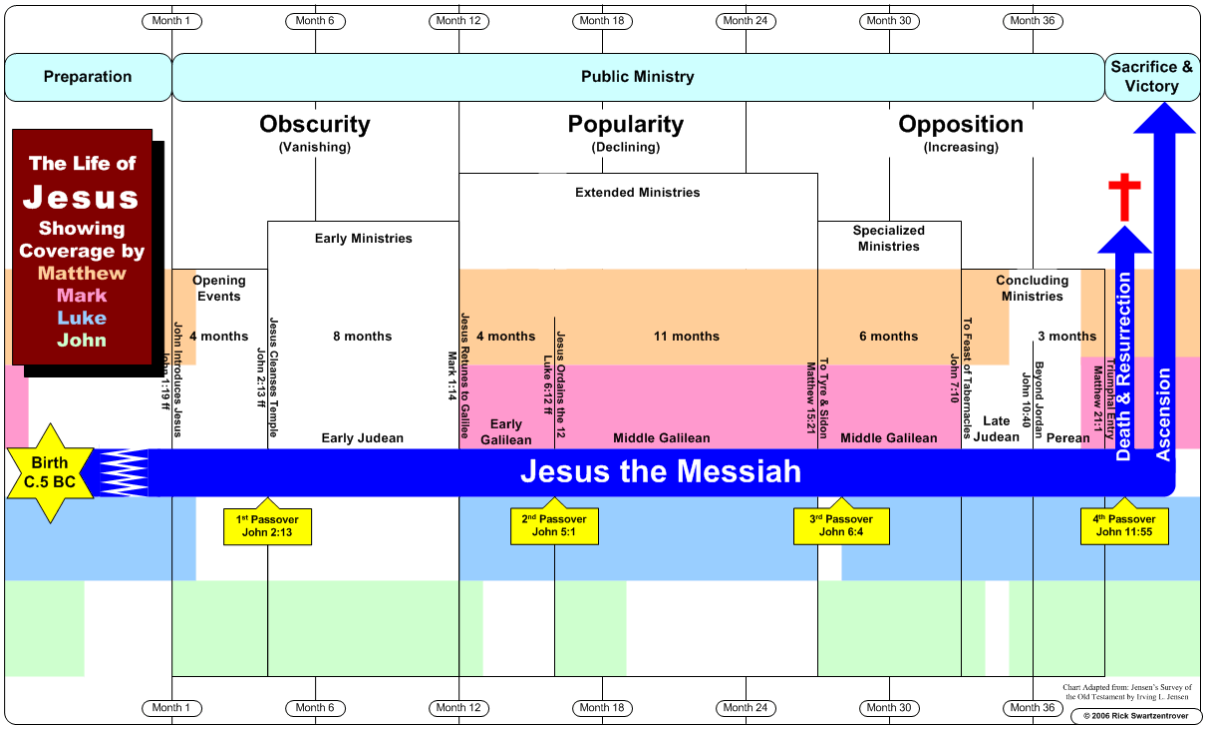
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Synoptic Gospels Sequences Compared

[Source: http://www.bblediagrams.com] (Additional OT and NT charts and diagrams)

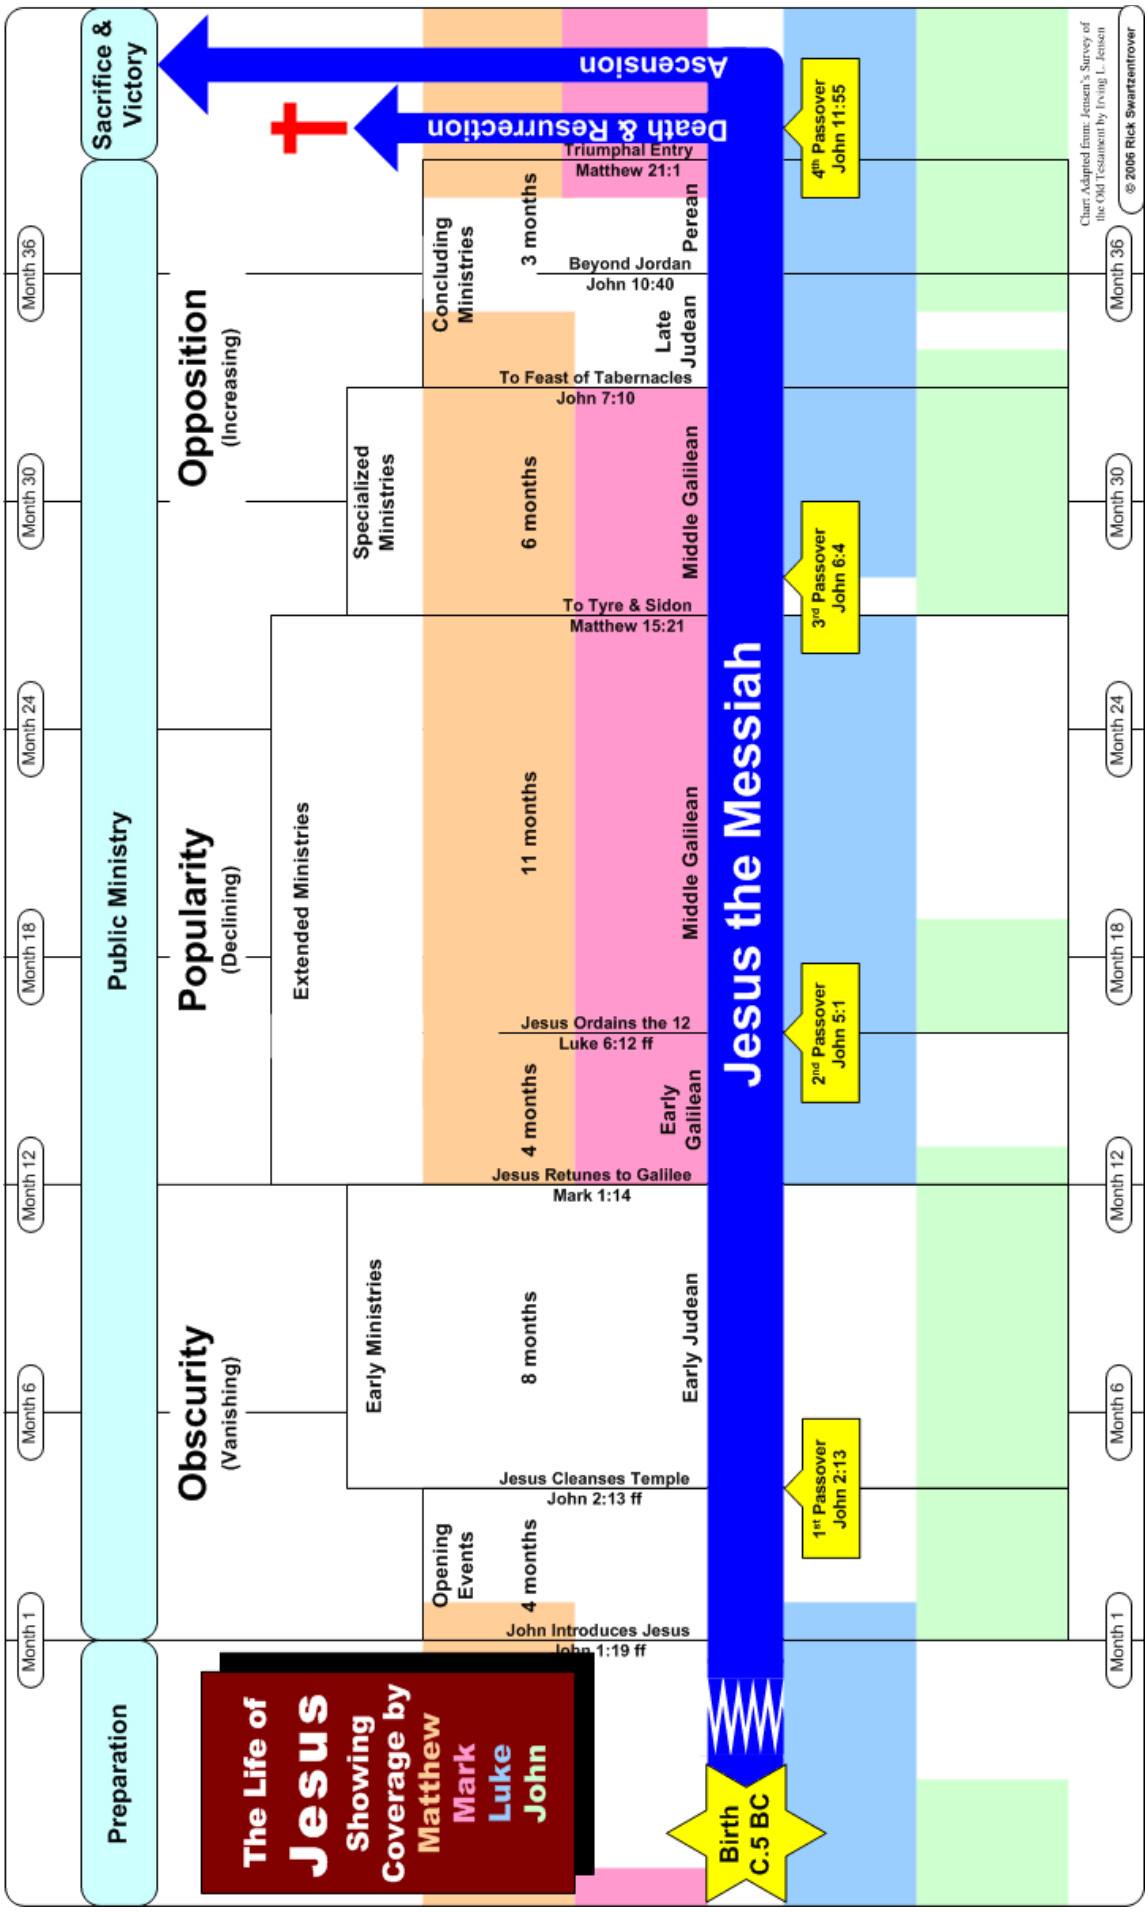
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Gospel Relationships

[Source: http://www.bblediagrams.com] (Additional OT and NT charts and diagrams)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Timelines of the Life of Jesus showing Coverage by All 4 Gospels

[Source: http://www.swartzentrover.com/cotor/Bible/Timelines/TLOJ_All.htm]

See larger view on next page…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Four Gospels, Some Comparative Overview Charts

Literary, Stylistic and Thematic Comparisons:

GOSPEL according to...	MARK	MATTHEW	LUKE	JOHN
No. of chapters (verses/words)	16 (678 / 11304)	28 (1071 / 18345)	24 (1151 / 19482)	21 (879 / 15635)
Style of Greek	grammatically poor	Semitic influenced	good, elegant, literary	simple, but highly symbolic
Geographical Focus	Galilean towns; some Gentile territory	Galilee, esp. mountains; Jewish areas	one long journey to goal: Jerusalem	multiple visits back & forth to Jerusalem
Literary Features	quick action ("immediately; and then") loosely connected episodes	five major discourses; well-organized sections of collected pericopes	stories often in pairs (esp. male/female characters); many more parables	"Amen, Amen, I say to you..."; irony; paradox; double-meanings
Literary Introduction	"Beginning of Good News" (1:1)	"Book of Genealogy" (1:1)	"Orderly Account" (1:1-4)	Cosmic Hymn (1:1-18)
Gospel Beginning	John the Baptist's preaching; Jesus' ministry begins (1:2-15)	Jesus as Emmanuel (1:2–2:23); "King of Jews" vs. King Herod	Elizabeth & Mary; parallel birth stories John Baptist & Jesus (1:5–2:52)	John Bapt. points to "Lamb of God"; first disciples come to Jesus (1:19-51)
Inaugural Event	Exorcism in Synagogue of Capernaum (1:21-28)	Sermon on the Mount: Fulfillment of Law (ch. 5–7)	Jubilee reading from Isa 61: Rejection at Nazareth (4:14-30)	Wedding Feast at Cana: first of Jesus' "signs" (2:1-11)
Jesus' Major Opponents	1- Pharisees & Herodians; 2- chief priests, scribes & elders	"scribes & Pharisees"; "hypocrites & blind guides"	unjust authorities (civil & religious); rich & corrupt people	"Jews" (esp. leaders in Jerusalem); Pharisees; High Priest Caiaphas
Jesus' Last Words on the Cross	"My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?" (15:34)	(27:46 – same as in Mark)	"Father, forgive them..." (22:34); "You'll be with me in Paradise" (23:43); "Into your hands I commit my Spirit" (23:46)	"Behold your son; behold you mother" (19:26-27); "I am thirsty" (19:28); "It is finished" (19:30)
Focus of Passion	Ch. 14–15: Jesus' death as tragedy	Ch. 26–27: plots & treachery vs. Jesus	Ch. 22–23: Jesus' innocence	Ch. 18–19: Jesus' exaltation
Last Major Event	Empty Tomb, outside of Jerusalem (16:1-8)	Great Commission, on Mountain in Galilee (28:16-20)	Ascension, from Bethany just East of Jerusalem (24:50-53)	1: disciples & Thomas (20:19-29) 2: [Peter & Beloved Disciple (21:1-23)]
Final Literary Ending	women leave tomb in fear & silence (16:8) [16:9-20 added only later]	Jesus tells disciples, "I am with you always" (28:20)	disciples return to Jerusalem temple with joy praising God (24:53)	1: many more signs (20:30f) 2: [many other books 21:24f]
Christology I: Main Titles for Jesus	Christ/Messiah & Son of God; Suffering Son of Man; Eschatological Judge	Son of David & Son of Abraham; Great Teacher; New Lawgiver (like Moses)	Great Prophet; Lord (of all nations); Savior (esp. of the poor)	Divine Logos/Word made Flesh; Passover Lamb; Son, sent from Father; "I Am..."; "Equal to God"
Christology II: Jesus' Major Actions	miracles; overcoming evil powers; arguing with religious authorities	teaching his disciples; decrying religious hypocrisy	healing sick & impaired people; forgiving sinners & debtors	speaking God's words; doing God's works; revealing God and himself
Discipleship	persevere in faith despite suffering; follow Jesus "on the way" to the cross; be ready for his return	be righteous; forgive always; live the Golden Rule; fulfill God's laws, esp. law of charitable deeds	leave everything to follow Jesus; share with poor; accept everyone, esp. outcasts, women, enemies	see, believe, know, remain in Jesus & God, despite hostility; love one another; be in unity; serve humbly
Pneumatology	Holy Spirit at Baptism; unclean spirits	H.S. at Jesus' birth, baptism, speech	Infancy narrative; prophetic anointing	Spirit of Truth; Paraclete/Advocate
Eschatological Expectations	imminent & sudden, but no one knows when; so "Keep awake!" (13:1-37)	false prophets will arise; many will fall away; Gospel must first be preached to all (24:10-14)	after Jerusalem is destroyed and Gentiles' time is fulfilled; not so soon; pray! (21:20-24, 28, 36)	realized eschatology; all who hear & believe have eternal life already now, and are not judged (5:21-25)
Basis for Final Judgment	whether you persevere in faith despite persecutions (13:13)	what you do for "the least" people; Sheep & Goats parable (25:31-46)	how you use wealth / possessions; parables of Rich & Poor (16:1-31)	whether or not you believe in Jesus (3:16-18; 5:19-24; 12:44-50)
Other Major Themes	Messianic secret; main disciples don't understand, but minor characters do believe	fulfillment of Scripture; divisions within the community; final separation of good vs. bad	fulfillment of God's plan; eschatological reversal; tax collectors & sinners favored	"eternal life" = "life in his name" = "becoming children of God"; Xn unity; mutual indwelling of God/Jesus/us
Symbol – Feast – Lectionary*	Lion – April 25 – Year B	Angel/Human – Sept. 21 – Year A	Ox – Oct. 18 – Year C	Eagle – Dec. 27 – esp. Lent & Easter

For enlarged version in landscapte orientation, see following page.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Literary, Stylistic and Thematic Comparisons:

GOSPEL according to...	MARK	MATTHEW	LUKE	JOHN
No. of chapters (verses/words)	16 (678 / 11304)	28 (1071 / 18345)	24 (1151 / 19482)	21 (879 / 15635)
Style of Greek	grammatically poor	Semitic influenced	good, elegant, literary	simple, but highly symbolic
Geographical Focus	Galilean towns; some Gentile territory	Galilee, esp. mountains; Jewish areas	one long journey to goal: Jerusalem	multiple visits back & forth to Jerusalem
Literary Features	quick action ("immediately; and then") loosely connected episodes	five major discourses; well-organized sections of collected pericopes	stories often in pairs (esp. male/female characters); many more parables	"Amen, Amen, I say to you..."; irony; paradox; double-meanings
Literary Introduction	"Beginning of Good News" (1:1)	"Book of Genealogy" (1:1)	"Orderly Account" (1:1-4)	Cosmic Hymn (1:1-18)
Gospel Beginning	John the Baptist's preaching; Jesus' ministry begins (1:2-15)	Jesus as Emmanuel (1:2–2:23); "King of Jews" vs. King Herod	Elizabeth & Mary; parallel birth stories John Baptist & Jesus (1:5–2:52)	John Bapt. points to "Lamb of God"; first disciples come to Jesus (1:19-51)
Inaugural Event	Exorcism in Synagogue of Capernaum (1:21-28)	Sermon on the Mount: Fulfillment of Law (ch. 5–7)	Jubilee reading from Isa 61; Rejection at Nazareth (4:14-30)	Wedding Feast at Cana: first of Jesus' "signs" (2:1-11)
Jesus' Major Opponents	1- Pharisees & Herodians; 2- chief priests, scribes & elders	"scribes & Pharisees"; "hypocrites & blind guides"	unjust authorities (civil & religious); rich & corrupt people	"Jews" (esp. leaders in Jerusalem); Pharisees; High Priest Caiaphas
Jesus' Last Words on the Cross	"My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?" (15:34)	(27:46 – same as in Mark)	"Father, forgive them..." (22:34); "You'll be with me in Paradise" (23:43); "Into your hands I commit my Spirit" (23:46)	"Behold your son; behold you mother" (19:26-27); "I am thirsty" (19:28); "It is finished" (19:30)
Focus of Passion	Ch. 14–15: Jesus' death as tragedy	Ch. 26–27: plots & treachery vs. Jesus	Ch. 22–23: Jesus' innocence	Ch. 18–19: Jesus' exaltation
Last Major Event	Empty Tomb, outside of Jerusalem (16:1-8)	Great Commission, on Mountain in Galilee (28:16-20)	Ascension, from Bethany just East of Jerusalem (24:50-53)	1: disciples & Thomas (20:19-29) 2: [Peter & Beloved Disciple (21:1-23)]
Final Literary Ending	women leave tomb in fear & silence (16:8) [16:9-20 added only later]	Jesus tells disciples: "I am with you always" (28:20)	disciples return to Jerusalem temple with joy praising God (24:53)	1: many more signs (20:30f) 2: [many other books 21:24f]
Christology I: Main Titles for Jesus	Christ/Messiah & Son of God; Suffering Son of Man; Eschatological Judge	Son of David & Son of Abraham; Great Teacher; New Lawgiver (like Moses)	Great Prophet; Lord (of all nations); Savior (esp. of the poor)	Divine Logos/Word made Flesh; Passover Lamb; Son, sent from Father; "I Am..."; "Equal to God"
Christology II: Jesus' Major Actions	miracles; overcoming evil powers; arguing with religious authorities	teaching his disciples; decrying religious hypocrisy	healing sick & impaired people; forgiving sinners & debtors	speaking God's words; doing God's works; revealing God and himself
Discipleship	persevere in faith despite suffering; follow Jesus "on the way" to the cross; be ready for his return	be righteous; forgive always; live the Golden Rule; fulfill God's laws, esp. law of charitable deeds	leave everything to follow Jesus; share with poor; accept everyone, esp. outcasts, women, enemies	see, believe, know, remain in Jesus & God, despite hostility; love one another; be in unity; serve humbly
Pneumatology	Holy Spirit at Baptism; unclean spirits	H.S. at Jesus' birth, baptism, speech	Infancy narrative; prophetic anointing	Spirit of Truth; Paraclete/Advocate
Eschatological Expectations	imminent & sudden, but no one knows when; so "Keep awake!" (13:1-37)	false prophets will arise; many will fall away; Gospel must first be preached to all (24:10-14)	after Jerusalem is destroyed and Gentiles' time is fulfilled; not so soon; pray! (21:20-24, 28, 36)	realized eschatology; all who hear & believe have eternal life already now, and are not judged (5:21-25)
Basis for Final Judgment	whether you persevere in faith despite persecutions (13:13)	what you do for "the least" people; Sheep & Goats parable (25:31-46)	how you use wealth / possessions; parables of Rich & Poor (16:1-31)	whether or not you believe in Jesus (3:16-18; 5:19-24; 12:44-50)
Other Major Themes	Messianic secret; main disciples don't understand, but minor characters do believe	fulfillment of Scripture; divisions within the community; final separation of good vs. bad	fulfillment of God's plan; eschatological reversal; tax collectors & sinners favored	"eternal life" = "life in his name" = "becoming children of God"; Xn unity; mutual indwelling of God/Jesus/us
Symbol – Feast – Lectionary	Lion – April 25 – Year B	Angel/Human – Sept. 21 – Year A	Ox – Oct. 18 – Year C	Eagle – Dec. 27 – esp. Lent & Easter

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others.

[TOC]

Historical Background Issues:

GOSPEL acc. to...	MARK	MATTHEW	LUKE	JOHN
WHO: traditionally attributed author?	"John Mark of Jerusalem" (Acts 12:12; 15:37; Col 4:10; Phlm 1:24; 1Pet 5:13)	tax collector & apostle (Mark 3:18; Matt 9:9; 10:3; Luke 6:15; Acts 1:13)	physician & companion of Paul (Col 4:14; 2Tim 4:11; Phlm 1:24)	John, son of Zebedee; one of 12 apostles (Mark 1:19; 3:17; cf. John 21:2)
WHO: implied author?	bilingual (Aramaic & Greek) second generation Christian; "young man" of 14:51-52?	bilingual (Aramaic & Greek) early Jewish Christian; trained "scribe" of 13:52?	Gentile Christian convert; educated Greek "historian"; client of Theophilus (1:1-4)?	the "beloved disciple" & his Jewish-Christian followers (John 19:35; 21:20-25)
TO WHOM: implied audience?	mostly Gentile Christians, fairly new in their faith, and facing persecutions	better educated Jews who already believe in Jesus, but argue over the Law	wealthier Gentile Christians in urban settings, in danger of becoming complacent	very mixed: originally Jews; later also Samaritans, Gentiles, etc.
WHERE: written from and/or to?	probably Rome; possibly Decapolis, Syria, Alexandria	possibly Galilee; probably in or near Antioch in Syria	probably Greece; possibly Syria (Pauline missions)	traditionally Ephesus; maybe originally Galilee or Syria
WHEN: approximate date?	very late 60's or early 70's (first written "Gospel")	late 70's or 80's (core text by Matthew?)	mid to late 80's (with "many" earlier sources)	main edition 90's (early edition 50's ?)
WHAT: subtype of "Gospel" genre?	narrated "good news" (1:1) about Jesus and his actions	a book of "heritage" (1:1) & much "teaching" (28:20)	an "orderly account" to attain "secure knowledge" (1:1-4)	"testimony" and "signs" for believing (20:30f; 21:24f)
WHY: community circumstances & author's purpose?	to encourage a community undergoing difficult trials and persecutions	to teach a community that has internal divisions and external enemies	to challenge believers to put their faith into practice more fully	to strengthen the identity of a group ostracized by other Jews for their faith

Structural and Geographical Comparisons:

GOSPEL acc. to...	MARK	MATTHEW	LUKE	JOHN
Introduction:	1:1	1:1 – 2:23	1:1 – 2:52	1:1-18 (prologue)
Literary Preface	1:1 ("good news")	xxx	1:1-4 ("orderly account")	1:1-18 ("Word of God")
Genealogy	xxx	1:1-17	[3:23-38]	xxx
Infancy Narrative	xxx	1:18 – 2:23	1:5 – 2:52	[1:14]
Preparatory Episodes:	1:2-13	3:1 – 4:11	3:1 – 4:13	1:1-51
John Baptist's Preaching	1:2-8	3:1-12	3:1-20	1:19-36
Baptism of Jesus	1:9-11	3:13-17	3:21-22	[1:31-33]
Temptation of Jesus	1:12-13	4:1-11	4:1-13	xxx
Jesus' Early Ministry, mostly to Jews in Galilee:	1:14 – 8:21	4:12 – 16:12	4:14 – 9:17	[Ch. 2, 4, 6]
Initial Preaching	1:14-15	4:12-17	4:14-30	xxx
Call of First Disciples	1:16-20	4:18-22	5:1-11	1:35-51
Outside of Galilee	5:1-20; 7:24 – 8:13	8:28-34; 15:21-28	8:26-39; xxx	xxx
On the Way to Jerusalem	8:22 – 10:52	16:13 – 20:34	9:18 – 19:27	[xxx]
Initial Stages	8:22 – 9:50	16:13 – 18:35	9:18-50	[7:1-9]
1st Passion Prediction	8:31-33	16:21-23	9:22	xxx
2nd Passion Prediction	9:30-32	17:22-23	9:43b-45	xxx
To Jerusalem Itself	10:1-52	19:1 – 20:34	9:51 – 19:27	[2:13; 5:1; 7:10]
3rd Passion Prediction	10:32-34	20:17-19	18:31-34	xxx
Ministry in Jerusalem	11:1 – 13:37	21:1 – 25:46	19:28 – 21:38	[Ch. 3, 5, 7–12]
Teachings & Disputes	11:1 – 12:44	21:1 – 23:39	19:1 – 21:4	most of this
Eschatological Discourse	13:1-37	24:1-36	21:5-36	xxx
Passion Week	14:1 – 15:47	26:1 – 27:66	22:1 – 23:56	13:1 – 19:42
Last Supper	14:17-31	26:20-35	22:14-38	13:1 – 17:26
Crucifixion	15:22-41	27:33-56	23:33-49	19:17-37
Resurrection Narrative	16:1-8	28:1-20	24:1-53	20:1-31
Empty Tomb Story	16:1-8	28:1-8	24:1-12	20:1-13
Appearance Stories	xxx	28:9-10, 16-20	24:13-53	20:14-31
Additions	[16:9-20 added later]			21:1-25 [second ending]

[Source: http://catholic-resources.org/Bible/Four_Gospel_Chart.htm]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Basic Outlines of the Four Gospels

Mark

Introduction: John the Baptist & Jesus (1:1-15, incl. the theme of Jesus' preaching 1:14-15)
Early Ministry: healing & preaching to Jews in Galilee (1:16 – 6:52)
Expanded Ministry: mostly outside of Galilee to non-Jews (6:53 – 8:21)
Central Section: Jesus and his disciples "On the Way" to Jerusalem (8:22 – 10:52)
(incl. three passion predictions [8:31; 9:31; 10:32-34] framed by two healings of blind men)
Final Ministry: in Jerusalem, incl. Apocalyptic Discourse (11:1 – 13:37)
Passion Narrative: Last Supper, Trials, Crucifixion (14:1 – 15:47)
Conclusion: Report about the Empty Tomb (16:1-8)
[Later endings added to Mark's Gospel: 16:9-20]

Material found only in Mark: 1:1 (Introductory Verse); 3:19b-21 (Jesus' Family Comes for Him); 4:26-29 (Parable of Seed Growing of Itself); 7:31-37 (Deaf Man in Decapolis); 8:22-26 (Blind Man of Bethsaida); 14:51-52 (Young Man Runs Away after Jesus' Arrest); [16:14-18 - Commissioning of the Eleven]

Matthew

Genealogy & Infancy Narrative: 1–2
Narrative: 3–4
First Discourse: "Sermon on the Mount": 5–7
Narrative: 8–9
Second Discourse: "Missionary Instructions": 10
Narrative: 11–12
Third Discourse: "Parables Collection": 13
Narrative: 14–17
Fourth Discourse: "Community Instructions": 18
Narrative: 19–22
Fifth Discourse: "Sermon on Eschatology": 23–25
Passion & Resurrection Narrative: 26–28

Material found only in Matthew: 1:1; 1:18–2:23; 5:17-20, 21-24, 27-29, 31, 33-38, 43; 6:1-8, 16-19; 7:6, 15-17, 28-29; 9:27-31, 35-38; 10:22-23; 11:1, 28-30; 13:24-30, 36-43, 44-52; 14:28-31; 16:17-19; 17:24-27; 18:15-21, 21-35; 19:10-12; 20:1-16; 21:28-32; nearly all of ch. 23; 25:1-13, 31-46; 27:3-10, 24-25, 52-53, 62-66; 28:11-15, 16-20
Material in other Gospels but significantly different in Matthew: 1:2-17; most of ch. 5–7 (esp. 5:3-12; 6:9-15; 7:15-20); most of ch. 10; 12:33-37; 16:13-23; much of ch. 18; 22:1-14; 25:14-30.

Luke

Literary Preface & Infancy Narrative: 1:1 – 2:52
Preparation for Ministry: 3:1 – 4:13
Galilean Ministry: 4:14 – 9:50
Journey to Jerusalem: 9:51 – 19:27
Jerusalem Ministry: 19:28 – 21:38
Passion Narrative: 22:1 – 23:56
Resurrection Appearances & Ascension: 24:1-53

Material found only in Luke: 1:1-4; 1:5–2:52; 3:10-14; 4:14-30; 5:1-11; 6:24-26; 7:11-17; 8:1-3; much of 9:51—18:14; 19:1-10; 19:39-44; 22:15-17, 31-32, 35-38; 23:2-16, 27-31, 34, 39-43, 46; 24:13-35, 36-49, 50-53
Material in other Gospels but significantly different in Luke: 3:1-2, 23-38; 6:20-26; 7:36-50; 9:18-22; 11:1-8; 14:16-24; 19:12-27; 21:34-38; 22:15-38; 24:1-12

John

Prologue: 1:1-18 (Logos Hymn: The Word in the Beginning with God; The Word becomes Flesh)
"The Book of Signs": 1:19 – 12:50 (Wedding at Cana, Dialogue with Nicodemus, Samaritan Woman at the Well, Healing at the Pool of Bethesda, Bread of Life Discourse, Man Born Blind, Raising of Lazarus, etc.)
"The Book of Glory": 13:1 – 20:31 (Washing the Disciples' Feet, Farewell Discourses, Jesus' Prayer, Passion Narrative, Crucifixion Scene, Resurrection Appearances, esp. to Mary Magdalene and Thomas)
Epilogue: 21:1-25 (Another Resurrection Appearance at the Sea of Tiberias/Galilee - added later)

[Source: http://catholic-resources.org/Bible/FourGospelOutlines.pdf] [PDF]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Synoptic Gospels

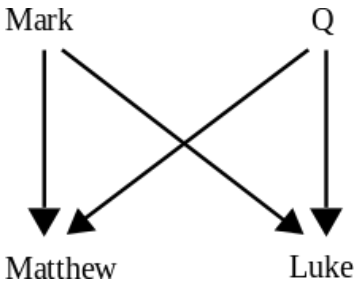
A careful comparison of the four Gospels reveals that Matthew, Mark and Luke are noticeably similar, while John is quite different. The first three Gospels agree extensively in language, in the material they include, and in the order in which events and sayings from the life of Christ are narrated. (Chronological order does not appear to have been rigidly followed in any of the Gospels, however.) Because of this agreement, these three books are called the Synoptic Gospels (syn, “together with”; optic, “seeing”; thus “seeing together”). For an example of agreement in content see Mt 9:2-8; Mk 2:3-12; Lk 5:18-26. An instance of verbatim agreement is found in Mt 10:22a; Mk 13:13a; Lk 12:17. A mathematical comparison shows that 91 percent of Mark's gospel is contained in Matthew, while 53 percent of Mark is found in Luke. Such agreement raises questions as to the origin of the Synoptic Gospels. Did the authors rely on a common source? Were they interdependent? Questions such as these constitute what is known as the Synoptic Problem. Several suggested solutions have been advanced:

1. The use of oral tradition. Some have thought that oral tradition had become so stereotyped that it provided a common source from which all the Synoptic writers drew.
2. The use of an early Gospel. Some have postulated that the Synoptic authors all had access to an earlier Gospel, now lost.
3. The use of written fragments. Some have assumed that written fragments had been composed concerning various events from the life of Christ and that these were used by the Synoptic authors.
4. Mutual dependence. Some have suggested that the Synoptic writers drew from each other with the result that what they wrote was often very similar.
5. The use of two major sources. The most widely held view among Biblical scholars is that the Gospel of Mark and a hypothetical document, called Quelle (German for “source”) or Q , were used by Matthew and Luke as sources for most of the materials included in their Gospels (see diagram [two–source theory] below).

   Lost Sayings of Gospel “Q” (put here for informational purposes only – not a confirmation of the theory): http://www.earlychristianwritings.com/q.html
6. The priority and use of Matthew. Another view suggests that the other two Synoptics drew from Matthew as their main source (see diagram [Matthean priority] below).
7. The priority and use of Luke. A similar view suggests that the other two Synoptics drew from Luke as their main source.
8. A combination of the above. This theory assumes that the authors of the Synoptic Gospels made use of oral tradition, written fragments, mutual dependence on other Synoptic writers or on their Gospels, and the testimony of eyewitnesses.
9. Complete independence. Some hold that the Synoptic writers worked independently of each other. According to this view, the similar—sometimes even verbatim—choice and order of words and events are best explained by the infallible guidance of the Holy Spirit on the authors.

Continued, next page…

….Continued from previous page:



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: ESV Study Bible note]

Source criticism

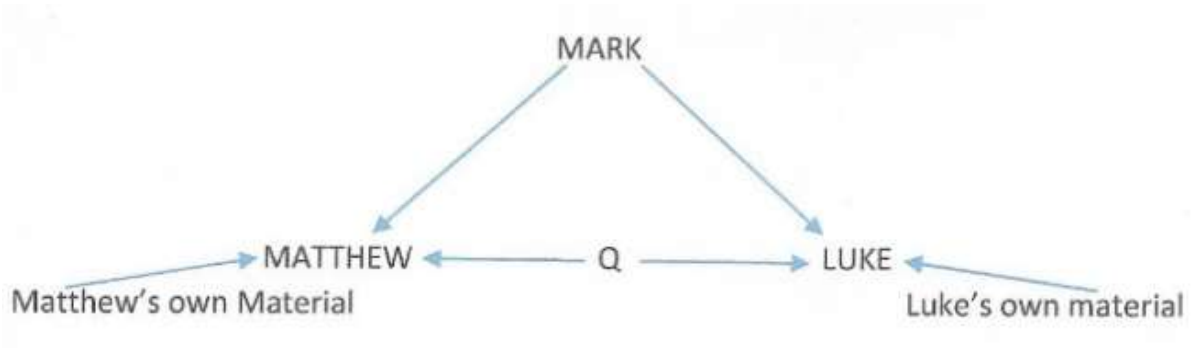
Source criticism is the search for the original sources which lie behind a given biblical text. It can be traced back to the 17th-century French priest Richard Simon, and its most influential product is Julius Wellhausen's Prolegomena zur Geschichte Israels (1878), whose "insight and clarity of expression have left their mark indelibly on modern biblical studies". An example of source criticism is the study of the Synoptic problem. Critics noticed that the three Synoptic Gospels, Matthew, Mark and Luke, were very similar, indeed, at times identical. The dominant theory to account for the duplication is called the two-source hypothesis. This suggests that Mark was the first gospel to be written, and that it was probably based on a combination of early oral and written material. Matthew and Luke were written at a later time, and relied primarily on two different sources: Mark and a written collection of Jesus's sayings, which has been given the name Q by scholars. This latter document has now been lost, but at least some of its material can be deduced indirectly, namely through the material that is common in Matthew and Luke but absent in Mark. In addition to Mark and Q, the writers of Matthew and Luke made some use of additional sources, which would account for the material that is unique to each of them.

Source criticism:
Diagram of the two-source hypothesis, an explanation for the relationship of the gospels of Matthew, Mark and Luke.

[Source: Wikipedia]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Example:



Catholic College Advanced Class Intro. Notes On the Synoptic Gospels (PCJ.edu): http://classes.pcj.edu/pluginfile.php/3459/course/overviewfiles/BI611DE%20The%20Synoptic%20Gospels%20and%20the%20Acts%20of%20the%20Apostles%20Overview.pdf (Course also includes survey of Acts)

…The Gospels of Mark, Matthew and Luke are called the Synoptic Gospels because of their similarities. The Gospel of John is not included in this description because his material does not appear to have been formulated by using Mark as his main source. The term synoptic is derived from a combination of the Greek words συν (syn = together) and οψις (opsis = seeing)[1] to indicate that the contents of these three Gospels can be viewed side by side.

The module lessons are presented following what most scholars perceive to be the written order. Since Mark is believed to be the first written Gospel, it will be covered first, followed by Matthew and then Luke. It will then be easier to see the Synoptic scenario as we proceed. We can recognize that Matthew and Luke must have had a copy of Mark, which they used as the source for their writings. As we look at Matthew's use of Mark we must also recognize that Matthew incorporated his own material into his Gospel, which he felt was necessary for the audience for whom he was writing. We can also assert that Luke did likewise for the nature and objective of his task. But something must be added to this equation: there are more than 200 similar verses that appear only in Matthew and Luke. This would indicate that there must be an additional source, which we will call Q, from the German word Quelle.

The two source view, in this diagram, illustrates the extensive use of Mark by Matthew and Luke. The additional source, Q, was a collection of sayings of Jesus[2].

See Diagram:

[1] (Heil & Verheyden, 2005)
[2] (Dugan, 1999)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Required Texts

There are two texts listed for this course: the Collegeville Bible Commentary of the New Testament, published by the Liturgical Press; and Gospel Parallels: A Synopsis of the First Three Gospels by Burton H. Throckmorton Jr., published by Thomas Nelson Publishers. We will also be reading the Second Vatican Council's Dogmatic Constitution on Divine Revelation (Dei Verbum), an English translation of which may be accessed from the Vatican website:

http://www.vatican.va/archive/hist_councils/ii_vatican_council/documents/vat-ii_const_19651118_deiverbum_en.html

If you are able to locate a copy, the instructor will be using Austin Flannery's translation of this document (Vatican Council II, Northport: Costello, 1996), but the Vatican translation is fine too.

The chart below is a breakdown of the synoptically connected sections mentioned above…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Section of Scripture	Mark	Matthew	Luke	Synoptic Description
Beginning Narrative	Mark Chapter 1:1-6	Matthew Chapter 1[a]	Luke Chapter 1:1-4	Mark states that Jesus is the "Son of God", Matthew says that Jesus is the "Christ" Luke says that Jesus is the "Word"
Infancy Narrative	None	Chapter 1 & 2	Chapter 1 & 2	Mark lacks an infancy narrative, beginning instead with John the Baptist's preparation of the people for the one who is to come. Matthew, after the genealogy, gives us the birth of Jesus, the visit of the wise men and the flight to Egypt. Luke, develops a vivid story including three beautiful scripture passages which we recite in the Hours. Notice the writing of the gospels allowed each of the followers to increase and develop the story more thoroughly.
Galilean Ministry	Chapter 1:15-8:21	Chapter 4:12-16:12	Chapter 4:1-9:17	The Galilean Ministry of Jesus is covered quite well by all three gospels in the mentioned sections. With Mark as the main source, we will begin to see the incorporation of "Q" into Matthew and Luke and their own personal material scattered throughout this section.
Journey Narrative	Chapter 8:22-10:52	Chapter 16:13-20:34	Chapter 9:18-19:26	Mark frames Jesus' journey to Jerusalem with two stories of Jesus healing blind men. These stories symbolically highlight his efforts to cure his disciples' spiritual blindness throughout the journey. Matthew expands Mark's journey narrative with additional teaching concerning discipleship. Luke concentrates Jesus' parables in the journey narrative.
Jerusalem Narrative	Chapter 11:1-13:37	Chapter 21:1 25:46	Chapter 19:28 – 22:28	This section of the synoptic gospels is probably the most unified. Many of the passages are word for word, giving reassurance to Mark's account, which is verified by Matthew and Luke.
Passion Narrative	Chapter 14-15:25	Chapter 26:21-26:29	Chapter 22:39 – 23:25	This section also contributes to the synoptic correlation among the three; however, you will notice that Luke adds 27 of his own verses.
Crucifixion Narrative	Chapter 15:26 – 16:8	Chapter 26:30 – 28:10	Chapter 23:26-49 -24:12	From here to the passage describing the empty tomb, the similarities continue in Mark, Matthew and Luke.
Appearance Narrative	None	Chapter 28:11-20	Chapter 24:13-53	Mark Scripture scholars have indicated that a longer ending has been added to Mark. Mk 16:9-20. In this account Mary Magdalene alone sees Jesus. Mark's original ending lacks an appearance, concluding instead with a proclamation of Christ's resurrection and the promise that he will be seen in Galilee. Matthew's account begins with Mary Magdalene and the others seeing two men in dazzling apparel that tell them Jesus has risen. Mathew's account also mentions the guards retelling all that had happened next. Finally, Jesus appears to the disciples, before commissioning them. Luke's recounts the same appearance as Matthew does almost word for word. This is followed by Emmaus. After this story, Jesus appears to the disciples. Then he leads the out for the ascension. However, the real ending for Luke is the Acts of the Apostles. One final note: It seems likely that Matthew and Luke used "Q:" as their source since evidence of Mark's ending was added some time later.

Bibliography:
Campbell, D. The Synoptic Gospels: A Commentary. The Seabury Press, 1969.
Dugan, D. L. A History of the Synoptic Problem. Doubleday, 1999.
Heil , C., & Verheyden, J. The Sayings of Q: Collected Essays. Bibliotheca Ephemeridum theologicarum Lovaniensium, Vol. 18 9, pp. 163-164, 2005.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Accuracy / Reliability of the New Testament Bible

Accuracy of the New Testament Bible

Authors/Works	Recorded	Dates of Mss.	Time Span	Copies Survived
Caesar	100–44 B.C.	A.D. 900	1,000 YRS	10
Livy	59 B.C.–A.D. 17	A.D. 300	400 YRS	27
Plato	427–347 B.C.	A.D. 900	1,200 YRS	7
Tacitus (Annals)	A.D. 56–120	A.D. 800	900 YRS	3
Pliny the Younger (History)	A.D. 61–113	A.D. 850	750 YRS	7
Thucydides (History)	460–400 B.C.	A.D. 100	600 YRS	20
Suetonious (De Vita Caesarum)	A.D. 69–140	A.D. 800	900 YRS	200+
Herodotus (History)	484–425 B.C.	A.D. 100	600 YRS	75
Sophocles	496–406 B.C.	A.D. 1000	1,400 YRS	193
Catullus	54 B.C.	A.D. 1550	1,600 YRS	3
Euripides	480–406 B.C.	A.D. 1100	1,500 YRS	9
Demosthenes	383–322 B.C.	A.D. 1100	1,300 YRS	200
Aristotle	384–322 B.C.	A.D. 1100	1,400 YRS	40
Aristophanes	450–385 B.C.	A.D. 900	1,200 YRS	10
Homer	900 B.C.	400 B.C.	500 YRS	643
New Testament	A.D. 35–100	A.D. 100–150	5–30 YRS	5,700

New Testament copies include (1) fragments, (2) some incomplete copies of the NT, (3) the complete NT, which are all in Greek. Another 10,000+ manuscripts exist in Latin plus more than one million quotations from the church fathers.*

Manuscript Evidence for Ancient Writings

Author	Written	Earliest Fragment/copy	Time Span in Years	Number of Manuscripts
Caesar	100 to 44 B.C.	A.D. 900	1,000	10
Plato	427 to 347 B.C.	A.D. 900	1,200	7
Thucydides	460 to 400 B.C.	A.D. 900	1,300	8
Tacitus	A.D. 100	A.D. 1100	1,000	20
Suetonius	A.D. 75 to 160	A.D. 950	800	8
Homer (Iliad)	900 B.C.	400 B.C.	500	643
New Testament	A.D. 40 to 100	A.D. 125	25 to 50	24,000

Information in this chart can be found in various sources. This chart was adapted from: Christian Apologetics, by Norman Geisler, 1976, p. 307; and Evidence That Demands a Verdict, by Josh McDowell, 1979, pp. 42,43.

I Don't Have Enough Faith to Be an Atheist: Is the New Testament True?

http://www.plumbbobblog.com/?p=7077

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Manuscript evidence for superior New Testament reliability

https://carm.org/manuscript-evidence

The New Testament is constantly under attack, and its reliability and accuracy are often contested by critics. If the critics want to disregard the New Testament, then they must also disregard other ancient writings by Plato, Aristotle, and Homer. This is because the New Testament documents are better-preserved and more numerous than any other ancient writings. Because they are so numerous, they can be cross checked for accuracy . . . and they are very consistent.

There are presently 5,686 Greek manuscripts in existence today for the New Testament.1 If we were to compare the number of New Testament manuscripts to other ancient writings, we find that the New Testament manuscripts far outweigh the others in quantity.

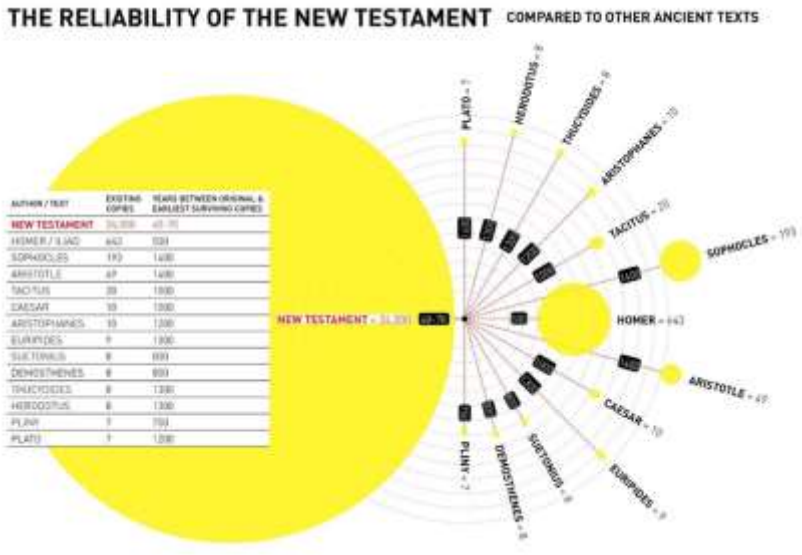
Author	Date Written	Earliest Copy	Approximate Time Span between original & copy	Number of Copies	Accuracy of Copies
Lucretius	died 55 or 53 B.C.		1100 yrs	2	----
Pliny	A.D. 61-113	A.D. 850	750 yrs	7	----
Plato	427-347 B.C.	A.D. 900	1200 yrs	7	----
Demosthenes	4th Cent. B.C.	A.D. 1100	800 yrs	8	----
Herodotus	480-425 B.C.	A.D. 900	1300 yrs	8	----
Suetonius	A.D. 75-160	A.D. 950	800 yrs	8	----
Thucydides	460-400 B.C.	A.D. 900	1300 yrs	8	----
Euripides	480-406 B.C.	A.D. 1100	1300 yrs	9	----
Aristophanes	450-385 B.C.	A.D. 900	1200	10	----
Caesar	100-44 B.C.	A.D. 900	1000	10	----
Livy	59 BC-AD 17	----	???	20	----
Tacitus	circa A.D. 100	A.D. 1100	1000 yrs	20	----
Aristotle	384-322 B.C.	A.D. 1100	1400	49	----
Sophocles	496-406 B.C.	A.D. 1000	1400 yrs	193	----
Homer (Iliad)	900 B.C.	400 B.C.	500 yrs	643	95%
New Testament	1st Cent. A.D. (A.D. 50-100)	2nd Cent. A.D. (c. A.D. 130 f.)	less than 100 years	5600	99.5%

As you can see, there are thousands more New Testament Greek manuscripts than any other ancient writing. The internal consistency of the New Testament documents is about 99.5% textually pure. That is an amazing accuracy. In addition, there are over 19,000 copies in the Syriac, Latin, Coptic, and Aramaic languages. The total supporting New Testament manuscript base is over 24,000.

Almost all biblical scholars agree that the New Testament documents were all written before the close of the First Century. If Jesus was crucified in A.D. 30., then that means the entire New Testament was completed within 70 years. This is important because it means there were plenty of people around when the New Testament documents were penned--people who could have contested the writings. In other words, those who wrote the documents knew that if they were inaccurate, plenty of people would have pointed it out. But, we have absolutely no ancient documents contemporary with the First Century that contest the New Testament texts.

Furthermore, another important aspect of this discussion is the fact that we have a fragment of the gospel of John that dates back to around 29 years from the original writing (John Rylands Papyri A.D.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



125). This is extremely close to the original writing date. This is simply unheard of in any other ancient writing, and it demonstrates that the Gospel of John is a First Century document.

Below is a chart with some of the oldest extant New Testament manuscripts compared to when they were originally penned. Compare these time spans with the next closest, which is Homer's Iliad, where the closest copy from the original is 500 years later. Undoubtedly, that period of time allows for more textual corruption in its transmission. How much less so for the New Testament documents?

Important Manuscript Papyri	Contents	Date Original Written	MSS Date	Approx. Time Span	Location
p^{52} (John Rylands Fragment)3	John 18:31-33, 37-38	circa A.D. 96	circa A.D. 125	29 yrs	John Rylands Library, Manchester, England
P^{46} (Chester Beatty Papyrus)	Rom. 5:17-6:3, 5-14; 8:15-25, 27-35; 10:1-11, 22, 24-33, 35; 16:1-23, 25-27; Heb.; 1 & 2 Cor., Eph., Gal., Phil., Col.; 1 Thess. 1:1, 9-10; 2:1-3; 5:5-9, 23-28	50's-70's	circa A.D. 200	Approx. 150 yrs	Chester Beatty Museum, Dublin & Ann Arbor, Michigan, University of Michigan library
P^{66} (Bodmer Papyrus)	John 1:1-6:11, 35-14:26; fragment of 14:29-21:9	70's	circa A.D. 200	Approx. 130 yrs	Cologne, Geneva
P^{67}	Matt. 3:9,15; 5:20-22, 25-28		circa A.D. 200	Approx. 130 yrs	Barcelona, Fundacion San Lucas Evangelista, P. Barc.1

If the critics of the Bible dismiss the New Testament as reliable information, then they must also dismiss the reliability of the writings of Plato, Aristotle, Caesar, Homer, and the other authors mentioned in the chart at the beginning of the paper. On the other hand, if the critics acknowledge the historicity and writings of those other individuals, then they must also retain the historicity and writings of the New Testament authors; after all, the evidence for the New Testament's reliability is far greater than the others. The Christian has substantially superior criteria for affirming the New Testament documents than he does for any other ancient writing. It is good evidence on which to base the trust in the reliability of the New Testament.

The Reliability of the New Testament compared to other ancient texts (graph)

Source: https://t.me/JarrinJackson/16154

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Manuscript evidence for superior New Testament reliability

https://carm.org/manuscript-evidence

There are presently 5,686 Greek manuscripts in existence today for the New Testament. If we were to compare the number of New Testament manuscripts to other ancient writings, we find that the New Testament manuscripts far outweigh the others in quantity.

Author	Date Written	Earliest Copy	Approximate Time Span between original & copy	Number of Copies	Accuracy of Copies
Lucretius	died 55 or 53 B.C.		1100 yrs	2	----
Pliny	61-113 A.D.	850 A.D.	750 yrs	7	----
Plato	427-347 B.C.	900 A.D.	1200 yrs	7	----
Demosthenes	4th Cent. B.C.	1100 A.D.	800 yrs	8	----
Herodotus	480-425 B.C.	900 A.D.	1300 yrs	8	----
Suetonius	75-160 A.D.	950 A.D.	800 yrs	8	----
Thucydides	460-400 B.C.	900 A.D.	1300 yrs	8	----
Euripides	480-406 B.C.	1100 A.D.	1300 yrs	9	----
Aristophanes	450-385 B.C.	900 A.D.	1200	10	----
Caesar	100-44 B.C.	900 A.D.	1000	10	----
Livy	59 BC-AD 17	----	???	20	----
Tacitus	circa 100 A.D.	1100 A.D.	1000 yrs	20	----
Aristotle	384-322 B.C.	1100 A.D.	1400	49	----
Sophocles	496-406 B.C.	1000 A.D.	1400 yrs	193	----
Homer (Iliad)	900 B.C.	400 B.C.	500 yrs	643	95%
New Testament	1st Cent. A.D. (50-100 A.D.	2nd Cent. A.D. (c. 130 A.D. f.)	less than 100 years	5600	99.5%

Chart Showing Accuracy of the Bible New Testament Compared to Other Accepted Documents

As you can see, there are thousands more New Testament Greek manuscripts than any other ancient writing. The internal consistency of the New Testament documents is about 99.5% textually pure. That is an amazing accuracy. In addition, there are over 19,000 copies in the Syriac, Latin, Coptic, and Aramaic languages. The total supporting New Testament manuscript base is over 24,000.

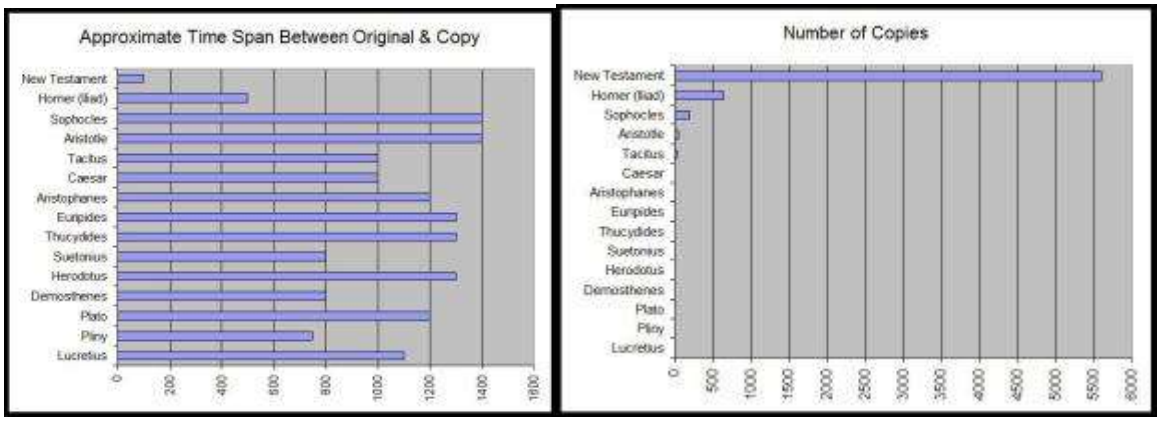
Almost all biblical scholars agree that the New Testament documents were all written before the close of the First Century. If Jesus was crucified in A.D. 30., then that means the entire New Testament was completed within 70 years. This is important because it means there were plenty of people around when the New Testament documents were penned--people who could have contested the writings. In other words, those who wrote the documents knew that if they were inaccurate, plenty of people would have pointed it out. But, we have absolutely no ancient documents contemporary with the First Century that contest the New Testament texts.

Furthermore, another important aspect of this discussion is the fact that we have a fragment of the gospel of John that dates back to around 29 years from the original writing (John Rylands Papyri A.D.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

125). This is extremely close to the original writing date. This is simply unheard of in any other ancient writing, and it demonstrates that the Gospel of John is a First Century document.

Is the New Testament Text Reliable
https://www.str.org/articles/is-the-new-testament-text-reliable



Facts for Skeptics of the New Testament
http://www.equip.org/article/facts-for-skeptics-of-the-new-testament/

Archaeology and the Historical Reliability of the New Testament
https://www.bethinking.org/is-the-bible-reliable/archaeology-and-the-historical-reliability-of-the-new-testament

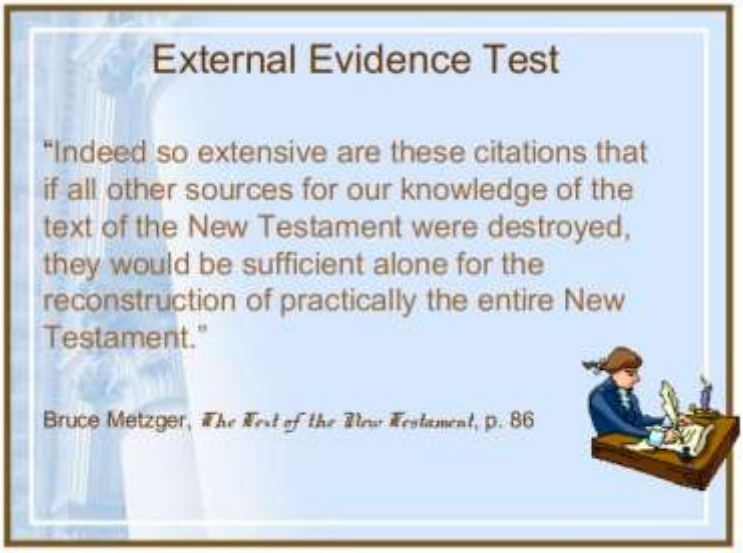
How Accurate is the Bible?
http://www.cslewisinstitute.org/webfm_send/410 [PDF]

Bibliographical Evidence
https://michaeljscott.wordpress.com/jonathan-munro-adventures/the-lost-scrolls-a-jonathan-munro-adventure/biblical-evidences/

Here are a pair of charts illustrating the differences between the age of ancient manuscripts, and the extant number of ancient manuscripts available today:

So you see, if we challenge the reliability of the New Testament manuscripts based on the notion that they've been corrupted over centuries of copying, we must allow all of classical antiquity to fall as well. And the simple fact is, we don't have centuries as it is. We have decades, and we have thousands of manuscripts and fragments of manuscripts from which to compare and choose. Therefore, we can confidently assert that the New Testament we have today is a reliably accurate version of the original text.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Extra-Biblical Christian Sources

Quotations from early Church Fathers concerning the New Testament

Writer	Gospels	Acts	Pauline	General	Revelation	Totals
Justin Martyr	268	10	43	6	3	330
Irenaeus	1,038	194	499	23	65	1,819
Clement (Alex)	1,107	44	1,127	207	11	2,406
Origen	9,231	349	7,778	399	165	17,992
Tertullian	3,822	502	2,609	120	205	7,258
Hippolytus	734	42	387	27	188	1,378
Eusebius	3,258	211	1,592	88	27	5,176
Grand Totals	19,368	1,352	14,035	870	664	36,289

Taken from Josh McDowell, The New Evidence That Demands a Verdict, p. 43

External Evidence Test

"Indeed so extensive are these citations that if all other sources for our knowledge of the text of the New Testament were destroyed, they would be sufficient alone for the reconstruction of practically the entire New Testament."

Bruce Metzger, The Text of the New Testament, p. 86

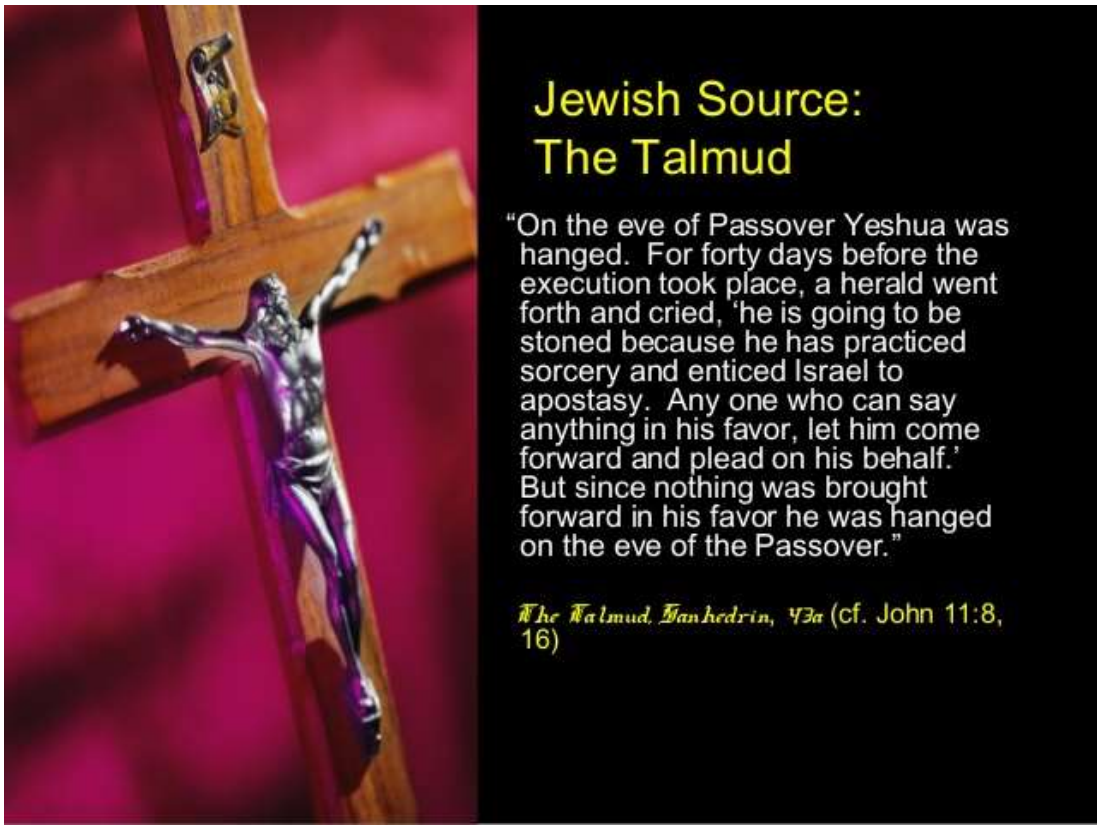
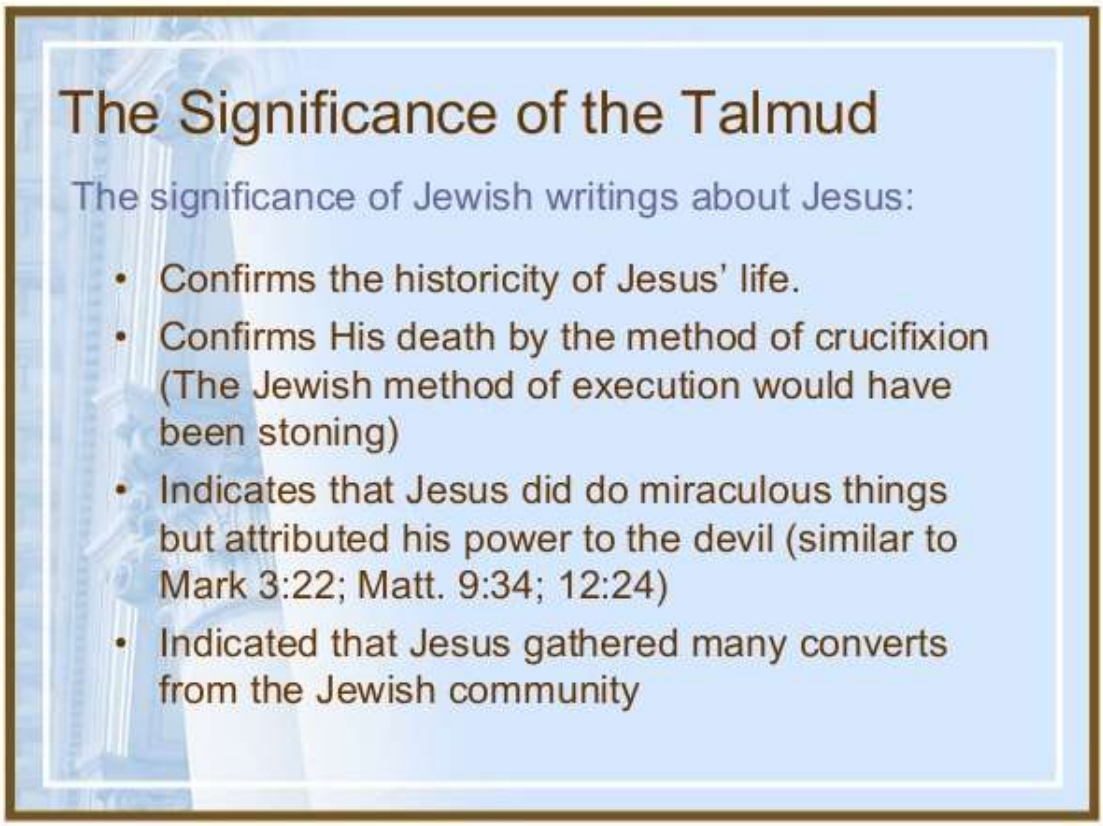
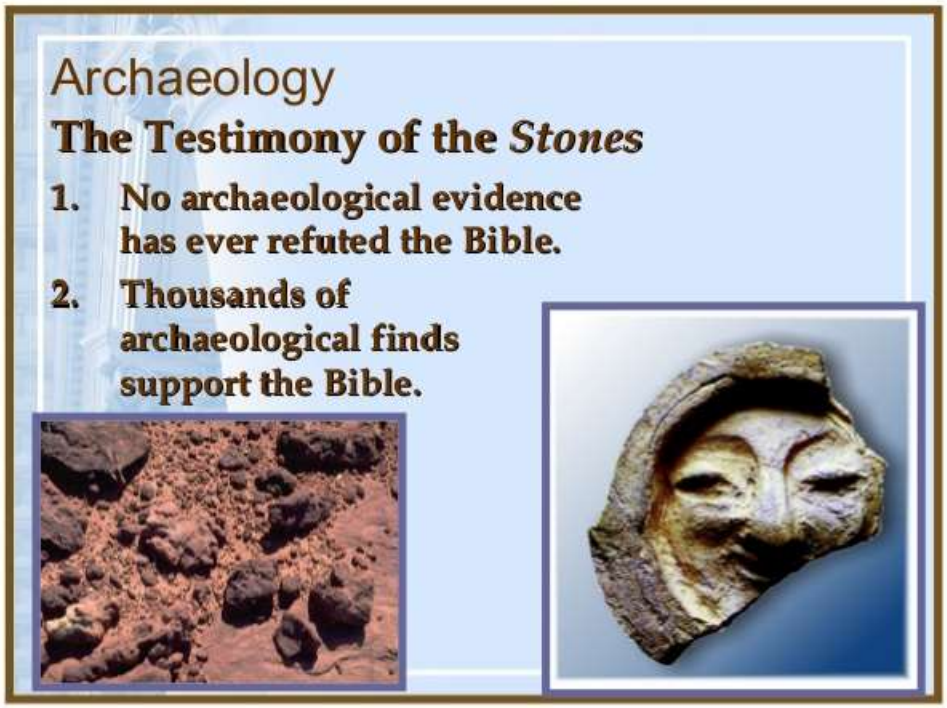
Source: https://www.slideshare.net/oknishan/reliability-of-the-bible

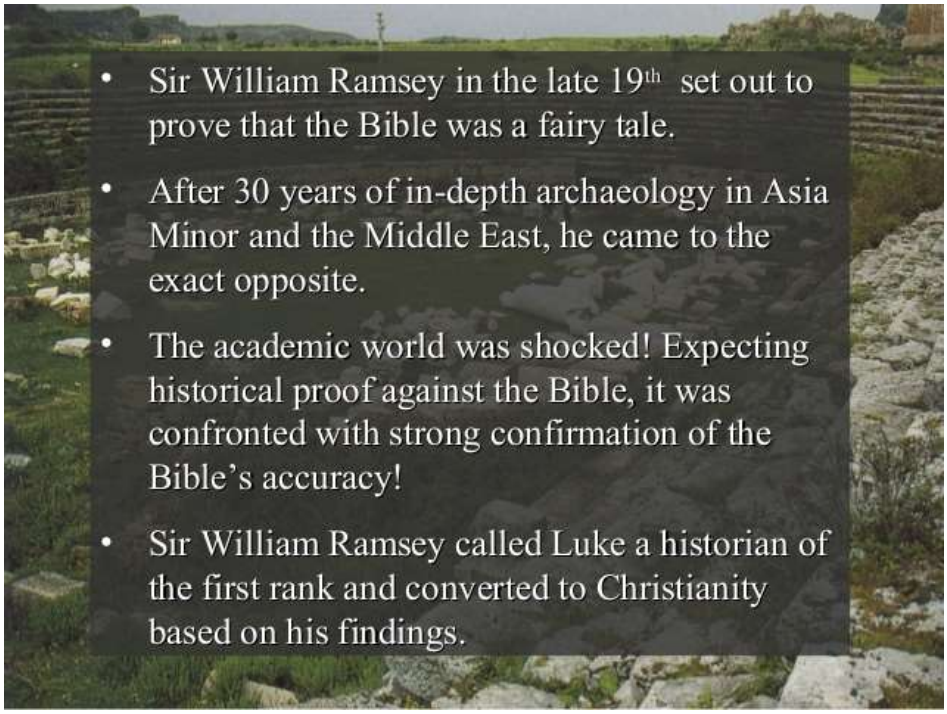


Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

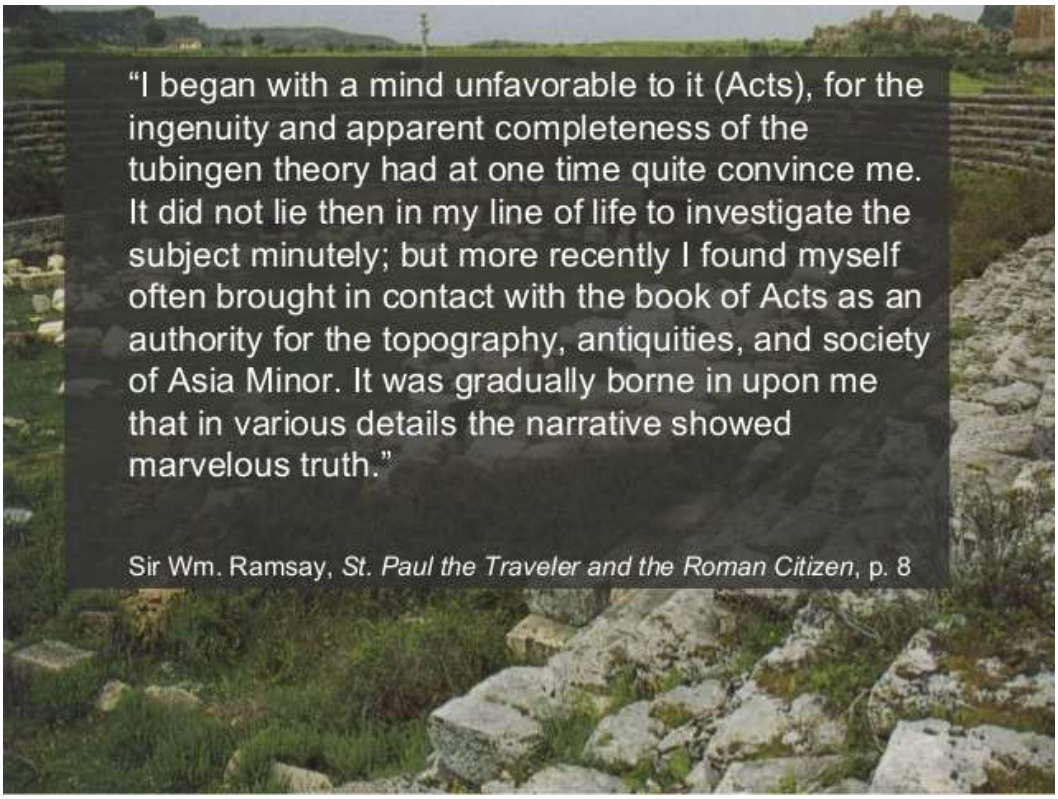


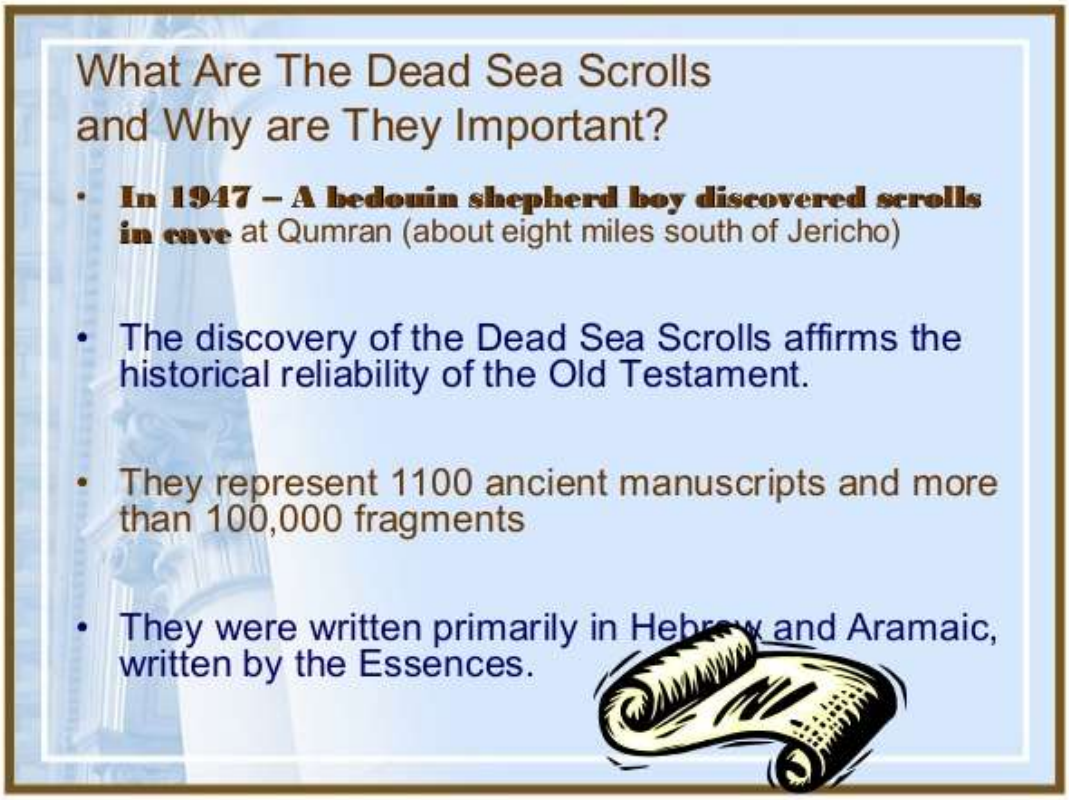
Flavius Josephus…





Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]





Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Dead Sea Scrolls

- The Dead Sea Scrolls demonstrated the meticulous care in recording the manuscripts for Jews.
- The Dead Sea scrolls attest to textual accuracy

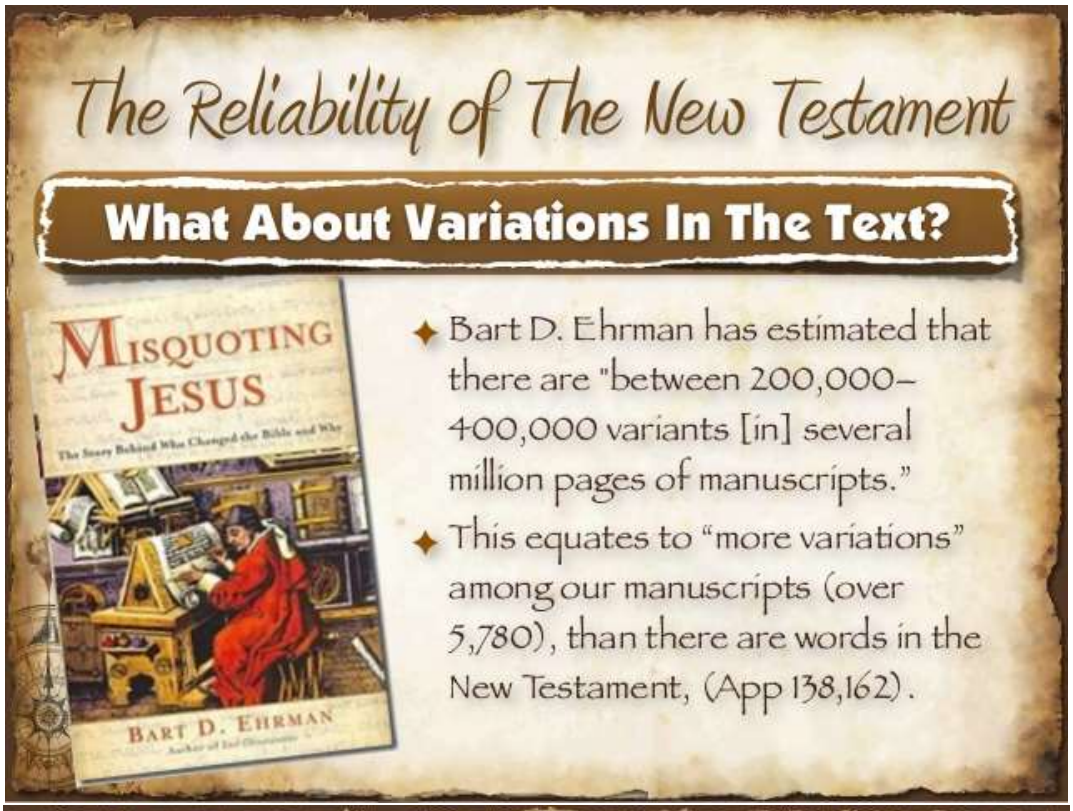
The Significance of the Dead Sea Scroll discoveries?

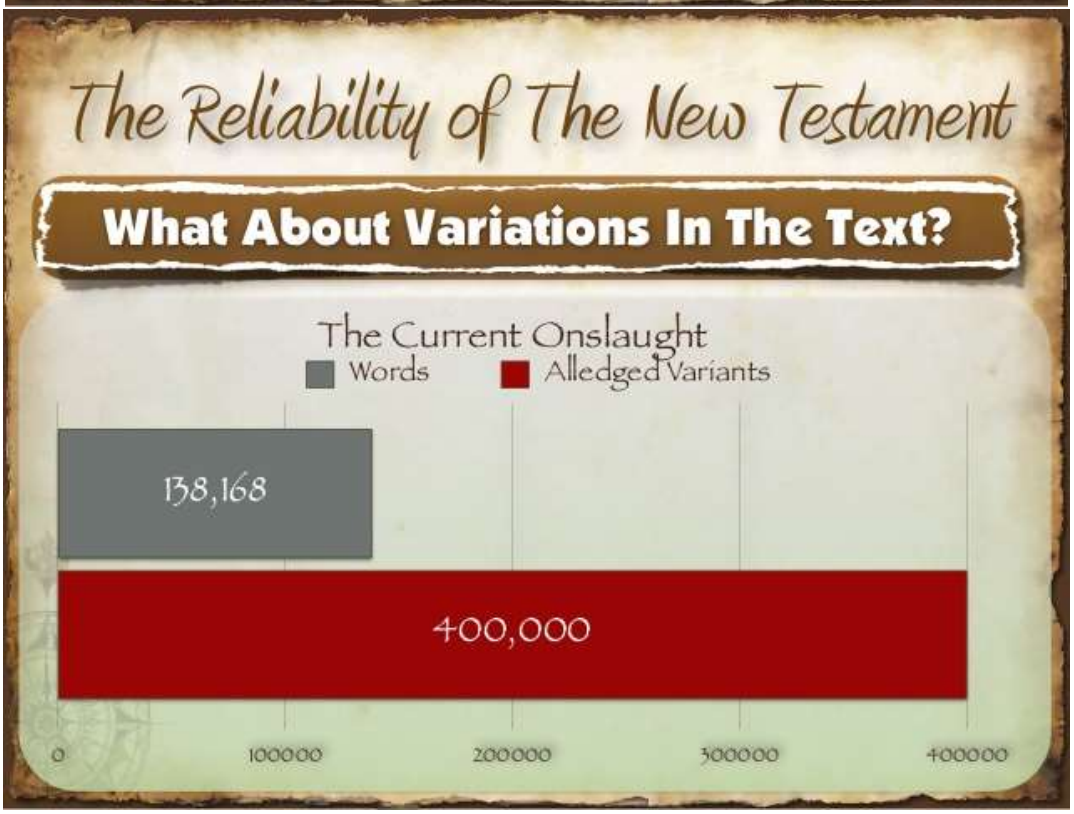
The earliest manuscripts up until the discovery of the Dead Sea Scrolls was the Cairo codex dated about A.D. 895 containing both the latter and former prophets.

The Dead Sea Scrolls date from the third century B.C. to the first century A.D.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

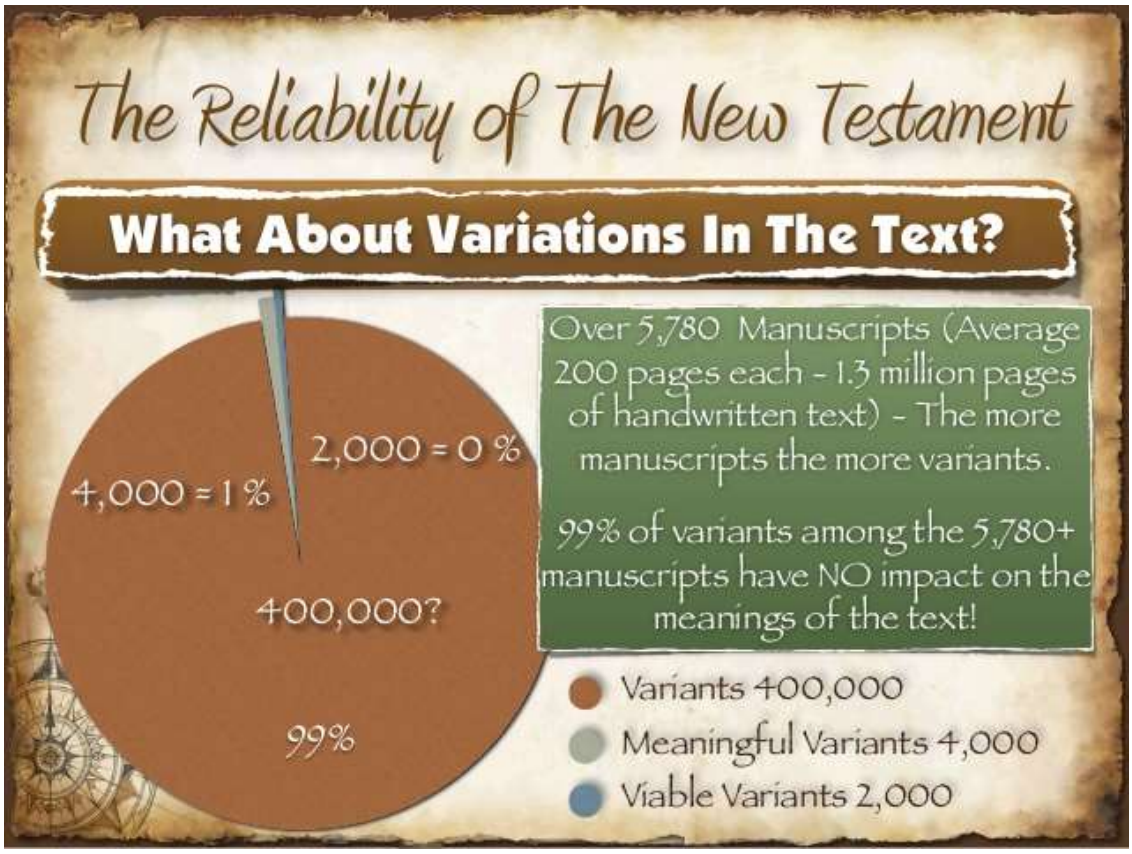


For another example of how Dead Sea Scrolls improve our knowledge/understanding of Bible and the history/culture of the times during which it was written, see:

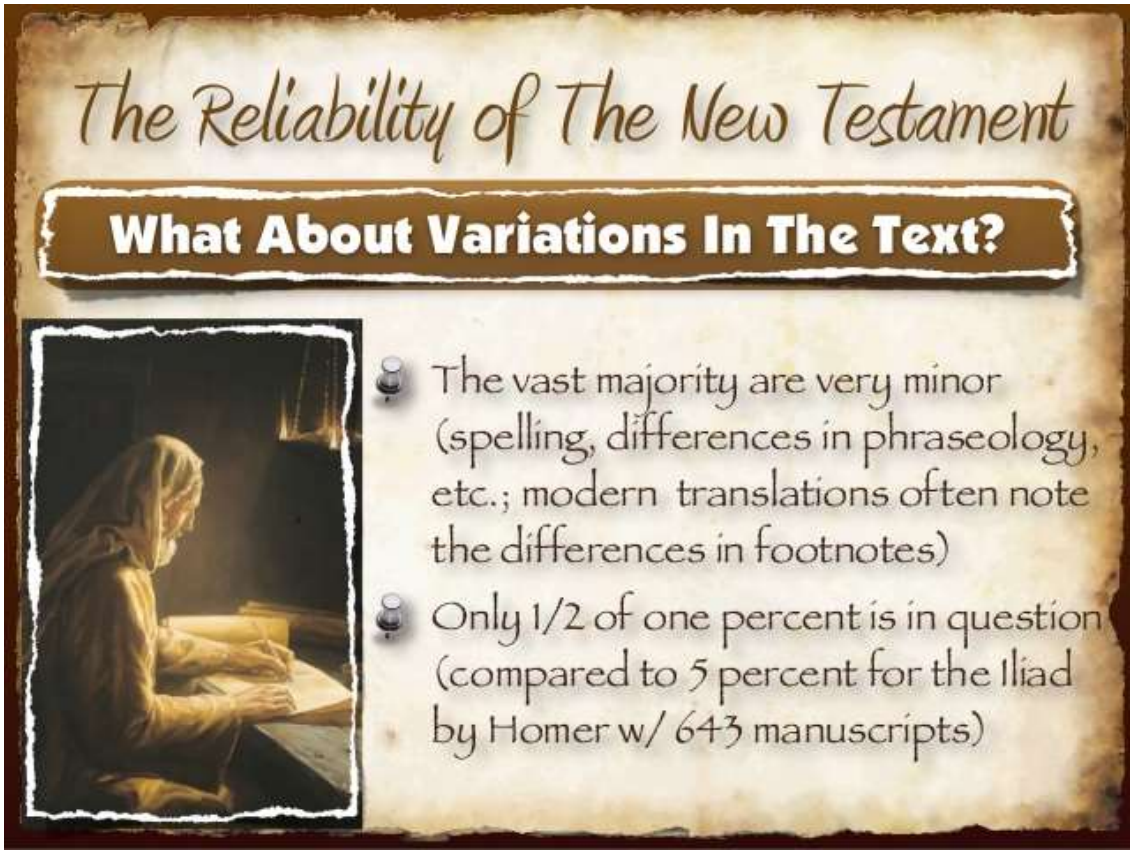


4QMMT

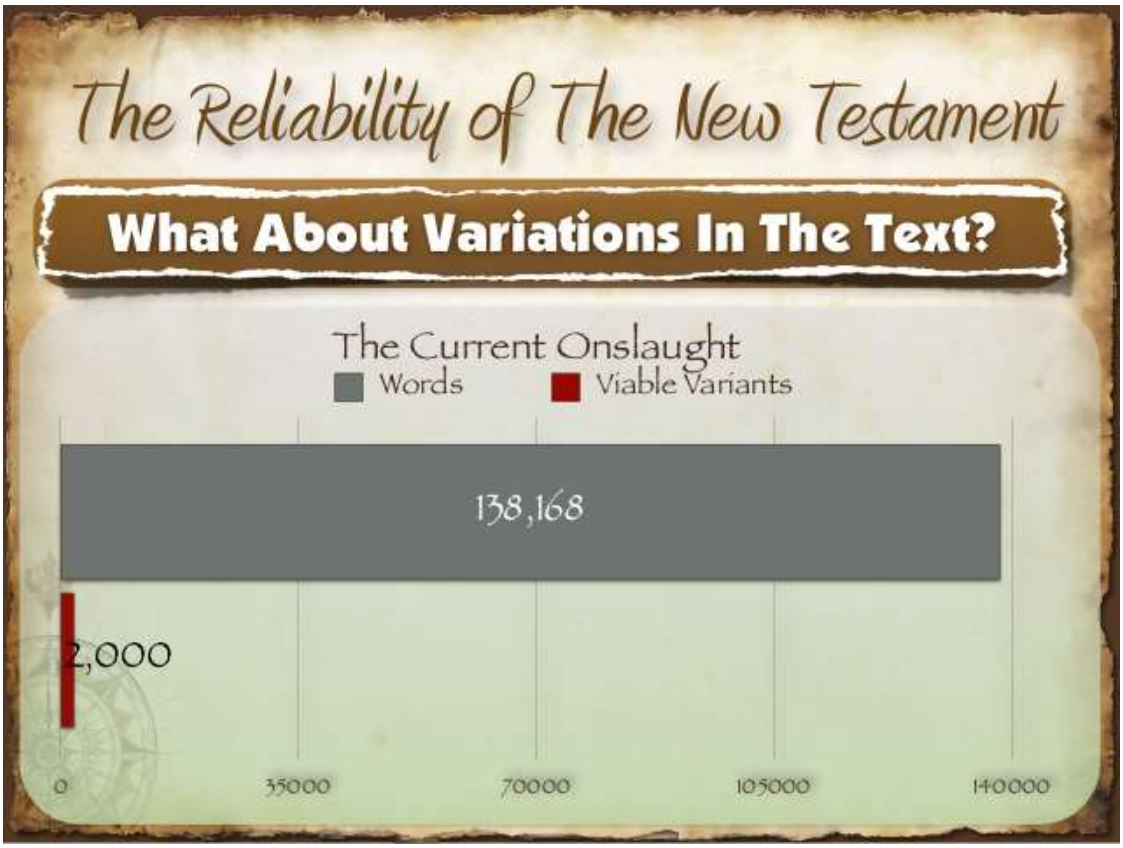
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

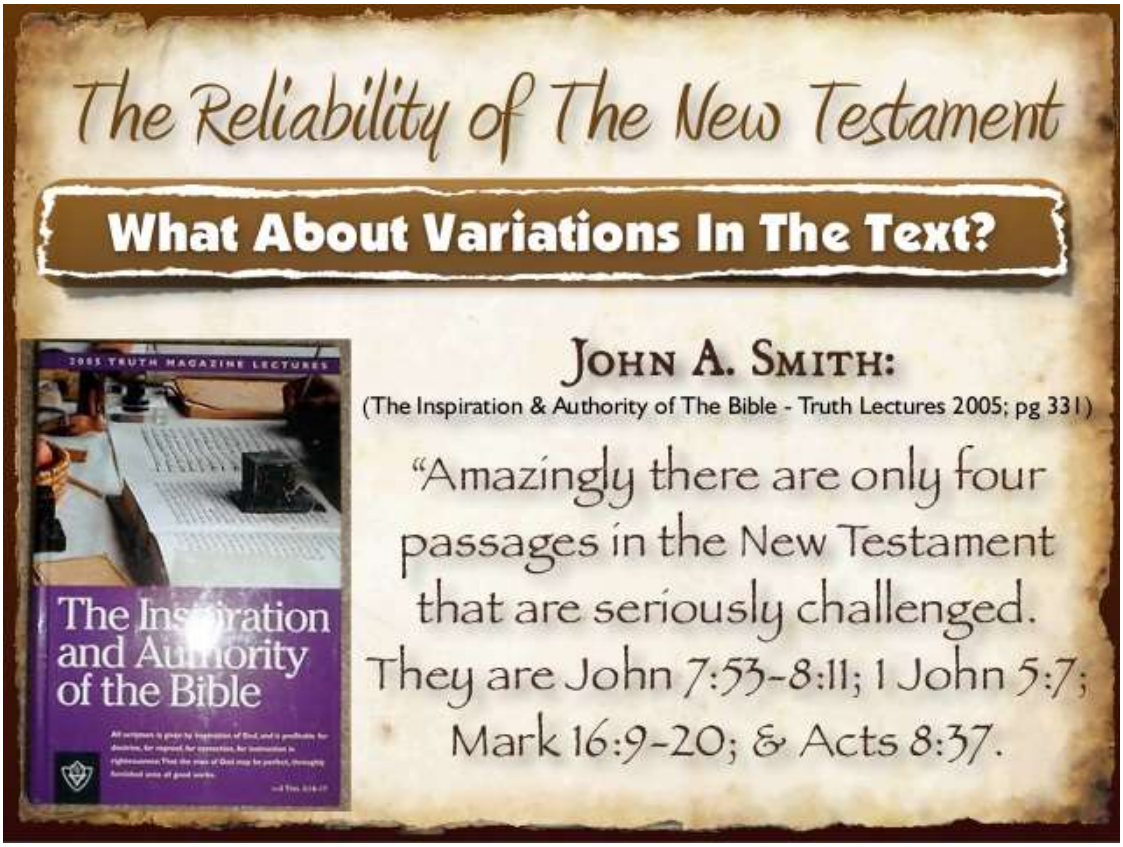


What About Variations in the Text?

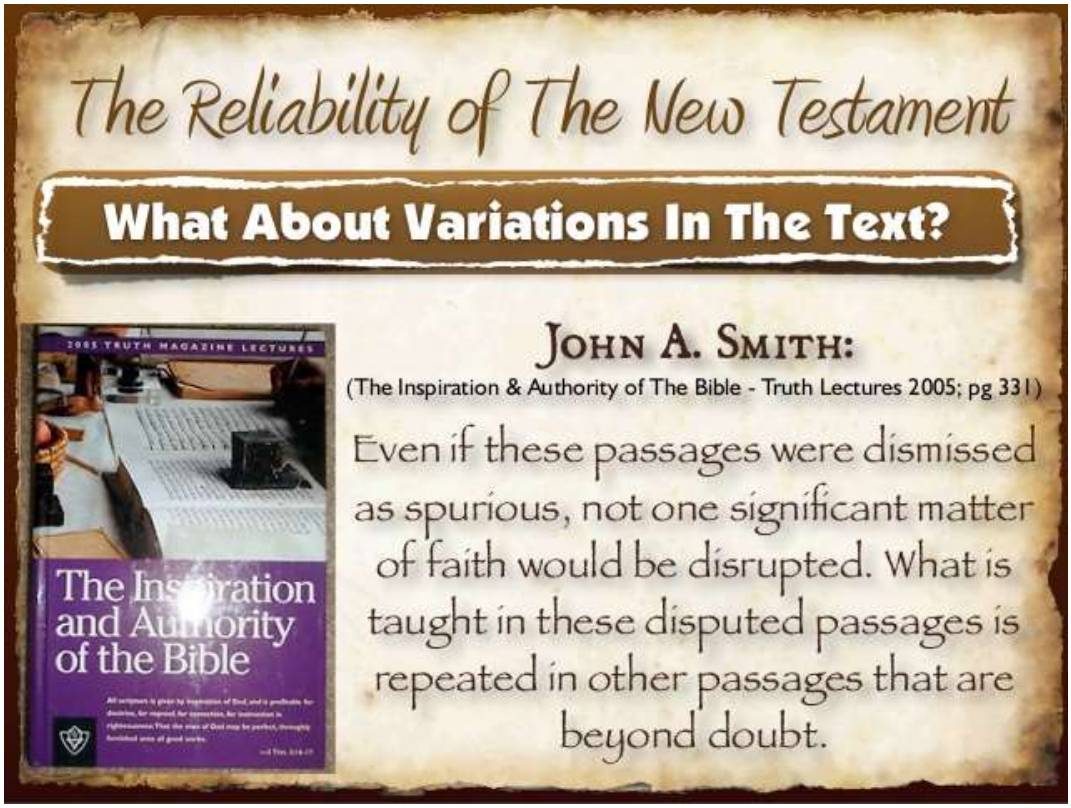


Source: https://www.slideshare.net/DonMcClain/the-reliability-of-the-new-testament-text





Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Source: https://www.slideshare.net/DonMcClain/the-reliability-of-the-new-testament-text

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Book of Genesis in 11 minutes and 18 seconds! (The Bible Project)
http://jmsmith.org/blog/bible-project-genesis/

https://thebibleproject.com/explore/genesis-1-11/

https://thebibleproject.com/explore/genesis-12-50/

also Revelation: https://thebibleproject.com/explore/revelation/

Was the Jesus story based on older pagan mythologies?
http://jmsmith.org/blog/pagan-jesus/

The Gospel Plain and Clear
http://jmsmith.org/downloads/The-Gospel-Plain-and-Clear.pdf

DigitalCommons@Liberty University
http://digitalcommons.liberty.edu/
Source for conservative Christian scholarly papers (pdfs) and links to articles on a wide range of theological topics. (Just enter your search parameters to discover related publications.)

Bible Bulletin Board –Sermons, articles by great theologians, S.S. lessons:
http://www.biblebb.com/

See also my other separate resources*:

Christian Scholarship: Biblical – Theological – Philosophical

For information on the writings of Paul and related resources, see:
Reference Notes on Paul and Romans (and Galatians plus Ephesians)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Series: Examining Jesus by the Historical Method

Does Jesus meet the scrutiny of the historical method?

This series of articles discusses how Jesus' historicity meets and exceeds the standards of the historical method as they also show that the NT record about Jesus is extremely trustworthy.

"Examining Jesus by the Historical Method (Part 1: Multiple Sources)." (Dec. 27, 15). https://bellatorchristi.com/2015/12/27/examining-jesus-by-the-historical-method-part-1-multiple-sources/

"Examining Jesus by the Historical Method (Part 2: Enemy Attestation)." (Jan. 4, 2016). https://bellatorchristi.com/2016/01/04/examining-jesus-by-the-historical-method-part-2-enemy-attestation/

"Examining Jesus by the Historical Method (Part 3: Embarrassing Admonitions)." (Jan. 11, 2016). https://bellatorchristi.com/2016/01/11/examining-jesus-by-the-historical-method-part-3-embarrassing-admonitions/

"Examining Jesus by the Historical Method (Part 4: Pre-NT Traditions)." (Jan. 18, 2016). https://bellatorchristi.com/2016/01/18/examining-jesus-by-the-historical-method-part-4-early-testimony-pre-nt-traditions/

"Examining Jesus by the Historical Method (Part 5: Early NT Texts)." (Jan. 25, 2016). https://bellatorchristi.com/2016/01/25/examining-jesus-by-the-historical-method-part-5-early-testimony-early-nt-texts/

"Examining Jesus by the Historical Method (Part 6: The Case for the Gospels)." (Feb. 1, 2016). https://bellatorchristi.com/2016/02/01/examining-jesus-by-the-historical-method-part-6-eyewitness-testimony-the-case-for-the-gospels/

"Examining Jesus by the Historical Method (Part 7: The Gospel Witnesses)." (Feb. 8, 2016). https://bellatorchristi.com/2016/02/08/examining-jesus-by-the-historical-method-part-7-eyewitness-testimony-the-gospel-witnesses/

"Examining Jesus by the Historical Method (Part 8: Two Final Methods and Conclusion)." (Feb. 15, 2016). https://bellatorchristi.com/2016/02/15/examining-jesus-by-the-historical-method-part-8-2-final-methods-and-conclusion/

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Church History

Apostolic Fathers
Church Fathers

Denominations

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

First Century Christian Synagogue Liturgy

It seems fairly obvious that Christians, as a sect within first-century Judaism, worshipped essentially as other first-century Jews did. And we are justified in expecting to find in historical Christian worship some vestiges of earlier Jewish liturgy.

But in looking for parallels, it would be a mistake to assume that modern Jewish liturgy is identical – or even very similar – to the way first-century Jews worshipped. A modern Jewish prayerbook is not much help in reconstructing the prayer and worship of first-century Judaism, or in comparing it with later developments in Christian liturgy.

Instead of any modern source, I've turned to the Mishnah, the compilation of accounts of Temple and synagogue practice in areas of of worship, sacrifice, purifications, observations of appointed times, and so on.

First-century Judaism was not a single, monolithic religious establishment; Josephus described three sects, the Sadducees, Pharisees, Essenes (Wars Book 2, Ch 8), while a talmudic reference records that when the Temple was destroyed there were twenty-four kinds of Judaism. (See y. Sanh. 29c.) In any case there was no central authority defining "true Judaism"; in fact there was not even an agreed canon beyond the Torah. So it is important not to single out any one Jewish tradition as normative and treat others as deviations. While Pharisaism may have been an important school of thought in first century Judea and highly influential on later rabbinic Judaism, it was not necessarily the chief influence on the early Christians.

First century Jewish prayer-patterns

The berakah, (plural berakot) derives its name from the Hebrew verb barak, 'to bless', and several variant types of liturgical formulae using its passive participle baruk (or in Greek, eulogetos) can be found in the Scriptures. As well as very short doxological formulae such as "Blessed is the Lord forever" (Psalm 89:52) there are longer acclamations containing further clauses to express the reason for the blessing, as in Exodus 18:10, "Blessed is the Lord, who has delivered you out of the hands of the Egyptians." Although in the Hebrew Bible these berakot are nearly all cast in the third person, there developed in the intertestamental period an increasing preference for the second person instead, as for example in 1 Maccabees 4:30ff, "Blessed art Thou, O Savior of Israel, who didst quell the violence of the mighty…"

On the other hand, the praise of God might be expressed in ways other than the berakah. An alternative construction, called the hodayah, used the Hebrew verb hodeh, in an active and not a passive form, addressing God in the second person. Although hodeh is usually translated into English as 'give thanks', its primary meaning is not the expression of gratitude but rather confession or acknowledgement that something is the case – the same word is used for the confession of sin. It was at first translated into Greek by the word homologeo, although later eucharisteo became established as an alternative. Like barak, it could be used in doxologies, as in Psalm 30:12 "O Lord my God, I will give thanks to Thee forever", or with an additional clause to express the reason for the praise, as in Isaiah 12:1 "I will give thanks to Thee O Lord my God, that though Thou wast angry with me, Thine anger turned away and Thou hast comforted me."

These two patterns may be combined; Daniel 2:20-23 begins with a berakah and ends with a hodayah; 1 Esdras 4:59-60 and 1 Maccabees 1:11-17 are similar examples.

The liturgy of the synagogue in the first century

The Mishnah lists five actions which it says cannot be performed communally without the presence of a quorum of ten adult males: The recitation of the Shema, the recitation of the Tefillah, the priestly blessing, the reading from the Torah, and the reading from the Prophets. (Megillah 4.3) Scholars believe that these constituted the main elements of the Sabbath synagogue service of the time.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Shema

In its fully-developed form, the Shema consists of three Pentateuchal passages (Deuteronomy 6:4-9; 11:13-21; Numbers 15:37-41) and takes its name from the opening Hebrew word of the first passage ('Hear'). The Mishnah presupposes that it is to be recited twice each day, in the morning and in the evening, accompanied by berakot – in the morning two before it and one after (Ber. 1.1-4). It also claims that the Shema had been recited by the priests in the Jerusalem tample, where it had been preceeded by the recitation of a single berakah and the Decalogue, and followed by three berakot (Tamid 5.1). It appears, then, that the general obligation to recite the Shema developed out of an earlier Temple ritual.

There are signs that the twice-daily recitation of the Shema was already widely practiced prior to the destruction of the Temple. There are apparent allusions to it in the Letter of Aristeas 158-60 (probably written in the mid-second century BC) in Philo (De Spec. Leg. 4.141), and in Josephus (Antiquities 4.8.13; 1 QS 10.10).

The Tefillah

The Tefillah, 'prayer' (later known as the Amidah, 'standing', indicating the posture to be adopted for it), was also called the Shemoneh Esreh, the 'Eighteen [berakot]', from the fact that its contents became fixed at eighteen (later nineteen) separate sections, each of which had a short berakah appended to its conclusion. By the end of the first century AD, the number and content of the berakot were established, and on Sabbaths and festivals a different order of only seven berakot was substituted. According the the Mishnah, the Tefillah was to be said three times each day – in the morning, the afternoon, and the evening (Berakot. 4.1) – and there are indications that the custom of threefold prayer was well established in earlier Judaism (Ezra 9:5ff; Daniel 9:20; Judith 9:1ff; Luke 1:10). It is mentioned in Psalm 55:17 and Daniel 6:10; and the afternoon time of prayer – the ninth hour – is referred to in the New Testament (Acts 3:1; 10:3,30). The late-first century Didache contains a corresponding instruction to pray the Lord's Prayer three times a day (Didache 8)

The thrice-daily prayer corresponds to the Temple sacrifice twice each day plus the observance of the closing of the Temple gates at evening. (Taanit 4.1) It has been suggested that the Shemoneh Esreh originated as the main liturgical practice of the deposed priestly aristocracy after the destruction of the Temple, and that the Shema and the Tefillah represent the prorotypical liturgies of competing social factions. Later, during the second century, a compromise was reached and the two together formed the core of rabbinic liturgy.

The priestly blessing

According to the Mishnah, the pronouncing of the Aaronic blessing (Numbers 6:24-26) over the people originated in the Temple ritual in connection with the daily sacrifices (Tamid 7.2) So it is possible that it was not transplanted to the synagogue until after 70 AD. Its position in the synagogue service – after the Shema and Tefillah but before the Scripture readings – is interesting, since one might have expected it to have been placed at the end of the whole liturgy. A possible explanation may be that the Tefillah and the blessing were viewed as a single liturgical unit, perhaps because the Tefillah came to be thought of as a substitute for the Temple sacrifices and hence the blessing followed it, as it had in the Temple ritual.

The readings from the Torah and the Prophets

The reading of a portion of the Torah on every Sabbath morning and festival was a regular feature of the synagogue from the outset, and may have constituted the fundamental reason for the emergence of that institution. Portions of the Torah also came to be read at the Sabbath afternoon service and on Monday and Thursday mornings. This observance continued after the destruction of the Temple, as may be seen obliquely in Didache 8:1 [late first century] which instructs Christians not to fast on Monday and Thursday as the 'hypocrites', but rather on Wednesday and Friday (this practice that continued into the early twentieth century in Western Christianity, and is still current in the East.) The reading included passages from the Prophets by the time of Christ (Luke 4:16; Acts 13:15) and a translation into the vernacular (cf. Nehemiah 8:1-8) and could be concluded with further explanation or teaching.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Babylonian Talmud prescribed that the entire Pentateuch should be read through in a year, on a consecutive basis interrupted only by special readings on festal days. But the Palestinian practice was less specific. The Mishnah prescribes twenty-one verses of the Torah as the minimum to be read each sabbath, but specifies no maximum, and consequently different synagogues could have reached different places in the Torah on any given occasion.

The Kaddish

At the end of the readings, the worshippers praised God who had just spoken to them, and in an essentially eschatological prayer, they asked Him to hasten His word's fulfillment:

> Magnified and sanctified be His great Name in the world which He hath created according to His will. May He establish His kingdom during your life and during your days, and during the life of all the house of Israel, even speedily and at a near time.

This prayer, the Kaddish, whose similarities to the Lord's Prayer are obvious, has for centuries concluded the synagogue's reading. A similar prayer would have done so at the time of Jesus.

The Temple and the Ekklesia

During the Exile, the synagogue had arisen as a substitute for the Temple. Synagogues did not fade away after the return as perhaps might have been expected; rather they multiplied as a complement to Temple sacrifice.

This introduced into Judaism a factor crucial to the later development of Christianity. A new notion: God is not only in the Temple; God is where the congregation is. As Rabbi Hananiah ben Taradyon (c.135AD) said, "If two sit together and the words between them are of Torah, then the Shekhinah is in their midst." While all Jews knew the Lord was uniquely present in the Holy of Holies, and made pilgrimage to Jerusalem for the feasts whenever possible, they also could gather weekly to honor God together with the qahal – the congregation – in Greek, the ekklesia.

As a result of the new concept that God is present wherever the ekklesia gathers, by the time of Christ, at least one group of reformers had come to a new conclusion: Believing the Temple priesthood to be corrupt, the Essenes disdained the sacrifical worship at the Temple and denied the validity of the priesthood, retreating to Qumran to pursue a "purified" Judaism until the judgment day which they expected soon. The parallel to the Protestant Reformation should not be minimized.

This concept also made it possible for the synagogue to replace the Temple after 70AD as the only remaining Jewish occasion of corporate worship – a shift the increasingly-Gentile Church had mostly made already.

The Christian synagogue

Josephus and Eusebius record that for the Christianity's first decades it remained a sect of Judaism.

Not surprisingly, the liturgy that spread with the Gospel into the Gentile world was a Jewish synagogue liturgy, augmented by the Christian Eucharist which was becoming separate from the Agape meal. The center of the Jewish synagogue service, as in the Christian synagogue's Liturgy of the Word, is the proclamation of the word of God. In the Jewish Synagogue salvation is hoped for; in the Christian synagogue it is received.

Justin Martyr, around 150AD, describes the outline of Christian worship with which he is familiar.

> And on the day called Sunday, all who live in cities or in the country gather together to one place, and the memoirs of the apostles or the writings of the prophets are read, as long as time permits; then, when the reader has ceased, the president verbally instructs, and exhorts to the imitation of these good things.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

> Then we all rise together and pray, and when our prayer is ended, bread and wine and water are brought, and the one presiding in like manner offers prayers and thanksgivings, according to his ability, and the people assent, saying Amen; and there is a distribution to each, and a participation of that over which thanks have been given, and to those who are absent a portion is sent by the deacons. And they who are well to do, and willing, give what each thinks fit; and what is collected is deposited with the president, who succors the orphans and widows and those who, through sickness or any other cause, are in want, and those who are in bonds and the strangers sojourning among us, and in a word takes care of all who are in need.
>
> But Sunday is the day on which we all hold our common assembly, because it is the first day on which God, having wrought a change in the darkness and matter, made the world; and Jesus Christ our Savior on the same day rose from the dead. For He was crucified on the day before that of Saturn (Saturday); and on the day after that of Saturn, which is the day of the Sun, having appeared to His apostles and disciples, He taught them these things, which we have submitted to you also for your consideration. –First Apology, ch. 67

Justin's description remains very similar to the Jewish liturgical prototype. The elements of both services can be lined up in parallel:

Synagogue Service	Liturgy of the Word
Profession of faith	…
Prayer of eighteen blessings	Prayers of intercession
Readings (Law, prophets)	Readings (Gospel, apostolic writings)
Sermon	Sermon
Priestly blessing	…

This resemblance is even more striking when the Creed, the Church's profession of faith, assumes its position in the Christian liturgy in later years.

The second part of Justin's description of Christian liturgy is the Eucharist.

> And when the one presiding has given thanks, and all the people have expressed their assent, those whom we call deacons give to each of those present to partake of the bread and wine mixed with water over which the thanksgiving was pronounced, and to those who are absent they carry away a portion. And this food is called among us the Eucharist, of which no one is allowed to partake but the man who believes that the things which we teach are true, and who has been washed with the washing that is for the remission of sins, and unto regeneration, and who is so living as Christ has enjoined.
>
> For not as common bread and common drink do we receive these; but in like manner as Jesus Christ our Savior, having been made flesh by the Word of God, had both flesh and blood for our salvation, so likewise have we been taught that the food which is blessed by the prayer of His word, and from which our blood and flesh by transmutation are nourished, is the flesh and blood of that Jesus who was made flesh. For the apostles, in the memoirs composed by them, which are called Gospels, have thus delivered unto us what was enjoined upon them; that Jesus took bread, and when He had given thanks, said, "Do this in remembrance of Me, this is My body;" and that, after the same manner, having taken the cup and given thanks, He said, "This is My blood;" and gave it to them alone. And we afterwards continually remind each other of these things. –First Apology, ch. 65

The Eucharistic service has no parallel in the synagogue, but is very similar in overall structure to the Passover Seder. It should be noted that while we are familiar with the modern Seder, we have very little information about the Passover meal as it was celebrated at the time of Christ; there are no extant texts of the Passover liturgy dating from that period. However the Mishnah and Tosefta provide some information; there we see again a close correspondence between the Jewish Paschal prayers and the Christian Eucharist:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Jewish Passover	Christian Eucharist
Praise to God for the creation of the people of Israel	Praise to God for the creation of the world
Praise to God for the redemption of Israel through Moses	Praise to God for the redemption of humanity through Christ
Zikkaron: Participating in the events of the historical salvation of Israel by the eating of the Paschal Lamb	Anamnesis: Participating in the historical salvation of humanity by the eating of the Body and Blood of Christ
Expectation of the coming of Christ	Expectation of the return of Christ
Psalms of praise	Final doxology

Sabbath and Sunday

The two services – on the Sabbath and on Sunday – were not mutually exclusive for early, Jewish Christians. At the end of the Sabbath comes an observance called Havdalah, in which candles are lit on Saturday evening. Liturgical Christianity still retains this traditional service of prayer at the kindling of the evening light, known in English as Vespers.

For liturgical Christians, the day still begins with Vespers, at sundown; so on Saturday evening the resurrection observance begins.

For early Jewish Christians, the weekly celebration of the resurrection of Christ on the first day of the week was the natural sequel and conclusion of the Havdalah on Saturday evening. One illustration of this is Paul's experience at Troas (Acts 20:6ff), when he preached late into the night and then "broke bread", leaving Troas at dawn.

In lLater decades, with the fall of the Jerusalem Temple and the growing estrangement of Christians and Jews, along with the influx of Gentile converts, the Sabbath observance largely faded out of Christian experience. After the events of Acts 15, only the minority of Jewish Christians celebrated both the Sabbath service and the Eucharist (See Eusebius Book 3 ch.27, and Ignatius' letter to the Magnesians 9:1-2) Later generations responded to Judaizers in the Church by forbidding Christians to observe the Sabbath at all, while the Jewish Rabbi Johanan in 250 AD went on record as forbidding Gentiles to observe Israel's Sabbath.

Nevertheless, the Sabbath is not forgotten. It remains a day to rest from spiritual struggle; in the canons of the eastern Church, fasting and kneeling are not permitted on Saturday or on Sunday.

The Sanctus and the Kedusha

The Sanctus can be found in every modern Christian liturgy, and appears to have been part of the very earliest Christian liturgical prayers. Its origin lies in Isaiah 6:3, "Holy, holy, holy Lord of Hosts; heaven and earth are full of Thy glory." This passage is not repeated or quoted anywhere in the Hebrew Bible after Isaiah's time. Yet there are abundant allusions and quotations in the deuterocanonical and pseudepigraphic literature between the Hebrew Bible and the New Testament. A few of them include the Apocalypse of Abraham 17:7; 1 Enoch 39:12 [Ethiopic version]; 2 Enoch 20 [Slavonic version]; Testament of Adam 1:4; Testament of Isaac 8:3. In the Dead Sea Scrolls the Sanctus occurs in the Hymns of Thanksgiving and the Angelic Liturgy.

Very early in Christian times, it appears in writings from Rome (1 Clement 34:6,7), Asia Minor (Revelation 4:8, Ignatius to the Ephesians 4:2), Alexandria (Clement of Alexandria, Stromata 7:7:12), and in the Martyrdom of St Perpetua. The Sanctus must have been part of the early Christian synagogue liturgy. Long before St John's quotation of Isaiah 6:3 in the Revelation, St Luke had paraphrased a Jewish liturgical version of this prayer – the Kedusha deSidra – it in his Gospel, as part of the angels' hymn (the Gloria).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Gloria	Kedusha deSidra
Glory to God in the highest; and on earth, peace, good will to men.	Holy is He in the highest heavens, the place of His divine abode; holy upon the earth, the work of His might. The whole earth is full of the radiance of His glory,

Clement of Alexandria says of this prayer:

For this reason also we raise the head and lift the hands toward heaven, and stand on tiptoe as we join in the closing outburst of prayer, following the eager flight of the spirit into the intelligible world. And while we thus endeavor to detach the body from the earth by lifting it upwards along with the uttered words, we spurn the fetters of the flesh and constrain the soul… to ascend into the holy place. –Stromata 7:7:40

This gesture – surging up on tiptoe with each repetition of "Holy!" – is still seen today in some Hasidic groups.

[Source: http://silouanthompson.net/2007/09/first-century-christian-synagogue-liturgy/]

From comments section of above article:

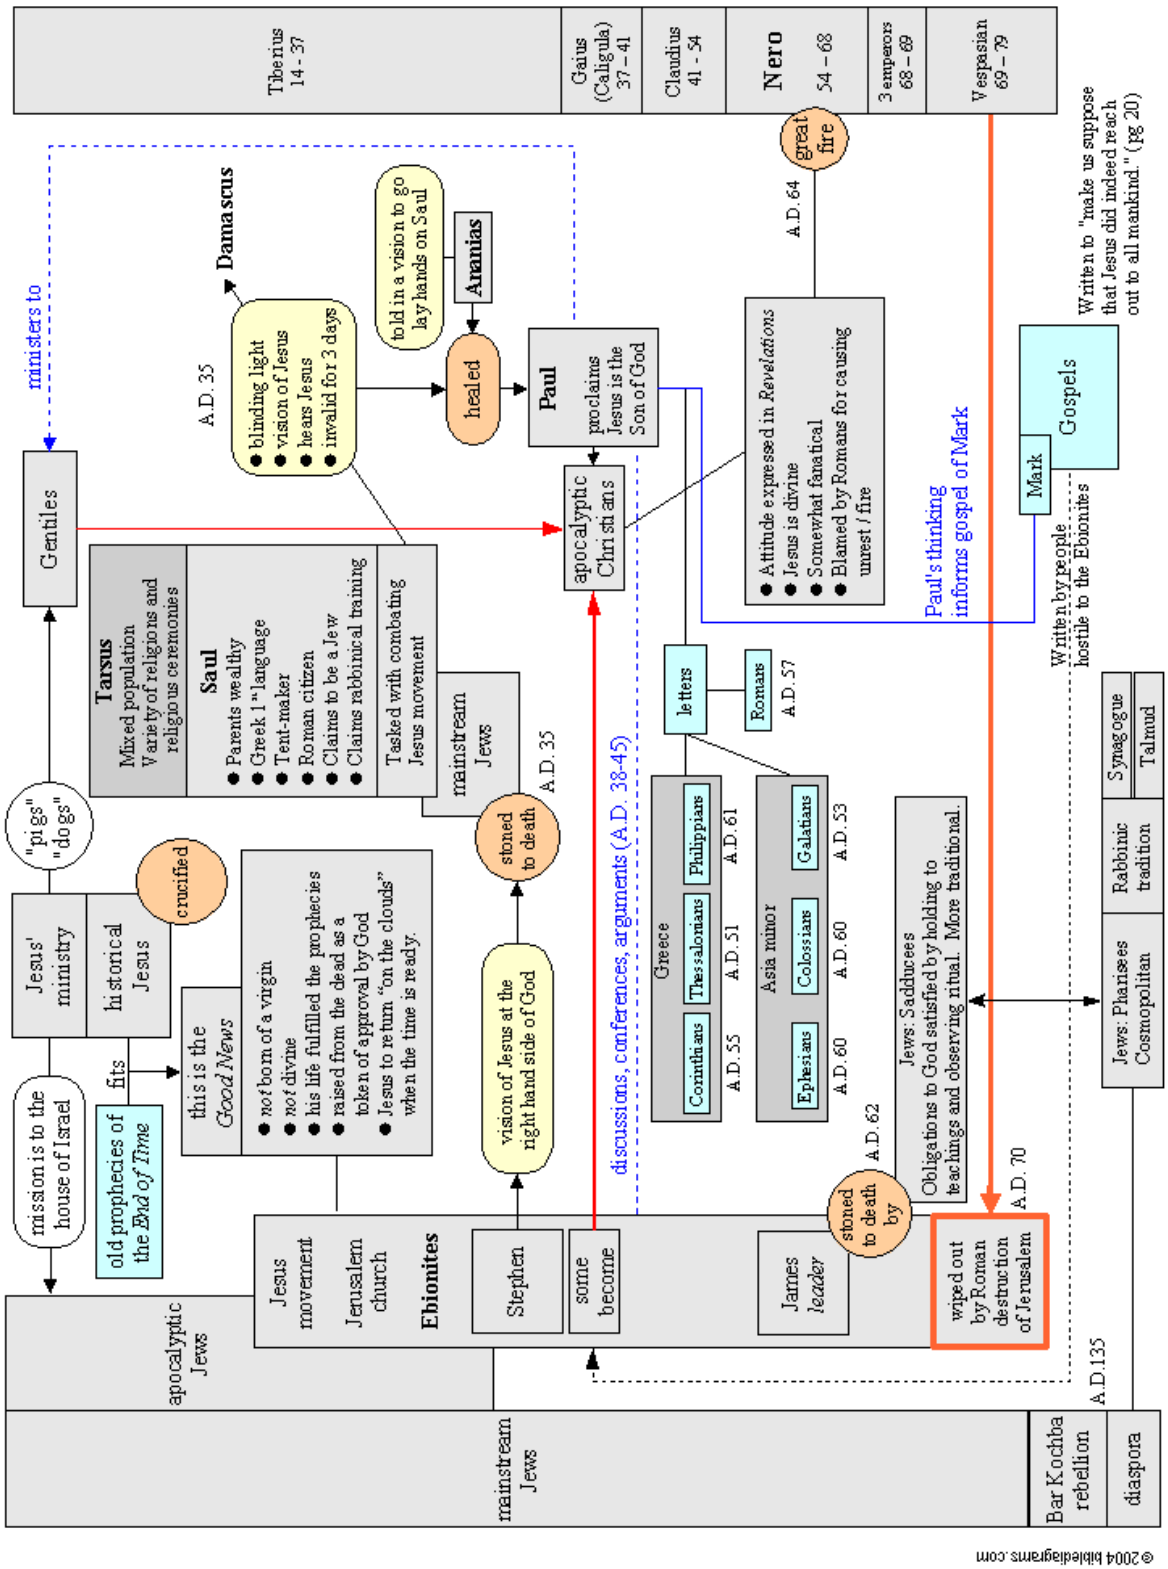
Could you provide me with the source for the following statement?

"This introduced into Judaism a factor crucial to the later development of Christianity. A new notion: God is not only in the Temple; God is where the congregation is. As Rabbi Hananiah ben Taradyon (c.135AD) said, "If two sit together and the words between them are of Torah, then the Shekhinah is in their midst." While all Jews knew the Lord was uniquely present in the Holy of Holies, and made pilgrimage to Jerusalem for the feasts whenever possible, they also could gather weekly to honor God together with the qahal – the congregation – in Greek, the ekklesia."

REPLY:
I've seen it around the Internet in various forms.
In Matthew's Emmanuel: Divine Presence and God's People in the First Gospel, David Kupp cites this quote from the Mishnah:

> R. Haninah b. Phradyon said: "Two that sit together and do not discuss any portion of the Law, their sitting is considered that of scorners, as it is written [Ps. i. 1]: 'And sitteth not in the seat of scorners'; but two that sit together and are discussing some words of the Law have the Shekhina among them, as it is written [Mal. iii. 16]: 'Then conversed they that feared the Lord one with the other; and the Lord listened and heard it,' etc."
>
> — M. Avot 3.2.

Following Disclaimer is placed at the beginning of the blog article (dated 9/15/2007):
This article isn't really ready for prime-time. It's a set of notes I collected for myself many years ago, as I was studying to satisfy my own curiosity. Some day I'll have to go back and cite sources for everything. But some of these notes don't seem to be online elsewhere, and I'd like to have them available, so I'm leaving this online as a placeholder. — Silouan



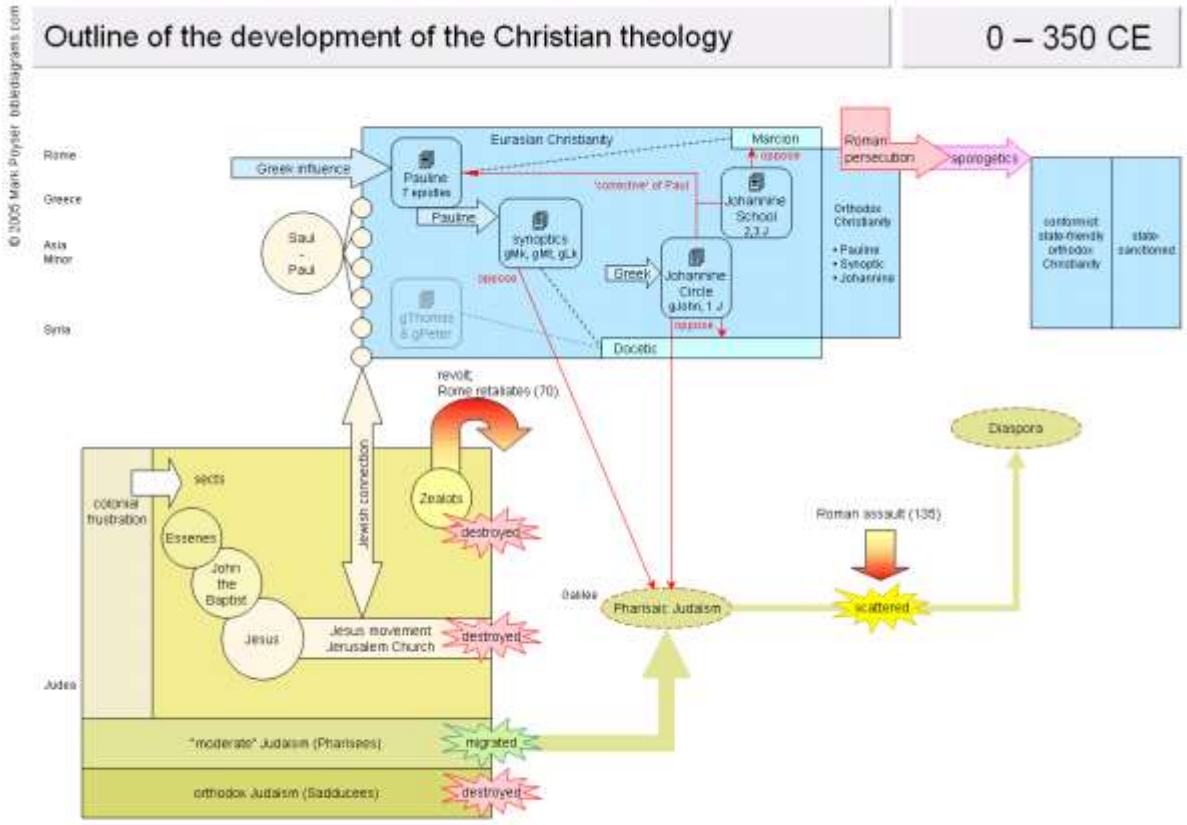
Author is a priest of the Orthodox Church (stationed in the Philipines)

NOTE: Because of author's Catholic upbringing; then eventually moving through Protestantism on to the Orthodox Church, church sacraments, services and ceremonies, such as the Eucharist are more formalized and liturgical.
See: http://www.goarch.org/ourfaith/ourfaith7061 for more about the Orthodox faith.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Paul and Early Christian development

(From the book by A. N. Wilson, Paul - The Mind of the Apostle)



[Source: http://www.bblediagrams.com] (Additional OT and NT charts and diagrams)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Development of theology derived in part, from L. Michael White's, From Jesus to Christianity

[Source: http://www.biblediagrams.com] (Additional OT and NT charts and diagrams)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Church History / Timelines

The Story of the Church
http://www.ritchies.net/churchhi.htm

Timeline of Church History (Highlights - Catholic Perspective)
http://christianityinview.com/timeline.html

Church History – Theopedia
http://www.theopedia.com/church-history

Church History (and Timeline)
http://www.christianity.com/church/church-history/

History of Christianity and the Church http://www.bible.ca/history/

Why is Understanding Church History Important?
https://carm.org/understanding-church-history

Church History, Timeline:
http://www.historytimeline.org/

Two Millennia of Church History
http://www.a-voice.org/library/millhist.htm

A Study of Denominations – Historical Overview http://www.astudyofdenominations.com/overview/

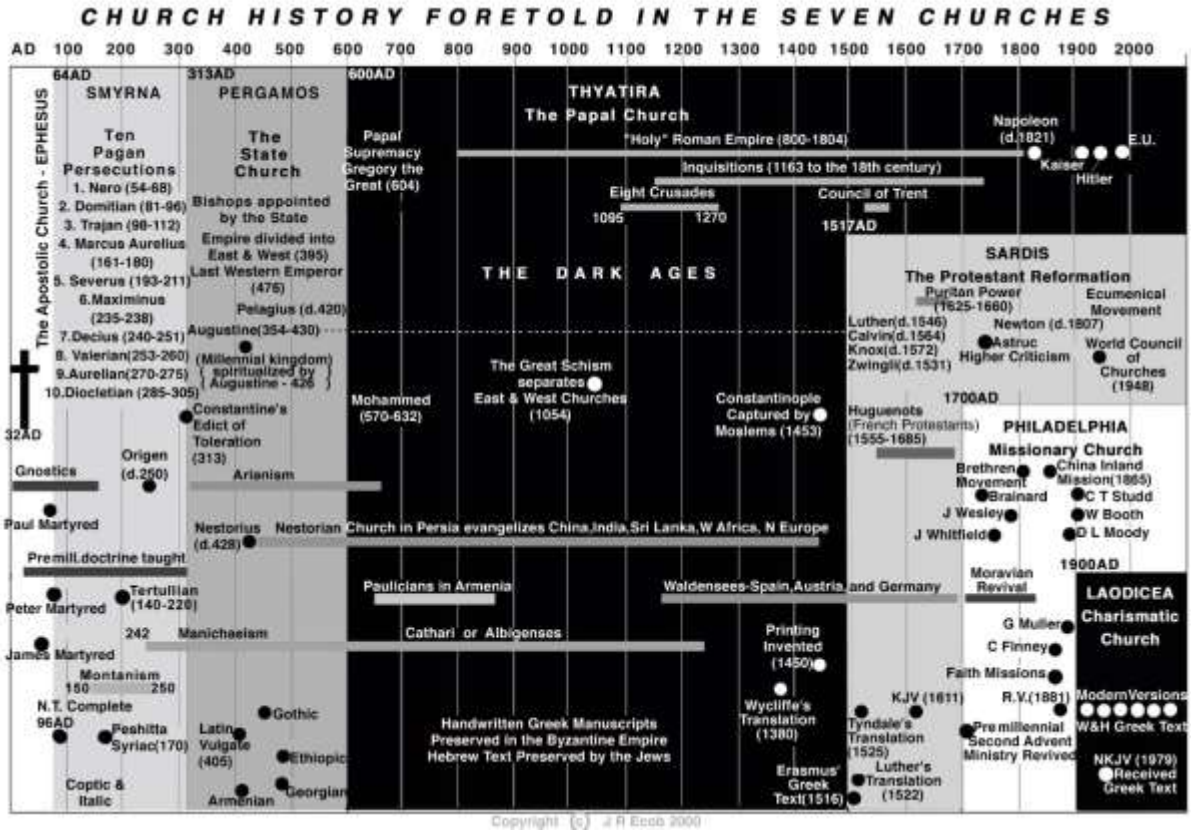
Who Are Christians?
http://catholic-resources.org/Courses/Christianity-Branches.htm

StudyChurchHistory.com
http://christiantimelines.com/timelines.htm

African-American Church History Timeline
http://christiantimelines.com/aa_church.htm

History of Religion in America
http://www.u-s-history.com/pages/h3787.html



Church History Timelines (list of links)
https://churchhistoryreview.org/church-history-timelines/

Early Church History Timeline [recommended]
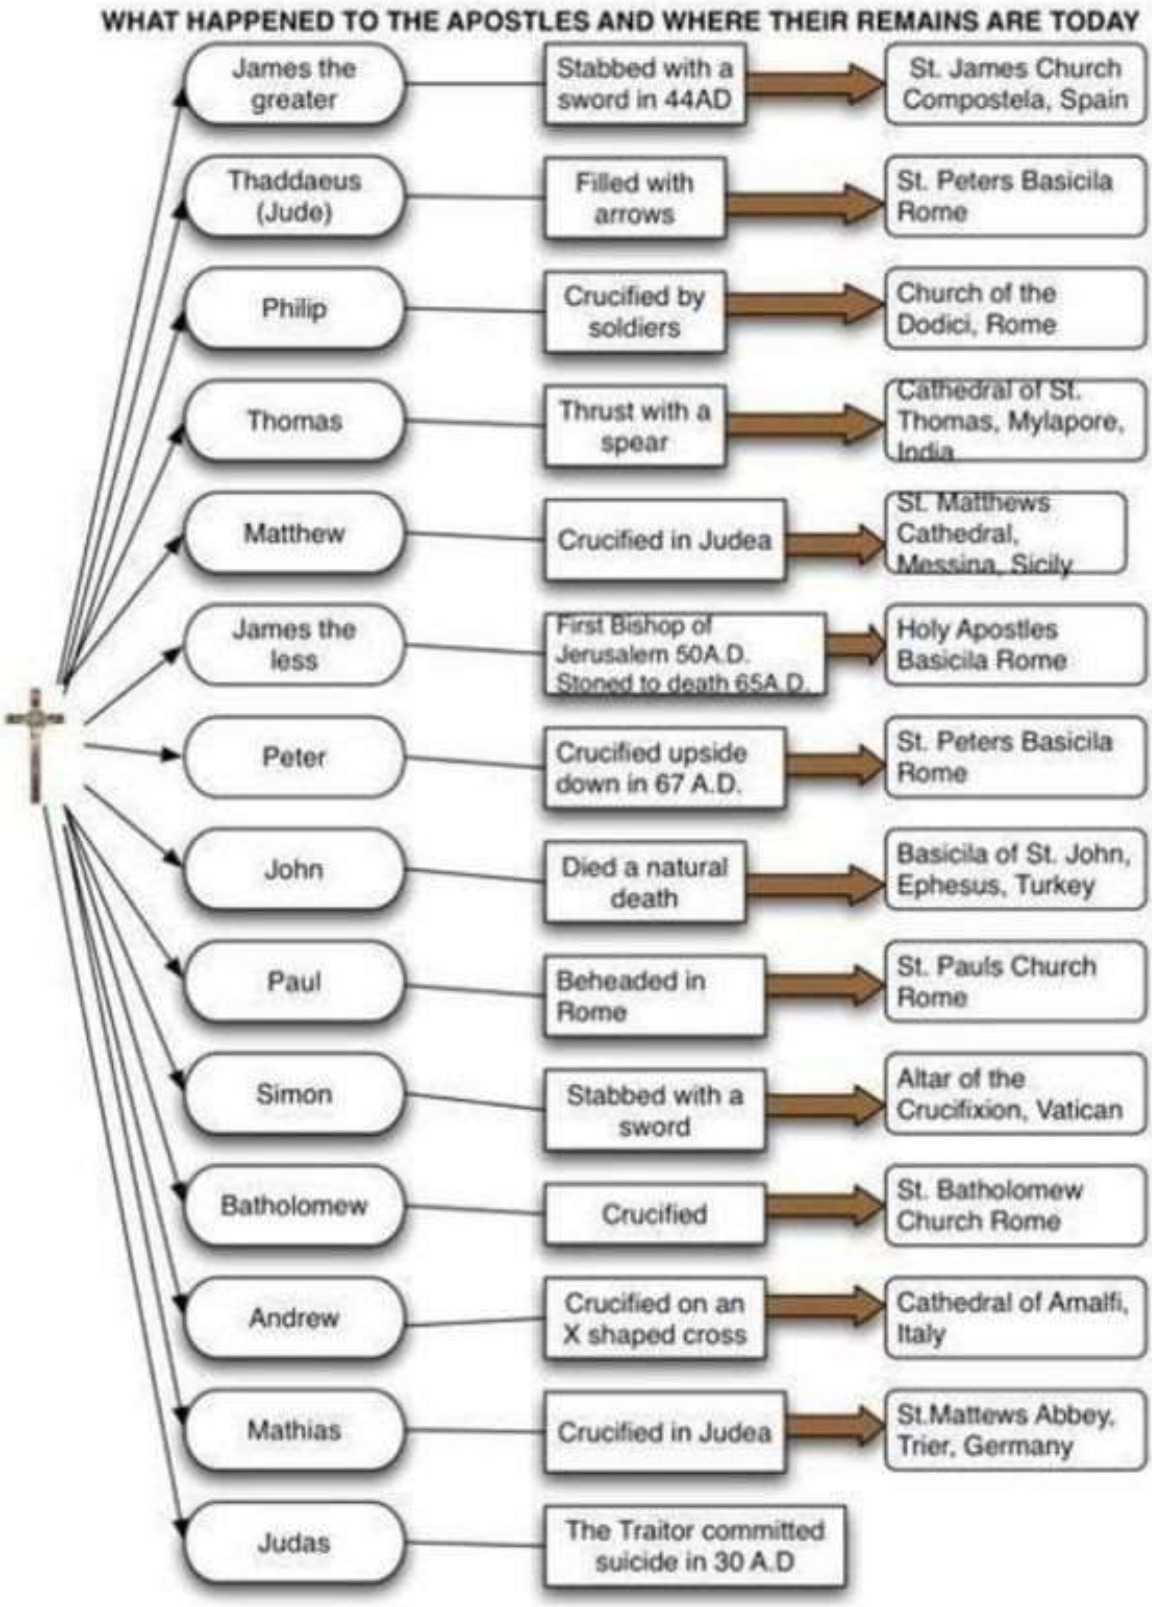
http://www.christian-history.org/early-church-history-timeline.html

History of Christianity
http://www.quazoo.com/q/History_of_Christianity

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Church History Foretold in the Seven Churches

[Source: http://www.biblerays.com/church-history-chart.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

What Happened to the Apostles and Where Their Remains are Today

Source: Patheos.com

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: https://churchpop.com/2016/01/24/how-each-apostle-died-where-you-can-find-their-bones-today-2/]

See also*: The 12 Disciples or Apostles

See more "What Happened to the Apostles" continued on next page….

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

What happened to 12 disciples of Jesus after his death and resurrection?

Twelve Disciples of Jesus Christ

Squad	Duties	Disciples	Order of Call	Call Reference	Apostle Symbol	Known As
First	Performed as counselors and prayer partners for Jesus Christ.	Peter	3	John 1:42	Hope	Leader 1st Squad; Primary spokesman; Apostle to the Jews; Brother to Andrew. Rock upon which church is founded.
		Andrew	1	John 1:35-41	Introduction	First called; Brought people to Jesus; Fisherman by trade with John. Brother of Peter.
		John	2	Mt 4:21	Love	Youngest (about seventeen) and beloved by Jesus Christ; Traditional author of fourth Gospel; Also wrote Revelation, and John 1, 2, an 3. Fisherman by trade with Andrew; Zebedee family wealthy. Brother of James.
		James	4	Mt 4:21	Witness	Silent Disciple (no record of ever speaking) and first martyr (beheaded by Herod). Zebedee family wealth shared with his brother John.
Second	Looked after people, affairs and crowds in Deacon fashion	Philip	5	John 1:43	Spiritual Growth	Leader 2nd Squad; Analytical Disciple, always fifth.
		Nathaniel (Barthalomew)	6	John 1:43-49	Spiritual Perception	Sincere and royal background.
		Matthew	7	Mt 9:9-13	Hospitality	Tax Collector; Publican; Oldest.Traditional author of first Gospel. Outrageous sinner; Superior business and political negotiations knowledge; Fluent in Greek.
		Thomas	8	Mt 10:2-4	Faith	Twin and doubter
Third	Managed worldly affairs and money	James the Lesser	9	Mt 10:2-4	Second Place	Leader of 3rd Squad; Smaller stature
		Simon the Zealot	10	Mt 10:2-4	God and Country	Revolutionary; wanted to overthrow Rome
		Judas (Thaddeus, Lebbaeus)	11	Mt 10:2-4	Intimate Christianity	Three Names; later changed name to Jude
		Judas Iscariot	12	Mt 10:2-4	Honor	Betrayer

Have you ever wondered what happened to the 12 Apostles after Jesus died on the cross? We all know that the Romans and the powerful Jewish leaders in Jerusalem were all looking for them for being guilty “by involvement” with Jesus.

They were not the kind of group you might have expected Jesus to discharge on his mission to reach the world. There was nothing special or spectacular about them. They were just simple working men. But Jesus formed them into the backbone of the church and gave them the most incredible task possible calling the entire world, including the mightiest empire ever known, to repentance and faith in the risen Christ. You can be sure that any skilled, first-century Roman citizen would have mocked at any prophecy that within three centuries Christianity will be the official faith of the empire. We came to know that the Apostles (except, of course, Judas Iscariot) “… locate a ship and sailed away” to another city, leaving Jerusalem for fear of being arrested. They only returned to Jerusalem– after all the anguish and controversy quieted down– during Pentecost (originally a Jewish festival celebrating grain harvest and commemorating Moses receiving the Ten Commandments). But, according to Acts 2:1:4, while the Apostles gathered for the feast:

> “…Suddenly there was a noise from heaven like the sound of a mighty wind. It filled the house where they were meeting. Then they saw what looked like fiery tongues moving in all directions, and a tongue came and settled on each person there. The Holy Spirit took control of everyone, and they began speaking whatever languages the Spirit let them speak.”

The martyrdom of some of the Apostles is more certain than others. Historians will have different degrees of certainty concerning the circumstances of their deaths. For instance, unbiased historians will not take issue with the historical credibility of the martyrdom of Peter, Paul, and James the Apostle. Many of the other accounts have decent historic validity as well. Some accounts, however, raise the eyebrow and cause us to remain agnostic.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

However, when boiled down to their least common denominator, it is very feasible to believe that all but one of the Apostles suffered and died a martyr's death, even if we can't be sure of the exact details.

Amidst some vagueness, one thing is clear—the reason given for their death was the same in all accounts. They were killed because they stated publicly to have seen Christ die and then to have seen Him alive. They all died because of an dogged, unremitting claim that Christ rose from the dead. That's how they received the Holy Spirit—and soon after, they daringly left their hiding place and started preaching and performing miracles, in the name of Jesus Christ, right in the streets of Jerusalem and in different languages!

Try to imagine the simplest, most quiet and easily panic-stricken man you know (most of the Apostles were fishermen, remember) suddenly speaking out like the smartest Nobel laureate you think highly of or a diplomatic statesman—and you'll get the idea on how miraculous this was.

The effective preaching the Apostle Peter attracted a huge crowd and he preached a sermon to the crowd with great competence that "On that day about three thousand believed his message and were baptised…" (Acts 2:41) establishing a solid and unstoppable Christian group in Jerusalem….

[Source: http://christianityscience.blogspot.com/2013/04/what-happened-to-12-disciples-of-jesus.html

See also*: The 12 Disciples or Apostles

See more "What Happened to the Apostles" continued on next page….

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

How the Apostles Died - Part 1

APOSTLE	WHERE DIED	WHEN DIED	MANNER OF DEATH
PETER	Rome Italy (Nero)	54-56 AD	Crucified head down at his own request
ANDREW	Edessa, Greece	? AD	Severly scourged & ties by ropes on an x-shaped cross where he hung 2 days before dying
JAMES	Jerusalem (Herod)	44 AD 1st apostle martyred	Beheaded with sword. Mark 10:39 & Acts 12:1-2
JOHN	Ephesus	98 AD	Thrown in boiling oil but unharmed. Died of natural causes in Ephesus
PHILIP	Hieropolis, Syria	?AD	Crucified
BARTHOLOMEW	India or Armenia	?AD	Beaten, flayed, and crucified head down
THOMAS	Edessa, Greece	?AD	Lanced by Idolatrous priests and burned up in an oven
MATTHEW	Nadabah, Ethiopia	About 60 AD	Axed to death with a halberd
JAMES	Jerusalem	66 AD	Thrown down from the Temple tower & not dead, so clubbed to death with a fullers clud at age 94

Barnes Bible Charts

How the Apostles Died - Part 2

APOSTLE	WHERE DIED	WHEN DIED	MANNER OF DEATH
THADDAEUS	Edessa, Greece	72 AD	Crucified
SIMON	Brittainnia, Europe	? AD	Crucified
JUDAS ISCARIOT	Jerusalem	30 AD	Suicide by hanging
MATTHIAS	Jerusalem	? AD	Stoned & beheaded
PAUL	Rome. Italy	66 AD	Beheaded

Rest well, our Brothers . . . Rest Well

Barnes Bible Charts

[Source: http://www.biblecharts.org/thenewtestament.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

How the 12 Disciples Died Validates Christianity

Most people know that Jesus had a group of disciples traveling with him during his ministry. However, most are unaware of how these followers eventually died. Perhaps we will discover that how the 12 disciples died validates Christianity.

The style and manner of the twelve apostles' deaths really helps us gain insight and perspective. These death accounts provide us a glimpse into the state of the times and the people under Rome. How the 12 disciples died also indicates the powerful and unwavering loyalty they had for Jesus Christ.

These death accounts are accumulated from a wide spectrum of sources. Reports of how the 12 disciples died come from sources like the New Testament, apocryphal texts, as well as various legends and stories. This eclectic range of references provides more credibility for the historical accuracy of these accounts. After all, the more sources you have from differing origins, the more persuasive the evidence is.

Don't believe Jesus Christ was a historical figure? Read about 9 extra-Biblical sources supporting Jesus Christ..

See also: Jesus: Son of Man, Son of God

How the 12 Disciples Died

1) How Apostle Simon Peter died: Crucified upside down

Originally called Peter but later renamed, Simon would be eventually appointed by Jesus Christ as the head disciple. Previously a fisherman in Bethsaida, he became a "fisher of men" after being the first apostle chosen by Jesus. Apostle Simon Peter was eventually sentenced to death by Rome under the emperor Nero.

Simon died between 33-34 years after the death of Jesus, around 66 AD. According to the records, Simon Peter died from upside down crucifixion. Simon Peter allegedly asked to be crucified upside down so that his death would not detract from Christ's ultimate sacrifice.

---

2) How Apostle James the Greater died: Beheaded

The Apostle James, also known as James the Greater, was the son Zebedee. He is one of three different James referenced in the New Testament. Additionally, James the Greater is commonly confused with James the brother of Jesus.

James was arrested under the newly appointed governor of Judea, Herod Agrippa. James was turned in by an anonymous accuser and taken to the place of execution.

According to Acts 12:1-19, James was "killed by the sword" in a beheading around 44 AD or 11 years after the death of Jesus. His unnamed accuser was beheaded with him as well, after a change of heart lead him to immediately convert to Christianity.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

3) How Apostle John died: Old age

John's death account is unique for the fact that he was the only original disciple who didn't die a violent death. Rather, in around 100 AD he passed away in Patmos from old age.

---

4) How Apostle Simon died: Crucifixion

Apostle Simon was also known as Simon the Canaanite or the Zealot. His ministry was mainly in Mauritania on the west coast of Africa. He later went to England where he was crucified in 74 AD.

---

5) How Apostle Judas Iscariot died: Suicide by hanging

Judas Iscariot is the infamous disciple who eventually would betray Jesus Christ. Iscariot would turn Jesus over to the high priests for a mere 30 pieces of silver.

According to Matthew 27:3-6, Judas felt immediate remorse after his act of betrayal. So much so that he went off alone and hung himself in Aceldama near Jerusalem.

---

6) How Apostle Jude / Judas died: Crucifixion

The Apostle Jude, or Thaddaeus, was also known as Judas and commonly referred to as Lebbaeus. Judas ministered in Armenia, Syria and Persia. According to several accounts and stories, he was crucified in Edessa in 72 AD.

---

7) How Apostle Matthew died: Stabbed

Formerly a tax collector, we know that the Apostle Matthew lived a long time after the death of Christ. Matthew was the author of the New Testament book Matthew, which was written at least 20 years after the death of Christ.

Matthew's ministry was primarily to the Persians, Parthians and the Medes. According to legend, Matthew died in Ethiopia after being stabbed in the back by a soldier of King Hertacus. Apparently the murder was due to criticisms Matthew had for the King's morals.

---

8) How Apostle Thomas died: Speared

The Apostle Thomas is often known as "doubting Thomas". His ministry mainly consisted of preaching to the people of Greece and India. Thomas would eventually die by lancing, or by being speared after angering local religious authorities.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

9) How Apostle Bartholomew died: Crucified or beheaded

The ministry of Bartholomew is said to have been mainly in India. There are actually a couple different death accounts for the Apostle Bartholomew. One account claims that Bartholomew was crucified, while another describes a brutal death involving him being skinned alive and then beheaded. Either way, the death of Bartholomew was most certainly violent.

---

10) How Apostle Phillip died: Crucified

The Apostle Phillip lead his ministry mainly throughout Asia. However later, Phillip made his way to Egypt and continued preaching to city of Phrygia. Phillip would eventually die in the Egyptian city of Heliopolis, where he was scourged and thrown in prison. He would later die by crucifixion in 54 AD.

---

11) How Apostle Andrew died: Crucified

The Apostle Andrew was the brother of Peter, who were both simultaneously recruited by Jesus in Bethsaida. Different traditions claimed that the Andrew preached in Scythia, Greece, Asia Minor and Thrace. According to Dorman Newman, a 15th Century religion historian, Andrew went to western Greece in 69 AD.

Andrew would later suffer a gruesome and heinous death at the hands of Roman proconsul Aegeates. He was initially scourged, and then later tied to a cross rather than nailed, so he would suffer longer before dying. Legend has it that Andrew lived for two days after, where he continued to preach the Gospel to an onlooker.

---

12) How Apostle James the Less died: Stoned and clubbed

The Apostle James was also known as James the Less, and was the son of Alphaeu. James the Less is known as one of the longest lived apostles behind John. When James was the age of 94, he was beaten and stoned to death by a group of prosecutors, later being dealt the finishing blow by a club to the head.

Conclusion: How the 12 Disciples Died Validates Christianity

How the 12 disciples died is truly a testament to the validity of Christianity. The manner in which these apostles were put to death, contains significant implications for both captor and captive.

On the side of the captor, they specifically chose gruesome and cruel punishments for these defectors. On one hand, these kings chose the most painful and inhumane methods of death, in order to send a clear and concise message that Christianity would not be tolerated. Additionally, these excruciatingly painful methods were also a means to persuade the disciples to detract from their faith and denounce Jesus Christ.

We also gain significant insight on the side of the disciples as well. If these death accounts are historically accurate, then we must assume theses twelve had fervor and zeal for Christ. So much so that they were put to death; inhumanely and violently. Fervor and zeal for something are typically not based off whimsical or capricious beliefs. These character traits implicate a deep and unwavering faith to the doctrine of Christianity.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Charles W. Colson, former chief adviser to President Nixon during 1969 and 1973, explains the powerful implications these death accounts had on the resurrection story of Jesus Christ when he stated:

> "I know the resurrection is a fact, and Watergate proved it to me. How? Because 12 men testified they had seen Jesus raised from the dead, then they proclaimed that truth for 40 years, never once denying it. Every one was beaten, tortured, stoned and put in prison. They would not have endured that if it weren't true. Watergate embroiled 12 of the most powerful men in the world-and they couldn't keep a lie for three weeks. You're telling me 12 apostles could keep a lie for 40 years? Absolutely impossible."

[Source: http://truthisfree.org/how-the-12-disciples-died-validates-christianity/]

How Did The 12 Apostles Die? A Bible Study

How did the Apostles die? What does history show and/or the Bible reveal how the 12 Apostles died?

How the Apostles Died

The Bible does not expressly give details about the ways in which the apostles died. We must rely on early church historians and secular historians as well but thankfully both seem to be in agreement and both are reliable. Because of this, we have no reason to disbelieve these accounts as the vast majority of them agree on the method of the apostles' deaths.[1] We must understand that they were first called disciples which are what every believer is called. Jesus later commissioned them and sent them out to proclaim the gospel. The word apostle means "one sent" and so we can see that disciples and apostles are not the same thing. Every apostle was a disciple but not every disciple is an apostle. Today, anyone who has trusted in Christ is a disciple but the days of apostleship is over and ended with the conclusion of the New Testament. The church, "having been built on the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Christ Jesus Himself being the corner stone" cannot have other apostles any more than it can have another cornerstone (Ephesians 2:20) because "no one can lay a foundation other than that which is laid, which is Jesus Christ" (1 Corintians 3:11). In order for there to be other apostles, we would have to tear down the building again and add to the foundation.

It is believed that most of the apostles died in the middle or late 1st century. We will now examine the historical evidence of how these men died. We begin with perhaps the most well-known of Jesus' apostles, and that would be Peter.

How the Apostle Peter Died

The knowledge of Peter's death is widespread among secular and church historians. He was crucified but he thought himself unworthy of the same type of death that Jesus suffered and so asked to be hung upside down which was done in Rome. Jesus saw this coming when He said, "Truly, truly, I say to you, when you were young, you used to dress yourself and walk wherever you wanted, but when you are old, you will stretch out your hands, and another will dress you and carry you where you do not want to go." (This he said to show by what kind of death he was to glorify God.) And after saying this he said to him, "Follow me." (John 21:18-19). Any time that Jesus said "truly, truly" or "verily, verily" He was putting great emphasis on a truth and Jesus must have known, with certainty, how Peter [1] would die and that they "will stretch out your hands" and "carry you where you do not want to go" clearly implied crucifixion.

How the Apostle Andrew Died

Once again, most historians agree that Andrew was also crucified but he was crucified on an x-shaped cross in Greece.[1] The fact that he was in Greece may mean that he was participating in the

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Great Commission and taking the gospel to the whole world…at least the known world. This must have meant that he was tilted to one side or the other and was not crucified vertically or horizontally. It is believed that while he hung on that cross and was dying, he called to the crowds and taught them about Jesus Christ and how they might be saved, thus he was sharing the gospel up until the very time of his death on the x-shaped cross…being loyal to the very end.

How the Apostle Matthew Died

Matthew, like most of the apostles late in their lives, became a missionary and was arrested in Ethiopia. It was there that he was staked or impaled to the earth by spears and then beheaded. Not much beyond this is known since Matthew was in such a remote place in Africa and went where few historian or Christians ventured to go.

How the Apostle Bartholomew or Nathaniel Died

Bartholomew is also known as Nathaniel and there is scarce little known about how he died but it appears that since he was martyred in Armenia, he too must have been involved in the Great Commission and taking the good news into that part of the world. Apparently, he became a missionary to Asia Minor. Sadly, most agree that he was basically flayed to death by whip, where he was literally torn to shreds. How agonizing that must have been.

How the Apostle Thomas Died

Again, not very much is known about the method of Thomas' execution but that maybe due to the fact that he was a missionary in India and was establishing a church there when he was stabbed with a spear and died from the wound. There are so few historical facts that are available beyond this account that we cannot add much to this and do so with absolute certainty.

How the Apostle Philip Died

According to most historians, Philip's death was exceedingly cruel.[1] He was impaled by iron hooks in his ankles and hung upside down to die. Precious little else is known about the process but it is enough to know how he died.

How the Apostle James (son of Zebedee) Died

The apostle James is not the same James as Jesus brother so we need to establish that fact. James was far from any reliable historical writers or church historians but it is thought that he was beheaded by King Herod near Palestine and not far from where he was a local missionary to the Jews in Judea.

 [2]

The Apostle Jude was crucified in Persia

How the Apostle Jude Died

The apostle Jude, who wrote the next to the last book in the New Testament by the same name, went all the way to Persia and it was there that he was crucified by the Magi. It is unlikely that the Magi mentioned in the New Testament who were searching for the child King, Jesus, and the ones who crucified Jude were one and the same. There were many Magi in Persia and so the chances that it would be the same ones who sought Jesus were the same ones who crucified Jude is highly unlikely. Apparently Jude was in Persia on a missionary trip.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

How the Apostle Matthias Died

Matthias was the apostle that was selected to replace Judas who hung himself. Acts 1:20-26 reveals how this was done, and some scholars say it may have fulfilled a prophecy in Psalm 69:25 and Psalm 109:8. Regardless of whether the prophecy was about Matthias, he was apparently stoned and then beheaded late in the 1st century.

How the Apostle John Died

This is the disciple whom Jesus loved and was the only one that died a natural death…that is by old age and not martyred. However he was imprisoned on the island of Patmos where he wrote the Book of Revelation. He was later freed and went to Turkey, perhaps on a mission to establish churches there. This is the apostle that is mentioned in John 21:20-23, "Then Peter, turning around, saw the disciple whom Jesus loved following, who also had leaned on His breast at the supper, and said, 'Lord, who is the one who betrays You?' Peter, seeing him, said to Jesus, 'But Lord, what about this man?' Jesus said to him, 'If I will that he remain till I come, what is that to you? You follow Me.' Then this saying went out among the brethren that this disciple would not die. Yet Jesus did not say to him that he would not die, but, "If I will that he remain till I come, what is that to you?"

How the Apostle James the Less Died

This is the most inconspicuous of all the apostles and he is called James the Less to distinguish him from the other apostle named James and the James who was Jesus half-brother. James the Less was martyred in a fashion similar to James, the half-brother of Jesus, who was thrown from the pinnacle of the temple and then beaten to death.

How the Apostle Simon Died

The apostle Simon is not Simon Peter (Andrew's brother) but Simon the Zealot. Once again, very little is known about him inside or outside of the Bible. All that is known about his death is that he was also was crucified.

Judas the Betrayer

It is not fair to call Judas Iscariot [3] an apostle since he was never truly converted or commissioned by Jesus. It may not even be accurate to call him a disciple because he truly did not follow Christ Who said that "whoever would be my disciple must follow after me" (Matthew 16:24). Even so, I thought he should be mentioned. The Bible says that he betrayed Jesus and then being consumed with worldly guilt went out to hang himself (Matthew 27:3-8).

How James, the Brother of Jesus Died

I realize that the brother of Jesus, James, was not an apostle but he was one of the early church leaders and the account of his death is horrific. He died early in the church history while the New Testament was still being compiled. He was believed to have been thrown some 100 feet off a wall. This was done to him after he repeatedly refused to deny his faith in Jesus. After the fall, he was somehow still alive and when they discovered this, his enemies circled him and beat him to death with clubs.

The Apostle Paul

I included Paul among the apostles since he was perhaps the greatest apostle and evangelist the world has ever known and most certainly deserves to be included among the apostles. Second Timothy was the last letter ever written by Paul and in it he knew that the time of his death drew near as he wrote to Timothy "For I am already being poured out like a drink offering, and the time for my departure is near. I have fought the good fight, I have finished the race, I have kept the faith. Now there is in store for me the crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, will award to me on that day—and not only to me, but also to all who have longed for his appearing." You can hear the passion and love of Paul in his last words to Timothy.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

He wrote from prison, knowing that his execution was near. Probably Christ Himself must have told him and he was preparing Timothy to take over for him. Listen to the heartbreaking last words of Paul as he awaited his execution in 2 Timothy 4:16-18: "At my first defense, no one came to my support, but everyone deserted me. May it not be held against them. But the Lord stood at my side and gave me strength, so that through me the message might be fully proclaimed and all the Gentiles might hear it. And I was delivered from the lion's mouth. The Lord will rescue me from every evil attack and will bring me safely to his heavenly kingdom. To him be glory for ever and ever. Amen." How heartbreaking. Paul was abandoned by everyone as his execution neared…all that is except His cherished Lord. Paul was not ashamed how he lived his life as his death neared. Most historians, both secular and church, say that he was beheaded. His last thoughts must have been of His beloved Lord knowing that since He rescued him from eternal death by saving him, He would rescue him after his physical death and would be with the Lord forever.

Conclusion

How will you die…in your sins? I pray not. If you step out of this life without Christ, then you have sealed your own fate and eternally separated yourself from God. Repent today, confess your sins, see your need for a Savior [4] and put your trust in Jesus Christ and you too will be part of that which is being built today by God and which has as its foundation, the saints of God, the apostles and the Chief Cornerstone, Jesus Christ. There is coming a day when no man or woman can be joined together with Christ so why not decide this very hour for when He comes it will be too late.

Take a look at this related article about the Apostles:

Who were the 12 Disciples or Apostles of Jesus Christ? [5]

Resources: New International Version Bible THE HOLY BIBLE, NEW INTERNATIONAL VERSION®, NIV® Copyright © 1973, 1978, 1984, 2011 by Biblica, Inc.™ Used by permission. All rights reserved worldwide. [1] J.H. MacMahon. From Ante-Nicene Fathers, Vol. 5. Edited by Alexander Roberts, James Donaldson, and A. Cleveland Coxe. (Buffalo, NY: Christian Literature Publishing Co., 1886.) Revised and edited for New Advent by Kevin Knight. <http://www.newadvent. org/fathers/0524.htm>. Accessed 8/08/2013.

Would you like to get the daily question in your FB messenger? Just click the button below to get started.

Article printed from What Christians Want To Know: https://www.whatchristianswanttoknow.com

URL to article: https://www.whatchristianswanttoknow.com/how-did-the-12-apostles-die-a-bible-study/

URLs in this post:

[1] Peter: https://www.whatchristianswanttoknow.com/apostle-peter-biography-timeline-life-and-death/

[2] Image: https://www.whatchristianswanttoknow.com/wp-content/uploads/2013/08/How-Did-The-12-Apostles-Die.jpg

[3] Judas Iscariot: https://www.whatchristianswanttoknow.com/judas-iscariot-bible-story-and-profile/

[4] need for a Savior: https://www.whatchristianswanttoknow.com/come-to-jesus/

[5] Who were the 12 Disciples or Apostles of Jesus Christ?: https://www.whatchristianswanttoknow.com/who-were-the-12-disciples-or-apostles-of-jesus-christ/

[Source: https://www.whatchristianswanttoknow.com/how-did-the-12-apostles-die-a-bible-study/print/]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

What happened to 12 disciples of Jesus after his death and resurrection?

Twelve Disciples of Jesus Christ

Squad	Duties	Disciples	Order of Call	Call Reference	Apostle Symbol	Known As
First	Performed as counselors and prayer partners for Jesus Christ.	Peter	3	John 1:42	Hope	Leader 1st Squad; Primary spokesman; Apostle to the Jews; Brother to Andrew. Rock upon which church is founded.
		Andrew	1	John 1:35-41	Introduction	First called; Brought people to Jesus; Fisherman by trade with John. Brother of Peter.
		John	2	Mt 4:21	Love	Youngest (about seventeen) and beloved by Jesus Christ; Traditional author of fourth Gospel; Also wrote Revelation, and John 1, 2, an 3. Fisherman by trade with Andrew; Zebedee family wealthy. Brother of James.
		James	4	Mt 4:21	Witness	Silent Disciple (no record of ever speaking) and first martyr (beheaded by Herod). Zebedee family wealth shared with his brother John.
Second	Looked after people, affairs and crowds in Deacon fashion	Philip	5	John 1:43	Spiritual Growth	Leader 2nd Squad; Analytical Disciple, always fifth.
		Nathaniel (Barthalomew)	6	John 1:43-49	Spiritual Perception	Sincere and royal background.
		Matthew	7	Mt 9:9-13	Hospitality	Tax Collector; Publican; Oldest.Traditional author of first Gospel. Outrageous sinner; Superior business and political negotiations knowledge; Fluent in Greek.
		Thomas	8	Mt 10:2-4	Faith	Twin and doubter
Third	Managed worldly affairs and money	James the Lesser	9	Mt 10:2-4	Second Place	Leader of 3rd Squad; Smaller stature
		Simon the Zealot	10	Mt 10:2-4	God and Country	Revolutionary; wanted to overthrow Rome
		Judas (Thaddeus, Lebbaeus)	11	Mt 10:2-4	Intimate Christianity	Three Names; later changed name to Jude
		Judas Iscariot	12	Mt 10:2-4	Honor	Betrayer

…

And as Jesus asked of them in Mark 16:14:

> "Go yea into all the world and preach the good news to every creature."

SO THEY OBEYED.

But where did they go?

What did they do?

And what happened to them?

Personally, what I think is, the dreadful death of the Apostles as recorded below was one of the greatest gifts that God ever gave to the Church. It contributes much to Christian apologetics by answering the "how do you know?" question concerning the resurrection of Christ.

The following is my effort to take the best of all the sources and share the most likely scenario for each Apostle's death. Read through the accounts of their martyrdom. Tell your children and friends. This may sound weird, but in a very real sense, I thank God for bringing about the Apostles' deaths, for in their deaths they sealed their testimony in blood making our faith in the risen Christ built upon a solid foundation.

(1) The Apostle James
James, the Apostle of the Lord, was the second recorded martyr after Christ's death (Stephen was the first). His death is recorded in Acts12:2 where it is told that Herod Agrippa killed him with a sword. Clemens Alexandrinus and Eusebius (Ecclesiastical History II.2) both tell how the executioner witnessed the courage and un-recanting spirit of James and was then convinced of Christ resurrection and was executed along with James.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Date of Martyrdom: 44-45 A.D.

(2) The Apostle Peter
Recognized as the head of the original Christian community in Jerusalem (Israel), he left the city when King Herod Agrippa started to persecute all Christians in Jerusalem and ordered the beheading of the Apostle James (the Great) . After escaping from Jerusalem, Peter preached in Judea (originally Palestine) and in Antioch (Syria) where he is historically considered as the first patriarch (bishop) of the Orthodox Church. After staying in Antioch for some time, Peter went to Rome and converted thousands into Christianity. The emperor at the time, Nero, did not like the idea of Romans becoming Christians and used the new members of the group for his amusement (e.g. feeding them to lions or wild dogs, and then burning them at stake in Rome's coliseum—yes, the tourist spot– if they do not renounce their faith). Peter was one of the most prominent victims of this persecution. He was captured and crucified upside-down at his own request, because he said he was not worthy to be crucified the same way as our Lord. St. Peter's body lies below the altar of St. Peter's Basilica at the Vatican City, in Rome.

Date of Martyrdom: ca. 64 A.D.

(3) The Apostle Andrew
Preached in Georgia (Russia), Istanbul (Turkey), Macedonia and finally Greece. There in Patros, Greece, the Governor Aegiatis was angered by the apostle's preaching and the conversion of his own family to Christianity. He ordered Andrew to renounce his faith in front of a tribunal. When Andrew resisted, the governor ordered that Andrew be crucified. He was tied upside down to an X-shaped cross with thick, tight ropes but Andrew kept preaching to spectators. He was able to convince many to accept Christianity just before he died after suffering for three days. Parts of his remains are in Constantinople (Turkey), Scotland (England), but his skull is kept in Patras to this day.

Date of Martyrdom: 70 A.D.

(4) The Apostle Thomas
Called by most Christians as the "Doubting Thomas" for disbelieving the Lord's Resurrection. But after his doubts were erased by touching Jesus' wounds, he became a fearless preacher of the Gospel and builder of churches. He was the only Apostle who witnessed the Assumpton of Mary and the one of the first Apostles who preached outside the boundaries of the vast Roman Empire (out of Europe). He preached in Babylon (present day Iraq) and established its first Christian church. Then he went to Persia (Iran) and travelled as far as China and India. He was martyred in Mylapore, India when a local king named Masdai condemned Thomas to death. The Apostle angered the Brahmins (high ranked priests/scholars who served as the king's advisers) . He is believed to be buried around the suburb of Madras, in India.

Date of Martyrdom: 70 A.D.

(5) The Apostle Philip
Preached in Greece, Syria and in Turkey (in the cities of Galatia, Phrygia and Hierapolis). Philip partnered with Bartholomew in his missions. Like all Apostles, Philip became an exceptional speaker. According to sources "Through his miraculous healing and preaching, Philip converted the wife of the Preconsul of the city" of Hierapolis. Of course, this event angered the Preconsul and ordered that both Philip and Bartholomew be tortured and crucified upside down. While on the cross, Philip continued to preach and he was able to convince the crowd and the Preconsul to release Bartholomew, while insisting that he (Philip) remained crucified. Bartholomew was released but Philip died on the cross and was later buried somewhere within the city.

Date of Martyrdom: 54 A.D.

(6) The Apostle Matthew
Matthew, the tax collector, so desperately wanted the Jews to accept Christ. Was the most educated among the Apostles, Christian tradition says he preached in Ethiopia (in Africa), Judea (Israel today), Macedonia, Syria and Parthia (northeast Iran). Bible scholars have different versions on how he died.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Some say he was either killed with a sword in Parthia or he died a natural death in Ethiopia. Another vewrsion stted that Matthew came to a city (unnamed) and g who asked for forgiveness and became a staunch Christian believer.

Date of Martyrdom: 60-70 A.D.

(7) The Apostle Bartholomew (Nathanael)
Preached the Gospel in Mesopotamia (Iraq), India, Persia (Iran), Turkey and Armenia. He was skinned alive and beheaded at Derbent (Azerbaijan, near Russia) on the Caspian Sea by order of a local king after a majority of the people of Derbent converted to Christianity. Some of Bartholomew's skin and bones are still kept in The Basilica of St. Bartholomew in Rome, a part of his skull is in Frankfurt, Germany and an arm is venerated at the Canterbury Cathedral in England.

Date of Martyrdom: 70 A.D.

(8) The Apostle James the Lesser
Believed to have preached in Damascus (Syria) and acknowledged as the first bishop of the Christians in Jerusalem (Israel). Historians say he was sentenced to be stoned-to-death by the Jews for challenging Jewish Laws and for convincing some of members of the Jewish community to convert to Christianity. James died when during the stoning, one person from the crowd approached him and bashed his head with a fullers club (a piece of wood used for bashing-washing clothes). He was buried on the spot where he died, somewhere in Jerusalem.

Date of Martyrdom: 63 A.D.

(9) The Apostle Simon the Zealot
Before becoming an apostle, Simon was a member of the "Zealots", a political movement rebelling against the Roman occupation of Jerusalem. Identified by some as the second Bishop of Jerusalem after James the Lesser (who was beheaded). He's also believed to have preached in the Middle East, North Africa, Egypt, Mauritania and even Britain. His martyrdom is being debated by scholars and historians who claim Simon might have been crucified by the Romans in Lincolnshire, Britain, crucified in Samaria (Israel) after a failed revolt or sawed-to-death in Suanir, Persia with Jude Thaddeus.

Date of Martyrdom: 74 A.D.

(10) The Apostle Judas Thaddeus
The Patron Saint of Desperate Cases and Lost Causes was a farmer before becoming an Apostle. He was a partner of Simon the Zealot and together they preached and converted non-believers in Judea (Israel), Persia (Iran), Samaria (Israel), Idumaea (near Jordan), Syria, Mesopotamia (Iran) and Libya. It is also widely believed that Jude travelled and preached in Beirut, Lebanon. He also helped Bartholomew in bringing Christianity to Armenia. The cause of his death in unclear because of the existence of two versions: (1) He was crucified in Edessa, Turkey; (2) He was clubbed-to-death and his body was either sawed or axed in pieces after (together with Simon the Zealot). Some sources say he was buried either in Northern Persia or the most accepted version that his remains are buried in a crypt at St. Peter's Basilica in Rome.

Date of Martyrdom: 72 A.D.

(11) The Apostle John
John is the only one of the twelve Apostles to have died a natural death. For most of his labours, John was with Peter in Jerusalem up until the persecution of Herod Agrippa I. During this period, scholars agree that Johh escaped and preached for sometime in Asia Minor (an area around Turkey). Years later, scholars have traced that he went to Rome where it was believed he was persecuted with other Christians and was thrown into a cauldron of boiling oil—he miraculously survived. The Roman emperor at the time, Dominitian, decided after the incident to banish John to the island of Patmos (in Greece). When Dominitian died, John went back to Ephesus (in Turkey) where he spent the rest of his days. He died a very old man, the only Apostle to do so.

Date of Martyrdom: 95 A.D.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

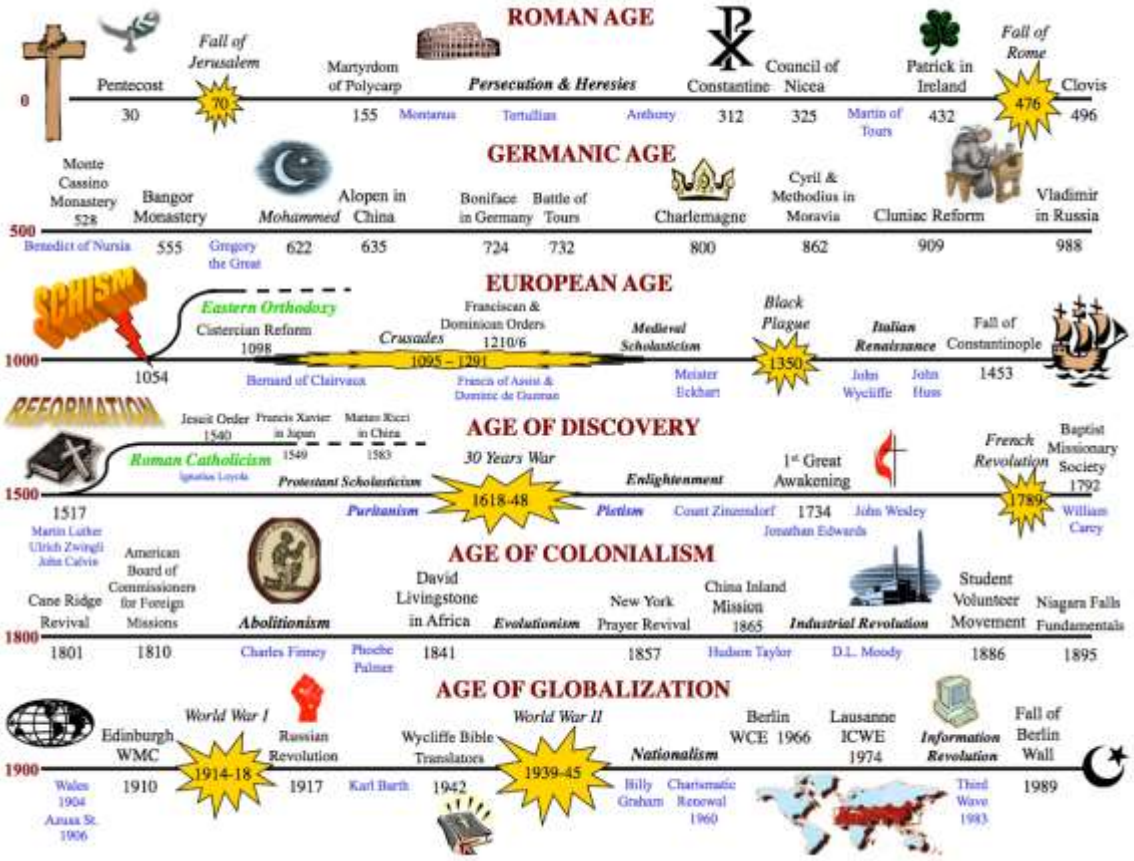
(12) Judas Iscariot - Best known as the apostle who betrayed the Lord by divulging His location, leading to His arrest and persecution. He received 30 pieces of silver from Jewish priests for the information he gave. Prior to this, Judas served as the treasurer of the 12 Apostles; in charge of keeping the group's budget/money. Sources could not agree on how he died. There are three accepted versions:

(1) he committed suicide by hanging himself to a tree
(2) he accidentally fell on a field– head first
(3) he was crushed by a passing chariot
(4) he was stoned-to-death by the other 11 Apostles.

But all four agree that "his bowels gushed out" on all four accounts. Authors and scholars also agree that his guilt was a major part of the cause of his death.

See also*: "Judas Iscariot" for more details about his life and death

(13) The Apostle Matthias
Matthias replaced Judas Iscariot as the twelfth Apostle of Christ (Acts1:26) It is believed by most that Matthias was one of the seventy that Christ sent out during his earthly ministry (luke10.1) This qualifies him to be an apostle. Matthias, of which the least is known, is said by Eusebius to have preached in Ethiopia. He was later stoned while hanging upon a cross.



Date of Martyrdom: 70 A.D.

[Source: http://christianityscience.blogspot.com/2013/04/what-happened-to-12-disciples-of-jesus.html]

See also*: The 12 Disciples (or Apostles) of Jesus Christ

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Church History Timeline

[Source: http://www.sirbradley.com/freebies]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: http://www.agapebiblestudy.com/charts/First%20Century%20of%20the%20Church%20Timeline.htm]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Apostolic and Church Fathers – Writings / History

The Apostolic Fathers
http://readthefathers.org/2012/11/25/the-apostolic-fathers/

The Apostolic Fathers, [are] the traditional name for the authors of the oldest extant Christian literature outside the New Testament. This diverse group of writers—several of them anonymous—lived and wrote during or shortly after the time of the apostles themselves, and their writings reflect a concern for church authority after the passing of Christ's first disciples.

Places of origin and destinations of the Apostolic Fathers' writings (Rome excluded)

Wikipedia: Apostolic Fathers
https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Apostolic_Fathers

The Apostolic Fathers were Christian theologians who lived in the 1st and 2nd centuries AD, who are believed to have personally known some of the Twelve Apostles, or to have been significantly influenced by them. Their writings, though popular in Early Christianity, were ultimately not included in the canon of the New Testament once it reached its final form. Many of the writings derive from the same time period and geographical location as other works of early Christian literature that did come to be part of the New Testament, and some of the writings found among the Apostolic Fathers' seem to have been just as highly regarded as some of the writings that became the New Testament.

Theopedia: Apostolic Fathers
http://www.theopedia.com/apostolic-fathers

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

CCEL: Early Church Fathers / Apostolic Fathers
http://www.ccel.org/fathers.html

http://www.ccel.org/ccel/lake/fathers2.html

J.B. Lightfoot: The Apostolic Fathers http://www.ccel.org/ccel/lightfoot/fathers.titlepage.html?highlight=apostolic,fathers#highlight http://www.ccel.org/ccel/lightfoot/fathers.i.html

Anti-Nicene Fathers, Vol.1, The Apostolic Fathers with Justin Martyr, Irenaeus http://www.ccel.org/ccel/schaff/anf01.titlepage.html

Tischendorf: When Were Our Gospels Written? Including Testimony of Apostolic Fathers http://www.ccel.org/ccel/tischendorf/gospels.i.html

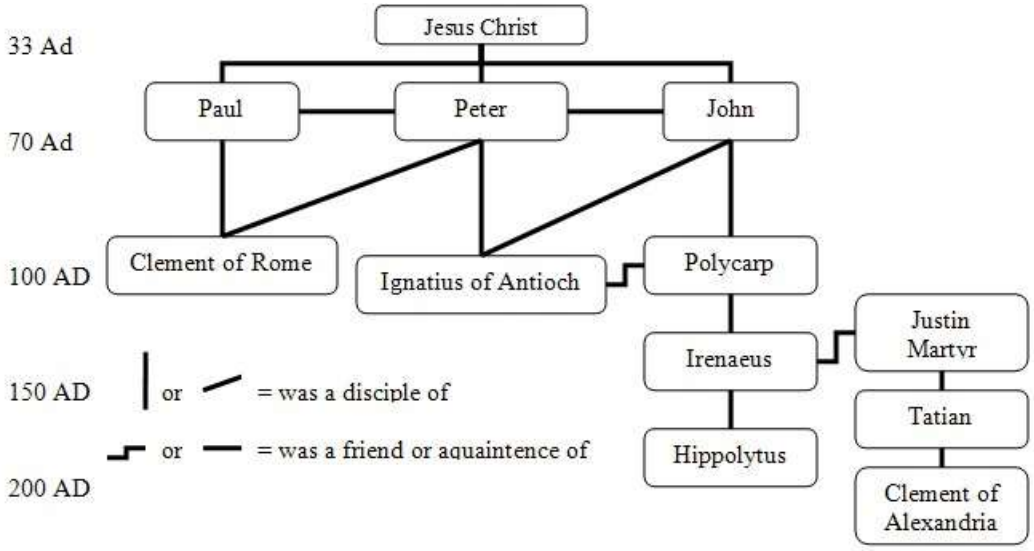
Orthodox Church Fathers – Christian Theology Classics Search Engine
http://orthodoxchurchfathers.com/fathers/anf01/anf0101.htm#P34_365



Catholic: Early Church Fathers
http://www.catholicfaithandreason.org/church-fathers.html

Christianity Today: Polycarp
http://www.christianitytoday.com/history/people/martyrs/polycarp.html

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Early Church Fathers Relationships Charts

Here is a diagram showing the relationships between Jesus, His Apostles, Ignatius of Antioch and some of the other Early Church Fathers:

[Source: http://restlesspilgrim.net/blog/tag/polycarp/]

See also:

http://www.biblerays.com/chart-of-church-fathers.html

More about Early Church Fathers and Church History:

http://www.newworldencyclopedia.org/entry/Saint_Polycarp

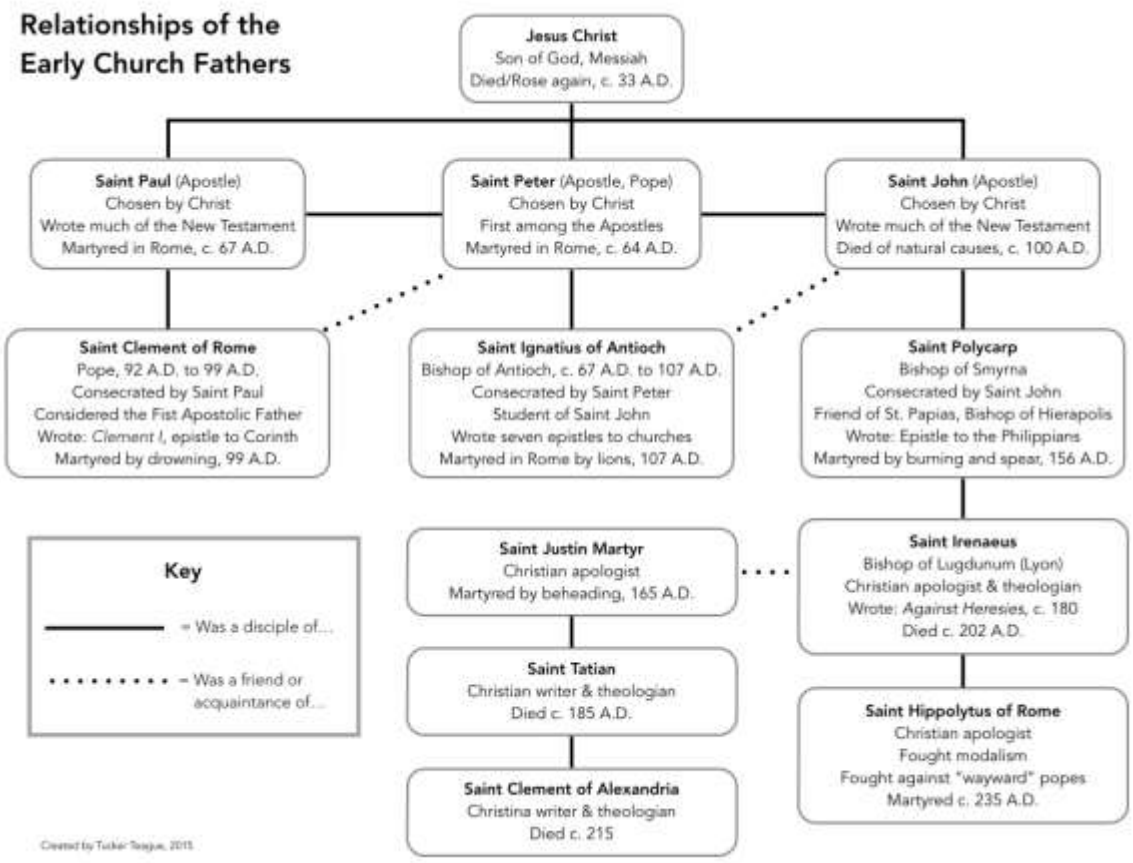
http://www.earlychristianwritings.com/churchfathers.html

http://www.catholic.com/tracts/apostolic-succession

http://unsettledchristianity.com/eschatological-views-among-the-church-fathers/

http://www.insight.org/resources/articles/church-history/heros.html

http://www.unityinchrist.com/history2/print/EarlyChurchHistoryprt.htm



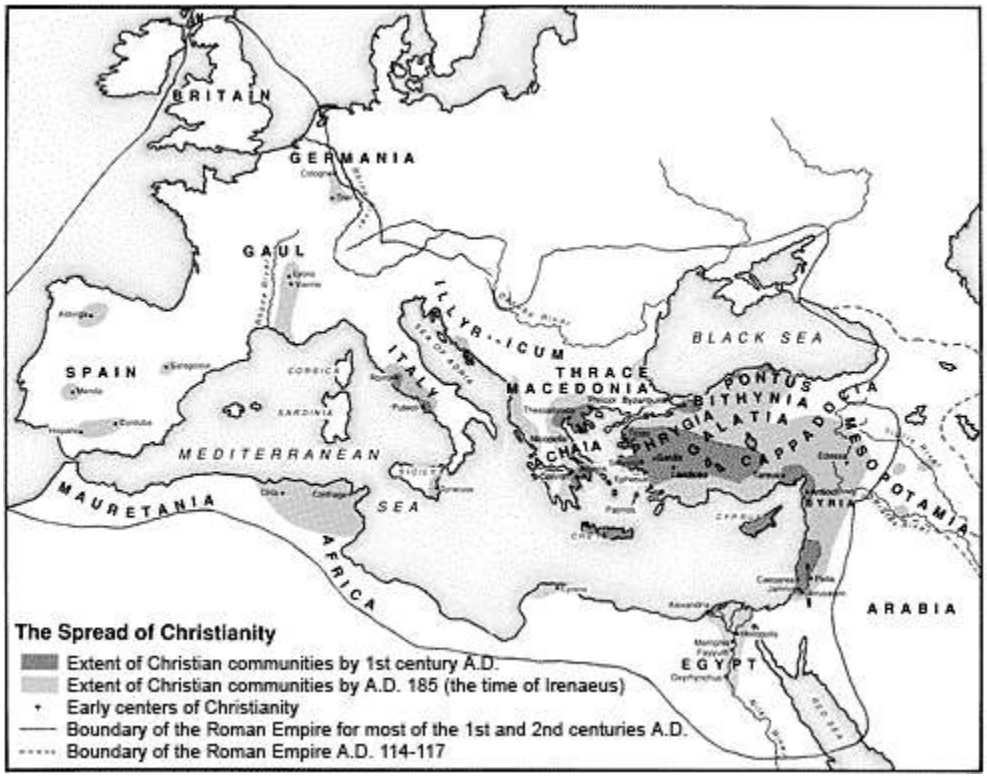
http://restlesspilgrim.net/blog/history/

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Relationships of the Early Church Fathers (Catholic)

https://satellitesaint.com/2015/09/04/relationship-of-the-early-church-fathers/

Excerpt:



There are some who want to believe that once the last Apostle died the church quickly went off the rails, fell into a kind of darkness, and did not begin to emerge again until the Reformation. This is silly bunk, and those who believe it tend to need it to be true so they can justify their own positions. This diagram points towards a more accurate, and “hermeneutic of continuity” understanding that sees the development of doctrine occurring right from the beginning as the Apostles handed down the Tradition of the Church to the next generation, which then did so for the next…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Spread of Christianity – Early Church Fathers

By around AD 90 — about sixty years after Christ's resurrection and the birth of the church — Christianity had grown significantly from its humble beginnings in Jerusalem and Judea. Churches planted by the apostles now thrived in cities of Judea, Egypt, Syria, Asia Minor, Macedonia, Greece, and Italy. From the larger cities, the churches continued to expand into smaller towns and then into other more remote regions. A century later, by the end of the second century, the church's geographical reach had doubled (see map).

During this time of great geographical expansion, the leadership of the churches founded by the apostles changed hands from the first generation of believers to the second and third. These earliest church leaders—some of whom knew and learned from the actual apostles themselves—were left not only with the responsibility of teaching their own generation of believers but also preserving and passing down the faith. In fact, they have passed on to us the books of our New Testament, the orthodox doctrine of Jesus Christ, and a pattern of Christian truth that has survived centuries of criticisms and attacks.

Who were these faithful pastors and teachers? The following selective list of early church leaders is provided to help you become more familiar with the faithful fathers entrusted with preserving the Christian faith and Scriptures through some of the toughest decades of church history. I've included a link to some of their writings available online. During the time of the church's infancy, these early leaders stood strong for Christ, Scripture, and the Christian tradition in the face of false messiahs, forged scriptures, and competing heresies.

•Clement of Rome (martyred c. AD 100).

This early pastor of Rome served at a time when the teachings of the apostles Peter and Paul were still ringing in the ears of the early Christians. In fact, some early church historians identify this Clement with the companion of Paul mentioned in Philippians 4:3. After writing a letter to the church in Corinth exhorting them to unity, Clement was martyred under the great persecution of Domitian.

•Ignatius of Antioch (martyred c. AD 110).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

While under arrest and on his way to martyrdom in Rome, Ignatius wrote letters to various churches, including Ephesus, Smyrna, and Rome. He challenged the false teachings of Judaizers and Docetists who denied the true incarnation of Christ. He called for unity within the church in regard to the true doctrine of Christ and the essentials of the gospel.

•Aristides of Athens (died c. AD 140).

One of the earliest Christian apologists or “defenders” of the Christian faith, Aristides wrote an argument defending Christianity as superior to all other philosophies and religions, which he addressed to the pagan Emperor Hadrian around AD 125. His apology was widely read and later used by apologists such as Justin Martyr.

•Polycarp of Smyrna (martyred c. AD 155).

A friend of Ignatius and personal student of the apostle John, Polycarp served most of his life as the pastor of the church at Smyrna. He battled heretics like Marcion and advanced the gospel of Christ greatly, eventually suffering a heroic martyrdom in his eighties. He wrote at least one letter to the church of Philippi encouraging them in the faith and sending on copies of the letters of Ignatius.

•Papias of Hierapolis (died c. AD 155).

A famous Christian who, as a young man, learned under the elderly apostle John and sought out the testimony of the other living disciples of Jesus, Papias also relayed information to later church fathers regarding the writing of the Gospels and other New Testament books. Although no complete writings of Papias have survived, we have several quotations of Papias in the writings of other early Christians.

•Justin Martyr (martyred c. AD 165).

After vainly seeking truth in Greek philosophy, Justin converted to Christianity. He wrote several treatises against paganism, Judaism, and false Christian teachers and ultimately gave his life for his faith while teaching in Rome.

•Melito of Sardis (died c. AD 190).

A famous pastor and apologist of Sardis in Asia Minor, Melito reportedly wrote multiple works expounding on the incarnation and passion of Jesus Christ as well as defending Christianity against the claims of paganism, Judaism, and Christian heresies.

•Athenagoras of Athens (died c. AD 190).

Originally a philosopher of Athens, Athenagoras probably became a Christian after reading the works of the apostles in an attempt to refute them. Athenagoras was among those great apologists of the early church who presented a written plea for toleration of Christians to the Emperors Marcus Aurelius and Commodus around AD 177.

•Theophilus of Antioch (died c. AD 190).

The pastor of Antioch several decades after Ignatius, Theophilus is known for three letters he wrote to an unbeliever defending the basics of the Christian faith against common philosophical and historical objections. Although the doctrine of the Trinity previously existed, Theophilus was the first to use the specific Greek word triad to refer to the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit.

•Irenaeus of Lyons (martyred c. AD 200).

Originally from Asia Minor, Irenaeus was a disciple of Polycarp who served as the pastor for the church in Lyons (modern-day France). There he wrote a massive, five-volume work, Against All Heresies, in which he demonstrated the true Christian faith and refuted the errors of the heretical groups of his day, especially the Gnostics.

In the chaos of competing theories of the early church, criticisms against authentic Scripture, and attacks on the doctrine of Jesus Christ, Christians can rest assured that the essential truths of the faith were entrusted to faithful men who respected the teachings of Christ and the apostles. Not only did they live their lives for this faith, but they were also willing to die for it. They were imperfect in mind and speech, subject to the foibles of all sinful human vessels, and often in need of correction by God's perfect, inerrant Word. Yet because they took a stand for the truth, today we are able to read His written Word, the Bible, and worship His living Word, Jesus Christ, with confidence.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: http://www.insight.org/resources/articles/church-history/heros.html]

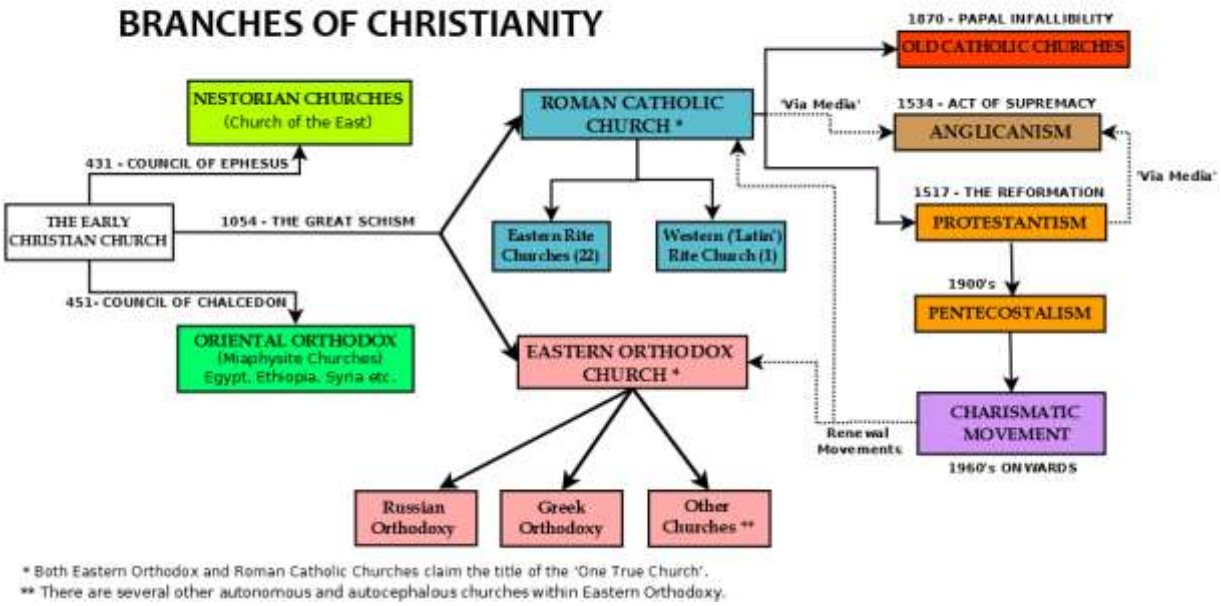
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Christian Denominations Tree

Disciples of Christ is the result of an 1832 merger between two groups of Presbyterian(Stone) and Baptist influence (Campbellites).

It is worth noting that missing are the groups: Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints and the Jehovah's Witnesses, Oneness Pentecostal, Christian Science, New Apostolic Reformation or NAR - (C. Peter Wagner, Rick Joyner, Bill Johnson, etc), United Pentecostal Church, The Apostolic Church, The Unitarian Church, and a few others. These belief systems veer from the essential, historic Christian proper theological belief (Nature, Person of God, i.e the Trinity, Christological belief such as the person and work of Jesus Christ, Deity of Jesus, etc. these doctrines are what categorise certain groups of being a cult and determine whether a group is to be included within the Biblical, historical Christian faith. See our DENOMINATION OR CULT page for more information.

The excluded groups named are mostly (if not entirely) based on the private interpretations of a charismatic leader or leaders, whereby the gods revealed by these "prophets" and "teachers" are wholly and completely different from the God of Christianity (despite having the same or similar names for their gods). It is for this reason that Christianity on the whole does not consider these groups e.g. LDS church, the Jehovah's Witnesses, or Christian Science to be part of the Biblical and historic orthodoxy of the Christian church.

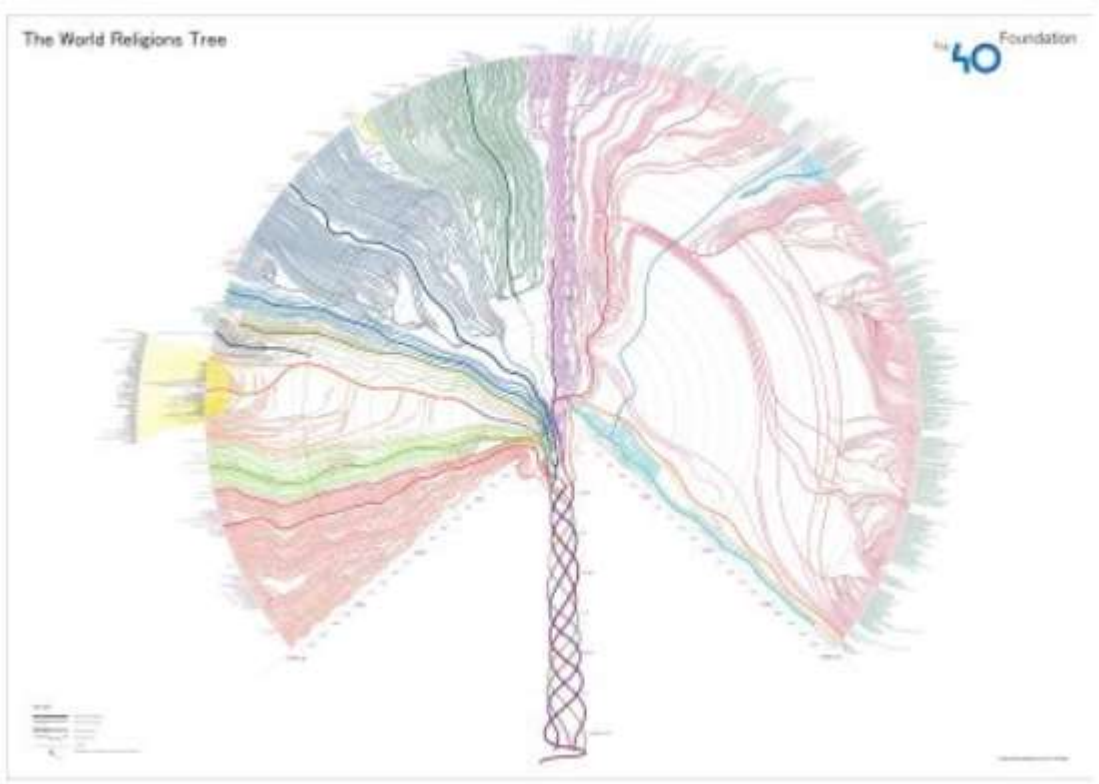


[Source: http://truthforsaints.com/Christian_Denominations/denomination_history/denomination_history.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Denomination Family Tree

[Source: http://request.org.uk/life/church/denominations/]



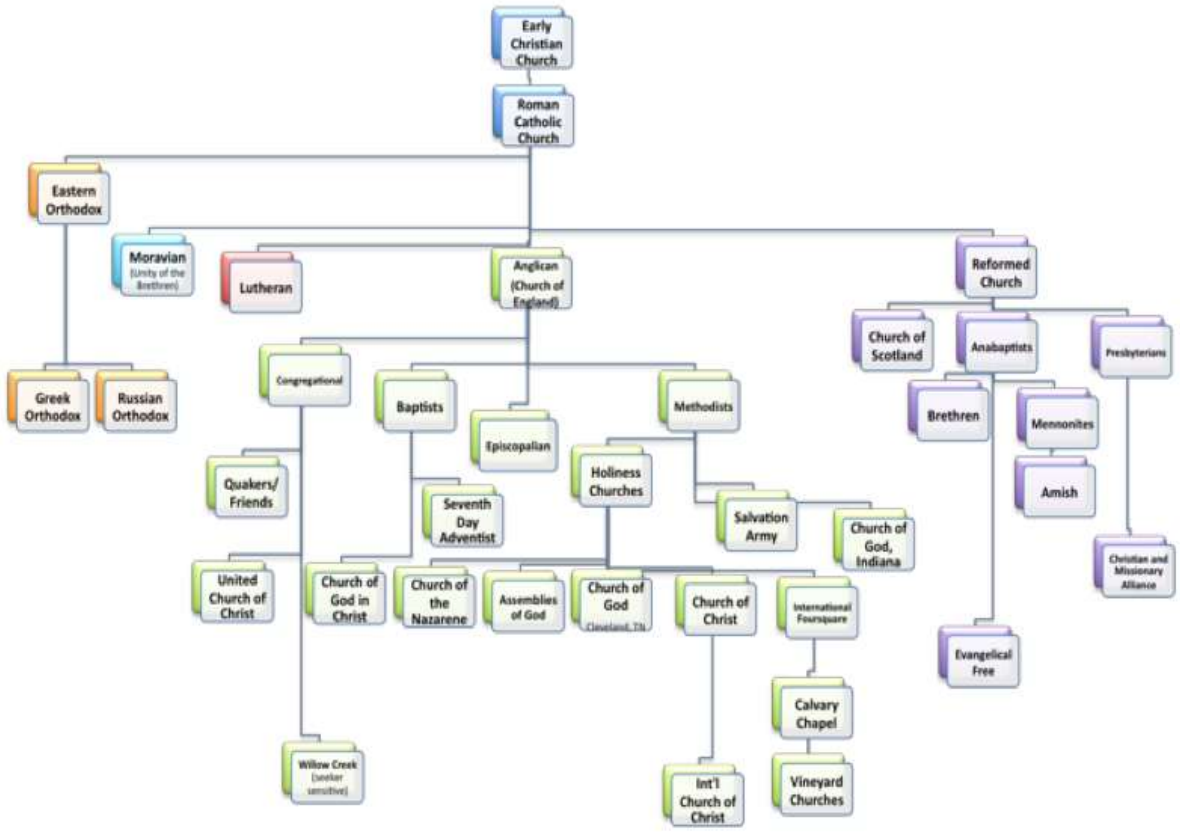
Source: http://forums.waitingtillmarriage.org/topic/1664-what-exactly-are-denonimations/

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

World Religion Tree

http://funki.com.ua/ru/portfolio/lab/world-religions-tree/

Church Denomination Chart – Gordon-Conwell Theological Seminary [MS Word Doc]



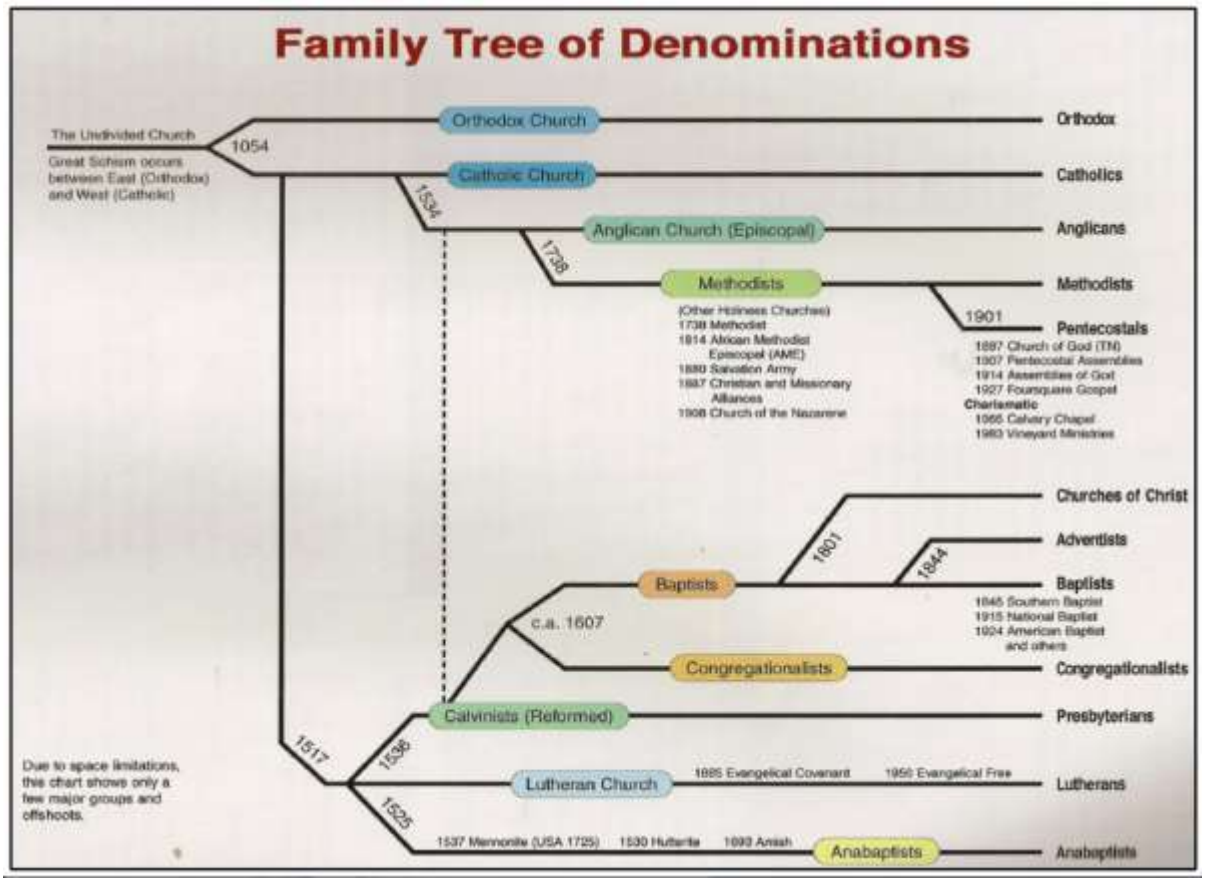
http://www.gordonconwell.edu/mentored-ministry/documents/1DENOMINATIONALCHART2014.doc

http://www.gordonconwell.edu/resources/documents/DENOMINATIONALCHART2015.doc

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Family Tree of Christian Denominations

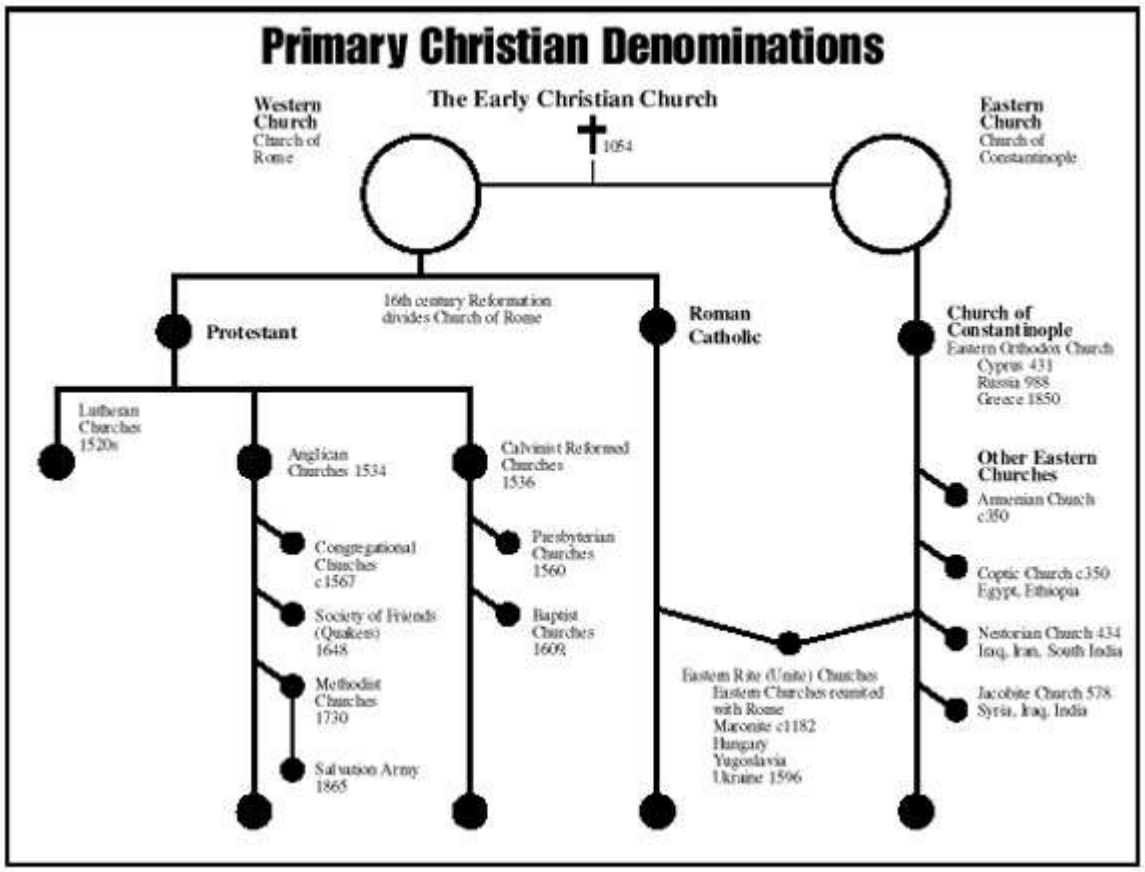
https://wesleygospel.com/2011/12/26/the-family-tree-of-christian-denominations/



Where do all the Denominations Come From?

http://www.truthforsaints.com/Christian_Denominations/Christian_Denominations.html

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Family Tree of Denominations

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Primary Christian Denominations

http://www.waupun.k12.wi.us/Policy/other/dickhut/religions/20%20Branches%20of%20Christ.html

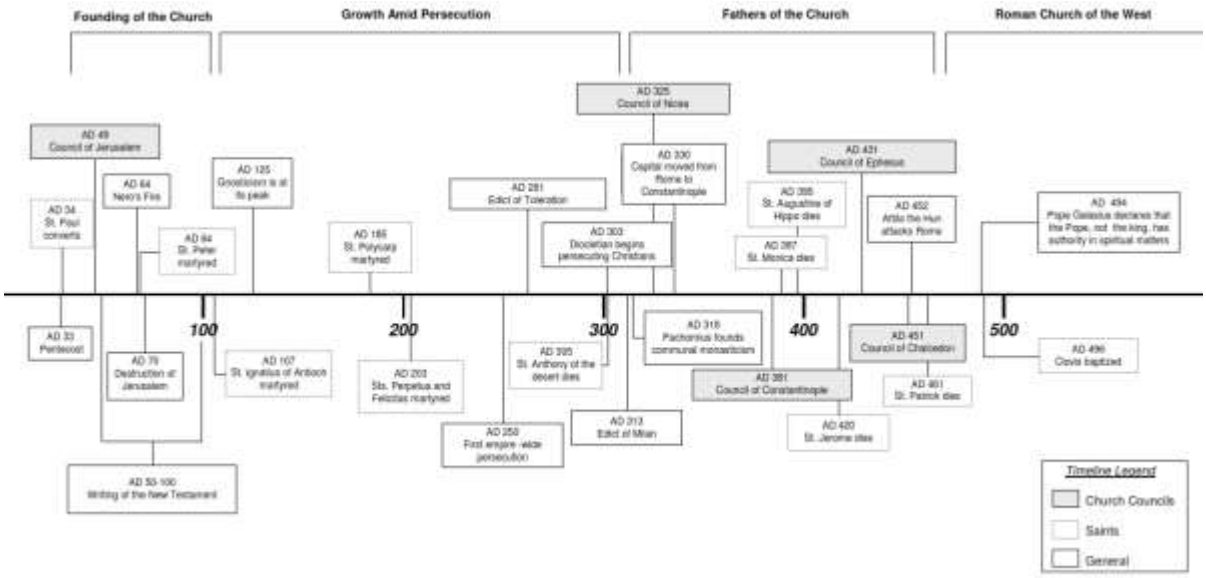
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Origins of Denominations

Origins of Denominations - Part 1

DENOMINATIONS	PLACE OF ORIGIN	YEAR	FOUNDER
Adventism	Massachusetts	1831	William Miller
American Baptist	Providence, Rhode island	1639	Roger Williams
Apostolic Faith Mission	United States	1900	Group
Assembly of God	Hot Springs, Arkansas	1914	Group
Baptist Church	London, England	1607	John Smyth
Brethren (Dunkards)	Sewarzenau, Germany	1708	Hochmann & Mack
Brethren in Christ	United States	1820	Group
Catholic Apostolic Church	England	1830	Group
Christadelphians	United States	1844	John Thomas, MD
Christian Church	Midway, Kentucky	1859	Group
Christian Science	Boston, Massachusetts	1879	Mary Baker Eddy
Church of England	England	1535	King Henry VIII
Church of God	Monroe County, Tennessee	1886	Group
Church of God	United States	1880	D. S. Warner
Church of God Holiness	Atlanta, Georgia	1914	K. H. Burrus
Church of Living God	Wrightsville, Arkansas	1889	William Christian
Congregational Church	Massachusetts	1684	Group
Cumberland Presbyterian	Dickson County, Tennessee	1810	Group
Dutch Reformed Church	Holland	1560	Group
Evangelical Church	Pennsylvania	1803	Jacob Albright
Evangelical and Reformed	Cleveland, Ohio	1834	Group
Foursquare Gospel	Los Angeles, California	1917	Almee S. McPherson
Freewill Baptist	New Durham, North Carolina	1780	Benjamin Randall
Full Gospel Church	Goldsboro, North Carolina	1935	R. H. Askew
Greek Orthodox Church	Greece	1053	Group

Barnes Bible Charts



Origins of Denominations - Part 2

DENOMINATIONS	PLACE OF ORIGIN	YEAR	FOUNDER
Holiness Church	Chicago, Illinois	1907	Howard Hoopie
House of David	Michigan	1903	Group
Independent Witness	Van Alstyne, Texas	1900	C. B. Jernigan
Jehovah s Witnesses	Pennsylvania	1874	Charles T. Russell
Lutheran Church	Augsburg, Germany	1530	Martin Luther
Mennonite Church	Zurich, Switzerland	1525	Group
Methodist Church	London, England	1729	John Wesley
Methodist Episcopal	Baltimore, Maryland	1874	Group
Mormon Church	Seneca, New York	1830	Joseph Smith
Mormons Reorganized	Wisconsin	1852	Joseph Smith II
Moravian Church	Kunwald Bohemia	1457	Group
Nazarene Church	Los Angeles, California	1895	P. E. Bresee
New Apostolic Church	Hamburg, Germany	1862	Pruess
Pentecostal Holiness	Anderson, South Carolina	1898	Group
Pilgrim Holiness Church	Cincinnati, Ohio	1897	Group
Plymouth Brethren	Dublin, Ireland	1829	Group
Presbyterian Church	Switzerland	1535	John Calvin
Primitive Baptist	North Carolina	1765	Group
Quakers	England	1650	George Fox
Roman Catholic	Rome, Italy	696	Boniface III (1st Pope)
Salvation Army	London, England	1865	William Booth
Seventh-Day Adventism	Massachusetts	1846	Ellen G. White
Spiritualist Church	United States	1848	Andrew J. Davis
Unitarians	Poland	1500s	Faustus, Socinus, et. al.
Universalist Church	New Jersey	1770	John Murray

Barnes Bible Charts

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Catholic Church History / Timeline

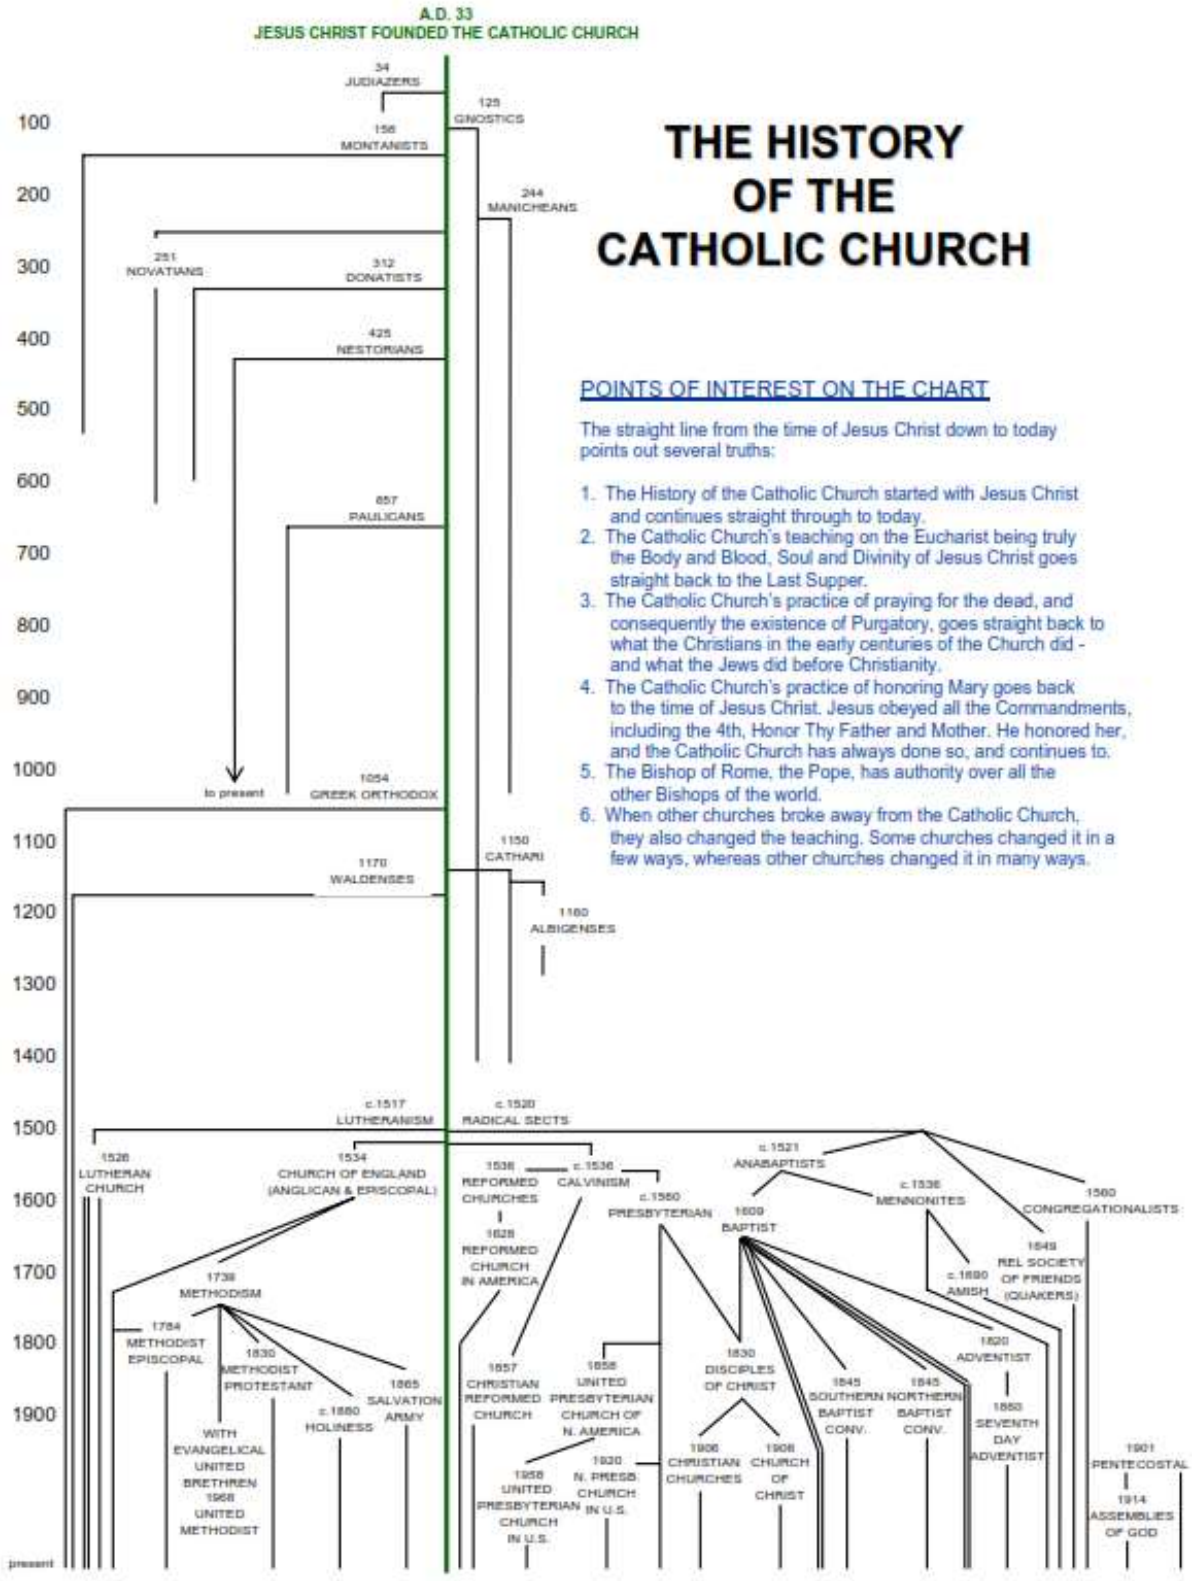
A Timeline of Catholic Church History

http://www.catholicbridge.com/catholic/timeline_of_catholic_church.php

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Timeline_of_the_Catholic_Church

http://www.ourcatholicfaith.org/churchhistory.html

http://www.eaec.org/cults/rc/timeline.htm [list of additions to church dogma]



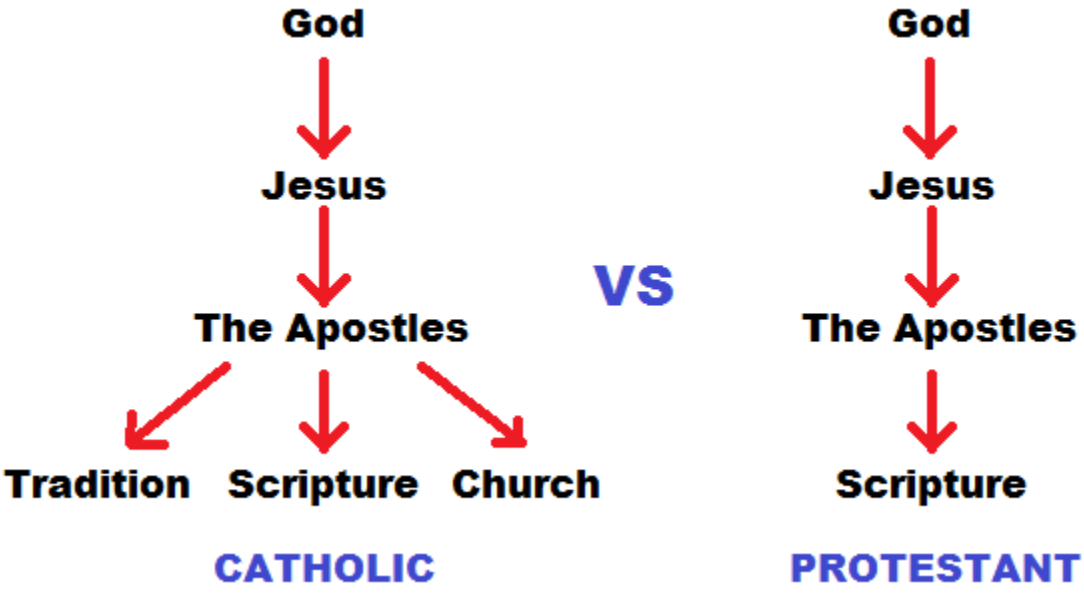
http://www.christian-history.org/roman-catholic-one-true-church.html

Brief History of the Popes

http://faithfirst.com/html/popeJohn/timeline/timeline.html

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

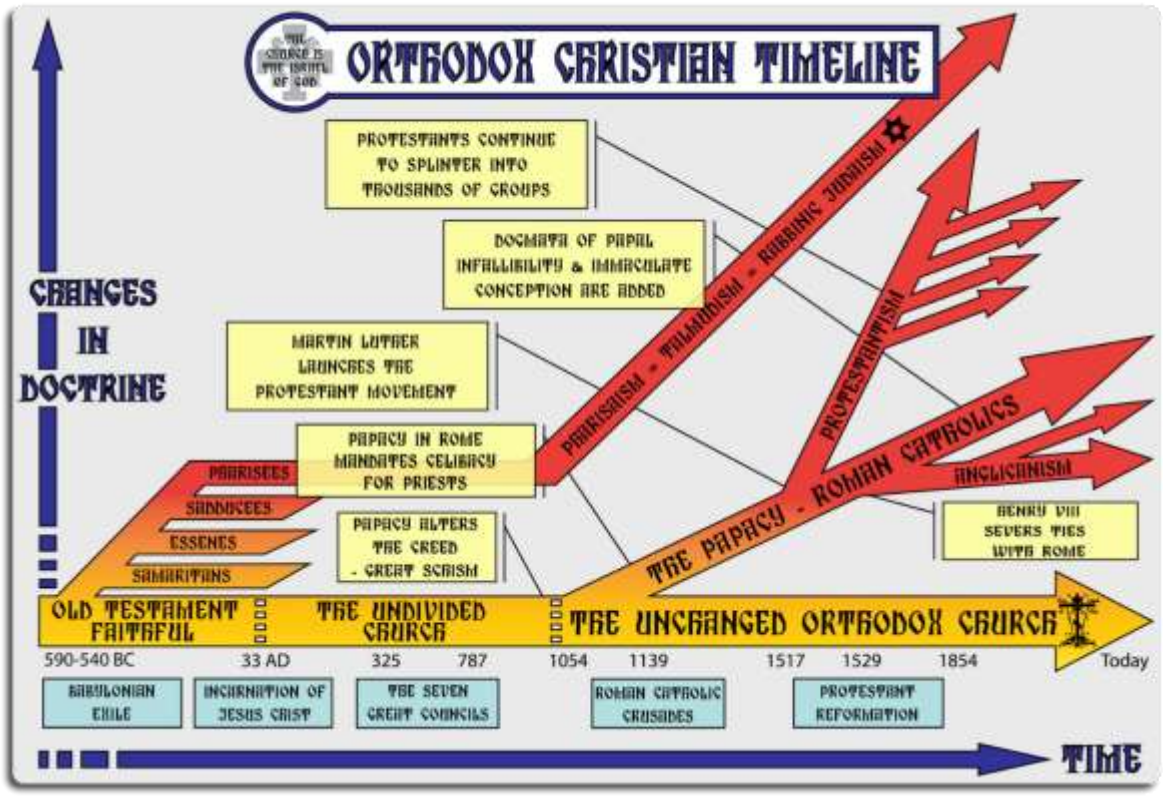
The History of the Catholic Church



(As per view of Roman Catholic Church) [Note: Points 2-6 are rejected by Protestants]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Reasons why Protestants reject these practices of the Roman Catholic Church:



Catholic church	word of God
call the priest father	call no man father Matthew 23:9
they confess their sins to a priest	Jesus is the only one faithful and just to forgive sins 1 John 1:9
prayers to dead saints	God calls this an abomination Deuteronomy 18, 10-11 they have made Mary a co-mediator	Jesus is the only mediator between man and God 1 Timothy 2:5
prayers to Mary	only pray to the father, in Jesus name John 14:13 idol worship	this breaks the 2nd commandment Exodus 20, 4-6

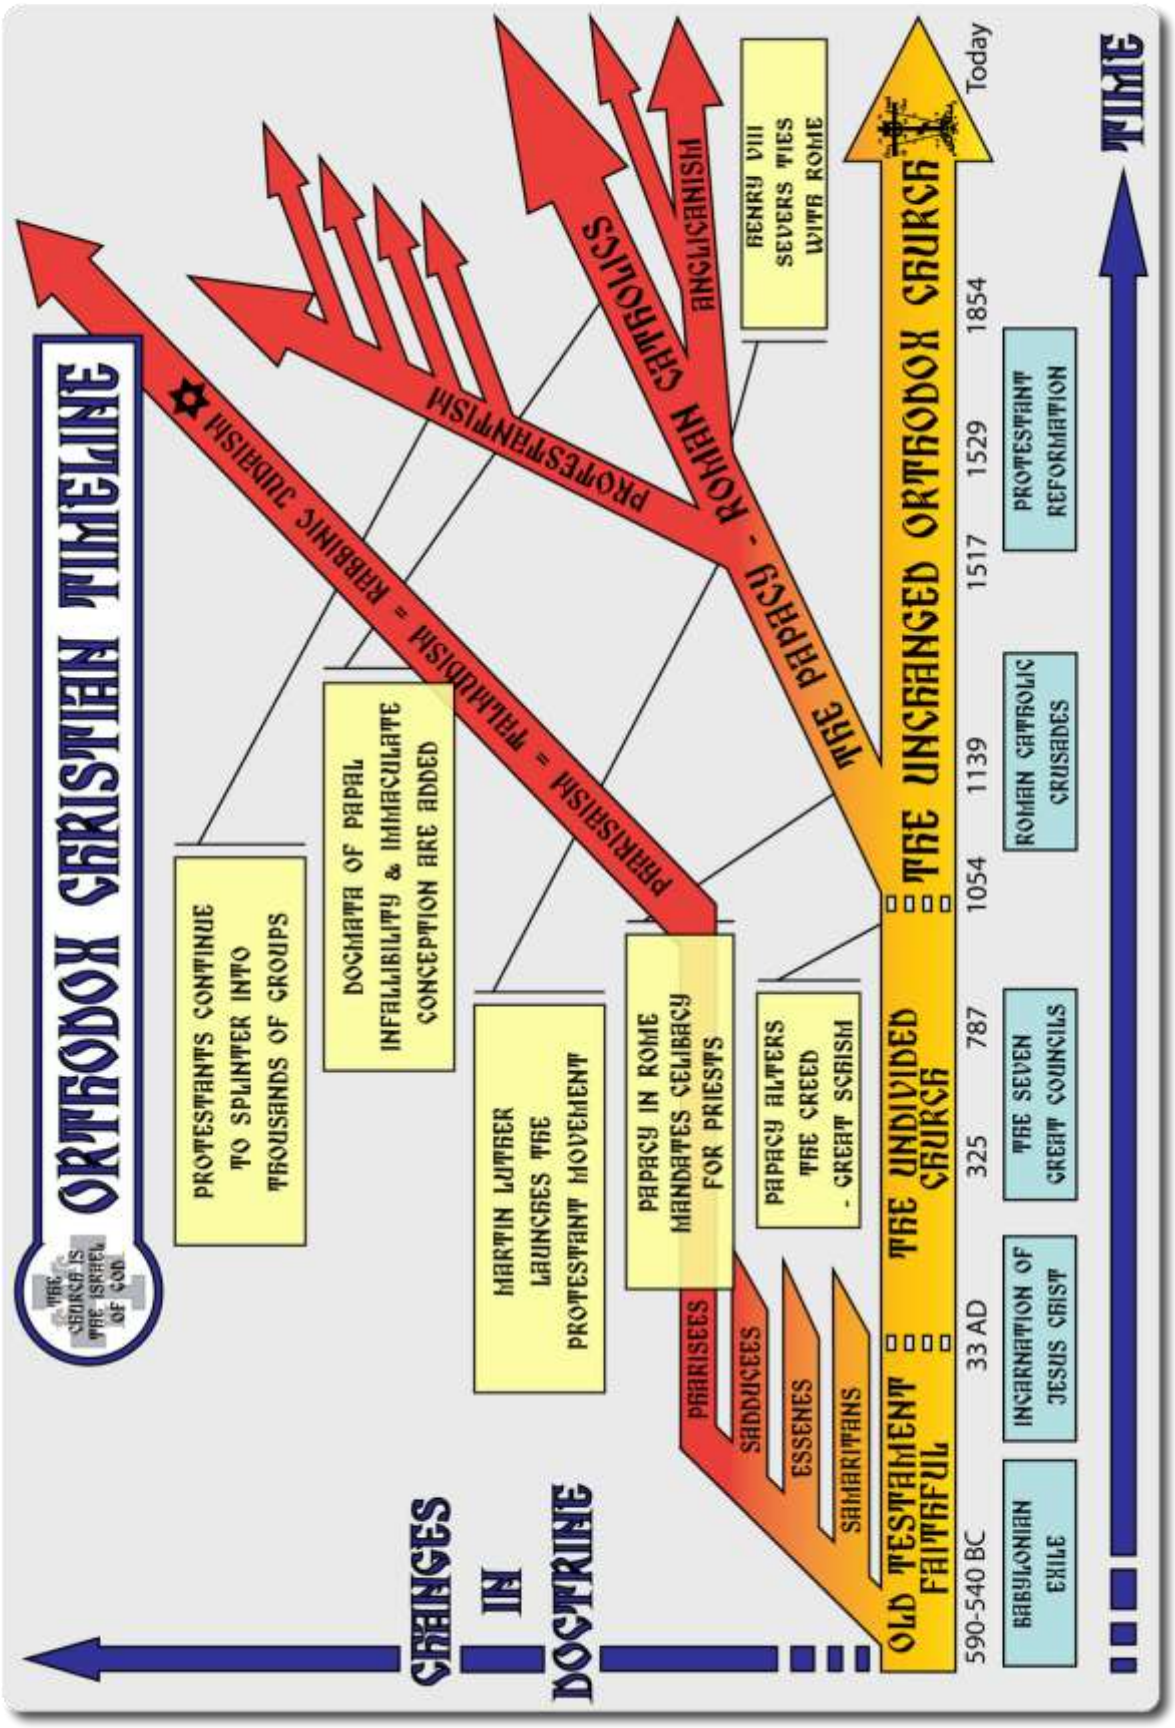
Church Religious Authority: Catholic vs Protestant

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Orthodox Christian Church Timeline

[Source: https://christconquers.wordpress.com/israel-as-the-people-of-god/the-orthodox-christian-church-is/]



(See larger view of above image on next page)

Orthodox Church Timeline
http://orthodoxfaith.co.uk/timeline

Church of the East Timeline
http://www.oxuscom.com/timeline.htm

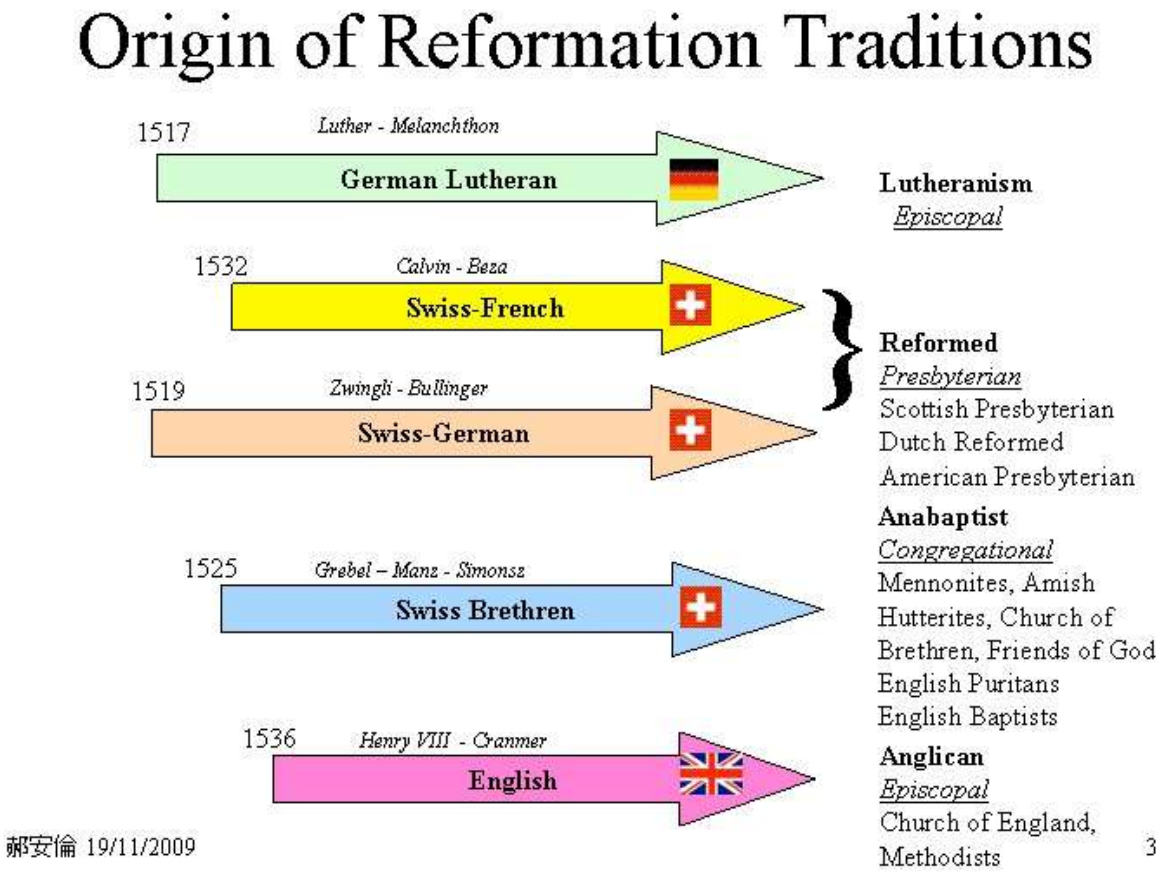
Timeline of Orthodoxy in Russia
https://orthodoxwiki.org/Timeline_of_Orthodoxy_in_Russia

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Reformation Timeline

Detailed Chronology/Timeline of the Reformation

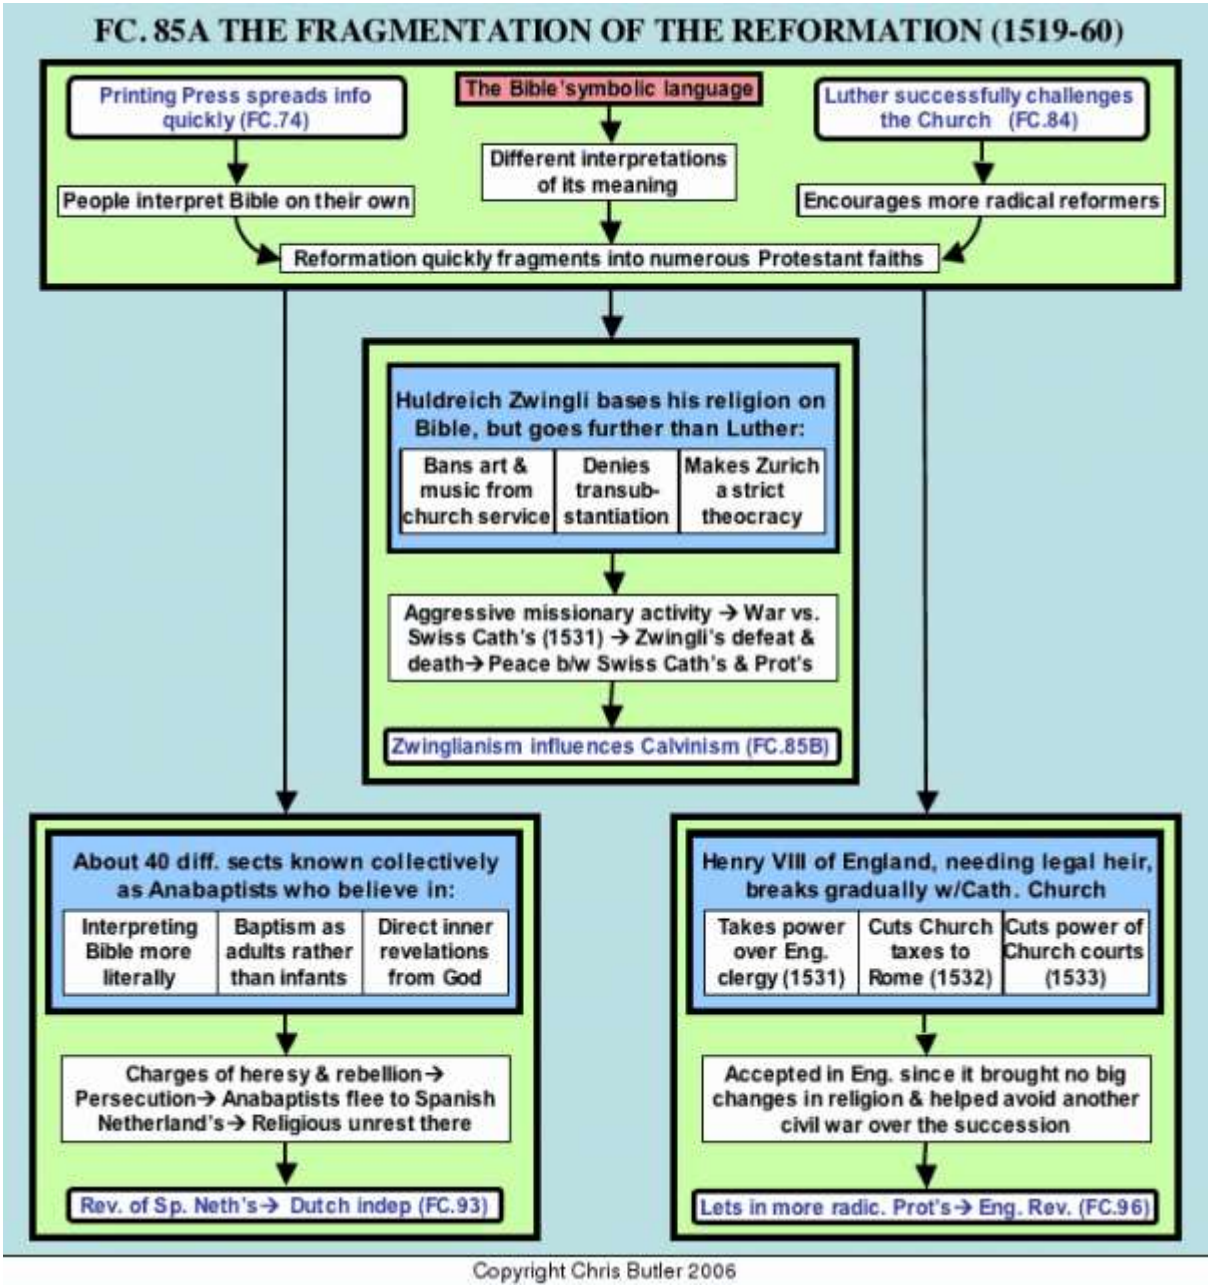


http://christiantimelines.com/reformation.htm

A Reformation Timeline

http://lutheranreformation.org/history/reformation-timeline/

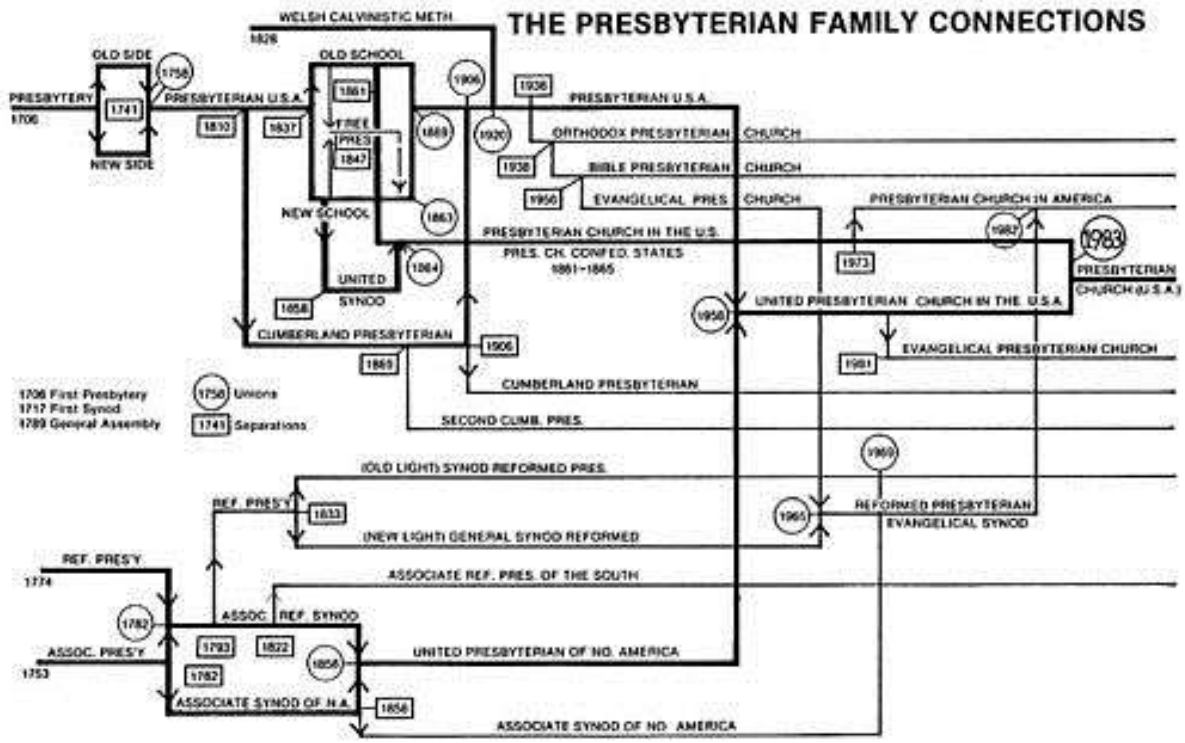
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Origin of Reformation Traditions

Source: http://haudenschild-com.blogspot.com/2011/02/calvin-zwinglis-stepchildren_19.html

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

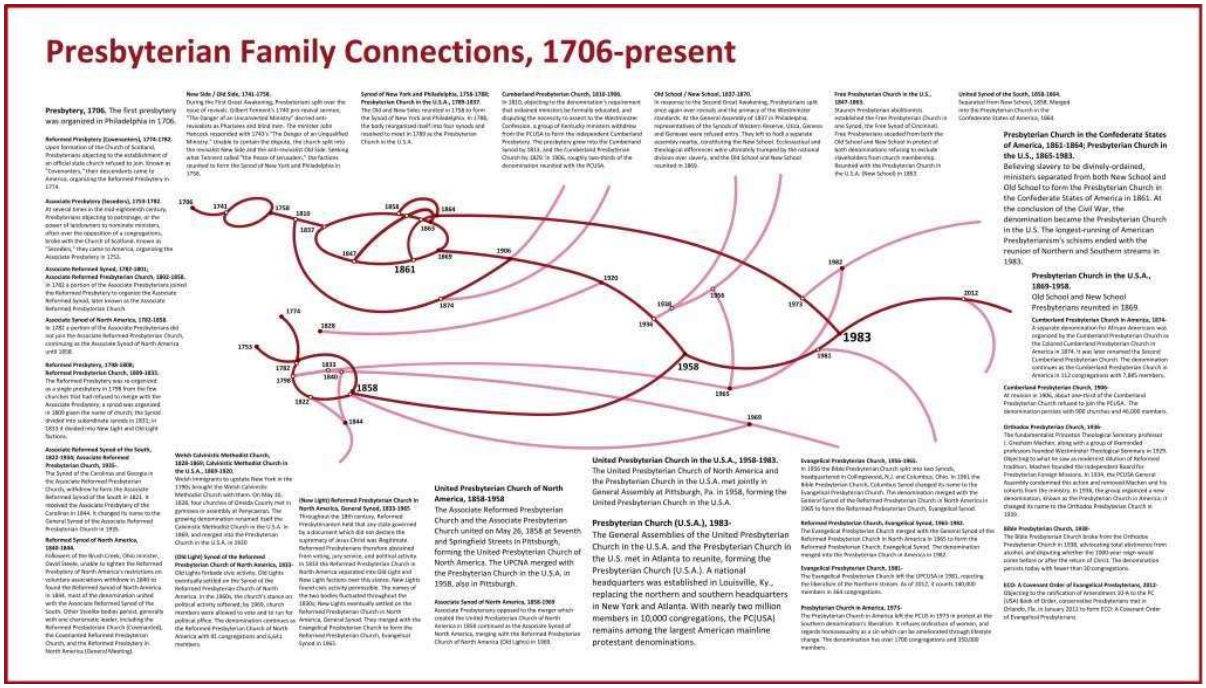


The Fragmentation of the Reformation (1519-60)

Source: http://www.flowofhistory.com/node/592

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

List of Prebyterian Denominations in North America

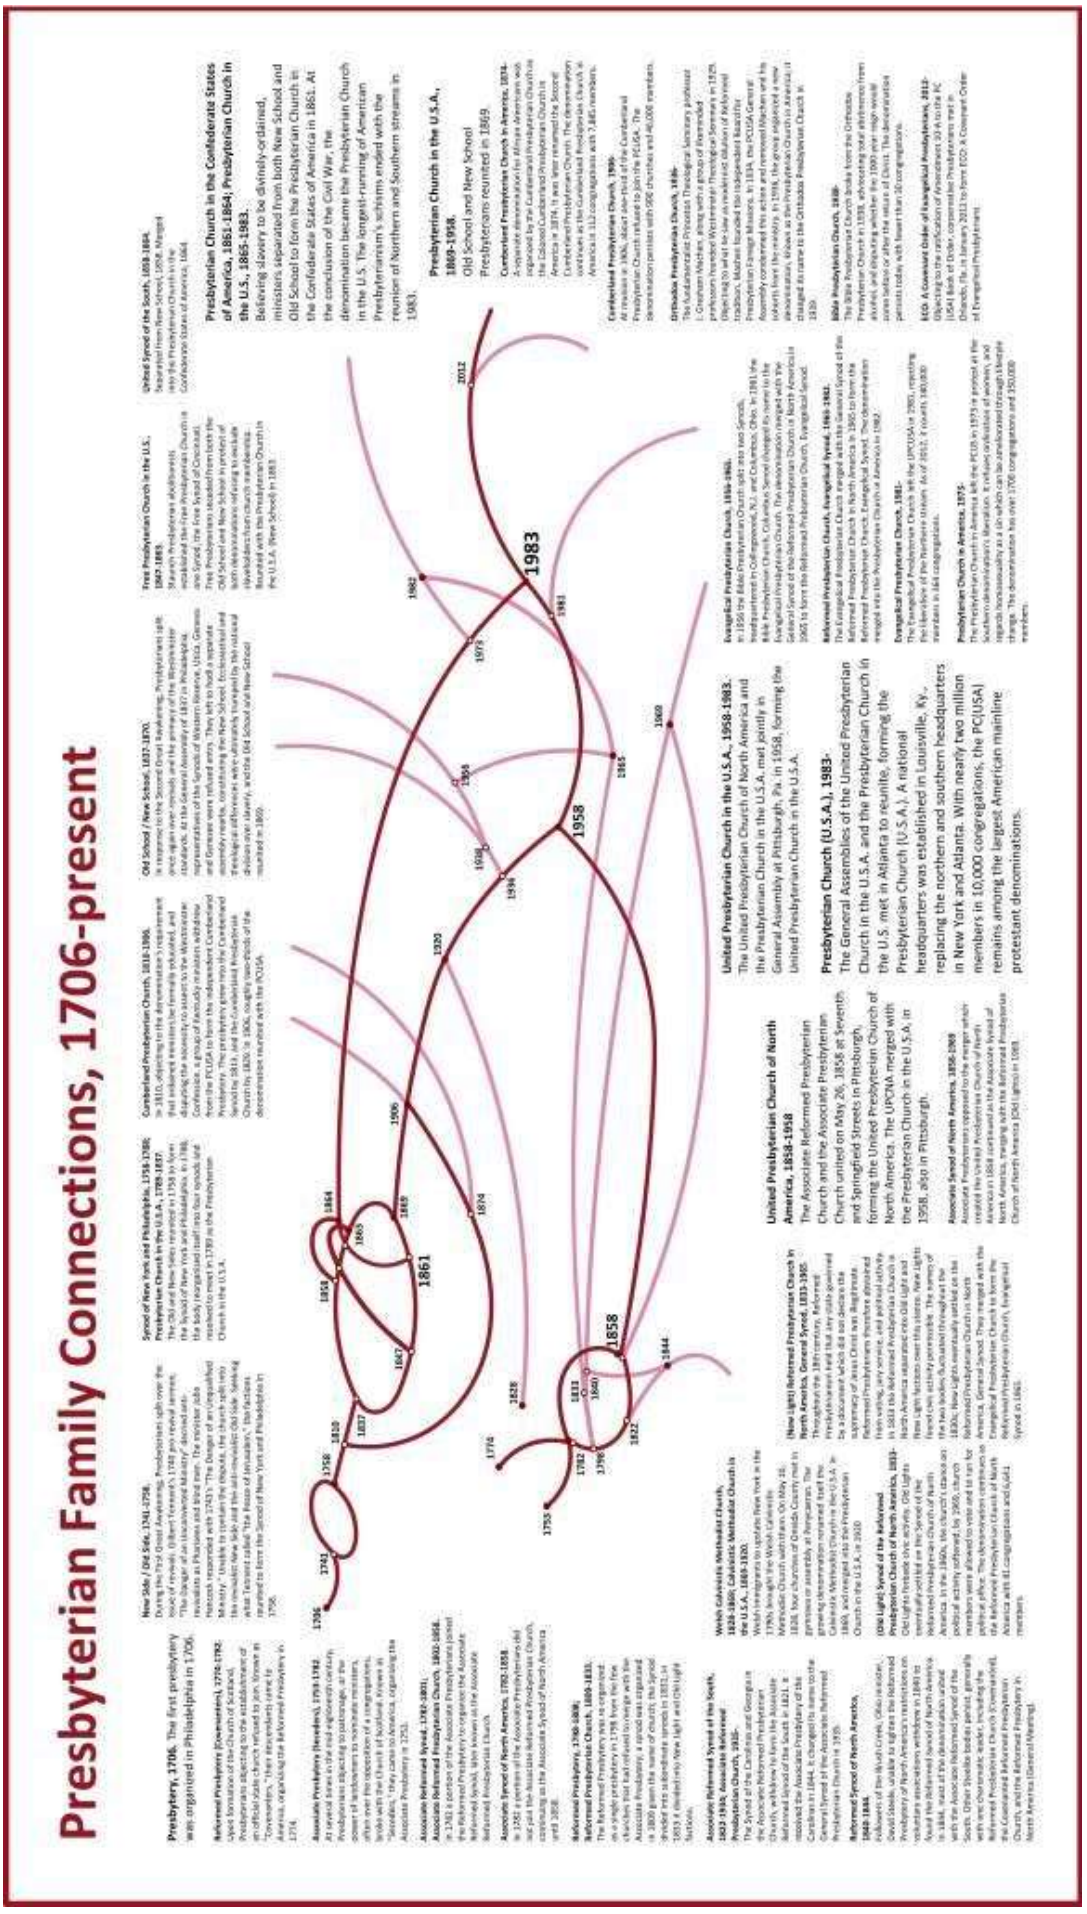


http://history.pcusa.org/history-online/presbyterian-history/family-tree-presbyterian-denominations

See updated version on following pages…

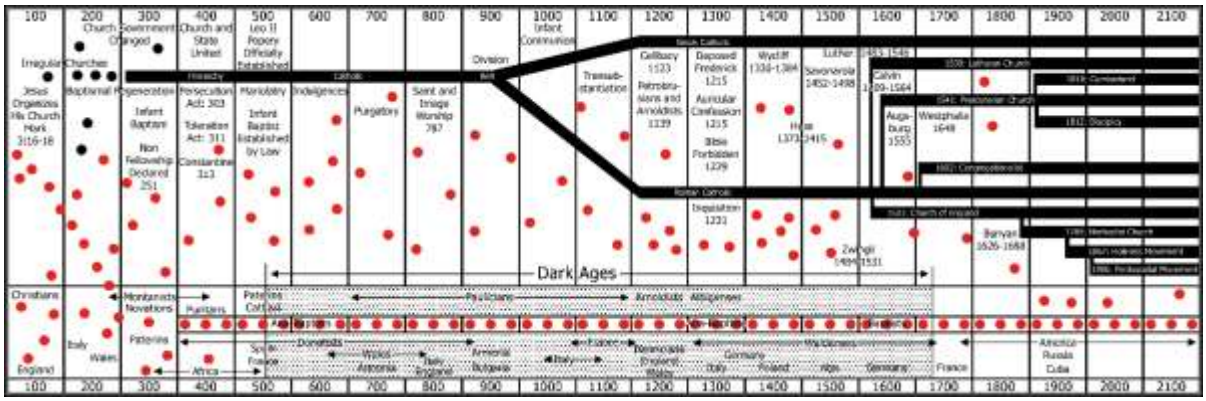
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Family Tree of Presbyterian Denominations



http://history.pcusa.org/history-online/presbyterian-history/family-tree-presbyterian-denominations

(Above downloadable as JPG or PDF)



See larger view on next page…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Baptist Churches Timeline ("Anabaptists"):

From: "The Trail of Blood" by J.M. Carroll

Sources:

http://www.mbcmckinney.com/2015/thetrailofblood.html

http://landmarkmissionarybaptistarizona.com/resources/trail-of-blood.html [online Chart and Text]

http://www.mbcmckinney.com/data/trail_of_blood_timeline.pdf [PDF of chart with explanation of the chart]

http://www.mbcmckinney.com/data/TrailBlood.pdf [PDF of booklet (text only) by Carroll]

http://www.faithmbcchurch.com/the-trail-of-blood-video/ [Video]

Illustrating the History of the Baptist Churches from the time of their founder, the Lord Jesus Christ, until the 20th Century.

1. The purpose of this chart is to show according to History that Baptists have an unbroken line of churches since Christ and have fulfilled His prophecy — "I will build my church and the gates of Hell shall not prevail against it." In the irregular churches is clearly seen the growth of Catholicism and Protestantism. Baptists are not Protestants since they did not come out of the Catholic Church.

2. The numbers at the top and bottom represent 20 centuries. The first vertical line is A.D. 1, and the second, A.D. 100, and so on.

3. The horizontal lines at the bottom have between them the nicknames given to Baptists during the passing years and ages — Novations, Montanists, Paulicians and Waldenses.

4. The red circles represent baptist churches beginning with the first Church at Jerusalem, founded by Christ during His earthly ministry, and out of which came the churches of Judea, Antioch and others. The red indicates they were persecuted. In spite of the bitterest opposition and persecution Baptist Churches are found in every age. The first nickname given them was Christians, the next Ana-Baptists, and so on. You will notice that the dark ages are represented by a dark space. Even during this time you will notice a continual line of churches called Ana-Baptists. They were continually and bitterly persecuted even unto death by the Catholics. Near the first of the 16th Century the Ana was dropped and they were simply called Baptists.

5. The black circles represent churches into which error came and are therefore called — irregular churches. The first error was in church Government — Pastors assumed authority not given them by Christ. Pastors of larger churches claimed authority over other and smaller churches. Thus in the 3rd Century the Roman Hierarchy was established. The Emperor Constantine issued a call in 313 inviting all churches to send representatives to form a council. The red churches — that is Baptist Churches — refused the invitation but the irregular churches responded. The Emperor was made the head and thus the group of churches known as irregular churches became the State Church. The Emperor continued to head the churches until Leo II claimed authority as the successor of Peter. Thus is seen how the error in church Government developed into Popery. In the 16th Century the Protestant Churches began to come out of the Roman Catholic Church. They are called Protestants because they protested against the errors of Catholicism.

6. It was in the year 251 that Baptist Churches declared nonfellowship with the irregular churches. They refused to accept Baptism administered in infancy or for Salvation and thus came the oldest nickname — Ana-Baptists which means rebaptizers.

See next page for larger view of above chart…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

SIGNS of a "Christian" Cult

They add to the Word of God. It's never the Bible alone as its authority. Publications such as The Book of Mormon, Pearl of Great Price, Science & Health, and AWAKE and Watchtower magazines are given equal and greater importance over Scripture.

They subtract from the Diety of Jesus. They will say he's a prophet, a teacher, the devil's brother, Michael the archangel, the son of God - but never God in the flesh. They may also subtract from the personhood of the Holy Spirit by reducing Him to an impersonal force used by God.

They multiply works to gain salvation. It is never grace alone. You must join them, be baptized, you must go door to door, you must strictly obey commandments, no one is saved by grace through faith in Jesus Christ alone.

They will divide your loyalties. They are an antichrist group. You are deceived into placing your primary loyalty toward the cult and its leaders instead of the Lord Jesus Christ. Also, you are discouraged from associating with non-members, and forbidden to have anything to do with ex-members. Where true Christians are encouraged to maintain contact and closeness with unbelieving family members, these groups do not.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Denomination Expressions Compared

DIFFERENT SYSTEMS OF THEOLOGY

"I am on Paul, I of Apollos, I of Cephas, and I of Christ"

http://www.apttoteach.org/Theology/Introduction/pdf/103_Different_expressions.pdf [PDF]

Protestant vs Catholic Doctrinal Positions

Area	Issue	Protestant position	Catholic Position
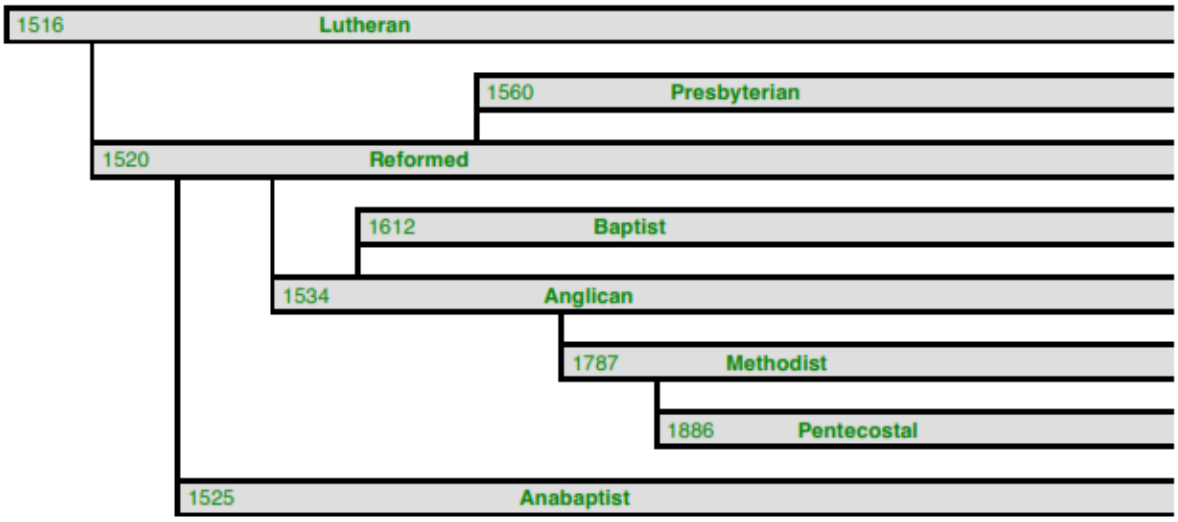
Scripture	Sufficiency	Scripture alone	church tradition plus Scripture
	Apocrypha	rejected	accepted
Man	Original sin	total depravity and guilt inherited from Adam	corruption and predisposition to evil inherited from Adam
	Human will	in bondage to sin	free to do spiritual good
Salvation	Predestination	rooted in God's decrees	rooted in God's foreknowledge
	Atonement	Christ's death a substitutionary penal sacrifice	Christ's death the merit for blessings of salvation – blessings passed on to sinners through sacraments
	Grace of God	common grace given to all; saving grace given to elect	prevenient grace, given at baptism, enabling one to believe; efficacious grace cooperating with the will, enabling one to obey
	Good works	produced by the grace of God, unworthy of merit of any kind	meritorious
Salvation	Regeneration	work of the Holy Spirit in the elect	grace infused at baptism
	Justification	objective, final, judicial act of God	forgiveness of sins received at baptism, may be lost by committing mortal sin, regained by penance
The church	Church and Salvation	distinction between visible and invisible church	outside the (visible) church there is no salvation
	Sacraments	means of grace only as received by faith	convey justifying and sanctifying grace
	Priesthood	all believers priests	mediators between God and man
	Transubstant-iation	rejected	affirmed
After life	Purgatory	denied	affirmed

Continued next page…



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

…Continued from previous page

Lutherans vs Reformed Protestants Differences

Issue	Lutheran position	Reformed position
Order of decrees	calling, illumination, conversion, regeneration, justification, sanctification, glorification	election, predestination, union with Christ, calling, regeneration, faith, repentance, justification, sanctification, glorification
Grace of God	grace received through baptism or preaching, enabling one to avoid resisting the regeneration grace of God	irresistible
Repentance	leads to faith	flows from faith
Baptism	works regeneration, removing guilt and power of sin	Incorporation into the Covenant of Grace
Lord's supper	Christ present in the sacraments objectively	Sign and seal of the Covenant of Grace to believers; Christ present by faith
Church and state	state church to tutor in the faith the rulers who support Protestantism	holy commonwealth, in which church and state, both Christian, perform their separate functions
Regulative principle	whatever is not forbidden in Scripture is permissible	whatever is not commanded in Scripture is forbidden

This material is modified from Robert C. Walton's Chronological and Background Charts of Church History published by Zondervan

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Those theologies that have a strong emphasis upon

What God has done FOR us.

1. Natural Theology (Deism)

Natural theology is the attempt to attain an understanding of God and his relationship to the universe by means of rational reflection, without appealing to special revelation such as the self-revelation of God in Christ and in Scripture.

2. Lutheran Theology

Lutheran Theology builds around the three fundamental doctrines of sola scriptura (Scripture alone), sola gratia (grace alone), and sola fide (faith alone).

3. Reformed Theology (Presbyterian)

Reformed theology builds around the central theme of the sovereignty of God. The whole of reality falls under the supreme rule of God.

4. Fundamentalist Theology (Many ultra conservative denominations and independent congregations)

(religiousmovements.lib.virginia.edu/nrms/fund.html)

Fundamentalist theology is evangelical theology with an attitude.

5. Evangelical Theology (Most conservative denominations)

Evangelical theology embraces the major tenants of the reformed faith as expressed in the following characteristics:

a. It looks to the Bible as the supreme norm of truth for Christian belief and practice - the biblical message enshrined in its narratives and its interpretations of those narratives.

b. It holds a supernatural world-view that is centered in a transcendent, personal God who interacts with, and intervenes in, creation.

c. It focuses on the forgiving and transforming grace of God through Jesus Christ in the experience called conversion as the center of authentic Christian experience.

d. It believes that the primary task of Christian theology is to serve the church's mission of bringing God's grace to the whole world through proclamation and service.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Those theologies that have a strong emphasis upon

What God has done IN us.

1. Anabaptist Theology (Baptist)

Anabaptists did not stress systematic theological studies. Rather, doctrine was forged as it applied to life. Anabaptists were characterized by missionary zeal, separation of life, and an emphasis on ecclesiology.

2. Arminian Theology (Methodist)

Arminian theology is concerned to preserve the justice (fairness) of God. How could a just God hold individuals responsible for obedience to commands they are powerless to obey. Arminian Theology emphasizes divine foreknowledge, human responsibility and free will, and universal (common) enabling grace.

3. Wesleyan Theology (Methodist)

Wesleyan theology is essentially Arminian but has a stronger sense of the reality of sin and of dependence on divine grace.

4. Pentecostal Theology (many denominations)

Pentecostal theology is usually Arminian in its leaning with a strong emphasis on a "second blessing" or experience with the Holy Spirit that gives the Christian power to minister in the supernatural and a love for emotional praise and worship.

5. Existential Theology (Elements in many mainline denominations)

Existential theologians claim that we have to "demythologize" Scripture. "To demythologize Scripture is to reject not Scripture or the Christian message, but the world-view of a past epoch." That means to explain everything supernatural as myth. The important part of Christian faith consequently becomes a subjective experience, rather than an objective truth) see Salvation). The Bible, when demythologized, does not talk about God, but about man.

6. Neo-orthodox Theology (Conservative wing of many mainline denominations)

Neo-orthodoxy is more a hermeneutic than it is a complete systematic theology. It reacted against late-nineteenth-century liberalism and strove to retain the essence of Reformation theology while still adapting to contemporary issues. It is a theology of encounter between God and man.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Those theologies that have a strong emphasis upon

What God has done THROUGH us.

1. Traditional Roman Catholic Theology

Theology is constantly evolving in its understanding of the Christian faith. The Ignatian principle of accommodation and J.H. Newman's principle of development reflect the changing nature of Roman Catholic theology. Catholicism's trait of change is due mainly to the authoritative position given to church teaching.

2. Liberal Theology (Elements in many mainline denominations)

Liberal theologians seek to articulate Christianity in terms of contemporary culture and thinking. They attempt to maintain the essence of Christianity in modern terms and images.

3. Liberation Theology (Politically activistic liberalism in many mainline seminaries)

Theology is not seen as a system of dogmas but rather as a way to initiate social change. This view has been called the "liberation of theology" (H. Segundo). This theology grew out of Vatican II and the liberal theologians' attempts to wrestle with social, political, and economic inequities in the face of a Christianity no longer based on a biblical world view. Much of the setting for liberation theology has been Latin America, and this theology has become an answer to the political oppression of the poor. The proponents often have different views; there is really no "unified" liberation theology. Rather, it is a number of closely related "alternatives" springing from common roots. Rather than a classical theology concerned with such theological matters as the nature of God, man, or the future, liberation theology is concerned with this world and how changes may occur through political action. In Latin America, especially, Roman Catholic theologians have sought to combine Christianity and Marxism.

4. Black Theology (Some African American churches)

Black theology is a form of liberation theology that has its center in the theme of oppression of blacks by whites. It came out of the "need for black people to define the scope and meaning of black existence in a white racist society" (Cone). It emerged in the last two decades in the wave of liberation movements as an expression of black consciousness and seems to speak to the issues that blacks must contend with on a daily basis.

5. Contemporary Feminist Theological Models (Elements in some mainline denominations and seminaries)

1. Rejectionist (Post-Christian) Sees the Bible as promoting an oppressive patriarchal structure and rejects it as nonauthoritative. This is sometimes termed "gender feminism."
2. Loyalist (Evangelical) Sees no radically oppressive sexism in the biblical record.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

What can we learn from each of these theologies?

1. Roman Catholicism's emphasis on the whole (church) being more than the sum of its parts (individual believers) is a strength.
2. Natural Theology's respect for common sense is its strength.
3. Lutheran's distinction between law and grace is a needed emphasis.
4. Anabaptist's separation of church and state is helpful.
5. Reformed Theology's attention to systematics and objective truth is a strength.
6. Arminian Theology's emphasis on human responsibility is important.
7. Pentecostal Theology's openness to emotional praise and the supernatural manifestation of the Spirit in the present.
8. Weslyan Theology's emphasis on holistic conversion is important.
9. Liberal Theology's openness to all truth is admirable.
10. Existential Theology's emphasis on personal integrity of faith is vital.
11. Neo-orthodox Theology's emphasis on personal subjective encounter with Christ is admirable.
12. Liberation Theology's application of the gospel to social structures is important.
13. Black Theology's attention to the WASP influences on theology is helpful.
14. Feminist Theology's sensitivity to the abusive treatment of women by the church over the years is helpful.
15. Fundamentalist Theology's sensitivity to separation from worldliness and tenacity for the authority of the Bible is its strength.

Additional resources

http://www.docscrewbanks.com/pdf/different-types-of-theology

http://www.docscrewbanks.com/pdf/christian-denominations-chart

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Comparison between Orthodoxy, Protestantism and Roman Catholicism

http://www.padfield.com/acrobat/taylor/denominations.pdf [PDF]

Topic	Orthodox	Protestant	Roman Catholic
Apostolic Succession	This is an important part of Orthodox belief and ensures continuity with the church that Christ founded.	With the exception of the Anglicans and some Lutherans, this idea is rejected. Rather it is important to emphasise continuity of teaching with that of the apostles, rather than a direct line of succession.	As in Orthodoxy, this is of vital importance to the church. There is also some degree of mutual recognition of the validity of Orthodox ordinations.
Bible - Composition of	Accept the 39 Old Testament and 27 New Testament books, but also a collection of books not found in the original Hebrew Bible. These are known as Deuterocanonicals i.e. a second canon of scripture.	Protestants reject the deuterocanonicals as not being inspired scripture and term them Apocrypha (Greek: 'Hidden Things').	Agrees with Orthodoxy as to the validity of these books.
Clergy - Qualification for	Priests and Bishops must be male, but deaconesses are permitted, though the order is dormant. Priests and deacons may marry before ordination but not after. Bishops, on the other hand, must be celibate.	The majority of Protestants do not require celibacy as a condition of election to the clergy. Many churches practice female ordination, including those within the Anglican communion, where the issue of female episcopacy is currently being discussed.	All clergy are required to be male. Priests and Bishops must also be celibate, with the exception of Eastern Rite Catholics and Anglican married clergy who subsequently convert to Catholicism. These groups are allowed to have married priests.
Eucharist - Significance of	Commonly termed the 'Mystic Supper' or 'Divine Liturgy' - This makes present Christ's sacrifice and therefore forgiveness of sins is obtained through it. It is also an encounter with the Risen Christ.	The Eucharist, like Baptism is only a symbol of grace. The sacrificial nature of the Eucharist is also rejected.	The position is similar to the Orthodox. The Eucharist is also known as the 'Holy sacrifice of the Mass'.
Eucharist - Presence of Christ in	During the Eucharist, the Priest calls down the Holy Spirit (in Greek: epiklesis) upon the gifts (the bread and the wine). They then change into the actual body and blood of Christ. The precise way in which this happens is a divine mystery.	The bread and wine, being symbols, do not change substance. There are however, a wide variety of views held within Protestantism on this subject (e.g. some Anglicans accept the Catholic view, whereas Baptists deny it).	As in Orthodoxy, the Priest invokes the Holy Spirit during the Mass. However, the consecration becomes effective through the Priest, who acts in the person of Christ. The gifts change completely into Christ's body and blood and this change is termed 'Transubstantiation' i.e. the outward appearance remains the same, but the substance changes.
Eucharist - Distribution of	The consecrated elements can only be received by members. Orthodox policy is to have communion in both kinds (i.e. both the bread and wine are given to those present).	The elements are usually offered to all Christians who feel able to partake of them. The vast majority of Protestant churches have communion in both kinds.	As with Orthodoxy, only members of the church may receive. In some Catholic Churches, the bread alone is given to the congregation, the Priest receiving the wine. However, it is becoming common for churches to have communion in both kinds.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Holy Spirit	The third person of the Trinity, proceeding from the Father alone as in the original Nicene Creed. The Father sends the Spirit at the intercession of the Son. The Son is therefore an agent only in the procession of the Spirit.	The Holy Spirit proceeds from both the Father and the Son. The Nicene creed includes the filioque (Latin: 'and the son').	Agrees with the Protestant view. Ambrose of Milan (340-397) wrote: 'When the Holy Spirit proceeds from the Father and the Son, He is not separated from the Father, He is not separated from the Son'.
Marriage and Divorce	Marriage is a mystical union between a man and a woman. Divorce is generally only allowed in cases of adultery, though there are exceptions.	Marriage is a contract, but is not unbreakable. Divorce is discouraged, but permitted as evidence of human weakness. Some denominations permit remarriage in church.	Marriage is seen as an unbreakable contract & a type of Christ and the church. Remarriage after divorce is not permitted unless there is some canonical impediment to the marriage. In this situation, an annulment may be granted.
Mary - Assumption and Immaculate conception of	The Assumption is accepted and it is agreed that Mary experienced physical death, but the Immaculate conception is rejected. Orthodox belief is that the guilt of original sin is not transmitted from one generation to the next, thus obviating the need for Mary to be sinless.	Both are denied. The claim that Mary was sinless is rejected - only Christ was sinless.	Both are dogmas of the church. The church has not as yet decided whether Mary actually experienced Physical death. The dogma of the Immaculate Conception states that Mary, was at conception 'preserved immaculate from all stain of original sin' and should not be confused with the virgin birth.
Mary - Position of	Mary is venerated as Theotokos (Greek: 'God-bearer'). By this is meant that the son she bore was God in human form. She is first amongst the saints and 'ever-virgin'.	Mary was a holy woman who was chosen to bear the Son of God. Her perpetual virginity and intercession are denied.	The view is similar to the Orthodox church - the title 'Mother of God' being used more commonly than Theotokos. This title forms one of the 'Marian Dogmas' of the Church. The others are Mary's perpetual virginity, assumption and immaculate conception.
Pope - Authority of	As the Bishop of Rome, he has a primacy of honour when Orthodox, not of jurisdiction. At present, his primacy is not effective as the papacy needs to be reformed in accordance with Orthodoxy. His authority is thus no greater or lesser than any of his fellow Bishops in the church.	The Pope is the leader of the Catholic church, having no authority to speak for the church as a whole.	The Pope is the 'Vicar of Christ' i.e. the visible head of the church on earth and spiritual successor of St. Peter. He has supreme authority (including that over church councils) within Christendom (The Power of the keys).
Pope - Infallibility of	Papal Infallibility is rejected. The Holy Spirit acts to guide the church into truth through (for example) ecumenical councils. This Orthodoxy recognises the first seven ecumenical councils (325-787) as being infallible.	Protestants also reject Papal infallibility. The only source of infallible teaching is that found in the Bible.	The Pope is infallible when, through the Holy Spirit, he defines a doctrine on faith and morals that is to be held by the whole church. This is a dogma and is therefore a required belief within Catholicism.
Purgatory	An intermediate state between earth and heaven is recognised, but cleansing and purification occur in this life, not the next.	Purgatory is rejected - Christ's death on the cross is sufficient to remove the penalty for all our sins.	A state of cleansing and preparation for heaven. Also a state where the punishment due to unremitted venial sins may be expiated.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Sacraments	There are at least seven Sacraments (known as 'Mysteries' in Orthodoxy): Baptism, Chrismation, Eucharist, Holy Orders, Holy Unction, Marriage (Holy Matrimony) and Penance (Confession). The list is not fixed.	Generally, only two sacraments (also known as Ordinances) are recognised: Baptism and the Eucharist (often called 'Holy Communion' or the 'Lord's Supper').	The number of Sacraments is fixed at seven and is the same list as that in Orthodoxy, with the exception of Chrismation, which is generally known as 'Confirmation'.
Sacraments - Effect of	The Mysteries convey grace to those who participate in them worthily.	There is a diverse range of opinions, but many Protestants regard the Sacraments as symbols or reminders of Grace already given.	Agrees with the Orthodox position. The Sacraments are signs that effect that which they signify.
Saints	A special group of holy people, who are venerated. They may act as intercessors between God and Man and may be invoked in prayer.	All Christians are saints, called to imitate Christ. Only Christ may mediate between God and Man.	The position is very similar to Orthodoxy. For sainthood, it is also required that at least two verifiable miracles have occured as a result of the intercession of that person.
Salvation	Salvation is "faith working through love" and should be seen as a life long process. The Ultimate aim of every Orthodox Christian is to obtain Theosis or union with God. This is done through living a holy life and seeking to draw closer to God.	Salvation is the free and unmerited gift of God to man. It is obtained by grace through faith in Christ alone. Through Christ's atoning sacrifice, we are rendered acceptable to God and judged righteous (justified) in his sight.	Salvation is by grace, specifically sanctifying grace, which is given initially through Baptismal regeneration and then maintained through the Sacraments, which are 'channels of grace'.
Scripture - Importance of	There is one source of divine revelation: Tradition. Scripture forms the oral part, and the writings of saints, decisions of ecumenical councils etc. are also part of it.	Scripture alone is the only infallible guide and the final authority on matters of Christian faith and practice (One of the foundational principles of Protestantism).	Alongside Sacred Scripture, Sacred Tradition (i.e. teachings handed down from Christ and the apostles to the present) are to be considered sources of divine revelation. Tradition and scripture are interpreted by the magisterium or teaching authority of the church.
Worship and Liturgy	The 'Divine Liturgy' is the centre of Orthodox spirituality. Worship is usually in the vernacular, though Greek is also used.	There are a wide variety of worship styles. Examples include the spontaneity of the Pentecostal churches, and the more traditional worship of the Anglican churches in the Catholic tradition.	Worship is centred around the Mass. Following the Vatican II council (1962-5), greater emphasis was placed on worship in the vernacular, though the traditional Latin ('Tridentine') Mass is also used.
Topic	Orthodox	Protestant	Roman Catholic

A Chart of Competing Dogmas…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

A Chart of Competing Dogmas

by Shane Rosenthal

Classical Protestant	Catholic	Evangelical	Liberal Protestant	Naturalism
View of God? God is personal (Trinitarian). Immanence and transcendence affirmed (Jer. 23:23). Only faith in Christ gives access to God (Rom 5:1-2)	View of God? God is personal (Trinitarian). Transcendence is emphasized such that Christ himself is seen as inaccessible, hence: "To Jesus through Mary"	View of God? God is personal (Trinitarian). Strong emphasis on God's immanence, hence a relationship with God as one's best friend is stressed	View of God? God is impersonal (often this goes in pantheistic directions). More emphasis is placed on transcendence	View of God? God does not exist. Since this world is all there is, nothing transcends. There is only entertainment here and now
How do you know God? God has revealed himself in nature, in history, and the pages of Scripture (General & Special Revelation)	How do you know God? Through Scripture & Authoritative Tradition. Medieval mysticism: the sense of the divine / the beatific vision	How do you know God? Through my experience and relationship with him. It just works (pragmatism). "I just choose to believe" (fideism)	How do you know God? The sense of the divine. Faith as a blind leap. Feeling of absolute dependence. "I know God in community."	Why don't you believe in God? Science has settled the question. Faith is an irrational leap. All religion is superstition. Matter is all there is (materialism)
Who is Jesus? Jesus is the Messiah: God in human flesh. He proved his identity by his resurrection from the dead, and will come again	Who is Jesus? Similar to the Protestant position. More emphasis placed on his divine transcendence.	Who is Jesus? Jesus is God in human flesh. Practical emphasis is on his role as a teacher, helper, therapist, life-coach and friend	Who was Jesus? Jesus was an enlightened teacher. He was not divine, but shows us all the way to God	Who was Jesus? Jesus, if he existed, was a Gandhi-like teacher who focused on peace, love and sharing our toys. Political messiahs fill a void
Creeds, Dogma, Theology? Facts + meaning = doctrine. Creeds are expressions the church's timeless convictions. We should know what we believe and why we believe it	Creeds, Dogma, Theology? Creeds are expressions the church's timeless convictions, but these are equal in authority with Scripture, since the Spirit inspired both	Creeds, Dogma, Theology? "I don't want to know about god" Knowledge puffs up, we should focus on practical matters. "Deeds not Creeds" / No creed but Christ	Creeds, Dogma, Theology? Doctrine divides; service unites. Church creeds are "outdated expressions of the superstition of earlier generations" (Fosdick). Social activism preferred	Creeds, Dogma, Theology? Dogma / competing religions keep us from our utopian dream. "Imagine there's no heaven, it's easy if you try. No hell below us above us only sky..."
Heaven & Hell? Heaven & Hell really exist, and history is moving in this direction	Heaven & Hell? Heaven & Hell really exist, and history is moving in this direction	Heaven & Hell? Heaven & Hell really exist, and history is moving in this direction	Heaven & Hell? Heaven and Hell as classically understood do not exist. We should strive to make heaven a reality here on earth	Heaven & Hell? This world is all there is. Thus, heaven & hell are states of mind. Hence the phrases, "I'm in heaven," or "war is hell"
Essence of Christianity? Christ died and was raised for our justification. Focus is on what God did 2000 years ago, proclaimed through word & sacrament	Essence of Christianity? God has made salvation possible through the work of Christ, mediated through the church and a person's cooperation w/grace.	Essence of Christianity? Christianity is not a religion but a relationship. Focus is on what God is doing in my life now. "Practical Christian Living," "The Worship experience."	Essence of Christianity? Christianity is primarily a vehicle primarily for communal and social transformation. Focus is on what we are doing for God in the world right now	Essence of Christianity? At its root it's superstition. But functionally it's about community providing a sense of meaning, values, and comfort (like all other religions)

Classical Protestant	Catholic	Evangelical	Liberal Protestant	Naturalism
What is the Bible? A collection of ancient texts (history, poetry, wisdom, etc), all telling one story of God's self revelation unfolding through time. The story of redemptive history	What is the Bible? Similar to the Protestant view. Scripture however is of equal weight with tradition	What is the Bible? The Bible is primarily viewed as the owner's manual for life, or God's little instruction book. The focus is on practical and therapeutic utility	What is the Bible? A collection of morality tales similar to Aesop's Fables. The point isn't redemptive history, but timeless eternal principles	What is the Bible? Primarily viewed as a work of fiction and superstition that encourages bigotry & narrow mindedness
How is one Justified? By grace alone through faith alone, rooted in the finished work of Christ alone	How is one Justified? By faith working through love	How is one Justified? We're justified by the one act of faith; by making a decision to follow Jesus	How is one Justified? Justification implies God is an angry authoritarian deity. He, she, it accepts us as we are	How is one Justified? No God, no need for justification All guilt is psychological
How Should We Then Live? We live lives of thankfulness and gratitude. We worship God in church (corporately), and in the context of our callings (serving others with our gifts)	How Should We Then Live? Good works / indulgences reduce one's time in purgatory. Worship is almost exclusively formal (taking place within the walls of the church)	How Should We Then Live? Emphasis on private / individual spirituality. My personal prayer life, devotion, and religious experiences	How Should We Then Live? Emphasis on social responsibility Social activism / equality for all, "participating with God in the redemption of the world." Liberation theology	How Should We Then Live? Since there are no authorities, life is about personal comfort and pleasure. Socially, the highest good amounts to sharing the world's goods and resources
How do you persuade others? Catechize children. Share the good news with outsiders. Be patient, respectful and winsome. As in Acts, share what you believe & why. Pray for God's regenerating grace	How do you persuade others? Though there are some exceptions, modern Catholics have not emphasized private personal evangelism. Strong emphasis on the catechism of the young. Still, biblical ignorance / moralistic therapeutic deism are significant problems	How do you persuade others? Share with others what God has done in your life. Be a friend. Let your life be a testimony to others. Youth are not well instructed in the faith, biblical ignorance / moralistic therapeutic deism are significant problems	How do you persuade others? Actions speak louder than words. "Preach the gospel at all times, when necessary, use words." Social gospel / soup kitchen evangelism. The gospel is the soup. Youth often grow up wondering "Why go to church?"	How do you persuade others? Through elites in positions in power, who control the conversation in education and media. Today's youth do not have to study naturalism or pluralism, it's the default position
What is Faith? Faith is knowledge, assent & trust. It's the empty hand that receives	What is Faith? Faith is one of the cardinal virtues	What is Faith? Faith is blind, but proved by experience. It's an act of the will	What is Faith? Faith is possibility thinking, feeling of dependence, having hope for the future, a blind leap	What is Faith? Faith is blind superstition. Faith is opposed to reason
What is the Church? Invisible: The communion of saints throughout history. Visible: the institution in which word and sacrament are rightly preached / administered. Predominantly linked with folk culture	What is the Church? The church is a divine institution consisting of a strictly ordered hierarchy (Pope, Cardinals, Bishops, Priests, Deacons, Laypersons, etc.). Linked with high culture	What is the Church? Sometimes it means all Christians throughout the world. But mostly it refers to the place Christians go on Sunday for a worship experience, fellowship, and a moral pep-talk. Linked with low / pop culture	What is the Church? The church is a social institution on par with the Rotary Club. Importance of tradition and community. Linked with elite / high culture	What is the Church? The church is either associated with the building itself or the social institution (which provides a sense of community).

White Horse Inn • www.whitehorseinn.org • 1725 Bear Valley Parkway, Escondido, CA 92027 • Last revision 7.25.13

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Church Traditions

Popular Holidays and Celebrations

Sacraments

Customs / Rituals

Catechism

Symbols

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Church Traditions / Customs / Sacraments / Rituals

Popular Christian Holidays and Celebrations

See the following articles / publications:

Occult Holidays or God's Holy Days—Which?

Christmas: The Greatest Story NEVER Told

TheMessianicFeast.com (the truth about The Last Supper / Eucharist; Good Friday; Easter)

Rome's Challenge to The Protestants (re: the Sabbath)

Which Day is the True Christian Sabbath--the True Lord's Day?

See also:

The Two Babylons

When Was Jesus Born? (In this Appendix) – including "How December 25 Became Christmas" and other information regarding the incidents in the Bible that surround the account of Jesus' birth.

ReligiousFacts: What Is Christmas?

Catholic Encyclopedia: Christmas (origin and history)

History Channel – Christmas

Did the Romans Invent Christmas?

CARM: Origin of Christmas

Additional history and Christian perspectives on the Celebration of Christmas:

Truth Or Tradition (Passion For Truth Ministries) [also discusses Easter] https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=S8sKNOxyd8w [Video] https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=PNuIz63zBjM [Video] (alternate) https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=YEeBzIoQVS0 [Video] (alternate)

See also*: The Virgin Birth of the Jesus

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Should We Celebrate Christmas? (Pro or Con)

http://www.livescience.com/25779-christmas-traditions-history-paganism.html (no position)

http://www.hope-of-israel.org/cmas1.htm (Con)

http://realtruth.org/articles/169-ttooc.html (Con)

http://www.simpletoremember.com/vitals/Christmas_TheRealStory.htm (Con)

http://www.bibleanswerstand.org/QA_Christmas.htm (Pro/Con)

http://www.scionofzion.com/celebrate_christmas.htm (Pro/Con)

http://www.familyministries.com/secular_customs.htm (Pro/Con) [also Easter, Halloween]

http://www.patheos.com/blogs/christiancrier/2015/11/27/why-do-christians-celebrate-christmas-on-december-25th/ (Pro)

http://www.biblebb.com/files/tonyqa/tc04-168.htm (Pro/Con)

http://www.christianpost.com/news/christmas-should-christians-celebrate-holidays-131471/ (Pro/Con) [also Easter, Halloween]

http://www.eliyah.com/paganexp.html (Con) [also Easter]

http://www.nowtheendbegins.com/christians-celebrating-christmas/ (Pro) [also Easter]

http://www.wordoftruthradio.com/questions/54.html (Pro)

http://www.neverthirsty.org/pp/corner/read1/r00368.html (Pro/Con) [also Easter]

http://www.jesus-is-savior.com/Believer%27s%20Corner/christmas.htm (Pro/Con) [also Halloween, Easter]

http://lifehopeandtruth.com/life/plan-of-salvation/holy-days-vs-holidays/christmas/ (Con)

http://www.godandscience.org/doctrine/celebrate_christmas.html (Pro/Con) [also Easter – Pro]

http://www.desiringgod.org/interviews/should-christians-celebrate-christmas (Pro) [John Piper]

http://www.crosswalk.com/church/pastors-or-leadership/should-christians-celebrate-christmas-and-the-birth-of-jesus-christ-11562388.html (Pro) [Anti-materialism]

https://carm.org/can-christians-celebrate-christmas (Pro)

http://www.eaec.org/bibleanswers/christmas/christians_and_christmas.htm (Con) [Jewish Christian perspective]

http://www.rapidnet.com/~jbeard/bdm/Psychology/xmas/celeb.htm (Con)

https://bible.org/article/should-christians-celebrate-christmas (Pro) [but with proper focus/understanding]

http://www.gotquestions.org/Christian-Christmas.html (Pro)

http://www.equip.org/article/should-christians-celebrate-christmas/ (Pro) [With some caveats, looks at how God also replaced some pagan festivals in OT]

See also*: The Virgin Birth of the Jesus

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Church Sacraments

Skip to Baptism

The Roman Catholic Church recognizes seven (7) holy sacraments: Baptism, Eucharist (Holy Communion), Confirmation, Reconciliation (Penance), Anointing of the sick (Extremeunction), Marriage, Holy orders. (See also: Wikipedia)

Most Protestant churches recognize just two (2) sacraments: Eucharist (Holy Communion or Lord's Supper) and Baptism, although there are many variations and nuances regarding what are considered sacraments and/or "sacramental acts". We will focus on just the two (Eucharist and Baptism).

Note: The word "Eucharist," often used to refer to the Lord's Supper (or Last Supper), is derived from the Greek term used in Mark 14:23 which means gave thanks.

Last Supper (Eucharist) [also called "Holy Communion" / "Lord's Supper"]

"What are some of the historical reasons for why there are denominational Holy Communion (Eucharist) differences today between using leavened and unleavened bread?":

http://oca.org/questions/divineliturgy/leavened-bread-vs.-unleavened http://www.catholic.com/quickquestions/eastern-rite-catholics-use-leavened-bread-in-holy-communion-but-roman-rite-catholics-

http://www.dummies.com/how-to/content/the-split-that-created-roman-catholics-and-eastern.html

First, some background history… [Skip to end of this history excerpt]

THE JEWISH DISCONNECT AND THE FOURTEENTHERS

This chapter will clarify a major segment of Jewish history that has not been accurately told before—not by Christian sources, by Jewish encyclopedias, or Dimont's Jewish histories. Specifically, it discusses the complete disconnect with all things Jewish that occurred when the early assemblies—with their many Messianic Jewish believers—were taken over by Rome.[1]

To the Jews, these believers in Christ became "Christians" who were therefore no longer acknowledged as truly Jewish. To the Roman Christians, these people were "Judaizers"[2] who continued to keep their Jewish customs while refusing to go along with the new Roman teachings. Therefore neither side has told this story accurately, as both sides rejected these early Messianic believers. We will cover at least some of the story of these early Messianic Jews and the rejection and persecution they suffered, for this sets the stage for the complete disconnect.

❦

Early Messianic Jews were derisively called "Quartodecimans," a Latin term with a heretical sound to it; anyone with that strange name must have been a heretic, or so we have been told. However, once we translate this simple term meaning "Fourteenthers" into English, it becomes evident who Rome thought the heretics were—those Jewish believers who observed the 14th day of Nisan,[3] as their families had done since the time of Moses. Nisan was the Israelite month in which the Passover was to be celebrated each year—on the 14th day.

> NIV Numbers 28:16 "On the fourteenth day of the first month the LORD's Passover is to be held."

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Throughout this discussion, I will use the English translation of “Fourteenthers,” as it more accurately describes who these people were. Just as the Protestants would later be called heretics and be punished by Roman authorities, so it was with the original Messianic Jews.

Before delving deeper into this part of Jewish history, though, it is important to realize that many Jewish people were scattered from Israel to the region between the Black Sea and the Mediterranean, then known as Asia. Paul spent much of his time preaching and teaching among these “Asiatics,” as they were called. Peter also wrote to these Jews of “the dispersion” (diaspora in Greek):

> NAB 1 Peter 1:1 Peter, an apostle of Jesus Christ, to the chosen sojourners of the dispersion in Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia, and Bithynia,

Although the Asiatic assemblies were to a large degree Jewish, they also contained many Gentile believers. But from this history, we can see that Jewish concepts and customs were more prevalent among them than the traditions that would develop later in Rome.

In the book of Revelation, the Messiah directed John to write to the seven assemblies that were spread across Asia:

> DBY Revelation 1:4–5 John to the seven assemblies which*are* in Asia: Grace to you and peace from him who is, and who was, and who is to come; and from the seven Spirits which are before his throne; and from Jesus Christ, the faithful witness, the firstborn from the dead, and the prince of the kings of the earth ....

> DBY Revelation 1:11 saying, What thou seest write in a book, and send to the seven assemblies: to Ephesus, and to Smyrna, and to Pergamos, and to Thyatira, and to Sardis, and to Philadelphia, and to Laodicea.

Jesus understood that these believers in Asia were already facing persecution and difficulties, so he specifically directed John to write words of comfort and teaching to them. It’s worth emphasizing this point, because Rome painted these Asiatics as a fringe group of heretics, and mocked them as “Quartodecimans” for refusing to observe the rituals that had developed in Rome.

Proud Rome had taken over Israel and destroyed the Temple, so it definitely was not going to take instructions on religion from its vanquished foe. As history played out, this was how the complete Jewish disconnect occurred.

The Beginnings of the Dispute

What had begun as a strictly Jewish phenomenon—the understanding that the Messiah had come and redeemed Israel and all believers back to God—was eventually taken over by Rome and turned into something from which Jews were rejected. Rome introduced new religious dogmas, rituals, and decrees that were based on neither the true teachings of the Messiah nor on those of the Jewish apostles.

For example, whereas many of the believing Jews continued to observe the 14th-day Passover in some form, Rome instead held an Easter Sunday celebration. This led to disputes as Asiatics continued to celebrate the 14th day instead of obeying Roman decrees to celebrate Easter. This following quote from McClintock and Strong’s Cyclopedia shows the Asiatics’ refusal to convert to the new Roman decrees:

> The Asiatics remained unconverted and unconvinced, and continued to observe the 14th of Nisan as a day of mixed character, fasting till the ninth hour, and then rejoicing for the achieved work of man’s redemption.[4]

Jewish Messianic believers fasted until the ninth hour (about 3 PM) on this 14th day, and the following scriptures reveal why this time was important to them:

> NAS Matthew 27:46 And about the ninth hour Jesus cried out with a loud voice, saying, “Eli, Eli, lama sabachthani?” that is, “My God, My God, why hast Thou forsaken Me?”

> NAS John 19:30 When Jesus therefore had received the sour wine, He said, “It is finished!” And He bowed His head, and gave up His spirit.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Fourteenthers fasted until the time that Jesus said, “It is finished,” indicating that he had finished the work (that God had called him to) by paying the penalty for sin. Although historically Jews had never fasted during the 14th-day Passover, McClintock and Strong explain that the Messianic Jews added this partial-day fast as a tradition to honor the fact that Jesus was on the cross during this time. They ended their fast at the ninth hour, the time that his death fulfilled the Passover:

> The Western and more Catholic rule was to observe theFriday preceding the Easter-Sunday as a rigid fast, the Church identifying the apostles’ sorrowing with their own, and the fast was not resolved till Easter-morn; while the Asiatic Quartodecimani party regarded the 14th of Nisanfrom a doctrinal point of view as the commemoration-day of man’s redemption; and at the hour in which our Lord said “It is finished,” i.e. at three o’clock in the afternoon, the fast was brought to an end (Eusebius Hist. Eccl. 5:23), and the day closed with the collective Agape and celebration of the Lord’s Supper.[5]

❦

This difference of opinion as to keeping the 14th day special first became evident around AD 150 when Polycarp, a prominent Fourteenther and leader in the Asiatic Assembly of Smyrna, was sojourning in Rome and met with the Roman bishop Anicetus.

In his History of the Christian Church, 19th-century church historian Philip Schaff discusses the early history of this dispute. This major point of contention would eventually lead to the rejection of all things Jewish, as well as to the introduction of many Roman rituals. Below, Schaff shows that Rome did not observe the 14th day (and instead had an Easter/Astarte Sun-day celebration), but that Polycarp and the Asiatics did keep the 14th day special:

> We have a brief, but interesting account of this dispute by Irenaeus, a pupil of Polycarp, which is as follows:
>
> “When the blessed Polycarp sojourned at Rome in the days of Anicetus, and they had some little difference of opinion likewise with regard to other points, they forthwith came to a peaceable understanding on this head [the observance of Easter], having no love for mutual disputes. For neither could Anicetus persuade Polycarp not to observe inasmuch as he [Polycarp] had always observed with John, the disciple of our Lord, and the other apostles, with whom he had associated; nor did Polycarp persuade Anicetus to observe Gr. (τήρειν) who said that he was bound to maintain the custom of the presbyters (= bishops) before him. These things being so, they communed together; and in the church Anicetus yielded to Polycarp, out of respect no doubt, the celebration of the eucharist,[6] and they separated from each other in peace, all the church being at peace, both those that observed and those that did not observe [the fourteenth of Nisan], maintaining peace.”
>
> This letter proves that the Christians of the days of Polycarp knew how to keep the unity of the Spirit without uniformity of rites and ceremonies. “The very difference in our fasting,” says Irenaeus in the same letter, “establishes the unanimity in our faith.”[7]

So we see that Romans did not keep the 14th day special, which was fine since under the New Covenant they were no longer bound to keep the Sabbaths and the Feasts. However, Rome did begin to disapprove of the Asiatic Fourteenthers who continued to celebrate the 14th-day Passover as a “commemoration-day of man’s redemption,” as previously noted.

In the quote above, Irenaeus also mentioned a difference in the Roman fasting, which at one point lasted a full week as opposed to the Asiatic custom of fasting only until the ninth hour on the fourteenth day, the time in which the Messiah said “it is finished.”

As an aside, The Jewish Encyclopedia also shows that Jewish scholars of long ago believed that man’s redemption as brought by the Messiah would take place at the Passover, just as had happened with the original Passover under Moses:

> What Moses, the first redeemer, did is typical of what the Messiah as the last redeemer of Israel will do (Eccl. R. i. 9). The redemption will be in the same month of Nisan and in the same night (Mek., Bo, 14);[8]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Fourteenthers Lay Out Their Case to Rome

The dispute grew more intense in the period between AD 190 and 194, when Victor was bishop of Rome. At this time Rome dramatically escalated pressure on the Fourteenthers to drop their 14th-day Passover commemoration and to adopt Easter and other Roman rituals and doctrines instead.

Schaff, in his History of the Christian Church, sums it up:

> The Roman bishop Victor, a very different man from his predecessor Anicetus, required the Asiatics, in an imperious tone, to abandon their Quartadecimanian practice.
>
> Against this Polycrates, bishop of Ephesus, solemnly protested in the name of a synod held by him, and appealed to an imposing array of authorities for their primitive custom. Eusebius has preserved his letter, which is quite characteristic.[9]

The Roman historian Eusebius (AD 263–339), mentioned above, brings this out in his own Church History. Eusebius makes it clear that this whole dispute and anger from Rome arose because Jewish believers continued to celebrate the 14th day rather than fasting and mourning as Rome had prescribed. The Asiatic bishops were led by Polycrates, who wrote the following letter of protest to the Roman bishop Victor, as Eusebius recorded below:

> We observe the genuine day; neither adding thereto nor taking there from. For in Asia great lights have fallen asleep, which shall rise again in the day of the Lord's appearing, in which he will come with glory from heaven, and will raise up all the saints: Philip, one of the twelve apostles, who sleeps in Hierapolis ... moreover, John, who rested upon the bosom of our Lord, who was also a priest, and bore the sacerdotal plate, both a martyr and teacher; he is buried in Ephesus. Also Polycarp of Smyrna, both bishop andmartyr, and Thraseas, both bishop and martyr of Eumenia, who sleeps in Smyrna. Why should I mention Sagaris, bishop and martyr, who sleeps in Laodicea; moreover, the blessed Papirius, and Melito, the eunuch [celibate] ... who now rests in Sardis .... All these observed the fourteenth day of the Passover according to the gospel, deviating in no respect, but following the rule of faith.
>
> Moreover, I, Polycrates, who am the least of you, according to the tradition of my relatives, some of whom I have followed .... my relatives always observed the day when the people of the Jews[10] threw away the leaven. I, therefore, brethren, am now sixty-five years in the Lord ... and having studied the whole of the Sacred Scriptures, am not at all alarmed at those things with which I am threatened, to intimidate me. For they who are greater than I have said, "we ought to obey God rather than men." ... I could also mention the bishops that were present, whom you requested me to summon, and whom I did call; whose names would present a great number, but who seeing my slender body consented to my epistle, well knowing that I did not wear my gray hairs for nought, but that I did at all times regulate my life in the Lord Jesus.[11]

Schaff explains further that "Victor turned a deaf ear to this remonstrance, branded the Asiatics as heretics, and threatened to excommunicate them."

Notice above how many of the Fourteenthers mentioned by Polycrates were killed (martyred), and yet Polycrates is not at all alarmed at those things with which "I am threatened, to intimidate me." Clearly Polycrates's Christ-like spirit is in marked contrast to Roman bishop Victor's disagreeable demeanor. What was so horrible that Rome needed to excommunicate these mostly Messianic Jews for simply keeping the 14th day in a way that they felt honored the Lord?

Victor ordered synods to be held and that "the more Catholic rule was everywhere pronounced to be binding."[12] In spite of this decree, many Asiatic believers did not yield to Roman threats but continued to keep the 14th day in accordance with their long Jewish history and custom.

These escalating Roman threats led Irenaeus, a Fourteenther and disciple of Polycarp, to see the writing on the wall, and he sought to avert a potential bloodbath by appealing for peace. He wrote to his fellow Fourteenthers who were ignoring Rome's decrees and reproved them for risking their lives to keep a day that was no longer required to be kept in the New Covenant:

> The apostles have ordered that we should "judge no one in meat or in drink, or in respect to a feast-day or a new moon or a sabbath day" (Col. 2:16). Whence then these wars? Whence these schisms? We keep the feasts, but in the leaven of malice by tearing the church of God > and observing what is outward, in order to reject what is better, faith and charity.[13]That such feasts and fasts are displeasing to the Lord, we have heard from the Prophets.[14]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Messianic Jews had every right to keep the 14th day special, and yet as the danger escalated to the point where more people were losing their lives, Irenaeus appealed for peace and common ground. But other Messianic Jews wanted to draw the line in the sand with Rome and continued to honor this ancient feast and the Messiah's fulfillment of the Passover in the way they felt was proper. They did not want Rome dictating doctrine to them, and justifiably so.

The Fourteenthers Knew the Crucifixion Day Was the Fourteenth

When one studies this history in depth, it becomes evident that the earliest Jewish and Gentile believers understood that Jesus was crucified on the 14th of Nisan and therefore could not have eaten the Jewish Passover at the Last Supper. Greek scholar and commentator Brooke Foss Westcott pointed this out many years ago:

> Now, as far as it appears, early tradition is nearly unanimous in fixing the Crucifixion on the 14th, and in distinguishing the Last Supper from the legal Passover. This distinction is expressly made by Apollinaris, Clement of Alexandria, Hippolytus, Tertullian, Irenaeus, who represent very different sections of the early Church.[15]

Contrary to what almost all commentators believe today, these early Messianic followers knew Jesus did not eat a Passover at the Last Supper, but rather was crucified on the 14th day of Nisan and thus fulfilled the Passover.

The Catholic Encyclopedia is honest in admitting that the historical evidence from writers of the first two centuries does not positively support their early point of view—that of Jesus eating the 14th-day Passover at the Last Supper—and that this early history connects the 14th-day Passover to the day of the Crucifixion:

> Again, there is the problem, much debated by modern scholars, whether the Pasch which the early Christians desired to commemorate was primarily the passion or the Resurrection of Christ. Upon this point our data also do not admit of a very positive answer. It has been very strongly urged that the writers of the first two centuries who speak of the Pasch have always in view the Pasch πάσχασταυρώσμιον, the Crucifixion day, when Jesus Christ himself was offered as a victim, the antitype of the Jewish Paschal lamb.[16]

Westcott also adds:

> ... but Photius expressly notices that two writers who differed widely on other points of the Paschal controversy agreed on fixing the Passion on the 14th, contrary to the later opinion of the Church, and therefore reserves the question for examination.[17]

It must be understood that this conviction held by the Fourteenthers—that Jesus was crucified on the 14th day—was "contrary to the later opinion of the Church." As the Church in Rome grew stronger and eventually evolved into the Roman Catholic Church, the Catholic tradition of Christ eating the Passover at the Last Supper became fixed as doctrine. Uniformity of doctrine was commanded by Roman religious leaders, and all were to believe that Jesus was crucified on "Good Friday" (the 15th of Nisan) after having eaten the Passover on the 14th. This Roman doctrine of celebrating Easter Sunday became law at the Council of Nicaea in AD 325.

So powerful did this Roman Church become that it saw itself as having the authority to excommunicate, punish, and even kill those who did not believe in its doctrines. Not surprisingly, having the backing of the mighty Roman military at its disposal heavily aided the spread of its doctrine.

❦

One Fourteenther who knew this doctrine to be false was Hippolytus, whom Westcott mentions, and below we see that he also placed the Crucifixion on the 14th day. In his book Against all Heresies, Hippolytus wrote the following, correcting another writer who had fallen into error by believing that

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Christ ate the Passover at the Last Supper and was then crucified the day after the Passover, on the 15th day:

> I perceive, then, that the matter is one of contention. For he speaks thus: Christ kept the supper, then, on that day, and then suffered; whence it is needful that I, too, should keep it in the same manner as the Lord did. But he has fallen into error by not perceiving that at the time when Christ sufferedHe did not eat the passover of the law. For He was the passover that had been of old proclaimed, and that was fulfilled on that determinate day.

Hippolytus continues:

> ... Now that neither in the first nor in the last there was anything false is evident; for he who said of old, "I will not any more eat the passover," probably partook of supperbefore the passover. But the passover He did not eat, but He suffered; for it was not the time for Him to eat.[18]

Hippolytus agreed with the scriptures that the Passover was not to be two days in a row; this would be contrary to God's law. He states that at the Last Supper, "the Passover he did not eat" for "it was not the time for him to eat." Furthermore, he wrote that Jesus was the Passover "that was fulfilled on that determinate day," which Acts 2:23 bears out as the determinate day by God's foreknowledge and the reason that He commanded the 14th-day Passover to Moses:

> NAS Acts 2:23 this Man, delivered up by the predetermined plan and foreknowledge of God, you nailed to a cross by the hands of godless men and put Him to death.

Westcott also included Clement of Alexandria as an early church writer who believed the Crucifixion was on the 14th day. Below we see Clement's extremely telling words quoted in the Paschal Chronicle:

> Accordingly, in the years gone by, Jesus went to eat the passover sacrificed by the Jews, keeping the feast. But when he had preached He who was the Passover, the Lamb of God, led as a sheep to the slaughter, presently taught His disciples the mystery of the type on the thirteenth day, on which also they inquired, "Where wilt Thou that we prepare for Thee to eat the passover?" It was on this day, then, that both the consecration of the unleavened bread and the preparation for the feast took place. Whence John naturally describes the disciples as already previously prepared to have their feet washed by the Lord. And on the following day our Saviour suffered, He who was the Passover, propitiously sacrificed by the Jews.[19]

Clement of Alexandria continues:

> Suitably, therefore, to the fourteenth day, on which He also suffered, in the morning, the chief priests and the scribes, who brought Him to Pilate, did not enter the Praetorium, that they might not be defiled, but might freely eat the passoverin the evening. With this precise determination of the days both the whole Scriptures agree, and the Gospels harmonize. The resurrection also attests it. He certainly rose on the third day, which fell on the first day of the weeks of harvest, on which the law prescribed that the priest should offer up the sheaf.[20]

Notice that Clement states that the disciples asked their question on the thirteenth day, when they are concerned with preparing and making ready a location for the soon-coming 14th-day Passover Feast; since Christ was crucified the following day, we see that the Fourteenthers were correct in understanding that he died on the Passover.

Westcott also mentions Claudius Apollinaris—bishop of Hierapolis—as one of those who understood the 14th-day Crucifixion. Consider what Apollinaris wrote around AD 150 concerning those who "err" by believing that Jesus was crucified on the 15th day:

> They err, who affirm that our Lord ate the Passover on the 14th of Nisan with his disciples, and that he died on the great day of unleavened bread (i.e. the fifteenth). They maintain that

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

> Matthew records the event as they have imagined it; but their notion agrees not with the law; and thereby the Gospels are made to wear a contradictory appearance[21]

The Fourteenthers understood Jewish law and knew that Jewish authorities would not allow crucifixions in Israel on this holy 15th-day Sabbath, nor could Jesus have sacrificed a Passover the day before the 14th when he was crucified. Apollinaris pointed out how this "notion" that Jesus ate the Passover and then was crucified on the 15th-day Sabbath "agrees not with the law." Even today commentators argue that the Gospels show "a contradictory appearance," with John portraying Christ as having been crucified as the 14th-day Passover while the Synoptic Gospels (Matthew, Mark, and Luke) portray him actually eating the 14th-day Passover.

Later in this book, the chapter "Three Major Greek Keys That Unlock the Gospels" shows that the Gospels—when interpreted correctly—all harmonize perfectly, which is what we should expect.[22]

Schaff includes an important additional part of this quote from Apollinaris that McClintock and Strong (above) left out:

> The Fourteenth is the true Passover of the Lord, the great sacrifice, the Son of God in the place of the lamb ... who was lifted up upon the horns of the unicorn[23] ... and who was buried on the day of the Passover, the stone having been placed upon his tomb.[24]

As seen when the two parts of the quote appear together, Apollinaris plainly wrote that in misinterpreting Matthew, "they err" who believe that Jesus ate the 14th-day Passover at the Last Supper, then suffered on the 15th day; thus he clearly agrees with the Fourteenthers that the 14th was the true day that the Messiah suffered and was buried.

Roman Emperor Constantine Imposes His Will on the Fourteenthers

The Fourteenthers knew that the 14th day was the Crucifixion, which is a major part of why they venerated it. However, as we've seen, Rome did not care for the Jewish details. As Schaff points out below, Roman custom was not based on doctrinal facts but was more ritualistic in observance:

> The Roman custom represented the principle of freedom and discretionary change, and the independence of the Christian festival system. Dogmatically stated, the difference would be, that in the former case the chief stress was laid on the Lord's death; in the latter, on his resurrection. But the leading interest of the question for the early Church was not the astronomical, nor the dogmatical, but the ritualistic. The main object was to secure uniformity of observance, and to assert the originality of the Christian festival cycle, and its independence of Judaism: for both reasons the Roman usage at last triumphed even in the East.[25]

The apostles never said anything about a ritualistic "Christian festival system." They knew that the festivals pointed to a spiritual fulfillment, as we will see throughout this book. What Schaff calls the "Christian festival cycle" was, in reality, a creation of Rome as it began linking pagan celebrations to Christian concepts.

As mentioned earlier, part of the Roman Church's bitterness arose because it had prescribed a weeklong fast for its Easter celebration. Yet the Messianic Fourteenthers fasted for only part of one day—until the ninth hour (about 3 PM) on the 14th day, marking the time Christ the Messiah said, "It is finished."

Then, because of differences between the Jewish and Roman calendars, the more Jewish-leaning assemblies were sometimes rejoicing in the Feast (Deuteronomy 16:14) and the finished work of the Messiah while the Roman Church was still fasting and mourning.

Schaff addressed Rome's bitterness over this:

> This Roman practice created an entire holy week of solemn fasting and commemoration of the Lord's passion, while the Asiatic practice ended the fast on the 14th of Nisan, which may fall sometimes several days before Sunday. Hence a spectacle shocking to the catholic sense of ritualistic propriety and uniformity was frequently presented to the world, that one part of Christendom was fasting and mourning over the death of our Saviour, while the other part rejoiced in the glory of the resurrection.[26]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Jewish believers, of course, were not at all interested in the weeklong Roman fasting and mourning, or in the Easter (Astarte) celebrations. Eventually this Roman fast developed into a 40-day one, which, as Alexander Hyslop shows in his The Two Babylons,[27]originated from a different fast of the same length. This fast marked weeping and mourning for the false deity Tammuz, who was the consort of Ishtar, the springtime goddess of fertility. (Ishtar is the same as Ashtoreth, or Astarte in Greek, which evolved into *Easter*in English.) Even some Israelites observed this ritual weeping and mourning for Tammuz (Ezekiel 8:14).

In the Catholic Church, this lengthy fast (a giving up certain foods or activities) later became Lent, which starts a little more than 40 days before Easter on Ash Wednesday. During Lent, some adherents rub ashes on their foreheads in the sign of a cross to show mourning. What had begun as a true moving of God's spirit among Roman believers[28] was eventually taken over; thus, these spring deities were incorporated into what had previously been the Messianic celebration of Passover and the Resurrection (which also occurred during spring) to become Easter.

Jewish scriptures clearly indicated a duty to rejoice at the festivals (Deuteronomy 16:14, 15; Nehemiah 8:9–10), so Messianic Jews would not have been interested in Roman Catholic mourning. When the 15th day arrived, Messianic Jews believed they were fulfilling what God's commands through Moses pointed to by rejoicing in the spring Passover Festival as they always had done, only now with the Messianic understanding of the New Covenant. Since many of them had grown up with this Festival and it was deeply connected to their heritage, they wanted to continue celebrating it in some form.

❦

The fourth-century Roman Emperor Constantine was less interested in doctrine and more set on imposing standardized religious practices over the entire Roman Empire. This meant joining some Christian ideas with various pagan ones. At some point, Jesus, for example, was deliberately given the birthday of December 25, because this was understood by pagans as the day the Sun God was reborn after having died at the winter solstice. Every year on December 21 or 22, at the winter solstice—which means "sun standing still" in Latin—the sun completed its circuit and was in the farthest end of its cycle, where it seemed to stand still (die) for three days. Then, as the sun appeared to move again on December 25, it became "reborn."

Many other examples exist of Rome joining pagan beliefs to what had previously been Christianity, such as seen in an ancient tile picture of Christ as Sol Invictus ("invincible sun") that was found at St. Peter's Basilica.

But certain items needed resolution at the famous Catholic Council of Nicaea in AD 325, presided over by Emperor Constantine. The first item on the docket was standardizing the Roman doctrine of the Trinity to become the "Nicene Creed," which we will look at briefly in "Setting the Table 2: Words and Concepts Changed."

The second item to resolve at this Council was the Paschal/Easter controversy and the Jewish Messianic Fourteenthers refusing to observe the prescribed Roman Easter Sunday celebration. In his letter to the churches after the Council of Nicaea, Emperor Constantine addressed this point, stating emphatically that Rome's celebration should have "nothing in common with the perjury of the Jews":

> Let your pious sagacity reflect how evil and improper it is, that days devoted by some to fasting, should be spent by others in convivial feasting; and that after the paschal feast, some are rejoicing in festivals and relaxations, while others give themselves up to the appointed fasts. That this impropriety should be rectified, and that all these diversities of commemoration should be resolved into one form, is the will of divine Providence, as I am convinced you will all perceive. Therefore, this irregularity must be corrected, in order that we may no more have any thing in common with those parricides and the murderers of our Lord.[29]

You can feel Constantine's almost palpable anger at the Messianic Jews for refusing to observe the Roman "appointed fasts." Under the guise of opposition to Judaism, he connected these Messianic believers (and all Jews) to the leaders in Israel who had pushed for Christ's death, thus lumping them all together as heretics—and worse—for not following Rome. It was decreed that no one was to keep the 14th day special, because this was connected to Jewish history and therefore was to be rejected. He continued:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

> An orderly and excellent form of commemoration is observed in all the churches of the western, of the southern, and of the northern parts of the world, and by some of the eastern; this form being universally commended, I engaged that you would be ready to adopt it likewise, and thus gladly accept the rule unanimously adopted in the city of Rome, throughout Italy, in all Africa, in Egypt, the Spains, the Gauls, the Britains, Libya, Greece, in the dioceses of Asia, and of Pontus, and in Cilicia, taking into your consideration not only that the churches of the places above-mentioned are greater in point of number, but also that it is most pious that all should unanimously agree in that course which accurate reasoning seems to demand, and which has no single point in common with the perjury of the Jews.[30]

The Roman emperor closed his letter to the churches by letting them know that whatever Rome decreed was the "Divine will," and all had better submit to it:

> Briefly to summarize the whole of the preceding, the judgment of all is, that the holy Paschal feast should be held on one and the same day; for, in so holy a matter, it is not becoming that any difference of custom should exist, and it is better to follow the opinion which has not the least association with error and sin. This being the case, receive with gladness the heavenly gift and the plainly divine command; for all that is transacted in the holy councils of the bishops is to be referred to the Divine will. Therefore, when you have made known to all our beloved brethren the subject of this epistle, regard yourselves as bound to accept what has gone before ....[31]

In the following, Constantine set the tenor for the Roman-controlled Church. It was now "our holy religion" that would have nothing in common with the Jews, who were to be rejected as "parricides" (quoted earlier) and as "our adversaries":

> By rejecting their custom, we establish and hand down to succeeding ages one which is more reasonable, and which has been observed ever since the day of our Lord's sufferings. Let us, then, have nothing in common with the Jews, who are our adversaries. For we have received from our Saviour another way. A better and more lawful line of conduct is inculcated by our holy religion. Let us with one accord walk therein, my much-honoured brethren, studiously avoiding all contact with that evil way.[32]

A short time after the Council of Nicaea, these Messianic Jewish Fourteenthers were

> "... universally regarded as heretics and were punished as such: The Synod of Antioch, 341, excommunicated them."[33]

From then on, all Messianic Jews who kept their customs and disobeyed the Roman practice of weeklong fasting and mourning at Easter were considered to be heretics and Judaizers. Sadly, the truth of this history is still not understood even today, as Fourteenthers (Quartodecimans) are still written off by most commentators as a fringe group of heretics. However, if that were really the case, the Roman emperor presumably would not have felt the need to hold the Council of Nicaea and write letters to all the churches merely to address a minor aberrant group.

McClintock and Strong mention that the Fourteenthers were being taunted by Rome for honoring the 14th day:

> The Asiatics commemorated the Lord's death on the 14th of Nisan, being guided by the day of the Jewish month, as the more general practice followed the day of the week on which Christ died. They were taunted for the Judaizing practice, though the Church of Rome in its ritual and liturgy had more perhaps in common with the synagogue than the churches of Asia.[34]

A few years later at the Council of Laodicea (AD 364), the Jewish people were again lumped together as heretics by the Catholic Church, as evidenced by the following Council canons:

> 29. Christians must not judaize by resting on the Sabbath, butmust work on that day, rather honouring the Lord's Day; and, if they can, resting then as Christians. But if any shall be found to be judaizers, let them be anathema[35] from Christ.[36]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

One of the following canons from the same Council deals with phylacteries, which were small leather boxes containing a few Bible verses. Many Jews wore a phylactery, believing that the words of Moses (i.e., in Deuteronomy 6:8; 11:18; Exodus 13:9, 16) were to be taken literally. Jesus wore tassels on his garments, as did many Jews (Numbers 15:38, 39), and "tassel" is usually translated into English as "hem" or "fringe" (Matthew 9:20; 14:36). So it is possible that Jesus would have also been thrown out of the new Roman Church for his Jewish ways:

> 36. Forbids the clergy dealing in magic, and directs that all who wear phylacteries be cast out of the Church.
>
> 37. Forbids fasting with Jews or heretics.
>
> 38. Forbids receiving unleavened bread from Jews.[37]

The Messiah's heart for his people was diametrically opposed to these Council rules—such as throwing out those who wore a phylactery:

> NAS John 6:37 "All that the Father gives Me shall come to Me, and the one who comes to Me I will certainly not cast out."

So although the Messiah told the apostles to gather the lost sheep of the house of Israel, Rome decided to do the opposite of what the Messiah wanted. Rome rejected as adversaries all Jews (including those Fourteenthers who believed in the Messiah) who did not follow Roman decrees. Because of this and many other factors, the Messiah became falsely portrayed as someone who had rejected and forsaken the Jews and all things Jewish.

❦

As an aside, these historical facts are in no way meant to impugn Catholic believers today; I know many honorable Catholic people and my goal is not to create animosity or contention toward them. These facts of history are considered only so we can determine what the Messiah's true intentions were and see how they became confused in Rome. Only by doing this can we see how the various churches came to believe in the doctrines they hold today, and what changes are needed to do God's will.

The Roman Catholic Church has always referred to these Fourteenthers as heretics for continuing their own Jewish heritage and not following Rome's Easter celebrations. Catholics and even other Christian commentators have continued this error, either purposely or accidentally, as seen here in this passage from The Catholic Encyclopedia:

> In the early days of Christianity there existed a difference of opinion between the Eastern and Western Churches as to the day on which Easter ought to be kept, the former keeping it on the fourteenth day and the latter on the Sunday following. To secure uniformity of practice, the Council of Nicaea (325) decreed that the Western method of keeping Easter on the Sunday after the fourteenth day of the moon should be adopted throughout the Church, believing no doubt that this mode fitted in better with the historical facts and wishing to give a lasting proof that the Jewish Passover was not, as theQuartodeciman heretics believed, an ordinance of Christianity.[38]

The Catholic Encyclopedia's statement that these "Quartodeciman heretics believed" that keeping the 14th day special was an "ordinance of Christianity" is totally false, as is much of the historical disinformation about these believers. The Messianic Jews kept this 14th day special as their custom (not by ordinance) because they knew it was the day Jesus finished the work that God had called him to and that it therefore fulfilled the Passover, which was a deep part of their Jewish heritage and which they honored as such. No evidence exists that mainstream Fourteenthers believed everyone should follow this as an ordinance, and they certainly were not celebrating Easter on this 14th day.

Protestant commentators, too, have accepted the Catholic view that these Fourteenthers were heretics or just a fringe group of Judaizers, when in reality they were the main body of the original Messianic Jews. When we read these histories, we must understand that Roman Catholics were mainly concerned that all should celebrate Easter on Sunday in a unified manner—they did not like the confusion caused by these Fourteenthers not observing the Easter celebration.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The following quote from Schaff makes this clear:

> The council of Arles in 314 had already decreed, in its first canon, that the Christian Passover be celebrated "uno die et uno tempore per omnem orbem,"[39] and that the bishops of Rome should fix the time. But as this order was not universally obeyed, the fathers of Nicaea proposed to settle the matter, and this was the second main object of the first ecumenical council in 325. The result of the transactions on this point, the particulars of which are not known to us, does not appear in the canons (probably out of consideration for the numerous Quartodecimanians), but is doubtless preserved in the two circular letters of the council itself and the emperor Constantine. The feast of the resurrection was thenceforth required to be celebrated everywhere on a Sunday, and never on the day of the Jewish passover, but always after the fourteenth of Nisan, on the Sunday after the first vernal full moon. The leading motive for this regulation was opposition to Judaism, which had dishonored the Passover by the crucifixion of the Lord.[40]

As we see in the quote above, Rome wanted all Jewish influence removed so that the new Roman religion could bring in its own doctrines and rituals unchallenged, and this was done under the guise of opposition to Judaism.

To summarize, the history covered here explains how what began as a strictly Jewish phenomenon in Israel—with a Jewish Messiah and Jewish disciples—could become something from which the Jews were seen to be unwelcome. This evolution completed the Jewish disconnect and was the devil's plan to exclude Jews from their own promised New Covenant (see Course 10).

This clear history of the Messiah's Crucifixion on the 14th day is crucial for properly understanding the parables he taught the previous night at the Last Supper, and how these figurative teachings were later misunderstood to be a new ritual, as we will soon see.

We have now laid the groundwork for understanding how such a complete Jewish disconnect could occur, and how the powerful Roman Church assumed a very different stance from what the Messiah wanted or taught. As we've already started to see, this sheds light on how doctrines were changed and new rituals were created that were not based on the original foundation of the Jewish Messiah and his Jewish disciples.

[Source: The Messianic Feast, http://themessianicfeast.com/, "The Jewish Disconnect and the Fourteenthers"]

NOTE: Astronomical science shows that a Passover full moon occurred on Thursday, the 14th of Nisan, in the year AD 30. Jesus was approximately 33½ years old at death, having begun his 3½-year ministry at about age 30 (Luke 3:23). Scholars mostly agree that Rome was off by a couple of years in estimating the beginning date of our calendar, so when taking into account the "zero year" (between 1 BC and AD 1), Jesus would have been born around 4 BC. He did not make it to his 34th birthday, which would have been around September or October of 30 AD.
[Source: The Messianic Feast - http://themessianicfeast.com]

[End of Fourteenthers excerpt]

Did Yehshua Eat Leavened Bread or Unleavened Bread on the Night He was Betrayed?
https://sightedmoon.com/wp-content/uploads/2018/02/Did-Yehshua-Eat-Leaven-Bread-or-Unleavened-Bread-on-the-Night-He-was-betrayed.pdf [pdf] (Includes short history at the end of document of Roman Catholic Church use of leavened/unleavened bread and why it changed from leavened to unleavened bread in the Eucharist.)

Return to the beginning of this The Last Supper (Eucharist) section, see more on following pages…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Q: The bread broken by Jesus and eaten at the Last Supper (described in the Gospels and 1 Corinthians) was which option?…

1. Unleavened Greek: azumós [Unleavened] Hebrew: maṣṣāh, matstsah (matzah,matzo)
2. Leavened Greek: artós (zume) [Bread] Hebrew: lecḥem, (chamets, chametz)

Note: Unleavened bread mentioned in 1 Corinthians 5:7-8; references to the Last Supper: 11:23-26.

References to Last Supper in Gospels and by Paul: I Corinthians 11: 24-25 (Paul); Matthew 26: 21-29; Mark 14: 18-25; Luke 22: 19-38; John 13: 1-38, 14: 1-4. (See corresponding Chart in LXXVI)

Hint: http://www.hope-of-israel.org/matzonot.html [Recommended]

See also Chapters LXXVI and LXXV (and following chapters) with their corresponding notes for more about the Last Supper and the bread.

See notes in Chapter LXXV for information relating to events leading up to the Last Supper.

For charts showing suggested timelines for Jesus' final week, see:
Jesus' Last/Final Week Timelines

Return to the beginning of this The Last Supper (Eucharist) section

See more Last Supper references on following pages…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Examples of Leavened vs Unleavened Bread

Note: Above is Leavened Bread

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Unleavened Bread

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Links to more extensive (and thorough) coverage and explanation of the topic the Eusharist, Lord's Supper vs the Passover meal, and leavened vs leavened bread.

The Messianic Feast
http://themessianicfeast.com/sample-chapters/ (downloadable PDFs for each chapter, except for two of them)

For a relatively short/summarized read on why leavened bread:
"The Body of Christ is not a Matzo" (see also comment about "sop")
http://www.hope-of-israel.org/matzonot.html

For a little more thorough (one long web page) explanation of above:
"Have We Been Neglecting the Sacred Fellowship Meal?"
http://www.hope-of-israel.org/fellmeal.htm

For additional information and perspectives regarding when the Last Supper was eatened:
Christ Our Passover
http://www.separationtruth.com/resources/Christ+Our+Passover+new.pdf [PDF]

Additional links regarding Lord's Supper NOT Passover meal and bread is leavened:

http://www.reformation.org/unleavened-bread-error.html
http://www.apologeticspress.org/apcontent.aspx?category=11&article=1196
https://www.worldslastchance.com/yahuwahs-calendar/the-last-supper-passover-or-not.html
http://c950485.r85.cf2.rackcdn.com/The%20Last%20Supper%20-%20Passover%20or%20Not.pdf [pdf version of above] http://www.triumphpro.com/artos.pdf [pdf, 7 proofs why Lord's Supper not the Passover meal]
http://www.herealittletherealittle.net/index.cfm?page_name=Last-Supper-Passover-Meal http://ism.yale.edu/sites/default/files/files/Inculturation%20the%20Bread.pdf (Anglican) http://www.bibleinterp.com/opeds/2013/coo378022.shtml ("...Overlooking the Obvious?", an interesting, but controversial perspective; not vetted) http://www.triumphpro.com/passover-and-last-supper-new.pdf [pdf]
http://themessianicfeast.com/wp-content/uploads/2015/01/TMF_50-Reasons.pdf (50 Reasons Why Last Supper not the Passover Meal [pdf]) [Recommended]
https://sightedmoon.com/wp-content/uploads/2018/02/Did-Yehshua-Eat-Leaven-Bread-or-Unleavened-Bread-on-the-Night-He-was-betrayed.pdf (Did Yehshua Eat Leavened Bread or Unleavened Bread on the Night He was Betrayed? [pdf])

See also notes in Chapters LXXVI and LXXV

See notes in Chapter LXXV for information relating to events leading up to the Last Supper.

Return to the beginning of this The Last Supper (Eucharist) section

For charts showing suggested timelines for Jesus' final week, see:
Jesus' Last/Final Week Timelines

See more Last Supper references on following pages…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Some example alternative views:

[Editor believes that some of these exhibit circular and/or rationalizing based on historical Catholic filters, but provided so you can make your own determination]

Communion or the Lord's Supper Explained in Its Hebraic Context
https://hoshanarabbah.org/blog/2017/12/17/communion-or-the-lords-supper/

The Last Supper – Was is Leavened or Unleavened Bread?
http://www.onthewing.org/user/BS_Last%20Supper%20-%20Unleavened%20Bread.pdf [PDF]

The Argument

The Greek word for "leaven" is zume

The Greek for what we read as "unleavened bread" is azumos which is translated more properly as "unleavened" with out the word "bread."

When an author wishes to be specific about the type of "bread" in any incident, he uses azumos. That is, the emphasis is on "unleavened", and not on bread, e.g., I Corinthians 5:8.

The "bread" used at the Last Supper is the more generic Greek artos Hebrew lechem. In fact, Psalm 41:9 which describes a normal meal is used as a prophecy of this supper.

The conclusion drawn from these scriptures is that the last Supper was just that, a normal meal served with leavened bread.

[Conclusion, takes the position that since artos can refer to leaven bread (see other references for refutation of that premis), and that unleavened bread you buy in a store today does not 'break', but 'tear, it must be unleavened bread.] [-Ed.: this rationalization leaves much to be desired logically]

Why do we use unleavened bread for communion
http://xautoman.com/31620-whydoweuseunleavenedbreadforcommunion.html

Are You Sure Leaven Is Symbolic of Sin?
https://www.servantsnews.com/sn1011/Are%20You%20Sure%20that%20Leaven%20Is%20Symbolic%20of%20Sin.htm

"How is it you do not understand that I did not speak to you concerning bread?—but to beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and Sadducees." Then they understood that He did not tell them to beware of the leaven of bread, but of the doctrine of the Pharisees and Sadducees (Matt 16:11-12, also Luke 13:20-21).

Christ defines the meaning of leaven.

This writer finds it strange why people will lock into John's definition of sin (1 John 3:4) but completely ignore Christ's definition of leaven). Christ's explanation of leavening in this case is doctrine (Strong's #1322-didache-meaning instruction or teaching-Matt. 16:11-12 (and Luke 13:20-21). I believe a broader definition of leaven would be "something that causes change by its influence" and teaching is just one way.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Teaching can be based on sincerity and truth (God the Father's leavening) or can be based on deception and untruth (Satan's leavening). Teaching (or doctrine) in and by itself, can be either correct or it can be misguided. As humans, we all have been deceived into accepting a wrong type of leavening which allows Satan to influence us, but few people realize the Bible also speaks of a good type of leavening (Lev. 7:13, Lev. 23:17, Matt. 13:33, Luke 13:20-21) that influences in a good way.

…

My Conclusion

In summary, just as there are two ways to mark the death of the Messiah (the first way is the biblical Passover and the second, the traditional Good Friday), there also seems to be two ways to partake of the bread and wine.

A Use unleavened bread, that has never had life in it and is incapable of reproducing itself. This bread has no leaven (represented as doctrine in one place-Matt. 16:11-12 but I believe in a broader sense, can mean influence that causes change) contained in it. This method of traditional Christianity frequently has unleavened bread and most often is supervised by an official representing their particular religious division.

B Use leavened bread, the same as was used by the early called out people for over 600 years, up until it was changed to unleavened bread by the Latin Church.

Each person has their own personal responsibility.

Each reader must personally determine what best typifies Christ for himself (Phil. 2:12): unleavened bread that lacks any influence or doctrine (Christ's definition of leaven) and could never in its existence reproduce; or the leavened bread that has no limitations on its influence. If you answered leavened, the bible does seem to agree. The bread is called "Artos", with its primary meaning as, "a raised loaf" (Strong's 740).

Must We Use Unleavened Bread in the Lord's Supper?
https://biblebased.wordpress.com/2008/03/05/must-we-use-unleavened-bread-in-the-lords-supper/

Leaven itself is not sinful, even in the Old Testament it was used in the worship of the Lord. In Lev. 7:13 and Lev. 23:16-17 worshippers were commanded to bring sacrifices of leavened bread to the Temple. In the New Testament, leaven was used as an analogy for the gospel and the spread of the kingdom (Matt. 13:33, Luke 13:21) Although the Apostles were instructed by Christ to avoid the leaven of the Pharisees, Herodians, and Saducess, which was a reference to their doctrine and hypocrisy (Matthew 16:11-12, Mark 8:15, Luke 12:1), nowhere in the NT are believers instructed to avoid the leaven of bread or observe the Passover. The ceremonial avoidance of leaven in the Passover was one of the signs and shadows of the Old Testament and a part of the ceremonial law which Jesus fulfilled. It is bread and wine as ordinary elements that have an abiding value on earth and in heaven.

(See the next page for more discussion on this topic.)

See also: The Showbread section of the Appendix for related excerpts.

See also notes in Chapters LXXVI and LXXV

Return to the beginning of this The Last Supper (Eucharist) section

See more Last Supper references on following pages…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

(continued topic discussions from previous page)

As for leaven and leavened bread, it is used two ways in the Gospels.

http://prosphora.org/page27.html

The first is to denote the power of the Kingdom of Heaven.

> Mt 13:33 Another parable spake he unto them; The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven, which a woman took, and hid in three measures of meal, till the whole was leavened.
>
> Lk 13:20 And again he said, Whereunto shall I liken the kingdom of God? 21 It is like leaven, which a woman took and hid in three measures of meal, till the whole was leavened.

The Kingdom spreads like yeast! Think of it: there is no outside change when one repents and becomes a Christian, yet it somehow changes not just individuals but the entire world. We can now look back on history to see how Christianity changed so many people and see the truth here.

The second way that the Gospels use leaven is symbolic of the doctrines of the Pharisees. These doctrines lead to false works and eventually condemnation. The likening to leaven reveals the strength of attraction in the outwards acts of piety by the Pharisees, something St. Paul will struggle against later.

> Mt 16:6 Then Jesus said unto them, Take heed and beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and of the Sadducees. 7 And they reasoned among themselves, saying, It is because we have taken no bread. 8 Which when Jesus perceived, he said unto them, O ye of little faith, why reason ye among yourselves, because ye have brought no bread? 9 Do ye not yet understand, neither remember the five loaves of the five thousand, and how many baskets ye took up? 10 Neither the seven loaves of the four thousand, and how many baskets ye took up? 11 How is it that ye do not understand that I spake it not to you concerning bread, that ye should beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and of the Sadducees? 12 Then understood they how that he bade them not beware of the leaven of bread, but of the doctrine of the Pharisees and of the Sadducees.
>
> Mk 8:14 Now the disciples had forgotten to take bread, neither had they in the ship with them more than one loaf. 15 And he charged them, saying, Take heed, beware of the leaven of the Pharisees, and of the leaven of Herod. 16 And they reasoned among themselves, saying, It is because we have no bread. 17 And when Jesus knew it, he saith unto them, Why reason ye, because ye have no bread? perceive ye not yet, neither understand? have ye your heart yet hardened? 18 Having eyes, see ye not? and having ears, hear ye not? and do ye not remember? 19 When I brake the five loaves among five thousand, how many baskets full of fragments took ye up? They say unto him, Twelve. 20 And when the seven among four thousand, how many baskets full of fragments took ye up? And they said, Seven. 21 And he said unto them, How is it that ye do not understand?
>
> Lk 12:1 In the mean time, when there were gathered together an innumerable multitude of people, insomuch that they trode one upon another, he began to say unto his disciples first of all, Beware ye of the leaven of the Pharisees, which is hypocrisy.

The quote from Matthew 16:6-12 is the most strident in warning people not to take this symbolism of leaven too literally. When speaking of leaven, he is not trying to make a point about bread. If we think back to what leavening could mean, it brings up a whole spectrum of word pictures: the leaven of the Pharisees is old and therefore ‘sourdough,’ it has spread throughout the Jewish community, it is complex, it is ‘puffed up,’ it is a great deal of work, etc.

This symbolism of leaven as the Pharisees' works fits with what St. Paul wrote to the Corinthians:

> 1 Co 5:1 It is reported commonly that there is fornication among you, and such fornication as is not so much as named among the Gentiles, that one should have his father's wife. 2 And ye > are puffed up, and have not rather mourned, that he that hath done this deed might be taken away from among you. 3 For I verily, as absent in body, but present in spirit, have judged already, as though I were present, concerning him that hath so done this deed, 4 In the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, when ye are gathered together, and my spirit, with the power of our Lord Jesus Christ, 5 To deliver such an one unto Satan for the destruction of the flesh, that the spirit may be saved in the day of the Lord Jesus. 6 Your glorying is not good. Know ye not that a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump? 7 Purge out therefore the old leaven, that ye may be a new lump, as ye are unleavened. For even Christ our passover is sacrificed for us: 8 Therefore let us keep the feast, not with old leaven, neither with the leaven of malice and wickedness; but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth. 9 I wrote unto you in an epistle not to company with fornicators: 10 Yet not altogether with the fornicators of this world, or with the covetous, or extortioners, or with idolaters; for then must ye needs go out of the world. 11 But now I have written unto you not to keep company, if any man that is called a brother be a fornicator, or covetous, or an idolater, or a railer, or a drunkard, or an extortioner; with such an one no not to eat. 12 For what have I to do to judge them also that are without? do not ye judge them that are within? 13 But them that are without God judgeth. Therefore put away from among yourselves that wicked person.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Here, St. Paul urges them to put away the leaven that was their old ways. They have become 'puffed up' with ungodly pride, and have even allowed members to carry on as they were before conversion in terrible sins. Like Israel, they are being called to put aside the old 'sour' leaven of Egypt and start over. Notice that St. Paul is speaking in the negative, which is why he is invoking the unleavened image. He is asking them to fast from wickedness and remember the oppression of their sinful past, just as Israel is called to do in the Passover.

St. Paul uses the same leaven image Christ used in his parables against the Pharisees when addressing problems in Galatia:

> Galatians 5:1 Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage. 2 Behold, I Paul say unto you, that if ye be circumcised, Christ shall profit you nothing. 3 For I testify again to every man that is circumcised, that he is a debtor to do the whole law. 4 Christ is become of no effect unto you, whosoever of you are justified by the law; ye are fallen from grace. 5 For we through the Spirit wait for the hope of righteousness by faith. 6 For in Jesus Christ neither circumcision availeth any thing, nor uncircumcision; but faith which worketh by love. 7 Ye did run well; who did hinder you that ye should not obey the truth? 8 This persuasion cometh not of him that calleth you. 9 A little leaven leaveneth the whole lump. 10 I have confidence in you through the Lord, that ye will be none otherwise minded: but he that troubleth you shall bear his judgment, whosoever he be.

It should be obvious that leaven is a powerful image, and its positive or negative connotations are completely dependent on context. Many of the Holy Fathers made good use of leaven in the Scriptures to explain the teachings of the Church.

Return to the beginning of this The Last Supper (Eucharist) section

See more Last Supper references on following pages…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Lessons from Leaven

https://jewsforjesus.org/publications/newsletter/newsletter-mar-2007/lessons-from-leaven/

The word "leaven" (chametz, חָמֵץ) actually refers to the final product that contains leaven, such as leavened bread. Leaven per se is called se'or (שְׂאֹר). However, chametz (can be pronounced khum-its or kha-mets) is the common term used for leavened bread or other similar items containing yeast.

While leaven is often used as a negative symbol, some instances in which leaven is mentioned have a neutral or even a positive connotation.

	IN THE OLD TESTAMENT	IN THE NEW TESTAMENT	IN RABBINIC TRADITION
POSITIVE	Leavened bread was to be presented with a peace (also called fellowship) offering (Leviticus 7:13, Amos 4:5). These offerings were eaten by the priest and the presenting family, not offered on the altar. Some see this as a symbol of God's desire for sinful people to be reconciled to Him. Similarly, two loaves of firstfruits with leaven were given as a wave offering (Leviticus 23:17). These were dedicated to God, though not offered to Him on the altar.	Matthew 13:33 and Luke 13:21 describe the Kingdom of Heaven as being like leaven "which a woman took and hid in three measures of meal till it was all leavened." Commentators generally see this as describing the all-transforming yet hidden spread of the kingdom, just as yeast silently spreads throughout the entire loaf.	The rabbis sometimes gave leaven a positive symbolism, as we saw the New Testament does in Matthew 13:33 and Luke 13:21. "Blessed is the judge who leavens his judgment" is one saying.[1] Israel Abrahams suggests that as "'leavened' bread was in itself more palatable as an article of food than unleavened, the metaphorical use of 'leaven' sometimes expresses an improving process."[4]
NEUTRAL	Leaven is prohibited during Passover and the Feast of Unleavened Bread. The original prohibition was simply a physical reminder of the haste in which we left Egypt (Exodus 12:34-39, Deuteronomy 16:3). Unleavened bread is also mentioned in Genesis 19:3 and 1 Samuel 28:24 as a product of haste.	The tendency to permeate can be seen as positive or negative. In conjunction with God's kingdom, it belongs in the positive category, while we see the negative below.	The rabbinic writings discuss the legal aspects of dealing with leaven – such as how to properly cleanse one's house of leaven prior to Passover. We need not go into the details of halachah, or Jewish law, here.
NEGATIVE	Leaven could not be offered on the altar (Leviticus 2:11, 6:17* [*10 in Hebrew numbering], 7:12, 10:12). The Bible does not say why, but most think that it is because leaven spoils and corrupts, making leavened food unsuitable to offer to God. (See New Testament section on leaven as a symbol of sin.) Leaven has been called "the arch-symbol of fermentation, deterioration, and death and, hence, taboo on the altar of blessing and life."[2] (An alternative possibility is that nothing living was to be offered on the altar, and yeast is a living organism.[3])	1. Much more common is Jesus' use of leaven as a symbol of corruption, specifically of false teaching and hypocrisy (Matthew 16:6, Mark 8:15, Luke 12:1). Jesus in fact explicitly explains this meaning in Matthew 16:12. 2. Paul uses leaven more broadly as a symbol of "malice and wickedness" in 1 Corinthians 5:6-8. Here he combines the idea of leaven as sin with the idea of its rapid and thoroughgoing spread, as he also does in Galatians 5:9. The Corinthians passage is of particular theological import as it points to Passover, and to Jesus as the Passover Lamb. Whereas the command to purge leaven from the home for Passover and the Feast of Unleavened Bread was, in the Old Testament, a reminder of how the Exodus occurred, the New Testament now adds the symbolism of sin, and the fact that because of Jesus, we need no longer be under sin's permeating influence.	1. As in the New Testament, the rabbis also use leaven as a symbol of evil and human corruption. In the Talmud (first millennium A.D.) Rabbi Alexandri habitually ended his prayers by saying, "Sovereign of the Universe, it is full known well to Thee that our will is to perform Thy will, and what prevents us? The yeast in the dough…" The standard edition, the Soncino Talmud, explains the expression "yeast in the dough" as meaning "the evil impulse, which causes a ferment in the heart."[6] Likewise the Talmud describes Cyrus as having "degenerated"—footnoted "Lit., 'fermented,' a metaphor either from wine turning to vinegar or from flour becoming leaven. The 'evil imagination' is often compared by the Sages to a 'leaven.'"[6] 2. In medieval times and beyond, we find the same symbolism. For example, from the 18th and 19th centuries: "We stress the thorough search for and elimination of leaven on the eve of Passover because leaven symbolizes the Evil Urge, which we must search out in all the recesses of our mind, and of which even a tiny bit may become disastrous."[7] "No leaven be seen in thee, neither … in all thy borders [Exod. 13.7]. Let nothing stale or sour be seen in you, and you will not see it in others."[8] 3. One feature of the traditional Passover is searching out all leaven in the home, after which it is burnt. In the ritual of Sephardic Jews[9] the prayer following the burning of leaven includes this: "Just as we did remove chametz from our homes and burned it, so we pray that we should be able to remove evil inclinations from within us always."[10]

CONCLUSION

Leaven is used as a symbol in the Bible as well as in rabbinic writings. It is used to represent human evil and corruption, and, perhaps less often, it represents the complete or permeating effect of a transforming agent. Regarding its negative usage, one commentator remarks that "yeast was an appropriate metaphor for something that spreads; today we might employ the negative image of cancer."[11]

On Passover, the use of unleavened bread reminds us of the haste with which the Israelites had to leave Egypt, but especially in light of Paul's usage in 1 Corinthians 5, it reminds us of the need to cleanse ourselves of sin, and the fact that Y'shua was Himself sinless.

Finally, as leaven sometimes has a more positive symbolism, we can remind ourselves the rest of the year—when leavened bread is normally eaten—that the Kingdom of God spreads throughout the world even as leaven spreads.

Thus both good and evil tend to spread, rapidly and completely. Both aspects are nicely summed up in the rabbinic proverbs, "Woe to the wicked, woe to his neighbor," and "Happy the righteous, happy his neighbor."[12]

NOTES

1. Jacob Milgrom, Leviticus 1-16: A New Translation with Introduction and Commentary (Anchor Bible; New York: Doubleday, 1991), p. 189.
2. Mentioned in Gordon J. Wenham, The Book of Leviticus (New International Commentary on the Old Testament; Grand Rapids: Eerdmans, 1979), p. 71.
3. John Lightfoot, A Commentary on the New Testament from the Talmud and Hebraica, vol. 2 (Peabody, MA: Hendrickson, 1989; orig. 1859), p. 233, citing medieval commentator David Kimchi on Isaiah 1:17.
4. I. Abrahams, Studies in Pharisaism and the Gospels, First Series (Cambridge: At the University Press, 1917), p. 51.
5. Babylonian Talmud, Berakoth 17a; the note is found on p. 100 of the standard Soncino edition.
6. Babylonian Talmud, Rosh Hashanah 3b; the note is found on p. 9 in the Soncino edition.
7. Joseph L. Baron, A Treasury of Jewish Quotations, rev. ed. (South Brunswick: Thomas Yoseloff, 1985), p. 273, citing David b. Zamiro, Responsa (16C) 1781, #576.
8. Ibid., citing Katz, Tzofnat Paaneah (1782) 1833, p. 228.
9. Jews from Spain, the Mediterranean and the Middle East.
10. Heinrich Guggenheimer, The Scholar's Haggadah: Ashkenazic, Sephardic, and Oriental Versions (Northvale, NJ: Jason Aronson, 1995), p. 8.
11. Craig S. Keener, Matthew (Downers Grove: InterVarsity Press, 1997), p. 268.
12. Abrahams, op. cit., pp. 51-52, citing Sukkah 56b in the Talmud.

See larger view on following page…

Also, See more Last Supper references on pages following this chart…

Return to the beginning of this The Last Supper (Eucharist) section

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The word "leaven" (chametz, "חָמֵץ") actually refers to the final product that contains leaven, such as leavened bread. Leaven per se is called se'or ("שְׂאֹר"). However, chametz (can be pronounced khum-its or kha-mets) is the common term used for leavened bread or other similar items containing yeast.

While leaven is often used as a negative symbol, some instances in which leaven is mentioned have a neutral or even a positive connotation.

	IN THE OLD TESTAMENT	IN THE NEW TESTAMENT	IN RABBINIC TRADITION
POSITIVE	Leavened bread was to be presented with a peace (also called fellowship) offering (Leviticus 7:13; Amos 4:5). These offerings were eaten by the priest and the presenting family, not offered on the altar. Some see this as a symbol of God's desire for sinful people to be reconciled to Him. Similarly, two loaves of firstfruits with leaven were given as a wave offering (Leviticus 23:17). These were dedicated to God, though not offered to Him on the altar.	Matthew 13:33 and Luke 13:21 describe the Kingdom of Heaven as being like leaven: "which a woman took and hid in three measures of meal till it was all leavened." Commentators generally see this as describing the all-transforming yet hidden spread of the kingdom, just as yeast silently spreads throughout the entire loaf.	The rabbis sometimes gave leaven a positive symbolism, as we saw the New Testament does in Matthew 13:33 and Luke 13:21. "Blessed is the judge who leavens his judgment" is one saying.[1] Israel Abrahams suggests that as "leavened' bread was in itself more palatable as an article of food than unleavened, the metaphorical use of 'leaven' sometimes expresses an improving process."[2]
NEUTRAL	Leaven is prohibited during Passover and the Feast of Unleavened Bread. The original prohibition was simply a physical reminder of the haste in which we left Egypt (Exodus 12:34-39; Deuteronomy 16:3). Unleavened bread is also mentioned in Genesis 19:3 and 1 Samuel 28:24 as a product of haste.	The tendency to permeate can be seen as positive or negative. In conjunction with God's kingdom, it belongs in the positive category, while we see the negative below.	The rabbinic writings discuss the legal aspects of dealing with leaven – such as how to properly cleanse one's house of leaven prior to Passover. We need not go into the details of halachah, or Jewish law, here.
NEGATIVE	Leaven could not be offered on the altar (Leviticus 2:11; 6:17* [*10 in Hebrew numbering]; 7:12; 10:12). The Bible does not say why, but most think that it is because leaven spoils and corrupts, making leavened food unsuitable to offer to God. (See New Testament section on leaven as a symbol of sin.) Leaven has been called "the arch-symbol of fermentation, deterioration, and death and, hence, taboo on the altar of blessing and life."[3] (An alternative possibility is that nothing living was to be offered on the altar, and yeast is a living organism.[4])	1. Much more common is Jesus' use of leaven as a symbol of corruption, specifically of false teaching and hypocrisy (Matthew 16:6, Mark 8:15, Luke 12:1). Jesus in fact explicitly explains this meaning in Matthew 16:12. 2. Paul uses leaven more broadly as a symbol of "malice and wickedness" in 1 Corinthians 5:6-8. Here he combines the idea of leaven as sin with the idea of its rapid and thoroughgoing spread, as he also does in Galatians 5:9. The Corinthians passage is of particular theological import as it points to Passover, and to Jesus as the Passover Lamb. Whereas the command to purge leaven from the home for Passover and the Feast of Unleavened Bread was, in the Old Testament, a reminder of how the Exodus occurred, the New Testament now adds the symbolism of sin, and the fact that because of Jesus, we need no longer be under sin's permeating influence.	1. As in the New Testament, the rabbis also use leaven as a symbol of evil and human corruption. In the Talmud (first millennium A.D.) Rabbi Alexandri habitually ended his prayers by saying, "Sovereign of the Universe, it is full known well to Thee that our will is to perform Thy will, and what prevents us? The yeast in the dough…." The standard edition, the Soncino Talmud, explains the expression "yeast in the dough" as meaning "the evil impulse, which causes a ferment in the heart."[5] Likewise the Talmud describes Cyrus as having "degenerated"—[footnoted "Lit, 'fermented,' a metaphor either from wine turning to vinegar or from flour becoming leaven. The 'evil imagination' is often compared by the Sages to a 'leaven.'"[6] 2. In medieval times and beyond, we find the same symbolism. For example, from the 18th and 19th centuries: "We stress the thorough search for and elimination of leaven on the eve of Passover because leaven symbolizes the Evil Urge, which we must search out in all the recesses of our mind, and of which even a tiny bit may become disastrous."[7] "No leaven be seen in thee, neither … in all thy borders [Exod. 13:7]. Let nothing stale or sour be seen in you, and you will not see it in others."[8] 3. One feature of the traditional Passover is searching out all leaven in the home, after which it is burnt. In the ritual of Sephardic Jews[9] the prayer following the burning of leaven includes this: "Just as we did remove chametz from our homes and burned it, so we pray that we should be able to remove evil inclinations from within us always."[10]

CONCLUSION

Leaven is used as a symbol in the Bible as well as in rabbinic writings. It is used to represent human evil and corruption, and, perhaps less often, it represents the complete or permeating effect of a transforming agent. Regarding its negative usage, one commentator remarks that "yeast was an appropriate metaphor for something that spreads; today we might employ the negative image of cancer."[11]

On Passover, the use of unleavened bread reminds us of the haste with which the Israelites had to leave Egypt, but especially in light of Paul's usage in 1 Corinthians 5, it reminds us of the need to cleanse ourselves of sin, and the fact that Y'shua was Himself sinless.

Finally, as leaven sometimes has a more positive symbolism, we can remind ourselves the rest of the year—when leavened bread is normally eaten—that the Kingdom of God spreads throughout the world even as leaven spreads.

Thus both good and evil tend to spread, rapidly and completely. Both aspects are nicely summed up in the rabbinic proverbs, "Woe to the wicked, woe to his neighbor," and "Happy the righteous, happy his neighbor."[12]

NOTES

1. Jacob Milgrom, Leviticus 1-16: A New Translation with Introduction and Commentary (Anchor Bible; New York: Doubleday, 1991), p. 189.
2. Mentioned in Gordon J. Wenham, The Book of Leviticus (New International Commentary on the Old Testament; Grand Rapids: Eerdmans, 1979), p. 71.
3. John Lightfoot, A Commentary on the New Testament from the Talmud and Hebraica, vol. 2 (Peabody, MA: Hendrickson, 1989; orig. 1658), p. 233, citing medieval commentator David Kimchi on Isaiah 1:17.
4. I. Abrahams, Studies in Pharisaism and the Gospels, First Series (Cambridge: At the University Press, 1917), p. 51.
5. Babylonian Talmud, Berakoth 17a; the note is found on p. 100 of the standard Soncino edition.
6. Babylonian Talmud, Rosh Hashanah 31b; the note is found on p. 9 in the Soncino edition.
7. Joseph L. Baron, A Treasury of Jewish Quotations, rev. ed. (South Brunswick: Thomas Yoseloff, 1985), p. 273, citing David b. Zamira, Responsa (16C) 1781, #626.
8. Ibid., citing Katz, Tzofnat Paaneah (1782) 1833, p. 228.
9. Jews from Spain, the Mediterranean and the Middle East.
10. Heinrich Guggenheimer, The Scholar's Haggadah: Ashkenazic, Sephardic, and Oriental Versions (Northvale, NJ: Jason Aronson, 1995), p. 8.
11. Craig S. Keener, Matthew (Downers Grove: InterVarsity Press, 1997), p. 288.
12. Abrahams, op. cit., pp. 51-52, citing Sukkah 56b in the Talmud.

See more Last Supper references on pages following this chart…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

JACOB, MOSES, AND THE FRUIT OF THE VINE

[Skip to end of this excerpt]

We've seen that during the Last Supper, Jesus taught that he was the true grapevine. But long before the Messiah's words at this momentous event, the fruit of the vine (or grapevine in the Greek) played an important role in Jewish tradition.

Israel's Historic Connection to the Grapevine

Israel had a longstanding connection to grapes and the grapevine, which is shown below in a historic artifact — the last coin minted in Israel before the final crushing of Bar Kochba, the Jewish leader who fought against the Roman occupation (AD 135):

A cluster of grapes hangs from a vine on the front of the coin (left image), and on the reverse is a lyre surrounded by a Hebrew inscription that reads "for the freedom of Jerusalem."

When those whom Moses sent to "spy out" the Promised Land of Israel later returned, they brought back a large vine with grapes on it (Numbers 13:20–23). Thus grapes and the grapevine became symbolic of the Promised Land:

> NAS Numbers 13:17 When Moses sent them to spy out the land of Canaan, he said to them, "Go up there into the Negev; then go up into the hill country.
>
> NAS Numbers 13:20 "And how is the land, is it fat or lean? Are there trees in it or not? Make an effort then to get some of the fruit of the land." Now the time was the time of the first ripe grapes.
>
> NAS Numbers 13:23 Then they came to the valley of Eshcol and from there cut down a branch with a single cluster of grapes; and they carried it on a pole between two men, with some of the pomegranates and the figs.

The spies returned to Moses with this tremendous cluster of grapes, which was so big that it took two men with a pole to carry it. In addition, the scripture says the spies brought back an "evil" or "bad" report of the existence of giant-sized men in the land who were too strong for them (13:32). It was not evil in the sense that it was a false report, only that it put fear and unbelief into the people as to accomplishing what God had called them to. They cried out, saying that it would have been better if they had stayed in Egypt instead of following God and Moses.

Joshua and Caleb were of a different spirit, though; they wanted to go in and take the land that God had promised. Because this report caused the multitudes to be fearful, however, the Israelites had to wander in the wilderness for 40 years until all those who were over 20 at the time—and thus should have known better (Numbers 32:11)—had died. Forty years later, under Joshua, the next generation finally entered the Promised Land.

Jesus and Joshua have identical names in both Hebrew and Greek; however, English translators changed "Joshua" into "Jesus" (as we saw in "Setting the Table 2"). Thus Joshua leading the multitude into the Promised Land points forward to the true Joshua (Yeshua/Jesus) leading us into the spiritual Promised Land.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Going back earlier to the father of the Israelite nation, we see that Jacob spoke in enigmatic parables about grapes and thegrapevine in a prophecy concerning the Messiah:

> NAS Genesis 49:10 "The scepter shall not depart from Judah, Nor the ruler's staff from between his feet, Until Shiloh comes, And to him shall be the obedience of the peoples.

> NAS Genesis 49:11 "He ties his foal to the vine, And his donkey's colt to the choice vine; He washes his garments in wine, And his robes in the blood of grapes.[1]

If we view this scripture through our natural or literal senses, we would ask how and why one would ever wash his robes in wine, the "blood" of a "grape," or the blood of a single cluster "of grapes"? And how could such a thing possibly tie into the promised Messiah? No one would wash a garment in the fruit of the vine, for in the natural sense it would become stained.

What would later men of God, such as Moses or David, think of this prophecy? What could Jacob's prophetic words possibly mean?

In the Psalms, David referred to the Messiah coming with parables to bring forth "dark sayings" that were from old. Jacob's prophesy was one such dark saying.

> NAS Psalm 78:2 I will open my mouth in a parable; I will utterdark sayings of old,

Or, as Young's Literal Translation has it:

> YLT Psalm 78:2 I open with a simile my mouth, I bring forthhidden things of old,

And Jesus fulfills this prophecy from the Psalms:

> NAS Matthew 13:35 so that what was spoken through the prophet might be fulfilled, saying, "I will open My mouth in parables; I will utter things hidden since the foundation of the world."

You will not see much written in the Torah commentaries about Jacob's statement of washing his robes in the "blood of grapes," because how could this be explained?

John Gives the Spiritual Fulfillment of Jacob's Washing of Robes in Wine

One of the closest Jewish followers of Christ was John, who when writing the Book of Revelation used this saying of Jacob, yet with a slightly different application. John pictured this same spiritual concept of washing robes in "blood" and making them white, but he showed this being done not in the blood of a grape, but in the Messiah's blood. This is what Jacob's "dark saying" pointed to:

> NAS Revelation 6:11 And there was given to each of them a white robe; and they were told that they should rest for a little while longer, until the number of their fellow servants and their brethren who were to be killed even as they had been, should be completed also.

> NAS Revelation 7:14 And I said to him, "My lord, you know." And he said to me, "These are the ones who come out of the great tribulation, and they have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb.

You cannot literally make a robe clean or "white" by washing it in wine or in blood, so of course these statements are intended to be interpreted spiritually.

Those who are familiar with Jewish writings know that God was firm through Moses in requiring the Jews never to ingest any manner of blood. However, what may surprise some is that Moses also spoke of drinking blood in a positive sense. Moses, like Jacob, also spoke of the blood of the grape:

> NAS Deuteronomy 32:13–15 "He made him ride on the high places of the earth, And he ate the produce of the field; And He made him suck honey from the rock, And oil from the flinty rock, Curds of cows, and milk of the flock, With fat of lambs, And rams, the breed of Bashan, and goats, With the finest of the wheat—And of the blood of grapes you drank wine. But Jeshurun grew fat and kicked—You are grown fat, thick, and sleek—Then he forsook God who made him, And scorned the Rock of his salvation.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Moses was speaking of the blessings that pointed to the Promised Land, of God's provision, and drinking from the blood of a grape ("grape" is singular in Hebrew, referring to either a single grape or a single bunch of grapes). This "Song of Moses" not only spoke of the Israelites drinking of the fruit of the vine in the Promised Land, but also of their eventual forsaking of the Lord and the exile that occurred.

Whosoever Ingests Any Blood Is to Be Cut Off

But why would Moses speak of drinking blood in any form, especially here as a positive experience? Wouldn't this be improper, and at least slightly distasteful, given all of God's commands through Moses to never ingest blood?

> KJV Leviticus 7:27 Whatsoever soul it be that eateth any manner of blood, even that soul shall be cut off from his people.

> NAS Leviticus 17:10–11 'And any man from the house of Israel, or from the aliens who sojourn among them, who eats any blood, I will set My face against that person who eats blood, and will cut him off from among his people. For the life of the flesh is in the blood, and I have given it to you on the altar to make atonement for your souls; for it is the blood by reason of the life that makes atonement.'

Couldn't Moses have just said that the Israelites drank cool, refreshing grape juice? Why put the word "blood" in there? Do we really want to equate the Promised Land with drinking natural blood of any kind, even if it is the blood of a grape? We know that Moses must have had a good reason for including it, for he was a friend of God with whom God spoke face-to-face.

Torah commentators, as well as New Covenant commentators, often avoid this verse altogether since there's no question that the idea of ingesting blood, even the "blood" of a grape, is disturbing.

Since God had said that the "life" is in the blood (Leviticus 17:11), let's assume for now that Moses was speaking spiritually. He gave an analogy about the "life" of the grape from which they were drinking and "the life" that God would provide in the Promised Land. Moses spoke of drinking blood for the same reason that the Messiah spoke of it—both meant it to be understood in a figurative, spiritual sense.

The Messiah and the Spiritual Lifeblood of the New Covenant

The Old Testament contains some scriptures that may seem bizarre, and this is also true of the New Testament. Often a bizarre scripture is a signpost that the speaker is giving a parable that must be understood spiritually. One of the strangest Bible scriptures happens to be spoken by the Messiah himself, and just as with the figurative statement made by Moses, it relates to taking in the lifeblood of the grape in the Promised Land:

> NAS John 6:53–54 Jesus therefore said to them, "Truly, truly, I say to you, unless you eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink His blood, you have no life in yourselves. He who eats My flesh and drinks My blood has eternal life, and I will raise him up on the last day."

If ever Jesus spoke a parable that needed to be properly interpreted, this was it. Yet when these Jewish scriptures were brought to Rome, it was decided that they meant a new Communion ritual.

Early Jewish believers knew, however, that Jesus was speaking another parable, as he had done so often before. Every statement a person makes must be taken in context, and much needs to be understood about the context of John chapter 6 that leads up to verses 53 and 54, so let's take a closer look.

First of all, this was a particularly stubborn group that was following the Messiah only for "loaves and the fishes" (verse 26), as Jesus had miraculously fed the hungry multitude the previous day by*breaking bread* and multiplying it out to them. Some people from this previous day were waiting for more free bread, and were subtly tempting Jesus to be like Moses and provide bread continually, as Moses did with the manna in the wilderness (verses 30–31). Jesus responded that it was not the decision of Moses that gave them the provision of the manna, but God's miracle (verse 32). Jesus then compared himself to the manna that came down, showing that he was sent by God as the true spiritual provision to which the manna pointed.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Secondly, Jesus taught those present not to labor for food that perishes, but to seek the spiritual food that will bring everlasting life in God's presence. However, they resisted and did not really hear him (verse 27). This is partly what led up to the shocking statement that caused even many of his disciples to forsake him (John 6:66). It must be remembered that Jesus spoke the words that his Father gave him to speak (John 7:16, 17; 14:10; Hebrews 1:1, 2), and at this time God did not want a large group of people only interested in free bread to follow the Messiah. So Jesus gave a parable that would separate out those who were only seeking free bread, and that would later be understood spiritually by the disciples as they came fully into the promised New Covenant.

His disciples who remained loyal knew that this was another parable or "dark saying," and never thought this was something that Jesus wanted in any natural or ritualistic sense. They did not obediently walk over to him and begin nibbling on his leg and drinking his blood as it flowed out. It was only in Rome where this parable would be interpreted naturally as a new Communion ritual that they took literally.

The Blood of the Two Covenants Compared

The reason God stated for not ingesting blood was that He had given the blood of the sacrifice to the Israelite people "to make atonement for your souls" (Leviticus 17:11). But remember that John had shown the blood of the lamb to be what washed the believers' robes and made them white. This pictured the atonement and ritual cleansing, as God had commanded the Israelites to wash their garments when they approached His presence (Exodus 19:10, 11).

It was a longstanding Jewish requirement to have one's garments and body washed when approaching God, and also to have the blood of the appropriate sacrifice applied before entering His presence. Only the high priest was permitted to enter where God's direct presence dwelt, in the Holy of Holies, and never without having first applied the sacrificial blood. One would never want to stand before God and be in His presence having refused the provision that He laid out.

In the book of Hebrews, Paul compares the blood of the animal sacrifices under the Old Covenant to how the shed blood of Christ brought us into the New Covenant, whereby we could be cleansed and go into God's direct presence:

> DBY Hebrews 9:6 Now these things being thus ordered, into the first tabernacle the priests enter at all times, accomplishing the services;
>
> DBY Hebrews 9:7 but into the second, the high priest only, once a year, not without blood, which he offers for himself and for the errors of the people:
>
> DBY Hebrews 9:8 the Holy Spirit shewing this, that the way of the holy of holies has not yet been made manifest while as yet the first tabernacle has its standing;

In other words, these verses indicate that the way into God's direct presence was blocked while the first Tabernacle under Moses had its legal standing. Paul is showing what the Holy Spirit "is signifying" with these laws from the Tabernacle concerning the Holy of Holies, the veils, and only the high priest entering, and never without the blood. Under the New Covenant, those laws and regulations no longer have a legal standing to keep believers out of God's direct presence. This is why the disciples could be filled directly with God's spirit on the day of Pentecost; the veil had been torn in two at the Crucifixion (Matthew 27:51), signifying that the way into His direct presence had now been provided.

Paul continues:

> NAS Hebrews 9:9–10 which is a symbol for the present time. Accordingly both gifts and sacrifices are offered which cannot make the worshiper perfect in conscience, since they*relate* only to food and drink and various washings, regulations for the body imposed until a time of reformation.

The two Greek words that are translated "reformation" in verse 10 actually mean until the "new order of things" was brought in, referring to the promised New Covenant. Paul continues in Hebrews 9 (in NAS):

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

9:11 But when Christ appeared as a high priest of the good things to come, He entered through the greater and more perfect tabernacle, not made with hands, that is to say, not of this creation;

9:12 and not through the blood of goats and calves, but through His own blood, He entered the holy place once for all, having obtained eternal redemption.

9:13 For if the blood of goats and bulls and the ashes of a heifer sprinkling those who have been defiled, sanctify for the cleansing of the flesh,

9:14 how much more will the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit offered Himself without blemish to God, cleanse your conscience from dead works to serve the living God?

9:15 And for this reason He is the mediator of a new covenant, in order that since a death has taken place for the redemption of the transgressions that were committed under the first covenant, those who have been called may receive the promise of the eternal inheritance.

Paul talks about blood in the Old Covenant:

9:18 Therefore even the first covenant was not inaugurated without blood.

9:19 For when every commandment had been spoken by Moses to all the people according to the Law, he took the blood of the calves and the goats, with water and scarlet wool and hyssop, and sprinkled both the book itself and all the people,

9:20 saying, "This is the blood of the covenant which God commanded you."

9:21 And in the same way he sprinkled both the tabernacle and all the vessels of the ministry with the blood.

9:22 And according to the Law, one may almost say, all things are cleansed with blood, and without shedding of blood there is no forgiveness.

Then he turns to the New Covenant, which Christ's sacrifice ushered in:

9:23 Therefore it was necessary for the copies of the things in the heavens to be cleansed with these, but the heavenly things themselves with better sacrifices than these.

9:24 For Christ did not enter a holy place made with hands, a*mere* copy of the true one, but into heaven itself, now to appear in the presence of God for us;

9:25 nor was it that He should offer Himself often, as the high priest enters the holy place year by year with blood not his own.

9:26 Otherwise, He would have needed to suffer often since the foundation of the world; but now once at the consummation of the ages He has been manifested to put away sin by the sacrifice of Himself.

Old Covenant Blood Applied Without; New Covenant Blood Applied Spiritually Within

Under the Old Covenant, God did not want the Israelites to take the "life" (i.e., blood) of the animal sacrifice within them in any form, because He did not want them to symbolically take the life of an animal within. It is not the life of the animal that God wants *within*us but rather the spiritual life from the Messiah.

Moses, however, did sanctify the people and set them apart unto God by sprinkling sacrificial blood on the outside of the people:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

> NAS Exodus 24:6 And Moses took half of the blood and put *it*in basins, and the other half of the blood he sprinkled on the altar.
>
> NAS Exodus 24:8 So Moses took the blood and sprinkled it on the people, and said, "Behold the blood of the covenant, which the LORD has made with you in accordance with all these words."

When God then inaugurated the priesthood under Aaron and his sons, he again told Moses to apply the blood externally. Each priest was to apply the blood on his right ear (symbolically showing that he must hear what this means), the thumb of his right hand (showing the work of his hands is set apart to God), and the toes of his right foot (showing a walk that is set apart to God). Thus the blood atonement would always be pictured as the priests were ministering in His presence.

> NAS Exodus 29:20 "And you shall slaughter the ram, and take some of its blood and put it on the lobe of Aaron's right ear and on the lobes of his sons' right ears and on the thumbs of their right hands and on the big toes of their right feet, and sprinkle the rest of the blood around on the altar.

All of these blood applications were on the outside of their bodies; nothing went within. We know that these animal sacrifices pointed further to New Covenant truths, and at the Last Supper, Jesus showed that the fruit of the grapevine in the cup represented his blood of the New Covenant (as we saw in Course 10). Again, when his blood was shed, the Jewish disciples eventually came to know that they were now in the promised New Covenant, with the previous covenant no longer having legal standing over them (Jeremiah 31:31, 33). The promised New Covenant was not based on sacrificial animal blood but on the shed blood of the promised Messiah.

After his disciples eventually came to understand the parables and New Covenant truths that Jesus had been speaking to them, they went out teaching based on this understanding:

> YLT Revelation 5:9 and they sing a new song, saying, 'Worthy art thou to take the scroll, and to open the seals of it, because thou wast slain, and didst redeem us to God in thy blood, out of every tribe, and tongue, and people, and nation,

In the New Covenant the spiritual "priests" (referring to the believers, for "he has made us to be a kingdom and priests," Revelation 1:6, 5:10, NIV) understood that they were sanctified to God in a blood that was not from an animal sacrifice:

> DBY 1 Peter 1:18–19 knowing that ye have been redeemed, not by corruptible things, as silver or gold, from your vain conversation handed down from your fathers, but by precious blood, as of a lamb without blemish and without spot, the blood of Christ,
>
> KJV Revelation 1:5 And from Jesus Christ, who is the faithful witness, and the first begotten of the dead, and the prince of the kings of the earth. Unto him that loved us, and washed us from our sins in his own blood,

This was the blood of the grape(s) that Jacob spoke of concerning the coming of the Messiah and the washing of the robes, and this was the blood of the grape(s) that Moses spoke of as a blessing from God for the Promised Land.

God's Spirit to Indwell the Believer

As we've seen, the blood of sacrificial animals in the Old Covenant was not enough to make the full atonement, and thus God's spirit did not dwell within the Israelites yet.

However, the Messiah, having redeemed them and us by his shed blood, does provide for us all to be filled with God's spirit, thus fulfilling the prophecy of Joel that God would pour out His spirit on all flesh. To enter the New Covenant, we spiritually apply the blood of the true Passover within—in our hearts—by accepting the Messiah. We allow his sacrifice and atoning death to enter in and touch our hearts.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

We have no record that Jesus ever told his disciples, “I am the true Passover,” but his Last Supper parables made the connection between his body and blood such that his disciples (who knew the Jewish idiom of applying sacrificial blood) would soon understand that he was the true Passover to which the sacrifices pointed.

These two aspects of the Passover—its body and its blood—were very important under the first covenant, as God required the Israelites to always eat the flesh of the Passover, which was part of the atonement (that also pointed forward). Both aspects were needed to keep the death angel away when God “passed over” and spared the Israelites that first Passover, after blood was applied to the doorposts. The Israelites were never to ingest the blood of any of the animal sacrifices, but they were required to apply the blood, such as by pouring it out at the altar of God in the Temple.

On the last night before the Messiah’s sacrifice as the true Passover, he applied the two Passover aspects—its body and its blood—to himself. At the Last Supper, Jesus spoke of *his body*figuratively as pieces of the bread, meaning that we would partake of him as we spiritually fellowship with other believers who are filled with God’s spirit. Then he spoke of his blood being “poured out” for many, just as the Passover blood was always poured out at the altar for the Israelites. His parable also showed that his blood was applied within his disciples, because after they drank some of the grape juice, he then appears to pour out the remainder (as if figuratively at the altar) to show that it represented his New Covenant blood:

> NAS Mark 14:24 And He said to them, “This is My blood of the covenant, which is poured out[2] for many.

The Greek word Jesus used for his blood being “poured out” is the same word used in the Septuagint for the sacrifices, whose blood was similarly “poured out” at the altar. The Messiah was showing the fulfillment of the inauguration of the first covenant under Moses, when, after the Israelites had left Egypt, half of the blood was “poured out” at the altar and half was sprinkled on the people.

In the book of Ezekiel, God spoke of a time when He would place His spirit within the Israelites:

> NAS Ezekiel 36:26–27 “Moreover, I will give you a new heart and put a new spirit within you; and I will remove the heart of stone from your flesh and give you a heart of flesh. “And I will put My Spirit within you and cause you to walk in My statutes, and you will be careful to observe My ordinances.

For God’s spirit to indwell the believer, and, as God promised in Jeremiah regarding the New Covenant, to “put my law in their inward parts” and write the law “in their hearts,” the blood must be applied within:

> JPS Jeremiah 31:33 But this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, saith the LORD, I will put My law in their inward parts, and in their heartwill I write it; and I will be their God, and they shall be My people;

The blood at the first Passover was to be applied on the outside doorposts to spare the Israelites from the coming judgment on Egypt:

> When I see the blood I will pass over you. (Exodus 12:13).

In our day, talking about blood may be distasteful to many. However, the Israelites’ religious life revolved around these sacrifices and the blood being applied for them to walk in God’s forgiveness. They viewed blood very differently than we do today, thoroughly understanding the concept of the life being in it and the atonement it provided. One of the rare times that Moses became angry was when Aaron’s sons had not eaten the flesh of the sin offering (Leviticus 10:16, 17). Moses understood that this partaking of the sacrificial flesh was the second part of what provided the atonement—not just the shed blood.

❦

The parables Jesus spoke in John 6 show the fulfillment of the two Passover aspects— partaking of the lamb (i.e., Christ’s “body”) and applying its blood — yet Christ’s blood was to be applied in a different way. In these parables, Jesus showed that his blood must go within, spiritually, to make way for the soon-coming spiritual life from God, whereby the disciples would be filled with God's spirit and have God Himself dwelling within:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

> NAS John 6:53 Jesus therefore said to them, "Truly, truly, I say to you, unless you eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink His blood, you have no life in yourselves.

Now Jesus was not speaking to dead people here; those listening certainly had natural "life" in themselves, so we know that he was speaking of spiritual life from God. He spoke this truth in the form of a parable, as he so often did and as the Messiah was prophesied to do. God's dwelling must be sanctified and set apart, and for God to indwell the believer He must see the atoning blood applied. Similarly, the sacrifice of the Messiah must touch the heart, sanctifying the person within.

Right after Jesus spoke those shocking words in John 6:53 and many of his disciples left him, he made it especially clear to his closest remaining disciples that his words were to be taken spiritually. However, they still did not understand:

> NAS John 6:63 "It is the Spirit who gives life; the flesh profits nothing; the words that I have spoken to you are spirit and are life.

Jesus was not a Roman Catholic priest teaching a new ritual; indeed, no Roman Catholics even existed yet. Nor was he teaching Luther's ritual of Consubstantiation or the Protestant "Communion-lite" (i.e., without the actual flesh and blood) that came later.

Jesus was a Jewish man from the line of David, living at a time when Jews were familiar with applying the blood of various sacrifices. His disciples were first-century kosher Jews who were well acquainted with his frequent method of speaking to them in parables, whether they fully understood his meaning each time or not.

It's important for us Protestants (and Catholics as well) to realize that we have been led astray by various Communion rituals, so that we can move past these rituals into the true communion that God desires for us. We must unite together, all Jews and Gentiles who love God and His Messiah, as one body under Christ the head. We must allow him to bring the new truths that he has for his people, his spiritual body of believers. We must allow the Holy Spirit to bring new truths, as in Acts 15. We must not allow egos or positions of authority to hamper any truths that the Messiah wants to bring to his people. Christ seeks to cleanse and prepare his bride, and woe unto the men who stand in the way of the truth that he desires to bring (Ephesians 5:26).

Christ Is the Grapevine—His Shed Blood Is the Spiritual Life Flow to the Branches

The promise of the Father in the New Covenant is that His spirit will indwell the believer. At the Last Supper, just before Jesus was slain as the true Passover that God called "My sacrifice" (Exodus 23:18), he spoke of the fruit of the grapevine. There is actually no mention of "wine"[3] at the Last Supper, but fresh fruit of the vine is spoken of. The grape juice in the cup—the fruit of the vine—linked directly into the parable that he spoke after supper, in which he said that he was the grapevine:

> NAS John 15:1 "I am the true vine,[4] and My Father is the vine-dresser."

The natural fruit of the vine was the lifeblood flowing through the vine, and in the New Covenant it was the Messiah's "lifeblood" (his sacrificial blood) that would provide the spiritual life flow to the connected branches. The Jews understood the concept of the lifeblood of the grape, for they were familiar with the Song of Moses. They were also familiar with Isaiah's analogy of treading the wine press, where the "lifeblood" of the people is pictured as the juice from the trodden grapes (Isaiah 63:3, 6, NAS). Israel was often pictured as the grapevine.[5] However, many of these idioms were not understood in Rome.

Jesus said "I am the true vine" (John 15:1) on the same evening as his Last Supper parables, after he had shown his disciples that the fruit of the grapevine in his cup represented his blood of the New Covenant being poured out. Then later that night he said that he was the true grapevine and his disciples were the branches; if they would abide in him, they would bear much spiritual fruit. Of course, when they heard this, they did not literally hold out their arms pretending to be branches in a new ritual, because they knew that the Messiah was not creating new rituals at the Last Supper.

So the overall picture created when the two parables are joined—the bread and the fruit of the grapevine during the Last Supper, and the grapevine right after supper—is of Christ as the grapevine and his shed blood providing the spiritual life flow into the vine that spreads to the branches. The spiritual life flow would be the Holy Spirit of God and His agape love.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

In scripture, the nation and land of Israel are often pictured as a grapevine. And it was a grapevine bearing an enormous clump of grapes that those spies sent by Moses brought back when they first explored this Promised Land. Jesus declared that he was the true grapevine from which the spiritual essence of the spiritual Promised Land emanated. In effect, he was the grapes and the grapevine branch that the spies under Moses brought back in type, which pointed to the true provision in the spiritual Promised Land, as depicted on the Israelite coin at the beginning of this Course. This was the lifeblood of the grape that Moses spoke of and the blood of the grape mentioned by Jacob (and later John) that would ritually cleanse the believer.

Abide in Him and Stay Connected to the Spiritual Flow

Later the apostles would bear much fruit from their ministry by abiding in this spiritual grapevine and allowing this life flow to spread to one another, as thousands came to the Lord through their ministry. They fulfilled what Moses had spoken concerning the Promised Land and the blood (life flow) of the grape—namely that the spiritual life from God would soon be flowing through and within them:

> NAS John 7:37–39 Now on the last day, the great day of the feast, Jesus stood and cried out, saying, “If any man is thirsty, let him come to Me and drink. He who believes in Me, as the Scripture said, ‘From his innermost being shall flow rivers of living water.’ ” But this He spoke of the Spirit, whom those who believed in Him were to receive; for the Spirit was not yet given, because Jesus was not yet glorified.

This picture of the fruit of the vine at the Last Supper and the grapevine parable afterward taught the necessity of “abiding in him”:

> NAS John 15:4 “Abide in Me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, unless it abides in the vine, so neither can you, unless you abide in Me.

We cannot naturally or literally abide in him, but spiritually we abide and stay connected to the spiritual flow that comes from God, because of Christ, so we do not dry up and die spiritually.

> NAS John 15:6 “If anyone does not abide in Me, he is thrown away as a branch, and dries up; and they gather them, and cast them into the fire, and they are burned.

> NAS John 15:9 “Just as the Father has loved Me, I have also loved you; abide in My love.

> NAS John 15:10–11 “If you keep My commandments, you will abide in My love; just as I have kept My Father’s commandments, and abide in His love. These things I have spoken to you, that My joy may be in you, and that your joy may be made full.

Shortly thereafter on that same night, Jesus spoke similar words again:

> NAS John 17:21 that they may all be one; even as Thou, Father, art in Me, and I in Thee, that they also may be in Us; that the world may believe that Thou didst send Me.

> NAS John 17:23 I in them, and Thou in Me, that they may be perfected in unity, that the world may know that Thou didst send Me, and didst love them, even as Thou didst love Me.

The Holy Spirit of God would be poured out after Christ’s sacrifice on the day of Pentecost, which came 50 days later, counting from the Resurrection. A powerful new experience and closeness to God opened up to these Jewish believers, whereby God was no longer distant but was actually dwelling within them by His spirit (Acts 2). This life of Christ, symbolized by his shed blood, pictured the spiritual life that is found only in the New Covenant, and now it was flowing spiritually through the believers.

After the Last Supper and shortly after the disciples had taken some of the bread and the fruit of the vine within them (thus spiritually applying the two aspects of the Passover—its flesh and blood),

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Jesus said more about dwelling within them:

> NAS John 14:16–18 “And I will ask the Father, and He will give you another Helper, that He may be with you forever;that is the Spirit of truth, whom the world cannot receive, because it does not behold Him or know Him, but you know Him because He abides with you, and will be in you. I will not leave you as orphans; I will come to you.

> NAS John 14:20 “In that day you shall know that I am in My Father, and you in Me, and I in you.

Jesus said that the Holy Spirit would be sent in his name, meaning that it was because of him that God’s spirit would be coming:

> NAS John 14:26 “But the Helper, the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in My name, He will teach you all things, and bring to your remembrance all that I said to you.

And this “Helper” (or “comforter” in some translations) and “spirit of truth” is the Holy Spirit of God that would soon indwell them:

> NAS John 14:17 that is the Spirit of truth, whom the world cannot receive, because it does not behold Him or know Him, but you know Him because He abides with you, and will be in you.

Our Fellowship Is with the Father, Christ, and One Another

As the branches of the grapevine, our fellowship is with the Father, the Messiah, and one another:

> NAS 1 John 1:3 what we have seen and heard we proclaim to you also, that you also may have fellowship[6] with us; and indeed our fellowship is with the Father, and with His Son Jesus Christ.

The disciples realized that in Christ’s spiritual body, blood flows spiritually to its every member, cleansing and atoning. This blood was never meant to be applied in the natural sense—in a new ritual—for the Jews understood these things spiritually:

> NAS 1 John 1:7 but if we walk in the light as He Himself is in the light, we have fellowship[7] with one another, and the blood of Jesus His Son cleanses us from all sin.

We spiritually commune with God through His spirit that dwells within us, and God has provided that we also commune spiritually with His son. We see this in the new heaven and new earth, where Jesus is pictured as the “lamp” and God is the light that flows through that lamp. Jesus shows forth God’s nature, such as His glory and His love, and God has the same plan for all who love Him:

> NAS Revelation 21:23 And the city has no need of the sun or of the moon to shine upon it, for the glory of God has illumined it, and its lamp is the Lamb.

> NAS 2 Corinthians 4:6–7 For God, who said, “Light shall shine out of darkness,” is the One who has shone in our hearts to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Christ. But we have this treasure in earthen vessels, that the surpassing greatness of the power may be of God and not from ourselves;

> NAS Hebrews 1:3 And He is the radiance of His glory and the exact representation of His nature, and upholds all things by the word of His power. When He had made purification of sins, He sat down at the right hand of the Majesty on high;

We Inherit the Lifeblood from Christ and Grow into His Likeness

In Israel, humanity was often spoken of as “flesh and blood” (Ephesians 6:12). When Paul came to the Lord, the scripture says that he did not first consult with “flesh and blood” (Galatians 1:16) because Paul knew his calling was from God. Of course this did not refer to some bread as literal human flesh and some natural wine in a cup with which he consulted, but rather of humanity. Thus Paul did not feel led to consult with the other disciples right after his conversion, and yet the Lord showed him what the Last Supper meant (1 Corinthians 11:23).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The children of Israel were said to share or partake in the "flesh and blood" of their parents, whose life flow and DNA passed down to them (Hebrews 2:14). This flesh and blood referred to the parents from whom the child was born.

> NAS Hebrews 2:13 And again, "I will put My trust in Him." And again, "Behold, I and the children whom God has given Me."
>
> NAS Hebrews 2:14 Since then the children share in flesh and blood, He Himself likewise also partook of the same, that through death He might render powerless him who had the power of death, that is, the devil;
>
> KJV Hebrews 2:14 Forasmuch then as the children are partakers of flesh and blood, he also himself likewise took part of the same; that through death he might destroy him that had the power of death, that is, the devil;

Of course, this Jewish manner of speaking means that children partake in the flesh and blood of their parents by being born of them. As God's children, we inherit the same spiritual DNA that Christ had, such that we'll grow into the same image and likeness if we partake of God's spiritual food and spiritual drink, fulfilling His plan:

> NIV Genesis 1:26 Then God said, "Let us make man in our image, in our likeness ..."
>
> NAS Ephesians 4:13 until we all attain to the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, to a mature man, to the measure of the stature which belongs to the fulness of Christ.
>
> NAS Ephesians 4:16 from whom the whole body, being fitted and held together by that which every joint supplies, according to the proper working of each individual part,causes the growth of the body for the building up of itself in love.

Even in our modern idiom, we often speak of those in our own family as our "own flesh and blood."

❦

John P. Lange, in his Commentary on the Holy Scriptures, uses a phrase in reference to John 6 that I think is perfect here. He says, "But flesh and blood elsewhere denotes inherited nature"[8](boldface mine). So with "Christ our Passover," we partake spiritually of Christ's humanity, "the man, Christ Jesus," as he is called in the scripture. When we read about him and receive his word, we partake of who he was (and is), what he did, and the things that he said. We partake of his life and love that he showed forth. This is the spiritual DNA that we inherit. We grow into that same likeness by the spirit:

> NAS 1 Corinthians 15:49 And just as we have borne the image of the earthy, we shall also bear the image of the heavenly.
>
> NAS 1 Corinthians 15:47 The first man is from the earth, earthy; the second man is from heaven.
>
> NAS 1 Corinthians 15:48 As is the earthy, so also are those who are earthy; and as is the heavenly, so also are those who are heavenly.

Just as Eve came out of Adam's side, so did the spiritual bride emerge from Christ's side when his blood was shed (Christ is pictured as the second Adam in 1 Corinthians 15:45–49). Thus we have within us his spiritual DNA that is programmed to grow us into his likeness, as long as we receive the nourishment from above.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

God's spirit and His word affect our hearts and transform us into His likeness, as we yield:

> YLT 2 Corinthians 3:18 and we all, with unvailed face, the glory of the Lord beholding in a mirror, to the same image are being transformed, from glory to glory, even as by the Spirit of the Lord.

> NAS Romans 8:29 For whom He foreknew, He also predestined to become conformed to the image of His Son, that He might be the first-born among many brethren;

Why is it that so many Jewish believers are coming to know the Messiah in our day? The scripture above says, "whom he did foreknow he predestined to be conformed to the image of his Son." Israel has also been brought back to become a nation, and these things happening at the same time are not by accident. God is doing special work to form all the believers—those who will enter in—into the image and likeness of His son.

Jesus was the first man born who yielded perfectly to God, and who grew into the exact image and likeness of God. He is the firstborn in the Jewish sense; he has the pre-eminent position before God, and in a certain sense he is our elder brother. This scripture says he is the firstborn among many brethren whom God will bring into His image and likeness by His spirit, fulfilling Genesis 1:26.

Genesis 1:26 Then God said, "Let us make man in our image, in our likeness ...."

[Source: The Messianic Feast, http://themessianicfeast.com/, "Course 11"]

[End: JACOB, MOSES, AND THE FRUIT OF THE VINE excerpt]

The Eucharist as it Developed from Rome:
http://www.crossroadsinitiative.com/library_article/532/Sunday_Eucharist_in_the_Early_Church_st._Justin_Martyr.html

Justin's writings:
http://www.earlychristianwritings.com/justin.html

Justin Martyr Bio:
http://earlychurch.org.uk/justin.php

See also notes in Chapters LXXVI and LXXV

For charts showing suggested timelines for Jesus' final week, see:
Jesus' Last/Final Week Timelines

Return to the beginning of this The Last Supper (Eucharist) section

See more Last Supper references on following pages…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Leavened bread at the Last Supper?

Course 1 in the book (The Messianic Feast) proves that Jesus ate regular leavened bread at the Last Supper, it being the evening before the Passover sacrifice.

> A reader wrote in asking: "Having Jewish friends, they go to great lengths to get anything with leaven out of their houses many days before Passover. Would this make sense for Jesus to eat leavened bread on the evening before Passover?"

First of all, thank you for this excellent question. Although it is true that many orthodox Jews today work to clean out leaven many days before the Passover, when interpreting these scriptures we have to ascertain what the customs and idioms at the time of Jesus were. In most aspects the first-century Jews were much more stringent to keep God's laws than Jewish people today. Peter would refuse to associate with those of another nation, and the Jews were going to kill Paul when they thought he had brought an uncircumcised Gentile into the Temple precincts.

However, it is very clear from the history in the Jewish Talmud (written a few hundred years after Jesus) that eating regular leavened bread, even on the morning of the day of the sacrifice (the 14th day) was perfectly legal. According to God's law through the scriptures, all leaven in the land had to be destroyed before noon. The Talmud states:

> GEMARA: We see thus, that at the commencement of the sixth hour, all agree, Chometz* must be burned.
>
> [*that which is leavened]

They then go on to say that this is understood from the fact that leaven was not to be present in Israel when the blood of the Passover was shed (Exodus 34:25). And since the legal allowable time for the Passover sacrifice was between noon and sunset on the 14th day, then the leaven had to be destroyed before noon (noon was called the sixth hour, and the "commencement of the sixth hour" was 11:00 AM).

So the Messiah and the disciples eating regular leavened bread at the Last Supper (the evening before the Passover lamb sacrifice) would have been perfectly appropriate, for as the Talmud states concerning the 14th day "so that in the morning leavened bread may be eaten while in the afternoon it must not."

(See p. 455 in the book for these Talmud quotes.)

[Source: http://themessianicfeast.com/2014/03/19/leavened-bread-at-the-last-supper/]

The One Leavened Bread and the True Communion

So what did the Lord mean in the Last Supper parable with the one leavened bread? In Course 1 of my book The Messianic Feast: Moving Beyond the Ritual, it was thoroughly proven that the Lord held, and then broke into pieces, one leavened bread at this meal. Since the Passover lamb would be sacrificed the following day, then leavened bread was perfectly legal as per God's law this previous night. In fact, all of the scriptures use the Greek word for daily leavened bread to refer to what was shared at this supper. But what does this mean?

First and foremost, it means that the unleavened bread ritual passed down since Roman times was not what the Lord wanted or what the Jewish disciples taught. Instead, they knew the Messiah was teaching spiritual truth in parables as he so often did. To ascertain what the pieces of the one leavened bread that Jesus broke represent, one only needs to see what the original followers all taught—that WE are the members of the body of Christ (1 Cor. 12:27, etc.). The bread and its pieces did not represent Christ's human body as the Romans believed, but us, the members of his spiritual body.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

This is what Paul understood and what he received from the Lord concerning what the Last Supper parables really meant:

> NAS 1 Corinthians 11:23 For I received from the Lord that which I also delivered to you, that the Lord Jesus in the night in which He was betrayed took bread…

The Greek word for bread that Paul uses above (arton) is the one for daily leavened bread. It is also singular and therefore should read "a bread." Below, Paul also refers to this one bread Jesus broke (and gave to the disciples at the Last Supper and told them to partake, and that it was his body). Now, we know that Roman theologians mistakenly believed this was the Passover (where unleavened bread was required by God) and that they also took the words of Jesus literally (and not as a parable), thus creating their unleavened bread Communion ritual. But this is not what the Jewish Paul understood concerning what he said he received from the Lord:

> NAS 1 Corinthians 10:17 Since there is one bread, we who are many are one body; for we all partake of the one bread.

This is the understanding of what Jesus really meant. This is the true spiritual communion that we are to share—partaking and sharing God's love (and His word) with His spirit in the midst of the members of the spiritual body. This will be part of how Christ is formed in us according to the scriptures. This will fulfill the new commandment for the new covenant as given by Jesus at this Last Supper:

> NAS John 13:34 A new commandment I give to you, that you love one another, even as I have loved you, that you also love one another.

This is a spiritual communion, not a ritual. The ritual was simply a man-made tradition that has voided the word of God by missing what Jesus meant, something Jesus actually warned against:

> NAS Mark 7:9 He was also saying to them, "You nicely set aside the commandment of God in order to keep your tradition.

> NAS Mark 7:13 thus invalidating the word of God by your tradition which you have handed down; and you do many things such as that."

The unleavened bread ritual as kept by almost all churches has confused what Jesus really meant in his parable, turning his spiritual teaching on sharing God's word (the bread of life) and His love (the new wine of the spirit) into a ritualistic man-made tradition with unleavened bread (called "the bread of affliction," Deuteronomy 16:3). These are a few of the many truths that are made clear in this book and that shed light on what the fulfillment will be of the long-time Jewish history of a coming Messianic banquet or feast.

[Source: http://themessianicfeast.com/2014/09/12/one-leavened-bread-true-communion/]

Return to the beginning of this The Last Supper (Eucharist) section

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Baptism

(Sacraments Continued)

A chart explaining the baptisms found in the Bible:

[Source: http://www.tbclubbock.org/Resources/Charts/baptism20chart[1].pdf]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Baptism (Wikipedia):
https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Baptism

Baptism (CARM):
https://carm.org/baptism

Baptism (Christianity)
http://www.religionfacts.com/baptism/christianity

Believer's Baptism Links
http://www.angelfire.com/ia/Baptizo/links.html

A Closer Look at Baptism
http://www.4truth.net/fourtruthpbdenominations.aspx?pageid=8589952973

Why I Changed My Mind About [Infant] Baptism
http://www.thegospelcoalition.org/article/why-i-changed-my-mind-about-baptism

Why We Baptize Infants – Is It Scriptural? (by Dr. John Murray, Reformed Theologian)) http://www.apuritansmind.com/covenant-theology/why-we-baptize-infants-by-dr-john-murray/

http://www.reformedliterature.com/murray-is-infant-baptism-scriptural.php

Note: John Murray's well-known publication, "Christian Baptism" (originally appearing as two parts in the Westminster Theological Journal [Nov. 1950 and Nov. 1951 issues]), was what convinced me (upon viewing his theology rationalization process) that infant baptism was, theologically, not logically defensible; and that immersion, where feasible, was a better method. -LY

Infant Baptism (Disputing the corresponding Catholic doctrines) http://www.apologeticspress.org/APContent.aspx?category=11&article=2709&topic=379
[This site believes that water baptism is required in the Salvation/Regeneration process for forgiveness of sins]

The Evangelical Doctrine of Baptism (by John Stott, an Evangelical Anglican) http://churchsociety.org/docs/churchman/112/Cman_112_1_Stott.pdf [PDF]

Infant Baptism or Believer's Baptism (Fellowship Church article)
http://new.gracefellowship.co.za/wp-content/uploads/2015/10/James_Joel-Infant-Baptism.pdf

Debate Topic: Is water baptism necessary for salvation?
https://carm.org/christianity/baptism/debate-topic-water-baptism-necessary-salvation

Believer's Baptism (also available as a PDF)
https://bible.org/article/believers-baptism

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

15 Bible Verses About Baptism
http://www.whatchristianswanttoknow.com/15-bible-verses-about-baptism/

Believer's Baptism in the Bible
http://www.biblebelievers.com/DeMichele1.html

Does the Bible Teach Believer's Baptism (Credobaptism)?
http://www.gotquestions.org/believers-baptism.html

Christianity for Dummies: Comparing Beliefs across the Christian Church http://www.dummies.com/how-to/content/comparing-beliefs-across-the-christian-church0.html

101 Questons for Campbellites (i.e., Church/Disciples of Christ)
http://www.jesus-is-savior.com/False%20Religions/Church%20of%20Christ/101_questions_for_campbellites.htm

Baptism by Comparison (Examining the Biblical Model of Baptism)
http://www.unioncitycc.org/resources/Baptism%20by%20Comparison.pdf [PDF]

Can Baptism Replace Circumcision
http://www.apologeticspress.org/apcontent.aspx?category=11&article=1235

How do Circumcision and Baptism Correspond? (by John Piper)
http://www.desiringgod.org/messages/how-do-circumcision-and-baptism-correspond

Baptism: A Comparison of Luke and Paul http://www.jacksonsnyder.com/arc/Essays%203/Christian%20Baptism%20-%20Luke%20and%20Paul.htm

A Biblical Examination of Baptism (Baptist) http://heritagebbc.com/wp-content/uploads/2015/02/abiblicalexambaptismweb.pdf [PDF]

Baptism: A Comparative Study of the Reformed and Pentecostal Model http://eujournal.org/index.php/esj/article/view/3553 [Downloadable PDF]

Jewish Encyclopedia: Baptism
http://jewishencyclopedia.com/articles/2456-baptism

In what manner did Christian baptism differ from ritual washing as part of Jewish Teshuva (repentance.)? (Discussion Forum)
http://christianity.stackexchange.com/questions/18317/in-what-manner-did-christian-baptism-differ-from-ritual-washing-as-part-of-jewis

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Comparison of Christian Denominations (and cults) re: Baptism

*See note below about consistency of beliefs

Baptism
Adventist	It expresses a person's personal faith in Christ, who died for our sins. By immersion only. Baptisms by other churches are accepted on conditions.
Baptist	It is not entirely necessary for salvation. By immersion only. Baptisms of other churches accepted if done by immersion. Infants are not baptized. Candidates must first believe.
Catholic	By pouring, sprinkling or immersion. Baptisms of other churches accepted when performed as Catholic Church prescribes. Necessary for salvation. Infants are baptized.
Christian Scientist	Baptism is not a physically manifested rite or ritual. Do not immerse, sprinkle or do any outward ordinance. Baptism is the spiritual purification of daily life.
Church of Jesus Christ Latter-day Saints	Through the Atonement, Christ the Redeemer and Savior assured redemption, or resurrection, for all. Provides for salvation and exaltation according to our personal worthiness. The baptismal covenantn is the first covenant a person makes with God. Members are baptized at the age of 8, the age at which they begin to take accountability for their sins.
Disciples of Christ	Done by immersion, showing one's obedience. Symbolic of death, burial and resurrection of Christ. Only those old enough to know what they are doing when they confess the name of Christ are baptized.
Eastern Orthodox	By immersion for the remission of sins and entrance into church. Essential to salvation must be performed by one holding proper priesthood authority. Required of all 8 years & older. Infants are not baptized.
Episcopalian	By immersion or pouring. In an emergency any Christian may baptize saying "in the name of the Father, Son & Holy Ghost". Necessary to salvation. Infants are baptized.
Jehovah's Witness	By immersion, in lake or river, no fonts in Kingdom Hall. Symbolizes being dead to old way of life. Baptism does not cleanse from sin. Infants are not baptized.
Lutheran	By sprinkling, pouring or immersion. Baptisms performed by other churches accepted when all Bible conditions are met. Necessary to salvation except in rare instances. Infants are baptized.
Methodist	By sprinkling, pouring, or immersion. Is only an outward sign of one's entrance into the church. Baptisms of other churches accepted. Not necessary to salvation. Infants are baptized.
Presbyterian	By sprinkling, pouring, or immersion which ever method is preferred by the applicant. Baptisms of other churches accepted. Not necessary for salvation. Infants are baptized.
Quaker	Do not believe in outward ritual of baptism. The ongoing spiritual process should not be treated as an event. Inward baptism and communion are most important to spiritual life.
Unitarian	Do not baptize. Members are admitted by the following covenant "In the love of truth and spirit of Jesus we unite for the worship of God and the service of man," or by signing statement of ethical purpose.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

United Church of Christ	Done at time of confirmation and reception into church. Infants presented by parents or sponsor. Usually performed by sprinkling.

*Because specific teachings and beliefs can vary from congregation to congregation, some beliefs above may only be accurate in certain congregations or regions. Only the Catholic Church and the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints have teachings (doctrine) that come from one central place and remain the same world-wide.

[Source: http://www.religionresourcesonline.org/different-types-of-religion/compare/baptism.php]

Comparison of Church Doctrines:
http://www.truebiblecode.com/churches.html

Comparative Chart of Christian Beliefs (vs Roman Catholic) http://www.saintaquinas.com/christian_comparison.html

Baptism: Water and Spirit
http://ichthys.com/mail-Baptism%20-%20Water%20and%20Spirit.html

Baptism of the Holy Spirit
http://www.theopedia.com/baptism-of-the-holy-spirit

Baptism of the Holy Spirit (Assembly of God / Pentecostal view)
http://enrichmentjournal.ag.org/201002/201002_112_bapt_holy_spirt.cfm

How to Receive the Gift of the Holy Spirit (by John Piper) http://www.desiringgod.org/messages/how-to-receive-the-gift-of-the-holy-spirit

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Baptism Comparison Logic Table (Pentecostal Viewpoint)

The table compares three "baptisms" mentioned in the New Testament: water baptism, the baptism by the Holy Spirit into the body of Christ at salvation, and the baptism with the Holy Spirit.

The purpose of this table is to show that each baptism that is mentioned, is a different and distinct event, because of the differences in the clearly stated specifics in the biblical text.

The items we will compare are:

1. Who is doing the baptizing
2. The element the baptizer is using to perform the baptism
3. The physical evidence of the baptism having been completed

After the presentation of the table, applicable passages of scripture are presented with a summary of observations.

	Salvation	Water Baptism	Holy Spirit Baptism
Baptizer	Holy Spirit 1 Cor 12:13	Pastor/Minister Acts 8:35-38	Jesus Christ John 1:32-34
Element	Body of Christ 1 Cor 12:13	Water (H2O) Acts 8:35-38	Holy Spirit John 1:32-34
Evidence	Changed Life 2 Cor 5:17	Getting Wet Acts 8:35-38	Speaking In Tongues Acts 2:4

Salvation

1 Corinthians 12:13

> "For we were all baptized by one Spirit into one body-whether Jews or Greeks, slave or free-and we were all given the one Spirit to drink."

2 Corinthians 5:17

> "Therefore, if anyone is in Christ, he is a new creation; the old has gone, the new has come!

Observations:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

At the moment of salvation the new believer is baptized "by" the Holy Spirit "into" the Body of Christ. The "evidence" of salvation is a changed life.

Water Baptism

Acts 8:35-38

"Then Philip opened his mouth, and began at the same scripture, and preached unto him Jesus. And as they went on their way, they came unto a certain water: and the eunuch said, See, here is water; what doth hinder me to be baptized? And Philip said, If thou believest with all thine heart, thou mayest. And he answered and said, I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God. And he commanded the chariot to stand still: and they went down both into the water, both Philip and the eunuch; and he baptized him." KJV

Observations:

At water baptism the believer is baptized "by" a pastor, minister, or priest, "in" water. The "evidence" of water baptism is getting wet.

Holy Spirit Baptism

John 1:32-34

"Then John gave this testimony: "I saw the Spirit come down from heaven as a dove and remain on him. I would not have known him, except that the one who sent me to baptize with water told me, `The man on whom you see the Spirit come down and remain is he who will baptize with the Holy Spirit.' I have seen and I testify that this is the Son of God."

Acts 2:3-4

"All of them were filled with the Holy Spirit and began to speak in other tongues as the Spirit enabled them."

Observations:

At the baptism in the Holy Spirit the believer is baptized "by" Jesus Christ "in" the Holy Spirit. The "evidence" of being baptized in the Holy Spirit, according to Acts 2:4, Acts 10:44-46, and Acts 19:6, is speaking in other tongues as the Spirit gives utterance.

Summary:

When the specifics of the Scriptures are considered, it becomes obvious that the baptism of the Holy Spirit is not the baptism which takes place at a person's salvation. The baptism of the Holy Spirit is as distinct and different an event in a believer's life as salvation and water baptism are. The distinctives of these three occurrences must be understood and clearly delineated and practiced.

[Source: http://www.openbibleministries.com/03hsbapt4.php]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Examples of Church of Christ / Disciples of Christ (Campbell Movement) web sites and the reasoning behind their corresponding positions that hold to Believer's Baptism being a necessary part of the Salvation process…

Water Baptism and Salvation (Debate Notes by Padfield for Baptism being integral part of the Salvation/Regeneration process)
http://www.padfield.com/acrobat/debates/baptism.pdf [PDF]

Conversions from the Book of Acts (Church of Christ; Chart [also, see below])
http://www.churchesofchrist.net/authors/Marvin_L_Weir/salvation/convpaul.htm
[Church of Christ, Campbell Movement, believe that Baptism is a necessary condition for Salvation]

Baptism: Methods, History, Changes, Thief on the Cross, etc.
http://www.whybaptism.org/
(Site has "tons" of links [possibly the most links on one web page for a single religious subject I have ever encountered] to web pages discussing apposing views -- they usually set up and/or encapsulates discussions within the concept of water baptism being part of the salvation process.)

Following is a chart from the above web site:

Elements of Conversion in the Book of Acts

(see Matt 28:18-19, Mark 16:16, Gal 3:27, Col 2:12)

Text	Teaching	Believing	Confessing	Repenting	Baptizing	Saved
Pentacost Acts 2:14-41	YES	implied	implied	YES	YES	Remission of Sins vs. 38, 47
Samaria Acts 8:5-12	YES	YES	implied	implied	YES
Simon Acts 8:13	implied	YES	implied	implied	YES
Eunuch Acts 8:35-39	YES	implied	YES	implied	YES	Rejoiced vs. 39
Saul-Paul Acts 9:1-18	YES	implied	implied	implied	YES Acts 22:16	Sins Washed Away 22:16
Cornelius Acts 10:34-48	YES	YES	implied	YES	YES
Lydia Acts 16:13-15	YES	implied	implied	implied	YES
Jailer Acts 16:25-34	YES	YES	implied	YES	YES	Rejoiced vs. 34
Corinthians Acts 18:8	YES	YES	implied	implied	YES
12 Disciples Acts 19:1-7	YES	implied	implied	implied	YES
	PREACHING Romans 10:14	FAITH Heb 11:6 John 6:28-29	CONFESSION Romans 10:10 Matt 10:32-33	REPENTANCE Luke 13:3 Acts 2:38	BAPTISM 1 Peter 3:21 Rom 6:3-5	SALVATION 2 Tim 2:10 Matt 7:21-23

[Source: http://www.whybaptism.org/]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

CONVERSIONS FROM THE BOOK OF ACTS

The Book of Acts is not only a book of history, but also a book of conversions. If one genuinely wants to know what to do to be saved, he can read the book of Acts and find the Biblical answer. Although this study will focus on the conversion of Saul of Tarsus (Paul), let us first consider eight examples of conversions found in the Book of Acts. The following chart will enable one to clearly see what these people did to be saved.

PREACHING	BELIEVED	REPENTED	CONFESSED	BAPTIZED	SAVED
Pentecost Acts 2:14-41		Repented vs. 37-38		Were Baptized vs. 38-41	Remission of Sins vs. 38-47; Saved
Folks of Samaria Acts 8:5-13	Believed v. 12-13 (Simon v. 13)			Were Baptized vs. 12-13
The Eunuch Acts 8:35-39	Believed vs. 36-37		Confessed v. 37	Was Baptized v. 38	Went on his way Rejoicing – v. 39
Saul → Paul Acts 9:1-20				Was Baptized v. 18	Sins were washed Away; Acts 22:16
Cornelius Acts 10:34-48	Believed v. 43			Was Baptized v. 48	Remission of sins v. 43
Lydia Acts 16:13	Gave Heed v. 14			Was Baptized v. 15
The Jailer Acts 16:32	Believed v. 31			Was Baptized v. 33
The Corinthians Acts 18:8	Believed v. 8			Were Baptized v. 8

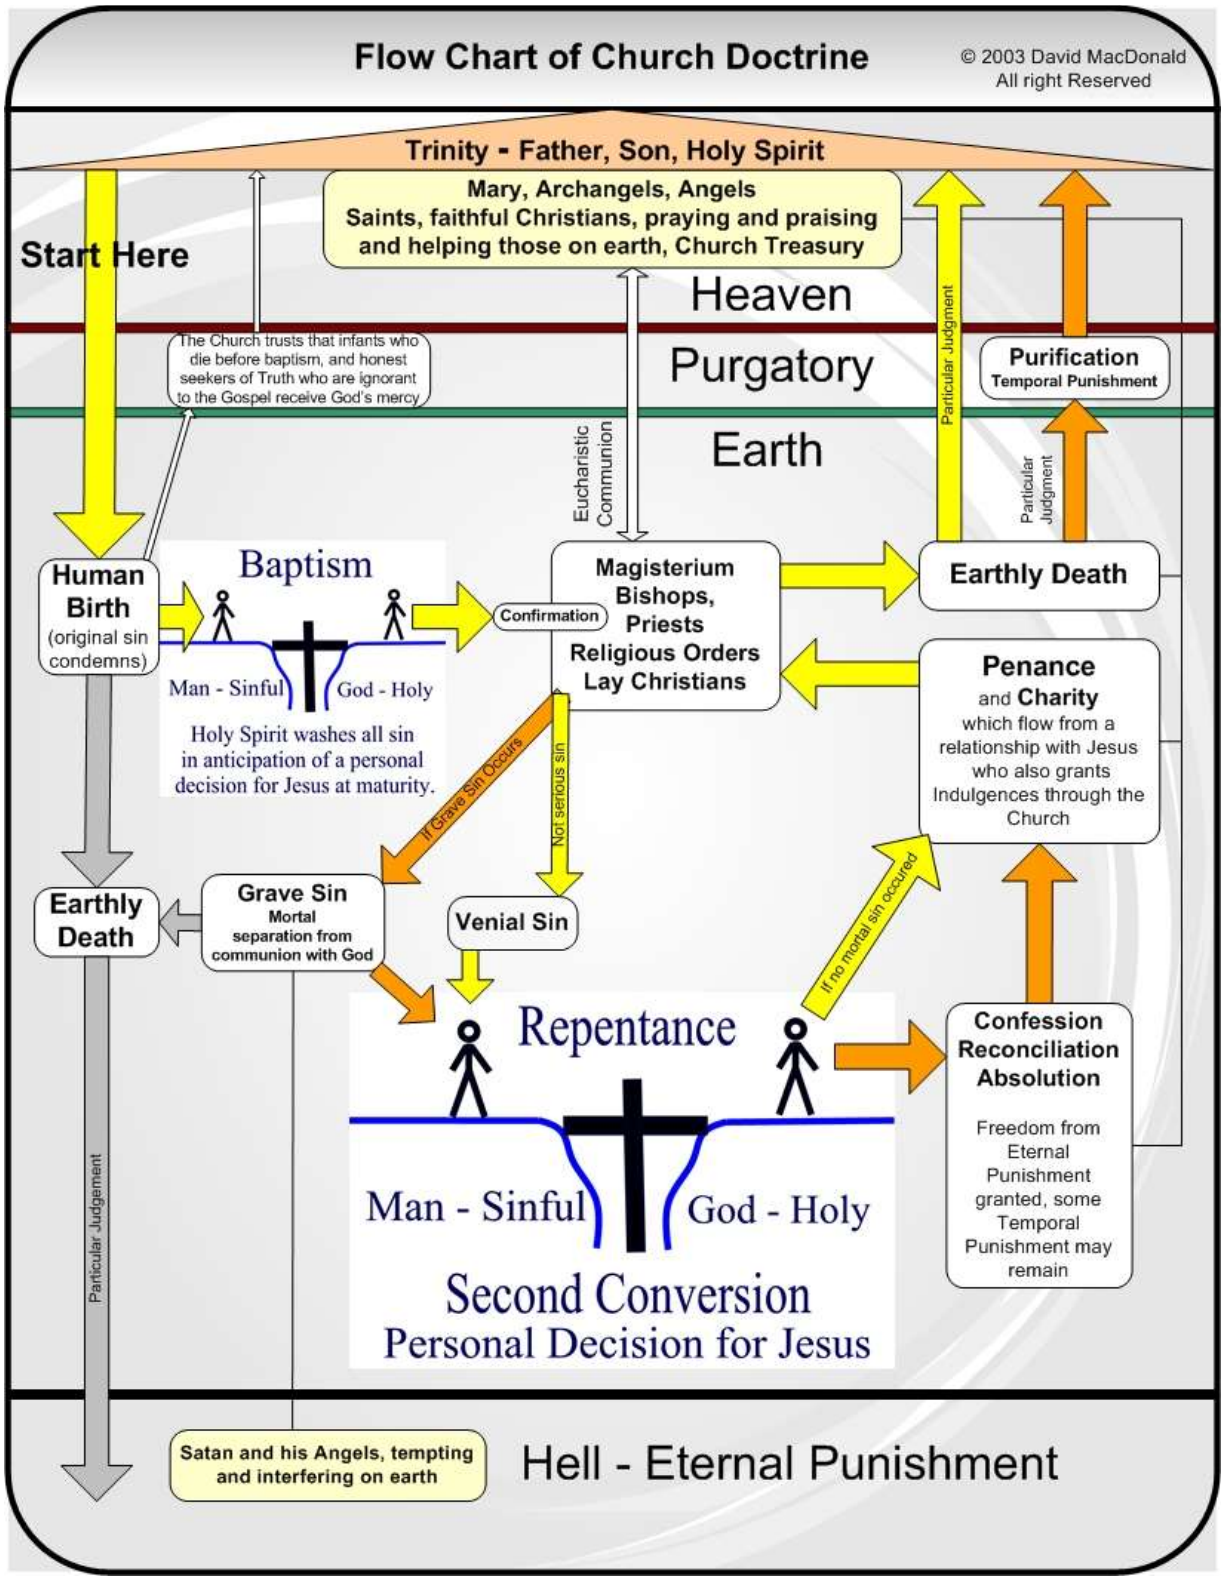
The student of God's Word will note that teaching or preaching occurred in each instance of salvation recorded above. It is true that "belief cometh of hearing, and hearing by the word of Christ" (Rom. 10:17). The astute student will also note the fact that baptism is mentioned in every case of conversion. Man-made denominations insist that baptism is not required for one to be saved, but the Word of God declares that the act of baptism is indeed a perquisite in every case of conversion.

[Source: http://www.churchesofchrist.net/authors/Marvin_L_Weir/salvation/convpaul.htm]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Roman Catholic

Catholic Doctrine Flow Chart



“This flow chart shows how basic Church doctrines fit together. Forgive me, I know it looks like a new board game :-) Anyway, the major difference between Evangelical thought and Catholic Doctrine is that Catholics believe baptism is the critical moment of salvation. However, baptism brings with it an expectation that we will truly surrender our lives to Jesus as we mature. Theoretically, that point is at Confirmation, but for many Catholics, it comes much later, usually during a personal crisis where we really have a "conversion of heart" and surrender to Jesus (Catechism 1428,1430), similar to what an Evangelical would call being "Born Again". Catholics feel we "must endure to the end" (2 Tim 2:12) rather than the "once saved, always saved" theory. But Catholics believe God never forgets the indelible seal that is imparted at baptism and is always calling and waiting for us to turn to Him. I've used the classic "Evangelical Bridge Diagram" to emphasize similarities. This diagram may seem complicated but Catholics don't think God is afraid of complexity. (i.e., look at a dragonfly)” [Note: Sections of the online Flow Chart are clickable to allow access to supporting information.]

[See flow chart on following page]

“Here's how John Pacheco at www.Catholic-legate.org explains it. I think this is a good accompaniment to the diagram”
Empty Cup: Soul before baptism, lack of sanctifying grace
Water: Sanctifying Grace
Act of pouring water into cup: Infusion of sanctifying grace through the act of baptizing
Commission of Venial Sin: Water in cup becomes dirty Commission of Mortal Sin: Water is poured out of cup
Act of True Repentance via Sacrament of Reconciliation: Pure Water is poured back into cup
Purgatory: Water is poured through filter and cleansed
Purpose in life: Let Jesus' sanctifying Grace be the water in the cup: no water in cup; no salvation.

[Source: http://catholicbridge.com/catholic/catholic_doctrine_flow_chart.php]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Note: Sections of the online Flow Chart are clickable to allow access to supporting information.]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

A Comparative Chart of Christian Beliefs (vs Catholic Church)

Catholic Beliefs	Eastern Orthodox	Lutherans	Baptists	Anglicans	Methodists	Presbyterians	Evangelicals
Trinity	✓	✓	✓	✓	✓	✓	✓
Belief in Christ's redemptive death	✓	✓	✓	✓	✓	✓	✓
Jesus is both God and man	✓	✓	✓	✓	✓	✓	✓
Salvation by Grace (Catholic definition)	✓	✓	✗	?	✗	✗	✗
All men have the possiblity of salvation (against Calvin's predestination doctrine)	✓	✓	✓	✓	✓	✗	✓
Belief in Sacrifice of the Mass	✓	✗	✗	✓	✗	✗	✗
Denomination has a valid ordination of Priests (as judged by the Catholic Church)	✓	✗	✗	✗	✗	✗	✗
Denomination has a valid consecration of the Eucharist and belief in the Real Presence	✓	✗	✗	✗	✗	✗	✗
Fidelity to the Pope as teacher of the Faith	✗	✗	✗	✗	✗	✗	✗
Fidelity to the Pope as Apostolic Primate	✓	✗	✗	✗	✗	✗	✗
Belief in the ability of the individual Christian to lose salvation	✓	✓	✗	✓	✗	✗	✗
Belief in distinction of sin (mortal and venial)	✓	?	✗	✓	✗	✗	✗
Belief in equality of Holy Scripture and Holy Tradition (Deposit of Faith)	✓	✗	✗	?	✗	✗	✗
Adherence and recognition of all the Church's Ecumenical Councils	✗	✗	✗	✗	✗	✗	✗
Bible canon contains 73 books including all seven books in the Septuagint canon.	?	✗	✗	?	✗	✗	✗
Baptism is normatively necessary for salvation.	✓	✓	✗	✓	✗	✗	✗
Belief in all seven sacraments of the Church.	✓	✗	✗	✓	✗	✗	✗

This table represents a general, sweeping overview of non-Catholic Christian beliefs and their comparison to the Catholic Church. Protestantism, by definition, accepts private judgement of Scripture over Church authority (this happens to a lesser extent in Anglicanism and Lutheranism). Therefore, it is difficult to pigeon-hole Protestant beliefs because of the resultant diversity of beliefs within denominations. Nevertheless, the above table is a useful tool because it represents the majority opinion of that denomination…

The symbology of the table is fairly straightforward. Checkmarks indicate agreement with the Catholic position and an "X" indicates a dissenting opinion. Question marks indicate that the matter is either unresolved in that particular denomination, or that the doctrine in question cannot be sufficiently answered with a straight yes or no answer. For instance, in the case of the Eastern Orthodox churchs they generally agree with the Catholic definition of the Biblical canon, but sometimes add additional books (such as Esdras III).

One last note on the various denominations. Eastern Orthodoxy should not be considered either a unified church or a Protestant deriviative. It has seperate origins which resulted from the Great Schism of the eleventh century. Greek Orthodoxy, encompasses a handful of different local church communities that are very nationalistic (such as the Greek and Russian Orthodox Church) and somewhat independent from each other. It is worth noting that variances in beliefs (such as the biblical canon) do occur within the Orthodox schism. In the same vein, Protestantism is not a unified Church (although some claim it is the unified church of "Christianity") because the various doctrines of each denomination conflict and are often mutually exclusive. Only the Catholic Church has a unity of concensus on doctrinal matters because of its centralized authority in the Papacy and worldwide College of Bishops.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Sources:

Methodists: Statement of Beliefs of the United Methodist Church

Their beliefs are extracted from The Book of Discipline of The United Methodist Church and is based on John Wesley's theology.

Presbyterians: Statement of Beliefs of the First Presbyterian Church in Waco

Their beliefs are primarily extracted from the 210th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church (USA) and are based on John Calvin's theology.

Baptists: Southern Baptist Statement of Beliefs

It should be noted that by nature, Baptists are highly fractious and diverse in theological doctrines. They hold ultimate interpretation of Scripture at the individual level, and therefore it is difficult to assess a broad, generalized view of their beliefs. Southern Baptist are the largest convention of Baptists in the United States.

Lutherans: Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod Statement of Beliefs

The Lutheran system of beliefs is based primarily on the The Book of Concord: The Confessions of the Evangelical Lutheran Church written in the 16th century, and the Augsburg confession.

Anglicans (Church of England)/Episcopalians: Beliefs of the Anglican Diocese of Melbourne, Australia,

Anglican beliefs are chiefly summarized in Cranmer's book of Common Prayer and the 39 Articles, written shortly after the King Henry VIII's break from the Catholic Church. The Lambeth conference of the American Episcopalians at the beginning of the 20th century also forms the basis of modern Anglican beliefs (such as the new moral acceptance of contraceptive use) in the USA. High Church Anglicanism, is the Protestant denomination that bears the most similarity to the Catholic Church.

Evangelicals: Evangelicalism is more a movement than a denomination. It sprang from the Methodist revivals of the 19th century. Therefore, it is highly fractious in the matter of general Church authority. Nevertheless, their doctrines can be somewhat garnered from the spirit of the movement. You can view a typical evangelical confession of faith here.

Eastern Orthodoxy: Beliefs of the Orthodox Christian Church in America

Orthodox beliefs are primarily based on adherence to the first seven ecumenical councils of the Catholic Church. Their primary objection to the authority of the remaining ecumenical councils is rooted in a rejection of Papal primacy of authority and a theological disagreement on how to determine if a council is ecumenical or not (Catholics believe that a Papal endorsement of doctrine from a general Church council makes it ecumenical).

[Source: http://www.saintaquinas.com/christian_comparison.html]

Comparison of Church Doctrines:

http://www.truebiblecode.com/churches.html

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Seven Sacraments of the Catholic Church
http://catholic-resources.org/ChurchDocs/Sacraments.htm

Baptism and Confirmation – Roman Catholic (by Knights of Columbus)
http://www.kofc.org/un/en/resources/cis/cis113.pdf [PDF]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Justification:

The Catholic-Protestant Argument over Justification

Article ID: DC170-5 | By: Norman Geisler and Ralph MacKenzie, with Elliot Miller

The following is an excerpt from article DC170-5 from the Christian Research Journal. The full article can be viewed by following the links below the excerpt.

Justification- A Summary.

The Protestant Reformers recovered the biblical view of forensic justification, that a person is legally declared righteous by God on the basis of faith alone. In so doing, their principle of “salvation by faith alone” gave a more biblical specificity to the common Augustinian view of “salvation by grace alone” held by Catholics and Protestants alike. For although Rome has always held the essential belief in salvation by grace, its view of justification – made dogma by the Council of Trent – obscures the pure grace of God, if not at times negating it in practice.

Roman Catholics and evangelicals share a common core of beliefs about salvation. Both camps are greatly indebted to the same church father (Augustine) for their views on this subject. Despite this common heritage, however, the question of how a person is justified before God has always been a fundamental dividing point between Roman Catholics and Protestants. Recently, the Catholic doctrine of justification has become a divisive issue even among evangelicals, as they seek to determine how far they should go in cooperative relations with Catholics.In this conclusion to our series on Roman Catholicism, we will examine both the commonalities and differences between Catholic and Protestant soteriology (beliefs about salvation). We will give special attention to the Protestant Reformation doctrine of forensic (legal) justification, and we will provide a Protestant critique of the official Roman Catholic response to that doctrine, as embodied in the decrees of the sixteenth-century Council of Trent.

Justification- JUSTIFICATION IN CHURCH HISTORY

The earliest serious threat to Christian faith was Gnosticism. This was not a clearly defined movement but was made up of various subgroups drawn from Hellenistic as well as Oriental sources. One of the central beliefs of Gnosticism was that salvation is the escape from the physical body (which is evil) achieved by special knowledge (gnosis; hence, Gnosticism). The understanding of the body as evil led some gnostics to stress control of the body and its desires (asceticism). Others were libertines, leaving the body to its own devices and passions.The early orthodox theologians and apologists devoted much of their effort to combating Gnosticism. In response to the libertines, the early father Tertullian (A.D. 160-225) focused on the importance of works and righteousness. In so doing he went so far as to say that "the man who performs good works can be said to make God his debtor."[2] This unfortunate affirmation set the stage for centuries to come.The "works-righteousness" concept, which seemed to be so ingenious in combating Gnosticism, was popular for the first 350 years of the church's history. However, a controversy that would produce a more precise definition of the theological elements involved was needed. This dispute came on the scene with the system of Pelagius, and the Christian thinker to confront it was Augustine of Hippo.[3]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Augustine

Augustine (A.D. 354-430) was an intellectual giant. No one has exercised a greater influence over the development of Western Christian thought than the Bishop of Hippo. In dealing with Augustine's doctrine of justification, it is important to note that his thinking on this vital issue underwent significant development. Early on Augustine stressed the role of the human will in matters of salvation, a view he would later modify in his disputations with the British monk, Pelagius.Pelagius's theological system taught the total freedom of the human will and denied the doctrine of original sin. After reflecting on Pauline insights, the later Augustine came to the following conclusions: First, the eternal decree of God's predestination determines man's election. Second, God's offer of grace (salvation) is itself a gift (John 6:44a). Third, the human will is completely unable to initiate or attain salvation. This concept squares quite well with the later Reformed doctrine of total depravity. Fourth, the justified sinner does not merely receive the status of sonship, but becomes one. Fifth, God may regenerate a person without causing that one to finally persevere.[4] This is basic Calvinism without the perseverance of all the saints.It would be incorrect to say that Augustine held to the concept of forensic justification. Nonetheless, he did maintain that salvation is by God's grace. That is, no good works precede or merit initial justification (regeneration).Augustine has been regarded as both the last of the church fathers and the first medieval theologian. He marks the end of one era and the beginning of another.

Justification- The Early Medieval Period

The medieval period (the "Middle Ages") is commonly dated from Augustine (or slightly later) to the 1500s. This period saw the balance of power in the church shift from the East (where Christianity began) to the West or Latin wing of the church.Pelagianism was officially condemned by the church at the Council of Ephesus (A.D. 431) and again at the Second Council of Orange (A.D. 529), which declared that "if anyone says that the grace of God can be bestowed by human invocation, but that the grace itself does not bring it to pass that it be invoked by us, he contradicts Isias the Prophet….[cf. Isa. 65:l]"[5] However, this heresy, along with its more moderate relative semi-Pelagianism (also condemned at the Council of Orange),[6] keeps recurring in church history. It seems that man's inclination is toward Pelagianism rather than Augustine's Pauline emphasis on the grace of God.Leo "the Great," who was the bishop of Rome from A.D. 440-461, is designated by many non-Catholic historians as the first "pope" in the modern sense. During his era many Roman Catholic dogmas (which may have existed in germ form earlier) solidified: the supreme authority of the Roman bishop in the church, sacramentalism, sacerdotalism (belief in a priesthood), and the change of emphasis in the Eucharistic Feast from celebration to sacrifice, to name a few. These doctrines influenced medieval soteriology in several ways. Justification and the Sacraments. During the medieval period baptism and penance were linked with justification. God's righteousness was begun (infused) in baptism and continued (perfected) through penance.Although this understanding of the nature and purpose of baptism can be found from the earliest of times, the same is not true of the concept of penance. The idea of confession to a priest for the remission of sin existed in the second century but did not become a widespread practice until the early medieval period.The view that developed was that baptism addresses the problem of original sin; confession cleanses the effect of actual sin. Some theologians of this era took pains to stress that the sacraments were the means God used to mediate grace to man. However, this theological nicety was often lost on the laity who became entangled in a works-righteousness system. The Concept of Merit. Closely related to the sacraments in general is the concept of merit. The term was first used by Tertullian and then fully developed by the Schoolmen in the medieval period. As Alister McGrath points out, "It can be shown that a distinction came to be drawn between the concepts of merit and congruity; while man cannot be said to merit justification by any of his actions, his preparation for justification could be said to make his subsequent justification 'congruous' or 'appropriate.'"[7] Unfortunately, as with the sacraments, this distinction did not always filter down to the common folk.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Anselm of Canterbury

Anselm of Canterbury (A.D. 1033-1109) was arguably the most penetrating theological thinker between Augustine and Thomas Aquinas. One of Anselm's great theological treatises was Cur Deus Homo? ("Why the God-man?").[8] In it he addressed the relationship between the Incarnation and the Atonement and redirected thinking on the nature and purpose of the Atonement that had been in place since the apostolic era.A popular doctrine in the early church was the so-called ransom theory. This understood the Atonement as a deliverance of humanity from the clutches of Satan. Anselm's contribution to the doctrine of the Atonement is called the satisfaction theory. It understands the Atonement as compensation to the Father rather than Satan. While forensic justification is not explicit in Anselm's theology, the Reformers later built upon his insights and developed the judicial aspect of salvation that they called justification.

Thomas Aquinas

One figure dominated the late medieval period: Thomas Aquinas (A.D. 1225?-1274). Aquinas considered himself Augustinian in his theology, although he preferred to express his philosophical views in Aristotelian terms rather than the Platonic language of Augustine.Like Augustine, Aquinas believed that regeneration occurs at baptism, and that not all the regenerate will persevere (i.e., not all are of the elect). Contrary to a widespread misunderstanding among Protestants, Aquinas believed that because human beings are fallen, humankind is unable to initiate or attain salvation except by the grace of God.[9] Indeed, even faith is a gift of God.[10]Like Augustine and Anselm, Aquinas did not distinguish forensic (declarative) justification and progressive sanctification as did the Reformers. Many contemporary Roman Catholic scholars, however, believe that forensic justification is included in the thinking of these men, at least implicitly.The Augustinianism of Anselm and Aquinas dominated medieval church soteriology (existing in tension with the works orientation of the sacramental system). In light of this it is clear that some basic theological tenets of the coming Reformation are not at irreconcilable odds with the historic church, but are a continuation of it.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Martin Luther

Born in A.D. 1483 in Eisleben, Germany, of middle class parents, Martin Luther entered the Augustinian monastery at Erfurt in 1505. The themes of salvation and damnation – which were central to the culture of the day – concerned him greatly. Luther became aware of the presence of sin in his life and the ineffectiveness of penance and the other sacraments provided by the church to bring relief to this situation.In 1511 Luther was transferred from Erfurt to Wittenberg. He lived in the Augustinian cloister and was fortunate to have as his spiritual confessor a godly man – who was also the vicar-general of the monastery – Johannes von Staupitz (1469-1524). Staupitz, aware of the intense spiritual struggles that enveloped his young charge, directed Luther to study Scripture. Luther was graduated Doctor of Theology on October 19, 1512 and commenced teaching theology and biblical studies at Wittenberg on August 16, 1513. It was in the context of his assignment at the university that Luther developed his initial ideas concerning justification by faith.The decisive role in the formulation of Luther's theology was played by the apostle Paul and Augustinianism. It was shortly after his exegesis of Romans 1:16-17 that Luther concluded that justification is a gift of God, appropriated by faith: "Night and day I pondered until I saw the connection between the justice of God and the statement that 'the just shall live by faith.' Then I grasped that the justice of God is that righteousness by which through grace and sheer mercy God justifies us through faith. Thereupon I felt myself to be reborn and to have gone through open doors into paradise."[11]The beginning of Martin Luther's break with Rome has often been identified with his posting of the Ninety-five Theses on the church door at Wittenberg on the eve of All Saints, October 31, 1517. These theses dealt with the penitential system and papal authority, but primarily with the sale of indulgences. With the public display of the Ninety-five Theses the die was cast, the Reformation began, and Christendom changed forever.Indicating how deeply his evangelical (Augustinian) principles influenced his theses, Luther was later to write: "And this is the confidence that Christians have and our real joy of conscience, that by faith our sins become no longer ours but Christ's upon whom God placed the sins of all of us. He took upon himself our sins….All the righteousness of Christ becomes ours….He spreads his cloak and covers us…."[12]Before Martin Luther initiated the Protestant Reformation, extrinsic justification, in which a sinner is declared righteous legally, was, at best, a subterranean stream in Christian soteriology. With Luther the situation changed dramatically. However, as Peter Toon notes, "Luther does not employ forensic terms to explain this imputation or alien righteousness. This development will come later, from others."[13] Philipp Melanchthon, Luther's great systematic theologian, did use legal terminology to describe justification.

John Calvin

Without a doubt, the most important Reformed theology to come out of the Protestant Reformation was that of John Calvin. He was born in Noyon, France on July 10, 1509. Young Calvin studied in

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Paris, where he was familiar with the writings and theology of Luther. He drew his deepest inspiration, however, from Augustine. Calvin believed that he was doing nothing more than reproducing “that holy man’s own plain and uncompromising teachings.”[14]Calvin’s theological system begins, as did Augustine’s and Aquinas’s before him, with man’s present condition – one of complete moral corruption. For “even though we grant that God’s image was not totally annihilated and destroyed in man, yet was it so corrupted that whatever remains is a horrible deformity.”[15]Calvin held that “predestination we call the eternal decree of God, which he has determined in himself, what he would have to become of every individual of mankind.”[16] Furthermore, “while the elect receive the grace of adoption by faith, their election does not depend on faith, but is prior in time and order.”[17]For Calvin, justification “consists in remission of sins and the imputation of Christ’s righteousness.”[18] Departing at this point from the medieval tradition, Calvin does not see justification as involving an infusion of grace: “Man is not made righteous in justification, but is accepted as righteous, not on account of his own righteousness, but on account of the righteousness of Christ located outside of man.”[19]What place, then, does good works have in the life of the believer? “To the charge that justification thus understood obviates the need for good works, Calvin’s firm reply is, like Luther’s, that although in no respect can good works become the ground of our holiness, a living faith is never devoid of such works. Thus justification necessarily has its consequence in sanctification.”[20]

Justification- Common Soteriological Roots

A soteriological survey of both the leading Roman Catholic theologians and Protestant Reformers reveals a number of commonalities. First, both believe salvation is effected through historic, divine intervention. Against Gnosticism, Catholics and Protestants jointly affirm that man is not saved by wisdom, but by God’s action in history in the person of Jesus Christ.Second, both evangelicals and Catholics believe salvation is moral and spiritual. Salvation is related to a deliverance from sin and its consequences.Third, salvation is eschatological for both Catholics and evangelicals. The future perspective is crucial. All that is now known about salvation is preliminary and a foretaste of the fullness, which awaits the completing of the kingdom at the Parousia (physical “presence” or second coming) of the Lord.Fourth, the grace of God is absolutely necessary for salvation. And, initial justification is based on grace alone, apart from all works. Thus, Colin Brown can speak of “the Augustinian orthodoxy of Geneva [Calvin’s home base] and Rome.”[21] For both groups, salvation comes as a gift of God to undeserving humanity.It is against the backdrop of this common heritage that the important soteriological differences between Catholics and evangelicals must be viewed. As Harold O. J. Brown put it, “We must not oversimplify and create an artificial and forced consensus between great Christians of the past and present. Yet if one thing stands out when one studies the writings and lives of such men, it is that they knew and served the same Lord, and that they shared one faith and one hope.”[22]

Justification- THE CATHOLIC RESPONSE TO THE REFORMATION

The Council of Trent, which began its deliberations on June 22, 1546, was the Catholic response to the Reformers. A proper understanding of the Catholic view of justification is not possible apart from an understanding of the decrees of Trent.The Council considered the following questions concerning justification: (1) Is justification only extrinsic (judicial) in nature or is there also an intrinsic (sanctifying) work involved? (2) What is the relationship between faith and good works? (3) Does the human will have an active roll in justification? (4) How are justification and sacraments such as the Eucharist, baptism, and penance related? (5) Can the believer know with certainty that he or she is justified? (6) Can humans incline themselves toward justification, and if so, is this inclination to be understood as meritorious?[23]On January 9, 1547, the Council participants agreed on a final formula for justification: First, although several Council members recognized an extrinsic element in justification (thereby approaching the Reformers on this point), the consensus view was that "the opinion that a sinner may be justified solely as a matter of reputation or imputation…is rejected." And so, "justification is thus defined in terms of a man becoming, and not merely being reputed as, righteous…" (emphases added).[24]Second, in that Trent understands justification in two senses (the second corresponding to the Reformed doctrine of sanctification), good works are required in the second sense as a condition for ultimate justification. Therefore, it is possible and necessary (in this second sense) to keep the law of God.Third, Trent, taking into account original sin, states that sin has affected the human race. Therefore man cannot effect his own salvation, Free will, while not destroyed, is weakened by the Fall. For "if anyone shall say that man's free will moved and aroused by God does not cooperate by assenting to God who looses and calls…let him be anathema."[25] (It is important to note that "anathema" is a decree of excommunication, not automatic damnation.) So, as one Catholic author put it, "The sinner indeed cooperates with this grace, at least in the sense of not sinfully rejecting it."[26] Of course, most Protestants agree with this. Many Protestants, Calvinists in particular, add quickly (as would Catholic Thomists) that it is God by His grace who brings about this cooperation. But He does this without destroying man's free choice.Fourth, the subject of the sacraments was addressed at Session VII (March 3, 1547). In order to understand these pronouncements, one must remember that Trent understood justification in two ways – the "first" and "second" phases which Catholic scholars refer to as initial and progressive justification respectively. Baptism is operative in the "first" or "initial" justification, since grace to overcome original sin is "mediated" to us through baptism. Both the Eucharist and penance pertain to the "second" or "progressive" sense of justification, and such justification (i.e., righteousness) is said to be "increased" by participation in these sacraments. There is finally a third or "ultimate" stage of justification by which, providing one had not committed a mortal sin, he or she is allowed into heaven.Fifth, due to the Reformers' stress on the assurance of salvation, Trent was forced to deal with the subject. McGrath claims that they issued "an explicit condemnation of the Lutheran doctrine of assurance as an assertion contrary to proper Christian humility."[27] However, this explicit condemnation deals with "infallible certainty," which many Catholic scholars point out is not necessary, if indeed it is possible. In fact, "in many ways Roman [Catholic] dogmatics have pointed out that Rome's rejection of personal assurance of salvation does not mean the proclamation of a religion of uninterrupted anxiety."[28] For the Roman Catholic "there is an intermediate position between the assurance of faith and doubt. This position is that of moral certainty which excludes any anxiety and despair."[29] Thus, Christians can be said to have relative, not absolute (i.e., infallible), certainty of salvation.Sixth, Trent states that our initial justification must be seen as a "gift." Thus, it comes as a surprise to many Protestants that Roman Catholics believe that "if anyone shall say that man can be justified before God by his own works which are done…without divine grace through Christ Jesus: let him be anathema."[30] Further, "none of those things which precede justification, whether faith or works, merits the grace of justification. For if it is by grace, it is no more by works; otherwise, as the apostle says, grace is no more grace."[31]In this connection it is only fair to point out that when Catholic scholars cite James 2:24 – that "we are justified by works" – they do not mean this initial justification at baptism which comes only by grace. Rather, they are referring to progressive justification (growth in righteousness) which Protestants call sanctification. On the other hand, Trent does assert that works are necessary for salvation in the progressive and eventual senses. For Trent made it dogma that "by his good works the justified man really acquires a claim to supernatural reward from God."[32] And it is precisely here that Catholics and evangelicals disagree.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Justification- A PROTESTANT CRITIQUE OF TRENT

With all due recognition of the common Augustinian core of salvation by grace, there are some important differences between the Roman Catholic and evangelical Protestant views of justification. Unfortunately, the well-intentioned but unsuccessful recent statement, "Evangelicals and Catholics Together," lacked precision in these very areas, speaking of a common belief that "we are justified by grace through faith."[33] What it failed to note, however, is what the Reformation was fought over, namely, that Scripture teaches, and Protestants affirm, that we are saved by grace through faith alone (sola fide). Since this was the heart cry of the Reformation, many evangelicals refuse to sign the statement, believing it would betray the Reformation.

Justification- The Biblical Basis for Forensic Justification

In order to appreciate the significant contribution of the Reformers it is necessary to examine the biblical background of the term justification. As we will see, there are solid biblical grounds for the Protestant doctrine of forensic justification.The background for the doctrine of forensic justification (as with other New Testament doctrines as well) is found in the Old Testament. Concerning the Hebrew word hitsdiq, usually rendered "justify," more often than not it is "used in a forensic or legal sense, as meaning, not 'to make just or righteous,' but 'to declare judicially that one is in harmony with the law.'"[34] George Eldon Ladd notes that "he is righteous who is judged to be in the right (Ex. 23:7; Deut. 25:1); i.e., who in judgment through acquittal thus stands in a right relationship with God."[35]Turning to the New Testament, the Greek verb translated "to justify" is dikaioó. This word is used by Paul in a forensic or legal sense; the sinner is declared to be righteous (cf. Rom. 3-4). As Anthony Hoekema observes, "The opposite of condemnation, however, is not 'making righteous' but 'declaring righteous.'" Therefore, by dikaioó, Paul means the "legal imputation of the righteousness of Christ to the believing sinner."[36]When a person is justified, God pronounces that one acquitted – in advance of the final judgment. Therefore, "the resulting righteousness is not ethical perfection; it is 'sinlessness' in the sense that God no longer counts a man's sin against him (II Cor. 5:19)."[37] Thus we find in the New Testament that "justification is the declarative act of God by which, on the basis of the sufficiency of Christ's atoning death, he pronounces believers to have fulfilled all of the requirements of the law which pertain to them" (emphasis in original).[38]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Justification- The Incompatibility of Grace and Merit

Much criticism of the Catholic view of justification revolves around the concept of merit that was elevated by Trent to the status of infallible dogma. While Catholics wish to remind us that the whole doctrine of merit should be viewed in the context of grace,[39] they overlook the fact that Scripture teaches that grace and meritorious works are mutually exclusive (e.g., Rom. 11:6).The New Testament clearly speaks against obtaining salvation (whether justification or sanctification) as a "reward" (i.e., wage) for work done. For the Scriptures insist that gifts cannot be worked for; only wages can (Rom. 4:4-5). Grace means unmerited favor, and reward based on works is merited. Hence, grace and works are no more coherent than is an unmerited merit!

Justification- Eternal Life Is a Gift That Cannot Be Merited

The Council of Trent declared clearly that to "those who work well 'unto the end' [Matt. 10:22], and who trust in God, life eternal is to be proposed, both as a grace mercifully promised to the sons of God through Christ Jesus, 'and as a recompense' which is…to be faithfully given to their good works and merit."[40] By contrast, the Bible declares clearly and emphatically that "the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord" (Rom. 6:23).Further, in direct opposition to the Catholic position, the Bible guarantees eternal life is a present possession of those who believe. Jesus said: "Amen, amen, I say to you, whoever hears my words and believes in the one who sent me has [present tense] eternal life and will not come into condemnation, but is [right now] passed from death to life." This same truth is repeated over and over in Scripture (e.g., John 3:36; 1 John 5:13). But according to the Roman Catholic view, one must await a final justification at death to know whether he or she has eternal life and will not see God's condemnation.In the entire Gospel of John only one condition is laid down for obtaining eternal life – belief (John 3:16, 36; 5:24; 20:31, etc.). If salvation were not by faith alone, then the whole message of John would be deceptive, stating that there is only one condition for salvation when there are two: faith plus works. Indeed, John states explicitly that the only "work" necessary for salvation is to believe (John 6:29). There is simply nothing else to do for our salvation. Jesus did it all (John 19:31).It is true that all who are saved by God's grace through faith (Eph. 2:8-9) will be rewarded for their works for Christ (1 Cor. 3:11ff.; 2 Cor. 5:10). These rewards for service, however, have nothing to do with whether we will be in heaven, but only have to do with what status we will have there. As Jesus said, some of the saved will reign over ten cities and others over five (Luke 19:17, 19). But all believers will be in His kingdom.

Justification- Christians Work from Salvation, Not for It

Put in traditional terms, Catholicism fails to recognize the important difference between working for salvation and working from salvation. We do not work in order to receive salvation; rather, we work because we have already received it. God works salvation in us by justification and we work it out in sanctification (Phil. 2:12-13). But neither justification nor sanctification can be merited by works; they are given by grace.Despite the fact that the Catholic understanding of salvation does not logically eliminate forensic justification, nevertheless, it does obscure it. For when one fails to make a clear distinction between forensic justification and practical sanctification, then the good works Catholics believe are needed for sanctification tend to obscure the fact that works are not needed for justification.Of course, good works are necessary in the Christian life. But Protestants have solved the problem in a much more biblical and balanced way. They insist that while we are saved by faith alone, nevertheless, the faith that saves us is not alone. It inevitably produces good works. That is, we are saved by faith but for works. Works are not a condition of justification but they are a consequence of it. Thus, someone who is truly saved will manifest good works. If there are no good works present, then there is no reason to believe that true saving faith is present either.As James said, “Faith without works is dead.” Such faith cannot save. “Can [mere intellectual] faith save him?” Only the kind of faith that produces good works can save. So, we are not saved (i.e., do not receive eternal life) by works, but we are saved by the kind of faith that produces good works.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Justification- Preserving the Pure Doctrine of Grace

We conclude by noting that Protestants, following the clear biblical distinction between forensic justification and practical sanctification, make the way of salvation much clearer and preserve the doctrine of grace (which Catholics also claim) in a much purer form. For once believers know they have right standing before God (=are justified) by faith alone apart from works, then their minds are not cluttered with works they must perform in order to know all their sins are forgiven (past, present, and future) and they are on their way to heaven.While Catholicism acknowledges that there is an initial act of justification (which some even admit includes a forensic act), nevertheless, it also maintains that one must work to faithfully avoid mortal sin in order to achieve final justification before God. Thus, works are ultimately necessary for salvation. But this is contrary to the biblical teaching that salvation is by grace alone through faith alone, based on Christ alone. And, despite Catholic protest to the contrary, this is not conducive to the assurance of salvation by which we “know…[we] have eternal life” (1 John 5:13), and by which we are connected to God by His inseparable love (Rom. 8:1, 36-39).

Notes

[1]This material is taken from a forthcoming book by Norman L. Geisler and Ralph E. MacKenzie, Roman Catholics and Evangelicals: Agreements and Differences (Baker, 1995), as extensively edited by Elliot Miller.[2]Tertullian, De paenitentia 2; 1.323.44-6.[3]An excellent historical analysis of this period can be found in Alister E. McGrath, Iustitia Dei: A History of the Christian Doctrine of Justification, vol. l (Cambridge: Cambridge Press, 1986), 1-23. [4]Augustine, City of God 10.8.[5]Henry Denzinger, The Sources of Catholic Dogma, trans. Roy J. Deferrari from the 30th edition of Henry Denzinger’s Enchiridion Symbolorum (St. Louis: B. Herder Book Co., 1957), “Grace” Can. 3.176., p. 76.[6]Semi-Pelagianism held that man cooperated with God by ordinarily taking the first steps toward salvation. [7]McGrath, 110. [8]Or “Why God Became Man?” The Library of Christian Classics, vol. X, ed. and trans. Eugene R. Fairweather (Philadelphia: Westminster Press, 1951).[9]See, e.g., Thomas Aquinas, Summa Theologiae, 2a2ae. 2, 4, in The Basic Writings of Thomas Aquinas, ed. Anton C. Pegis (New York: Random House, 1944), 1079.[10]Aquinas, 2a2ae. 2, 6, ad 1.[11]Cited by R. H. Bainton, Here I Stand: A Life of Martin Luther (Nashville: Abington, 1978), 65. [12]Martin Luther, Explanations of the Ninety-five Theses, published August 1518.[13]Peter Toon, Justification and Sanctification

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

(Westchester, IL: Crossway Books, 1983), 58. [14]Bernard M. G. Reardon, Religious Thought in the Reformation (London: Longman, 1981), 190.[15]John Calvin, Institutes, III, I xv, 4.[16]Ibid., 2, i.[17]J. K. S. Reid, trans., Calvin: Theological Treatises, vol. 22, The Library of Christian Classics (Philadelphia: Westminster Press, 1954), article 5.[18]Calvin, 2I, xi, 2.[19]Alister McGrath, Iustitia Dei: A History of the Christian Doctrine of Justification, vol. 2 (Cambridge: Cambridge Press, 1986), 36.[20]Reardon, 196.[21]Colin Brown, Christianity and Western Thought, vol. 1 (Downers Grove, IL: InterVarsity Press, 1990), 165.[22]Harold O. J. Brown, The Protest of a Troubled Protestant (New Rochelle: Arlington House, 1969), 107.[23]McGrath, 69.[24]Ibid., 72. The words "solely" and "merely" in these quotes indicate that Trent did not reject forensic justification as such. [25]Denzinger, 814, 258. [26]H. George Anderson, Justification by Faith (Minneapolis: Augsburg Press, 1985), 34.[27]McGrath, vol. 2, 78.[28]Gerrit C. Berkouwer, The Conflict with Rome (Philadelphia: The Presbyterian and Reformed Publishing Co., 1958), 114.[29]Bernhard Bartmann, Lehrbuch der Dogmatik, II, 109. Quoted in Ibid., 115.[30]"Trent," see Denzinger, 811, p. 258. [31]Ibid., ch. 8, 801, 252.[32]Ludwig Ott, Fundamentals of Catholic Dogma (Rockford, IL: Tan Books and Publishers, 1960), 264.[33]"Evangelicals and Catholics Together: The Christian Mission in the Third Millennium," final draft (29 March 1994). [34]Anthony A. Hoekema, Saved by Grace (Grand Rapids: Eerdmans, 1989), 154.[35]George Eldon Ladd, A Theology of the New Testament (Grand Rapids: Eerdmans, 1974), 440.[36]Hoekema, 154.[37]Ladd, 446. [38]Millard J. Erickson, Christian Theology (Grand Rapids: Baker Book House, 1986), 956. [39]See Avery Dulles, S. J., in Anderson, 274.[40]Denzinger, 809, p. 257.

[Source: http://www.equip.org/article/justification-the-catholic-protestant-argument-over-justification/]

PDF: http://www.equip.org/PDF/DC170-5.pdf

Other related articles…

An Evangelical Appraisal of Contemporary Catholicism
http://www.equip.org/PDF/DC170-1.pdf [Part 1, PDF]
http://www.equip.org/PDF/DC170-2.pdf [Part 2, PDF]

The Catholic-Protestant Debate Over Biblical Authority
http://www.equip.org/PDF/DC170-3.pdf

The Catholic-Protestant Debate on Papal Infallibility
http://www.equip.org/PDF/DC170-4.pdf

Dogma, Doctrine, and Theology: What Are They? [Catholic]
http://jimmyakin.com/dogma-doctrine-and-theology-what-are-they

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Liturgical Periods of Roman Catholic Church

(also followed in part by some of the mainline Protestant denominations)

Liturgical Period Season / Occasion / Event	Liturgical Color	Meaning
Season of Christmas	White	light, innocence, purity, joy, triumph or glory
Season of Easter
Feasts of the Lord, other than of His passion
Feasts of Mary, the angels, and saints who were not martyrs
All Saints (1 November)
Feasts of the Apostles
Nuptial Masses
Masses for the dead (Requiem Masses) when the deceased is a baptized child who died before the age of reason
White is the color of Popes' non-liturgical dress. White can be replaced by Silver.
Feasts of the Lord's passion, Blood, and Cross	Red	the Passion of Christ, blood, fire, God's Love or martydom
Feasts of the martyrs
Palm Sunday
Pentecost
Red is the color of Cardinals' non-liturgical dress
Time After Epiphany	Green	the Holy Ghost, life eternal or hope
Time After Pentecost
Season of Advent	Violet or Purple	penance, humility or melancholy
Season of Septuagesima
Season of Lent
Rogation Days
Ember Days (except for Pentecost Ember Days)
Vigils except for Ascension and Pentecost
Good Friday
Violet, literally "amaranth red," is the color of Bishops', Archbishops', and Patriarchs' non-liturgical dress
All Souls Day	Black	mourning or sorrow
Masses for the dead (Requiem Masses), except for baptized children who've died before the age of reason
Gaudete Sunday (Third Sunday of Advent)	Rose or Pink	joy
Laetare Sunday (Fourth Sunday of Lent)
Gold can replace white, red, or green (but not violet or black)	Gold

[Source: http://resource4christians.blogspot.com]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Liturgical Calendar for United Methodist Church

Day or Season	Date(s)	Theme(s)	Meaning of Color(s)	Color(s)
Advent	From four Sundays before Christmas Day to Christmas Eve	Waiting; expectation; hope; longing; joy	Purple (or sometimes blue) for solemnity and royalty; pink for joy on third Sunday
Christmas	Twelve days from December 25 to Jan 5	Birth of Jesus; Word Incarnate; Celebration; Joy; Light; Salvation	White and gold for celebration, light, purity
Epiphany	January 6	The "epiphany" (manifestation) of Jesus as the Son of God; the visit of the Magi; joy. Sometimes the baptism of Jesus is celebrated here.	White and gold for joy and celebration
Ordinary Time	January 7 to the day before Ash Wednesday	"Ordinary Time" describes the Christian year when there is no unusual focus	Green for life and growth
Ash Wednesday	The Wednesday seven weeks before Easter	Penitence; mere humanness; sin; our need for a savior; mortality	Black or gray for sinfulness and death; purple for penitence and solemnity
Lent	The 40 weekdays before Easter, not counting Sundays, includes Holy Week	Penitence; solemness; spiritual focus; self-denial; preparation for Easter.	Purple for penitence and solemnity
Holy Week	The week before Easter (including Palm Sunday, Maundy Thursday, and Good Friday)	Preparation for Easter; remembering the last week of Jesus's life; the death of Jesus	Red for passion and the blood of Christ
Palm Sunday	The Sunday of Holy Week	Jesus's triumphal entry into Jerusalem; Jesus as king	Red for Holy Week; sometimes gold or white or purple (for royalty)
Maundy Thursday	The Thursday before Easter	Remembering the "new commandment" to love one another (mandatum novum in Latin, from which we get "Maundy")	Red for passion and Christ's sacrifice
Good Friday	The Friday before Easter	Remembering the death of Jesus; sorrow; confession; anticipation	Black for death, sorrow
Easter	The Sunday after the first full moon after Vernal Equinox (more or less)	The resurrection; eternal life; victory; joy; light; life	Gold and white
Eastertide	Seven weeks after Easter (including Ascension Sunday)	Continued joyful celebration of the resurrection and its implications	Red (for the church); gold and white for Easter
Pentecost	The seventh Sunday after Easter	The outpouring of the Holy Spirit; the birth of the church; God's power.	Red (for power)
Ordinary Time	From Pentecost to the day before Advent	Growth in Christ; can include special celebrations such as Trinity Sunday, Christ the King Sunday, Reformation Sunday, All Saints Day, etc.	Green (for life and growth)
Trinity Sunday	The Sunday after Pentecost	Recognizing the presence and power and majesty of the Triune God	White or gold
Christ the King	The last Sunday before Advent	Honoring Christ as the King of the present and the future	White or gold

[Source: http://pastorrobert-nikos.blogspot.com]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

United Methodist Church Liturgical Calendar with Example Dates

(Note: some of the dates change each year)

Colors	Season	Dates
Dark Blue	Advent	Nov 28-Dec 11
Pink*	3rd Week of Advent	Dec 12-Dec 19
Dark Blue	Advent	Dec 19-Dec 23
Dark Blue	Christmas Eve	Dec 24
White / Gold	Christmas	Dec 25-Jan 5
White / Gold	Epiphany	Jan 6
Green	After Epiphany	Jan 7-Mar 5
White / Gold	Transfiguration	Mar 6-8
Purple	Ash Wednesday	Mar 9
Purple	Ash Wed/Lent	Mar 9-Apr 23
Purple	Maundy Thursday	Apr 21
Purple / Black	Good Friday	Apr 22
Black	Holy Saturday	Apr 23
White / Gold	Easter	Apr 24-30
White / Gold	Eastertide	May 1-Jun 1
White / Gold	Ascension Day	Jun 2
White / Gold	Eastertide	Jun 3-Jun 11
Red	Pentecost Sunday	Jun 12-Jun 18
White / Gold	Trinity Sunday	Jun 19-June 25
Green	Ordinary Time	June 26-Oct 31
Red	All Saints Day or Sunday	Nov 1 or the next Sunday
Green	Ordinary Time	Nov 2-19
White / Gold	Christ the King	Nov 20-26

[Source: http://fumcclinton.org]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Liturgical Calendar for the Episcopal (Angelican) Church

DAY OR SEASON	TIME	COLORS	MEANINGS AND THEMES
Advent Season	4 Sundays before Christmas.		Preparing for Christmas. Waiting. The royalty of Christ. Our joyful welcome of the Child
Christmas Season	12 days beginning with Christmas.		Birth of Jesus Christ
Epiphany Day	January 6th		Visit of the Three Kings. Christ made known to the world.
Epiphany Season	"Ordinary" Time Between Epiphany Day and Ash Wednesday		Ministry of Jesus Christ. Ongoing growth.
Lenten Season	40 days before Easter.		Preparation for Easter. Penitence. Morality.
Holy Week	Week before Easter.		The days and events leading to the Crucifixion of Jesus Christ.
Easter Season	50 days beginning with Easter Day.		Resurrection of Jesus Christ. Celebration of new and eternal life.
Pentecost Day			Coming of the Holy Spirit. Fire and descending flames. Beginning a new life in the world.
Season after Pentecost	"Ordinary" Time Between Pentecost and Advent.		Ministry of Church. Ongoing growth of believers in the world.

[Source: http://www.stgeorgesparish.org/why_the_Episcopal_church.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Stations of the Cross (Way of the Cross) [Roman Catholic]

Stations of the Cross (or Way of the Cross; in Latin, Via Crucis) refers to a series of images depicting Jesus Christ on the day of his crucifixion and also to the prayers Christians say when contemplating those images. Often a series of 14 images will be arranged in numbered order around a church nave or along a path, and the faithful travel from image to image, in order, stopping at each "station" to say the selected prayers and reflections. This will be done individually or in groups. Occasionally the faithful might say the Stations of the Cross without there being any image, such as when the Pope leads the Stations of the Cross around the Colosseum in Rome on Good Friday. This practice is common in Roman Catholic, as well as in a number of Anglican, Lutheran and Methodist churches.

The style and form of the stations can vary widely and often reflect the artistic sensibility and spirituality of the time, place and culture of their creation. The stations can consist of small plaques with reliefs or paintings, or of simple crosses with a numeral in the centre.

The Stations of the Cross are also called the Via Dolorosa or Way of Sorrows, or simply, The Way. In Jerusalem, the Via Dolorosa is believed to be the actual path that Jesus walked, and the stations there, the actual places the events occurred.

The tradition of moving around the Stations to commemorate the Passion of Christ began with St. Francis of Assisi and extended throughout the Roman Catholic Church in the medieval period. It is most commonly done during Lent, especially on Good Friday, but it also done on other days as well, especially Wednesdays and Fridays.

The object of the Stations is to help the faithful to make a spiritual pilgrimage of prayer, through meditating upon the chief scenes of Christ's sufferings and death. It has become one of the most popular devotions for many Christians, especially among Catholics, Anglicans, and Lutherans, and "is often performed in a spirit of reparation for the sufferings and insults that Jesus endured during His Passion."

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Traditional form

The early set of seven scenes was usually numbers 2, 3, 4, 6, 7, 11, and 14 from the list below. The standard set from the 17th to 20th centuries has consisted of 14 pictures or sculptures depicting the following scenes:

1. Jesus is condemned to death
2. Jesus carries his cross
3. Jesus falls the first time
4. Jesus meets his mother
5. Simon of Cyrene helps Jesus carry the cross
6. Veronica wipes the face of Jesus
7. Jesus falls the second time
8. Jesus meets the women of Jerusalem
9. Jesus falls the third time
10. Jesus is stripped of his garments
11. Crucifixion: Jesus is nailed to the cross
12. Jesus dies on the cross
13. Jesus is taken down from the cross (Deposition or Lamentation)
14. Jesus is laid in the tomb.

Although not traditionally part of the Stations, the Resurrection of Jesus is sometimes included as a fifteenth station.

Scriptural Way of the Cross

Out of the fourteen traditional Stations of the Cross, only eight have clear scriptural foundation. Stations 3, 4, 6, 7, and 9 are not specifically attested to in the gospels (in particular, no evidence exists of station 6 ever being known before medieval times) and Station 13 (representing Jesus's body being taken down off the cross and laid in the arms of His mother Mary) seems to embellish the gospels' record, which states that Joseph of Arimathea took Jesus down from the cross and buried him.

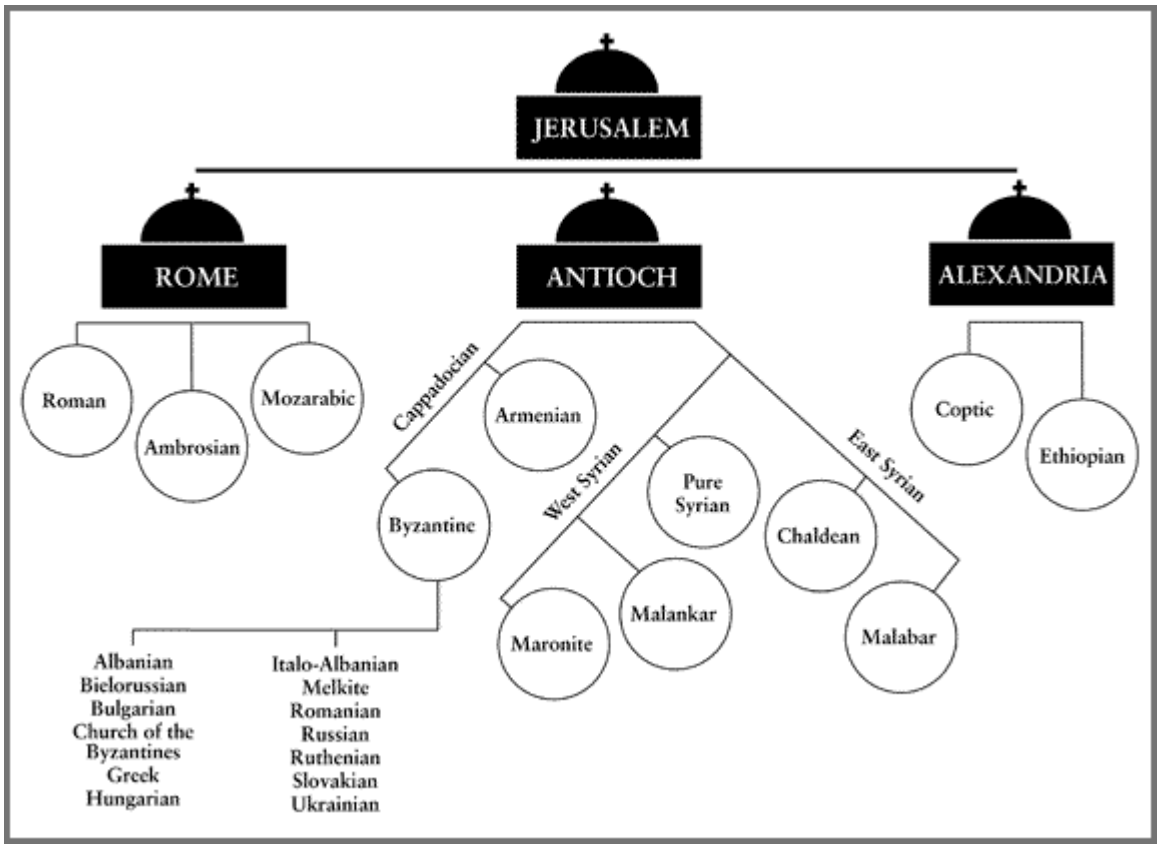
To provide a version of this devotion more closely aligned with the biblical accounts, Pope John Paul II introduced a new form of devotion, called the Scriptural Way of the Cross on Good Friday 1991. He celebrated that form many times but not exclusively at the Colosseum in Rome. In 2007, Pope Benedict XVI approved this set of stations for meditation and public celebration: They follow this sequence:

1. Jesus in the Garden of Gethsemane,
2. Jesus is betrayed by Judas and arrested,

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

3. Jesus is condemned by the Sanhedrin,
4. Jesus is denied by Peter,
5. Jesus is judged by Pilate,
6. Jesus is scourged and crowned with thorns,
7. Jesus takes up his cross,
8. Jesus is helped by Simon to carry his cross,
9. Jesus meets the women of Jerusalem,
10. Jesus is crucified,
11. Jesus promises his kingdom to the repentant thief,
12. Jesus entrusts Mary and John to each other,
13. Jesus dies on the cross,
14. Jesus is laid in the tomb

Related Devotions:



http://www.usccb.org/prayer-and-worship/prayers-and-devotions/stations-of-the-cross/scriptural-stations-of-the-cross.cfm

[Source: Wikipedia]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Catholic Family Rites Chart

http://nativityukr.org/who_we_are/rites_chart.html

This chart shows the various Catholic liturgical families (rites) and their ancestry. Jerusalem, the place of the founding of the Catholic Church, came first in time. Then three major branches eventually formed within the Church: Roman, Antiochian and Alexandrian. The Ukrainian Catholic Church is part of the Antiochian branch, specifically coming under the Byzantine rite. The Catechism, quoting from Sacrosanctum Concilium, the Second Vatican Council's Constitution on Divine Liturgy, states:

"The liturgical traditions or rites presently in use in the Church are the Latin . . . and the Byzantine, Alexandrian or Coptic, Syriac, Armenian, Maronite and Chaldean rites. In 'faithful obedience to tradition, the sacred Council declares that Holy Mother Church holds all lawfully recognized rites to be of equal right and dignity, and that she wishes to preserve them in the future and to foster them in every way.'" (CCC 1203).

Wikipedia: Rite

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Rite

Within many Protestant Christian denominations, the word rite is used for important ceremonies that are not considered sacraments or ordinances. The 39 Articles of the Anglican Communion and the Articles of Religion of the Methodist Church state "there are two Sacraments ordained of Christ our Lord in the Gospel, that is to say, Baptism and the Supper of the Lord". As such, in the Anglican and Methodist traditions, the following are considered rites: "confirmation, reconciliation (confessions of sins), matrimony, holy orders and anointing of the sick". Similarly the "rites of the Moravian Church are Confirmation, Marriage, and Ordination". In the Lutheran tradition, Holy Baptism, Holy Eucharist, and Confession & Absolution are considered Lutheran sacraments, while Confirmation, Anointing of the Sick, Holy Matrimony, and Holy Orders are rites.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Within the Catholic Church, "rite" often refers to what is also called a sacrament but should refer to the ceremonies associated with the sacraments, e.g. the Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults. In Roman Catholicism, for example, the sacrament of Anointing of the Sick is one of the three that are sometimes referred to as "the last rites", because they are administered to someone who was dying. The other two are Penance and Eucharist (administered as Viaticum in the case of a dying person). Since the Second Vatican Council, Anointing of the Sick is administered to those who are seriously ill but not necessarily in immediate danger of death. The term "rite" became widely used after the Second Vatican Council. While "rite" is often used synonymously with "sacrament," it is technically incorrect to say that one received a "rite" because the sacrament is what is received. The ritual consists of the prayers and actions that the minister of the sacrament performs when administering a sacrament. Therefore, it is incorrect to say that one has received "the last rites" as that person has really received "the last sacraments" by a minister following a ritual that has performed the "sacramental rite."

Within both Catholicism and Protestantism, the term "rite" also refers to a body of liturgical tradition usually emanating from a specific center. Examples include the Roman Rite, the Byzantine Rite, and the Sarum Rite. Such rites may include various sub-rites. For example, the Byzantine Rite has Greek, Russian, and other ethnically-based variants. For a full list of Christian liturgical rites, see Christian liturgy.

In addition, the same term was and still is, though less frequently than before, applied to an autonomous particular Church within the Catholic Church associated with a particular liturgical tradition. Of these, the largest is the Latin Rite or Western Church. There are also several Eastern Catholic Churches or Rites. For a full list of Catholic liturgical rites, see List of Catholic rites and churches.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Catechism

A catechism (pronunciation: /ˈkætəˌkizəm/; from Greek: κατηχέω, "to teach orally"), is a summary or exposition of doctrine and serves as a learning [teaching] introduction to the Sacraments traditionally used in catechesis, or Christian religious teaching of children and adult converts.

Catechisms are doctrinal manuals - often in the form of questions followed by answers to be memorized - a format that has been used in non-religious or secular contexts as well. The term catechumen refers to the designated recipient of the catechetical work or instruction. In the Catholic Church, catechumens are those who are preparing to receive the Sacrament of Baptism.

[Source: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Catechism]

Example from Westminster Shorter Catechism (first 10 questions and answers):

Q. 1. What is the chief end of man?
A. Man's chief end is to glorify God, and to enjoy him forever.

Q. 2. What rule hath God given to direct us how we may glorify and enjoy him?
A. The Word of God, which is contained in the Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments, is the only rule to direct us how we may glorify and enjoy him.

Q. 3. What do the Scriptures principally teach?
A. The Scriptures principally teach what man is to believe concerning God, and what duty God requires of man.

Q. 4. What is God?
A. God is a spirit, infinite, eternal, and unchangeable, in his being, wisdom, power, holiness, justice, goodness and truth.

Q. 5. Are there more Gods than one?
A. There is but one only, the living and true God.

Q. 6. How many persons are there in the godhead?
A. There are three persons in the Godhead; the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost; and these three are one God, the same in substance, equal in power and glory.

Q. 7. What are the decrees of God?
A. The decrees of God are his eternal purpose, according to the counsel of his will, whereby, for his own glory, he hath foreordained whatsoever comes to pass.

Q. 8. How doth God execute his decrees?
A. God executeth his decrees in the works of creation and providence.

Q. 9. What is the work of creation?
A. The work of creation is God's making all things of nothing, by the word of his power, in the space of six days, and all very good.

Q. 10. How did God create man?
A. God created man male and female, after his own image, in knowledge, righteousness and holiness, with dominion over the creatures.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Catechisms and Related Resources Online

Catholic: http://ccc.usccb.org/flipbooks/catechism/

http://www.kofc.org/un/en/catechism/

http://www.christusrex.org/www1/CDHN/ccc.html (basic html)

http://www.catholicity.com/catechism/ (simplified)

Anglican: http://anglicansonline.org/basics/catechism.html

http://www.anglicanchurch.net/?/main/catechism (downloadable)

Lutheran: http://bookofconcord.org/smallcatechism.php (Small) http://bookofconcord.org/lc-1-intro.php (Large)

Reformed:

http://www.opc.org/new_horizons/NH05/HeidelbergWestminster.html

http://www.the-highway.com/larger-catechism_Dixhoorn.html

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Westminster_Shorter_Catechism

Heidelberg

http://www.reformed.org.ua/1/30/godfrey

http://www.wts.edu/resources/creeds/heidelberg.html

http://reformed.org/documents/heidelberg.html

http://www.heidelberg-catechism.com/en/

https://www.crcna.org/welcome/beliefs/confessions/heidelberg-catechism

http://www.heidelberg-catechism.com/pdf/lords-days/Heidelberg-Catechism.pdf [PDF]

http://www.esvbible.org/resources/creeds-and-catechisms/article-the-heidelberg-catechism-1563/

https://www.rca.org/heidelberg

http://www.rcus.org/heidelberg-heritage/

Westminster

Larger: https://prts.edu/wp-content/uploads/2013/09/Larger_Catechism.pdf [PDF]

http://www.reformed.org/documents/wlc_w_proofs/

http://epc.org/file/main-menu/resources/download-epc-doc/WCF-LC-ModernEnglish2011wChapters.pdf

https://www.opc.org/lc.html

http://www.puritans.net/curriculum/Larger%20Catechism%20I.pdf [Workbook p1]

Shorter: http://www.ligonier.org/learn/articles/westminster-shorter-catechism/

http://www.shortercatechism.com/

https://www.pcusa.org/resource/daily-westminster-shorter-catechism-samuel-robinso/

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

https://www.monergism.com/westminster-shorter-catechism-ebook (downloadable)

http://www.westminsterconfession.org/confessional-standards/the-westminster-shorter-catechism.php http://matt2819.com/wsc/ (downloadable and audio versions)

http://www.freepres.org/wcfshort.htm (basic html)

http://www.rpchanover.org/shcat.htm (basic html)

http://www.epc.org/file/main-menu/beliefs/catechisms/short/0e417539_westminster-shorter-catechism.pdf

http://sovgraceto.org/wp-content/uploads/2012/02/Catechism-for-Young-Children.pdf

http://www.esvbible.org/resources/creeds-and-catechisms/article-the-westminster-shorter-catechism/https://dangitbill.wordpress.com/2008/12/12/wsc-flash-cards/ (flash cards)

http://graceandtruthcommunity.org/wp-content/uploads/2009/08/The+Shorter+Catechism+_+Baptist+Version.pdf (Baptist version / PDF)

Baptist: http://www.reformedreader.org/ccc/bcat.htm

http://baptiststudiesonline.com/wp-content/uploads/2007/02/keachs-catechism-of-1677.pdf

http://www.ahavabaptist.com/catechism/catechism.htm

http://fsbclompoc.com/doctrinal-statement

Baptist (John Piper): http://www.desiringgod.org/articles/a-baptist-catechism (downloadable)

http://www.reformedreader.org/ccc/baptistcatechism.htm (basic html)

http://www.desiringgod.org/articles/the-baptist-catechism-with-commentary-from-john-piper

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Controversy: Is the Catholic Catechism's view on the Muslim god wrong?

https://carm.org/catholic-catechisms-view-muslim-god-wrong

http://biblelight.net/newcat.htm

http://www.catholic.com/blog/tim-staples/do-muslims-worship-the-same-god-catholics-do

Catholic Catechism FAQ's
http://www.usccb.org/beliefs-and-teachings/what-we-believe/catechism/catechism-of-the-catholic-church/frequently-asked-questions-about-the-catechism-of-the-catholic-church.cfm

What are some of the ways in which the Bible and the Roman Catholic Church differ? (from a Protestant Biblical perspective)
http://www.christiananswers.net/q-sum/sum-r005a.html

Discussions including Criticisms of the Westminster Systems of Doctrine http://biblehub.com/library/various/creeds_of_christendom_with_a_history_and_critical_notes/_97_criticism_of_the.htm

http://www.outsidethecamp.org/wcfprobs.htm

https://www.thegospelcoalition.org/article/five-reasons-you-need-the-westminster-shorter-catechism

http://spindleworks.com/library/wcf/ward.htm

http://digitalcollections.dordt.edu/cgi/viewcontent.cgi?article=1037&context=faculty_work [PDF]

http://www.worldvieweverlasting.com/tag/heidelberg-catechism/

General/Miscellaneous

http://www.wow.com/wiki/History_of_Calvinism (History of Calvinism)

http://apostles-creed.org/documents-creeds-catechisms-confessions/

http://lincolnvineyard.org/VineyardLibrary/Church%20History/An%20Introduction%20to%20The%20Heidelberg%20Catechism.pdf [PDF]

http://www.refo500.nl/en/pages/10/Heidelberg%20Catechism%20in%20Various%20Languages.html

https://www.youtube.com/playlist?list=PL16A3DFD0570F9D39

http://fsbclompoc.com/doctrinal-statement

http://foundationrt.org/bw/wp-content/uploads/2016/03/George_Baptist_Westminster.pdf [PDF]

http://www.prca.org/Catechisms/HC%20Memory%20Work%20LD%201-26.doc [Doc]

http://simonetta-carr.blogspot.com/2011/11/practical-tips-for-teaching-catechism.html

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Christian Symbols

Ancient Christian Symbols and Their Hidden Meanings

https://churchpop.com/2015/08/14/8-ancient-christian-symbols-and-their-hidden-meanings/

1) Staurogram / Tau-Rho

via bricecjones.com

The Staurogram, or Tau-Rho, is a Greek tau (T) combined with a Greek rho (P), and was used in the early church as an abbreviation for the Greek word for cross.

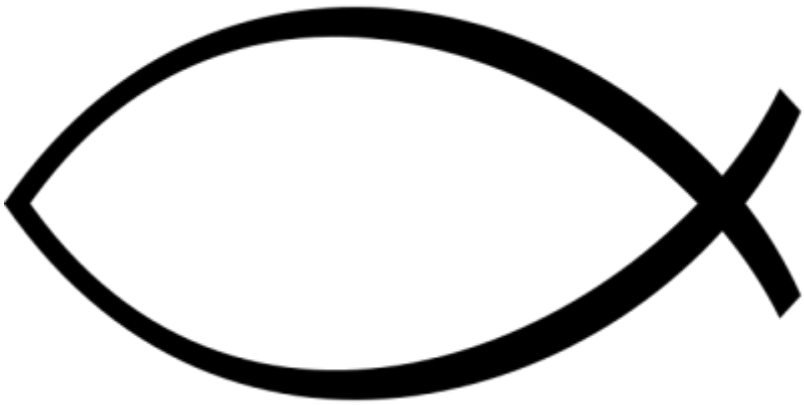
The letters also sometimes had a deeper meaning. The tau could symbolize the cross on its own. The rho had the numerical value of 100, which itself could either be a reference to the Greek word for help (which also had the numerical value of 100), or as a reference to Abraham (himself taken as a symbol of the Messiah) because Abraham procreated Isaac when he was 100 years old.

2) Peacock

Lawrence OP, Flickr

The Ancient Greeks believed that the flesh of peacocks didn't decompose after death, and so peacocks became a symbol of immortality. Early Christians adopted the symbol to represent their belief in eternal life in heaven with God, and was often depicted with the Tree of Life.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



3) Pelican

Andreas Praefcke, Wikipedia

Medieval Europeans believed that pelicans were particularly attentive to their young, even to the point of wounding itself and letting its young drink its blood when no food was available. As a result, the pelican became a symbol of Christ's passion, poring out his blood for the forgiveness of sins, as well as the Eucharist.

4) Ichthys

Wikipedia

Ichthys is the Greek word for fish, and it was one of the most important early Christian symbols. Not only did fish feature in several miracles of Jesus in the Gospels, but the ichthys was taken as an acrostic for the Greek phrase "Iēsous Christos Theou Hyios Sōtēr," which means "Jesus Christ, Son of God, Savior."

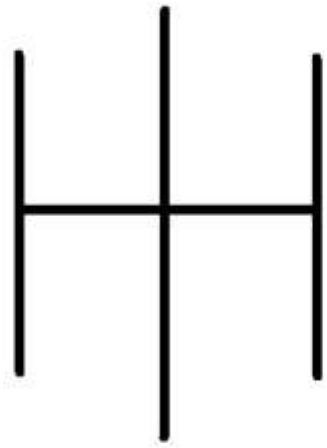
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

5) Alpha and Omega

Jonathunder, Wikipedia

In the book of Revelation, Jesus says of himself, “I am Alpha and Omega, the First and the Last, the Beginning and the End.” (Rev 22.13) Alpha is the first letter of the Greek alphabet, and Omega is the last one. Putting the two together, they represent the eternity of Christ as the Son of God.

6) Chi-Rho



Udimu, Wikipedia

The Chi-Rho is a combination of the Greek letter chi (X) and rho (P), which are the first two letters of the Greek word for “Christ,” and so when put together represent “Jesus.”

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

7) IH Monogram

A ntv, Wikipedia

The IH Monogram consists of the Greek letters iota (I) and eta (H), which are the first two letters of the word “Jesus” in Greek, and as such was a common shorthand for “Jesus.”

8) IX Monogram

Uploadalt, Wikipedia

The IX Monogram consists of the Greek letters iota (I) and chi (X). Iota is the first letter of the Greek word for “Jesus,” and chi is the first letter of the Greek word for “Christ.” Put together, they function as a shorthand for “Jesus Christ.”

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

9) Anchor

Public Domain, Wikipedia

In the ancient world, anchors symbolized safety. The author of the Hebrews adapted this symbol for the hope Christians have in Christ: “We have this as a sure and steadfast anchor of the soul, a hope that enters into the inner place behind the curtain, where Jesus has gone as a forerunner on our behalf, having become a high priest forever after the order of Melchizedek.” (Heb 6.19-20)

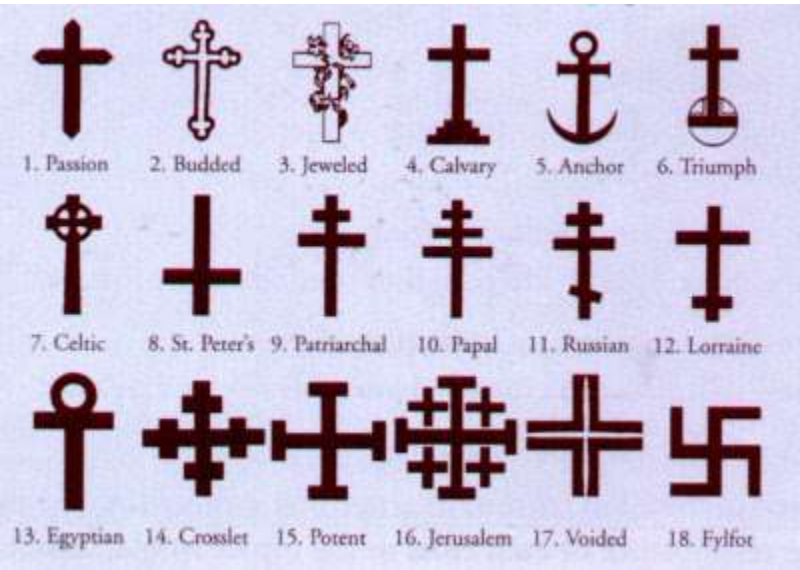
Christian symbols and their Meaning http://ancient-symbols.com/christian_symbols.html

http://www.planetgast.net/symbols/crosses/crosses.html

https://owlcation.com/humanities/catholic-symbols

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Christian Cross Variants
https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Christian_cross_variants

http://orthochristian.com/97480.html

http://www.planetgast.net/symbols/crosses/crosses.html

Early Christian Symbols in the Catacombs http://www.jesuswalk.com/christian-symbols/early-christian-symbols.htm

Archæology of the Cross and Crucifix (Catholic) http://www.newadvent.org/cathen/04517a.htm

Fylfot
https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Fylfot

A Swastika in a Catholic Church
https://deshika.wordpress.com/2009/09/03/a-swastika-in-a-catholic-church/

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others.

Greek Crosses

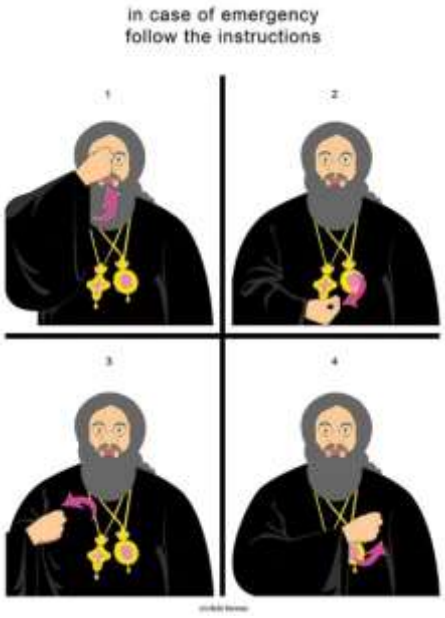
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Sign of the Cross

Wikipedia

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Sign_of_the_cross

The sign of the cross (Latin: signum crucis), or blessing oneself or crossing oneself, is a ritual blessing made by members of some branches of Christianity. This blessing is made by the tracing of an upright cross or + across the body with the right hand, often accompanied by spoken or mental recitation of the trinitarian formula: "In the name of the Father, and the Son, and the Holy Spirit/Holy Ghost. Amen."[1]



Position of the fingers while making the sign of the cross in the Byzantine fashion

The movement is the tracing of the shape of a cross in the air or on one's own body, echoing the traditional shape of the cross of the Christian crucifixion narrative. There are two principal forms: one—three fingers, right to left—is exclusively used in the Eastern Orthodox Church, Church of the East and the Eastern Catholic Churches in the Byzantine, Assyrian and Chaldean traditions; the other—left to right to middle, other than three fingers—is the one used in the Latin (Catholic) Church, Anglicanism, Methodism, Presbyterianism, Lutheranism and Oriental Orthodoxy. The ritual is rare within other Christian traditions.

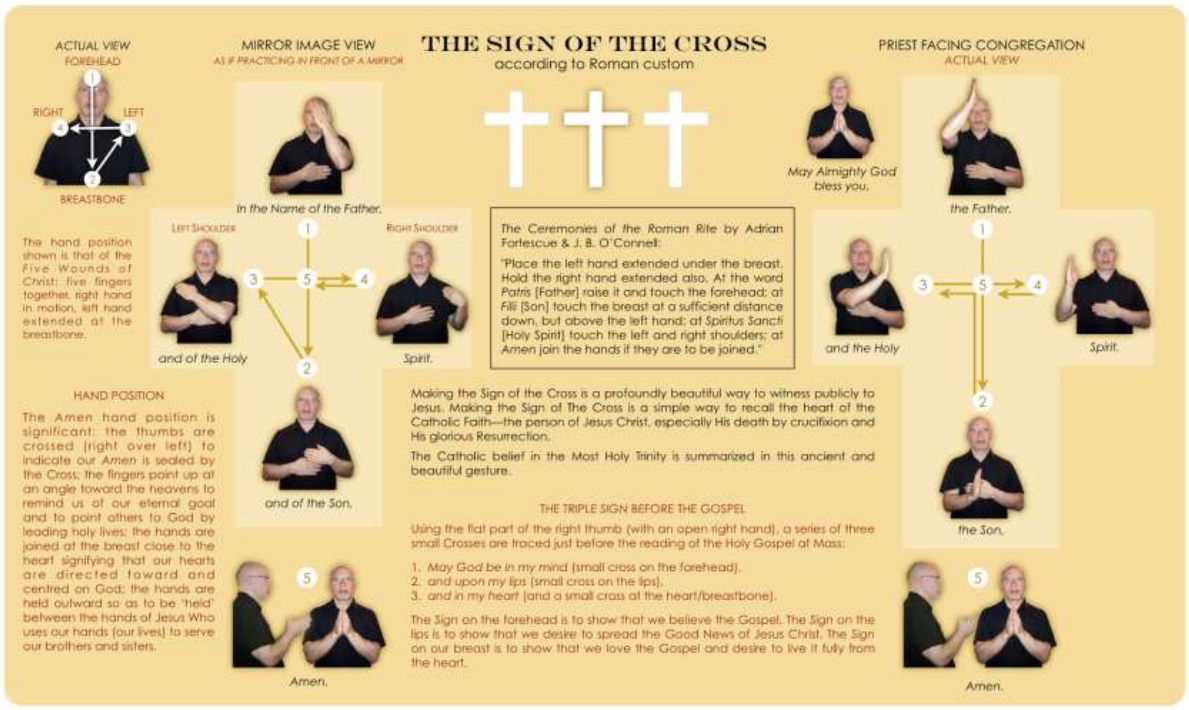
Many individuals use the expression "cross my heart and hope to die" as an oath, making the sign of the cross, in order to show "truthfulness and sincerity", sworn before God, in both personal and legal situations.

How to Cross Yourself (Eastern and Western Traditions)

https://www.wikihow.com/Cross-Yourself

Orthodox – How to Make the Sign of the Cross

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=jAM2IC6Ialg [Video]



https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Ab6EpXDa6GQ [Video]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Catholic – How to Make the Sign of the Cross

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=zkrAISiL8CM [Video] (Done like a military drill)

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=autaIzGDcy8 [Video] (In One Minute)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Commandments

In the Bible

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Ten Commandments (Decalogue) [Source: Wikipedia]

Different religious traditions divide the seventeen verses of Exodus 20:1–17 and their parallels at Deuteronomy 5:4–21 into ten "commandments" or "sayings" in different ways, shown in the table below. Some suggest that the number ten is a choice to aid memorization rather than a matter of theology.

Traditions:

- S: Septuagint, generally followed by Orthodox Christians.
- P: Philo, same as the Septuagint, but with the prohibitions on killing and adultery reversed.
- T: Jewish Talmud, makes the "prologue" the first "saying" or "matter" and combines the prohibition on worshiping deities other than Yahweh with the prohibition on idolatry.
- A: Augustine follows the Talmud in combining verses 3–6, but omits the prologue as a commandment and divides the prohibition on coveting in two and following the word order of Deuteronomy 5:21 rather than Exodus 20:17.
- C: Catechism of the Catholic Church, largely follows Augustine.
- L: Lutherans follow Luther's Large Catechism, which follows Augustine but omits the prohibition of images and uses the word order of Exodus 20:17 rather than Deuteronomy 5:21 for the ninth and tenth commandments.
- R: Reformed Christians follow John Calvin's Institutes of the Christian Religion, which follows the Septuagint.

The Ten Commandments

S	P	T	A	C	L	R	Main article	Exodus 20:1-17	Deuteronomy 5:4-21
—	—	1	—	1	—	(1)	I am the Lord thy God	2	6
1	1	2	1	1	1	1	Thou shalt have no other gods before me	3	7
2	2	2	1	1	—	2	Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image	4–6	8–10
3	3	3	2	2	2	3	Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain	7	11
4	4	4	3	3	3	4	Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy	8–11	12–15
5	5	5	4	4	4	5	Honour thy father and thy mother	12	16
6	7	6	5	5	5	6	Thou shalt not murder	13	17
7	6	7	6	6	6	7	Thou shalt not commit adultery	14	18
8	8	8	7	7	7	8	Thou shalt not steal	15	19
9	9	9	8	8	8	9	Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbour	16	20
10	10	10	10	10	9	10	Thou shalt not covet (neighbor's house)	17a	21b
10	10	10	9	9	10	10	Thou shalt not covet (neighbor's wife)	17b	21a
10	10	10	10	10	10	10	Thou shalt not covet (neighbor's servants, animals, or anything else)	17c	21c

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Ten Commandments (Decalogue)

Origin and structure

The Ten Commandments were, according to the scriptures, divinely inscribed on tablets of stone during Israel's escape from captivity in Egypt, for Moses to present to the people of Israel (Ex 20:2-17, Deut 5:6-21) as the basis of their covenant with God. Hence the Ten Commandments are of profound significance to both Judaism and Christianity.

The Ten Commandments are set within a broader law code that was adopted by Israel and shares many of its characteristics (though not its contents) with other nation's law codes from around the time at which the Bible sets the Exodus. The Ten Commandments themselves are broadly divisible into an initial group (1-4), that concern people's relationship with God, and a later group (5-10), that concern relationships between people.

Variations in numbering

In referring to the commandments, this site follows the Anglican and Reformed Church numbering, which is close to that used within the Orthodox Church (Mastrantonis 1996, n.p.). The catechism of the Roman Catholic church subsumes Deut 5:8-10 within the meaning of Deut 5:7, effectively merging two elements that others see as distinct commandments. The Smaller Catechism of the Lutheran Church (Luther 2015, n.p.) follows the Catholic practice. Even within Judaism, which would assert that all the 613 mitzvot (=commands) carry equal weight (just as Jesus does in Matt 5:19-20), the Aseret ha-Dibrot (those Christians which think of as the ten commandments, but with slightly differing divisions) are given prominence, being listed as the first ten of the 613 (Rich 2011, n.p.). Whilst the order for the Aseret ha-Dibrot, as understood by later Judism, differed from the Anglican/Reformed division, the first-century Jewish historian Josephus reports a sub-division which agrees with theirs (Antiquities 3.91). The following table summarises these differences.

Anglican Church, Reformed Church	Summary of passage	Judaism (Talmudic)	Orthodox Church	R.C., Luth.
Preface	I am the Lord your God	1	1	1
1	You shall have no other Gods	2
2	Not to make for yourself any idol or image		2
3	Take the name of God in vain	3	3	2
4	Keep the Sabbath day holy	4	4	3
5	Honour your parents	5	5	4
6	Don't murder	6	6	5
7	Don't commit adultery	7	7	6
8	Don't steal	8	8	7
9	Don't give false testimony	9	9	8
10	Don't covet your neighbours wife	10	10	9
	Don't covet anything else your neighbour has			10

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Summary

Following the preface ‘I am the Lord your God’, the Ten Commandments unfold as a series of statements, each outlining behaviour God expected from his covenant partners. As they are not presented as a numbered list, several traditions have arisen concerning the scope and numbering of each. This site follows the Anglican and Reformed Church tradition, which numbers them as follows:

1. You shall have no other Gods;
2. Not to make for yourself any idol;
3. Take the name of God in vain;
4. Keep the Sabbath holy;
5. Honour your parents;
6. Don’t murder;
7. Don’t commit adultery;
8. Don’t steal;
9. Don’t be a false witness;
10. Don’t covet your neighbours wife or possessions.

Those from Judaism and the Orthodox Church will notice slight differences with the boundaries of 1 and 2. Catholics and Lutherans will notice numbers are generally one lower, 10 becoming 9 and 10.

[Source: http://www.sermononthemount.org.uk/Background/TenCommandments.html]

Continued next page…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS
	JUDAISM	St. AUGUSTINE Catholics and Lutherans	ORIGEN Orthodox and Other Protestants
1	I am the Lord thy God who have brought thee out of the house of bondage.	I am the Lord thy God and thou shalt not have any strange gods before me.	I am the Lord thy God and thou shalt not have other gods besides me.
2	Thou shalt have no other gods besides me.	Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain.	Thou shalt not make for thyself any graven image.
3	Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain.	Remember to keep holy the Lord's Day.	Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain.
4	Remember the Sabbath Day to keep it holy.	Honor thy Father and Mother.	Remember the Lord's Day to keep it holy.
5	Honor thy Father and Mother.	Thou shalt not kill.	Honor thy Father and Mother.
6	Thou shalt not murder.	Thou shalt not commit adultery.	Thou shalt not kill.
7	Thou shalt not commit adultery.	Thou shalt not steal.	Thou shalt not commit adultery.
8	Thou shalt not steal.	Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor.	Thou shalt not steal.
9	Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor.	Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's wife.	Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor.
10	Thou shalt not covet.	Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's goods.	Thou shalt not covet.

http://biblescripture.net/Commandments.html

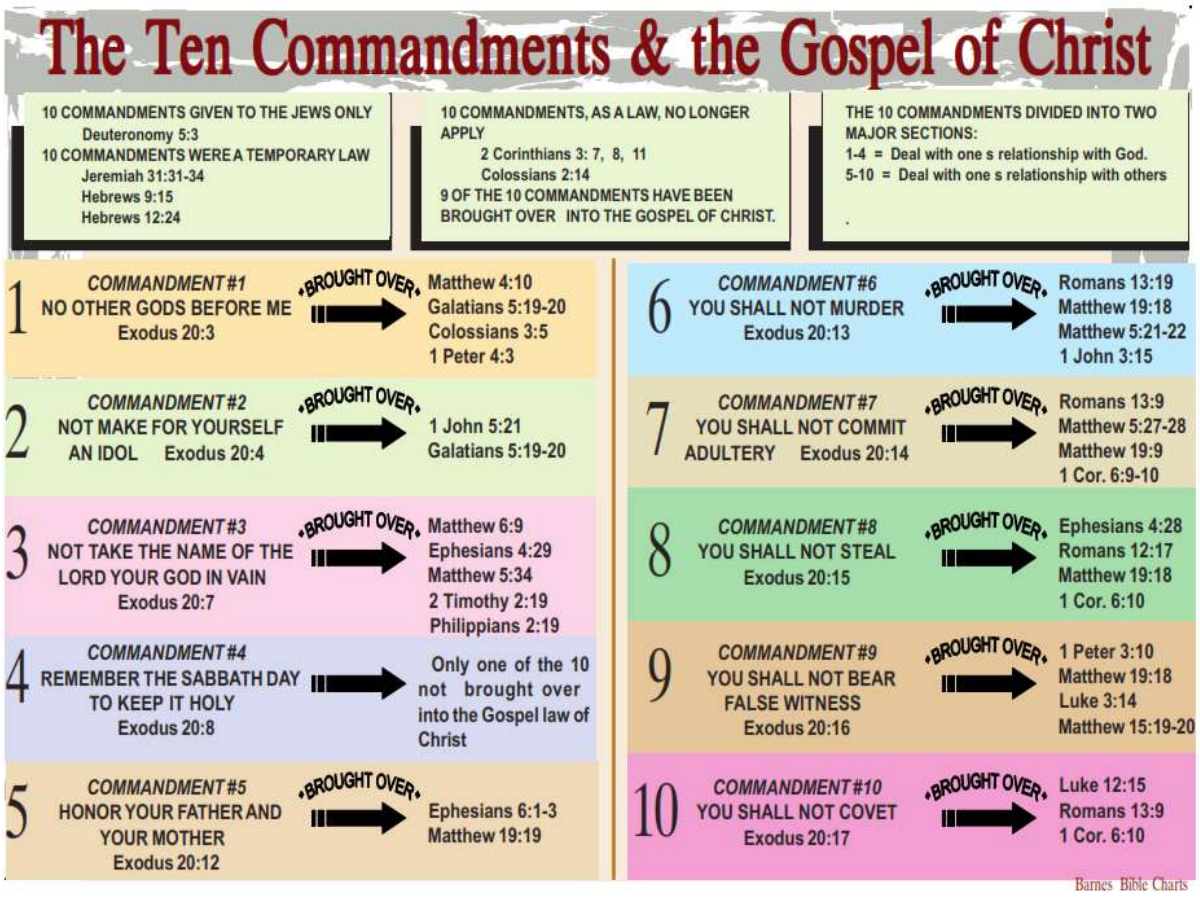
While there is considerable variation, Roman Catholics and Lutherans follow the order given by Augustine (the second column), whereas Eastern Catholics, Orthodox, and other Protestants follow the order given by Origen.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Ten Commandments & Christ - Part 1

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS		JESUS SAID . . .
Exodus 20:3 Do not worshi any other gods besides me	1	Matthew 4:10 You must worship the Lord your God; serve only Him
Exodus 20:4 Do not make idols of any kind	2	Luke 16:13 No man can serve two masters
Exodus 20:7 Do not misuse the name of God	3	Matthew 5:32 But I say, don;t make any vows! If you say, By heaven! It is a sacred vow because heaven is God s throne
Exodus 20:8 Remember to observe the Sabbath day by keeping it holy	4	Mark 2:27, 28 The Sabbath was made to benefit people and not people to benefit the Sabbath. And I, the Son of Man, am master even of the Sabbath
Exodus 20:12 Honor your father and mother	5	Matthew 10:37 If you love your father and mother more than you love me, you are not worthy of being mine

Barnes Bible Charts



The Ten Commandments & Christ - Part 2

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS		JESUS SAID . . .
Exodus 20:13 Do not murder	6	Matthew 5:22 If you are angry with someone, you are subject to judgment
Exodus 20:14 Do not commit adultery	7	Matthew 5:28 Anyone who even looks at a woman with lust in his eye has already committed adultery with her in his heart
Exodus 20:15 Do not steal	8	Matthew 5:40 If you are ordered to court and your shirt is taken from you, give your coast, too
Exodus 20:16 Do not testify falsely against your neighbor	9	Matthew 12:36 You must give an account on judgment day of every idle word you speak
Exodus 20:17 Do not covet	10	Luke 12:15 Don t be greedy for what you don t have

Barnes Bible Charts

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Ten Commandments and the Gospel of Christ

[Source: http://www.biblecharts.org/thenewtestament.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Ten Commndments of God are Reaffirmed in the New Testament

THE LAW OF GOD IN THE NEW TESTAMENT	THE LAW OF GOD IN THE OLD TESTAMENT
1. "Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve." Matthew 4:10.	1. "Thou shalt have no other gods before me." Exodus 20:3.
2. "Little children, keep yourselves from idols." 1 John 5:21. "Forasmuch then as we are the offspring of God, we ought not to think that the Godhead is like unto gold, or silver, or stone, graven by art and man's device." Acts 17:29.	2. "Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image, or any likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth: Thou shalt not bow down thyself to them, nor serve them: for I the Lord thy God am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me; And shewing mercy unto thousands of them that love me, and keep my commandments." Exodus 20:4-6.
3. "That the name of God and his doctrine be not blasphemed." 1 Timothy 6:1.	3. "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain; for the Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain." Exodus 20:7.
4. "For he spake in a certain place of the seventh day on this wise, And God did rest the seventh day from all his works." "There remaineth therefore a rest ["keeping of a sabbath," margin] to the people of God. For he that is entered into his rest, he also hath ceased from his own works, as God did from his." Hebrews 4:4, 9, 10.	4. "Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy. Six days shalt thou labour, and do all thy work: But the seventh day is the sabbath of the Lord thy God: in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy manservant, nor thy maidservant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates: For in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day: wherefore the Lord blessed the sabbath day, and hallowed it." Exodus 20:8-11.
5. "Honour thy father and thy mother." Matthew 19:19.	5. "Honour thy father and thy mother: that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee." Exodus 20:12.
6. "Thou shalt not kill." Romans 13:9.	6. "Thou shalt not kill." Exodus 20:13.
7. "Thou shalt not commit adultery." Matthew 19:18.	7. "Thou shalt not commit adultery." Exodus 20:14.
8. "Thou shalt not steal." Romans 13:9.	8. "Thou shalt not steal." Exodus 20:15.
9. "Thou shalt not bear false witness." Romans 13:9.	9. "Thou shalt not bear false winess against thy neighbour." Exodus 20:16.
10. "Thou shalt not covet." Romans 7:7.	10. "Thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's house, thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's wife, nor his manservant, nor his maidservant, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor any thing that is thy neighbour's." Exodus 20:17.

[Source: http://bibletruth4today.com/Bible_Truth_4_Today/Bible_Study_06.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Law is God's Character in Human Language

Notice on the chart below that God and His law have the same characteristics. Do you see what this means? The Ten Commandment law is God's character in written form--written so we can comprehend it. It is no more possible to change God's law than to pull God out of heaven and change Him. Jesus came to show us what the law (which is the pattern for holy living) looked like when made up in human form. God's character can never change. Neither can His law, for it is His character in human language.

		GOD IS	THE LAW IS
1.	Good	Luke 18:19	1 Timothy 1:8
2.	Holy	Isaiah 5:16	Romans 7:12
3.	Perfect	Matthew 5:48	Psalms 19:7
4.	Pure	1 John 3:2,3	Psalms 19:8
5.	Just	Deuteronomy 32:4	Romans 7:12
6.	True	John 3:33	Psalms 19:9
7.	Spiritual	1 Corinthians 10:4	Romans 7:14
8.	Righteousness	Jeremiah 23:6	Psalms 119:172
9.	Faithful	1 Corinthians 1:9	Psalms 119:86
10.	Love	1 John 4:8	Romans 13:10
11.	Unchangeable	James 1:17	Matthew 5:18
12.	Eternal	Genesis 21:33	Psalms 111:7,

Did Jesus abolish God's law while He was here on earth?

"Think not that I am come to destroy the law. ... I am not come to destroy, but to fulfill. ... Till heaven and earth pass, one jot or one tittle shall in no wise pass from the law, till all be fulfilled." (Matthew 5:17, 18.)

Answer: No, indeed! Jesus specifically asserted that He did not come to destroy the law, but to fulfill (or keep) it. Instead of doing away with the law, Jesus magnified it (Isaiah 42:21) as the perfect guide for right living. For example, Jesus pointed out that "thou shalt not kill" condemns anger "without a cause" (Matthew 5:21, 22) and hatred (1 John 3:15), and that lust is adultery (Matthew 5:27, 28). He says, "If ye love me, keep my commandments." John 14:15.

[Source: http://bibletruth4today.com/Bible_Truth_4_Today/Bible_Study_06.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Shema

Jesus stated the original Ten could be boiled down to two: Love God with all your heart and love your neighbor as yourself (Mark 12:28-31).

This is essentially the Jewish confession of faith, known as The Shema:
i.e., "Hear, O Israel; The LORD our God, the LORD is one!" (Deuteronomy 6:4 NKJV).
The Shema originally contained only Deuteronomy 6:4, but it was later expanded to include verses Deuteronomy 5-9, with their requirement of total devotion to God. They also attached Deuteronomy 11:13-21, with the emphasis on blessing for its fulfillment and curse for its neglect.

When Jesus was asked to identify the greatest commandment, he answered with the Shema and combined it with Leviticus 19:18, "You shall love your neighbor as yourself" (Mark 12:28-34; Matthew 22:34-40):

Jesus answered him, "The first of all the commandments is:
'Hear, O Israel, the LORD our God, the LORD is one.' And you shall love the LORD your God with all your heart, with all your soul, with all your mind, and with all your strength.'
This is the first commandment. And the second, like it, is this:
'You shall love your neighbor as yourself.'
There is no other commandment greater than these."

[Source: http://www.biblecharts.org/thenewtestament.html]

See also First Century Christian Synagogue Liturgy / Shema in this Appendix

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Old Testament Commandments (Mitzvot)

Besides the basic/general Ten Commandments and the even more basic Shema, there are 613 specific Old Testament Commandments or Mitzvot (singular: Mitsvah).

The 248 Positive Commandments:

GOD (YHWH)

P 1 Ex. 20:2 To believe in God

P 2 De. 6:4 To acknowledge the Unity of God

P 3 De. 6:5 To love God

P 4 De. 6:13 To fear God

P 5 Ex.23:25; To serve God

P 6 De.10:20 To cleave to God

P 7 De.10:20 On taking an oath by God's Name

P 8 De. 28:9 On walking in God's ways

P 9 Le.22:32 On Sanctifying God's Name

TORAH

P 10 De. 6:7 On reciting the Sh'ma each morning and evening

P 11 De. 6:7 On studying and teaching Torah

P 12 De. 6:8 On binding Tefillin on the head

P 13 De. 6:8 On binding Tefillin on the hand

P 14 Nu.15:38 On making Tzitzit with thread of blue, garments corners

P 15 De. 6:9 On affixing a Mezuzah to doorposts and gates

P 16 De.31:12 On Assembling each 7th year to hear the Torah read

P 17 De.17:18 On that a king must write a copy of Torah for himself

P 18 De.31:19 On that everyone should have a Torah scroll

P 19 De. 8:10 On praising God after eating, Grace after meals

TEMPLE AND THE PRIESTS

P 20 Ex. 25:8 On building a Sanctuary/(Tabernacle/Temple) for God

P 21 Le.19:30 On respecting the Sanctuary

P 22 Nu. 18:4 On guarding the Sanctuary

P 23 Nu.18:23 On Levitical services in the Tabernacle

P 24 Ex.30:19 On Cohanim washing hands & feet before entering Temple

P 25 Ex.27:21 On kindling the Menorah by the Cohanim

P 26 Nu. 6:23 On the Cohanim blessing Israel

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

P 27 Ex.25:30 On the Showbread before the Ark See also: The Showbread .

P 28 Ex. 30:7 On Burning the Incense on the Golden Altar twice daily

P 29 Le. 6:6 On the perpetual fire on the Altar

P 30 Le. 6:3 On removing the ashes from the Altar

P 31 Nu. 5:2 On removing unclean persons from the camp

P 32 Le. 21:8 On honoring the Cohanim

P 33 Ex. 28:2 On the garments of the Cohanim

P 34 Nu. 7:9 On Cohanim bearing the Ark on their shoulders

P 35 Ex.30:31 On the holy anointing oil

P 36 De.18:6-8 On the Cohanim ministering in rotation/watches

P 37 Le.21:2-3 On the Cohanim being defiled for dead relatives

P 38 Le.21:13 On that Cohen haGadol may only marry a virgin

SACRIFICES

P 39 Nu.28:3 On the twice Daily Burnt, tamid, offerings

P 40 Le.6:13 On Cohen haGadol's twice daily meal offering

P 41 Nu.28:9 On the Shabbat additional, musaf, offering

P 42 Nu.28:11 On the New Moon, Rosh Chodesh, additional offering

P 43 Le.23:36 On the Pesach additional offering

P 44 Le.23:10 On the second day of Pesach meal offering of the Omer

P 45 Nu.28:26 - 27 On the Shavuot additional, musaf, offering

P 46 Le.23:17 On the Two Loaves of bread Wave offering on Shavuot

P 47 Nu.29:1-2 On the Rosh HaShannah additional offering

P 48 Nu.29:7-8 On the Yom Kippur additional offering

P 49 Le.16 On the service of Yom Kippur, Avodah

P 50 Nu.29:13 On the Sukkot, musaf, offerings

P 51 Nu.29:36 On the Shemini Atzeret additional offering

P 52 Ex.23:14 On the three annual Festival pilgrimages to the Temple

P 53 Ex.34:23; On appearing before YHVH during the Festivals

P 54 De.16:14 On rejoicing on the Festivals

P 55 Ex.12:6 On the 14th of Nisan slaughtering the Pesach lamb

P 56 Ex.12:8 On eating the roasted Pesach lamb night of Nisan 15

P 57 Nu.9:11 On slaughtering the Pesach Sheini, Iyyar 14, offering

P 58 Nu.9:11; On eating the Pesach Sheini lamb with Matzah and Maror

P 59 Nu.10:9 - 10 Trumpets for Feast sacrifices brought & for tribulation

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

P 60 Le.22:27 On minimum age of cattle to be offered

P 61 Le.22:21 On offering only unblemished sacrifices

P 62 Le.2:13 On bringing salt with every offering

P 63 Le.1:2 On the Burnt-Offering

P 64 Le.6:18 On the Sin-Offering

P 65 Le.7:1 On the Guilt-Offering

P 66 Le.3:1 On the Peace-Offering

P 67 Le.2:1; On the Meal-Offering

P 68 Le.4:13 On offerings for a Court (Sanhedrin) that has erred

P 69 Le.4:27 Fixed Sin-Offering, by one unknowingly breaking a karet

P 70 Le.5:17 - 18 Suspensive Guilt-Offering if doubt of breaking a karet

P 71 Le.5:15; Unconditional Guilt-Offering, for stealing, etc.

P 72 Le.5:1-11 Offering higher or lower value, according to ones means

P 73 Nu.5:6-7 To confess one's sins before G-d and repent from them

P 74 Le.15:13 - 15 On offering brought by a zav (man with a discharge)

P 75 Le.15:28 - 29 Offering brought by a zavah (woman with a discharge)

P 76 Le.12:6 On offering brought by a woman after childbirth

P 77 Le.14:10 On offering brought by a leper after being cleansed

P 78 Le.27:32 On the Tithe of one's cattle

P 79 Ex.13:2 Sacrificing the First-born of clean (permitted) cattle

P 80 Ex.22:28; On Redeeming the First-born of man, Pidyon ha-ben

P 81 Ex.34:20 On Redeeming the firstling of an ass, if not...

P 82 Ex.13:13 ...breaking the neck of the firstling of an ass

P 83 De.12:5-6 On bringing due offerings to Jerusalem without delay

P 84 De.12:14 All offerings must be brought only to the Sanctuary

P 85 De.12:36 On offerings due from outside Israel to the Sanctuary

P 86 De.12:15 On Redeeming blemished sanctified animal offerings

P 87 Le.27:33 On the holiness of substituted animal offerings

P 88 Le.6:9 On Cohanim eating the remainder of the Meal Offerings

P 89 Ex.29:33 On Cohanim eating the meat of Sin and Guilt Offerings

P 90 Le.7:19 Burn Consecrated Offerings that've become tameh/unclean

P 91 Le.7:17 Burn remnant of Consecrated Offerings not eaten in time

VOWS

P 92 Nu.6:5 The Nazir letting his hair grow during his separation

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

P 93 Nu.6:18 Nazir completing vow shaves his head & brings sacrifice

P 94 De.23:24 On that a man must honor his oral vows and oaths

P 95 Nu.30:3 On that a judge can annul vows, only according to Torah

RITUAL PURITY

P 96 Le.11:8, 24 Defilement by touching certain animal carcasses, &...

P 97 Le.11:29 - 31 ...by touching carcasses of eight creeping creatures

P 98 Le.11:34 Defilement of food & drink, if contacting unclean thing

P 99 Le.15:19 On Tumah of a menstruant woman

P100 Le.12:2 On Tumah of a woman after childbirth

P101 Le.13:3 On Tumah of a leper

P102 Le.13:51 On garments contaminated by leprosy

P103 Le.14:44 On a leprous house

P104 Le.15:2 On Tumah of a zav (man with a running issue)

P105 Le.15:6 On Tumah of semen

P106 Le.15:19 Tumah of a zavah (woman suffering from a running issue)

P107 Nu.19:14 On Tumah of a human corpse

P108 Nu.19:13, 21 Law of the purification water of sprinkling, mei niddah

P109 Le.15:16 On immersing in a mikveh to become ritually clean

P110 Le.14:2 On the specified procedure of cleansing from leprosy

P111 Le.14:9 On that a leper must shave his head

P112 Le.13:45 On that the leper must be made easily distinguishable

P113 Nu.19:2-9 On Ashes of the Red Heifer, used in ritual purification

DONATIONS TO THE TEMPLE

P114 Le.27:2-8 On the valuation for a person himself to the Temple

P115 Le.27:11 - 12 On the valuation for an unclean beast to the Temple

P116 Le.27:14 On the valuation of a house as a donation to the Temple

P117 Le.27:16, 22-23 On the valuation of a field as a donation to the Temple

P118 Le.5:16 If benefit from Temple property, restitution plus 1/5th

P119 Le.19:24 On the fruits of the trees fourth year's growth

P120 Le.19:9 On leaving the corners (Peah) of fields for the poor

P121 Le.19:9 On leaving gleanings of the field for the poor

P122 De.24:19 On leaving the forgotten sheaf for the poor

P123 Le.19:19 On leaving the misformed grape clusters for the poor

P124 Le.19:10 On leaving grape gleanings for the poor

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

P125 Ex.23:19 On separating & bringing First-fruits to the Sanctuary

P126 De.18:4 To separate the great Heave-offering (terumah)

P127 Le.27:30; To set aside the first tithe to the Levites

P128 De.14:22 To set aside the second tithe, eaten only in Jerusalem

P129 Nu.18:26 On Levites' giving tenth of their tithe to the Cohanim

P130 De.14:28 To set aside the poor-man's tithe in 3rd and 6th year

P131 De.26:13 A declaration made when separating the various tithes

P132 De.26:5 A declaration made bringing First-fruits to the Temple

P133 Nu.15:20 On the first portion of the Challah given to the Cohen

THE SABBATICAL YEAR

P134 Ex.23:11 On ownerless produce of the Sabbatical year (shemittah)

P135 Ex.34:21 On resting the land on the Sabbatical year

P136 Le.25:10 On sanctifying the Jubilee (50th) year

P137 Le.25:9 Blow Shofar on Yom Kippur in the Jubilee & slaves freed

P138 Le.25:24 Reversion of the land to ancestral owners in Jubilee yr

P139 Le.25:24 On the redemption of a house within a year of the sale

P140 Le.25:8 Counting and announcing the years till the Jubilee year

P141 De.15:3 All debts are annulled in the Sabbatical year, but...

P142 De.15:3 ...one may exact a debt owed by a foreigner

CONCERNING ANIMALS FOR CONSUMPTION

P143 De.18:3 The Cohen's due in the slaughter of every clean animal

P144 De.18:4 On the first of the fleece to be given to the Cohen

P145 Le.27:21, 28 (Cherem vow) one devoted thing to God, other to Cohanim

P146 Le.12:21 Slaughtering animals, according to Torah, before eating

P147 Le.17:13 Covering with earth the blood of slain fowl and beast

P148 De.22:7 On setting free the parent bird when taking the nest

P149 Le.11:2 Searching for prescribed signs in beasts, for eating

P150 De.14:11 Searching for the prescribed signs in birds, for eating

P151 Le.11:21 Searching for prescribed signs in locusts, for eating

P152 Le.11:9 Searching for the prescribed signs in fish, for eating

FESTIVALS

P153 Ex.12:2; Sanhedrin to sanctify New Moon, & reckon yrs & seasons

P154 Ex.23:12 On resting on the Shabbat

P155 Ex.20:8 On declaring Shabbat holy at its onset and termination

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

P156 Ex.12:15 On removal of chametz, leaven(ed), on (Nisan 14) Pesach

P157 Ex.13:8 Tell of Exodus from Egypt 1st night Pesach, (Nisan 15)

P158 Ex.12:18 On eating Matzah the first night of Pesach, (Nisan 15)

P159 Ex.12:16 On resting on the first day of Pesach

P160 Ex.12:16 On resting on the seventh day of Pesach

P161 Le.23:35 Count the Omer 49 days from day of first sheaf Nisan 16

P162 Le.23 On resting on Shavuot

P163 Le.23:24 On resting on Rosh HaShannah

P164 Le.16:29 On fasting on Yom Kippur

P165 Le.16:29, 31 On resting on Yom Kippur

P166 Le.23:35 On resting on the first day of Sukkot

P167 Le.23:36 On resting on (the 8th day) Shemini Atzeret

P168 Le.23:42 On dwelling in a Sukkah (booth) for seven days

P169 Le.23:40 On taking a Lulav (the four species) on Sukkot

P170 Nu.29:1 On hearing the sound of the Shofar on Rosh HaShannah

COMMUNITY

P171 Ex.30:12 - 13 On every male giving half a shekel annually to Temple

P172 De.18:15 On heeding the Prophets

P173 De.17:15 On appointing a king

P174 De.17:11 On obeying the Great Court (Sanhedrin)

P175 Ex.23:2 On in case of division, abiding by a majority decision

P176 De.16:18 Appointing Judges & Officers of the Court in every town

P177 Le.19:15 Treating litigants equally/impartially before the law

P178 Le.5:1 Anyone aware of evidence must come to court to testify

P179 De.13:15 The testimony of witnesses shall be examined thoroughly

P180 De.19:19 On condemning witnesses who testify falsely

P180 De.19:19 False witnesses punished, as they intended upon accused

P181 De.21:4 On Eglah Arufah, on the heifer when murderer unknown

P182 De.19:3 On establishing Six Cities of Refuge

P183 Nu.35:2 Give cities to Levites - who've no ancestral land share

P184 De.22:8 Build fence on roof, remove potential hazards from home

IDOLATRY

P185 De.12:2; On destroying all idolatry and its appurtenances

P186 De.13:17 The law about a city that has become apostate/perverted

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

P187 De.20:17 On the law about destroying the seven Canaanite nations

P188 De.25:19 On the extinction of the seed of Amalek

P189 De.25:17 On remembering the nefarious deeds of Amalek to Israel

WAR

P190 De.20:11 - 12 Regulations for wars other than ones commanded in Torah

P191 De.20:2 Cohen for special duties in war; also men unfit return

P192 De.23:14 - 15 Prepare place beyond the camp, so to keep sanitary &...

P193 De.23:15 ...so include a digging tool among war implements

SOCIAL

P194 Le.5:23 On a robber to restore the stolen article to its owner

P195 De.15:8; On to give charity to the poor

P196 De.15:14 On giving gifts to a Hebrew bondman upon his freedom

P197 Ex.22:24 On lending money to the poor without interest

P198 De.23:21 On lending money to the foreigner with interest

P199 De.24:13; On restoring a pledge to its owner if he needs it

P200 De.24:15 On paying the worker his wages on time

P201 De.23:25 - 26 Employee is allowed to eat the produce he's working in

P202 Ex.23:5 On helping unload when necessary a tired animal

P203 De.22:4 On assisting a man loading his beast with its burden

P204 De.22:1; On that lost property must be returned to its owner

P205 Le.19:17 On being required to reprove the sinner

P206 Le.19:18 On love your neighbor as yourself

P207 De.10:19 On being commanded to love the convert/proselyte

P208 Le.19:36 On the law of accurate weights and measures

FAMILY

P209 Le.19:32 On honoring the old (and wise)

P210 Ex.20:12 On honoring parents

P211 Le.19:3 On fearing parents

P212 Ge.1:28 On to be fruitful and multiply

P213 De.24:1 On the law of marriage

P214 De.24:5 On bridegroom devotes himself to his wife for one year

P215 Ge.17:10; On circumcising one's son

P216 De.25:5 If a man dies childless his brother marry widow, or...

P217 De.25:9 ...release her/the-widow (Chalitzah)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

P218 De.22:29 A violator must marry the virgin/maiden he has violated

P219 De.22:18 - 19 The defamer of his bride is flogged & may never divorce

P220 Ex.22:15 - 23 On the seducer must be punished according to the law

P221 De.21:11 Captive women treated according to special regulations

P222 De.24:1 The law of divorce, only be means of written document

P223 Nu.5:15 - 27 Suspected adulteress has to submit to the required test

JUDICIAL

P224 De.25:2 On whipping transgressors of certain commandments

P225 Nu.35:25 On exile to city of refuge for unintentional homicide

P226 Ex.21:20 On beheading transgressors of certain commandments

P227 Ex.21:16 On strangling transgressors of certain commandments

P228 Le.20:14 On burning transgressors of certain commandments

P229 De.22:24 On stoning transgressors of certain commandments

P230 De.21:22 Hang after execution, violators of certain commandments

P231 De.21:23 On burial on the same day of execution

SLAVES

P232 Ex.21:2 On the special laws for treating the Hebrew bondman

P233 Ex.21:8 Hebrew bondmaid married to her master or his son, or...

P234 Ex.21:8 ...allow the redemption to the Hebrew bondmaid

P235 Le.25:46 On the laws for treating an alien bondman

CIVIL SUITS

P236 Ex.21:18 On the penalty for a person inflicting injury

P237 Ex.21:28 On the law of injuries caused by an animal

P238 Ex.21:33 - 34 On the law of injuries caused by an pit

P239 Ex.21:37 - 22:3 On the law of punishment of thieves

P240 Ex.22:4 On the law of a judgement for damage caused by a beast

P241 Ex.22:5 On the law of a judgement for damage caused by a fire

P242 Ex.22:6 - 8 On the law of an unpaid guardian

P243 Ex.22:9 - 12 On the law of a paid guardian

P244 Ex.22:13 On the law of a borrower

P245 Le.25:14 On the law of buying and selling

P246 Ex.22:8 On the law of litigants

P247 De.25:12 Save life of one pursued, even if need - kill oppressor

P248 Nu.27:8 On the law of inheritance

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The 365 Negative Commandments:

IDOLATRY AND RELATED PRACTICES

N 1 Ex.20:3 Not believing in any other god except the One God.

N 2 Ex.20:4 Not to make images for the purpose of worship

N 3 Le.19:4 Not to make an idol (even for others) to worship

N 4 Ex.20:20 Not to make figures of human beings

N 5 Ex.20:5 Not to bow down to an idol

N 6 Ex.20:5 Not to worship idols

N 7 Le.18:21 Not to hand over any children to Moloch

N 8 Le.19:31 Not to practice sorcery of the ov, necromancy

N 9 Le.19:31 Not to practice sorcery of yidde'oni, familiar spirts

N 10 Le.19:4 Not to study idolatrous practices

N 11 De.16:22 Not to erect a pillar which people assemble to honor

N 12 Le.20:1 No figured stones (dias) to lay prostrate on

N 13 De.16:21 Not to plant trees in the Sanctuary/Temple

N 14 Ex.23:13 Swear not by an idol nor instigate an idolater to do so

N 15 Ex.23:13 Not to divert any non-Jew to idolatry

N 16 De.13:12 Not to try to persuade a Jew to worship idols

N 17 De.13:9 Not to love someone who seeks to mislead you to idols

N 18 De.13:9 Not to relax one's aversion to the misleader to idols

N 19 De.13:9 Not to save the life of a misleader to idols

N 20 De.13:9 Not to plead for (defend) the misleader to idols

N 21 De.13:9 Not to oppress evidence unfavorable to the misleader

N 22 De.7:25 No benefit from ornaments which have adorned an idol

N 23 De.13:17 Rebuild not a city destroyed as punishment for idolatry

N 24 De.13:18 Not deriving benefit from property of an apostate city

N 25 De.7:26 Do not use anything connected with idols or idolatry

N 26 De.18:20 Not prophesying in the name of idols

N 27 De.18:20 Not prophesying falsely in the Name of God

N 28 De.13:3-4 Listen not to one who prophesies in the name of idols

N 29 De.18:22 Not fearing or refraining from killing a false prophet

N 30 Le.20:23 Imitate not the ways nor practice customs of idolaters

N 31 Le.19:26; Not practicing divination

N 32 De.18:10 Not practicing soothsaying

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

N 33 De.18:10 - 11 Not practicing enchanting

N 34 De.18:10 - 11 Not practicing sorcery

N 35 De.18:10 - 11 Not practicing the art of the charmer

N 36 De.18:10 - 11 Not consulting a necromancer who uses the ov

N 37 De.18:10 - 11 Not consulting a sorcerer who uses the ydo'a

N 38 De.18:10 - 11 Not to seek information from the dead, necromancy

N 39 De.22:5 Women not to wear men's clothes or adornments

N 40 De.22:5 Men not wearing women's clothes or adornments

N 41 Le.19:28 Not tattoo yourself, as is the manner of the idolaters

N 42 De.22:11 Not wearing a mixture of wool and linen, Shatnes

N 43 Le.19:27 Not shaving the temples/sides of your head

N 44 Le.19:27 Not shaving your beard

N 45 De.16:1; Not making cuttings in your flesh over your dead

PROHIBITIONS RESULTING FROM HISTORICAL EVENTS

N 46 De.17:16 Not returning to Egypt to dwell there permanently

N 47 Nu.15:39 Not to follow one's heart or eyes, straying to impurity

N 48 Ex.23:32; Not to make a pact with the Seven Canaanite Nations

N 49 De.20:16 Not to spare the life of the Seven Canaanite Nations

N 50 De.7:2 Not to show mercy to idolaters

N 51 Ex.23:33 No one serving false gods to settle in Eretz-Israel

N 52 De.7:3 Not to intermarry with one serving false gods

N 53 De.23:4 Not to intermarry at all with a male from Ammon or Moav

N 54 De.23:8 Exclude not marrying a descendant Esau if a proselyte

N 55 De.23:8 Not to exclude marrying an Egyptian who is a proselyte

N 56 De.23:7 Not permitted to make peace with Ammon and Moav nations

N 57 De.20:19 Not destroying fruit trees, even in time of war

N 58 De.7:21 Not fearing the enemy in time of war

N 59 De.25:19 Not forgetting the evil which Amalek did to us

BLASPHEMY

N 60 Le.24:16; Not blaspheming the Holy Name of God

N 61 Le.19:12 Not violating an oath by the Holy Name, shevuas bittui

N 62 Ex.20:7 Not taking the Holy Name in vain, shevuas shav

N 63 Le.22:32 Not profaning the Holy Name of God

N 64 De.6:16 Not testing/trying His (YHVH God) promises & warnings

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

N 65 De.12:4 Do not destroy houses of worship or holy books

N 66 De.21:23 Leave not body of executed criminal hanging overnight

TEMPLE

N 67 Nu.18:5 Be not lax in guarding the Sanctuary/(Temple)

N 68 Le.16:2 Cohen haGadol enter Sanctuary only at prescribed times

N 69 Le.21:23 Cohen with blemish enter not Temple, from Altar inwards

N 70 Le.21:17 Cohen with a blemish not to minister in the Sanctuary

N 71 Le.21:18 Cohen with temporary blemish minister not in Sanctuary

N 72 Nu.18:3 Levites & Cohanim not to interchange in their functions

N 73 Le.10:9 -11 Drunk persons may not enter Sanctuary or teach Torah

N 74 Nu.18:4 A Zar (non-Cohen) not to minister in Sanctuary

N 75 Le.22:2 Tameh (unclean) Cohen not to minister in Sanctuary

N 76 Le.21:6 Cohen who is tevul yom, not to minister in Sanctuary

N 77 Nu.5:3 Tameh (unclean) person not to enter any part of Temple

N 78 De.23:11 Tameh person enter not camp of Levites (Temple mount)

N 79 Ex.20:25 Build not an Altar of stones which were touched by iron

N 80 Ex.20:26 Not to have an ascent to the Altar by steps

N 81 Le.6:6 Not to extinguish the Altar fire

N 82 Ex.30:9 Offer nothing, but specified incense, on Golden Altar

N 83 Ex.30:32 Not to make any oil the same as the Oil of Anointment

N 84 Ex.30:32 Anoint none with special oil except Cohen Gadol & King

N 85 Ex.30:37 Not to make incense same as burnt on Altar in Sanctuary

N 86 Ex.25:15 Not to remove the staves from their rings in the Ark

N 87 Ex.28:28 Not to remove the Breastplate from the Ephod

N 88 Ex.28:32 Make not any incision in Cohen haGadol's upper garment

SACRIFICES

N 89 De.12:13 Offer not sacrifices outside Sanctuary/(Temple) Court

N 90 Le.17:3 - 4 Slaughter not consecrated animals outside Temple Court

N 91 Le.22:20 Dedicate not a blemished animal to be offered on Altar

N 92 Le.22:22 Not to slaughter a blemished animal as a korban

N 93 Le.22:24 Not to dash the blood of a blemished beast on the Altar

N 94 Le.22:22 Not to burn the inner parts of blemished beast on Altar

N 95 De.17:1 Not to sacrifice a beast with a temporary blemish

N 96 Le.22:25 Not to offer a blemished sacrifice of a gentile

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

N 97 Le.22:21 Not to cause a consecrated offering to become blemished

N 98 Le.2:11 Not to offer leaven or honey upon the Altar

N 99 Le.2:13 Not to offer a sacrifice without salt

N100 De.23:19 Offer not on Altar: "hire of harlot" or "price of dog"

N101 Le.22:28 Not to slaughter an animal & its young on the same day

N102 Le.5:11 Not to put olive oil on the sin meal-offering

N103 Le.5:11 Not to put frankincense on the sin meal-offering

N104 Nu.5:15 Not to put olive oil on the jealousy offering, sotah

N105 Nu.5:15 Not to put frankincense on the jealousy offering, sotah

N106 Le.27:10 Not to substitute sacrifices

N107 Le.27:26 Not to change sacrifices from one category to the other

N108 Nu.18:17 Redeem not the firstborn of permitted (clean) animals

N109 Le.27:33 Not to sell the tithe of the herd of cattle

N110 Le.27:28 Not to sell a devoted (by the Cherem vow) field

N111 Le.27:28 Not to redeem a devoted (by the Cherem vow) field

N112 Le.5:8 Not to split head of bird slaughtered for Sin-offering

N113 De.15:19 Not to do any work with a dedicated beast

N114 De.15:19 Not to shear a dedicated beast

N115 Ex.34:25 Slaughter not Pesach/Passover lamb if chametz is about

N116 Ex.23:10 Leave not sacrificial portions of Pesach lamb overnight

N117 Ex.12:10 Allow not meat of Pesach lamb to remain till morning

N118 De.16:4 No meat of Nisan 14 Festive Offering remain till day 3

N119 Nu.9:13 No meat of 2nd Pesach lamb Offering remain till morning

N120 Le.22:30 No meat of Thanksgiving Offering to remain till morning

N121 Ex.12:46 Not to break any bones of Pesach lamb offering

N122 Nu.9:12 Not to break any bones of 2nd Pesach lamb offering

N123 Ex.12:46 Not to remove Pesach offering from where it is eaten

N124 Le.6:10 Not to bake the residue of a meal offering with leaven

N125 Ex.12:9 Not to eat the Pesach offering boiled or raw

N126 Ex.12:45 Not to allow an alien resident to eat Pesach offering

N127 Ex.12:48 An uncircumcised person may not eat the Pesach offering

N128 Ex.12:43 Not to allow an apostate to eat the Pesach offering

N129 Le.12:4 Tameh (ritually unclean) person may not eat holy things

N130 Le.7:19 Eat not meat of consecrated things that've become tameh

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

N131 Le.19:6-8 Not to eat sacrificial meat beyond the allotted time

N132 Le.7:18 Eat not sacrificial meat slaughtered in wrong intention

N133 Le.22:10 A zar/non-Cohen may not eat terumah / (heave offering)

N134 Le.22:10 A Cohen's sojourner or hired worker may not eat terumah

N135 Le.22:10 An uncircumcised person may not eat terumah

N136 Le.22:4 Tameh (ritually unclean) Cohen may not eat terumah

N137 Le.22:12 Bat-Cohen if married to non-Cohen not to eat holy food

N138 Le.6:16 Not to eat the Meal-offering of a Cohen

N139 Le.6:23 Eat not Sin-offering meat sacrificed within Sanctuary

N140 De.14:3 Not to eat consecrated animals that've become blemished

N141 De.12:17 Eat not unredeemed 2nd corn tithe outside Yerushalayim

N142 De.12:17 Consume not unredeemed 2nd wine tithe outside Jerusalem

N143 De.12:17 Consume not unredeemed 2nd oil tithe outside Jerusalem

N144 De.12:17 Eat not an unblemished firstling outside Yerushalayim

N145 De.12:17 Eat not sin or guilt offerings outside Sanctuary court

N146 De.12:17 Not to eat the meat of the burnt offering at all

N147 De.12:17 Eat not lesser sacrifices before blood dashed on Altar

N148 De.12:17 A zar/non-Cohen is not to eat the most holy offerings

N149 Ex.29:33 A Cohen not to eat First Fruits outside Temple courts

N150 De.26:14 Eat not unredeemed 2nd tithe while in state of impurity

N151 De.26:14 Not eating the 2nd tithe while in mourning

N152 De.26:14 On 2nd tithe redemption money (only for food and drink)

N153 Le.22:15 Not eating untithed produce, tevel

N154 Ex.22:28 Not changing the order of separating the various tithes

N155 De.23:22 Delay not payment of offerings, freewill or obligatory

N156 Ex.23:15 Go not to Temple on pilgrim festivals without offering

N157 Nu.30:3 Not to break your word, even if without an oath

PRIESTS

N158 Le.21:7 A Cohen may not marry a harlot, zonah

N159 Le.21:7 A Cohen marry not a woman profaned from the Priesthood

N160 Le.21:7 A Cohen may not marry a divorcee

N161 Le.21:14 Cohen haGadol may not marry a widow

N162 Le.21:15 Cohen haGadol may not take a widow as a concubine

N163 Le.10:6 Cohen with disheveled hair may not enter the Sanctuary

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

N164 Le.10:6 Cohen wearing rent garments may not enter Sanctuary

N165 le.10:7 Cohanim leave not Temple courtyard during the service

N166 Le.21:1 Common Cohen must not be defiled for dead, except some

N167 Le.21:11 Cohen haGadol may not be under one roof with dead body

N168 Le.21:11 Cohen haGadol must not be defiled for any dead person

N169 De.18:1 Levites have not part in the division of Israel's land

N170 De.18:1 Levites share not in the spoils of war

N171 De.14:1 Not to tear out hair for the dead

DIETARY LAWS

N172 De.14:7 Not to eat any unclean animal

N173 Le.11:11 Not to eat any unclean fish

N174 Le.11:13 Not to eat any unclean fowl

N175 De.14:19 Not to eat any creeping winged insect

N176 Le.11:41 Not to eat anything which creeps on the earth

N177 Le.11:44 Not to eat creeping thing that breeds in decayed matter

N178 Le.11:42 Not to eat living creatures that breed in seeds / fruit

N179 Le.11:43 Not to eat any detestable creature

N180 De.14:21 Not to eat any animal which died naturally, a nevelah

N181 Ex.22:30 Not to eat an animal which is torn or mauled, a treifah

N182 De.12:23 Not to eat any limb taken from a living animal

N183 Ge.32:33 Not to eat the sinew of the thigh-vein, gid ha-nasheh

N184 Le.7:24 Not to eat blood

N185 Le.7:23 Not to eat certain types of fat of clean animal, chelev

N186 Ex.23:19 Not to boil young male goat (meat) in its mother's milk

N187 Ex.34:26 Not to eat young male goat cooked in its mother's milk

N188 Ex.21:28 Not to eat the flesh of a condemned & to be stoned ox

N189 Le.23:14 Eat not bread made from grain of new crop, before Omer

N190 Le.23:14 Eat not roasted grain of new crop, before Omer offering

N191 Le.23:14 Eat not green ears of new crop, before Omer (Nisan 16)

N192 Le.19:23 Not to eat orlah

N193 De.22:9 Eat not growth of mixed vineyard planting,kilai hakerem

N194 De.32:38 Not to use wine libations for idols, yayin nesach

N195 Le.19:26; No eating or drinking to excess, gluttony & drunkenness

N196 Le.23:29 Not to eat anything on Yom Kippur / Day of Atonement

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

N197 Ex.13:3 Not to eat chametz, leaven(ed), on Pesach

N198 Ex.13:7 Not to eat an admixture of chametz/leaven(ed) on Pesach

N199 De.16:3 Not to eat chametz, leaven(ed), after noon of 14 Nisan

N200 Ex.13:7 No chametz may be seen in our homes during Pesach

N201 Ex.12:19 Not to possess chametz, leaven(ed), during Pesach

NAZIRITES

N202 Nu.6:3 A Nazir may not drink wine or any beverage from grapes

N203 Nu.6:3 A Nazir may not eat fresh grapes

N204 Nu.6:3 A Nazir may not eat dried grapes

N205 Nu.6:4 A Nazir may not eat grape seeds/kernels

N206 Nu.6:4 A Nazir may not eat grape peels/husks

N207 Nu.6:7 Nazir may not rend himself tameh (unclean) for the dead

N208 Le.21:11 Nazir must not become tameh entering house with corpse

N209 Nu.6:5 A Nazir must not shave his hair

AGRICULTURE

N210 Le.23:22 Reap not a whole field without leaving corners for poor

N211 Le.19:9 Not to gather ears of grain that fell during harvesting

N212 Le.19:10 Not to gather the misformed clusters of grapes

N213 Le.19:10 Not to gather single fallen grapes during the vintage

N214 De.24:19 Not to return for a forgotten sheaf

N215 Le.19:19 Not to sow diverse kinds of seed in one field, kalayim

N216 De.22:9 Not to sow grain or vegetables in a vineyard

N217 Le.19:19 Not to crossbreed animals of different species

N218 De.22:10 Work not with two different kinds of animals together

N219 De.25:4 Muzzle not animal working field to prevent from eating

N220 Le.25:4 Not to cultivate the soil in the 7th year, shemittah

N221 Le.25:4 Not to prune the trees in the 7th year

N222 Le.25:5 Reap not self-grown plant in 7th year as ordinary year

N223 Le.25:5 Gather not self-grown fruit in 7th yr. as ordinary year

N224 Le.25:11 Not to till the earth or prune trees in Jubilee year

N225 Le.25:11 Reap not aftergrowths of Jubilee year as ordinary year

N226 Le.25:11 Not to gather fruit in Jubilee year as in ordinary year

N227 Le.25:23 Sell not one's Eretz Yisrael land holdings permanently

N228 Le.25:33 Not to sell/change the open lands of the Levites

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

N229 De.12:19 Not to leave the Levites without support

LOANS, BUSINESS, AND THE TREATMENT OF SLAVES

N230 De.15:2 Not to demand payment of debts after (7th) Shmitah year

N231 De.15:9 Not to refuse loan to poor because Shmitah year is near

N232 De.15:7 Not to deny charity to the poor

N233 De.15:13 Not sending a Hebrew bondman away empty-handed

N234 Ex.22:24 Not demanding payment from a debtor known unable to pay

N235 Le.25:37 Not lending to another Jew at interest

N236 De.23:20 Not borrowing from another Jew at interest

N237 Ex.22:24 Not participating in an agreement involving interest

N238 Le.19:13 Oppress not an employee by delaying paying his wages

N239 De.24:10 Not taking a pledge from a debtor by force

N240 De.24:12 Not keeping a poor man's pledge when he needs it

N241 De.24:17 Not taking any pledge from a widow

N242 De.24:6 Not taking ones's business (or food) utensils in pledge

N243 Ex.20:13 Not abducting an Israelite

N244 Le.19:11 Not stealing

N245 Le.19:13 Not robbing

N246 De.19:14 Not fraudulently altering land boundaries / landmarker

N247 Le.19:13 Not usurping our debts / do not defraud

N248 Le.19:11 Not repudiating debts, denying receipt of loan/deposit

N249 Le.19:11 Not to swear falsely regarding another man's property

N250 Le.25:14 Not wronging/deceiving one another in business

N251 Le.25:17 Not wronging/misleading one another even verbally N252 Ex.22:20 Not harming the stranger among you verbally

N253 Ex.22:20 Not injuring the stranger among you in business/trade

N254 De.23:16 Not handing over a slave who's fled to Israel

N255 De.23:17 Take no advantage of a slave who's fled to Israel

N256 Ex.22:21 Not afflicting the orphans and widows

N257 Le.25:39 Not employing a Hebrew bondman in degrading tasks

N258 Le.25:42 Not selling a Hebrew bondman

N259 Le.25:43 Not treating a Hebrew bondman cruelly

N260 Le.25:53 Not allowing a heathen to mistreat a Hebrew bondman

N261 Ex.21:8 Not selling a Hebrew maidservant. & if you marry her...

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

N262 Ex.21:10 ...withhold not: food, raiment, or conjugal rights

N263 De.21:14 Not selling a captive woman

N264 De.21:14 Not treating a captive woman as a slave

N265 Ex.20:17 Not coveting another man's possessions/property, etc.

N266 De.5:18 Covet not one's possessions, even the desire forbidden

N267 De.23:26 A worker is not to cut down standing grain during work

N268 De.23:24 A hired laborer not to take more fruit than he can eat

N269 De.22:3 Not ignoring lost property to be returned to its owner

N270 Ex.23:5 Refuse not to help man or animal collapsing with burden

N271 Le.19:35 Not cheating/defrauding with measurements & weights

N272 De.25:13 Not to possess false/inaccurate weights and measures

JUSTICE

N273 Le.19:15 A Judge is not to commit unrighteousness

N274 Ex.23:8 A Judge is not to accept bribes/gifts from litigants

N275 Le.19:15 A Judge is not to favor (be partial to) a litigant

N276 De.1:17 Judge not avoid justice being in fear of wicked person

N277 Lev 19:15 A Judge not to decide in favor of poor man, out of pity

N278 Ex.23:6 A Judge is not to discriminate against the wicked

N279 De.19:13 Judge not to pity one who killed or caused loss of limb

N280 De.24:17 A Judge not perverting justice due strangers or orphans

N281 Ex.23:1 Judge not to hear one litigant in absence of the other

N282 Ex.23:2 Court may not convict by majority of 1 in capital case

N283 Ex.23:2 Judge accept not colleague's opinion, unless sure right

N284 De.1:17 Not appointing an unlearned judge ignorant of the Torah

N285 Ex.20:16 Not bearing false witness

N286 Ex.23:1 A Judge is not to receive a wicked man's testimony

N287 De.24:16 A Judge receive not testimony from litigant's relatives

N288 De.19:15 Not convicting on the testimony of a single witness

N289 Ex.20:13 Not murdering a human being

N290 Ex.23:7 No conviction based on circumstantial evidence alone

N291 Nu.35:30 A witness must not sit as a Judge in capital cases

N292 Nu.35:12 Not killing a murderer without trial and conviction

N293 De.25:12 Not to pity or spare the life of a pursuer

N294 De.22:26 Not punishing a person for a sin committed under duress

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

N295 Nu.35:31 Not accepting ransom from an unwitting murderer

N296 Nu.35:32 Not accepting a ransom from a wilful murderer

N297 Le.19:16 Hesitate not to save life of another person in danger

N298 De.22:8 Not leaving obstacles on public or private domain

N299 Le.19:14 Not misleading another by giving wrong advice

N300 De.25:2-3 Inflict not more than assigned number lashes to guilty

N301 Le.19:16 Not to tell tales

N302 Le.19:17 Not to bear hatred in your heart toward your brethren

N303 Le.19:17 Not to put one another to shame

N304 Le.19:18 Not to take vengeance on another

N305 Le.19:18 Not to bear a grudge

N306 De.22:6 Not to take entire bird's nest, mother and her young

N307 Le.13:33 Not to shave a leprous scall

N308 De.24:8 Not to cut or cauterize (remove) other signs of leprosy

N309 De.21:4 Plow not a valley where slain body found, eglah arufah

N310 Ex.22:17 Not permitting a witch/sorcerer to live

N311 De.24:5 Take not bridegroom from home in first year of marriage

N312 De.17:11 Not to differ from or disobey the Cohanim and the Judge

N313 De.13:1 Not to add to the Mitzvot/commandments of Torah

N314 De.13:1 Not to detract from the Mitzvot/commandments of Torah

N315 Ex.22:27 Not to curse a judge

N316 Ex.22:27 Not to curse a ruler

N317 Le.19:14 Not to curse any Jew

N318 Ex.21:17 Not cursing parents

N319 Ex.21:15 Not to strike parents

N320 Ex.20:10 Not to work on Shabbat

N321 Ex.16:29 Not to walk beyond permitted limits, eruv, on Shabbat

N322 Ex.35:3 Not to inflict punishment on the Shabbat

N323 Ex.12:16 Not to work on the first day of Pesach

N324 Ex.12:16 Not to work on the seventh day of Pesach

N325 Le.23:21 Not to work on Shavuot

N326 Le.23:25 Not to work on Rosh HaShannah

N327 Le.23:35 Not to work on the first day of Sukkot

N328 Le.23:36 Work not 8th-day/Shemini-Atzeret, (after Hoshana Rabba)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

N329 Le.23:28 Not to work on Yom Kippur / the Day of Atonement

INCEST AND OTHER FORBIDDEN RELATIONSHIPS

N330 Le.18:7 No relations with one's mother

N331 Le.18:8 No relations with one's father's wife

N332 Le.18:9 No relations with one's sister

N333 Le.18:11 No relations with step-sister

N334 Le.18:10 No relations with one's son's daughter

N335 Le.18:10 No relations with one's daughter's daughter

N336 Le.18:10 No relations with one's daughter

N337 Le.18:17 No relations with a woman and her daughter

N338 Le.18:17 No relations with a woman and her son's daughter

N339 Le.18:17 No relations with a woman & her daughter's daughter

N340 Le.18:12 No relations with one's father's sister

N341 Le.18:13 No relations with one's mother's sister

N342 Le.18:14 No relations with wife of father's brother

N343 Le.18:15 No relations with one's son's wife

N344 Le.18:16 No relations with brother's wife

N345 Le.18:18 No relations with sister of wife, during wife's life

N346 Le.18:19 No relations with a menstruant

N347 Le.18:20 No relations with another man's wife

N348 Le.18:23 Men may not lie with beasts

N349 Le.18:23 Women may not lie with beasts

N350 Le.18:22 A man may not lie carnally with another man

N351 Le.18:7 A man may not lie carnally with his father

N352 Le.18:14 A man may not lie carnally with his father's brother

N353 Le.18:6 Not to be intimate with a kinswoman

N354 De.23:3 A mamzer may not have relations with a Jewess

N355 De.23:18 No relations (harlotry) with a woman outside marriage

N356 De.24:4 Remarry not your divorced wife after she has remarried

N357 De.25:5 Childless widow marry none except late husbands brother

N358 De.22:29 Divorce not wife, that he has to marry after raping her

N359 De.22:19 Divorce not wife, after falsely slandering her

N360 De.23:2 Man unable of procreation (eunuch) not to marry Jewess

N361 Le.22:24 Not to castrate a man or beast

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

THE MONARCHY

N362 De.17:15 Not appointing a king who is not of the seed of Israel

N363 De.17:16 A king not to accumulate an excess number of horses

N364 De.17:17 A king not taking many wives

N365 De.17:17 A king not amassing great personal wealth

[Source: http://www.thesimpletruth.net/booklet//613ot.html]

The 613 mitzvot have been divided also into three general categories: mishpatim; edot; and chukim. Mishpatim ("laws") include commandments that are deemed to be self-evident, such as not to murder and not to steal. Edot ("testimonies") commemorate important events in Jewish history. For example, the Shabbat is said to testify to the story that Hashem created the world in six days and rested on the seventh day and declared it holy. Chukim ("decrees") are commandments with no known rationale, and are perceived as pure manifestations of the Divine will.

Many of the mitzvot cannot be observed now, following the destruction of the Second Temple, although they still retain religious significance. According to one standard reckoning, there are 77 positive and 194 negative commandments that can be observed today, of which there are 26 commands that apply only within the Land of Israel. Furthermore, there are some time-related commandments from which women are exempt (examples include shofar, sukkah, lulav, tzitzit and tefillin). Some depend on the special status of a person in Judaism (such as kohanim), while others apply only to men or only to women.

Rabbinic support for the number of commandments being 613 is not without dissent and, even as the number gained acceptance, difficulties arose in elucidating the list. Some rabbis declared that this count was not an authentic tradition, or that it was not logically possible to come up with a systematic count. No early work of Jewish law or Biblical commentary depended on the 613 system, and no early systems of Jewish principles of faith made acceptance of this Aggadah (non-legal Talmudic statement) normative. The classical Biblical commentator and grammarian Rabbi Abraham ibn Ezra denied that this was an authentic rabbinic tradition. Ibn Ezra writes "Some sages enumerate 613 mitzvot in many diverse ways [...] but in truth there is no end to the number of mitzvot [...] and if we were to count only the root principles [...] the number of mitzvot would not reach 613" (Yesod Mora, Chapter 2).

Nahmanides held that this particular counting was a matter of rabbinic controversy, and that rabbinic opinion on this is not unanimous. Nonetheless, he concedes that "this total has proliferated throughout the aggadic literature... we ought to say that it was a tradition from Moses at Mount Sinai", (Nahmanides, Commentary to Maimonides' Sefer Hamitzvot", Root Principle 1).

Rabbi Simeon ben Zemah Duran likewise rejected the dogma of the 613 as being the sum of the Law, saying that "perhaps the agreement that the number of mitzvot is 613... is just Rabbi Simlai's opinion, following his own explication of the mitzvot. And we need not rely on his explication when we come to determine [and affect] the Law, but rather on the Talmudic discussions" (Zohar Harakia, Lviv, 1858, p. 99).

Even when rabbis attempted to compile a list of the 613 commandments, they were faced with a number of difficulties:

> Which statements were to be included amongst the 613 commandments? Every one of God's commands to any individual or to the entire people of Israel?

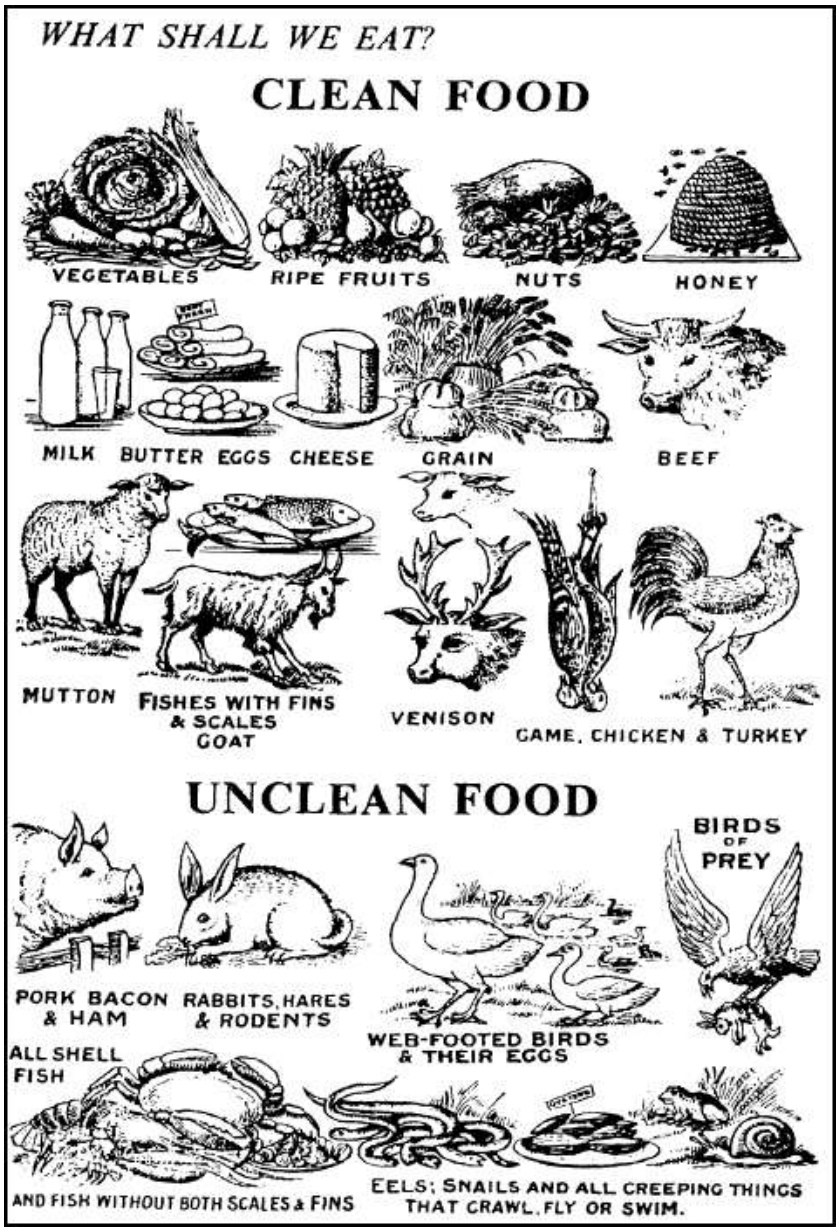
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

> Would an order from God be counted as a commandment, for the purposes of such a list, if it could only be complied with in one place and time? Else, would such an order only count as a commandment if it could be followed at all times? (The latter is the view of Maimonides.)
>
> Does counting a single commandment depend on whether it falls within one verse, even though it may contain multiple prohibitions, or should each prohibition count as a single commandment?

Ultimately, though, the concept of 613 commandments has become accepted as normative amongst practicing Jews and today it is still common practice to refer to the total system of commandments within the Torah as the "613 commandments", even among those who do not literally accept this count as accurate.

However, the 613 mitzvot do not constitute a formal code of present-day halakha. (See Halakha: Codes of Jewish law.) The most widely recognized code is the Shulkhan Arukh, written by Rabbi Yosef Karo (Safed, Israel, 1550). For Sephardic Jewry, this is generally the accepted code. Ashkenazim, however, customarily follow the glosses appended to the Shulchan Arukh by Rabbi Moses Isserles. The Kitzur Shulkhan Arukh of Rabbi Shlomo Ganzfried (Hungary 1804 -1886) is also popular among Ashkenazic Jews. Although it is often criticized, it contains an overview of the rules of Ashkenazi Jewish life according to the minhagim followed by Hungarian Jewry. This is why it is not accepted by all Ashkenazic rabbinic authorities. However, Maimonides did write his Mishneh Torah while keeping in mind all of the 613 mitzvot.

[Source: Wikipedia]



See also:

But, didn't Jesus abolish the Law and those 613 original commandments?"
http://www.therefinersfire.org/original_commandments.htm

The Mosaic Law: Its Function and Purpose in the New Testament https://bible.org/article/mosaic-law-its-function-and-purpose-new-testament

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Charts of OT Clean / Unclean Food, Animals/Birds/Fish

[Source: http://giftedfaithful.org]

[Source: https://www.pinterest.com/pin/212021094936643252/]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: http://glasshousetheology.com/infographic-tithing-in-the-old-testament/]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

New Testament Commandments

There are 1,050 commands in the New Testament for Christians to obey. Due to repetitions we can classify them under about 800 headings. For those who think that God abolished His law with the writings of Paul, read on. They cover every phase of man's life in his relationship to God and his fellowmen, now and hereafter.

Seven "Abstains"—Abstain From:

1. Idols (Acts 15:20).
2. Fornication (Acts 15:20,29; 1 Thes. 4:2-3)
3. Strangled meats (Acts 15:20)
4. Eating blood (Acts 15:20)
5. Meats offered to idols (Acts 15:29)
6. All appearance of evil (1 Thes. 5:22)
7. Fleshly lusts (1 Peter 2:11)

Seven things to avoid:

1. Troublemakers (Romans 16:17)
2. Profane and vain babblings (1 Timothy 6:20)
3. False science (1 Timothy 6:20)
4. Unlearned questions (2 Timothy 2:23)
5. Foolish questions (Titus 3:9)
6. Genealogies (Titus 3:9)
7. Arguments about the law (Titus 3:9)

Three "Asks":

1. Ask and ye shall receive (Matthew 7:7)
2. Ask no return of goods (Luke 6:30)
3. Ask life for backsliders (1 John 5:16)

Two things to awake to:

1. Awake to righteousness (1 Cor. 15:34)
2. Awake to life (Ephes. 5:14)

Seventy-four "Be's":

1. Be exceeding glad (Matthew 5:12)
2. Be reconciled to a brother (Matthew 5:24)
3. Be perfect (Matthew 5:48; 2 Cor. 13:11)
4. Be wise as serpents (Matthew 10:16)
5. Be harmless as doves (Matthew 10:16)
6. Be ready for Christ's coming (Matthew 24:44; Luke 12:40)
7. Be content with your wages (Luke 3:14)
8. Be merciful as God (Luke 6:36)
9. Be like faithful servants (Luke 12:36)
10. Be thankful (Col. 3:15)
11. Be at peace among selves (1 Thes. 5:13)
12. Be patient toward all people (1 Thes. 5:14; 2 Tim. 2:24)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

13. Be no partaker of sin (1 Tim. 5:22)
14. Be sober and hope (1 Peter 1:13)
15. Be sober and pray (1 Peter 4:7)
16. Be sober, grave, temperate, sound in faith, charity, and patience (aged men, Titus 2:2)
17. Be sober, love husbands and children (young women, Titus 2:4)
18. Be sober minded (young men, Titus 2:6)
19. Be in behavior as becoming to saints (aged women, Titus 2:3)
20. Be discreet, chaste, keepers at home, good, obedient (young women, Titus 2:5)
21. Be ready to give an answer of the hope that is in you (1 Peter 3:15)
22. Be of good cheer (John 16:33)
23. Be baptized (Acts 2:38)
24. Be converted (Acts 3:19)
25. Be transformed (Romans 12:2)
26. Be kind of brotherly love one to another (Romans 12:10; Ephes. 4:32)
27. Be fervent in spirit (Romans 12:11)
28. Be patient in tribulation (Romans 12:12)
29. Be given to hospitality (Romans 12:13)
30. Be afraid, if lawless (Romans 13:4)
31. Be no idolater (1 Cor. 10:7)
32. Be followers of Paul as he followed Christ (1 Cor. 11:1; Phil. 3:17)
33. Be followers of God (Ephes. 5:1)
34. Be followers of the faithful and patient (Hebrews 6:12)
35. Be children in malice (1 Cor. 14:20)
36. Be men in understanding (1 Cor. 14:20)
37. Be stedfast (1 Cor. 15:58)
38. Be unmoveable (1 Cor. 15:58)
39. Be always abounding in God's work (1 Cor. 15:58)
40. Be strong in the Lord (1 Cor. 16:13; Ephes. 6:10; 2 Tim. 2:1)
41. Be of good comfort (2 Cor. 13:11)
42. Be of one mind (Romans 12:16; 2 Cor. 13:11; Phil. 2:2; 1 Peter 3:8)
43. Be separate from the unclean (2 Cor. 6:17)
44. Be renewed in spirit (Ephes. 4:23)
45. Be angry and sin not (Ephes. 4:26)
46. Be tenderhearted one to another (Ephes. 4:32)
47. Be filled with the Spirit (Ephes. 5:18)
48. Be likeminded (Phil. 2:2)
49. Be one of accord (Phil. 2:2)
50. Be anxious for nothing (Phil. 4:6)
51. Be an example to believers in word, conversation, charity, spirit, faith, and purity (1 Tim. 4:12)
52. Be a partaker of Christian sufferings (2 Tim. 1:8; cp. 1 Peter 4:1)
53. Be gentle to all people (2 Tim. 2:24)
54. Be apt to teach (2 Tim. 2:24)
55. Be instant in season, out of season (2 Tim. 4:2)
56. Be careful to maintain good works (Titus 3:8,14; cp. Matthew 5:16)
57. Be content with what you have (Hebrews 13:5)
58. Be doers of the Word (James 1:22)
59. Be afflicted and mourn (James 4:9)
60. Be patient till Christ comes (James 5:7-8)
61. Be holy in conversation (behavior) (1 Peter 1:15-16)
62. Be pitiful (1 Peter 3:8)
63. Be courteous (1 Peter 3:8)
64. Be examples of the flock of God, not lord over it (1 Peter 5:3)
65. Be subject one to another (1 Peter 5:5)
66. Be clothed with humility (1 Peter 5:5)
67. Be sober (1 Peter 5:8)
68. Be vigilant (1 Peter 5:8)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

69. Be mindful of prophecies and commandments (2 Peter 3:2)
70. Be diligent to be found in peace (2 Peter 3:14)
71. Be diligent to be without spot, and blameless (2 Peter 3:14)
72. Be faithful to death (Rev. 2:10)
73. Be watchful, strengthen self (Rev. 3:2)
74. Be zealous and repent (Rev. 3:19)

Thirty "Be Not's":

1. Be not like the hypocrites in prayer (Matthew 6:5)
2. Be not like the heathen in prayer (Matthew 6:8)
3. Be not as hypocrites in fasting (Matthew 6:16)
4. Be not called "Rabbi" (Matthew 23:8)
5. Be not called "Master" (Matthew 23:9)
6. Be not afraid of man (Luke 12:4)
7. Be not of doubtful mind (Luke 12:29)
8. Be not many teachers (James 3:1)
9. Be not afraid of terror (1 Peter 3:14)
10. Be not troubled (1 Peter 3:14)
11. Be not ignorant of time with God (2 Peter 3:8; cp. Isaiah 57:15)
12. Be not deceived: 10 classes not to inherit the kingdom (1 Cor. 6:9-10)
13. Be not conformed to world (Romans 12:2)
14. Be not slothful in business (Romans 12:11)
15. Be not conceited (Romans 12:16)
16. Be not overcome of evil (Romans 12:21)
17. Be not mere servants of men (1 Cor. 7:23)
18. Be not children in understanding (1 Cor. 14:20)
19. Be not deceived by evil companions (1 Cor. 15:33)
20. Be not unequally yoked together with unbelievers (2 Cor. 6:14-15)
21. Be not entangled again with keeping the law (Galatians 5:1)
22. Be not deceived: man will reap what he sows (Galatians 6:7-8)
23. Be not partakers with sinners (Ephes. 5:7)
24. Be not unwise about God's will (Ephes. 5:17)
25. Be not drunk with wine (Ephes. 5:18)
26. Be not weary in well doing (2 Thes. 3:13)
27. Be not ashamed of God (2 Tim. 1:8)
28. Be not slothful (Hebrews 6:12)
29. Be not forgetful of strangers (Hebrews 13:2)
30. Be not carried about with different strange doctrines (Hebrews 13:9)

Four things to believe:

1. The gospel (Mark 1:15)
2. God's existence (Hebrews 11:6)
3. On Jesus Christ (1 John 3:23)
4. God rewards diligent seeking (Hebrews 11:6).

One thing not to believe:

1. Believe not every spirit (1 John 4:1).

Fourteen "Beware's":

1. Beware of false prophets (Matthew 7:15)
2. Beware of people (Matthew 10:17)
3. Beware of leaven (doctrine) of Pharisees (Matthew 16:6-12)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

4. Beware of leaven (doctrine) of Herod (Mark 8:15)
5. Beware of hypocrisy (Luke 12:1)
6. Beware of covetousness (Luke 12:15)
7. Beware of scribes (Mark 12:38; Luke 20:46)
8. Beware of lest you despise God and perish (Acts 13:40-41)
9. Beware of dogs (false teachers, Phil. 3:2; Isaiah 56:10)
10. Beware of evil workers (Phil. 3:2)
11. Beware of the concision (Jews, Phil. 3:2)
12. Beware of being spoiled through philosophy (Col. 2:8)
13. Beware of being spoiled through vain deceit (Col. 2:8)
14. Beware of backsliding (2 Peter 3:17)

Two classes to bless:

1. Those who curse you (Matthew 5:44; Luke 6:28)
2. Persecutors (Romans 12:14)

Three things to cast out or away:

1. The beam out of own eyes (Matthew 7:5; Luke 6:42)
2. Devils (Matthew 10:8)
3. All your cares upon God (1 Peter 5:7)

One thing not to cast away:

1. Your confidence in God (Hebrews 10:35)

Five things to charge:

1. Men to be blameless (1 Tim. 5:7)
2. The rich to be humble (1 Tim. 6:17)
3. The rich to trust in God (1 Tim. 6:17)
4. The rich to do good works (1 Tim. 6:18)
5. The rich to lay hold on eternal life (1 Tim. 6:19)

Two classes to comfort:

1. One another—fellow Christians (1 Thes. 4:18; 1 Thes. 5:11)
2. The feeble-minded (1 Thes. 5:14)

Five things to consider:

1. The ravens (Luke 12:24)
2. The lilies (Luke 12:27-28)
3. Truth (2 Tim. 2:7)
4. That you are capable of falling (Galatians 6:1)
5. Christ (Hebrews 3:1; Hebrews 12:3)

Three things to continue in:

1. Love (John 15:9)
2. Prayer (Romans 12:12; Col. 4:2)
3. Truth (2 Tim. 3:14)

Two things to covet:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

1. The best gifts (1 Cor. 12:31)
2. To prophesy (1 Cor. 14:39); cp. things not to covet (Exodus 20:17; Deut. 5:21)

Ten "Do's":

1. Do good to them that hate you (Matthew 5:44; Luke 6:27)
2. Do to others what you expect of them (Matthew 7:12; Luke 6:31)
3. Do violence to no man (Luke 3:14)
4. Do good (Luke 6:35; Romans 13:3)
5. Do this (put God first) and live (Luke 10:28)
6. Do all to God's glory (1 Cor. 10:31; Col. 3:17,23)
7. Do all things without murmuring and disputing (Phil. 2:14)
8. Do those things which were seen and heard in me (Paul, Phil. 4:9)
9. Do your own business (1 Thes. 4:11)
10. Do the work of an evangelist (2 Tim. 4:5)

Ten "Do Not's":

1. Do not alms before people (Matthew 6:1)
2. Do not sound trumpet before you when giving alms (Matthew 6:2)
3. Do not do works of Pharisees (Matthew 23:3-33)
4. Do not love in word only (1 John 3:18)
5. Do not give heed to fables (1 Tim. 1:4)
6. Do not give heed to genealogies (1 Tim. 1:4)
7. Do not err (James 1:16)
8. Do not commit adultery (James 2:11)
9. Do not kill (James 2:11)
10. Do not fashion self according to former lusts (1 Peter 1:14)

Two things to endure:

1. Hardness (2 Tim. 2:3)
2. Sufferings (2 Tim. 4:5)

Whom to fear:

1. God (Matthew 10:28; Luke 12:5; 1 Peter 2:17; Rev. 14:7)

Three things not to fear:

1. Man (Matthew 10:28; Luke 12:5)
2. Persecutors (Matthew 10:26)
3. No lack of provision (Matthew 10:31; Mark 6:8-9; Luke 12:7)

Five things to feed:

1. Enemies (Romans 12:20)
2. Lambs (John 21:15)
3. Sheep (John 21:16,17)
4. Flock of God (1 Peter 5:2)
5. The church (Acts 20:28)

Four things to flee from:

1. Fornication (1 Cor. 6:18)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

2. Idolatry (1 Cor. 10:14)
3. Hurtful lusts (1 Tim. 6:9-11)
4. Youthful lusts (2 Tim. 2:22)

Ten things to follow:

1. Christ (Matthew 4:19; Matthew 8:22; Matthew 16:24; Mark 8:34; Mark 10:21; Luke 9:23; John 21:19)
2. Love (1 Cor. 14:1; 1 Tim. 6:11; 2 Tim. 2:22)
3. Good (1 Thes. 5:15; 3 John 1:11)
4. Righteousness (1 Tim. 6:11; 2 Tim. 2:22)
5. Godliness (1 Tim. 6:11)
6. Faith (1 Tim. 6:11; 2 Tim. 2:22)
7. Patience (1 Tim. 6:11)
8. Meekness (1 Tim. 6:11)
9. Peace (2 Tim. 2:22; Hebrews 12:14)
10. Holiness (Hebrews 12:14)

Seven things about giving:

1. Commanded: give (Luke 6:38)
2. Whom to give to:

(1) Him that asks (Matthew 5:42; Luke 6:30)
(2) Needy saints (Romans 12:13)
(3) God (Col. 3:17; Rev. 14:7)

3. Whom not to give to:

(1) Give not holy things to rebels (Matthew 7:6)
(2) Give no place to Satan (Ephes. 4:27)

4. What to give:

(1) Holy things (Matthew 7:6; Matthew 10:8)
(2) Give thanks (Ephes. 5:20; Phil. 4:6; Col. 3:17; 1 Thes. 5:18)
(3) Give time to reading, exhortation, doctrine (1 Tim. 4:13)
(4) Give self wholly (1 Tim. 4:15)
(5) Give glory to God (Rev. 14:7)

5. What not to give:

(1) Give no offense (1 Cor. 10:32)
(2) Give no heed of fables and commandments of human beings (Titus 1:14)

6. How to give:

(1) Freely (Matthew 10:8; 2 Cor. 9:6)
(2) Good measure (Luke 6:38)
(3) As God has prospered (1 Cor. 16:2)
(4) Willingly (2 Cor. 8:12)
(5) With purpose (2 Cor. 9:7)
(6) Cheerfully (2 Cor. 9:7)

7. Blessings promised for giving:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

(1) Returns on the basis of giving (Luke 6:38; 2 Cor. 9:6)
(2) Reward (Matthew 10:42)
(3) All grace abounding (2 Cor. 9:8)
(4) All sufficiency (2 Cor. 9:8)
(5) Eternal righteousness (2 Cor. 9:9)
(6) Increased fruits (2 Cor. 9:10)
(7) Enrichment in all things (2 Cor. 9:11)

Five "Go's":

1. Go two miles (Matthew 5:41)
2. Go teach (Matthew 28:19-20)
3. Go preach (Mark 16:15)
4. Go not from house to house (Luke 10:7)
5. Go and do likewise (Luke 10:37)

Seven "Have's":

1. Have faith (Mark 11:22; Romans 14:22-23)
2. Have no fellowship with darkness (Ephes. 5:11)
3. Have no respect of persons (1 Tim. 5:21; James 2:1-10)
4. Have honest conversation (1 Peter 2:12)
5. Have compassion (1 Peter 3:8; Jude 1:22)
6. Have a good conscience (1 Peter 3:16)
7. Have fervent love (1 Peter 4:8)

Fourteen "Hold's":

1. Hold forth Word of life (Phil. 2:16)
2. Hold fast to the good (1 Thes. 5:21)
3. Hold Christian traditions (1 Tim. 1:19; 1 Tim. 3:9)
4. Hold faith (1 Tim. 1:19)
5. Hold a good conscience (1 Tim. 1:19)
6. Hold fast sound doctrine (2 Tim. 1:13)
7. Hold fast till Christ comes (Rev. 2:25)
8. Hold fast what you have (Rev. 3:11)
9. Hold your crown (Rev. 3:11)
10. Hold reputation of ministers (Phil. 2:29)
11. Hold eternal life (1 Tim. 6:12,19)
12. Hold hope (Hebrews 6:18)
13. Hold confidence (Hebrews 3:6,14)
14. Hold what is heard and received (Rev. 3:3)

Six classes to honor:

1. Fathers (Luke 18:20; Ephes. 6:2)
2. Mothers (Matthew 19:19; Mark 10:19)
3. Others (Romans 12:10)
4. Widows indeed (1 Tim. 5:3)
5. All people (1 Peter 2:17)
6. Kings—rulers (1 Peter 2:17)

Seven things to keep:

1. Keep commandments (Matthew 19:17; John 14:15)
2. Keep no company with the 6 classes of professed Christians of (1 Cor. 5:11)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

3. Keep yourself pure (1 Tim. 5:22)
4. Keep the gospel commandments until Christ comes (1 Tim. 6:14)
5. Keep the good entrusted you (2 Tim. 1:14)
6. Keep yourself from idols (1 John 5:21)
7. Keep yourself in God's love (Jude 1:21)

Six things to lay aside:

1. Wickedness (James 1:21)
2. All malice (1 Peter 2:1)
3. All guile (1 Peter 2:1)
4. All hypocrisies (1 Peter 2:1)
5. All envies (1 Peter 2:1)
6. All evil speakings (1 Peter 2:1)

One Hundred "Let's":

1. Let your light shine (Matthew 5:16; Luke 12:35).
2. Let your conversation be yea, nay (Matthew 5:37; James 5:12).
3. Let your enemy have your cloak (Matthew 5:40; Luke 6:29).
4. Let blind leaders alone (Matthew 15:14).
5. Let everyone deny themselves (Matthew 16:24; Mark 8:34; Luke 9:23).
6. Let him take up cross (Matthew 16:24; Mark 8:34; Mark 10:21; Luke 9:23).
7. Let him hear (Mark 4:23; Luke 14:35).
8. Let him share with the needy (Luke 3:11).
9. Let your loins be girded (Luke 12:35).
10. Let everyone take your purse and script (Luke 22:36).
11. Let him sell his garment, buy sword (Luke 22:36).
12. Let your love be genuine (Romans 12:9).
13. Let everyone obey the civil laws (Romans 13:1).
14. Let everyone choose his own sabbath day (Romans 14:5-7; Col. 2:14-17).
15. Let everyone take heed how he builds upon Christ (1 Cor. 3:10).
16. Let no man deceive himself (1 Cor. 3:18).
17. Let every man have his own wife (1 Cor. 7:2).
18. Let every woman her own husband (1 Cor. 7:2).
19. Let spouses satisfy each other in sexual relations (1 Cor. 7:4-5).
20. Let them who cannot restrain marry (1 Cor. 7:9).
21. Let husbands and wifes remain unmarried if they separate or, be reconciled (1 Cor. 7:11).
22. Let the unbelieving ones depart who refuse to remain (1 Cor. 7:15).
23. Let every man abide in his calling (1 Cor. 7:17-24).
24. Let no one seek to erase circumcision (1 Cor. 7:18).
25. Let no one be circumcised (as a religious rite, 1 Cor. 7:18).
26. Let a father give his daughter in marriage if she desires it (1 Cor. 7:36-38).
27. Let him who thinks he stands take heed lest he fall (1 Cor. 10:12).
28. Let no man seek wealth selfishly (1 Cor. 10:24).
29. Let the woman cut her hair if her head is uncovered (1 Cor. 11:6).
30. Let the woman wear a covering if cutting and shaving the hair be a shame (1 Cor. 11:6).
31. Let everyone examine self when taking the Lord's Supper (1 Cor. 11:28).
32. Let the hungry eat at home, not at the Lord's Supper (1 Cor. 11:34).
33. Let the speaker in tongues pray for the interpretation (1 Cor. 14:13).
34. Let all things be done to edifying (1 Cor. 14:26).
35. Let no more than 3 messages in tongues be given in one service (1 Cor. 14:27).
36. Let one interpret (1 Cor. 14:27).
37. Let the mind of Christ be in you (Phil. 2:5).
38. Let your moderation be known (Phil. 4:5).
39. Let your requests be known to God (Phil. 4:6).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

40. Let no one judge you with regard to meats, drinks, holy days, new moons, and sabbath days (Col. 2:14-17; Romans 14:5-7).
41. Let no one rob you of your reward by some vain religion (Col. 2:18).
42. Let peace rule the heart (Col. 3:15).
43. Let the Word dwell in you (Col. 3:16).
44. Let speech be with grace (Col. 4:6).
45. Let no one deceive you about the day of Christ being at hand (2 Thes. 2:3).
46. Let no man despise youth (1 Tim. 4:12).
47. Let the speaker in tongues keep silent in church speaking to himself and God if no interpreter present
(1 Cor. 14:28).
48. Let the prophets speak two or three messages and let others judge (1 Cor. 14:29).
49. Let times be shared in revelation (1 Cor. 14:30).
50. Let women learn quietly in church or at home (1 Cor. 14:34-35; 1 Tim. 2:11).
51. Let everyone acknowledge regulation of spiritual gifts to be commandments of God (1 Cor. 14:37).
52. Let rebels to truth remain ignorant (1 Cor. 14:38).
53. Let all things be done in decent order (1 Cor. 16:2).
54. Let everyone give as God prospers (1 Cor. 16:2).
55. Let all things be done in love (1 Cor. 16:14).
56. Let everyone give cheerfully (2 Cor. 9:7).
57. Let rebels to truth be accursed (1 Cor. 16:22; Galatians 1:8-9).
58. Let everyone prove their own work (Galatians 6:4).
59. Let those taught support the teacher (Galatians 6:6).
60. Let the thief steal no more (Ephes. 4:28).
61. Let the thief labor instead of stealing to have to give to others (Ephes. 4:28).
62. Let no corrupt conversation come from your mouth (Ephes. 4:29).
63. Let bitterness, wrath, anger, clamor, evil speaking, and malice be put away (Ephes. 4:31).
64. Let no man deceive you with vain words (Ephes. 5:6).
65. Let the wives be subject to their husbands (Ephes. 5:22,24; Col. 3:18; 1 Peter 3:1-6).
66. Let the husbands love their wives (Ephes. 5:25,28,33; Col. 3:19; 1 Peter 3:7).
67. Let the wives reverence their husbands (Ephes. 5:33).
68. Let your conversation (behavior) be becoming of the gospel (Phil. 1:27).
69. Let nothing be done through strife or vain glory (Phil. 2:3).
70. Let each esteem other better than himself (Phil. 2:3).
71. Let worthy elders be doubly honored (paid) (1 Tim. 5:17).
72. Let servants honor masters (1 Tim. 6:1).
73. Let masters respect servants (1 Tim. 6:2).
74. Let every Christian depart from iniquity (2 Tim. 2:19).
75. Let no man despise you (Titus 2:15).
76. Let brotherly love continue (Hebrews 13:1).
77. Let conversation be without covetousness (Hebrews 13:5).
78. Let patience work perfectly (James 1:4).
79. Let one who lacks, ask for wisdom (James 1:5).
80. Let him ask in faith (James 1:6).
81. Let the exalted rejoice (James 1:9).
82. Let the humble rejoice (James 1:10).
83. Let no man lay temptation to God (James 1:13).
84. Let everyone be swift to hear, slow to speak, slow to wrath (James 1:19).
85. Let the wise demonstrate wisdom and knowledge (James 3:13).
86. Let the light-hearted sinners become remorseful (James 4:9).
87. Let the afflicted pray (James 5:13).
88. Let the merry sing psalms (James 5:13).
89. Let the sick call elders (James 5:14).
90. Let elders pray for sick, anointing with oil (James 5:14-15; cp. Mark 6:13).
91. Let adorning be more inward than outward (1 Peter 3:3-4; 1 Tim. 2:9-10).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

92. Let everyone refrain tongue from evil, and lips from guile (1 Peter 3:10).
93. Let everyone shun evil, do good, seek peace and pursue it (1 Peter 3:11).
94. Let ministers speak for God (1 Peter 4:11).
95. Let no one suffer as a murderer, thief, evil doer, or busybody (1 Peter 4:15).
96. Let no one be ashamed to suffer as a Christian, but be thankful (1 Peter 4:16).
97. Let Christian sufferers commit their souls to God (1 Peter 4:19).
98. Let eternal life abide in you (1 John 2:24-25).
99. Let no man deceive you about being righteous (1 John 3:7).
100. Let him that hath an ear, hear (Rev. 2:7,11,17,29; Rev. 3:6,13,22).

Twelve "Let Not's":

1. Let not your left hand know what the right hand does (Matthew 6:3).
2. Let not man sever those who are married (Matthew 19:6).
3. Let not good be evil spoken of (Romans 14:16).
4. Let not sin reign in the body (Romans 6:12).
5. Let not him that eateth despise him that does not (Romans 14:3).
6. Let not him that eateth not judge him that does (Romans 14:3).
7. Let not the wife depart from her husband (1 Cor. 7:10).
8. Let not the husband put away his wife (1 Cor. 7:11).
9. Let not the Christian put away the unsaved companion who wishes to remain (1 Cor. 7:12,13).10. Let not the sun go down on wrath (Ephes. 4:26).
11. Let not fornication, uncleanness, covetousness, filthiness, foolish talking, and jesting be mentioned among you as becometh saints (Ephes. 5:3-4).
12. Let not unworthy widows be supported by the church (1 Tim. 5:9-16).

Forty-two "Let us's":

1. Let us walk honestly (Romans 13:12).
2. Let us cast off works of darkness (Romans 13:12).
3. Let us put on armor of light (Romans 13:12).
4. Let us follow things of peace (Romans 14:9).
5. Let us follow things that edify (Romans 14:19).
6. Let us please neighbor for good (Romans 15:2-3).
7. Let us be sincere (1 Cor. 5:8).
8. Let us not commit fornication (1 Cor. 10:2-3).
9. Let us not tempt Christ (1 Cor. 10:9).
10. Let us not murmur (1 Cor. 10:10).
11. Let us cleanse ourselves from the filthiness of body and spirit (2 Cor. 7:1).
12. Let us perfect holiness (2 Cor. 7:1).
13. Let us walk in the Spirit (Galatians 5:25).
14. Let us not desire vain glory (Galatians 5:26).
15. Let us not provoke one another (Galatians 5:26).
16. Let us not envy one another (Galatians 5:26).
17. Let us not be weary in well doing (Galatians 6:9).
18. Let us do good to all people (Galatians 6:10).
19. Let us do good especially to fellow Christians (Galatians 6:10).
20. Let us who are mature press forward toward the mark (Phil. 3:14-15).
21. Let us walk by the same rule (Phil. 3:16).
22. Let us mind the same thing (Phil. 3:16).
23. Let us not sleep spiritually (1 Thes. 5:6).
24. Let us watch and be sober (1 Thes. 5:6,8).
25. Let us be content with food and raiment (1 Tim. 6:8).
26. Let us fear losing the soul (Hebrews 4:1-2).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

27. Let us labor to be saved (Hebrews 4:11).
28. Let us hold fast our profession (Hebrews 10:23).
29. Let us come boldly to the throne of grace (Hebrews 4:16; Hebrews 10:19-23).
30. Let us go on to perfection (Hebrews 6:1).
31. Let us draw near to God (Hebrews 10:22).
32. Let us provoke to love and good works (Hebrews 10:24).
33. Let us not forsake assembling together in worship (Hebrews 10:25).
34. Let us exhort one another (Hebrews 10:25).
35. Let us lay aside every weight (Hebrews 12:1).
36. Let us lay aside besetting sin (Hebrews 12:1).
37. Let us run race with patience (Hebrews 12:1).
38. Let us look to Jesus (Hebrews 12:2).
39. Let us have grace to serve God (Hebrews 12:28).
40. Let us bear Christ's reproach (Hebrews 13:13).
41. Let us offer our sacrifice of praise to God continually (Hebrews 13:15).
42. Let us love one another (1 John 4:7,11).

Eight "Let Us Not's":

1. Let us not walk in rioting (Romans 13:13).
2. Let us not walk in drunkenness (Romans 13:13).
3. Let us not walk in chambering (Romans 13:13).
4. Let us not walk in wantonness (Romans 13:13).
5. Let us not walk in strife (Romans 13:13).
6. Let us not walk in envying (Romans 13:13).
7. Let us not judge one another in doubtful things (Romans 14:13).
8. Let us not cause others to stumble (Romans 14:13).

Three ways to live:

1. Live peacefully (Romans 12:18; 2 Cor. 13:11).
2. Live free from anxiety and undue care (1 Cor. 7:28-35).
3. Live no longer in lusts of sin (1 Peter 4:2).

Four commands to "Love":

1. Love your enemies (Matthew 5:44; Luke 6:27,35).
2. Love your fellow Christians (John 13:34; John 15:12,17; Galatians 5:14; 1 Peter 2:17; 1 John 3:23; 2
John 1:5).
3. Love the brotherhood (1 Peter 2:17).
4. Love your brother (1 John 4:21).

Two things not to love:

1. The world (1 John 2:15)
2. Things in the world (1 John 2:15)

Three ways to love:

1. Fervently (1 Peter 2:22)
2. With a pure heart (1 Peter 2:22)
3. As brethren (1 Peter 3:8)

One Person to pray to:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

1. Pray to thy Father (Matthew 6:6; Matthew 9; John 16:23-26)

Three things to pray for:

1. Your persecutors (Matthew 5:44; Luke 6:28)
2. For laborers (Matthew 9:38; Luke 10:2)
3. For one another (James 5:16)

Two ways not to pray:

1. Use not vain repetitions like the heathen (Matthew 6:7).
2. Do not pray as hypocrites (Matthew 6:5).

Three ways to pray:

1. After this manner pray (Matthew 6:9-13)
2. Ask, seek, knock (Matthew 7:7-11)
3. Pray in the Spirit (Jude 1:20)

Four things to prove:

1. Prove yourself (2 Cor. 13:5).
2. Prove what is acceptable to God (Ephes. 5:10).
3. Prove all things (1 Thes. 5:21).
4. Prove accusations against elders (1 Tim. 5:19).

Eight "Put Away's":

1. Put away wicked people from the congregation (1 Cor. 5:13).
2. Put away lying (Ephes. 4:25).
3. Put away all bitterness (Ephes. 4:31).
4. Put away wrath (Ephes. 4:31).
5. Put away anger (Ephes. 4:31).
6. Put away clamor (Ephes. 4:31).
7. Put away evil speaking (Ephes. 4:31).
8. Put away all malice (Ephes. 4:31).

Six "Put Off's":

1. Put off the old man (Ephes. 4:22; Col. 3:9).
2. Put off anger (Col. 3:8).
3. Put off wrath (Col. 3:8).
4. Put off malice (Col. 3:8).
5. Put off blasphemy (Col. 3:8).
6. Put off filthy conversation (Col. 3:8).

Twelve "Put On's":

1. Put on Christ (Romans 13:14).
2. Put on the armor of light (Romans 13:12).
3. Put on the new man (Ephes. 4:24; Col. 3:10).
4. Put on the whole armor of God (Ephes. 6:11,13).
5. Put on the bowels of mercy (Col. 3:12).
6. Put on kindness (Col. 3:12).
7. Put on humility (Col. 3:12).
8. Put on meekness (Col. 3:12).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

9. Put on longsuffering (Col. 3:13).
10. Put on love (Col. 3:14).
11. Put on the breastplate of faith and love (1 Thes. 5:8).
12. Put on the hope of salvation (1 Thes. 5:8).

One class not to rebuke:

1. Elders (1 Tim. 5:1)

Three things to rebuke:

1. Certain sinners (1 Tim. 5:20)
2. Rebels (Titus 1:13)
3. Works of darkness (Ephes. 5:11)

Two ways to rebuke:

1. With all authority (Titus 2:15)
2. With all longsuffering (2 Tim. 4:2)

Two commands to rejoice:

1. Rejoice (Matthew 5:12; Romans 15:10)
2. Rejoice evermore (1 Thes. 5:16).

Four things to rejoice in:

1. Hope (Romans 12:12)
2. Blessings of others (Romans 12:15)
3. The Lord (Phil. 3:1; Phil. 4:4)
4. Suffering for Christ (1 Peter 4:13)

Five things to remember:

1. What you are saved from (Ephes. 2:11-12)
2. Those who suffer (Hebrews 13:3)
3. Those who lead you (Hebrews 13:7)
4. Truth (Jude 1:17-18; Rev. 3:3)
5. Backsliding, and repent (Rev. 2:5)

Four things to seek:

1. God's kingdom first (Matthew 6:33; Luke 12:31)
2. God in prayer (Matthew 7:7)
3. To edify the church (1 Cor. 14:12)
4. Things above (Col. 3:1)

One command to stand fast:

1. Stand fast, and hold Christian traditions (2 Thes. 2:15)

Three things to stand fast with:

1. Loins girt about with truth
2. Breastplate of righteousness
3. Feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace (Ephes. 6:14-15)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Five things to stand in:

1. Faith (1 Cor. 16:13)
2. Liberty (Galatians 5:1)
3. One spirit (Phil. 1:27)
4. One mind (Phil. 1:27)
5. The Lord (Phil. 4:1)

Eight things to think on:

1. Things about your true self (Romans 12:3; 1 Cor. 3:18)
2. Things true
3. Things honest
4. Things just
5. Things pure
6. Things lovely
7. Things of good report
8. Things of virtue (Phil. 4:8)

One way to think:

1. Think soberly (Romans 12:3)

Five commands to "submit":

1. Submit one to another (Ephes. 5:21).
2. Submit to God (James 4:7).
3. Submit to every ordinance of man (1 Peter 2:13-14; Romans 13:1-8).
4. Younger ones are to submit to their elders (1 Peter 5:5).
5. Wives must submit to their husbands ((Ephes. 5:22; Col. 3:18; 1 Peter 3:1-6).

Twelve "Take's":

1. Take no anxious thought for necessities of life (Matthew 6:25,31; Luke 12:22-30)
2. Take no anxious thought of tomorrow (Matthew 6:34)
3. Take no anxious thought of defense (Matthew 10:19; Mark 13:9-11; Luke 12:11-12; Luke 21:14)
4. Take my yoke upon you (Matthew 11:29)
5. Take advantage of freedom (1 Cor. 7:21)
6. Take the Lord's Supper in remembrance of Christ (1 Cor. 11:24-26)
7. Take the shield of faith (Ephes. 6:16)
8. Take the helmet of salvation (Ephes. 6:17)
9. Take the sword of the Spirit (Ephes. 6:17)
10. Take oversight of the flock willingly (1 Peter 5:2)
11. Take oversight of the flock without thought of personal gain (1 Peter 5:2)
12. Take a humble seat (Luke 14:8)

Eighteen "Take Heed's":

1. Take heed that you do not alms to be seen by people (Matthew 6:1).
2. Take heed not to despise little ones (Matthew 18:10).
3. Take heed not to be deceived (Matthew 24:4; Mark 13:5; Luke 21:8).
4. Take heed what you hear (Mark 4:24).
5. Take heed how you hear (Luke 8:18).
6. Take heed to walk in the light (Luke 11:35).
7. Take heed to rebuke and forgive (Luke 17:3).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

8. Take heed not to get drunk (Luke 21:34).
9. Take heed not to surfeit (Luke 21:34).
10. Take heed not to be overcome with cares (Luke 21:34).
11. Take heed to yourselves (Matthew 13:9; Luke 17:3; Luke 21:34; Acts 20:28).
12. Take heed to the flock of God (Acts 20:28).
13. Take heed lest you misuse your liberty (1 Cor. 8:9; Rev. 13).
14. Take heed lest you fall (1 Cor. 10:12; Romans 11:21).
15. Take heed to your ministry (Col. 4:17).
16. Take heed that you destroy not one another (Galatians 5:15).
17. Take heed to yourself and your doctrine (1 Tim. 4:16).
18. Take heed not to backslide (Hebrews 3:12).

Four "Thou Shalt's":

1. Thou shalt worship God only (Matthew 4:10; Luke 4:8).
2. Thou shalt serve God only (Matthew 4:10; Luke 4:8).
3. Thou shalt love neighbors as yourself (Matthew 5:43; Matthew 19:19; Matthew 22:39; Mark 12:31; Luke 10:27; Romans 13:9; Galatians 5:14).
4. Thou shalt love God wholeheartedly (Matthew 22:37; Mark 12:30; Luke 10:27).

Eight "Thou Shalt Not's":

1. Thou shalt not tempt the Lord (Matthew 4:7; Luke 4:12).
2. Thou shalt not kill (Matthew 5:21; Matthew 19:18; Mark 10:19; Luke 18:20;Romans 13:9).
3. Thou shalt not commit adultery (Matthew 5:27-28; Matthew 19:18; Luke 18:20; Romans 13:9).
4. Thou shalt not pray to be seen by people (Matthew 6:5).
5. Thou shalt not steal (Matthew 19:18; Mark 10:19; Luke 18:20; Romans 13:9).
6. Thou shalt not bear false witness (Matthew 19:18; Mark 10:19; Luke 18:20; Romans 13:9).
7. Thou shalt not covet (Romans 13:9).
8. Thou shalt not muzzle the ox treading corn (1 Cor. 9:9; 1 Tim. 5:18).

Two ways not to walk:

1. As Sinners (Ephes. 4:17)
2. As fools (Ephes. 5:15)

Seven things to walk in:

1. The Spirit (Galatians 5:16)
2. Love (Ephes. 5:2)
3. The light (Ephes. 5:8-9; 1 John 1:7)
4. Watchfulness (Ephes. 6:18)
5. Christ (Col. 2:6-7; 2 Cor. 5:17)
6. Wisdom (Col. 4:5)
7. Honesty (1 Thes. 4:12)

200 Miscellaneous Commands:

1. Abhor what is evil (Romans 12:9).
2. A bishop must be (see characteristics of, 1 Tim. 3:2-7; Titus 1:6-9).
3. Abide in Christ (John 15:4).
4. Abide with worthy ones (Matthew 10:11-13; Mark 6:10; Luke 9:4; Luke 10:5-8).
5. Accuse none falsely (Luke 3:14).
6. Add to Christian graces (2 Peter 1:5-7).
7. Admit your own unprofitableness (Luke 17:10).
8. Admonish one another (Col. 3:16).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

9. Admonish the unruly (2 Thes. 3:15).
10. Agree with your adversary (Matthew 5:25).
11. Allow no liberty to ensnare you to commit sin (1 Cor. 10:25-30).
12. Allow no lust of evil in the your body (1 Thes. 4:5).
13. Allow no cursing and blessing from the same mouth (James 3:10).
14. Anoint your head and wash face when fasting (Matthew 6:17).
15. Arm your self with a mind to suffer for Christ (1 Peter 4:1).
16. Avenge not yourself (Romans 12:19).
17. Awake from death to light (Ephes. 5:14).
18. Bear one another's burdens (Galatians 6:2).
19. Behave like men (1 Cor. 16:13).
20. Bid no false teacher "Godspeed" (2 John 1:10-11).
21. Bring proof of your repentance (Matthew 3:8; Luke 3:8).
22. Bring your children up in the Lord (Ephes. 6:4).
23. Build up your faith (Jude 1:20).
24. Call the poor to your feast (Luke 14:13).
25. Children, obey your parents (Ephes. 6:1; Col. 3:20).
26. Cleanse the lepers (Matthew 10:8).
27. Cleanse your hands you sinners (James 4:8).
28. Cleave to good (Romans 12:9).
29. Collect just dues only (Luke 3:13).
30. Come out from among them (2 Cor. 6:17).
31. Command and teach these things (1 Tim. 4:11; 1 Tim. 6:2).
32. Commit the truth to faithful teachers (2 Tim. 2:2).
33. Confess your faults one to another (James 5:16).
34. Count it joy when you are tempted (James 1:2).
35. Cut off offending members (Matthew 5:29-30; Matthew 18:8,9).
36. Deacons must be (see 1 Tim. 3:8-12).
37. Defraud not (Mark 10:19).
38. Desire spiritual gifts (1 Cor. 14:1).
39. Desire the milk of the Word (1 Peter 2:2).
40. Despise not prophesyings (1 Thes. 5:20).
41. Destroy none with non-essentials (Romans 14:15; 1 Cor. 8:13).
42. Draw near to God (James 4:8).
43. Eat your own bread in quietness (2 Thes. 3:12).
44. Earnestly contend for faith (Jude 1:3).
45. Edify yourselves with singing (Ephes. 5:19).
46. Edify one another (1 Thes. 5:11).
47. Enter the straight (narrow) gate (Matthew 7:13; Luke 13:24).
48. Examine yourself as to faith (2 Cor. 13:5).
49. Exercise in godliness (1 Tim. 4:7-8).
50. Exhort servants to obey (Titus 2:9-10).
51. Exhort one another daily (Hebrews 3:13).
52. Fear not (Luke 12:32)!
53. Fight the good fight of faith (1 Tim. 6:12).
54. Follow peace and holiness (Hebrews 12:14).
55. Forbear one another (Col. 3:13).
56. Forbid not children (Matthew 19:14; Mark 10:14; Luke 18:16).
57. Forbid not tongues (1 Cor. 14:39).
58. Forget not to share (Hebrews 13:16).
59. Forgive 490 times (Matthew 18:22).
60. Forgive (Matthew 11:25-26; Luke 6:37; Ephes. 4:32; Col. 3:13).
61. Fret not in servitude (2 Cor. 7:21).
62. Gird up loins of mind (1 Peter 1:13).
63. Give place to wrath (Romans 12:19).
64. Give your enemy a drink of water (Romans 12:20).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

65. Give no occasion to the adversary (1 Tim. 5:14).
66. Glorify God in your body and spirit (2 Cor. 6:20; cp. Romans 12:1-2).
67. Grieve not the Holy Spirit (Ephes. 4:30).
68. Grow in grace and knowledge (2 Peter 3:18).
69. Grudge not against another (James 5:9).
70. Harden not your hearts (Hebrews 3:8-15).
71. Hate flesh-spotted garments (Jude 1:23).
72. Have no respect of persons (partiality, prejudice) (1 Tim. 5:21).
73. Have the same love (Phil. 2:2).
74. Have no fellowship with works of darkness (Ephes. 5:11).
75. Heal the sick (Matthew 10:8; Luke 10:9).
76. Help propagate truth (3 John 1:8).
77. Humble yourselves (James 4:10; 1 Peter 5:6).
78. Husbands, love your wives (Ephes. 5:25,28; Col. 3:19; 1 Peter 3:7).
79. Husbands, be not bitter against your wives (Col. 3:19).
80. Instruct rebels in meekness (2 Tim. 2:25).
81. Intreat others according to 1 Tim. 5:1-2.
82. Judge not (Matthew 7:1; Luke 6:37).
83. Have faith before God for things not condemned in Scripture (Romans 14:22-23).
84. Know how to control your body (1 Thes. 4:4).
85. Lay not up your treasures on earth (Matthew 6:19).
86. Lay up your treasures in heaven (Matthew 6:20; Luke 12:33-34).
87. Lay hold on eternal life (1 Tim. 6:12).
88. Leave your parents and cleave to your wife (Matthew 19:5; Mark 10:7; Ephes. 5:31).
89. Lend, hoping for nothing back (Luke 6:35).
90. Lie not (Col. 3:9).
91. Lift up hands that hang down (Hebrews 12:12).
92. Look not everyone on your own things only (Phil. 2:4).
93. Look diligently not to fail of grace (Hebrews 12:15).
94. Look diligently lest any root of bitterness defile (Hebrews 12:15).
95. Look diligently lest any be a fornicator (Hebrews 12:16-17).
96. Look to yourselves not to lose reward (2 John 1:8).
97. Look for mercy unto eternal life (Jude 1:21).
98. Lust not after evil things (1 Cor. 10:6).
99. Make a tree good or corrupt (Matthew 12:33).
100. Make no provision for lusts (Romans 13:14).
101. Make full proof of ministry (2 Tim. 4:5).
102. Make straight paths (Hebrews 12:13).
103. Mark troublemakers (Romans 16:17; Phil. 3:17).
104. Mark the unruly (2 Thes. 3:14).
105. Marvel not if you are hated by the world (1 John 3:13).
106. Masters, be good to servants (Ephes. 5:9; Col. 4:1).
107. Meditate upon things of (1 Tim. 4:15).
108. Mind not the high things (Romans 12:16).
109. Minister as good stewards (1 Peter 4:10).
110. Mortify offending physical members (Col. 3:5; Romans 8:12-13).
111. Neither be of doubtful mind (Luke 12:29).
112. No man is to defraud his brother (1 Thes. 4:6).
113. Neglect not spiritual gifts (1 Tim. 4:14; cp. 2 Tim. 1:6).
114. Obey your leaders (Hebrews 13:17).
115. Offer the other cheek (Matthew 5:39; Luke 6:29).
116. Ordain no one in a hurry (1 Tim. 5:22).
117. Owe nothing but love (Romans 13:8).
118. Overcome evil with good (Romans 12:21).
119. Pass the time in fear (1 Peter 1:17).
120. Pay your taxes (Romans 13:6).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

121. Pay just dues (Romans 13:7).
122. Praise the Lord (Romans 15:11).
123. Preach (Matthew 10:7,27; Mark 16:15; 2 Tim. 4:2).
124. Present your body to God (Romans 12:1).
125. Provide things honestly (Romans 12:17).
126. Provoke not your children to wrath (Ephes. 6:4; Col. 3:21).
127. Purge out the old leaven (evil influence) (1 Cor. 5:7).
128. Purify your hearts of doubt (James 4:8).
129. Put others in remembrance of the essentials (2 Tim. 2:14).
130. Quench not the Spirit (1 Thes. 5:19).
131. Raise the dead (Matthew 10:8).
132. Receive (accept) weak brethren (Romans 14:1).
133. Receive one another (Romans 15:7).
134. Receive the Word with meekness (James 1:21).
135. Reckon yourself as dead to sin (Romans 6:11).
136. Reckon yourself as alive to God (Romans 6:11).
137. Recognize the truth (1 Cor. 10:15).
138. Redeem the time (Ephes. 5:16; Col. 4:5).
139. Reject heretics (Titus 3:10).
140. Refuse to support young widows from church funds (1 Tim. 5:11).
141. Remind people of the seven things of Titus 3:1-2.
142. Render no evil for evil (1 Peter 3:9; Romans 12:17).
143. Repent (Matthew 3:2; Matthew 4:17; Mark 1:15; Acts 2:38; Acts 3:19; Rev. 2:16; Rev. 3:19).
144. Resist not evil (Matthew 5:38-39).
145. Resist the devil (James 4:7; 1 Peter 5:9).
146. Restore backslider in meekness, considering your own life (Galatians 6:1).
147. Run to obtain (1 Cor. 9:24).
148. Salute none by the way (Luke 10:4).
149. Salute your leaders (Hebrews 13:24).
150. Sanctify God in your heart (1 Peter 3:15).
151. Save some with fear (Jude 1:23).
152. Search the Scriptures (John 5:39).
153. Seek not eats and drinks (Luke 12:29).
154. Sell to help the needy (Luke 12:33).
155. Serve the Lord (Romans 12:1).
156. Servants, obey masters (Ephes. 6:5-8; Col. 3:22-25; 1 Peter 2:18).
157. Set the least to judge (1 Cor. 6:4).
158. Set your affections above (Col. 3:2).
159. Shake off the dust of your feet (Matthew 10:14; Mark 6:11; Luke 9:5; Luke 10:10-11).
160. Show charity to other ministers (Luke 9:49-50).
161. Show yourself as a pattern (Titus 2:7).
162. Show fourthings of (Titus 2:7-8).
163. Sin not (1 Cor. 15:34).
164. Sing with grace in heart (Col. 3:16).
165. Shun vain babblings (2 Tim. 2:16).
166. Speak and do things in view of the judgment day (James 2:12).
167. Speak truth (Ephes. 4:25).
168. Speak sound doctrine (Titus 2:1).
169. Speak no evil of your brethren (James 4:11).
170. Stablish your hearts (James 5:8).
171. Strengthen your feeble knees (Hebrews 12:12).
172. Strive together for the gospel faith (Phil. 1:27).
173. Study to be quiet (1 Thes. 4:11).
174. Study (be diligent) to show yourself approved (2 Tim. 2:15).
175. Support the weak (1 Thes. 5:14).
176. See that no one renders evil for evil (1 Thes. 5:15).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

177. Swear not (James 5:12; Matthew 5:33-36).
178. Tarry one for another (1 Cor. 11:33).
179. Tarry for power (Luke 24:49; Acts 1:4-8).
180. Teach one another (Col. 3:16).
181. Teach no other doctrine that the truth (1 Tim. 1:3).
182. Tell your brother his fault alone first (Matthew 18:15-17).
183. Trust God for your needs as you work (Matthew 10:9; Luke 9:3; Luke 10:4).
184. Understand the will of God (Ephes. 5:17).
185. Use not your liberty as an occasion to sin (Galatians 5:13; 1 Peter 1:16).
186. Use hospitality without grudging (1 Peter 4:9).
187. Warn the unruly (1 Thes. 5:14).
188. Watch and pray (Matthew 24:42; Matthew 25:13; Mark 13:33,35; Mark 14:38; Luke 21:36; Ephesians 6:18; Col. 4:2).
189. Watch in all things (2 Tim. 4:5; 1 Cor. 16:13).
190. Weep with others (Romans 12:15).
191. Withdraw from disorderly brethren (2 Thes. 3:6,14).
192. Withdraw from evil people (1 Tim. 6:3-6).
193. Wives of deacons must be (1 Tim. 3:11).
194. Wives, submit to your husbands (Ephes. 5:22; Col. 3:18; 1 Peter 3:1-6).
195. Work with your own hands (1 Thes. 4:11).
196. Work, or do not eat (2 Thes. 3:10-11).
197. Work out own salvation (Phil. 2:12).
198. Yield not your members to sin (Romans 6:13).
199. Yield yourself to God (Romans 6:13).
200. Yield your members to righteousness (Romans 6:13).

Two eternal rights of the redeemed:

1. Right to the tree of life
2. Right to enter the New Jerusalem

[Source: http://www.thesimpletruth.net/booklet//1050nt.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Bible Doctrines

The Work of the Trinity

Though the word “Trinity” does not appear in the Bible, by presenting the Father, Son, and Spirit all doing what no one else ever does, the Gospel of John gives us the raw material on which this doctrine is based. Observing what God says and does helps us to know him, and observing which actions are done by which members of the Godhead helps us to see which roles they play.

Action	Father	Son	Spirit
Give life	5:21 , 26 ; (6:33); 17:3	5:21 , 25-26 , 40 ; 6:33 ; 17:3	3:6 , 8 ; 6:63
Proclaim future	1:33	13:19 , 26 , 36-38 ; 14:3 , 29 ; 16:1-4 , 16-28 , 32 ; 20:18	16:13
Indwell believers	14:23	14:20 , 23 ; (15:4-7); 17:23 , 26	14:17
Teach	6:45 ; 7:16 , 17 ; 8:28	7:14 ; (8:2); 8:20 ; 13:13-14	14:26
Testify to Jesus	5:32 , 37 ; 6:27 ; 8:18	8:12-14 , 18	15:26
Glorify Jesus	5:22-23 ; 8:50 , 54 ; 13:31-32 ; 17:1 , 22	(1:14); 2:11 ; 13:31-32 ; 17:5 , 24	16:14

Actions Common to Father and Son

Action	Father	Son
Glorify the Father	4:23 ; 12:28 ; 13:31-32	(2:16); (9:3-4); 11:40 ; 12:28 ; 13:31-32 ; 14:13 ; 17:1 , 4-5
Give the Spirit	3:34 ; 14:16	(4:10-14); (7:37-39); 20:22
Send the Spirit	14:26	15:26 ; 16:7

Actions Common to Son and Spirit

Action	Son	Spirit
Be given by the Father	3:16	(4:10-14); 14:16
Be sent by the Father	3:17 ; 4:34 ; 5:23-24 , 36 ; 6:29 , 57 ; 7:28-29 , 33 ; 8:16 , 26 , 29 , 42 ; 9:4 ; 10:36 ; 11:42 ; 12:44-45 ; 13:20 ; 15:21 ; 17:3 , 8 , 18 , 23 , 25 ; 20:21	14:26 ; 15:26

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Speak not from himself	(5:19); 5:30 ; (6:38); 7:16 ; 12:49-50	16:13
Speak only what he hears	3:32 ; (3:34); (5:30); 8:26 , 40 ; 12:50 ; 15:15	16:13
Convict	3:19-20 ; 4:16 , 18 ; (5:27); (8:7); 8:34 , 40 ; 11:40 ; 12:7-8 ; 13:8	16:7-11
Be received	1:12 (cf. 1:10-11)	7:39 (cf. 14:17)
Disclose what belongs to God	1:18	16:13-14

[Source: ESV Bible Study note]

God's Sovereignty in Salvation as Seen in Acts

God ordained the cross	God calls, adds, and appoints many to eternal life	God gives faith and repentance; God cleanses and opens hearts
• 2:23 “Jesus, delivered up according to the definite plan and foreknowledge of God” • 3:18 “what God foretold by the mouth of all the prophets, that his Christ would suffer, he thus fulfilled” • 4:27-28 “there were gathered together . . . Herod and Pontius Pilate, along with the Gentiles and the people of Israel, to do whatever your hand . . . had predestined to take place”	• 2:39 “the promise is to . . . everyone whom the Lord our God calls to himself” • 2:41 “there were added that day about three thousand souls” • 2:47 “the Lord added to their number day by day those who were being saved” • 5:14 “believers were added to the Lord, multitudes of both men and women” • 11:24 “a great many people were added to the Lord” • 13:48 “as many as were appointed to eternal life believed”	• 3:16 “the faith that is through Jesus” • 5:31 “God exalted him . . . to give repentance to Israel” • 11:18 “to the Gentiles also God has granted repentance that leads to life” • 15:8-9 “God . . . having cleansed their hearts by faith” • 16:14 “The Lord opened her heart to pay attention to what was said by Paul” • 18:27 “those who through grace had believed”

[Source: ESV Bible Study note]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Theology

Bible Doctrines

And

Apologetics

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Theology

According to Webster's Dictionary, "Theology (from Greek "Theo"=God, and "ology"=study of), is the study of faith, practice and experience; especially the study of God and God's relation to the world."

More specifically, we are interested in Christian Theology, which is the study of God and God's relation to the world as presented in the Christian Bible; which includes the Old and New Testaments.

Theology - Basic

Christian theology at its core is about the basic and essential truths of the gospel: the cross and the blood.

To avoid "stinkin' thinkin'", you need to have a correct understand of theology.

> NOTE: For an excellent, practical introduction to theology and important basic terms of Christian Biblical Theology, we high recommend the FAC Sermons by Marty Berglund (video and audio) that can be access via the web site: http://myfac.org http://myfac.org/podcasts (specifically his series on "The Cross" / 2016).

Those Christians who think "theology" is either completely irrelevant, or not for them, are wrong, because even their most basic beliefs ... that there is one God who created the world, comes from theology.

No one can evangelize without theology, because the gospel is theology. The heart of Christianity is that we are all sinful, but Jesus, who was not just a great and wise man, but God in human flesh who, by His death, paid the penalty of our sin, thus saving us from God's wrath, and giving us eternal life, is nothing but 100% theology.

[Source: http://www.inplainsite.org/html/theology_and_doctrine_i.html]

Doctrine

The word doctrine seems to have become associated with suffocating laws that are designed to severely limit, if not completely take way all people's freedom. Some people who shy away from the word apparently do so because, to them, it smacks of control and domination. Sadly, this is far from the truth. The word "doctrine" comes from from the Latin doctrina, which simply means instruction or teaching.

TheFreeDictionary: "creed or body of teachings of a religious, political, or philosophical group presented for acceptance or belief" [2]

Princeton.edu: a belief (or system of beliefs) accepted as authoritative by some group or school) [3]

In short, doctrine is that which is believed and taught. The doctrine of the church is simply the creed, or body of teachings, the church holds to be true and, therefore, teaches.

Christian doctrine, or the teachings of the Scriptures, answers the fundamental questions of life -- who God is, who we are, why we are here, and what happens to us (if anything) after we die. The conclusions you reach in regard to these questions and others about God, the church, sin, etc is your doctrine (what you believe, and would tell others), which comes from whatever theology, you have been exposed to.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

While "theology" and "doctrine" are inter-related, Christian theology can, and often does, refer to evidence not specifically found in the Scriptures and therefore, cannot be treated as inerrant and infallible. For example, the reasons are put forward in support of the existence of God appeal to both philosophical and logical truths, not explicitly set forth in the Bible. Also any argument for the commonly accepted canon of Scripture involves both logic and historical evidence, neither of which specifically comes from the Bible.

On the other hand, Biblical doctrine is confined to only what is taught in the Bible.

[Source: http://www.inplainsite.org/html/theology_and_doctrine_i.html]

There are some foundational theological terms (and basic doctrine) that everyone should know and understand:

Basic Dictionary of Theological Terms:

http://www.gotquestions.org/theological-definitions.html

http://reformed-theology.org/html/dictiona.htm

http://otgateway.com/articles/termsforincomingseminarians.pdf [PDF]

http://www.fultonrpc.org/definitions.html

https://carm.org/dictionary-theology-0

Regeneration, Justification and Sanctification

https://bible.org/article/regeneration-justification-and-sanctification

See also: Justification and Other Catholic-Protestant Debates

Five Basic Doctrines:

http://www.deceptioninthechurch.com/5doctrines.html

Excerpt:

> 1. The Trinity: God is one "What" and three "Whos" with each "Who" possessing all the attributes of Deity and personality.
>
> 2. The Person of Jesus Christ: Jesus is 100% God and 100% man for all eternity.
>
> 3. The Second Coming: Jesus Christ is coming bodily to earth to rule and judge.
>
> 4. Salvation: It is by grace alone through faith alone in Christ alone.
>
> 5. The Scripture: It is entirely inerrant and sufficient for all Christian life.
>
> The major religions of the world all deny all of these major doctrines. The cults deny one or more, usually more than one and especially the dual nature of Christ. The wolves who pretend to be Christians today involved in the Third Wave, New Wave, New Age counterfeit revival pretend to believe these doctrines but don't let them fool you. By what they teach they also deny one or more of these doctrines, and in fact I have more than one article that proves that many of them deny them ALL by what they teach. These are the most slick and dangerous pretenders of all. I will show by the end of this study which ones they go against, and that it is not just one of the five but ALL FIVE. I have already proven that the men mentioned later are false teachers by quotes, recording transcripts and video and by comparing them with Scripture just like the Bereans compared with Scripture everything Paul was teaching them

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Importance of Studying Doctrine

"I don't need theology. Just give me Jesus!" "No creed but Christ." "Deeds, not creeds."

These are common sentiments, but are they biblical?

When people repeat sayings like "Christianity is a life, not a doctrine," they are either buying into a cultural distaste for claims to absolute truth or pushing back on what they see as a dry, academic approach to the Bible.

Such statements reveal a misunderstanding of what doctrine is. Doctrine is simply a set of accepted beliefs held by a particular group. Biblical doctrine defines the parameters of Christian teaching on a given topic, such as God, sin, salvation, etc.

To study doctrine is to learn essential theological truths for the purpose of embracing them in our lives…

[Source: http://reasonabletheology.org/the-importance-of-doctrine/]

Theology and Biblical Studies - What's the Difference?

http://thesurprisinggodblog.gci.org/2014/01/theology-and-biblical-studies-whats.html

In most seminaries and Bible schools, theology and biblical studies are in separate categories. Yet most lay Christians assume they are the same. In this article we will explain why there is a difference, problems that can arise because of the difference, and how biblical studies and theology can both be better if they work together.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

What is the difference between Biblical Theology and Systematic Theology?

Biblical theology and systematic theology are two different manners of arranging the teaching of the scriptures.

Biblical theology seeks to understand the progressive unfolding of God's special revelation throughout history, whereas systematic theology seeks to present the entire scriptural teaching on certain specific truths, or doctrines, one at a time. Biblical theology is thus historical and chronological in its design; and in fact, a close synonym for biblical theology, at least in its wide-angle task of accounting for all of special revelation, is the term “redemptive history”. Biblical theology is not always pursued in so broad a fashion, however; sometimes, certain themes are approached in a biblical theological manner; for instance, a biblical theology of holy space in worship would seek to understand how that specific motif unfolded in redemptive history, from the beginning of revelation until the end. Another narrower application of biblical theology would be the study of the unfolding of revelation during a specific time period (for example, post-exilic biblical theology); or the study of the development of themes in a particular author (for example, Johannine biblical theology); but ultimately, even these narrower applications are truly biblical-theological in nature only as they seek to advance an understanding of the progression of redemptive history as a whole.

Systematic theology, on the other hand, is laid out, not chronologically, nor with a consideration of the progressive development of doctrines, but thematically, taking into account from the outset the complete form which revelation as a whole has finally assumed. Systematic theology attempts to answer the question, “what is the full extent of the truth that we may know about the doctrine of sin, or salvation, or the Holy Spirit, etc.?”. Hence, systematic theologies progress from the doctrine of the Godhead, or theology proper, to christology, pneumatology, angelology, soteriology, and so on, treating each theme exhaustively.

[Source: https://www.monergism.com/thethreshold/articles/onsite/qna/systembiblical.html]

Question: "What is biblical theology?"

Answer: Biblical theology is the study of the doctrines of the Bible, arranged according to their chronology and historical background. In contrast to systematic theology, which categorizes doctrine according to specific topics, biblical theology shows the unfolding of God’s revelation as it progressed through history. Biblical theology may seek to isolate and express the theological teachings of a specific portion of Scripture, such as the theology of the Pentateuch (first five books of the Old Testament) or the theology contained within John’s writings, etc. Or it may focus on a particular period of time, such as the theology of the unified kingdom years. Another branch of biblical theology may study a particular motif or theme in the Bible: a study of “the remnant,” for example, might search out how that motif is introduced and developed throughout Scripture.

Many credit J. P. Gabler, a German biblical scholar, with beginning the field of biblical theology. As he was being inaugurated to a professorship in 1787, Gabler called for a sharp distinction between dogmatic (systematic or doctrinal) theology and biblical theology. For Gabler, biblical theology must be strictly a historical study of what was believed and taught in the various periods of biblical history, independent of modern denominational, doctrinal, philosophical, or cultural considerations. In general, the principles that Gabler espoused were correct, and he influenced the development of biblical theology for many years to come.

However, it should be noted that there is no such thing as a study of the Bible with complete objectivity. Every interpreter brings certain presuppositions to the task. These biases have considerable influence upon the process of interpreting the Scriptures. As a result, the field of biblical theology is checkered with every imaginable opinion and variation of what the Bible teaches. Biblical theology is utterly dependent upon the hermeneutics of the theologian. The methods employed in interpreting Scripture are crucially important to biblical theology. One's biblical theology can be no better than the methods he uses to interpret Scripture.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Here is a basic difference between systematic and biblical theology: systematic theology asks, "What does the Bible as a whole say about angels?" and then examines every passage that concerns angelic beings, draws conclusions, and organizes all the information into a body of truth called "angelology." The final product is, from Genesis to Revelation, the totality of God's revealed truth on the subject.

Biblical theology asks, "How did our understanding of angels develop throughout biblical history?" and then starts with the Pentateuch's teaching about angels and traces God's progressive revelation of these beings throughout Scripture. Along the way, the biblical theologian draws conclusions about how people's thinking about angels may have changed as more and more truth was revealed. The conclusion of such a study is, of course, an understanding of what the Bible has to say about angels, but it also places that knowledge in the context of the "bigger picture" of God's whole revelation. Biblical theology helps us see the Bible as a unified whole, rather than as a collection of unrelated doctrinal points.

[Source: http://www.gotquestions.org/biblical-theology.html]

Additional Resources:

The Christian and Knowledge: Theology and Doctrine. Part I http://www.inplainsite.org/html/theology_and_doctrine_i.html

Dogma, Doctrine, and Theology: What Are They? [Catholic]
http://jimmyakin.com/dogma-doctrine-and-theology-what-are-they

Christian Doctrine and Theology https://carm.org/christian-doctrine

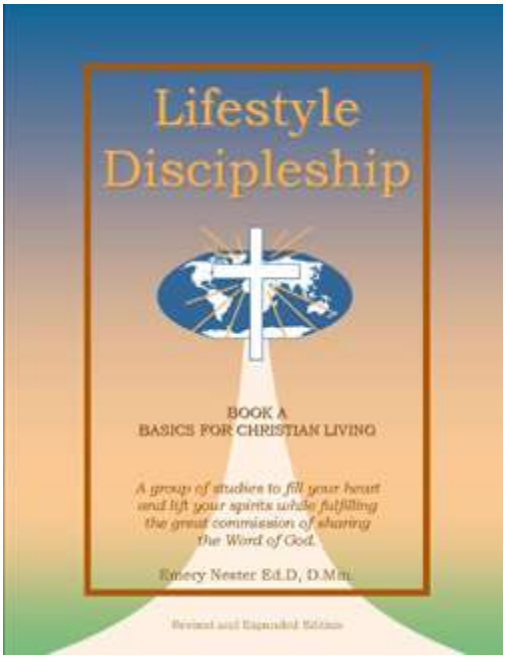
Doctrine (Definition)
http://www.biblestudytools.com/dictionary/doctrine/

Christian Theolog (Wikipedia)
https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Christian_theology

Basic Christian Doctrine (Faith Bible Church)
http://www.faithbibleonline.net/basic-christian-doctrine/



Systematic Theology (Theopedia)
http://www.theopedia.com/systematic-theology

What is the difference between 'Biblical' and 'Systematic' theology? (Forum)
http://christianity.stackexchange.com/questions/4000/what-is-the-difference-between-biblical-and-systematic-theology

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Self-Study Course (free/online/downloadable)

Bible.org – Lifetyle Discipleship

Lifestyle Discipleship is the theme of this group of studies.

This is Book A: Basics for Christian Living, which is the 1st book in the four-book series.

It is the author's goal that you might catch the vision of an old principle taught in Scripture (Discipleship), and utilized in the early church, that you might integrate it into your life for ministry until the day you go to be with the Lord. We hope that with these helps you will be able to use the materials with maximum effectiveness. They have been prepared sacrificially and with great care over approximately thirty years. They certainly are not perfect, but we feel with adequate commitment on the part of disciple and discipler, you will find that they meet your particular need for growth in your development.

The central teaching device as far as the materials are concerned are the worksheets. These have been put together in a way that becomes self-instructional and you can learn from them on your own. Absolutely correct answers to every question, or filling in blanks with exact wording is not crucial. Because of this, there is no answer manual. The discipler and disciple can adequately work out the responses that will be appropriate. The sessions as outlined in the module of material, if followed weekly as assigned, will take a person about a eighteen months to finish. It is unlikely, however, that it will proceed with no interruptions.

You can download the entire books in PDF and work through each corresponding session…

Book A in this series may be found here. Basics for Christian Living Book B in this series may be found here. Tools for Christian Growth Book C in this series may be found here. Beginning Your Ministry Book D in this series may be found here. Building Your Foundation

For Example:
Book D, Session 49:
Introduction to Doctrine, Theological Hierarchy
https://bible.org/seriespage/49-introduction-doctrine-theological-hierarchy

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

More study resources:

Bible Instruction

http://www.gospelway.com/instruct/index.php

Doctrine Matters – John Piper [Book, Downloadable]

http://www.desiringgod.org/books/doctrine-matters

Doctrine Matters is the theological summary of one preacher's lifetime of investment in a local church. Completing three decades of pastoral ministry at Bethlehem Baptist, John Piper gave a final sermon series on the doctrinal emphases from his years of preaching. These ten emphases, delivered as ten sermons in 2012 and now edited into this volume, embody the legacy Piper hopes to leave.

But don't think that these messages are the memoirs of a retired pastor. You don't store these truths away to collect dust. The vision of God in these pages doesn't take a pat on the head—it turns the world upside down.

These doctrines are, as Piper says, "wildly untamable, explosively uncontainable, and electrically future-creating." They make a difference. When you read these truths and immerse yourself in this biblical vision of our great God, you will want to act. You will want to build something. You will want to start things. You will be compelled to dream big and risk bigger for the glory of Jesus Christ. And we pray for nothing less.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: LY]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Some Doctrine Comparisons of Three Major Christian Belief Systems

Topic	Lutheranism	Calvinism	Arminianism
Human will	Total Depravity without free will until spiritual regeneration	Total Depravity without free will permanently due to the nature of divine sovereignty	Total depravity, with prevenient grace, does not preclude free will
Election	Unconditional election to salvation only	Unconditional election to salvation with those outside the elect foreordained to damnation (double-predestination)	Conditional election on the basis of foreseen faith or unbelief
Justification	Justification of all people made available at Christ's death	Justification is limited to those predestined to salvation, completed at Christ's death	Justification made possible for all through Christ's death, but only completed upon placing faith in Jesus (hypothetical universalism)
Conversion	Monergistic, through the means of grace, resistible	Monergistic, through the inner calling of the Holy Spirit, irresistible	Synergistic, resistible due to the common, sufficient grace of free will
Preservation and apostasy	Falling away is possible, but reflection on one's faith provides assurance of preservation	Perseverance of the saints: the eternally elect in Christ will necessarily persevere in faith and subsequent holiness until the end	Preservation is conditional upon continued faith in Christ; reflection on one's faith provides assurance

[See following page for enlarged version in landscape mode]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Topic	Lutheranism	Calvinism	Arminianism
Human will	Total Depravity without free will until spiritual regeneration	Total Depravity without free will permanently due to the nature of divine sovereignty	Total depravity, with prevenient grace, does not preclude free will
Election	Unconditional election to salvation only	Unconditional election to salvation with those outside the elect foreordained to damnation (double-predestination)	Conditional election on the basis of foreseen faith or unbelief
Justification	Justification of all people made available at Christ's death	Justification is limited to those predestined to salvation, completed at Christ's death	Justification made possible for all through Christ's death, but only completed upon placing faith in Jesus (hypothetical universalism)
Conversion	Monergistic, through the means of grace, resistible	Monergistic, through the inner calling of the Holy Spirit, irresistible	Synergistic, resistible due to the common, sufficient grace of free will
Preservation and apostasy	Falling away is possible, but reflection on one's faith provides assurance of preservation	Perseverance of the saints: the eternally elect in Christ will necessarily persevere in faith and subsequent holiness until the end	Preservation is conditional upon continued faith in Christ; reflection on one's faith provides assurance

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Character of God

“Without faith it is impossible to please [God]” (Heb 11:6)—but it is also impossible to have faith in God without knowing the character of God . Faith is belief in God's promises, which in turn are grounded in his character.

Ways in Which God Reveals Himself

God has revealed himself primarily in four overlapping ways: (1) actions; (2) names; (3) images; and (4) attributes, as seen in the Chart . God reveals himself through actions, names, and images because they carry vivid, experiential, creative, and situational power. However, it is God's attributes that are the fundamental descriptions of who he is.

Means of Revelation	Examples
actions	creating, judging, redeeming names	• “ LORD ” (Hb. YHWH , or Yahweh) • “God Almighty” (Hb. el Shadday) • “Master, Lord” (Hb. ‘Adon)
images	Father, Rock, Husband, Shepherd attributes	holiness, goodness, love, grace, wrath

Actions of God

God shows who he is in what he does. In creating the world, God shows his power, wisdom, beauty, goodness, and prodigious creativity. After the creation of humanity God talks to, walks with, and seeks out humans, even when they lapse into rebellion against him, showing that he is relational, personal, engaged, and caring. God demonstrates his holiness, wrath, and justice when he curses human rebellion in the garden and judges the unrighteous through the flood in Noah's day. He shows his grace and mercy in establishing a covenant with Noah and Abraham. In sending his Son to live and die for humanity, he shows amazing love and compassion. Whenever God acts, we see his character displayed.

Names of God

God offers his name as a personal introduction and as a window into his character. This is why David says, “Those who know your name put their trust in you” (Ps 9:10). To know his name is to know he is trustworthy. God's act of naming himself is a profoundly gracious act of accommodation and engagement.

Among the many names for God in the Bible, there is none more important than Yahweh (translated “LORD”), a name that was revealed to Moses at the burning bush (Ex 3:15). Linguistically related to the verb “I am,” Yahweh is packed with theological import. It most likely communicates God's self-existence, independence, self-sufficiency, eternality, and unchanging character. These transcendent qualities are powerfully complemented when God also tells Moses to refer to him as “the God of your fathers” (Exodus 3:15). God is both majestic and intimate, the great, eternal “I am,” the God who knows his children by name and keeps his covenant promises. Christian worship, discipleship, and preaching must maintain both healthy fear of the Lord and freedom and confidence in his presence.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Another striking and revealing name for God is “Jealous” (Heb. 'El qana'). God tells Moses that he is so jealous for his glory expressed in the faithfulness of his people that “Jealous” is an appropriate name for himself. The reason God gives for his commandment against idolatry is grounded in his character as a jealous God: “For you shall worship no other god, for the LORD, whose name is Jealous, is a jealous God” (Ex 34:14). God deserves and demands absolute, exclusive loyalty and hates spiritual adultery. In his jealous love he refuses to allow his people to be supremely devoted to anything but himself. Because he is absolutely worthy of worship, allowing his people to love anything more than him would compromise his justice and love.

Images of God

Images of God are analogies from daily life that serve to illustrate his attributes. Among many other images, God is: Father, King, Consuming Fire, Judge, Husband, Shepherd, Potter, Farmer, Refiner, Landowner, Lion, Bear, Light, Water, Tower, and Lamb! These amazingly diverse descriptions from a multitude of human experiences offer pictures of God that reach minds and hearts in ways that abstract definitions do not. Images, like attributes and names, must be considered in relation to one another. If certain images are emphasized at the expense of others, God's character will be misunderstood. The varied images in the Bible are all complementary to each other, and each is vital for understanding God. For example, God as the Rock points out his strength, stability, and justice, while God as Husband gives insight into his loving, faithful, committed heart for his covenant people.

The image of God as a Rock is used in both OT and NT. Deuteronomy 32 especially highlights God as Rock in light of Israel's unfaithfulness: “You were unmindful of the Rock that bore you, and you forgot the God who gave you birth” (Deut 32:18 ; cf. Deut 32:4 , 13 , 15 , 30 , 31 , 37). Paul uses this image as a title of strength and applies it to Christ in 1 Corinthians 10:4: “and all drank the same spiritual drink. For they drank from the spiritual Rock that followed them, and the Rock was Christ.” Although the Rock (Hb. tsur) of Deuteronomy 32 is Yahweh, Paul applies the same title to Jesus. The Rock that followed and provided for the Israelites in the wilderness in the old covenant was the Christ who provides for the Corinthian believers in the new covenant. The Rock in the wilderness shares the same attributes as the Rock of the table, cup, and bread.

The strength and stability of the rock imagery is beautifully complemented by the tender, compassionate image of God as the Husband of his people. “For your Maker is your husband, the LORD of hosts is his name; and the Holy One of Israel is your Redeemer, the God of the whole earth he is called” (Isa 54:5 ; cf. Jer 2:2 ; Hosea 1-3). God's relational involvement with his people is so intimate and personal that he is jealous when his people are unfaithful. God speaks with the jealous voice of a husband who has been betrayed by an adulterous wife: “Surely, as a treacherous wife leaves her husband, so have you been treacherous to me, O house of Israel, declares the LORD” (Jer 3:20). The idea of God as a rock could lead to impersonal, static, cold conceptions, were it not for the intensely loving, engaged husband imagery. The marriage metaphor could reduce God to being weak, vulnerable, and pathetic if not for images like a rock (and a king, warrior, fire, etc.). Images of God bring his attributes from being mere abstractions into vivid clarity because they are based on our experiences of life.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Attributes of God

The attributes of God are the normative descriptions that images, names, and actions illuminate from different perspectives. His attributes are his essential characteristics that make him who he is. God's attributes are typically classified as either incommunicable or communicable. Incommunicable attributes are not shared by humans as are communicable attributes. The attributes can be organized using the classifications shown in Incommunicable Attributes and Communicable Attributes.

Incommunicable Attributes

Independence (self-existence, self-sufficiency, aseity)
Unchangeableness (immutability)
Eternity
Omnipresence
Unity (simplicity)

Communicable Attributes

Attributes Describing God's Being Spirituality
Indivisibility

Mental Attributes
Knowledge (omniscience)
Wisdom
Truthfulness (faithfulness)

Moral Attributes
Goodness
Love
Mercy (grace, patience)
Holiness
Peace (or order)
Righteousness or Justice
Jealousy
Wrath

Attributes of Purpose
Will Freedom
Omnipotence (sovereignty)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Summary Attributes
Perfection
Blessedness
Beauty Glory

The Unity of God

This list of classified attributes of God can be helpful in developing an organized perspective on God's character. However, his character cannot be reduced to a quantifiable list of properties. Maintaining the unity of God's attributes is essential in the study of his character. His unity means that although we experience certain attributes more clearly at certain times, nevertheless, his attributes are not divided into parts and must always be understood interdependently. His attributes are not petals on a flower to be plucked off and viewed in isolation from the rest. The unity of God requires finite creatures to pursue a holistic understanding of him. When God expresses judgment and wrath, he does not cease to be merciful, patient, or kind in that moment. He never expresses certain attributes at the expense of others. Fallen humans tend to emphasize attributes that affirm our personal inclinations, experience, and contemporary sensibilities. Considering God's attributes independently of each other leads to unbalanced idolatrous conceptions of God. A biblically integrated understanding of God involves, along with a list of attributes, the work of the Spirit, the whole counsel of God's Word accurately interpreted, the input of church history, and the input of believers from diverse cultures.

Examples of Application to Life

The two Charts labeled “Practical Implications ” offer a brief survey of some of God's attributes. Each section of the Charts provides a basic definition of an attribute (based on Wayne Grudem's Systematic Theology), a key passage of supporting Scripture, and one basic implication for daily life.

Practical Implications of the Incommunicable Attributes of God

Attribute	Scripture	Implication
Independence: God does not need us or the rest of creation for anything, yet we and the rest of creation can glorify him and bring him joy.	“The God who made the world and everything in it, being Lord of heaven and earth, does not live in temples made by man, nor is he served by human hands, as though he needed anything, since he himself gives to all mankind life and breath and everything” (Acts 17:24-25 ; cf. Ex 3:14 ; Job 41:11 ; Ps 50:9-12 ; 90:2).	God never experiences need, so serving God should never be motivated by the thought that he needs us. He is the provider in everything.
Immutability: God is unchanging in his being, perfections, purposes, and	“For I the LORD do not change; therefore you, O children of Jacob, are not consumed” (Mal	God can always be trusted because he always keeps his word, promises, although as he acts in response to different situations he feels emotions.	3:6; for “being,” cf. Ps 102:25-27; Mal 3:6; James 1:17; for “purposes,” cf. Ps 33:11; Isa 46:9-11; for “promises,” cf. Num 23:19; Rom 11:29).	and is never capricious or moody.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Eternity: God has no beginning or end and is in no way bound by time, although he sees events and acts in his world in time, which is in fact one dimension of the created order.	“Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever you had formed the earth and the world, from everlasting to everlasting you are God” (Ps 90:2 ; cf. Ex 3:14 ; Job 36:26 ; Ps 90:4 ; Isa 46:9-10 ; John 8:58 ; 1 Tim 6:16 ; 2 Pet 3:8 ; Jude 24-25 ; Rev 1:8 ; 4:8).	Those who trust the God of eternity can know peace, rest, and comfort in the busyness of life and in spite of impending death, for God keeps them in safety and joy forever.
Omnipresence: God does not have spatial dimensions and is present everywhere with his whole being, though he acts differently in different situations.	“Am I a God at hand, declares the LORD, and not a God far away? Can a man hide himself in secret places so that I cannot see him? declares the LORD . Do I not fill heaven and earth?” (Jer 23:23-24; cf. 1 Kings 8:27; Ps 139:7-10; Isa 66:1-2; Acts 7:48-50).	God can be sought anywhere regardless of place. Believers should never feel lonely, and the wicked should never feel safe.

Practical Implications of the Communicable Attributes of God

Attribute	Scripture	Implication
Holiness: God is absolutely and uniquely excellent above all creation (majesty) and without sin (purity).	“And the four living creatures, each of them with six wings, are full of eyes all around and within, and day and night they never cease to say, ‘Holy, holy, holy, is the Lord God Almighty, who was and is and is to come!’” (Rev 4:8; for “majestic holiness,” cf. Ex 15:11; 1 Chron 16:27-29; Isa 57:15; for “moral holiness,” cf. Isa 5:16; 6:1-8; Acts 3:14; Heb 7:26).	God should be feared and obeyed, and his people should earnestly pursue moral purity.
Omnipotence: God is able to do all his holy will.	“Remember the former things of old; for I am God, and there is no other; I am God, and there is none like me, declaring the end from the beginning and from ancient times things not yet done, saying, ‘My counsel shall	God's ultimate will is never frustrated by evil, so there is peace and confidence in the face of suffering for those who trust God.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

	stand, and I will accomplish all my purpose'" (Isa 46:9-10 ; cf. Ex 6:3 ; Job 37:23 ; 40:2 ; 42:1-6 ; Ps 24:6 ; 33:10-11 ; 91:1 ; Dan 4:34-35 ; Matt 28:18).
Sovereignty: God has absolute rule over creation as King and total control and determination over all that happens.	"His dominion is an everlasting dominion, and his kingdom endures from generation to generation; all the inhabitants of the earth are accounted as nothing, and he does according to his will among the host of heaven and among the inhabitants of the earth; and none can stay his hand or say to him, 'What have you done?'" (Dan 4:34-35 ; cf. 1 Chron 29:11-13 ; Ps 22:28 ; 24:1 ; 47:7-9 ; 103:19 ; Prov 16:19 , 21 , 33 ; Dan 4:25 ; 7:1-28 ; 12:1-13 ; Matt 6:13 ; 10:29 ; Acts 17:26 ; Eph 1:11 ; 1 Tim 6:15 ; James 1:13-15).	Mankind should obey and submit to God as humble subjects of his kingdom.
Omniscience: God fully knows himself and all things actual and possible—past, present, and future.	"Whenever our heart condemns us, God is greater than our heart, and he knows everything" (1 John 3:20 ; cf. Job 28:24 ; 37:16 ; Ps 139:1-3 ; 147:5 ; Isa 55:8-9 ; Matt 10:29-30 ; Rom 11:33-34 ; 1 Cor 2:10-11 ; Heb 4:13).	All God's thoughts and actions are perfectly informed by perfect knowledge, so he is perfectly trustworthy.
Wisdom: God always knows and chooses the best goals and the best means to those goals. Wisdom is a moral as well as an intellectual quality.	"Blessed be the name of God forever and ever, to whom belong wisdom and might" (Dan 2:20 ; cf. Job 9:4 ; 12:13 ; Ps 104:24 ; Rom 11:33 ; 16:27 ; 1 Cor 1:21-29 ; Eph 3:10-11).	God's wisdom is not always clear to us, but it is great, deep, valuable, and should be highly desired and sought, and we should not doubt its reality even in circumstances that upset us.
Love: God freely and eternally gives of himself. The ultimate historical demonstration of God's love is seen in the cross of Christ.	"Anyone who does not love does not know God, because God is love. In this the love of God was made manifest among us, that God sent his only Son into the world, so that we might live through him. In this is love, not that we have loved God but that he loved us	God is eager to extravagantly give of himself to meet the needs of lost sinners, so they should flee to him with confidence (cf. Rom 8:32).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

	and sent his Son to be the propitiation for our sins" (1 John 4:8-10; cf. John 3:16 ; 15:13; 17:24; Rom 5:8; 8:31-39; Gal 2:20; 1 John 3:16; 4:16).
Wrath: God intensely hates and responds with anger to all sin and rebellion. God hates every threat to what he loves.	"Then the kings of the earth and the great ones and the generals and the rich and the powerful, and everyone, slave and free, hid themselves in the caves and among the rocks of the mountains, calling to the mountains and rocks, 'Fall on us and hide us from the face of him who is seated on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb'" (Rev 6:15-16; cf. Ex 34:7; Rom 1:18; 2:4 ; 2 Cor 5:10; 2 Thess 1:5; 2 Pet 3:9).	God should be greatly feared. Unbelievers should fear his judgment and turn to Christ for salvation. Believers should fear God's fatherly discipline. The God who loves us is also the holy God who hates sin (1 Pet 1:17).

God's Attributes Are Seen Most Clearly in Christ

Jesus Christ is the most definitive revelation of all of these attributes. To see God's character we look ultimately to God incarnate: "For God, who said, 'Let light shine out of darkness,' has shone in our hearts to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ" (2 Cor 4:6). In the cross of Christ all God's major attributes are displayed in condensed lucidity. His wrath, grace, justice, mercy, sovereignty, goodness, love, holiness, compassion, wisdom, and power meet there for the world to see. When discussions of God's attributes become esoteric and sterile, it is the face and cross of Christ that restores radical clarity, reality, and compelling beauty.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Consistent Characteristics of God from OT to NT

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Case for the Existence of God

www.ColdCaseChristianity.com www.str.org

(1) The Temporal Nature of the Cosmos (Cosmological)

(a) The Universe began to exist
(b) Anything that begins to exist must have a cause
(c) Therefore, the Universe must have a cause
(d) This cause must be eternal (uncaused), non-spatial, immaterial, atemporal, and personal (having the ability to willfully cause the beginning of the universe)
(e) The cause fits the description we typically assign to God

(2) The Appearance of Design (Teleological)

(a) Human artifacts (like watches) are products of intelligent design
(b) Many aspects and elements of our universe resemble human artifacts
(c) Like effects typically have like causes
(d) Therefore, it is highly probable the appearance of design in the Universe is simply the reflection of an intelligent designer
(d) Given the complexity and expansive nature of the Universe, this designer must be incredibly intelligent and powerful (God)

(3) The Existence of Objective Moral Truth (Axiological)

(a) There is an objective (transcendent) moral law
(b) Every law has a law giver
(c) Therefore, there is an objective (transcendent) moral law giver
(d) The best explanation for this objective (transcendent) law giver is God

(4) The Existence of Absolute Laws of Logic (Transcendent)

(a) The laws of logic exist
    i. The laws of logic are conceptual laws
    ii. The laws of logic are transcendent
    iii. The laws of logic pre-existed humans
(b) All conceptual laws reflect the mind of a law giver
(c) The best and most reasonable explanation for the kind of mind necessary for the existence of the transcendent, objective, conceptual laws of logic is a transcendent, objective, eternal Being (God)

(5) The Unique Nature of Our World and Universe (Anthropic)

(a) Our universe appears uniquely designed so:
    i. Life can exist
    ii. This same life can examine the universe
(b) This unique design cannot be the result of random chance or unguided probabilities
(c) There is, therefore, a God who designed the universe to support human life and reveal His existence as creator of the Cosmos

COLD-CASE CHRISTIANITY:
A Homicide Detective Investigates the Claims of the Gospels

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Historic Heresies Related to God the Father

www.ColdCaseChristianity.com

Marcionism (2nd Century)
Marcionites believed the God of the Old Testament was a God of Wrath and judgment who could not be reconciled with the God of mercy described in the New Testament. They rejected all the Gospels but the Gospel of Luke.

Leader(s) in the Heresy:
Marcion of Sinope at Rome (110 – 160AD)
Corrector(s) of the Heresy:
Tertullian wrote a five-book treatise against the heresy called, "Adversus Marcionem"

Monarchianism (2nd and 3rd Century)
Monarchianism taught either (1) the Father was God and the Jesus was only a man (Dynamic), or (2) the Father, the Son, and the Spirit were different "modes" of the same God (Modal).

Leader(s) in the Heresy:
Theodotians (190 AD) and Paul of Samosata (260AD) taught Dynamic Monarchianism, and Praxeas (200AD) taught Modal Monarchianism
Corrector(s) of the Heresy:
Tertullian wrote against this heresy in his tract, "Adversus Praxean" (213AD)

Sabellianism (3rd Century)
This heresy, a form of modalistic Monarchianism, taught the Father, Son and Holy Spirit were different modes of one God (in relationship to man), rather than three distinct persons (in objective reality). Jesus Christ and God the Father were two aspects or offices of one person.

Leader(s) in the Heresy:
Sabellius, a Roman priest and theologian (215AD?)
Corrector(s) of the Heresy:
Tertullian and Demetrius (Patriarch of Alexandria) wrote against the heresy

Manichaeism (3rd Century)
This heresy merged a number of world religious systems. Much like Gnosticism, it claimed the "gnosis" (hidden, esoteric knowledge) could be discovered intellectually or when revealed by messengers like Buddha, Jesus and Mani (the founder of the heresy). Jesus was not God in this system, but just another source of gnosis.

Leader(s) in the Heresy:
Mani, of Babylon (210 – 276AD)
Corrector(s) of the Heresy:
Roman Emperor Theodosius I declared it to be heretical and Augustine of Hippo (who was once himself a Manichaean), wrote against it.

Socinianism (16th and 17th Century)
This heresy denied the Triune nature of God. It claimed God was one and the Holy Spirit was simply God's power. It denied the pre-existence of Jesus, His incarnation and Deity (it taught Jesus was just a man who was later deified as a "lower" god). Socinites did not believe Jesus saved us on the cross, but rather provided us an example of self-sacrifice.

Leader(s) in the Heresy:
Laelius Socinus (died 1562AD) and Faustus Socinus (died 1604AD)
Corrector(s) of the Heresy:
A form of Psilanthropism (a heresy advocating Jesus was merely a man), heresies similar to Socinianism were condemned in the First Council of Nicaea in 325AD

COLD-CASE CHRISTIANITY:
A Homicide Detective Investigates the Claims of the Gospels

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Sin – What is it?

A Theology of Sin – What is Sin? (Note: This is coming from a Weslyan perspective)
http://www.eternalsecurity.us/what_is_sin.htm

Excerpt:

Sin, as one doctrine of the Christian system, is the common denominator of the other doctrines.

Richard S. Taylor makes this point at the outset of his classic work, A Right Conception of Sin. [1] His argument is that any doctrine that relates to sin, is effected by our understanding and definition of sin. Most errors in theology can usually find their roots in a defective definition of sin. This I have found to be profoundly true. We have two key players in theology, and one main problem: We have God; we have man; and we have the problem of sin. All systematic theology comes down to this reduction.

We find in theology that God is holy, and that this holiness prevents God from being able to have the relationship with man that He desires. Man, on the other hand, is separated from God because of sin. Man can do nothing in the way of reconciling or mending the relationship, so God must be the One to find a way to bring us both together. God's holiness is spurned on by His love to make a way. Grace is God's answer through the atonement of Christ on our behalf. This is where most theologians agree. All orthodox theologians will accept these points. So why do we end up so far apart in explaining how this wonderful grace comes our way? Why are we so divided? The answer lays primarily in our definition of sin.

If our definition of sin causes Christians to view things so differently, does this not imply that the problem resides in a faulty view of what sin really is? Instead of tackling the problem of how God saves us through the atonement to determine our definition of sin, wouldn't it be far better to seek a definition of sin before we attempt to determine how the atonement works? Theologians put way too much emphasis on their theological support for their definition of sin. Sin tends to get defined by how we make the atonement work instead of what the Scriptures say that sin is. Circular reasoning makes for great arguments, but those that can differentiate between the facts, and the theories used to support those facts, will find themselves closer to common ground.

What Then Is The

"Biblical"

Definition of Sin?

While it would be desirable to come outright with a definition to work from, I believe it will be of better use to the reader to see that any definition that is arrived at must be based upon an inductive study of Scripture concerning sin.

Much of the difficulty in defining sin is that there is no universal consensus as to what the nature of sin really is. Any definition given will no doubt be scrutinized and summarily rejected by some for this very reason. Even though an attempt will be made to arrive at a usable definition, I fear that many will either outright reject the definition because it does not meet their theological presuppositions, or that a singular definition does not do justice to the whole realm of what sin is. We cannot easily gloss by this most important doctrinal theme and just rely upon our theological pillows for comfort. To have right belief we must have right understanding of fundamental truths.

Sin is generally admitted to be twofold:

1. "In sin did my mother conceive me." Ps. 51:5.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

2. "He that commiteth sin is of the devil." 1 Jn. 3:8.

The first indicating a nature or state we are born with. Some call it original sin, inherited depravity, total depravity, fallen nature, etc. It is thought to be the result of a state in which we all inherit from Adam through birth.

The second type of sin is what we would call actual sin. These are sins committed as an act. It is described as unbelief, rebellion, self-will, unrighteousness, idolatry.

Both types can be described as unclean, impure, unholy.

When one reads of a statement of sin in the Bible, we are confronted with the question as to whether the passage speaks of sin as a state, sin as an act, or both.

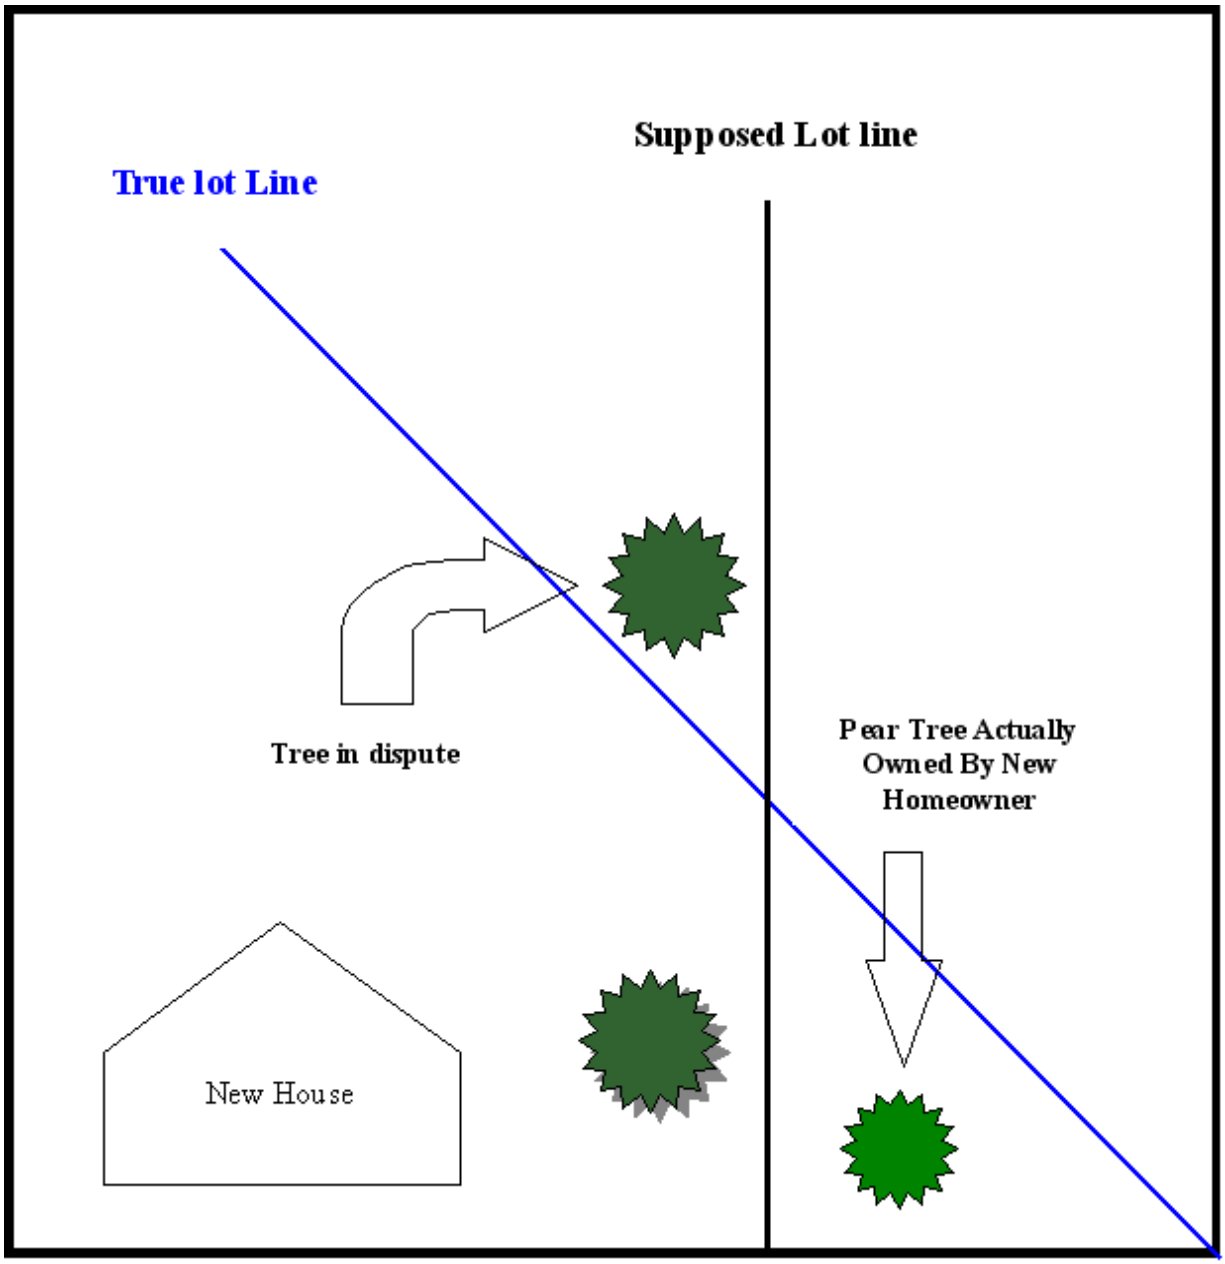
Original sin, depravity, or corrupt nature, is displayed as the state in which all unregenerate people are in before salvation. Some suppose that this means that we are all guilty of the sin of Adam, some see it as something that is acquired through an act of the will after infancy, and others believe that it is an inherited nature in which each of us is born, but does not imply personal guilt for what Adam did. Depravity would not be our fault, it would be our misfortune. This misfortune makes us unfit for heaven, requiring the atonement for cleansing, but not forgiveness. The later of the views is what I see as being brought forth in the Scriptures. This will be covered in greater detail under the heading of The Depravity of Man.

Sin as an act is of more importance to us here and now. It is something that is in the realm of our responsibility, and as such, should be examined to see what, if anything can be done about it.

Two examples of sin as a verb, an act, are presented to see the elements constitute a "sin."

"Sin is the transgression of the law." 1 Jn. 3:4

In this, we see an essential element... transgression of the law.



Secondly we see, "To him, therefore, that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin." James 4:17

In this we see the second element... knowledge of what is wrong, and willfulness to do wrong.

Sin, as an act, is defined by Wesley as "A willful transgression of a known law." This holds to the elements in question. The idea that we gain by this is that sin, as an act of rebellion, requires that one understands that they are doing wrong.

Leslie D. Wilcox gives an example of this in volume 3 of his Profiles in Wesleyan Theology.[2] He gives us an example of a man who buys a house and property. According to his understanding, the property line goes straight back from his house. On what he believes to be his land is a fruit tree, so he picks and takes the fruit. The neighbor sees this, and comes out of his house furious and screaming, accusing his new neighbor of being a thief for stealing his fruit! Unbeknownst to the new neighbor, the property line goes at an angle, and the fruit tree is clearly in the neighbors yard.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The question is, did he sin? According to Wesley's definition he did not (in the sense of an act of rebellion), for it did not carry the essential elements. First, he did not know he was doing wrong. Secondly, he did not willfully violate his neighbor, but yet, to all rights and appearances, the new neighbor broke the law and stole what was rightfully his neighbors. Now, once he was informed of the fact that he violated the law, then he owed his neighbor restitution for his loss.

Now, what if the new neighbor was taking pears from the tree that was on his property, but he thought they were on his neighbors property? Did he sin by taking fruit that was his property? Yes! Sin is a matter of the heart and intent, not necessarily the result of what occurred. If he thought that he was stealing his neighbors pears, he was committing a sin in his own heart, a willful transgression of a known law of God. This illustration helps us to rightfully differentiate between a mistake, an act of ignorance, and a willful act of sin.

This gives us insight into many passages of Scripture such as in 1 Corinthians where a man was involved with incest. Paul, a Jew who knew the Law, was in a pagan land where they knew little or nothing of the Law. Paul constantly remarks with exasperation, "Did you not know?" This is how they could be carnal, yet obedient up to the light that they had about right and wrong. Once informed of the sinfulness of this act, Paul suggests that Church discipline be enacted as to "turn such a one over to Satan." Luke records in Acts 17:30, that, "the times of this ignorance God winked at; but now commandeth all men every where to repent." God views mistakes and "sins" of ignorance differently than willful "high-handed" sins, which is to be seen throughout Scripture. "Sin" as an act is something that the Bible asserts is unavoidable. To remain true to the Scriptures, we must differentiate between intentional sin, and "sins" of ignorance. God reveals that He makes the differentiation, so we must do so also. There is a sin which leads to death (willful sin), and that which does not, (sins of ignorance) 1 John 5:16. This is evident by the context which states, "We know that whosoever is born of God sinneth not; but he that is begotten of God keepeth himself..." 1 John 5:18. There is no subtle endorsement for a doctrine that Christians 'sin in word, thought, and deed everyday,' in this passage or anywhere else in Scripture.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

We also have examples of the Old Testament saints who did things that would be sinful in our understanding of Christian ethics. We need you understand that many of then lived before the Law. Many of them had limited light. We can see now what they did was wrong, but we cannot say in all cases that they knew, and were willfully disobeying God. If it is not stated in Scripture, we have no right to interject willfulness where God has not.

Many already have a bias as to what sin is, and will paint the picture much broader. This idea that God judges according to a man's light and knowledge does not fit in with their current definition of sin. For those of you who feel that way, consider the following: "Jesus said unto them, if ye were blind, ye should have no sin: but now you say, We see; therefore your sin remaineth." John 9:41. "if I had not come and spoken unto them, they had not had sin; but now they have no cloak for their sin." John 15:22. "And that servant, which knew his lord's will, and prepared not himself, neither did according to his will, shall be beaten with many stripes. But he that knew not, and did commit things worthy of stripes, shall be beaten with few stripes." Luke 12:47-48. "Therefore to him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin." James 4;17.

I am sure that the last verse quoted has come into question as to whether that is the meaning of the passage. Most erroneously read sins of omission into the passage. The reference is not speaking of sins of omission, but sins of sinning against known light. Commentator, J.P. Lange says of this passage, "The reference is not to sins of omission, but to sinning against the light and knowledge, to doing evil the knowledge of good not withstanding... the persons, whom James addressed knew well enough that they ought to do good, but separated their knowledge from their practice and did evil. (Lange's Commentary,)[3] James, pages 121-122. This observation caught me off-guard. I had been trained to read sins of omission into the passage: but Lange is right, the context speaks only of sins that they were doing, and not sins of leaving things undone.

It is great that we have a definition to work with, but what makes this definition any better than any other? This is a valid question in which we can derive an answer.

TESTING OF A DEFINITION

To narrow the definition of sin as a act to "a willful transgression of a known law of God," seems to not go far enough for many people. Many choose a definition of, "to deviate in any manner from an absolute standard of perfect behavior." This makes anything less than the perfection of God to be sinful. This definition, although the most commonly used one, makes the Bible out to be a book of absurdities. First, such a definition accuses Adam and Eve of sin in the garden before the fall. Any tripping over a stone, or spilling a drink would deviate from a absolute perfection. Secondly, it generally includes omissions, which condemns our Lord Himself for not healing everybody, for not visiting every prisoner, and for not caring personally for every widow. By such an absolute standard, nobody can do anything right. Doing nothing becomes sin. God does not command us to be God, but godly to the extent that we can in our humanity.

W.T. Purkiser in his book, Conflicting Concepts of Holiness,[4] suggests that we test our definition of sin by taking the verses of the Bible that speak of sin as an act, and inserting our definition in place of the term "sin." If our definition makes sense in place of the word, it is likely a good definition. If it makes the passage to be nonsense, or contradicts the passage, then it is an impossible definition.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Let's put some of the 41 references of sin as a verb to the test. As a reminder, I will state the two alternative definitions again.

Sin is:

Wesley's definition: A willful transgression of a known law of God. (Ethical definition).

Legal definition: To deviate in any manner from an absolute standard of perfect behavior.

Romans 2:12, "For as many as have sinned without law shall also perish without law; and as many as have sinned in the law shall be judged by the law."

Wesley's definition: "For as many as have willfully transgressed a known law of God without law shall also perish without law; and as many as have willfully transgressed a known law of God in the law shall be judged by the law."

Legal definition: "For as many as have deviated in any manner from an absolute standard of perfect behavior without law shall also perish without law; and as many as have deviated in any manner from an absolute standard of perfect behavior in the law shall be judged by the law."

So far, both definitions work, but it makes little sense to why God would inform us of the legal sense, for we could never do anything about such a failure.

Romans 3:23, "For all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God."

Wesley's definition: "For all have willfully transgressed a known law of God, and come short of the glory of God."

Legal definition: "For all have deviated in any manner from an absolute standard of perfect behavior and come short of the glory of God."

Both seem to work here too.

1 Jn.1:10, "If we say that we have not sinned, we make him a liar, and his word is not in us."

Wesley's definition: "If we say that we have not willfully transgressed a known law of God, we make him a liar, and his word is not in us."

Legal definition: "If we say that we have not deviated in any manner from an absolute standard of perfect behavior, we make him a liar, and his word is not in us."

Both work again, but the legal definition appears to border on the lines of being awkward.

Matthew 18:15, "Moreover if thy brother shall trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: if he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother."

Wesley's definition: "Moreover if thy brother shall willfully transgress a known law of God, against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: if he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother."

Legal definition: "Moreover if thy brother shall deviated in any manner from an absolute standard of perfect behavior, against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: if he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother."

The legal definition does not work well here. It is clearly not the intent of the passage.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

John 5:14, "Afterward Jesus findeth him in the temple, and said unto him, Behold, thou art made whole: sin no more, lest a worse thing come upon you."

Wesley's definition: "Afterward Jesus findeth him in the temple, and said unto him, Behold, thou art made whole: willfully transgress a known law of God no more, lest a worse thing come upon you."

Legal definition: "Afterward Jesus findeth him in the temple, and said unto him, Behold, thou art made whole: deviate in any manner from an absolute standard of perfect behavior no more, lest a worse thing come upon you."

The legal definition does not make any sense here either. The fact that in your humanity your next breath is not as perfect as God's, renders you a sinner. How can one who is not God, be commanded by God to be as perfect as God? The ethical definition works without a flaw.

John 8:11, "She said, No man, Lord. And Jesus said unto her, Neither do I condemn thee: go, and sin no more."

Wesley's definition: "She said, No man, Lord. And Jesus said unto her, Neither do I condemn thee: go, and willfully transgress a known law of God no more."

Legal definition: "She said, No man, Lord. And Jesus said unto her, Neither do I condemn thee: go, and deviate in any manner from an absolute standard of perfect behavior no more."

Once again, an impossible command if we use the legal definition.

Romans 6:15, "What then? shall we sin, because we are not under the law, but under grace? God forbid."

Wesley's definition: "What then? shall we willfully transgress a known law of God because we are not under the law, but under grace? God forbid."

Legal definition: "What then? shall we deviate in any manner from an absolute standard of perfect behavior because we are not under the law, but under grace? God forbid."

This is clearly speaking of avoidable sins with the exclamation of "God forbid!" The legal definition makes the passage an absurdity.

1 Corinthians 7:28, "But if thou marry, thou hast not sinned; and if a virgin marry, she hath not sinned..."

Wesley's definition: "But if thou marry, thou hast not willfully transgressed a known law of God; and if a virgin marry, she hath not willfully transgressed a known law of God..."

Legal definition: "But if thou marry, thou hast not deviated in any manner from an absolute standard of perfect behavior, and if a virgin marry, she hath not deviated in any manner from an absolute standard of perfect behavior..."

The legal definition is once again nonsense. It is an impossible definition of the verb "sin."

1 Corinthians 15:34, "Awake to righteousness, and sin not; for some have not the knowledge of God: I speak this to your shame."

Wesley's definition: "Awake to righteousness, and (do not) willfully transgress a known law of God; for some have not the knowledge of God: I speak this to your shame."

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Legal definition: "Awake to righteousness, and (do not) deviate in any manner from an absolute standard of perfect behavior; for some have not the knowledge of God: I speak this to your shame."

Shame because they do not exhibit absolute perfection? Such a remark would be laughed off by any audience! The legal definition fails miserably.

One last one.

1 Timothy 5:20, "Them that sin rebuke before all, that others also may fear."

Wesley's definition: "Them that willfully transgress a known law of God rebuke before all, that others also may fear."

Legal definition: "Them that deviate in any manner from an absolute standard of perfect behavior rebuke before all, that others also may fear."

I don't know about you, but if we take the legal definition as the Biblical definition in this case, then many would have fear; fear of having anything to do with Christianity!

My friends, more can be stated, but even one example proves the legal definition to be an impossibility. Any definition of a word that only works some of the time, and fails to work most of the time, and cannot pass the test of literal and practical application, cannot be the right definition! But people will still cling to their old understanding of what an act of sin is in defiance of the facts. The old definition works for them, it feeds their theology.

What Sin Is Not

Once again, we come full circle to answer our original question. We can gather some clarification of what sin is by observing what it is not. "We hold positively that sin is not only an accident or misfortune, it is not a mere stepping stone in man's moral development, but that it is a condemnable fault. The sinner is blameworthy in the sight of God. Sin has its seat in the will and is an evil thing in the world. When a man opposes his will to the perfect will of God, he is not merely unfortunate, but he is a culpable wrong-doer. He who voluntarily opposes God's will is blameworthy in the sight of God and is liable to punishment."[5] Sin is not merely being human, but is an avoidable thing in which we are held accountable for. Everywhere in Scripture we are exhorted to "sin not." But so many define sin in a way that makes these commands to be utter nonsense! Sin is sin, and reaps the same result. If the standard of what is sin is "anything that deviates from the actual perfection of God," then all we can do is to sin! But God is clear, we are not to sin; we do not have to sin! (Ezek. 3:21; 1 John 2:1). So many in their definition of sin unwittingly create an attitude that murder is as bad as forgetting a promise! To this strange idea of sin, Dr. Phineas F. Bresee remarked that "A failure to distinguish between sin and infirmity, puts an undue emphasis upon sin, and has a tendency to discourage earnest seekers from pressing on to full deliverance from the carnal mind. Calling that sin which is not sin, opens the door to actual sinning".[6] This took a while for it to sink in when I first read it, but I soon realized that it was quite true. If sin is deadly, as we know it is, and everything that falls short of God's perfection is a sin, it is ridiculous to even attempt to try avoid sin, for the very imperfection of your next heartbeat, or your next breath, is not as perfect as what God's would be, and is therefore "sinning." "But to make everything sin is, in effect, to make nothing sin".[7] To make that which is amoral, i.e., forgetfulness, mistakes, unintentional offenses resulting from ignorance, to be "sin," is truly to make "nothing" sin. If we make no differentiation whatsoever, we leave door wide open for allowing all sorts of sin.

Richard S. Taylor states, "Choice of evil, or sin in act, always produces the combination of the three facts, and such a combination always brings forth death.'[8] The "three facts" that Taylor refers to are: "the result of sin? It involves (1) separation from God, (2) depravity of the moral and spiritual nature, and (3) just punishment."[9] Sin is a choice; an avoidable choice. "Sin is a clenched fist and a blow in the face of God,"[10] Otherwise, sin would be merely a misfortune, something in which we are held accountable for when we had no power to choose otherwise. It is clearly an injustice to damn someone for something that they cannot avoid doing. No ability; no responsibility. "If we view the problem scripturally, sin is inexcusable. If it is unavoidable, however, it is excusable. Therefore to say sin is inexcusable is to declare sin to be avoidable."[11] An erroneous doctrine of sin that makes "nothing" to be sin fails miserably, especially in light of the terrible consequences of sin. A wrong idea of what sin really is could easily sink the most devout Christian into despair. The only options left for those that desire to be consistent is to either defy Scripture and allow for sin altogether, or to believe the Scriptures and ensure that their doctrinal understanding of sin is in alignment with the Scriptural possibility of not sinning.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Many are not satisfied with the definition of sin as I have presented. For fear that I may be claiming that "sins of ignorance are not really sins," they will not find that assertion here. Those who do not differentiate between an "act" of sin, and a "mistake" will argue that even sins of ignorance are stated to be in need of atonement in the Scriptures. They will find no disagreement with me that sins of ignorance are truly sins and are in need of atonement! But I will assert that the Scriptures clearly treat "sins of ignorance" differently than "willful acts" of sin. "Certain New Testament passages have a bearing on this matter. One of them is Heb.10:26. "For if we sin deliberately" (RSV); "For if we go on sinning willfully" (NASB); "For if we sin willfully" (KJV); and "If we deliberately keep on sinning" (NIV). This passage implies that we can sin without it being willful and deliberate."[12] But also note that in this passage "unwillful" and "sins of ignorance" are treated completely different from willful and deliberate sinning, especially in its end result! "[E]ven unintentional sins need to be atoned for--or cleansed moment by moment--by Christ. Leviticus 4-5 teaches that such sins need to be atoned for. When a person "sins unintentionally...he is guilty" (4:27), and "When he is made aware of the sin...he must bring...his offering for the sin he committed" (v.28). Likewise in the New Testament, such sins need to be cleansed away. In 1 John 1:7 we read, "But if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship with one another, and the blood of Jesus, his Son, purifies us from all sin." Here, as the believer is "walk[ing] in the light," some things are called "sin." They are so serious that the blood of Jesus Christ needs to cleanse them away. It is to be noted, though, that the word for "purifies" in in the present tense in the Greek. This means that such a believer is cleansed right as the sin occurs..."[13] Note the contrast between 1 John 1:7 and Hebrews 10:26. Deliberate and willful sin is treated with the utmost severity. Sins of ignorance, while still sins that need cleansing, are immediately met with grace. Also note that one can be pure in motive, thereby "walking in the light" yet commit a multitude of unknown and unwillful sins without violating his or her conscience. A "deliberate" sin however, involves rebellion against a known law of God, and is incompatible with "walking in the light." There is no automatic cleansing for those who sin with a "high hand."

Conclusion

We started the examination of sin by attempting to emphasize the importance of finding a Biblical definition. Sin touches nearly every critical facet of theology and must be carefully examined to avoid tainting our theological doctrines. If we assume that it is something that it is not, then we build a tower of theological presumption upon it. Sin is central to the doctrine of salvation and the atonement. This is certainly an area where we cannot afford to be in error; the fate of our eternal souls could hang in the balance!

We have also observed that the most popular concept of sin today is the legal model. It paints the brush broadly, yet leads us to inevitable failure. The nature of sin is not that we fail to succeed in being equal to God, it is the failure to ascend to the capacity that we are able as human beings. Our limited knowledge can lead us to failures, but these failures are not rebellion if the are done so in ignorance. God knows the heart and intent of every person. No one is punished with eternal damnation the sin of Adam, but we all suffer the misfortune of an inherited depravity. This nature we are born with is met with grace to respond, which makes each individual personally accountable.

We also tested the popular idea of sin, and the Wesleyan definition of sin within the context of different passages. The Wesleyan model fits every single passage that uses sin as a verb. Only a small percentage of passages worked with the legal model.

Sin is a choice; an avoidable choice through the grace of God. If it is avoidable, then we are accountable. Sin as an act of the will is to be separated from sins of ignorance, or mistakes. With the exception of including "ignorance" as a sin that always carries the same damaging effect as willful sin, the following definition seems to follow along with the points of this article, and those that have preceded it in this series.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

"Sin is to be defined primarily in relation to God. It is disobedience, unbelief, ignorance, [the idea that "ignorance" is the same as "disobedience or unbelief" I strenuously deny!] and the passive assertion of usurped autonomy, and the wicked deviation from, or violation of, God's righteousness will and law. The breach of a right relationship with God carries with it the disruption of a right relationship with others and the disintegration of the self. But this is a derivative, for it is because of sin against God that there is sin against others and oneself (Ps.51:4)."[14] I can accept many of the finer points of this definition as it relates to the practical aspect of what sin is and does. While it is important to understand what sin is, we must keep in focus that sinning always has some bearing upon our relationship with God and others. Hopefully by realizing this, we will be motivated by love to avoid the damaging effects of sin; but if we cannot be motivated by love, this knowledge should give us a healthy fear of the reality of what our sin does, not only to us, but God and others!

---

1. A Right Conception of Sin, Richard S. Taylor, page 9, Beacon Hill Press, Kansas City, MO. 1945.

2. Profiles In Wesleyan Theology, Leslie D. Wilcox, 3:166, Schmul Publishing Company, Inc., Salem, OH. 1985

3. Lange's Commentary on the Holy Scriptures, John Peter Lange, D.D., Volume 12, James, pages 121-122, Zondervan Publishing House, Grand Rapids, MI. New Edition 1960.

4. Conflicting Concepts of Holiness, W.T. Purkiser, pages 40-48, Beacon Hill Press of Kansas City, Kansas City, MO. Revised edition 1972.

5. Systematic Theology, S. J. Gamertsfelder, D.D., Ph. D., page 413, Evangelical Publishing House, Harrisburg, PA. 1938.

6. Christian Theology, H. Orton Wiley, footnote 2:508, from Bresee's Sermon: Death and Life, Beacon Hill Press, Kansas City, MO, 1952.

7. Exploring Our Christian Faith, W.T. Purkiser editor, page 293, Beacon Hill Press of Kansas City, Kansas City, MO. 1978.

8. A Right Conception of Sin, Richard S. Taylor, page 26, Beacon Hill Press, Kansas City, MO. 1945.

9. A Right Conception of Sin, Richard S. Taylor, page 24, Beacon Hill Press, Kansas City, MO. 1945.

10. A Right Conception of Sin, Richard S. Taylor, page 66, Beacon Hill Press, Kansas City, MO. 1945.

11. A Right Conception of Sin, Richard S. Taylor, page 74, Beacon Hill Press, Kansas City, MO. 1945.

12. A Wesleyan-Holiness Theology, J. Kenneth Grider, page 292, Beacon Hill Press, Kansas City, MO. 1994.

13. A Wesleyan-Holiness Theology, J. Kenneth Grider, page 293, Beacon Hill Press, Kansas City, MO. 1994.

14.The International Standard Bible Encyclopedia revised, Geoffrey W. Bromiley editor, 4:518, William B. Eerdmans Publishing Company, Grand Rapids, MI. 1988

Main Menu: A Theology Of Sin

The Holiness of God

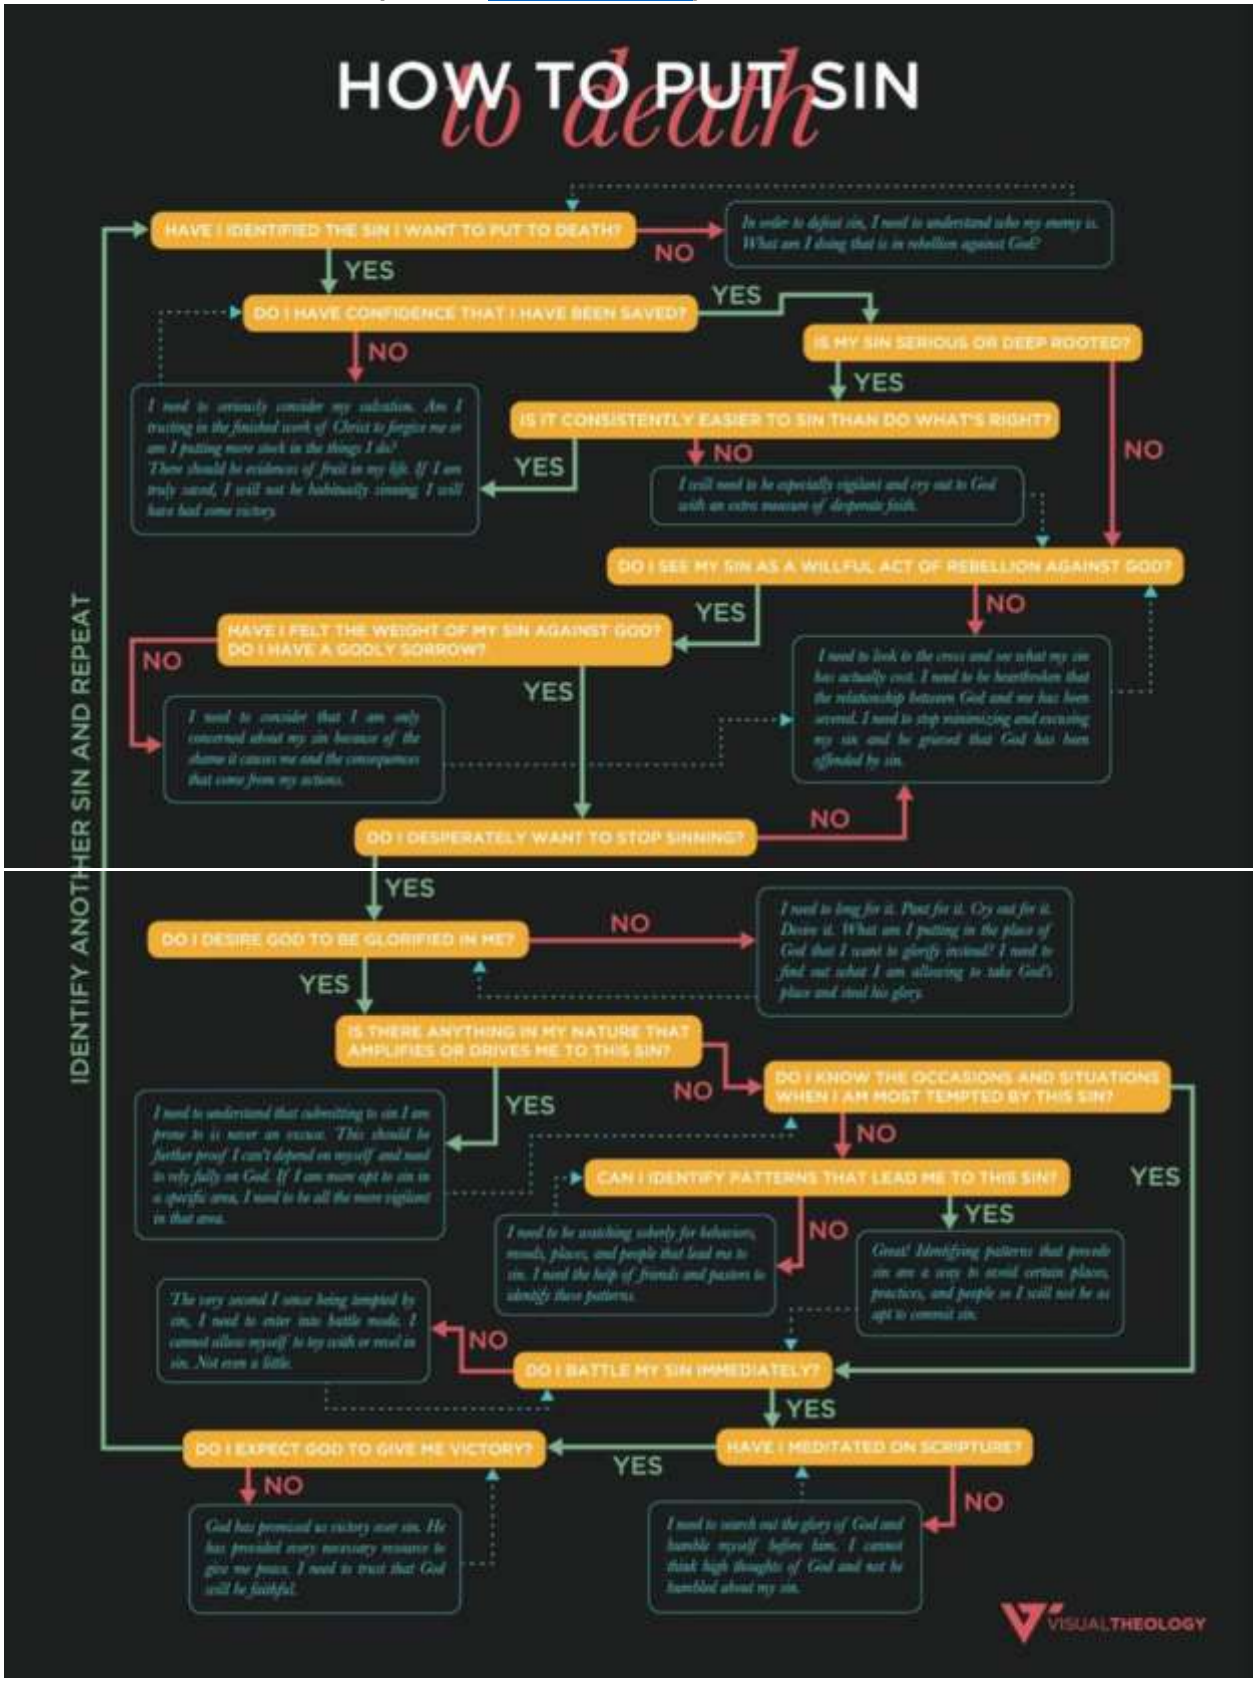
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

What is Sin?

The Wages of Sin

The Depravity of Man

The Grace of God



Sin and the Atonement

Must we Sin?

Chastisement and the Christian

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

How to Put Sin to Death (source: Visual Theology)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Person of Christ

Four statements must be understood and affirmed in order to attain a complete biblical picture of the person of Jesus Christ:

1. Jesus Christ is fully and completely divine .
2. Jesus Christ is fully and completely human .
3. The divine and human natures of Christ are distinct .
4. The divine and human natures of Christ are completely united in one person.

The Deity of Christ

Many passages of Scripture demonstrate that Jesus is fully and completely God:

> In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God . . . . And the Word became flesh and dwelt among us, and we have seen his glory, glory as of the only Son from the Father, full of grace and truth (John 1:1, 14).
>
> No one has ever seen God; the only God, who is at the Father's side, he has made him known (John 1:18).
>
> Thomas answered him, “My Lord and my God!” (John 20:28).
>
> To them belong the patriarchs, and from their race, according to the flesh, is the Christ who is God over all, blessed forever. Amen (Rom 9:5).
>
> Have this mind among yourselves, which is yours in Christ Jesus, who, though he was in the form of God , did not count equality with God a thing to be grasped, but made himself nothing, taking the form of a servant, being born in the likeness of men (Phil 2:5-7).
>
> . . . waiting for our blessed hope, the appearing of the glory of our great God and Savior Jesus Christ (Titus 2:13).
>
> He is the radiance of the glory of God and the exact imprint of his nature, and he upholds the universe by the word of his power (Heb 1:3).
>
> But of the Son he says, “Your throne, O God, is forever and ever.” . . . And, “You, Lord, laid the foundation of the earth in the beginning, and the heavens are the work of your hands” (Heb 1:8, 10).
>
> Simeon Peter, a servant and apostle of Jesus Christ, To those who have obtained a faith of equal standing with ours by the righteousness of our God and Savior Jesus Christ (2 Pet 1:1).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Jesus' Understanding of His Own Deity

Even though the passages cited above clearly teach the deity of Christ, this truth is often challenged. Some say that Jesus never claimed to be God and that these verses were written by his disciples who deified him because of the impact he had on their lives. Jesus, it is claimed, only saw himself as a great moral teacher on a par with other religious leaders. However, Jesus' understanding of his own deity in the Gospels does not support this perspective. He clearly saw himself as God. This can be seen primarily in six ways.

1. Jesus taught with divine authority. At the end of the Sermon on the Mount, “the crowds were astonished at his teaching, for he was teaching them as one who had authority, and not as their scribes” (Matt 7:28-29). The teachers of the law in Jesus' day had no authority of their own. Their authority came from their use of earlier authorities. Even Moses and the other OT prophets and authors did not speak in their own authority, but would say, “This is what the Lord says.” Jesus, on the other hand, interprets the law by saying, “You have heard that it was said. . . . But I say to you” (see Matt 5:22 , 28 , 32 , 34 , 39 , 44). This divine authority is shown with staggering clarity when he speaks of himself as the Lord who will judge the whole earth and will say to the wicked, “I never knew you; depart from me, you workers of lawlessness” (Matt 7:23). No wonder the crowd was amazed at the authority with which Jesus spoke. Jesus recognized that his words carried divine weight. He acknowledged the permanent authority of the law (Matt 5:18) and put his words on an equal plane with it: “For truly, I say to you, until heaven and earth pass away, not an iota, not a dot, will pass from the Law until all is accomplished” (Matt 5:18); “Heaven and earth will pass away, but my words will not pass away” (Matt 24:35).

2. Jesus had a unique relationship with God the Father. When he was a young boy, Jesus sat with the religious leaders in the temple, amazing people with the answers he gave. When his distraught parents finally found their “lost” adolescent, he replied by saying, “Why were you looking for me? Did you not know that I must be in my Father's house?” (Luke 2:49). Jesus' reference to God as “my Father” is a radical statement of a unique, intimate relationship with God, of which he was already fully conscious. Such a reference by an individual was unprecedented in Jewish literature. Jesus took this unique personal address to another level by referring to God the Father using the affectionate Aramaic expression 'Abba' .

3. Jesus' favorite self-designation was the title Son of Man. The phrase “a son of man” could mean merely “a human being.” But Jesus refers to himself as the Son of Man (implying the unique, well-known Son of Man), which indicates that he sees himself as the Messianic Son of Man in Daniel 7 who is to rule over the whole world for all eternity:

> I saw in the night visions, and behold, with the clouds of heaven there came one like a son of man, and he came to the Ancient of Days and was presented before him. And to him was given dominion and glory and a kingdom, that all peoples, nations, and languages should serve him; his dominion is an everlasting dominion, which shall not pass away, and his kingdom one that shall not be destroyed (Dan 7:13-14).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Jesus establishes his divine authority as the glorious Messianic Son of Man by declaring that he has the power to forgive sin and is lord of the Sabbath: "'But that you may know that the Son of Man has authority on earth to forgive sins '—he said to the paralytic—'I say to you, rise, pick up your bed, and go home'" (Mark 2:10-11); "And he said to them, 'The Sabbath was made for man, not man for the Sabbath. So the Son of Man is lord even of the Sabbath '" (Mark 2:27-28).

4. Jesus' teaching emphasized his own identity. Jesus came teaching the kingdom of God, and in it he was the King. His teaching dealt with many topics but was centrally about himself. His question to his disciples, "But who do you say that I am?" (Matt 16:15), is the ultimate question of his ministry.

5. Jesus received worship. Perhaps the most radical demonstration of Jesus' belief that he was God is the fact that when he was worshiped, as he sometimes was, he accepted that worship (Matt 14:33 ; 28:9 , 17 ; John 9:38 ; 20:28). If Jesus did not believe he was God, he should have vehemently rejected being worshiped, as Paul and Barnabas did in Lystra (Acts 14:14-15). That a monotheistic Jew like Jesus accepted worship from other monotheistic Jews shows that Jesus realized that he possessed a divine identity.

6. Jesus equated himself with the Father, and as a result the Jewish leaders accused him of blasphemy:

> But Jesus answered them, "My Father is working until now, and I am working." This was why the Jews were seeking all the more to kill him, because not only was he breaking the Sabbath, but he was even calling God his own Father, making himself equal with God (John 5:17-18).
>
> Jesus said to them, "Truly, truly, I say to you, before Abraham was, I am" [a clear allusion to the sacred divine name of Yahweh; cf. Ex 3:14]. So they picked up stones to throw at him (John 8:58-59).
>
> "I and the Father are one." The Jews picked up stones again to stone him. . . . The Jews answered him, "It is not for a good work that we are going to stone you but for blasphemy, because you, being a man, make yourself God" (John 10:30-33).
>
> Again the high priest asked him, "Are you the Christ, the Son of the Blessed?" And Jesus said, "I am, and you will see the Son of Man seated at the right hand of Power, and coming with the clouds of heaven" [a reference to Daniel 7 ; see point 3]. And the high priest tore his garments and said, "What further witnesses do we need? You have heard his blasphemy. What is your decision?" And they all condemned him as deserving death (Mark 14:61-64).

Implications of Christ's Deity

Because Jesus is God, the following things are true:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

1. God can be known definitively and personally in Christ: “No one has ever seen God; the only God, who is at the Father's side, he has made him known” (John 1:18); “Whoever has seen me has seen the Father” (John 14:9).

2. Redemption is possible and has been accomplished in Christ: “For there is one God, and there is one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus” (1 Tim 2:5).

3. In Christ risen, ascended, and enthroned we have a sympathetic high priest who has omnipotent power to meet our needs: “For we do not have a high priest who is unable to sympathize with our weaknesses, but one who in every respect has been tempted as we are, yet without sin. Let us then with confidence draw near to the throne of grace, that we may receive mercy and find grace to help in time of need” (Heb 4:15).

4. Worship of and obedience to Christ is appropriate and necessary.

Historical Misunderstandings of Christ's Deity

The earliest and most radical denial of the deity of Christ is called Ebionism or Adoptionism, which was taught by a small Jewish-Christian sect in the first century. They believed that the power of God came on a man named Jesus to enable him to fulfill the Messianic role, but that Christ was not God. A later and more influential Christological heresy was Arianism (early 4th century), which denied the eternal, fully divine nature of Christ. Arius (c. 256-336) believed Jesus was the “first and greatest of created beings.” Arius's denial of Jesus' full deity was rejected at the Council of Nicea in 325. At this council, Athanasius showed that according to Scripture Jesus is fully God, being of the same essence as the Father.

The Humanity of Christ

From the moment of Mary's virginal conception of Jesus, his divine nature became permanently united to his human nature in one and the same person, the now incarnate Son of God. The biblical evidence for Jesus' humanity is strong, showing that he had a human body, and a human mind, and experienced human temptation.

Jesus had a human birth and a human genealogy : “But when the fullness of time had come, God sent forth his Son, born of woman, born under the law, to redeem those who were under the law, so that we might receive adoption as sons” (Gal 4:4-5).

Jesus had a human body that experienced growth (Luke 2:40 , 52) as well as physical susceptibilities like hunger (Matt 4:2), thirst (John 19:28), tiredness (John 4:6), and death (Luke 23:46).

As an old man, the apostle John was still in awe of the fact that he had been able to experience God the Son in the flesh. Like an excited child, he keeps repeating himself as he describes the incarnation:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

> That which was from the beginning, which we have heard , which we have seen with our eyes , which we looked upon and have touched with our hands , concerning the word of life—the life was made manifest , and we have seen it , and testify to it and proclaim to you the eternal life, which was with the Father and was made manifest to us—that which we have seen and heard we proclaim also to you, so that you too may have fellowship with us; and indeed our fellowship is with the Father and with his Son Jesus Christ (1 John 1:1-3).

John has known about the incarnation for over 50 years when he writes this letter, yet he still writes with wide-eyed wonder as he reflects on walking the shores of Galilee, fishing, eating, and laughing with, and having his feet washed by, a carpenter who was God in flesh!

Jesus continues to have a physical body in his resurrected state, and he went to great lengths to make sure his disciples realized this: “See my hands and my feet, that it is I myself. Touch me, and see. For a spirit does not have flesh and bones as you see that I have” (Luke 24:39 ; cf. Luke 24:42-43 ; John 20:17 , 25-27). After his resurrection, Jesus returned to the Father by ascending in his divinely reanimated body before his disciples' wondering eyes, thus affirming his ongoing full physical humanity (Luke 24:50-51 ; Acts 1:9-11). The ascension has been included in every important creed of the church because it teaches the enduring complete humanity of Jesus as the only mediator between God and man.

Jesus had a human mind that, according to the will of the Father, had limitations in knowledge: “But concerning that day or that hour, no one knows, not even the angels in heaven, nor the Son, but only the Father” (Mark 13:32). His human mind grew and increased in wisdom (Luke 2:52), and he even “learned obedience” (Heb 5:8-9). To say Jesus “learned obedience” does not mean he moved from disobedience to obedience, but that he grew in his capacity to obey as he endured suffering.

Jesus experienced human temptation : “For we do not have a high priest who is unable to sympathize with our weaknesses, but one who in every respect has been tempted as we are, yet without sin” (Heb 4:15 ; cf. Luke 4:1-2). While Jesus experienced every kind of human temptation, he never succumbed to sin (John 8:29 , 46 ; 15:10 ; 2 Cor 5:21 ; Heb 7:26 ; 1 Pet 2:22 ; 1 John 3:5).

Jesus practiced spiritual disciplines. He regularly prayed with passion (Mark 14:36 ; Luke 10:21 ; Heb 5:7), worshiped at services in the synagogue (Luke 4:16), read and memorized Scripture (Matt 4:4-10), practiced the discipline of solitude (Mark 1:35 ; 6:46), observed the Sabbath (Luke 4:16), obeyed OT ceremonial laws (John 8:29 , 46 ; 15:10 ; 2 Cor 5:21 ; Heb 4:15), and received the fullness of the Spirit (Luke 3:22 ; 4:1). These religious activities were done earnestly (Heb 5:7) and habitually (Luke 4:16) as the means of a truly human spiritual growth process.

Given Jesus' divine nature, the normality of most of his earthly life is staggering. It seems that Jesus spent the first 30 years of his life in relative obscurity, doing manual labor, taking care of his family, and being faithful to whatever his Father called him to do. In his public ministry Jesus performed miraculous signs and delivered authoritative teaching that could only come from God, and this was shockingly offensive for the people of his hometown, who saw Jesus' simplicity and humility as incompatible with messianic wisdom and power:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

> Coming to his hometown he taught them in their synagogue, so that they were astonished, and said, “Where did this man get this wisdom and these mighty works? Is not this the carpenter's son? Is not his mother called Mary? And are not his brothers James and Joseph and Simon and Judas? And are not all his sisters with us? Where then did this man get all these things?” And they took offense at him. But Jesus said to them, “A prophet is not without honor except in his hometown and in his own household” (Matt 13:54-57).

Jesus did not cease to be fully human after the resurrection. He will be a man forever as he represents redeemed humanity for all of eternity (Acts 1:11 ; 9:5 ; 1 Cor 9:1 ; 15:8 ; 1 Tim 2:5 ; Heb 7:25 ; Rev 1:13).

Implications of the Humanity of Christ

Humans have obviously been sinful ever since the fall. Therefore, it is easy to assume that being sinful is an essential, necessary part of being a “human being.” But this is not true. Jesus was human and yet did not sin. The fact that he became man reveals the nature of true humanity. His humanity gives a glimpse of what our humanity would be, were it not tainted with sin. He shows that the problem with humanity is not that we are humans, but rather that we are fallen. Jesus' human nature shows the potential of humanity as God intended. This display of sinless humanity reaffirms God's declaration that creation in all its original dimensions (material and spiritual), including humanity, is by divine definition very good (Gen 1:31).

Jesus' humanity enables his representative obedience for us. “Therefore, as one trespass led to condemnation for all men, so one act of righteousness leads to justification and life for all men. For as by the one man's disobedience the many were made sinners, so by the one man's obedience the many will be made righteous” (Rom 5:18-19). Because Jesus is truly human, his perfect life of obedience and overcoming all temptations—culminating in his perfect substitutionary death—can take the place of human rebellion and failure.

Because of Jesus' humanity, he can truly be a substitutionary sacrifice for mankind. “Therefore he had to be made like his brothers in every respect, so that he might become a merciful and faithful high priest in the service of God, to make propitiation for the sins of the people” (Heb 2:17). A man died on the cross when Jesus died, and his death truly atones for the sin of human beings, whose nature he shared.

Jesus' humanity makes him the only effective mediator between God and man: “For there is one God, and there is one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus” (1 Tim 2:5). Jesus' divine and human natures enable him to stand in the gap between fallen humans and a holy God.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Jesus' humanity enabled him to become a sympathetic high priest who experientially understands the difficult plight of humanity in a fallen world: “For we do not have a high priest who is unable to sympathize with our weaknesses, but one who in every respect has been tempted as we are, yet without sin. Let us then with confidence draw near to the throne of grace, that we may receive mercy and find grace to help in time of need” (Heb 4:15-16 ; cf. Heb 2:18).

Jesus' humanity means he is a true example and pattern for human character and conduct. “For to this you have been called, because Christ also suffered for you, leaving you an example, so that you might follow in his steps” (1 Pet 2:21 ; cf. 1 John 2:6).

Historical Misunderstandings of the Humanity of Christ

A second-century heresy called Docetism denied the true humanity of Christ. Docetism (from the Gk. verb dokeō, “to seem, to appear to be”) was based on the presuppositions of Gnosticism, which held to a radical dichotomy between the physical and spiritual realms, and a very negative view of the physical order as worthless. These beliefs led to denying any real physical substance to Jesus' humanity. Docetic Christology taught that Jesus' physical humanity was just an illusion; one of their statements was that “when Jesus walked on the beach, he left no footprints.” Docetism has devastating effects on the correct view of Christ, salvation, revelation, and creation. In this view, Christ does not represent humanity in his atoning work, nor does he show us God in human form. It also erodes a biblically positive view of creation which leads to either a negative or an indifferent perspective on life in the body. The NT refutes the seeds of what later became Gnosticism, with its Docetic view of Christ. John strongly condemns any view that denies Christ's full, physical humanity: “By this you know the Spirit of God: every spirit that confesses that Jesus Christ has come in the flesh is from God, and every spirit that does not confess Jesus is not from God. This is the spirit of the antichrist, which you heard was coming and now is in the world already” (1 John 4:2).

Apollinarianism was another early heresy that denied Christ's full humanity. Apollinarius (4th century A.D.) believed humans had bodies, animal souls, and rational spirits. He thought the divine logos in Christ took the place of the rational spirit of a human. This view was successfully opposed in the fourth century by Gregory of Nazianzen and Athanasius, and rejected at the Council of Constantinople in A.D. 381. The council showed that if Jesus is only, as it were, two-thirds human, full redemption of fully human people is lost. Gregory's famous quotation was “that which He has not assumed He has not healed; but that which is united to His Godhead is also saved.” Jesus had to assume every element in a human nature in order to fully redeem humanity.

These two heresies teach believers to appreciate the importance of the humanity of Christ as well as provide a lesson on theological method. Both of these views bring presuppositions about humanity to the Bible and conform biblical teaching to them, rather than allowing Scripture to dictate everything, including the presuppositions. Evangelical theological method must always allow the teaching of Scripture to shape theological conclusions rather than transform its teaching on the basis of alien assumptions. Countless theological errors have occurred by imposing human ideas on the Bible.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Distinction and Unity of Christ's Two Natures

Along with Jesus' full deity and humanity, the third and fourth necessary affirmations of biblical Christology are that in the incarnation, the divine and human natures remain distinct, and the natures are completely united in one person. The best evidence of these two realities are passages of Scripture where Jesus' divine glory and human humility are brought together:

> For to us a child is born , to us a son is given ; and the government shall be upon his shoulder, and his name shall be called Wonderful Counselor, Mighty God , Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace (Isa 9:6).
>
> “For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, who is Christ the Lord” (Luke 2:11).
>
> And the Word became flesh and dwelt among us, and we have seen his glory, glory as of the only Son from the Father, full of grace and truth (John 1:14).
>
> . . . concerning his Son, who was descended from David according to the flesh and was declared to be the Son of God in power according to the Spirit of holiness by his resurrection from the dead, Jesus Christ our Lord (Rom 1:3-4).
>
> None of the rulers of this age understood this, for if they had, they would not have crucified the Lord of glory (1 Cor 2:8).
>
> But when the fullness of time had come, God sent forth his Son , born of woman , born under the law, to redeem those who were under the law, so that we might receive adoption as sons (Gal 4:4-5).

These verses present the profound mystery of the eternal, infinite Son of God stepping into time and space and taking on a human nature. There is no greater thought that could ever be pondered than this.

Implications of the Two Natures of Christ

The belief that Jesus is one person with both divine and human natures has great significance for the possibility of fallen people entering into a relationship with God. Christ must be both God and man if he is to mediate between God and man, make atonement for sin, and be a sympathetic high priest:

> For in him all the fullness of God was pleased to dwell, and through him to reconcile to himself all things, whether on earth or in heaven, making peace by the blood of his cross (Col 1:19-20).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

> For there is one God, and there is one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus (1 Tim 2:5).
>
> Therefore he had to be made like his brothers in every respect , so that he might become a merciful and faithful high priest in the service of God, to make propitiation for the sins of the people (Heb 2:17).

In his seminal work Why God Became Man, Anselm of Canterbury (c. A.D. 1033-1109) summarized the importance of the two natures of Christ for his atoning work by saying, “It is necessary that the self-same Person who is to make this satisfaction [for humanity's sins] be perfect God and perfect man, since He cannot make it unless He be really God, and He ought not to make it unless He be really man” (Book II, ch. 7).

Historical Misunderstandings of the Unity of Christ's Natures

There are six historical heresies related to the person of Christ listed in the Chart. The first four heresies are explained above. Nestorianism emphasized the distinction between the natures of Christ so much that Christ was made to appear as two persons in one body. Eutychianism stressed the unity of the natures to the point where any distinction between them was lost, and Christ was thought to be some new entity, with only one nature, greater than mere man while being fully God in a novel way.

Heresies Concerning the Person of Christ

Ebionism	denies the deity of Christ
Arianism	denies the fullness of the deity of Christ
Docetism	denies the humanity of Christ
Apollinarianism	denies the fullness of the humanity of Christ
Nestorianism	denies the unity of the natures in one person
Eutychianism	denies the distinction of the natures

In A.D. 451, leaders of the church assembled at Chalcedon (outside of ancient Constantinople) and wrote a creed affirming both Jesus' full humanity and his full deity, with his two natures united in one person. Hereby all six Christological heresies were rejected. This creed, formulated at Chalcedon, became the church's foundational statement on Christ. The Chalcedonian Creed reads as follows:

> We, then, following the holy Fathers, all with one consent, teach men to confess one and the same Son, our Lord Jesus Christ, the same perfect in Godhead and also perfect in manhood; truly God and truly man, of a reasonable soul and body; consubstantial with the Father according to the Godhead, and consubstantial with us according to the Manhood; in all things like unto us, without sin; begotten before all ages of the Father according to the Godhead, and in these latter days, for us and for our salvation, born of the Virgin Mary, the Mother of God, according to the Manhood; one and the same Christ, Son, Lord, Only-> begotten, to be acknowledged in two natures, inconfusedly, unchangeably, indivisibly, inseparably; the distinction of natures being by no means taken away by the union, but rather the property of each nature being preserved, and concurring in one Person and one Subsistence , not parted or divided into two persons, but one and the same Son, and only begotten, God the Word, the Lord Jesus Christ, as the prophets from the beginning have declared concerning him, and the Lord Jesus Christ himself has taught us, and the Creed of the holy Fathers has handed down to us (emphasis added).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Implications of Chalcedonian Christology

The Chalcedonian Creed teaches the church how to talk about the two natures of Christ without falling into error. In particular, Chalcedon teaches the church to affirm that:

> 1. One nature of Christ is sometimes seen doing things in which his other nature does not share.
>
> 2. Anything that either nature does, the person of Christ does. He, God incarnate, is the active agent every time.
>
> 3. The incarnation is a matter of Christ's gaining human attributes, not of his giving up divine attributes. He gave up the glory of divine life (2 Cor 8:9; Phil 2:6), but not the possession of divine powers.
>
> 4. We must look first to the Gospel accounts of Jesus Christ's ministry in order to see the incarnation actualized, rather than follow fanciful speculations shaped by erroneous human assumptions.
>
> 5. The initiative for the incarnation came from God, not from man.

While this creed does not solve all questions about the mystery of the incarnation, it has been accepted by Roman Catholic, Orthodox, and Protestant churches throughout history, and it has never needed any major alteration because it effectively articulates the biblical tension of Christ's two natures, completely united in one person.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Jesus: Son of God, Son of Man

This sounds like some kind of contradiction at first glance, but in fact there is no contradiction. An examination of Scripture reveals that the phrase “Son of Man” carries broad significance.

First of all, even if the phrase “Son of Man” is a reference to Jesus' humanity, it is not a denial of His deity. By becoming a man, Jesus did not cease being God. The incarnation of Christ did not involve the subtraction of deity, but the addition of humanity. Jesus clearly claimed to be God on many occasions (Matthew 16:16,17; John 8:58; 10:30). But in addition to being divine, He was also human (see Philippians 2:6-8). He had two natures (divine and human) conjoined in one person.

Further, Scripture indicates that Jesus was not denying His deity by referring to Himself as the Son of Man. In fact, it is highly revealing that the term “Son of Man” is used in Scripture in contexts of Christ's deity. For example, the Bible says that only God can forgive sins (Isaiah 43:25; Mark 2:7). But as the “Son of Man,” Jesus had the power to forgive sins (Mark 2:10). Likewise, Christ will return to Earth as the “Son of Man” in clouds of glory to reign on Earth (Matthew 26:63-64). In this passage, Jesus is citing Daniel 7:13 where the Messiah is described as the "Ancient of Days," a phrase used to indicate His deity (cf. Daniel 7:9).

Further, when Jesus was asked by the high priest whether He was the “Son of God” (Matthew 26:63), He responded affirmatively, declaring that He was the “Son of Man” who would come in power and great glory (verse 64). This indicated that Jesus Himself used the phrase “Son of Man” to indicate His deity as the Son of God.

Finally, the phrase “Son of Man” also emphasizes who Jesus is in relation to His incarnation and His work of salvation. In the Old Testament (Leviticus 25:25-26, 48-49; Ruth 2:20), the next of kin (one related by blood) always functioned as the “kinsman-redeemer” of a family member who needed redemption from jail. Jesus became related to us “by blood” (that is, He became a man) so He could function as our Kinsman-Redeemer and rescue us from sin.

Author: Dr. Ron Rhodes of Reasoning from the Scriptures Ministries.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Jesus: Son of God, Son of man.

During Jesus' earthly ministry He sometime demonstrated the qualities of full humanity and sometime the qualities of full diety. For example:

As a man Jesus . . .	As God Jesus . . .
Became weary.	Invited the weary to find rest in Him.
Became hungry.	Presented Himself as the bread of life.
Became thirsty.	Claimed to be the water of life.
Suffered great agony.	Was impervious to suffering and healed the afflictions of others.
Grew in favor with God and man.	Is the same yesterday, today, and forever.
Experienced temptation.	Could not experience temptation.
Said He didn't know some things.	Is omniscient.
Was present in only one place at a time.	Is omnipresent.
Operated in the power of the Holy Spirit.	Operated in His own power and authority.
Said the Father was greater than He.	Claimed that He and the Father are equal.
Prayed.	Received and answered the prayers of others.
Wept at the tomb of the dead.	Raised the dead.
Asked who people said He was.	Knew what people were thinking.
Asked why God had forsaken Him.	Claimed that God was always with Him.
Died.	Is eternal and gives eternal life to those who trust Him.
Was God's ideal man.	Is man's ideal God.

These are some of the paradoxes involved in the dual divine-human natures of Christ following His incarnation. It's because of these paradoxes that we sometimes have difficulty understanding the accounts of Jesus' words and works in the Gospels. He was like no other person, not because He was not fully human but because He was also fully God.

[Source: Dr. Constable Expository Notes – Matthew]
http://www.soniclight.com/constable/notes.htm

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Bible Question: When Jesus refers to Himself as the Son of Man, what does that mean? Why does He say Son of Man and Son of God?

Bible Answer: Both of these expressions describe who Jesus was. Jesus was a man and He was God. He was God in human flesh. The Jehovah's Witnesses, who do not accept that Jesus was God, gain their greatest number of converts from among Protestants. They use verses like,

> For there is one God, and one mediator also between God and men, the man Christ Jesus . . . (NASB) 1 Timothy 2:5

Many Protestants do not understand that Jesus was both God and man. Sometimes scripture has Jesus in view as a man and at other times as God. Here is a passage that has Jesus in view as both God and man.

> . . . the gospel of God, which He promised beforehand through His prophets in the holy Scriptures, concerning His Son, who was born of a descendant of David according to the flesh, who was declared the Son of God with power by the resurrection from the dead, according to the Spirit of holiness, Jesus Christ our Lord, (NASB) Romans 1:1-4

The passage simply says that Jesus had a human birth and He was the Son of God.

Son of Man. The term Son of Man means Jesus was a human. This term was common in the Old Testament for a human. "Son of man" occurs 93 times in the book of Ezekiel and 106 times in the entire Old Testament. It means a person was a human. Here are some examples.

> God is not a man, that He should lie, nor a son of man, that He should repent; Has He said, and will He not do it? Or has He spoken, and will He not make it good? (NASB) Numbers 23:19

> Then He said to me, “Son of man, stand on your feet that I may speak with you!” And as He spoke to me the Spirit entered me and set me on my feet; and I heard Him speaking to me. Then He said to me, “Son of man, I am sending you to the sons of Israel . . . (NASB) Ezekiel 2:1-3

But when we come to the New Testament, the term has an additional meaning. It still means a person who is human, but it is now used as a title for Jesus. Jesus was the ultimate human. He was God in human flesh.

> But in order that you may know that the Son of Man has authority on earth to forgive sins” -- then He said to the paralytic--“Rise, take up your bed, and go home.” (NASB) Matt. 9:6

> For the Son of Man is Lord of the Sabbath. (NASB) Matt. 12:8

> . . . for just as JONAH WAS THREE DAYS AND THREE NIGHTS IN THE BELLY OF THE SEA MONSTER, so shall the Son of Man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth. (NASB) Matt. 12:40

[Source: http://www.neverthirsty.org/pp/corner/read/r00289.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Why Is Jesus Called “Son of Man”?

April 4, 2008 (by John Piper, Topic: The Person of Christ, Series: APJ Radio)

The following is an edited transcript of the audio.

Let me give a common understanding and then a more sophisticated historical understanding.

The common understanding is that "Son of God" implies his deity — which it does — and that "Son of Man" implies his humanity, which it does too.

He was a son of man, that is, a human being. And he is the Son of God, in that he has always existed as the Eternally Begotten One who comes forth from the Father forever. He always has, and he always will. He is the Second Person of the Trinity with all of the divine nature fully in him.

He is born of a virgin. He had a human father but he didn't have sex with this virgin until Jesus was conceived. He was conceived of the Holy Spirit in the virgin Mary. Thus he is human—fully human. The Bible wants to emphasize that he is fully human.

So that's the common understanding: he is both divine and he is human—two natures, one person.

The more sophisticated and important historical insight is that the term "Son of Man" doesn't merely align him with humanity. It is probably taken from Daniel 7. And if you read that chapter you'll see that the Son of Man is a very exalted figure: not just a human figure but an exalted figure. It was Jesus' favorite self-designation.

If you do a study of the term "Son of Man" in the Gospels you'll see that he didn't refer to himself most often as Son of God but as Son of Man. He said things like, in Mark 10:45, "The Son of Man came not to be served but to serve and to give his life as a ransom for many." So he calls himself Son of Man very often.

I think the reason he did so is because, on the face of it, Son of Man is an ordinary phrase for "human being." He was born of a man. And there's no offense there: who isn't a son of man? But those with ears to hear could hear Daniel 7, in which he was claiming a very exalted role in the history of redemption. And he meant to do it.

Jesus was very subtle in that he was always opening his identity to those with eyes to see, but he wasn't opening it so blatantly that everybody would come and make him king. He had to steer a very narrow course in disclosing his identity, not just openly saying, "I'm the Messiah, I'm the King of the World. Come and acknowledge me as King." He didn't talk like that.

He was quiet. He was subtle. And he would make claims that were explicit in certain settings and implicit in others. And only when the time was right—mainly when he was on trial for his life, and they said, "Are you the Christ, the Son of the living God?"—did he say, "I am, and you will see the Son of Man coming with great power and glory." So he confessed his open deity right at the point where he knew he would be crucified for it.

So I hope that helps. "Son of Man" has the double meaning of human being and, according to Daniel 7, exalted heavenly one. And Jesus means to communicate both of those.

[Source: http://www.desiringgod.org/interviews/why-is-jesus-called-son-of-man]

Why Did Jesus Call Himself the Son of Man?

Jesus' favorite designation, in referring to Himself, was the "Son of Man." The Gospels record some seventy-eight times that Jesus used this title for Himself. For example, when He asked His disciples the question about His identity, He said,

> Who do men say that I, the Son of Man, am? (Matthew 16:13).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Though the Bible does not define its exact meaning, the title "Son of Man" probably refers to the fact that Jesus was perfect humanity. He, as God, came down and lived among us as the perfect human being. By doing this, He fulfilled the Law of Moses and did what no other human being was able to do. By using this title, He is identifying with the people He had come to save.

It Is Connected With His Earthly Life

The title is connected with the earthly life of Jesus.

> But so that you may know that the Son of Man has authority on earth to forgive sins - he said to the paralytic (Mark 2:10).

Jesus said

> So the Son of Man is Lord even of the Sabbath (Mark 2:28).

Jesus also said.

> And Jesus said to him, "Foxes have holes and birds of the air have nests, but the Son of Man has nowhere to lay his head (Matthew 8:20)

Jesus gave the reason for His coming to earth.

> For the Son of Man has come to seek and to save that which was lost (Luke 19:10).

It Is Connected With His Sufferings

"Son of Man" is also connected with the sufferings of Jesus on behalf of humanity.

> And he began to teach them that the Son of Man must suffer many things, and be rejected by the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be killed, and after three days rise again (Mark 8:31).

This Speaks Of His Exaltation And Rule

The title "Son of Man" also has to do with his exaltation and rule over humanity.

> When the Son of Man comes in his glory, and all the holy angels with him, then he will sit on the throne of his glory (Matthew 25:31).

Jesus said.

> The Son of Man indeed goes just as it is written of him, but woe to that man by whom the Son of Man is betrayed! It would have been good for that man if he had not been born (Matthew 26:24).

It Is A Messianic Designation

The title "Son of Man" was a designation for the Messiah. The Book of Daniel predicted that the Son of Man would inherit God's everlasting kingdom.

> And behold, one like the Son of Man, coming with the clouds of heaven! He came to the Ancient of Days, and they brought him near before him. Then to him was given dominion and glory and a kingdom, that all peoples, nations, and languages should serve him. His dominion is an everlasting dominion, which shall not pass away, and his kingdom the one which shall not be destroyed (Daniel 7:13,14).

Jesus Employed The Designation At His Trial

When Jesus was on trial and was asked if He were the Messiah, He referred to this prediction:

> It is as you said. Nevertheless, I say to you, hereafter you will see the Son of Man sitting on the right hand of the power, and coming on the clouds of heaven (Matthew 26:64).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

This statement infuriated the religious rulers. They accused Him of blasphemy for claiming equal authority with God. It was clear to them that Jesus referred to Daniel's prophecy and hence was claiming to be the Messiah.

The Title Emphasizes That He Was Human

It seems by using the title "Son of Man" Jesus wanted to convey the truth that He was entirely human.

Summary

The Son of Man is a title that was used exclusively by Jesus - His disciples never addressed Him as such. Jesus used it to emphasize His humanity. The title goes back to the Book of Daniel where the Son of Man would inherit the everlasting kingdom of God. It is a designation of the Messiah. At His trial Jesus acknowledged that He indeed was the Son of Man - the one who would bring in God's everlasting kingdom. When the religious leaders heard this they accused Him of blasphemy - making Himself equal with God. The purpose of the title seems to be Jesus' own emphasis on His humanity.

[Source: http://www.blueletterbible.org/faq/don_stewart/don_stewart_793.cfm]

"Jesus - The Son Of Man?"

Although Jesus claimed to be the divine Son of God, His favorite self-designation by far was ‘Son of Man’. How do we know that Jesus actually referred to Himself as the Son of Man and what does it mean?

> "In my vision, there before me was one like a Son of Man, coming with the clouds of heaven."
> Daniel 7:13

When we ask how we know that ‘Son of Man’ was a title Jesus claimed for Himself (rather than a legendary title later ascribed to Him by the Gospel writers), we ask this for the benefit of the sceptic. The sceptic is one who does not accept the Bible by faith. He is the one who wants ‘just the facts.’ It is for this person that we ask the questions, ‘Can we know whether Jesus actually referred to himself as the Son of Man?’ And ‘What does it mean?’ So we begin.

Many skeptical scholars believe that Jesus referred to Himself as the Son of Man, because it is unlikely to have been an invention of the early Church. For example, in the Gospels, ‘Son of Man’ is Jesus’ favorite self-designation. Yet in the epistles, it is never used of Jesus. In fact, the term appears in the New Testament only 4 times outside of the Gospels and never in extra-biblical Christian writings during the first 120 years following Jesus. The point is: How likely is it that the Church originated the title Son of Man as Jesus’ favorite self-description, when the Church itself did not refer to him in this manner?

So what did Jesus mean when He called Himself the Son of Man? Some surmise that the term places an emphasis on Jesus’ humanity compared to ‘Son of God’ which places an emphasis on His divinity. But this fails to take into account the significant historical context in which Jesus uses the term and how He understood it. How Jesus understood the term ‘Son of Man’ is important, since He used it of Himself more than any other term.

To find the answer, let us go back to the Old Testament and look at what the prophet Daniel said.

> In my vision at night I looked, and there before me was one like a son of man, coming with the clouds of heaven. He approached the Ancient of Days and was led into his presence. He > was given authority, glory and sovereign power; all peoples, nations and men of every language worshiped him. His dominion is an everlasting dominion that will not pass away, and his kingdom is one that will never be destroyed. (Daniel 7:13-14)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Daniel speaks of the 'son of man, coming with the clouds of heaven. . . . He was given authority, glory and sovereign power . . .'

With this in mind, consider these statements of Jesus in the New Testament Gospels:

> For as the Father has life in himself, so he has granted the Son to have life in himself. And he has given him authority to judge because he is the Son of Man. (John 5:27)
>
> At that time the sign of the Son of Man will appear in the sky, and all the nations of the earth will mourn. They will see the Son of Man coming on the clouds of the sky, with power and great glory. (Matthew 24:30)
>
> So be on your guard; I have told you everything ahead of time. But in those days, following that distress, 'the sun will be darkened, and the moon will not give its light; the stars will fall from the sky, and the heavenly bodies will be shaken.' At that time men will see the Son of Man coming in clouds with great power and glory. And he will send his angels and gather his elect from the four winds, from the ends of the earth to the ends of the heavens. (Mark 13:24-27)
>
> At that time they will see the Son of Man coming in a cloud with power and great glory. (Luke 21:27)

- It seems obvious from these scriptures that when Jesus spoke of Himself as being the Son of Man, He had Daniel 7 in mind.
- In addition, some first century Jews identified the Son of Man as also the Christ or Messiah.
- Jesus had just spoken of His death by crucifixion as being 'lifted up.' The crowd responded, 'We have heard from the Law that the Christ will remain forever, so how can you say, 'The Son of Man must be lifted up?' Who is this 'Son of Man?''
- Jesus also believed the Son of Man, the Son of God, and the Messiah (Christ) were the same person. Not only did He claim to be all three separately, but in an interesting passage He responds in the affirmative to the Jewish leadership's linking both Son of God and Christ, then adds Son of Man:

  The high priest said to him, 'I charge you under oath by the living God: Tell us if you are the Christ, the Son of God.' 'Yes, it is as you say,' Jesus replied. 'But I say to all of you: In the future you will see the Son of Man sitting at the right hand of the Mighty One and coming on the clouds of heaven.' Then the high priest tore his clothes and said, 'He has spoken blasphemy! Why do we need any more witnesses? Look, now you have heard the blasphemy. What do you think?' 'He is worthy of death,' they answered. (Matthew 26:63-66)

Finally, Jesus understood the Son of Man to exist prior to His human birth:

> No one has ever gone into heaven except the one who came from heaven—the Son of Man. (John 3:13)
>
> What if you see the Son of Man ascend to where he was before! (John 6:62)

In summary, Jesus' favorite term to refer to Himself was 'Son of Man.' He understood the designation to refer to the divine Son of Man of Daniel 7 who would rule with glory and power. Moreover, He understood the Son of Man also to be the pre-existent Son of God and Messiah. Who did Jesus think He was? Clearly He thought He was the divine Son of Man.

This article is reproduced from Mike Licona's website (risenjesus.com)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Question: "What does it mean that Jesus is the Son of Man?"

Answer: Jesus is referred to as the “Son of Man” 88 times in the New Testament. A first meaning of the phrase “Son of Man” is as a reference to the prophecy of Daniel 7:13-14, “In my vision at night I looked, and there before me was one like a son of man, coming with the clouds of heaven. He approached the Ancient of Days and was led into his presence. He was given authority, glory and sovereign power; all peoples, nations and men of every language worshiped him. His dominion is an everlasting dominion that will not pass away, and his kingdom is one that will never be destroyed.” The description “Son of Man” was a Messianic title. Jesus is the One who was given dominion and glory and a kingdom. When Jesus used this phrase, He was assigning the Son of Man prophecy to Himself. The Jews of that era would have been intimately familiar with the phrase and to whom it referred. Jesus was proclaiming Himself as the Messiah.

A second meaning of the phrase “Son of Man” is that Jesus was truly a human being. God called the prophet Ezekiel “son of man” 93 times. God was simply calling Ezekiel a human being. A son of a man is a man. Jesus was fully God (John 1:1), but He was also a human being (John 1:14). First John 4:2 tells us, “This is how you can recognize the Spirit of God: Every spirit that acknowledges that Jesus Christ has come in the flesh is from God.” Yes, Jesus was the Son of God—He was in His essence God. Yes, Jesus was also the Son of Man—He was in His essence a human being. In summary, the phrase “Son of Man” indicates that Jesus is the Messiah and that He is truly a human being.

[Source: http://www.gotquestions.org/Jesus-Son-of-Man.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Jesus - Son of Man

Why does Jesus refer to Himself as Son of Man when virtually no one else does?

When we read the Gospels, we see that Jesus always refers to himself as the Son of Man. It's a very strange expression, "the Son of Man," but he uses that expression all the time when he speaks about himself. No one else in the entire four Gospels ever calls him by that title. They call him "Rabbi"; they call him "Lord"; they call him "Master." Some even say, "You are the Son of God." Thomas even says, "My Lord and my God," but no one calls him "Son of Man."

But he always calls himself "Son of Man." In fact, there's only one place in the entire four Gospels where that term "Son of Man" is used where it is not Jesus using it for himself, but even in that place, it's used because Jesus has used it, because Jesus has said it, and the person answers back, and I think we should hear that very one and only place. It's truly an exception, where you find it, the only place in the Scripture where it is used.

It's in John 12, where Jesus is saying, "Now the judgment of the world, now the prince of this world (or the ruler of this world), will be cast out"—he means the devil—"and I, when I am lifted up from the earth"—he means crucified and taken up into the heavens. It's interesting in St. John: the lifting up as to do with lifting up on the Cross, and lifting up in the heavens with God; it's a double meaning. "I will draw all people to myself." And then it says, "He said this to show by what death he was to die," meaning that he was going to be crucified.

The crowd answered him, "We have heard from the Law that the Christ remains forever. How can you say that the Son of Man must be lifted up? Who is this Son of Man?" And then Jesus said to them, "The light is with you for a little longer; walk while you have the light." So it's the only time you have somebody saying to him, "You called yourself the Son of Man" and "You say that the Son of Man must be lifted up. Who is this Son of Man?" And they say it because he said it.

We should know… And I got this statistic from this author, whom I really love: Martin Hengel, his name is. He is a very elderly man now, a German scholar, of course, Tübingen. And I honestly believe, I'd like to make a big, big—whatever the word would be—commercial pitch here for the writings of Martin Hengel. I think Martin Hengel is the best critical scholar of the Holy Scripture ever, practically. Certainly in our… I would say ever. Because he… Well, I won't say why. He just is. But he's got wonderful books. He's an expert on Palestinian Judaism and Diaspora Judaism and Hellenism at the time of Jesus. And then, of course, he's an expert on the New Testament.

Well, he tells us in a book of essays on New Testament Christology, where he speaks about [this] title, "Son of Man." He says that it's used 81 times in the four Gospels. 14 times in Mark, 25 in Luke, 30 in Matthew, 12 in John, for a total of 81 times. And it's not used by anyone else but him, and he only uses it for himself.

Since that expression, "Son of Man," is an Old Testamental expression, it's an Aramaic expression or Hebrew expression—in fact, Martin Hengel says that probably in Greek the expression "Son of Man" is completely meaningless to people. They wouldn't know what you're talking about. It just doesn't seem to have any explanation. It doesn't have an obvious meaning, like the term "king" or "judge" or "lord" or "God." "Son of Man": what can that mean?

So Martin Hengel called it a "veiled codeword," a kind of Aramaic insider word for Jews. And maybe that explains why it's found 30 times in Matthew, because Matthew's considered to be the Aramaic Gospel, the one originally written for the Jewish Christians, and also, Matthew is not only the Torah Gospel, the one identifying Jesus as the New Moses and connecting [him] to the Law, but also Matthew is considered to be the source of the very sayings of Jesus, that the collection of the sayings of Jesus himself is somehow connected with the Matthew tradition and that you find them first of all through Matthew or in a separate collection that then comes through in Mark and Luke and so on. This is a scholarly problem or a challenge that it's very hard to explain.

But one thing is not hard, at least to describe—I don't know how to explain it; we'll try to explain it here in a minute in some way, primitive, pathetic way—still, the fact of the matter is, the term "ho

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

huios tou anthropou," the son of the man or "ho huios anthropou" or simply "huios anthropou," son of man, son of human being, and "anthropos" there means "human being," son of human being. And "huios" means "son"' it means a male child, a son: "huios."

So it's in Matthew and it's used by Jesus, and this leads people, certainly Professor Hengel, to conclude that it must have been something that Jesus did himself. It's not something that could be put upon him. Like, you could put on him the title "Christ"; you could put on him the title "Lord"; you could put on him the title "God"; but why would you put on him the title "Son of Man"? Certainly if you're from the Greek-speaking world, it really wouldn't make too much sense, such an expression.

And then, the point is also made that outside the Gospels, except when the expression "Son of Man" is used in a psalm, and that psalm is being quoted, like, for example, in Hebrews you have a psalm being quoted that has the expression "Son of Man" in it. And then you have Daniel quoted, and we're going to see that Daniel is a very important text, where the Ancient of Days is on the throne, and where one "like unto a Son of Man" is presented to him, and he receives all dominion, power, glory, majesty, and so on from God.

When the New Testament refers to the Old Testament places where the expression "Son of Man" is used, and particularly where it's used where the New Testament author wants to show that, in fact, it has to be applied to Jesus, and that's probably why Jesus was using that very word himself, then, of course, you can see why that term, "Son of Man," would be used. But, in St. Paul, for example, Jesus is never presented as the Messiah and the Lord because he is the Son of Man.

And, in fact, "Son of Man" does not become a kind of, how can you say, homiletical or kerygmatic or even doxological term. By using those fancy words following the scholars, what I simply mean to say is: Jesus, by the Christians, is not preached as "the Son of Man" to anybody too much, in fact, if at all. In the New Testament, it's not at all. He's preached as God's Son, Son of God. He's preached as Lord. He's preached as Christ. He's preached as Savior. But he's not preached as Son of Man. And yet, that's the title that he uses for himself.

What seems to be the case… Oh, also, yes, we should say that in Orthodox liturgy, in ancient Church liturgy, there are almost no prayers addressed to Jesus as Son of Man. It's not one of the doxological terms. When we're worshiping, you say, "O Lord, O Master, O Son of God, only-begotten Son, O Logos of God," but he's not really ever prayed to as "Son of Man."

We're thinking [about] or trying to understand [the reason for this]; that's what we're doing, but I think that to me it seems pretty clear what the reason is. The reason is that Jesus speaks about himself as the Son of Man. And he has a very particular reason for doing that, which we'll get to. But what he wants from those who hear him is to confess him as the Son of God. What he wants from those who hear him is to confess him as the Lord, Kyrios. What he wants from those who hear him, very particularly, is to confess him as the Christ: "Who do you say that I am?"

It's interesting: Peter doesn't say, "You are the Son of Man." He says, "You are the Christ, the Son of the living God." And Jesus says, "Right. Flesh and blood has not revealed this to you, but my Father who is in heaven." So it seems that in the four Gospels, particularly, Jesus presents himself as the Son of Man, but he expects those who see him for who and what he really is to confess him as the Christ, the Son of God, and the Lord.

What we will see immediately is that this expression, "Son of Man," is in the Old Testament Scriptures, but it's also found outside the Old Testament Scriptures. Hengel tells us that there's a writing called the Similitudes of Enoch, an apocryphal book which was probably written between 40 BC, 40 years before Christ, or up to maybe 70 [years] after Christ, but here you have the expression "Son of Man" being used, but it is in that particular writing virtually a synonym with "Son of God" and with "Wisdom of God," the personification of sophia, and it has other meanings in that Similitudes of Enoch.

However, [it is] Martin Hengel who points that out, says there's no evidence whatsoever that Jesus ever knew anything about the book called the Similitudes of Enoch, but what makes it so intriguing is that maybe the Similitudes of Enoch expresses a kind of a tradition, one of those apocryphal, hidden, secondary traditions among the people, that does have some connection, certainly has connection with the Old Testament, with the Prophets and the Law of Moses and so on; after all, it's Enoch that is mentioned. But it's just interesting to mention that, to know that you find that there.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

We're not interested in that. What we have to be interested in is that this expression, "Son of Man," is an Aramaic expression that's used in various ways in the Old Testament. And it can be used simply as an expression meaning "a man, a human being," in that sense; simply "a son of man." Meaning to say, "Here is this man." But it seems that already in the Old Testament, the expression "like a son of man" or "the son of man" is an expression that wants to say, "This is the man." When that man comes, that one who has that title, that man that is referred to, then you know that he is the man that we're looking for, the one that we are looking for.

So when Jesus is referring to himself as "Son of Man," it can be understood — and I think in fact it must be — what he's saying is, "I'm the man that you're all looking for. I am the Son of Man. I am that man. I am the one. I am the human being. There isn't any other." Especially when you have the definite article: the Son of Man as a title, which you have all over the place. Practically the whole time it's "the Son of Man": "when the Son of Man is lifted up," "that you may know that I am the Son of Man, do you believe that I am he" and all these kinds of expressions that you have in the holy Scripture.

It seems, though, however, that there is a very particular text in the Prophets that seems to be the main reason why that title is so significant, and it's the Book of Daniel. And it's in the Book of Daniel, in the seventh chapter, and this is quoted in Hebrews, and it is quoted in the Book of Revelation, and if it's not quoted directly, it's quoted indirectly when you have the most-quoted expression of the Old Covenant of Scriptures being quoted in the New, and that would be the first line of Psalm 110: "The Lord said to my Lord, 'Sit at my right hand until I put all the enemies under your feed.' " The "Lord" to whom the Lord says, "Sit at my right hand," is described, at least in Daniel, as one who is like a son of man; he is a man.

And here, I will just read to you the Daniel text that seems to be the text that we have to be interested in the most. Daniel writes (Daniel 7:13): "I beheld in the night vision, and behold, one coming with the clouds of heaven…" That's important: "with the clouds of heaven." We're going to see that that's really important. "...coming with the clouds of heaven as…" and then it says in the translation I have in English: "...the son of man."

However, in the original Greek there is no definite article: "hos huios anthropou erchomenos": "coming as son of man" or "coming as son of man." Not necessarily even "a son of man," but "coming as being son of man, being man."

Then it says, "He came up to the Ancient of Days," and this "Ancient of Days" is a title for God. In Isaiah, he's the one who sits upon the throne, to whom the angels are singing, "Holy, holy, holy!" In Daniel, certainly, the Ancient of Days, and Orthodox, in the ancient Church, even have frescoes of this. Sometimes people think we shouldn't have them, but it shows the Ancient of Days sitting on a throne kind of like an old man. And it describes even how he looks and how he is vested, sitting on this judgment seat, and that same figure appears in the Apocalypse. The one who sits upon the throne, in the Apocalypse, is certainly the one who sits on the throne in Isaiah, and he's certainly the one who's sitting on the throne as the Ancient of Days in Daniel. And even it's depicted how he looks, and in ancient Christian frescoes, in monasteries, they would even paint this in this way, as an old man.

But then they would show this one coming to him, brought to him, presented to him, brought near him, as it says, who is "hos huios anthropou," as son of man. So this "Son of Man" figure is presented to him. And then in the frescoes, this Son of Man figure is painted like Jesus. He looks just like Jesus. It is Jesus, as a matter of fact.

And then it says, "And to him was given the dominion and the honor and the kingdom; and all the nations and all the tribes and all the languages shall serve him, and his dominion is an everlasting dominion which shall never pass away, and his kingdom will not be destroyed." So it says, "To him belongs hē archē." "Archē" means the beginning of everything, and the Revelation Book will say he's the archē to telos. The Son of Man is the archē to telos, the alpha and the omega, the beginning and the end, which God himself is.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

And "is given to him kai [hē] timē." "Timē" means "honor." "Hē vasilia" means "the kingdom." And "pantes hoi laoi": all the peoples, all the nations; and all these peoples and all these nations and all the tongues, and all the languages and all the tribes are going to serve him. "And his dominion is going to be an everlasting dominion which will not pass away, and his kingdom shall never be destroyed."

It seems pretty clear that that's why Jesus uses that expression for himself, because he is that Son of Man, and he wants people to recognize him as that Son of Man. He wants people to recognize him as the one who is presented to God himself, who is his Father, the Ancient of Days, the one from everlasting, and that he receives, together with the Father, all the glories and honors that belong to the Father.

And it's interesting that in the Book of Revelation, those honors that are given to him, together with him who sits upon the throne, with God the Father, are even multiplied more than in the Book of Daniel. There's even more that is said that is given to him than in the Book of Daniel. It says, when he's sitting on the throne and all the angels are singing, "Holy, holy!" and everyone comes to him who is sitting on the throne with the Father, and sitting on the throne with him means being at his right hand: in power. We spoke about the power of God that he is.

And then when it says that they are singing to him, and they fall down before him, what they say that they offer to him is glory, honor, power, blessing, thanksgiving, and worship. All of these things are offered to him who sits upon the throne together with God. They're offered to God and, in the language of the Book of Revelation, they are also offered to the Lamb: "and they give glory, honor, and thanksgiving to him who sits upon the throne and lives forever and ever and to the Lamb." And in the Book of Revelation, this "Lamb" is the one who was dead and is alive again, and he is identified in the very first chapter of the Book of Revelation as the Son of Man by reference to Daniel.

It's just in the Book of Revelation itself that he is coming on the clouds and they shall all see him, the one who was pierced, and he gets glory [and] dominion forever and ever with God, his Father, and he is the one who comes and he is the alpha and the omega. He is the faithful witness—we'll talk about that, all these titles that you find in the Book of Revelation. But it also calls him the Son of Man. It's the thirteenth verse (Revelation 1:13): "And in the midst of the seven candlesticks one like unto the Son of Man—ho huion anthropou, as a son of man; it's similar to son of man—clothed with a garment down to his foot, girt about his breast with a golden girdle," and his head and hair described like the Ancient of Days, but it's the Son of Man. And he is the first and the last, the one who was dead and is alive again; he is the Amen of God.

You have this identification with the Daniel Son of Man in the confession about Jesus in the New Testament. And it seems very clear that that is why Jesus himself uses that expression. He is that man that is talked about. He is that one that is talked about. He is the one who appears.

I would just like to magnify this point, or to kind of stress it a little bit further, about this Son of Man, by two other texts of the Old Testament that are very familiar to Orthodox Christians, that Orthodox Christians would really know. They probably know, and if they don't know, they should know these particular texts.

One of them is also from Daniel, and it's the story of Shadrach, Meschach, and Abednego, whose [Hebrew] names are Azariah and—oh, heavens—[Mishael] and I forgot the third [Hebrew] name, but I'll get it. But anyway, they're the three youths in the Babylonian furnace. And these three young boys absolutely refused to worship the golden idol that Nebuchadnezzar has built, the idol that Nebuchadnezzar has set up. And they refuse to do it. And then, of course Nebuchadnezzar says, "Well, if you will not worship this idol as god, whom I have set up, then I will throw you into the fiery furnace and you will be burned."

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

And, of course, the three young men absolutely refuse to bow down when the music is played to the idols, and they are thrown into the fire, and they dance in the flames. They dance in the flames, and they are not burned. And they praise God and bless God from the midst of the flames.

Here is what I would like to read to you now. It says this (Daniel 3:21-23):

> Then those men were bound with their coats and caps and hose and were cast into the midst of the burning fiery furnace, for as much as the king's word prevailed. And the furnace was made exceedingly hot. Then these three men, Shadrach, Meschach, and Abednego, fell, bound, into the midst of the burning fire, and they walked in the midst of the flames, singing praise to God and blessing the Lord.

And then it says (Daniel 3:24-25):

> And Nebuchadnezzar heard them singing praises, and he wondered. And he rose up in haste and said to his nobles, "Did we not cast three men, bound, into the midst of the fire?" And they said to the king, "Yes, O King." And the king said, "But I see four men, loose, walking in the midst of the fire, and there has no harm happened to them, and the appearance of the fourth is like…

And then it says in Greek:

> A Son of God. Tetartou homoia huio theou: the fourth one is like the Son of God.

Then Nebuchadnezzar drew near the door of the burning fiery furnace and said, "Shadrach, Meschach, and Abednego, you servants of the most high God, proceed forth and come hither." So Shadrach, Meschach, and Abednego came forth out of the midst of the fire. And there were assembled the satraps and the captains and the heads of [provinces] and the princes, and they saw the men and perceived that the fire had not power against their bodies, and their [hair] was not burnt and their clothes were not scorched, nor was the smell of fire upon them. And then Nebuchadnezzar answered and said, "Blessed be the God of Shadrach, Meschach, and Abednego."

Now, in the Christian tradition, certainly in the ancient Christian tradition, that fourth person is Christ. And if you look at Christian frescoes and icons, you'll see that it is. I have one on the wall in my room and I'm looking at it right now. It was painted for me by Heather MacKean, a wonderful iconographer who is now painting a beautiful church in the state of Washington, and it shows the three boys dancing in the furnace. And it shows the statue, the golden idol that Nebuchadnezzar built. And it shows the Chaldeans getting burned by the fires. And then it shows, in the flame, this angel of the great counsel. It's Jesus. It's the one whom God sends. And, of course, that prefigures the descent of Jesus the Christ into Hades, into Sheol, into the realm of the dead, into the fiery furnace to raise up all those who were dead and to come to us.

But what we have to see, even though it says, "the one looks similar to a son of God," it says there are four andres in the fire, four men. So he clearly appears as a man. It's a fourth figure of a fourth man that is said in Daniel that is in that fire. That is very important for us, because that figure in Daniel—and Daniel is definitely a very important prophecy for the Christian faith, about the kingdoms with no end and so on, and the fiery furnace story, and the refusal to worship idols, and then how Daniel becomes the king and so on—but that's a text that certainly can be understood of why Jesus would call himself "the Man, the one," that figure.

An interesting thing in our time about "Son of Man" is that, because of so-called political correctness and because of not wanting to use male terms, like for God and so on—I think all the listeners of Ancient Faith Radio would be definitely familiar with that tendency—we know that often, when it says "Son of Man" in the Biblical text, some of the new translations of the Bible don't write "Son of Man." Well, thanks be to God: the New Revised Standard Version doesn't dare to change the expression "Son of Man" in the New Testament.

If you tried to translate "Son of Man" which is used 81 times in the four Gospels, 30 times in Matthew alone, if you wanted to use a different word, I don't know what you would say. Would Jesus say to the people, "Unless you believe that I'm the man, unless you believe that I'm the one, you will die in your sins"? Well, it's possible, but then the connection is not made to the expression "Son of Man" in the Hebrew Scriptures, which is a purely Hebrew, Aramaic understanding of that figure who is a divine figure, who is a savior, who is an extraordinary man, who is the one who gets all dominion, honor, glory, worship together with him who sits upon the throne, who is enthroned with him who sits upon the throne. You would never get that if you didn't have the expression "Son of Man" being used.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

However, the New Revised Standard Version of the Bible doesn't use "Son of Man" in the Old Testament. It doesn't use it. It just says, "The One." And here I want to give an example of how, well, I would say, how terrible that is. Because it doesn't allow the reader of the Holy Scripture to understand that that expression "Son of Man" is being used, so that when they hear "Son of Man" coming from the lips of Jesus, they would make the connection and be able to understand what was going on. Certainly, it's mysterious; certainly, it's not clear; certainly, to Greek-speaking people it's a difficulty that they would really have to enter into the Aramaic, Hebrew, Biblical mind to understand. And Jesus himself is the Jew, and he's the Messiah of Israel, and we've got to make that effort. The Savior of the world comes by way of Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Moses, and so on. That's our faith. But it would be really wonderful if the expression "Son of Man" were left in the Old Testament, too.

I want to give an example that could be very familiar and should be familiar to Orthodox Christians. In the Orthodox Church, when a bishop serves the Holy Eucharist, when the Trisagion Hymn is sung, the Thrice-Holy Hymn, which is the "Holy, holy, holy!" of Isaiah, at the Liturgy of the Word, it's sung in this way: "Holy God, holy Mighty, holy Immortal, have mercy on us. Holy God, holy Mighty, holy Immortal, have mercy on us." Then it's sung the third time: "Holy God, holy Mighty, holy Immortal, have mercy on us." Then the deacon or the priest even shouts, "Power! Dynamis!" We spoke about Christ as the Power of God already. And then they sing it even louder.

Then the bishop comes with his two candlesticks, or his candlestick and his cross, actually, showing about the salvation of the people, and he faces the people in the middle of the singing of the "Holy, holy, holy"—the "Holy God, holy Mighty, holy Immortal"—he faces the people. Anyone who's ever been to a Divine Liturgy, Holy Eucharist served by a bishop can't miss this, it's so central. He looks at the people and he says a line from Psalm 79 (80) — 80 in the Hebrew counting, English counting. He says, "Lord, Lord, look down from heaven and behold and visit this vine, this vineyard, which your own right hand has planted and establish it." And he blesses the people and they sing, "Holy God."

And in some traditions, he even says that three times. He'll say, "Lord, Lord, look down from heaven and behold and visit this vine, this vineyard, which your own right hand has planted and establish it." They sing, "Holy Mighty." And he does it again, and they say, "Holy Immortal." And this is a line from the psalm. Now, this psalm begins with the words,

> Attend, O Pastor of Israel (Shepherd of Israel), who guides Joseph like a flock, who sits upon the cherubim, manifest thyself. Before Ephraim and Benjamin and Manassas, stir up thy power and come to deliver us. Turn us, O God. Cause your face to shine upon us, that we may be saved.

Lord God of hosts, how long art thou angry with the prayer of thy servants? Thou wilt feed us with breads of tears and we're drinking tears to full measure. Turn to us, O Lord God of Hosts. Cause your face to shine upon us, and we shall be saved.

So the bishop comes out and he says to that same Lord God, "Lord God of hosts, turn, we pray to thee, look on us from heaven and behold and visit this vine and restore that which thy right hand has planted." Now, what we should know—and I'm absolutely certain that most Orthodox Christians do not know this—I hope they know that that line comes from this psalm, but what does the psalm say in its entirety? How does the psalm continue? And that's important for our understanding of "Son of Man."

This is how the psalm continues:

> O Lord, Lord, God of hosts, turn, we pray to you, look down on us from heaven and behold and visit this vine which your own right hand has planted and establish it, restore it.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

And then it continues: “And look upon the Son of Man.”

> Look upon the Son of Man whom thou didst strengthen for thyself.

So the very same sentence says, “And look on the Son of Man whom thou didst strengthen for thyself.”

> For the vine is burnt with fire, dug up, it shall perish at the rebuke of thy presence, but let thy hand be upon the man of thy right hand—ep’ andra dexias sou—and upon the Son of Man—kai epi huion anthrōpou—whom you did strengthen for yourself.
>
> So we will not depart from you. You will give us life. We will call on your name. Turn to us, O Lord of hosts, and make your face shine upon us, and we shall be saved.

So what the psalm says, when praying to God three times [is]:

> Turn, O Lord God of hosts, we pray to you, look upon the vine and look upon the Son of Man whom thou didst strengthen for thyself whom thou hast given power—ekrataiōsas seaftō—who has made powerful for yourself.
>
> Let your hand be upon this man of your right hand and upon this Son of Man whom you have made powerful for yourself. And so we will not depart from you, you will give us life. We will call upon your name. Turn to us, Lord God of hosts, make your face shine upon us; we shall be saved.

The vine is saved by the Son of Man that the Lord has made powerful for himself and has put on his right hand. That’s very important. And do you know that in the New Revised Standard Version translation of the Bible, they don’t even say “Son of Man” in that text? In my opinion, it’s just terrible, just really awful. You know what they say? “Look upon the one whom you have strengthened.” Well, it’s okay, because Jesus is that one. Sometimes they just say, “Look upon the man whom you have strengthened.” They don’t say “Son of Man.”

But those who don’t want to say that he is a male, just say, “Look at the one.” But there’s a problem even with that, because the word that’s used in the psalm is “huios”—which means a male child, not a female child—”anthropou.” And it says “andres”: “the man,” and that word means a male human being. It doesn’t mean just a human being.

“Anthropos” means just a human being, but “huios [anthropou]” is a son of a human being. And “andros” means a man, a physically male man, just like the first psalm of the Bible when it says, “Blessed is the man who walks not in the counsel of the ungodly.” We sing it every Saturday night at the first psalm of our vespers and vigil service in the Orthodox Church. It doesn’t even say “anthropos”; it says “man, andros.” It says “muzh” in Slavonic; that’s a male human being. And we interpret it as meaning Jesus Christ.

So these sentences in the Psalms refer to Jesus Christ as the Son of Man, as the male human being that God has strengthened and seated at his right hand so that, through him, the whole world could be saved. That’s the Christian teaching, and that’s what is contained in that expression “Son of Man.”

Now just one thing that we already mentioned when we were speaking about divine power which we must, absolutely, repeat. And that is this: in the four Gospels, when Jesus is undergoing his Passion, and he’s being interrogated in front of the high priests, and then again in front of Pilate, when he’s being interrogated by the high priest who is a Jew… Pilate may have had some trouble with the expression “Son of Man.” In fact, probably a Roman citizen wouldn’t have known at all what the heck “Son of Man” would mean. You know, “filios hominis” or something in Latin. He wouldn’t have known what the heck it means.

But Jesus is being questioned by the high priest, by Ananais, by Caiaphas, and this is, again, the high priest, says to Jesus in Mark’s Gospel. He says, “Are you the Christ, the Son of the Blessed?” Jesus said, “I am”—and that is, of course, a powerful expression because “I am” is that divine name, the [Tetragrammaton] that was given to Moses. Then he said, “You will see the Son of Man”—and here it definitely has a definite article: the Son of Man, the Man, the One if you use [the] New Revised Standard Version [translation]—the Man, seated at the right hand of power and coming with the clouds of heaven."

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Now do you remember in Daniel, how it spoke about "the one like unto a son of man coming on the clouds"? The clouds are mentioned there. No Jew, knowing Scripture, could hear that sentence without thinking of Daniel: "the son of man coming on the clouds in power," in God's power, in the power of the Ancient of Days, in the power of him who sits upon the throne, to whom is sung, "Holy, holy, holy. Holy God, holy Mighty, holy Immortal, have mercy on us."

So Jesus said, "You will see the Son of Man"—he uses that expression again—"seated at the right hand of power and coming with the clouds of heaven." And it says in Mark, "The high priest tore his garments and said, 'Why do we need anything more? He blasphemes. He's got to be crucified.' "

Now that very same happening is recorded in St. Matthew's Gospel in this way:

> The high priest says, "Have you no answer to make?" Jesus is silent. The high priest says to him, "I adjure you by the living God, tell us if you are the Christ, the Son of God."

Now, notice, he uses the expression "the Christ, the Son of God," because that's what they wanted to pin on Jesus.

> Jesus answered, "You have said so, but I tell you, hereafter you will see the Son of Man..."

Again, definite article: "the Son of Man."

> "...seated at the right hand of power, coming on the clouds of heaven."

So there you've got it again: seated at the right hand, the right hand of the throne of God. We mentioned already how this has to evoke also Psalm 110:1: "The Lord said to my Lord, the Kyrios, 'Sit at my right hand in power.' " To be at the right hand is to be in power. Now it's the Son of Man who is seated at the right hand of power, coming on the clouds of heaven. And again in Matthew, the high priest tears his robe and said, "He has uttered blasphemy. Why do we still need anything more? Let him be crucified."

Now you have exactly the same thing in the Gospel according to St. Luke. We just heard Mark; we just heard Matthew. Now what do we find in Luke? This is how it's written in Luke (Luke 22:66-71):

> When the day came, the assembly of the elders and the people gathered together, both chief priests and scribes.

Now these people knew the Bible, right? They knew the Prophets. They knew Daniel. They knew the Psalms. They knew the expression "Son of Man." They had heard it many times. They knew that it could be a general term, like Ezekiel uses it: "O son of man, prophesy!" but then there is this special Son of Man, the Man. You know, like you'd say about a certain person. When I was a child, Stan Musial, the baseball player, was called "Stan the Man." They'll say, "He's the man!" Well, that's what a Jew would know, hearing that expression, reading the Bible: the Man. God's man, so to speak. The man who does it all. The man who sits on the throne with God. So here we have it:

> The chief priests and scribes led him away to their counsel and they said, "If you are the Christ, tell us." But he said to them, "If I tell you, you will not believe, and if I ask you, you will not answer."

And how many times do we hear Jesus saying, "What do you think? You look at me; you saw me. You see what I've done. What do you think? Why are you asking me? Why are you asking me, the Son of Man. You tell me who the Son of Man is." And of course, he wants them to say, "You are the Son of God. You are the Lord. You are the Christ."

So he says, "But from now on"—that means "after this Passion, after this crucifixion which will result in the Resurrection."

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

"From now on the Son of Man shall be seated at the right hand of the power of God."

"The Lord said to my Lord, 'Sit at my right hand.' " And in Matthew, Mark, and Luke, that is the text that gets Jesus arrested. When he asks the scribes and the elders and the high priests, "Why does David call him "Lord" if he's David's son? For it is written"—and David wrote, inspired by the Holy Spirit: "The Lord says to my Lord, 'Sit at my right hand.' "

So here in Luke's Gospel, Jesus says, "But from now on, after this, the Son of Man shall be seated at the right hand of the power of God." And they all said, "Are you the Son of God, then?" Notice it! It's fantastic! Jesus says, "You will see the Son of Man, seated at the right hand of the power of God," and their response is, "Are you the Son of God, then?" Because for them, the Son of Man was the Son of God. The Son of God was the Son of Man. The Son of Man was the Man who is the Son of God, and therefore the anointed, the Christ; therefore the chosen; therefore the righteous; therefore the holy one; therefore the Lord; and therefore, God himself in human flesh, if you go all the way with it.

So they all said, "Are you the Son of God, then?" And he said to them, "You say that I am." And they said, "What further testimony do we need? We have heard it ourselves from his very own lips."

So there you have it. Jesus calls himself the Son of [Man] and the scribes and the elders and the high priests, knowing the Scripture, they know exactly what he means. They know exactly what it means.

The Greeks later, like you and me, and the Gentiles, we had to learn what it meant. We had to learn what it meant, but a Jew did not have to learn what it meant. He knew that that expression, "the Son of Man," was tantamount to the Messiah. It even is tantamount to being God's Son. It's tantamount to be the one who sits on the throne, and who receives all honor, glory, dominion, majesty, blessing, power, and thanksgiving—evcharistia, evlogia, timē, proskēnesis—all these words are given to him, and, certainly, to God, and to this Son of Man.

So the expression "Son of Man" is what Jesus calls himself. And it's the only thing that he calls himself. But once he is confessed… Let's put it this way: Once the Son of Man—the man, the one whom God has chosen, raised up, sent, who is his own Son begotten of God before all ages, who already in Daniel is presented with the Ancient of Days to sit upon the throne—once that Son of Man comes, then he is to be given all glory, honor, and worship as the Christ, the Lord, the Savior, the Man at the Father's right hand, the one who sits enthroned with him, God's very own Son, and God himself in human flesh.

All of this is what's contained in the expression "ho huios tou anthropou, huios anthropou, Son of Man." "Bar ěnoš" in Hebrew; I think that's how you would say it. (I don't think I said it right.) But anyway, it's an Aramaic, Hebrew expression that the Jews knew very well, what it meant. And Jesus keeps calling himself that in order that we would confess him for who he truly is: our Lord, our Savior, our Christ, God's Son, God's Logos, God's Wisdom, God's Power, God's Icon, and, indeed, God from God, God himself in human flesh. This is Jesus of Nazareth, who called himself always and without exception "Son of Man."

[Source: http://www.ancientfaith.com/podcasts/namesofjesus/jesus_-_son_of_man]

The Aramaic Phrase Bar 'ěnoš "Son of Man" (Dan 7:13-14) Revisited http://www.goarch.org/ourfaith/bar-enosh

Son of Man (Jewish Encyclopedia)
http://www.jewishencyclopedia.com/articles/13913-son-of-man

Jesus is the Unique Son of God (Answering Islam)
http://www.answering-islam.org/Silas/sonofgod.htm

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Jesus: God the Son or Son of God? (Does the Bible Teach the Trinity?)
http://www.christadelphia.org/pamphlet/jesus.htm [Note: site does not believe in the "Trinity", as generally understood by most Christians]

What Does it Mean to Say Jesus is the "Son of God"?
http://www.apologeticspress.org/apcontent.aspx?category=10&article=272

Questions:

Why did people call Jesus as Son of David and Son of Man when he was neither born to any man or to anyone in the Davidic line? Were they fooling or flattering him, or is it true? If it is true can you give concrete answers?

Who is the Son of David? Jesus Christ or the Lord God? (Luke 20:41-42)

Who gets the throne of David? Jesus or the Lord God and how (Luke 1:32)?

Answers:

In the Bible, "son" doesn't just refer to an immediate descendant. A grandson, great-grandson, etc. can all be called a "son." Jesus was a descendant of David physically through his mother. That lineage is traced in Luke 3:23-31. Jesus' right to the throne of David is traced through Joseph. Luke traces Jesus lineage all the way back to Adam to prove that through his mother, Jesus was physically a son of man.

Joseph was not physically Jesus' father, but because Joseph and Mary were married prior to Jesus' birth, Jesus is counted as Joseph's son. We still use similar laws here in the United States. Joseph's lineage is traced in Matthew 1. Joseph was also of the lineage of King David, but more importantly, Joseph was in line for the throne of David.

Understanding this is important because in the Old Testament, there was a prophecy that none of King Jeconiah descendants would rule (Jeremiah 22:24-30). This created an apparent impossibility. If the kingship is passed father to son, but none of King Jeconiah's descendants would rule, then how could the Messiah, the son of David, rule? The answer is that Jesus inherited the throne through Joseph without being a physical son of Joseph, and at the same time was still a son of David through his mother.

Jesus was unique in history. He was the inheritor of the legal rule of Israel without physically being a descendant of the last king in the lineage of David -- Jeconiah.

Jesus' question in Luke 20:41-44 brings out a difficulty that the leading Jews had concerning the nature of the Messiah.

> "And He said to them, "How can they say that the Christ is the Son of David? Now David himself said in the Book of Psalms: 'The LORD said to my Lord, "Sit at My right hand, Till I make Your enemies Your footstool."' Therefore David calls Him 'Lord'; how is He then his Son?'"" (Luke 20:41-44).

Since the leading Jews refused to believe that Jesus was the Messiah, Jesus asked them whose son was the Christ (Matthew 22:41-42). They answered that he would be the son of David. Mark 12:35 points out that this is as the scribes had been teaching the people. Jesus then asks them how David, in Psalm 110:1, could call the Messiah his Lord when the Messiah was his descendant. The word "Lord" is reserved for a person who is over the person, yet a descendant would normally be seen as under the ancestor. In asking, Jesus rules out a mistake on David's part by emphasizing that David spoke these words by the inspiration of the Spirit of God.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The answer to Jesus' question is clear if one accepts that the Messiah was superior to David because of his divine nature. Yet, those Jesus was addressing would not accept that God could be born in human form, thus they could not determine an answer to Jesus' question. In other words, their expectation concerning the Messiah was less than what the Scriptures indicted.

The question makes it appear that God cannot be a descendant of David. Yet, that is exactly what happened. "Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus, who, being in the form of God, did not consider it robbery to be equal with God, but made Himself of no reputation, taking the form of a bondservant, and coming in the likeness of men. And being found in appearance as a man, He humbled Himself and became obedient to the point of death, even the death of the cross. Therefore God also has highly exalted Him and given Him the name which is above every name, that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of those in heaven, and of those on earth, and of those under the earth, and that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father" (Philippians 2:6-11). This is why one of Jesus' name is Immanuel, which means "God with us" (Matthew 1:23).

As Philippians 2:6-11 points out, Jesus received the throne from His Father after his death. Such was prophesied by Daniel: "I was watching in the night visions, And behold, one like the Son of Man, coming with the clouds of heaven! He came to the Ancient of Days, and they brought Him near before Him. Then to Him was given dominion and glory and a kingdom, that all peoples, nations, and languages should serve Him. His dominion is an everlasting dominion, which shall not pass away, and His kingdom the one which shall not be destroyed" (Daniel 7:13-14). Gabriel told Mary the same thing: "He will be great, and will be called the Son of the Highest; and the Lord God will give Him the throne of His father David" (Luke 1:32).

> "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. He was in the beginning with God. All things were made through Him, and without Him nothing was made that was made. ... And the Word became flesh and dwelt among us, and we beheld His glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth" (John 1:1-3, 14).

[Source: http://lavistachurchofchrist.org/LVanswers/2010/06-27.html]

If Jesus is called the Son of God, do you think that makes Him God?

Muslims often misunderstand the term, "Son of God," to mean that God literally had sexual relations with Mary to produce Jesus. That is not what the term means, nor is it what the Bible teaches. And it is not what Christianity teaches. The term, "Son of God," refers not to procreation but to a special relationship that Jesus has with God the Father.

The phrase, "Son of God," occurs 43 times in the New American Standard Bible, and it refers to Jesus. The term is specifically designated as a title in Romans 1:4, "who was declared the Son of God with power by the resurrection from the dead, according to the Spirit of holiness, Jesus Christ our Lord." Notice that it says that Jesus was declared the Son of God. This shows that it is a title and does not mean that He was begotten through sexual relations between God and Mary--which is a blasphemous thing to claim.

Also, Jesus calls Himself the Son in Mark 13:32, "But of that day or hour no one knows, not even the angels in heaven, nor the Son, but the Father alone."1 And at Jesus' baptism, God speaks from Heaven and says, "Thou art My beloved Son, in Thee I am well-pleased." (Mark. 1:11). Clearly, Jesus is said that to be the Son of God by the Scriptures by the Father and by Himself.

Here are a few verses worth noting:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

- John 1:49-50, "Nathanael answered Him, "Rabbi, You are the Son of God; You are the King of Israel." [50]Jesus answered and said to him, "Because I said to you that I saw you under the fig tree, do you believe? You shall see greater things than these."
    - Nathaniel calls Jesus the son of God, and Jesus does not correct him. Jesus affirms Nathaniel's belief.
- John 10:36-37, "do you say of Him, whom the Father sanctified and sent into the world, "You are blaspheming," because I said, 'I am the Son of God?' [37] "If I do not do the works of My Father, do not believe Me."
    - Jesus is affirming that He is the Son of God.
- John 11:4, "But when Jesus heard it, He said, "This sickness is not unto death, but for the glory of God, that the Son of God may be glorified by it."
    - Jesus calls himself the Son of God.
- John 19:7, "The Jews answered him, "We have a law, and by that law He ought to die because He made Himself out to be the Son of God."
    - The Jews understood that to claim to be the Son of God was to claimed to be equal with God.
- John 20:31, "but these have been written that you may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; and that believing you may have life in His name."
    - The apostle John wrote the Gospel so that we might know and believe that Jesus is the Son of God.

Son of God and Son of Man

Some say that the term, Son of God, does not mean that Jesus is God. We must ask then, does the term, Son of Man, mean that Jesus is not a man? Likewise, if the term, son of man, means that Jesus is a man, does it not imply that the term, Son of God, means that Jesus is God?

John 5:18, "Calling God His own Father"

> "For this cause therefore the Jews were seeking all the more to kill Him, because He not only was breaking the Sabbath, but also was calling God His own Father, making Himself equal with God."

Jesus is the Son of God, and He calls God His own Father. So, the problem is in understanding what the phrase Son of God means. Apparently, in the Biblical culture, it means to be equal with God as John the Apostle stated.

For more information on this verse, see John 5:18, " . . . making Himself equal to God."

[Source: https://carm.org/religious-movements/islam/if-jesus-called-son-god-do-you-think-makes-him-god]

Jesus' Two Natures: God and Man

Jesus is the most important person who has ever lived since He is the Savior, God in human flesh. He is not half God and half man. He is fully divine and fully man. In other words, Jesus has two distinct natures: divine and human. Jesus is the Word who was God and was with God and was made flesh (John 1:1, 14). This means that in the single person of Jesus He has both a human and divine nature, God and man. The divine nature was not changed when the Word became flesh (John 1:1, 14). Instead, the Word was joined with humanity (Col. 2:9). Jesus' divine nature was not altered. Also, Jesus is not merely a man who "had God within Him," nor is He a man who "manifested the God principle." He is God in flesh, second person of the Trinity. "The Son is the radiance of God's glory and the exact representation of his being, sustaining all things by his powerful word," (Heb. 1:3). Jesus' two natures are not "mixed together" (Eutychianism), nor are they combined into a new God-man nature (Monophysitism). They are separate yet act as a unit in the one person of Jesus. This is called the Hypostatic Union.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The following chart should help you see the two natures of Jesus "in action":

GOD	MAN
He is worshipped (Matt. 2:2, 11, 14:33)	He worshipped the Father (John 17)
He was called God (John 20:28, Heb. 1:8)	He was called man (Mark 15:39, John 19:5)
He was called Son of God (Mark 1:1)	He was called Son of Man (John 9:35-37)
He is prayed to (Acts 7:59)	He prayed to the Father (John 17)
He is sinless (1 Pet. 2:22, Heb. 4:15)	He was tempted (Matt. 4:1)
He knows all things (John 21:17)	He grew in wisdom (Luke 2:52)
He gives eternal life (John 10:28)	He died (Rom. 5:8)
All the fullness of deity dwells in Him (Col. 2:9)	He has a body of flesh and bones (Luke 24:39)

The Communicatio Idiomatum

A doctrine that is related to the Hypostatic Union is the communicatio idiomatum (Latin for "communication of properties"). This is the teaching that the attributes of both the divine and human natures are ascribed to the one person of Jesus. This means that the man Jesus could lay claim to the glory He had with the Father before the world was made (John 17:5), claim that He descended from Heaven (John 3:13), and also claim omnipresence (Matt. 28:20). All of these are divine qualities that are laid claim to by Jesus, therefore, the attributes of the divine properties were claimed by the person of Jesus.

One of the most common errors that non-Christian cults make is not understanding the two natures of Christ. For example, the Jehovah's Witnesses focus on Jesus' humanity and ignore His divinity. They repeatedly quote verses dealing with Jesus as a man and try to set them against Scripture showing that Jesus is also divine. On the other hand, the Christian Scientists do the reverse. They focus on the Scriptures showing Jesus' divinity to the extent of denying His true humanity.

For a proper understanding of Jesus and, therefore, all other doctrines that relate to Him, His two natures must be properly understood and defined. Jesus is one person with two natures. This is why He would grow in wisdom and stature (Luke 2:52) and yet know all things (John 21:17). He is the Divine Word that became flesh (John 1:1, 14).

The Bible is about Jesus (John 5:39). The prophets prophesied about Him (Acts 10:43). The Father bore witness of Him (John 5:37, 8:18). The Holy Spirit bore witness of Him (John 15:26). The works Jesus did bore witness of Him (John 5:36, 10:25). The multitudes bore witness of Him (John 12:17). And, Jesus bore witness of Himself (John 14:6, 18:6).

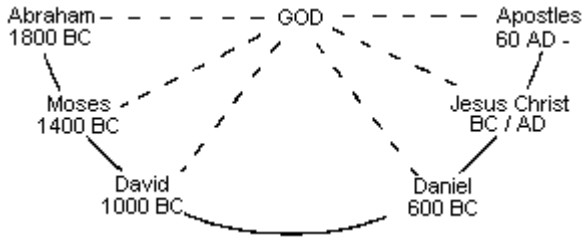
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Other verses to consider when examining His deity are John 10:30-33, 20:28, Col. 2:9, Phil. 2:5-8, Heb. 1:6-8, and 2 Pet. 1:1.

1 Tim. 2:5 says, "For there is one God, and one mediator also between God and men, the man Christ Jesus." Right now, there is a man in Heaven on the throne of God. He is our advocate with the Father (1 John 2:1). He is our Savior (Titus 2:13). He is our Lord (Rom. 10:9-10). He is Jesus.

[Source: https://carm.org/jesus-two-natures]

"Now, O Father, glorify thou me with thine own self with the glory which I had with thee before the world was . . . thou lovedst me before the foundation of the world" (John 17:5,24)



Here our difficulty is to understand how Jesus could have been honored and loved by the Father before he actually existed as an independent person. The problem really arises from our limited view of time.

To us the passage of time is like a line. Separate events are distinct points on that line. So if we were to indicate the relative places in time of Abraham, Moses, David, Daniel, Christ and the apostles, we should get something like this:

. . Abraham . . . . Moses . . . . David . . . . Daniel . . . . Christ . . . . Apostles . .
1800 BC 1400 BC 1000 BC 600 BC BC / AD 50 AD etc.

An order of appearance inevitably arises. We cannot think of their place in history in any other way. But this is because of our finite minds. We have no consciousness of the distant past; and none at all of the future.

But the mind of God is not subject to these limitations. His mind is infinite in power. He is just as capable of being conscious of past situations, or of future ones, as He is of the present. So we cannot represent the Divine experience of time by a line. It must be more like the following diagram.

Now we know that Moses did not exist before Abraham, and that David lived about four centuries before Daniel. But in our diagram God is the center of the arc; He is the same distance from them all. Our "distance" represents God's infinite consciousness. He was just as "conscious" of the sort of person they would each be, long before they were born. He could visualise them, and speak prophetically of them. So the Father knew what sort of person the Son would be before he was actually born and began to exist as a separate person. He could plan what He would eventually accomplish through him. He could "glorify" and "love" in advance His own Son, "the only-begotten of the Father".

[Source: http://www.christadelphia.org/pamphlet/jesus.htm] [Note: from site that does not believe in the "Trinity", as most know it]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Some Bible Verses that say "Jesus is God"

Some people claim to believe that Jesus was a "good prophet", but they deny that Jesus is God. If that is you, I would like to encourage you to consider some of these Bible verses:

Matthew 1:23 - "Behold, the virgin shall be with child, and bear a Son, and they shall call His name Immanuel," which is translated, "God with us."

Isaiah 9:6 - For unto us a Child is born, Unto us a Son is given; And the government will be upon His shoulder. And His name will be called Wonderful, Counselor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace.

Isaiah 43:10,11 - "You are My witnesses," says the Lord, "And My servant whom I have chosen, That you may know and believe Me, and understand that I am He. Before Me there was no God formed, Nor shall there be after Me. I, even I, am the Lord, and besides Me there is no Savior."
Revelation 1:17-18; Revelation 2:8 - (Jesus is the First and the Last)

Isaiah 44:6 - (God is the Redeemer)
2 Peter 1:1 (Jesus is the Redeemer) - "To those who have obtained like precious faith with us by the righteousness of our God and Savior Jesus Christ"

Isaiah 44:24 - (God created the world by His self alone)
John 1:3; Colossians 1:16 - (Jesus made all things)

John 1:1 - In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God... 1:14 - And the Word became flesh and dwelt among us,

John 5:17,18 - "My Father has been working until now, and I have been working." Therefore the Jews sought to kill Him, because He not only broke the Sabbath, but also said that God was His Father, making Himself equal with God.

John 5:23 - that all should honor the Son just as they honor the Father. He who does not honor the Son does not honor the Father who sent Him.

John 8:24 - "Therefore I said to you that you will die in your sins; for if you do not believe that I AM [He], you will die in your sins."

John 8:58 - Then Jesus said to them, "Most assuredly, I say to you, before Abraham was, I AM."

John 10:30-33 - Jesus answered them, "I and My Father are one." Then the Jews took up stones again to stone Him. Jesus answered them, "Many good works I have shown you from My Father. For which of those works do you stone Me?" The Jews answered Him, saying, "For a good work we do not stone You, but for blasphemy, and because You, being a Man, make Yourself God."

John 14:6-7 - Jesus said to him, "I AM the way, the truth, and the Life. No one comes to the Father except through Me."

John 14:9-11 - Jesus said to him, "Have I been with you so long and yet you have not known Me, Philip? He who has seen Me has seen the Father; so how can you say, 'Show us the Father'?"

John 20:28 - And Thomas answered and said to Him, "My Lord and my God!"

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Acts 4:12 - “Nor is there salvation in any other, for there is no other name under heaven given among men by which we must be saved.”

Acts 20:28 - (God purchased us with His own blood)
Revelation 1:5-6; Revelation 5:8-9 - (Jesus' blood purchased us)

Philippians 2:5-7 - Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus, who, being in the form of God, did not consider it robbery to be equal with God, but made Himself of no reputation, taking the form of a bond-servant, and coming in the likeness of men.

Colossians 2:9 - For in Him dwells all the fullness of the Godhead bodily

1 Timothy 3:16 - And without controversy great is the mystery of godliness: God was manifested in the flesh, Justified in the Spirit, Seen by angels, Preached among the Gentiles, Believed on in the world, Received up in glory.

Titus 2:13 - looking for the blessed hope and glorious appearing of our great God and Savior Jesus Christ

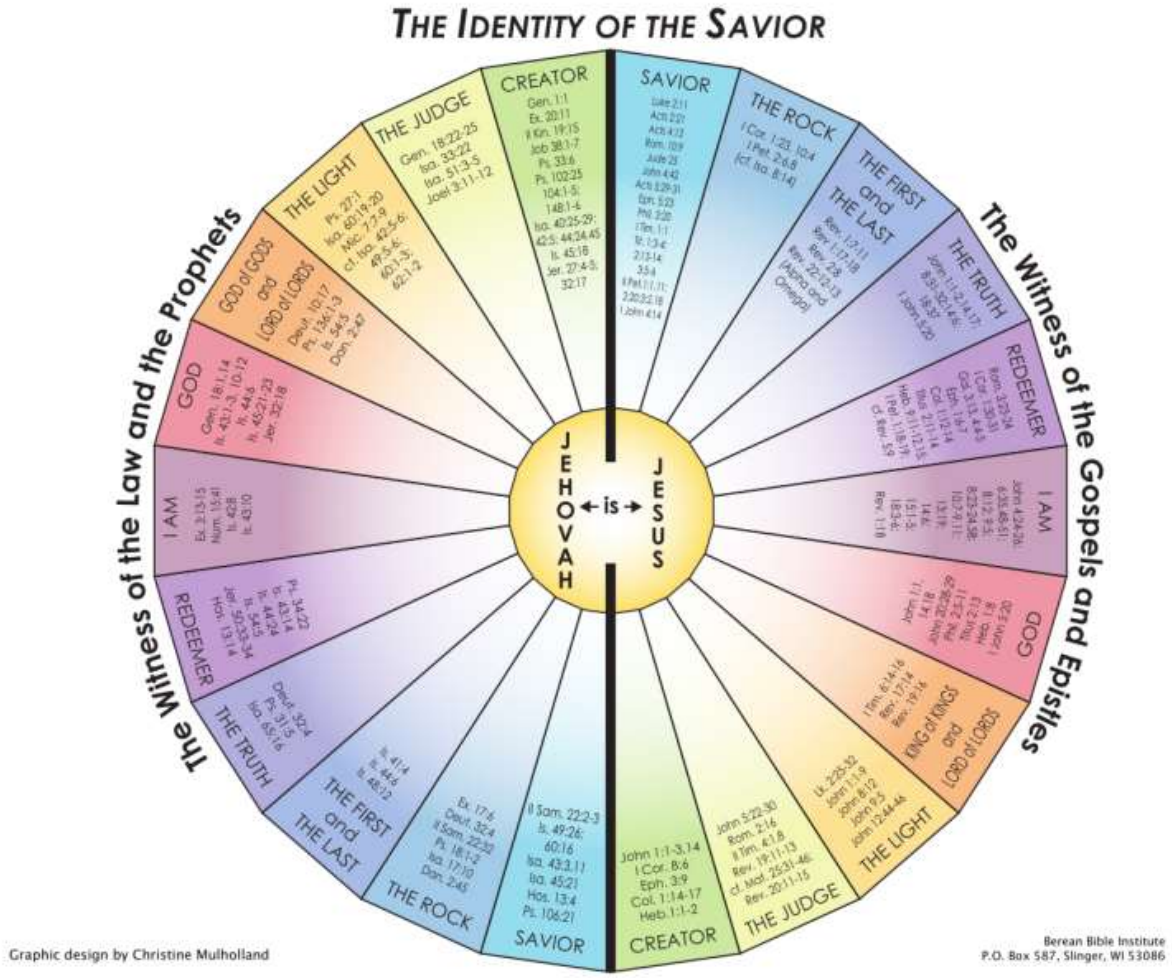
Hebrews 1:8-9 - But to the Son He says: “Your throne, O God, is forever and ever; A scepter of righteousness is the scepter of Your kingdom. You have loved righteousness and hated lawlessness; Therefore God, Your God, has anointed You with the oil of gladness more than Your companions.”

2 John 1:7 - For many deceivers have gone out into the world who do not confess Jesus Christ as coming in the flesh. This is a deceiver and an antichrist.

Revelation 1:8 - “I am the Alpha and the Omega, the Beginning and the End,” says the Lord, “who is and who was and who is to come, the Almighty.”

Revelation 22:13 - “I AM the Alpha and the Omega, the Beginning and the End, the First and the Last.”... 22:16 - “I, Jesus, have sent My angel to testify to you these things in the churches.”

1 Timothy 6:14-16 - “our Lord Jesus Christ's appearing, which He will manifest in His own time, He who is the blessed and only Potentate, the King of kings and Lord of lords, who alone has immortality, dwelling in unapproachable light, whom no man has seen or can see, to whom be honor and everlasting power. Amen.”

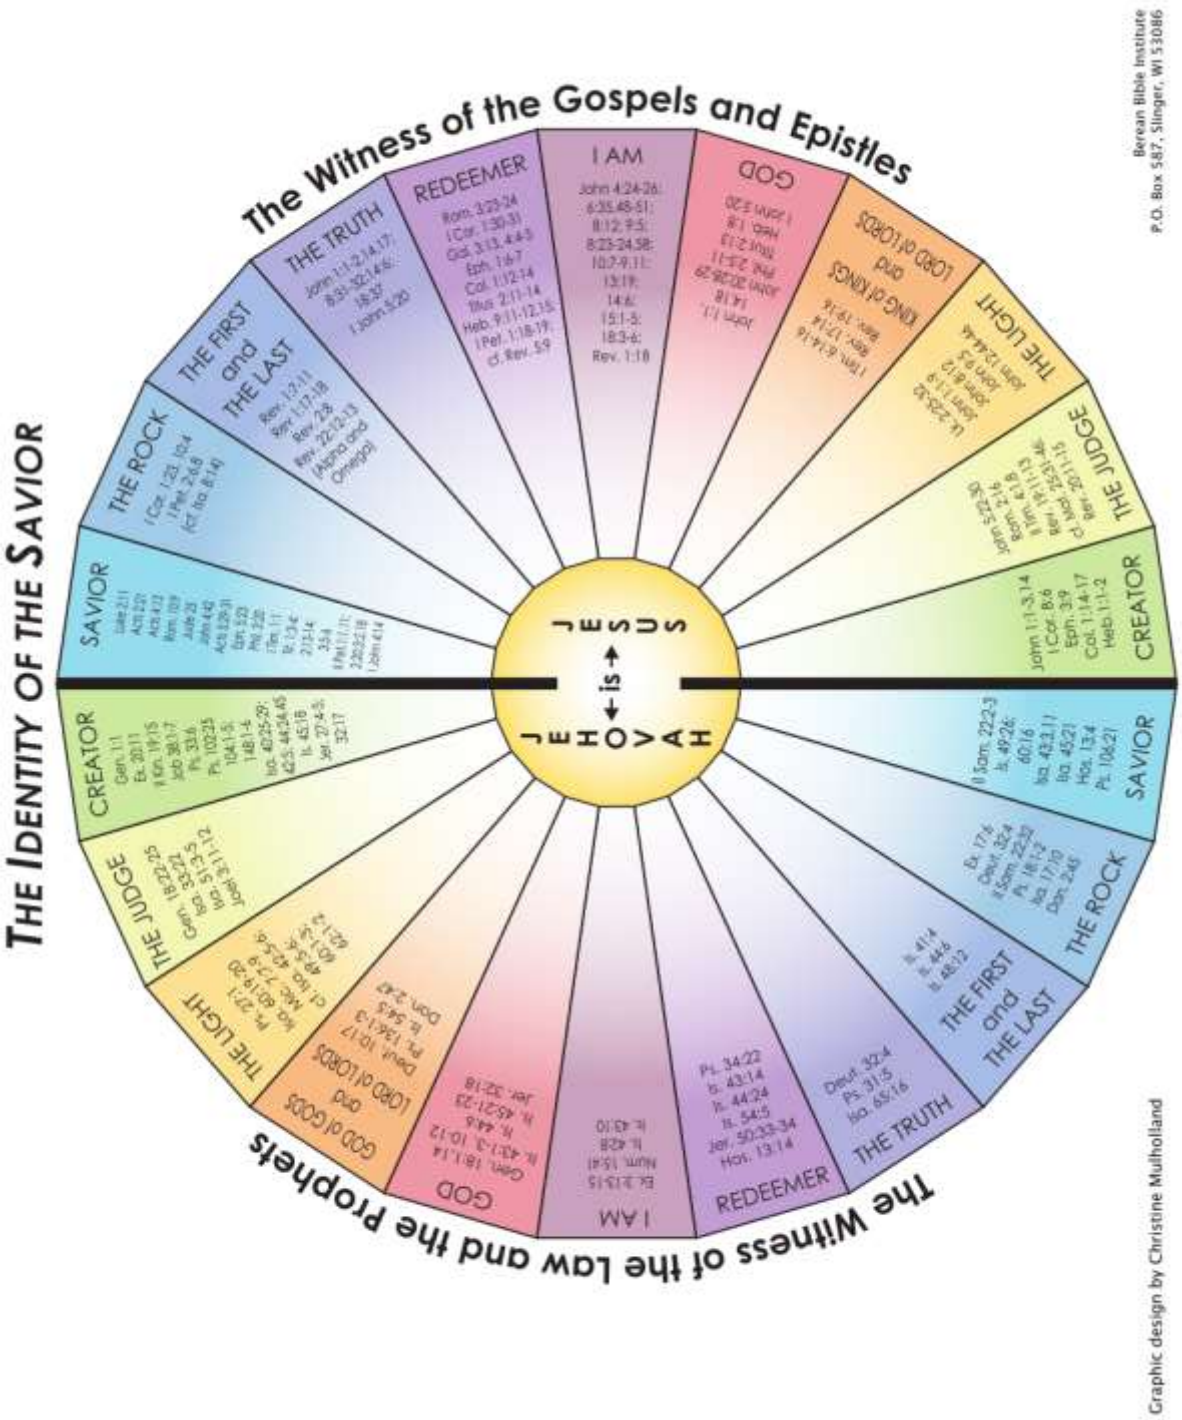


Hebrews 2:17-18 - “Therefore, in all things He had to be made like His brethren, that He might be a merciful and faithful High Priest in things pertaining to God, to make propitiation for the sins of the people. For in that He Himself has suffered, being tempted, He is able to aid those who are tempted.”
Hebrews 4:15-16 - “For we do not have a High Priest who cannot sympathize with our weaknesses, but was in all points tempted as we are, yet without sin. Let us therefore come boldly to the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy and find grace to help in time of need.”
1 Peter 2:24 - “who Himself bore our sins in His own body on the tree, that we having died to sins, might live for righteousness - by whose stripes you were healed.”

He went from sovereignty to shame and from deity to death? Why!? For you.
John 15:13 - “Greater love has no one than this, than to lay down one's life for his friends.”
Romans 5:8 - “But God demonstrates His own love toward us, in that while we were still sinners, Christ died for us.”

[Source: http://bugman123.com/Bible/JesusIsGod.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



The Identity of the Savior

Source: https://kettlemorainebiblechurch.weebly.com/charts.html

See larger view on next page…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Case for Jesus of Nazareth

The Case for Jesus of Nazareth

www.ColdCaseChristianity.com www.str.org

Non-Christian Historians Agree that Jesus Lived

(1) The Historical Record of Thallus (52AD)
(2) The Historical Record of Pliny the Younger (61-113AD)
(3) The Historical Record of Suetonius (69-140AD)
(4) The Historical Record of Tacitus (56-120AD)
(5) The Historical Record of Mara Bar-Serapion (70AD)
(6) The Historical Record of Phlegon (80-140AD)
(7) The Historical Record of Lucian of Samosata: (115-200 A.D.)
(8) The Historical Record of Celsus (175AD)

Jewish Historians Agree that Jesus Lived

(1) The Historical Record of Josephus (37-101AD)
(2) The Historical Record of the Jewish Talmud (400-700AD)
(3) The Historical Record of The Toledot Yeshu (1000AD)

Jesus Claimed to Be God

(1) He Prefaced His Statements As Though He Was God (Matthew 5:18)
(2) He Identified Himself With God's Own Name, "I Am" (John 8:49-58)
(3) He Talked As Though He Was Equal With God (John 14:6-9)
(4) He Said That He and God Were One (John 10:25-29)

Jesus Demonstrated that He Had the Nature of God

(1) He Demonstrated Omniscience (John 4:16-30), Omnipresence (Matthew 28:20), and Omnipotence (John 11:38-44, Mark 6:48)

Jesus Was Worshiped As God by Those Who Knew Him

(1) The wise men worshiped him at his birth (Matthew 2:10-12)
(2) The leper worshiped Him at his healing (Matthew 8:2)
(3) The synagogue ruler worshiped Him (Matthew 9:18-19)
(4) The disciples worshiped him in the boat (Matthew 14:32-33)
(5) The mother of James and John worshipped Him (Matthew 20:20-21)
(6) The blind man worshiped Him at his healing (John 9:35-38)
(7) The women worshiped Him at the empty tomb (Matthew 28:8-10)

Jesus Fulfilled Old Testament Messianic Prophecies

(1) The Messiah Will Appear After the Jews Return to Israel (Jeremiah 23:3-6)
(2) The Messiah Would Be Born in Bethlehem (Micah 5:2)
(3) The Messiah Would Be Preceded By a Messenger (Isaiah 40:3)
(4) The Messiah Would Enter Jerusalem While Riding on a Donkey (Zech 9:9)
(5) The Messiah Would Suffer and Be Rejected (Isaiah 53:3)
(6) The Messiah Would Be Betrayed for 30 Pieces of Silver(Zech 11:12-13)
(7) The Messiah Would Be Silent Before His Accusers (Isaiah 53:7)
(8) The Messiah Would Be Wounded, Whipped and Crucified (Isaiah 53:5)

COLD-CASE CHRISTIANITY:
A Homicide Detective Investigates the Claims of the Gospels

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

How to Respond to Claims Jesus is a “Copycat Savior”

How to Respond to Claims Jesus Is a “Copycat Savior”

www.ColdCaseChristianity.com

1. Expose the False Claims:
The gods of mythology were not born of a virgin as Jesus was born to Mary, they did not live a life that was similar to Jesus in detail, they did not hold the titles attributed to Jesus, and they were not resurrected in a manner remotely similar to the resurrection of Christ. Primitive mythologies simply fail to resemble the Biblical account of Jesus when they are examined closely. Expose the false claims of those who say Jesus was copied from prior mythologies.

2. Expose the Errant Strategy:
Critics typically "cherry pick" from the mythological attributes of a variety of pagan gods and exaggerate the alleged similarities to construct a profile vaguely similar to Jesus. They search for singular similarities to the Christ of the Bible and then assemble these similarities from a variety of gods spanning the centuries and originating in geographically diverse regions (as if the 1st Century creators of the Jesus story would have access to these mythologies in the first place. There is no single prior mythology significantly similar to Jesus. Expose the selective strategy of those who say Jesus was copied from prior mythologies.

3. Expose the Common Cultural Expectations:
The primitive cultures who were interested in God's nature reasoned He would have the ability to perform miracles, teach humans and form disciples. These are universal expectations failing to invalidate the historicity of Jesus. As Paul recognized on Mars Hill (Acts 17:22-31), men thought deeply about the nature of God prior to His arrival as Jesus. Sometimes they imagined the details correctly, sometimes they didn't. Expose the common cultural expectations of ancient people groups to those who say Jesus was copied from prior mythologies.

4. Expose the Unlikely Approach Being Offered:
It is unreasonable to believe Christian conspirators would create a story designed to convince Jewish believers Jesus was God by inserting pagan mythological elements into the narrative. Judaism is a uniquely monotheistic religion, and the God of Judaism provides strict prohibitions against the worship of pagan gods. It is unreasonable to think the New Testament authors would utilize pagan mythology in an attempt to influence adherents of Judaism. Expose the unlikely nature of this claim by those who say Jesus was copied from prior mythologies.

5. Expose the Reliable Nature of the Gospel Eyewitness Accounts:
There are sufficient reasons to believe the history of Jesus is reliable, even if there are marginal similarities between Jesus and pagan mythologies. The evidence for the early dating of the Gospels, the corroboration of their claims (both internally and externally), the reliable transmission of their content, and the lack of bias on the part of their authors provides sufficient reason to believe they accurately describe the life, death and resurrection of Jesus. Expose the reliable nature of the Gospels to those who say Jesus was copied from prior mythologies.

COLD-CASE CHRISTIANITY:
A Homicide Detective Investigates the Claims of the Gospels

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

MESSIAH OR CHRIST? YESHUA OR JESUS?

http://empirenet.com/~messiah7/spl_ChristOrMessiah.htm

Many people in the Hebrew roots movement passionately reject the use of names such as "Christ" and "Jesus" and any word or practice that sounds to them as though it has a Greek rather than Hebrew origin. To them, anyone who uses any form of "Greek" name or practice must surely be wrapped up in worship of the sun god rather than of Yahweh and the Messiah of whom the Torah and prophets speak.

They offer a large variety of evidence to "prove" this, such as:

- Greeks, not followers of the Messiah, called him Christ(os) (Michael Rood, Jeremia Gordon)

- Greeks called all their gods christos, so Christ must not be used as a title for the Messiah (Michael Rood, Jeremia Gordon)

- Greeks, not Hebrews, first substituted the word "Lord" for "Yahweh"

- Zeus (a Greek god) was added to the name Yeshua to make the name "Jesus (Iesous in Greek); therefore following Jesus is the same as following the sun-god

- Greek name endings with sus, seus, and sous (which are phonetic pronunciations for Zeus) were attached by the Greeks to names and geographical areas as means to give honor to their supreme deity, Zeus." (J. C. J. Melford, page 126)

- it is gross error to transliterate Yeshua as Iesous (Jesus), in part because the "J" sound of Jesus does not match the "Y" sound of the Hebrew Yeshua

- "IHS" (a symbol used for Jesus in many churches) comes from the sun god, or is an acrostic with pagan or occultic meaning

- Dutch theologian named Desiderius Erasmus(1466-1536) in the year 1516 introduced the word "Lord" for Yahweh

- The "Name of blasphemy" christ' (Romans 5:6 KJV) ; was first introduced by the devil and "false apostle Paul" in his evil letter to The Romans

- all, or nearly all, of the New Testament was written in Hebrew or Aramaic, not Greek, so the authors could not have used the names Jesus or Christ

- the Vatican must be hiding original Hebrew or Aramaic texts of the New Testament which are older than any Greek texts

- Greek language and belief that practicing the Mosaic law is not mandatory or even beneficial to spiritual growth is a corruption

Some readers readily accept these kinds of claims uncritically, even though the claims often contradict each other. Who was at fault for introducing sun god worship into the church? Erasmus? The Roman Catholic church? Constantine? The council of Nicea? The false apostle Paul? Unidentified Greeks?

All these assertions have one thing in common- they do not identify actual evidence to back them up. For instance, they do not provide actual quotations from, and titles of, ancient sources such as historians of the first century. Radical claims such as these call for weighty, verifiable sources and evidence to back them up. But none is provided.

Here are verifiable facts that address these claims:

EXAMINING CLAIMS ABOUT THE ORIGIN OF "CHRIST" AND "LORD"

1. Hebrews, not Greeks, came up with the name Iesous and used it in place of "Yeshua" . About 150 years BC devout Hebrew men translated the Old Testament into Greek. This isn't just speculation,

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

You can check this out for yourself. The Greek translation was called the Septuagint (abbreviated as "LXX" because LXX is the Roman number for 70, which reflected the Hebrew belief that 70 men translated it). The simplest way to verify this is to visit www.unboundbible.org You can have it print out Joshua 1:1 (or any other verse that mentions Joshua) with the English next to the OT Greek. It is obvious the Hebrews chose "Iesous" for "Joshua/Yeshua." That was Greek spelling that to them sounded most like the Hebrew "Yeshua," The Greek alphabet does not have either a "Y" or a "J," nor does it have a "sh" sound, so they could not have spelled it either "Yeshua" or "Jesus." You can also find "Septuagint" in Webster's dictionary (maybe not a pocket size, but the desk size will have it) because it is so important in understanding the Law and Prophets as well as the New Testament. The Hebrew world chose to use the word "Christ," not the Greeks This translation was widely in use among Hebrews in the first century, so many Jews called the Messiah "Christ." Both Hebrew and Gentile followers of Y'shua drew their faith vocabulary and thought from the bilingual Hebrew world, not from the Gentile Greek world.

2. The "ous" ending on "Jesus/Iesous" was not put there by sun god worshipers or by Greeks. The Hebrews first did it in the LXX, as noted above. They had to do this because of how the Greek language works. English is a word order language in which nouns and names are always spelled the same, and you understand what they mean by where they fall in the sentence. It makes a big difference whether you say "Jeff went to the store" or "The store went to Jeff."

Greek is not that way. Greek doesn't care what order the words are in. Instead, Greek changes how the names are spelled to help you understand what they mean. This is called "declining" words and giving the nouns "case." You can find definitions of these words in Webster, too. For instance, if the name "Jeff" was used in ancient (and modern) Greek, it would be spelled different ways depending on their use. A sentence would say "Jeffous (the subject of the sentence) sent Jeffov (the object of the sentence) to get the book of Jeffou ("Possessive"- Jeff's book)." You'll notice that "Jeff" always has an ending added to it. It has to have an ending, or the readers wouldn't understand the sentence, because word order means nothing.

The same thing happened with the name Yeshua/Joshua. Hebrews took the root of the name, "Yes" transliterated it to Greek letters "Ies" and added the case endings so that the name was spelled "Iesous," "Iesou" or "Iesov" depending on its use in the sentence. This wasn't an option. Greek speakers did this with every name and nouns, whether it was Simon, house, cow, table- whatever. The "ous" (or other word endings) weren't added because they indicated Greek gods. They were a natural part of talking Greek.

English does not decline nouns, except for the pronoun "he." We say, "He (nominative) drove him (accusative) to the store in his (genitive) car." It wouldn't make sense to us to instead say "He drove he to the store in he car," because you have to decline the word for it to make any sense. In the same way, Greek had to decline nouns in order for them to make any sense.

Adding "s" to the end of Christ (or Messiah) was necessary when the words were used by Greek speakers. Nouns in Greek (and some other languages, but not English) must be "declinable." That means that the last couple letters of the noun change with how they are used in the sentence. When "Christ" or "Messiah" is used as the subject, it is spelled with an "s" at the end (e.g.: Messias). When the noun is used as a genitive (as in "followers of Messiah") it is spelled with a "u" at the end (e.g.: Christou). English shortens it to the root, "Christ," because English doesn't decline nouns. Regardless of exactly how different languages spell it- as Messias, Messiah, Mashiyach, Christ, Christos, Y'shua, Yeshua, Jesus," etc, it is the same name or title. (Rood himself has used a variety of spellings of names for Messiah and YHWH, some not matching the spellings Gordon uses.)

3. "Zeus" was not added to "Yeshua" to make "Iesous." In fact, "Zeus" is spelled with a Z, and there is no Z in Iesous. The article by J. C. J. Melford, page 126 ... is just plain silly: "It is known that the Greek name endings with sus, seus, and sous (which are phonetic pronunciations for Zeus) were attached by the Greeks to names and geographical areas as means to give honour to their supreme deity, Zeus." The "s" ending was applied to dogs, roaches, houses, dog piles, rotten meat- literally all masculine nouns. Giving honor has absolutely nothing to do with this. Plus, names were actually spelled with "u" and "n" endings, too, depending on the case (as noted above). It is just grammar, not

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Zeus. But check this out for yourself by looking at any Greek grammar. What Melford says is just totally ignorant of the Greek language.

4, The Greeks never used the word "Christ" for their gods, or in any sacred context, or as any kind of title of honor at all. The verb form of the word meant "to rub lightly, spread." It was used for spreading oil after a bath, poison on arrows (both of these are found in Homer), whitewash, paint or cosmetics. The Dictionary of New Testament Theology Vol. 2 (from which this information is taken) adds, "It is anything but an expression of honor. Where it refers to people, it even tends towards the disrespectful" (pp. 334-335). For example, the compound word neochristos meant "newly whitewashed" (see Diodorus Siculus). The Greeks certainly did not choose to use the word for the Hebrew Messiah- nor did the Christians.

On the surface, it may seem odd to some people that such a "secular" word as christos would be used for anointing Messiah, which people see as a very spiritual use. But the noun Messiah, also has a verb form, messah. Some of the Prophets use the verb in everyday ways- to rub (messah) a shield with oil (Isaiah 21:5), to paint (messah) a house (Jeremiah 22:14), and apply oil (messah) to a body (Amos 6:6). You can verify that the verb massah is used in these verses by checking a Hebrew text or Strong's concordance. This shows that the verb form of Messiah is sometimes used in the same nonreligious ways that the verb form of christos was used by the Greeks. This made christos a good match for translators to use, since they were looking for a Greek root that had both verb and noun forms which were used in much the same ways as the Hebrew words. Messah was used more often to describe anointing kings, prophets and priests, but it was clearly used in both secular and religious ways.

5. The Hebrews, not Greek or Christians, chose to use the word "Christ(os)" and "Messiah" interchangeably. The Hebrews themselves translated the Old Testament into Greek in about 150 B.C. in what is called the Septuagint They say that the High Priest himself chose 72 elders from Judea who were experienced in the law, beliefs and customs of the Torah and were able to translate from Hebrew to Greek. This means they were fluent in both languages, and used both Messiah and Christos, Throughout the LXX, "Christ" is used for the Anointed One, such as in Psalm 2:2. You can check this for yourself by looking it up in the Septuagint online at www.unboundbible.org or in a paper copy at a library.

The Apostle John himself used both words when he wrote, "(Andrew said,) we have found the Messiah, that is the Christ" (John 1:42), and "The woman said, 'I know that Messiah, called Christ, is coming" (John 4:24). John considered "Christ" and "Messiah" to be synonymous, and used Christ when speaking to Greek speakers, and Messiah when speaking to Hebrew speakers. (This article follows the Gospel's practice of using Messiah and Christ interchangeably, too.)

6. Hebrews roots proponents including Rood also condemn using the word "Lord" for YHWH (often spelled Yahweh). But the Hebrews, not Christians, introduced "Lord" (Greek- kurios) in the LXX just as it did "Christ." The LXX uses "Lord" (Greek- kurios) for YHWH and "God" for Elohim (eg: Genesis 3:14, Exodus 3:14)..

7. The only ancient author to suggest that any part of the NT was authored in Aramaic or Hebrew is Papias, and he said only that Matthew was, not the rest of the NT. Some writers claim that many ancient authors claimed the NT was written in Aramaic, but that is entirely false. I challenge you to find the name, book title, and chapter of even one ancient author or church leader (other than Papias) that said so. They absolutely do not exist.

8. Many Hebrews of the first century B.C. who strictly observed the Torah spoke and wrote in Greek, not Hebrew. One example of this is the book of II Maccabees. Although this book is included in the Apocrypha found in Catholic Bibles, those books were written by Hebrews for Hebrews. II Maccabees records historical events which took place in Israel from 175 to 160 B.C. It is a condensation of a five volume history written by Jason of Cyrene, a strict observer of Torah written for other strict observers. It records how God's people faced torture and martyrdom rather than break the law of Moses. Yet, the book was authored in Greek, not Hebrew, and continued to be passed down to Hebrews in

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Greek. They considered it perfectly acceptable to strict observers of Torah to use the Greek language. The Greek Septuagint version of the Law and Prophets was used by Hebrews like these.

9. It is entirely imagination to speculate that the Vatican is hiding ancient Hebrew copies of the Gospels. No matter how logical it may seem to you, this is strictly fantasy until anyone produces a valid copy of such a thing. The fact is that we now have extremely early portions of the Gospels written in Greek, but absolutely none in Hebrew. The earliest portion is a copy of several verses of the Gospel of Matthew that dates to 60-62 A.D., which is within a few years of when Matthew authored his Gospel. Besides the physical evidence of the type of material and ink that was used, documents found with it pin down this very early date.

10. The book of Acts and the epistles were all written in Greek. Almost all the conversations in the book of Acts had to have taken place in Greek, not Hebrew. Think about it.

Luke, the author of Acts, was a Greek and he addressed it to another Greek, Theophilus (both names are Greek). Saul (Paul) and Luke accordingly used the Greek form Christos," because the vast majority of their hearers would have understood that, but would not have understood "Messiah," because they did not know Hebrew.

Acts 6 mentions the large body of Greek-speaking Hebrews in Jerusalem, the heart of Hebrew country (6:1). Phillip preached to the Samaritans, (who hated Hebrews, their language, religion and temple) and surely used Greek or Aramaic (Acts 8). The Gentile centurion Cornelius, some of his soldiers, and his whole household could not have understood Hebrew, yet understood Peter preaching- no doubt in Greek (Acts 10).

Paul, Barnabas and others taught the many Greeks who came to faith at Antioch (Acts 11,13). Paul persuaded the Roman proconsul on Cyprus, Sergius Paulus to believe (Acts 13:6-12). Many Gentiles at Iconium believed Paul, but he barely persuaded the crowds in Lystra (who spoke Lycaonian) not to sacrifice to them as gods (Acts 14). Acts never mentions a synagogue in most of the cities Paul visited. Paul could not have communicated in Hebrew to his own coworkers such as Timothy and Titus, who were raised as Greeks. In fact, most of Paul's coworkers had Greek names- Titus, Timothy, Apollos and Dionysius (names of Greek gods), Eutychus, the seven (Acts 6:6), the teachers at Antioch (Acts 13) and the long list of saints in Romans 16. Some names were Hebrew, such as Barnabas, which indicates that Luke wasn't trying to expunge everything Hebrew and replace everything with Greek- he was just factually reporting the prevalence of both Hebrew and especially Greek in the early church.

Paul spoke with the judges and jailer at Philippi, a Roman colony, though they surely did not know Hebrew. Paul's message to the Areopagus in Athens (Acts 17), and his defense when on trial before the Roman proconsul Gallio (Acts 18) were in Greek. The idolmakers in Ephesus (Acts 19) surely didn't riot in Hebrew. Paul spoke Greek to the Roman commander and centurion who arrested him in the temple (Acts 21:37, 22:25), as did Paul's nephew (23:19-21). Paul didn't need a translator. Paul made his own defense when on trial before Governors Felix (Acts 24) and Festus (Acts 25-26). Paul surely spoke Greek to the captain and everyone on the ship on his voyage to Rome (Acts 27) and to the superstitious islanders on Malta (Acts 28). Since Paul spoke Greek to them, he always had to use "Iesous Christos" with the Greek endings on the name in order to be understood.

11. An Aramaic NT did not have to exist in order for the Greek NT to transliterate "Yeshua" into "Iesous." As I mentioned above, Paul and others spoke to many groups of people in Greek, using the "declined" word forms in order to be understood. Luke was quoting him.

12. The New Testament sometimes uses a variety of spellings for names. The Greek form "Iesous" is used for Jesus in the NT, and is used for Joshua in the OT (you can check this in the Septuagint, as I mentioned above.) So every translator who sees "Iesous" in Hebrews has to guess by the context whether it refers to Jesus or Joshua, as in Hebrews 4. It's a fluke that people commonly translate the Iesous as either Joshua or Jesus. But it is not uncommon to have different spellings for the same name. For instance, Jude, Judah and Judas are all exactly the same name, and are spelled the same in Greek.. You can check this yourself by calling up Mat 1:2, 26:47 and Jude 1 in Greek at http://www.unboundbible.org . Matthew and Matthias are the same Greek name.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

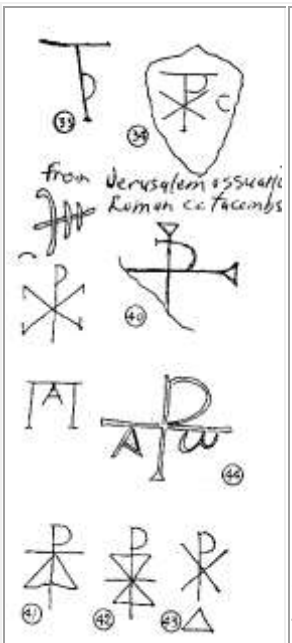
Why is the same Greek sometimes transliterated in different ways? It wouldn't have to be. But it saves some explaining- you don't have to tell every child, "no, Judas the betrayer didn't write a book of the Bible." Sometimes translators chop off the Greek "s" ending (like in Jude, Herod, etc) and other times leave it on (as in Judas, Jesus).

13. When people translate the Greek New Testament into English (and other languages), why don't the translators convert Greek forms of names like Iesous into Hebrew forms such as Yeshua? There are a few reasons for this. First, the Greek does not read Yeshua, it reads Iesous. Is it sound translation to write in sounds that don't actually exist in the Greek original? Second, in conversations recorded in the second half of the book of Acts, such as Paul's conversations in Ephesus, Philippi, etc, the speakers certainly used the Greek forms of the names (as noted above). To replace words that apostles actually said with Hebrew forms that they did not use is a stretch that translators think would be inappropriate or misleading.

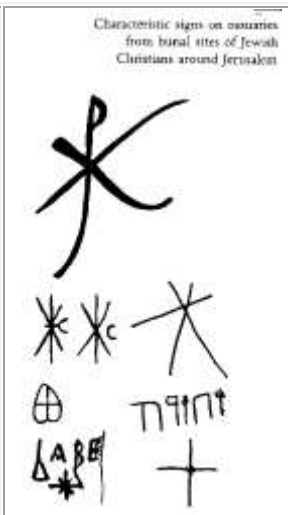
14. The abbreviation "IHS" does not come from the sun god, and is not an acrostic with pagan or occultic meaning. "IHS" are the first 3 letters of "Yeshua" when it is transliterated into Greek. The Hebrews, not Greek, chose this spelling (see the Septuagint, Joshua 1). The abbreviation stops at the first three letters because they are the root of the word. The endings vary- Iesous, Iesov, Iesou, etc.-- depending on the word's place in the sentence, as mentioned above. Some ancient Christian writings abbreviate names by using the first and last letters of Iesous- IS- in place of the whole name (IHS may also be the first two, and the last, letters of Iesous). They also abbreviated Theos (God) to "THS" (which is just two letters in Greek).

This is similar to the English practice of using the first initials of our first, middle and last names, such as "JFK." Just as Americans know that "JFK" refers to Pres. John F. Kennedy, so followers of Iesous knew (and in many cases still know) that IHS refers to Yeshua (Jesus Christ).

We find the practice of abbreviating names in the Old Testament. The OT uses both YH and YHWH. The short version is most common in names like Jo-shua (Ya-shua; not Yahweh-shua/ Jehoweh-shua. It also appears in its simplest form in Psalm 68:4 "extol him by His name Yah." Elohim, another title for God, is also used in its shortened form, El, in the Law and the Prophets. People don't wonder what conspiratorial or occult meaning there is in the abbreviation YH or El, we know it is the name of the Lord, whether full length or shortened. Using IHS or XP follows the Hebrew (not Greek, Masonic or Roman Catholic) practice of using the shortened YH.
Abbreviating names and titles was well known in the Christian and Roman world as well, especially on coins in which space was very limited. Abbreviations of Christ's name, such as XP, is also very ancient. Some examples are in the Roman Catacombs, where believers gathered long before any semblance of Roman Catholicism or Masonry. When you scratch messages and tributes on stone walls, it's a lot easier to abbreviate names than to spell them out in full. There are many examples of both coins and Christian graffiti from the ancient world. (See pictures below.)



Some names have short and long forms, just as we do in English- Tom, Ths. and Thomas. We don't look for any mystical or occultic meaning if someone signs his name Tom or Ths. instead of Thomas. One example of a NT name in short and long form is Silvanus.. when he wrote the short form Silas, he wasn't trying to get across a deep or occultist meaning, he was just abbreviating it. The same is true of IHS and IHSOUS..



When we see abbreviations like "L (heart) G" carved in a pen knife on a tree, we don't wonder what occult or conspiratorial; meaning there may be in the abbreviation, we just know that it's a lot easier for two lovers to carve 2 letters in bark than 10 or 20. When we sign things with our initials or with our first name only, such as in letters or email, people don't wonder what pagan meaning there may be in the abbreviation of our names, we just know that those who read it know who we are. When the church uses abbreviations like IHS and XP, believers don't wonder, "who's IHS or XP" (unless they're really uninformed), they know who the initials refer to.

(Note: Before the ninth century, all Greek literary works were written in "uncial" script, which looks like capital letters, and are used as capital letters in Greek texts printed nowadays. After the ninth century, most manuscripts were written in "minuscule" script, which looks like small case letters, and are used as small case letters in today's Greek texts. But actually, neither uncial nor minuscule script had large and small case- all the letters were the same "case" and they normally did not put spaces between words. This fact means that the modern day speculation that "IHS" is an acrostic because it is all "capital" letters is false-- they are uncial letters. Nether Greek script had small case and capital letters. Even if you don't know Greek, you can verify this by looking at a reproduction of an ancient uncial manuscript-- all the letters look like "capital" letters. And if you look at a minuscule manuscript, all the letters look like small case.)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Examples of the first two letters of "Christ" (X,P) and the Hebrew Tetragrameton (YHWH) inscribed on first century ossuaries in Jerusalem

examples of names abbreviated on first century coins

15. In most European languages a J has a Y sound, so "Jesus" sounds like "Yeshua." The "J" is pronounced like a Y in German, Norwegian, Swedish, Spanish, Slavic, etc. When "Jesus" was first spelled with a J (which was at least as early as Luther's German Bible, 1520) probably every language in Europe that used a "J" pronounced it like a "Y." The hard "J" sound in English (as in "judge") is a fluke, not the norm. English is derived from European languages, and America is populated primarily by immigrants from Europe. After moving to America and beginning to learn English, it made sense to them to continue to spell "Jesus" as it had been for many centuries, rather than make up a foreign spelling with a Y that was unfamiliar to them, and which would lead to confusion. Many Bibles continued to be printed in Europe and used in both Europe and the Americas, just as today.

German, as one example, could not have used a "Y" because the German alphabet did not have a "Y." (At the end of the 20th century German began to use a Y, but only in a handful of foreign names and loan words such as Yates and yacht.) German, like Greek, declines nouns, so the spelling of "Jesus" changes with how it is used in a sentence- Jesus Christus (nominative), Jesu Christi (genitive), etc. If you know classical music and chorales (such as Bach), you may have recognized this already in songs such as "Jesu (pronounced "ya-su"), Joy of Man's Desiring.".

16. Why does "Yeshua" use a "sh" and Jesus an "s?" Hebrew has one consonant for both S and SH. It looks vaguely like our "W." But when you place a dot above the left arm, it's pronounced as an S, but if the dot is above the right arm it's pronounced as an SH. But ancient Hebrew manuscripts didn't use the dots at all, so some pronunciations were up to tradition. Greek, on the other hand, doesn't have an "SH" sound at all, so there is no way to spell Jesus with sh in the middle using Greek letters.

17. If the main goal is to avoid all association with the morning of the first day of the week, due to the sun god, then why was Yeshua so foolish as to arise at sunrise on the first day of the week (a Sunday)? The Gospels clearly say that the resurrection was "at dawn" (Matthew 28:10), "just after sunrise" (Mark 16:2; the word helios, or "sun," is used). If resurrection had taken place at the end of the Sabbath just after sundown, nonJews would have argued that He did not rise on the first day of the week, as He had said. By rising at sunrise, Christ made clear to Jews and Gentiles that he had risen on the third day as He had prophesied.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Early in the book of Revelation they sing the song of the redemption, the song of the Lamb. It honors the death and resurrection of the Messiah. Would it be worthy to honor the resurrection and redemption by worshiping on the day of the week on which that took place, just as the completion of creation was honored by worshiping on the day that took place?

The Law required special worship on Sundays- including the festival of Firstfruits and Feast of Weeks (Leviticus 23:9-21). (The image of the "eighth day" as a special day -- eg: Leviticus 23:36, 39-- is also a model for the honor given to the first/eighth day of the week by the Resurrection of Christ/Messiah.) The Apostle notes that the Messiah (Christ) rose on the first day of the week, the day of Firstfruits, to fulfill the intent of that observance (1 Corinthians 15:20-23). If the main goal is to avoid all association with the sun god, then why did Yahweh require these special worships on the first day of the week, then cause the Messiah to rise from the dead at Sunrise on the first day of the week?

18 The Roman Catholic Church and Emperor Constantine cannot be blamed to falsely causing Christians to worship on the first day of the week or used Greek terms such as Christ because these practices were typical in the Christian church hundreds of years before they existed. It is universally accepted that the RC church began in 1090 when Pope Gregory I became the single authority in the church, and began to require worship in Latin. Before this, there was no single authority, decisions were made in councils of church leaders, and most of them spoke and worshiped in Greek or other languages besides Latin. Yet, Roman historian Pliny wrote of how followers of the Messiah worshiped at dawn on the first day of the week in around 100 AD. This was 900 years before the start of the Catholic church... so how could the Catholic Church have forced this on Messiah's followers, since the RC did not exist until 900 years later?

19. Use of Greek language and concepts is a fulfillment, not a corruption, of the Messianic promise. Shortly after the Messiah commanded his followers to make disciples of all nations, the Lord himself miraculously set the pattern of how this should be done. On the Feast of Weeks (Pentecost), the disciples spoke of the Messiah to people who lived around the whole Mediterranean and middle eastern world. They were amazed that "each of us hears them in his own native language... we hear them declaring the wonders of God in our own tongues" (Acts 2:8, 11). Since they were visiting the Jerusalem temple to worship, they presumably knew at least some Hebrew. Nonetheless, the Lord miraculously caused them to hear the Gospel in their own languages, not in Hebrew.

Greek was used by the church because it was used around the world, in much the same way that English is used around the world today. The apostles wrote the Gospels and epistles in Greek because they knew people around the world could read them without needing it translated first. This tradition of putting God's Word into the languages of the people continues today, as parts of the New Testament have been translated into around 2,100 languages. God's desire was to bring the Gospel of forgiveness in the Messiah to all cultures, not to transform all culture into Hebrew culture.

WHY SO MANY MYTHS ABOUT "HEBREW ROOTS?"

Many of the false assertions found in Hebrew roots literature would not be promoted or believed if people had even the barest knowledge of Greek, ancient history, Hebrew use of the Septuagint, and modern languages. The problem is that people who are not knowledgeable about these things hear myths about "Christ" and other topics, get excited about these "new" and "little known" tidbits, and repeat them as fact without checking them out. Even worse, some continue to try to defend the myths after learning the facts we note above.

Many of them readily latch on to whatever radical theory they see, while making no serious effort to verify that "traditional" Christian teachings are, in fact, factual and true. Some people don't even make an effort to find the reason for the "traditional" view, because they don't want to find it. When I attended a Rood Awakening seminar, I was amazed at the attitude of most of the participants. When very radical and fantastic claims were made, most were thrilled about the new ideas, when they should have stepped back and judged them very carefully. (Just as with consumer advertising, the more fantastic the claim is, the less likely it is to be true.)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Many Hebrew roots followers also make the mistake of assuming that whatever they know about 21 st century English must apply to Greek of 2,000 years ago. Specularion about hidden, occultic meanings behind IHS, about "Christ" being a title of Greek gods, and about the "s" at the end of the name "Jesus" fall into this category. They think that because English does not decline nouns, then Greek must not either (in fact, they know so little about language, this does not even occur to them).

There is so much speculation floating around on the Internet, people accepting as gospel truth whatever "makes sense" to them, without having or even seeking basic facts of Greek and the ancient world. What makes this worse is the misguided attitude some people have that everyone who went to seminary or Bible college to learn about Greek, the Biblical world, the LXX and theology is by nature ignorant and false. They end up "learning" from people who speculate on the Internet based on what they've "heard" and what feeds their biases instead of on reputable works of scholarship. These aren't arguments about interpretation, they are plain, basic facts of Greek, the LXX, and the ancient world.
Unfounded speculation gets even worse with conspiracy theories. People speculate that the Vatican is doing everything from hiding a 1st century Hebrew manuscript of the Gospels to promoting paganism by using the initials IHS. Where is the evidence? There is none. One might as well say that the Vatican is hiding the original Gospel of John written in he first century because it has a line in it saying that Hillary Clinton or Saddam Hussein is the Messiah. But if they feel it must be true that the Vatican is hiding it, they believe it. Even worse, to some people the fact that no one has ever seen such a thing is proof that it must exist. (By the way, I'm not Roman Catholic or Masonic.)

In the end, it is not an important issue whether people pronounce his name Y'shua Messiah or Jesus Christ, because He answers to either whether spoken in faith. As Scripture says, "without faith it is impossible to please God," not "without learning how to pronounce names in Hebrew and obeying the Mosaic Law it is impossible to please God."

Dr. John Juedes, Messiah Lutheran Church, Highland CA, 2006

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Holy Spirit

The Holy Spirit is a fully and completely divine person who possesses all of the divine attributes. God the Spirit applies the work of God the Son. The Spirit's distinct role is to accomplish the unified will of the Father and the Son and to be in personal relationship with both of them.

The Personality of the Holy Spirit

The Holy Spirit is a distinct personal being with definite characteristics. He is not merely an impersonal force or an emanation of the power of God. (See the article on the Trinity and the discussion of modalism.)

The baptismal formula of Matthew 28:19-20 , “baptizing them in [or into] the name [singular; not, names] of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit,” puts the Spirit on an equal plane with the Father and the Son in his deity and personhood (cf. also Matt 3:13-17 ; Rom 8:9 ; 1 Cor 12:4-6 ; 2 Cor 13:14 ; Eph 4:4-6 ; 1 Pet 1:2 ; Rev 1:4-5).

The personal nature of the Holy Spirit is evident in his title “Comforter” or “Helper” (Gk. Paraklētos) found in John 12:26 ; 14:16 , 26 ; 15:26 ; 16:7 . Jesus says he will send the Comforter, who will take his place as his disciples' helper: “Nevertheless, I tell you the truth: it is to your advantage that I go away, for if I do not go away, the Helper will not come to you. But if I go, I will send him to you” (John 16:7). An impersonal force could never provide as good a comfort as Jesus. The Holy Spirit must be personal in order to fulfill this most personal ministry.

Scripture speaks of several activities of the Spirit (see Chart) that can only be performed if he is a personal agent. All of these activities of the Holy Spirit are profoundly personal and interrelate with the Father and Son in a way that could only be through the Spirit's distinct personal nature.

Personal Actions of the Holy Spirit

The Spirit comforts	John 12:26 ; 14:16 , 26 ; 15:26 ; 16:7
The Spirit teaches	John 14:26 ; 1 Cor 2:13
The Spirit speaks	Acts 8:29 ; 13:2
The Spirit makes decisions	Acts 15:28
The Spirit grieves over sin	Eph 4:30
The Spirit overrules human actions	Acts 16:6-7
The Spirit searches the deep things of God and knows the thoughts of God	1 Cor 2:10-11
The Spirit determines the distribution of spiritual gifts	1 Cor 12:11
The Spirit interprets and brings human prayer before the throne of the Father	Rom 8:26-27
The Spirit assures believers of their adoption	Rom 8:16

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Spirit bears witness to and glorifies Christ	John 15:26 ; 16:14

The Deity of the Holy Spirit

The Holy Spirit possesses all the divine attributes, as shown in the Chart. When the Holy Spirit works, it is God who is working. Jesus taught that regeneration is the work of God: “Truly, truly, I say to you, unless one is born of water and the Spirit, he cannot enter the kingdom of God” (John 3:5). The divine agent that brings this rebirth is the Spirit: “The wind blows where it wishes, and you hear its sound, but you do not know where it comes from or where it goes. So it is with everyone who is born of the Spirit” (John 3:8). God's speaking through the prophets is accomplished through the work of the Spirit. As Paul says in Acts 28:25-26, “The Holy Spirit was right in saying to your fathers through Isaiah the prophet: ‘Go to this people, and say, you will indeed hear but never understand, and you will indeed see but never perceive.’” This is a quotation from Isaiah 6:9-10, which is an address from Yahweh to Isaiah. Here in Acts 28:25-26 , Paul attributes the words to the Holy Spirit.

Divine Attributes of the Holy Spirit

The Holy Spirit is eternal	Heb 9:14
The Holy Spirit is omnipresent	Ps 139:7-10
The Holy Spirit is omniscient	1 Cor 2:10-11
The Holy Spirit is omnipotent	Luke 1:35-37
The Holy Spirit is holy	Rom 1:4

Furthermore, the Bible equates a believer's relationship to the Spirit and his relationship with God. To lie to the Spirit is to lie to God: “But Peter said, ‘Ananias, why has Satan filled your heart to lie to the Holy Spirit and to keep back for yourself part of the proceeds of the land? While it remained unsold, did it not remain your own? And after it was sold, was it not at your disposal? Why is it that you have contrived this deed in your heart? You have not lied to men but to God ’” (Acts 5:3-4). The Holy Spirit is the one who guarantees God's redeeming work in the lives of believers, and he is the one directly grieved by their sin: “Do not grieve the Holy Spirit of God, by whom you were sealed for the day of redemption” (Eph 4:30).

The Work of the Holy Spirit

The Father, Son, and Holy Spirit are equal in nature but distinct in role and relationship. The distinct roles typically have the Father willing, the Son accomplishing, and the Spirit applying the work of the Son. The Spirit is clearly at work in the key events throughout the history of salvation, including the creation, Christ's incarnation, Christ's resurrection, human regeneration, the inspiration and illumination of Scripture, and the believer's sanctification.

The Spirit's Role in the Ministry of Jesus

The Spirit's role in the human life of the incarnate Christ is often underappreciated. The Spirit brings about the incarnation (Luke 1:35), anoints Jesus for his public ministry at his baptism (Matt 3:16 ; Mark 1:10 ; Luke 3:21-22), fills Jesus (Luke 4:1), leads and empowers Jesus throughout his earthly life (Luke 4:14 , 18), and raises Jesus from the dead (Rom 8:11). The atoning work of Christ is also a Trinitarian accomplishment, with the Spirit playing a prominent role, as seen in Hebrews 9:14 : “how much more will the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit offered himself without blemish to God, purify our conscience from dead works to serve the living God.”

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Spirit's Work in God's People

The reality of God's presence is brought to God's people by God's Spirit. His work is central in the promises of new covenant realities. “And it shall come to pass afterward, that I will pour out my Spirit on all flesh; your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, your old men shall dream dreams, and your young men shall see visions” (Joel 2:28); “And I will not hide my face anymore from them, when I pour out my Spirit upon the house of Israel, declares the Lord GOD ” (Ezek 39:29). These promises are inaugurated at Pentecost when the Spirit's power is poured out on all nations.

The Spirit is the primary person of the Trinity at work in applying the finished work of Christ in the lives of God's people. The acts of the Holy Spirit—rather than the acts of the apostles — are the focal point of the book of Acts. He is the one who enables the apostles to accomplish all their kingdom-advancing work. The power of the Spirit is the catalyst of spiritual transformation. Prayer, church attendance, moral living, coming from a Christian family, and knowing all the right religious words are not a sufficient basis for assurance of one's salvation. But one clear guarantee that someone has passed from death into life is the Spirit's work transforming that person's manner of living. He marks the life and character of believers in a definitive way, as seen in Ephesians 1:13 : “In him you also, when you heard the word of truth, the gospel of your salvation, and believed in him, were sealed with the promised Holy Spirit” (cf. 2 Cor 1:21-22).

In the book of Acts, the Spirit's work was often immediately manifested in miraculous gifts such as speaking in tongues and prophesying. While the Spirit may still choose to work in these ways, it is the fruit of the Spirit that is the normative and necessary evidence of God's work in someone's life: “But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, self-control; against such things there is no law” (Gal 5:22-23). After the inward renewal that makes someone who has trusted Christ a new creation, the Spirit also brings spiritual understanding, convicts of sin, reveals the truth of the Word, brings assurance of salvation, empowers for holy living, teaches, and comforts.

Although the Holy Spirit's work is evident in the life of someone who is truly born again, even believers can operate “in the flesh” (i.e., by their own self and natural ability apart from God), rather than by Spirit-empowered transformation. God is pleased when his people walk in the Spirit and thus show evidence of his work. God-honoring, unified Christian community is possible only when believers walk in the Spirit. This is why Christians are reminded to “walk in a manner worthy of the calling to which you have been called, with all humility and gentleness, with patience, bearing with one another in love, eager to maintain the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace” (Eph 4:1-3).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Holy Spirit Glorifies Christ

The Holy Spirit's work can easily be neglected. Perhaps the reason for this is that one of his primary roles is to glorify Christ by testifying to his kingdom and his saving work, past, present, and future: “When the Spirit of truth comes, he will guide you into all the truth, for he will not speak on his own authority, but whatever he hears he will speak, and he will declare to you the things that are to come. He will glorify me, for he will take what is mine and declare it to you” (John 16:13-14). Because the Holy Spirit's purpose is to glorify Christ, he is honored when this objective is accomplished. The Spirit's deepest longing is that the Son be honored. Jesus is the focus of the Spirit's ministry, and believers honor the Spirit by depending on his help in order to honor Christ. The Holy Spirit works to advance the work of Christ to the glory of the Father, and he empowers and anoints the people of God to do the same.

As seen in the Chart, the Holy Spirit glorifies Christ in four fundamental ways. The Spirit continually points to the beauty and wonder of the Son so that people will be drawn to him, become like him, and point others to him as well: “And we all, with unveiled face, beholding the glory of the Lord, are being transformed into the same image from one degree of glory to another. For this comes from the Lord who is the Spirit” (2 Cor 3:18).

How the Holy Spirit Glorifies Christ

The Spirit illumines the Bible (the centrality of Christ)	Luke 24:27 , 44-48
The Spirit empowers gospel preaching (proclamation of Christ)	Acts 1:8
The Spirit brings regeneration (new life in Christ)	John 3:5-8
The Spirit sanctifies the believer (transformation into the image of Christ)	Rom 8:29 ; 1 John 3:2

Humans become like what they adore. The Spirit works to foster adoration of Christ so that people will become like him. Thus, sanctification flows from adoration, and both are accomplished by the Spirit in the believer's life.

Implications of the Spirit's Work

The ultimate goal of all of life is to know and love God, make him known, and thereby glorify him. This goal is accomplished primarily through the work of the Holy Spirit. Reading the Bible, going to church, Christian fellowship, spiritual disciplines, service, and worship are merely playing at religion if all of these activities are not empowered, guided, and filled by the Spirit. If he is not present, even these good things are fleshly, empty, and repugnant to God: “For if you live according to the flesh you will die, but if by the Spirit you put to death the deeds of the body, you will live” (Rom 8:13). A life pleasing to God involves daily dependence on the precious Holy Spirit. He is to be known, sought, and loved. His awakening and empowering have always been the essential ingredients of true and lasting works of God in the lives of his people. His work in the transformed lives of believers is the key to a Christian life that experiences God's blessing and becomes an effective witness to a cynical, skeptical world. Because of the Spirit's presence, true Christians are no longer slaves to sin: “You, however, are not in the flesh but in the Spirit, if in fact the Spirit of God dwells in you. Anyone who does not have the Spirit of Christ does not belong to him” (Rom 8:9).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

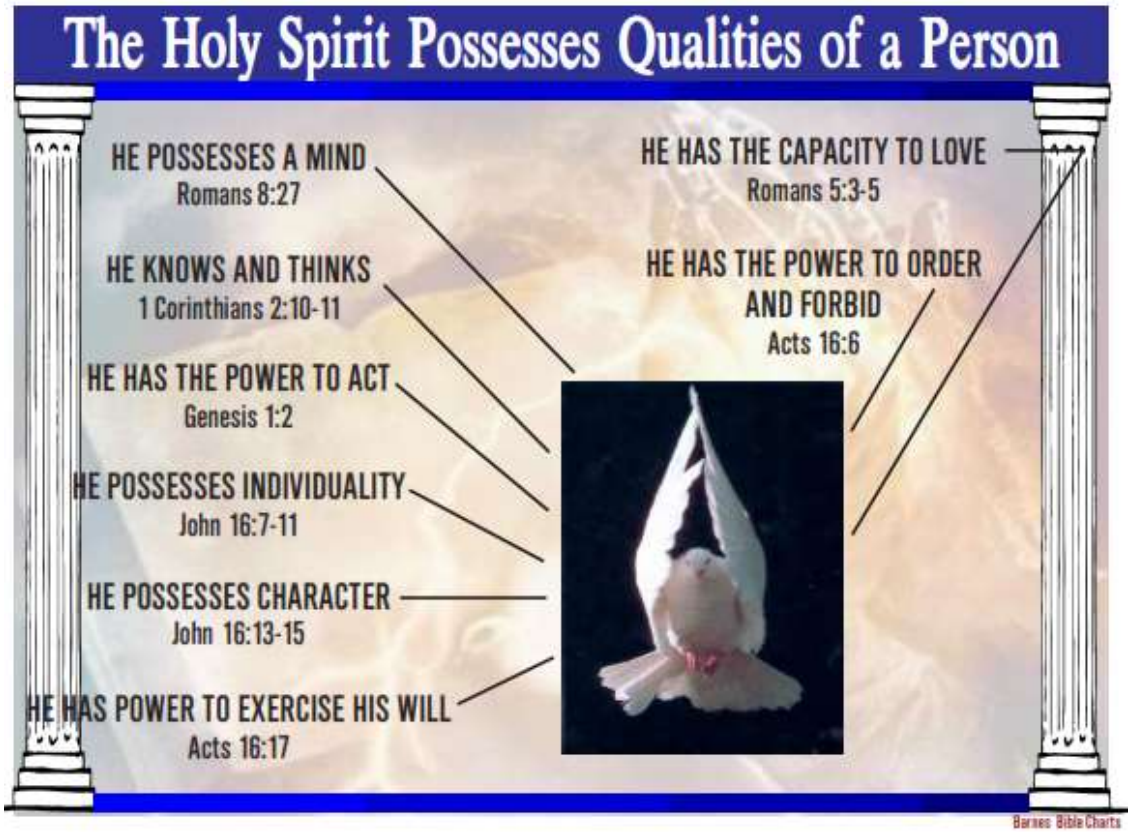
It is often too quickly assumed that Jesus' holiness and power in ministry were because of his divine nature rather than the work of the Holy Spirit in his human life. As a result, believers may discount Jesus as their true example. In his holy living and powerful ministry, Jesus often drew on the same resources as are available to all believers, especially the leading and empowering of the Holy Spirit.

The three persons of the Trinity have now been fully revealed in redemptive history, and the Holy Spirit is bringing their work to a magnificent consummation. Many believers expect a world revival in the last days that will include all peoples. Even if such a revival does not come in the generation that is now alive, God's people should be giving glimpses of that coming revival in the character of their lives even today. Such glimpses contribute to fulfilling the Great Commission. Jesus sent his followers even as the Father sent him (John 20:21), and living under and in that authority they are able to say with Jesus, “The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he has anointed me to preach good news to the poor. He has sent me to proclaim liberty to the captives” (Luke 4:18). When the Spirit works, the gospel will be boldly proclaimed and God's kingdom will advance.

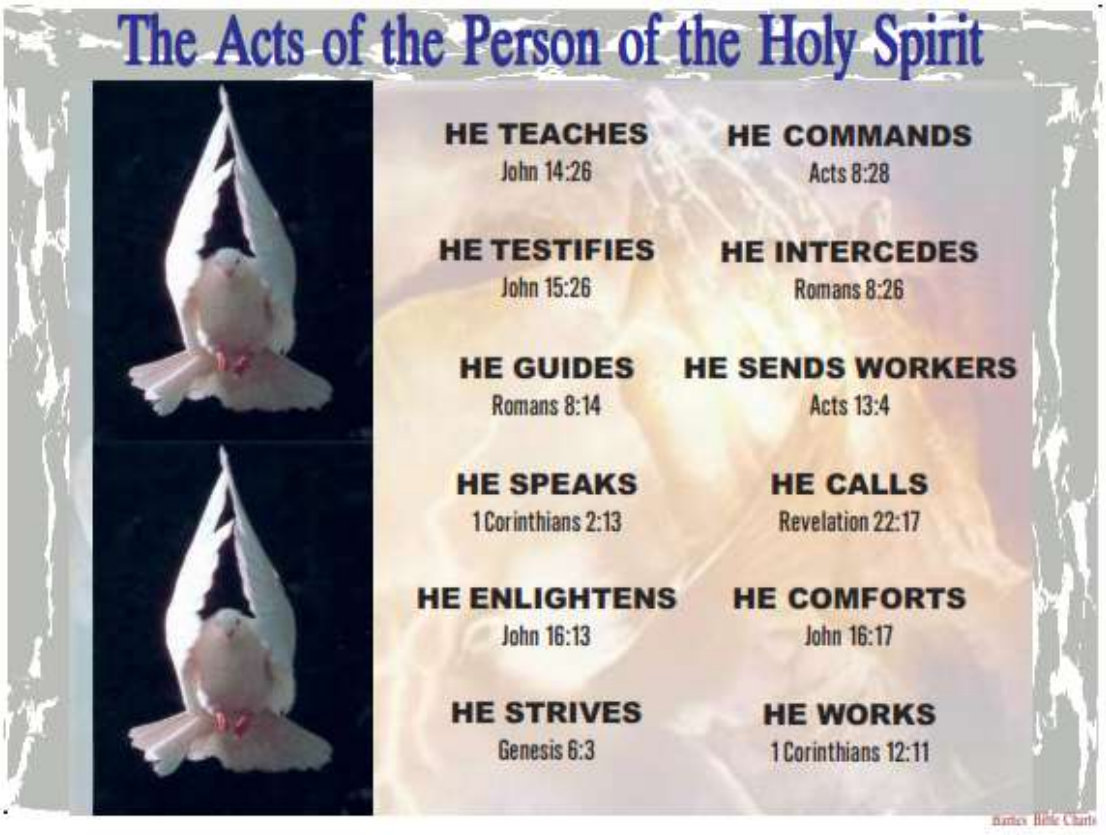
The Work of the Holy Spirit:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Works of the Holy Spirit Manifest His Personality:



The Slights and Injuries Sufered Declare His Personality:



[Source: http://www.biblecharts.org/holyspirit.html]

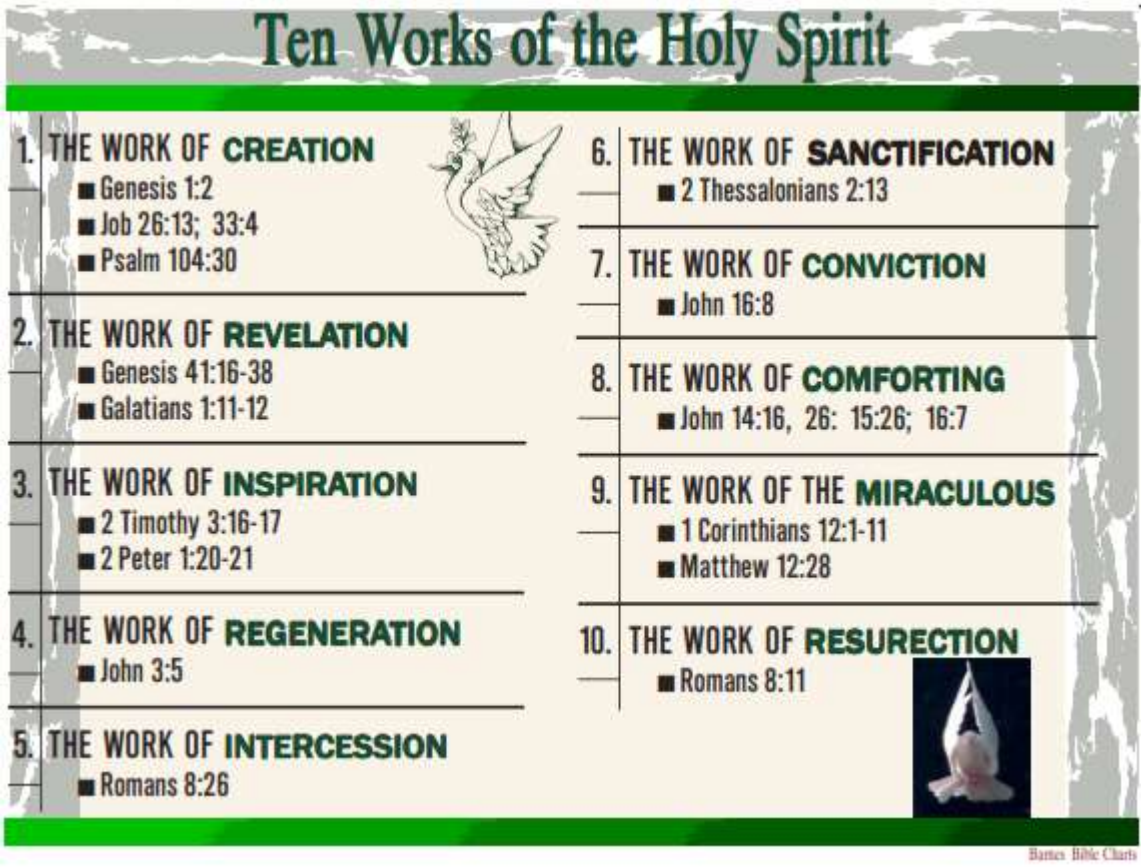
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Holy Spirit Possesses Qualities of a Person:

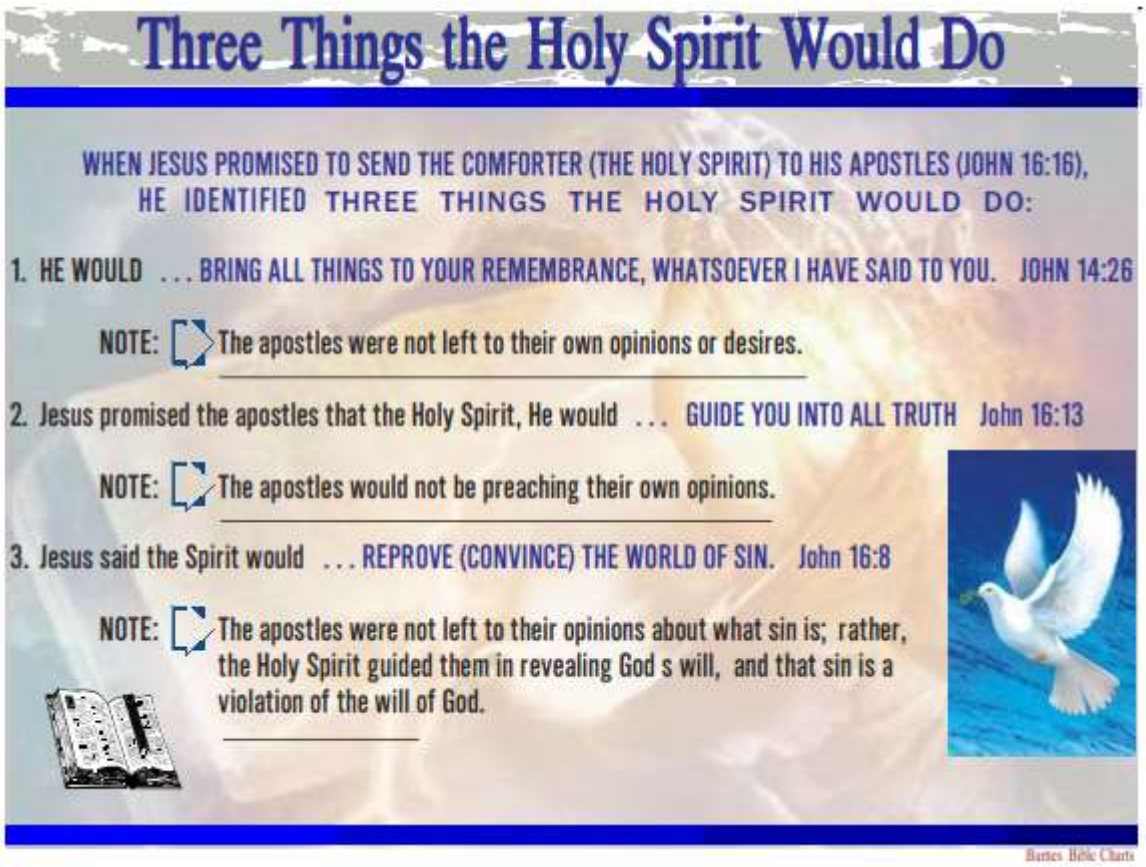
The Acts of the Person of the Holy Spirit:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

What the Holy Spirit is NOT:

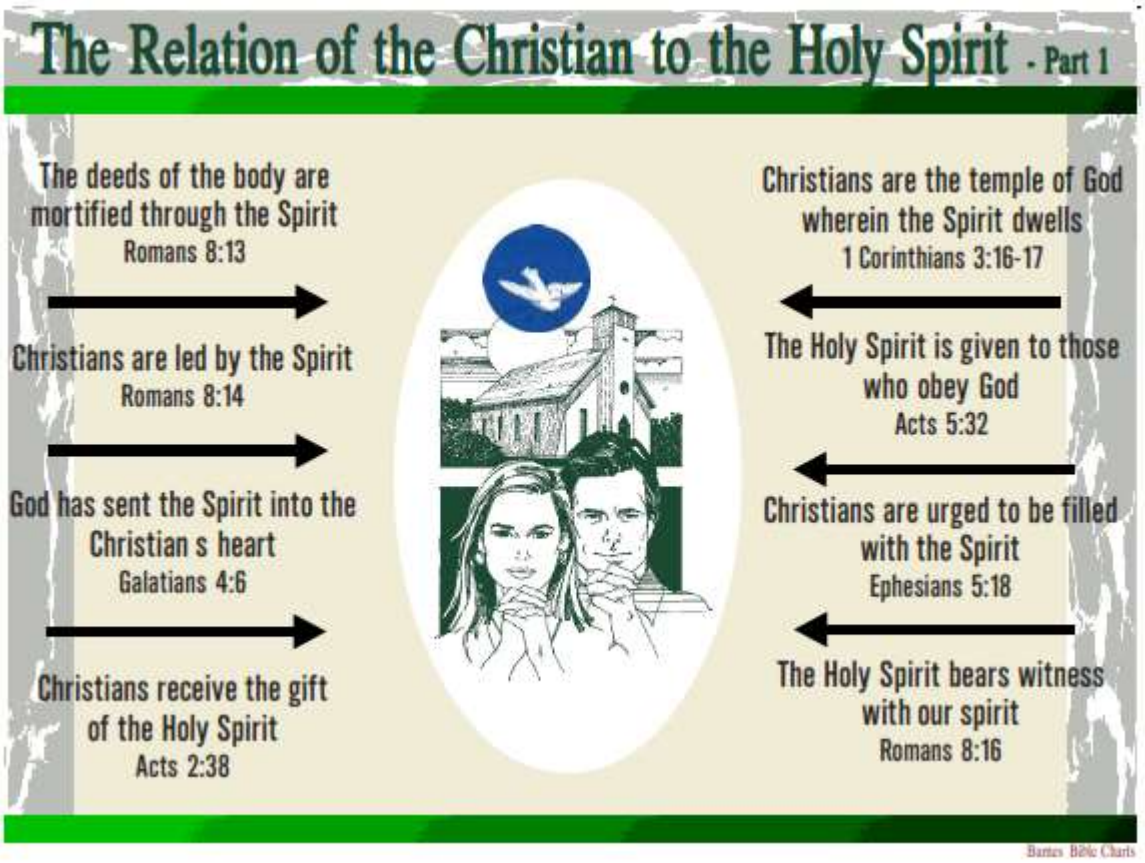


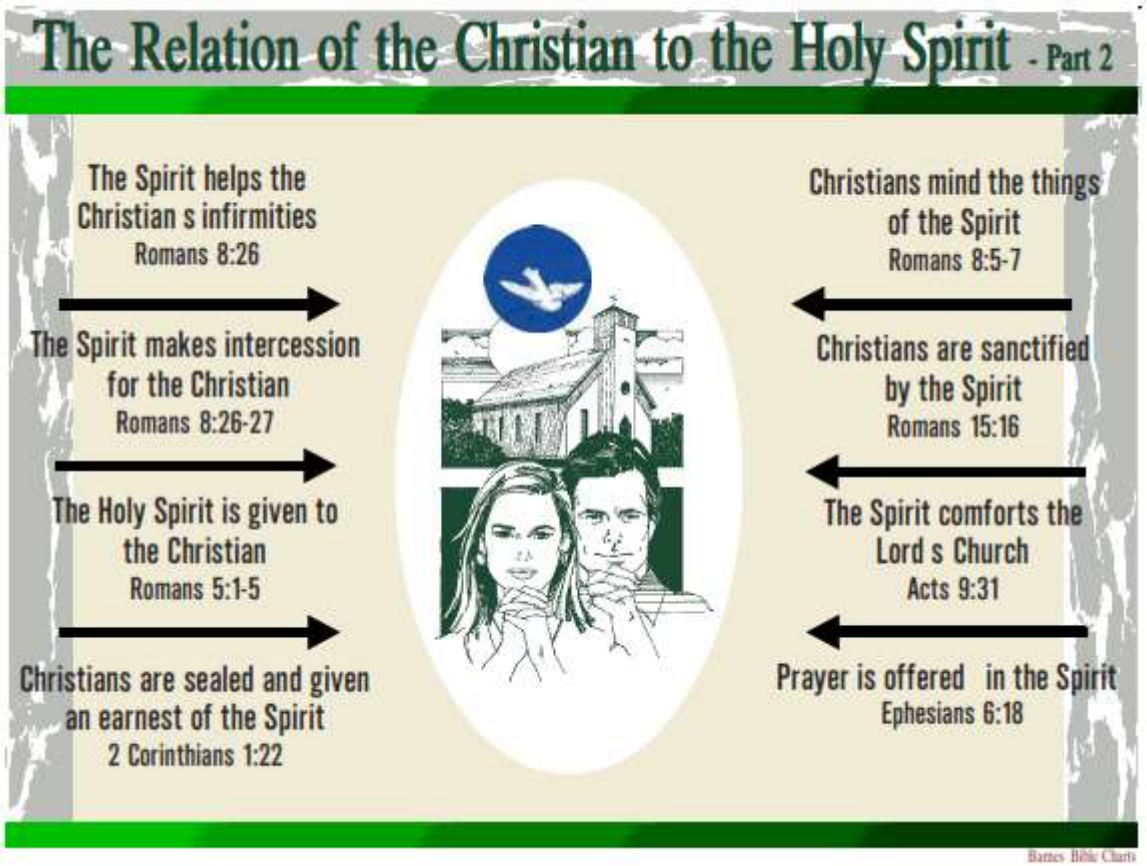
What the Holy Spirit IS:



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Ten Works of the Holy Spirit:

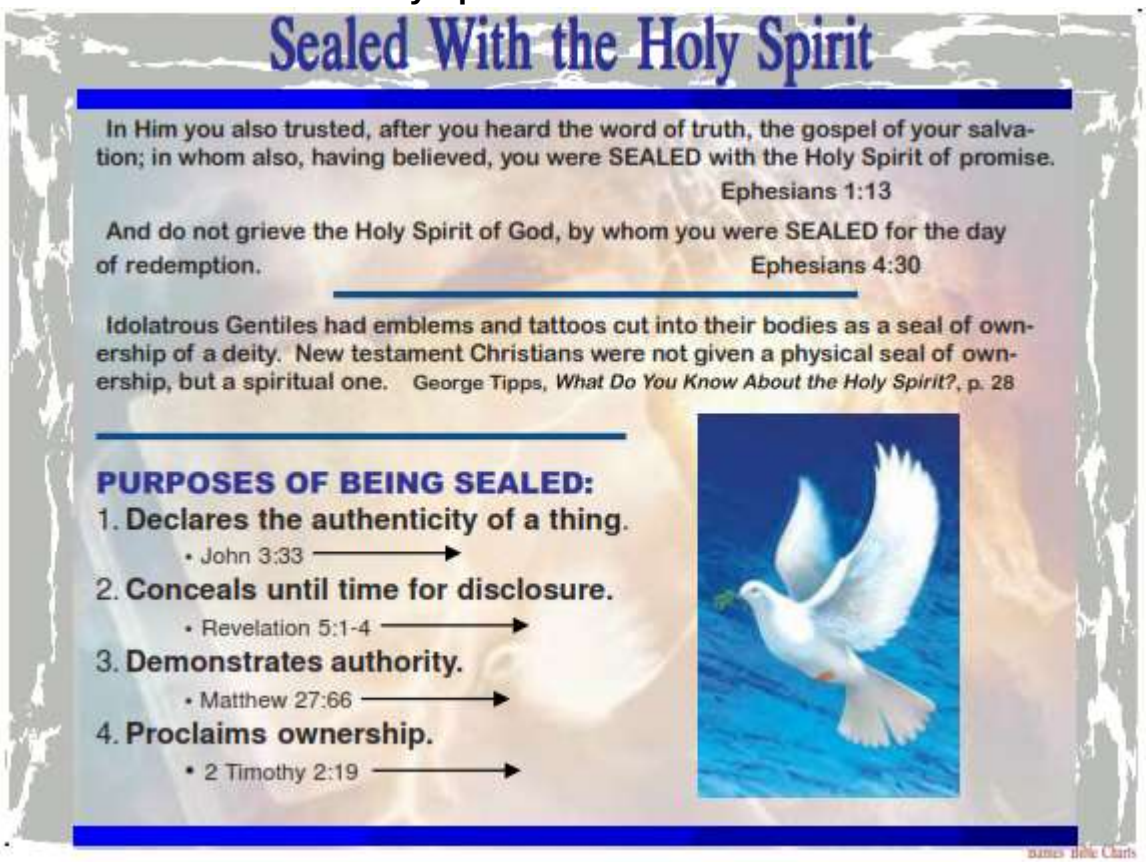


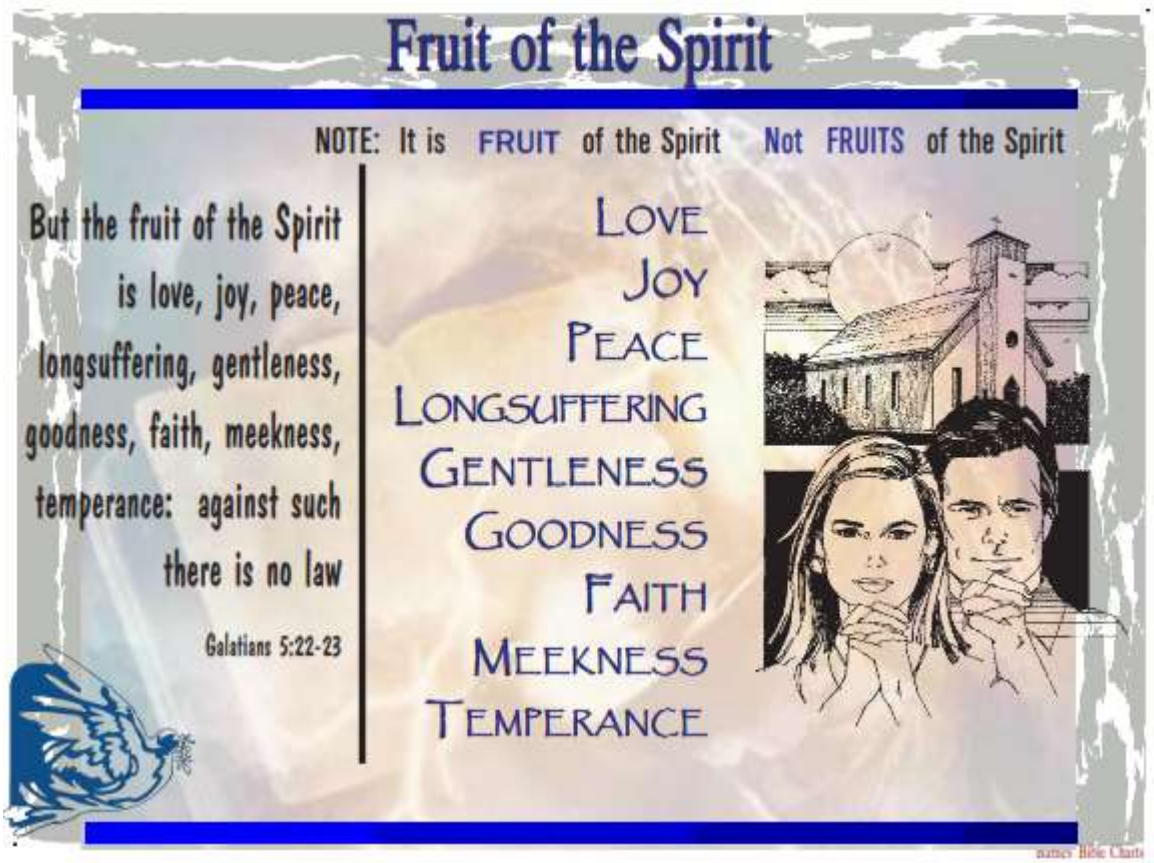


Three Things Jesus Promised the Holy Spirit Would Do:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Relation of the Christian to the Holy Spirit:





[Source: http://www.biblecharts.org/holyspirit.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

We are Sealed With the Holy Spirit:

The Fruit of the Spirit

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Sins Against the Holy Spirit

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: http://www.biblecharts.org/holyspirit.html]

Matthew 12:31-32 -- blasphemy against the Spirit will not be forgiven. The sin is attributing to Satan what is accomplished by the power of God, and doing this through the flagrant, willful, and persistent rejection of God and his commands. This sin is committed today only by unbelievers who deliberately and unchangeably reject the ministry of the Holy Spirit in calling them to salvation.

[Source: ESV Study Bible note]

Luke: 12:10 - And everyone who speaks a word against the Son of Man will be forgiven, but the person who blasphemes against the Holy Spirit will not be forgiven. [NET Bible]

Jesus closes this occasion of teaching his disciples (v. 1) with one of the most enigmatic, debated, and misunderstood sayings of his ministry. Key to understanding this passage is the distinction Jesus makes between, on one hand, the extreme case of blasphemy against “the Holy Spirit” and, on the other hand, the lesser case of speaking in an dishonorable way against “the Son of Man.” One who asks to be forgiven for disrespectful words hastily spoken against Jesus (the Son of Man) will be forgiven. (Note, e.g., Peter's rejection of Jesus [see 22:54-62] and his subsequent restoration [John 21:15-19].) But blasphemy against the Holy Spirit—that is, the persistent and unrepentant resistance against the work of the Holy Spirit and his message concerning Jesus (cf. Acts 7:51)—this, Jesus says, will not be forgiven. The person who persists in hardening his heart against God, against the work of the Holy Spirit, and against the provision of Christ as Savior, is outside the reach of God's provision for forgiveness and salvation. Christians often worry that they have committed this sin, but such a concern is itself evidence of an openness to the work of the Spirit (see also notes on Matt 12:31-32 and Mark 3:29).

[Source: ESV Study Bible note]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Whoever speaks against the Holy Spirit will not be forgiven. This passage has troubled many people, who have wondered whether or not they have committed this sin. Three things must be kept in mind: (1) the nature of the sin is to ascribe what is the obvious work of the Holy Spirit (e.g., releasing people from Satan's power) to Satan himself;
(2) it is not simply a momentary doubt or sinful attitude, but is indeed a settled condition which opposes the Spirit's work, as typified by the religious leaders who opposed Jesus; and
(3) a person who is concerned about it has probably never committed this sin, for those who commit it here (i.e., the religious leaders) are not in the least concerned about Jesus' warning.

[Source: NET Bible Note]

Matthew 12:31. Wherefore I say unto you, All manner of sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven unto men —The word "blasphemy" properly signifies "detraction," or "slander." In the New Testament it is applied, as it is here, to vituperation directed against God as well as against men; and in this sense it is to be understood as an aggravated form of sin. Well, says our Lord, all sin—whether in its ordinary or its more aggravated forms—shall find forgiveness with God. Accordingly, in Mark (Mark 3:28) the language is still stronger: "All sin shall be forgiven unto the sons of men, and blasphemies wherewith soever they shall blaspheme." There is no sin whatever, it seems, of which it may be said, "That is not a pardonable sin." This glorious assurance is not to be limited by what follows; but, on the contrary, what follows is to be explained by this.

but the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost shall not be forgiven unto men.

Matthew 12:32. And whosoever speaketh a word against the Son of man, it shall be forgiven him: but whosoever speaketh against the Holy Ghost, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this world, neither in the world to come —In Mark the language is awfully strong, "hath never forgiveness, but is in danger of eternal damnation" (Mark 3:20)—or rather, according to what appears to be the preferable though very unusual reading, "in danger of eternal guilt"—a guilt which he will underlie for ever. Mark has the important addition (Mark 3:30), "Because they said, He hath an unclean spirit." What, then, is this sin against the Holy Ghost—the unpardonable sin? One thing is clear: Its unpardonableness cannot arise from anything in the nature of sin itself; for that would be a naked contradiction to the emphatic declaration of Mt 12:31, that all manner of sin is pardonable. And what is this but the fundamental truth of the Gospel? (See Acts 13:38,39; Romans 3:22,24; 1John 1:7, &c.). Then, again when it is said (Mt 12:32), that to speak against or blaspheme the Son of man is pardonable, but the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost is not pardonable, it is not to be conceived that this arises from any greater sanctity in the one blessed Person than the other. These remarks so narrow the question that the true sense of our Lord's words seem to disclose themselves at once. It is a contrast between slandering "the Son of man" in His veiled condition and unfinished work —which might be done "ignorantly, in unbelief" (1Timothy 1:13), and slandering the same blessed Person after the blaze of glory which the Holy Ghost was soon to throw around His claims, and in the full knowledge of all that. This would be to slander Him with eyes open, or to do it "presumptuously." To blaspheme Christ in the former condition—when even the apostles stumbled at many things—left them still open to conviction on fuller light: but to blaspheme Him in the latter condition would be to hate the light the clearer it became, and resolutely to shut it out; which, of course, precludes salvation. The Pharisees had not as yet done this; but in charging Jesus with being in league with hell they were displaying beforehand a malignant determination to shut their eyes to all evidence, and so, bordering upon, and in spirit committing, the unpardonable sin.

[Source: Jamieson, Faucett and Brown Commentary]

Matthew 12:31. blasphemy against the Spirit. Technically, according to the scribes, blasphemy involved direct and explicit abuse of the divine name. Jesus here teaches that it also may be the reviling of God by attributing the Spirit's work to Satan. The special circumstances involved in this blasphemy cannot be duplicated today; therefore, this sin cannot now be committed. Jesus exhorted the Pharisees to turn and be justified. [Source: Ryrie Study Bible]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Mt 12:30. Ancient Jewish teachers stated their points as starkly as possible; this statement and the one in Mk 9:40 both mean "A person is either on one side or the other." Other contrast sayings similar to this one circulated in antiquity.

Mt 12:31-32. Many Jewish teachers taught that one's sufferings in this life could make up for sins; but certain grave sins would be carried over into the world to come. (Some teachers declared similarly that King Manasseh's repentance allowed him to be forgiven in this world but not in the world to come.) "High-handed" sins—deliberate rebellion against God—could not be atoned for under Old Testament law. Blasphemy was punishable by death (Levitcus 24:10-23).

Jesus thus regards blasphemy against the Spirit—permanently rejecting his identity (Matthew 12:18) even when attested by the Spirit's works (Matthew 12:28)—as the worst of sins. (On the meaning of blasphemy in general, see comment on Matthew 9:3-8.)

[Source: IVP Bible Background Commentary, 2nd Ed.]

Mt 12:28 The Pharisees were being confronted with and were rejecting the Kingdom of God itself (see Lk 17:20-21; 1Jn 3:8). Jesus' miracles brought the power of the Kingdom into the present reality; its ultimate consummation awaits Christ's second coming.

Mt 12:29 This parable forced the Pharisees to answer a simple question: Can anyone cast out demons without first binding Satan's powers and thus opposing him (see Isa 49:24-26; 53:12)? • tie him up: Jesus overcame Satan first at the Temptation (4:1-11), then throughout his ministry (see Lk 10:17-20), and ultimately on the Cross (see Col 2:14-15).

Mt 12:31 In the face of the Pharisees' accusations of Satanic influence, Jesus had just argued that he, the Messiah, cast out demons through the power of the Holy Spirit. In this context, blasphemy against the Holy Spirit can only mean attributing the ministry and exorcisms of Jesus to Satan's power.

Mt 12:32 One may stumble over Jesus' mysterious revelation of himself as Son of Man and be forgiven, but one cannot be forgiven for attributing the work of the Spirit to Satan. The present-day analogy is the outright rejection of the conviction of the Holy Spirit concerning Christ—that is, ultimate rejection of the Good News by an unbeliever (cp. Heb 6:4-6; 1Jn 5:16-21).

[Source NLT Study Bible notes]

Matthew 12:24-37 - The Unpardonable Sin

(Told also in Mark 3:22-30; Luke 11:14-26; 12:8-10.) Note that the Pharisees, as heartily as they hated Jesus, did not deny His miracles, which were too numerous and too well known to deny. Although the miracles were all miracles of help and healing, the Pharisees attributed them to satanic origin. They had a simple choice — either they accepted the miracles as from God, in which case they had to accept Jesus, or the miracles had to be done in the power of Satan, since they were clearly superhuman in origin. Ironically, it was their own accusations rather than Jesus' miracles that were Satan-inspired. Their choice put them almost beyond redemption.

In Luke 12:10 the unpardonable sin is connected with the denial of Christ. Jesus seems to make a distinction between sin against Himself and sin against the Holy Spirit (v. 32). The unpardonable sin is often understood to mean that rejecting Christ, while He was on earth and His work was as yet unfinished, and when even His disciples did not understand Him, was forgivable. But after His work was completed and the Holy Spirit had come, then the deliberate, final rejection of the Holy Spirit's offer of Christ would constitute the eternal sin for which there is no forgiveness ever. Similar sin is spoken of in Hebrews 6:6; 10:26; and 1Jn 5:16. Yet it is not always the vocal opponents of Christ who commit the unforgivable sin. Paul was as vocal and active against Christ as anyone, yet Jesus called him personally to be His apostle (see on Ac 9). The deliberate, final rejection of the Holy Spirit's offer of Christ is more likely to result in a total indifference rather than a vocal opposition to Christ.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Careless words (v. 36) are here mentioned in connection with the unpardonable sin. Our words show our character (v. 34). Our every word, as well as every secret act, is being recorded as evidence for the Day of Judgment.

[Source: Halley's Bible Handbook]

Matthew 12:22-37 Jesus accused of collusion with Satan
(see also Mark 3:22-30; Luke 11:14-23; 12:10; 6:43-45).

Now the opposition becomes more 'theological'. Recognizing Jesus' supernatural power, his opponents attributed it not to God but to Satan. Jesus' response was first to show how inconsistent the charge was, and then to underline its seriousness, as blasphemy against the Spirit . This leads on to some comments on how significant, and how damning, words can be.

The encounter arose out of an exorcism similar to that in 9:32-34, where Matthew has already recorded the same charge that Jesus was drawing on demonic power. The obvious power of Jesus led more neutral onlookers to the suggestion that he was the Son of David, the Messiah working by the power of God. Since the Pharisees had already decided against that explanation (12:14), they had to find another which equally explained his more than human authority, and they found it in his alleged collusion with Satan.

Jesus' first reply (25-26) merely pointed out what a silly idea this was: Satan would not attack his own troops! Secondly (27), he reminded them that he was not the only person who was exorcizing; were they all in league with Satan? Thirdly, and more positively (28-29), he showed that, on the contrary, his attack on spiritual evil was a mark of the inbreaking of the kingdom of God and the defeat of Satan, the strong man . It is thus a sign not of demonic power but of the Spirit of God at work. There was, therefore, a radical division between those who recognized God at work, and therefore were with me (30), and those who by attributing God's work to his arch-enemy proved themselves to be against me . By this blasphemy against the Spirit they were deliberately lining up on the opposing side and putting themselves outside the scope of forgiveness.

It is important to read the terrible vs 31-32 in their context. Insensitive application of these words to situations which bear no resemblance to the Pharisees' deliberate perversion of the truth has caused distress to many vulnerable people. Jesus was speaking not of a temporary lapse but of a settled decision to oppose the work of God.

Vs 32-37 go on to warn us, however, in a series of striking pictures, against shrugging off 'mere words'. Our words reveal what we are really like, and thus even a careless word may be a proper basis for judgment.

[Source: New Bible Commentary]

Why is blasphemy against the Holy Spirit the unpardonable sin?

Referring to Matthew 12:31 Jesus says, "And so I tell you, every sin and blasphemy will be forgiven men, but the blasphemy against the Spirit will not be forgiven." Consider the background of this verse. In chapter 11 certain Jewish cities rejected Jesus. Also, John the Baptist raised serious doubts about Jesus because his expectations were not fulfilled. Matthew 12:31,32 refers to the most serious rejection of Jesus-the rejection of the Pharisees.

One of the rejection episodes is in the Beelzebub story (Matthew 12:22-37). It begins when Jesus heals a blind mute. The frightening thing for the Jewish leaders is that the people are so enthused by the miracle that they begin to wonder out loud if Jesus might not be "the Son of David"-that is, the Messiah (vs. 23).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The frustrated Pharisees cannot deny the reality of the miracle, but they can deny that it came from God. Their solution is that Jesus is in league with the "prince of demons" (vs. 24).

Jesus immediately takes the offensive by telling them that if He were curing people through the power of demons, then Satan's kingdom would be divided against itself and would be in ruins (vss. 25-28). Jesus argues that actually, he is the devil's greatest enemy. He likens Himself to a thief who ties a strong man up so he can raid his house (vs. 29). In other words, Jesus the Christ (God with us) has invaded the territory of "the prince of this world" (John 12:31; 14:30; 16:11) to rescue God's children.

The climax of the confrontation in the Beelzebub story comes in Matthew 12:30-32. In this passage Jesus not only warns His hearers that there is no neutrality in the great struggle between good and evil, but He goes on to say that anyone who credits the work of God to the devil has committed the unpardonable sin (vs. 31).

How do you commit blasphemy agains the Holy Spirit?

While it is technically true that people can speak against the Son and still be forgiven, they cannot do so and be forgiven if they are under the conviction of the Holy Spirit that Jesus is the Messiah. To do so would be to reject the prompting of the Holy Spirit in their heart and mind. The result is a hardened conscience (1 Timothy 4:2); Titus 1:15) that can no longer respond to the Spirit's work of leading people to repent of and confess their sin (John 16:8). Such rejecters are beyond the reach of God's Spirit, for they have tuned out the only channel through which God can reach them. When that is done, they are beyond hope. They have committed the unforgivable sin.

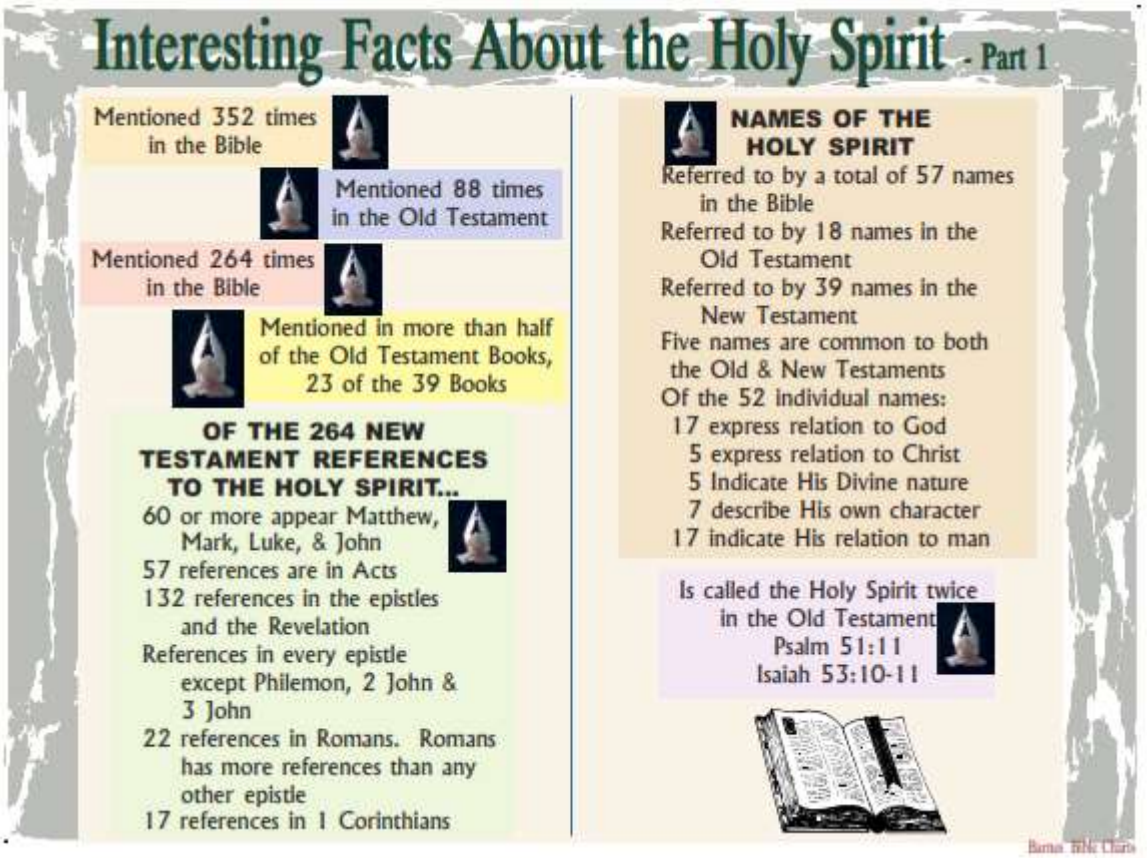
What is blasphemy?

Many sensitive Christians worry that they have committed the unpardonable sin by blaspheming the Holy Spirit. The very fact that they are concerned is an indication that they are still listening for the Spirit and desire to respond to Him. Frederick Bruner is right on target when he writes, "the spirit of the sin against the Spirit is an unworried adamancy. It is impenitence, the unwillingness to repent… It is not careless acts, it is a hardened state" (Bruner, 1:462).

Jesus goes on to claim that the true state of people can be told by the words that come out of their mouths (Matthew 12:33-37). Such a truth does not bode well for the Pharisees, whose mouths have recently set forth the view that Jesus' actions were inspired by the devil rather than God. If they continue in that line, Matthew 12:22-37 implies, they will eventually commit the unpardonable sin.

[Source: http://www.bibleinfo.com/en/questions/why-blasphemy-against-holy-spirit-unpardonable-sin]

Can a Believer Commit the Unforgivable Sin?



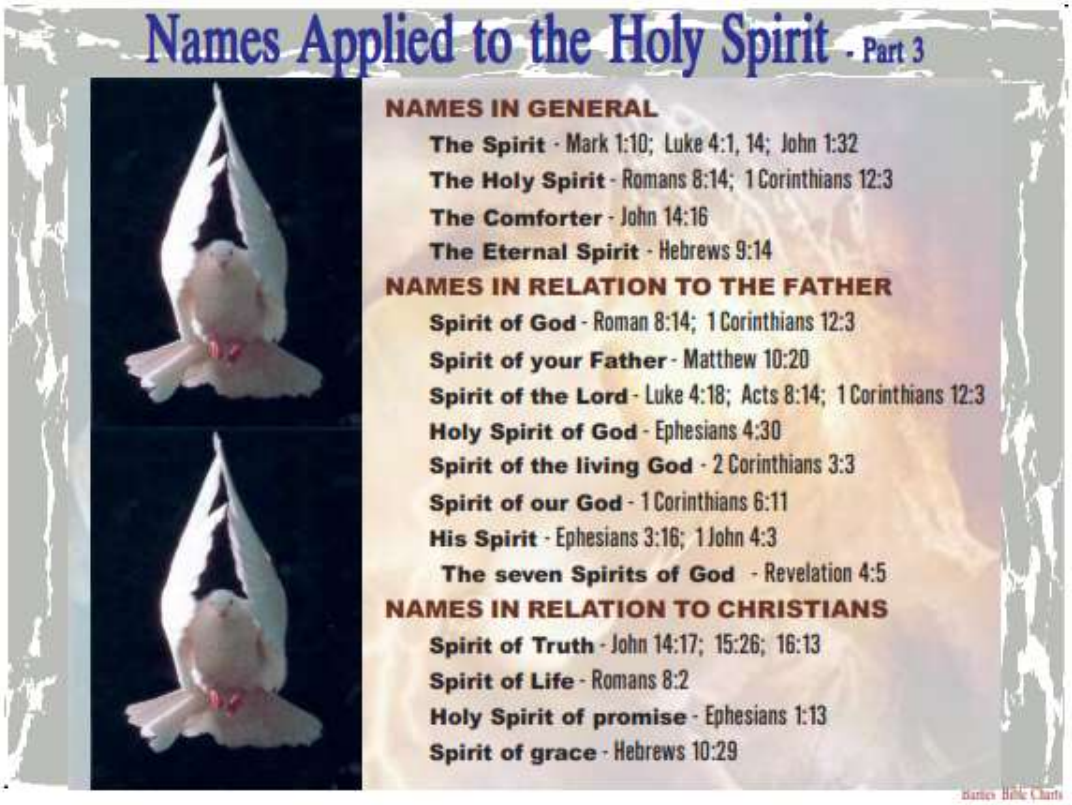
No. A believer cannot commit the unforgivable sin. How can someone who has been born again (John 3:7), made a new creation (2 Cor. 5:17), and received eternal life (John 10:27-28) actually commit the unforgivable sin? He cannot. Jesus Himself said that we have eternal life, not conditional life: "My sheep hear My voice, and I know them, and they follow Me; and I give eternal life to them, and they shall never perish; and no one shall snatch them out of My hand" (John 10:27-28). Besides, it says in 2 Cor. 5:17 that the Christian is a new creation in Christ. We are different, no longer slaves to the old nature (Rom. 6:14). We are regenerated by the Holy Spirit.

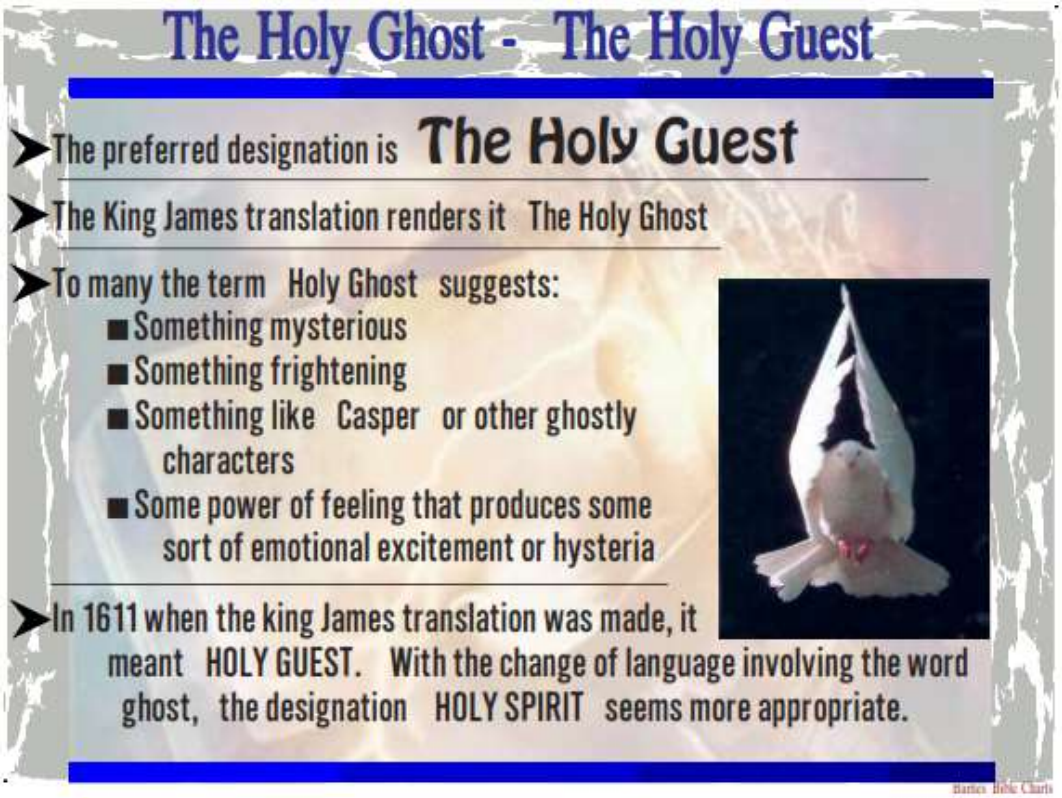
There is no Biblical support for a believer committing this sin. It just hasn't happened. Also, if you are worried that you may have committed the sin and can't be forgiven, then don't be concerned. If you are worrying about it, then you haven't committed it. If you are worried about it, that is a sign you have not committed it. If you had, you wouldn't be concerned.

[Source: https://carm.org/what-blasphemy-holy-spirit-can-christian-commit-it]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Interesting Facts About the Holy Spirit





[Source: http://www.biblecharts.org/holyspirit.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Some of the Names Applied to the Holy Spirit:

[Source: http://www.biblecharts.org/holyspirit.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Question: "What is the difference between the Holy Spirit and Holy Ghost?"

Answer: Of the modern English translations of the Bible, it is only the King James Version of the Bible which uses the term “Holy Ghost.” It occurs 90 times in the KJV. The term “Holy Spirit” occurs 7 times in the KJV. There is no clear reason as to why the KJV translators used Ghost in most places and then Spirit in a few. The exact same Greek and Hebrew words are translated "ghost" and "spirit" in the KJV in different occurrences of the words. By "ghost," the KJV translators did not intend to communicate the idea of "the spirit of a deceased person." In 1611, when the KJV was originally translated, the word "ghost" primarily referred to "an immaterial being."

With recent Scripture translations, "Spirit" has replaced "Ghost" in most instances. Some of this came about because words don't always hold their meanings. In the days of Shakespeare or King James, ghost meant the living essence of a person. Looking back, we see that "breath" or "soul" were often used as synonyms of "ghost." During these times, spirit normally meant the essence of a departed person or a demonic or paranormal apparition. As language evolved, people started saying "ghost" when speaking of the vision of a dead person while "spirit" became the standard term for life or living essence, often also for "soul." With slight exceptions, "ghost" and "spirit" changed places over some 300 years.

The real issue is that both "Holy Ghost" and "Holy Spirit" refer to the Third Person of the Trinity, coequal and consubstantial with the Father and the Son (Matthew 28:19; Acts 5:3,4; 28:25,26; 1 Corinthians 12:4-6). He is the gift of the Father to His people on earth to initiate and complete the building of the body of Christ (1 Corinthians 12:13). He is also the agency by which the world is convicted of sin, the Lord Jesus is glorified, and believers are transformed into His image (John 16:7-9; Acts 1:5, 2:4; Romans 8:29; 2 Corinthians 3:18; Ephesians 2:22). Whichever term we use, we remember that this Holy Ghost is God's active breath, blowing where He wishes, creating faith through water and Word.

Read more: http://www.gotquestions.org/Holy-Spirit-host.html#ixzz3ft5zOwZr

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

BE FILLED WITH THE SPIRIT

Ephesians 5:18.
What is the meaning and the conditions of being filled with the Holy Spirit?
The filling of the Holy Spirit is the source of all vital spiritual experience in life.
Every day can be a day of victory through the power of the Holy Spirit.
When you received Christ as Saviour, the Holy Spirit came to live in you.
The Holy Spirit makes it possible for every Christian to live a fulfilled, joyful life.

FACTS ABOUT THE HOLY SPIRIT.
The Holy Spirit is God. II Corinthians 3:17. "The Lord is that Spirit."
The Holy Spirit is a person. Revelation 2:7. "Hear what the Spirit saith." John 16:8.
The Holy Spirit gives us power to live the Christian life. Galatians 5:22,23.
The Holy Spirit gives us power to witness for Christ. Acts 1:8.
The Holy Spirit is more powerful than any other Spirit. I John 4:1-4.
The Holy Spirit is called "the Comforter." John 16:7.
The Holy Spirit authored the Bible. II Peter 1:21.
The Holy Spirit holds back and limits Satan's full power. II Thessalonians 2:7-14.
The Holy Spirit convicts people of sin, of righteousness, and of judgment. John 16:8-11.
The Holy Spirit builds local churches.
The Holy Spirit led, anointed, empowered and raised Jesus Christ. Romans 8:11.

The Holy Spirit has five ministries in believers' lives:
1. He regenerates us. John 3:5, "Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit,..".
2. He baptizes us. I Corinthians 12:13. "By one Spirit are we all baptized into one body."
3. He indwells us. I Corinthians 3:16. "Know ye not that….the Spirit of God dwelleth in you."
4. He seals us. II Corinthians 1:22. "sealed us, and given us the earnest of the Spirit in our hearts."
5. He fills us. Ephesians 5:18. "be filled with the Spirit."

The Holy Spirit does these things in our lives:
1. Prays for us. Romans 8:26. "the Spirit itself maketh intercession for us with groanings which cannot be"
2. Guides us. Romans 8:14. "For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God."
3. Teaches us. I John 2:27. "the same anointing teacheth you of all things…"
4. Empowers us for soul winning. Acts 1:8. "Ye shall receive power after that the Holy Ghost is come.."
5. Imparts the love of Christ to us & through us. Romans 5:5 "love of God is shed abroad in our hearts"
6. Gives us liberty. II Corinthians 3:17. "where the Spirit of the Lord is there is liberty."
7. Conforms us to the image of Christ. II Corinthians 3:18. "changed into the same image by the Spirit"
8. Strengthens our new nature. Ephesians 3:16. "strengthened with might by his Spirit in the inner man."
9. Reveals Bible truths to us. I Corinthians 2:10. "God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit."
10. Assures us of salvation and service. Romans 8:16. "The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit.."
11. Fills our mouth with appropriate things. Mark 13:11. "it is not ye that speak, but the Holy Ghost."
12. The Holy Spirit gives gifts to individual believers:

Seven temporary gifts that ceased by 96 AD:
1. Apostles. 2. Prophets 3. Miracles. 4. Healing 5. Tongues. 6. Knowledge. 7. Interpretation of tongues. [NOTE: This is a controversial statement. Many disagree. -LY]

Eleven permanent gifts:
1. Wisdom. 2. Discerning of Spirits. 3. Giving 4. Exhortation. 5. Ministering. 6. Mercy.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

7. Administration. 8. Faith. 9. Teaching. 10. Evangelism. 11. Pastor/Teacher.

13. The Holy Spirit gives us the fruit of:
1. Souls being saved: “Gather fruit unto life eternal”. John 4:35,36.
2. Christlikeness: “The fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance.” Galatians 5:22,23.

I. THREE TYPES OF PEOPLE.

1. UNSAVED person without Christ:
a) Jesus is outside his life.
b) Self is on the throne.
c) This person is under the judgment of God.

2. SPIRIT-FILLED Christian:
a) Jesus lives within this person.
b) Christ is on the throne, and Christ controls this person’s life.
c) This Christian now lives to serve Christ.

3. SELF-CENTRED Christian - Carnal (I Corinthians 3:1-3):
a) Jesus Christ is still his Saviour and is in his life.
b) Self is on the throne, controlling his life.
c) The Holy Spirit does not have full control of his life.

The self-centred Christian cares more about pleasing himself, than about pleasing God.
He is like a baby who wants his own way.

Symptoms of the self-centred Christian are:

Often he:
- does not fully trust God. - has sinful thoughts.
- disobeys God’s Word. - has little interest in the Bible.
- has a poor prayer life. - does not help others come to Christ.

He may:
- feel guilty. - be discouraged.
- be jealous. - judge others harshly.
- worry. - be angry.

Question: Which kind of person are you like?

II. FILLING OF THE HOLY SPIRIT contrasted with spiritual maturity.
Christians are encouraged to “grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ”.
II Peter 3:18 This is gradual growth over time to spiritual maturity.
However, any Christian may be filled with the Holy Spirit by meeting the conditions.
A newborn believer may be filled with the Holy Spirit, but immature.
A mature believer may lack the fullness of the Holy Spirit.
Only Christians YIELDED TO GOD are filled with the Holy Spirit.
Here the Holy Spirit works in people in entire freedom from hindrance.
Filling of the Holy Spirit means that the Holy Spirit has more of us.
It does not mean that “we have more of the Holy Spirit”, because we get all of the Holy Spirit at salvation.
Old Testament filling of the Holy Spirit was temporary for a special purpose.
New Testament filling of the Holy Spirit is the universal experience of all yielded believers.

III. THE COMMAND TO BE FILLED WITH THE SPIRIT.
“Be not drunk with wine, wherein is excess; but be filled with the Spirit”. Ephesians 5:18.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

"Be filled" is 'plerousthe' in the Greek language. It's tense indicates a continuous command to keep being filled with the Holy Spirit.
a) Filling of the Holy Spirit is a moment by moment relationship, that may be hindered by sin.
b) Baptism of the Holy Spirit, in I Corinthians 12:13, is in the 'aorist' tense, meaning an action which takes place once and for all.
Regeneration, indwelling, sealing, and baptism of the Holy Spirit are accomplished once and for all at the time of salvation.

Filling ("PLEROO") of the Holy Spirit is like:
1. Water filling a glass.
2 Wind filling a sail and therefore carrying a ship along. To be filled with the Holy Spirit is to be moved along in our Christian life by God Himself, as writers of the Bible were "moved along by the Holy Spirit".
3. Salt permeating meat to flavour and preserve it. God wants the Holy Spirit to permeate our lives so that all we say, think and do reflects God's presence.
4. Total control. For example, a person filled with sorrow (John 16:6) is no longer under his control, but is totally under the control of sorrow. The same is true for one who is filled with fear (Luke 6:11), filled with faith (Acts 6:5) or Satan (Acts 5:3). He is no longer under his own control, but is under the total control of that which dominates him.
Being filled with the Holy Spirit detaches us from the desires, standards, aims and fears of the world. Being filled with the Holy Spirit makes all else that is NOT God's will of secondary importance.

IV. HOW TO BE FILLED WITH THE HOLY SPIRIT.
If you want God's Spirit to direct your life and give you power to live:

1. You must WANT the Holy Spirit to fill you.
"Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness." Matthew 5:6.

2. CONFESS YOUR SINS.
Agree with God that you have sinned. Thank God for forgiving you because of Christ's death for you. Turn away from your sins and choose to obey God. I John 1:9.

3. GIVE THE THRONE of your LIFE to JESUS CHRIST.
"Yield yourselves to God." Romans 6:13.
To live the Spirit filled life, you must be willing to let Jesus Christ control everything you do, e.g. your money, free time, work and relationships with family and friends.

4. We are filled with the Holy Spirit by FAITH as we ASK FOR IT IN PRAYER.
Tell God now: "Lord Jesus, I have been controlling my life.
I agree with you that this is sin.
Please take control of my life, as I yield to you.
I want to obey you. Thank you for forgiving me.
I now trust you to fill me with your Holy Spirit.
Thank you for filling me as you promised."

5. STAY FILLED. Every time you take control of your life through sin, disobeying God in thought, word or action, breathe spiritually:
EXHALE- Confess your sin (I John 1:9). Thank God for forgiveness. Turn from the sin.
INHALE- Ask Jesus Christ to again take the throne of your life (Yield- Romans 6:13). Trust the Holy Spirit to fill you again. Remember the command of Ephesians 5:18,& the promise of I John 5:14,15
Note: Breathe spiritually every time the Holy Spirit shows you sin and you will have a joyful and victorious life that honours God. Let the Holy Spirit keep controlling your life.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

6. FILL OURSELVES WITH GOD'S WORD.
"Let the Word of Christ dwell in you richly." Colossians 3:16.
God's thoughts then become our thoughts. Ephesians 5:18,19.

7. QUENCH NOT the SPIRIT. I Thessalonians 5:19.
Don't suppress, stifle, resist or oppose the Holy Spirit's will.
Don't say "No" to the Holy Spirit.
When the Holy Spirit leads us to do something, don't pour water on (i.e. quench) the Holy Spirit. Be yielded to the will of God as the rule of our life. Quench means refusal to follow the evident leading of the Holy Spirit.
Yieldedness to the Holy Spirit includes:
a) Submission to the plain teaching of the Word of God.
b) Obedience to the guidance of the Holy Spirit, e.g. soul-winning, Bible reading, prayer.
c) Acceptance by faith of the acts of God, e.g. suffering. Luke 22:42.

8. GRIEVE NOT the SPIRIT. Ephesians 4:30.
The presence of sin in any form grieves the Holy Spirit and involves:
Quenching the Holy Spirit -refusing to follow the Holy Spirit's leading; resisting the Holy Spirit's will Loss of fellowship with God.
Loss of fruit of the Spirit.
Spiritual darkness then descends on the person.
The Christian is given time for self-judgment and confession of sin. If we neglect this opportunity and persist in sin, God intervenes and chastens the Christian by trials.

9. WALK IN THE SPIRIT, and ye shall not fulfill the lusts of the flesh. Galatians 5:16.
This means to walk daily by the power and presence of the Holy Spirit, who dwells within and involves:
1. Reckon ourselves dead to the sin nature.
Christ's death not only atones for the guilt of sin, but Christ's death also has power to deliver us from the bondage of sin. HOW?
- As we know our old man died with Christ (Romans 6:6).
- As we reckon ourselves dead to sin's habit pattern left from the old man, and reckon ourselves alive to Christ (Romans 6:11).
- As we yield ourselves to God, as those that are alive from the dead (living in resurrection power), and yield our members as instruments of righteousness unto God (Romans 6:13).
2. Love each other as Christ loves us. John 13:34.
3. Every thought must be brought to the obedience of Christ. II Corinthians 10:5.
4. We must be longsuffering towards all. I Thessalonians 5:14.
5. Always follow that which is good. I Thessalonians 5:14,15.
6. Comfort and edify each other. I Thessalonians 5:11.
7. Know them (appreciate and respect Pastors) who work to the point of weariness... and be esteeming them most highly with a divine and self-sacrifical love because of their work. I Thessalonians 5:12,13.
8. Be at peace among yourselves. 5:13.
9. Warn them that are unruly (i.e. soldiers who desert). 5:14.
10. Don't render evil for evil to any man, but always follow good. 5:15.
11. Rejoice evermore. 5:16.
12. Pray without ceasing. 5:17.
13. In everything give thanks. 5:18.
14. Quench not the Spirit, i.e. stop stifling and suppressing the Spirit. 5:19.
15. Despise not prophesyings, i.e. don't get restless during preaching. 5:20.
16. Prove (test) all things. 5:21.
17. Hold fast that which is good. 5:21.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

18. Abstain from all appearance of evil. 5:22.
19. Pray for us, and each other. 5:25.
20. Greet all the brethren. 5:26.

V. RESULTS OF BEING FILLED WITH THE HOLY SPIRIT.
As you continue growing in Jesus Christ, God will continue to change your life.
As you let the Holy Spirit lead and control your life every day:
1. Your life will show the fruit of the Spirit more and more. Galatians 5:22,23.
2. Your prayers will be more effective. James 5:16.
3. Your understanding of the Bible will increase. II Timothy 3:16,17.
The teaching of the Holy Spirit warns us against error.
4. You will have greater power to witness. Acts 1:8.
5. You will have God's power to defeat temptation and sin, and to live a life of victory. I Cor. 10:13.
6. You will be guided to apply Bible truths to life's problems. You'll have less self-inflicted trouble.
7. You will worship God in praise and thanksgiving, which is the fruit of a life lived in fellowship with God.

CONCLUSION:
A Christian can only live a Spirit-filled life by faith.
Are you filled with the Holy Spirit?

[Source: http://www.barberville.net/sermon69.htm]

Discovering Your Spiritual Gifts

Spiritual Gifts Analysis (online)

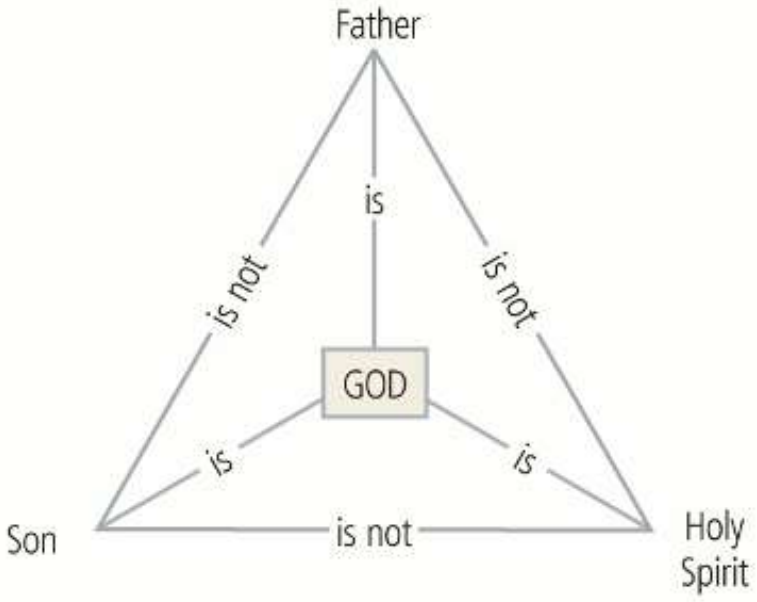
Spiritual Gifts Questionaire

Assessment Tools (PDFs)

Spiritual Gift Assessment (PDF)

Also available (fees may be involved)
http://blueprintforlife.com/

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



The Trinity

The biblical teaching on the Trinity embodies four essential affirmations:

1. 1.There is one and only one true and living God.
2. 2.This one God eternally exists in three persons—God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Spirit.
3. 3.These three persons are completely equal in attributes, each with the same divine nature.
4. While each person is fully and completely God, the persons are not identical.

The differences among Father, Son, and Holy Spirit are found in the way they relate to one another and the role each plays in accomplishing their unified purpose.

The unity of nature and distinction of persons of the Trinity is helpfully illustrated in the diagram doctrine-02.

God Is One God: Monotheism

There is nothing more fundamental to biblical theology than monotheism (the biblical belief that there is one and only one God): “Hear, O Israel: the LORD our God, the LORD is one” (Deut 6:4). This verse, known as the Shema in Hebrew (from the opening verb of the verse, meaning “hear” or “listen”), is one of the most familiar and foundational verses in the OT. God rejects polytheism (belief in many gods) and demands exclusive devotion: “I am the LORD, and there is no other, besides me there is no God” (Isaiah 45:5; cf. Deut 4:35, 39; 1 Kings 8:60; Isa 40:18; 46:9). The NT affirms the deity of the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, as we shall see, but does not waver from OT monotheism (John 17:3; 1 Cor 8:4-6; 1 Tim 2:5; James 2:19). Jesus quotes the Shema in a debate with the Jewish leaders (Mark 12:29), and Paul continues to teach that there is one God while recognizing Jesus as the divine-human Mediator between God and man (1 Tim 2:5).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Implications of Monotheism

Because there is only one God, idolatry of any kind is evil, foolish, wrong, and harmful. Worship of other “gods” robs the true God of the devotion and glory he alone deserves. Idolatry can take many forms. Idols are not only man-made objects but are anything allowed to compete with God for ultimate loyalty. According to Jesus, money can become an idol: “You cannot serve God and money” (Matt 6:24). Greed, lust, and impurity can also become indicators of idolatry (Eph 5:5; Col 3:5). Idolatry is foolish, deceptive, and dangerous—and may even involve demonic activity (1 Cor 10:19-20).

Because there is only one God, he alone should be the ultimate object of the believer's affections. He alone deserves absolute allegiance and obedience. The Great Commandment that follows the Shema is the obvious implication of monotheism: “You shall love the LORD your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your might” (Deut 6:5). The one true God deserves all we are and have. He deserves wholehearted love because nothing compares with him.

God Is Three Persons: The Tri-unity of God

As the nature of God is progressively revealed in Scripture, the one God is seen to exist eternally in three persons. These three persons share the same divine nature yet are different in role and relationship. The basic principle at the heart of God's triune being is unity and distinction, both coexisting without either being compromised. Anything that is necessarily true of God is true of Father, Son, and Spirit. They are equal in essence yet distinct in function.

The doctrine of the Trinity is most fully realized in the NT where the divine Father, Son, and Spirit are seen accomplishing redemption. But while the NT gives the clearest picture of the Trinity, there are hints within the OT of what is yet to come. In the beginning of the Bible, the Spirit of God is “hovering over the face of the waters” at creation (Gen 1:2) and is elsewhere described as a personal being, possessing the attributes of God and yet distinct from Yahweh (Isa 48:16; 61:1; 63:10). Some interpreters think that the plurality within God is seen in the Hebrew word for God, ‘Elohim, which is plural in form (though others disagree that this is significant; the word is used with singular verbs and all agree that it has a singular meaning in the OT). In addition, the use of plural pronouns when God refers to himself hints at a plurality of persons: “Then God said, ‘Let us make man in our image'” (Gen 1:27; cf. Gen 3:22; 11:7; Isa 6:8). The plurality of God also seems to be indicated when the Angel of the Lord appears in the OT as one who represents Yahweh, while yet at times this angel seems to be no different in attributes or actions from God himself (cf. Gen 16:7 , 10-11 , 13 ; 18:1-33 ; Ex 3:1-4:31 ; 32:20-22 ; Num 22:35 , 38 ; Judg 2:1-2 ; 6:11-18). There are also passages in the OT that call two persons God or Lord: “Your throne, O God, is forever and ever. The scepter of your kingdom is a scepter of uprightness; you have loved righteousness and hated wickedness. Therefore God, your God, has anointed you with the oil of gladness above your companions” (Ps 45:6-7). David says, “The LORD says to my Lord: ‘Sit at my right hand, until I make your enemies your footstool'” (Ps 110:1). The God who is set above his companions (Ps 45:6) and the Lord of Psalm 110:1 are recognized as Christ in the NT (Heb 1:8, 13). Christ himself applies Psalm 110:1 to himself (Matt 22:41-46). Other passages give divine status to a messianic figure distinct from Yahweh (Proverbs 8:22-31; 30:4; Dan 7:13-14).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The OT glimpses of God's plurality blossom into the full picture of the Trinity in the NT, where the deity and distinct personalities of Father, Son, and Spirit function together in perfect unity and equality (on the deity of Christ and the Holy Spirit, see The Person of Christ). Perhaps the clearest picture of this distinction and unity is Jesus' baptism, where the Son is anointed for his public ministry by the Spirit, descending as a dove, with the Father declaring from heaven, “This is my beloved Son, with whom I am well pleased” (Matt 3:13-17). All three persons of the Trinity are present, and each one is doing something different.

The NT authors employ a Trinitarian cadence as they write about the work of God. Prayers of blessing and descriptions of gifts within the body of Christ are Trinitarian in nature: “The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ and the love of God and the fellowship of the Holy Spirit be with you all” (2 Cor 13:14); “Now there are varieties of gifts, but the same Spirit; and there are varieties of service, but the same Lord; and there are varieties of activities, but it is the same God who empowers them all in everyone” (1 Cor 12:4-6). The persons of the Trinity are also linked in the baptismal formula of Matthew 28:19-20, “baptizing them in [or into] the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit.” There are many other passages that reveal the Trinitarian, or at least the plural, nature of God (e.g., John 14:16 , 26 ; 16:13-15 ; 20:21-22 ; Rom 8:9 ; 15:16 , 30 ; 2 Cor 1:21-22 ; Gal 4:4-6 ; Eph 2:18 ; 4:4-6 ; 1 Pet 1:1-2 ; 1 John 4:2 , 13-14 ; Jude 20-21).

Differences in roles also appear consistently in biblical testimonies concerning the relationships between the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit. The uniform pattern of Scripture is that the Father plans, directs, and sends; the Son is sent by the Father and is subject to the Father's authority and obedient to the Father's will; and both Father and Son direct and send the Spirit, who carries out the will of both. Yet this is somehow consistent with equality in being and in attributes. The Father created through the Son (John 1:3 ; 1 Cor 8:6 ; Col 1:16 ; Heb 1:2), and the Father planned redemption and sent the Son into the world (John 3:16 ; Rom 8:29 ; Gal 4:4 ; Eph 1:3-5). The Son obeyed the Father and accomplished redemption for us (John 4:34 ; 5:19 ; 6:38 ; Heb 10:5-7 ; cf. Matt 26:64 ; Acts 2:33 ; 1 Cor 15:28 ; Heb 1:3). The Father did not come to die for our sins, nor did the Holy Spirit, but that was the role of the Son. The Father and Son both send the Holy Spirit in a new way after Pentecost (John 14:26; 15:26; 16:7). These relationships existed eternally (Rom 8:29; Eph 1:4; Rev 13:8), and they provide the basis for simultaneous equality and differences in various human relationships.

Within God there is both unity and diversity: unity without uniformity, and diversity without division. The early church saw this Trinitarian balance clearly. For example, the Athanasian Creed (c. A.D. 500) says:

> We worship one God in the Trinity and the Trinity in unity; we distinguish among the persons, but we do not divide the substance. . . . The entire three persons are co-eternal and co-equal with one another, so that. . . we worship complete unity in Trinity and Trinity in Unity.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

This unity and diversity is at the heart of the great mystery of the Trinity. Unity without uniformity is baffling to finite minds, but the world shows different types of reflections of this principle of oneness and distinction at every turn. What is the source of the transcendent beauty in a symphony, the human body, marriage, ecosystems, the church, the human race, a delicious meal, or a perfectly executed fast break in basketball? Is it not, in large part, due to the distinct parts coming together to form a unified whole, leading to a unified result? Unity and distinction—the principle at the heart of the Trinity—can be seen in much of what makes life so rich and beautiful. Woven into the fabric of the world are multiple reflections of the One who made it with unity and distinction as the parallel qualities of its existence.

Historical Misunderstandings of the Trinity

One of the most fundamental ways to misunderstand the Trinity is tritheism, which overemphasizes the distinction between the persons of the Trinity and ends up with three gods. This view neglects the oneness of the natures of Father, Son, and Holy Spirit. At the other end of the spectrum is the heresy of modalism (also known as Sabellianism, named after its earliest proponent, Sabellius, 3rd century), which loses the distinctions between the persons and claims that God is only one person. In this view, the appearance of the three persons is merely three modes of existence of the one God. For instance, God reveals himself as Father when he is creating and giving the law, as Son in redemption, and as Spirit in the church age. A contemporary version of modalism is found in the teaching of Oneness Pentecostalism. Both tritheism and modalism fail to maintain the biblical balance between the one reality of God and his eternal existence in three persons. A third error is to deny the full deity of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, and to say that they were at some time created. This is the heresy of Arianism (after a teacher named Arius, c. A.D. 256-336), and it is held today by Jehovah's Witnesses.

Practical Implications of the Trinity

What are some of the practical implications of the doctrine of the Trinity?

1. The doctrine of the Trinity makes definitive revelation of God possible as he is known in Christ: “No one has ever seen God; the only God, who is at the Father's side, he has made him known” (John 1:18). No man can see God and live (Exodus 33:20; 1 Tim 6:16), but God the Son provided an actual manifestation of God in the flesh.

2. The Trinity makes the atonement possible. Redemption of sinful man is accomplished through the distinct and unified activity of each person of the Godhead: “how much more will the blood of Christ , who through the eternal Spirit offered himself without blemish to God , purify our conscience from dead works to serve the living God” (Heb 9:14).

3. Because God is triune, he has eternally been personal and relational in his own being, in full independence from his creation. God has never had any unmet needs, “nor is he served by human hands, as though he needed anything, since he himself gives to all mankind life and breath and everything” (Acts 17:25). Personhood becomes real only within realized relationships, and the reality of relationship can only exist where one has something or someone that is not oneself to relate to; if, then, God had not been plural in himself he could not have been a personal, relational God till he had begun creating, and thus would have been dependent on creation for his own personhood, which is a notion as nonsensical as it is unscriptural. Between the persons of the Trinity, there has always existed total relational harmony and expression; God is, from this standpoint, a perfect society in himself. Apart from the plurality in the Trinity, either God's eternal independence of the created order or his eternally relational personal existence would have to be denied.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

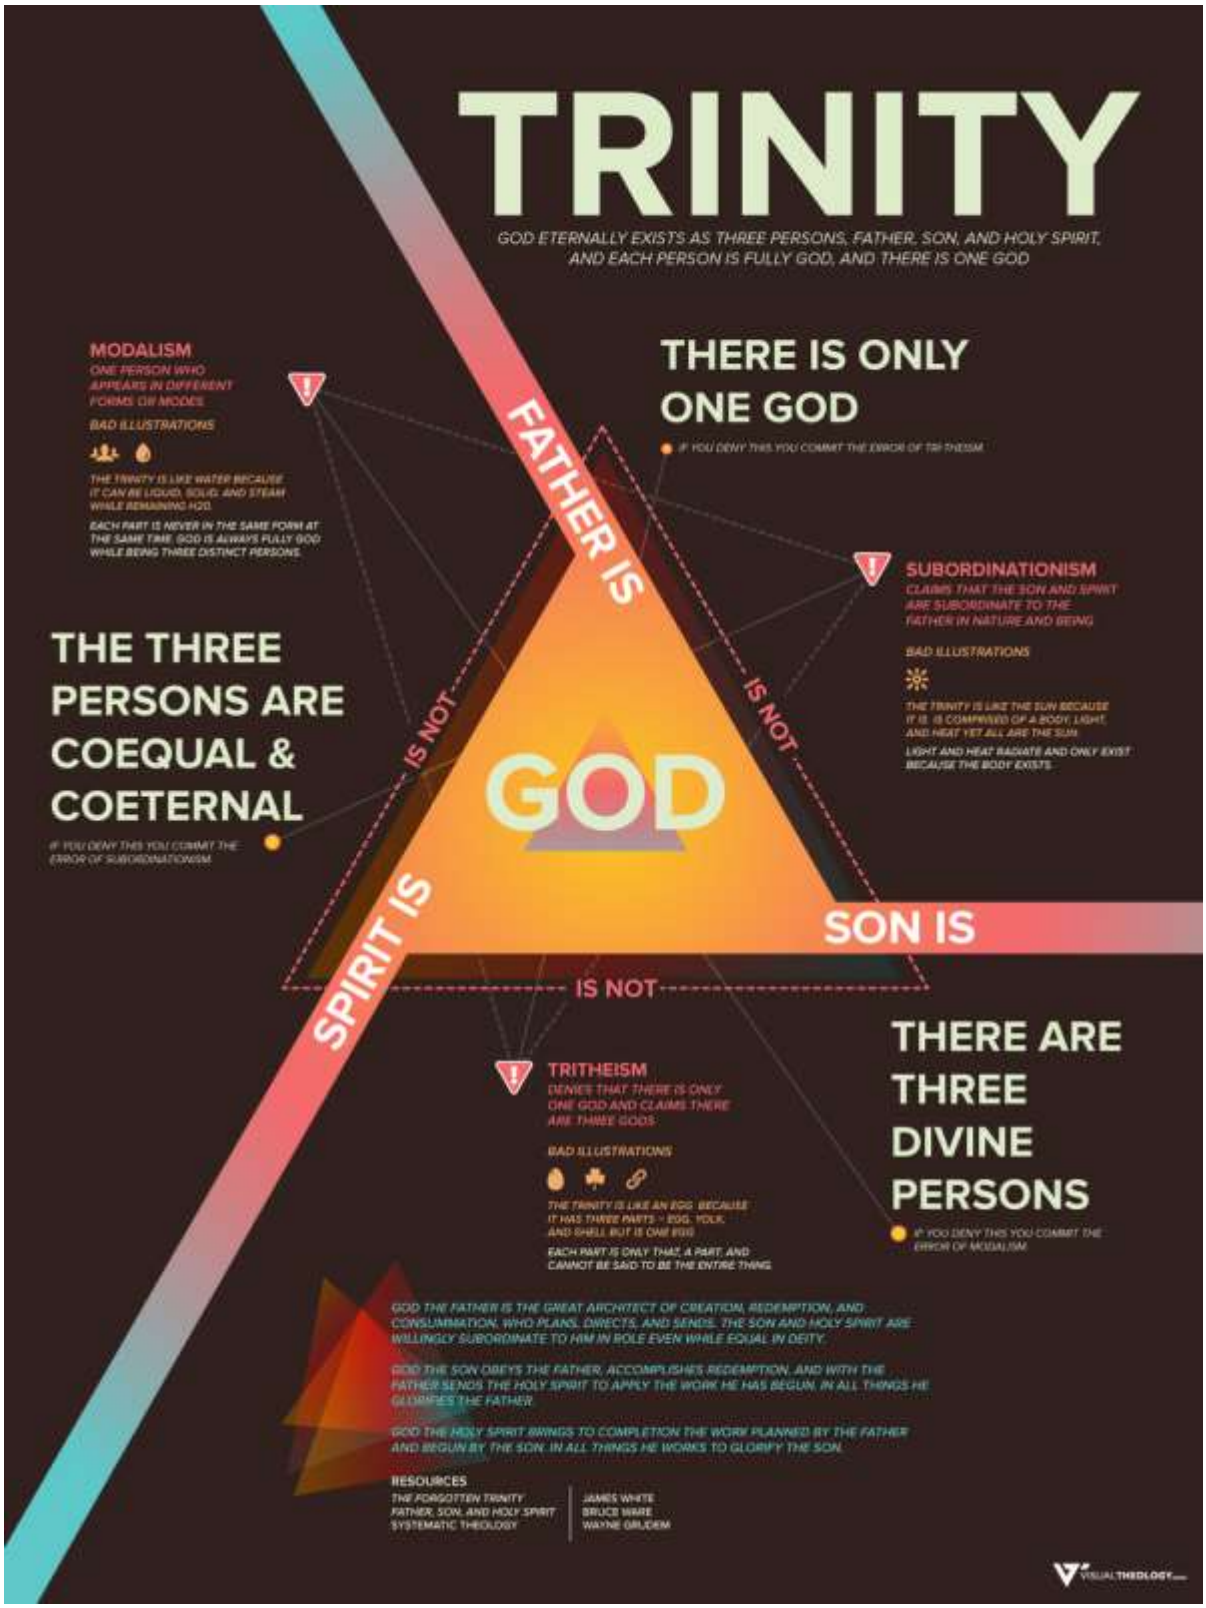
4. The Trinity provides the ultimate model for relationships within the body of Christ and marriage (1 Cor 11:3; 12:4-6; Eph 4:4-7).



The doctrine of the Trinity is well beyond human ability to ever fully comprehend. However, it is central to understanding the nature of God and the central events in the history of salvation, in which God is seen acting as, in effect, a tripersonal team. Biblical Christianity stands or falls with the doctrine of the Trinity.

	FATHER	SON	HOLY SPIRIT
Called God	Phil 1:2	Joh 1:1,14; Col 2:9	Act 5:3-4
Creator	Isa 64:8, 44:24	Joh 1:3; Col 1:15-17	Gen 1:2; Job 33:4, 26:13
Resurrects	1Th 1:10	Joh 2:19, 10:17	Rom 8:11
Omnipresent	1Ki 8:27	Mat 28:20	Psa 139:7-10
Omniscient	1Jo 3:20	Joh 16:30	1Co 2:10-11
Sanctifies	1Th 5:23	Heb 2:11	1Pe 1:2
Life giver	Gen 2:7	Joh 1:3, 5:21	2Co 3:6, 8
Fellowship	1Jo 1:3	1Co 1:9	2Co 13:14
Eternal	Psa 90:2	Mic 5:1-2	Rom 8:11
Speaks	Mat 3:17	Luk 5:20, 7:48	Act 8:29, 11:12, 13:2
Love	Joh 3:16	Eph 5: 25	Rom 15:30
Searches the heart	Jer 17:10	Rev 2:23	1Co 2:10
Scripture	Isa 55:11	Rom 10:17; Col 3:16	2Pe 1:21; Heb 3:7

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Doctrine of the Trinity

One of the early controversies in the church was that of the nature of God and the Trinity. In brief, in the 4th century, Arius, an elder in Alexandria began teaching that Jesus Christ was a created being, and that before being created by God the Father, Jesus did not exist. (This belief is now called Arianism). The archdeacon of Alexandria, Athanasius, opposed Arius, and in the synod of 321 Arius was deposed. In 325 Emperor Constantine convened the first ecumenical council at Nicea and the matter was considered. One faction or the other predominated over the following years, and Athanasius himself was banished as many as five times when Arianism prevailed.

Eventually the church formulated and adopted the Athanasian creed, which declared Father, Son and Holy Spirit to be equal and co-eternal, affirming the doctrine of the trinity.

But what does the Bible say of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit?

The Deity of God the Father

John 6:27 Labour not for the meat which perisheth, but for that meat which endureth unto everlasting life, which the Son of man shall give unto you: for him hath God the Father sealed.

1 Cor 8:6 But to us there is but one God, the Father, of whom are all things, and we in him; and one Lord Jesus Christ, by whom are all things, and we by him.

Gal 1:1 Paul, an apostle, (not of men, neither by man, but by Jesus Christ, and God the Father, who raised him from the dead;)

Gal 1:3 Grace be to you and peace from God the Father, and from our Lord Jesus Christ,

Eph 6:23 Peace be to the brethren, and love with faith, from God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

Phil 2:11 And that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father.

1 Th 1:1 Paul, and Silvanus, and Timotheus, unto the church of the Thessalonians which is in God the Father and in the Lord Jesus Christ: Grace be unto you, and peace, from God our Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ.

2 Tim 1:2 To Timothy, my dearly beloved son: Grace, mercy, and peace, from God the Father and Christ Jesus our Lord.

Titus 1:4 To Titus, mine own son after the common faith: Grace, mercy, and peace, from God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ our Saviour.

1 Pet 1:2 Elect according to the foreknowledge of God the Father, through sanctification of the Spirit, unto obedience and sprinkling of the blood of Jesus Christ: Grace unto you, and peace, be multiplied.

2 Pet 1:17 For he received from God the Father honour and glory, when there came such a voice to him from the excellent glory, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

2 John 1:3 Grace be with you, mercy, and peace, from God the Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ, the Son of the Father, in truth and love.

Jude 1:1 Jude, the servant of Jesus Christ, and brother of James, to them that are sanctified by God the Father, and preserved in Jesus Christ, and called:

Luke 3:21 Now when all the people were baptized, it came to pass, that Jesus also being baptized, and praying, the heaven was opened,
Luke 3:22 And the Holy Ghost descended in a bodily shape like a dove upon him, and a voice came from heaven, which said, Thou art my beloved Son; in thee I am well pleased.

The Deity of Jesus Christ, the Son of God.

Mat 18:10 Take heed that ye despise not one of these little ones; for I say unto you, That in heaven their angels do always behold the face of my Father which is in heaven.

Mat 26:39 And he went a little farther, and fell on his face, and prayed, saying, O my Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me: nevertheless not as I will, but as thou wilt.

Mat 26:42 He went away again the second time, and prayed, saying, O my Father, if this cup may not pass away from me, except I drink it, thy will be done.

Mat 26:63 [NIV] But Jesus remained silent. The high priest said to him, "I charge you under oath by the living God: Tell us if you are the Christ, the Son of God."
Mat 26:64 "Yes, it is as you say," Jesus replied. "But I say to all of you: In the future you will see the Son of Man sitting at the right hand of the Mighty One and coming on the clouds of heaven."

John 8:17 It is also written in your law, that the testimony of two men is true.
John 8:18 I am one that bear witness of myself, and the Father that sent me beareth witness of me.
John 8:19 Then said they unto him, Where is thy Father? Jesus answered, Ye neither know me, nor my Father: if ye had known me, ye should have known my Father also.

John 9:35 Jesus heard that they had cast him out; and when he had found him, he said unto him, Dost thou believe on the Son of God?
John 9:36 He answered and said, Who is he, Lord, that I might believe on him?
John 9:37 And Jesus said unto him, Thou hast both seen him, and it is he that talketh with thee.
John 9:38 And he said, Lord, I believe. And he worshipped him.

John 10:30 I and my Father are one.
John 10:31 Then the Jews took up stones again to stone him.
John 10:32 Jesus answered them, Many good works have I showed you from my Father; for which of those works do ye stone me?
John 10:33 The Jews answered him, saying, For a good work we stone thee not; but for blasphemy; and because that thou, being a man, makest thyself God.

John 13:13 Ye call me Master and Lord: and ye say well; for so I am.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

> Rev 1:8 I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the ending, saith the Lord, which is, and which was, and which is to come, the Almighty.

> Eph 3:9 And to make all men see what is the fellowship of the mystery, which from the beginning of the world hath been hid in God, who created all things by Jesus Christ:

> Col 1:12 Giving thanks unto the Father, which hath made us meet to be partakers of the inheritance of the saints in light:
> Col 1:13 Who hath delivered us from the power of darkness, and hath translated us into the kingdom of his dear Son:
> Col 1:14 In whom we have redemption through his blood, even the forgiveness of sins:
> Col 1:15 Who is the image of the invisible God, the firstborn of every creature:
> Col 1:16 For by him were all things created, that are in heaven, and that are in earth, visible and invisible, whether they be thrones, or dominions, or principalities, or powers: all things were created by him, and for him:

> > Col 2:8 Beware lest any man spoil you through philosophy and vain deceit, after the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world, and not after Christ.
> > Col 2:9 For in him dwelleth all the fulness of the Godhead bodily.

> > John 1:1 In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God.
> > John 1:2 The same was in the beginning with God.
> > John 1:3 All things were made by him; and without him was not any thing made that was made.
> > John 1:14 And the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father,) full of grace and truth.

The Word is identified as God and creator here in John, and the Word was made flesh, God incarnate. In conjunction with Ephesians 3:9 and Colossians 1:12-16, this is clearly speaking of Jesus Christ as God and Creator.

The Deity of the Holy Spirit.

> Acts 5:3 But Peter said, Ananias, why hath Satan filled thine heart to lie to the Holy Ghost, and to keep back part of the price of the land?
> Acts 5:4 Whiles it remained, was it not thine own? and after it was sold, was it not in thine own power? why hast thou conceived this thing in thine heart? thou hast not lied unto men, but unto God.

Here in verse 3, Peter says Ananias has lied to the Holy Ghost, and in the next verse Peter says Ananias has lied to God. Clearly then according to Peter, the Holy Spirit is indeed deity, a part of the Godhead. This is also apparent from the following verse in the book of Matthew-

> Mat 28:19 Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost:

According to Matthew, baptism is to be in the name of all three persons of the Godhead.

Also, according to Scripture, the Holy Spirit -

- Participated in creation - Gen 1:2

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

- Is a Comforter - John 14:26
- Is eternal - Heb 9:14
- Speaks - 1 Tim 4:1; Rev 14:13
- Teaches - John 14:26
- Reveals the future - Luke 2:26
- Bears Witness - Rom 8:16
- Guides to the truth - John 16:13
- Gives life (quickens) - Rom 8:11; 1Pet 3:18
- Reproves - John 16:8
- Makes Intercession - Rom 8:26
- Indwells the believer - 1 Cor 6:19
- Distributes gifts - 1 Cor 12:11
- Seals the believer - Eph 1:13, 4:30
- Invites the Sinner - Rev 22:17
- Can be Blasphemed - Mat 12:31-32
- Conceived Jesus in Mary - Mat 1:20

A Trinity, but only one God

Mal 2:10 Have we not all one father? hath not one God created us? why do we deal treacherously every man against his brother, by profaning the covenant of our fathers?

Mark 12:32 And the scribe said unto him, Well, Master, thou hast said the truth: for there is one God; and there is none other but he:

Rom 3:30 Seeing it is one God, which shall justify the circumcision by faith, and uncircumcision through faith.

1 Cor 8:6 But to us there is but one God, the Father, of whom are all things, and we in him; and one Lord Jesus Christ, by whom are all things, and we by him.

Eph 4:6 One God and Father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in you all.

1 Tim 2:5 For there is one God, and one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus;

James 2:19 Thou believest that there is one God; thou doest well: the devils also believe, and tremble.

One God, Yet Triune

All three entities of the Trinity were present at the baptism of Jesus-

Mat 3:13 Then cometh Jesus from Galilee to Jordan unto John, to be baptized of him.
Mat 3:14 But John forbad him, saying, I have need to be baptized of thee, and comest thou to me?
Mat 3:15 And Jesus answering said unto him, Suffer it to be so now: for thus it becometh us to fulfil all righteousness. Then he suffered him.
Mat 3:16 And Jesus, when he was baptized, went up straightway out of the water: and, lo, the heavens were opened unto him, and he saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove, and lighting upon him:
Mat 3:17 And lo a voice from heaven, saying, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

So the Bible teaches that the Father, the Son Jesus Christ, and the Holy Spirit are all deity, each distinct, yet each part of the Godhead, but there is only one God. While difficult for humanity to comprehend, the Trinity is indeed the truth, not because of the creeds of men, but because it is taught by the Bible.

[Source: http://biblelight.net/trinity.htm]

The Historic Case for the Trinity https://www.bethinking.org/god/the-historic-case-for-the-trinity

Excerpt:

An oft-repeated objection to the Trinity is that the Scriptures provide no theological basis upon which one can build a case for the Trinity. Further, those unfamiliar with Christian origins and the historic development of Christian doctrines propose that the initial followers of Christ were not Trinitarian, even in some nascent form. Therefore, prior to interacting with the Muslim perception of the Trinity and the challenges involved with presenting the Trinity to Muslims, it would beneficial to define an orthodox doctrine of the triune Godhead.

This goal will be accomplished by first examining scriptural evidence for the Trinity; that is, the designation that the Father is God, the Son is God, and the Holy Spirit is God. Second, this is accomplished through a survey covering major developments in Trinitarian thought during the first four centuries of church history. The resulting orthodox definition of the Trinity will synthesize the contributions of revelation and history…

Does the Doctrine of the Trinity Make Sense?

https://pioneertheology.wordpress.com/2007/03/26/does-the-doctrine-of-the-trinity-make-sense/

Excerpt:

> If this would opening you and written have syntax it great grammar is understanding then you proper wouldn't with sentence difficulty?

No, I have not become incapable of grammatical writing; I do still know how to write an English sentence. But those words that lead off this essay will eventually help me "make sense" of the doctrine of the Trinity.

For many years as a Christian—even after several years of theological education—I regarded the doctrine of the Trinity as something that the Bible taught and the church confessed, but I didn't understand. It made no sense to me and made no impact on my faith. I suspect that many Christians are like that—accepting the doctrine, confessing it, and having no idea how it might have an impact on their lives of faith.

That is how I was; but today I know and teach the doctrine of the Trinity as "an eminently practical doctrine." (Catherine Mowry LaCugna) This change in my understanding came as I learned to approach doctrine as I described it in my previous article: as the means by which the church teaches us the Biblical vision and the practices of discipleship. Then the doctrine of the Trinity began to make sense…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Work of Christ

The doctrine of the work of Christ is traditionally organized by the offices he fulfilled and the stages of his work.

The Offices of Christ

Christ perfectly fulfilled the OT offices of prophet, priest, and king. These offices or roles in the OT reveal aspects of God's word, presence, and power. The anointing and empowering of the Holy Spirit and favor of God was essential if these offices were to truly represent God. OT prophets, priests, and kings foreshadowed the Messiah who would one day ultimately and definitively be manifest as God's Son and Word, bringing access to God's presence and inaugurating the kingdom of God.

The Prophetic Work of Christ

A true prophet of God proclaims God's word to people. God promised Moses that he would raise up a messianic prophet who would authoritatively speak for him: “I will raise up for them a prophet like you from among their brothers. And I will put my words in his mouth, and he shall speak to them all that I command him. And whoever will not listen to my words that he shall speak in my name, I myself will require it of him” (Deut 18:18-19). Those in Jesus' day expected the Messiah to fulfill the prophetic role the OT foretold. As the author of Hebrews tells us, Jesus' prophetic ministry brought all that previous prophets of God had proclaimed to a definitive culmination: “Long ago, at many times and in many ways, God spoke to our fathers by the prophets, but in these last days he has spoken to us by his Son, whom he appointed the heir of all things, through whom also he created the world” (Heb 1:1-2). Jesus equated his own words with the authoritative words of the Hebrew Scriptures, showing that he knew his words were the very words of God. He recognized the unchanging authority of the Mosaic law (Matt 5:18) and gave his teaching the same weight: “Heaven and earth will pass away, but my words will not pass away” (Matt 24:35). Because Jesus' words are the very words of God, they are divinely authoritative, eternal, and unchangeable.

Jesus' prophetic authority is vastly superior to that of any other prophet because he speaks God's words as God. The divine authority of his words is based on his identity as God incarnate. He proclaimed God's truth as the One who is the Truth (John 14:6). His word is the ultimate Word.

Implications of the Prophetic Office of Christ

Since Jesus Christ is the true and perfect prophet, he is the ultimate source of truth about God, ourselves, the meaning of life, the future, right and wrong, salvation, and heaven and hell. The voice of Jesus in the Word of God should be eagerly sought and obeyed without reservation or delay. Even though Jesus perfectly fulfills the office of prophet, God's plan is for the church to represent him with its own ongoing prophetic voice, proclaiming truth into the world. Paul certainly saw his own ministry as speaking for God: “Therefore, we are ambassadors for Christ, God making his appeal through us. We implore you on behalf of Christ, be reconciled to God” (2 Cor 5:20).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Priestly Work of Christ

While a prophet speaks God's words to the people, a priest represents the people before God and represents God before the people. He is a man who stands in the presence of God as a mediator (Heb 5:1). The priestly work of Christ involves both atonement and intercession.

The Atonement of Christ

The atonement is central to God's work in the history of salvation (1 Cor 15:4). Atonement is the making of enemies into friends by averting the punishment that their sin would otherwise incur. Sinners in rebellion against God need a representative to offer sacrifice on their behalf if they are to be reconciled to God. Jesus' righteous life and atoning death on behalf of sinners is the only way for fallen man to be restored into right relationship with a holy God.

Even with the extensive requirements for the priesthood in the OT, there was nevertheless a realization that these human priests were unable to make lasting atonement (Ps 110:1 , 4 ; cf. Heb 10:1-4). Jesus alone was able to make an offering sufficient for the eternal forgiveness of sins. Because Jesus was without sin, he was uniquely able to offer sacrifice without needing atonement for himself. In offering himself as the perfect, spotless Lamb of God, he could actually pay for sins in a way that OT sacrifices could not. Jesus' atoning offering was thus eternal, complete, and once-for-all. No other sacrifice will ever be needed to pay the price for human sin.

The Necessity of the Atonement

Jesus died because of human sin, but also in accordance with God's plan. The reality of human sin is vividly seen in the envy of the Jewish leaders (Matt 27:18), Judas's greed (Matt 26:14-16), and Pilate's cowardice (Matt 27:26). However, Jesus gave his life of his own initiative and courageous love: “I am the good shepherd. The good shepherd lays down his life for the sheep. . . . For this reason the Father loves me, because I lay down my life that I may take it up again. No one takes it from me, but I lay it down of my own accord. I have authority to lay it down, and I have authority to take it up again. This charge I have received from my Father” (John 10:11 , 17-18 ; cf. Gal 2:20).

The Father's divine initiative also led to Jesus' atoning work: “He who did not spare his own Son but gave him up for us all, how will he not also with him graciously give us all things?” (Rom 8:32 ; cf. Isa 53:6 , 10 ; John 3:16). As in all events of human history, God's sovereign determination works in a way compatible with human decisions and actions. Even human sin is woven into God's divine purposes, as is seen in verses that say Jesus was “delivered up according to the definite plan and foreknowledge of God” (Acts 2:23), and that “Herod and Pontius Pilate, along with the Gentiles and the peoples of Israel” were gathered together to do “whatever [God's] hand and [God's] plan had predestined to take place” (Acts 4:27-28).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Christ came to save sinners in order to accomplish God's will. Christ died in accordance with God's sovereign, free, gracious choice—not because he was in any way compelled to offer salvation to mankind because of something inherent in us. God did not save fallen angels (2 Pet 2:4), and he would have been entirely justified in condemning all of fallen humanity to hell; only by reason of his amazing mercy and grace can anyone be saved.

Atonement in the Bible is explained with numerous metaphors and images. The Chart shows the varied images the Bible uses to describe the achievement that is at the heart of the gospel.

Biblical Descriptions of the Atonement

Type of Language	Biblical Words	Human Need	The Result
Language of OT sacrifices	Blood, lamb, sacrifice	We are guilty	We are forgiven
Language of personal relationships	Reconciliation	We are alienated from God	We are brought back into intimate fellowship with God
Language of righteous anger at wrongdoing	Propitiation	We are under God's holy wrath	God's wrath is satisfied/quenched
Language of the marketplace	Redemption, ransom	We are enslaved	We are set free
Language of the law court	Justification	We are condemned	We are pardoned and counted as righteous
Language of the battlefield	Victory, deliverance, rescue	We are facing dreadful enemies	We are delivered and are triumphant in Christ

Throughout church history, various aspects of the atonement have garnered particular attention. For instance, at different times theologians have stressed the ransom imagery, the selfless example of Christ, and the victory of Christ over evil. These aspects of the atonement, rightly understood, contain true and important insights, but the crux of the atonement is Christ taking the place of sinners and enduring the wrath of God as their substitute sacrifice. This is evident in passages like 2 Corinthians 5:21 (“For our sake he made him to be sin who knew no sin, so that in him we might become the righteousness of God”) and Isaiah 53:4-5 (“Surely he has borne our griefs and carried our sorrows; yet we esteemed him stricken, smitten by God, and afflicted. But he was wounded for our transgressions; he was crushed for our iniquities; upon him was the chastisement that brought us peace, and with his stripes we are healed”; cf. Rom 3:25; Heb 2:17; 1 John 2:2; 4:10). The fundamental problem of human sin has been solved in Christ's dying for sinners who deserved eternal judgment. Any attempt to diminish the importance of the penal substitution of Christ for us (i.e., the truth that Christ died to pay the penalty for our sins) will diminish God's holiness and wrath, as well as the heinous depth of human sin.

Christ's physical suffering on the cross was outweighed by the emotional, psychological, and spiritual anguish of bearing the sin of mankind and having the wrath of the Father poured out on him. The abandonment and bearing of God's wrath that Jesus experienced on the cross is beyond our comprehension. On account of this merciful, substitutionary sacrifice he will be worshiped for all eternity by those who are his (Rev 5:11-12). While Jesus' death for sinners was the basis of his atoning work, his life of perfect righteousness in their place was also necessary to win their forgiveness. He not only died for rebels, he also lived for them (Rom 5:19 ; Phil 3:9).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Intercession of Christ

Jesus' priestly work on the cross atoned for sin once for all. Grounded in that atoning work, his priestly work of intercession continues now and forevermore on behalf of his people: “Who is to condemn? Christ Jesus is the one who died—more than that, who was raised—who is at the right hand of God, who indeed is interceding for us ” (Rom 8:34); Christ “is able to save to the uttermost those who draw near to God through him, since he always lives to make intercession for them ” (Heb 7:25). Jesus is alive and always at work representing and bringing requests for believers before the throne of God, intervening in heaven for them. He is the God-man who mediates and represents fallen people based on his fully sufficient work on the cross, and his intervention never fails. Jesus, the sinner's divine lawyer, never loses a case: “My little children, I am writing these things to you so that you may not sin. But if anyone does sin, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous” (1 John 2:1).

As the people who constitute the church are intended to have a prophetic voice as Christ's ambassadors, God also intends to use the church in a priestly role to usher people into his presence. Because of Christ's work, all of God's people are viewed as priests with priestly access into his presence and with the privilege of representing people before God (1 Pet 2:9 ; Rev 5:9-10). Prayer, preaching, gospel proclamation, and taking initiative in personal, spiritual ministry are all ways in which God's people can encourage others to seek and know God and can thereby fulfill their call to represent Christ as a kingdom of priests.

The Kingly Work of Christ

Christ is not only the ultimate prophet and priest, he is also the divine king. Unlike the kings of Israel who were intended to foreshadow the Messiah, Jesus' reign as messianic King is in no way limited. He rules over all creation and for all time (Luke 1:31-33 ; Col 1:17). This rule most directly touches believers at present, but one day all peoples will bow to his royal authority (Phil 2:9-10). In addition to his comprehensive rule, Christ the King also defends, protects, and shepherds his people and will one day judge all the world's inhabitants—past, present, and future.

God's people represent their King when they work to see kingdom realities spread in the world. When they seek social justice—fighting to relieve the plight of the poor, disenfranchised, or unborn—they are working to spread the values of their King. When they work hard and live as good citizens, they are salt and light in a dark world, ultimately serving the interest of their King. One day, when Christ makes all things new, those who are in him will reign with their King: “The saying is trustworthy, for: If we have died with him, we will also live with him; if we endure, we will also reign with him” (2 Tim 2:11-12a ; cf. Rev 5:9-10).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: ESV Study Bible note]

English	Hebrew	Meaning
law	torah	instruction
testimonies	‘edot	what God solemnly testifies to be his will precepts	piqqudim	what God has appointed to be done statutes	khuqqim; khuqqot	what the divine Lawgiver has laid down commandments	mitswot	what God has commanded rules	mishpatim	what the divine Judge has ruled to be right word	'imrah; dabar	what God has spoken

[Source: ESV Study Bible note]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

1 Corinthians 3:10-15 This passage refers to the judgment seat of Christ (cf. 2Co 5:10). The works discussed here have nothing to do with earning or losing salvation. The rewards (or loss of them) pertain only to Christians.

The Judgments
Judgment	Nature	Occasion	Result
Of Jesus Christ— Jn 12:31	Bearing the believer's sins— 2Co 5:21; Heb 9:26-28; 1Pe 2:24; 3:18	Christ lifted up on the cross, world judged, Satan defeated— Jn 12:31	Death of Christ, justification and security of the believer— Jn 5:24; Ro 5:9; 8:1; 2Co 5:21; Ga 3:13
Of the believer by himself— 2Co 11:31-32; 2Sa 7:14-15	The believer's condemnation of himself for permitting his own sinful ways and habits— 2Sa 12:13-14	Self-judgment of the believer as a son to avoid chastisement by his heavenly Father— Heb 12:7	If neglected, the Father's chastening follows, but never condemnation— 1Co 11:32; 5:5
Of the believer's works— 2Co 5:10	Quality of the believer's life as a servant— 1Co 3:11-15; Mt 12:36 (in no sense for sins, Heb 10:17)	At the coming of the Lord— 1Co 4:1-5; 9:24-27; Ro 14:10; Ga 6:7; Col 3:24-25; 2Ti 4:8	Reward for faithful service, loss of reward— 1Co 3:8; 14-15; Rev 22:12
Of the Gentile survivors of the Tribulation— Mt 25:31-46; Joe 3:1-3	Point of testing is the treatment of Christ's brother's, i.e., the Jewish people during the Tribulation	At Christ's return in glory to set up His millennial kingdom	Entrance into or exclusion from the millennial kingdom
Jewish survivors of the Tribulation— Eze 20:33-44	Subjects will be living Israelites regathered at the end of the Tribulation	At Christ's return in glory to set up His millennial kingdom	Entrance or non-entrance into the land for kingdom blessing— Ps 50:1-7; Mal 3:2-5; 4:1-2
Of the fallen angels— Jude 6; 2Pe 2:4; 1Co 6:3	Subjects will be the angels who rebelled with Satan— Rev 12:3-4	Evidently after the Millennium, at the end of history	Satan and the evil angels relegated to the lake of fire, Gehenna, eternal hell— Rev 20:10
Of the unsaved— Rev 20:11-15	Only the wicked dead. Perhaps Satan and fallen angels are finally judged also at this time	Basis of judgment is according to works to determine degree of punishment of the lost	Second death, or lake of fire—not annihilation— Rev 19:20; 20:10 14-15

[Source: Ryrie Study Bible note]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Psalms

Term	Explanation	Example
Image	A word or phrase that names a concrete action or thing; by extension, a character, setting, or event in a story is an image—a concrete embodiment of human experience or an idea.	the way (or path); the congregation (or assembly); nature (or harvest) (Psalm 1)
Metaphor	An implied comparison that does not use the formula like or as: "The LORD is my shepherd" (Ps 23:1).	"The Lord is my shepherd" (Ps 23:1).
Simile	A figure of speech in which a writer compares two things using the formula like or as.	"He is like a tree planted by streams of water" (Ps 1:3).
Personification	A figure of speech in which human attributes are given to something nonhuman, such as animals, objects, or abstract qualities.	Light and truth are personified as guides in Psalm 43:3.
Hyperbole	A figure of speech in which a writer consciously exaggerates for the sake of effect; usually that effect is emotional, and thus, loosely put, hyperbole usually expresses emotional truth rather than literal truth.	"My tears have been my food day and night" (Ps 42:3).
Apostrophe	A figure of speech in which the writer addresses someone absent as though present and capable of responding. By slight extension, an apostrophe might be an address to something nonhuman as though it were human and capable of responding, even if the speaker is in the presence of the object.	The poet in Psalm 148:3 might well be looking up at the sun, moon, or stars as he commands them to praise God.

[Source: ESV Study Bible note]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Kingdom of God (and Kingdom of Heaven)

Summary of the Kingdom of God
https://www.learnreligions.com/what-is-the-kingdom-of-god-701988

So, the simplest way to understand the Kingdom of God is the realm where Jesus Christ reigns as King and God's authority is supreme. This Kingdom exists here and now (in part) in the lives and hearts of the redeemed, as well as in perfection and fullness in the future.

What is the Kingdom of God? Why did Jesus talk about it so much?
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=CIcptDF-fc4 [Video]

What is the kingdom of God?
https://www.gotquestions.org/kingdom-of-God.html

Question: "What is the kingdom of God?"

Answer: The kingdom of God is referenced often in the gospels (e.g., Mark 1:15; 10:15; 15:43; Luke 17:20) and other places in the New Testament (e.g., Acts 28:31; Romans 14:17; 1 Corinthians 15:50). The kingdom of God is synonymous with the kingdom of heaven. The concept of the kingdom of God takes on various shades of meaning in different passages of Scripture.

Broadly speaking, the kingdom of God is the rule of an eternal, sovereign God over all the universe. Several passages of Scripture show that God is the undeniable Monarch of all creation: "The LORD has established his throne in heaven, and his kingdom rules over all" (Psalm 103:19). And, as King Nebuchadnezzar declared, "His kingdom is an eternal kingdom" (Daniel 4:3). Every authority that exists has been established by God (Romans 13:1). So, in one sense, the kingdom of God incorporates everything that is.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others.

More narrowly, the kingdom of God is a spiritual rule over the hearts and lives of those who willingly submit to God's authority. Those who defy God's authority and refuse to submit to Him are not part of the kingdom of God; in contrast, those who acknowledge the lordship of Christ and gladly surrender to God's rule in their hearts are part of the kingdom of God. In this sense, the kingdom of God is spiritual—Jesus said His kingdom was not of this world (John 18:36), and He preached that repentance is necessary to be a part of the kingdom of God (Matthew 4:17). That the kingdom of God can be equated with the sphere of salvation is evident in John 3:5–7, where Jesus says the kingdom of God must be entered into by being born again. See also 1 Corinthians 6:9.

There is another sense in which the kingdom of God is used in Scripture: the literal rule of Christ on the earth during the millennium. Daniel said that "the God of heaven will set up a kingdom that will never be destroyed" (Daniel 2:44; cf. 7:13–14), and many of the other prophets predicted the same thing (e.g., Obadiah 1:21; Habakkuk 2:14; Micah 4:2; Zechariah 14:9). Some theologians refer to the future, open manifestation of the kingdom of God as the "kingdom of glory" and the present, hidden manifestation of the kingdom of God as the "kingdom of grace." But both manifestations are connected; Christ has set up His spiritual reign in the church on earth, and He will one day set up His physical reign in Jerusalem.

The kingdom of God has several aspects. The Lord is the Sovereign of the universe, and so in that sense His kingdom is universal (1 Timothy 6:15). At the same time, the kingdom of God involves repentance and the new birth, as God rules in the hearts of His children in this world in preparation for the next. The work begun on earth will find its consummation in heaven (see Philippians 1:6).

What is the Kingdom of God? by John Piper

https://www.desiringgod.org/interviews/what-is-the-kingdom-of-god

Excerpt:

Rule and Reign

I think the most important thing I could say about the kingdom of God that would help people make sense out of all the uses is that the basic meaning of the word kingdom in the Bible is God's reign — R-E-I-G-N — not realm or people. The kingdom creates a realm, the kingdom creates a people, but the kingdom of God is not synonymous with its realm or its people.

"God decided the kingdom of God would be most gloriously revealed in a crucified and risen king."

For example, consider Psalms 103:19: "The Lord has established his throne in the heavens, and his kingdom rules over all." You can hear the basic meaning of the word kingdom as rule. It doesn't mean that his kingdom rules over his realm; it means that God's reign or rule governs all things.

He sits as king on his throne of the universe, and his kingly rule — his kingdom and his reign — governs all things. The basic meaning of the word kingdom in the Bible is God's kingly rule — his reign, his action, his lordship, his sovereign governance.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Baker's Evangelical Dictionary of Biblical Theology - Kingdom of God

https://www.biblestudytools.com/dictionary/kingdom-of-god/

Excerpt:

The heart of Jesus' teachings centers around the theme of the kingdom of God. This expression is found in sixty-one separate sayings in the Synoptic Gospels. Counting parallels to these passages, the expression occurs over eighty-five times. It also occurs twice in John (3:3, 5). It is found in such key places as the preaching of John the Baptist, "Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is near" (Matt 3:2); Jesus' earliest announcement, "The time has come… The kingdom of God is near. Repent and believe the good news!" (Mark 1:15 ; cf. Matt 4:17 ; Luke 4:42-43);the prayer Jesus taught his disciples, "your kingdom come" (Matt 6:10); in the Beatitudes, "for theirs is the kingdom of heaven" (Matthew 5:3 Matthew 5:10); at the Last Supper, "I will not drink again of the fruit of the vine until that day when I drink it anew in the kingdom of God" (Mark 14:25); and in many of Jesus' parables (Matthew 13:24 Matthew 13:44 Matthew 13:45 Matthew 13:47 ; Mark 4:26 Mark 4:30 ; Luke19:11).

It was once popular in certain circles to argue that the expressions "kingdom of God" and "kingdom of heaven" referred to two different realities. It is now clear, however, that they are synonyms. This is evident for several reasons. For one, the two expressions are used in the same sayings of Jesus, but where Matthew uses "kingdom of heaven, " Mark or Luke or both use "kingdom of God. "Second, Matthew himself uses these two expressions interchangeably in 19:23-24, "itis hard for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven … for a rich man to enter the kingdom of God." Finally, we know that "heaven" was frequently used as a circumlocution for "God" by devout Jews. Due to respect for the third commandment ("You shall not misuse the name of the Lord your God" [Exod 20:7]), pious Jews used various circumlocutions for the sacred name of God (YHWH) in order to avoid the danger of breaking this commandment. One such circumlocution was the term "heaven." This is seen in the expression "kingdom of heaven" but also in such passages as Luke 15:18, 21 ("Father, I have sinned against heaven and against you") and Mark 11:30.

What Is the Kingdom of God?

https://lifehopeandtruth.com/prophecy/kingdom-of-god/what-is-the-kingdom-of-god/

Excerpt:

What is the Kingdom of God? It is the central theme of Jesus’ teaching and the foundational message of the Church founded by Him through His disciples. As Mark explains in his Gospel account, “Now after John was put in prison, Jesus came to Galilee, preaching the gospel of the kingdom of God, and saying, ‘The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand. Repent, and believe in the gospel.’”

The gospel of the Kingdom of God

Matthew and Luke likewise record that Jesus’ message was the “gospel” or “glad tidings” of the Kingdom (Matthew 4:23; Luke 8:1). Even though Matthew referred to it as “the kingdom of heaven” (Matthew 4:17; Matthew 5:3, 10, 19-20) and Paul once called it “the kingdom of Christ and God” (Ephesians 5:5), the predominant name in Scripture is “the kingdom of God.”

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Jesus consistently taught this same message of hope—"gospel" means good news—of the Kingdom throughout His ministry. His parables—stories with spiritual lessons—often dealt with this Kingdom, which God the Father and His Son had prepared prior to the existence of man at "the foundation of the world'" (Matthew 25:34). In the Kingdom parables, Jesus explained what we must do to enter the Kingdom and what conditions will be like in it. Many of the Old Testament prophets had written of this Kingdom while under the inspiration of the Holy Spirit (2 Peter 1:20-21).

After training His 12 disciples, Jesus sent them out "to preach the kingdom of God and to heal the sick" (Luke 9:2). After His crucifixion and resurrection, Jesus appeared before His disciples and continued "speaking of the things pertaining to the kingdom of God" (Acts 1:3).

Later, Paul likewise described his ministry as preaching "the kingdom of God" (Acts 14:22; Acts 19:8; Acts 20:25; Acts 28:31; 1 Corinthians 6:9-10; 1 Corinthians 15:24) and referred to his fellow ministers as "workers for the kingdom of God" (Colossians 4:11).

A literal or a figurative kingdom?

What is the real meaning of the Kingdom of God? Is it a literal or a figurative kingdom? While it is generally understood that the message Jesus preached was that of the Kingdom of God, the question as to whether this Kingdom is literal or figurative is more complicated. Since Jesus came preaching that the Kingdom was "at hand" (Mark 1:15), some think it is literally here on earth via the Church or figuratively in our hearts. Others, recognizing that "flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God" (1 Corinthians 15:50), say it is not yet here.

"And in the days of these kings the God of heaven will set up a kingdom which shall never be destroyed; and the kingdom shall not be left to other people; it shall break in pieces and consume all these kingdoms, and it shall stand forever" (Daniel 2:44). The Kingdom of God will thus replace the governments of this earth. Acknowledging the difficulty in understanding this part of His message, Jesus termed it a "mystery." Speaking to His disciples, Jesus said, "To you it has been given to know the mystery of the kingdom of God; but to those who are outside, all things come in parables, so that 'Seeing they may see and not perceive, and hearing they may hear and not understand; lest they should turn, and their sins be forgiven them'" (Mark 4:11-12).

So what did the disciples understand? What did Jesus and the prophets foretell? A careful study of the Scriptures provides clarity about the real meaning of the Kingdom of God.

- The Kingdom of God is a literal kingdom. God gave King Nebuchadnezzar a dream of an image of a man with a head of gold, its chest and arms of silver, its belly and thighs of bronze, its legs of iron and its feet partly of iron and partly of clay. God revealed the meaning of the dream through Daniel, showing that there would be four world-ruling empires (Daniel 2:31-43). History has shown these to be the Babylonian, Medo-Persian, Greco-Macedonian and Roman empires.
  Concluding this explanation, Daniel wrote: "And in the days of these kings the God of heaven will set up a kingdom which shall never be destroyed; and the kingdom shall not be left to other people; it shall break in pieces and consume all these kingdoms, and it shall stand forever" (verse 44). The Kingdom of God will thus replace the governments of this earth.
- The Kingdom of God will be established on earth when Jesus returns. The time that the Kingdom is established will be after Christ's return to earth. Revelation 11:15 states: "Then the seventh angel sounded: And there were loud voices in heaven, saying, 'The kingdoms of this world have become the kingdoms of our Lord and of His Christ, and He shall reign forever and ever!'" Jesus told His disciples that when the Kingdom was established, they would "sit on twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel" (Matthew 19:28, also compare Luke 22:30).
- We prepare for the Kingdom by living according to the rules of the Kingdom now. Explaining how one might enter the Kingdom of God, Jesus told Nicodemus that one must be "born again" (John 3:1-8). This process begins with baptism, which signifies the death of the former sinful man and the beginning of a new life dedicated to Christ (Romans 6:1-5). It culminates in a change from mortal flesh and blood to immortal spirit at Christ's return (1 Corinthians 15:50-53; 1 Thessalonians 4:16-17). Once we embark on this process, we are symbolically "conveyed" into the Kingdom (Colossians 1:13) and our "citizenship" is now described as being in heaven (Philippians 3:20). At the completion of the process of being born again, we will be changed into immortal beings and become kings and priests serving in God's Kingdom on earth (Revelation 1:6; Revelation 5:10).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

"The Kingdom of God Is Within You"—What Did Christ Mean?

https://lifehopeandtruth.com/prophecy/kingdom-of-god/the-kingdom-of-god-is-within-you/

Excerpt:

In this passage [Luke 17:21], entos (the Greek word that is translated "within") can also be translated "in the midst of" (Vine's Complete Expository Dictionary of Old and New Testament Words). The New American Standard Bible, the New International Version, the Modern King James Version and Green's Literal Translation translate this phrase "in your midst." In this sense, Jesus, the King of the coming Kingdom of God, was standing in the midst of the Pharisees. These translations are clearly better, for the Kingdom of God was not in the hearts of these Pharisees.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Kingdom of God

http://doctrine.org/the-kingdom-of-god

Excerpt:

Introduction

What the kingdom of God is, where it is located, and what is its future is greatly misunderstood by most in Christendom. The majority of Christians have been taught that the kingdom of God is in heaven, or in one's heart, or the Church is the kingdom, or it is social justice, or it is a conversion experience. The goal of this study is to reveal the nature of the kingdom of God.

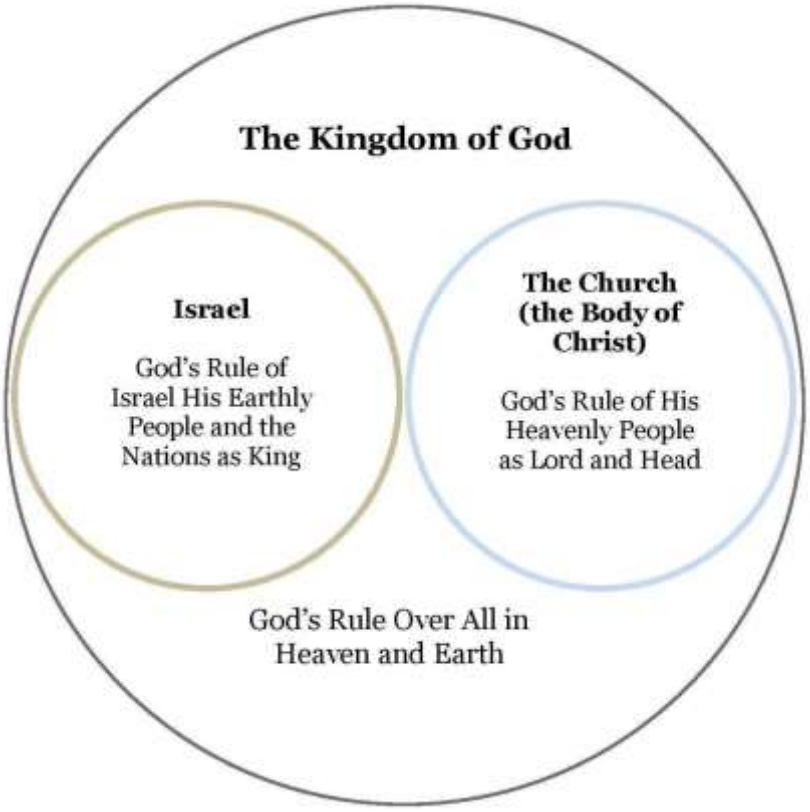
…

Concept of the Kingdom of God

The kingdom of God is a foundational theological doctrine in the Bible with two senses: general and particular. The general sense may be defined as God's rule over all creation, especially over creatures who are loyal or have responded to Him. The particular sense of the kingdom of God is God's rule over His covenant people, Israel. This rule will began after Israel responds to Him and He establishes His earthly kingdom (Zechariah 12.10; Matthew 23.39; Romans 11.26). The context of a passage will determine the sense.

Matthew's phrase "kingdom of heaven" is unique to him and is a technical phrase. It is used only in reference to God's rule over national Israel in which the Messiah will rule as Israel's King. It never is used to mean God's universal rule over His creation.

Senses of God's Kingship	God's Kingship Defined
Kingship Over All Creation	The Kingdom of God is a description of God's rule over all creation, specifically over those who have given Him their trust and allegiance (cf. Psalm 45.6, 47.7; Revelation 19.16).
Kingship Over Israel	The Kingdom of God and the Kingdom of Heaven describe God's rule over Israel. God's covenants define this rule, i.e., Abrahamic, Mosaic, Sabbatic, Palestinian, Davidic, and New covenants.[1] As David's "greater Son," the Lord Jesus Christ will rule as King over national Israel and the earth (Deuteronomy 28.12-13; Isaiah 9.6-7; Zechariah 14.9; Luke 1.31-33).



The Church (the Body of Christ)

The Bible declares the Church is the Body of Christ (Ephesians 1.22-23; Colossians 1.18, 24). The Church is not a kingdom. The Bible never states the Lord Jesus Christ is the King of the Church. His title over the Church is Lord or Head, not King. A king has subjects. Members of the Body of Christ are children of God, heirs and joint-heirs with Christ (Romans 8.16-17), not subjects. A joint-heir is one with equal legal access to everything belonging to the primary owner.

The below chart and diagram illustrate the components of God's rule:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Kingdom of God: God's Rule Over All in Heaven and in Earth
Israel	The Church (the Body of Christ)
God's Rule of Israel His Earthly People and the Nations as King	God's Rule of His Heavenly People as Lord and Head

Clarifications: What the Kingdom is Not

As we consider what the Kingdom of God is, we should also consider what it is not. Thus:

1. The Kingdom is not the Church. As noted, the Church (the Body of Christ) is a not a kingdom. It is the Body of Christ. The believer's role as part of the Body of Christ is to look to Him as Lord and Head, not as King. Believers in Paul's gospel (1 Corinthians 15.1-4) have heavenly citizenship (Ephesians 1.3, 2.6; Philippians 3.20) and are children and joint-heirs of Christ (Romans 8.16-17). While the Church is not a kingdom per se, it resides within the overall realm of the Kingdom of God as its heavenly component.
2. The Kingdom is not a personal conversion experience. The Kingdom of God is a realm and a location, not an experience.
3. The Kingdom is not the gospel. The gospel is the means by which we have a relationship with God and the means by which we enter the Kingdom of God. The clearest definition of the gospel is found in 1 Corinthians 15.1-4. To have one's sins forgiven and receive eternal life one must place his trust in the fact of Christ's work on his behalf: that Christ died for him and rose from the grave. Salvation is wholly apart from works (Romans 4.1-5). Salvation is faith + 0.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

4. The Kingdom is not social justice. Social justice will reach its zenith in the Messianic Kingdom when Jesus the Messiah-King reigns from Jerusalem over the world (Zechariah 14.9) and will continue in the new heavens and new earth (Revelation 21). At the present time, Satan reigns as "the god of this world" and rules the world's governments (2 Corinthians 4.4). His rule will continue until he is defeated at the end of the Tribulation and finally, at the end of the Millennial Kingdom (Revelation 19.11-21, 20.2-3, 7-10). Little social justice is possible under Satan's dominion. The Lord Jesus Christ is presently seated at the right hand of the Father's throne awaiting His throne and kingdom (Psalm 110.1). After His return at the battle of Armageddon He will occupy the throne of David in Jerusalem and establish His earthly kingdom. This kingdom will be the prelude to His kingdom in eternity after God creates a new heaven and new earth.

A Problem Passage: Luke 17.20-21

The most misunderstood passage about the kingdom of God is Luke 17.20-21. Theologians and preachers have so abused this passage that restoring it to its Biblical sense is nearly an impossible task.

Throughout the pulpits and classrooms preachers and professors teach that the kingdom of God is not a visible kingdom but a spiritual one that resides in the hearts of men. Such an interpretation is remarkable since it is contrary to every other declaration on the kingdom in the Scriptures and directly contradicts what Jesus taught elsewhere about the kingdom of God. In other words, if this interpretation is correct, it contradicts the entire testimony of Scripture.

Examining the Text (Luke 17.20-21) [Including full text of v 20]

> [20] Now having been questioned by the Pharisees as to when the kingdom of God was coming, He answered them and said, "The kingdom of God is not coming with signs to be observed; [21] nor will they say, 'Look, here it is!' or, 'There it is!' For behold, the kingdom of God is in your midst."

An examination of Jesus' response requires that we keep one fact firmly in mind: He responded to people according to their attitude towards Him. Most of the professional theologians of Jesus' day approached Him with with a single purpose: to find a way to discredit or condemn Him. Jesus' response to those individuals was guarded, cryptic, and sometimes angry. Most of the theologians who approached Him had no interest in truth. As a result, Jesus did not trust them (John 2.23-25). It is interesting to note that religious professionals were the only group who moved Him to anger.

John the Baptist, Jesus, and the Twelve preached repentance because the kingdom of God was near (Matthew 3.1, 4.17, 10.7). Such a message was unpopular to the ruling religious establishment for they enjoyed their position and rule. The Pharisees asked Him, "when the kingdom of God was coming" (πότε ἔρχεται ἡ βασιλεία τοῦ θεοῦ). The word "questioned" used by Luke is the verb ἐπερωτάω which means "interrogate," "demand an answer." Such language indicated this encounter, as usual, was unfriendly. The Pharisees came with an agenda and their questions were designed to entrap and condemn Him. As such, Jesus responded to them according to their attitude.

The Pharisees knew Jesus (and John the Baptist before Him) preached that the kingdom of God was near (Matthew 3.1-2, 4.17). They most likely knew Jesus had declared John the Baptist could have fulfilled the prophetic role of Elijah if the nation would have believed him (Matthew 17.1-9, 11.7-19). So what kind of answer did Jesus give the Pharisees? In Luke 17.20-21 we read Jesus' response:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

> [20] The kingdom of God is not coming with signs to be observed; [21] nor will they say, 'Look, here it is!' or, 'There it is!' For behold, the kingdom of God is in your midst."

The text reads as follows:

> [20] Οὐκ ἔρχεται ἡ βασιλεία τοῦ θεοῦ μετὰ παρατηρήσεως,
> The kingdom of God is not coming with attentive watching,
>
> [21] οὐδὲ ἐροῦσιν, Ἰδοὺ ὧδε: ἤ, Ἐκεῖ: ἰδοὺ γὰρ ἡ βασιλεία τοῦ θεοῦ ἐντὸς ὑμῶν ἐστιν.
> Neither will they say, "Behold, here!, or there! For behold the kingdom of God is in your midst.

The phrase "with observation" is μετὰ παρατηρήσεως. The noun παρατήρησις is used only here in the New Testament and means to see something with the eyes. If we just had this verse and no other the idea that the kingdom of God is a spiritual kingdom would have merit. But that is not the case. Hundreds of verses in the Scriptures attest that the kingdom of God as it relates to Israel will be a visible, earthly kingdom (Matthew 6.10). We must conclude, therefore, that Jesus' reply meant something other than that the kingdom of God was spiritual (non-physical).

The Meaning of the Text

Jesus had preached the nearness of the kingdom of God for almost three years. This kingdom had been revealed by the prophets. In it, Israel will be preeminent among the nations (Deuteronomy 28.1, 13; cf. Romans 15.8). The Messiah will reign from Jerusalem as David's greater Son (Luke 1.32) and will be characterized by universal peace and righteousness (Isaiah 2.4, 11.1-9). The Old Testament contains hundreds of verses about the nature of this kingdom on earth.

By this time, Jesus had performed thousands of miracles or signs of which the gospels record but a small portion (John 21.25). When John the Baptist doubted (because he was imprisoned) that Jesus was the promised Messiah and wondered about the nearness of the coming of the kingdom, Jesus reassured John of the authenticating signs he had seen. These signs verified He was the Messiah (Luke 7.19-22). What did Jesus mean by His reply to the Pharisees that the kingdom did not come with signs or observation? Before answering this, let us finish the remainder of the verse.

Jesus' response to the Pharisees that "the kingdom of God is within you" did not mean the kingdom was in their hearts.[2] They hated Him and wanted to kill Him. The last place the kingdom existed was in their hearts. Jesus' reply to them was sarcastic and cryptic. He knew their hearts. He knew they did not want the truth. He responded to them according to their attitude. The meaning of Jesus' statement, "with observation," (παρατήρησις is a hapax legomenon) is helped by the cognate verb παρατηρέω which means "watch closely," "watch assiduously" (Mark 3.2; Luke 6.7, 14.1; Acts 9.24; Galatians 4.10). Thus, Jesus' sarcastic and cryptic reply had the following sense:

> "You don't get it. And you'll never get it since you don't want to get it. You've come trying to entrap Me. You won't believe Who I am even though I have performed thousands of miracles which validate I am the Messiah. You do not want the truth. Therefore, I tell you–to see the kingdom doesn't require signs that require παρατηρήσεως, i.e., eye strain (attentive watching). The "sign" of the kingdom is here. The King stands before you!"

A Verification Passage

Lest anyone doubt this interpretation, let us examine an earlier passage to confirm it. Luke wrote:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

> [14] And He was casting out a demon, and it was mute; when the demon had gone out, the mute man spoke; and the crowds were amazed. [15] But some of them said, “He casts out demons by Beelzebul, the ruler of the demons.” [16] Others, to test Him, were demanding of Him a sign from heaven. [17] But He knew their thoughts and said to them, “Any kingdom divided against itself is laid waste; and a house divided against itself falls. [18] If Satan also is divided against himself, how will his kingdom stand? For you say that I cast out demons by Beelzebul. [19] And if I by Beelzebul cast out demons, by whom do your sons cast them out? So they will be your judges. [20] But if I cast out demons by the finger of God, then the kingdom of God has come upon you (Luke 11.14-20).

Jesus declared the sign of casting out of demons revealed the kingdom of God had “come upon” φθάνω them. Was His casting out demons visible? It was. If the coming of the kingdom was not “with observation,” how could Jesus declare it had come with observation? The answer is, He couldn’t and didn’t. Therefore, His words in Luke 17 meant something different than what most are taught.

…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

What does it mean to seek the kingdom of God?

http://dawningrealm.org/kingdom/

Excerpt:

In Matthew, Mark, and Luke, the "kingdom of God" is usually God's active rule over his creation, especially in saving his people from their sins and the consequences of those sins. (Matthew often uses "kingdom of heaven" instead of "kingdom of God," but the two terms are synonymous (Matt 13:31a = Mark 4:30 = Luke 13:18), so "kingdom of heaven" does not refer to heaven as a place, but to God's reign as King, reflecting the Jewish avoidance of direct reference to God.) The kingdom of God is not only God's rule over his obedient subjects, but includes his victory over their spiritual enemies through Jesus, beginning in the present age (Matt 12:28; Luke 1:68-75; 11:20). The kingdom of God has been concisely defined as God's "acting in his sovereign power to deliver man from the destructive powers that enthrall him" (Beasley-Murray, 1989). The central thesis of Ladd (1974) is that the prophets' hope of the kingdom of God was inaugurated in the person of Jesus in this present age, before its consummation begins the age to come. God asserted His rule in history by defeating Satan and death through the work of Jesus, even though God will not complete his display of authority until Jesus returns in judgment, when he will start the new world order.

Kingdom of God in Matthew, Mark, and Luke ('seek first' the salvation of God's reign)		Definition of 'kingdom'
		Literal →	Figurative
		God's rule (incl. Satan's defeat)	Enjoyment of God's rule (seek eternal life)
Timing of the kingdom	Already ↓	Jesus healed people & cast out demons; He died & rose from the dead. →	True Christians have forgiveness & the presence of the Holy Spirit & holiness from God. ↓
	Not yet	Jesus will return to judge men & angels. →	True Christians will see God & live forever on the new earth in resurrected bodies.

However, Ladd (1974, ch. 8, pp. 205-217) pointed out that the kingdom of God does not always literally mean the dynamic reign of God, but that it sometimes refers to the gift of life and salvation achieved by that reign. Jesus' disciples are to seek the kingdom as the most valuable of possessions and the Father gives the kingdom to them (Matt 6:33; 13:44-46; Luke 12:31-32). Those who receive the kingdom in the present age will enter the kingdom in the age to come (Mark 10:15; Luke 18:16-17). Those who are poor in spirit, who are persecuted for righteousness' sake, have the kingdom (Matt 5:3, 10). When the Son of Man comes (Matt 25:31), the righteous will inherit the kingdom (v. 34); kingdom here is the same as eternal life (v. 46). Inheriting eternal life, inheriting the kingdom, and receiving eternal life are equivalent (Mark 10:17, 23-24, 30) and are associated with being saved (v. 26). This salvation involves saving one's true life, as opposed to saving one's life in this age (Matt 10:39; Mark 8:35; Luke 17:33), and culminates in bodily resurrection (Luke 20:34-36) and restored communion with God in the age to come (Matt 5:8; 25:21, 23; Mark 14:25; Luke 14:16-24). Although the kingdom concept is primarily oriented to the future, Jesus also brought salvation and fellowship with God to the present age (Luke 19:10-11; Mark 2:15-19), though to a lesser, incomplete degree. Such salvation included other gifts enjoyed in this life, such as physical healing (Mark 5:34; 10:52), temporary resurrection (Matt 11:4-5), deliverance from demonic possession (Luke 8:36), forgiveness of sins (Mark 1:4; 2:10; Luke 7:48), and righteousness (Matt 6:33).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

That the kingdom of God to be sought (Matt 6:33; Luke 12:31) is this gift of salvation brought by the rule of God, rather than the rule of God itself, will also be seen below. To seek the kingdom of God is to actively receive the eternal life that Jesus brought. Seeking salvation does not end at the time of conversion, but continues throughout the life of each disciple of Jesus. What this entails will become clear from looking at the kingdom-seeking passages in the context of Luke and its sequel (Acts) and in the context of Matthew. Matthew's version is treated second since it is complicated by the exhortation to seek God's righteousness as well as his kingdom.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

What is the difference between the Kingdom of God and the Kingdom of Heaven?

https://www.gotquestions.org/kingdom-heaven-God.html

Answer: While some believe that the Kingdom of God and Kingdom of Heaven are referring to different things, it is clear that both phrases are referring to the same thing. The phrase “kingdom of God” occurs 68 times in 10 different New Testament books, while “kingdom of heaven” occurs only 32 times, and only in the Gospel of Matthew. Based on Matthew’s exclusive use of the phrase and the Jewish nature of his Gospel, some interpreters have concluded that Matthew was writing concerning the millennial kingdom while the other New Testament authors were referring to the universal kingdom. However, a closer study of the use of the phrase reveals that this interpretation is in error.

For example, speaking to the rich young ruler, Christ uses “kingdom of heaven” and “kingdom of God” interchangeably. “Then Jesus said to his disciples, ‘I tell you the truth, it is hard for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven’” (Matthew 19:23). In the very next verse, Christ proclaims, “Again I tell you, it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of God” (verse 24). Jesus makes no distinction between the two terms but seems to consider them synonymous.

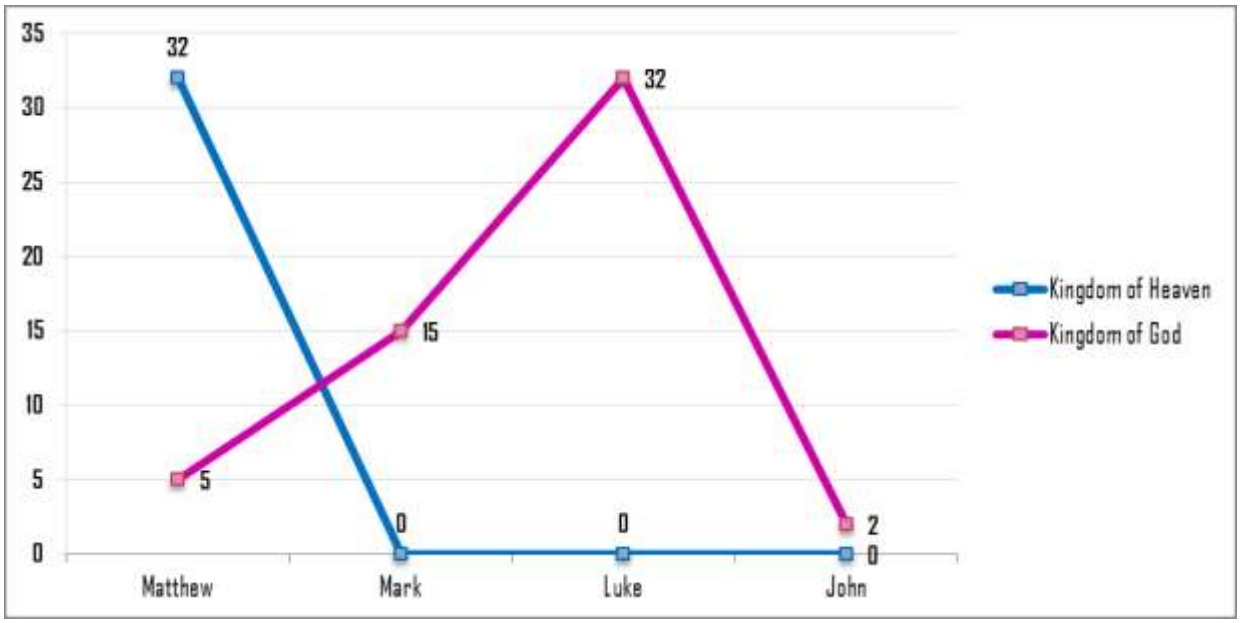
Mark and Luke used “kingdom of God” where Matthew used “kingdom of heaven” frequently in parallel accounts of the same parable Compare Matthew 11:11-12 with Luke 7:28; Matthew 13:11with Mark 4:11 and Luke 8:10; Matthew 13:24 with Mark 4:26; Matthew 13:31 with Mark 4:30 and Luke 13:18; Matthew 13:33 with Luke 13:20; Matthew 18:3 with Mark 10:14 and Luke 18:16; and Matthew 22:2 with Luke 13:29. In each instance, Matthew used the phrase “kingdom of heaven” while Mark and/or Luke used “kingdom of God.” Clearly, the two phrases refer to the same thing.

The Kingdom of Heaven vs the Kingdom of God

http://studiesinthebook.com/series/rightly_dividing/two_kingdoms.pdf [PDF]

Matthew 16:28	Mark 9:1	Luke 9:27
Verily I say unto you, There be some standing here, which shall not taste of death, till they see the Son of man coming in his kingdom.	And he said unto them, Verily I say unto you, That there be some of them that stand here, which shall not taste of death, till they have seen the kingdom of God come with power.	But I tell you of a truth, there be some standing here, which shall not taste of death, till they see the kingdom of God.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



What is the difference in the Kingdom of Heaven and the Kingdom of God?

(Forum)

https://hermeneutics.stackexchange.com/questions/4251/what-is-the-difference-in-the-kingdom-of-heaven-and-the-kingdom-of-god

Excerpt:

The phrases “the kingdom of God” (ἡ βασιλεία τοῦ θεοῦ) and “the kingdom of Heaven” (ἡ βασιλεία τῶν οὐρανῶν) occur eighty-six (86) times in the Textus Receptus (1550) Greek manuscript of the gospels.

The phrase “kingdom of Heaven” occurs thirty-two (32) times and only in the Gospel of Matthew. The phrase “kingdom of God” occurs thirty-two (32) times in the Gospel of Luke, the most of any book in the Bible.

An examination of Synoptic parallels will demonstrate that the two phrases refer to the same idea.

Some say the "Kingdom of Heaven" refers to the a physical/political kingdom on earth while the "Kingdom of God" is the spiritual, coming reign of Christ.

Arguments against the two being the same often come down to hair splitting and misinterpretation of verses. For example, the site listed above relies on a single verse in an attempt to say they are different. In Luke 17:21, Jesus says "the kingdom of God is within you" (KJV). They then argue that since Matthew 11:12 says the Kingdom of Heaven suffers violence and is taken by force that the two cannot be the same (who can take the kingdom from within you?). The site only addresses where the terms are used interchangeably to blow them off by saying "they will be the same in the future."

However, it can be seen that Kingdom of Heaven and the Kingdom of God refer to the same thing. "Kingdom of Heaven" is found 31 times, only in the Gospel of Matthew. "Kingdom of God" is found 62 times in ten books of the New Testament (Matthew, Mark, Luke, John, Acts, Romans, 1 Corinthians, Galatians, Colossians, and 2 Thessalonians).

When the parallel accounts in the synoptic gospels are compared, whenever Matthew uses Kingdom of Heaven, the other will use Kingdom of God. Given the Jewish nature of Matthew's Gospel (Matthew never explains Jewish customs and traces the genealogy of Christ to Abraham where Luke, written for a gentile audience, continues back to Adam) and the Jewish habit of circumlocution in references to God*, "Kingdom of Heaven" would be preferable for the author and his intended audience.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Kingdom of heaven is found only in Matthew and it is normally said that Matthew used that phrase because he was writing to a Jewish audience. Two reasons are given why the nature of the audience is significant.

One is linguistic as George Eldon Ladd says:

> The difference between the two phrases is to be explained on linguistic grounds. The Kingdom of Heaven is the Semitic form and the Kingdom of God is the Greek form of the same phrase. Our Lord taught in Aramaic, a language very similar to Hebrew, whereas our New Testament is written in Greek. Jesus, teaching Jews, probably spoke of “the Kingdom of the Heavens”[1] which would be the natural Jewish form of expression. We have extensive evidence from Jewish rabbinic literature that this phrase was in common use. To the Greek ear, these words would be meaningless; and when the phrase was translated in our Greek Gospels for Greek readers, it was uniformly rendered “the Kingdom of God.” In the Gospel of Matthew, which was probably written to Jewish believers, the original phrase "the Kingdom of the Heavens" was usually retained. The terminology in Matthew 19:23-24 makes it quite clear that the two phrases are interchangeable and that no difference of meaning is to be sought between them. [2]

Matthew 19:23-24 cited by Ladd states:

> And Jesus said to his disciples, “Truly, I say to you, only with difficulty will a rich person enter the kingdom of heaven. Again I tell you, it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich person to enter the kingdom of God.” [3]

While this passage indicates the two kingdoms are interchangeable, it is obvious either Matthew or Jesus chose to make a distinction and recorded them differently. In fact, the passage is purposeful to make the point there is something of significance which is different between the two.

A second reason offered is that Matthew substituted Heaven for God to avoid offending the Jewish people who do not use “God” or His Name. A thorough analysis of this reason is found in this answer: [“Heaven” as a Circumlocution or Substitute for “God”] This approach fails to explain why Matthew still uses “God” (frequently) and in some cases where “Heaven” should be used:

…

Other passages mark differences between the two Kingdoms:

For I tell you, unless your righteousness exceeds that of the scribes and Pharisees, you will never enter the kingdom of heaven. (5:20)
But seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all these things will be added to you. (6:33)

Righteousness:
Kingdom of heaven - righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees.
Kingdom of God - the righteousness of God.

The consequence of righteousness:
Kingdom of heaven - enter the kingdom.
Kingdom of God - all things will be added to you.

Required response to each Kingdom:
Kingdom of heaven - have righteousness that exceeds that of the scribes and Pharisees.
Kingdom of God - Seek first...

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

In the fourth Gospel Jesus teaches:

Jesus answered, "Truly, truly, I say to you, unless one is born of water and the Spirit, he cannot enter the kingdom of God. (3:5)

The Gospel delineates two means of entrance into a kingdom:

Matthew: Kingdom of heaven - righteousness that exceeds that of the scribes and Pharisees.
John: Kingdom of God - be born of water and the Spirit.

A good picture to understand the difference is that the Kingdom of God encompasses all creation, while the Kingdom of the Heavens encompasses less. That is, the Kingdom of the Heavens is a smaller kingdom within the Kingdom of God. As Genesis 1 states, man has some measure of authority over the earth and life on the earth (part of the Kingdom of God). The unchanging nature of God accounts for the similarities and man's rebellious nature with what God has given man dominion explains the differences.

Simply, the earth (at present) is outside the Kingdom of the Heavens but remains a part of the Kingdom of God. One day there will be a new heaven and a new earth on which the Father's will will be done. Essentially the Kingdom of the Heavens will cease to exist it that it will no longer be distinguishable from the Kingdom of God.

Are the Kingdom of God and Kingdom of Heaven the same? [Recommended]

https://www.neverthirsty.org/bible-qa/qa-archives/question/are-the-kingdom-of-god-and-kingdom-of-heaven-the-same/

Excerpt:

The solution to the question, is there a difference between the kingdom of Heaven and the kingdom of God is not that one expression has some unique meaning. Instead, the two kingdoms are identical and only those who believe in Jesus Christ will spend eternity with God. The kingdom of Heaven obviously emphasizes the future life of Christians in heaven and the kingdom of God emphasizes that God the Father owns the kingdom. Some believe that Matthew used the expression kingdom of Heaven due to Jewish sensitives about using the word God. That might be, but it is speculative and it should be noted that Matthew uses the expression kingdom of God four times. That reveals he used the phrase anyway.

God's kingdom already exists now, will physically exist on the earth for 1,000 years at some time in the future [if you are a millennialist], and will continue forever in the new heaven and new earth. It is eternal. There is no difference between the expressions kingdom of God and the kingdom of Heaven. The phrase Kingdom of Christ is used to refer to the same kingdom. Since the 1,000-year kingdom is initially given to Jesus, it can also be called the kingdom of Christ (Eph. 5:5). The kingdom belongs to both the Father and to Jesus Christ. Jesus told the Pharisees that the kingdom even existed in their presence because He, as the king of the kingdom, was present among them (Luke 17:20-21). May the desire of our hearts be to share Jesus with others so that they may enter into the kingdom of God too!

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Kingdom of God vs Kingdom of Heaven

https://www.biblicalhub.com/kingdom-of-god-vs-kingdom-of-heaven

Excerpt:

After evaluating all the statements about the kingdom of God, one would have to conclude that the kingdom of God is both spiritual and physical. And the kingdom of heaven and kingdom of God is a physical place, which are the same. A different way of looking at this issue is to define the kingdom of God as everywhere, while the kingdom of heaven is in heaven, therefore the kingdom of God includes the kingdom of heaven. (LOL) They are the same.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Two Adams

Adam is a "figure" or TYPE of Him that was to come, namely Jesus Christ (Rom. 5:14). Adam is a type of Christ. In 1 Corinthians 15:45 Jesus Christ is called "Adam" ("the last Adam") and Christ is also called "the second man" in contrast to the first man, Adam (1 Cor. 15:47). As we compare these two men there are both similarities and differences:

ADAM	JESUS CHRIST
The first man Adam (1 Cor.15:45)	The last Adam (1 Cor.15:45)
"Was made a living soul" (1 Cor.15:45) (Adam was given life-Gen. 2:7).	"Was made a quickening spirit" (1 Cor.15:45) (Christ gives life-John 5:21,25; 6:33 etc.).
"Natural" (1 Cor.15:46)	"Spiritual" (1 Cor.15:46)
ORIGIN—"of the earth" (1 Cor.15:47)	ORIGIN—"from heaven" (1 Cor.15:47)
Men reflect Adam (Cor.15:49 and see Gen. 5:3).	Saved men can and shall reflect Christ (1 Cor.15:49 and see Col. 3:10; Eph.4:24; Rom.8:29; 2 Cor.3:18; 1 John 3:2; etc.).
"Dead in Adam" (1 Cor.15:22)	"Alive in Christ" (1 Cor.15:22)
Adam is the Head of the Old Creation.	Jesus Christ is the Head of the New Creation (2 Cor.5:17; Eph.2:10).
Adam was a representative man (Romans 5), and he acted on behalf of the whole human race.	Christ was a representative man (Romans 5), and He acted on behalf of the whole human race.
Adam performed one act which had tremendous consequences.	Christ performed one act which had even greater consequences.
Adam's act was a sinful act (Rom.5:12, 15,16,17,18).	Christ's act was a righteous act (Rom.5:18—"the righteous act"—see NASB).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Adam's act was an act of disobedience, in eating the forbidden fruit (Rom.5:19; and see Genesis 2:17; 3:6).	Christ's act was an act of obedience, in dying on the cross (Romans 5:19 and see Phil.2:8).
Here is what Adam's one act produced: DEATH (Rom.5:12,14,15) JUDGMENT (Rom.5:16,18) CONDEMNATION (Rom.5:16,18)	Here is what Christ's one act produced: LIFE (Rom.5:17,18,21) THE FREE GIFT (Rom.5:15,16,17,18) GRACE (Rom.5:15,17,20,21) JUSTIFICATION (Rom.5:16,18,19) RIGHTEOUSNESS (Rom.5:17,19,21) REIGNING (Rom.5:17; compare verse.21)

The doctrine of the two Adams is unfolded in the latter part of Romans chapter 5.

[Source: http://www.middletownbiblechurch.org/romans/2adams.htm]

See also:
The Two Adams [PDF]
http://www.letgodbetrue.com/pdf/two-adams.pdf

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Jesus and Moses – Divine Similarities

Taking a look at the lives of the Bible's two main characters is one of the easiest ways to see how divinely inspired God's Word really is. Few would argue against Moses being the most important character of the Old Testament. Nobody would argue against Jesus being the main character of the New Testament. The similarities of these two characters who are separated by over a thousand years is quite remarkable. God tried to speak directly to the people of Israel on Mount Sinai and it did not go very well. The people begged Moses to not allow God to speak to them again. They asked to have someone speak to them for God, in other words, a mediator between them and God. Well, in Deuteronomy, Moses gives a very important prophecy in response to their pleas. He predicts that God will raise up another prophet who will be LIKE HIM! This prophet would speak the words of God for the people so they would not have to speak directly to God. Here is what Moses says:

"The LORD your God will raise up for you a prophet like me from among you, from your brethren–him you shall heed-just as you desired of the LORD your God at Horeb on the day of the assembly, when you said, 'Let me not hear again the voice of the LORD my God, or see this great fire any more, lest I die. 'And the LORD said to me, 'They have rightly said all that they have spoken. I will raise up for them a prophet like you from among their brethren; and I will put my words in his mouth, and he shall speak to them all that I command him. And whoever will not give heed to my words which he shall speak in my name, I myself will require it of him." (Deuteronomy, 18:15-19)

Jesus was clearly the mediator who Moses was talking about. He was the one man who could speak God's words directly to the people. Why? Because he was God! He was God with a human nature who could speak God's words to them. Let's take a look at just how similar the lives of Jesus and Moses were to each other. After reading this lengthy comparison see if you can come up with a way that all of this happened by accident.

Moses – The first mediator	Jesus – The final mediator
Moses was born as a Hebrew	Jesus was born as a Hebrew
Moses was chosen by God to be a leader	Jesus was chosen by God to be a leader
Moses was born while his people were suffering under a cruel leader. (Pharaoh)	Jesus was born while his people were suffering under a cruel leader. (Herod)
Moses hid in Egypt as a child.	Jesus hid in Egypt as a child.
The leader of the land that Moses was born into tried to kill all of the babies when he was born.	The leader of the land that Jesus was born into tried to kill all of the babies when He was born.
Moses turned water into blood.	Jesus turned water into wine.
Moses died on a hill.	Jesus died on a hill.
Moses fasted 40 days and faced a spiritual crisis on a mountain	Jesus fasted 40 days and faced a spiritual crisis on a mountain.
Moses told people about the need for a Passover lamb.	Jesus became the Passover lamb.
Moses founded a new religion	Jesus founded a new religion
Moses communicated directly with God	Jesus communicated directly with God
Moses performed miracles	Jesus performed miracles

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Moses revised an existing religion	Jesus revised an existing religion
Moses was a law giver – gave the ten commandments	Jesus was a law giver – gave the great commandment.
Moses was hated by the ruling party (Egyptians)	Jesus was hated by the ruling party (Pharisees)
Moses had brothers and sisters who misunderstood him.	Jesus had brothers and sisters who misunderstood him.
Moses chose 12 leaders to follow.	Jesus chose 12 leaders to follow.
Moses gave his people a new identity as a people.	Jesus gave his people a new identity as a people.
Moses had followers who strayed from his teachings.	Jesus had followers who strayed from his teachings.
Moses is arguably the lead figure of the Old Testament.	Jesus is the lead figure of the New Testament.
Moses taught his followers how to pray.	Jesus taught his followers how to pray.
Moses chose people to carry on when he was leaving.	Jesus chose people to carry on when he was leaving.
Moses led his people to the promised land.	Jesus leads his people to the promised land.
Moses sent 12 spies to Canaan so he could bring people to the promised land.	Jesus sent 12 disciples to the world so he could bring people to the promised land.
Moses appointed 70 rulers over Israel	Jesus appointed 70 disciples to the nations.
The people picked up stones to stone Moses but they did not succeed.	The people picked up stones to stone Jesus, but they did not succeed.
Moses controlled the waters of the Red Sea	Jesus controlled the Sea of Galilee
Moses brought living water out of the Rock	Jesus brings living water to all of his believers.
The face of Moses shown with glory on Mount Sinai.	The face of Jesus shown with glory on the mount of Transfiguration.
Moses lifted the brazen serpent up in the wilderness to heal people	Jesus was lifted up on the cross to heal us from our own sins.
Moses was a shepherd	Jesus was the good shepherd
Moses subdued an attacking army by raising his arms high on the top of a hill. (with two other people)	Jesus subdued sin and death with arms raised high on a hill. (with two other people)
Moses said another prophet would come (Jesus)	Jesus said another would come (Holy Spirit)
Those who did not follow Moses died in the wilderness because of their lack of faith.	Those who refused to follow Jesus died in the siege of Jerusalem in 70 AD. Jesus had warned them it was coming, and history shows that the Christians left right before the siege started because of the remembrance of the words of

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

	Jesus. Those who did not believe Jesus stayed and were either killed or sold to slavery.
Moses fed thousands supernaturally with bread.	Jesus fed thousands supernaturally with bread.
Moses took a gentile bride	Jesus took a gentile bride (the church)
Moses led the Israelites in a victory song after the victory in Egypt.	This song will be repeated at the end as a victory song for Jesus. (see Rev. 15:2-3)
There is a long period of silence in the story of Moses from the time he was a child until adulthood.	There is a long period of silence in the story of Jesus from the time he was a child until adulthood.
Moses showed compassion to a woman getting water at a well.	Jesus showed compassion to a woman getting water at a well.
Moses' mission was to redeem Israel from slavery to Egypt	Jesus' mission was to redeem mankind from slavery to sin.
Moses was loved and supported by his sister Miriam (which is Miryam in Hebrew)	Jesus was loved and supported in his ministry by His mother Mary (which is also Miryam in Hebrew)
Moses gave God's law on a mountain.	Jesus gave the new law from the Mount of the Beatitudes. (sermon on the mount.)
Moses offered his life for the salvation of his people after the sin of the golden calf.	Jesus offered His life for the salvation of the world.
Moses rejected a lavish, ruling lifestyle in the house of the Pharaoh. Instead, he chose a humble life.	Jesus rejected the offers of Satan to be the ruler of this world and instead chose a humble life
Moses washed Aaron and his sons with water.	Jesus washed the feet of his disciples.
Moses – The first mediator	Jesus – The final mediator

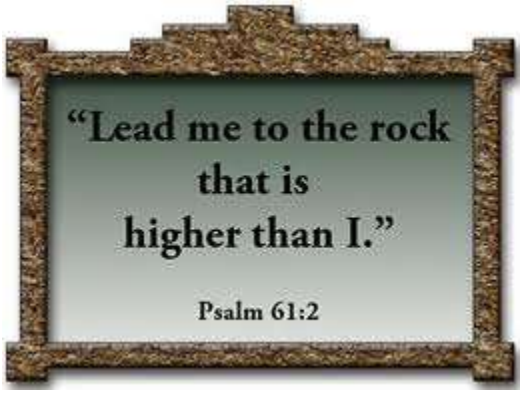
Wow! Those two characters were strikingly similar. Now, you might think you could argue one or two of those points, or you might say that a couple of them are too general in nature to prove anything, but nobody can tell me that those lists are not extremely similar to each other. They are similar to the point that they show the two stories had to have been divinely correlated. There is no way that this could be an accident!



The only thing that you could say to explain the similarities is that the New Testament authors wrote the story of Jesus to make it look like he was the person who Moses alluded to. In other words, this is all one big conspiracy! However, for that to be true you would have to believe that the authors of the New Testament were dishonest men, and from all appearances they seem like they were not. Also, you would have to believe that all of these dishonest men were somehow able to construct a story together, from different places, with the same similarities, without contradicting each other. Also, you would have to say that their audiences, who at the latest, were just a generation or two removed from Jesus, had already forgotten the real facts of his life. These facts seemed to have been carefully recorded.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Rock from Exodus and Numbers compared to Christ

Numbers chapter 20 describes a scene where God punishes Moses for striking a rock to get water. Because of this event, Moses is unable to enter the promised land. So why was God so upset when Moses struck the rock to get water? Well, there were the obvious reasons like he was disobeying God and acting arrogantly. This is the way that an Old Testament audience would have interpreted it, but now that we have the Bible as a whole we can see that there was more to it than that. Let's get some help from Paul. Paul says, "I want you to know, brethren, that our fathers were all under the cloud, and all passed through the sea, and all were baptized into Moses in the cloud and in the sea, and all ate the same supernatural food and all drank the same supernatural drink. For they drank from the supernatural Rock which followed them, and the Rock was Christ." – 1 Cor. 10:1-4 -

Here, Paul refers to Christ as the Rock which provided the water to the Israelites. Many times in the New Testament, the authors refer to Christ as a rock. Even in the Old Testament, God is referred to as a mountain and the Messiah as a rock which would come from that mountain. So if we agree with Paul, that means Christ was the Rock which Moses struck the first time to get water. When he struck the Rock (Christ), water was provided that gave them Salvation. Everywhere they went this Rock was with them, providing everlasting, living water to them. Moses was told to never again strike the Rock (Christ), that striking it once was enough, and from that point on all he had to do was command it to give water. Can you see the symbolism at work here? This is a foreshadowing of Christ's life. Christ had to be struck one time on the cross. Because of this, salvation is available to all. Because he was struck, all we have to do is ask and salvation is given to us, but he was never to be struck again. Salvation was provided and now Christ is in his glory. Therefore, it was all right for Moses to strike the Rock once to give the Israelites the living water of the Salvation of Christ, but after striking it once, he was to only ask that the water (salvation) be given and it would freely be given, as Christ freely gives Salvation. He was never to strike it again because it would be striking Christ two times.

This chart might help explain it

Moses Story	Jesus Story
The Rock is there which could provide Salvation (water)	Jesus is there who could provide Salvation
The Rock is struck	Jesus is killed on the cross.
The Rock provides the Salvation, water flows out saving the people.	Jesus provides Salvation, people are saved through His death.
Now, all the people have to do is ask and water (Salvation) is freely given to them through the Rock.	Now, all the people have to do is ask, and eternal life (Salvation) is freely given to them through the Rock (Jesus)
Moses, instead of asking again, to get the free gift of grace (water), strikes the Rock a second time.	Jesus is not to be struck a second time. The free gift of Salvation is already available.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

I hope that makes more sense with the (above) chart.

This might not be as remarkable as the comparison between Moses and Jesus, but it is still very interesting. It shows the divine nature of the story of the Bible. God knew what he was doing the entire time. Many things in the Old Testament were done to foreshadow the New Testament.

[Source: http://www.confidentfaith.net/moses-and-jesus-devine-similarities]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Jesus and Daniel: Divine Similarities

Chapter six of Daniel foreshadows the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ. The two stories parallel each other in a remarkable way. In fact, the more you look at it, the more amazing the parallels become. There is no way that this is a coincidence. This is just another way to show how divinely inspired the Bible really is. If the Bible is not divinely inspired, then how did the author of Daniel, 600 years earlier, tell a story that would parallel the well-documented story of Jesus? Let's take a look at all of the similarities between these two stories, then let's look at one remarkable difference.

Story of Daniel (around 537 BC)	Story of Jesus (around 33 AD)
The administrators and satraps conspired against Daniel.	The Pharisees and Jewish leaders conspired against Jesus.
They follow Daniel around, investigate him, and try to find something to charge him with.	They follow Jesus around and try to find something to charge him with. They ask him trick questions such as, "Should we pay taxes?" or "Should we stone this woman?"
Daniel is found blameless. They can find nothing to bring against him.	Jesus is found blameless. They can find nothing to bring against him.
Daniel's enemies come up with a plan to arrest him.	Jesus' enemies come up with a plan to arrest him.
Daniel's enemies have to spy on him to catch him.	Jesus' enemies have to use a spy to catch him.
When the plan is put into motion Daniel goes into a time of prayer even though he knows that if he does he will be arrested.	When the plan is put into motion Jesus goes into a time of prayer even though he knows that if he stays he will be arrested.
Daniel prays three times a day.	Jesus prays three times in the garden.
Daniel is arrested after his time a prayer.	Jesus is arrested after his time of prayer.
After being arrested, Daniel is immediately taken to judgment.	After being arrested, Jesus is immediately taken to judgment.
Daniel is found guilty of transgressing the law of the Medes and Persians.	Jesus is found guilty of transgressing the law of the Jews.
Darius is deeply stressed that Daniel must be sentenced to the lion's den, even though Darius is the one who sentences him.	Pontius Pilate is deeply stressed that Jesus has to be sentenced to the cross, even though Pilate is the one who sentences him.
Darius is unable to sleep.	The wife of Pontius Pilate is troubled in her sleep.
Darius pours over the law to try to find some way to save Daniel before the sentence has to be carried out.	Pontius tries to find a way to save Jesus. He tries flogging him as a punishment, and then offers to release him, but the crowd chooses Barabbas.
The satraps have Darius cornered.	The Pharisees have Pilate cornered.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Daniel is placed into a den.	Jesus is placed into a tomb.
A giant rock is placed in front of the den.	A giant rock is placed in front of the tomb.
The king's seal is placed over the rock so if anyone breaks the seal they will be killed.	A Roman seal is placed over the rock so if anyone breaks the seal they will be killed.
While Daniel is in the den Darius cannot sleep.	While Jesus is in the tomb his followers are lost and distraught.
All possibility of escape is cut off. Daniel is presumed dead.	All possibility of escape is cut off. Jesus is presumed dead.
A heavenly being appears in the lion's den.	A heavenly being appears at the tomb.
At first light, Darius rushes to the lion's den.	At first light, the women rush to the tomb.
Darius is given the good news that Daniel is alive.	The women are given the good news that Jesus is alive.
Daniel lives to prosper in the Medo-Persian kingdom.	Jesus lives to prosper in God's kingdom.
Darius proclaims to the world that God's kingdom will never be destroyed.	The followers of Jesus proclaim God's kingdom to the world.
Story of Daniel (around 537 BC)	Story of Jesus (around 33 AD)

This is another example of the divine inspiration of the Bible. You cannot convince me that all of this is an accident, a coincidence, or that I'm simply reading too much into these stories. In the same way that Jesus is foreshadowed by Moses, (see this post) Jesus is also foreshadowed by Daniel. However, there is one huge difference between these two stories.

It's Just Not Fair

Jesus dies and Daniel is saved. Almost everything else between these two stories match, but Jesus dies and Daniel is saved. It's just not fair! We see examples that seem unfair throughout the Bible. Peter and James are both arrested, James is beheaded, and the next day Peter is supposed to be beheaded, but an angel rescues him from jail. What? Why did the angel not show up the day before and save both of them? It's just not fair! The disciple John gets to become an old man and write Revelation, but Stephen is stoned as a young man. It's just not fair! Why are things so unfair? Jesus has to die on the cross, but Daniel is saved from the Lion's den? It's just not fair.

The fact that we think this is not fair shows us how little faith we really have. Because if we have complete faith that when a believer dies, they are going to heaven, and that they will one day be resurrected, to spend eternity with God, wouldn't we look at it the other way around? Think about it. . .if you have faith. . . It is the other way around. People who experience a miracle and survive are stuck in this world, they will probably die an ordinary death, and they will spend eternity in heaven, as people who experienced a miracle during their lives. On the other hand, when someone dies as a martyr, and is paraded through heaven, he or she will be known throughout all of eternity as someone who glorified God with his or her death. Daniel will be known as a hero of the Bible, and a man of great faith, but the death that Jesus died will echo throughout eternity. He will always be known for it. John wrote Revelation and eventually died and he will be known throughout eternity as a faithful man, but Stephen died as a martyr, as a young man, and when he died he was paraded through the streets of heaven. He will always be known as someone who glorified God with his death. You see, we could look at it the other way around. When we say it's just not fair, maybe we are right, but we have it backwards. It's not fair that as we pass into eternity, some of us get to give such glory to God with our deaths, and others of us don't. We have it backwards.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

I have some breaking news for you. . .we are all going to die. . . and then there will be eternity. We can't even comprehend how long eternity really is. I mean, after a million years of eternity the fairness of our death really doesn't matter does it? All that matters is that when we died, we died to the glory of God. That's all that matters. Now, that doesn't mean that we should all go out and try to find a way to be martyred for God, but we should be mindful that we are glorifying God in our daily lives so when that day comes, whether sooner or later, we will also glorify him at the time of our deaths. In other words, we should live like we have something worth dying for. So the question is, do you have something worth dying for? Martin Luther says, "If you have nothing worth dying for, then you have nothing worth living for." Martin Luther King says, "A man who has not found something worth dying for is not fit to live." Daniel and Jesus both had something to die for and they both had identical stories until the very end, but they didn't get to choose the way that they died. That was up to God. All they could do, was make sure that however they were going to die, whether as a teenager, whether as a 33 years old on a cross, or whether as an 86-year-old in a lion's den, however it was going to happen, they were going to die for the glory of God. It didn't matter if it was fair. It only mattered that it was for the glory of God. Their lives were for the glory of God. . . and their deaths were for the glory of God. . . . And there was nothing unfair about it.

[Source: http://www.confidentfaith.net/daniel-and-jesus-divine-similarities]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Jesus vs. Paul

Introduction

Controversy has arisen regarding Jesus versus Paul as scholars debate the different emphases and messages of Jesus and Paul.[1] For example, Jesus preached the kingdom of heaven. Paul did not. Paul preached justification by faith alone. Jesus did not. What are we to make of this? Can the two be reconciled? The answer depends on what is meant by reconciliation.

Let us be clear from the outset. The messages of Jesus and Paul were fundamentally different. Reconciliation of their messages cannot be done by harmonization. This is a fact we must accept. No one is helped by attempts to lessen the differences by declaring that the gospel is a salvation story for both Jesus and Paul. The differences remain. No benefit comes from theological gibberish that the gospel is the kingdom and the kingdom is the gospel. No light comes from attempts to show that Paul "betrayed" Jesus or "perverted" His message. These offerings of strange fire move us further from the text and sound theology. Instead, we must seek a biblical understanding of the texts to effect a reconciliation.

Good News, Bad News

The good news is that this matter is receiving attention. For almost 2,000 years, Paul has been forced into the gospels and the gospels have been forced into Paul – and this continues. Some theologians have recognized problems in this but most fail to provide sound, biblical solutions to resolve the differences between Jesus and Paul. The bad news is that most theological professionals misunderstand why we find differences between Jesus and Paul. Because of this, they lack a sound foundation to reconcile the differences. Here's a clue: let the reader consider why God kept Paul separated from the Twelve after his conversion and why Paul's contact with the Twelve was extremely limited (cf. Galatians 1.1, 11-12, 15-19). The purpose of this brief study is to answer the question about how Jesus and Paul can be reconciled (what that means) and end the confusion.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Messages of Jesus and Paul

The below chart identifies the chief differences in the ministries and message of Jesus and Paul. Each will be analyzed (see source link).

Differences of the Ministries of Jesus and Paul
Jesus:	Paul:
1. Preached the gospel of the kingdom	1. Preached the gospel of the grace of God
2. Defined the “kingdom of heaven” as Israel’s prophetic earthly kingdom	2. Defined the “kingdom of heaven” as the heavenly position of the body of Christ
3. Presented Himself as Messiah and King of the Jews (Israel)	3. Presented Jesus as the risen Lord, Head of the body of Christ
4. Preached repentance, baptism, and faith as necessary for salvation	4. Preached faith alone as necessary for salvation
5. Had Jews only for His audience (2 exceptions)	5. Had Gentiles as his primary audience
6. Operated under the Mosaic Law	6. Operated under grace

…

Conclusion

To reconcile Jesus and Paul we must be faithful to the text and recognize that major differences exist between their ministries. The Scriptures do not contradict one another for God is not the author of confusion (1 Corinthians 14.33). We simply need to recognize that God had a program for Israel which He revealed to the prophets and a new program for the Church, the body of Christ, that He revealed to Paul.

Jesus and the Twelve ministered to Jews under the Mosaic Law and preached the gospel of the kingdom to fulfill the Old Testament prophesies of Israel’s earthly kingdom with the Messiah as King (Romans 15.8). Paul ministered to Gentiles (Romans 11.13) under grace, apart from the Law, and disclosed secrets the ascended and glorified Lord had revealed to him. Paul taught that believers of his gospel, the gospel of the grace of God (Acts 20.24; 1 Corinthians 15.1-4; Romans 2.16, 16.25), were members of the body of Christ with Christ as its Head, not its King. Finally, in addition to the differences noted above, were other “secrets” the risen Lord revealed unto Paul alone. These are the subject of the article Paul’s “Mystery.” What can we conclude with regard to reconciling Jesus and Paul?

Saul of Tarsus did not become Paul the Apostle by human efforts (Romans 1.1-6; Galatians 1.1, 15-24). He became the apostle of the grace of God by the sovereign will of the glorified Christ. Just as God established His plan with Israel beginning with Abraham, He began a new plan with Paul. God created Israel beginning with Abraham. God created the Church, the body of Christ, beginning with Paul. The risen Lord revealed His plan through Paul just as He revealed His plan through Abraham and later, Moses. The two are different but complementary and not contradictory, for God cannot contradict God.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Lord Jesus Christ is Lord of heaven and earth, Israel and Church. God is sovereign over both His earthly people, Israel, and over His heavenly people, the Church, the body of Christ. We both have one Master. Each has its own glory and purpose before God. The glory of God is in heterogeneity and in homogeneity. Both Israel and the Church are citizens of the kingdom of God as Paul expressed it–the rule of God over all creation. We share different blessings and serve under different contexts but have the same Lord. Paul taught this reality in his great example of the olive tree7 in Romans 11. Summing up his revelation, he concluded by exclaiming:

> Oh, the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! How unsearchable are His judgments and unfathomable His ways! For WHO HAS KNOWN THE MIND OF THE LORD, OR WHO BECAME HIS COUNSELOR? Or WHO HAS FIRST GIVEN TO HIM THAT IT MIGHT BE PAID BACK TO HIM AGAIN? For from Him and through Him and to Him are all things. To Him be the glory forever. Amen (Romans 11.33-36).

1- The title, "Jesus vs. Paul" is not to be taken in a challenging sense as if Paul can compare with Jesus. The title was selected because this is the way the controversy about their teachings has been framed at the present time. Thus, the term "Jesus" serves as a vehicle to represent the Old Testament program God initiated with Abraham and the Abrahamic Covenant. When Jesus arrived on the scene, the program of offering the kingdom to Israel revived under the calling and ministry of John the Baptist. The King was present. Israel could have its long-promised kingdom on earth if it repented. This program was entirely different from the program of the Church, body of Christ, which Paul received from the ascended, heavenly Lord.

2- Some bristle at the idea there is more than one gospel. We have one gospel today: 1 Corinthians 15.1-4, the gospel of the grace of God (Acts 20.24). However, the Scriptures are clear that for a period of time two gospels were in effect: from Paul's return from Arabia after his salvation until Acts 15.11. During this period, the Twelve proclaimed the gospel of the kingdom and Paul proclaimed the gospel of the grace of God. According to Acts 15.1, 5 the gospel of the kingdom required works for salvation. Paul's gospel, the gospel of the grace of God, was sola fide, faith alone. The gospel of the kingdom focused upon Christ's identity, who He was. Paul's gospel focused upon Christ's work: He died for our sins and rose again. After Acts 15.11, only one gospel remained, Paul's gospel. This explains Paul's words of Galatians 1.6-9.

2- The phrase "kingdom of heaven" is unique to Matthew. The phrase is a genitive of source and means that the source of this kingdom is from heaven. It is not a genitive of location meaning it is located in heaven. The kingdom of heaven is future and will be located on earth. Jesus told His disciples to pray for its establishment on the earth (Matthew 6.10). The chief beneficiaries will be Jews (Deuteronomy 28.1, 13) for God will fulfill His covenantal promises to them. Gentiles will be blessed in this kingdom through Israel (Isaiah 42.6, 49.6, 60.3; Zechariah 8.23) and Israel will be the premier nation among the nations (Deuteronomy 28.1, 13), a nation of priests (Exodus 19.5-6). The Church, the body of Christ, will be joint-heirs with Christ (Romans 8.16-17). God has not revealed what this entails or what our role will be during His Millennial reign.

[Source: http://doctrine.org/jesus-vs-paul/]

Comments:

1 Corinthians 15.1-4 is the most complete and clear definition of Paul's gospel.
Romans 10.9 is a restating of it in an abbreviated form.
The point is that we are saved solely by the work of Christ on the cross and the proof that His work accomplished the payment of sins was His resurrection. Salvation by faith alone is simply believing what God has declared. It is trust in a person – God Himself.

See above source link for additional comments.

If We Only Had Paul, What Would We Know of Jesus?
http://www.barriewilson.com/pdf/If-We-Only-Had-Paul.pdf [PDF] [Note- Not yet vetted]

Jesus vs. Paul – Centering on Christ – Who he is and what he has done (Interview):
http://www.thegospelcoalition.org/blogs/trevinwax/2010/12/14/jesus-vs-paul-an-interview-with-scot-mcknight-about-the-gospel/
http://stanguthrie.com/wp-content/uploads/2010/03/CT242-JesusvsPaul.pdf [PDF]

Who Founded Christianity – Jesus or St. Paul? (Debating with Muslims) http://www.debate.org.uk/debate-topics/theological/jes-paul/

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Did Jesus and Paul teach the same thing?

By Matt Slick

Some critics of Christianity try to set Paul against Jesus. They will often claim that what Paul taught is not what Jesus said and that present-day Christianity is derived not from Jesus but from Paul's teaching. This is an erroneous claim that does not fit the facts. It is easy to take various Scriptures out of context and try to set one person against another--as many critics of Christianity have done. Nevertheless, we can confidently expect that Jesus and Paul taught the same thing. Granted, Paul focused more on theological issues than Jesus did, but nothing Paul said is contrary to Christ.

Luke wrote both the Gospel of Luke and the Book of Acts. In Acts 9 Luke records the events surrounding Paul's conversion. We see that Jesus Himself called Paul and sent him to be an apostle. If Paul and Jesus are not in agreement, then why would Jesus call Paul to be His apostle? Jesus is God in flesh and would therefore know all things. Jesus would certainly have known what Paul would teach which, it seems, is one of the reasons Jesus called him.

In addition, we can quickly see by examining what Jesus said we find parallels in what Paul said. Following is a brief alphabetical list comparing the words of Christ with the words of Paul. We can clearly see that they were indeed in agreement and that the critics who would set Paul against Christ don't know what they're talking about.

1. Alive in Christ
    1. Jesus
        1. "For just as the Father raises the dead and gives them life, even so the Son also gives life to whom He wishes," (John 5:21).
    2. Paul
        1. "For as in Adam all die, so also in Christ all shall be made alive," (1 Cor. 15:22).
2. Anxiety
    1. Jesus
        1. "For this reason I say to you, do not be anxious for your life, as to what you shall eat, or what you shall drink; nor for your body, as to what you shall put on. Is not life more than food, and the body than clothing?" (Matt. 6:25).
    2. Paul
        1. "Be anxious for nothing, but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known to God," (Phil. 4:6).
3. Atonement
    1. Jesus
        1. "I am the good shepherd; the good shepherd lays down His life for the sheep," (John 10:11)
    2. Paul
        1. "and walk in love, just as Christ also loved you, and gave Himself up for us, an offering and a sacrifice to God as a fragrant aroma," (Eph. 5:2).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

4. Deity of Jesus
    1. Jesus
        1. "Truly, truly, I say to you, before Abraham was born, I am," (John 8:58). Compare with Exodus 3:14, "And God said to Moses, "I AM WHO I AM"; and He said, "Thus you shall say to the sons of Israel, "I AM has sent me to you."
    2. Paul
        1. "For in Him all the fullness of Deity dwells in bodily form," (Col. 2:9). See also, Phil. 2:5-8.
5. Forgiveness
    1. Jesus
        1. "For if you forgive men for their transgressions, your heavenly Father will also forgive you," (Matt. 6:14).
    2. Paul
        1. "And be kind to one another, tender-hearted, forgiving each other, just as God in Christ also has forgiven you," (Eph. 4:32).
6. Jesus is the only way
    1. Jesus
        1. "Jesus said to him, "I am the Way, and the Truth, and the Life; no one comes to the Father, but through Me," (John 14:6).
    2. Paul
        1. "For there is one God, and one mediator also between God and men, the man Christ Jesus," (1 Tim. 2:5).
7. Justification by faith
    1. Jesus
        1. "Truly, truly, I say to you, he who hears My word, and believes Him who sent Me, has eternal life, and does not come into judgment, but has passed out of death into life," (John 5:24). See also John 3:16-18; Luke 18:9-13.
    2. Paul
        1. "Therefore having been justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ," (Rom. 5:1).
8. Law, the
    1. Jesus
        1. "Do not think that I came to abolish the Law or the Prophets; I did not come to abolish, but to fulfill," (Matt. 5:17).
    2. Paul
        1. "Do we then nullify the Law through faith? May it never be! On the contrary, we establish the Law," (Rom. 3:31).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

2. "What I am saying is this: the Law, which came four hundred and thirty years later, does not invalidate a covenant previously ratified by God, so as to nullify the promise," (Gal. 3:17).

9. Law, living the
    1. Jesus
        1. "You shall not commit murder; You shall not commit adultery; You shall not steal; You shall not bear false witness; [19] Honor your father and mother; and You shall love your neighbor as yourself," (Matt. 19:18-19).
    2. Paul
        1. "Owe nothing to anyone except to love one another; for he who loves his neighbor has fulfilled the law. [9] For this, "You shall not commit adultery, You shall not murder, You shall not steal, You shall not covet," and if there is any other commandment, it is summed up in this saying, "You shall love your neighbor as yourself." [10] Love does no wrong to a neighbor; love therefore is the fulfillment of the law," (Rom. 13:8-10)
10. Predestination
    1. Jesus
        1. "Not all men can accept this statement, but only those to whom it has been given," (Matt. 19:11).
        2. "All that the Father gives Me shall come to Me, and the one who comes to Me I will certainly not cast out," (John 6:37).
        3. "No one can come to Me, unless the Father who sent Me draws him; and I will raise him up on the last day," (John 6:44).
        4. "For this reason I have said to you, that no one can come to Me, unless it has been granted him from the Father," (John 6:65).
    2. Paul
        1. "He predestined us to adoption as sons through Jesus Christ to Himself, according to the kind intention of His will . . . [11] also we have obtained an inheritance, having been predestined according to His purpose who works all things after the counsel of His will," (Eph. 1:5, 11).
11. Resurrection
    1. Jesus
        1. "The Son of Man is going to be delivered into the hands of men; [23] and they will kill Him, and He will be raised on the third day," (Matt. 17:22-23).
    2. Paul
        1. "For I delivered to you as of first importance what I also received, that Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures, 4 and that He was buried, and that He was raised on the third day according to the Scriptures," (1 Cor. 15:3-4).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

12. Rewards and Punishment
    1. Jesus
        1. "For the Son of Man is going to come in the glory of His Father with His angels; and will then recompense every man according to his deeds," (Matt. 16:27).
    2. Paul
        1. "who will render to every man according to his deeds," (Rom. 2:6).
13. Sinfulness of man
    1. Jesus
        1. "For out of the heart come evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false witness, slanders. 20 "These are the things which defile the man; but to eat with unwashed hands does not defile the man," (Matt. 15:19-20).
    2. Paul
        1. "There is none who understands, There is none who seeks for God; 12 All have turned aside, together they have become useless; There is none who does good, There is not even one," (Rom. 3:11-12).
14. Tradition
    1. Jesus
        1. "And why do you yourselves transgress the commandment of God for the sake of your tradition?" (Matt. 15:3).
    2. Paul
        1. "See to it that no one takes you captive through philosophy and empty deception, according to the tradition of men, according to the elementary principles of the world, rather than according to Christ," (Col. 2:8).
15. Works Righteousness denied
    1. Jesus
        1. "Many will say to Me on that day, 'Lord, Lord, did we not prophesy in Your name, and in Your name cast out demons, and in Your name perform many miracles?' [23] "And then I will declare to them, "I never knew you; depart from Me, you who practice lawlessness," (Matt. 7:22-23).
    2. Paul
        1. "Now that no one is justified by the Law before God is evident; for, "The righteous man shall live by faith," (Gal. 3:11).

As you can see, this brief list demonstrates that Jesus and Paul both taught the same thing.

[Source: http://carm.org/questions/other-questions/did-jesus-and-paul-teach-same-thing]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Paul's "Mystery"

> Now to Him who is able to establish you according to my gospel and the preaching of Jesus Christ, according to the revelation of the mystery [secret] which has been kept secret for long ages past, but now is manifested, and by the Scriptures of the prophets, according to the commandment of the eternal God, has been made known to all the nations, leading to obedience of faith; to the only wise God, through Jesus Christ, be the glory forever. Amen (Romans 16.25).

Introduction

God laid the groundwork for the creation of the Jewish race with His call of Abram. After Jacob and his sons moved to Egypt they multiplied and Israel became a nation with a government under Moses based upon the Mosaic Law. All God's dealings with mankind were mediated through Israel from Abraham to Paul. Based upon the Abrahamic Covenant, God's blessings to Gentiles were to come through Israel. And all blessings to Israel were to come through the Messiah. How could God bless Gentiles when the channel of blessing, Israel, had rejected their source of blessing? The Old Testament had no answer to this question. No provision to bless Gentiles apart from Israel had been revealed.

When God saved and commissioned Paul He began new program and relationship in which He could bless Gentiles in spite of the nation's rejection of their Messiah. In short, God instituted a salvific revolution. With Paul's commission, God created the Church, the body of Christ, and brought in a new age, the Church age. The Church would not operate under Law as Israel had but under grace (Romans 6.14). Thus, Paul stands at the headwaters of this new program. As such, Paul is the founder of Christianity. He is THE man for the Church as Abraham and Moses were THE men (racial and national heads) of Israel. Only when one understands this truth can one begin to understand Christian theology.

While the Twelve were commissioned and taught by the Lord for three years during His earthly ministry, the ascended, heavenly Lord commissioned and taught Paul for three years (most of which was probably spent in the Arabian desert, Galatians 1:17-18). The Twelve were commissioned within the borders of Israel. Paul was commissioned beyond the borders of Israel. After the ascended Lord commissioned Paul He revealed doctrines to Paul He had never revealed to the Twelve.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Differences Between "Jesus and the Twelve" and Paul
The Twelve	Paul
Proclaimed repentance and water baptism (Acts 2.38)	Proclaimed "believe" alone (Romans 4.5-6; 1 Corinthians 15.1-4)
Proclaimed the gospel of the kingdom (Matthew 4.17; Acts 3.19)	Proclaimed the gospel of the grace of God (Acts 20.24)
Saved and commissioned within Israel's borders (Matthew 16.13, 16-17)	Saved and commissioned outside Israel's borders (Acts 9.3)
Were taught in Christ's earthly ministry	Was taught in Christ's heavenly ministry (Galatians 1.1, 11-12)
Ministered to Jews only (Matthew 10.5; Galatians 2.7-9)	Ministered primarily to Gentiles (Romans 11.13; Galatians 2.7-9)

The most logical thing for Saul him to have done following his conversion would have been to return to Jerusalem and consult with the Twelve. Imagine what a meeting that would have been! Saul, the great persecutor of the Way (Acts 22.4), had become a believer–and in such a dramatic manner–by the direct confrontation of the Lord in glory. It didn't happen (Galatians 1.16-17). God had other plans for Paul. He insulated him from the Twelve. Instead, like He had done with Moses, God sent him to Arabia–into the desert–most likely to Sinai. Why?

The Rise of Paul

Peter is the primary personage for the first dozen chapters of Acts. Luke recorded Paul's salvation in chapter 9. Peter reappears in chapter 15 at the Jerusalem Council and assisted Paul in his argument (Acts 15.7-11) over the issue of whether Gentiles had to be circumcised and keep the Law of Moses to be saved (Acts 15.1, 5). Worth note is that Peter was not running the Council–James was. This James was not James the Apostle, one of the Twelve (Acts 12.2) for he had been executed by Herod Antipas (Acts 12.1-2). This James (a.k.a. James the Just) was Jesus' half-brother. By the time of the Jerusalem Council (51 A.D.), Peter's authority and the authority of the Twelve had declined to the degree that a second-order apostle was running things. James was an apostle in a secondary sense for he did not meet the qualifications for apostleship as did the Twelve (cf. John 7.5 cf. Galatians 1.19; 1 Corinthians 15.7, Acts 1.21-22). After Luke's account of the Jerusalem Council, the Twelve drop out of view and the remainder of Acts is all about Paul. Why?

God had revealed Gentiles would be blessed by the Jews (cf. Isaiah 42.1, 6; 49.6; 60.3; Zechariah 8.23; Luke 2.32). These promises were based on the assumption that the Jews would accept their Messiah since no blessing could come apart from Him. How then, could Gentiles be blessed if Israel refused their Messiah? Quite literally, no other plan was on the books. But God in His sovereignty always has a plan, even though he may keep it secret (Deuteronomy 29.29). God knew Israel would reject Him and had made provision for it.

The Lord commissioned Paul as the apostle to the Gentiles (Acts 9.15-16; Romans 11.13; Ephesians 3.1; 1 Timothy 2.7). No Biblical record exists that Peter and the Eleven ever ministered to Gentiles. The Twelve made an agreement with Paul to confine their ministry to Jews while Paul would go to Gentiles (Galatians 2.7-9). Even though Paul was the apostle to the Gentiles, he first witnessed to Jews that Jesus was the Messiah. In Acts we have the record that Paul first approached Jews and then turned to Gentiles when the Jews rejected Jesus as the Messiah (Acts 13.46; 18.5-6; 28.24-28 cf. Romans 1.16-17; Acts 9.15).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Paul's argument with the Twelve demonstrated that a change of evangelistic program had occurred. Jesus had commanded his disciples to go to all nations, i.e., Gentiles (Matthew 28.19). This never happened. When it became clear Israel would not repent (the crisis point being the stoning of Stephen in Acts 7), God commissioned Paul to witness to Gentiles. During the thirty years Paul faithfully ministered for the Lord, the Lord revealed to him secrets (μυστήριον) He had not revealed in His own earthly ministry nor at any time to the Twelve.

The Mystery (μυστήριον)

The word translated "mystery" is the Greek word μυστήριον. This is one of the most unfortunate translations in the Bible. All it has done is confuse. The word μυστήριον does not mean "mystery" as we usually think of the term as in "strange," "enigma," "weird," etc. It means a "secret"–something that was kept hidden, something previously unrevealed. Paul used the term to describe the body of doctrine the risen, ascended, glorified Lord revealed to him. God alone can keep a secret and He had kept these revelations hidden until He chose to disclose them. Paul called these doctrines "secrets" for was what they were. What were these secrets that Peter and the other apostles knew nothing about?

1. The Secret of the Gospel of the Grace of God

Now to Him who is able to establish you according to my gospel and the preaching of Jesus Christ, according to the revelation of the mystery [secret] which has been kept secret for long ages past,but now is manifested, and by the Scriptures of the prophets, according to the commandment of the eternal God, has been made known to all the nations, leading to obedience of faith; (Romans 16.25-26)

Paul preached the "gospel of the grace of God" (Acts 20.24). Time and again Paul proclaimed that the gospel he preached was his gospel (Romans 2.16; 16.25; 2 Timothy 2.8; Galatians 2.2, 7; Galatians 1.11-12). Did the Twelve not preach this gospel? The Scriptures reveal they did not–until they had learned it from Paul (cf. Acts 15.1, 5, 6-11). Paul declared his gospel was, "kept secret for long ages past, but now is manifested." Paul wrote that by revelation he went to Jerusalem to communicate the gospel that he preached (Galatians 2.2). It was a "secret" until the ascended Lord revealed it to Paul. What was the gospel John the Baptist, Jesus, and the Twelve proclaimed? They preached the "gospel of the kingdom" (Matthew 4.23; 9.35; Mark 1.14-15). Its message was that God's earthly kingdom which the prophets had proclaimed was at hand. It required repentance and baptism. Even after the death, resurrection, and ascension of Christ, Peter continued to preach the gospel of the kingdom (Acts 2.38; 3.19-21), not the gospel of the grace of God (Acts 20.24) that Paul preached.

What was the content of the gospel during the ministry of Jesus and afterwards? Salvation was based upon believing that Jesus was Israel's Messiah, the Son of God (Matthew 16.16; John 11.27; [Acts 8.37]). No mention was made of believing in Jesus' death and resurrection even after His resurrection. Peter didn't tell the Jews whom he addressed on the day of Pentecost to believe Jesus died for them and arose from the dead. He told them to repent and be baptized (Acts 2.38). Immediately after Paul was saved he too preached this message: that Jesus was the Son of God (Acts 9.20). Paul did not began to preach his gospel (that Christ died for us and rose from the dead) until after he returned from Arabia. Why not? Because God had not yet revealed it. Not until after Paul returned from his three years in Arabia did he preach this gospel. During this time the ascended Lord revealed to Paul the meaning of His death and resurrection (Galatians 1.16-19, 2.1-2).2

Paul's gospel of the grace of God was the message of the death, burial, and resurrection of Christ. Paul wrote the Corinthians,

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

> Now I make known to you, brethren, the gospel which I preached to you, which also you received, in which also you stand, by which also you are saved, if you hold fast the word which I preached to you, unless you believed in vain. For I delivered to you as of first importance what I also received, that Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures,and that He was buried, and that He was raised on the third day according to the Scriptures, (1 Corinthians 15.1-4)

Do you see the difference in Paul's gospel? Where is repentance? Where is baptism? They are not there. Salvation according to the gospel of the kingdom was to repent and be baptized, believing Jesus was the Messiah, the Son of God (Matthew 16.16-17; John 11.25-27; Acts 2.38). Salvation according to the gospel of the grace of God (Acts 20.24), Paul's gospel, is to believe Christ died for us, was buried, and arose from the dead (1 Corinthians 15.1-4). According to Paul's gospel only one thing is necessary: faith in the death, burial, and resurrection for your sins. Do you believe it? If so, you are saved. This is God's promise.

Peter's gospel to the Jews was that they had murdered their Messiah and needed to repent and be baptized (Acts 2.36-38, 41). Did Peter or the Twelve preach Christ crucified for salvation? No. The cross for Peter was something to be repented of, not a message of hope and salvation (Acts 2.22-24; 2.36-39; 3.13-20).

Not until the Jerusalem Council (51 A.D.) did this change. After much argument, Peter, who had remained quiet during the debate (what a character change!) made a remarkable statement:

After there had been much debate, Peter stood up and said to them, "Brethren, you know that in the early days God made a choice among you, that by my mouth the Gentiles would hear the word of the gospel and believe." And God, who knows the heart, testified to them giving them the Holy Spirit, just as He also did to us; and He made no distinction between us and them, cleansing their hearts by faith. "Now therefore why do you put God to the test by placing upon the neck of the disciples a yoke which neither our fathers nor we have been able to bear? "But we believe that we are saved through the grace of the Lord Jesus, in the same way as they also are." All the people kept silent, and they were listening to Barnabas and Paul as they were relating what signs and wonders God had done through them among the Gentiles. (Acts 15.8-12)

At the critical moment, God the Holy Spirit moved Peter to recall the time he had visited the house of Cornelius, the Roman centurion, a Gentile, many years before (Acts 10.1-48). Peter, who had been listening to the arguments, rose to Paul's defense in the quarrel over whether Gentiles had to be circumcised and keep the Law of Moses to be saved. Had it not been for Peter, Paul's evangelism would have become much more difficult. What was most remarkable was Peter's statement: "But we believe that we are saved through the grace of the Lord Jesus, in the same way as they also are." What a switch! Jews saved like Gentiles, not Gentiles like Jews? Amazing! What was the result? The Jews who had argued against Paul became silent and listened to Paul and Barnabas.

2. The Secret of the Blinding of Israel

Paul wrote in Romans 11.25-27,

> For I do not want you, brethren, to be uninformed of this mystery [secret]–so that you will not be wise in your own estimation–that a partial hardening has happened to Israel until the fullness of the Gentiles has come in; and so all Israel will be saved; just as it is written,"THE DELIVERER WILL COME FROM ZION, HE WILL REMOVE UNGODLINESS FROM JACOB." "THIS IS MY COVENANT WITH THEM, WHEN I TAKE AWAY THEIR SINS."

God laid the groundwork for His creation of a new race of people, the Jews, with His call of Abraham. Through the line of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, God began to reveal Himself. From that point until the time when the ascended Lord commissioned Paul, God dealt with mankind through the nation of Israel. To the Jews belonged the adoption, glory, and covenants, etc. (Romans 9.4; Ephesians 2.12; Acts 3.25). God revealed His prophetic plan through the Jewish prophets. This plan is summarized in Psalm 2:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Psalm 2	Comment
[1] Why are the nations in an uproar and the peoples devising a vain thing? [2] The kings of the earth take their stand and the rulers take counsel together against the LORD and against His Anointed, saying, [3] "Let us tear their fetters apart and cast away their cords from us!"	The 1st Advent–Rejection of the Messiah by Gentiles (nations) and Jews (the peoples). Also prophetic of the attitude of mankind before the 2nd Advent.
[4] He who sits in the heavens laughs, the Lord scoffs at them. [5] Then He will speak to them in His anger and terrify them in His fury, saying, [9] 'You shall break them with a rod of iron, You shall shatter them like earthenware.'"	The judgment of God, i.e., the tribulation or the time of Jacob's Trouble (Matthew 24.1-51; Jeremiah 30.7).
[6] "But as for Me, I have installed My King upon Zion, My holy mountain." [8] 'Ask of Me, and I will surely give the nations as Your inheritance, and the very ends of the earth as Your possession.	Establishment of the Messianic Kingdom of God (the OT has hundreds of verses describing this kingdom).
[7] "I will surely tell of the decree of the LORD: He said to Me, 'You are My Son, Today I have begotten You.	The resurrection of Christ (cf. Acts 13.33) is when He was "begotten."
[10] Now therefore, O kings, show discernment; Take warning, O judges of the earth. [11]Worship the LORD with reverence and rejoice with trembling. [12] Do homage to the Son, that He not become angry, and you perish in the way, for His wrath may soon be kindled. How blessed are all who take refuge in Him!	A warning of tribulation to the world (Jew and Gentile) and blessings for those who trust in the Lord.

Notice the psalm makes no mention of the temporary blinding of Israel and God's creation of the Church, the body of Christ, during this blindness. These truths are found nowhere in the Old Testament. Why? Paul declared that these things were a secret of God. A partial hardening–not total and not forever–would last until the fullness of the Gentiles (Romans 11.25) occurred, i.e., until the body of Christ was complete. After that, all Israel, i.e., the entire nation, every single Jew alive on earth who recognized Jesus as the Messiah, would be saved (Matthew 23.37-39; Isaiah 66.8; Zechariah 12.10, 13.6; Acts 2.36, 38). Peter understood the need for the whole nation to repent. In his sermon on Pentecost, he demanded every Jew repent (Acts 2.38). This was declared by the prophets (Isaiah 66.7-9, 25.9; Zechariah 12.10, 13.6) and thus, known. Paul quoted Isaiah 59.20. What was unknown was when and how. Paul revealed that following Israel's rejection of their Messiah that the nation's salvation would not occur "until the fullness of the Gentiles is come in."

At the end of the Tribulation, at the end of the day of the Lord, all Jews will believe Jesus is the Messiah, the Son of God. They will go into the promised kingdom (Acts 1.6; Romans 11.16 cf. Isaiah 66.8). Unlike the generation of Jesus' day who failed to repent and experience the kingdom, the Tribulation generation will respond and believe Jesus is Messiah (Matthew 23.39). God is sovereign and has promised through his prophets that Israel would enjoy the kingdom (Romans 9.29 cf. Deuteronomy 28.1-14). God will keep His word.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

3. The Secret of the Rapture or Resurrection of the Body of Christ

The “rapture” is the resurrection of the Church, the body of Christ. In this divine event members of the body of Christ will receive their resurrection bodies. When the body of Christ has been made complete God will take His body unto Himself. Paul called this occurrence the “fullness of the Gentiles” (Romans 11.25) since the body of Christ is composed primarily of Gentiles. The word Paul used for the Rapture was ἁρπάζω which means “to seize” or “to snatch away.” Our English word “rapture” comes from the Latin “rapiemur” which is the word the Latin Vulgate used to translate ἁρπάζω. Paul revealed the secret of the Rapture in 1 Corinthians 15.51-53:

Behold, I tell you a mystery [secret]; we will not all sleep, but we will all be changed, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trumpet; for the trumpet will sound, and the dead will be raised imperishable, and we will be changed. For this perishable must put on the imperishable, and this mortal must put on immortality.

Paul elaborated on this event when he wrote the Thessalonians about the order of the resurrection for the body of Christ:

Brothers, we do not want you to be ignorant about those who fall asleep, or to grieve like the rest of men, who have no hope. We believe that Jesus died and rose again and so we believe that God will bring with Jesus those who have fallen asleep in him. According to the Lord’s own word, we tell you that we who are still alive, who are left till the coming of the Lord, will certainly not precede those who have fallen asleep. For the Lord himself will come down from heaven, with a loud command, with the voice of the archangel and with the trumpet call of God, and the dead in Christ will rise first. After that, we who are still alive and are left will be caught up (ἁρπάζω) together with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air. And so we will be with the Lord forever. Therefore encourage each other with these words (1 Thessalonians 4.13-18).

In the passage above, Paul reiterated his gospel–Christ died for our sins and rose again. Having this belief gives the believer confidence to know he will be with the Lord. Paul then gave the resurrection sequence for the body of Christ: those who have died will be raised first. Those who are alive will be raised second, i.e., given a resurrection body. In other words, the latter group, those who are alive, will not experience physical death. Both groups will meet the Lord in the air. This whole transformation will take place “in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye.” The words for “moment” and “twinkling” are ἄτομος and ῥιπή. The thought here is that this will occur instantaneously.

This return of the Lord is an entirely different event from His return to save Israel and the nations at the end of the Tribulation. In the first return, the Lord will meet the body of Christ in the clouds (a heavenly return for a heavenly people, Ephesians 1.3). In the second return, the Lord will return to earth, (an earthly return for an earthly people, Zechariah 14.4). The Rapture is the “blessed hope” (Titus 2.13) of the body of Christ and was Paul’s personal hope (Philippians 3.11, ἐξανάστασιν τὴν ἐκνεκρῶν).

Paul had to correct false teaching constantly. Someone, posing as Paul, wrote the Thessalonians that the Day of the Lord had occurred. They denied the Rapture–what Paul had taught them when he was with them–that believers would be delivered from the Day of the Lord. Paul addressed this error with the following words in 2 Thessalonians 2.1-5:

Now we request you, brethren, with regard to the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ and our gathering together to Him, that you not be quickly shaken from your composure or be disturbed either by a spirit or a message or a letter as if from us, to the effect that the day of the Lord has come. Let no one in any way deceive you, for it will not come unless the apostasy comes first, and the man of lawlessness is revealed, the son of destruction, who opposes and exalts himself above every so-called god or object of worship, so that he takes his seat in the temple of God, displaying himself as being God. Do you not remember that while I was still with you, I was telling you these things?

No one wrote about the Rapture except Paul because no one knew anything of it–it was a secret the glorified Lord revealed to Paul alone. Jesus never mentioned it in his earthly ministry and the Twelve never mentioned it in their writings. All non-Pauline writings of Christ's return speak of His return to earth at the end of the Tribulation.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

In Jewish theology, before the first advent of Christ, the Jews knew of only one advent. They understood a few passages spoke of a suffering Messiah and most spoke of a ruling Messiah. They could never put these ideas together nor understand there would be one Messiah but two advents (1 Peter 1.10-11). In the same way, the Second Advent will have two parts. The first part will be Christ's return in the air for his body, the Church (the Rapture). The second part of Christ's return will be his return to earth for a repentant Israel (Matthew 23.39; Zechariah 12.10) and the Gentiles who remain alive (Matthew 24.22). The two advents are diagrammed in the chart below:

ADVENTS	First Advent (Rejection and Suffering)–Revealed in Old Testament
	Second Advent (Mercy and Judgment)
	Phase 1: Unrevealed until Paul God's mercy to the Church (the Body of Christ) to save it (by the Rapture) from the wrath to come	Phase 2: Revealed in Old Testament God's judgment upon a Christ rejecting world and the return of Christ as King to save a repentant Israel

Throughout the Old Testament the prophets had warned of a day called the "day of the Lord." The "day of the Lord" was a time in which God would pour His wrath upon the nations. It was day in which God would release His wrath against the world for its evil–especially for a world that wil reject the true God to worship the Antichrist. References to the day include the following: Isaiah 2.12-21; 13.9-13; 26.20-21; 34.1-2, 8; Ezekiel 30.1-8; Joel 1.13-16; 2.1-3, 11; 2.23-32; 3.12-18; Amos 5.18-20; Obadiah 1.15-17; Zephaniah 1.7-18; 2.1-3; Zechariah 12.2-10; 14.1-20; Malachi 4.1-3. It will be a day of "wrath," "darkness," "gloom," and "wailing." Jesus described the day in Matthew 24.1-51 and John in the book of Revelation. Included, of course, in this day is Israel's deliverance, which Paul foretold in Romans 11.26 when "all Israel," i.e., the entire nation will be saved.

Paul taught a different day, a day unrevealed by the prophets, by Jesus, or by the Twelve. This day Paul called the "day of Christ" or the "day of the Lord Jesus." It stands in contrast to the "day of the Lord." Paul wrote of the "day of Christ" in 1 Corinthians 1.8; 5.5; 2 Corinthians 1.14; Philippians 1.6, 10; 2.16. The "day of Christ" is a day of deliverance, not a day of judgment. The "day of Christ" is the return of Christ for his body, the Church, or the Rapture. Associated with this day of deliverance is judgment of the believers works. Paul wrote the Corinthians about this in 1 Corinthians 3.13-15. See the author's study on the Day of Christ.

4. The Secret of the One Body

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Paul alone taught the Body of Christ. How did Paul learn about it? The ascended Lord revealed the truth that the Church (1 Corinthians 12.12-27; Ephesians 1.22-23; Colossians 1.18, 24) was His body and that its nature was that Jew and Gentile were equal in Christ (Galatians 3.26-29). The Lord did not reveal this truth to Peter or the Twelve. Search the Scriptures–you will find no word about the body of Christ from anyone but Paul. Paul wrote the Ephesians:

> "For this reason I, Paul, the prisoner of Christ Jesus for the sake of you Gentiles–if indeed you have heard of the stewardship of God's grace which was given to me for you; that by revelation there was made known to me the mystery [secret], as I wrote before in brief. By referring to this, when you read you can understand my insight into the mystery [secret] of Christ, which in other generations was not made known to the sons of men, as it has now been revealed to His holy apostles and prophets in the Spirit; to be specific, that the Gentiles are fellow heirs and fellow members of the body, and fellow partakers of the promise in Christ Jesus through the gospel, of which I was made a minister, according to the gift of God's grace which was given to me according to the working of His power. To me, the very least of all saints, this grace was given, to preach to the Gentiles the unfathomable riches of Christ, and to bring to light what is the administration of the mystery [secret] which for ages has been hidden in God who created all things;" (Ephesians 3.1-9).

Notice the points Paul made:

1.Paul was the prisoner of Christ for the sake of Gentiles.

2.By revelation he received the secret (μυστήριον).

As the passage above states, this secret was not known to other generations. But the secret became revealed to his holy apostles and prophets. Who were these? Certainly not the Twelve for they never mentioned the body of Christ. Peter and the Twelve learned about the body of Christ from Paul after the Lord revealed this secret to him. What was this secret?

The secret was that Gentiles who believed Paul's gospel were fellow heirs and members of the body of Christ with Jews who believed Paul's gospel. Before Paul, beginning with Abraham, Israel held priority in God's program. The prophets had revealed that Gentiles would be blessed through Israel. But nothing indicated equality. That Gentiles were now equal with Jews was a revolutionary shift in God's plan. Consider. Jesus, in his earthly ministry commanded His disciples not to go to Gentiles. Matthew recorded:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

> "These twelve Jesus sent out after instructing them: "Do not go in the way of the Gentiles, and do not enter any city of the Samaritans; but rather go to the lost sheep of the house of Israel. "And as you go, preach, saying, 'The kingdom of heaven is at hand.'" (Matthew 10.5-6)

Could words be more plain? Don't go to Gentiles! Jesus made two exceptions to His rule in His earthly ministry: a Canaanite woman (Matthew 15.22-28) and a Roman centurion (Matthew 8.5-10). He responded to them because of their exceptional faith. See the author's study Two Remarkable Healings.

All this was new. We know about it from Paul alone. It is helpful to recognize what is not in the Scriptures as well as what is in them. Pay particular attention to the verses below that Paul wrote (quoted above in Ephesians 3.1-9):

1. "of which I (not Peter, not the Twelve) was made a minister."

2. "according to the gift of God's grace which was given to me (not Peter, not the Twelve) according to the working of His power."

3. "To me, (not Peter, not the Twelve) the very least of all saints, this grace was given,"

4. "to preach to the Gentiles the unfathomable riches of Christ, and to bring to light what is the administration of the mystery [secret] which for ages has been hidden (Peter and the Twelve knew nothing of it) in God who created all things." It was Paul's ministry that revealed this secret which God had kept hidden.

Paul wrote similar words to the Colossians,

> "Now I rejoice in my sufferings for your sake, and in my flesh I do my share on behalf of His body, which is the church, in filling up what is lacking in Christ's afflictions. Of this church I was made a minister according to the stewardship from God bestowed on me for your benefit, so that I might fully carry out the preaching of the word of God, that is, the mystery [secret] which has been hidden from the past ages and generations, but has now been manifested to His saints, to whom God willed to make known what is the riches of the glory of this mystery [secret] among the Gentiles, which is Christ in you, the hope of glory" (Colossians 1.24-27).

We see the same points again:

1. The Church is the body of Christ.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

2. Paul (not Peter, not the Twelve) was made a minister of this new body, the Church.

3. God bestowed this stewardship upon Paul (not Peter, not the Twelve).

4. The revelation of the Church as the body of Christ was previously hidden (the Twelve knew nothing of it).

5. This secret includes Christ being in the believer which is the hope of glory.

Paul wrote the Corinthians regarding his ministry,

> "According to the grace of God which was given to me, like a wise master builder I laid a foundation, and another is building on it. But each man must be careful how he builds on it. For no man can lay a foundation other than the one which is laid, which is Jesus Christ" (1 Corinthians 3.10-11).

God gave the gospel of the grace of God (Acts 20.24), as opposed to the gospel of the kingdom, to Paul. Like a wise master builder Paul built the Church on the foundation who is Christ. The above passage teaches that Paul, not Peter or the Twelve, was the architect of the Church. The Lord gave Peter charge over the Jewish church in His earthly ministry. This was the church that existed on the day of Pentecost. Gentiles did not participate in this church. Paul reminded his Gentile believers in Ephesus that prior to the revelation of the secret of the body of Christ they were excluded from Israel and all the benefits Israel enjoyed:

> Therefore remember that formerly you, the Gentiles in the flesh, who are called "Uncircumcision" by the so-called "Circumcision," which is performed in the flesh by human hands–remember that you were at that time separate from Christ, excluded from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers to the covenants of promise, having no hope and without God in the world. But now in Christ Jesus you who formerly were far off have been brought near by the blood of Christ. For He Himself is our peace, who made both groups into one and broke down the barrier of the dividing wall, by abolishing in His flesh the enmity, which is the Law of commandments contained in ordinances, so that in Himself He might make the two into one new man, thus establishing peace, and might reconcile them both in one body to God through the cross, by it having put to death the enmity. AND HE CAME AND PREACHED PEACE TO YOU WHO WERE FAR AWAY, AND PEACE TO THOSE WHO WERE NEAR; for through Him we both have our access in one Spirit to the Father. So then you are no longer strangers and aliens, but you are fellow citizens with the saints, and are of God's household, having been built on the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Christ Jesus Himself being > the corner stone, in whom the whole building, being fitted together, is growing into a holy temple in the Lord, in whom you also are being built together into a dwelling of God in the Spirit (Ephesians 2.11-22).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Paul illustrated the body of Christ with the human body. Thus,

> For even as the body is one and yet has many members, and all the members of the body, though they are many, are one body, so also is Christ (1 Corinthians 12.12).

Becoming a member of the body of Christ, the Church, is through the baptism of the Holy Spirit. This is not a sensory experience. It occurs when one believes the gospel (1 Corinthians 15.1-4).

> “For even as the body is one and yet has many members, and all the members of the body, though they are many, are one body, so also is Christ. For by one Spirit we were all baptized into one body, whether Jews or Greeks, whether slaves or free, and we were all made to drink of one Spirit” (1 Corinthians 12.12-13).

Paul wrote that each part of the body is vital:

> For the body is not one member, but many. If the foot says, “Because I am not a hand, I am not a part of the body,” it is not for this reason any the less a part of the body. And if the ear says, “Because I am not an eye, I am not a part of the body,” it is not for this reason any the less a part of the body. If the whole body were an eye, where would the hearing be? If the whole were hearing, where would the sense of smell be? But now God has placed the members, each one of them, in the body, just as He desired. If they were all one member, where would the body be? But now there are many members, but one body. And the eye cannot say to the hand, “I have no need of you”; or again the head to the feet, “I have no need of you.” On the contrary, it is much truer that the members of the body which seem to be weaker are necessary; and those members of the body which we deem less honorable, on these we bestow more abundant honor, and our less presentable members become much more presentable, whereas our more presentable members have no need of it. But God has so composed the body, giving more abundant honor to that member which lacked, so that there may be no division in the body, but that the members may have the same care for one another. And if one member suffers, all the members suffer with it; if one member is honored, all the members rejoice with it (1 Corinthians 12.14-16).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Paul's conclusion was, "Now you are Christ's body, and individually members of it" (1 Corinthians 12.17). As the human body is a whole and each part is important, so too the body of Christ. Every believer is important and has a vital function in the body of Christ.

Another illustration Paul used about the body of Christ was marriage. Paul wrote in Ephesians 5.22-33:

> 22 Wives, be subject to your own husbands, as to the Lord. 23 For the husband is the head of the wife, as Christ also is the head of the church, He Himself being the Savior of the body. 24 But as the church is subject to Christ, so also the wives ought to be to their husbands in everything. 25 Husbands, love your wives, just as Christ also loved the church and gave Himself up for her, 26 so that He might sanctify her, having cleansed her by the washing of water with the word, 27 that He might present to Himself the church in all her glory, having no spot or wrinkle or any such thing; but that she would be holy and blameless. 28 So husbands ought also to love their own wives as their own bodies. He who loves his own wife loves himself; 29 for no one ever hated his own flesh, but nourishes and cherishes it, just as Christ also does the church, 30 because we are members of His body. 31 FOR THIS REASON A MAN SHALL LEAVE HIS FATHER AND MOTHER AND SHALL BE JOINED TO HIS WIFE, AND THE TWO SHALL BECOME ONE FLESH. 32 This mystery [secret] is great; but I am speaking with reference to Christ and the church. 33 Nevertheless, each individual among you also is to love his own wife even as himself, and the wife must see to it that she respects her husband.

The Christian husband is head of the wife in the same manner as Christ is Head of the Church, the body of Christ. Husbands are to 1) love their wives as Christ loved the Church (v. 25) and 2) love their wives as their own bodies (v. 28, 33). Paul declared that this relationship of Christ to the Church and husbands to wives was a secret (μυστήριον) in verse 32. No one knew it or taught this before Paul.

We learn from Paul alone that Christ is the Head of the Body, the Church (Ephesians 1.22; 4.15; 5.23; Colossians 1.18; 2.19). In the age of grace Christ is nowhere called the "king" of the Church. That is His title for Israel. A king has subjects. But we have Christ as our Head, not our King. We are integral to Him. We are joint-heirs with Him (Romans 8.17). A joint-heir is a different kind of relationship than a subject to a king. A joint-heir is one who shares everything belonging to the heir. This is grace! We know this from Paul alone for it, again, was a secret Paul received from the risen Lord.

5. The Secret of Heavenly Citizenship

From Paul alone we learn that the believer in the body of Christ has a heavenly position and heavenly citizenship. Peter and the Twelve looked forward to an earthly position, not a heavenly one. The Jew knew nothing of heavenly blessing. He looked forward to the kingdom on earth. This is why Jesus had instructed his disciples to pray, “Your kingdom come. Your will be done, on earth as it is in heaven” (Matthew 6.10). Consider Peter’s question to the Lord and his answer in Matthew 19.27-28:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

> Then Peter said to Him, “Behold, we have left everything and followed You; what then will there be for us?” And Jesus said to them, “Truly I say to you, that you who have followed Me, in the regeneration when the Son of Man will sit on His glorious throne, you also shall sit upon twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

Where will Jesus sit on His glorious throne? In Jerusalem. This made perfect sense to Peter. Indeed, if Jesus had answered in any other way Peter would have found the reply at odds with the teachings of the prophets. Only by Jesus’ ruling in Jerusalem can God fulfill the Davidic Covenant, his promise to David. The psalmist wrote in Psalm 2 of the conversation between God the Father and God the Son:

> ‘Ask of Me, and I will surely give the nations as Your inheritance, and the very ends of the earth as Your possession.

Zechariah declared:

> And the LORD will be king over all the earth; in that day the LORD will be the only one, and His name the only one. All the land will be changed into a plain from Geba to Rimmon south of Jerusalem; but Jerusalem will rise and remain on its site from Benjamin’s Gate as far as the place of the First Gate to the Corner Gate, and from the Tower of Hananel to the king’s wine presses. People will live in it, and there will no longer be a curse, for Jerusalem will dwell in security (Zechariah 14.9-11 cf. Zechariah 8.2-3; Daniel 7.14, 27).

When the disciples asked the Lord how they should pray, he answered them:

> “Pray, then, in this way: ‘Our Father who is in heaven, Hallowed be Your name. ‘Your kingdom come Your will be done, On earth as it is in heaven. ‘Give us this day our daily bread. ‘And forgive us our debts, as we also have forgiven our debtors. ‘And do not lead us into temptation, but deliver us from evil (Matthew 6.9-13).

Is anything heavenly here? Jesus told his disciples to pray for God’s kingdom to come on earth and for His will to be done on earth. Jesus knew His Old Testament. He knew He would reign as David’s greater Son (Luke 1.32).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

But the Church, the body of Christ, has different promises than Israel. God's promises to the Church are heavenly3 not earthly. Thus, Paul wrote the Ephesians:

> "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who has blessed us with every spiritual blessing in the heavenly places in Christ," (Ephesians 1.3) and in Ephesians 2.4-6:

> "But God, being rich in mercy, because of His great love with which He loved us, even when we were dead in our transgressions, made us alive together with Christ (by grace you have been saved), and raised us up with Him, and seated us with Him in the heavenly places in Christ Jesus,"

Unlike promises God made to Israel of an earthly kingdom and citizenship, members of the body of Christ, the Church, have heavenly citizenship. Paul wrote the Philippians:

> "For our citizenship is in heaven, from which also we eagerly wait for a Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ; who will transform the body of our humble state into conformity with the body of His glory, by the exertion of the power that He has even to subject all things to Himself" (Philippians 3.20-21).

Speaking of our resurrection body, which is located in heaven, Paul wrote the Corinthians in 2 Corinthians 5.1-3:

> For we know that if the earthly tent which is our house is torn down, we have a building from God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. For indeed in this house we groan, longing to be clothed with our dwelling from heaven, inasmuch as we, having put it on, will not be found naked.

6. The Secret of His Will

The secret of his will is God's plan to gather together in one all things in Christ. Only Paul revealed this truth. Paul wrote the Ephesians in Ephesians 1.9-10:

> "Having made known unto us the mystery [secret] of his will, according to his good pleasure which he hath purposed in himself: That in the dispensation of the fullness of times he might gather together in one all things in Christ, both which are in heaven, and which are on earth; even in him:"

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

A parallel passage of this truth is from Paul's letter to the Colossians:

> For it was the Father's good pleasure for all the fullness to dwell in Him, and through Him to reconcile all things to Himself, having made peace through the blood of His cross; through Him, I say, whether things on earth or things in heaven (Col. 1.19-20).

7. The Secret of the Grace of God

Paul revealed that grace, not Law, is the realm in which the believer in Christ operates. Paul began every letter with a grace salutation to remind believers of his gospel of this new relationship. No word more clearly identifies Paul's ministry that the word "grace. " It is the Greek χάρις and means "favor." As a divine gift it is giving us what we do not merit or deserve. When someone receives God's grace by believing the gospel (1 Corinthians 15.1-4), God begins His transformative work to enable us to love God and seek after His righteousness. The ultimate goal is that we are transformed, conformed to the image of Christ (Romans 8.29; Philippians 1.6). Paul was the epitome of God's grace. Before his conversion, Paul exercised all his power to destroy those who were believing in Jesus of Nazareth as the Messiah. Yet God did not destroy him; He saved him. From that moment Paul became the world's foremost follower of His Savior (1 Timothy 1.15).

The word χάρις appears 156 times in 147 verses in the New Testament. Paul's usage accounts for 103 verses (70%). They are the following:

Romans 1.5, 7, 3.24, 4.4, 16, 5.2, 15, 17, 20, 21, 6.1, 14, 15, 17, 7.25, 11.5, 6, 12.3, 12.6, 15.15, 16.20, 24; 1 Corinthians 1.3, 4, 3.10, 10.30, 15.10, 15.57, 16.3, 16.23; 2 Corinthians 1.2, 12, 15, 2.14, 4.15, 6.1, 8.1, 4, 6, 7, 9, 16, 19, 9.8, 14, 15, 12.9, 13.14; Galatians 1.3, 6, 15; 2.9, 21; 5.4, 6.18; Ephesians 1.2, 6, 7, 2.5, 7, 8, 3.2, 7, 8, 4.7, 29, 6.24; Philippians 1.2, 7, 4.23; Colossians 1.2, 6, 3.16, 4.6, 18; 1 Thessalonians 1.1, 5.28; 2 Thessalonians 1.2, 12, 2.16, 3.18; 1 Timothy 1.2, 12, 1.14, 6.21; 2 Timothy 1.2, 3, 9, 2.1, 4.22; Titus 1.4, 2.11, 3.7, 15; Philemon 1.3, 25; Hebrews 2.9, 4.16, 10.29, 12.15, 28, 13.9, 25.

Paul (not Peter, not the Twelve) revealed that Christians are not under the Law of Moses but are under grace (Romans 6.14; 7.2-6; 8.2-4). He revealed that man is justified by faith alone apart from works (Romans 3.28). He revealed Christ is the end or goal (τέλος) of the Mosaic Law (Romans 10.4). No other writer of Scripture revealed these things. They are all part of the "secret" the ascended Lord revealed to the great apostle.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

8. The Secret of Identification with Christ

All who believe the gospel (1 Corinthians 15.1-4) have been identified with Christ.

> Or do you not know that all of us who have been baptized into Christ Jesus have been baptized into His death? Therefore we have been buried with Him through baptism into death, so that as Christ was raised from the dead through the glory of the Father, so we too might walk in newness of life. For if we have become united with Him in the likeness of His death, certainly we shall also be in the likeness of His resurrection, knowing this, that our old self was crucified with Him, in order that our body of sin might be done away with, so that we would no longer be slaves to sin; for he who has died is freed from sin. Now if we have died with Christ, we believe that we shall also live with Him, knowing that Christ, having been raised from the dead, is never to die again; death no longer is master over Him (Romans 6.3-9).

When a person believes Paul's gospel he is baptized into the body of Christ (1 Corinthians 12.13). Paul spoke of this baptism as being "buried" with Christ. This is a metaphor for God viewing us having died with Christ and being identified in his death.4 As we have been united to Christ in his death we have also been united with him in his resurrection. As Christ will never die again, we will never die. In terms of living the Christian life, this has immediate practical benefit. Paul wrote the Romans,

> For the death that He died, He died to sin once for all; but the life that He lives, He lives to God. Even so consider yourselves to be dead to sin, but alive to God in Christ Jesus. Therefore do not let sin reign in your mortal body so that you obey its lusts, and do not go on presenting the members of your body to sin as instruments of unrighteousness; but present yourselves to God as those alive from the dead, and your members as instruments of righteousness to God. For sin shall not be master over you, for you are not under law but under grace (Romans 6.10-14 cf. 8.1-39).

Since Christ died to sin and we are united to Him Paul wrote we are to consider ourselves dead to sin and alive to God. In this way we can defeat our Adamic nature's inclination to sin.

Writing to the Galatians, Paul expressed identification with Christ like this:

> "I have been crucified with Christ; and it is no longer I who live, but Christ lives in me; and the life which I now live in the flesh I live by faith in the Son of God, who loved me and gave Himself up for me. (Galatians 2.20)

Paul wrote the Colossians about this identification and spoke of the "secret of God" (Colossians 2.2):

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

> “and in Him you have been made complete, and He is the head over all rule and authority; and in Him you were also circumcised with a circumcision made without hands, in the removal of the body of the flesh by the circumcision of Christ; having been buried with Him in baptism, in which you were also raised up with Him through faith in the working of God, who raised Him from the dead. When you were dead in your transgressions and the uncircumcision of your flesh, He made you alive together with Him, having forgiven us all our transgressions, having canceled out the certificate of debt consisting of decrees against us, which was hostile to us; and He has taken it out of the way, having nailed it to the cross (Colossians 2.10-14).

9. The Secret of Lawlessness

Paul revealed the “secret of lawlessness” to the Thessalonians:

> “Let no one in any way deceive you, for it will not come unless the apostasy comes first, and the man of lawlessness is revealed, the son of destruction, who opposes and exalts himself above every so-called god or object of worship, so that he takes his seat in the temple of God, displaying himself as being God. Do you not remember that while I was still with you, I was telling you these things? And you know what restrains him now, so that in his time he will be revealed. For the mystery [secret] of lawlessness is already at work; only he who now restrains will do so until he is taken out of the way. Then that lawless one will be revealed whom the Lord will slay with the breath of His mouth and bring to an end by the appearance of His coming; that is, the one whose coming is in accord with the activity of Satan, with all power and signs and false wonders, and with all the deception of wickedness for those who perish, because they did not receive the love of the truth so as to be saved. For this reason God will send upon them a deluding influence so that they will believe what is false, in order that they all may be judged who did not believe the truth, but took pleasure in wickedness” (2 Thessalonians 2.6-12).

Paul wrote the secret of iniquity (KJV) or lawlessness (ἀνομία) was already at work. Paul used the term ἀνομία in a generic sense for all that is opposed to God and godliness. The personification of this “secret” is the “lawless one”, (ἄνομος) the one who will be empowered by Satan, the Antichrist. John wrote about this individual in Revelation as did Daniel yet much is unknown about how he will come to power and operate. Therefore, a secret. What Paul revealed was what restrains (κατέχω) or holds back this individual. Paul wrote that this monstrous personage cannot appear “until the one who is now restraining is taken out of the way.” This is most likely the Holy Spirit, specifically, the Holy Spirit who indwells believers in the Body of Christ–since this is the content of the passage. One of Paul’s purposes for writing the Thessalonians was to correct a claim from a purported letter from him that they were experiencing the Day of the Lord since they were being persecuted. Paul wrote to assure them this was not the case. He declared that before that can occur the body of Christ must be removed. When that occurs God's retraining power will be removed and Satan will be free to bring his man to power.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Conclusion

The risen, ascended, glorified Lord revealed a vast amount of new information to Paul. Paul referred to these revelations as "secrets" for God had revealed none of these things to the prophets. Jesus had not revealed these truths in His earthly ministry or to the Twelve. From Paul alone do we learn the truths of Christianity: about Christ's work of our salvation, our sanctification, our rescue from a Christ-rejecting world, and our destiny. Holding to Pauline truths has always been a hard-fought battle. Satan knows when these truths are known and taught the Church is strong and therefore constantly fights against them. At the end of his life Paul wrote Timothy, "You are aware of the fact that all who are in Asia turned away from me, among whom are Phygelus and Hermogenes" (2 Timothy 1.15). This was a tragic statement. Paul had expended tremendous effort and had experienced great suffering in Asia. Such a statement provides insight into why theology took the direction it took and what is wrong with the theology of Christendom. While many Church Fathers were fairly orthodox many also held unscriptural views. Tragically, little has changed. Most churches spend the greatest portion of their time in the gospels or the Old Testament, rather than in Paul's epistles. When Paul is taught it is mixed up with the other Scriptures and vice-versa. The result is confusion and contradiction. Nothing is wrong with the gospels. Nothing is wrong with the Old Testament. But we find nothing of the Church there. Only through studying Paul and his writings do we learn about God's work, purpose, and destiny for the body of Christ, the Church.

1 The Sanhedrin was set off by Stephen's vision of seeing Jesus standing at the right hand of God (Acts 7.55-58). Numerous passages speak of Jesus seated at the right hand of God (Matthew 22.44; Mark 6.19, 12.36; Luke 20.42, 22.29; Acts 2.34; Hebrews 1.13, 10.12, 12.1; Psalms 110.1) but in this passage alone Jesus is revealed as standing. Why would this statement by Stephen convulse the Council? They knew their Bibles. The Psalmist had revealed that God's standing was a sign He was ready leave heaven and judge (Psalms 68.1, 3.7, 10.12, 74.22, 82.8).

2 In Galatians 2.2, the NASB has translated ἀνατίθημι as "submitted." This is a poor translation for it connotes Paul submitted his gospel to the council for their review and approval. A better translation of ἀνατίθημι is "set forth", "presented," "declared", or "communicated." Paul received his gospel directly from the glorified Lord (Galatians 1.12, 1.7-9). The last thing he would do was "submit" it for men's approval.

3 While the Church's promises are heavenly, some earthly application seems to be associated with them. Paul wrote the Romans (Romans 8.17) that members of the body of Christ are joint-heirs (συγκληρονόμος) with Christ.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

A joint heir shares in an inheritance. The Lord will inherit the nations (Psalms 2) and rule over them. It would seem, therefore, that members of the body of Christ may have some responsibilities in this realm.

4 Romans 6 has no water. The baptism Paul taught in which the believer is identified with Christ in his death (burial) is dry. Those who associate this baptism with water do so without Scriptural support. See the author's study on Baptism.

©2010 Don Samdahl. Anyone is free to reproduce this material and distribute it, but it may not be sold.

Updated August 22, 2014

[Source: http://doctrine.org/pauls-mystery/]

See above link for additional comments that may be of interest to some.

Additional Comparisons of Paul and Jesus:

Paul and Jesus
http://www.biblestudytools.com/classics/machen-the-origin-pauls-religion/paul-and-jesus.html

The Origens of Pauls Religion:
http://www.biblestudytools.com/classics/machen-the-origin-of-pauls-religion/

Comparing Paul and Jesus (forum discussion also downloadable document):
http://evangelicaluniversalist.com/forum/viewtopic.php?f=58&t=747 http://evangelicaluniversalist.com/forum/download/file.php?id=116&sid=4d4b1c6235e21ad2970f4b27d122e4b4

Pauline Theology: Jesus and Paul http://paulinetheology.blogspot.com/2007/07/jesus-and-paul.html

Jesus and Paul – F.F. Bruce:
http://biblicalstudies.org.uk/pdf/jesus-and-paul_bruce.pdf [PDF]

Did St. Paul Get Jesus Right?: http://www.theologynetwork.org/christian-beliefs/justification/did-st-paul-get-jesus-right.htm

Jesus and Paul – Gresham Machen – 1912:
http://answers.org/bible/jesus_and_paul.html

133 Similarities between the Lord Jesus Christ and the Apostle Paul

Compiled by Anthony Wales [Source: http://answering-islam.org/Wales/jesus_paul.htm]

Introduction

Muslims believe that Jesus was an Islamic prophet and have developed a number of arguments in an attempt to support this belief. One broad argument is that the apostle Paul is the real founder of Christianity. Under this broad argument falls the claim that the Bible shows the teaching of St Paul to be quite different to the teaching of Jesus. This article intends to respond to this claim by listing 100 similarities between the Lord Jesus Christ and St Paul.

[Note from LY: While this was primarily created in answer to claims made by Muslims against Paul, those claims have been made by others and this list is useful to anyone that may be confused by those claims and to provide a counter to them.]

The similarities listed are taken from the Biblical accounts of Jesus and Paul.

The Gospels are the main source for Jesus' life, words and actions. There are also some words and action of Jesus in the Acts of the Apostles and the book of Revelation. The life, words and actions of Paul are found in the Acts of the Apostles and his letters (Romans through to Philemon).

The similarities presented include similarities in words, actions, life, and person.

All quotations are from an English translation of the Bible known as the New Revised Standard Version.

---

1. Jesus is the Messiah or Christ

JESUS: He said to them, "But who do you say that I am?" Simon Peter answered, "You are the Messiah, the Son of the living God". And Jesus answered him, "Blessed are you, Simon son of Jonah! For flesh and blood has not revealed this to you, but my Father in heaven". (Matthew 16:15-17)

PAUL: Paul was occupied with proclaiming the word, testifying to the Jews that the Messiah was Jesus. (Acts 18:5)

2. Jesus is the Son of God

JESUS: All of them asked, "Are you, then, the Son of God?" He said to them, "You say that I am". Then they said, "What further testimony do we need? We have heard it ourselves from his own lips!" (Luke 22:70-71)

PAUL: Immediately he began to proclaim Jesus in the synagogues, saying, "He is the Son of God". (Acts 9:20)

3. Jesus is Lord

JESUS: You call me Teacher and Lord - and you are right, for that is what I am. (John 13:13)

PAUL: There is... one Lord, Jesus Christ. (1 Corinthians 8:6)

4. Jesus is God

JESUS: Thomas answered him, "My Lord and my God!" Jesus said to him, "Have you believed because you have seen me? Blessed are those who have not seen and yet have come to believe". (John 20:28-29)

PAUL: From them, according to the flesh, comes the Messiah, who is over all, God blessed forever. (Romans 9:5)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

5. Jesus is Human

JESUS: Jesus said to them, "If you were Abraham's children, you would be doing what Abraham did, but now you are trying to kill me, a man who has told you the truth that I heard from God". (John 8:39-40)

PAUL: There is also one mediator between God and humankind, Christ Jesus, himself human. (1 Timothy 2:5)

6. Jesus was born of a woman

JESUS: The angel said to her, "Do not be afraid, Mary, for you have found favour with God. And now, you will conceive in your womb and bear a son, and you will name him Jesus. He will be great, and will be called the Son of the Most High (Luke 1:30-32)

PAUL: When the fullness of time had come, God sent his Son, born of a woman. (Galatians 4:4)

7. God sent Jesus

JESUS: I cam from God and now I am here. I did not come on my own, but he sent me. (John 8:42)

PAUL: For God has done what the law, weakened by the flesh, could not do: by sending his own Son. (Romans 8:3)

8. Jesus is the way to the Father

JESUS: I am the way, and the truth, and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me. (John 14:6)

PAUL: Through him both of us have access in one Spirit to the Father. (Ephesians 2:18)

9. Jesus is Light

JESUS: Jesus spoke to them, saying, "I am the light of the world". (John 8:12)

PAUL: What fellowship is there between light and darkness? What agreement does Christ have with Beliar? (2 Corinthians 6:14-15)

10. Jesus is life

JESUS: I am the way, and the truth, and the life. (John 14:6)

PAUL: When Christ who is your life is revealed. (Colossians 3:4)

11. Jesus is the beginning

JESUS: I am the Alpha and the Omega, the first and the last, the beginning and the end. (Revelation 22:13)

PAUL: He is the beginning. (Colossians 1:18)

12. Jesus is first

JESUS: I am the first and the last, and the living one. I was dead, and see, I am alive for ever and ever. (Revelation 1:17-18)

PAUL: He is the beginning, the firstborn from the dead, so that he might come to have first place in everything. (Colossians 1:18)

13. Jesus is a descendent of David

JESUS: The angel said to her, "Do not be afraid, Mary, for you have found favour with God. And now, you will conceive in your womb and bear a son, and you will name him Jesus. He will be great, and will be called the Son of the Most High, and the Lord God will give to him the throne of his ancestor David. (Luke 1:30-32)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

PAUL: Remember Jesus Christ, raised from the dead, a descendant of David. (2 Timothy 2:8)

14. Jesus is the Bridegroom

JESUS: Now John's disciples and the Pharisees were fasting; and people came and said to him, "Why do John's disciples and the disciples of the Pharisees fast, but your disciples do not fast?" Jesus said to them, "The wedding-guests cannot fast while the bridegroom is with them, can they? As long as they have the bridegroom with them, they cannot fast". (Mark 2:18-19)

PAUL: I promised you in marriage to one husband, to present you as a chaste virgin to Christ. (2 Corinthians 11:2)

15. Jesus is King

JESUS: Jesus answered, "My kingdom is not from this world. If my kingdom were from this world, my followers would be fighting to keep me from being handed over to the Jews. But as it is, my kingdom is not from here". Pilate asked him, "So you are a king?" Jesus answered, "You say that I am a king". (John 18:36-37)

PAUL: No fornicator or impure person, or one who is greedy (that is, an idolater), has any inheritance in the kingdom of Christ. (Ephesians 5:5)

16. Jesus descended from heaven

JESUS: No one has ascended into heaven except the one who descended from heaven, the Son of Man. (John 3:13)

PAUL: When it says, "He ascended", what does it mean but that he had also descended into the lower parts of the earth? (Ephesians 4:9)

17. Jesus is Saviour

JESUS: God did not send the Son into the world to condemn the world, but in order that the world might be saved through him. (John 3:17)

PAUL: The saying is sure and worthy of full acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners. (1 Timothy 1:15)

18. Jesus is the truth

JESUS: I am the way, and the truth, and the life. (John 14:6)

PAUL: Surely you have heard about him and were taught in him, as truth is in Jesus. (Ephesians 4:21)

19. Jesus was poor

JESUS: Jesus said to him, "Foxes have holes, and birds of the air have nests; but the Son of Man has nowhere to lay his head". (Matthew 8:20)

PAUL: You know the generous act of our Lord Jesus Christ, that though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, so that by his poverty you might become rich. (2 Corinthians 8:9)

20. The glory of God shines in the face of Jesus

JESUS: Six days later, Jesus took with him Peter and James and his brother John and led them up a high mountain, by themselves. And he was transfigured before them, and his face shone like the sun, and his clothes became dazzling white. (Matthew 17:1-2)

PAUL: It is the God who said, "Let light shine out of darkness", who has shone in our hearts to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ. (2 Corinthians 4:6)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

21. Jesus instituted the Lord's Supper

JESUS: While they were eating, he took a loaf of bread, and after blessing it he broke it, gave it to them, and said, "Take; this is my body". Then he took a cup, and after giving thanks he gave it to them, and all of them drank from it. He said to them, "This is my blood of the covenant, which is poured out for many". (Mark 14:22-24)

PAUL: I received from the Lord what I also handed on to you, that the Lord Jesus on the night when he was betrayed took a loaf of bread, and when he had given thanks, he broke it and said, "This is my body that is for you. Do this in remembrance of me." In the same way he took the cup also, after supper, saying, "This cup is the new covenant in my blood. Do this, as often as you drink it, in remembrance of me". (1 Corinthians 11:23-25)

22. Jesus was betrayed

JESUS: Jesus said, "Truly I tell you, one of you will betray me; one who is eating with me... The Son of Man goes as it is written of him, but woe to that one by whom the Son of Man is betrayed!" (Mark 14:18, 21)

PAUL: I received from the Lord what I also handed on to you, that the Lord Jesus on the night when he was betrayed. (1 Corinthians 11:23)

23. Jesus testified before Pontius Pilate

JESUS: Then Pilate entered the headquarters again, summoned Jesus, and asked him, "Are you the King of the Jews?" Jesus answered, "Do you ask this on your own, or did others tell you about me?" Pilate replied, "I am not a Jew, am I? Your own nation and the chief priests have handed you over to me. What have you done?" Jesus answered, "My kingdom is not from this world. If my kingdom were from this world, my followers would be fighting to keep me from being handed over to the Jews. But as it is, my kingdom is not from here". Pilate asked him, "So you are a king?" Jesus answered, "You say that I am a king. For this I was born, and for this I came into the world, to testify to the truth. Everyone who belongs to the truth listens to my voice". (John 18:33-37)

PAUL: In the presence of God, who gives life to all things, and of Christ Jesus, who in his testimony before Pontius Pilate made the good confession. (1 Timothy 6:13)

24. Jesus suffered

JESUS: Jesus began to show his disciples that he must go to Jerusalem and undergo great suffering. (Matthew 16:21)

PAUL: Just as the sufferings of Christ are abundant for us. (2 Corinthians 1:5)

25. Jesus died

JESUS: Then Jesus cried out and breathed his last. (Mark 15:37)

PAUL: We believe that Jesus died. (1 Thessalonians 4:14)

26. Jesus was buried

JESUS: Joseph brought a linen cloth, and taking down the body, wrapped it in the linen cloth, and laid it in a tomb that had been hewn out of the rock. He then rolled a stone against the door of the tomb. (Mark 15:46)

PAUL: We have been buried with him by baptism. (Romans 6:4)

27. Jesus rose from the dead on the third day

JESUS: Jesus answered them, "Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up"... He was speaking of the temple of his body. After he was raised from the dead, his disciples remembered that he had said this. (John 2:19, 22)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

PAUL: Christ did for our sins in accordance with the scriptures, and that he was buried, and that he was raised on the third day. (1 Corinthians 15:3-4)

28. Jesus ascended

JESUS: While he was blessing them, he withdrew from them and was carried up into heaven. (Luke 24:51)

PAUL: He who descended is the same one who ascended far above all the heavens. (Ephesians 4:10)

29. Jesus is seated at the right hand of the Father

JESUS: The high priest asked him, "Are you the Messiah, the Son of the Blessed One?" Jesus said, "I am; and 'you will see the Son of Man seated at the right hand of the Power'". (Mark 14:61-62)

PAUL: God put this power to work in Christ when he raised him from the dead and seated him at his right hand. (Ephesians 1:20)

30. Jesus will come again

JESUS: Then the sign of the Son of Man will appear in heaven, and then all the tribes of the earth will mourn, and they will see "the Son of Man coming on the clouds of heaven" with power and great glory. (Matthew 24:30)

PAUL: The Lord himself, with a cry of command, with the archangel's call and with the sound of God's trumpet, will descend from heaven, and the dead in Christ will rise first. (1 Thessalonians 4:16)

31. Jesus died for the sheep

JESUS: I lay down my life for the sheep. (John 10:15)

PAUL: Keep watch over yourselves and over all the flock, of which the Holy Spirit has made you overseers, to shepherd the church of God that he obtained with the blood of his own Son. (Acts 20:28)

32. Jesus died for love of us

JESUS: This is my commandment, that you love one another as I have loved you. No one has greater love than this, to lay down one's life for one's friends. (John 15:12-13)

PAUL: The life I now live in the flesh I live by faith in the Son of God, who loved me and gave himself for me. (Galatians 2:20)

33. Jesus' death demonstrates God's love

JESUS: God so loved the world that he gave his only Son. (John 3:16)

PAUL: God proves his love for us in that while we still were sinners Christ died for us. (Romans 5:8)

34. Jesus gave himself as a ransom

JESUS: The Son of Man came not to be served but to serve, and to give his life a ransom for many. (Matthew 20:28)

PAUL: There is also one mediator between God and humankind, Christ Jesus, himself human, who gave himself a ransom for all. (1 Timothy 2:5-6)

35. Those who crucified Jesus were ignorant and acted in ignorance

JESUS: Jesus said, "Father, forgive them; for they do not know what they are doing". (Luke 23:34)

PAUL: We speak God's wisdom, secret and hidden, which God decreed before the ages for our

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

glory. None of the rulers of this age understood this; for if they had, they would not have crucified the Lord of glory. (1 Corinthians 2:7-8)

36. Jesus' suffering, death and resurrection in accordance with the Scriptures

JESUS: Then he said to them, "These are my words that I spoke to you while I was still with you - that everything written about me in the law of Moses, the prophets, and the psalms must be fulfilled". Then he opened their minds to understand the scriptures, and he said to them, "Thus it is written, that the Messiah is to suffer and to rise from the dead on the third day". (Luke 24:44-46)

PAUL: Christ did for our sins in accordance with the scriptures, and that he was buried, and that he was raised on the third day in accordance with the scriptures. (1 Corinthians 15:3-4)

37. Jesus appeared to Simon Peter (also known as Cephas) and the other apostles after his resurrection

JESUS: That same hour they got up and returned to Jerusalem; and they found the eleven and their companions gathered together. They were saying, "The Lord has risen indeed, and he has appeared to Simon!" Then they told what had happened on the road, and how he had been made known to them in the breaking of the bread. While they were talking about this, Jesus himself stood among them and said to them, "Peace be with you". (Luke 24:33-36)

PAUL: He was raised on the third day in accordance with the scriptures, and that he appeared to Cephas, then to the twelve. (1 Corinthians 15:4-5)

38. The day of the Lord will be like a thief in the night

JESUS: Keep awake therefore, for you do not know on what day your Lord is coming. But understand this: if the owner of the house had known in what part of the night the thief was coming, he would have stayed awake and would not have let his house be broken into. Therefore you also must be ready, for the Son of Man is coming at an unexpected hour. (Matthew 24:42-44)

PAUL: You yourselves know very well that the day of the Lord will come like a thief in the night... But you, beloved, are not in the darkness, for that day to surprise you like a thief. (1 Thessalonians 5:2, 4)

39. Believers must remain awake and not let drunkenness distract them from the coming of Jesus

JESUS: Keep awake therefore, for you do not know on what day your Lord is coming... Therefore you also must be ready, for the Son of Man is coming at an unexpected hour... But if that wicked slave says to himself, "My master is delayed", and he begins to beat his fellow-slaves, and eats and drinks with drunkards, the master of that slave will come on a day when he does not expect him and at an hour that he does not know. (Matthew 24:42, 44, 48-50)

PAUL: But you, beloved, are not in the darkness, for that day to surprise you like a thief... Let us not fall asleep as others do, but let us keep awake and be sober. (1 Thessalonians 5:4, 6)

40. Labour pains mentioned when talking about the day of the Lord

JESUS: Nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom, and there will be famines and earthquakes in various places: all this is but the beginning of the birth pangs. (Matthew 24:7-8)

PAUL: You yourselves know very well that the day of the Lord will come like a thief in the night. When they say, "There is peace and security", then sudden destruction will come upon them, as labour pains come upon a pregnant woman, and there will be no escape! (1 Thessalonians 5:2-3)

41. Jesus will come with the angels

JESUS: When the Son of Man comes in his glory, and all the angels with him. (Matthew 25:31)

PAUL: When the Lord Jesus is revealed from heaven with his mighty angels in flaming fire, inflicting

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

vengeance on those who do not know God and on those who do not obey the gospel of our Lord Jesus. (2 Thessalonians 1:7-8)

42. A trumpet will sound when the Lord comes again

JESUS: They will see "the Son of Man coming on the clouds of heaven" with power and great glory. And he will sent out his angels with a loud trumpet call. (Matthew 24:30-31)

PAUL: The Lord himself, with a cry of command, with the archangel's call and with the sound of God's trumpet, will descend from heaven. (1 Thessalonians 4:16)

43. Deny Jesus and he will deny us

JESUS: Whoever denies me before others, I also will deny before my Father in heaven. (Matthew 10:33)

PAUL: If we deny him, he will also deny us. (2 Timothy 2:12)

44. Eternal life comes through believing in Jesus

JESUS: Jesus said to her, "I am the resurrection and the life. Those who believe in me, even though they die, will live, and everyone who lives and believes in me will never die". (John 11:25-26)

PAUL: I received mercy, so that in me, as the foremost, Jesus Christ might display the utmost patience, making me an example to those who would come to believe in him for eternal life. (1 Timothy 1:16)

45. Jesus lives in believers

JESUS: I made your name known to them, and I will make it known, so that the love with which you have loved me may be in them, and I in them. (John 17:26)

PAUL: It is no longer I who live, but it is Christ who lives in me. (Galatians 2:20)

46. The angels belong to Jesus

JESUS: The Son of Man will send his angels. (Matthew 13:41)

PAUL: When the Lord Jesus is revealed from heaven with his mighty angels. (2 Thessalonians 1:7)

47. Jesus is judge

JESUS: The Father judges no one but has given all judgement to the Son. (John 5:22)

PAUL: He has fixed a day on which he will have the world judged in righteousness by a man whom he has appointed, and of this he has given assurance to all by raising him from the dead. (Acts 17:31)

48. Jesus gathers all people together

JESUS: "I have other sheep that do not belong to this fold. I must bring them also, and they will listen to my voice. So there will be one flock, one shepherd"... "I, when I am lifted up from the earth, will draw all people to myself." He said this to indicate the kind of death he was to die. (John 10:36, 12:32-33)

PAUL: In Christ Jesus you who once were far off have been brought near by the blood of Christ. For he is our peace; in his flesh he has made both groups into one and has broken down the dividing wall, that is, the hostility between us. He has abolished the law with its commandments and ordinances, so that he might create in himself one new humanity in place of the two, thus making peace, and might reconcile both groups to God in one body through the cross. (Ephesians 2:13-16)

49. Jesus will always be with believers in the world

JESUS: Remember, I am with you always, to the end of the age. (Matthew 28:20)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

PAUL: Who will separate us from the love of Christ? Will hardship, or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword? (Romans 8:35)

50. Heaven consists in being with Jesus always

JESUS: In my Father's house there are many dwelling-places. If it were not so, would I have told you that I go to prepare a place for you? And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and will take you to myself, so that where I am, there you may be also. (John 14:2-3)

PAUL: The Lord himself, with a cry of command, with the archangel's call and with the sound of God's trumpet, will descend from heaven, and the dead in Christ will rise first. Then we who are alive, who are left, will be caught up in the clouds together with them to meet the Lord in the air; and so we will be with the Lord for ever. (1 Thessalonians 4:16-17)

51. Jesus is the cornerstone

JESUS: "Finally he sent his son to them, saying, 'They will respect my son.' But when the tenants saw the son, they said to themselves, 'This is the heir; come, let us kill him and get his inheritance.' So they seized him, threw him out of the vineyard, and killed him. Now when the owner of the vineyard comes, what will he do to those tenants?" They said to them, "He will put those wretches to a miserable death, and lease the vineyard to other tenants who will give him the produce at the harvest time." Jesus said to them, "Have you never read in the scriptures: 'The stone that the builders rejected has become the cornerstone; this was the Lord's doing, and it is amazing in our eyes'?" (Matthew 21:37-42)

PAUL: You are no longer strangers and aliens, but you are citizens with the saints and also members of the household of God, built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, with Christ Jesus himself as the cornerstone. (Ephesians 2:19-20)

52. Believers must share in the cross of Jesus

JESUS: If any want to become my followers, let them deny themselves and take up their cross and follow me. (Matthew 16:24)

PAUL: May I never boast of anything except the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, by which the world has been crucified to me, and I to the world. (Galatians 6:14)

53. Give up life for Jesus and we will gain life

JESUS: Those who lose their life for my sake will find it. (Matthew 16:25)

PAUL: If we have died with him, we will also live with him. (2 Timothy 2:11)

54. There is only one God

JESUS: Hear, O Israel: the Lord our God, the Lord is one. (Mark 12:29)

PAUL: God is one. (Romans 3:30)

55. God is all-powerful

JESUS: For mortals it is impossible, but not for God; for God all things are possible. (Mark 10:27)

PAUL: So that, with the eyes of your heart enlightened, you may know... what is the immeasurable greatness of his power. (Ephesians 1:18, 19)

56. God is Father

JESUS: It is my Father who glorifies me, he of whom you say, "He is our God". (John 8:54)

PAUL: Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ. (Ephesians 1:3)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

57. The Holy Spirit

JESUS: When he had said this, he breathed on them and said to them, "Receive the Holy Spirit". (John 20:22)

PAUL: May the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace in believing, so that you may abound in hope by the power of the Holy Spirit. (Romans 15:13)

58. The Holy Spirit was promised

JESUS: While staying with them, he ordered them not to leave Jerusalem, but to wait there for the promise of the Father. "This", he said, "is what you have heard from me; for John baptised with water, but you will be baptised with the Holy Spirit not many days from now". (Acts 1:4-5)

PAUL: In him you also, when you had heard the word of truth, the gospel of your salvation, and had believed in him, were marked with the seal of the promised Holy Spirit. (Ephesians 1:13)

59. The Father sends the Holy Spirit

JESUS: The Advocate, the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in my name. (John 14:26)

PAUL: God has sent the Spirit of his Son into our hearts, crying, "Abba! Father!" (Galatians 4:6)

60. The Holy Spirit lives in believers

JESUS: The Spirit of truth, whom the world cannot receive, because it neither sees him nor knows him. You know him, because he abides with you, and he will be in you. (John 14:17)

PAUL: Do you not know that your body is a temple of the Holy Spirit within you, which you have from God, and that you are not your own? (1 Corinthians 6:19)

61. The Holy Spirit helps us understand the message of God

JESUS: I still have many things to say to you, but you cannot bear them now. When the Spirit of truth comes, he will guide you into all truth; for he will not speak on his own, but will speak whatever he hears, and he will declare to you the things that are to come. (John 16:12-13)

PAUL: These things God has revealed to us through the Spirit... We have received not the spirit of the world, but the Spirit that is from God, so that we may understand the gifts bestowed on us by God. (1 Corinthians 2:10, 12)

62. The Holy Spirit testifies to Jesus

JESUS: When the Advocate comes, whom I will send to you from the Father, the Spirit of truth who comes from the Father, he will testify on my behalf... He will glorify me, because he will take what is mine and declare it to you. (John 15:26, 16:14)

PAUL: I want you to understand that no one speaking by the Spirit of God ever says, "Let Jesus be cursed!" and no one can say "Jesus is Lord" except by the Holy Spirit. (1 Corinthians 12:3)

63. The Holy Spirit advocates for us

JESUS: I will ask the Father, and he will give you another Advocate, to be with you for ever. This is the Spirit of truth. (John 14:16-17)

PAUL: The Spirit helps us in our weakness; for we do not know how to pray as we ought, but that very Spirit intercedes with sighs too deep for words. And God, who searches the heart, knows what is the mind of the Spirit, because the Spirit intercedes for the saints according to the will of God. (Romans 8:26-27)

64. The Holy Spirit spoke through the prophets

JESUS: David himself, by the Holy Spirit, declared. (Mark 12:36)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

PAUL: The Holy Spirit was right in saying to your ancestors through the prophet Isaiah. (Acts 28:25)

65. Forgive others as God has forgiven us

JESUS: His lord summoned him and said to him, "You wicked slave! I forgave you all that debt because you pleaded with me. Should you not have had mercy on your fellow-slave, as I had mercy on you?" And in anger his lord handed him over to be tortured until he should pay his entire debt. So my heavenly Father will also do to every one of you, if you do not forgive your brother or sister from you heart. (Matthew 18:32-35)

PAUL: If anyone has a complaint against another, forgive each other; just as the Lord has forgiven you, so you also must forgive. (Colossians 3:13)

66. Importance of loving God

JESUS: "You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your mind." This is the greatest and first commandment. (Matthew 22:37-38)

PAUL: We know that all things work together for good for those who love God. (Romans 8:28)

67. God has chosen the people of no importance according to mere human standards

JESUS: At that time Jesus said, "I thank you, Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because you have hidden these things from the wise and the intelligent and have revealed them to infants". (Matthew 11:25)

PAUL: God chose what is foolish in the world to shame the wise; God chose what is weak in the world to shame the strong; God chose what is low and despised in the world, things that are not, to reduce to nothing things that are, so that no one might boast in the presence of God. (1 Corinthians 1:27-29)

68. "Love your neighbour as yourself" summarises the law

JESUS: A second is like it: "You shall love your neighbour as yourself." On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets. (Matthew 22:39-40)

PAUL: The commandments, "You shall not commit adultery; You shall not murder; You shall not steal; You shall not covet"; and any other commandment, are summed up in this word, "Love your neighbour as yourself". (Romans 13:9)

69. Wipe dust off feet when leaving people who refuse the message

JESUS: Whenever you enter a town and they do not welcome you, go out into its streets and say, "Even the dust of your town that clings to our feet, we wipe off in protest against you". (Luke 10:10-11)

PAUL: The Jews incited the devout women of high standing and the leading men of the city, and stirred up persecution against Paul and Barnabas, and drove them out of their region. So they shook the dust off their feet in protest against them. (Acts 13:50-51)

70. The labourer deserves to be paid

JESUS: The labourer deserves to be paid. (Luke 10:7)

PAUL: The labourer deserves to be paid. (1 Timothy 5:18)

71. Eat what is set before you

JESUS: Whenever you enter a town and its people welcome you, eat what is set before you. (Luke 10:8)

PAUL: If an unbeliever invites you to a meal and you are disposed to go, eat whatever is set before you without raising any question on the ground of conscience. (1 Corinthians 10:27)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

72. Leaders are shepherds and believers are the flock

JESUS: When they had finished breakfast, Jesus said to Simon Peter, "Simon son of John, do you love me more than these?" He said to him, "Yes, Lord; you know that I love you". Jesus said to him, "Feed my lambs... Tend my sheep... Feed my sheep". (John 21:15, 16, 17)

PAUL: Keep watch over yourselves and over all the flock, of which the Holy Spirit has made you overseers, to shepherd the church of God that he obtained with the blood of his own Son. (Acts 20:28)

73. Believers will handle snakes without harm

JESUS: They will pick up snakes in their hands, and if they drink any deadly thing, it will not hurt them. (Mark 16:18)

PAUL: Paul had gathered a bundle of brushwood and was putting it on the fire, when a viper, driven out by the heat, fastened itself on his hand. When the natives saw the creature hanging from his hand, they said to one another, "This man must be a murderer; though he has escaped from the sea, justice has not allowed him to live". He, however, shook off the creature into the fire and suffered no harm". (Acts 28:3-5)

74. Lay hands on the sick and they will recover

JESUS: They will lay their hands on the sick, and they will recover. (Mark 16:18)

PAUL: It so happened that the father of Publius lay sick in bed with fever and dysentery. Paul visited him and cured him by praying and putting his hands on him. (Acts 28:8)

75. Cast out demons

JESUS: These signs will accompany those who believe: by using my name they will cast out demons. (Mark 16:17)

PAUL: God did extraordinary miracles through Paul, so that when the handkerchiefs or aprons that had touched his skin were brought to the sick, their diseases left them, and the evil spirits came out of them. Then some itinerant Jewish exorcists tried to use the name of the Lord Jesus over those who had evil spirits, saying, "I adjure you by the Jesus whom Paul proclaims". Seven sons of a Jewish high priest named Sceva were doing this. But the evil spirit said to them in reply, "Jesus I know, and Paul I know; but who are you?" (Acts 19:11-15)

76. Not Yes and No, but Yes or No

JESUS: Let you word be "Yes, Yes" or "No, No". (Matthew 5:37)

PAUL: Do I make my plans according to ordinary human standards, ready to say "Yes, yes" and "No, no" at the same time? As surely as God is faithful, our word to you has not been "Yes and No". For the Son of God, Jesus Christ, whom we proclaimed among you, Silvanus and Timothy and I, was not "Yes and No"; but in him it is always "Yes". For in him every one of God's promises is a "Yes". (2 Corinthians 1:17-20)

77. Divorce and remarriage is adultery

JESUS: Whoever divorces his wife and marries another commits adultery against her; and if she divorces her husband and marries another, she commits adultery. (Mark 10:11-12)

PAUL: A married woman is bound by the law to her husband as long as he lives; but if her husband dies, she is discharged from the law concerning her husband. Accordingly, she will be called an adulteress is she lives with another man while her husband is alive. But if her husband dies, she is free from that law, and if she marries another man, she is not an adulteress. (Romans 7:2-3)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

78. Celibacy/virginity for the Lord

JESUS: His disciples said to him, "If such is the case of a man with his wife, it is better not to marry". But he said to them, "Not everyone can accept this teaching, but only those to whom it is given. For there are eunuchs who have been so from birth, and there are eunuchs who have been made eunuchs by others, and there are eunuchs who have made themselves eunuchs for the sake of the kingdom of heaven. Let anyone accept this who can". (Matthew 19:10-12)

PAUL: The unmarried man is anxious about the affairs of the Lord, how to please the Lord; but the married man is anxious about the affairs of the world, how to please his wife, and his interests are divided. And the unmarried woman and the virgin are anxious about the affairs of the Lord, so that they may be holy in body and spirit; but the married woman is anxious about the affairs of the world, how to please her husband. I say this for your own benefit, not to put any restraint upon you, but to promote good order and unhindered devotion to the Lord. (1 Corinthians 7:32-35)

79. Death and rebirth of what is sown

JESUS: Very truly, I tell you, unless a grain of wheat falls into the earth and dies, it remains just a single grain; but if it dies, it bears much fruit. (John 12:24)

PAUL: What you sow does not come to life unless it dies. (1 Corinthians 15:36)

80. Serious problems are associated with riches

JESUS: Jesus said to him, "If you wish to be perfect, go, sell your possessions, and give the money to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven; then come, follow me". When the young man heard this word, he went away grieving, for he had many possessions. Then Jesus said to his disciples, "Truly I tell you, it will be hard for a rich person to enter the kingdom of heaven. Again I tell you, it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for someone who is rich to enter the kingdom of God." (Matthew 19:21-24)

PAUL: Those who want to be rich fall into temptation and are trapped by many senseless and harmful desires that plunge people into ruin and destruction. For the love of money is a root of all kinds of evil, and in their eagerness to be rich some have wandered away from the faith and pierced themselves with many pains. (1 Timothy 6:9-10)

81. Baptism

JESUS: Go therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptising them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit. (Matthew 28:19)

PAUL: The jailer called for lights, and rushing in, he fell down trembling before Paul and Silas. Then he brought them outside and said, "Sirs, what must I do to be saved?" They answered, "Believe on the Lord Jesus, and you will be saved, you and your household". They spoke the word of the Lord to him and to all who were in his house. At the same hour of the night he took them and washed their wounds; then he and his entire family were baptised without delay. (Acts 16:29-33)

82. The devil

JESUS: You are from your father the devil, and you choose to do your father's desires. He was a murderer from the beginning and does not stand in the truth, because there is no truth in him. (John 8:44)

PAUL: Put on the whole armour of God, so that you may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil. (Ephesians 6:11)

83. Glorification of believers

JESUS: The glory that you have given me I have given them. (John 17:22)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

PAUL: If children, then heirs, heirs of God and joint heirs with Christ - if, in fact, we suffer with him so that we may also be glorified with him. (Romans 8:17)

84. The importance of preaching the good news

JESUS: Go into all the world and proclaim the good news to the whole creation. (Mark 16:15)

PAUL: "Everyone who calls on the name of the Lord shall be saved." But how are they to call on one in whom they have not believed? And how are they to believe in one of whom they have never heard? And how are they to hear without someone to proclaim him? And how are they to proclaim unless sent? As it is written, "How beautiful are the feet of those who bring good news!" (Romans 10:13-15)

85. Speaking in tongues

JESUS: These signs will accompany those who believe: by using my name they will cast out demons; they will speak in new tongues. (Mark 16:17)

PAUL: To each is given the manifestation of the Spirit for the common good. To one is given through the Spirit the utterance of wisdom... to another various kinds of tongues. (1 Corinthians 12:7-8, 10)

86. Preach to Jews first

JESUS: Repentance and forgiveness of sins is to be proclaimed in his name to all nations, beginning from Jerusalem. (Luke 24:47)

PAUL: When the Jews saw the crowds, they were filled with jealousy; and blaspheming, they contradicted what was spoken by Paul. Then both Paul and Barnabas spoke out boldly, saying, "It was necessary that the word of God should be spoken first to you. Since you reject it and judge yourselves to be unworthy of eternal life, we are now turning to the Gentiles". (Acts 13:45-46)

87. Raising the dead

JESUS: While he was saying these things to them, suddenly a leader of the synagogue came in and knelt before him, saying, "My daughter has just died; but come and lay your hand on her, and she will live." And Jesus got up and followed him with his disciples... When Jesus came to the leader's house and saw the flute-players and the crowd making a commotion, he said, "Go away; for the girl is not dead but sleeping." And they laughed at him. But when the crowd had been put outside, he went in and took her by the hand, and the girl got up. And the report of this spread throughout that district. (Matthew 9:18-19, 23-26)

PAUL: On the first day of the week, when we met to break bread, Paul was holding a discussion with them; since he intended to leave the next day, he continued speaking until midnight. There were many lamps in the room upstairs where we were meeting. A young man named Eutychus, who was sitting in the window, began to sink off into a deep sleep while Paul talked still longer. Overcome by sleep, he fell to the ground three floors below and was picked up dead. But Paul went down, and bending over him took him in his arms, and said, "Do not be alarmed, for his life is in him." Then Paul went upstairs, and after he had broken bread and eaten, he continued to converse with them until dawn; then he left. Meanwhile they had taken the boy away alive and were not a little comforted. (Acts 20:7-12)

88. The results of good and evil living

JESUS: The hour is coming when all who are in their graves will hear his voice and will come out - those who have done good, to the resurrection of life, and those who have done evil, to the resurrection of condemnation. (John 5:28-29)

PAUL: He will repay according to each one's deeds: to those who by patiently doing good seek for glory and honour and immortality he will give eternal life; while for those who are self-seeking and who obey not the truth but wickedness, there will be wrath and fury. (Romans 2:6-8)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

89. Do good to those who persecute you

JESUS: Love your enemies and pray for those who persecute you, so that you may be children of your Father in heaven. (Matthew 5:44-45)

PAUL: Bless those who persecute you; bless and do not curse them. (Romans 12:14)

90. Jesus and Paul were both Jews

JESUS: A Samaritan woman came to draw water, and Jesus said to her, "Give me a drink". (His disciples had gone to the city to buy food.) The Samaritan woman said to him, "How is it that you, a Jew, ask a drink of me, a woman of Samaria?" (John 4:7-9)

PAUL: If anyone else has reason to be confident in the flesh, I have more: circumcised on the eighth day, a member of the people of Israel, of the tribe of Benjamin, a Hebrew born of Hebrews. (Philippians 3:4-5)

91. Jesus and Paul were both circumcised on the eighth day

JESUS: After eight days had passed, it was time to circumcise the child; and he was called Jesus. (Luke 2:21)

PAUL: If anyone else has reason to be confident in the flesh, I have more: circumcised on the eighth day. (Philippians 3:4-5)

92. Jesus and Paul both prayed three times about suffering

JESUS: Going a little farther, he threw himself on the ground and prayed, "My Father, if it is possible, let this cup pass from me; yet not what I want but what you want"... He went away for the second time and prayed, "My Father, if this cannot pass unless I drink it, your will be done"... He went away and prayed for the third time, saying the same words. (Matthew 26:39, 42, 44)

PAUL: To keep me from being too elated, a thorn was given to me in the flesh, a messenger of Satan to torment me, to keep me from being too elated. Three times I appealed to the Lord about this, that it would leave me, but he said to me, "My grace is sufficient for you, for power is made perfect in weakness". (2 Corinthians 12:7-9)

93. Jesus and Paul were both determined to go to Jerusalem (as part of their mission)

JESUS: When the days drew near for him to be taken up, he set his face to go to Jerusalem. And he sent messengers ahead of him. On their way they entered a village of the Samaritans to make ready for him; but they did not receive him, because his face was set towards Jerusalem. (Luke 9:51-53)

PAUL: Now, as a captive to the Spirit, I am on my way to Jerusalem, not knowing what will happen to me there, except that the Holy Spirit testifies to me in every city that imprisonment and persecutions are waiting for me. But I do not count my life of any value to myself, if only I may finish my course and the ministry that I received from the Lord Jesus, to testify to the good news of God's grace. (Acts 20:22-24)

94. Jesus and Paul both knew traveling to Jerusalem would lead to suffering and death

JESUS: They were on the road, going up to Jerusalem, and Jesus was walking ahead of them; they were amazed, and those who followed were afraid. He took the twelve aside again and began to tell them what was to happen to him, saying, "See, we are going up to Jerusalem, and the Son of Man will be handed over to the chief priests and the scribes, and they will condemn him to death; then they will hand him over to the Gentiles; they will mock him, spit upon him, and flog him, and kill him; and after three days he will rise again". (Mark 10:32-34)

PAUL: Now, as a captive to the Spirit, I am on my way to Jerusalem, not knowing what will happen to me there, except that the Holy Spirit testifies to me in every city that imprisonment and persecutions are waiting for me. But I do not count my life of any value to myself, if only I may finish my course and the ministry that I received from the Lord Jesus, to testify to the good news of God's grace. (Acts 20:22-24)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

95. Jesus and Paul were both brought before the Jewish council

JESUS: When day came, the assembly of the elders of the people, both chief priests and scribes, gathered together, and they brought him to their council. (Luke 22:66)

PAUL: Since he wanted to find out what Paul was being accused of by the Jews, the next day he released him and ordered the chief priests and the entire council to meet. He brought Paul down and had him stand before them. (Acts 22:30)

96. Jesus and Paul were both (wrongly) struck because of their words before the Jewish authorities

JESUS: Then the high priest questioned Jesus about his disciples and about his teaching. Jesus answered, "I have spoken openly to the world; I have always taught in synagogues and in the temple, where all the Jews come together. I have said nothing in secret. Why do you ask me? Ask those who heard what I said to them; they know what I said". When he had said this, one of the police standing nearby struck Jesus on the face, saying, "Is that how you answer the high priest?" Jesus answered, "If I have spoken wrongly, testify to the wrong. But if I have spoken rightly, why do you strike me?" (John 18:19-23)

PAUL: While Paul was looking intently at the council he said, "Brothers, up to this day I have lived my life with a clear conscience before God". Then the high priest Ananias ordered those standing near him to strike him on the mouth. At this Paul said to him, "God will strike you, you whitewashed wall! Are you sitting there to judge me according to the law, and yet in violation of the law you order me to be struck?" (Acts 23:1-3)

97. Jesus and Paul were both brought before Roman governors

JESUS: When morning came, all the chief priests and the elders of the people conferred together against Jesus in order to bring about his death. They bound him, led him away, and handed him over to Pilate the governor. (Matthew 27:1-2)

PAUL: When they came to Caesarea and delivered the letter to the governor, they presented Paul also before him. On reading the letter, he asked what province he belonged to, and when he learned that he was from Cilicia, he said, "I will give you a hearing when your accusers arrive." Then he ordered that he be kept under guard in Herod's headquarters. Five days later the high priest Ananias came down with some elders and an attorney, a certain Tertullus, and they reported their case against Paul to the governor. When Paul had been summoned, Tertullus began to accuse him. (Acts 23:33-24:2)

98. Jesus and Paul quoted the same prophecy of Isaiah about unbelieving Jews

JESUS: With them indeed is fulfilled the prophecy of Isaiah that says: "You will indeed listen, but never understand, and you will indeed look, but never perceive. For this people's heart has grown dull, and their ears are hard of hearing, and they have shut their eyes; so that they might not look with their eyes, and listen with their ears, and understand with their hearts and turn - and I would heal them." (Matthew 13:14-15)

PAUL: Some were convinced by what he had said, while others refused to believe. So they disagreed with each other; and as they were leaving, Paul made one further statement: "The Holy Spirit was right in saying to your ancestors through the prophet Isaiah, 'Go to this people, and say, You will indeed listen, but never understand, and you will indeed look, but never perceive. For this people's heart has grown dull, and their ears are hard of hearing, and they have shut their eyes; so that they might not look with their eyes, and listen with their ears, and understand with their hearts and turn - and I would heal them'." (Acts 28:25-27)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

99. Paul suffered for Jesus

JESUS: I myself will show him how much he must suffer for the sake of my name. (Acts 9:16)

PAUL: Are they ministers of Christ? I am talking like a madman - I am a better one: with far greater labours, far more imprisonments, with countless floggings, and often near death. Five times I have received from the Jews the forty lashes minus one. Three times I was beaten with rods. Once I received a stoning. Three times I was shipwrecked; for a night and a day I was adrift at sea; on frequent journeys, in danger from rivers, danger from bandits, danger from my own people, danger from Gentiles, danger in the city, danger in the wilderness, danger at sea, danger from false brothers and sisters; in toil and hardship, through many a sleepless night, hungry and thirsty, often without food, cold and naked. And, besides other things, I am under daily pressure because of my anxiety for all the churches. (2 Corinthians 11:23-28)

100. Paul to proclaim Jesus before Jews, Gentiles, and Kings

JESUS: The Lord said to him, "Go, for he is an instrument whom I have chosen to bring my name before Gentiles and kings and before the people of Israel." (Acts 9:15)

PAUL: The whole assembly kept silence, and listened to Barnabas and Paul as they told of all the signs and wonders God had done through them among the Gentiles... Paul stood on the steps and motioned to the people for silence; and when there was a great hush, he addressed them in the Hebrew language, saying: "Brothers and fathers, listen to the defence that I now make before you... While I was on my way and approaching Damascus, about noon a great light from heaven suddenly shone about me. I fell to the ground and heard a voice saying to me, 'Saul, Saul, why are you persecuting me?' I answered, 'Who are you, Lord?' The he said to me, 'I am Jesus of Nazareth'"... Paul stretched out his hand and began to defend himself: "I consider myself fortunate that it is before you, King Agrippa, I am to make my defence today... I stand here, testifying to both small and great, saying nothing but what the prophets and Moses said would take place: that the Messiah must suffer, and that, by being the first to rise from the dead, he would proclaim light both to our people and to the Gentiles." (Acts 15:12, 21:40-22:1, 6-8, 26:1-2, 22-23)

101. Jesus observed the Jewish Law

JESUS: Do not think that I have come to abolish the law or the prophets; I have come not to abolish but to fulfill. (Matthew 5:17)

PAUL: God sent his Son, born of a woman, born under the law. (Galatians 4:4)

102. Genesis 2:24 quoted when talking about marriage

JESUS: Some Pharisees came to him, and to test him they asked, "Is it lawful for a man to divorce his wife for any cause?" He answered, "Have you not read that the one who made them at the beginning ‘made them male and female’, and said, ‘For this reason a man shall leave his father and mother and be joined to his wife, and the two shall become one flesh’?" (Matthew 19:3-5)

PAUL: In the same way, husbands should love their wives as they do their own bodies. He who loves his wife loves himself. For no one ever hates his own body, but he nourishes and tenderly cares for it, just as Christ does for the church, because we are members of his body. "For this reason a man will leave his father and mother and be joined to his wife, and the two will become one flesh." This is a great mystery, and I am applying it to Christ and the church. Each of you, however, should love his wife as himself, and a wife should respect her husband. (Ephesians 5:28-33)

103. Focus on heaven, not on earthly things

JESUS: Do not store up for yourselves treasures on earth, where moth and rust consume and where thieves break in and steal; but store up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust consumes and where thieves do not break in and steal. For where your treasure is, there your heart will be also. (Matthew 6:19-21)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

PAUL: Seek the things that are above, where Christ is, seated at the right hand of God. Set your minds on things that are above, not on things that are on earth. (Colossians 3:1-2)

104. Jesus' blood saves

JESUS: This is my blood of the covenant, which is poured out for many for the forgiveness of sins. (Matthew 26:28)

PAUL: God was pleased to reconcile to himself all things, whether on earth or in heaven, by making peace through the blood of his cross. (Colossians 1:20)

105. New covenant in Jesus

JESUS: This cup that is poured out for you is the new covenant in my blood. (Luke 22:20)

PAUL: He took the cup also, after supper, saying, "This cup is the new covenant in my blood." (1 Corinthians 11:25)

106. Jesus was obedient to the Father

JESUS: I have come down from heaven, not to do my own will, but the will of him who sent me. (John 6:38)

PAUL: He humbled himself and became obedient to the point of death. (Philippians 2:8)

107. Believers are light

JESUS: You are the light of the world. (Matthew 5:14)

PAUL: Once you were darkness, but now in the Lord you are light. Live as children of light. (Ephesians 5:8)

108. Testimony of two or three witnesses

JESUS: If you are not listened to, take one or two others along with you, so that every word may be confirmed by the evidence of two or three witnesses. (Matthew 18:16)

PAUL: Never accept any accusation against an elder except on the evidence of two or three witnesses. (1 Timothy 5:19)

109. Kingdom of God

JESUS: The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God has come near; repent, and believe in the good news. (Mark 1:15)

PAUL: The kingdom of God depends not on talk but on power. (1 Corinthians 4:20)

110. Death called "sleep"

JESUS: He told them, "Our friend Lazarus has fallen asleep, but I am going there to awaken him." The disciples said to him, "Lord, if he has fallen asleep, he will be all right." Jesus, however, had been speaking about his death, but they thought that he was referring merely to sleep. Then Jesus told them plainly, "Lazarus is dead." (John 11:11-14)

PAUL: He appeared to more than five hundred brothers and sisters at one time, most of whom are still alive, though some have fallen asleep. (1 Corinthians 15:6)

111. Works called "fruit"

JESUS: Beware of false prophets, who comes to you in sheep's clothing but inwardly are ravenous wolves. You will know them by their fruits. Are grapes gathered from thorns, or figs from thistles? In the same way, every good tree bears good fruit, but the bad tree bears bad fruit. (Matthew 7:15-17)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

PAUL: You have died to the law through the body of Christ, so that you may belong to another, to him who has been raised from the dead in order that we may bear fruit for God. While we were living in the flesh, our sinful passions, aroused by the law, were at work in our members to bear fruit for death. (Romans 7:4-5)

112. God is Creator

JESUS: From the beginning of creation, "God made them male and female." (Mark 10:6)

PAUL: What can be known about God is plain to them, because God has shown it to them. Ever since the creation of the world his eternal power and divine nature, invisible though they are, have been understood and seen through the things he has made. (Romans 1:19-20)

113. Evil comes from the heart

JESUS: What comes out of the mouth proceeds from the heart, and this is what defiles. For out of the heart come evil intentions, murder, adultery, fornication, theft, false witness, slander. (Matthew 15:18-19)

PAUL: God gave them up in the lusts of their hearts to impurity. (Romans 1:24)

114. Whoever listens to the apostles listens to Jesus and God (the Father)

JESUS: Whoever listens to you listens to me, and whoever rejects you rejects me, and whoever rejects me rejects the one who sent me. (Luke 10:16)

PAUL: Be imitators of me, as I am of Christ... I received from the Lord what I also handed on to you... We also constantly give thanks to God for this, that when you received the word of God that you heard from us, you accepted it not as a human word but as what it really is, God’s word. (1 Corinthians 11:1, 23 and 1 Thessalonians 2:13)

115. The Law is completed with the coming of the Gospel

JESUS: The law and the prophets were in effect until John came; since then the good news of the kingdom of God is proclaimed, and everyone tries to enter it by force. (Luke 16:16)

PAUL: Before faith came, we were imprisoned and guarded under the law until faith would be revealed. Therefore the law was our disciplinarian until Christ came, so that we might be justified by faith. But now that faith has come, we are no longer subject to a disciplinarian, for in Christ Jesus you are all children of God through faith. (Galatians 3:23-26)

116. The Scriptures point to Jesus

JESUS: You search the scriptures because you think that in them you have eternal life; and it is they that testify on my behalf. Yet you refuse to come to me to have life... If you believed Moses, you would believe me, for he wrote about me. But if you do not believe what he wrote, how will you believe what I say? (John 5:39-40, 46-47)

PAUL: From morning until evening he explained the matter to them, and testifying to the kingdom of God and trying to convince them about Jesus both from the law of Moses and from the prophets. (Acts 28:23)

117. The Church

JESUS: I tell you, you are Peter, and on this rock I will build by Church, and the gates of Hades will not prevail against it. (Matthew 16:18)

PAUL: If I am delayed, you may know how one ought to behave in the household of God, which is the church of the living God, the pillar and bulwark of the truth. (1 Timothy 3:15)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

118. The Church is built on the apostles

JESUS: I tell you, you are Peter, and on this rock I will build my church, and the gates of Hades will not prevail against it. I will give you the keys of the kingdom of heaven, and whatever you bind on earth will be bound in heaven, and whatever you loose on earth will be loosed in heaven... Truly I tell you, whatever you bind on earth will be bound in heaven, and whatever you loose on earth will be loosed in heaven... Go therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptising them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, and teaching them to obey everything that I have commanded you. (Matthew 16:18-19, 18:18, 28:19-20)

PAUL: You are citizens with the saints and also members of the household of God, built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, with Christ Jesus himself as the cornerstone. (Ephesians 2:19-20)

119. Christians should be one

JESUS: Holy Father, protect them in your name that you have given me, so that they may be one, as we are one... I ask not only on behalf of these, but also on behalf of those who will believe in me through their word, that they may all be one... The glory that you have given me I have given them, so that they may be one, as we are one, I in them and you in me, that they may become completely one. (John 17:11, 20, 22-23)

PAUL: I appeal to you, brothers and sisters, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that all of you should be in agreement and that there should be no division among you, but that you should be united in the same mind and the same purpose. (1 Corinthians 1:10)

120. The existence of angels

JESUS: Very truly, I tell you, you will see heaven opened and the angels of God ascending and descending upon the Son of Man. (John 1:51)

PAUL: In the presence of God and of Christ Jesus and of the elect angels, I warn you to keep these instructions without prejudice. (1 Timothy 5:21)

121. False messengers described as wolves

JESUS: Beware of false prophets, who come to you in sheep’s clothing but inwardly are ravenous wolves. (Matthew 7:15)

PAUL: I know that after I have gone, savage wolves will come in among you, not sparing the flock. Some even from your own group will come distorting the truth in order to entice the disciples to follow them. (Acts 20:29-30)

122. The existence of demons

JESUS: If it is by the Spirit of God that I cast out demons, then the kingdom of God has come to you. (Matthew 12:28)

PAUL: I imply that what pagans sacrifice, they sacrifice to demons and not to God. I do not want you to be partners with demons. (1 Corinthians 10:20)

123. The enemy will produce great signs and omens to lead people astray

JESUS: False messiahs and false prophets will appear and produce great signs and omens, to lead astray, if possible, even the elect. (Matthew 24:24)

PAUL: The coming of the lawless one is apparent in the working of Satan, who uses all power, signs, lying wonders, and every kind of wicked deception for those who are perishing, because they refused to love the truth and so be saved. (2 Thessalonians 2:9-10)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

124. Those who endure will be saved

JESUS: By your endurance you will gain your souls. (Luke 21:19)

PAUL: If we endure, we will also reign with him. (2 Timothy 2:12)

125. Leave everything and follow Jesus

JESUS: If you wish to be perfect, go, sell your possessions, and give the money to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven; then come, follow me... Everyone who has left houses or brothers or sisters or father or mother or children or fields, for my name's sake, will receive a hundredfold, and will inherit eternal life. (Matthew 19:21, 29)

PAUL: Whatever gains I had, these I have come to regard as loss because of Christ. More than that, I regard everything as loss because of the surpassing value of knowing Christ Jesus my Lord. For his sake I have suffered the loss of all things, and I regard them as rubbish, in order that I may gain Christ and be found in him, not having a righteousness of my own that comes from the law, but one that comes through faith in Christ, the righteousness from God based on faith. I want to know Christ and the power of his resurrection and the sharing of his sufferings by becoming like him in his death, if somehow I may attain the resurrection from the dead. (Philippians 3:7-11)

126. The resurrection of the dead comes through Jesus Christ

JESUS: I am the resurrection and the life. Those who believe in me, even though they die, will live, and everyone who lives and believes in me will never die. (John 11:25-26)

PAUL: In fact Christ has been raised from the dead, the first fruits of those who have died. For since death came through a human being, the resurrection of the dead has also come through a human being; for as all die in Adam, so all will be made alive in Christ. But each in his own order: Christ the first fruits, then at his coming those who belong to Christ. (1 Corinthians 15:20-23)

127. Jesus Christ has power to do all

JESUS: Whatever the Father does, the Son does likewise. The Father loves the Son and shows him all that he himself is doing; and he will show him greater works than these, so that you will be astonished. Indeed, just as the Father raises the dead and gives them life, so also the Son gives life to whomsoever he wishes. (John 5:19-21)

PAUL: Our citizenship is in heaven, and it is from there that we are expecting a Saviour, the Lord Jesus Christ. He will transform the body of our humiliation so that it may be conformed to the body of his glory, by the power that also enables him to make all things subject to himself. (Philippians 3:20-21)

128. Judging others

JESUS: Do not judge, so that you may not be judged. For with the judgement you make you will be judged, and the measure you give will be the measure you get. Why do you see the speck in your neighbour's eye, but do not notice the log in your own eye? (Matthew 7:1-3)

PAUL: You have no excuse, whoever you are, when you judge others; for in passing judgment on another you condemn yourself, because you, the judge, are doing the very same things... Do you imagine, whoever you are, that when you judge those who do such things and yet do them yourself, you will escape the judgment of God? (Romans 2:1, 3)

129. Nothing can separate believers from Jesus Christ

JESUS: My sheep hear my voice. I know them, and they follow me. I give them eternal life, and they will never perish. No one will snatch them out of my hand. (John 10:27-28)

PAUL: Who will separate us from the love of Christ? Will hardship, or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword? …I am convinced that neither death, nor life, nor angels,

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

nor rulers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor powers, nor height, nor depth, nor anything else in all creation, will be able to separate us from the love of God in Christ Jesus our Lord. (Romans 8:35, 38-39)

130. The devil tempts people

JESUS: Jesus was led up by the Spirit into the wilderness to be tempted by the devil. Jesus said to him, "Again it is written, 'Do not put the Lord your God to the test'." (Matthew 4:1, 7)

PAUL: Devote yourselves to prayer, and then come together again, so that Satan may not tempt you because of your lack of self-control. (1 Corinthians 7:5)

131. Jesus proclaims peace

JESUS: "Peace I leave with you; my peace I give to you." Jesus came and stood among them and said, "Peace be with you." After he said this, he showed them his hands and his side. Then the disciples rejoiced when they saw the Lord. Jesus said to them again, "Peace be with you." (John 14:27, 20:19-21)

PAUL: He came and proclaimed peace to you who were far off and peace to those who were near. (Ephesians 2:17)

132. Believers are reborn, are a new creation with a new life

JESUS: Jesus answered him, "Very truly, I tell you, no one can see the kingdom of God without being born from above." Nicodemus said to him, "How can anyone be born after having grown old? Can one enter a second time into the mother's womb and be born?" Jesus answered, "Very truly, I tell you, no one can enter the kingdom of God without being born of water and Spirit. What is born of the flesh is flesh, and what is born of the Spirit is spirit." (John 3:3-6)

PAUL: If the Spirit of him who raised Jesus from the dead dwells in you, he who raised Christ from the dead will give life to your mortal bodies also through his Spirit that dwells in you... If anyone is in Christ, there is a new creation: everything old has passed away; see, everything has become new! (Romans 8:11 and 2 Corinthians 5:17)

133. Angels saw Jesus Christ's life on earth

JESUS: Then the devil left him, and suddenly angels came and waited on him... Then an angel from heaven appeared to him and gave him strength... He said to him, "Very truly, I tell you, you will see heaven opened and the angels of God ascending and descending upon the Son of Man." (Matthew 4:11, Luke 22:43, and John 1:51)

PAUL: He was revealed in flesh, vindicated in spirit, seen by angels. (1 Timothy 3:16)

These above presented well over one hundred similarities do, however, not exhaust this topic. There are many more.

Observing so many similarities in the teachings of Jesus and Paul should not be surprising since it is Jesus who commissioned Paul as his Apostle:

But the Lord [Jesus] said to Ananias, "Go! This man [Paul] is my chosen instrument to carry my name before the Gentiles and their kings and before the people of Israel. (Acts 9:15)

"Then he said: 'The God of our fathers has chosen you to know his will and to see the Righteous One and to hear words from his mouth. You will be his witness to all men of what you have seen and heard." (Acts 22:14-15)

See also: What About Paul? http://answering-islam.org/Paul/index.html

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Can Paul & Jesus' Teaching on how to be assured of Eternal Life be Harmonized?

Question: Is Salvation by grace through faith, or does it require an obedient life of doing righteousness?

PAUL: Believing in Jesus' (death & resurrection) provides assurance by faith of our justification, and of eternal life as a free gift.

"A person is not justified by the works of the law, but by faith in Jesus… This righteousness is given through faith in Jesus Christ to all who believe… the righteous will live by faith." (Gal. 2:16; Rom. 3:22; 1:17)

"It is by grace you have been saved, through faith, and this not from yourselves, it is the gift of God" (Eph. 2:8).

"I count everything a loss… that I may be found in him, not having a righteousness of my own derived from the Law, but that which is thru faith in Christ—the righteousness that comes from God on the basis of faith." (Phil. 3:8-11; cf. 1:11)

JESUS: Obey God's law (of love), follow Christ's teaching, renounce everything, and carry your own cross, or else you can*not* be his follower or enter eternal life.

"What must I do to inherit eternal life? 'What is written in God's law… do this and you will live" "Whoever does not carry their cross and follow me can*not* be my disciple." (Luke 10:25-28; 14:27,33)

"To enter eternal life, keep God's commandments… I do not abolish God's law… Unless your righteousness surpasses the teachers of the law, you will not enter the kingdom… Every tree that does not bear good fruit will be cut down… Only those who do the will of my Father will enter the kingdom of heaven… You must deny yourself & take up your cross daily… God will reward all according to what they have done." (Mt. 19:16f; 5:17-20; 7:19,21; 16:24,27)

ALTERNATIVE VIEWS: How Jesus and Paul's Teachings on Salvation are Related

Do they essentially differ, or only in emphasis and vocabulary? Can they be combined?

1. Dispensational Theology: Jesus taught the way of Old Testament Law for Jews (not Christians).

But for Christians, Paul's Good News replaced Jesus' approach with salvation by faith alone.

2. Luther & Reformation: Jesus' focus on God's law was only to help us welcome Paul's way of grace.

Jesus insisted on obedience, more righteousness, & cross-bearing, so we'd realize we can't do those.

Then we'd see: Our only hope is to reject Jesus' literal requirements, & accept Paul's belief in grace.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

3. Different Goals: Paul explains salvation (we escape hell by just believing)! Jesus is only explaining growth in discipleship which requires dying to self, but this option is unessential for salvation.

Solutions 1, 2 or 3 diminish Jesus' approach in favor of Paul's language. And the Bible itself does not appear to spell out the basic inferences that they assert. But pproaches 1-3 are the most popular ones. For they find that endorsing Paul's Gospel requires recognizing that Jesus' teaching conflicts with that.

They interpret Paul to mean that Jesus enabled God to be 'just,' by bearing our sin's punishment in our place. He purchases a 'righteousness' which allows canceling the consequences our own sins deserve, if we just affirm by faith that Jesus' atonement credits such an 'imputed' righteousness to our account. Thus, while obedience and a righteous life remain desirable, believing the cross provided such "grace," is alone sufficient to secure the destiny that truly matters: heaven, instead of hell's endless punishment!

But, Dallas Willard's keen observation that "Jesus is the smartest person who ever lived" can leave one hesitant to think Paul's insight into God's way supercedes that of Jesus. Thus we ask in a closer look: Can we reconcile and affirm both Paul and Jesus' message? Is there a way to see them as compatible?

4. BASIC AGREEMENT: Some Examples that Paul & Jesus affirm the Same Essentials!

A. God's saving kingdom and eternal life are unearned gifts of 'grace' that rest on God's mercy.

Jesus also affirms the "Good News" that "your Father is pleased to give you His kingdom," which we "receive like a child" receives a gift (Lk. 8:1; 12:32; 18:17; 6:20).

His God is "merciful" to the "wicked." He "forgives sins," bringing "salvation through forgiveness, because of God's tender mercy" (6:35f; 1:77f, 5:20f; 23:34; 11:13).

"I will draw all persons to my self" (Jn. 12:32; Cf 21:11; 6:29,40; 7:38f; 12:44-46; 14:12).

B. Faith (in God's provision) is central and crucial to experiencing what God intends for our lives.

Jesus too says, "Have faith in God... Repent & believe in the Good News…According to your faith, let it be done to you" (Mk. 1:15; 11:22; Mt. 9:29).

"Your sins are forgiven… Your faith has saved you." The devil keeps us from "believing & being saved… I've prayed that your faith may not fail" (Lk. 7:48-50; 8:12; 22:32).

"Whoever hears my word & believes Him who sent me has eternal life… God's 'work' is to believe" (Jn. 5:24)

C. Sin's power and deception makes us unable to please God, or to fulfill the purpose of God's law (unless by faith we receive the enabling gift of His Spirit).

"Everyone is a slave to sin." We are all by nature "slaves to sin" (cf. Jn. 8:34 & Rom. 6:16f; 3:9f; 7:5,17-20; 8:5-8). Satan "blinds the minds of unbelievers" (2 Cor. 4:4; 2 Thes. 2:10f).

"Though seeing, they do not see" (Mt. 13:13).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

D. Still, repentance and conquering the way of sin and self is essential to participate in salvation.

Paul agrees: "Repentance leads to salvation" (2 Cor. 7:10; cf. Rom 2:4; Lk. 5:32; 13:5; 24:47; Acts 3:19; 5:31; 11:18!).

"You're slaves to what you obey, whether sin which leads to death, or obedience that leads to righteousness." So "freed from sin as slaves of God, the benefit you reap is holiness, and the result is eternal life" (Rom. 6:16,22; 8:13)!

E. So, pursuing the way of sin jeopardizes our salvation, despite any profession of faith we may make.

Paul agreed: "Wrong doers (even the "greedy") will not inherit the kingdom of God" (1 Cor. 6:9; Cf. Matt. 7:21-23).

He warns, "I make my body a slave so that.. I myself will not be disqualified" (1 Cor. 9:27; 15:3; Rom. 11:22; 1 Tim., 4:7f; 2 Tim. 4:7f; Heb. 10:26-31; 3:18f).

F. So, obedience to God's law, fulfilling its' central purpose in our lives, is essential to our salvation.

Paul agreed: "Keeping God's commands is what counts…we uphold the law… It is those who obey the law who will be declared righteous." For God sent His Son "in order that the righteous requirements of the law might be fully met in us who do not live according to the sinful nature" (1 Cor. 7:19; Rom. 3:31; 2:13,26; 8:4; Cf. Mt. 19:16f).

G. Paul & Jesus do see the outward letter or "works" of Mosaic Law are not required, can't justify us, nor produce real righteousness. Nor can this simply result from our own efforts (Eph. 2:8f; Rom. 10:3).

"No one is justified in God's sight by the works of the law" (Rom. 3:20; 2:25f; 14:14; Gal. 2:16; 4:10; 5:1f; Col 2:16). "Jesus declared all foods clean… On the sabbath.. my Father works & I too am working" (Mk. 7:19; 3:4; Jn. 5:17f).

H. For like Jesus, Paul sees that the obedience that God's law requires is defined by a life of love.

"Love is the fulfillment of the law… For the entire law is fulfilled in keeping this one command: 'Love your neighbor as yourself'" (Rom. 13:9f; Gal. 5:14).

"All the Law and Prophets hang on this" (Matt. 22:40).

Love is the law we are under, and the "work produced by faith" (1 Cor. 9:20f; Gal. 6:2; 5:6; 1 Thes. 1:3; 2 Thes. 1:11).

I. Thus, pursuing a godly life can not be optional, and a simply imputed righteousness will not do. Indeed, for everyone, the standard for salvation on Judgment Day will be the works we have done.

Jesus and Paul say: "People reap what they sow… Everyone will receive what is due them for the things done, whether good or bad… God will repay everyone according to what they have done… To those who persist in doing good… He'll give eternal life" (Gal. 6:7f; 2 Cor. 5:10; Rom. 2:6f; Cf. Jesus: Mt. 25:34-46; Mk. 9:43-49; Lk 6:38)!

TWO OBJECTIONS to accepting that Paul and Jesus Agree on what is necessary for Salvation

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

1. Our Need for Assurance that we'll be saved: Knowing our salvation is certain requires that it only depends upon a profession of faith. If we accepted Jesus' claim that an obedient life is also necessary, we could remain anxious that our life & righteous works might be found insufficient on Judgment Day.

Response: No tradition guarantees immunity from God's judgments in this world or the next. The Reformers saw that unfruitful disobedience could mean that we were never really saved or chosen. And Arminians knew that a wicked life can signify that we have lost our salvation, since it depends on our choices to remain in Christ.

2. Grace Alone: If anything's required beyond believing, then salvation can't be a gift resting on grace.

Response: The problem is that Jesus and Paul repeatedly require not simply believing that Jesus died for us, but repentance, holiness, obedience and perseverance! Yet, salvation can rest on God's grace, if it does not depend ultimately on our ability and performance. For it is God whose gracious character and love will faithfully pursue us (with mercy and judgment) until God brings us to the obedience required to be saved.

AN ATTEMPT TO RECONCLE PAUL AND JESUS' APPROACH

1. What salvation does not mean is clear. Like Jesus, Paul "knew (what was in) all people:" a blind and sinful egotistic nature (Jn. 2:24; see 'C' above). Thus, the solution can not be "works" that "depend on human will or effort," nor "a righteousness of my own." Rather, salvation comes as a "provision of grace" that is a "gift" of God's mercy" (Rom. 11:6, 30-32; 9:16; 10:3; 5:17; Phil. 3:9).

Trying to justify ourselves & be righteous by our own efforts to keep Judaism's literal laws means that we nullify God's grace as we reject his provisions that enable us to be righteous as we respond in faith (Gal. 2:21-3:6,14; 5:4,18,22). For in Romans 9:30-10:13, the righteousness God's law seeks is "attained" (30f) by those who "call on God" (i.e. "by faith:" 12), not by our own efforts at legalistic 'works' (4,32).

Yet, for Paul too, we remain under God's law, which means following the "law of Christ" that consists of love (1 Cor. 9:20f; Gal. 6:2; cf. F & H above). Thus, such a "righteousness" requires repentance and a life opposed to sin. So it can not mean that those who remain disobedient rebels can be simply acquitted by being credited with an 'imputed' righteousness. (Rom. 6:13-19; 1 Thes. 4:8; 2 Cor. 7:10; Acts 11:18; cf. D & E).

2. Paul's "righteousness that comes by faith" may thus mean a reality in harmony with Jesus: Faith enables the "obedience which leads to righteousness," wherein we "come to obey from our heart his pattern of teaching" (Rom. 4:13; 6:16-18; 1:17; 3:21f; cf. 14:23)! Then, the "obedience of faith" Paul sought (1:5; 16:26) can be a righteousness resulting from a trust in God that enables us to receive God's ability to love and obey. For Paul sees that a new life flows "out of" faith, just as love is produced by faith (Gal. 5:6; 3:7f; cf. 1 Thes. 1:3; 2 Thes. 1:11). Such faith assures our justification, because trusting & receiving what God offers is the way that we'll be enabled to lead the righteous life by which all will be judged.

As with Abraham, trusting our self into God's hand is itself the obedience that God wants most. And Paul sees that now God's promises of forgiveness, the Spirit's help, and the gift of a righteous life all come through a faith in God that trusts in what was demonstrated in Jesus our Lord (Rom. 3:22,26; 5:8; 4: 3,24; 10:9,17; Gal. 3:22). So rejecting Jesus and faith about him would amount to rejecting God & God's way

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

(cf. Lk 10:16). Since God has acted in Jesus to demonstrate his promises, we are to live 'out of' a faith in Him, which follows his teaching, and trusts in God's forgiving mercy when we fall short (Eph. 1:7). Our obedience, as well as our forgiveness, is seen as a result of God's grace. So, such a salvation is a divine gift that rests on grace and faith, not on our human achievement (see #4 below).

3. Paul's teaching does not assume that Jesus' Death assures salvation, when we affirm belief in it (e.g. in a prayer; cf. D-I).

For Paul, the cross is not a singular transaction that cancels sin's penalty, removes the consequences of our sin, or secures a 'justice' that lets sinners be treated as if they were righteous. And the apostles never declare that it changes God's disposition, or reconciles God to us.

The cross's aim is the change needed on our end: Jesus "died that we will no longer live for our selves," but "might become the righteousness of God" (2 Cor. 5:18,15,21). "He gave himself for us… to purify a people eager for good works" (Tit. 2:14; Cf. Mt. 4:1; Jn. 1:29). The function of the cross is that we will "now live for God by faith in the Son of God who loved me and gave himself for me" (Gal. 2:19,20).

For God sent his Son as a 'sin-offering' "in order that the righteous requirements of the law might be fully met in us who live not according to the sinful nature" (Rom. 8:3-5; 5:18f). "Christ suffered to leave you an example in order that you should follow in his steps… He bore our sins so that we might die to sins and live for righteousness" (1 Pet. 2:21,24). Jesus lays down his life so that "his death might break the power of the devil… help those who are tempted… (and thus) make people holy" (Heb. 2:14,18,11).

Jesus' death does powerfully "demonstrate the love" of God's eternally forgiving nature (Rom. 5:6-10; 1 Cor. 13:4-8; Lk. 6:35f; 15:1-32; 23:24). Yet the cross in itself can only leave us "in our sins" (1 Cor. 15:17)! For God's 'justice' promised in Jesus is not fulfilled in a punishment, but in restoring what sin takes away.

For Paul sees that the cross is part of God's plan, which must be combined with the whole Bible story, especially Jesus' life and his victorious resurrection over death which brings the Spirit. This brings an ongoing source of grace that rescues us, and by the end will completely defeat the power of sin & evil. Since God's plan is "through Him to reconcile all things… by making peace through his blood" (Col. 1:20), eventually "in Christ, all will be made alive," and then God will be "all in all" (1 Cor. 15: 22,28).

4. Righteousness is a work of God's Spirit. Paul emphasizes that Jesus' being raised from death to new life means that His Spirit can now write God's 'law' "on our hearts," and so fulfill His "New Covenant" (Jer. 31:33f). This enables "those being made holy" (Heb. 10:14-16) to do the righteousness God sought, freed from the law's 'letter,' but fulfilling its' spirit (2 Cor. 3:3-6,9,17,18; Gal. 5:13,18: 3:21f). For Paul sees that God made provision in Jesus for the gift of the Spirit who guides us, producing His fruit, and by faith in Him a life (gradually) "transformed into His image." Thus, the law's "righteous requirements will be met in us" (Rom. 8:2-27; 2:29; 7:6; 5:5; 15:13; 1 Cor. 2:12,15; 2 Thes. 2:13; cf. Lk. 22:20).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

"By faith we receive this promise of the Spirit" (Gal. 3:14; 5:5f), and God does a "good work in you that He will carry on to completion" (Phil. 1:6; cf. 2:12,13; Rom. 12:1f). Yet, at the same time, in obedient faith we must "work out our salvation." We must "walk by the Spirit," and "keep in step with the Spirit." So, "those who sow to please the Spirit, from the Spirit will reap eternal life" (Gal. 5:16-26; 6:8). For "if by the Spirit you put to death the misdeeds of the body, you will live" (Rom. 8:13b). But it is Him who enables us to be "slaves to righteousness," so that (under grace!) sin is "no longer our master" (Rom. 6:13-22), and at the end we can be (not perfect, but) "blameless" before God (Phil. 1:10f; 3:12; 1 Thes. 3:13; 5:23).

5. Conclusion: Grace enables 'works.' It's true! Assurance of being in God's love must rest finally on the grace found in God's character, not our performance. Yet, the promises of grace through faith can not be separated from Jesus and Paul's requirement of a righteous life. For we have seen that the way the Spirit, the cross, and faith all function unites Scripture's insistence on both grace & obedient works.

For Scripture does imply that we must come to the place of willingly living out God's ways. Yet option 4 can harmonize this with grace, if salvation's required righteousness rests upon what God is committed to graciously providing. Besides overcoming evil through undeserved forgiveness, His love and grace can mean God administers fitting 'wrath' (painful judgments, even 'hell:' Mk. 9:49), when our rebellious nature requires that to restore us to the righteous repentance His love intends. So, when by the end, we are graciously brought into His required righteousness, we will testify that it was not a "righteousness of my own," but produced by the grace of both God's forgiveness and severity. Therefore in faith, our assurance can be that God will complete this work, and so we can be confident that we will be justified!

[Source: http://evangelicaluniversalist.com/forum/viewtopic.php?f=58&t=747]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Peter's relationship to Paul

Peter makes a reference to having difficulty reading Paul's letters (2 Pet. 3:15-16), so we know that Peter had copies of Paul's material. Paul wrote his letter to the Romans in the winter of AD 56-57, and Peter is in Rome immediately after this time. In 1 Peter 2, Peter seems to be interacting with Romans 9-10. In fact, he quotes the same string of OT verses that Paul does. This is such a "coincidence" that it leads us to think that Peter was reading from Paul's work. It would be like seeing the "coincidence" of seeing two term papers with the same citations and typos in it: you would conclude that one was copying from the other.

- Romans 9:33 and 1 Peter 2:6 both quote Isaiah 28:16 ("Behold, I lay in Zion a stone of stumbling and a rock of offense").
- Romans 10:11 and 1 Peter 2:6 both quote Isaiah 28:16 ("Whoever believes in Him will not be disappointed").
- Romans 9:25 and 1 Peter 2:10 quotes Hosea 1:10 ("I will call those who were not My people, 'My people'").

[Source: http://www.evidenceunseen.com/bible-difficulties-2/nt-difficulties/1-2-timothy-titus-philemon-hebrews-james-1-2-peter/introduction-to-1-2-peter/]

Peter called Paul his beloved brother and regarded his epistles as Scripture:

2Pe 3:15 And count the patience of our Lord as salvation, just as our beloved brother Paul also wrote to you according to the wisdom given him, 2Pe 3:16 as he does in all his letters when he speaks in them of these matters. There are some things in them that are hard to understand, which the ignorant and unstable twist to their own destruction, as they do the other Scriptures.

Peter and Paul: Confrontation at Antioch (Catholic) http://vatican2voice.org/4basics/paulpeter.htm

The Ministries of Peter and Paul (Differences)
http://www.agbsf.com/The-Ministries-of-Peter-and-Paul/Relationship of Peter with Paul https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=UJktmkd0hm0 [Video]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Paul vs. James

Faith vs. Works

Paul: Faith is complete trust in, and obedience to, Jesus Christ.

Works (of the Law) are outward acts of ritual and adherence to a code to attain merit.

James: Faith is belief in Jesus Christ, the resurrection, and salvation.

Works (of faith) are spontaneous acts of love that spring from the fruits of the Spirit.

Paul & James on Faith & Works

by Felix Just, S.J., Ph.D.

Many readers of the New Testament misinterpret both Paul and James, thus concluding that their statements about faith and works contradict each other. That is simply not true! There are differences in emphasis, but no contradictions in teaching, if one understands both properly.

Paul and James agree that both "faith" and "works" are essential parts of Christian life, although they have different roles. Paul and James also agree that salvation ultimately comes from God and from Jesus Christ, not from us or anything that we do.

However, since Paul and James wrote to different audiences in different situations about different problems, their letters have different presuppositions and different emphases. To combat the opinion of some people that circumcision and other "works of the law" were necessary for Gentile converts to early Christianity, Paul stresses that the foundation of our salvation is the death of Jesus, not the laws of Moses. To combat the opinion of other people that professing faith in God is enough for salvation, James stresses that Christians must put their faith into concrete action.

What Paul and James actually wrote:

- Galatians 2:16 - "Yet we know that a person is justified not by the works of the law but through faith in/of Jesus Christ. And we have come to believe in Christ Jesus, so that we might be justified by faith in/of Christ, and not by doing the works of the law, because no one will be justified by the works of the law." (see all of Gal 2:15—3:14)
- Romans 3:28 - "For we hold that a person is justified by faith apart from works prescribed by the law." (see all of Rom 3:21—4:25)
- James 2:24, 26 - "You see that a person is justified by works and not by faith alone... For just as the body without the spirit is dead, so faith without works is also dead." (see all of James 2:14-26)

The common but incorrect interpretation, leading to an apparent contradiction between Paul and James:

- Paul supposedly said: Justification comes not by our good works, but by our faith in Jesus alone.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

- James supposedly said: Justification comes by our good works, not by our faith in God.

Errors with these interpretations:

1. Paul is not talking about "good works" in the sense of "charitable acts"; rather, he says "works of the Law" (Gal 2:16; 3:2-12; Rom 3:28), which refers to the Jewish/Mosaic laws on circumcision, sacrifices, dietary restrictions, etc.
   When James says "works," he means acts of charity = care for widows, orphans & the poor, love for neighbors, etc. (James 1:27; 2:8; 2:15-16)

2. Paul is not opposed to "good works" or "charitable actions"; he sees them as necessary consequences (although not the foundation) of authentic Christian living (see Gal 5–6; Rom 12–15).
   Conversely, James is not opposed to faith; he presupposes it, and then stresses that authentic faith must be put into action (James 2:14-26).

3. Paul is not talking primarily about our "faith in Jesus," but rather the "faith of Jesus" in God (i.e., Jesus' own trusting in God; see Gal 2:16, 20; Rom 3:22, 26); based on this foundation, our faith in God/Jesus is a necessary (but secondary) response.
   In contrast, James does mean people's faith, primarily believing in God (2:23) but also believing in Jesus (2:1).

4. Paul does not presuppose the same definition of "faith" as James does; for Paul, "faith" means "trusting" God, or "entrusting oneself" to God's plans (Rom 4:3-22).
   For James, "faith" is more of an intellectual assent to theological truths, e.g., "believing that God is one" (2:19; even demons can "believe" in God's existence).

5. Paul did not write the word "alone" in Rom 3:28; Martin Luther was the one who added the word "allein" in his German Bible translation.
   James does not write "by works alone" but stresses "not by faith alone"; he maintains that both have to go together.

The Example of Abraham,

Interestingly, to argue their points, both James and Paul appealed to the example of Abraham in Gen 15:6, but in a different way.

- Genesis 15:6 - "And he believed the LORD; and the LORD reckoned it to him as righteousness."

- Galatians 3:6-9 - "Just as Abraham 'believed God, and it was reckoned to him as righteousness,' 7 so, you see, those who believe are the descendants of Abraham. 8 And the scripture, foreseeing that God would justify the Gentiles by faith, declared the gospel beforehand to Abraham, saying, 'All the Gentiles shall be blessed in you.' 9 For this reason, those who believe are blessed with Abraham who believed."

- Romans 4:1-3, 10-12 - "What then are we to say was gained by Abraham, our ancestor according to the flesh? 2 For if Abraham was justified by works, he has something to boast about, but not before God. 3 For what does the scripture say? 'Abraham believed God, and it was reckoned to him as righteousness.' ... 10 How then was it reckoned to him? Was it before or after he had been circumcised? It was not after, but before he was circumcised. 11 He received the sign of circumcision as a seal of the righteousness that he had by faith while he was still uncircumcised. The purpose was to make him the ancestor of all who believe without being circumcised and who thus have righteousness reckoned to them, 12 and likewise the ancestor of the circumcised who are not only circumcised but who also follow the example of the faith that our ancestor Abraham had before he was circumcised." (see all of Rom 4:1-25)

- James 2:21-23 - "Was not our ancestor Abraham justified by works when he offered his son Isaac on the altar? (cf. Gen 22:9-18) 22 You see that faith was active along with his works, and faith was brought to completion by the works. 23 Thus the scripture was fulfilled that says, 'Abraham believed God, and it was reckoned to him as righteousness,' and he was called the friend of God.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

- In other words, Paul argues that Abraham was justified (in Gen 15) before he was circumcised (in Gen 17), while James argues that Abraham's faith/trust in God was completed and evidenced by his willingness to sacrifice his son Isaac (in Gen 22).

Summary:

Rather than contradicting or disagreeing with each other, it seems that James (probably written after Paul's letters) intended to correct some misinterpretations of Paul's teachings that seem to have arisen in some circles of early Christianity.

.	Paul	James
Definitions *of Key Terms:	"faith" = trusting acceptance of God's will (cf. Rom 4:3-5) "works of the law" = regulations of the Jewish Torah (cf. Rom 3:28-31)	"faith" = intellectual assent to theological truths (2:19) "works" = good deeds; putting religion into action (1:22-27)
Foundation of Justification, Reason for Salvation:	Jesus' actions: the "faith of Jesus" in God (cf. Rom 3:22, 26) (i.e., Jesus' trust, that led to his death on the cross) not our actions: not fulfilling the "works of the Law" (cf. Rom 3:28)	adoption: God gave us birth by the word of truth (1:18) and election: God chose the poor to be heirs of the kingdom (2:5)
Consequences for People, Results of Being Saved:	1) We need to have faith/trust in Jesus (Rom 1–11) and 2) We need to live ethically, doing good not evil (Rom 12–15)	1) Our faith in Jesus, and 2) our works of charity; both are necessary together (2:14-26)
Example of Abraham:	Abraham was justified by faith (in Gen 15) already before he was circumcised (in Gen 17)	Abraham's trust in God (declared in Gen 15) was shown and completed by his willingness to sacrifice Isaac (in Gen 22)

[Source: http://catholic-resources.org/Bible/Paul-James.htm]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

MY POSITION (and position of several articles from which I am referencing): There is no such contradiction between the two author's viewpoints – we will look at the common doctrine that is the product of these positions and defines the relationship between faith and works. Contradiction results from an incomplete or erroneous exegesis of the applications of the words faith and works as used by the two writers.

However, how you implement, or "work" out, the instruction/message of James can be controversial, even heretical.

Danger: Getting out of balance…

all grace with no fruit,
vs.
all works and no grace (true love) as their source

I am the vine; you are the branches. If a man remains in me and I in him, he will bear much fruit; apart from me you can do nothing" (John 15:5, NIV.)

For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God: Not of works, lest any man should boast" (Ephesians 2:8-9, KJV.)

…work out your own salvation with fear and trembling (Philippians 2:12.)

"Ye see then how that by works a man is justified…" (James 2:24a, KJV.)

Matthew 5:18-30 "…not one iota…" "Whoever therefore breaks one of the least of these commandments, and teaches men so, shall be called least in the kingdom of heaven; but whoever does and teaches them, he shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven.

The noun 'faith" appears only twice in the King James Version of the Old Testament (Deut. 32:20; Hab. 2:4,) 'emuwn' and 'emuwnah' However, these two Hebrew words appears 54 times in OT, being translated as "faithful" 3 times, "faithfulness" 18 times, "faithfully" 5 times, "set office" 5 times, "verily" once, "truly" once, and "stability" once. The primary context of the use of these words convey the idea of believing in and trusting in God with honor, loyalty, and integrity, as well as God's integrity when dealing with mankind.

The New Testament book of Hebrews, chapter 11 makes several references to the faith of Old Testament figures, and a search of the Old Testament nouns that describe their faith include 'aman, batah, and hasah and several others. Similar word studies on the application of these words open up a magnitude of additional uses. Consequently, this broad use of the term makes it difficult to compare the Old Testament and New Testament uses of that word, faith. Some scholars see both a collective faith and an individual faith in the Old Testament that is united in Abraham. Still others argue that the Old Testament contains no doctrine of faith, but rather provides examples of faith.

The Old Testament, by and of itself, uses all of these forms to describe a righteousness that is imparted by God upon those who (using the above described Hebrew noun forms) have faith in, who trust in, who believe in God and who seek to follow His will, His word, and His way. It is a faith that is confessed, professed, and visibly demonstrated by the attitudes and actions of these patriarchs. We find no application of a patriarch who is described has having faith or trust in God who did not demonstrate it through some attitude or action that is motivated by that faith and trust.
These are works of faith to be contrasted with works of the Law.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

James (Greek: “Jacobus”) [which is interesting… Jacob referring to the 12 tribes]

James, NOT the son of Zebudee, nor of Alphaeus; also called James the Just.

Jude’s epistle states that he was the brother of James.

According to a passage found in existing manuscripts of Josephus' Antiquities of the Jews, (xx.9) "the brother of Jesus, who was called Christ, whose name was James" met his death after the death of the procurator Porcius Festus but before Lucceius Albinus had assumed office (Antiquities 20,9) — which has been dated to 62.

Although neither Jude nor James describes himself as a brother of the Lord, others did not hesitate to speak of them in this way (see Matthew 13:55; Jn 7:3-10; Acts 1:14; 1Corinthians 9:5; Galations 1:19).

James 2:(19-)21(-26): Apart from its context, this verse might seem to contradict the Biblical teaching that people are saved by faith and not by good deeds (see Romans 3:28 and note; Galations 2:15-16 and note on 2:16). But James means only that righteous action is evidence of genuine faith — not that it saves, for the verse (Ge 15:6; see note there) that he cites (v. 23) to substantiate his point says, "Abram believed the LORD, and he credited it [i.e., faith, not works] to him as righteousness." Furthermore, Abraham's act of faith recorded in Ge 15:6 occurred before he offered up Isaac, which was only a proof of the genuineness of his faith. As Paul wrote, "The only thing that counts is faith expressing itself through love" (Galations 5:6; see note there). Faith that saves produces good deeds.

Paul (in Romans):
3:28 by faith. When Luther translated this passage, he added the word "alone," which, though not in the Greek, accurately reflects the meaning (see note on Jas 2:14-26).

3:30 only one God. By appealing to the first article of Jewish faith ("the LORD is one," Deuteronomy 6:4; see note there), Paul argues that there is only one way of salvation for both Jew ("circumcised") and Gentile ("uncircumcised"), namely, faith in Christ.

3:31 Paul anticipated being charged with antinomianism (against law): If justification comes by faith alone, then is not the law rejected? He gives a more complete answer in chs. 6- 7 and reasserts the validity of the law in 13:8-10.

4:1 Abraham, our forefather. The great patriarch of the Jewish nation, the true example of a justified person (see James 2:21-23 and notes). The Jews of Jesus' time used Abraham as an example of justification by works, but Paul holds him up as a shining example of righteousness by faith (see Galations 3:7-9 and notes).

Paul (in 1 Thessalonians 4:1-12):
[1] Finally then, brothers and sisters, we ask you and urge you in the Lord Jesus, that as you received instruction from us about how you must live and please God (as you are in fact living) that you do so more and more. [2] For you know what commands we gave you through the Lord Jesus…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

A Chart Comparing and Contrasting the Teaching of Paul and James

Paul and James did not contradict each other; but rather they complemented each other. What both men wrote was inspired by God (2 Tim. 3:16) and true. Paul's focus was on the unsaved man and how he might get right with God. James' focus was on the saved person and how he might show his faith and demonstrate the reality of his faith.

Paul's Teaching	James' Teaching
You cannot be saved by works (Ephesians 2:8-9)	You cannot show that you are saved without works (James 2:14,18)
How can a person be saved? By faith alone (Rom. 3:28)	How can a person show that he is saved? How can he "show his faith"? Only by works (James 2:18)
Faith without works saves (Romans 3:28) This is a living faith (saving faith)	Faith without works does not save (James 2:14) This is a dead faith (James 2:17,20,26)
Faith alone saves	The faith that saves is not alone
A person is not saved by works ("works" are rejected by Paul as the means of salvation: it is wrong to say that a person must do good works in order to be saved) These are meritorious works, that is, works done to try to merit or earn salvation	A saved person will perform good works ("works" are understood by James to be the result of salvation: a person does good works because he is saved) These are faith works, that is, works that spring from a faith that is real and living.
Paul agreed with James He taught that good works must accompany saving faith (Eph. 2:10; Tit. 3:8; Gal. 5:6; Phil. 2:11-12).	James agreed with Paul He taught that a person inherits the kingdom only by faith (James 2:5) and that Abraham was justified by faith (2:23)
Paul used the example of Abraham when he first believed in God (Rom. 4:3 and compare Genesis 15:6).	James used the example of Abraham when his faith was tested by God, about 40 years later (James 2:21 and compare Genesis 22)
The error Paul corrected: Salvation is by the works of the law (the error of legalism)	The error that James corrected: Works are unnecessary after a person is saved (the error of antinomianism)
Paul wrote about how a guilty sinner may be justified before God.	James wrote about how a believer can show that his faith is genuine (justification or vindication before men)
At the Jerusalem Council in Acts 15 the key issue was that salvation is by grace through faith and not by the works of the law. See the error in Acts 15:1 and Peter's conclusion in Acts 15:9,11. James, who took a lead role in this discussion never voiced any disagreement with Peter or Paul over this crucial matter.
Paul's perspective: He was viewing the guilty sinner who needed to be right with God. (The sinner is in view)	James' perspective: He was viewing the believer (or professing believer) who needed to demonstrate that his faith was real. (The believer is in view)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Example of Abraham

Both Paul and James turned to the life of Abraham to illustrate justification. Paul writes, “For if Abraham was justified by works, he has something to boast about, but not before God. For what does the scripture say? Abraham believed God, and it was reckoned to him as righteousness” (Rom 4:2-3). James seems to contradict Paul when he writes, “Was not our father Abraham justified by works when he offered his son Isaac on the altar?” (James 2:21) A careful analysis will help shed light on this apparent disagreement.

Paul makes it clear that it was faith alone that justified Abraham. He was referring to Genesis 15:6, where Abraham put his trust in the divine promise that he would be the father of many nations. It was his assurance that God’s character guaranteed the completion of this promise for which God justified him. Thus, Abraham was not justified by works of the law, but by faith when he believed God.

The event James is alluding to occurred in Genesis 22, when Abraham obediently offered Isaac as a sacrifice according to God’s command, until at the last moment God forbade him. It is notable that James also recites Genesis 15:6, thus inferring that Abraham was justified by faith earlier in is life, in agreement with Paul’s teaching. Likewise, verse 24 states, “You see that a person is justified by works and not by faith alone.” In addition, James teaches that Abraham was justified by works “when he offered his son Isaac on the altar.” Therefore, James is suggesting that Abraham was first justified by faith years before he was justified by works. Yet, the question remains: “If Abraham was completely justified by faith, why must he also have been justified by works?”

The answer to this can be found by identifying the difference between what James and Paul mean by justification. The emphasis in James is that faith is not living unless it is outwardly shown and demonstrated. “Yea, a man may say, Thou hast faith, and I have works: shew me thy faith without thy works, and I will shew thee my faith by my works” (James 2:18). This is because, as Paul states, faith is a personal belief that takes place in the mind and heart, and thus cannot be seen in and of itself. Thus, while God knows whether or not one has faith, there is no way for another person to recognize it exists unless there are works in his life that directly point to it. Consequently, while Paul is dealing with the necessity of faith before God, James is concerned with an outward demonstration of such faith before men through works. Therefore, unlike Paul, who teaches justification before God, James portrays justification before men. However, their views on justification are complementary. Paul stresses acceptance before God entirely by grace through faith, whereas James presents the continual evidence before men of the initial transaction.

Abraham’s life was chosen as an example because it wonderfully illustrates what kind of faith-evidencing works James had in mind. Works in James are the outworking of faith; apart from a living faith, they would be dead works. Abraham’s work of faith was seen not only in his obedience to God’s command, but especially in the fact that he believed that God would raise up his son (see Gen. 22:5; Heb. 11:19). God had promised Abraham that Isaac would have children (see Genesis 17:19; 21:12), and he believed that God would keep this promise even though God had commanded him to kill Isaac (Gen. 22:2). How can a dead Isaac have children? Abraham knew that the only solution to this impossible dilemma was that God would have to raise his son from the dead. Abraham’s momentous faith in God’s ability to fulfill His Word despite such difficulty, which faith is evident from Genesis 22:5 (“we will come back to you”), is commended by the writer of Hebrews (Heb 11:19). Abraham’s faith manifested itself in his willingness to obey God when all reason would repudiate his actions.

The final example of justification by works given by James was that of Rahab, who belonged to Jericho just before Israel was about to attack it. Her good works involved sheltering Hebrew spies and ensuring them a safe passage. Like Abraham, she demonstrated faith by her belief in the supremacy of the God of Israel and His providential plan for his people, in spite of apparently insurmountable odds (conquering a great walled city!).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Reasons why Paul and James did not contradict each other:

1. Each man had a very different perspective. Paul was declaring how a guilty, lost sinner could get right with God. James was writing about how a saved person could SHOW that his faith was real.

2. Both writers used Abraham to illustrate their doctrine but they did not choose the same incident of his life. Paul used a time early in Abraham's life, before he had given birth to any children, and the Genesis account declares that this was when Abraham was justified by faith. He believed God and because of this God put righteousness to his account (Gen. 15:6). James, while not disputing the fact that Abraham was justified by faith (see James 2:23), nevertheless chose an incident in Abraham's life which took place many years later, when he offered up Isaac. According to James, this is when Abraham showed his faith by his works (the Genesis account indicates that this is when Abraham's faith was "tested"—Genesis 22:1).

3. Both writers mention "works." Paul teaches that works are unnecessary but James teaches that works are essential. This apparent contradiction is solved when we realize that Paul was speaking of those good works that an unsaved person tries to do in order to win God's favor or work his way to heaven. James on the other hand was referring to those good works that a saved person performs which gives evidence of a real, living, saving faith.

4. James does not teach that good works are necessary in order to gain salvation and Paul never teaches that good works are unnecessary after a person is saved. On the contrary, Paul agreed with James that for the person justified by faith, good works are essential (Phil. 2:12-13; Titus 3:5-8; Eph. 2:8-10). Likewise, James agreed with Paul that the only condition for inheriting the kingdom was faith and faith alone (see James 2:5 and also Acts 15 where at the Jerusalem Council James never expressed disagreement over Paul's teaching that salvation was by faith and not by the works of the law).

5. The Jerusalem Council of Acts 15 very clearly shows that James was not in disagreement with Peter or Paul in their teaching that salvation was by grace through faith and not by works. In Acts 15:1 we see that certain men were teaching that a person could not be saved unless he kept the deeds of the law (in this case, circumcision). Peter, in his speech, made it very clear that people are saved in only one way: by faith through grace [see v.7—"hear the word of the gospel and believe"; verse 9—"purifying their hearts by faith"; verse 11—"through the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ we shall be saved."] Soon thereafter James gave his speech, and if he had been in disagreement with Peter and Paul, this would have been the time to say so. He could have said, "Men, I must respectfully but very strongly disagree with your teaching that salvation is by simple faith in Christ alone. I agree with these men who are teaching that justification is by the works of the law, and not by faith alone. It's not enough to simply believe on Christ. We also must try to keep the law of Moses and in this way try to earn our way to heaven." But James never said any such thing. He was in complete harmony with the teaching of Peter and Paul.

6. Both men speak of justification but there is a slight difference of emphasis or meaning. Paul is speaking of a lost sinner being justified or declared righteous before a holy God based on the work of Christ on the cross. James is speaking of a saved person being justified or vindicated by works. In other words, the works prove that his faith was real and not just a dead faith. Paul's message: In order to be saved, you must be justified by faith. James' message: If you have really been justified by faith, then prove it! Show me your faith by your works! Paul was writing about something that an unsaved person needed to do; James was writing about what a saved person needed to do. So it is with the example of Abraham. Abraham at the beginning needed to be justified by faith. Abraham later on in his life needed to have his faith tested and vindicated. He showed that his faith was real. His faith was so real and vibrant that he believed that if he were to kill his only son, God would raise him back to life (see Hebrews 11:17-19 and see Genesis 22:5–"we will come again to you").

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

7. CONCLUSION: We are justified by faith alone (Paul's teaching). The faith that justifies us is not alone; it must be accompanied by good works (James' teaching). Faith alone saves but the faith that saves is not alone! We should also note that James agreed with Paul that faith alone saves (James 2:23; 2:5 and Acts 15) and Paul agreed with James that the faith that saves is not alone (Eph. 2:10; Tit. 3:8; Phil. 2:12-13). Thus the conflict between Paul and James is only apparent; it is not real.

[Source: http://www.middletownbiblechurch.org/doctrine/JamesPau.htm]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Wikipedia on James:

There is no mention of James in the Gospel of John and the early portions of the Acts of the Apostles. The Synoptics mention his name, but no further information. However, the later chapters of the Acts of the Apostles provide evidence that James was an important figure in the Christian community of Jerusalem.

Paul further describes James as being one of the persons to whom the risen Christ showed himself (1 Corinthians 15:3–8); later in 1 Corinthians, Paul mentions James in a way that suggests James had been married (9:5); and in Galatians, Paul lists James with Cephas (better known as Peter) and John as the three "pillars" of the Church (2:9) who will minister to the "circumcised" (in general Jews and Jewish Proselytes) in Jerusalem, while Paul and his fellows will minister to the "uncircumcised" (in general Gentiles) (2:12). These terms (circumcised/uncircumcised) are generally interpreted to mean Jews and Greeks, who were predominant; however, this is an oversimplification, as 1st-century Judaea Province also had some Jews who no longer circumcised and some Greeks and others such as Egyptians, Ethiopians, and Arabs who did.

He seems to have taken the place of James the son of Zebedee, after his martyrdom, around 44AD. [17] When Peter, having miraculously escaped from prison, must flee Jerusalem due to Herod Agrippa's persecution, he asks that James be informed (Acts 12:17).

When the Christians of Antioch were concerned over whether Gentile Christians need be circumcised to be saved, they sent Paul and Barnabas to confer with the Jerusalem church. James was the local head of the oldest church and the leader of the most conservative portion of Jewish Christianity. [17] He played a prominent role in the formulation of the council's decision. James was the last named figure to speak, after Peter, Paul and Barnabas; he delivered what he called his "decision" (Acts 15:19 NRSV) — the original sense is closer to "opinion".[39] He supported them all in being against the requirement (Peter had cited his earlier revelation from God regarding Gentiles) and suggested prohibitions about eating blood as well as meat sacrificed to idols and fornication. This became the ruling of the Council, agreed upon by all the apostles and elders and sent to the other churches by letter.

When Paul arrives in Jerusalem to deliver the money he raised for the faithful there, it is to James that he speaks, and it is James who insists that Paul ritually cleanse himself at Herod's Temple to prove his faith and deny rumors of teaching rebellion against the Torah (Acts 21:18ff) (a charge of antinomianism).

After the departure of Peter from Jerusalem, James presided over the mother church of Christendom until his death. [17] In the late 2nd century, Clement of Alexandria recorded the following: "For they say that Peter and James and John, after the ascension of our savior, as if also preferred by our Lord, strove not after honor, but chose James the Just as bishop of Jerusalem".[40][41] (See the Early Church Fathers and Jerome.) Because of this, Reza Aslan refers to James as the first Bishop of Bishops. [42] Jerome wrote that after the Passion the Apostles selected James as Bishop of Jerusalem. In describing James' ascetic lifestyle, De Viris Illustribus quotes Hegesippus' account of James from the fifth book of Hegesippus' lost Commentaries:

After the apostles, James the brother of the Lord surnamed the Just was made head of the Church at Jerusalem. Many indeed are called James. This one was holy from his mother's womb. He drank neither wine nor strong drink, ate no flesh, never shaved or anointed himself with ointment or bathed. He alone had the privilege of entering the Holy of Holies, since indeed he did not use woolen vestments but linen and went alone into the temple and prayed in behalf of the people, insomuch that his knees were reputed to have acquired the hardness of camels' knees.[43]

Since it was unlawful for anyone but the High Priest of the Temple to enter the Holy of Holies, and then only once a year on Yom Kippur, Jerome's quotation from Hegesippus indicates that James was considered a High Priest. The Pseudo-Clementine Recognitions suggest this.[44]

Jerome quotes the non-canonical Gospel of the Hebrews: "'Now the Lord, after he had given his grave clothes to the servant of the priest, appeared to James, for James had sworn that he would not eat bread from that hour in which he had drunk the Lord's cup until he should see him risen from the dead.' And a little further on the Lord says, 'bring a table and bread.' And immediately it is added, 'He took bread and blessed and broke and gave it to James the Just and said to him, "My brother, eat your bread, for the Son of Man is risen from the dead."' And so he ruled the church of Jerusalem thirty years, that is, until the seventh year of Nero."[40] (See Jerome and the Early Church Fathers.)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The non-canonical Gospel of Thomas confirms that James was an important leader, stating, "The disciples said to Jesus: We know that you will depart from us; who is it who will lead us?" Jesus said to them, "Wherever you have come from, go to James the Just, for whom heaven and earth came to be."

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Jesus vs James

Sermon on the Mount and Parallels in James

There are more close parallels between the Sermon on the Mount and James than with any other NT writing.

Letter of St. James	Jesus' Sermon on the Mount from the Gospel of Matthew	Context
1:2	5:12	Rejoice in persecution for the sake of the Kingdom
1:4	5:16; 5:48	Good works glorify God and complete and perfect us
1:5	7:7	Asking God for what is good
1:2, 12-15	6:13	Asking God for what is good
1:17	7:11	All that is good comes from God
1:19-20	5:22	God's justice is never served by anger
1:22-23	7:24-27	Listen to the words of God and put them into practice
1:25-27	7:21-23	One must be a doer of the word
2:5	5:3	The "poor in spirit" (those who deny self-sufficiency and admit they need God) are heirs to the kingdom of heaven
2:10	5:19	Believers must keep all of the commandments; to break one is to break all
2:11	5:21-22, 27	The commandment against murder and adultery
2:13	5:7; 6:14-15	The merciful will be shown mercy; the unmerciful will be shown no mercy
2:14-26	6:1-3; 7:21-23	Give freely to those in need; faith without action is dead and worthless faith
3:12	7:16-20	The fruit a tree produces represents what kind of tree it is as the works a person produces represents the faith of that person
3:18	5:9	Blessing of peacemakers
4:2-3	7:7-8	God grants the prayers that are petitions of good intent
4:4	6:24	One cannot serve both God and the world
4:8	5:8	To please God one must have a pure heart
4:9	5:4	Those who mourn
4:11-12	7:1-5	Warning against being judgmental
4:13-14	6:34	Tomorrow is uncertain; it is in God's hands

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

5:1-6	6:19-21	Curse of the selfish rich
5:9	5:22; 7:1	God is the judge
5:10	5:10-12	Blessing for those who endure persecution
5:10	5:12	The prophets: our example of suffering and perseverance
5:12	5:33-37	Avoid making an oath (vow) unless you can faithfully keep it - do not swear by heaven or by earth. You will be judged on the fulfillment of your oaths.

Michal E. Hunt, Copyright © 2006 www.AgapeBibleStudy.com. Permissions All Rights Reserved.

Other passages in James that parallel sayings of Jesus include 1:6 (cf. Matt. 21:21); 1:9 and 4:10 (cf. Matt. 23:12); 1:12 (cf. Matt. 10:22); 1:21 (cf. Mark 4:14); 4:9 (cf. Luke 6:21, 25); 4:17 (cf. Luke 12:47); 5:1–6 (cf. Luke 6:24); 5:9 (cf. Matt. 24:33); 5:17 (cf. Luke 4:25).

It is true that other epistles quote from and allude to the teachings of Jesus, but none echo the preaching voice of Jesus as comprehensively as does the epistle of James. Douglas Moo notes that James "weaves Jesus' teaching into the very fabric of his own instruction." [7] Luke Timothy Johnson comments that James naturally uses "his brother's language as his own." [8] When one reads the epistle of James one uniquely hears the preaching voice of Jesus in a unique way.
(ref: Reformation21.org – Hearing the voice of Jesus in the Epistle of James)

“Royal Law” (James 2:8) vs Matt. 22:37-40

See also corresponding (to above) Charts in Chapter XIV and Chapter XVI

Continued next page…

James, the "works" book of the NT Bible, has been controversial through the ages…

Some feel that James presents a doctrine of justification based upon works; a position that contradicts Paul's doctrine of justification based upon faith. "This apparent contradiction to the teaching of the apostle Paul has caused much consternation among some theologians.

For example, Martin Luther referred to the book [of James] as 'an epistle of straw' when compared with Paul's writings."

Luther estimated that James taught "nothing about faith, only law", and that although it was a good book, it was not profitable for salvation since its failure to preach the death and resurrection of Jesus was a breach of apostolic duty (3). As long as justification by faith was taken to be the heart of the New Testament message, the different, but equally Christian, voice of James was reluctantly tolerated — simply because it was in the New Testament — but it was usually passed over with embarrassment.

Could be due in part to belief in the…

Perpetual virginity of Mary (ever virgin) – doctrine that became widely accepted by church fathers in the 4th century and is part of church doctrine: Roman and Anglo Catholic, Eastern and Oriental Orthodox; Reformers: Martin Luther, John Calvin, Uhlrich Zwingli; Protoevangelium of James (different James from Bible, written circa 120 A.D.)

The Oriental Orthodox Churches and the rest of the Church split over differences in Christology. The First Council of Nicaea (325) declared that Jesus Christ is God, that is to say, "consubstantial" with the Father; and the First Council of Ephesus (431) that Jesus, though divine as well as human, is only one being, or person (hypostasis). Twenty years after Ephesus, the Council of Chalcedon declared that Jesus is one person in two complete natures, one human and one divine. Those who opposed Chalcedon likened its doctrine to the Nestorian heresy, condemned at Ephesus, that Christ was two distinct beings, one divine (the Logos) and one human (Jesus).

The schism between the Oriental Orthodox and the rest of Christendom occurred in the 5th century. The separation resulted in part from the refusal of Pope Dioscorus, Patriarch of Alexandria and the other 13 Egyptian Bishops, to accept the Christological dogmas promulgated by the Council of Chalcedon, which held that Jesus is in two natures: one divine and one human. They would accept only "of or from two natures" but not "in two natures".

References to Jesus's brothers and sisters: Referring to Matt. 1:25, 13:55-56, 12:46; Mark 3:31-34, 6:3; Luke 8:19-21; John 2:12; Acts 1:14 (notice always listed right after mentioning Mary, his mother). Other references: Gal. 1:19
[Note: use of "cousins" – Col. 4:10; use of distant relatives – Luke 1:36]

Continued next page…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Old Testament also teaches a righteousness based upon works of the Law that God passed down to man:

Ezekial 18:5-9

However,

Deuteronomy 28:58-59 (One MUST follow ALL of the law in its entirety.)

The requirement to follow the Law is complete: i.e., Leviticus 5:17; Daniel 9:11

> This caveat is so complete, that "If a person sins and does what is forbidden in any of the Lord's commands, even though he does not know it, he is guilty and will be held responsible" (Leviticus 5:17, NIV.) Consequently, it is impossible without God's grace for any man to attain righteousness under the law. Our sin nature constantly gets in our way, and as a result all people, without exception, come short of true righteousness based upon the law alone. "Yea, all Israel have transgressed thy law, even by departing, that they might not obey thy voice; therefore the curse is poured upon us, and the oath that is written in the law of Moses the servant of God, because we have sinned against him" (Daniel 9:11, KJV.)

The Law by itself can not save, nor have any redeeming value: Ecclesiastes 1:14; Ecclesiastes 12:14; Isaiah 57:12; Isaiah 64: 6

> God has "seen all the things that are done under the sun; all of them are meaningless, a chasing after the wind" (Ecclesiastes 1:14) and God will "bring every deed into judgment, including every hidden thing, whether it is good or evil," (Ecclesiastes 12:14, NIV) exposing the righteousness and works of man that will serve as no benefit to him (Isaiah 57:12.) "All of us have become like one who is unclean, and all our righteous acts are like filthy rags; we all shrivel up like a leaf, and like the wind our sins sweep us away" (Isaiah 64:6, NIV.)

The only remedy provided for those who lived in Old Testament times was the forgiveness that God gives when the sinner responds to God in repentance through faith and trust in Him.

> "And if I say to the wicked man, 'You will surely die,' but he then turns away from his sin and does what is just and right -- if he gives back what he took in pledge for a loan, returns what he has stolen, follows the decrees that give life, and does no evil, he will surely live; he will not die. None of the sins he has committed will be remembered against him. He has done what is just and right; he will surely live. Yet your countrymen say, 'The way of the Lord is not just.' But it is their way that is not just. If a righteous man turns from his righteousness and does evil, he will die for it. And if a wicked man turns away from his wickedness and does what is just and right, he will live by doing so" (Ezekial 33:14-19 NIV.)

During the intertestamental period, the preoccupation with works-based righteousness developed into the fundamental religious doctrine of the Jewish community. It was into this setting that John the Baptist preached about repentance, and Jesus came to restore people to faith.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Jesus (Matthew 7:21-29)

I Never Knew You

[21] “Not everyone who says to Me, ‘Lord, Lord,’ shall enter the kingdom of heaven, but he who does the will of My Father in heaven. [22] “Many will say to Me in that day, ‘Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in Your name, cast out demons in Your name, and done many wonders in Your name?’ [23] “And then I will declare to them, ‘I never knew you; depart from Me, you who practice lawlessness!’

Build on the Rock

[24] “Therefore whoever hears these sayings of Mine, and does them, I will liken him to a wise man who built his house on the rock: [25] “and the rain descended, the floods came, and the winds blew and beat on that house; and it did not fall, for it was founded on the rock. [26] “But everyone who hears these sayings of Mine, and does not do them, will be like a foolish man who built his house on the sand: [27] “and the rain descended, the floods came, and the winds blew and beat on that house; and it fell. And great was its fall.” [28] And so it was, when Jesus had ended these sayings, that the people were astonished at His teaching, [29] for He taught them as one having authority, and not as the scribes.

Note: Jesus stated unequivocally that the mere profession of accepting him is not enough, but that such a profession MUST BE backed up by deeds. Jesus teaches a salvation of universal compassionate love expressed in ACTION. It is the centerpiece of everything he taught. And Jesus himself consistently expressed love and closeness to sinners, lepers, tax collectors and other outcasts, while saving his rare words of harshness and anger for the Pharisees and Saducees -- the pompous, self-righteous administrators of the established religious orthodoxy.

Ref: Davis D. Danizier, http://www.wordwiz72.com/paul.html, alt: http://danizier.wordpress.com/2011/04/22/paul-vs-jesus-and-james/

[NOTE: This person has some severe interpretations and ideas that appears to contract basic Christian doctrine.]

Continued next page…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

James, Commentary on the Book of Purpose

"The design of the Epistle is on the one hand to encourage those to whom it is addressed to bear their trials patiently, and on the other hand to warn them against certain errors of doctrine and practice."

"The purpose of this potent letter is to exhort the early believers to Christian maturity and holiness of life. This letter deals more with the practice of the Christian faith than with its precepts. James told his readers how to achieve spiritual maturity through a confident stand, compassionate service, careful speech, contrite submission, and concerned sharing. He dealt with every area of a Christian's life: what he is, what he does, what he says, what he feels, and what he has."

"The chief aim of the Epistle is to strengthen the faith and loyalty of the Jewish Christians in the face of persecution from rich and overbearing Jews who were defrauding and oppressing them."

Message

The Book of James teaches us that faith in God should result in behavior that is in harmony with God's will. The theme of the book is "living by faith" or "spiritual maturity." James is like a series of five sermons reworked for publication (cf. Hebrews and Jude).

James' concern was Christian behavior (ethics) as expressive of Christian belief (doctrine). James hardly mentioned most of the fundamental Christian doctrines in this book. His preeminent concern was the practice of Christianity, the manifestation of salvation in shoe leather.

The teaching of this epistle has its roots in Jesus' teaching in the Sermon on the Mount. That was, of course, His great ethical discourse. James made no fewer than 18 references or allusions to Matthew 5—7 in his epistle. James is an exposition of the main ideas in that sermon. Jesus presented three great revelations in the Sermon on the Mount that James expounded in this book.

First, Jesus spoke of the behavior of believers. In Matthew 5:20, Jesus said: "Unless your righteousness surpasses that of the scribes and Pharisees, you shall not enter the kingdom of heaven." Jesus was speaking of how righteous behavior manifests itself. James commented on five behaviors in which his readers needed to demonstrate their righteousness. By the way, when James and Jesus spoke of "righteousness," they usually meant right conduct. This is the more common Old Testament use of the word. Paul, on the other hand, usually used "righteousness" when referring to one's right condition, namely: the believer's standing in Christ.

Second, Jesus clarified the believer's goal. In Matthew 5:48, Jesus said: "You are to be perfect, as your heavenly Father is perfect." This maturity into the image of Christ is God's goal for every Christian (cf. Eph. 4:13). In dealing with each of the five behaviors he selected, James clarified the goal the believer should bear in mind, and to which he or she should press.

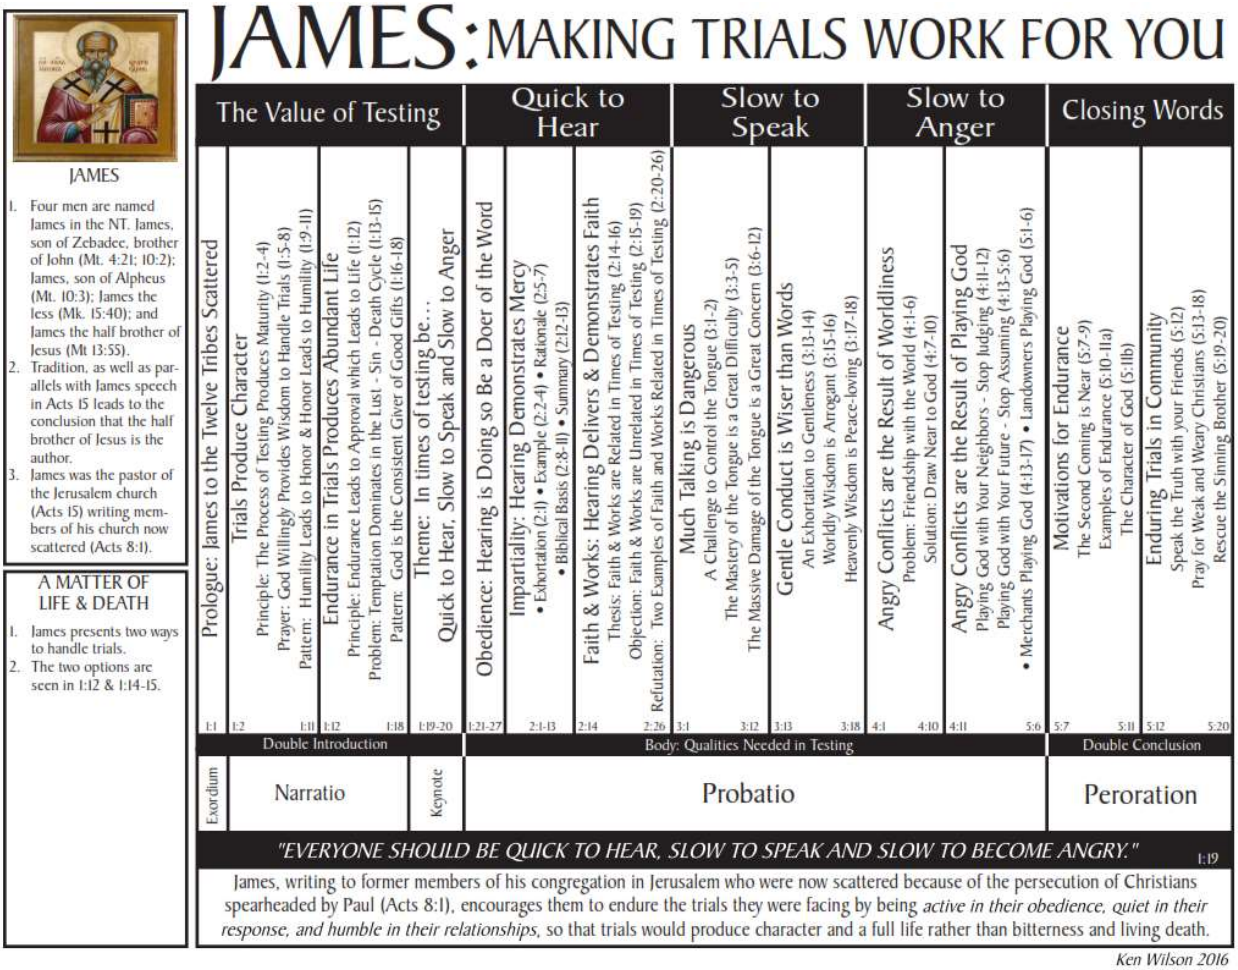
Third, Jesus illuminated the method by which the believer can reach maturity (perfection) in the way he or she behaves. In Matthew 6:1, Jesus said: "Beware of practicing your righteousness before men to be noticed by them." Jesus taught that believers should live to obtain God's approval rather than the approval of their fellow men. James explained what that means in each case for the five behaviors that he dealt with in this epistle. He showed how to live for God's approval rather than for man's approval.

These three great revelations by Jesus in the Sermon on the Mount contribute the hidden framework on which James hung his challenges to his readers. All of these challenges deal with spiritual immaturity. The Sermon on the Mount is like the framework of a house. James covered the framework with his exposition, and what he said is connected to what Jesus said.
…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Introduction

James described himself simply as "a bond-servant (Gr. doulos) of God and of the Lord Jesus Christ." Only he and Jude, another half-brother of the Lord, described themselves simply as "bond-servants" in their epistles. This probably indicates that they were so well known in the early church that they did not need to describe themselves in more detail.



James did not refer to himself as "Jesus' brother" or as "the church's leader." He evidently purposed not to know Jesus "after the flesh" (2 Cor. 5:16), but only as his "Lord and God." Being a bond-servant of God was his most important relationship (cf. Rom. 1:1; Phil. 1:1; Titus 1:1; 2 Pet. 1:1; Jude 1; Rev. 1:1). He placed Jesus on an equal level with God, by saying he was the bond-servant of both God and the Lord Jesus Christ.

The term "bond-servant" did not carry the degrading connotation in the first century that it does today. In the Septuagint, doulos described Israel's great leaders who occupied positions of privilege and honor (e.g., Moses [Deut. 34:5; et al.]; David [2 Sam. 7:5; et al]; and the prophets [Jer. 7:25; 44:4; Amos 3:7]). By using this word, James was proudly asserting that he belonged to God and to Jesus Christ—body and soul.

…

Ref: Notes on James, 2015 Edition, Dr. Thomas L. Constable

A Summary Chart of the Book of James

See next page for larger view…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

JAMES: MAKING TRIALS WORK FOR YOU

JAMES

1. Four men are named James in the NT. James, son of Zebadee, brother of John (Mt. 4:21; 10:2); James, son of Alpheus (Mt. 10:3); James the less (Mk. 15:40); and James the half brother of Jesus (Mt 13:55).
2. Tradition, as well as parallels with James speech in Acts 15 leads to the conclusion that the half brother of Jesus is the author.
3. James was the pastor of the Jerusalem church (Acts 15) writing members of his church now scattered (Acts 8:1).

A MATTER OF LIFE & DEATH

1. James presents two ways to handle trials.
2. The two options are seen in 1:12 & 1:14-15.

		1:1	Prologue: James to the Twelve Tribes Scattered
Exordium	Double Introduction	1:2 – 1:11	Trials Produce Character Principle: The Process of Testing Produces Maturity (1:2-4) Prayer: God Willingly Provides Wisdom to Handle Trials (1:5-8) Pattern: Humility Leads to Honor & Honor Leads to Humility (1:9-11)	The Value of Testing
Narratio		1:12 – 1:18	Endurance in Trials Produces Abundant Life Principle: Endurance Leads to Approval which Leads to Life (1:12) Problem: Temptation Dominates in the Lust - Sin - Death Cycle (1:13-15) Pattern: God is the Consistent Giver of Good Gifts (1:16-18)
Keynote		1:19-20	Theme: In times of testing be… Quick to Hear, Slow to Speak and Slow to Anger
Probatio	Body: Qualities Needed in Testing	1:21-27	Obedience: Hearing is Doing so Be a Doer of the Word	Quick to Hear
		2:1-13	Impartiality: Hearing Demonstrates Mercy • Exhortation (2:1) • Example (2:2-4) • Rationale (2:5-7) • Biblical Basis (2:8-11) • Summary (2:12-13)
		2:14 – 2:26	Faith & Works: Hearing Delivers & Demonstrates Faith Thesis: Faith & Works are Related in Times of Testing (2:14-16) Objection: Faith & Works are Unrelated in Times of Testing (2:15-19) Refutation: Two Examples of Faith and Works Related in Times of Testing (2:20-26)
		3:1 – 3:12	Much Talking is Dangerous A Challenge to Control the Tongue (3:1-2) The Mastery of the Tongue is a Great Difficulty (3:3-5) The Massive Damage of the Tongue is a Great Concern (3:6-12)	Slow to Speak
		3:13 – 3:18	Gentle Conduct is Wiser than Words An Exhortation to Gentleness (3:13-14) Worldly Wisdom is Arrogant (3:15-16) Heavenly Wisdom is Peace-loving (3:17-18)
		4:1 – 4:10	Angry Conflicts are the Result of Worldliness Problem: Friendship with the World (4:1-6) Solution: Draw Near to God (4:7-10)	Slow to Anger
		4:11 – 5:6	Angry Conflicts are the Result of Playing God Playing God with Your Neighbors - Stop Judging (4:11-12) Playing God with Your Future - Stop Assuming (4:13-5:6) • Merchants Playing God (4:13-17) • Landowners Playing God (5:1-6)
Peroration	Double Conclusion	5:7 – 5:11	Motivations for Endurance The Second Coming is Near (5:7-9) Examples of Endurance (5:10-11a) The Character of God (5:11b)	Closing Words
		5:12 – 5:20	Enduring Trials in Community Speak the Truth with your Friends (5:12) Pray for Weak and Weary Christians (5:13-18) Rescue the Sinning Brother (5:19-20)

"EVERYONE SHOULD BE QUICK TO HEAR, SLOW TO SPEAK AND SLOW TO BECOME ANGRY." 1:19

James, writing to former members of his congregation in Jerusalem who were now scattered because of the persecution of Christians spearheaded by Paul (Acts 8:1), encourages them to endure the trials they were facing by being active in their obedience, quiet in their response, and humble in their relationships, so that trials would produce character and a full life rather than bitterness and living death.

Ken Wilson 2016

[Source: http://www.fellowshipconway.org/james-chart-in-pdf/]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Five Solas

The Five Solas are five Latin phrases (or slogans) that emerged from the Protestant Reformation intended to summarize the Reformers' basic theological principles in contrast to certain teachings of the Roman Catholic Church of the day. "Sola" is Latin meaning "alone" or "only" and the corresponding phrases are:

- Sola Fide, by faith alone.
- Sola Scriptura, by Scripture alone.
- Solus Christus, through Christ alone.
- Sola Gratia, by grace alone.
- Soli Deo Gloria, glory to God alone.

These phrases may be found individually expressed in the various writings of the 16th century Reformers, either explicitly or implicitly, but they are not found presented as a list per se. It is most likely the list of Solas came about later.

Summary teachings

The following summary of the Five Solas is adapted from the modern restatement in The Cambridge Declaration of the Alliance of Confessing Evangelicals (1996):

Faith alone (Sola Fide)

Justification is by grace alone through faith alone because of Christ alone. In justification Christ's righteousness is imputed to us as the only possible satisfaction of God's perfect justice. Our justification does not rest on any merit to be found in us, nor upon the grounds of an infusion of Christ's righteousness in us, nor that an institution claiming to be a church that denies or condemns sola fide can be recognized as a legitimate church.

Scripture alone (Sola Scriptura)

The inerrant Scripture (the Bible) is the sole source of written divine revelation, which alone can bind the conscience. The Bible alone teaches all that is necessary for our salvation from sin and is the standard by which all Christian behavior must be measured. It is denied that any creed, council or individual may bind a Christian's conscience, that the Holy Spirit speaks independently of or contrary to what is set forth in the Bible, or that personal spiritual experience can ever be a vehicle of revelation.

Christ alone (Solus Christus)

Our salvation is accomplished by the mediatorial work of the historical Christ alone. His sinless life and substitutionary atonement alone are sufficient for our justification and reconciliation to the Father. It is denied that the gospel is preached if Christ's substitutionary work is not declared and faith in Christ and his work is not solicited.

Grace alone (Sola Gratia)

In salvation we are rescued from God's wrath by his grace alone. It is the supernatural work of the Holy Spirit that brings us to Christ by releasing us from our bondage to sin and raising us from spiritual death to spiritual life. It is denied that salvation is in any sense a human work. Human methods, techniques or strategies by themselves cannot accomplish this transformation. Faith is not produced by our unregenerated human nature.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Glory to God alone (Soli Deo Gloria)

It is affirmed that because salvation is of God and has been accomplished by God, it is for God's glory and that we must glorify him always. We must live our entire lives before the face of God, under the authority of God and for his glory alone. It is denied that we can properly glorify God if our worship is confused with entertainment, if we neglect either Law or Gospel in our preaching, or if self-improvement, self-esteem or self- fulfillment are allowed to become alternatives to the gospel.

Notes

1. ↑ See discussion by Dr. R. Scott Clark here, September 11, 2008.

Resources

- Terry L. Johnson, Case for Traditional Protestantism: The Solas of the Reformation (Banner of Truth, 2004).
- R. C. Sproul, Faith Alone: The Evangelical Doctrine of Justification (Baker Books, 1999).

See also

- The Cambridge Declaration of the Alliance of Confessing Evangelicals

[Source: http://www.theopedia.com/Five_Solas]

http://thecripplegate.com/5-questions-and-the-5-solas/

Catholic perspective: http://www.catholicbible101.com/thefivesolas.htm

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Statements of Faith

Examples of various Christian organizations' statements of faith (what they believe and follow):

Statement of Faith

Based on the teaching of the Bible, we believe:

- There is one God, who is eternal and infinitely perfect, and who exists in three persons: the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit. This idea of one God existing as three persons is expressed in the Bible and described by the church as the Trinity.(Deuteronomy 6:4; Matthew 28:19; 2 Corinthians 13:14)
- Jesus Christ is God, the Son. Like the Father and the Holy Spirit, Jesus is fully God, but He is also fully man. He existed eternally as God with the Father and the Spirit and became a man when He was conceived by the Holy Spirit and born of the Virgin Mary. He died upon the cross as a substitute for sinners. He was the just and righteous One who died on behalf of those who are unjust and unrighteous. Because of His sacrifice, everyone who believes in Him is justified and considered righteous in the sight of God. He also physically rose from the dead after three days in a tomb. Today He lives in Heaven at the right hand of God the Father where he represents believers like an advocate and intercedes on their behalf. One day, He will come again to earth to establish His government of righteousness and peace. (John 1:1-18; Philippians 2:1-11; Luke 1:36-38; 1 peter 3:18; Hebrews 2:9; Romans 5:9; Acts 2:23-24; Hebrews 8:1; Matthew 26:64; 1 John 2:1-2; Romans 8:34)
- The Holy Spirit is the third person of the Trinity. Like the Father and the Son, the Holy Spirit is fully God. He is sent from the Father and the Son to live within the souls of Believers in order to guide, teach, and empower them as they follow Jesus in this world. He also acts to convince the world of its guilt regarding sin, and of the righteousness of Jesus Himself, and of the judgment of Satan, the prince of this world. John 14:15-18; John 16:13; Acts 1:9; John 16:7-11)
- The Old and New Testaments were verbally inspired by God and without error as originally given. The word, inspired, actually means "God breathed" or "spoken." Their words are really the words of God. Together they are a complete revelation of God's will for the salvation of men. They also are the only rule that Christians have for what they are to believe and how they are to live. (II Peter 1:20-21; II Timothy 3:16-17)
- Mankind was originally created in the likeness of God and enjoyed a conscious, loving relationship with Him. But through the sin of Adam, mankind has fallen away from God, and experienced both physical and spiritual death. Since that time all people have been born with a sinful nature, and are willfully separated from a relationship with God. Returning to God is possible but only through the work that Jesus Christ performed on the cross. His death on the cross reconciles people with God because it atones for their sins. In other words, it saves them from the consequences of living apart from God. So now God calls all people to repent – to leave their sin behind and return to Him by trusting in the work that Jesus did for them. Those who do trust Jesus will enjoy a blissful eternity with God in Heaven. Everyone who rejects Jesus receives an everlasting conscious torment that Scripture calls Hell. (Genesis 1:27; Romans 3:23; I Corinthians 15:20-23; II Corinthians 5:19; Acts 17:30-31; Revelation 21:8; Revelation 21:1-4)
- Salvation has been provided through Jesus Christ for all men. Everyone who repents of their sin and trusts that Jesus died for them on the cross and that God accepts Jesus' death on their behalf receives salvation as a gift from God. Like being "born again," they receive a new nature from the Holy Spirit, and become children of God. (John 3:16; Ephesians 2:8-9; John 3:3; 2 Corinthians 5:17; Titus 3:4-7)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

- God's will for each Believer is that they grow to full maturity in their relationship with Him. This growth process is called sanctification and ultimately results in our being conformed to the image of Jesus. Practically, it means dedicating ourselves to God's will, separating ourselves from the sin that displeases Him, and receiving power from the Holy Spirit to live lives that please Him and serve Him effectively. Sanctification includes a climactic experience called a crisis of faith and progressive experiences of spiritual growth that occur after a person trusts in Jesus. (I Thessalonians 5:23; Acts 1:8; Romans 6:1-14; Romans 12:1-2)
- Jesus' atoning work on the cross also provides for healing of the mortal body. Prayer for the sick is a privilege for Believers today. Instructions for how the church elders are to pray for the healing of sicknesses are given in the New Testament book of James, chapter 5. These instructions are practiced by the elders of our church. (Matthew 8:16-17; James 5:13-16)
- The Church consists of all those who trust their lives to the Lord Jesus Christ. The Church functions like a physical body with Christ as the head and believers as the various members. Each member has abilities or gifts from the Holy Spirit that help them function effectively within the church. The Church is commissioned by God to go throughout the entire world as a witness, preaching the gospel to all nations.
- The local church is a body of believers in Christ who come together to worship God, to edify one another through the Word of God, to pray together, to enjoy each others' fellowship, to proclaim the gospel, to Baptize Believers and to partake in the Lord's Supper together. (Ephesians 1:22-23; Matthew 28:19-20; Acts 2:42-47)
- Everyone shall experience a bodily resurrection. Those who are righteous in God's eyes will be raised to eternal life in fellowship with God. Those who are unrighteous will experience eternal judgment and separation from God. (I Corinthians 15:20-23; John 5:28-29; Daniel 12:2)
- Jesus Christ is coming to earth again. His second coming can occur at any time and will occur in a way that is personal and visible. When He comes, He will establish His government on earth. For believers Jesus' second coming inspires hope and motivates them to holy living and faithful service to God. (Hebrews 10:37; Luke 21:27; Titus 2:11-14; I Thessalonians 4:13-18; II Peter 3:11-14)

[Source: http://myfac.org/pages/page.asp?page_id=225365]

Tenets of Faith and Doctrine

THE BIBLE – The Bible is the inerrant Word of God which was a revelation from God through the inspiration of the Holy Spirit to various men who recorded it.

THE ONE TRUE GOD – There is only one God and His name is YHWH. The Son of God is one with the Father and proceeded out from YHWH and His Hebrew name is Y'shua. The Holy Spirit is the Spirit of YHWH. YHWH, Y'shua, and the Holy Spirit are everlasting and eternal and they are one.

SALVATION – Man's only hope of redemption is through the shed blood of Jesus Christ. Jesus died on the cross to provide salvation, divine healing, deliverance, and redemption. True repentance from sin is necessary for salvation and a heart belief that Jesus died for our sins and on the third day rose from the dead. He is seated at the right hand of the Father and will return a second time to set up His earthly reign.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

WATER BAPTISM – Water baptism should occur very soon after receiving Jesus as Lord and Savior as an outward sign declaring your new life in Christ.

COMMUNION – Celebrating communion commemorates what Jesus has done for us and obeys His command to remember His death and resurrection until His return.

THE GREAT COMMISSION – The great commission to take the full gospel to the ends of the earth is the responsibility of the entire body of believers.

HEAVEN AND HELL – Heaven and Hell are real places. All those who have their names written in the Lamb's book of life by receiving salvation through Jesus, will have heaven as their eternal destination. Everyone who has refused Jesus forgiveness will spend an eternity in hell in the Lake of Fire.

[Source: http://drpatricia.com/about/]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Answers to Anti-Jesus Missionairies

We are seeing a pattern beginning where believers in Yeshua (Jesus) are being deceived by Jewish missionaries like Tovia Singer. They are rejecting their belief that Yeshua is the Messiah, the Redeemer of Israel who will soon return to earth, gather His people and establish His kingdom.

In an attempt to discredit the Christian Scriptures (New Testament), these missionaries use deceptive methods, half truths and fail to apply the same standards of scrutiny to the Tanak (Old Testament) as they do to the Christian Scriptures. This makes them guilty of violating Deuteronomy 25:14-16. The rabbis are using unequal weights and measures.

This web site will be an ongoing work dedicated against the forces of evil who are attempting to destroy the people of God. Some of the people who have rejected Yeshua and are in the process of, or already have converted to Judaism, were close friends of the sponsor of this site. This work is dedicated to their memory.

Yeshua said He was the manna that came down from heaven in John 6:33. People who were once believers have now turned their back and committed the same sin that Israel did. They no longer want the manna that God provided. They have gone whoring after the fowl meat that rabbinical Judaism offers, so they throw Yeshua away and follow the lies of the rabbis.

What they have forgotten is that when Israel rejected the manna in Numbers 11:13 & 33, the wrath of God was aroused against the people and He struck them with a very great plague. This time they will be punished seven times more for their sin and they will suffer the plagues of Revelation 16.

Why Should We Fight This Battle?

Why should we fight this battle? Because people who we love have been deceived by the Jewish missionaries. Main-stream Christian scholars can not counter the attacks by the Jews because they are guilty of many of the sins and counteractions that are used to discredit Yeshua. The Jews are right when they say Christianity is pagan and is a lawless religion. What they don't realize is that the real Christians, the followers of Yeshua the Nazarene observe the law of Moses and reject the pagan trappings of the world. It is only someone who fits this latter description that can counter the lies of the rabbis against our savior. That is why we are forced to fight this battle.

Most people believe that rabbinical Judaism of today is the ancient religion of the Old Testament. It is not, Moses would not recognize it. Modern Judaism is the religion of the talmud, not the religion of the Bible. The talmud is a commentary of the rabbis on how to interpret the mishna. The mishna is called the written oral law. Jews claim that it was passed down from generation to generation from Moses. This is not accurate, the oral law that was recorded in the mishna beginning in 200AD contradicts the Bible. It was this tradition of men that Yeshua and Paul condemned in the New Testament.

There is no reason that we should even have to debate who the messiah is. It is a fact that there has never been anyone other than Yeshua who could be the redeemer. Yeshua alone has fulfilled the prophecies about the messiah. For a partial list click here.

Below are a few of the tricks that the rabbis use to deceive believers of Yeshua. Click on each of their statements and you will go to the page containing the answer.

Matthew 1:22 says Jesus was to be called Immanuel to fulfil a prophecy. In verse 25 it says he was named Jesus. Nowhere in the the New Testament is he called Immanuel. How is this a fulfilled prophecy if he was not named Immanuel?

Matthew 2:15 says Jesus returned from Egypt fulfilling the prophecy, "Out of Egypt I called My Son." This is taken from Hosea 11:5 and is past tense, it already happened when it was written. How is it a prophecy? This chapter in Hosea had absolutely nothing to do with a prophecy about a future messiah.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Matthew 27:9 says, "Then was fulfilled what was spoken by Jeremiah the prophet, saying, `And they took the thirty pieces of silver, the value of Him who was priced, whom they of the children of Israel priced"'. This "prophecy" is not found in Jeremiah or anywhere else in the Bible.

Matthew 2:23 says Jesus dwelt in a city called Nazareth fulfilling a prophecy that he was to be called a Nazarene. This prophecy is not found anywhere in the Bible.

John 17:12 says only the son of perdition was lost so that the Scripture might be fulfilled. What Scripture is being fulfilled here? There is not any reference to this prophecy anywhere in the Bible.

John 19:36 says none of Jesus' bones were broken fulfilling prophecy. This is not a prophecy about the Messiah, it is a commandment about the Passover lamb.

[Source: http://www.thesimpletruth.net/yeshua/enter.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Proofs that Jesus is the Messiah

INTRODUCTION

We are all dedicated to emulating the life of Jesus but have you ever asked yourself, "But what if Jesus was not the Messiah?"

Most Jews admit that Jesus was a real person and that he walked the streets and roads of Galilee, Judea and Jerusalem. But most Jews have a major hang-up with the idea that Jesus was the Messiah. The rabbis do not want to admit Jesus is the Messiah (Mat 28:11-15) and unfortunately most Jews do not even try to prove Jesus' messiah-ship by scripture. But on the other hand, neither do Christians. Most Jewish scripture-reading sessions, in fact, skip the very scriptures that would prove Jesus to be the Messiah.

The purpose of this work is to prove, by comparing Old and New Testament scriptures, particularly Old Testament prophesies, that Jesus is, in fact, the Messiah.

The approach is to give the requirement for messiah-ship, then give Old Testament scripture which describes that requirement, then give New Testament scripture proving that Jesus fulfilled that requirement.

THE PROOFS

1. The Messiah must be the "Seed" of the woman that would "bruise" the serpent's "head".

Gen 3:15 And I will put enmity Between you [the snake and Satan] and the woman, And between your seed and her Seed; He shall bruise your head, And you shall bruise His heel."

Gal 4:4-5 But when the fullness of the time had come, God sent forth His Son, born of a woman, born under the law, :5 to redeem those who were under the law, that we might receive the adoption as sons.

1 John 3:8 He who sins is of the devil, for the devil has sinned from the beginning. For this purpose the Son of God was manifested, that He might destroy the works of the devil [destroy or bruise Satan's head].

2. The Messiah must be the "seed of Abraham".

Gen 12:3 I will bless those who bless you [speaking to Abram], And I will curse him who curses you; And in you all the families of the earth shall be blessed."

Mat 1:1 The book of the genealogy of Jesus Christ, the Son of David, the Son of Abraham:

Acts 3:25 "You are sons of the prophets, and of the covenant which God made with our fathers, saying to Abraham, 'And in your seed all the families of the earth shall be blessed.'

Gal 3:16 Now to Abraham and his Seed were the promises made. He does not say, "And to seeds," as of many, but as of one, "And to your Seed," who is Christ.

3. The Messiah must be the "seed of Isaac".

Gen 17:19 Then God said: "No, Sarah your wife shall bear you a son, and you shall call his name Isaac; I will establish My covenant with him for an everlasting covenant, and with his descendants after him.

Gen 21:12 But God said to Abraham, "Do not let it be displeasing in your sight because of the lad or because of your bondwoman. Whatever Sarah has said to you, listen to her voice; for in Isaac your seed shall be called.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Luke 3:34 the son of Jacob, the son of Isaac, the son of Abraham, the son of Terah, the son of Nahor,

Heb 11:17-19 By faith Abraham, when he was tested, offered up Isaac, and he who had received the promises offered up his only begotten son, :18 of whom it was said, "In Isaac your seed shall be called," :19 concluding that God was able to raise him up, even from the dead, from which he also received him in a figurative sense.

4. The Messiah must be the "seed of Jacob" and the "star out of Jacob" who will "have dominion".

Gen 28:14 "Also your descendants shall be as the dust of the earth; you shall spread abroad to the west and the east, to the north and the south; and in you and in your seed all the families of the earth shall be blessed.

Num 24:17 "I see Him, but not now; I behold Him, but not near; A Star shall come out of Jacob; A Scepter shall rise out of Israel, And batter the brow of Moab, And destroy all the sons of tumult.

Num 24:19 Out of Jacob One shall have dominion, And destroy the remains of the city."

Mat 1:2 Abraham begot Isaac, Isaac begot Jacob, and Jacob begot Judah and his brothers.

Luke 3:34 the son of Jacob, the son of Isaac, the son of Abraham, the son of Terah, the son of Nahor,

Rev 22:16 "I, Jesus, have sent My angel to testify to you these things in the churches. I am the Root and the Offspring of David, the Bright and Morning Star."

5. The Messiah must be a descendant of Judah.

Gen 49:10 The scepter shall not depart from Judah, Nor a lawgiver from between his feet, Until Shiloh comes; And to Him shall be the obedience of the people.

Mat 1:2-3 Abraham begot Isaac, Isaac begot Jacob, and Jacob begot Judah and his brothers. :3 Judah begot Perez and Zerah by Tamar, Perez begot Hezron, and Hezron begot Ram.

Luke 3:33 the son of Amminadab, the son of Ram, the son of Hezron, the son of Perez, the son of Judah, Heb 7:14 For it is evident that our Lord arose from Judah, of which tribe Moses spoke nothing concerning priesthood.

6. The Messiah must be a descendant of David and heir to his throne.

2 Sam 7:12-13 "When your days are fulfilled and you rest with your fathers, I will set up your seed after you, who will come from your body, and I will establish his kingdom. :13 "He shall build a house for My name, and I will establish the throne of his kingdom forever.

Isa 9:6-7 For unto us a Child is born, Unto us a Son is given; And the government will be upon His shoulder. And His name will be called Wonderful, Counselor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace. :7 Of the increase of His government and peace There will be no end, Upon the throne of David and over His kingdom, To order it and establish it with judgment and justice From that time forward, even forever. The zeal of the LORD of hosts will perform this.

Jer 23:5 "Behold, the days are coming," says the LORD, "That I will raise to David a Branch of righteousness; A King shall reign and prosper, And execute judgment and righteousness in the earth.

Mat 1:1 The book of the genealogy of Jesus Christ, the Son of David, the Son of Abraham:

Mat 1:6 and Jesse begot David the king. David the king begot Solomon by her who had been the wife of Uriah.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Rom 1:4 and declared to be the Son of God with power according to the Spirit of holiness, by the resurrection from the dead.

7. The Messiah must have eternal existence.

Micah 5:1-2 Now gather yourself in troops, O daughter of troops; He has laid siege against us; They will strike the judge of Israel with a rod on the cheek. :2 "But you, Bethlehem Ephrathah, Though you are little among the thousands of Judah, Yet out of you shall come forth to Me The One to be Ruler in Israel, Whose goings forth are from of old, From everlasting."

John 8:58 Jesus said to them, "Most assuredly, I say to you, before Abraham was, I AM."

Col 1:15-19 He is the image of the invisible God, the firstborn over all creation. :16 For by Him all things were created that are in heaven and that are on earth, visible and invisible, whether thrones or dominions or principalities or powers. All things were created through Him and for Him. :17 And He is before all things, and in Him all things consist. :18 And He is the head of the body, the church, who is the beginning, the firstborn from the dead, that in all things He may have the preeminence. :19 For it pleased the Father that in Him all the fullness should dwell,

Eph 1:3-14 Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who has blessed us with every spiritual blessing in the heavenly places in Christ, :4 just as He chose us in Him before the foundation of the world, that we should be holy and without blame before Him in love, :5 having predestined us to adoption as sons by Jesus Christ to Himself, according to the good pleasure of His will, :6 to the praise of the glory of His grace, by which He has made us accepted in the Beloved. :7 In Him we have redemption through His blood, the forgiveness of sins, according to the riches of His grace :8 which He made to abound toward us in all wisdom and prudence, :9 having made known to us the mystery of His will, according to His good pleasure which He purposed in Himself, :10 that in the dispensation of the fullness of the times He might gather together in one all things in Christ, both which are in heaven and which are on earth; in Him. :11 In Him also we have obtained an inheritance, being predestined according to the purpose of Him who works all things according to the counsel of His will, :12 that we who first trusted in Christ should be to the praise of His glory. :13 In Him you also trusted, after you heard the word of truth, the gospel of your salvation; in whom also, having believed, you were sealed with the Holy Spirit of promise, :14 who is the guarantee of our inheritance until the redemption of the purchased possession, to the praise of His glory.

Rev 5:11 Then I looked, and I heard the voice of many angels around the throne, the living creatures, and the elders; and the number of them was ten thousand times ten thousand, and thousands of thousands,

8. The Messiah must be the Son of God.

Psa 2:7 "I will declare the decree: The LORD has said to Me, 'You are My Son, Today I have begotten You.

Prov 30:4 Who has ascended into heaven, or descended? Who has gathered the wind in His fists? Who has bound the waters in a garment? Who has established all the ends of the earth? What is His name, and what is His Son's name, If you know?

Wow! How could a non-Christian Jew miss that?

Mat 3:17 And suddenly a voice came from heaven, saying, "This is My beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased."

Luke 1:32 "He will be great, and will be called the Son of the Highest; and the Lord God will give Him the throne of His father David.

9. The Messiah must have God's own name, YHVH (Adonai) applied to him.

Isa 9:6-7 For unto us a Child is born, Unto us a Son is given; And the government will be upon His shoulder. And His name will be called Wonderful, Counselor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace. :7 Of the increase of His government and peace There will be no end, Upon the throne of David and over His kingdom, To order it and establish it with judgment and justice From that time forward, even forever. The zeal of the LORD of hosts will perform this.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Jer 23:5-6 "Behold, the days are coming," says the LORD, "That I will raise to David a Branch of righteousness; A King shall reign and prosper, And execute judgment and righteousness in the earth. :6 In His days Judah will be saved, And Israel will dwell safely; Now this is His name by which He will be called: THE LORD OUR RIGHTEOUSNESS.

Phil 2:9-11 Therefore God also has highly exalted Him and given Him the name which is above every name, :10 that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of those in heaven, and of those on earth, and of those under the earth, :11 and that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father.

10. Events in the Messiah's life must occur at specific times.

Dan 9:24-26 "Seventy weeks are determined For your people and for your holy city, To finish the transgression, To make an end of sins, To make reconciliation for iniquity, To bring in everlasting righteousness, To seal up vision and prophecy, And to anoint the Most Holy. :25 "Know therefore and understand, That from the going forth of the command To restore and build Jerusalem Until Messiah the Prince, There shall be seven weeks and sixty-two weeks; The street shall be built again, and the wall, Even in troublesome times. :26 "And after the sixty-two weeks Messiah shall be cut off, but not for Himself; And the people of the prince who is to come Shall destroy the city and the sanctuary. The end of it shall be with a flood, And till the end of the war desolations are determined.

Mat 2:16 Then Herod, when he saw that he was deceived by the wise men, was exceedingly angry; and he sent forth and put to death all the male children who were in Bethlehem and in all its districts, from two years old and under, according to the time which he had determined from the wise men.

Mat 2:19 But when Herod was dead, behold, an angel of the Lord appeared in a dream to Joseph in Egypt,

Luke 3:1 Now in the fifteenth year of the reign of Tiberius Caesar, Pontius Pilate being governor of Judea, Herod being tetrarch of Galilee, his brother Philip tetrarch of Iturea and the region of Trachonitis, and Lysanias tetrarch of Abilene,

Luke 3:23 Now Jesus Himself began His ministry at about thirty years of age, being (as was supposed) the son of Joseph, the son of Heli,

11. The Messiah must be born in Bethlehem, in Judah.

Micah 5:1-2 Now gather yourself in troops, O daughter of troops; He has laid siege against us; They will strike the judge of Israel with a rod on the cheek. :2 "But you, Bethlehem Ephrathah, Though you are little among the thousands of Judah, Yet out of you shall come forth to Me The One to be Ruler in Israel, Whose goings forth are from of old, From everlasting."

Mat 2:1 Now after Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judea in the days of Herod the king, behold, wise men from the East came to Jerusalem,

Luke 2:4-7 Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judea, to the city of David, which is called Bethlehem, because he was of the house and lineage of David, :5 to be registered with Mary, his betrothed wife, who was with child. :6 So it was, that while they were there, the days were completed for her to be delivered. :7 And she brought forth her firstborn Son, and wrapped Him in swaddling cloths, and laid Him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn.

12. The Messiah must be born of a virgin.

Isa 7:14 "Therefore the Lord Himself will give you a sign: Behold, the virgin shall conceive and bear a Son, and shall call His name Immanuel.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Mat 1:18-21 Now the birth of Jesus Christ was as follows: After His mother Mary was betrothed to Joseph, before they came together, she was found with child of the Holy Spirit. :19 Then Joseph her husband, being a just man, and not wanting to make her a public example, was minded to put her away secretly. :20 But while he thought about these things, behold, an angel of the Lord appeared to him in a dream, saying, "Joseph, son of David, do not be afraid to take to you Mary your wife, for that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Spirit. :21 "And she will bring forth a Son, and you shall call His name JESUS, for He will save His people from their sins."

Luke 1:26-35 Now in the sixth month the angel Gabriel was sent by God to a city of Galilee named Nazareth, :27 to a virgin betrothed to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David. The virgin's name was Mary. :28 And having come in, the angel said to her, "Rejoice, highly favored one, the Lord is with you; blessed are you among women!" :29 But when she saw him, she was troubled at his saying, and considered what manner of greeting this was. :30 Then the angel said to her, "Do not be afraid, Mary, for you have found favor with God. :31 "And behold, you will conceive in your womb and bring forth a Son, and shall call His name JESUS. :32 "He will be great, and will be called the Son of the Highest; and the Lord God will give Him the throne of His father David. :33 "And He will reign over the house of Jacob forever, and of His kingdom there will be no end." :34 Then Mary said to the angel, "How can this be, since I do not know a man?" :35 And the angel answered and said to her, "The Holy Spirit will come upon you, and the power of the Highest will overshadow you; therefore, also, that Holy One who is to be born will be called the Son of God.

13. The Messiah must be adored by great persons.

Psa 72:10-11 The kings of Tarshish and of the isles Will bring presents; The kings of Sheba and Seba Will offer gifts. :11 Yes, all kings shall fall down before Him; All nations shall serve Him.

Mat 2:1-11 Now after Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judea in the days of Herod the king, behold, wise men from the East came to Jerusalem, :2 saying, "Where is He who has been born King of the Jews? For we have seen His star in the East and have come to worship Him." :3 When Herod the king heard this, he was troubled, and all Jerusalem with him. :4 And when he had gathered all the chief priests and scribes of the people together, he inquired of them where the Christ was to be born. :5 So they said to him, "In Bethlehem of Judea, for thus it is written by the prophet: :6 'But you, Bethlehem, in the land of Judah, Are not the least among the rulers of Judah; For out of you shall come a Ruler Who will shepherd My people Israel.' " :7 Then Herod, when he had secretly called the wise men, determined from them what time the star appeared. :8 And he sent them to Bethlehem and said, "Go and search carefully for the young Child, and when you have found Him, bring back word to me, that I may come and worship Him also." :9 When they heard the king, they departed; and behold, the star which they had seen in the East went before them, till it came and stood over where the young Child was. :10 When they saw the star, they rejoiced with exceedingly great joy. :11 And when they had come into the house, they saw the young Child with Mary His mother, and fell down and worshiped Him. And when they had opened their treasures, they presented gifts to Him: gold, frankincense, and myrrh.

14. The Messiah must be preceded by one who would announce him.

Isa 40:3-5 The voice of one crying in the wilderness: "Prepare the way of the LORD; Make straight in the desert A highway for our God. :4 Every valley shall be exalted And every mountain and hill brought low; The crooked places shall be made straight And the rough places smooth; :5 The glory of the LORD shall be revealed, And all flesh shall see it together; For the mouth of the LORD has spoken."

Mal 3:1 "Behold, I send My messenger, And he will prepare the way before Me. And the Lord, whom you seek, Will suddenly come to His temple, Even the Messenger of the covenant, In whom you delight. Behold, He is coming," Says the LORD of hosts.

Mat 3:1-3 In those days John the Baptist came preaching in the wilderness of Judea, :2 and saying, "Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand!" :3 For this is he who was spoken of by the prophet Isaiah, saying: "The voice of one crying in the wilderness: 'Prepare the way of the LORD; Make His paths straight.' "

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Luke 1:17 "He will also go before Him in the spirit and power of Elijah, 'to turn the hearts of the fathers to the children,' and the disobedient to the wisdom of the just, to make ready a people prepared for the Lord."

Luke 3:2-6 while Annas and Caiaphas were high priests, the word of God came to John the son of Zacharias in the wilderness. :3 And he went into all the region around the Jordan, preaching a baptism of repentance for the remission of sins, :4 as it is written in the book of the words of Isaiah the prophet, saying: "The voice of one crying in the wilderness: 'Prepare the way of the LORD; Make His paths straight. :5 Every valley shall be filled And every mountain and hill brought low; The crooked places shall be made straight And the rough ways smooth; :6 And all flesh shall see the salvation of God.' "

15. The Messiah must be anointed with the Spirit of God.

Psa 45:7 You love righteousness and hate wickedness; Therefore God, Your God, has anointed You With the oil of gladness more than Your companions.

Isa 11:2 The Spirit of the LORD shall rest upon Him, The Spirit of wisdom and understanding, The Spirit of counsel and might, The Spirit of knowledge and of the fear of the LORD.

Isa 61:1 "The Spirit of the Lord GOD is upon Me, Because the LORD has anointed Me To preach good tidings to the poor; He has sent Me to heal the brokenhearted, To proclaim liberty to the captives, And the opening of the prison to those who are bound;

Mat 3:16 When He had been baptized, Jesus came up immediately from the water; and behold, the heavens were opened to Him, and He saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove and alighting upon Him.

John 3:34 "For He whom God has sent speaks the words of God, for God does not give the Spirit by measure.

Acts 10:38 "how God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Spirit and with power, who went about doing good and healing all who were oppressed by the devil, for God was with Him.

16. The Messiah must be a prophet like Moses.

Deu 18:15 "The LORD your God will raise up for you a Prophet like me from your midst, from your brethren. Him you shall hear,

Deu 18:18 'I will raise up for them a Prophet like you from among their brethren, and will put My words in His mouth, and He shall speak to them all that I command Him.

Acts 3:20-22 "and that He may send Jesus Christ, who was preached to you before, :21 "whom heaven must receive until the times of restoration of all things, which God has spoken by the mouth of all His holy prophets since the world began. :22 "For Moses truly said to the fathers, 'The LORD your God will raise up for you a Prophet like me from your brethren. Him you shall hear in all things, whatever He says to you.

17. The Messiah must have a ministry of binding up the brokenhearted, proclaiming liberty to the captives and announcing the acceptable year of the Lord.

Isa 61:1-2 "The Spirit of the Lord GOD is upon Me, Because the LORD has anointed Me To preach good tidings to the poor; He has sent Me to heal the brokenhearted, To proclaim liberty to the captives, And the opening of the prison to those who are bound; :2 To proclaim the acceptable year of the LORD, And the day of vengeance of our God; To comfort all who mourn,

Luke 4:18-21 "The Spirit of the LORD is upon Me, Because He has anointed Me To preach the gospel to the poor; He has sent Me to heal the brokenhearted, To proclaim liberty to the captives And recovery of sight to the blind, To set at liberty those who are oppressed; :19 To proclaim the acceptable year of the LORD." :20 And he closed the book, and he gave it again to the minister, and sat down. And the eyes of all them that were in the synagogue were fastened on him. :21 And he began to say unto them, This day is this scripture fulfilled in your ears.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

18. The Messiah must have a ministry of healing.

Isa 35:5-6 Then the eyes of the blind shall be opened, And the ears of the deaf shall be unstopped. :6 Then the lame shall leap like a deer, And the tongue of the dumb sing. For waters shall burst forth in the wilderness, And streams in the desert.

Isa 42:18 "Hear, you deaf; And look, you blind, that you may see.

Mat 11:4-5 (KJV) Jesus answered and said unto them, Go and show John again those things which ye do hear and see: :5 "The blind see and the lame walk; the lepers are cleansed and the deaf hear; the dead are raised up and the poor have the gospel preached to them.

19. The Messiah must have a ministry in the Galilee.

Isa 9:1-2 Nevertheless the gloom will not be upon her who is distressed, As when at first He lightly esteemed The land of Zebulun and the land of Naphtali, And afterward more heavily oppressed her, By the way of the sea, beyond the Jordan, In Galilee of the Gentiles. :2 The people who walked in darkness Have seen a great light; Those who dwelt in the land of the shadow of death, Upon them a light has shined.

So here we have Christ in the Roman-dominated and oppressed Galilee.

Mat 4:12-16 Now when Jesus heard that John had been put in prison, He departed to Galilee. :13 And leaving Nazareth, He came and dwelt in Capernaum, which is by the sea, in the regions of Zebulun and Naphtali, :14 that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by Isaiah the prophet, saying: :15 "The land of Zebulun and the land of Naphtali, By the way of the sea, beyond the Jordan, Galilee of the Gentiles: :16 The people who sat in darkness have seen a great light, And upon those who sat in the region and shadow of death Light has dawned."

20. The Messiah must be tender and compassionate.

Isa 40:11 He will feed His flock like a shepherd; He will gather the lambs with His arm, And carry them in His bosom, And gently lead those who are with young.

Isa 42:3 A bruised reed He will not break, And smoking flax He will not quench; He will bring forth justice for truth.

Mat 12:15 But when Jesus knew it, He withdrew from there. And great multitudes followed Him, and He healed them all.

verse 20 A bruised reed He will not break, And smoking flax He will not quench, Till He sends forth justice to victory;

Heb 4:15 For we do not have a High Priest who cannot sympathize with our weaknesses, but was in all points tempted as we are, yet without sin.

21. The Messiah must be meek and unostentatious. (Ostentatious means being a show-off.)

Isa 42:2 He will not cry out, nor raise His voice, Nor cause His voice to be heard in the street.

Mat 12:15-19 But when Jesus knew it, He withdrew from there. And great multitudes followed Him, and He healed them all. :16 Yet He warned them not to make Him known, :17 that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by Isaiah the prophet, saying: :18 "Behold! My Servant whom I have chosen, My Beloved in whom My soul is well pleased! I will put My Spirit upon Him, And He will declare justice to the Gentiles. :19 He will not quarrel nor cry out, Nor will anyone hear His voice in the streets.

Those who preach in the streets today should read this.

22. The Messiah must be sinless and without guile.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Isa 53:9 And they made His grave with the wicked; But with the rich at His death, Because He had done no violence, Nor was any deceit in His mouth.

1 Pet 2:22 "Who committed no sin, Nor was deceit found in His mouth";

23. The Messiah must bear the reproaches due others. What are "reproaches"? A reproach is a blame put on others.

Psa 69:9 Because zeal for Your house has eaten me up, And the reproaches of those who reproach You have fallen on me.

Isa 53:12 Therefore I will divide Him a portion with the great, And He shall divide the spoil with the strong, Because He poured out His soul unto death, And He was numbered with the transgressors, And He bore the sin of many, And made intercession for the transgressors.

Rom 15:3 For even Christ did not please Himself; but as it is written, "The reproaches of those who reproached You fell on Me."

Have you ever been made a reproach for others? If you have, you know it is not fun.

24. The Messiah must be a priest.

Psa 110:4 The LORD has sworn And will not relent, "You are a priest forever According to the order of Melchizedek [Mal-kee-tseh'-dek]."

Heb 5:5-6 So also Christ did not glorify Himself to become High Priest, but it was He who said to Him: "You are My Son, Today I have begotten You." :6 As He also says in another place: "You are a priest forever According to the order of Melchizedek";

Heb 6:20 where the forerunner has entered for us, even Jesus, having become High Priest forever according to the order of Melchizedek.

Heb 7:15-17 And it is yet far more evident if, in the likeness of Melchizedek, there arises another priest :16 who has come, not according to the law of a fleshly commandment, but according to the power of an endless life. :17 For He testifies: "You are a priest forever According to the order of Melchizedek."

25. The Messiah must enter publicly into Jerusalem on a donkey.

Zec 9:9 "Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion! Shout, O daughter of Jerusalem! Behold, your King is coming to you; He is just and having salvation, Lowly and riding on a donkey, A colt, the foal of a donkey.

Mat 21:1-11 Now when they drew near Jerusalem, and came to Bethphage, at the Mount of Olives, then Jesus sent two disciples, :2 saying to them, "Go into the village opposite you, and immediately you will find a donkey tied, and a colt with her. Loose them and bring them to Me. :3 "And if anyone says anything to you, you shall say, 'The Lord has need of them,' and immediately he will send them." :4 All this was done that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying: :5 "Tell the daughter of Zion, 'Behold, your King is coming to you, Lowly, and sitting on a donkey, A colt, the foal of a donkey.' " :6 So the disciples went and did as Jesus commanded them. :7 They brought the donkey and the colt, laid their clothes on them, and set Him on them. :8 And a very great multitude spread their clothes on the road; others cut down branches from the trees and spread them on the road. :9 Then the multitudes who went before and those who followed cried out, saying: "Hosanna to the Son of David! 'Blessed is He who comes in the name of the LORD!' Hosanna in the highest!" :10 And when He had come into Jerusalem, all the city was moved, saying, "Who is this?" :11 So the multitudes said, "This is Jesus, the prophet from Nazareth of Galilee."

Mark 11:1-11 Now when they drew near Jerusalem, to Bethphage and Bethany, at the Mount of Olives, He sent two of His disciples; :2 and He said to them, "Go into the village opposite you; and as soon as you have entered it you will find a colt tied, on which no one has sat. Loose it and bring it. :3 "And if anyone says to you, 'Why are you doing this?' say, 'The Lord has need of it,' and immediately he will send it here." :4 So they went their way, and found the colt tied by the door outside on the street, and they loosed it. :5 But some of those who stood there said to them, "What are you doing, loosing the colt?" :6 And they spoke to them just as Jesus had commanded. So they let them go. :7 Then they brought the colt to Jesus and threw their clothes on it, and He sat on it. :8 And many spread their clothes on the road, and others cut down leafy branches from the trees and spread them on the road. :9 Then those who went before and those who followed cried out, saying: "Hosanna! 'Blessed is He who comes in the name of the LORD!' :10 Blessed is the kingdom of our father David That comes in the name of the Lord! Hosanna in the highest!" :11 And Jesus went into Jerusalem and into the temple. So when He had looked around at all things, as the hour was already late, He went out to Bethany with the twelve.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

26. The Messiah must enter the Temple with authority.

Hag 2:7-9 'and I will shake all nations, and they shall come to the Desire of All Nations, and I will fill this temple with glory,' says the LORD of hosts. :8 'The silver is Mine, and the gold is Mine,' says the LORD of hosts. :9 'The glory of this latter temple shall be greater than the former,' says the LORD of hosts. 'And in this place I will give peace,' says the LORD of hosts."

Mal 3:1 "Behold, I send My messenger, And he will prepare the way before Me. And the Lord, whom you seek, Will suddenly come to His temple, Even the Messenger of the covenant, In whom you delight. Behold, He is coming," Says the LORD of hosts.

His temple must exist when He comes.

Mat 21:12-24 Then Jesus went into the temple of God and drove out all those who bought and sold in the temple, and overturned the tables of the money changers and the seats of those who sold doves. :13 And He said to them, "It is written, 'My house shall be called a house of prayer,' but you have made it a 'den of thieves.' " :14 Then the blind and the lame came to Him in the temple, and He healed them. :15 But when the chief priests and scribes saw the wonderful things that He did, and the children crying out in the temple and saying, "Hosanna to the Son of David!" they were indignant :16 and said to Him, "Do You hear what these are saying?" And Jesus said to them, "Yes. Have you never read, 'Out of the mouth of babes and nursing infants You have perfected praise'?" :17 Then He left them and went out of the city to Bethany, and He lodged there. :18 Now in the morning, as He returned to the city, He was hungry. :19 And seeing a fig tree by the road, He came to it and found nothing on it but leaves, and said to it, "Let no fruit grow on you ever again." Immediately the fig tree withered away. :20 And when the disciples saw it, they marveled, saying, "How did the fig tree wither away so soon?" :21 So Jesus answered and said to them, "Assuredly, I say to you, if you have faith and do not doubt, you will not only do what was done to the fig tree, but also if you say to this mountain, 'Be removed and be cast into the sea,' it will be done. :22 "And whatever things you ask in prayer, believing, you will receive." :23 Now when He came into the temple, the chief priests and the elders of the people confronted Him as He was teaching, and said, "By what authority are You doing these things? And who gave You this authority?" :24 But Jesus answered and said to them, "I also will ask you one thing, which if you tell Me, I likewise will tell you by what authority I do these things:

Luke 2:45-50 So when they did not find Him, they returned to Jerusalem, seeking Him. :46 Now so it was that after three days they found Him in the temple, sitting in the midst of the teachers, both listening to them and asking them questions. :47 And all who heard Him were astonished at His understanding and answers. :48 So when they saw Him, they were amazed; and His mother said to Him, "Son, why have You done this to us? Look, Your father and I have sought You anxiously." :49 And He said to them, "Why did you seek Me? Did you not know that I must be about My Father's business?" :50 But they did not understand the statement which He spoke to them.

John 2:13-22 Now the Passover of the Jews was at hand, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem. :14 And He found in the temple those who sold oxen and sheep and doves, and the moneychangers doing business. :15 When He had made a whip of cords, He drove them all out of the temple, with the sheep and the oxen, and poured out the changers' money and overturned the tables. :16 And He said to those who sold doves, "Take these things away! Do not make My Father's house a house of merchandise!" [Let me refer you back to Psalm 69:9 which we red as part of point #23.] :17 Then His disciples remembered that it was written, "Zeal for Your house has eaten Me up." :18 So the Jews answered and said to Him, "What sign do You show to us, since You do these things?" :19 Jesus answered and said to them, "Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up." :20 Then the Jews said, "It has taken forty-six years to build this temple, and will You raise it up in three days?" :21 But He was speaking of the temple of His body. :22 Therefore, when He had risen from the dead, His disciples remembered that He had said this to them; and they believed the Scripture and the word which Jesus had said.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The following verses also refer to a spiritual temple (metaphorical):

1 Cor 3:16-17 Do you not know that you are the temple of God and that the Spirit of God dwells in you? :17 If anyone defiles the temple of God, God will destroy him. For the temple of God is holy, which temple you are.

2 Cor 6:16 And what agreement has the temple of God with idols? For you are the temple of the living God. As God has said: "I will dwell in them And walk among them. I will be their God, And they shall be My people."

Eph 2:19-22 Now, therefore, you are no longer strangers and foreigners, but fellow citizens with the saints and members of the household of God, :20 having been built on the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ Himself being the chief corner stone, :21 in whom the whole building, being joined together, grows into a holy temple in the Lord, :22 in whom you also are being built together for a dwelling place of God in the Spirit.

27. The Messiah must be hated without cause.

Psa 69:4 Those who hate me without a cause Are more than the hairs of my head; They are mighty who would destroy me, Being my enemies wrongfully; Though I have stolen nothing, I still must restore it.

Isa 49:7 Thus says the LORD, The Redeemer of Israel, their Holy One, To Him whom man despises, To Him whom the nation abhors, To the Servant of rulers: "Kings shall see and arise, Princes also shall worship, Because of the LORD who is faithful, The Holy One of Israel; And He has chosen You."

John 7:48 "Have any of the rulers or the Pharisees believed in Him?

John 15:24-25 "If I had not done among them the works which no one else did, they would have no sin; but now they have seen and also hated both Me and My Father. :25 "But this happened that the word might be fulfilled which is written in their law, 'They hated Me without a cause.'

28. The Messiah must be undesired and rejected by his own people.

Psa 69:8 I have become a stranger to my brothers, And an alien to my mother's children;

Isa 53:2 For He shall grow up before Him as a tender plant, And as a root out of dry ground. He has no form or comeliness; And when we see Him, There is no beauty that we should desire Him.

Mark 6:3 "Is this not the carpenter, the Son of Mary [Miryam'], and brother of James [Ya`akov], Joses [Yosi], Judas [Y'hudah], and Simon [Shim`on]? And are not His sisters here with us?" And they were offended at Him.

Luke 9:58 And Jesus said to him, "Foxes have holes and birds of the air have nests, but the Son of Man has nowhere to lay His head."

John 1:11 He came to His own, and His own did not receive Him.

John 7:3-5 His brothers therefore said to Him, "Depart from here and go into Judea, that Your disciples also may see the works that You are doing. :4 "For no one does anything in secret while he himself seeks to be known openly. If You do these things, show Yourself to the world." :5 For even His brothers did not believe in Him.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

29. The Messiah must be rejected by the Jewish leadership.

Psa 118:22 The stone which the builders rejected Has become the chief cornerstone.

Mat 21:42 Jesus said to them, "Have you never read in the Scriptures: 'The stone which the builders rejected Has become the chief cornerstone. This was the Lord's doing, And it is marvelous in our eyes'?

John 7:48 "Have any of the rulers or the Pharisees believed in Him?

The Pharisees still control the Orthodox Jewish religion.

30. The Messiah must be plotted against by Jews and Gentiles together.

Psa 2:1-2 Why do the nations rage, And the people plot a vain thing? :2 The kings of the earth set themselves, And the rulers take counsel together, Against the LORD and against His Anointed, ...

Acts 4:27-28 (NIV) Indeed Herod and Pontius Pilate met together with the Gentiles and the people of Israel in this city to conspire against your holy servant Jesus, whom you anointed. :28 They did what your power and will had decided beforehand should happen.

Yes, the rulers of this world do the will of God, whether they know it or not.

31. The Messiah must be betrayed by a friend.

Psa 41:9 Even my own familiar friend in whom I trusted, Who ate my bread, Has lifted up his heel against me.

Mat 26:21-25 Now as they were eating, He said, "Assuredly, I say to you, one of you will betray Me." :22 And they were exceedingly sorrowful, and each of them began to say to Him, "Lord, is it I?" :23 He answered and said, "He who dipped his hand with Me in the dish will betray Me. :24 "The Son of Man indeed goes just as it is written of Him, but woe to that man by whom the Son of Man is betrayed! It would have been good for that man if he had not been born." :25 Then Judas, who was betraying Him, answered and said, "Rabbi, is it I?" He said to him, "You have said it."

Mat 26:47 And while He was still speaking, behold, Judas, one of the twelve, with a great multitude with swords and clubs, came from the chief priests and elders of the people.

verse 50 But Jesus said to him, "Friend, why have you come?" Then they came and laid hands on Jesus and took Him.

John 13:18-21 "I do not speak concerning all of you. I know whom I have chosen; but that the Scripture may be fulfilled, 'He who eats bread with Me has lifted up his heel against Me.' :19 "Now I tell you before it comes, that when it does come to pass, you may believe that I am He. :20 "Most assuredly, I say to you, he who receives whomever I send receives Me; and he who receives Me receives Him who sent Me." :21 When Jesus had said these things, He was troubled in spirit, and testified and said, "Most assuredly, I say to you, one of you will betray Me."

Acts 1:16-18 "Men and brethren, this Scripture had to be fulfilled, which the Holy Spirit spoke before by the mouth of David concerning Judas, who became a guide to those who arrested Jesus; :17 "for he was numbered with us and obtained a part in this ministry." :18 (Now this man purchased a field with the wages of iniquity; and falling headlong, he burst open in the middle and all his entrails gushed out.

32. The Messiah must be sold for thirty pieces of silver.

Zec 11:12 Then I said to them, "If it is agreeable to you, give me my wages; and if not, refrain." So they weighed out for my wages thirty pieces of silver.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Mat 26:15 and said, "What are you willing to give me if I deliver Him to you?" And they counted out to him thirty pieces of silver.

33. The Messiah must have his price given for a potters field.

Zec 11:13 And the LORD said to me, "Throw it to the potter"; that princely price they set on me. So I took the thirty pieces of silver and threw them into the house of the LORD for the potter.

Mat 27:3-8 (NIV) When Judas, who had betrayed him, saw that Jesus was condemned, he was seized with remorse and returned the thirty silver coins to the chief priests and the elders. :4 "I have sinned," he said, "for I have betrayed innocent blood." "What is that to us?" they replied. "That's your responsibility." :5 So Judas threw the money into the temple and left. Then he went away and hanged himself. :6 The chief priests picked up the coins and said, "It is against the law to put this into the treasury, since it is blood money." :7 So they decided to use the money to buy the potter's field as a burial place for foreigners. :8 That is why it has been called the Field of Blood to this day.

Wasn't that righteous of them! Sounds like our politicians today.

34. The Messiah must be forsaken by his disciples.

Zec 13:7 "Awake, O sword, against My Shepherd, Against the Man who is My Companion," Says the LORD of hosts. "Strike the Shepherd, And the sheep will be scattered; Then I will turn My hand against the little ones.

Mat 26:31 Then Jesus said to them, "All of you will be made to stumble because of Me this night, for it is written: 'I will strike the Shepherd, And the sheep of the flock will be scattered.'

verse 56 "But all this was done that the Scriptures of the prophets might be fulfilled." Then all the disciples forsook Him and fled.

35. The Messiah must be struck on the cheek.

Micah 5:1 Now gather yourself in troops, O daughter of troops; He has laid siege against us; They will strike the judge of Israel with a rod on the cheek.

Mat 27:30 Then they spat on Him, and took the reed and struck Him on the head.

36. The Messiah must be spat on.

Isa 50:6 I gave My back to those who struck Me, And My cheeks to those who plucked out the beard; I did not hide My face from shame and spitting.

We just read the verse in Mat 27:30 but here's another:

Mat 26:67 Then they spat in His face and beat Him; and others struck Him with the palms of their hands,

37. The Messiah must be mocked.

Psa 22:7-8 All those who see Me ridicule Me; They shoot out the lip, they shake the head, saying, :8 "He trusted in the LORD, let Him rescue Him; Let Him deliver Him, since He delights in Him!"

Mat 27:31 And when they had mocked Him, they took the robe off Him, put His own clothes on Him, and led Him away to be crucified.

Mat 27:39-44 And those who passed by blasphemed Him, wagging their heads :40 and saying, "You who destroy the temple and build it in three days, save Yourself! If You are the Son of God, come down from the cross." :41 Likewise the chief priests also, mocking with the scribes and elders, said, :42 "He saved others; Himself He cannot save. If He is the King of Israel, let Him now come down from the cross, and we will believe Him. :43 "He trusted in God; let Him deliver Him now if He will have Him; for He said, 'I am the Son of God.' " :44 Even the robbers who were crucified with Him reviled Him with the same thing.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

38. The Messiah must be beaten. [We just read these verses so I'll just list them for you again.]

Isa 50:6 I gave My back to those who struck Me, And My cheeks to those who plucked out the beard; I did not hide My face from shame and spitting.

Mat 26:67 Then they spat in His face and beat Him; and others struck Him with the palms of their hands,

Mat 27:26 Then he released Barabbas to them; and when he had scourged Jesus, he delivered Him to be crucified.

Mat 27:30 Then they spat on Him, and took the reed and struck Him on the head.

39. The Messiah must be executed by crucifixion, by having his hands and feet pierced.

Psa 22:16 For dogs have surrounded Me; The congregation of the wicked has enclosed Me. They pierced My hands and My feet;

Zec 12:10 "And I will pour on the house of David and on the inhabitants of Jerusalem the Spirit of grace and supplication; then they will look on Me whom they pierced. Yes, they will mourn for Him as one mourns for his only son, and grieve for Him as one grieves for a firstborn.

Mat 27:35 Then they crucified Him, and divided His garments, casting lots, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet: "They divided My garments among them, And for My clothing they cast lots."

Luke 24:39 "Behold My hands and My feet, that it is I Myself. Handle Me and see, for a spirit does not have flesh and bones as you see I have."

Rev 1:7 Behold, He is coming with clouds, and every eye will see Him, even they who pierced Him. And all the tribes of the earth will mourn because of Him. Even so, Amen.

40. The Messiah must be thirsty during his execution.

Psa 22:15 My strength is dried up like a potsherd [a piece of pottery], And My tongue clings to My jaws; You have brought Me to the dust of death.

John 19:28 After this, Jesus, knowing that all things were now accomplished, that the Scripture might be fulfilled, said, "I thirst!"

41. The Messiah must be given vinegar to quench that thirst.

Psa 69:21 They also gave me gall [a poisonous plant] for my food, And for my thirst they gave me vinegar to drink.

Mat 27:34 they gave Him sour wine mingled with gall to drink. But when He had tasted it, He would not drink.

42. The Messiah must be executed without having a bone broken.

Exo 12:46 "In one house it shall be eaten; you shall not carry any of the flesh outside the house, nor shall you break one of its bones.

Psa 34:20 He guards all his bones; Not one of them is broken.

John 19:33-36 But when they came to Jesus and saw that He was already dead, they did not break His legs. :34 But one of the soldiers pierced His side with a spear, and immediately blood and water came out. :35 And he who has seen has testified, and his testimony is true; and he knows that he is telling the truth, so that you may believe. :36 For these things were done that the Scripture should be fulfilled, "Not one of His bones shall be broken."

43. The Messiah must be considered a transgressor.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Isa 53:12 Therefore I will divide Him a portion with the great, And He shall divide the spoil with the strong, Because He poured out His soul unto death, And He was numbered with the transgressors, And He bore the sin of many, And made intercession for the transgressors.

Mat 27:38 Then two robbers were crucified with Him, one on the right and another on the left.

44. The Messiah must be the one whose death would atone for the sins of mankind.

Isa 53:5-7 But He was wounded for our transgressions, He was bruised for our iniquities; The chastisement for our peace was upon Him, And by His stripes we are healed. :6 All we like sheep have gone astray; We have turned, every one, to his own way; And the LORD has laid on Him the iniquity of us all. :7 He was oppressed and He was afflicted, Yet He opened not His mouth; He was led as a lamb to the slaughter, And as a sheep before its shearers is silent, So He opened not His mouth.

Isa 53:12 Therefore I will divide Him a portion with the great, And He shall divide the spoil with the strong, Because He poured out His soul unto death, And He was numbered with the transgressors, And He bore the sin of many, And made intercession for the transgressors.

Mark 10:45 "For even the Son of Man did not come to be served, but to serve, and to give His life a ransom for many."

John 1:29 The next day John saw Jesus coming toward him, and said, "Behold! The Lamb of God who takes away the sin of the world!

John 3:16 "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whoever believes in Him should not perish but have everlasting life.

Acts 8:30-35 So Philip ran to him, and heard him reading the prophet Isaiah, and said, "Do you understand what you are reading?" :31 And he said, "How can I, unless someone guides me?" And he asked Philip to come up and sit with him. :32 The place in the Scripture which he read was this: "He was led as a sheep to the slaughter; And as a lamb before its shearer is silent, So He opened not His mouth. :33 In His humiliation His justice was taken away, And who will declare His generation? For His life is taken from the earth." :34 So the eunuch answered Philip and said, "I ask you, of whom does the prophet say this, of himself or of some other man?" :35 Then Philip opened his mouth, and beginning at this Scripture, preached Jesus to him.

45. The Messiah must be buried with the rich when dead.

Isa 53:9 And they made His grave with the wicked; But with the rich at His death, Because He had done no violence, Nor was any deceit in His mouth.

Mat 27:57-60 Now when evening had come, there came a rich man from Arimathea [Ar-ee-math'-ia], named Joseph, who himself had also become a disciple of Jesus. :58 This man went to Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus. Then Pilate commanded the body to be given to him. :59 When Joseph had taken the body, he wrapped it in a clean linen cloth, :60 and laid it in his new tomb which he had hewn out of the rock; and he rolled a large stone against the door of the tomb, and departed.

46. The Messiah must be raised from the dead.

Psa 2:7 "I will declare the decree: The LORD has said to Me, 'You are My Son, Today I have begotten You.

Psa 16:10 For You will not leave my soul in Sheol, Nor will You allow Your Holy One to see corruption.

Isa 53:9-10 And they made His grave with the wicked; But with the rich at His death, Because He had done no violence, Nor was any deceit in His mouth. :10 Yet it pleased the LORD to bruise Him; He has put Him to grief. When You make His soul an offering for sin, He shall see His seed, He shall prolong His days, And the pleasure of the LORD shall prosper in His hand.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Mat 28 Now after the Sabbath, as the first day of the week began to dawn, Mary Magdalene and the other Mary came to see the tomb. :2 And behold, there was a great earthquake; for an angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and came and rolled back the stone from the door, and sat on it. :3 His countenance was like lightning, and his clothing as white as snow. :4 And the guards shook for fear of him, and became like dead men. :5 But the angel answered and said to the women, "Do not be afraid, for I know that you seek Jesus who was crucified. :6 "He is not here; for He is risen, as He said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay. :7 "And go quickly and tell His disciples that He is risen from the dead, and indeed He is going before you into Galilee; there you will see Him. Behold, I have told you." :8 So they went out quickly from the tomb with fear and great joy, and ran to bring His disciples word. :9 And as they went to tell His disciples, behold, Jesus met them, saying, "Rejoice!" So they came and held Him by the feet and worshiped Him. :10 Then Jesus said to them, "Do not be afraid. Go and tell My brethren to go to Galilee, and there they will see Me." :11 Now while they were going, behold, some of the guard came into the city and reported to the chief priests all the things that had happened. :12 When they had assembled with the elders and consulted together, they gave a large sum of money to the soldiers, :13 saying, "Tell them, 'His disciples came at night and stole Him away while we slept.' :14 "And if this comes to the governor's ears, we will appease him and make you secure." :15 So they took the money and did as they were instructed; and this saying is commonly reported among the Jews until this day. :16 Then the eleven disciples went away into Galilee, to the mountain which Jesus had appointed for them. :17 When they saw Him, they worshiped Him; but some doubted. :18 And Jesus came and spoke to them, saying, "All authority has been given to Me in heaven and on earth. :19 "Go therefore and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, :20 "teaching them to observe all things that I have commanded you; and lo, I am with you always, even to the end of the age." Amen.

Acts 2:23-36 "Him, being delivered by the determined purpose and foreknowledge of God, you have taken by lawless hands, have crucified, and put to death; :24 "whom God raised up, having loosed the pains of death, because it was not possible that He should be held by it. :25 "For David says concerning Him: 'I foresaw the LORD always before my face, For He is at my right hand, that I may not be shaken. :26 Therefore my heart rejoiced, and my tongue was glad; Moreover my flesh also will rest in hope. :27 For You will not leave my soul in Hades, Nor will You allow Your Holy One to see corruption. :28 You have made known to me the ways of life; You will make me full of joy in Your presence.' :29 "Men and brethren, let me speak freely to you of the patriarch David, that he is both dead and buried, and his tomb is with us to this day. :30 "Therefore, being a prophet, and knowing that God had sworn with an oath to him that of the fruit of his body, according to the flesh, He would raise up the Christ to sit on his throne, :31 "he, foreseeing this, spoke concerning the resurrection of the Christ, that His soul was not left in Hades, nor did His flesh see corruption. :32 "This Jesus God has raised up, of which we are all witnesses. :33 "Therefore being exalted to the right hand of God, and having received from the Father the promise of the Holy Spirit, He poured out this which you now see and hear. :34 "For David did not ascend into the heavens, but he says himself: 'The LORD said to my Lord, "Sit at My right hand, :35 Till I make Your enemies Your footstool." ' :36 "Therefore let all the house of Israel know assuredly that God has made this Jesus, whom you crucified, both Lord and Christ."

Acts 13:33-37 "God has fulfilled this for us their children, in that He has raised up Jesus. As it is also written in the second Psalm: 'You are My Son, Today I have begotten You.' :34 "And that He raised Him from the dead, no more to return to corruption, He has spoken thus: 'I will give you the sure mercies of David.' :35 "Therefore He also says in another Psalm: 'You will not allow Your Holy One to see corruption.' :36 "For David, after he had served his own generation by the will of God, fell asleep, was buried with his fathers, and saw corruption [rotted]; :37 "but He whom God raised up saw no corruption [didn't rot].

1 Cor 15:4-6 and that He was buried, and that He rose again the third day according to the Scriptures, :5 and that He was seen by Cephas [Peter], then by the twelve. :6 After that He was seen by over five hundred brethren at once, of whom the greater part remain to the present, but some have fallen asleep.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

47. The Messiah must ascend to the right hand of God.

Psa 16:11 You will show me the path of life; In Your presence is fullness of joy; At Your right hand are pleasures forevermore.

Psa 68:18 You have ascended on high, You have led captivity captive; You have received gifts among men, Even from the rebellious, That the LORD God might dwell there.

Psa 110:1 The LORD said to my Lord, "Sit at My right hand, Till I make Your enemies Your footstool."

Luke 24:51 Now it came to pass, while He blessed them, that He was parted from them and carried up into heaven.

Acts 1:9-11 Now when He had spoken these things, while they watched, He was taken up, and a cloud received Him out of their sight. :10 And while they looked steadfastly toward heaven as He went up, behold, two men stood by them in white apparel, :11 who also said, "Men of Galilee, why do you stand gazing up into heaven? This same Jesus, who was taken up from you into heaven, will so come in like manner as you saw Him go into heaven."

Acts 7:55 But he [Stephen], being full of the Holy Spirit, gazed into heaven and saw the glory of God, and Jesus standing at the right hand of God,

Heb 1:3 who being the brightness of His glory and the express image of His person, and upholding all things by the word of His power, when He had by Himself purged our sins, sat down at the right hand of the Majesty on high,

48. The Messiah must exercise his priestly office in heaven.

Zec 6:1 Then I turned and raised my eyes and looked, and behold, four chariots were coming from between two mountains, and the mountains were mountains of bronze.

Rom 8:34 Who is he who condemns? It is Christ who died, and furthermore is also risen, who is even at the right hand of God, who also makes intercession for us.

Heb 7:25-28 Therefore He is also able to save to the uttermost those who come to God through Him, since He always lives to make intercession for them. :26 For such a High Priest was fitting for us, who is holy, harmless, undefiled, separate from sinners, and has become higher than the heavens; :27 who does not need daily, as those high priests, to offer up sacrifices, first for His own sins and then for the people's, for this He did once for all when He offered up Himself. :28 For the law appoints as high priests men who have weakness, but the word of the oath, which came after the law, appoints the Son who has been perfected forever.

Heb 8:1-2 Now this is the main point of the things we are saying: We have such a High Priest, who is seated at the right hand of the throne of the Majesty in the heavens, :2 a Minister of the sanctuary and of the true tabernacle which the Lord erected, and not man.

49. The Messiah must be the cornerstone of God's church.

Psa 118:22-23 The stone which the builders rejected Has become the chief cornerstone. :23 This was the Lord's doing; It is marvelous in our eyes.

Isa 28:16 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: "Behold, I lay in Zion a stone for a foundation, A tried stone, a precious cornerstone, a sure foundation; Whoever believes will not act hastily.

Mat 21:42 Jesus said to them, "Have you never read in the Scriptures: 'The stone which the builders rejected Has become the chief cornerstone. This was the Lord's doing, And it is marvelous in our eyes'?

Eph 2:20 having been built on the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ Himself being the chief corner stone,

And now as it applies to us:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

1 Pet 2:5-7 you also, as living stones, are being built up a spiritual house, a holy priesthood, to offer up spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God through Jesus Christ. :6 Therefore it is also contained in the Scripture, "Behold, I lay in Zion A chief cornerstone, elect, precious, And he who believes on Him will by no means be put to shame." :7 Therefore, to you who believe, He is precious; but to those who are disobedient, "The stone which the builders rejected Has become the chief cornerstone,"

50. The Messiah must be sought after by Gentiles as well as Jews.

Isa 11:10 "And in that day there shall be a Root of Jesse, Who shall stand as a banner to the people; For the Gentiles shall seek Him, And His resting place shall be glorious."

Isa 42:1 "Behold! My Servant whom I uphold, My Elect One in whom My soul delights! I have put My Spirit upon Him; He will bring forth justice to the Gentiles.

Acts 10:45 And those of the circumcision who believed were astonished, as many as came with Peter, because the gift of the Holy Spirit had been poured out on the Gentiles also.

51. The Messiah must be accepted by the Gentiles.

We just read these first two:

Isa 11:10 "And in that day there shall be a Root of Jesse, Who shall stand as a banner to the people; For the Gentiles shall seek Him, And His resting place shall be glorious."

Isa 42:1-4 "Behold! My Servant whom I uphold, My Elect One in whom My soul delights! I have put My Spirit upon Him; He will bring forth justice to the Gentiles. :2 He will not cry out, nor raise His voice, Nor cause His voice to be heard in the street. :3 A bruised reed He will not break, And smoking flax He will not quench; He will bring forth justice for truth. :4 He will not fail nor be discouraged, Till He has established justice in the earth; And the coastlands shall wait for His law."

Coastlands are places where ancient mariners would seek rest; hence foreign lands and their peoples. The KJV calls them isles, which may be accurate in the case of Greek isles.

Isa 49:1-12 "Listen, O coastlands, to Me, And take heed, you peoples from afar! The LORD has called Me from the womb; From the matrix of My mother He has made mention of My name. :2 And He has made My mouth like a sharp sword; In the shadow of His hand He has hidden Me, And made Me a polished shaft; In His quiver He has hidden Me." :3 "And He said to me, 'You are My servant, O Israel, In whom I will be glorified.' :4 Then I said, 'I have labored in vain, I have spent my strength for nothing and in vain; Yet surely my just reward is with the LORD, And my work with my God.' " :5 "And now the LORD says, Who formed Me from the womb to be His Servant, To bring Jacob back to Him, So that Israel is gathered to Him (For I shall be glorious in the eyes of the LORD, And My God shall be My strength), :6 Indeed He says, 'It is too small a thing that You should be My Servant To raise up the tribes of Jacob, And to restore the preserved ones of Israel; I will also give You as a light to the Gentiles, That You should be My salvation to the ends of the earth.' " :7 Thus says the LORD, The Redeemer of Israel, their Holy One, To Him whom man despises, To Him whom the nation abhors, To the Servant of rulers: "Kings shall see and arise, Princes also shall worship, Because of the LORD who is faithful, The Holy One of Israel; And He has chosen You." :8 Thus says the LORD: "In an acceptable time I have heard You, And in the day of salvation I have helped You; I will preserve You and give You As a covenant to the people, To restore the earth, To cause them to inherit the desolate heritages; :9 That You may say to the prisoners, 'Go forth,' To those who are in darkness, 'Show yourselves.' "They shall feed along the roads, And their pastures shall be on all desolate heights. :10 They shall neither hunger nor thirst, Neither heat nor sun shall strike them; For He who has mercy on them will lead them, Even by the springs of water He will guide them. :11 I will make each of My mountains a road, And My highways shall be elevated. :12 Surely these shall come from afar; Look! Those from the north and the west, And these from the land of Sinim."

Mat 12:21 And in His name Gentiles will trust."

Rom 15:10 And again he says: "Rejoice, O Gentiles, with His people!"

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

We have reviewed 51 prophetic proofs that Jesus Christ is the Messiah. There are others that have not been covered: Proofs such as the fruits of the Holy Spirit, answered prayer, the fulfillment of prophesies given by Christ. Ask yourself this question: Does God work out events on this earth? These 51 prophetic proofs should enable you to give a resounding "Yes" to that question. Please study these points. I think you will find them edifying each time you do.

[Source: http://www.thesimpletruth.net/yeshua/proof.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Angels and Demons

http://www.christiananswers.net/q-acb/acb-t005.html

http://www.gotquestions.org/angels-Bible.html

http://www.compellingtruth.org/angels-Bible.html

https://bible.org/article/angelology-doctrine-angels

http://www.bible.ca/su-angels.htm

http://www.whatchristianswanttoknow.com/what-do-angels-look-like-a-biblical-analysis/

http://www.clarifyingchristianity.com/faq_a.shtml

https://carm.org/names-of-angels-in-bible

http://www.theology.edu/theology/angel.htm

http://paradoxbrown.com/genesis6sonsofgodfallenangels.htm/

http://www.trinitycollege.edu/assets/files/ECBragg/AngelologyR.pdf [PDF]

Are Demons Fallen Angels?

General view: http://www.gotquestions.org/fallen-angels.html

Opposing view: http://drmsh.com/2015/10/30/article-on-the-blaze-com-about-supernatural-the-unseen-realm-and-demons-come-from/

http://drmsh.com/the-naked-bible/nephilim/

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Predestination – Foreknowledge – Predetermination

In a review of BibleWorks on Amazon:

In Romans 8:29 a very popular teaching among many scholars claims that the Greek term Paul uses in this verse has a Hebrew flavor in meaning. This is then used to establish doctrine. The verse says: ESV Romans 8:29 For those whom he foreknew he also predestined to be conformed to the image of his Son, in order that he might be the firstborn among many brothers.

The claim is made that the term 'foreknew' (proegknow) really means to forelove and that it doesn't mean foreknow in the simple sense because the Jewish Greek use modifies it. They claim that Jewish Greek use imports the Hebrew term for love into the Greek compound verb...and that the Hebrew term 'to know' can mean 'to love' and so the Greek word 'to fore know' really means here to 'fore love'. Part of the complaint is that it cannot mean simply foreknow or that would lead to Arminianism or Universalism. So, passing comments occur in a number of Reformed commentaries on Romans or on the topic of Predistination by reformed scholars when dealing with this verse. How would anyone who is not very well versed in Jewish Greek literature know? It sounds likely. It must be true right?

With BW 8.0 you can just look it up and read the sources in about 30 to 60 minutes. Simply configure tabs in the search window to access all the different resources for Jewish background studies that exist in Greek literature. For example, the LXX, the Pseudepigrapha, the Apocrypha, Philo, Josephus and then the post NT Apostolic Fathers all can be searched in morphological databases (this allows you to search a dictionary entry and find any form instantly. You can configure it to display the English next to the Greek so that if you are not good at Greek, you can check the English as well. The bottom line: in this case I was studying on Romans 8:29 there was not one instance of Jewish Greek literature that contained the claim by popular scholars. In fact, after reading all the sources for myself, I concluded that there may be a failure on the part of these scholars to check their facts. This stunned me. Some of my favorite scholars were clearly wrong on this word.

It also gave me the feeling that as a pastor doing regular sermon research I now have a real tool that allows me to confirm or reject claims in scholarly commentaries and pray through the data for myself. So with BW 8.0, it has now become financially and technically feasible for a regular preacher to double check confident claims by any scholar when it comes to the background of Greek terms in the era from 300 BC through to 200 AD. The flexibility of BibleWorks 8.0 to set up custom tabs (one for each time period of Greek literature for example) gives you the power to study the Greek NT on one tab, click another tab and study the same term or a different term in the Pseudepigrapha and then another tab for the LXX or Apostolic Fathers. It's like working with tabs on a browser in Windows. Once you set it up, you can really go as deep as you like. I'm telling you it is wonderful!

Another example: While studying the term for virtue in 2 Peter 1:5 I found a reference in the Apocrypha to the story about the seven brothers who were martyred during Antiochus Epiphanes IV reign of hellenization. If you are unfamiliar with this story, it is part of the Jewish background that feeds into the concept of excellence or moral excellence that Peter is talking about in 2 Peter 1. BUT it is also probably part of the background of the story where Jesus is challenged by the question about a woman who is widowed, married to six other brothers (seven in all)...and then dies with no children. The attempt to trap Jesus was heightened by that allusion. Things like this come alive. You can find these links for yourself with BibleWorks 8.0 AND you can find other passages that refer to these links. The first use in Jewish Greek literature of the term Peter uses for moral excellence in 2 Peter 1:5 appears in the account setting up the story about the seven brothers in order to inspire them to stand true to the death when the law of Moses was challenged by the Greeks. All of this and the Jewish commentary on it all is right there for your beck and call, enriching your study of the term that Peter gives by drawing out the sense that the term may include a moral fiber that stands firm to the very death of a believer (wasn't that Peter's problem in Gethsemane?).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

http://www.amazon.com/BibleWorks-BW700-1-10/product-reviews/B000EGHMKG for more context…

http://www.icstc.com/bg/will/fore.html

http://www.monergism.com/thethreshold/articles/onsite/foreknew.html

http://helpmewithbiblestudy.org/1God/OmniscienceWhatDoesForeknowMean.aspx

http://www.reformationtheology.com/2006/11/the_question_of_gods_foreknowl.php

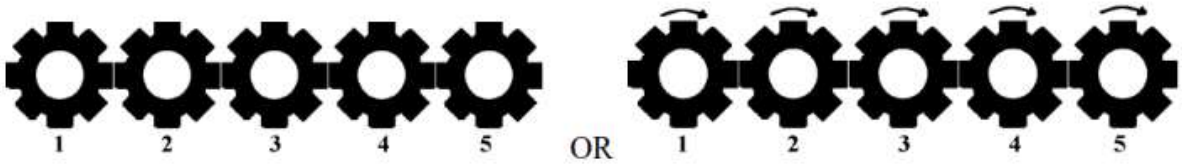
Even if the Arminian does not accept that 'foreknow' means 'forelove', he must at least agree that the idea of predestination by foreknowledge is, at best, superfluous. Why would God predestine something to happen if He already knows it will happen? Such an act would have no effect on the outcome of the future.
http://www.reformationtheology.com/2006/05/two_views_on_foreknowledge_by.php

Analogies

One analogy that makes the idea clearer puts God on a hilltop above a stream of all the events in time. God's vision encompasses the whole stream at once, but He himself is not part of it (cf. Nash 75).

http://dwickingson.yolasite.com/excerpt-phil-rel.php

By analogy, knowing what will happen does not mean that we are preventing or causing that thing to happen. The sun will rise tomorrow. I am not causing it to rise nor am I preventing it from rising by knowing that it will happen. Likewise, if I put a bowl of ice-cream and a bowl of cauliflower in front of my child, I know for a fact which one is chosen--the ice cream. My knowing it ahead of time does not restrict my child from making a free choice when the time comes. My child is free to make a choice and knowing the choice has no effect upon her when she makes it.



https://carm.org/if-god-knows-our-free-will-choices-do-we-still-have-free-will

What Edwards has in mind may be illustrated by conceiving of the earth as if it were a giant billiards table. Any single human volition or deed is akin to a cue ball hitting fifteen colored balls and scattering them across the table. In turn, each of the fifteen then becomes another cue ball which strikes yet another fifteen, which in turn become cue balls hitting yet another fifteen, and so on, ad infinitum. This is not to suggest that the universe is an impersonal and mechanistic collision of cause and effect. Rather the point is that for every thought or emotion or resolution or act or word or choice there is set in motion a multitude of diverse effects, each of which has the potential to become a cause of yet innumerable other diverse effects, ad infinitum. [Regarding EDF]

http://www.samstorms.com/all-articles/post/edwards-on-foreknowledge---part-i

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

(Romans 8:29-30) If these exegetical problems did not pose enough problem for the view of predestination by foreknowledge, there is also a logical reason why this view is an unacceptable interpretation of Paul's doctrine. This is where the gear illustration will be most helpful. As has been said earlier, the five-fold chain of events that takes place is an exclusive, causal chain that allows for no variance of persons from one step to the next. The common analogy is that of a tunnel, but for clarity and specificity, a gear analogy will be used here. If Paul's five-fold chain of events could be visualized, there are two possible options at this point:

In these diagrams, the numbered gears represent the five steps listed in the scriptural argument: (1) foreknowledge, (2) predestination, (3) calling, (4) justification, and (5) glorification. The first gear turns all the other gears in turn. No one gear can turn without all the others turning.

Notice that one set of gears turns while the other set is stationary. The purpose of the predestination by foreknowledge view is to explain the reason behind God's decision to turn one set of gears and not the other. The view says that God predestines because he knows that the person will respond positively to the call, thereby being justified. If this is to be translated into the language of the gear analogy, it would say that the reason the gear turner turns the first gear is because he foresaw that the fourth gear would turn. So in this view, the gear turner looks ahead to the fourth gear, and depending on what he foresees that gear doing, he may or may not decide to turn the first gear.

The problem with this view should be evident. If the gear turner foresees the turning of gear number four, then he would certainly know that the only way for gear number four to turn is for gear number one to be turned by himself. Another way of saying this is that the cause of gear number four's turning is gear number three's turning. Gear number three only turns because of gear number two. Gear number two turns because of gear number one. And the basis of the system is that gear number one turns because gear number four does. The process begins again, and then again with a never-ending circle. The problem here is that there is no real causal starting point. The view ends up saying that the gear turner turned the first gear because he knew that he himself would turn the first gear.

Applied to the five-fold chain of events listed in Rom 8:29-30, this logic shows again the absurdity of the predestination by foreknowledge view. The view says that God foreknows that someone will be justified, so he is predestined. But God also knows that justification is only caused by calling. And calling is only caused by predestination. And that predestination is only caused by his foreknowing. This view makes justification both the cause and the effect of God's foreknowledge, thereby reducing it to circular reasoning.

Both exegetical and logical arguments have shown that the predestination by foreknowledge view is not supported by the text of Rom 8:29-30. In fact, the view is rendered impossible by Paul's language and argument through the passage. First, the word "foreknowledge" does not refer to events, but people. Second, the idea that God's eternal prescience is all that the idea of foreknowledge conveys renders the Apostle's idea meaningless in verse 29. Third, the view holds no water when held up to even a mild amount of logical criticism.

The predestination by foreknowledge view is a necessary view in the Arminian system, which seeks to argue against an unconditional election. The system tries to make God's election conditional by basing it on man's choice. Scripture will have none of that, as the text in view has shown. The foreknowledge in the passage must be "the act of cognition or recognition, the fixing, so to speak, the mind upon, which involves the idea of selection." the eternal mind of God, not merely a passive knowledge of all things future, but an active knowledge by his setting his mind on certain members of his creation.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

http://www3.dbu.edu/Naugle/pdf/pew_papers/2003_brent_hobbs.pdf

[Arminian] Concerning election and predestination, we might use the analogy of a great ship on its way to heaven. The ship (the church) is chosen by God to be his very own vessel. Christ is the Captain and Pilot of this ship. All who desire to be a part of this elect ship and its Captain can do so through a living faith in Christ, by which they come on board the ship. As long as they are on the ship, in company with the ship's Captain, they are among the elect. If they choose to abandon the ship and Captain, they cease to be part of the elect. Election is always only in union with the Captain and his ship. Predestination tells us about the ship's destination and what God has prepared for those remaining on it. God invites everyone to come aboard the elect ship through faith in Jesus Christ.

http://evangelicalarminians.org/a-concise-summary-of-the-corporate-view-of-election-and-predestination/

Freewill and Predestination

http://www.peterkreeft.com/topics-more/freewill-predestination.htm

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Calvinism vs. Arminianism vs. Open Theism vs. Molinism

Do you consider yourself a Calvinist, Hyper-Calvinist, Moderate Calvinist, Arminian, Open Theist, Molinist, or something different?

Short Summary of Belief Systems:

Calvinism--God ordained every future event before creation. God selected only certain individuals for salvation, based on nothing good or bad within the person. God changes the pre-selected people's hearts to love God. God's saving grace is irresistible. Jesus only died for the ones who had been pre-selected for salvation.

Hyper-Calvinism--In addition to the above, God also actively causes people to sin or go to Hell.

Moderate Calvinism/Arminianism--God sees the future. He knows who will respond to the Gospel and be saved. God enlightens sinners first, thus granting them the same freedom of choice that Adam had in the beginning. People can either accept or reject Jesus. Jesus died for all people, but it only applies to those who respond in faith.

Open Theism--It is impossible for God to know the future free will choices of humans in advance. God knows everything which can be known. But this simply cannot be known in advance. So this is why God tests people, to see how they will respond. When God prophesies, He is not looking to see the future, He is stepping in to actively cause those events to take place.

Selective Open Theism--God can choose to see any detail of the future that He desires. He has that ability. However, just as God chooses not to always use His full destructive power, God selectively chooses which things He wants to know about the future and which He does not.

Molinism--God knows every possibility of every circumstance and every different choice a human might make. God chooses to allow only one of these potential choices to occur. Or He knows which one is more likely to occur. God maneuvers people's circumstances to cause people to make certain choices.

http://www.reddit.com/r/Christianity/comments/2xcx2b/calvinism_vs_open_theism_vs_molinism_vs/

[Reformed view of Grace] You're dead at the bottom of the sea, lungs full of water. God jumps in, pulls you up, and makes you alive again — and he does so because of his great love. We are entirely at the mercy of God's grace to rescue us.

http://www.faithstreet.com/onfaith/2014/10/23/10-things-i-wish-everyone-knew-about-reformed-theology/34667

Molinism vs. Calvinism:

For example, the Westminster Confession (Sect. III) declares that God from all eternity did by the most wise and holy counsel of his own will, freely and unchangeably ordain whatsoever comes to pass; yet so as thereby neither is God the author of sin; nor is violence offered to the will of creatures, nor is the liberty or contingency of second causes taken away, but rather established.

Now this is precisely what the Molinist believes! The Confession affirms God's preordination of everything that comes to pass as well as the liberty and contingency of the creaturely will, so that God is not the author of sin. It is a tragedy that in rejecting middle knowledge Reformed divines have cut themselves off from the most perspicuous explanation of the coherence of this wonderful confession…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

…So why do so many intelligent and faithful Christian leaders buy into Calvinism? I think that the sort of Calvinism represented by the statement quoted above from the Westminster Confession is a fair summary of Scripture's teaching and therefore should be believed. It's only when one goes beyond it to try to resolve the mystery by embracing determinism and compatibilism that one gets into trouble. So insofar as these Christian leaders are content to remain with the mystery, I think theirs is a reasonable position. The vast majority of them have probably little understanding of Molinism and so are just insufficiently informed to make a decision.

http://www.reasonablefaith.org/molinism-vs-calvinism

http://thoughtstheological.com/calvinism-molinism-arminianism-and-open-theism-monergismsynergism-at-the-macro-and-micro-levels/

Middle Knowledge
http://www.reasonablefaith.org/middle-knowledge

Middle knowledge is a form of knowledge first attributed to God by the sixteenth century Jesuit theologian Luis de Molina (pictured to the left). It is best characterized as God's prevolitional knowledge of all true counterfactuals of creaturely freedom. This knowledge is seen by its proponents as the key to understanding the compatibility of divine providence and creaturely (libertarian) freedom (see Free Will).

Middle knowledge is so named because it comes between natural and free knowledge in God's deliberations regarding the creative process. According to the theory, middle knowledge is like natural knowledge in that it is prevolitional, or prior to God's choice to create. This, of course, also means that the content of middle knowledge is true independent of God's will and therefore, He has no control over it. Yet, it is not the same as natural knowledge because, like free knowledge, its content is contingent. The doctrine of middle knowledge proposes that God has knowledge of metaphysically necessary states of affairs via natural knowledge, of what He intends to do via free knowledge, and in addition, of what free creatures would do if they were instantiated (via middle knowledge). Thus, the content of middle knowledge is made up of truths which refer to what would be the case if various states of affairs were to obtain.

http://www.iep.utm.edu/middlekn/

Molinism, named after 16th Century Jesuit theologian Luis de Molina, is a religious doctrine which attempts to reconcile the providence of God with human free will. William Lane Craig and Alvin Plantinga are some of its best known advocates today, though other important Molinists include Alfred Freddoso and Thomas Flint. In basic terms, Molinists hold that in addition to knowing everything that does or will happen, God also knows what His creatures would freely choose if placed in any circumstance.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Molinism

Middle Knowledge is that knowledge of God dealing with what individuals will do in a given set of circumstances. God has an infinite set of potential circumstances that could exist and knows all actual choices that would be made by individuals in each set.

https://carm.org/dictionary-middle-knowledge

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Calvinism vs Arminianism – Comparison Chart

The following material from Romans: An Interpretative Outline (pp.144-147). by David N. Steele and Curtis C. Thomas, contrasts the Five Points of Arminianism with the Five Points of Calvinism in the clearest and most concise form that we have seen anywhere. It is also found in their smaller book, The Five Points of Calvinism (pp. 16-19). Both books are published by The Presbyterian and Reformed Publishing Co., Philadelphia.(1963). Messrs. Steele and Thomas have served for several years as co-pastors of a Southern Baptist church, in Little Rock, Arkansas.

- Living for God's Glory: An Introduction to Calvinism by Joel Beeke ★★★★★
- Five Points of Calvinism: Defined, Defended, and Documented ★★★★★
- The Five Dilemmas of Calvinism by Craig R. Brown
- Calvinism: Pure and Mixed by W.G.T. Shedd
- History and Character of Calvinism by John T. McNeill

THE "FIVE POINTS" OF ARMINIANISM	THE "FIVE POINTS" OF CALVINISM
Free Will or Human Ability Although human nature was seriously affected by the fall, man has not been left in a state of total spiritual helplessness. God graciously enables every sinner to repent and believe, but He does not interfere with man's freedom. Each sinner possesses a free will, and his eternal destiny depends on how he uses it. Man's freedom consists of his ability to choose good over evil in spiritual matters; his will is not enslaved to his sinful nature. The sinner has the power to either cooperate with God's Spirit and be regenerated or resist God's grace and perish. The lost sinner needs the Spirit's assistance, but he does not have to be regenerated by the Spirit before he can believe, for faith is man's act and precedes the new birth. Faith is the sinner's gift to God; it is man's contribution to salvation.	Total Inability or Total Depravity Because of the fall, man is unable of himself to savingly believe the gospel. The sinner is dead, blind, and deaf to the things of God; his heart is deceitful and desperately corrupt. His will is not free, it is in bondage to his evil nature, therefore, he will not — indeed he cannot — choose good over evil in the spiritual realm. Consequently, it takes much more than the Spirit's assistance to bring a sinner to Christ — it takes regeneration by which the Spirit makes the sinner alive and gives him a new nature. Faith is not something man contributes to salvation but is itself a part of God's gift of salvation— it is God's gift to the sinner, not the sinner's gift to God.
Conditional Election God's choice of certain individuals unto salvation before the foundation of the world was based upon His foreseeing that they would respond to His call. He selected only those whom He knew would of themselves freely	Unconditional Election God's choice of certain individuals unto salvation before fore the foundation of the world rested solely in His own sovereign will. His choice of particular sinners was not based on any foreseen response or obedience on their believe the gospel. Election therefore was determined by or conditioned upon what man would do. The faith which God foresaw and upon which He based His choice was not given to the sinner by God (it was not created by the regenerating power of the Holy Spirit) but resulted solely from man's will. It was left entirely up to man as to who would believe and therefore as to who would be elected unto salvation. God chose those whom He knew would, of their own free will, choose Christ. Thus the sinner's choice of Christ, not God's choice of the sinner, is the ultimate cause of salvation.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Universal Redemption or General Atonement

Christ's redeeming work made it possible for everyone to be saved but did not actually secure the salvation of anyone. Although Christ died for all men and for every man, only those who believe on Him are saved. His death enabled God to pardon sinners on the condition that they believe, but it did not actually put away anyone's sins. Christ's redemption becomes effective only if man chooses to accept it.

The Holy Spirit Can Be Effectually Resisted

The Spirit calls inwardly all those who are called outwardly by the gospel invitation; He does all that He can to bring every sinner to salvation. But inasmuch as man is free, he can successfully resist the Spirit's call. The Spirit cannot regenerate the sinner until he believes; faith (which is man's contribution) precedes and makes possible the new birth. Thus, man's free will limits the Spirit in the application of Christ's saving work. The Holy Spirit can only draw to Christ those who allow Him to have His way with them. Until the sinner responds, the Spirit cannot give life. God's grace, therefore, is not invincible; it can be, and often is, resisted and thwarted by man.

part, such as faith, repentance, etc. On the contrary, God gives faith and repentance to each individual whom He selected. These acts are the result, not the cause God's choice. Election therefore was not determined by or conditioned upon any virtuous quality or act foreseen in man. Those whom God sovereignly elected He brings through the power of the Spirit to a willing acceptance of Christ. Thus God's choice of the sinner, not the sinner's choice of Christ, is the ultimate cause of salvation.

Particular Redemption or Limited Atonement

Christ's redeeming work was intended to save the elect only and actually secured salvation for them. His death was a substitutionary endurance of the penalty of sin in the place of certain specified sinners. In addition to putting away the sins of His people, Christ's redemption secured everything necessary for their salvation, including faith which unites them to Him. The gift of faith is infallibly applied by the Spirit to all for whom Christ died, therefore guaranteeing their salvation

The Efficacious Call of the Spirit or Irresistible Grace

In addition to the outward general call to salvation which is made to everyone who hears the gospel, the Holy Spirit extends to the elect a special inward call that inevitably brings them to salvation. The eternal call (which is made to all without distinction) can be, and often is, rejected; whereas the internal call (which is made only to the elect) cannot be rejected; it always results in conversion. By mean, of this special call the Spirit irresistibly draws sinners to Christ. He is not limited in His work of applying salvation by man's will, nor is He dependent upon man's cooperation for success. The Spirit graciously causes the elect sinner to cooperate, to believe, to repent, to come freely and willingly to Christ. God', grace. therefore, is invincible; it never fails to result in the salvation of those to whom it is extended.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Falling From Grace Those who believe and are truly saved can lose their salvation by failing to keep up their faith. etc. All Arminian, have not been agreed on this point; some have held that believers are eternally secure in Christ — that once a sinner is regenerated. he can never be lost.	Perseverance of the Saints All who are chosen by God, redeemed by Christ, and given faith by the Spirit are eternally saved. They are kept in faith by the power of Almighty God and thus persevere to the end.
According to Arminianism: Salvation is accomplished through the combined efforts of God (who takes the initiative) and man(who must respond)—man's response being the determining factor. God has provided salvation for everyone, but His provision becomes effective only for those who, of their own free will, "choose" to cooperate with Him and accept His offer of grace. At the crucial point, man's will plays a decisive role; thus man, not God, determines who will be the recipients of the gift of salvation.REJECTED by the Synod of DortThis was the system of thought contained in the "Remonstrance" (though the "five points" were not originally arranged in this order). It was submitted by the Arminians to the Church of Holland in 1610 for adoption but was rejected by the Synod of Dort in 1619 on the ground that it was unscriptural.	According to Calvinism:Salvation is accomplished by the almighty power of the Triune God. The Father chose a people, the Son died for them, the Holy Spirit makes Christ's death effective by bringing the elect to faith and repentance, thereby causing them to willingly obey the gospel. The entire process (election, redemption, regeneration) is the work of God and is by grace alone. Thus God, not man, determines who will be the recipients of the gift of salvation.REAFFIRMED by the Synod of DortThis system of theology was reaffirmed by the Synod of Dort in 1619 as the doctrine of salvation contained in the Holy Scriptures. The system was at that time formulated into "five points" (in answer to the five points submitted by the Arminians) and has ever since been known as "the five points of Calvinism."

[Source: http://www.graceonlinelibrary.org/reformed-theology/arminianism/calvinism-vs-arminianism-comparison-chart/]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC] Calvinism vs. Arminianism: What Does the Bible Teach?

Excerpt:

> Just as some of the Corinthian believers got distracted from the main issue by saying they were of Paul or Apollos rather than focusing on being of Christ, so too can we today if we get caught up by trying to solve the paradox of God's sovereignty and the free choice of man. The Bible clearly teaches that man has the ability and responsibility to choose, and it also just as clearly teaches that God is sovereign over all that happens, including our choices.
>
> The question arises: "How can we freely choose something that God has predestined and foreordained?" In other words, if something is predestined, don't we have to choose it, thereby limiting our free choice? But the Bible does speak of both predestination and free choice. In our finite, fallen minds, we cannot comprehend how these two concepts can co-exist, yet neither can we fully comprehend the Trinity or eternity, for example. What is important is that we accept both the free will of man and the sovereignty of God because the Bible teaches both. To try to weasel out of this paradox using reason alone will fail us and lead us to the unbiblical conclusion that God forces the will of man to choose hell for himself. There is nothing about God's character to say that He would force somebody to go to hell without their own wicked will sending them there. God created men surely knowing what they would choose, but He does not make them choose what He knows. His omniscience does not eliminate their free will. Therefore, somehow, God's sovereignty, foreknowledge, and omniscience co-exist with our human responsibility…
>
> …In doing this study, I arrived at some conclusions about the whole debate between Calvinists and Arminians. First, the debate will never end because neither side is right. Second, there is an alternative viewpoint which I have laid out. Third, we cause division and destruction when we let man-made doctrinal systems dictate our interpretation of the Bible. Both systems are convoluted enough to really distort our ability to understand Scripture, if we adhere to their basic assumptions. Fourth, I believe Calvinism puts too much emphasis on God's sovereignty while Arminianism puts too much emphasis on the ability and work of man. One camp would tend to gloat in its election while the other would fear that another sin would send them to hell with no chance at redemption. One might try to manipulate a conversion while another would be reluctant to even persuade the sinner. One might be preoccupied with fate and another with shaping their own destiny irrespective of seeking God's will. The reality is that either extreme creates dangers for practical Christian living.
>
> We are not victims of blind fate; neither are we able to do anything unless God wills it. We must acknowledge God's sovereignty and omniscience and the free will of man. We must accept the tensions that such a position creates. May God make us those who rest in His providence and who are adamant about doing all that we can by His strength and grace to make a difference in this world.

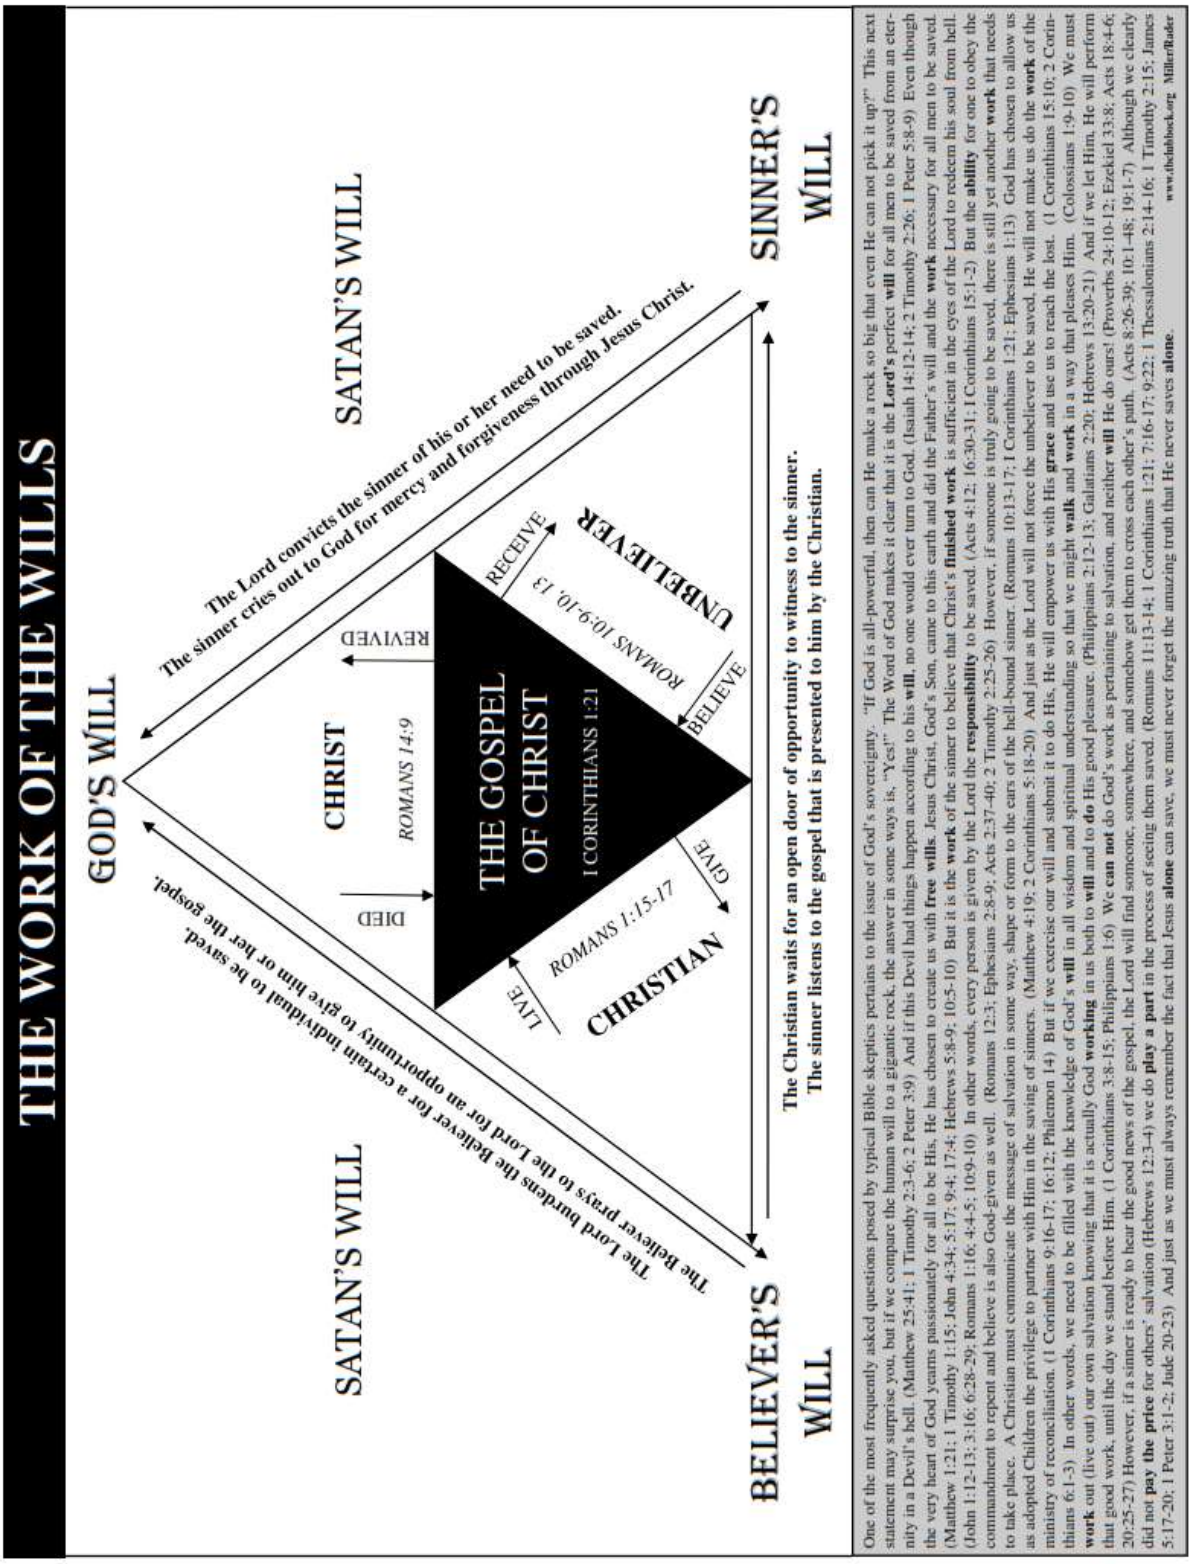
[Source: http://www.relevantbibleteaching.com/site/cpage.asp?cpage_id=140010258&sec_id=140001239]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Sovereignty of God vs Free Will

How does God's sovereignty work together with free will?

Answer: It is impossible for us to fully understand the dynamics of a holy God molding and shaping the will of man. Scripture is clear that God knows the future (Matthew 6:8; Psalm 139:1-4) and has total sovereign control over all things (Colossians 1:16-17; Daniel 4:35). The Bible also says that we must choose God or be eternally separated from Him. We are held responsible for our actions (Romans 3:19; 6:23; 9:19-21). How these facts work together is impossible for a finite mind to comprehend (Romans 11:33-36).



People can take one of two extremes in regard to this question. Some emphasize the sovereignty of God to the point that human beings are little more than robots simply doing what they have been sovereignly programmed to do. Others emphasize free will to the point of God not having complete control and/or knowledge of all things. Neither of these positions is biblical. The truth is that God does not violate our wills by choosing us and redeeming us. Rather, He changes our hearts so that our wills choose Him. “We love Him because He first loved us” (1 John 4:19), and “You did not choose me, but I chose you” (John 15:16).

What are we to do then? First, we are to trust in the Lord, knowing that He is in control (Proverbs 3:5-6). God’s sovereignty is supposed to be a comfort to us, not an issue to be concerned about or debate over. Second, we are to live our lives making wise decisions in accordance with God’s Word (2 Timothy 3:16-17; James 1:5). There will be no excuses before God for why we chose to disobey Him. We will have no one to blame but ourselves for our sin. Last but not least, we are to worship the Lord, praising Him that He is so wonderful, infinite, powerful, full of grace and mercy—and sovereign.

[Source: http://www.gotquestions.org/free-will-sovereign.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Work of the Wills - Chart

[Source: http://www.tbclubbock.org/Resources/Charts/The_Work_of_the_Wills.pdf]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

SOVEREIGNTY OF GOD VS FREE WILL OF MAN

INTRODUCTION

The best place to start here is with definitions.

SOVEREIGN – Possessing supreme dominion and power above all. God's absolute right to do all things according to His own good pleasure.

FREE WILL – Having both the ability and the will to make a free choice. Specifically in this context, the question is "does man have BOTH the ability and will to freely choose salvation from God?"

QUESTIONS – On a scale of 1 to 10, how much sovereignty does God have? If God is fully sovereign and ordains everything, can man truly have a free will? If God is not fully sovereign, can He truly know future things or make promises that cannot be broken? Respectfully, I'm not interested in the 1,001 opinions that are out there – I'm specifically concerned about what the Bible teaches on the subject.

To that end, this document lists verses that both implicitly and explicitly teach of God's sovereignty and man's free will on the question of salvation. It also lists a few verses that seem to negate God's sovereignty and negate man's free will. The verses are not exhaustive, but demonstrate Biblical thinking and consistency on these issues. If we bother to separate the explicit and implicit verses on this subject, we'll see a very consistent Biblical pattern emerge.

Continue with Chart on next page…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

CHART

	Implicit Positive	Explicit Positive		Implicit Negative	Explicit Negative
God's Sovereignty	Verses that imply God is sovereign Gen 18:14 Ex 4:11 Eccl 7:13-14 Jer 32:27 Lam 3:37-38 Amos 3:6 Rom 9:19	Verses that explicitly state God is sovereign Ex 4:11 Deut 32:39 2 Chr 20:6 Ps 103:19 Ps 115:3 Ps 135:6 Isa 45:5-7 Isa 46:10 Dan 4:35 Luke 1:37 Acts 4:27-28 Acts 17:26 Rev 17:17		Verses that imply God is not sovereign Gen 6:6 Ex 32:14 1 Sam 15:11 2 Sam 24:16 Jonah 3:10	Verses that explicitly state God is not sovereign (No verses!)
Man's Free Will	Verses that imply Man has free will Deut 30:19 Josh 24:15 John 3:16 John 5:40 Acts 2:21 Acts 3:19 Acts 16:31 Rev 22:17	Verses that explicitly state Man has free will (No verses!)		Verses that imply Man does not have free will Ex 10:1-2 Ex 12:36 Ex 14:17 Deut 2:30 Deut 29:4 Josh 24:19 2 Chr 25:20 Ps 105:25 Isa 44:28 Isa 63:17	Verses that explicitly state Man does not have free will Prov 21:1 Isa 6:10 Eze 36:26-27 Mark 4:11-12 John 6:44 John 6:65 John 8:43 John 10:26 John 12:39-40 Rom 6:17 Rom 8:7-8 Rom 9:18 Rom 11:8 Rev 17:17

Here are the verses listed in the above table…

Verses that imply God is Sovereign

Gen 18:14 Is anything too hard for the Lord? At the appointed time I will return to you, about this time next year, and Sarah shall have a son."

Ex 4:11 Then the Lord said to him, "Who has made man's mouth? Who makes him mute, or deaf, or seeing, or blind? Is it not I, the Lord?

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Eccl 7:13-14 Consider the work of God: who can make straight what He has made crooked? In the day of prosperity be joyful, and in the day of adversity consider: God has made the one as well as the other, so that man may not find out anything that will be after him.

Jer 32:27 “Behold, I am the Lord, the God of all flesh. Is anything too hard for me?

Lam 3:37-38 Who has spoken and it came to pass, unless the Lord has commanded it? Is it not from the mouth of the Most High that good and bad come?

Amos 3:6 Is a trumpet blown in a city, and the people are not afraid? Does disaster come to a city, unless the Lord has done it?

Rom 9:19 You will say to me then, “Why does He still find fault? For who can resist His will?”

Verses that explicitly state God is Sovereign

Exod 4:11 Then the Lord said to him, “Who has made man’s mouth? Who makes him mute, or deaf, or seeing, or blind? Is it not I, the Lord?

Deut 32:39 See now that I, even I, am He, and there is no god beside me; I kill and I make alive; I wound and I heal; and there is none that can deliver out of my hand.

2 Chr 20:6 and said, “O Lord, God of our fathers, are you not God in heaven? You rule over all the kingdoms of the nations. In your hand are power and might, so that none is able to withstand You.

Ps 103:19 The Lord has established His throne in the heavens, and His kingdom rules over all.

Ps 115:3 Our God is in the heavens; He does all that He pleases.

Ps 135:6 Whatever the Lord pleases, He does, in heaven and on earth, in the seas and all deeps.

Isa 45:5-7 I am the Lord, and there is no other, besides Me there is no God; I equip you, though you do not know me, that people may know, from the rising of the sun and from the west, that there is none besides Me; I am the Lord, and there is no other. I form light and create darkness, I make well-being and create calamity, I am the Lord, who does all these things.

Isa 46:10 Declaring the end from the beginning and from ancient times things not yet done, saying, ‘My counsel shall stand, and I will accomplish all My purpose,’

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Dan 4:35 All the inhabitants of the earth are accounted as nothing, and He does according to His will among the host of heaven and among the inhabitants of the earth; and none can stay His hand or say to Him, “What have you done?”

Luke 1:37 For nothing will be impossible with God.

Acts 4:27-28 For truly in this city there were gathered together against Your holy servant Jesus, whom You anointed, both Herod and Pontius Pilate, along with the Gentiles and the peoples of Israel, to do whatever Your hand and Your plan had predestined to take place.

Acts 17:26 And He made from one man every nation of mankind to live on all the face of the earth, having determined allotted periods and the boundaries of their dwelling place

Rev 17:17 For God has put it into their hearts to carry out His purpose by being of one mind and handing over their royal power to the beast, until the words of God are fulfilled.

Verses that imply God is not Sovereign

Gen 6:6 And the Lord was sorry that He had made man on the earth, and it grieved Him to His heart.

Exod 32:14 And the Lord relented from the disaster that He had spoken of bringing on His people.

1 Sam 15:11 “I regret that I have made Saul king, for he has turned back from following Me and has not performed My commandments.” And Samuel was angry, and he cried to the Lord all night.

2 Sam 24:16 And when the angel stretched out his hand toward Jerusalem to destroy it, the Lord relented from the calamity and said to the angel who was working destruction among the people, “It is enough; now stay your hand.” And the angel of the Lord was by the threshing floor of Araunah the Jebusite.

Jonah 3:10 When God saw what they did, how they turned from their evil way, God relented of the disaster that He had said He would do to them, and He did not do it.

Verses that explicitly state God is not Sovereign

(no verses found)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Verses that imply Man has Free Will

Deut 30:19 I call heaven and earth to witness against you today, that I have set before you life and death, blessing and curse. Therefore choose life, that you and your offspring may live.

Josh 24:15 And if it is evil in your eyes to serve the Lord, choose this day whom you will serve, whether the gods your fathers served in the region beyond the River, or the gods of the Amorites in whose land you dwell. But as for me and my house, we will serve the Lord.

John 3:16 For God so loved the world, that He gave His only Son, that whoever believes in Him should not perish but have eternal life.

John 5:40 Yet you refuse to come to me that you may have life.

Acts 2:21 And it shall come to pass that everyone who calls upon the name of the Lord shall be saved.

Acts 3:19 Repent therefore, and turn again, that your sins may be blotted out.

Acts 16:31 And they said, “Believe in the Lord Jesus, and you will be saved, you and your household.”

Rev 22:17 The Spirit and the Bride say, “Come.” And let the one who hears say, “Come.” And let the one who is thirsty come; let the one who desires take the water of life without price.

Verses that explicitly state Man has Free Will

(no verses found – except maybe Gen 2:16, but that was before the fall.)

Verses that imply Man does not have Free Will

Exod 10:1-2 Then the Lord said to Moses, “Go in to Pharaoh, for I have hardened his heart and the heart of his servants, that I may show these signs of mine among them, and that you may tell in the hearing of your son and of your grandson how I have dealt harshly with the Egyptians and what signs I have done among them, that you may know that I am the Lord.”

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Exod 12:36 And the Lord had given the people favor in the sight of the Egyptians, so that they let them have what they asked. Thus they plundered the Egyptians.

Exod 14:17 And I will harden the hearts of the Egyptians so that they shall go in after them, and I will get glory over Pharaoh and all his host, his chariots, and his horsemen.

Deut 2:30 But Sihon the king of Heshbon would not let us pass by him, for the Lord your God hardened his spirit and made his heart obstinate, that He might give him into your hand, as He is this day.

Deut 29:4 But to this day the Lord has not given you a heart to understand or eyes to see or ears to hear.

Josh 24:19 But Joshua said to the people, “You are not able to serve the Lord, for He is a holy God. He is a jealous God; He will not forgive your transgressions or your sins. (Note – this is 5 verses after “Choose this day whom you will serve…”)

2 Chr 25:20 But Amaziah would not listen, for it was of God, in order that He might give them into the hand of their enemies, because they had sought the gods of Edom.

Ps 105:25 He turned their hearts to hate His people, to deal craftily with His servants.

Isa 44:28 Who says of Cyrus, ‘He is My shepherd, and he shall fulfill all My purpose’; saying of Jerusalem, ‘She shall be built,’ and of the temple, ‘Your foundation shall be laid.’”

Isa 63:17 O Lord, why do you make us wander from your ways and harden our heart, so that we fear you not? Return for the sake of your servants, the tribes of your heritage.

Verses that explicitly state Man does not have Free Will Prov 21:1 The king’s heart is a stream of water in the hand of the Lord; He turns it wherever He will.

Isa 6:10 Make the heart of this people dull, and their ears heavy, and blind their eyes; lest they see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and understand with their hearts, and turn and be healed. (Note – this is the 3rd most frequently quoted passage in the NT)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Ezek 36:26-27 And I will give you a new heart, and a new spirit I will put within you. And I will remove the heart of stone from your flesh and give you a heart of flesh. And I will put my Spirit within you, and cause you to walk in My statutes and be careful to obey My rules.

Mark 4:11-12 And He said to them, “To you has been given the secret of the kingdom of God, but for those outside everything is in parables, so that “they may indeed see but not perceive, and may indeed hear but not understand, lest they should turn and be forgiven.”

John 6:44 No one can come to me unless the Father who sent me draws him. And I will raise him up on the last day.

John 6:65 And He said, “This is why I told you that no one can come to Me unless it is granted him by the Father.”

John 8:43 Why do you not understand what I say? It is because you cannot bear to hear my word.

John 10:26 But you do not believe because you are not part of my flock.

John 12:39-40 Therefore they could not believe. For again Isaiah said, “He has blinded their eyes and hardened their heart, lest they see with their eyes, and understand with their heart, and turn, and I would heal them.”

Rom 6:17 But thanks be to God, that you who were once slaves of sin have become obedient from the heart to the standard of teaching to which you were committed,

Rom 8:7-8 For the mind that is set on the flesh is hostile to God, for it does not submit to God’s law; indeed, it cannot. Those who are in the flesh cannot please God.

Rom 9:18 So then He has mercy on whomever He wills, and He hardens whomever He wills.

Rom 11:8 As it is written, “God gave them a spirit of stupor, eyes that would not see and ears that would not hear, down to this very day.”

Rev 17:17 For God has put it into their hearts to carry out His purpose by being of one mind and handing over their royal power to the beast, until the words of God are fulfilled.

Continue with Analysis on next page …

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

ANALYSIS

On the question of God's Sovereignty vs Man's Free Will, I think it's critical to differentiate between verses that imply something and verses that explicitly teach something. I think it's beneficial to break down our research into 8 distinct categories to see what the Bible teaches us on the issue as a whole:

A. Verses that imply God is sovereign
B. Verses that explicitly teach God is sovereign
C. Verses that imply God is NOT sovereign
D. Verses that explicitly teach God is NOT sovereign
E. Verses that imply Man has free will
F. Verses that explicitly teach Man has free will G. Verses that imply Man has NO free will
H. Verses that explicitly teach Man has NO free will

If we grant full weight to the verses that imply a conclusion and assume them to be of equal standing as the verses that explicitly teach a conclusion, we'll run into contradictions and illogical paradoxes. Instead, we need our thoughts to be first shaped by explicit verses, and then use the implicit verses to flesh out "the rest of the story".

Here's why the distinction between explicit and implicit verses is so critical:

– There are a few verses (only a few) that say that God 'repents', 'is sorry', 'changes His mind', etc, and therefore imply that God is not sovereign (Gen 6:6; Exod 32:14; 1 Sam 15:11; 2 Sam 24:16; Jonah 3:10). These are the verses that fall into Category C. Christians (except people like Gregory Boyd) reject these verses as instructive on the nature and character of God for two reasons: 1. There are no verses that explicitly teach God is not sovereign (Category D), 2. Because if God is not fully sovereign, then He can't know the future, and can't make promises (because He can't control the future). In short, He is a small God, no bigger than the gods of the Egyptians, Canaanites, Babylonians, etc.

– There are a number of verses (quite a lot) that explicitly teach, in no uncertain terms, that God is sovereign and that there is no one or no thing that is superior or even comparable. Category B, if you will. (this is only a short list: Exod 4:11; Deut 32:39; 2 Chr 20:6; Ps 103:19; Ps 115:3; Ps 135:6; Isa 45:5-7; Isa 46:10; Dan 4:35; Luke 1:37; Acts 4:27-28; Acts 17:26; Rev 17:17). With these verses in hand, the faithful Bible interpreter must therefore conclude that the few previous verses that imply God is not sovereign must give way to the plentiful verses that explicitly teach that God is sovereign and is therefore in complete control of the universe He created. Usually, we write off the former verses as 'anthropomorphic' and move on. If the former verses were explicit in teaching that God is not sovereign, then we'd have a real pickle on our hands. Thankfully, they only imply.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

– There are a number of verses that say Man needs to choose God, and therefore many of us conclude that man is freely capable of doing so. It is my position that all of these verses in the Bible, without exception, only imply that man is free to choose, and do not explicitly teach, in no uncertain terms, that man is freely able to choose God. Every verse I can find corroborates that premise. If this is a deliberate recurring theme of the Biblical authors, then it begs the question: does man truly have free will to choose or reject God of his own volition?

– Lastly, there are a number of verses that explicitly teach, in no uncertain terms, that man, left to his own devices is incapable of choosing God or doing anything that pleases God, and furthermore, any time he does something that pleases God, it is God working in him to do those things (this is a short list: Prov 21:1; Isa 6:10; Ezek 36:26-27; Mark 4:11-12; John 6:44; John 6:65; John 8:43; John 10:26; John 12:39-40; Rom 6:17; Rom 8:7-8; Rom 9:18; Rom 11:8; Rev 17:17).

As with the question of God's sovereignty, explicit verses against man's free will cannot be brushed aside. Whatever our conclusion on the issue, these explicit verses must be prioritized over implicit verses in order for us to have a Biblical understanding of the topic at hand. To this end, the chart I gave out helps show the consistency of Biblical teaching on God's sovereignty vs man's free will.

I think the best way to harmonize these verses is to conclude that God saves whomsoever He wills regardless of their action/choice (Rom 9:11, 18), and He "borns them again" [sic] before they can have the sense to believe in Christ. This is, in a nutshell, Jesus' answer to Nicodemus's question about how a man can be born again. This idea is also taught by Moses (Deut 30:6), Ezekiel 11:19-20; Ezekiel 36:26-27, Jeremiah 32:39 and more. This is why Jesus said "What!? You're a teacher of the Jews yet you don't understand how the Holy Spirit works?" We would do well to take note.

To make matters worse, this idea of God's sovereignty in DELIBERATELY limiting/rejecting man's choice is shown not only in Pharaoh, but in many other places as well: Deut 2:30, Deut 29:4, Josh 11:19, Isa 6:9-10 (the 3rd most frequently quoted passage in the NT!), Isa 29:9-10, Isa 63:17, Isa 29, Rom 11:7-10, 2 Cor 3:15, 2 Thess 2:10-12 (and there are plenty more). If we cling to the idea of man's free will, we're stuck in a pickle trying to explain why God continually deliberately hardens, blinds and deafens people (and their children/grandchildren! Isa 6:10). If we try to explain it by saying that they did it first so He's giving them more of what they asked for (which is what I used to say), then we're stuck explaining how He could then say that He wills that no human should perish. Interpreted as such, this one verse stating that God wills that no one should perish stands in stark opposition to the myriad of verses that say and demonstrate otherwise. (Clearly, it needs to be re-interpreted and understood in a way that is consistent with the rest of the Bible.) And what do we do about the children and grandchildren of those who have been deafened/blinded/hardened to God's Word? Is 6 says that Isaiah's message was to last till the Redeemer comes and stands alone. Best case scenario, that's 750 years (or longer, if you take v 13 to be a future event). But either way you slice it, that's an awful lot of hard hearts – hearts unable to "see/hear/believe God's Word lest they repent and I should heal them". Hearts that, in the final analysis, really don't have much of a choice.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

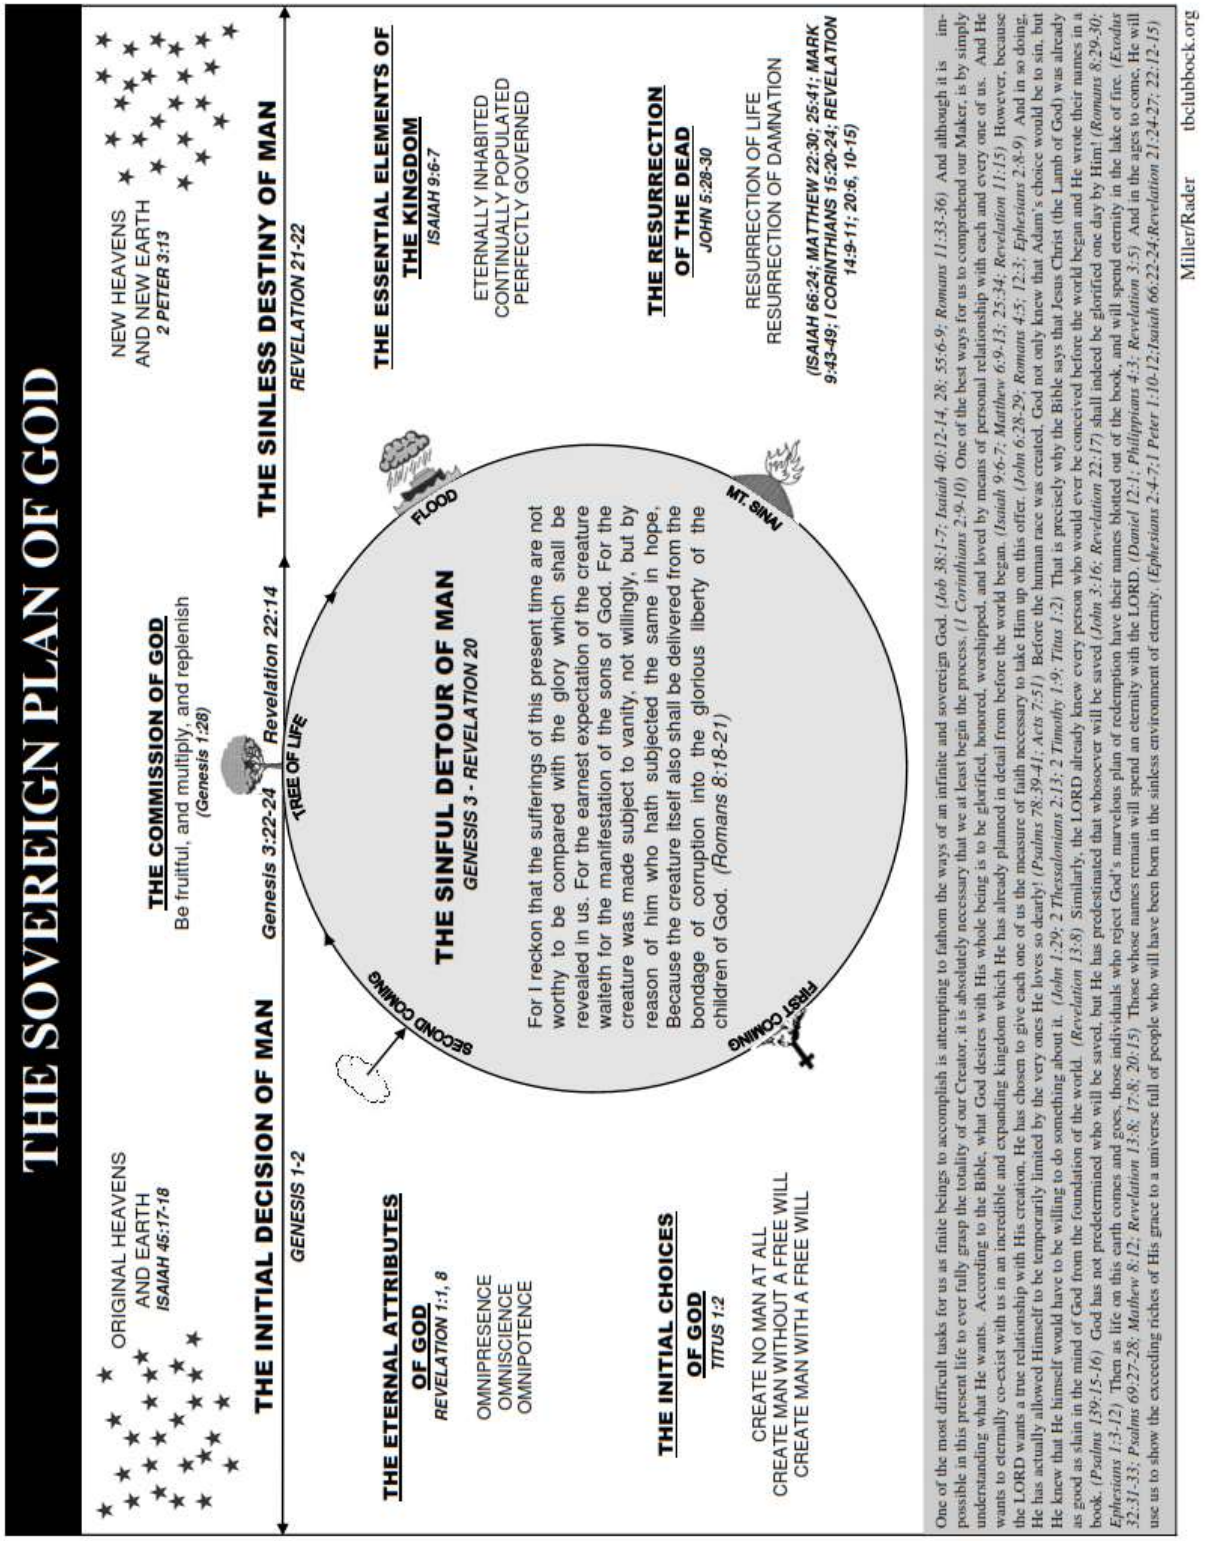
On the flip-side, if we simplified the question into two lists (one about God's sovereignty vs one about man's free will), we'll look at verses that talk about God 'repenting', 'being sorry', 'changing His mind' and conclude that these verses teach us about the nature and character of God. We then become candidates for believing grave errors and heresies, much like Gregory Boyd, who teaches "Open Theism" – that God does not know all things of the future and that the future is subject to change w/o God's knowledge. This is patently ludicrous on the face of it, even without looking at the verses that explicitly negate this nonsense: how can God make promises based on His immutable character if He can't control the future? How can He claim that events are predestined if the future is subject to change beyond His control? (Imagine if God promised a plague in 3 days, but Pharaoh repented on the 2nd day. What then? Or imagine if a free-will Pilate had chosen to place his faith in the Truth of Christ, repented and snuck Jesus out of the praetorium so He wouldn't be handed over to the Jews to be crucified? Would Jesus then have to wait 7 years and then try again to be crucified? And if we say "if Judas/Pilate/Annas didn't do it, someone else would have", then we're only playing a mental shell game and dodging the real question of God's sovereignty.) The problems with Open Theism are myriad, and I'm saddened that so many people willingly follow the likes of Gregory Boyd. Thankfully, people of his ilk are not as popular as they were 10 years ago.



So.. back to the question at hand: if we can find verses that, like the verses on God's sovereignty, explicitly teach, in no uncertain terms that man has free will on the question of salvation, I'm very interested. But so far, I can't find them. Until then, I'm convinced that, like Martin Luther taught, man's "free will" is in bondage: until the Holy Spirit rips us from death and plunges us into life, we remain slaves to our lusts, inescapably bound to sin (Rom 8:1-9; Heb 2:14-16).

But our pride convinces us we truly have free will.

[Source: http://www.linearconcepts.com/theology/sovereignty]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Sovereign Plan of God - an interesting perspective of history which takes into consideration both the will of God and the will of man.

[Source: http://www.tbclubbock.org/Resources/Charts/The_Soverign_Plan_of_God.pdf]

Divine Sovereignty vs. Human Responsibility (also downloadable as a Word doc file) https://bible.org/article/divine-sovereignty-vs-human-responsibility

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

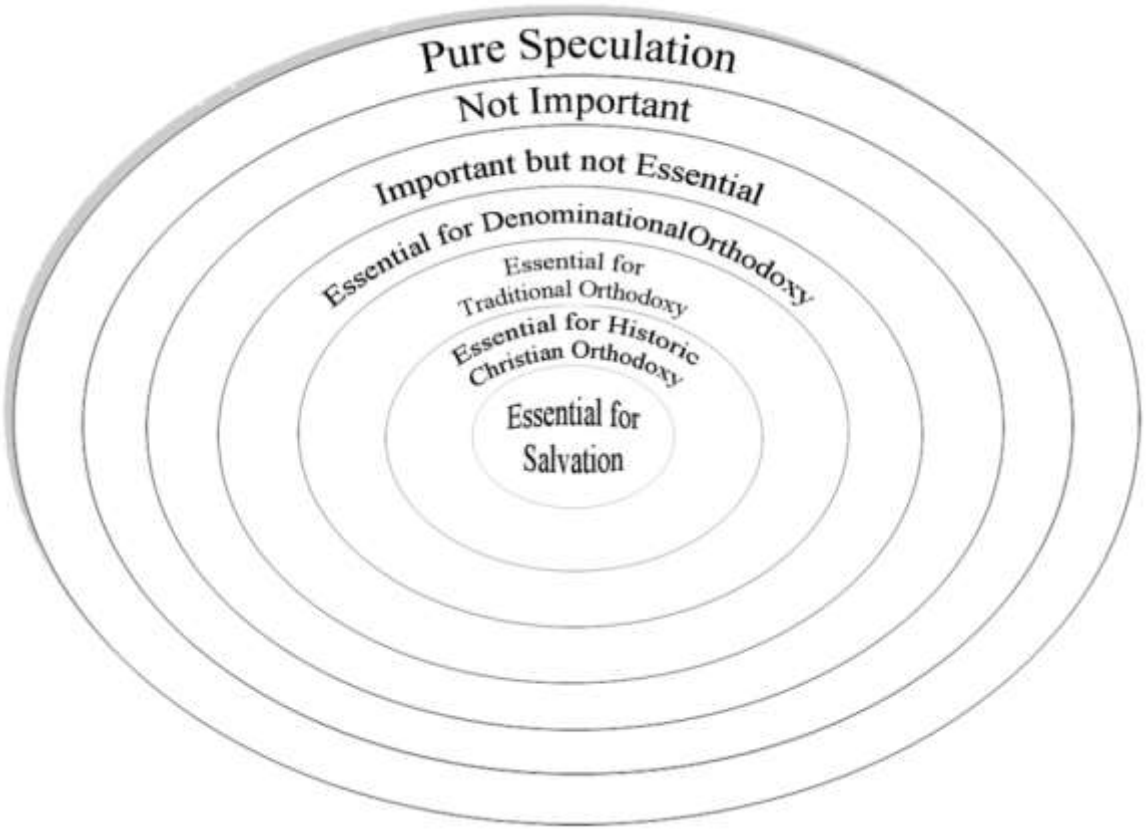
[Doctrinal] Essentials and Non-Essentials: How to Choose Your Battles Carefully

We talk a lot about this: essentials and non-essentials. In fact, at the Credo House of Theology (our headquarters), right when you walk in the front door you will see written on the wall in Latin the words in necessariis unitas, in dubiis libertas, in omnibus caritas. Translated into English, this means, "In essentials, unity; in non-essentials, liberty; in all things, charity." This phrase (often wrongly attributed to Augustine) comes from an otherwise obscure German Lutheran theologian of the early seventeenth century named Rupertus Meldenius. It has served as a place holder for a sort of Evangelical Credo (statement of faith). It expresses the idea of orthodoxy and grace. It reminds us that there are essential Christian beliefs and there are non-essentials.

I remember hearing a pastor once say concerning doctrine, "You are either one-hundred percent right or one-hundred percent wrong. There is no in-between and there are no gray areas. God is not confused or unsure. Why should we be?" While this might be true concerning God, for us things are different. For now, we see in a mirror dimly (1 Cor. 13:12).

As well, Paul spoke about those things that are "of first importance [protois]" (emphasis mine). Christ spoke about straining out a gnat while swallowing a camel (Matt. 23:24) and the "weightier things of the law" (Matt. 23:23).

This is one of the things that (should) distinguish us as Evangelicals. We are those who unite around those things that we believe are the weightiest, the things that are the most important, the essentials, while we (should) give liberty in the non-essentials. I often tell people that there are some things that I believe that I would die for; there are some things that I believe that I would lose an arm for; there are some things that I believe that I would lose a finger for; and then there are some things that I believe that I would not even get a manicure for.



Like in all areas of life, we need to learn to choose our battles carefully. But in order to do this, we must first come to know the difference between essentials and non-essentials.

But (as the criticism goes) it is not that easy to distinguish between essentials and non-essentials. I have written on this before. More importantly for now, many Evangelicals have simply never been exposed to this and therefore practice their theology in a much more legalistic way, believing every conviction that they have to be representative of a hill upon which they should die.

Here I want to elaborate upon and expand the discussion a little bit. While we need to distinguish between essentials and non-essentials, we also need to recognize that there are different types of essentials. Along with this goes my belief that there are different ways to "break fellowship" based on our beliefs. In other words, not all essentials are equal. Some are essential to the very foundation of Christianity, but some are only essential to a particular denomination or expression. This will require different types of breaks in fellowship.

Let me start with a chart, then I will briefly break it down:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Essential for salvation: These are the most essential doctrines of all essentials. This includes what every Christian should always be willing to die for. In essence, if someone does not believe the doctrines that are “essential for salvation,” they are not saved.

What I include:

- Belief in God (there is no such thing as an atheistic Christian)
  All issues pertaining to the person and work of Christ:
- Belief in Christ’s deity and humanity (1 John 4:2-3; Rom. 10:9)
- Belief that you are a sinner in need of God’s mercy (1 John 1:10)
- Belief that Christ died on the cross and rose bodily from the grave (1 Cor 15:3-4)
- Belief that faith in Christ is necessary (John 3:16)

As with all of them, I am sure that there are some ancillary matters that could be included, but this gives you the key doctrines.

Essential for historic Christian orthodoxy: These include beliefs “essential for salvation” but are broader in that they express what has been believed by the historic Christian church for the last two thousand years, no matter what tradition. This is expressed by the Vincentian Canon, “that which has been believed everywhere, always and by all.” (The exception of fringe movements does not count). Not only must the church have belief in it, but it must also explicitly have confessed its centrality (e.g., belief that Matthew wrote the book of Matthew does not, I believe, qualify here).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Some of what I include:

- The doctrine of the Trinity as expressed at Nicea
- The doctrine of the Hypostatic Union (Christ is fully man and fully God) as expressed at Chalcedon
- The belief in the future second coming of Christ
- A belief in the inspiration and authority of Scripture
- A belief in eternal punishment for the wicked
- A belief in God's timeless existence
- Christ is the only way to salvation

Essential for traditional orthodoxy: Again, these will necessarily include all of those from the two previous categories, but add some distinctives of their own. Essentials here will include all of those that are foundational to one of the three main Christian traditions: Protestantism, Eastern Orthodoxy, and Roman Catholicism. These are beliefs that distinguish one tradition from the next, but are not absolutely essential from the broader Christian worldview expressed above.

Some Protestant distinctives would include:

- General belief in the major pronouncements of the first seven ecumenical councils (325-787 AD)
- Belief in the necessity for a personal relationship with Jesus Christ
- Belief that justification is through faith alone on the basis of Christ alone
- Belief that Scripture alone has ultimate authority on all matters of faith and practice
- The canon of Scripture made up of 66 books (excluding the Deuterocanonical books)

Some Roman Catholic distinctives that would include:

- Belief in transubstantiation (the bread and wine turn into the actual body and blood of Christ)
- Belief that justification is through faith and works
- Belief that both Scripture and unwritten tradition have ultimate authority as they are interpreted by the Magisterium
- Belief in the authority of twenty-one ecumenical councils
- Belief that the Pope is the infallible vicar of Christ
- Belief in the Marian dogmas
- Belief that the canon includes the Deuterocanonical books

Some Eastern Orthodox distinctives that would include:

- Belief in the infallibility of the first seven ecumenical councils (325-787 AD)
- Belief that the liturgy of the Church is part of the Gospel
- Rejection of substitutionary atonement and the imputation of Adam's sin
- Salvation by grace through faith as God works these out through our unification with Him (Theosis)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

- Traditional inclusion of the Deuterocanonical book (although there is some debate about this)

Essential for denominational orthodoxy: This will be similar to the above, but one step down in importance, dealing as it does with the particular and peculiar denominational expressions by the various Protestant traditions.

Some examples:

- Credo-baptism, i.e., Baptism is only for believers (Baptists)
- Infant baptism (Presbyterians, Methodists, Anglicans)
- Unconditional election (Reformed and Presbyterians)
- Arminian theology (Methodists, Nazarenes)
- Belief in the continuation of the Charismatic gifts (Pentecostals, Church of God)

Important but not essential: These are those beliefs that do not describe any particular tradition necessarily. They are important, but not that important.

Some examples:

- Beliefs about particulars in the creation debate
- Belief whether the books of Jonah and Job are historical accounts
- Beliefs about the inerrancy of Scripture
- Beliefs about the authorship of 2 Peter
- Belief about particular end-time schemes (i.e. premillennial, amillennial, post-millennial)
- The order of books in the canon
- Which translation of the Bible to use from the pulpit
- Which Gospel was written first
- How often one should celebrate the Lord’s supper
- Whether or not Christ taught in Greek or Aramaic

Not Important: These are beliefs that people have concerning Christian doctrine that are not important for any expression and do not affect Christian devotion or spirituality.

Some examples

- The date of Christ’s birth (Christmas)
- What kind of music to play at church
- Whether to use real wine or grape juice at communion
- Whether to hold Saturday night services
- Whether or not John the Baptist was an Essene

Pure speculation: That is just what these are—speculation. We just don’t know one way or another, nor does it matter.

Some examples

- Did Adam have a belly-button

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

- Belief in the eternal destiny of pets (except I know my dog Rocky is going to heaven)
- What was God doing “before” creation
- Will there be meat to eat in heaven (we can all hope)
- Will there be sex in heaven (we can all hope more)

In conclusion to this rather long post, my purpose has been to stimulate a deeper level of thought about the difference between essentials and non-essentials. I know that there are a lot of unanswered questions that might have been stimulated, such as, “Can someone be saved without believing in the exclusivity of Christ or the doctrine of the Trinity, as expressed at Nicea?” Or, “What about homosexuality and the ordaining of women?” I will leave some of these for the discussion to follow. I hope that, at the very least, some of my Calvinist and Baptist friends will see that some of the things that are held most dear in their traditions, while important, are not really defining factors in historic Christianity.

I am not an ecumenicist, but I don’t think that we should have ill-will or break fellowship with people unnecessarily. I hope that thinking through these things will make both our unity and diversity more meaningful and less reactionary.

(If this has peaked your interest, I would encourage you to read my post on four tests for determining whether a doctrine is essential.)

[Source: http://www.reclaimingthemind.org/blog/2009/12/essentials-and-non-essentials-how-to-choose-you-battles-carefully-chart-included/]

What are the essentials to Christianity? Four Criteria

I have updated this post as a part of my ongoing presentation on issues regarding the life of Evangelicalism, especially with regard to its doctrine. If you are familiar with my thoughts on the issue, you will notice that I have one added criteria (#2).

“In Essentials, unity. In non-essentials, liberty. In all things, charity.” These are the words of obscure reformer Rupertus Meldenius (often wrongly attributed to others). They form somewhat of an Evangelical credo. Evangelicals have traditionally believed that there are certain doctrines that form the core of the Christian faith. They are called “cardinal doctrines.” They are what we might call the sine qua non—the “without which, not”—of the Christian faith. In other words, there are certain doctrines that when denied, by definition, evidence a person does not have the basic core beliefs that must be present to some degree in the truly regenerate.

Included in this credo is the belief that there are certain doctrines that are “non-essential” or “non-cardinal.” These are those that, while important to varying degrees, are not damnable in the proper sense. About these doctrines there can be legitimate disagreement within Christianity. We are to have liberty with regard to such doctrines. This means that we are not to properly or formally divide over them. We are to have grace.

This all sounds really nice. I have heard this touted from the Evangelical mountain-tops for quite some time. The difficulty always comes when we begin to discuss one key question: What are the essentials? Who decides? The Pope? Your local church pastor? The SBC? My private interpretation of the Scripture? Alas, with such a question, the divisions start all over.

In essentials, unity. Sounds nice, but impractical. Right?

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

I don't think we have to be so pessimistic about this. I actually think that there are certain criteria that most thoughtful people can agree constitutes the foundation of our faith—the essentials. I have them narrowed to four in no certain order. It is important to note that I am persuaded that all four must be present for a doctrine to be considered essential.

1. Historicity: Does the doctrine have universal historical representation?

This first criteria is one of historical agreement. This is a form of "consensual faith" (consensus fidelium). This criteria of universal consensus follows the canon of Saint Vincent of Lérins (died c. 445): quod ubique, quod semper, quod ab omnibus, "that which was believed everywhere, always, by everyone." In other words, an essential cannot be something new like the doctrine of the Rapture. Neither can it be something that has lacked historic unity by Christians across time like the perpetual virginity of Mary. As well, it cannot have limited geographic representation, like certain Eastern liturgy. The question here is, Have all Christians of all time everywhere believed it?

2. Explicitly Historical: Does the history of the church confess their centrality?

This is like the first but differs in an important way. Here we are saying that if the history of the church has not confessed this as a central issue, then it is not. For example, the history of the church may confess that the Christian worldview includes a firm confession of a belief in the historicity of the Flood narrative, but it has never been a part of the central teachings to the degree that a denial of such is a damnable offense. When combined with the first criteria, the exception cannot define the rule. The point here is that we take seriously God's work in the history of the Church through the Holy Spirit. If the church has universally believed that a certain doctrine is both true and central to the Christian faith, that doctrine deserves serious consideration as being among the essentials.

3. Biblical Clarity (Perspicuity): Is the doctrine represented clearly in Scripture?

One of the principles that the Reformers sought to communicate is that of the perspicuity (clarity) of Scripture. The Reformers did not believe that all of the Scripture was clear (a misunderstanding of the doctrine of perspicuity), but that all that is essential for salvation is clear. In short, if something in Scripture is obscure, then it is not essential. Augustine even held to such a principle stating that one must not build doctrines on obscure passages (On Christian Doctrine). For example, one should not build essential doctrine on what the "keys to the kingdom of heaven" (Matt 16:19) are or what it means to be "baptized for the dead" (1 Cor. 15:29). Unfortunately, both the Catholics and the Mormons have done just that. If a passage is obscure, no essential doctrine can be derived from it.

4. Explicitly Biblical: Does any passage of Scripture explicitly teach that a certain doctrine is essential?

The Scriptures speak about a great many things, but they are often explicit regarding that which is of essential importance. For example, Paul says to the Corinthians, "For I delivered to you as of first importance what I also received: that Christ died for our sins in accordance with the Scriptures, that he was buried, that he was raised on the third day in accordance with the Scriptures" (1 Cor. 15:3-4; emphasis mine). The "of first importance" tells us that Christ's death and resurrection "for our sins," from Paul's perspective, are essential components of Christianity. Without such, according to Paul, there is no Christianity (1 Cor. 15:12ff). As well, the Gospel of John speaks about the importance of faith. "Whoever believes in him is not condemned, but whoever does not believe stands condemned already because he has not believed in the name of God's one and only Son" (John 3:18).

Again, these four criteria, I propose, must all be present. I think I am committed to this. If one or more is lacking concerning a particular doctrine, I believe that it is not possible for one to legitimately argue for its core necessity. As well, all four feed off each other and are somewhat self-regulating. In other words, if someone doubts whether something is clear in Scripture, all he or she has to do is look to history. If something is not clear in the Scripture, we will not find that it passes the test of historicity. This is why it is of vital importance that Christians not only be good exegetes, but also good historians…

[Source: http://www.reclaimingthemind.org/blog/2009/08/what-are-the-essentials-to-christianity-four-criteria/]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Dealing with Contradictions / Difficulties in the Bible

Recommended Procedures for Dealing with Bible Difficulties

8 Misconceptions About the Bible

Dealing Fairly With Bible Contradictions

Ecclessia.org - Defending the Faith (Answering Contradictions and FAQs)

Bible Contradictions and Other Difficulties (including neutral / pro / contra perspectives and resources links)

101 Cleared Up Contradictions (according to Muslims)

Bible Query - Answering FAQs about the Bible

Cleared Up Bible Contradictions (FAQs; Bereans)

Tekton: Education and Apologetics (see the "Browse Articles" box)

Errancy.com (Does the Bible contain contradictions or errors? Biblical errancy examined.)

Interactive Chart of Bible Contradictions (by your "Friendly Atheist") [also has link to Bible Cross References Chart]

Josh Mcdowell Ministry (A Cru Ministry) / The Josh McDowell Institute

Ravi Zacahrias International Ministries [Recommended] (See also on YouTube.com)

Short Answers to Hard Questions (apttoteach.org) [PDF]

Alpha and Omega Ministries (James White: apologetics)

Article: Understanding Violence in the Old Testament -- Prisoners of War and Forced Marriage
https://blogs.ancientfaith.com/departinghoreb/understanding-violence-old-testament-part-prisoners-war-forced-marriage/

"Theater" of Our Universe Timeline
http://www.bibletimelines.net/article/183/available-timelines-sorted-by-category/theater-of-our-universe-timeline
("The Trial", "What is the purpose of life?", "Why is there so much suffering?", "The Verdict as Spoken")

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Rules to Evaluate Bible Contradictions and Difficulties

www.ColdCaseChristianity.com

Rule #1: Maintain A Fair Attitude
Before you jump up and call it a liar, take a second to examine what it says fairly.

Rule #2: Examine the Statement in Its Context
Never read a single Bible verse; always read the entire chapter and all the other accounts related to the narrative.

Rule #3: Recognize the Perspective of Each Eyewitness
All witness testimony is colored by the personal interests, biases, aspirations, concerns and idiosyncrasies of the eyewitnesses.

Rule #4: Consider the Capacity and Viewpoint of the Witness
The Bible was written from the perspective of common humans standing on the surface of the planet.

Rule #5: Let the Witness Clarify Their Own Statement
Allow the Bible to explain itself by reading the additional passages referenced in the margins

Rule #6: Differentiate Between Complimentary and Conflicting Accounts
When comparing two eyewitness accounts, I am more concerned about unresolvable contradictions than complimentary details.

Rule #7: Don't Confuse "Imprecision" with "Error"
The Bible was written at a time when the culture commonly used general figures or descriptions to discuss more specific issues. As a matter of cultural device, specific numbers are often rounded off.

Rule #8: Identify the Common Details of Parallel Accounts
Common details are often the most important to the account, and I expect there to be variation in the ancillary information.

Rule #9: Remember A Description is Different Than An Approval
Just because a Biblical author writes about something, this does not mean God condones it or supports it.

Rule #10: Assess the Opportunity for Collusion
The Gospel authors (and the early Church) certainly had the opportunity to eliminate alleged contradictions, but they refused to do so. As a result, we can have even more confidence in the reliability of these accounts.

Rule #11: Don't Fret Copyist Variants
None of these variations change the theology or content of the Bible. The vast majority of these variations are single letter or number variations, and the copyists were extremely honest in the way they transmitted these errors down through the ages.

Rule #12: Don't Treat Every Old Testament Citation as an Old Testament Quote
There are often times when New Testament writers cite a passage from the Old Testament to show a prophecy is being fulfilled. The New Testament authors often paraphrase Old Testament passages without intending them to be verbatim quotes.

Rule #13: Remember Who's Boss
Read the Scriptures carefully and remember God alone is God. He knows the end from the beginning, and He is the source of all morality. He gets to make decisions over life and death, even when we don't understand all the details.

COLD-CASE CHRISTIANITY:
A Homicide Detective Investigates the Claims of the Gospels

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

12 Steps that Show Christianity is True

Here's a Twelve Step argument for the Truth of Christianity.

(This is adapted from an Apologetics workbook by Norman Geisler and Frank Turek.)

1. Truth about reality is knowable.
2. The opposite of true is false.
3. It is true that a theistic God exits.
4. If God exists, then miracles are possible.
5. Miracles can be used to confirm a message from God (i.e., as an act of God to confirm a word from God).
6. The New Testament is historically reliable.
7. The New Testament says Jesus claimed to be God.
8. Jesus' claim to be God was miraculously confirmed by"
    1. His fulfillment of many prophecies about Himself;
    2. His sinless and miraculous life;
    3. His prediction and accomplishment of His resurrection from the dead.
9. Therefore, Jesus is God.
10. Whatever Jesus (who is God) teaches is true.
11. Jesus taught that the Bible is the Word of God.
12. Therefore, it is true that the Bible is the Word of God (and anything opposed to it is false).

Source: https://www.worthychristianforums.com/topic/202895-12-steps-that-show-christianity-is-true/?page=4

Video: Twelve Points that Show Christianity is True | Norman Geisler, PhD (Overview)

https://www.tubeid.co/download-video/meTM7e2OtrKXhZc/twelve-points-that-show-christianity-is-true-norman-geisler-phd.html

Direct YouTube: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Etfts9tf6DE [Video]

Shorter Overview: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=oZhYX762Kag [Video]

Why do you think Christianity is true?

John Piper: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=TLi6UkYG8H0 [Video]

Ravi Zacharias: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=nWY-6xBA0Pk [Video]

N.T. Wright: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=aoB10G3nm8o [Video] https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ICHovRHJAYY [Video] (What is the Gospel?)
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=3zXnBHddbtg [Video] (Why Does Jesus' Resurrection Matter?)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Eschatology (End Times Theology / Doctrine)

Eschatology, the doctrine of the end times, could take another couple thousand pages and still not cover everything that is written and discussed from a wide variation of points of view and beliefs. While all the end times doctrine can not all be correct, some have gained more traction and acceptance than others. Although a particular end times doctrine may be false, most of them are not a "damnable" doctrine, which is a doctrine that will cause a soul to be lost! Therefore, we are only devoting this one section to the topic and providing links to additional online information for you to pursue as interested.

What is Millennialism?
https://www.gotquestions.org/millenarianism.html

Answer: Millenarianism, generally speaking, is belief in a future positive transformation of society. Christian millenarianism, also known as millennialism, is the belief that there will be a 1,000-year period in the future in which Christ will literally rule on earth. The word millenarianism comes from the Latin word for "1,000"—millennium. Millennialism is also sometimes called chiliasm, which is from the Greek word for "1,000." Those who hold this belief are called millennialists or millenarians (not to be confused with Millennials, who are the generation of people born between the years 1980 and 2000).

The millennium (from the Latin mille, "thousand," and annus, "year"). It is taken literally by some as 1,000 actual years, while others interpret it metaphorically as a long but undetermined period of time. There are three basic approaches to the subject of the millennium:

(1) Amillennialism: The millennium describes the present reign of Christ in heaven over his realm (Mt 28:18–20), along with the souls of deceased believers, and in the hearts and lives of living believers on earth (see also note on 1Co 15:25). The present form of God's kingdom will be followed by Christ's return, the general resurrection, the final judgment and Christ's continuing reign over the perfect kingdom on the new earth in the eternal state.

(2) Premillennialism: The present form of God's kingdom is moving toward a grand climax when Christ will return, the first resurrection will occur and his kingdom will find expression in a literal, visible reign of peace and righteousness on the earth in space-time history. After the final resurrection, the last judgment and the renewal of the heavens and the earth, this future, temporal kingdom will merge into the eternal kingdom, and the Lord will reign forever on the new earth.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

(3) Postmillennialism: The world will eventually be Christianized through the preaching of the gospel, resulting in a long period of peace and prosperity called the millennium. This future period will close with Christ's second coming, the resurrection of the dead, the final judgment and the eternal state.

Source: NIV Study Bible Notes

Eschatology (Study Guide) (Singapore Bible College)
http://biblestudydownloads.org/files/eng/cn/Eschatology%20%28High%20Res%2047%20MB%29-388_eng_cn_8965_v1.0.0.pdf [PDF]

http://biblestudydownloads.org/files/eng/cn/Eschatology_eng_cn_5065_v1.0.0.doc (MS Word doc)

Five Views of the Millennium (Power Point)
[dispensational premillennialism, historic premillennialism, postmillennialism, and amillennialism and preterist]
http://markmoore.org/resources/powerpoints/mvss.ppt

Four Views of the Millennium
[dispensational premillennialism, historic premillennialism, postmillennialism, and amillennialism (including partial-preterist)]
http://www.blueletterbible.org/faq/mill.cfm

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Pre-Millenialism and The Rapture

The Rise of Premillennialism and Dispensationalism

In the emergence of fundamentalism, premillennialism played a significant role in uniting otherwise often very divergent people. The church has always believed in the return of Jesus (the Second Coming); the problems lie in the specifics. Rev 20:2 says that Satan will be bound for 1000 years. Most churches through the ages have held to an amillennial view – there will be no literal 1000-year period; rather, Satan has been bound and God will work through the church to bring about the kingdom of peace on earth.

Premillennialism, by contrast, is the belief that Jesus will return and institute a literal reign on earth of 1000 years. Most premillennialists believe that this kingdom will be preceded by a general apostasy, wars, famine, earthquakes, the appearance of the Antichrist, and a period of tribulation. Although Christ will rule during the millennium, there will at the end be a battle, the Battle of Armageddon, between Christ and His saints and those who have rebelled against Him.

From the mid-1870s on, evangelicals organized Bible conferences to study the Bible and especially prophecy. These prophetic conferences, as well as the writings of the speakers at these conferences, were premillennial in outlook; they were eminently successful and helped make premillennialism a core belief. At the 1898 Niagara (N.Y.) Conference, a statement of faith was adopted that was essentially identical to the five points adopted by the Presbyterian Assembly (see The Mainline Churches above, "Mainline Churches"), except that the last point (the reality of miracles) was replaced by the millennial return of Christ.

But further refinements were adopted by some in the form of dispensationalism. This is a theological system that divides time into seven periods or dispensations, which are stages in God's progressive revelation. The key point in dispensationalism is that in the church age God's plan for the Jews is different from His plan for the church. Thus the Jews will go through the Great Tribulation and will turn to Christ during that period, while the church is taken away (raptured) before the Tribulation. In the end, of course, both Jews and Gentiles will stand before God together.

This dispensational system was developed by John Darby, an Englishman who was a leader of the Plymouth Brethren. Darby's views on the pretribulational rapture split the Plymouth Brethren but migrated to America in the 1870s and spread via Bible and prophetic conferences. Dispensationalism became entrenched after C. I. Scofield published the Scofield Reference Bible in 1909. This Bible shows in detail how the dispensationalist system works. It had wide appeal and still sells well today. In 1924, Dallas Theological Seminary was founded with the specific goal to train men in dispensational theology.

(More details later in this Appendix)

Source: Halley's Bible Handbook

Theories About The Rapture (PDF)
http://www.biblefortoday.org/pdf/rapture.pdf

The "Origen" of the Concept of a Pre-Tribulation Rapture http://christinprophecy.org/articles/the-origin-of-the-concept-of-a-pre-tribulation-rapture/

PRE-MID-POST-A WHAT?
http://www.apocalypsesoon.org/trib.html

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Rapture: Post-Tribulation - Pre-Wrath
http://crossbearer-brian.tripod.com/id59.htm

The timing of the rapture in relation to the tribulation is one of the most controversial issues in the church today. The three primary views are pre-tribulational (the rapture occurs before the tribulation), mid-tribulational (the rapture occurs at or near the mid-point of the tribulation), and post-tribulational (the rapture occurs at the end of the tribulation). A fourth view, commonly known as pre-wrath, is a slight modification of the mid-tribulational position. [These are all Pre-Millennial.]

[Source: http://www.gotquestions.org/rapture-tribulation.html]

[Related: http://www.gotquestions.org/pre-wrath-rapture.html - re: Pre-Wrath]

For more details see*: The Rapture Variations of Pre-Millenialism later in the Appendix.

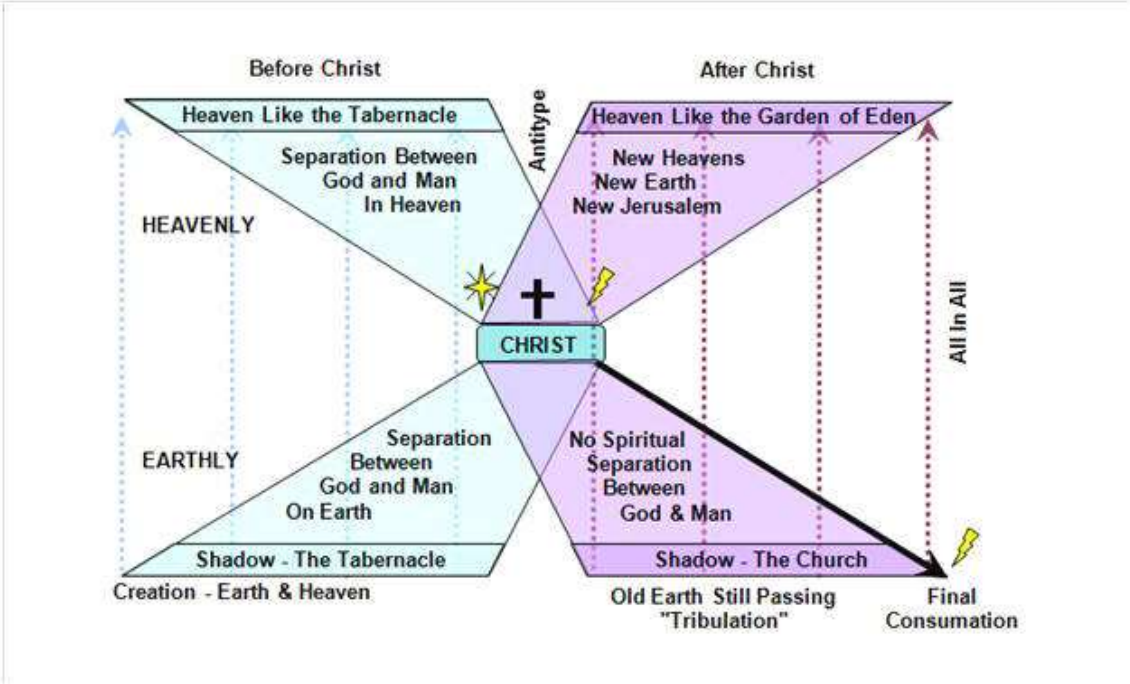
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

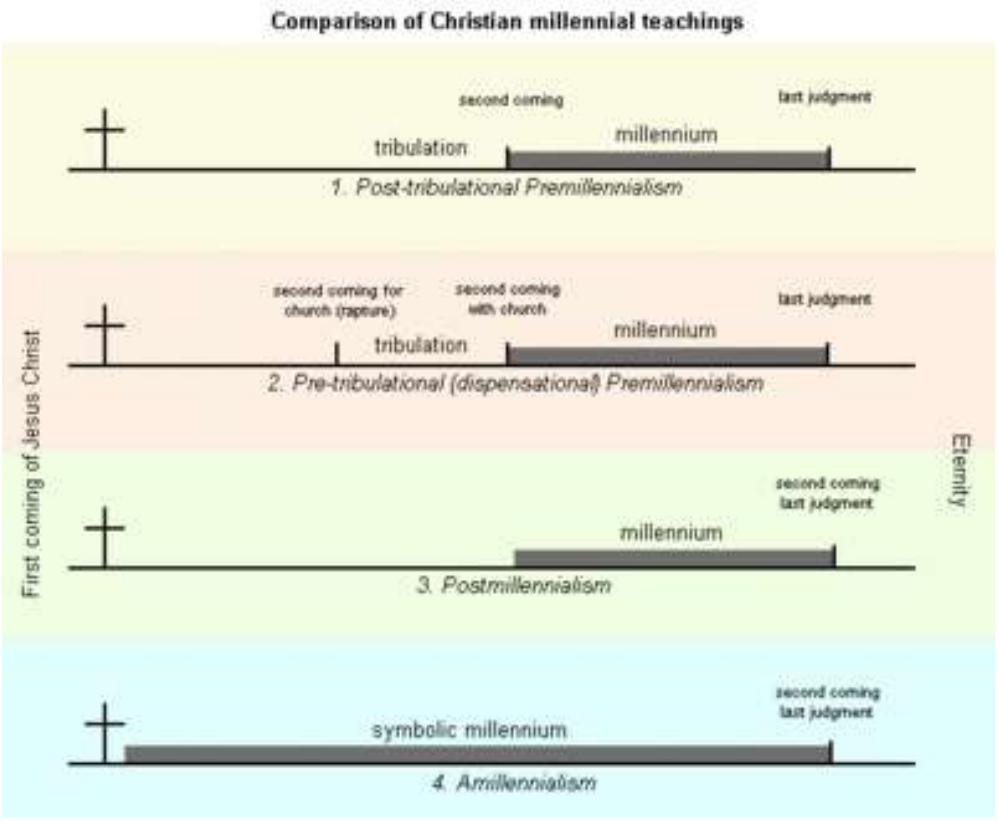
What Determines Your Millennial Position?



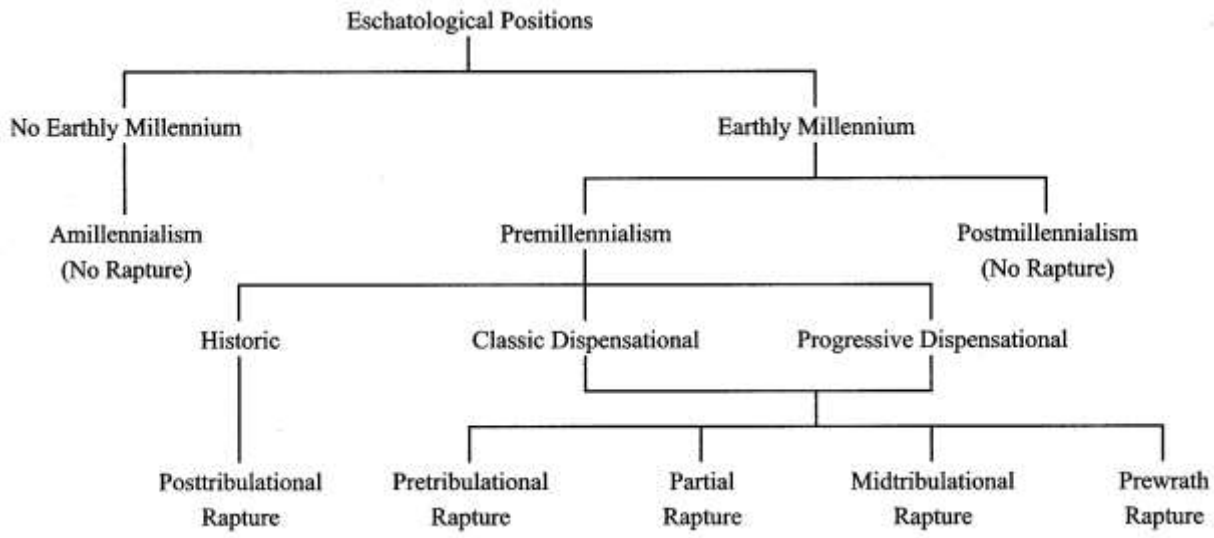
[Source: http://markmoore.org/resources/powerpoints/mvss.ppt] (Powerpoint)

[Source: Wikipedia]

[Notes: Full Preterism, which focuses on the destruction of Jerusalem in 70 AD, assumes a symbolic Millenium and that all prophecy has been fulfilled in one way or another. Partial Preterism is usually a subset of Amillennialism (sometimes Post-millenialsm) and associated with covenant theology, "Those who hold to partial preterism believe that the prophecies in Daniel, Matthew 24, and Revelation (with the exception of the last two or three chapters) have already been fulfilled and were fulfilled no later than the first century AD. According to partial preterism, there is no rapture, and passages describing the tribulation and the Antichrist are actually referring to the destruction of Jerusalem in AD 70 and the Roman emperor Titus. Partial preterists do believe in the return of Christ to earth and a future resurrection and judgment, but they do not teach a millennial kingdom or that Israel as a nation has a place in God's future plan. The "last days" relates to the old Jewish covenant not the earth itself.] [Source: http://www.gotquestions.org/partial-preterism.html]



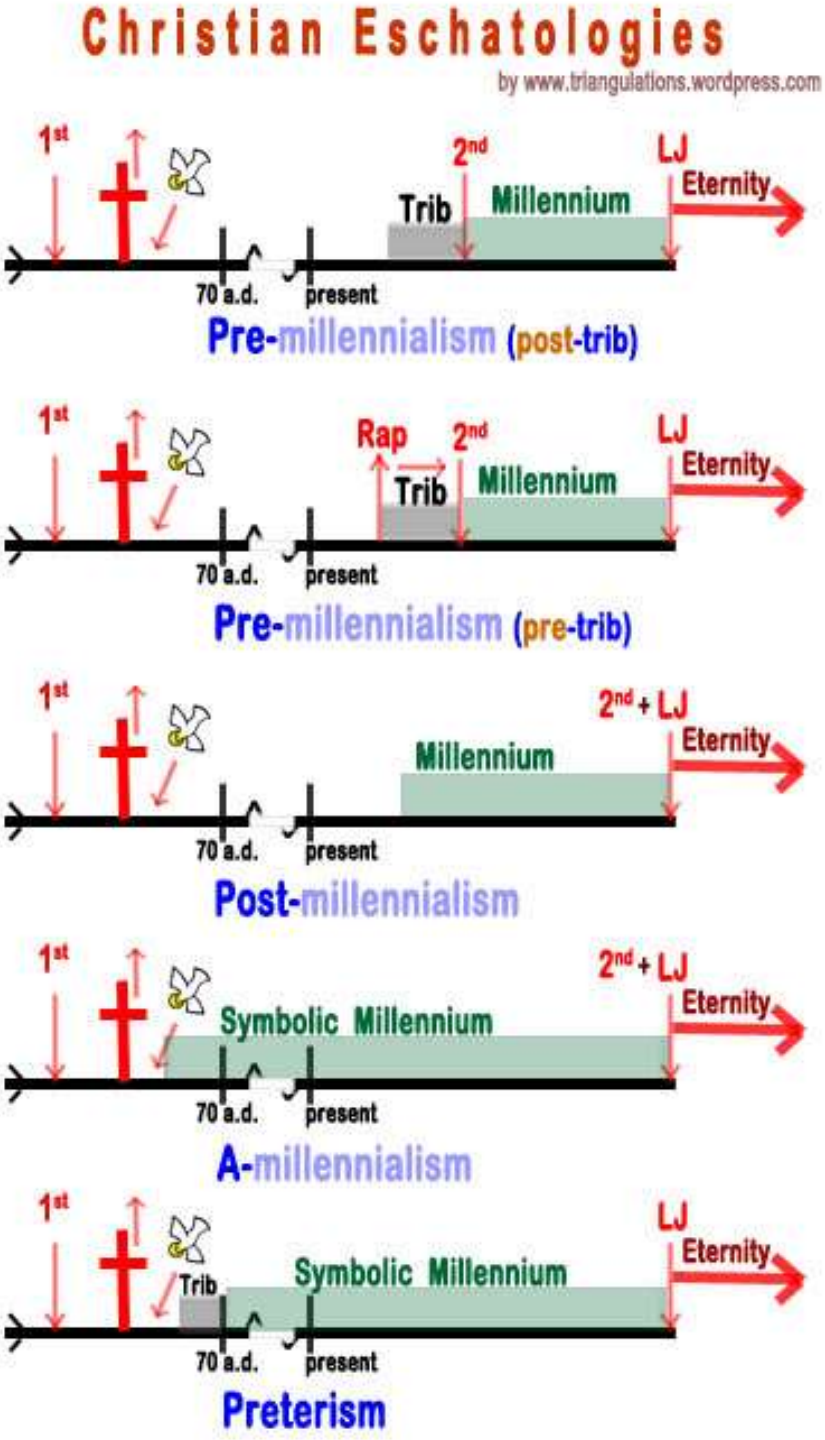
Idealistic Preterism:



[Source: http://www.preteristarchive.com/Idealism/]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

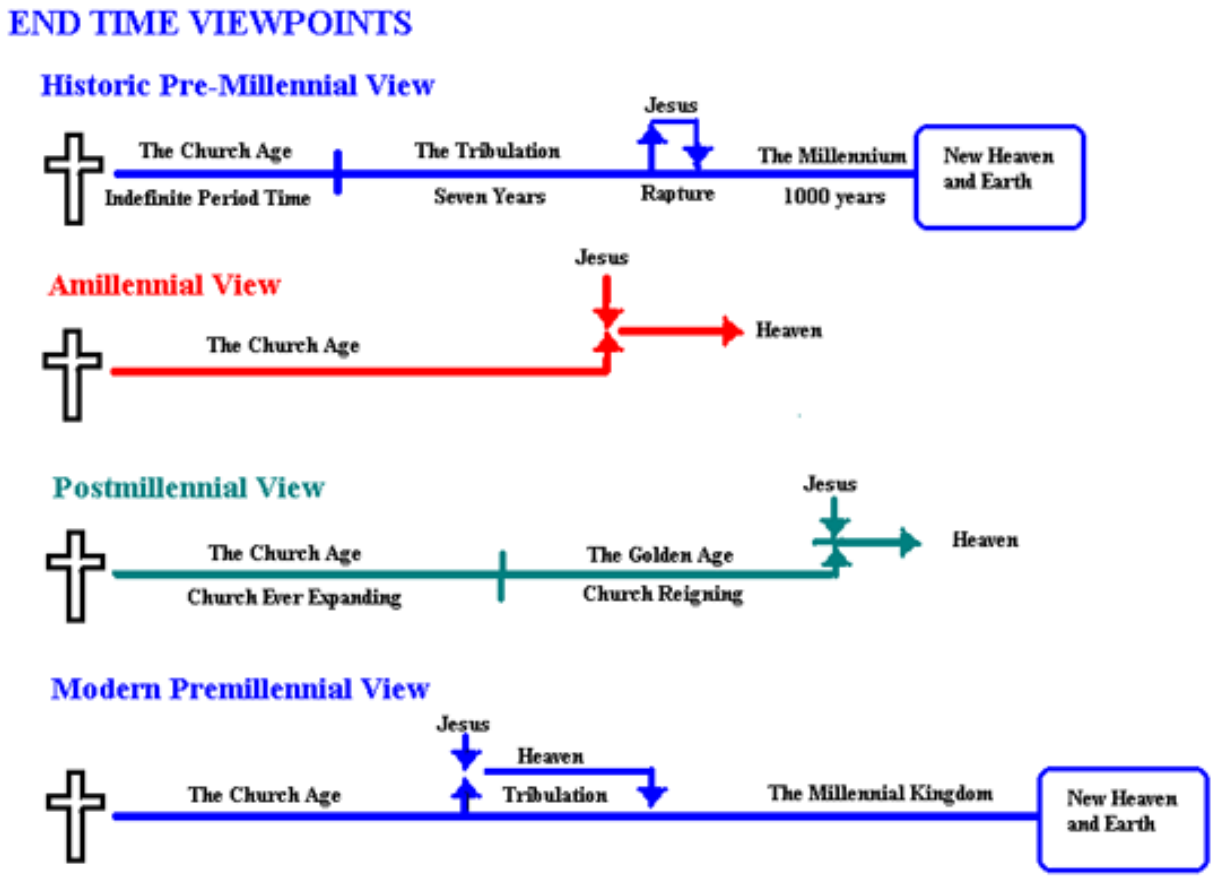
Comparisons of Eschatological (Last Days) Views



[Source: Wikipedia]

[Source: http://www.writeopinions.com/christian-eschatological-views]

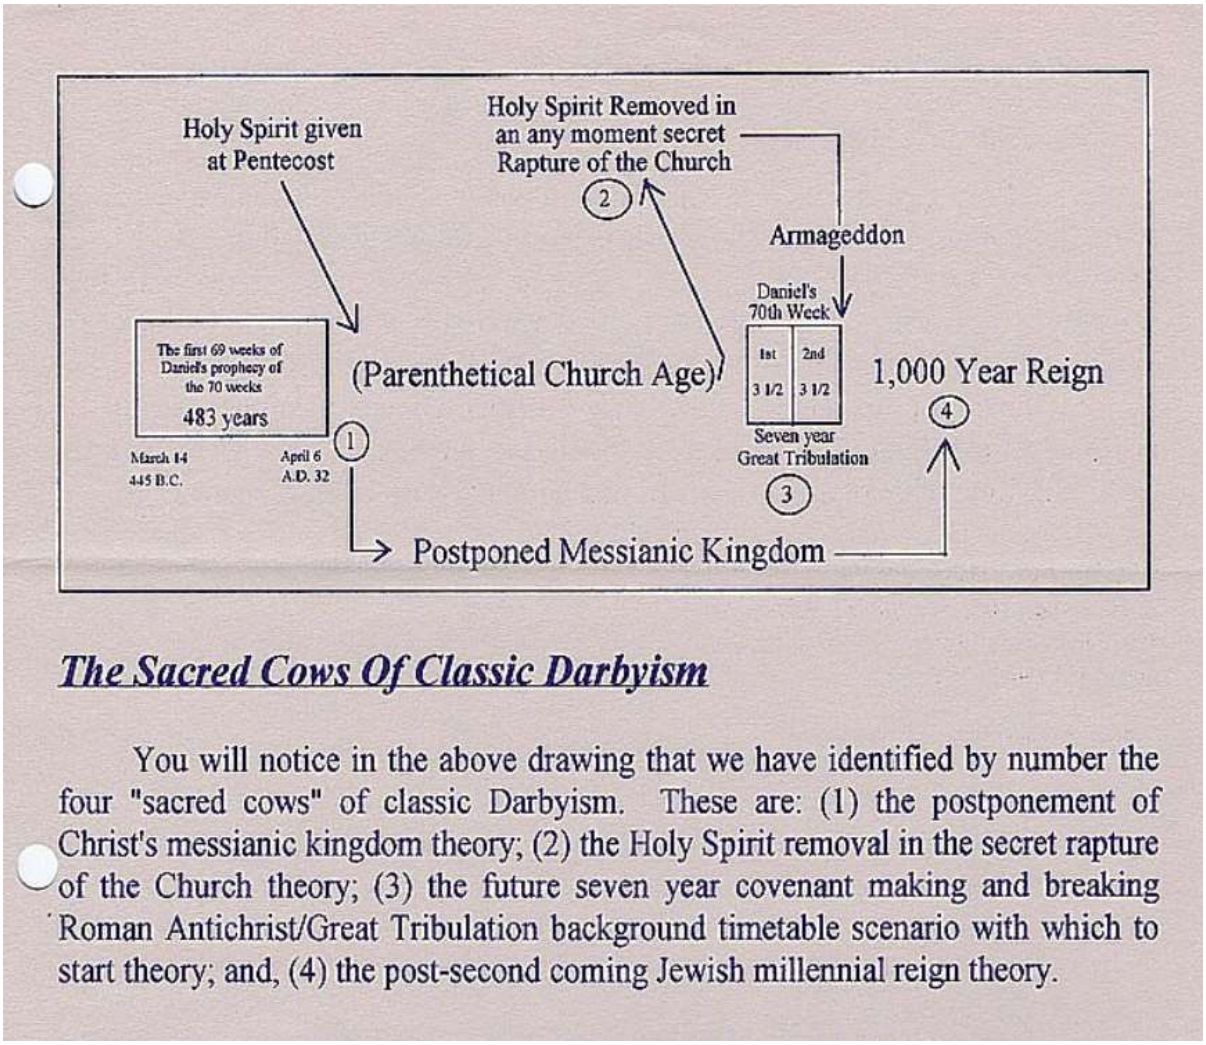
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



[Source: http://www.writeopinions.com/christian-eschatological-views]

Note: FYI Preterism: http://www.theopedia.com/preterism

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



What are the differences between the different millennialisms? [Forum]

Excerpt:

Source: https://christianity.stackexchange.com/questions/3131/what-are-the-differences-between-the-different-millenialisms

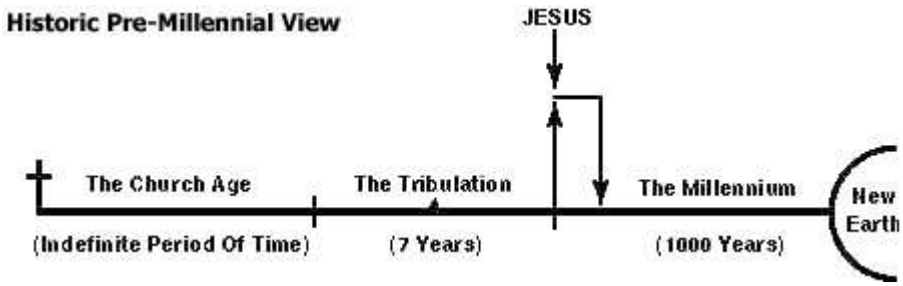
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Picture outline of the belief system of modern Scofield/Darby; otherwise known as Dispensational Premillennialism

[Source: http://www.facebook.com/WesleyanEndTimeBibleProphecy; http://www.rapturerevival.org/Main%20pages/diagrams.html]

End Time Viewpoints - Why are there so many? How do they differ? Does it matter?

…Basically, there are four major end time viewpoints. Or, to put it another way, there are four different interpretations about what the Bible says concerning end time events.



Historic Premillennialism

The oldest viewpoint is called historic premillennialism. It is termed “historic” for two reasons: to differentiate it from modern premillennialism and to indicate that it was the historic position of the early Church.

It is called “premillennial” because it envisions a return of Jesus to earth before (pre) the beginning of the Millennium. The word, millennium, is a combination of two Latin words mille annum which simply means one thousand years.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

A diagram of this viewpoint is presented below. It divides the future of the world into four periods: 1) the current Church Age; 2) a seven year period called the Tribulation; 3) a reign of Christ on earth lasting one thousand years (the Millennium); and 4) the Eternal State when the redeemed will dwell forever with God on a new earth.

This view is based on a literal interpretation of what the Bible says will happen in the end times. One of its distinctive features is that it places the Rapture of the Church at the end of the Tribulation.

According to this view, the Church will remain on earth during the Tribulation. At the end of that period, Jesus will appear in the heavens and the Church will be caught up to meet Him in the sky. The saints will be instantly glorified, and then they will immediately return to the earth to reign with Jesus for a thousand years.

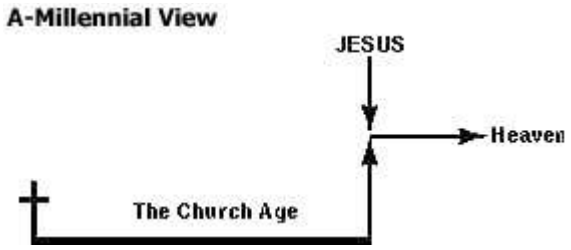
The Church Fathers

This is the only view of end time events that existed during the first 300 years of the Church. With one exception, all the Church Fathers who expressed themselves on the topic of prophecy were premillennial until A.D. 400. Justin Martyr, who was born in A.D. 100, went so far in his writings on the subject as to suggest that anyone with a different viewpoint was heretical.

Those today who disagree with this view respond to the near unanimity of the early Church Fathers by saying they were simply wrong in their interpretation of the prophetic Scriptures.

It certainly should be noted that these early church leaders were not prophetic scholars. They wrote very little on prophecy, and what they wrote was sketchy. Their main concern was not prophecy, but the deity of Jesus, the oneness of God, the practical problems of church organization, and survival amidst persecution.

Yet their concept of end time events should not be dismissed out of hand as crude and primitive, for anyone who has studied the prophetic Scriptures will have to admit that the Church Fathers' viewpoint presents a plain sense summary of the Bible's teachings about the end times.



The one exception to the consensus opinion among the early Church Fathers was Origen (185-254 A.D.). Origen's approach to all of Scripture was to spiritualize it. He therefore denied the literal meaning of prophecy. He looked upon its language as highly symbolic and expressive of deep spiritual truths rather than of future historical events.

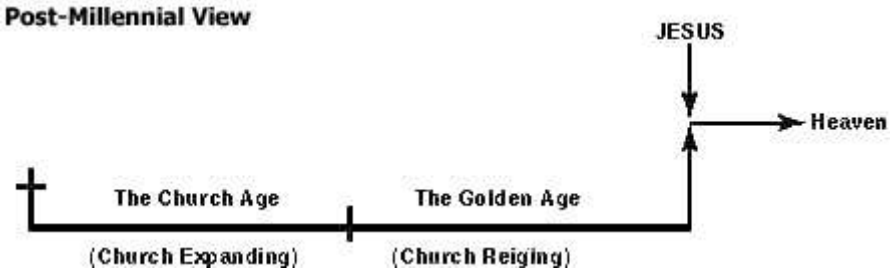
Although Origen could not accept the premillennial viewpoint, he did not develop an alternative. That task fell to the Church Father named St. Augustine (358-434 A.D.) who ultimately had the greatest impact on the development of church doctrine. He conceived an alternative viewpoint at the end of the fourth century.

Amillennialism

The concept formulated by Augustine is illustrated below. It is called amillennialism. This strange name derives from the fact that in the Greek language a word is negated by putting the letter "a" in front of it. Thus, amillennial literally means "no thousand years."

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The term is misleading, however, because most amillennialists do believe in a millennium, but not a literal, earthly one. They argue that the Millennium is the current spiritual reign of Christ over the Church and that it will continue until He returns for His saints. They thus interpret the thousand years as a symbolic period of time.



One appealing aspect of the amillennial view is its simplicity. The Church Age comes to a screaming halt as a result of the Rapture of the Church. There is no Tribulation, no literal earthly Millennium, and no eternity on a new earth. Augustine spiritualized everything, arguing that the kingdom is the Church, the Millennium is the current Church Age, and the new earth is symbolic language for Heaven.

Augustine's view of end time events was adopted by the Council of Ephesus in 431 A.D. and has remained Catholic dogma to this day. It is also the current majority viewpoint among mainline Protestant denominations. In other words, the amillennial viewpoint is the one that is held today by the vast majority of all those who profess to be Christians.

Postmillennialism

The third view of end time events, called post-millennialism, did not develop until the mid-seventeenth century, long after the Reformation. The Reformation had little impact on prophetic views because the Reformation leaders had their attention riveted on the questions of Biblical authority and justification by faith.

The postmillennial view was a product of the rationalistic revolution in thinking. It was developed in the mid-1600's by a Unitarian minister named Daniel Whitby. It was immediately dubbed "postmillennialism" because it envisioned a return of Jesus after (post) a literal thousand year reign of the Church over all the earth. This view is illustrated below.

Postmillennialism spread quickly within the Protestant world, probably for two reasons. First, it gave Protestants an opportunity to differ from the Catholic position. More importantly, it was a theological expression of the prevailing rationalistic philosophy of the age, a philosophy that boldly proclaimed the ability of mankind to build the kingdom of heaven on earth.

The postmillennial view holds that the Church Age will gradually evolve into a "golden age" when the Church will rule over all the world. This will be accomplished through the Christianization of the nations.

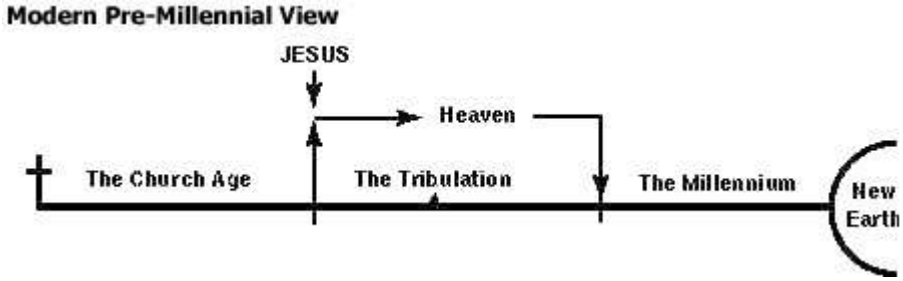
To its credit, it can be said that this viewpoint served as a mighty stimulus to missionary efforts during the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. Missionaries were seized with the vision of speeding up the return of the Lord by preaching the gospel to all the world.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

A Sudden Death

By 1900 nearly all segments of Protestant Christianity had adopted the postmillennial viewpoint. But the view was to be quickly dropped.

Postmillennialism died almost overnight with the outbreak of the First World War. The reason, of course, is that this great war undermined one of the fundamental assumptions of the postmillennial viewpoint the assumption of the inevitability of progress. This had always been a fatal flaw in the postmillennial concept, due mainly to its birth in rationalistic humanism. Its visions of the perfectibility of man and the redemption of society were destroyed by the atrocities of the war.



Another fatal flaw of the postmillennial viewpoint was its lack of a consistent Biblical base. To expound the view, it was necessary to literalize some prophecies (those concerning the Millennium) while at the same time spiritualizing other prophecies (the personal presence of the Lord during the Millennium). Also, it was necessary to ignore or explain away the many prophecies in the Bible that clearly state that society is going to get worse rather than better as the time approaches for the Lord's return (Matthew 24:4-24 and 2 Timothy 3:1-5).

The sudden death of postmillennialism left a prophetic vacuum among Protestant groups. Since the postmillennial view was based to a large extent upon a spiritualizing approach to Scripture, most Protestant groups returned to the spiritualized amillennial viewpoint they had abandoned in the 1700's.

However, a new choice of prophetic viewpoint presented itself on the American scene about this same time, and some of the more fundamentalist Protestant groups opted for it. This view was technically called "dispensational premillennialism" because it originated with a group who had been nicknamed "Dispensationalists." I call it the modern premillennial viewpoint.

Modern Premillennialism

The modern premillennial viewpoint crystallized in the early 1800's among a group in England known as the Plymouth Brethren. The view is illustrated below.

As can be readily seen, this viewpoint revives the historic premillennial view except for its concept of the Rapture of the Church. The Plymouth Brethren envisioned two future comings of Jesus, one for His Church and one with His Church. Their concept of the Rapture has since come to be known as the "pre-Tribulation Rapture."

This viewpoint has been attacked as being "too new to be true." But its advocates are quick to point out that the Bible teaches the principle of "progressive illumination" regarding prophecy (Daniel 12:4 and Jeremiah 30:24). What they mean by this is that the Bible itself indicates that end time prophecy will be better understood as the time nears for its fulfillment.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Comparisons

Looking back over these four views of the end times, we can see some significant differences. But let's not overlook the similarities.

1. All agree that Jesus is coming back for His saints.
2. All agree that the redeemed will spend eternity in the presence of God.

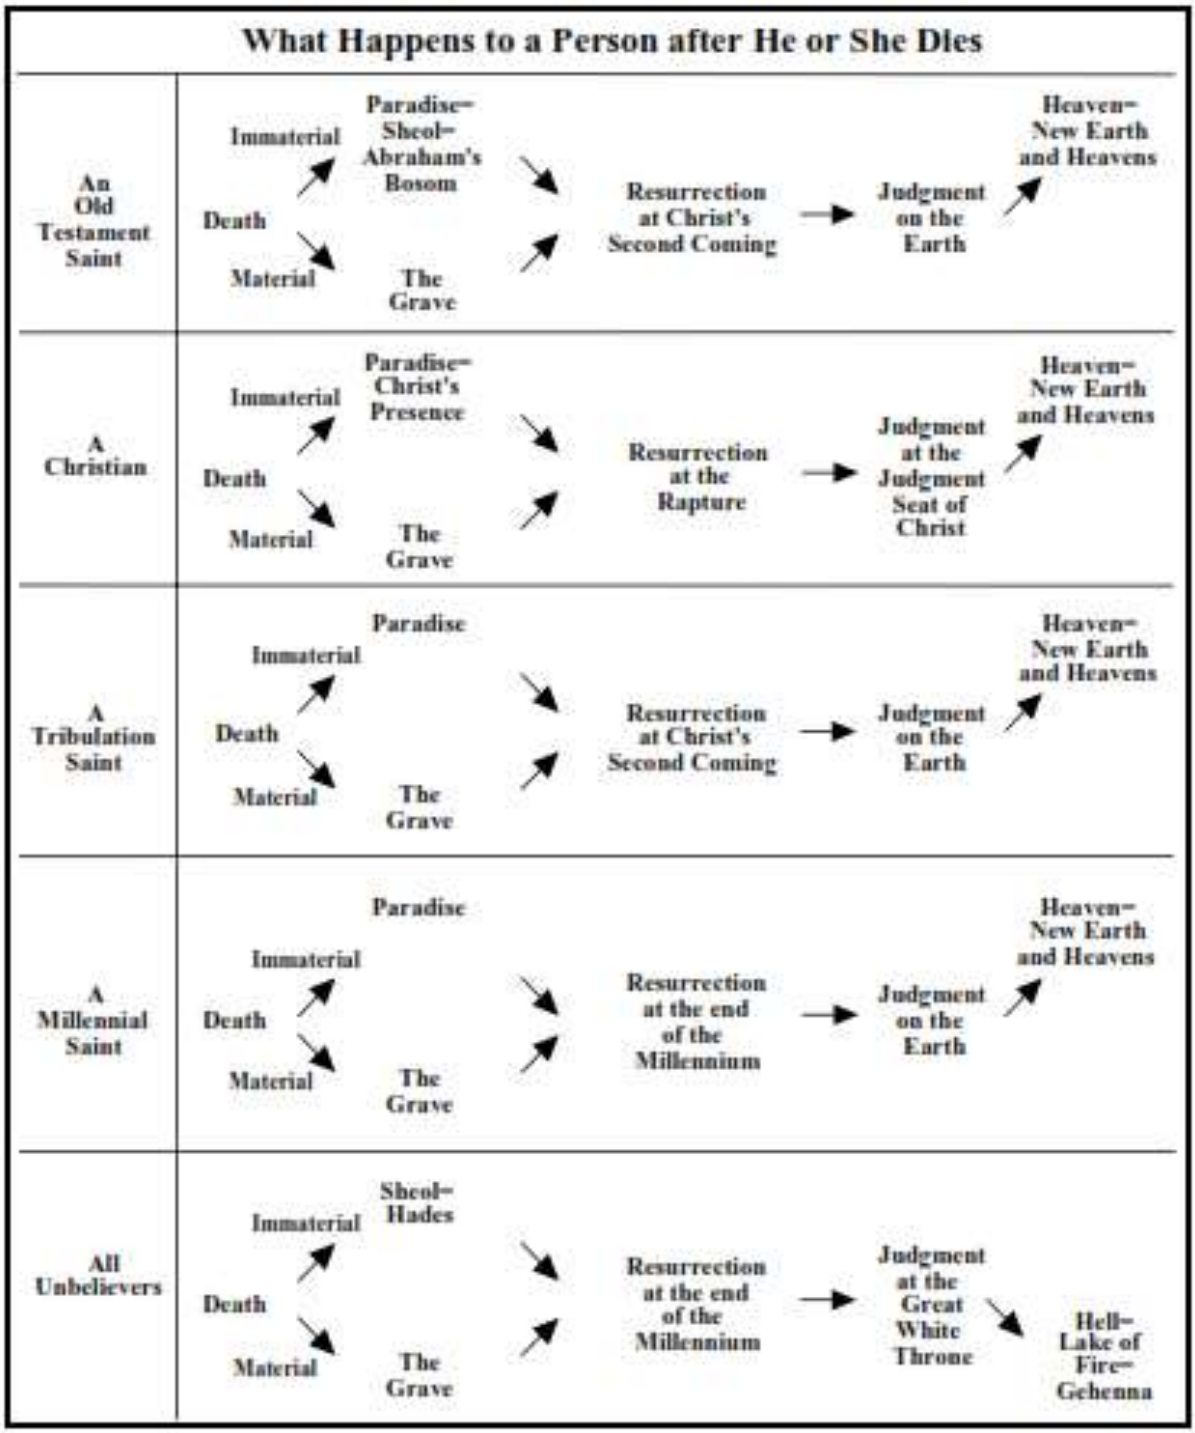
These two points of agreement are far more important than the many points of disagreement.

Still, the areas of disagreement are significant. Two of the views (the amillennial and postmillennial) deny that Jesus will ever manifest His glory before the nations in a world wide reign of peace, justice and righteousness. The postmillennial view also denies the soon coming of the Lord, for according to this view, the Lord cannot return until His Church has ruled over the world for a thousand years.



The key to the differences is the approach to Scripture. If you tend to spiritualize Scripture, you will end up with an amillennial or postmillennial viewpoint. If you tend to accept Scripture for its plain sense meaning, you will have a premillennial viewpoint.

[Source: http://christinprophecy.org/articles/end-time-viewpoints/]

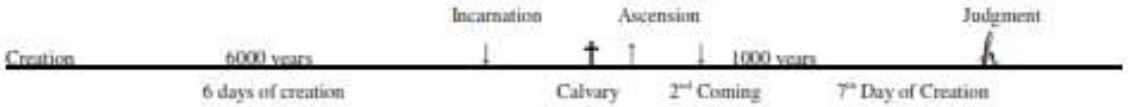
The Theological Context of Premillennialism (Walvoord)

[Source: http://www.walvoord.com/article/150]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: Dr. Constable Expository Notes – Revelation]
http://www.soniclight.com/constable/notes.htm

Note: Above assumes a dispensational, pre-tribulation (and therefore pre-millennial) perspective.



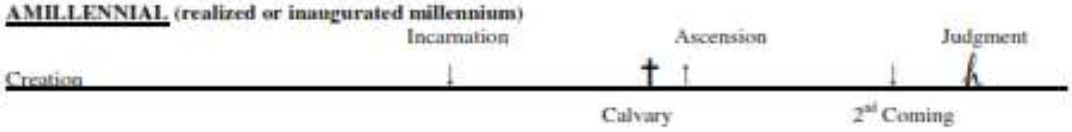
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

VIEWS OF THE SECOND COMING

INTRODUCTION

A. This subject has caused great arguments.
B. The how is not certain, the when is not certain, but the event is sure!
C. Where did you get what you believe?
D. What is the purpose of the Second Coming?
E. Does the Bible teach a systematic eschatology?
F. Why is our day so interested in the Second Coming?
G. All theories concerning the physical return of Jesus are conservative views.

EARLY CHURCH PREMILLENNIAL (Historical Premillennial)

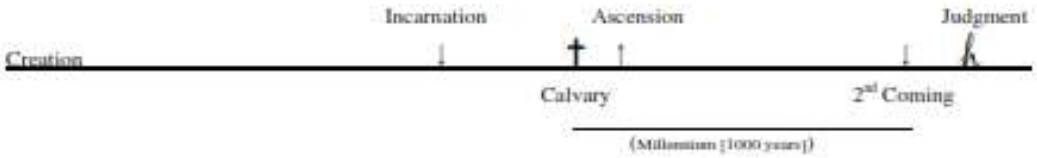


Presuppositions
1. History of the Earth is analogous to 7 days of Creation (Epistle of Barnabas, Irenaeus, Methodius)
2. Each day represents 1000 years (II Pet. 3:8; Ps. 90:4)

Advocates
1. Papias Irenaeus, Justin Martyr, Tertullian Hipplytus, Methodius
2. George Ladd (Historical Premillennial)

Strengths
1. Certain events must occur before Parousia
   a. Gospel to all nations (Matt. 24:14)
   b. Conversion of Israel (Rom. 11:25ff)
   c. Great Apostasy (Matt.24:10; II Thess. 2:3)
   d. Great Tribulation (Matt. 24:21)
   e. Revealing of Man of Sin - Antichrist (II Thess. 2:3)
2. A visible, universal Rapture and Coming

AMILLENNIAL (realized or inaugurated millennium)



Presuppositions
1. The Church is Spiritual Israel (Gal. 3:9,29; 6:16; Rom. 2:5,9, 28-29; Rev. 1:6; I Pet. 3:6)
2. One Covenant (Old and New, Rom. 4 - Abraham is Paul's example for justification by faith)
3. Christ's Kingdom is not temporal (John 18:36)
4. One Second Coming
   One Resurrection
   One Judgment
   The Eternal Kingdom

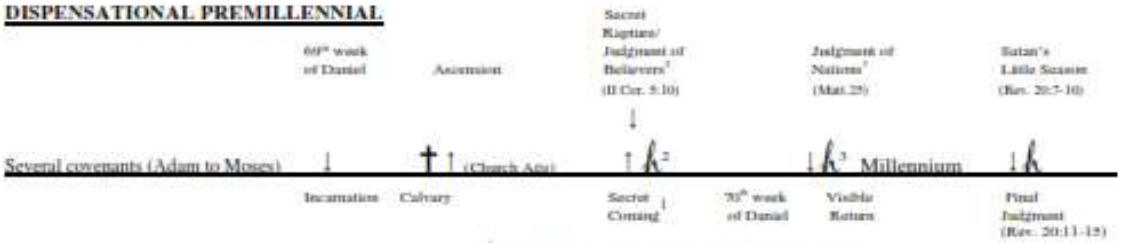
Advocates
1. Some Early Church Fathers
2. Augustine
3. Zwingli
4. Calvin (Presbyterianism)
5. Ray Summers (Baptist)
6. Jay Adams (Reformed)
7. Most Churches of Christ

Strengths
1. Victory won at Calvary, not Millennium
2. Satan bound now
3. Unity of God's plan of redemption

POSTMILLENNIAL (millennium now)

Presuppositions
1. Man's efforts will bring in the Kingdom (II Pet. 3:12; Matt. 6:10)
2. Things are getting better and better

Advocates
1. Jonathan Edwards
2. A. H. Strong
3. W. T. Conner
4. Most 19th Century Scholars



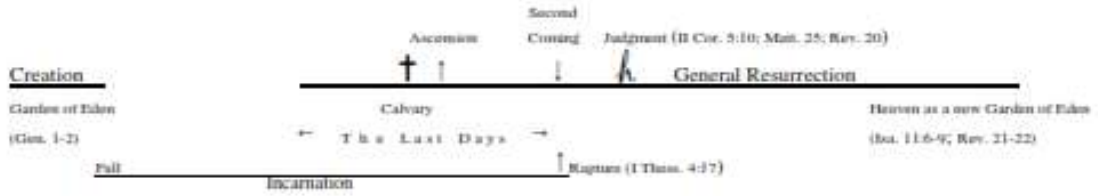
Strengths
1. Takes Second Coming Seriously
2. Man has a part in God's plan
3. Optimistic about contemporary culture

Continued next page…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

…continued from preceeding page

DISPENSATIONAL PREMILLENNIAL



[1] There are 3 views of this Secret Coming:
1) Pre-tribulationist
2) Mid-tribulationist
3) Post-tribulationist
[2] Judgment of Believers (II Cor. 5:10)
[3] Judgment of Nations (Matt. 25)

Presuppositions
1. The Bible is divided into seven distinct dispensations
2. Literal fulfillment of every OT prophecy to Israel
3. Church and Israel totally separate. The Church is God's Plan B when the Jews rejected Jesus as the Messiah
4. The Church will be secretly raptured, before the Tribulation. The book of Revelation, after chapter 5, is Jewish.
5. NT interpreted in light of OT prophecy

Advocates
1. John Darby (Plymouth Brethren)
2. Clarence Larkin
3. D. L. Moody
4. C. I. Scofield (Reference Bible)
5. Dallas Seminary (Pentecost, Ryrie, Walvoord)
6. W. A. Criswell (Southern Baptist)
7. Hal Lindsey
8. Tim LaHaye
9. Bible Churches (Dallas Seminary)

Strengths
1. Takes Bible prophecy seriously (especially Daniel)
2. Any-moment return (Matt. 24:40-42)

BOB'S TENTATIVE OPINION (Historical Premillennial/Post-Tribulationist/Nonmillennial)

Presuppositions
1. One Plan (Gen. 3:15)
2. Unity of the people of God (Rom. 2:28-29;4; Gal. 3:29; 6:16)
3. Apocalyptic nature of Daniel, Ezekiel, and Revelation (literary genre)
4. OT saw one coming (Two Ages), one visible coming
5. One visible coming (Matt. 24:27)
   One Rapture (I Thess. 4:13-16)
   One Resurrection
   One Judgment (Matt. 25; Rev. 20)
   The Eternal Kingdom

Dialectical Tensions:
1. between Old Covenant prophetic models and New Covenant apostolic models
2. between the Bible's monotheism (one God for all) and the election of Israel
3. between the conditional aspect of biblical covenants and promises ("if...then") and the unconditional faithfulness of God to fallen mankind's redemption
4. between Near Eastern literary genres and modern western literary models
5. between the Kingdom of God as present, yet future
6. between belief in the imminent return of Christ and the belief that some events must happen first

Conclusion
1. John Calvin said of the book of Revelation, "Only God knows what this means."
2. There is no approved or majority opinion on the Second Coming.
3. Every generation of believers forces the Bible into its own historical and cultural settings.
4. There is no systematic eschatology in the NT, but truth is revealed for us to "be ready" and "be active."
5. Only conservatives fight over this issue.
6. It is every generation of believers' hope, encouragement, and motivation to expect the Second Coming in their lifetime (Mark 13:33-37).

[Source: http://www.ibiblio.org/freebiblecommentary/pdf/EN/second_coming_theories.pdf] [Dr. Bob Utley]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

A Comparison and Contrast Between:
Our Present World, the Millennium and the Eternal State

A Refutation of the Teaching that Denies the Literal 1000 Year Reign of Christ*

Introduction: In these days there is much confusion concerning the subject of the millennium. Many teach that the millennium is taking place today and that the church is fulfilling the kingdom promises that God made to Israel (Replacement Theology). These people generally teach that at the second coming of Christ there will be one general resurrection and one general judgment followed immediately by the eternal state. The following chart illustrates that if the Bible is interpreted literally (in its plain and normal sense), three distinct ages must be recognized which are quite different from each other. The kingdom age is not the same as our present age; the kingdom age is also quite different from the eternal state. Thus three distinct ages must be distinguished. God means what He says and says what He means. May we approach the prophetic Scriptures with much reverence and humbly take God at His Word.

TOPIC	THIS PRESENT AGE (Our Present World)	THE AGE TO COME (The Millennium)	THE ETERNAL AGES (The Eternal State)
Duration	Unrevealed (Matthew 24:36)	A Thousand Years (Revelation 20:2-7)	Forever and ever (Rev. 22:5)
Preceding Event	Inaugurated by the death, resurrection and ascension of Christ and the coming of the Holy Spirit (Acts 2)	Preceded by the great tribulation and the second coming of Christ (Matthew 24:21, 29-31)	Preceded by the Great White Throne Judgment (Revelation 20:11-15)
Termination Point	Terminated by the second coming of Christ (Matthew 24:3)	Terminated by the release of Satan from the abyss or bottomless pit (Rev. 20:7)	No termination point (Revelation 22:5)
The Resurrection	The resurrection is future (John 5:28—"the hour is coming")	Preceded by the first resurrection (Revelation 20:4-6)	Preceded by the second resurrection (Revelation 20:5, 13-15)
Death	Men are under the curse of physical death (Heb. 9:27). Death is the norm.	Men enjoy unusual longevity but there is occasional death (Isaiah 65:20,22). Death is the exception.	"There shall be no more death" (Revelation 21:4)
Animals	Animals are under the curse and bondage resulting from the fall of man (Rom. 8:20-21).	Animals are delivered from the curse and bondage which resulted from man's sin, and no	No mention of animals

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

	Many animals are fierce, dangerous and carnivorous.	animals are fierce and carnivorous (Hosea 2:18; Ezek. 34:25; Isaiah 11:6-8)
The Sea (Ocean)	The sea is in existence	The sea is in existence (Rev. 20:13; Ps. 72:8; Ezek. 47:8,15,17)	"There was no more sea" (Rev. 21:1)
Sun and rain	We enjoy both (Matthew 5:45)	In Christ's kingdom of peace both will exist (Isaiah 30:26; Zech. 14:17)	There will be no sun and no rain (Rev. 21:23)

TOPIC	THIS PRESENT AGE (Our Present World)	THE AGE TO COME (The Millennium)	THE ETERNAL AGES (The Eternal State)
Sickness	There is abundant sickness and disease (Matthew 24:7)	No sickness (Isaiah 33:24) unless divinely inflicted (Zech. 14:18; Isaiah 65:20)	No more sickness or pain (Revelation 21:4)
Evangelism	Evangelism needful and necessary (Mark 16:15; Matthew 28:18-20; etc.)	Evangelism not necessary (see Jer. 31:34) but people will still need to choose for or against the God whom they know	Evangelism not necessary. Eternal destinies will be settled and fixed (Revelation 22:11)
Saved and Unsaved	Saved and unsaved will be mixed (Matthew 13:30)	At the beginning of the millennium all will be saved (Matt. 25:34; 13:41,49) but at the end there will be a great host of unsaved (Rev. 20:7-9)	Only the saved will be in the eternal city. The unsaved will be forever excluded (Rev. 21:8; 22:15).
Kind of Body	All inhabitants are in natural bodies because the resurrection is yet future	The resurrected saints will be in glorified bodies; the survivors of the tribulation and their offspring will be in natural bodies	All saved inhabitants will be in glorified bodies, bodies not subject to pain or death (Revelation 21:4)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

1 Corinthians chapter 15	We are awaiting His coming (1 Cor. 15:23)	Christ reigns but there are still enemies and still death (1 Cor. 15:24-25)	No more enemies...the kingdom is delivered unto God (1 Cor. 15:26-28)
The Devil	Active, on the loose and walking about seeking whom he may devour (1 Pet. 5:8)	Chained and bound in the abyss (temporary prison) (Revelation 20:1-7)	In the lake of fire (permanent prison) (Revelation 20:10)
Religion	Many false religions—in and outside of "Christendom"	False religion is not tolerated by the King. True worship is strictly enforced (Zech. 14:16-19)	True worship only and forever (Revelation 22:3)
War and Peace	There will be wars to the end of the age (Matt. 24:6-7) until the "Prince of Peace" comes	There will be no war (Hosea 2:18; Micah 4:3-4; Isaiah 2:4) but the thousand years will end with a final rebellion (Rev. 20:7,9)	There will be no war and no more rebellion "for the former things are passed away" (Rev. 21:4)
Sacrifice	No animal sacrifices for the church. The Lord's Table is observed in remembrance of Him (1 Cor. 11:23-34).	Animal sacrifices will be offered in connection with millennial temple worship (Ezek. 43:27; 45:15,17; etc.).	No sacrificial system. Continual worship of the Lamb that was slain!
Temple	The church is God's temple today (1 Cor. 3:16-17) and there will be a tribulation temple at the end of the age (2 Thess. 2:4; Matthew 24:15)	A glorious millennial temple far surpassing that of Solomon's (Haggai 2:6-9; Ezek. 40-48)	No temple, just a glorious and great God (Revelation 21:22)
The Lord Jesus Christ	Our exalted Lord! (Philippians 2:9-11)	The great millennial King! (Isaiah 33:22)	The Lamb of eternity! (Revelation 21-22)

This article by George Zeller first appeared in The Voice (IFCA), July/August 1987. It has since been revised.

[Source: http://www.middletownbiblechurch.org/proph/millenim.htm]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Comparison Of Four Eschatological Positions By Nate Wilson

NOTE: The distinctions are often not as clear-cut between positions as this chart may make it appear. There really is a whole spectrum, especially if you take into account the fact that there are different camps within each millennial position. For instance, within the Dispensational camp, there are major differences, and the Progressive camp of Dispensationalists may be closer to the Historic PreMil. position on this chart than to the Dispensational PreMil. as represented on this chart.

Sources: Lectures from Dr. Dwight F. Zeller, Sangre de Cristo Seminary and the book The Meaning of the Millennium: Four Views, edited by Robert G. Clouse (IVP 1977)

	Dispensational Premillennialism	Historic / Covenant Pre-millennialism	Amillennialism	Post-millennialism
Overview	"A golden age of civilization...as described in the Bible...a millennial kingdom will be ushered in by a divine, supernatural and catastrophic manifestation from heaven at the Second coming of Christ....when the conditions of life have reached the depths of great tribulation." H.A. Hoyt	"After the Second coming of Christ, he will reign for a thousand years over the earth before the final consummation of God's redemptive purpose in the new heavens and the new earth of the age to come." G.E. Ladd	"...amillennialists do not believe in a literal thousand-year reign which will follow the return of Christ... the millennium of Revelation 20 is not exclusively future, but is now in the process of realization." A.A. Hoekema	"..the kingdom of God is now being extended in the world through the preaching of the gospel and the saving work of the Holy Spirit in the hearts of individuals... the world eventually is to be Christianized and the return of Christ is to occur at the close of a long period of righteousness and peace, commonly called the millenium." L. Boettner
Key Bible Verse(s)	Dispensationalism provides a Comprehensive view of the whole Bible	Rev. 20:1-6--two resurrections	No particular emphasis	Matt. 28:18ff--the whole earth must be discipled Matt. 16:18--church must be triumphant over gates of hell
Herme-neutics	• Whole Bible is divided into 7 dispensations/time periods in which God acts in different ways	□ "Natural reading" of Revelation □ Context determines whether literal or figurative □ Interpret the Old Testament by the New Testament (Hos.	□ Progressive Parrallellism in Revelation (Earth's history repeated 7 times) OR Pretoristic: interpret in terms of meaning to 1st century church--reassurance of	• Revelation either mostly figurative or mostly fulfilled in 70ad (Mt. 24:34) • Context determines whether toward man. • Interpretation must be literal whenever possible • Interpret the New Testament by the Old Testament.	1:9/Rom 9:25-26, Jer.31:33ff/Heb. 8) □ Millennium must be Christ-Centered	Christ's victory over Roman persecutors. □ Context determines whether literal or figurative □ Interpret the Old Testament by the New Testament.	literal or figurative • Interpret the Old Testament by the New Testament.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

History	Dispensationalism Espoused by Darby and the Brethren movement beginning in mid-1800's. Continues in Bible School movement and Annotated Bibles (Scoffield, Revised Scoffield, and Ryrie). Three schools: Classical, Moderate, and Progressive. For a history of Premillennialism, see Historic Premil. History section.	Early church chialists (incl. Iraenus and Justin Martyr) believed in a literal earthly Premillennial reign, but generally abandoned by 400ad. Picked up by Anabaptists in 16th century Reformation	Figurative thousand years embraced by E. Orthodox church (under Origen's influence), later Espoused by Augustine and embraced by Western church by 400ad. Held by Roman Catholic church as well as by Reformers, and written into the Augsburg and Westminster Confessions..	Tychonius (350ad) was early proponent; existed side-by-side with a-mil positions in Roman and Reformation streams because differences are relatively small. Popular among non-dispensational evangelicals in the 19th century before the world wars. Three schools: Traditional, Liberal (Social Gospel) and Theonomic
Mil-lennium	• Literal • Spoken of throughout the Bible (Isa11: 6-9, Isa. 65: 20-25, Amos 9:15, etc.) • Has to do with Christ's physical reign on earth before the end. (Obad. 12ff, Is. 2:3, 24:23, 33:17, 52:10, Dan.2:31, Rev. 22:1ff)	□ May be literal or figurative □ Mentioned in Rev. 20 & I Cor 15:23-26 □ Has to do with Christ's reign on earth before the end.	• Figurative. • Only mentioned in Rev. 20 • Has to do with the age of the church between Christ's First and Second coming, in which Christ rules from heaven. • We are in the millennial last days (Acts 2:16, 1 Cor. 10:11, I John 2:18)	□ May be literal or figurative □ Only mentioned in Rev. 20 □ Has to do with a gradual appearance (Lk.17:20), of a "golden age" of earth's history in which the nations are discipled in God's ways, until the earth is filled with the knowledge of the glory of the Lord (Hab. 2:14) and ends with Christ's Second coming.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Rev. 19-20	• Necessarily chronological, • Enthroned saints are on earth • two physical resurrections	• Chronological • enthroned saints are on earth "angel came down to earth" (20:1) • 2 physical resurrections • Describes the destruction of the beast, the false prophet, and the devil.	• Not necessarily Chronological. Parallelists say break b/w 19 and 20, Pretorists say just a figurative description of Christ being triumphant over enemies. Purpose is to comfort persecuted believers. • Saints reign in heaven (In heaven in Rev.6, and thrones are usually in heaven.) • "And I saw" indicates a new vision.--20:1-3 is earthly parallel to the heavenly scene in 20:4-6 going on at same time • resurrections spiritual ("souls")	□ Not Chronological □ Ch. 19 speaks not of II coming, but of the church between the two advents of Christ □ Saints reign in heaven □ Rev. 20 speaks of Christ's coming and of Church age □ resurrections are spiritual
New Heavens & New Earth	Realized in the earthly millennium with a curse partly lifted. (Is. 65:17) Jewish temple rebuilt along with sacrificial system (Ez.40-48) After millennium is merged with eternal kingdom (I Cor. 15:24ff, Rev. 21:1ff, 22:1ff)	Realized after millennial earthly reign is over and end has come	Set up at Christ's second coming, immediately after the resurrection and the judgement (Is. 65:17, 66:22, Rev. 21:1)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Resurrection	Approx. 4 Resurrections: 1. Rapture: Christ will make an incomplete appearance and take the Christians to heaven (I Thes. 4:16), sparing them from approximately seven years of severe tribulation on the earth. (Rev. 6-19). These saints are a "Spiritual Aristocracy/ Nobility" who will reign with Christ. Rev. 20:4ff) 2. The second resurrection is of tribulation-era saints and O.T. saints at the beginning of the millennium (Rev. 20:4, Is.26:19ff, Dan. 12:1ff) 3. company of saints after the millennium (I Cor. 15:23ff) 4. finally of the wicked (Rev. 20:11ff)	2 Resurrections as per Rev. 20, first of saints before the millennium, then of everyone else after the millennium	1 resurrection of all the dead, as per Jn. 5:28ff & Acts 24:15. "Resurrections" in Rev. 20 are spiritual. The "First resurrection" is the passing of the soul into God's presence, the "second death" is eternal damnation (Rev. 20:14)
Judgement	3 judgements:	One judgement at the end

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

	• first of the raptured believers (I Cor. 3:13ff) • Second of the nations at the beginning of the millennium (Joel 3:2, Matt. 19:28) • Lastly of the wicked at the end of the millennium (Rev. 20:15)	Rev. 22:12, Mt. 16:27, 25:31ff, Jude 14ff, II Thes. 1:7ff
O.T. Prophecy	Speaks of a coming triumphant reign of Christ on earth (IChron. 17:1ff, II Sam. 7:14). Isa11: 6-9, Isa. 65: 20-25, and Amos 9:15 refer to an earthly Jewish millennial kingdom. O.T. Prophecies proclaim God's various blessings upon the Jews "forever" (Gen. 17:8, Ex. 40:15, II Sam. 7:13ff)	O.T. Prophecy doesn't necessarily predict the millennium. N.T. often interprets O.T. prophecies in a way not suggested by O.T. context (Hos. 1:9/Rom 9:25-26, Jer.31:33ff/Heb. 8). Jesus' 1st coming was unexpected by O.T., but his second will be in the anticipated power. (Mt. 12:28)	Prophecies like Isa. 11 and 65, and Amos 9:15 refer to the new heavens and new earth. References to Israel and Jerusalem are often taken figuratively	Messianic Jewish kingdom predictions were conditional upon obedience and thus abrogated by Israel's disobedience (Deut. 28, Jer. 18:9ff, Mt. 21:43, Heb. 8:7ff, 1 Thes. 2:16), to be realized through the church or in the new earth. Prophecies such as Zech. 9:10, Isa. 66, and Hab. 2:14 are speaking of the work of the church in the millennium.
Israel and the Church	Israel is only the physical nation. Rejection of Christ brought a temporary suspension of the Kingdom during which the church is in place (Mt. 13:11). Will be converted during the tribulation and will become preeminent over Gentile	Israel is sometimes the physical nation (Rom. 11:26) and sometimes the church (Rom 9:25-26, 4:11-16, 2:28-29, Gal. 3:7&29, Phil. 3:3) Physical Israel remains the people of God and will be evangelized.	O.T. Israel is the nation N.T. Israel is the Church (Rom 2-4 and Gal 3) The nation of Israel no longer has any spiritual significance.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

	believers in the millennial kingdom. (Is. 49:15ff, 60:1ff)
Binding of Satan (Rev. 20:2-3)	Satan is rampant now and the world is getting worse and worse. He will be bound when Jesus comes for the millennium.	Satan bound to some extent by Jesus' work on the cross, but not fully until Christ's coming. Satan will be unbound after the millennial reign, after which comes the judgement and the end.	Occurred at the Cross. (Col. 2:14) Knowledge of God was mostly within Israel until this time. After the Cross, satan is no longer able to deceive the nations, hence the Gospel can spread to the ends of the earth. (Mt. 12:29, John 12:31ff, Luke 10:17ff)
Kingdom	Physical Main theme of the Bible (Gen. 1:26, Ex. 19:5ff, 7:1, Deut. 18: 15ff, II Sam. 7:12ff, I Chron. 28:5ff, Is. 9:6ff, Dan. 2:44, 7:13ff, Lk. 1:32ff, Rev. 11:15) Two kingdoms--God's universal kingdom (Ps. 103:19) and the "mediatorial" or dispensational manner of God's rule with men (Dan. 2:44). The millennial kingdom is all future (Hos. 3:4-5, I Cor. 15:24ff, Rev. 22:3)	Christ has already been made Lord (Heb. 1:3, 2:7ff, 10:12ff, Rev. 3:21, Phil. 2:5ff, Acts 2:36), and reigns in heaven, but it will be visibly realized in the future millennial reign (II Thes. 1:7, Tit. 2:13).	Spiritual (Jn. 18:36) Came with Jesus' ministry on earth (Mt. 12:28, Luke 17:20ff) Both present (Mk. 9:1, Rom. 14:17, I Cor. 4:19, Col 1:13) and future (I Cor 6:9, Gal 5:21, Eph. 5:5, IITim. 4:18)
2nd Coming	First a "rapture" appearance (I Thes. 4:13ff), then a full appearance 7 years later to establish an earthly millennial kingdom Rev. 19:7ff)	One appearance to establish an earthly millennial reign	One appearance to judge the earth and establish the new heavens and new earth. (I Cor 15:23-26, Matt. 25:31-46)
Reccommended Reading	Scofield Reference Bibles Ryrie Study Bibles	Commentary on the Revelation (Ladd)	More than Conquerors (Hendriksen)	The Message from Patmos (Clark)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

	The End Times (Hoyt)		The Bible & the Future (Hoekema)	The Millennium (Boettner) Institutes (Rushdoony)
Dangers	• Not as literal as claim to be • Can only be seen if you put on "dispensational glasses" • Bible doesn't define tribulation as 7 years • Not Christological • Ethnically Jewish, inc. sacrifices (Heb. 8:13) • Unrealized kingdom (Mt. 12:28)	□ Earthly reign of heavenly saints □ De-emphasizes power of Christ's victory over satan at the cross	• Over-spiritualize O.T. • "Brother-Bashing" • Breaking continuity of Revelation with recapitulations	□ Over-spiritualize O.T. □ Lack fervency in world mission
Problems	All positions agree that: 1) The Bible is the word of God, fully inspired and authoritative and 2) There was a first advent and there will be a personal, visible, glorious, and objective 2nd advent.		• 2 physical resurrections in Rev. 20	□ evil isn't abating □ Doesn't deal with Rev. 20
AGREE-MENT	All positions agree that: 1) The Bible is the word of God, fully inspired and authoritative and 2) There was a first advent and there will be a personal, visible, glorious, and objective 2nd advent.

[Source: http://www.natewilsonfamily.net/eschtlgy.htm]

More comparisons of millennial views…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Four Views of the End Times

	Dispensational Premillennialism	Historical Premillennialism	Amillennialism	Postmillennialism
Will Jesus return physically?	Yes	Yes	Yes	Yes
When will Jesus return?	After a 7-year tribulation; before the millennium.	After tribulation; before the millennium.	Anytime; a detailed time frame is not important.	After the millennium.
Do the rapture and second coming of Christ occur at the same time?	No, they are events separated by either 7 years (pre-tribulation rapture) or $3^1/_2$ years (mid-tribulation rapture).	Yes	Yes	Yes
Will there be a great tribulation?	Yes	Yes	The tribulation occurs any time Christians are persecuted or wars and disasters occur.	Tribulation is either the first-century Jewish-Roman War or the ongoing conflict between good and evil prior to millennium.
Will Christians suffer during the tribulation?	Christians are either raptured before the tribulation (pre-tribulation rapture) or $3^1/_2$ years into the tribulation (mid-tribulation rapture).	Yes, Christians will go through the tribulation and endure suffering and persecution for the cause of Christ.	Yes, Christians will suffer and endure persecution until Jesus returns; persecution will increase in the end.	Yes, Christians are called to share the gospel, and tribulation will occur when that gospel is opposed.
Will there be a literal 1,000-year millennium?	Yes, after the 7-year tribulation, Christ will return and reign for 1,000 years.	Yes, after the tribulation, Christ will return and reign for 1,000 years.	No, the millennium refers to the reign of Christ in the hearts of his believers.	No, the millennium refers to a period of peace when the gospel reaches all people.
Who is saved?	Christians only	Christians only	Christians only	Christians only
Is the modern state of Israel relevant to the prophecies in Revelation?	Yes	No	No	No
When was this view most held?	Became popular about 1860. Has increased in popularity.	The earliest view of the end times, emerging at the end of the first century.	Popularized in AD 400. Continues to be accepted today.	May have been popular as early as AD 300. Less popular today.

http://greatlakeschurch.com/sites/default/files/Four%20Views%20of%20End%20Times.png

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Millennium: Four Major Views

https://www.gci.org/bible/rev/3views

	dispensational premillennialism	"historic" premillennialism	postmillennialism	amillennialism
Old Testament prophecies	tendency toward literal interpretation	more figurative meanings allowed; perfection mixed with imperfection	mostly figurative, based on NT uses such as Acts 2:16-21; 15:15-18	mostly figurative, based on NT use of OT prophecies
Israel and the church	distinct; the millennial kingdom will be dominated by Jews	prophecies may apply both to the church now and to Israel later	possibly a small role for Israel as a special nation	most "Israel" prophecies apply to the church, the new Israel return of Christ	seven years before the millennium for the rapture, then just before the millennium begins	just before the millennium begins	after the millennium	after the millennium
Rev. 20:1-3	Satan will be bound after Christ returns	Satan will be bound after Christ returns	Satan will be or has been bound 1,000 years or a long time before Christ's return	Satan was bound at Christ's first coming, is now unable to stop the gospel
Rev. 20:4-6	saints will be immortal, reigning with Christ over mortals on earth	saints will be immortal, reigning with Christ over mortals on earth	the gospel will achieve such success that the 1,000-year golden age will develop from the church age	the saints "live again" in the church age by being born again; another view is that they reign in heaven resurrection(s) and judgment(s)	two or three	two	one	one advocates	C. Scofield, D. Moody, J. Walvoord, Hal Lindsey, D. Pentecost	Justin Martyr, Irenaeus, G.E. Ladd, W. Grudem, M. Erickson	some liberals, A.H. Strong, G. Bahnsen, some Calvinists	Augustine, Luther, Calvin, L. Berkhof, most mainline churches
key scriptures	OT prophecies; 1 Thess. 4; Rom. 11:26	Rev. 2:26-27; Rev. 20:1-10	Matt. 28:18-20; Matt. 13:31-33	Matt. 12:28f; John 5:28f; 2 Pet. 3:10

See also:* http://www.reformedreader.org/mchart.htm for a more detailed chart.

"The central issue within each position is (should be) Christ, His Exaltation and His Sovereignty. Any position weak or even lacking in these areas will also find themselves faulty (at least in some areas) in their eschatological conclusions."

Millennium Comparison Chart

http://www.seeking4truth.com/millennium_comparison_chart.htm

Comparison Of Four Eschatological Positions (Chart)

http://natewilsonfamily.net/eschtlgy.htm

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Millennial Views
VIEW	Premillennial	Amillennial	Postmillennial	Historical Premillennial
The Millennium	A literal 1,000 year period	A figurative number	A figurative number	A literal 1,000 year period.
Christ's Reign	Reigns literally in a kingdom on Earth after his Second Coming	Reigns spiritually on a heavenly throne or reigns spiritually in the hearts of believers	Reigns spiritually in the hearts of believers, as the gospel transforms the nations of the Earth	Reigns literally in a kingdom on Earth after his Second Coming
Israel	Christ reigns in Israel over a regathered Israel	The Church replaces the promises given to national Israel	The Church replaces the promises given to national Israel	The Church replaces the promises given to national Israel
View of Human History	Believes human history will get progressively worse, as the gospel reaches all nations	Believes human history will get progressively worse, as the gospel reaches all nations	Believes that human history will get progressively better. The nations will eventually be transformed by Christ's reign over society	Believes human history will get progressively worse, as the gospel reaches all nations

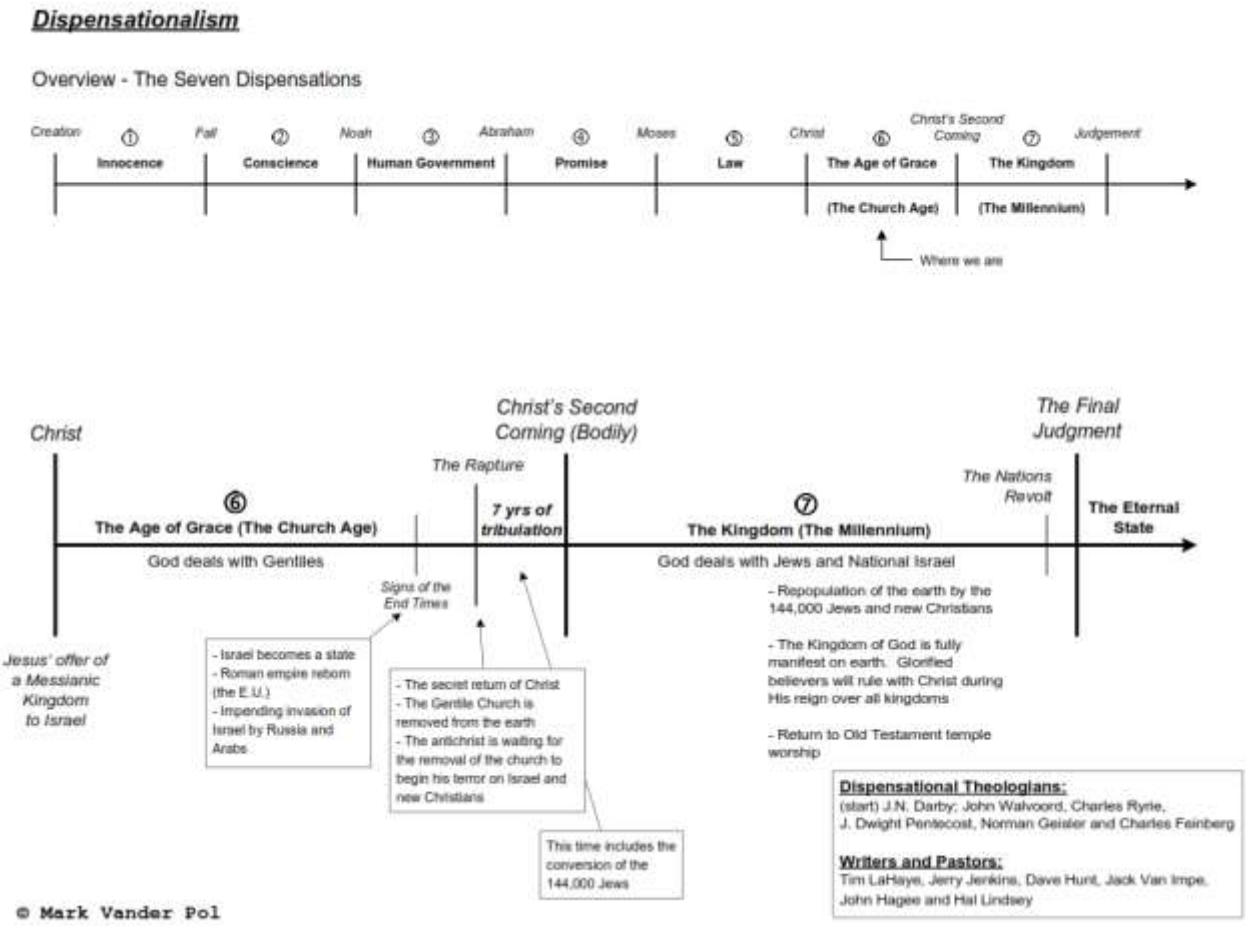
As you can see, there are radically different perspectives regarding the millennium. How can Christians disagree so much on this topic?

(We hold to a premillennial perspective, but hopefully, we can articulate the other perspectives accurately. Here [above] is a brief overview of each position)

http://www.evidenceunseen.com/theology/eschatology/millennial-views/

…let's consider each view:

1. The Premillennial View: Christ Initiates His 1,000 Year Reign



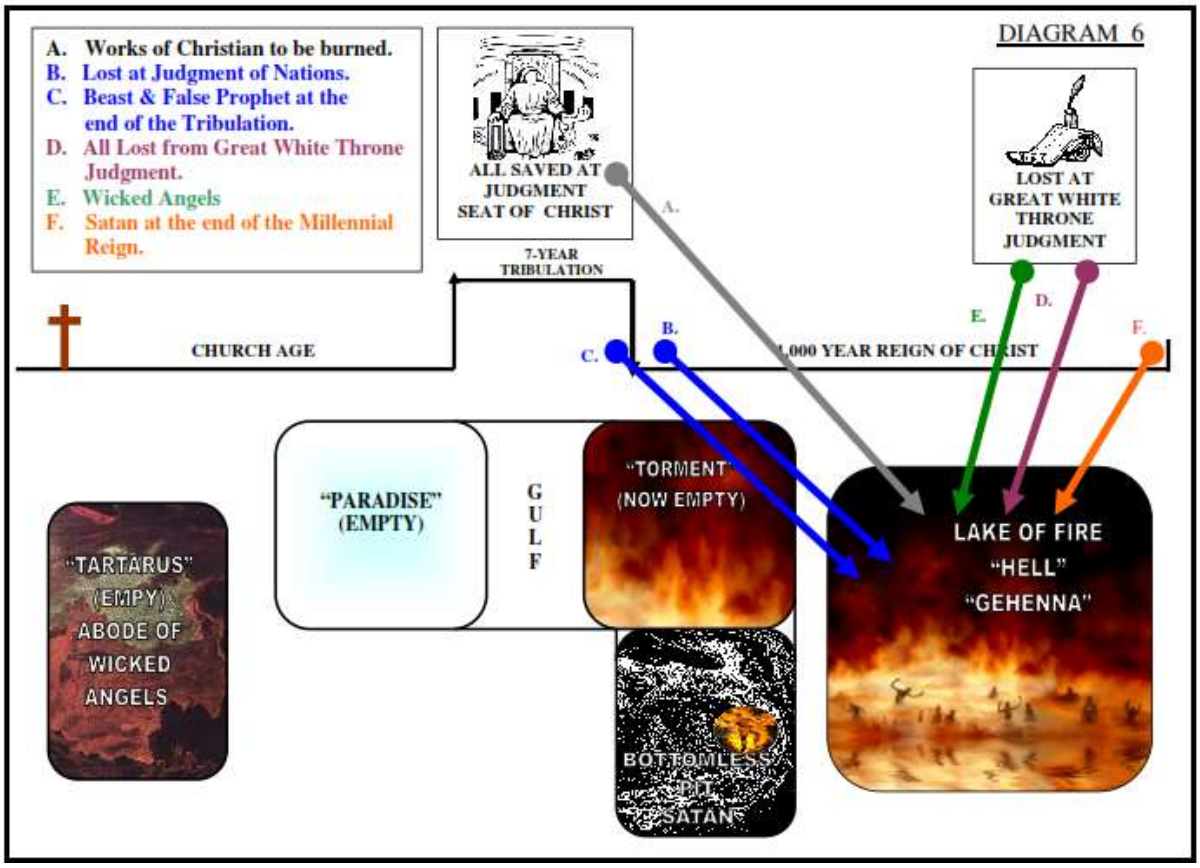
2. The Amillennial View: The 1,000 Years is Symbolic

3. The Postmillennial View: We Initiate the 1,000 Year Reign

4. The Historical Premillennial View: Israel is Not in the Millennium

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Millennial Views (graphics)

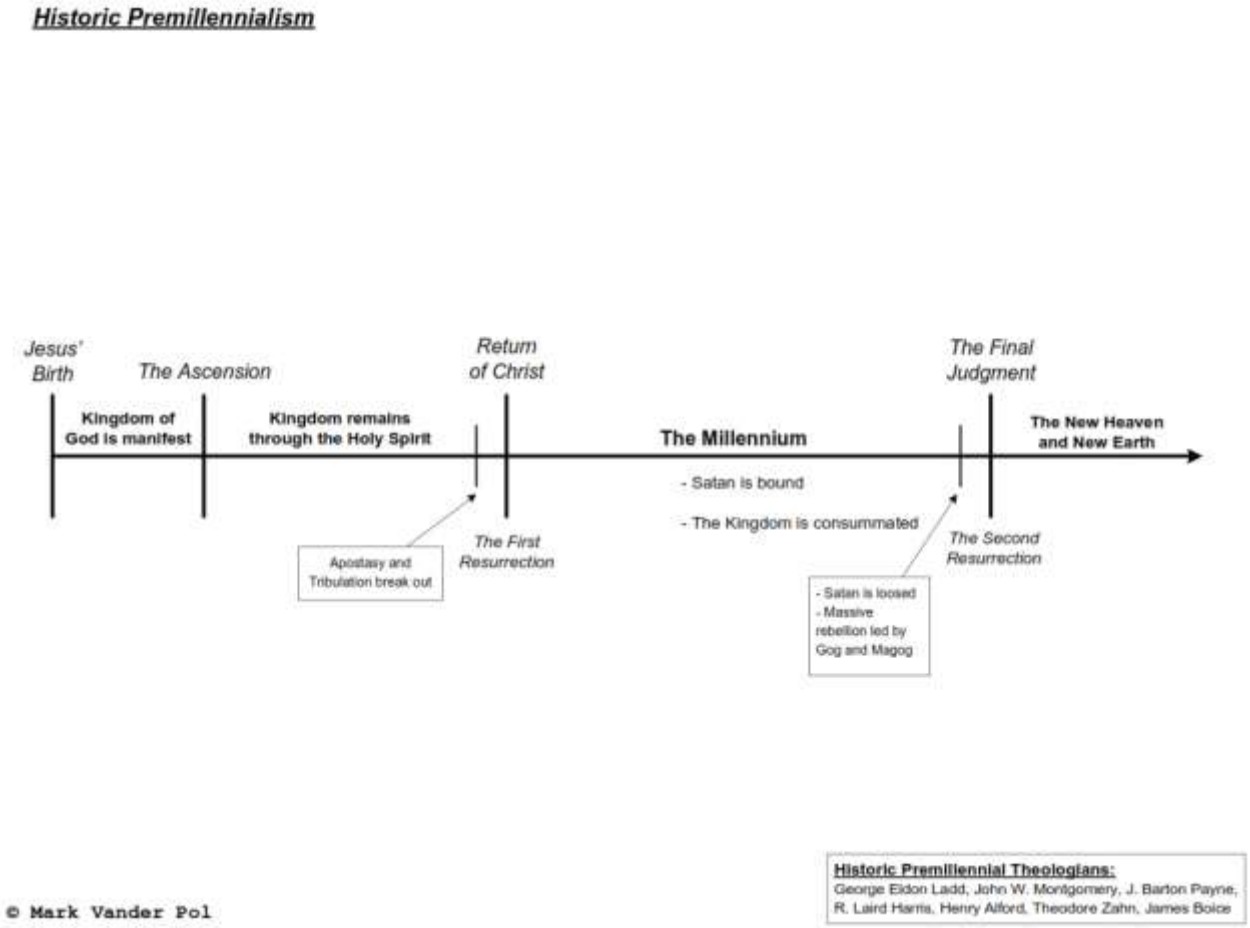


http://kimriddlebarger.squarespace.com/eschatology-charts/millennial_views.pdf [PDF]

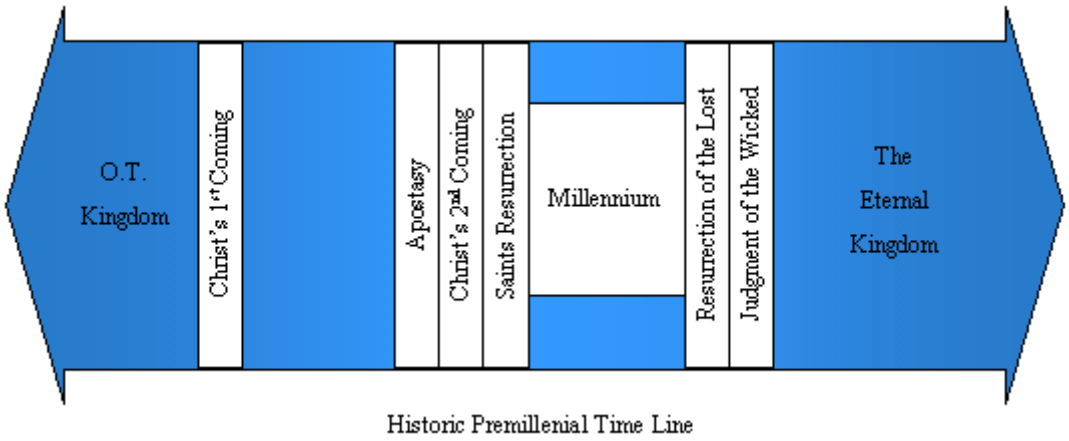
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Here's another Dispensational Premillennial/Pre-Tribulation View

Pre-Tribulation perspective:



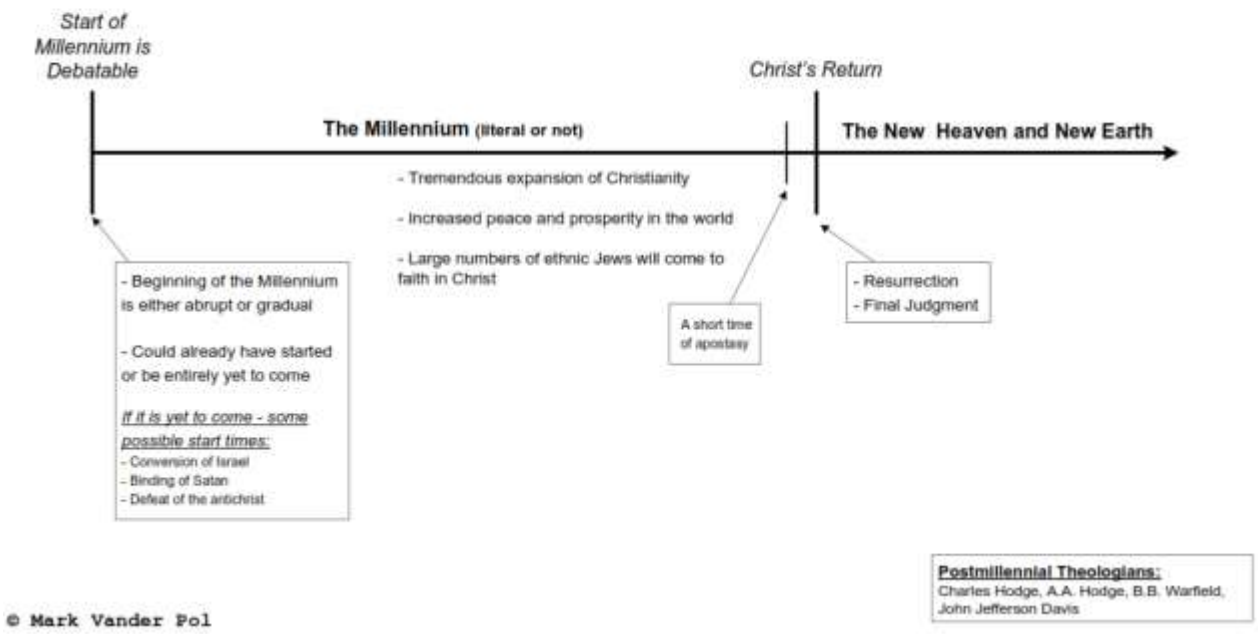
[Source: Unknown]



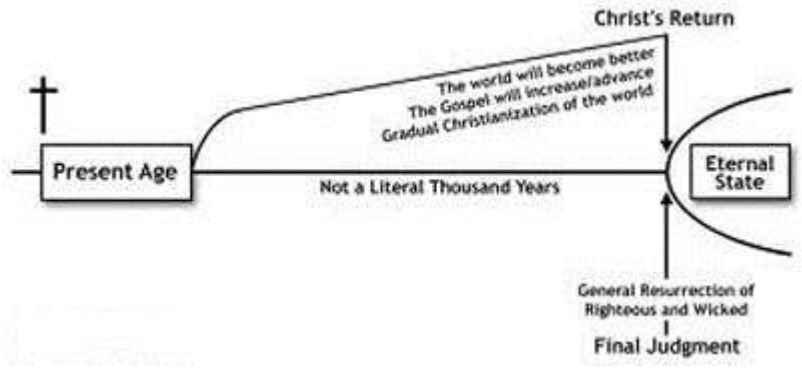
Four Views of End-Times Prophecy

(Pro Premillennial-Pretribulation)
http://www.matthewmcgee.org/rapture.html

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



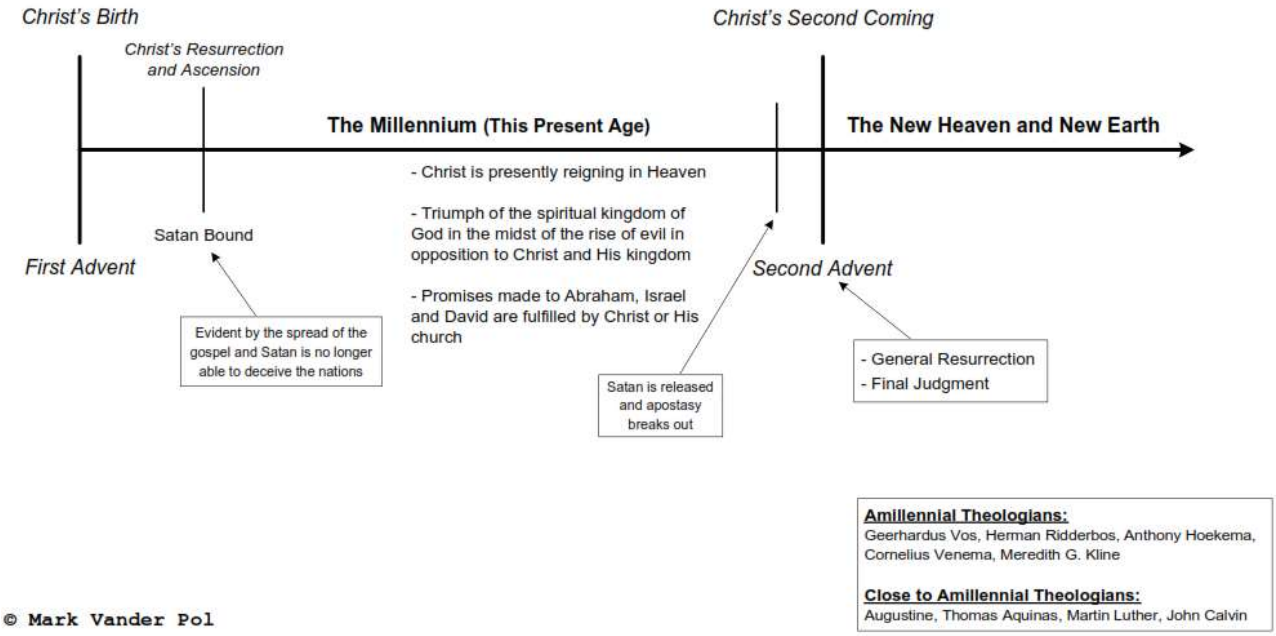
http://kimriddlebarger.squarespace.com/eschatology-charts/millennial_views.pdf [PDF]



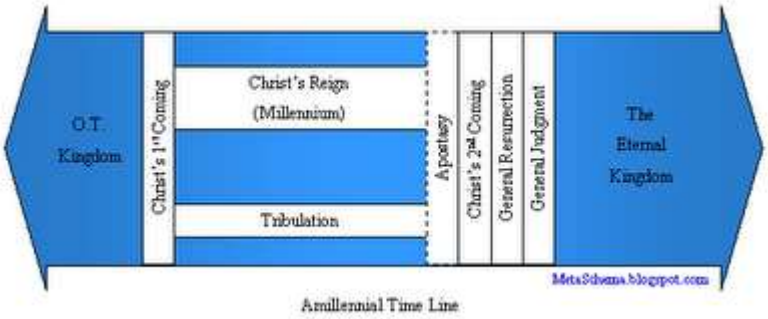
Historic Premillenial Time Line

http://www.logosapologia.org/why-eschatology-matters-part-iv-premillennialism/

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



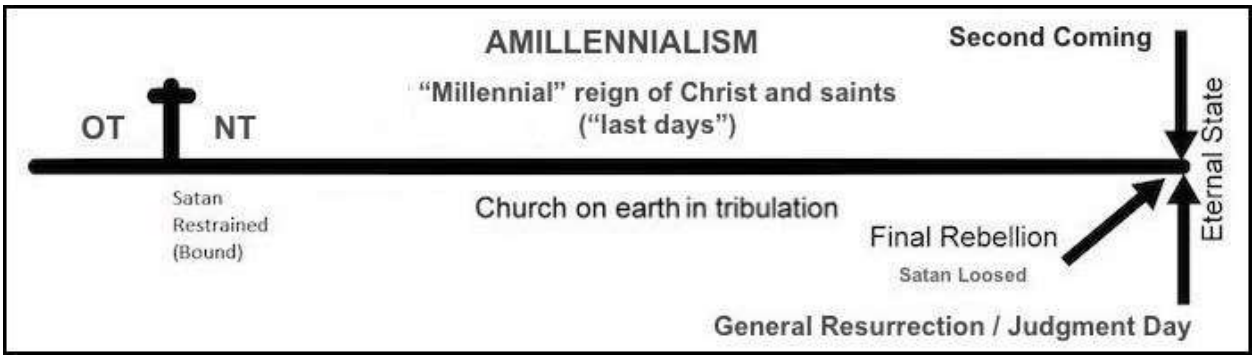
http://kimriddlebarger.squarespace.com/eschatology-charts/millennial_views.pdf [PDF]



http://www.logosapologia.org/why-eschatology-matters-part-iv-postmillennialism/

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Amillennialism



http://kimriddlebarger.squarespace.com/eschatology-charts/millennial_views.pdf [PDF]

http://www.logosapologia.org/amillennialism/

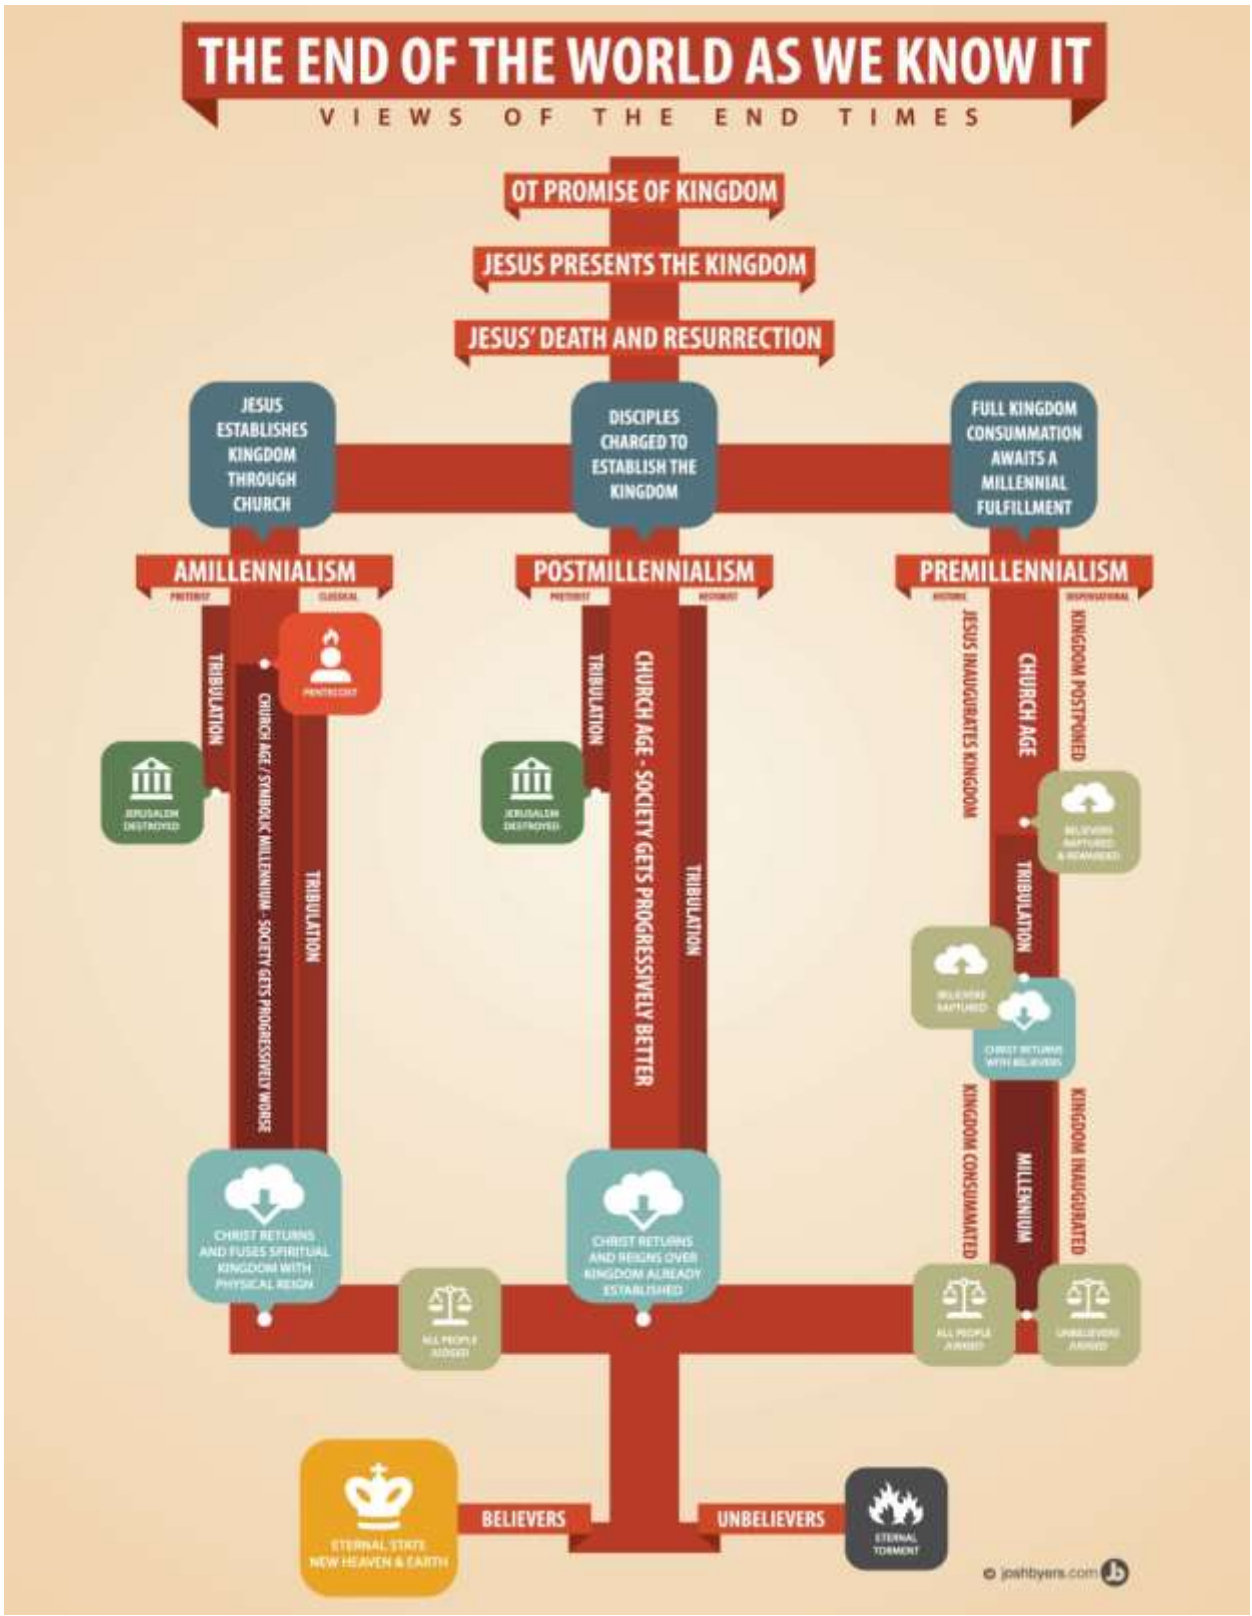
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Amillennialism, continued…

http://www.twoagespilgrims.com/doctrine/dispensational-premillennialism-and-amillennialism-compared/

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Summarized from "Dispensationalism" by Dr. Ligon Duncan



Dispensational Premillennialism	Amillennialism
May be Arminian or modified Calvinist. Almost never 5-point Calvinist.	Always Calvinist. Usually 5 point.
Stresses 'literal' interpretation of the Bible.	Accepts both literal and figurative interpretation of the Bible.
Usually does not accept the idea of the 'Analogy of Faith.'	Almost always accepts the idea of the 'Analogy of Faith.'
'Israel' always means only the literal, physical descendants of Jacob.	'Israel' may mean either literal, physical descendants of Jacob or the figurative, spiritual Israel, depending on context.
Israel of God' in Gal. 6:16 means physical Israel alone.	'Israel of God' in Gal. 6:16 means spiritual Israel, parallel to Gal. 3:29, Rom. 2:28-29, 9:6, Phil. 3:3.
God has 2 peoples with 2 separate destinies: Israel (earthly) and the Church (heavenly).	God has always had only 1 people, the Church gradually developed.
The Church was born at Pentecost.	The Church began in the OT (Acts 7:38) and reached fulfillment in the NT
The Church was not prophesied as such in the OT but was a hidden mystery until the NT	There are many OT prophecies of the NT Church.
All OT prophecies for' Israel, are for literal Israel, not the Church.	Some OT prophecies are for literal Israel, others are for spiritual Israel.
God's main purpose in history is literal Israel.	God's main purpose in history is Christ and secondarily the Church.
The Church is a parenthesis in God's program for the ages.	The Church is the culmination of God's saving purpose for the ages.
The main heir to Abraham's covenant was Isaac and literal Israel.	The main heir to Abraham's covenant was Christ and spiritual Israel.
No eternal Covenant of Redemption within the Trinity.	The eternal Covenant of Redemption was within the Trinity to effect election.
No Covenant of Grace concerning Adam.	God made a conditional Covenant of Works with Adam as representative for all his posterity.
No Covenant of Works with Adam in the Garden of Eden.	God made a Covenant of Grace with Christ and His people, including Adam
Israel was rash to accept the Covenant at Mt. Sinai.	Israel was right to accept the Covenant at Mt. Sinai.
The 'New Covenant' of Jer. 31:31-34 is only for literal Israel and is not the New Covenant of Lk. 22:20.	The 'New Covenant' of Jer. 31 is the same as in Lk. 22; both are for spiritual Israel according to Heb. 8.
God's program in history is mainly through separate dispensations.	God's program in history is mainly through related covenants.
Some have said that OT sinners were saved by works.	No man has ever been saved by works, but only by grace.
Most teach that men in the OT were saved by faith in a revelation peculiar to their Dispensation, but this did not include faith in the Messiah as their sin-bearer.	All men who have ever been saved have been saved by faith in Christ as their sin-bearer, which has been progressively revealed in every age.
The OT sacrifices were not recognized as the Gospel or types of the Messiah as sin-bearer, but only seen as such in retrospect.	OT believers believed in the Gospel of Messiah as sin-bearer mainly by the sacrifices as types and prophecies.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Holy Spirit indwells only believers in the Dispensation of Grace, not OT and not after the Rapture.	The Holy Spirit has indwelt believers in all ages, especially in the present NT era, and will not be withdrawn.
Jesus made an offer of the literal Kingdom to Israel; since Israel rejected it, it is postponed.	Jesus made only an offer of the spiritual Kingdom, which was rejected by literal Israel but has gradually been accepted by spiritual Israel.
OT believers were not 'in Christ,' nor part of the Body or Bride of Christ.	Believers in all ages are all 'in Christ' and part of the Body and Bride of Christ.
The Law has been abolished.	The Law has 3 uses: to restrain sin in society, to lead to Christ, and to instruct Christians in godliness. The ceremonial laws have been abolished; the civil laws have been abolished except for their general equity; the moral laws continue.
OT laws are no longer in effect unless repeated in the NT	OT laws are still in effect unless abrogated in the NT
The Millennium is the Kingdom of God. Dispensationalists are always Premillennial and usually Pre-Tribulational.	The Church is the Kingdom of God. Covenanters are usually Amillennial , sometimes Premillennial or Postmillennial, rarely Pre-Tribulational.
The OT animal sacrifices will be restored in the Millennium.	The OT sacrifices were fulfilled and forever abolished in Christ.
The Millennium will fulfill the Covenant to Abraham. Israel has a future.	Christ fulfilled the Covenant to Abraham. Some Covenanters believe in a future for literal Israel, most don't.
David will sit on the Millennial throne in Jerusalem.	Christ alone sits on the throne. Saints rule under Him.

http://www.twoagespilgrims.com/doctrine/dispensational-premillennialism-and-amillennialism-compared/

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

End Times Infographic Dissects Christian Views on Tribulation, Rapture In Christianity, the end times is punctuated by the tribulation, the rapture and the second coming of Jesus Christ, and is often discussed along the lines of premillennialism, postmillennialism and amillennialism. The Book of Revelation, the final book of the Bible, is usually cited in these discussions, although other New Testament books and prophetic books of the Old Testament are referenced as well. Christians believe the Bible teaches that Jesus Christ will return at some future point to reign on Earth and judge the world — although the purported timeline of events are hotly debated."

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

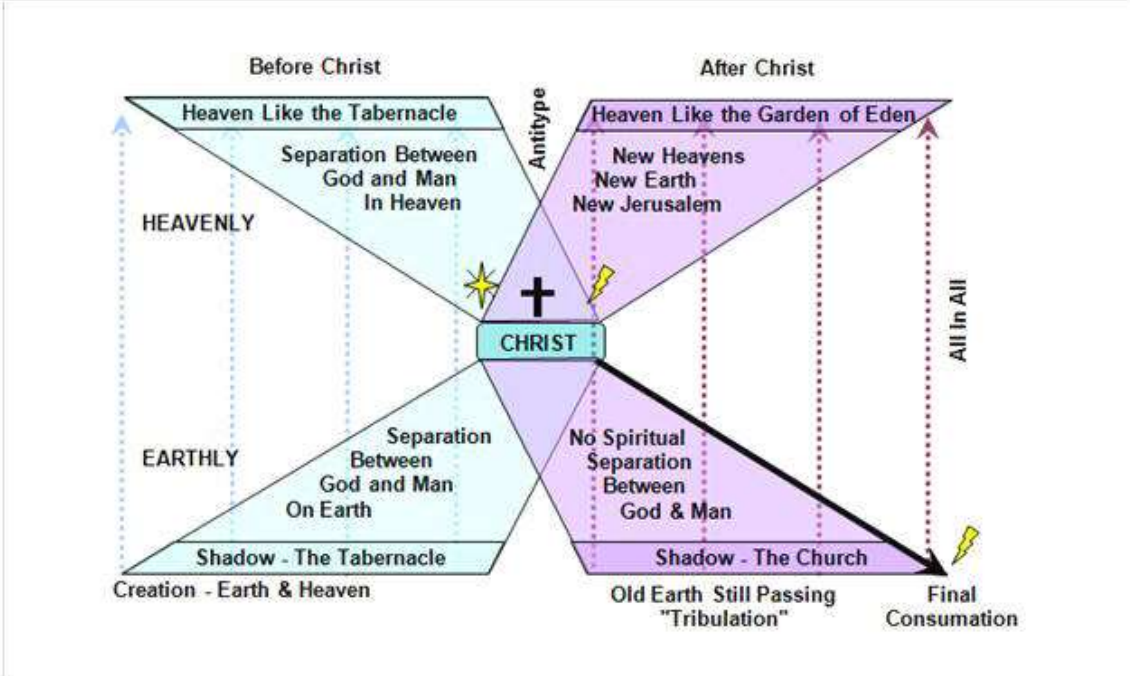
Source: http://preteristarchive.com/ARTchive/josh-byers-end-times-infographic.jpg

Preterism



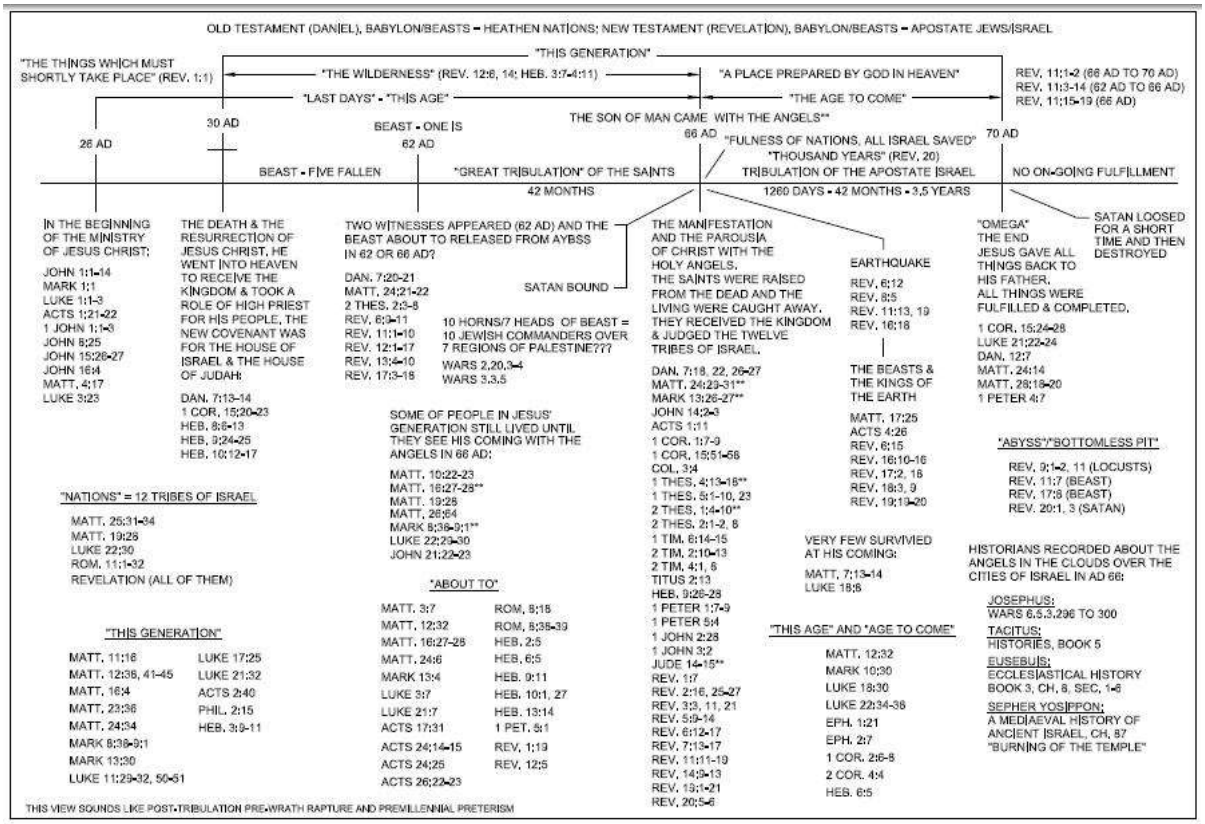
http://www.pfrs.org/preterism/index.html

Theopedia: Preterism: http://www.theopedia.com/preterism

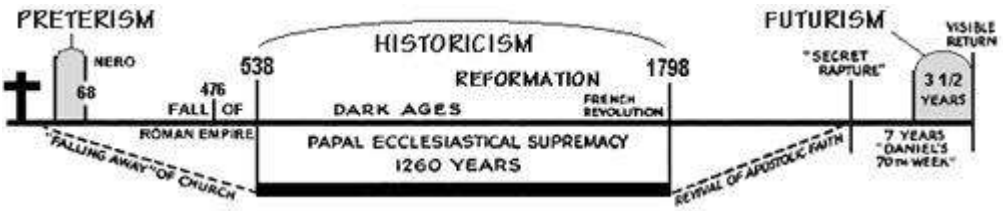
Full Preterism, which focuses on the destruction of Jerusalem in 70 AD, assumes a symbolic Millenium and that all prophecy has been fulfilled in one way or another.

Partial Preterism is usually a subset of Amillennialism (sometimes Post-millenialsm) and associated with covenant theology, “Those who hold to partial preterism believe that the prophecies in Daniel, Matthew 24, and Revelation (with the exception of the last two or three chapters) have already been fulfilled and were fulfilled no later than the first century AD. According to partial preterism, there is no rapture, and passages describing the tribulation and the Antichrist are actually referring to the destruction of Jerusalem in AD 70 and the Roman emperor Titus. Partial preterists do believe in the return of Christ to earth and a future resurrection and judgment, but they do not teach a millennial kingdom or that Israel as a nation has a place in God’s future plan. The “last days” relates to the old Jewish covenant not the earth itself.
[Source: http://www.gotquestions.org/partial-preterism.html]

Idealistic Preterism:

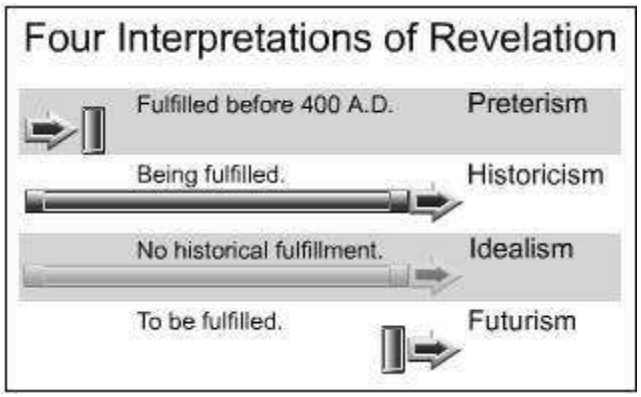


[Source: http://www.preteristarchive.com/Idealism/]



Preterist Perspective

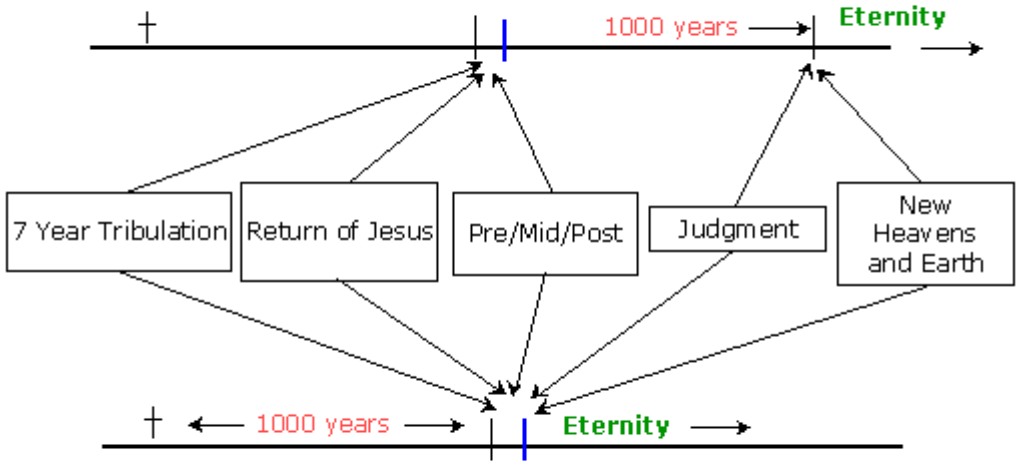
Chart of Ages:



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Discussing the "Two Age Model" "Do no preterists wish to offer their views? The two age model contradicts preterism. Preterism depends in part on interpreting some passages about a present age as referring to the age of the Old Covenant, which was to be ended with the destruction of Jerusalem." (represented in the Idealism of Waldron)

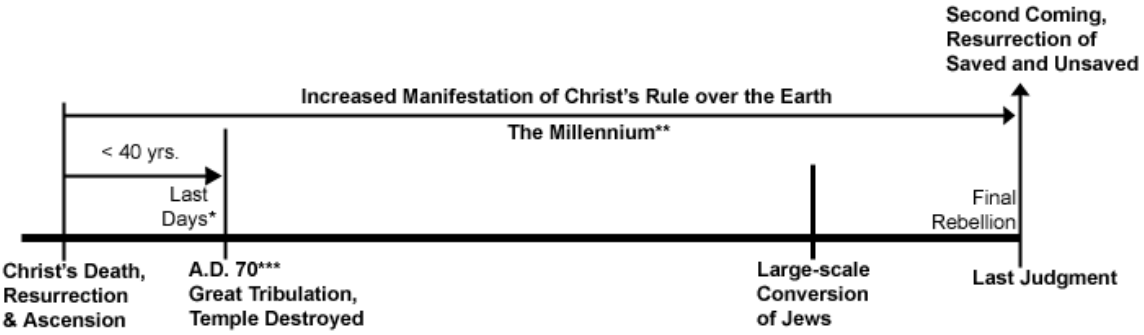
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



[Source: http://preteristarchive.com/ARTchive/Charts/]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Premillennialism vs Amillenialism



https://carm.org/amillennialism-and-premillennialism

Premillenialism

Amillenialism

Postmillennialism

* Some Postmillennialists teach that the Last Days are the entire period from the first to the second coming, since that is the last age of the earth prior to eternity.

 Some Postmillenialists have taught that church history will end in a literal 1000 year period of great blessing before the Final Judgment.

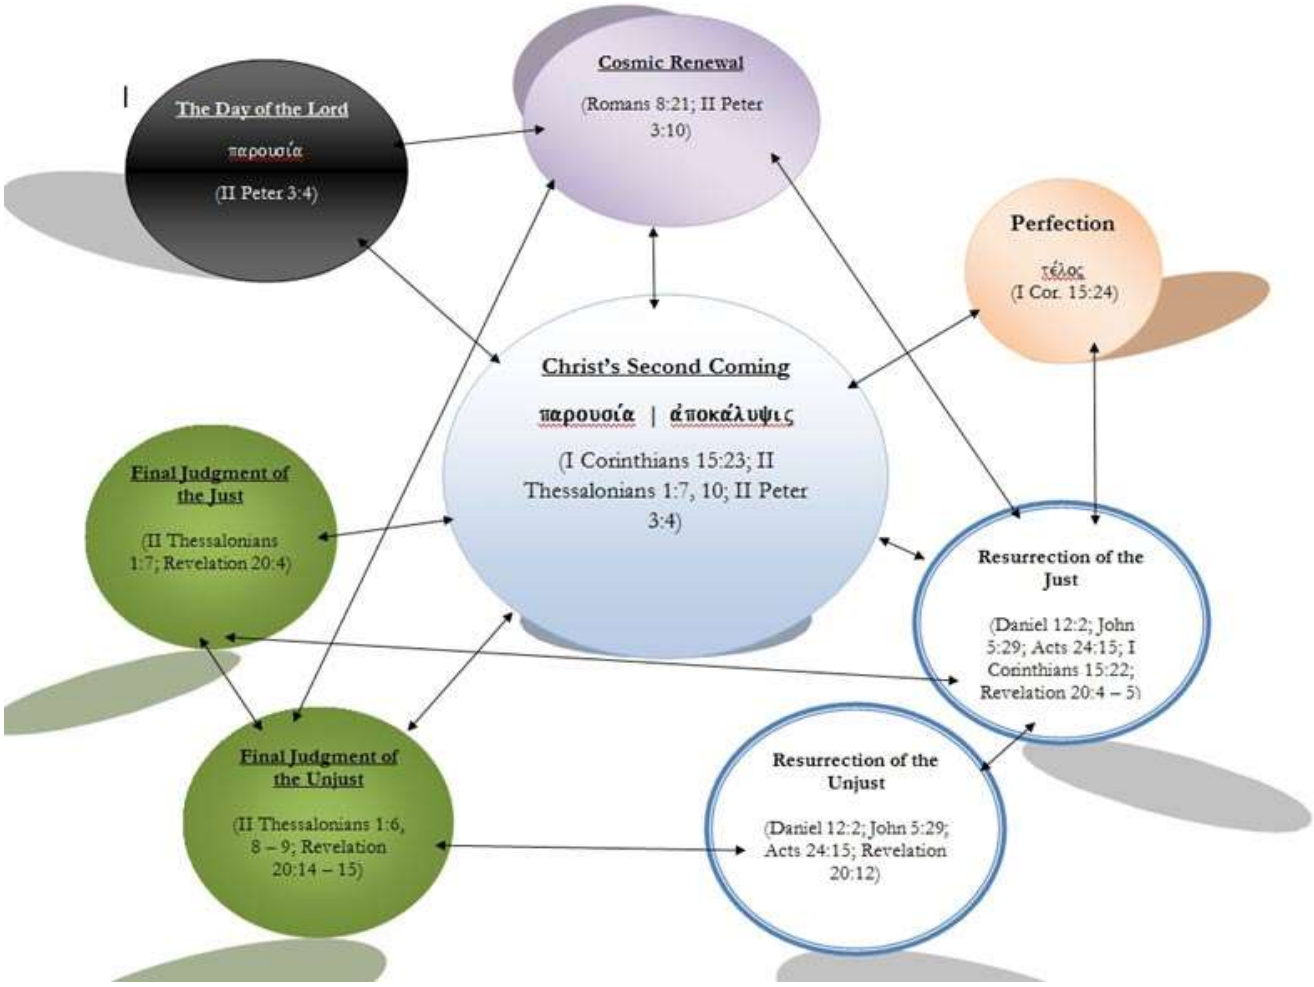
 The view that the Great Tribulation has already occured is called the "preterist" view. Some Postmillennialists believe that the Tribulation covers the entire church history, called the "church historicist" view.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Postmillennialism vs Premillennialism

http://www.rekindle.co.za/content/postmillennialism-vs-premillennialism/

If you're wondering about amillennialism compared with postmillennialism or premillennialism, it may help you to know that Amillennialism is fairly similar to the postmillennial view but does not share the upward curve (where Christian influence brings about good in the world), postmillennialists are sometimes called optimistic amillennialists for this reason.



Postmillennialism (after the millennium) is an eschatological position within Christian theology that interprets Revelation 20 as a period in which through the preaching of the Word of God that the entire world will eventually be converted to Christianity, and this will usher in the kingdom of Christ. This is when Christ will return. It is postmillennial in that after the 1,000-year reign of Christ that the world will be converted and the final work of God will be completed. Some Postmillennialists believe the 1,000 years is literal, and others believe it is figurative.
https://carm.org/dictionary-postmillennialism

What is Postmillennialism?

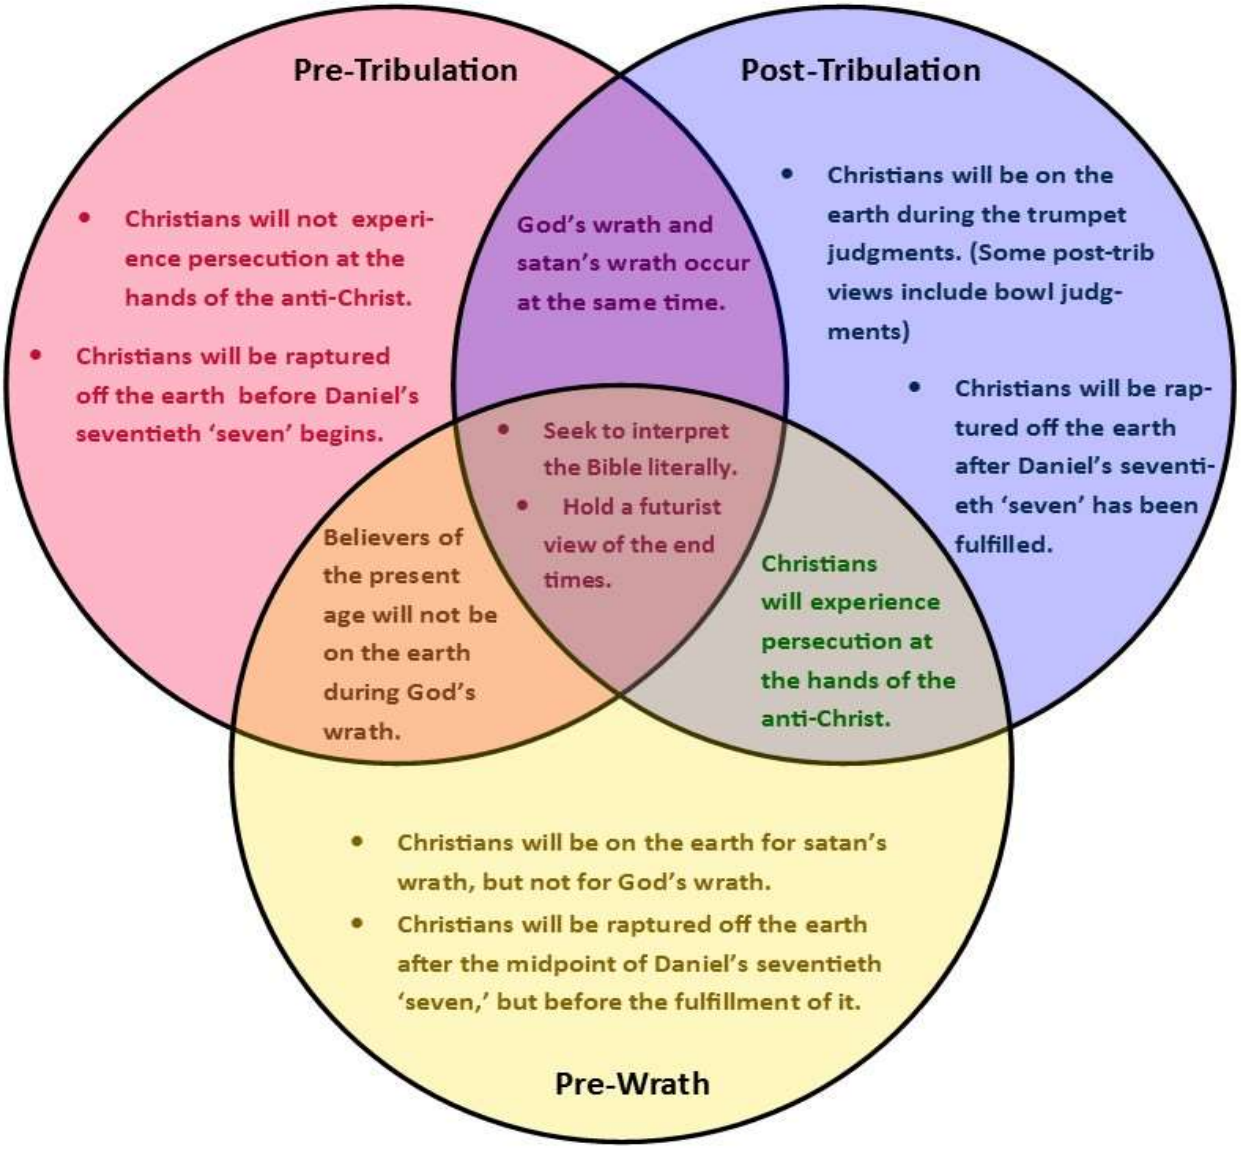
http://digitalcommons.liberty.edu/cgi/viewcontent.cgi?article=1041&context=pretrib_arch [PDF]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

An Amillennial Eschatology Chart!

http://www.reformationtheology.com/Parousia_Concurrent.jpg

http://hereiblog.com/files/amillennialchart.pdf [PDF]

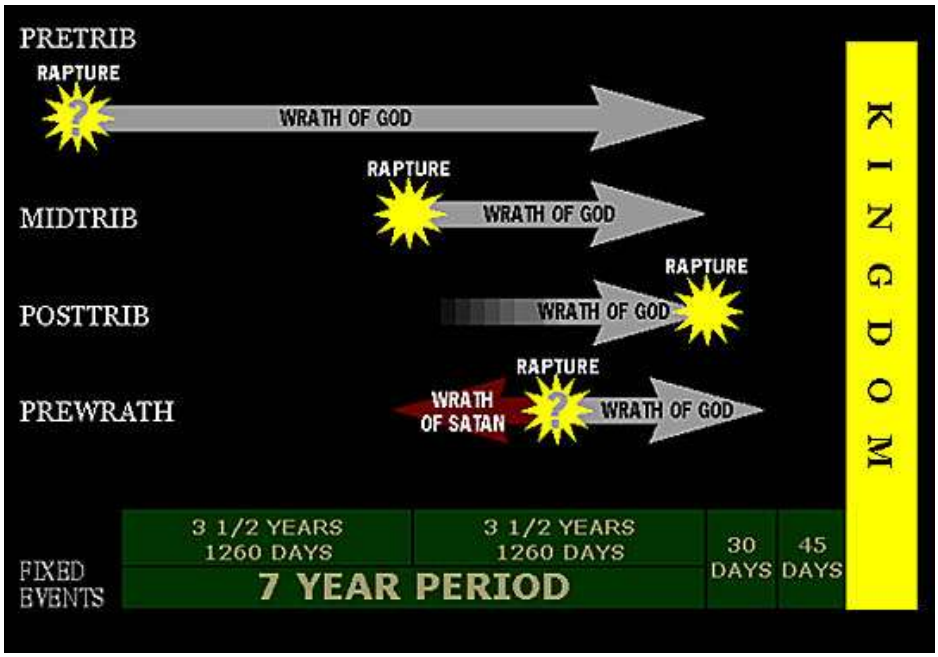


http://www.reformationtheology.com/2008/12/an_amillennial_eschatology_cha.php

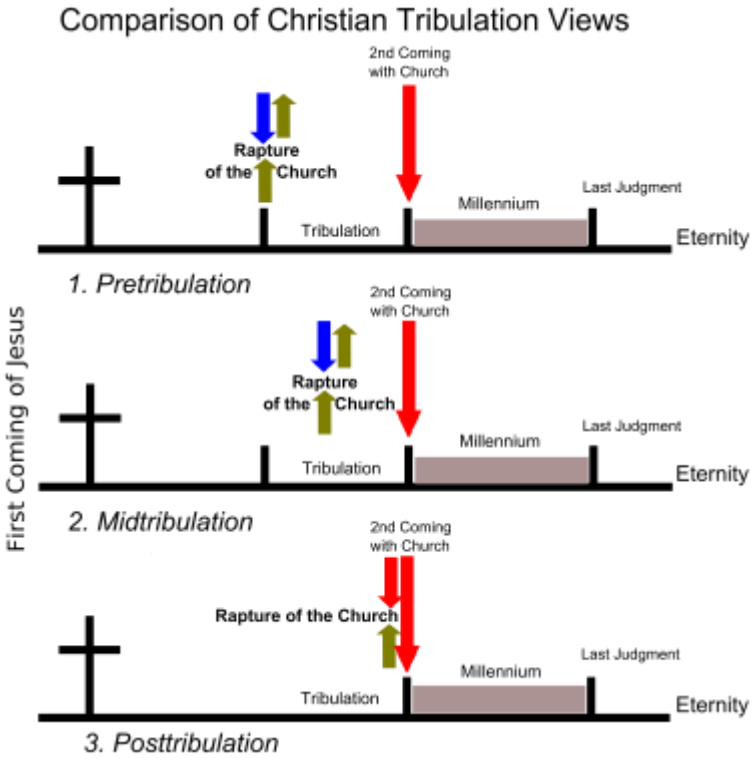
…it shows, in picture form, (above) that all these events are concurrent or take place simultaneously. The return of Jesus ushers in the resurrection of the just and unjust, the final judgement, the new heavens and the new earth etc...

Alternate source:
http://jollyblogger.typepad.com/jollyblogger/2008/12/an-amillennial-eschatology-chart.html

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Premillennialism's Tribulation Beliefs



[Source: https://prewrathresources.files.wordpress.com/2016/06/venn-diagram-comparison-of-3-literal-biblical-interpretation-end-time-views.jpg]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Main End Times Rapture (Pre-Millennial) Theories ("Trib" = Tribulation)

[Source: http://www.apocalypsesoon.org/trib.html]

[Source: http://www.patheos.com/blogs/lovejoyfeminism/2012/02/the-end-times-part-i-the-millenium-tribulation-and-rapture.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Pre-Wrath Rapture

Is there any validity to this concept?

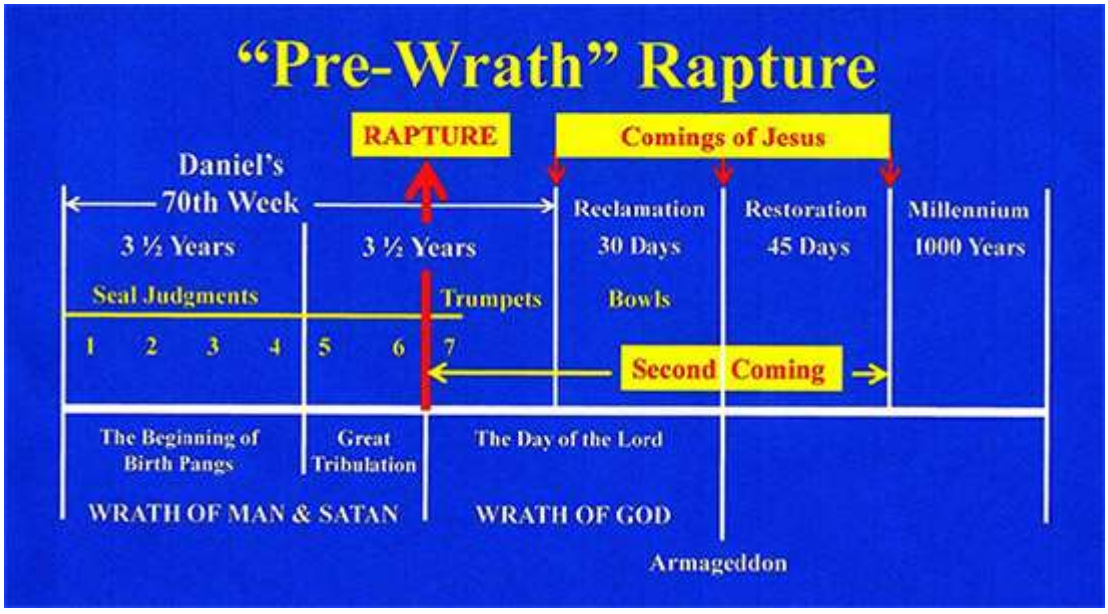
The Question of Timing

Among those who believe in a Rapture of the Church, there is disagreement as to the timing of the event. Until recent years, there were three concepts of the Rapture's timing:

1) The Pre-Trib View — This is the idea that the Rapture will take place before the Tribulation begins.

2) The Mid-Trib View — This viewpoint places the Rapture in the middle of the Tribulation.

3) The Post-Trib View — According to this view, the Rapture and the Second Coming are all one event that takes place at the end of the Tribulation.



The "Pre-Wrath" View

In 1990 Marvin Rosenthal presented a fourth viewpoint in his book, The Pre-Wrath Rapture of the Church. Rosenthal was not the originator of this new viewpoint. Rather, he was the one who popularized it with his book…

The Meaning of the "Pre-Wrath" View

The "Pre-Wrath" view of the Rapture argues that the first three-fourths of the Tribulation is the wrath of Man and the wrath of Satan, and not the wrath of God. Therefore, the proponents of this view argue that the Church will suffer through the first three-quarters of the Tribulation since the Church is promised protection only from the wrath of God.

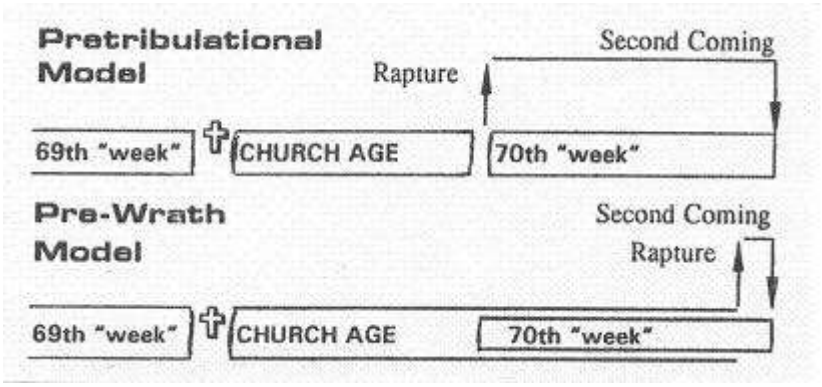
Those who espouse this viewpoint of the Rapture's timing believe that the Seal Judgments are the wrath of Man and Satan and that they continue throughout the first half of the Tribulation and into the second half, right up to the three-quarters point, or shortly thereafter. They place the Trumpet Judgments in the last quarter of the Tribulation and the Bowl Judgments in the first 30 days following the end of Daniel's 70th Week of Years.

For more History of the Origin and Development of this Concept as well as a Critique:

[Source: http://www.lamblion.com/articles/articles_rapture10.php]

[See also: http://www.lamblion.us/2014/12/the-pre-wrath-rapture-objections-to.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



SUMMARY OF THIS VIEW

The Pre-Wrath view is not a pre-tribulational view because it insists that the Church will be present on earth during most of the seven years of Daniel's 70th week (all except for the last phase which this view calls the Day of the Lord).

The Pre-Wrath view is not a mid-tribulational view because it insists that the Rapture will occur after the midpoint of the final seven years, somewhere around the middle of the last 3½ years.

The Pre-Wrath view is a post-tribulational view in the sense that it teaches that the Rapture will occur after the Great Tribulation. However, this view redefines the Great Tribulation period in a way that is unusual. Instead of saying that the Great Tribulation ends at the same time Daniel's 70th week ends (at the end of this 7-year period), this view says that the Great Tribulation ends just prior to the Day of the Lord which they say takes place a significant time prior to the end of Daniel's 70th week. Thus this view is post-tribulational but not post-"Daniel's 70th week." This view teaches that the Rapture will take place toward the end of Daniel's 70th week but not at the end.

The Pre-Wrath view is a pre-wrath, pre-"Day of the Lord" view because it teaches that the Rapture will take place immediately prior to the Day of the Lord which is the time when God pours out His wrath upon the earth.

In summary, this view rejects the pre-tribulational view because it says that the Rapture will not take place prior to Daniel's 70th week; it rejects the mid-tribulational view because it says that the Rapture will take place a significant but unknown period of time after the middle of Daniel's 70th week; and this view rejects the post-tribulational view because it places the Rapture not at the end of Daniel's 70th week, but at a significant period of time before the end.

The following is a chart of the pre-wrath position:

For more details and a critique…
[Source: http://www.middletownbiblechurch.org/proph/prewrath.htm]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Why Pre-Tribulation is Doctrinally Correct
[Source: http://the-end-time.blogspot.com/2009/11/why-pre-tribulation-rapture-is.html]

Comparing Pre- and Post- Tribulation Points of View (Favors Post-Tribulation)
[Source: http://www.watchmanspost.com/scoming/twopoints.html]

The Rapture–Amillennialism, Post-millennialism, or Pre-millennialism?
[Source: http://truthsaves.org/articles/the-rapture-amillennialism-post-millennialism-or-pre-millennialism/] [Pre-Tribulation]

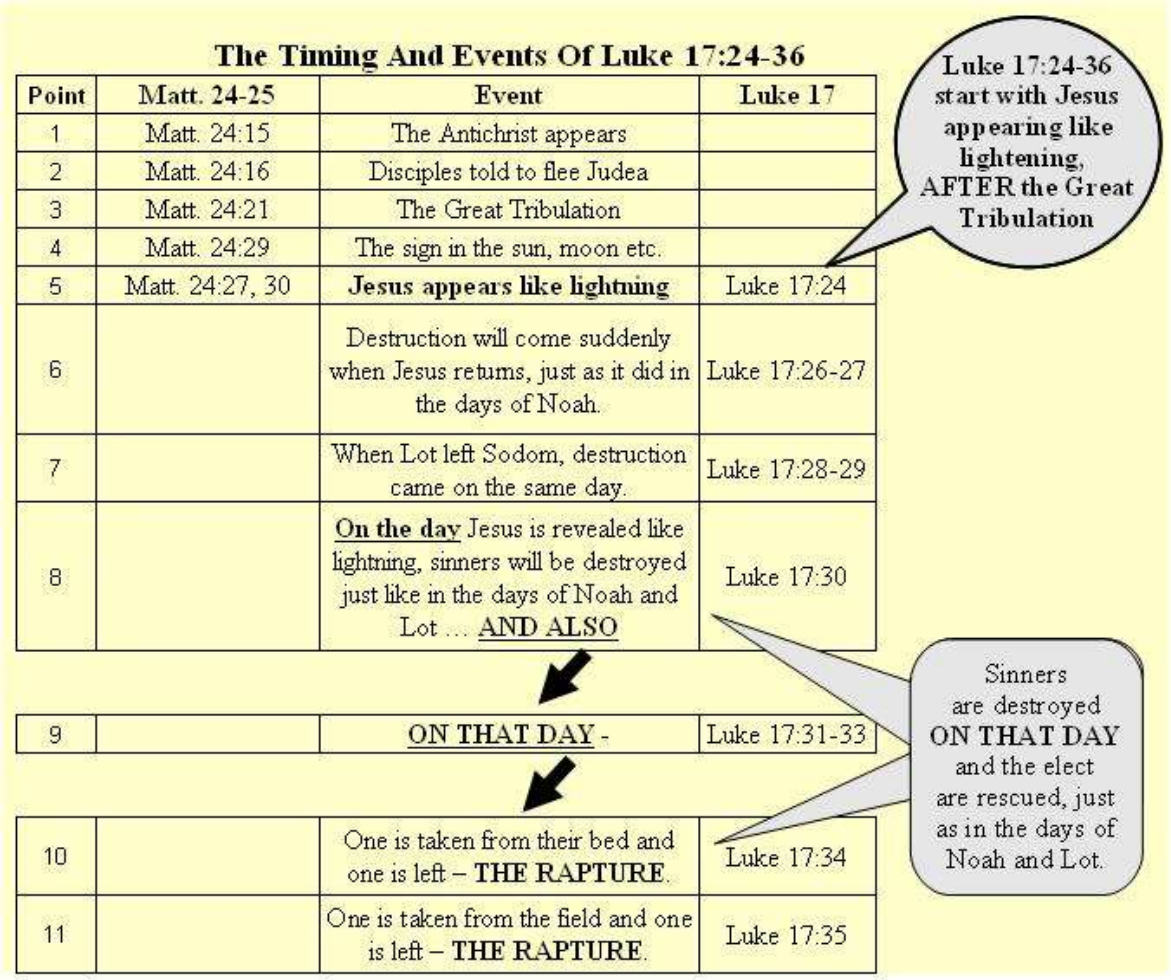
The Rapture Debate (Pro vs Post)
[Source: http://www.evangelicaloutreach.org/rapture-debate.htm]

An Overview of Pretribulational Arguments
[Source: http://www.pre-trib.org/articles/view/an-overview-of-pretribulational-arguments] [also Downloadable as PDF]

Topical Bible Study: Rapture (Chuck Missler)
[Source: http://www.khouse.org/topical_bible_study/rapture/]

JIT (Just-in-time) Rapture (???)
[Source: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ZG0V0gaoWJQ] [Video]

The Biblical Case for Mid-Tribulation
[Source: http://www.nobts.edu/faculty/itor/lemkesw/personal/midtribulationism.html]



Prophecy Signs – 20 Key Prophecy Signs Indicating the End Times Have Begun (Note: believes Church will go through the Tribulation)
[Source: http://prophecysigns.com/20-key-prophecy-signs-chart/]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Will Christians go through the Great Tribulation?

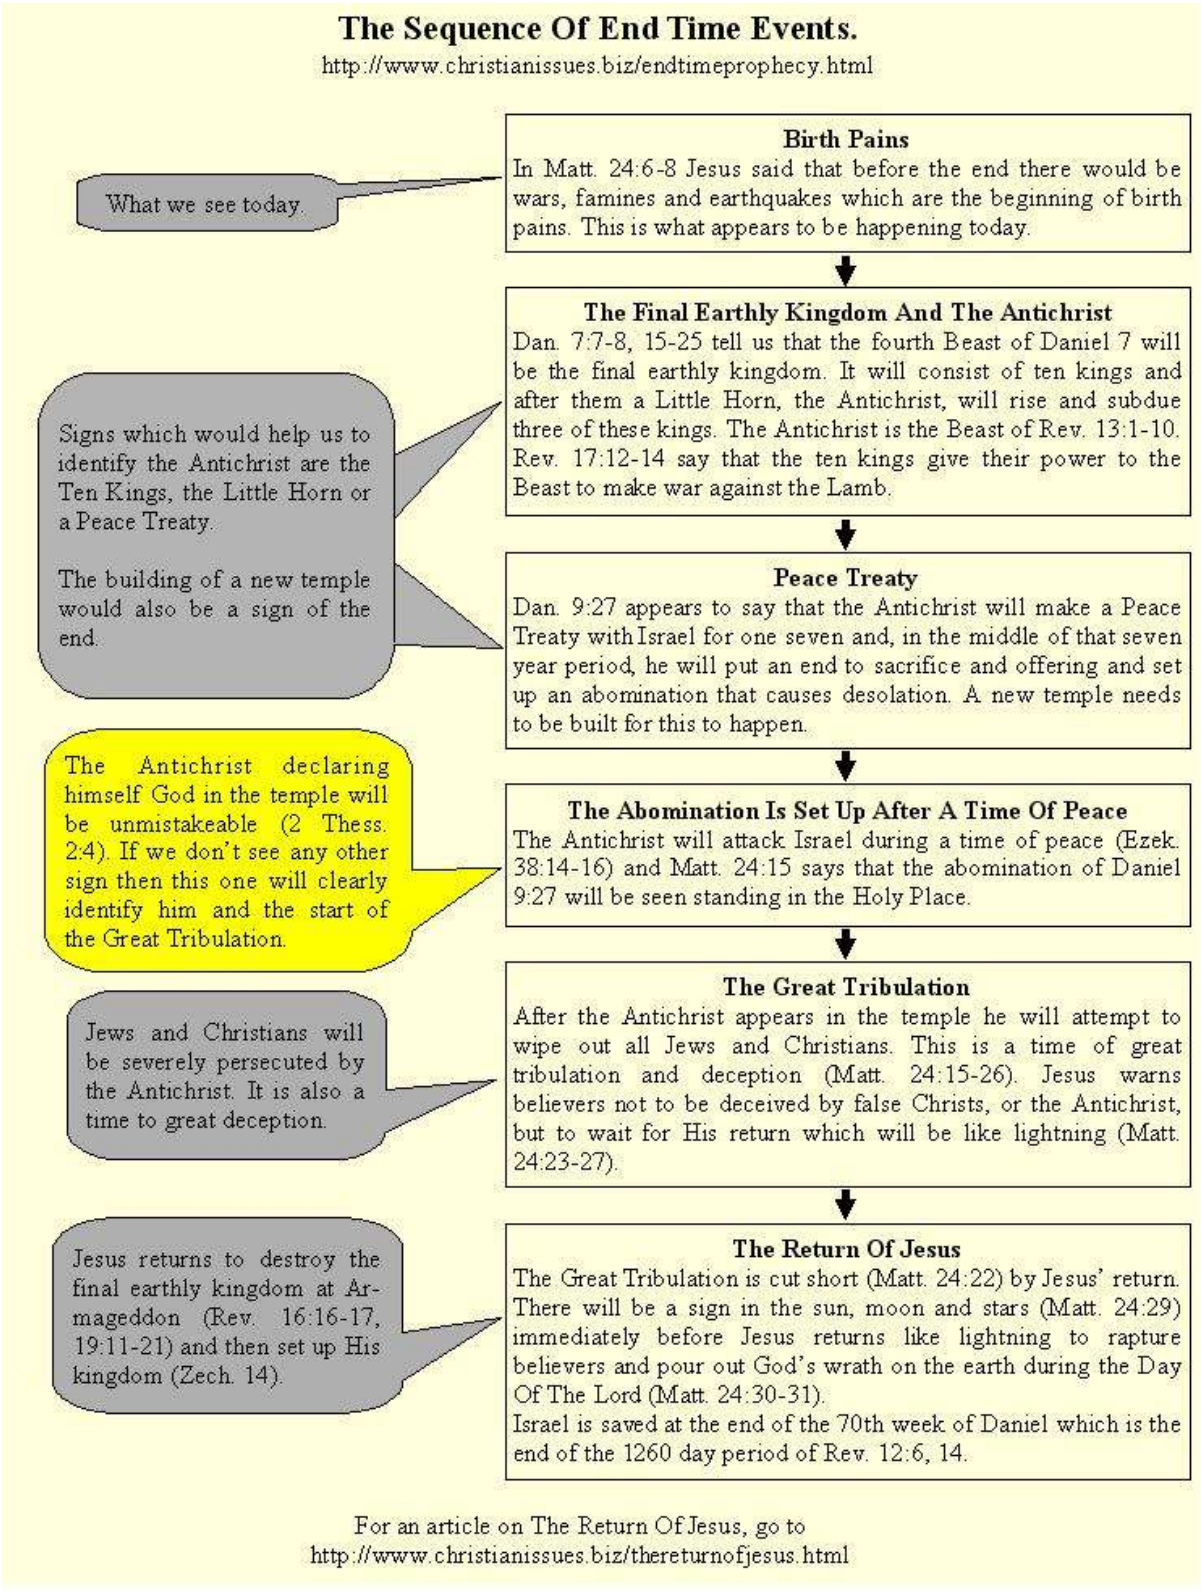
[Source: http://www.christianissues.biz/endtimeprophecy.html] [Also Downloadable as a PDF]

The following are charts from the above article…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

#	Event	1 Thess. 4-5	Matt. 24-25
1	Jesus returns	1 Thess. 4:16	Matt. 24:30
2	From heaven	1 Thess. 4:16	Matt. 24:30
3	With a commanding presence	1 Thess. 4:16	Matt. 24:30
4	Angels present	1 Thess. 4:16, 3:13	Matt. 24:31
5	Trumpet sound	1 Thess. 4:16	Matt. 24:31
6	Believers gathered	1 Thess. 4:17	Matt. 24:31, 40-41
7	Believers meet the Lord	1 Thess. 4:17	Matt. 25:1, 6
8	In the clouds	1 Thess. 4:17	Matt. 24:30
9	The time is unknown	1 Thess. 5:1-2	Matt. 24:36
10	Will come as a thief	1 Thess. 5:2,4	Matt. 24:43
11	Will come at night	1 Thess. 5:2	Matt. 24:43
12	Unbelievers unaware of judgment	1 Thess. 5:3	Matt. 24:37-39
13	Birth pains	1 Thess. 5:3	Matt. 24:8
14	Believers not deceived	1 Thess. 5:6	Matt. 24:4-5, 25
15	Believers are to watch	1 Thess. 5:6	Matt. 24:42, 25
16	Warning against drunkenness	1 Thess. 5:7	Matt. 24:49

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



End Times Gospel Chart

Comparing Matt. 24 with Luke 21 & Luke 17:22-37

#	Event	Matt 24	Luke 21	Luke 17
1	Deception	4-5	8	Luke 17 only speaks about the day Jesus returns like lightning
2	Wars, famines and earthquakes	6-8	9-11
3	Persecution	9-13	12-19
4	Jerusalem destroyed in 70AD. Israel trampled on until the times of the Gentiles is fulfilled	Jerusalem's destruction not mentioned	20-24
5	Gospel to be preached before the end.	14	The times of the Gentiles
6	Abomination of desolation	15
7	The Great Tribulation	16-22
8	False Christs	23-27
9	The sign in the sun, moon and stars.	29	25-26
10	Jesus to return like lightning.	27, 30	27	23-24
11	The Rapture; one taken and the other left.	31 & 40-41		30-36
12	Like the days of Noah and Lot.	37-41		26-30
13	Be watchful	42-44	28-36
14	Carcass and vulture	28		37

Jesus' return is common to all three passages.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Comparing 1 Thessalonians 4-5 with Matthew 24-25

Event	1 Thess. 4-5	Matt. 24-25
Christ Himself returns	1 Thess. 4:16	24:30
From heaven	1 Thess. 4:16	24:30
With a commanding presence	1 Thess. 4:16	24:30
Angels present	1 Th. 4:16, 3:13	24:31
Trumpet sound	1 Thess. 4:16	24:31
Believers supernaturally gathered to Christ	1 Thess. 4:17	24:31, 40-41
Believers meet the Lord	1 Thess. 4:17	25:1, 6
In the clouds	1 Thess. 4:17	24:30
The time is unknown	1 Thess. 5:1-2	24:36
Will come as a thief	1 Thess. 5:2,4	24:43
Will come at night	1 Thess. 5:2	24:43
Unbelievers are unaware of impending judgment	1 Thess. 5:3	24:37-39
Judgment comes as travail upon an expectant mother	1 Thess. 5:3	24:8 [cf. RSV]
Believers not deceived	1 Thess. 5:6	24:4-5,25
Believers are to watch	1 Thess. 5:6	24:42,25
Warning against drunkenness	1 Thess 5:7	24:49

Comparing Matthew 24 with Revelation 6-8

Matt. 24 - The Olivet Discourse		The Revelation of Christ
24:4	WARNING To God's elect	22:19	WARNING
24:5	FALSE CHRISTS	6:1-2	THE FIRST SEAL
24:6	WARS	6:3-4	THE SECOND SEAL
24:7	FAMINES	6:5-6	THE THIRD SEAL
24:9,21	THE GREAT TRIBULATION	6:7-8	THE FOURTH SEAL
24:9,22	Death	6:9-11	THE FIFTH SEAL
24:10,24	Apostasy
24:29	SIGN OF THE END OF THE AGE Sun, moon & stars.	6:12-17	THE SIXTH SEAL
24:30,27	SIGN OF CHRIST'S COMING
24:30	THE COMING OF CHRIST
24:13,31	THE DELIVERANCE OF CHRIST'S ELECT Rapture	7:9-14	THE GREAT MULTITUDE Out of the Great Tribulation
24:14,30, 37-39	THE WRATH OF GOD The End of the Age or The Day of the Lord	8:1-7	THE SEVENTH SEAL

Who is the Restrainer?

See next page.

God's wrath in the Day Of The Lord – see last page

NOTE: "parousia" is singular in 1 Th. 4:15 and Matt. 24:27.

The striking parallels between 1 Thess. 4-5, Matt. 24-25 and Rev. 6-8 make it abundantly clear that they are all describing the same event. There is no secret Rapture but a single return of the Lord. On the day of His return, Jesus cuts short the Great Tribulation by gathering the elect to Himself in the clouds and then the Day Of The Lord begins when God pours out His wrath on those remaining on the earth.

Taken from Sola Scriptura (http://www.scriptorium.org/products/newsletters.html) and The Rapture Question Answered, Plain & Simple, by Robert Van Kampen.
Mick Alexander Email: leeandmick@gmail.com
Downloaded from: http://www.christianissues.biz/endtimeprophecy.html

Who is the Restrainer of 2 Thess. 2:7?

1	2	3	4
In Matt. 24:15 the Anthchrist is revealed	In Dan 12:1 Michael, Israel's Protector, arises	In Rev. 12:7-9 Michael defeats Satan and hurls him to the earth	In 2 Thess. 2:7-8 the Restrainer is taken out of the way and the Antichrist is revealed
AFTER WHICH ↓	AFTER WHICH ↓	AFTER WHICH ↓	AFTER WHICH ↓
there will be a time of unequalled distress. Matt. 24:21	there will be a time of distress as never before. Dan. 12:1	Satan is on the earth and furious. He empowers the Antichrist to pursue Israel and the church. Rev. 12:12-17 and Rev. 13:1-2	there will be a time of great evil and strong deception causing many to perish. 2 Thess. 2:9-12

5 NOW → Clearly the above two verses refer to the same time period of unequalled distress on the earth. AND → This is the same period of distress when Satan is hurled to the earth and gives his power to the Antichrist who persecutes the church and Israel. AND → This is also the same period of distress when the Restrainer is removed allowing the Antichrist to appear with great lawlessness and deception.

6 SO These four passages are clearly talking about events related to the same end time period of distress and persecution. The logical conclusion is that Michael is the Restrainer of 2 Thess. 2:7. He is going to arise from protecting Israel (2) and will war with Satan in heaven and cast him to the earth (3). Satan will then empower the Antichrist (3) for the final 3 ½ years when there will be great tribulation and deception for the nation of Israel and the church (4 & 1).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Day Of The Lord is the period of God's wrath that will occur after Jesus returns.
The following shows this period of wrath occurring in Matthew 24, Rev. 6-8 and 1 Thess. 4-5.

The sun and moon darkened	Matt. 24:29, Rev. 6:12-13
Jesus returns – the Rapture	Matt. 24:31, Rev. 7:9-14 and 1 Thess. 4:16-17.
God's wrath during the Day Of the Lord	Matt. 24:30, Rev. 6:15-17 (Rev. 8) and 1 Thess. 5:1-2

Because the Day of The Lord is common to all three passages, then it is obvious that all three passages are talking about the same thing, namely the return of Jesus to Rapture the church and then pour out God's wrath during the Day Of The Lord.

END: Excerpts from "Will Christians go through the Great Tribulation?"

Prophecy Signs – 20 Key Prophecy Signs Indicating the End Times Have Begun

(Note: believes Church will go through the Tribulation)
[Source: http://prophecysigns.com/20-key-prophecy-signs-chart/]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Rapture, including N.T. Wright's View of the Rapture

N.T. Wright: Farewell to the Rapture (2001)
http://itsinthetext.blogspot.com/2013/03/farewell-to-rapture-nt-wright_4.html

Original text: http://ntwrightpage.com/2016/07/12/farewell-to-the-rapture/

> Little did Paul know how his colorful metaphors for Jesus' second coming would be misunderstood two millennia later.

Corresponding videos:

N .T. Wright on the Rapture Passage (2016)
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=TJyVLm-tuCg [Video]

ABC News: N.T. Wright on Heaven & Rapture Theology (2012) https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=I9ln9Jq5Y-E [Video] https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=1u4CzArtW3E [Video]

N. T. Wright on the FALSE Doctrine of the Rapture to Heaven https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=M-GZt5Mrbq8 [Video]

Left Behind Rapture Debunked - N. T. Wright
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=-OIVJaIcTwQ [Video]

Where Did Rapture Theology Come From? Ben Witherington III (2014)
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=d_cVXdr8mVs [Video]

The Rapture in Matthew 24 & 1 Thessalonians 4: Seven Minute Seminary (2014)
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=cg8lRGqtMHc [Video] Ben Witherington III

Quote: "A text without a context is just a pretext for whatever you want it to say"

Rejecting the 'Left Behind' Rapture Theology | William Lane Craig (2015)
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=DLuUV6yUMSk [Audio] [FYI (not related): Kalam Cosmological Argument]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

What About the Rapture in 1 Thess 4?
Problem Texts for Holistic Eschatology, Part 2 https://jrichardmiddleton.wordpress.com/2014/10/14/what-about-the-rapture-problem-texts-for-holistic-eschatology-part-2/

Excerpt:

...

Paul's Application of apantēsis to the Return of Christ

It was customary for people to vie for pride of place in meeting the coming dignitary, hence Paul's assurance in 1 Thessalonians 4:15-16 that Christians who had already died would not be inconvenienced at this great event; rather they would rise first (and thus be the first to meet the coming King).

Since cemeteries were located outside city walls in the first century, often lining the main road leading to the city, Paul's readers could vividly imagine the scenario of the dead in Christ being raised as the King passed by, before those in the city went out to meet him as he approached the city gates. This also makes sense of Paul's statement that "God will bring with him [Christ] those who have died" (1Thess 4:14); this suggests that those raised from the graves, who have met the returning Lord, will then enter the city with him.

The most important point in the above scenario is that those who went out to meet the dignitary returned with him, escorting him in grand procession into their city. In this case, this clearly means an escort to earth.

Beyond the background custom of an imperial visit (represented by parousia and apantēsis) and the clear biblical teaching of the redemption of creation, there are further reasons to doubt that 1 Thessalonians means to teach the rapture, as classically understood.

1 Thessalonians 4:13-18 Describes a Public Event

First, the rapture is supposed to be a secret event, yet the coming of Christ in 1 Thessalonians 4 is announced with great fanfare, "with a cry of command, with the archangel's call and with the sound of God's trumpet" (1 Thess 4:16). This is similar to the sound of the trumpet in 1 Corinthians 15:51-52, which describes the suddenness of Christ's coming, accompanied by the transformation of living believers and the resurrection of those who have died.

"Listen, I will tell you a mystery! We will not all die, but we will all be changed, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trumpet. For the trumpet will sound, and the dead will be raised imperishable, and we will be changed." (1 Cor 15:51-52)

1 Thessalonians 4:13-18 Is About the Resurrection and the Final State

Furthermore, in its most popular form, the rapture is meant to remove living believers from earth so that the Tribulation can begin (all dead believers are already in heaven). But in 1 Thessalonians 4 Paul speaks of both dead and living believers rising to meet Christ. The text is thus not about removal of believers from earth at all. Like 1 Corinthians 15, 1 Thessalonians 4 addresses the resurrection of the dead and transformation of the living that will accompany Christ's decisive coming as Lord to judge the world and make all things new.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

A Farewell to the Rapture in Matthew 24? Problem Texts for Holistic Eschatology, Part 3

https://jrichardmiddleton.wordpress.com/2014/10/17/a-farewell-to-the-rapture-problem-texts-for-holistic-eschatology-part-3/

Excerpt:

…Indeed, it turns out that many dispensationalists agree that Matthew 24 // Luke 17 doesn't teach the rapture. And some even doubt that it is taught anywhere in the Bible.

But I'm getting ahead of myself.

The Understanding of Matthew 24:37-41 in Popular Eschatology

In Matthew 24 (as part of the so-called Olivet discourse) Jesus explains what will happen when the Son of Man returns. According to Matthew 24:40-41: "Then two will be in the field; one will be taken and one will be left. Two women will be grinding meal together; one will be taken and one will be left."

Luke 17:34-35 is similar: "I tell you, on that night there will be two in one bed; one will be taken and the other left. There will be two women grinding meal together; one will be taken and the other left."

The common assumption of much Christian eschatology is that the one "taken" in Matthew 24 // Luke 17 is the believer, going to heaven to be with the Lord. And this is identified with the "rapture" of 1 Thessalonians 4:17.

The Importance of Reading Texts Carefully

The problem is that we do not typically read the Bible very carefully. So let us pay close attention to the comparison Jesus makes in Matthew 24.

Jesus begins by describing what life was like in the time of Noah, when people did not expect the flood. His point in verse 39 is that the people of Noah's time "knew nothing until the flood came and swept them all away, so too will be the coming of the Son of Man."

Note who is taken away, according to Jesus. The phrase "swept them all away" clearly describes judgment on the wicked; it was Noah and his family who were "left behind" (if we might put it so); they remained on the earth after the flood.

Thus, when Jesus introduces the eschatological equivalent to the days of Noah (in vv. 40-41), it is evident from the analogy he draws between the two events that the ones taken are the unrighteous; they are taken to judgment.

The two Greek verbs Jesus uses in Matthew 24:39-41 (airō for the time of Noah and paralambanō for the coming of the Son of Man), are translated as "swept away" and "taken" in the NRSV. They are rendered as "taken away" and "taken" in the KJV, and also in the NIV. The similarity of these verbs in the KJV and NIV should have made Jesus' point even more obvious for those reading these translations.

The fact that so many have misread who is taken and who is left, despite such clear verbal clues (not to mention Jesus' analogy between the flood and the eschaton), is a powerful example of how our assumptions about what a text says can predetermine what we see in the text.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Luke 17 Clarifies Where They Are "Taken"

If we doubt this interpretation of Matthew 24, we need only turn to Luke's version of this text, for he follows the narrative of one taken and one left (in 17:34-35) with a question from the disciples in verse 37. The ask, "Where, Lord?" That is, where are they taken?

Jesus replies, "Where the corpse is, there the vultures will gather." This is clearly a reference to judgment; the image is certainly not of "heaven."

The image Jesus alludes to is the valley of Ben-Hinnom (gai ben-hinnom or Gehenna), southwest of Jerusalem, which had become the city dump in the Second Temple period, used for incinerating garbage, dead animals, and executed criminals. In the Old Testament the valley of Ben-Hinnom is associated with idolatry and child sacrifice (by burning) to Baal or Molech.

We should not be surprised that those taken from the earth are being judged. After all, the same Jesus who taught about the last days in Matthew 24 proclaimed in the Beatitudes: "Blessed are the meek, for they will inherit the earth" (Matt 5:5).

Most Dispensationalists No Longer Think Matthew 24 Teaches the Rapture

Although Matthew 24:37-41 is often used to support the rapture in popular eschatology, it is significant that these words of Jesus are not typically appealed to by dispensationalist theologians and Bible scholars (even though the rapture is a distinctively dispensationalist doctrine).

Even Hal Lindsay's bestseller, The Late, Great Planet Earth, which resolutely emphasizes the rapture, never appeals to this text about being "taken" in Matthew 24 or Luke 17.

These verses are also notably absent from the discussion in both the first and second editions of Three Views of the Rapture (1984; reprint. 1996; and 2010) published by Zondervan in their Counterpoints series; indeed, when the introduction to the second edition (2010) lists texts that either explicitly or implicitly teach the rapture, Matthew 24:36-42 is not on the list.

Although early dispensationalists such as John Nelson Darby and William E. Blackstone cited this text in arguing for the rapture, as early as 1925 dispensationalists had begun to back off using it as part of their argument. And by the mid-twentieth century the majority of dispensationalists had come to the conclusion that Matthew 24:36ff. did not address the rapture at all, conceding instead that it referred to events after the tribulation.

Thus dispensationalist John F. Walvoord critiques those who use this text to support the rapture, emphatically noting: "Those taken away were taken away in judgment" (Walvoord, The Blessed Hope and the Tribulation: A Historical and Biblical Study of Posttribulationalism [Grand Rapids: Zondervan, 1976], 89).

Why Do Evangelicals Think Matthew 24 is a Rapture Text?

For the popularity of the contemporary rapture interpretation of Matthew 24 // Luke 17 we need to turn to Larry Norman's famous 1969 song, "I Wish We'd All Been Ready," which was released on what is usually regarded as the first Christian rock album (On this Rock, Capitol Records, 1969). After evoking the Great Tribulation in verse 1, the second verse of the song is a poetic restatement of Luke 17:34 and Matthew 24:40:

> A man and wife asleep in bed,/ She hears a noise and turns her head he's gone;/ I wish we'd all been ready.
>
> Two men walking up a hill,/ One disappears and one's left standing still;/ I wish we'd all been ready.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The song clearly understands the person who is “gone” (or who “disappears”) as having been taken to heaven. Perhaps it is significant that according to Norman, the song “talked about something I had never heard preached from a pulpit as I grew up” (Larry Norman comment from 1969).

Because of Larry Norman, many of us have since heard this preached from the pulpit—and beyond the pulpit. Indeed, the chorus (“There’s no time to change your mind,/ The Son has come and you’ve been left behind”) arguably generated the title of the Left Behind series of books and movies.

Rapture Agnosticism and the New Creation among Some Dispensationalists

Beyond even John Walvoord’s assertion that Matthew 24 // Luke 17 does not teach the rapture, it is significant that some dispensationalists no longer affirm the rapture as a doctrine at all. One such is R. Todd Mangum, who has impeccable dispensationalist credentials (a doctorate from Dallas Theological Seminary and recipient of the John F. Walvoord Award for outstanding work in eschatology).

Yet Magnum admits that “little good has come of dispensationalists’ emphasis on a pre-tribulational rapture up to now; there is promise for even less good to come of such emphasis in the future.” He even suggests that dispensationalists adopt a posture of “rapture agnosticism,” both because of the doctrine’s negative ethical effects (it detracts from legitimate Christian concern for the earth) and because it is not clearly taught in Scripture (Mangum, “High Hopes for 21st-Century Dispensationalism: A Response to ‘Hope and Dispensationalism: An Historical Overview and Assessment’ by Gary L. Nebeker” [paper presented to the Dispensational Study Group of the Evangelical Theological Society, Nashville, Tennessee, November 2000]).

Magnum proposes instead an “inaugurated kingdom ethic”(the kingdom of God has already begun on earth, to be consummated at Christ’s return), which is more in line with the teaching of Jesus and the New Testament

New Testament scholar Darrell Bock also emphasizes the ‘this-worldly’ nature of the kingdom. In an extended study, Bock examines the biblical basis for the inaugurated kingdom of God in the midst of history, while also affirming the kingdom’s culmination not in heaven, but in “the cosmos as a whole” (Bock, “The Kingdom of God in New Testament Theology,” in Looking into the Future: Evangelical Studies in Eschatology, ed. David W. Baker [Evangelical Theological Society Studies; Baker Academic, 2001], 48).

Both Magnum and Bock fit the category of what dispensationalist theologian Craig Blaising calls “progressive dispensationalism,” a term that does not refer to “progressive” in opposition to “conservative,” but rather to an understanding of how the dispensations unfold. According to Blaising, there are three stages in the development of dispensationalism—which he names classical, revised, and progressive (Blaising, “The Extent and Varieties of Dispensationalism,” in Craig A. Blaising and Darrell L. Bock, Progressive Dispensationalism [Wheaton, Ill: Bridgepoint, 1993], 9-56).

As a representative of progressive dispensationalism, Blaising himself has articulated a clear distinction between what he calls a “spiritual vision model” of eschatological escape to heaven and the biblical “new creation model,” which “expects the earth and the cosmic order to be renewed and made everlasting through the same creating power that grants immortal and resurrection life to the saints” (Blaising, “Premellennialism,” in Three Views of the Millennium and Beyond, ed. Darrell L. Bock [Counterpoints: Exploring Theology; Grand Rapids: Zondervan, 1999], 163).

A Farewell to the Rapture?

What’s the world coming to when dispensationalists are agnostic about the rapture? Or when they affirm the renewal of the cosmos as the goal of eschatology?

This is an important and historic shift. But more important for our purposes is that neither Matthew 24 nor 1 Thessalonians 4 teaches the future escape of believers from the earth to heaven.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

And if the two most cited proof-texts for the rapture don't support this idea, we have no good reason to think that it is any part of biblical eschatology.

N.T. Wright on the (Non) Rapture

http://www.patheos.com/blogs/unsystematictheology/2016/06/n-t-wright-on-the-non-rapture/

In a discussion of Matthew 24:26-28, which is commonly taken by premillennial pretributionalist dispensationalists (there's an eschatological mouthful) to be one of the key "rapture" texts, N.T. Wright articulates a very counter-position to the rapture notion, which is actually a quite recent development in interpretation:

> While they [Jesus' disciples] were waiting for the moment to arrive, however, there would be many voices urging that Israel's vindication was to be found in this or that new movement. They would long to see one of the days of the 'son of man' but would not see it, and would be an open pry to invitations to look at this or that conspiracy or uprising as the way towards vindication. But when it happened there would be no mistaking it: it would be like lightning flashing from east to west, and on that day…they should not stop to pack and get ready, but simply run.
>
> At that time there would be division between families and colleagues: one would be taken, another left. It should be noted that 'taken' in this context means being taken in judgment. There is no hint, here, of a 'rapture,' a sudden 'supernatural' event which would remove individuals from terra firma. Such an idea would look as odd, in these synoptic passages, as a Cadillac in a camel-train. It is a mater, rather, of secret police coming in the night, or of enemies sweeping through a city and seizing all they can. If the disciples were to escape, if they were to be 'left,' it would be by the skin of their teeth.
>
> From Jesus and the Victory of God, p. 366.

The Biblical Worldview

"Providing Scriptural Teaching And Commentary From the Biblical Worldview and the Posttrib Position"

http://www.thebiblicalworldview.org/

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Rapture proponents:

Thomas Ice / Pre-Trib Research Center)

Pre-Trib Archives: The Rapture; What is pre-, post-, a- millennialism; and more

The Rapture - John MacArthur (2012)
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=EYEeb2ysy6U [Video]

Bible hammer lock on The RAPTURE! (2013)
Chuck Missler & John MacArthur & Scottie Clarke
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=6pxAS1ZunuY&spfreload=5 [Video]

Q&A January 14th 2015 - Chuck Missler & Hal Lindsey - An Interview (2015)
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=bjmjYR1pHh0 [Video]

The Last Days by Tim Lahaye (2013)
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=656M97E6Svo [Video]

Larry King Live: Left Behind (Tim Lahaye and Jerry Jenkins)
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=3lK87nQxKHA [Video]

See also: Premillennial, Amillennial, Postmillennial (Eschatology) (includes info. on the rapture)

Complete PREVIEW of the RAPTURES!
Pre-Trib / Mid-Trib / Post-Trib / Pre-Wrath Explained
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=5KqQuTP3yqs [Videos]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Church (Assembly, Congregation)

Upon Salvation, you become a member of God's Church

[Source: http://www.wvbs.org/index.php/posters/free-teaching-charts.html]

The Bible encourages Christians to meet together (Hebrews 10:24-25):

And let us take thought of how to spur one another on to love and good works, not abandoning our own meetings, as some are in the habit of doing, but encouraging each other, and even more so because you see the day drawing near. [Net]

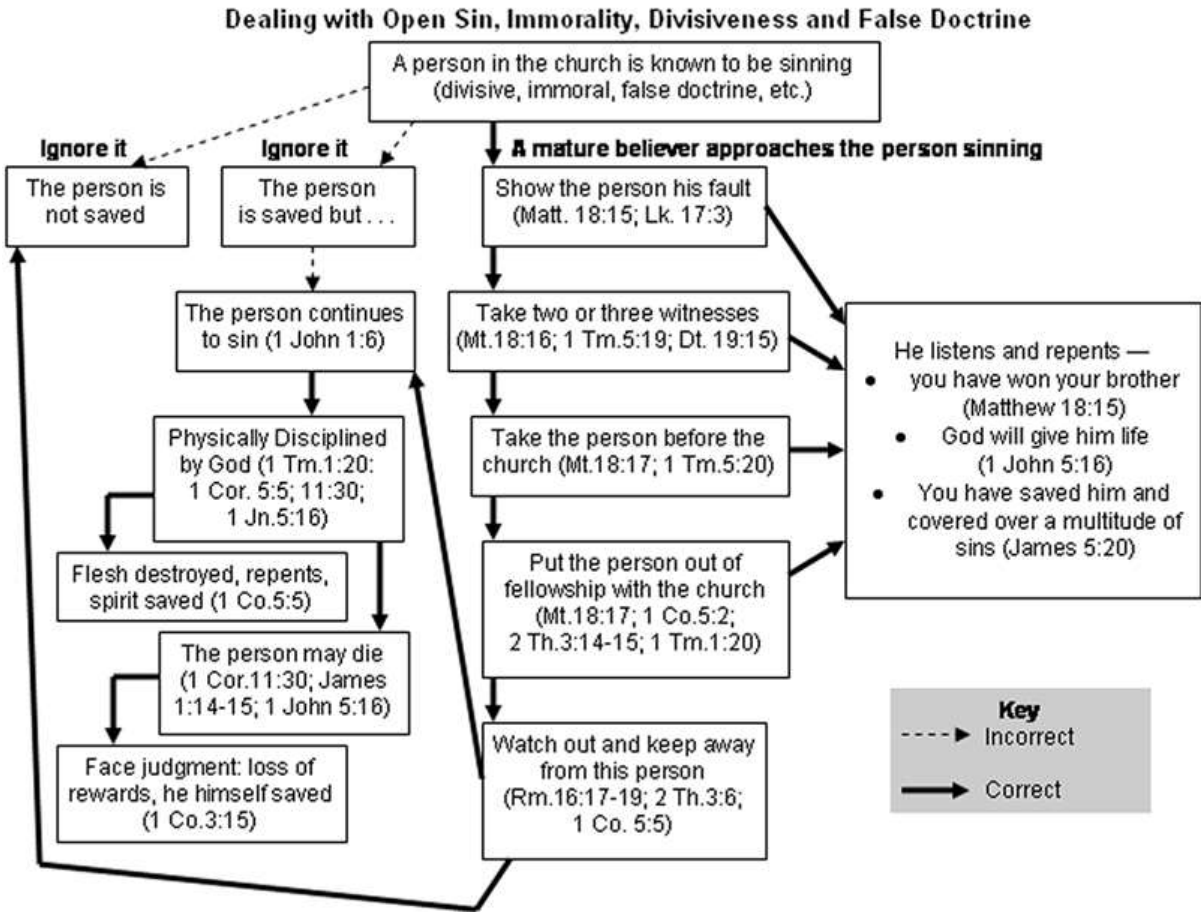
And let us be concerned about one another in order to promote love and good works, not staying away from our worship meetings, as some habitually do, but encouraging each other, and all the more as you see the day drawing near. [HCSB]

And let us consider one another to provoke unto love and to good works: Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is; but exhorting one another: and so much the more, as ye see the day approaching. [KJV]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Why Go To Church?

Why Go to Church?



In this era of celebrated individuality, many people believe that organized religion—church—is an outdated concept that doesn't work for today's individual. However, participating in corporate worship is considerably valuable for a Christian's spiritual growth. Jesus Christ established his church as a community of his followers who gather to celebrate God, encourage one another and spread the Good News. It is important to understand what the church is in order to understand the benefits of being a part of it.

The Church Is . . .	Benefits
THE BRIDE OF CHRIST John 17:20–26; Eph. 5:25–27; Rev. 19:7; 21:9	■ We, the collective followers of Jesus Christ (his bride), are the object of his affection and glory ■ Christ's relationship with his church is permanent ■ The world can know God's love through the unity of believers and their commitment to Christ
THE BODY OF CHRIST Rom. 12:3–8; 1 Cor. 12:12–31; Eph. 4:11–16	■ The church brings God's people together; Christ is the spiritual "head" that connects and directs us ■ Serving others within a church community allows us to use our God-given gifts ■ When we serve each other, we embody the message of God's love, just as Jesus embodied God himself ■ God provides unity for his people to ensure that we are never alone, even in times of need
A PLACE FOR GROWTH Rom. 1:12; Eph. 4:29; Col. 3:13; 1 Thess. 5:11; 2 Thess. 1:3	■ The church is a community of people who are accepted and forgiven ■ We as believers rely on each other to increase in our faith and commitment to Christ ■ We build each other up through love and service ■ By working together, we work toward the benefit of each other

Source: The NIV Quickview Bible - www.thequickviewbible.com

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

How to Deal With Personal Issues in the Church

[Source: http://www.generationword.com/audio_series/basic_doctrine.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Church - Part 1

The CHURCH is people, not a building or a place.

PROMISED
Daniel 2:44
Isaiah 2:2-3
Matthew 16:18, 28
Mark 9:1

ESTABLISHED IN JERUSALEM (A.D. 30)
Luke 24:47
Acts 1:4
Acts 2

NUMBER OF CHURCHES ONE
Matthew 16:18 Church
Ephesians 4:4 One Body
Colossians 1:18, 18
Ephesians 1:22-23
Colossians 3:15

MEMBERSHIP CHRISTIANS
Acts 11:26
Acts 2:47
Ephesians 5:23, 30
1 Corinthians 12:23

Upon this rock I will build my church
Matthew 16:18

ORGANIZATION
- CHRIST IS HEAD
  Ephesians 1:22-23
- ELDERS
  Acts 14:23
  1 Timothy 3:1-17
  Titus 1:5-9
  1 Peter 5:1-4
- DEACONS
  Acts 6:1-6
  1 Timothy 3:8-13
- OTHERS
  EVANGELISTS TEACHERS
  MEMBERS
  Ephesians 4:11
  2 Timothy 4:5

The churches of Christ Salute you
Romans 16:16

Barnes Bible Charts

The Church - Part 2

The CHURCH is people, not a building or a place.

WORSHIP
- PRAYER
  Ephesians 1:22-23
  Acts 12:15
  1 Thessalonians 5:17
  1 Timothy 2:1
  Romans 8:26
- SINGING
  Ephesians 5:19
  Colossians 3;16
  1 Corinthians 1:21
- PREACHING - TEACHING
  Acts 20:7
  Galatians 1:6-8
  1 Corinthians 1:21
- LORD S SUPPER
  (Every Lord s Day)
  Acts 20:7
  Luke 22:19-20
  1 Corinthians 11:24-25
- GIVING
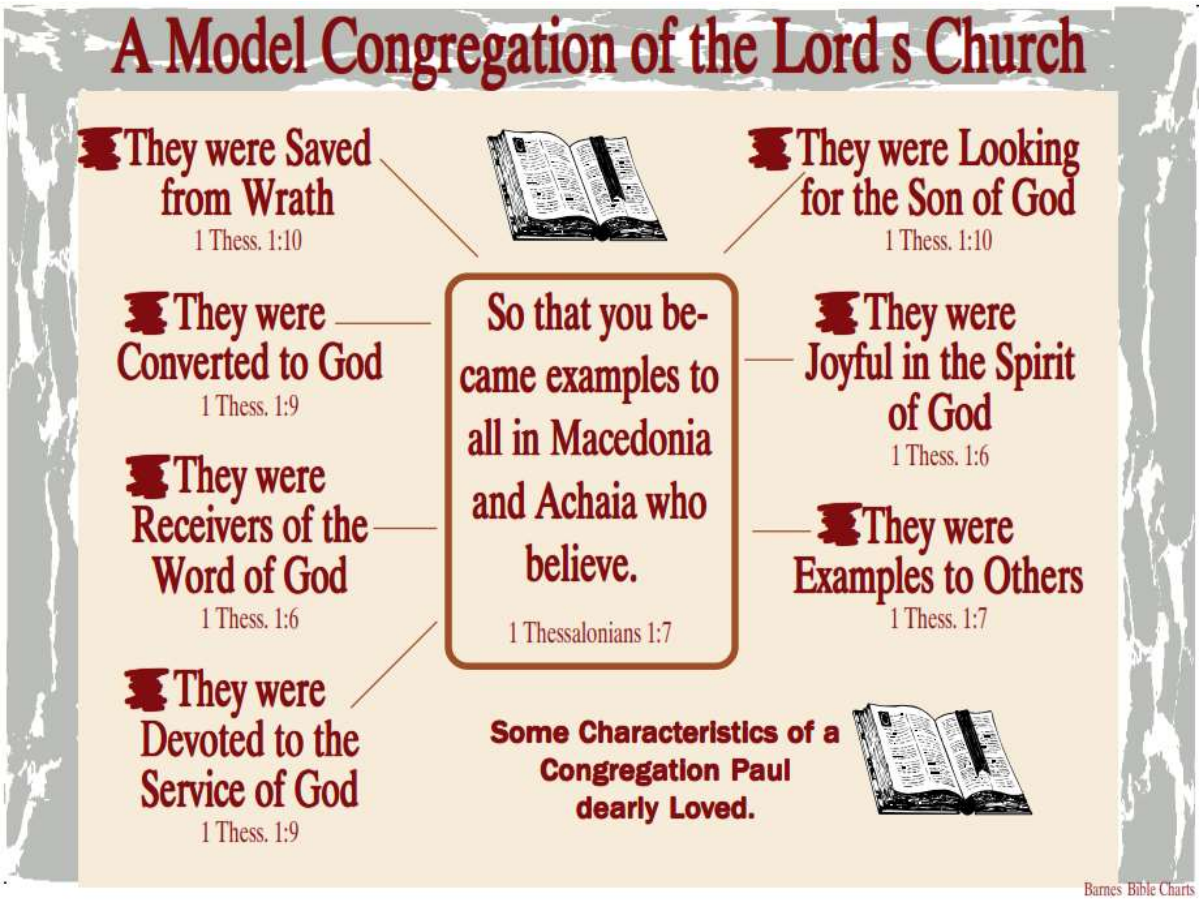
  1 Corinthians 16:1-2

Upon this rock I will build my church
Matthew 16:18



WORK OF THE CHURCH
- EVANGELISM
  Matthew 28:19-20
  Mark 16:15-16
  Ephesians 3:10-11
- BENEVOLENCE
  Galatians 6;10
  James 1:27
- EDIFICATION
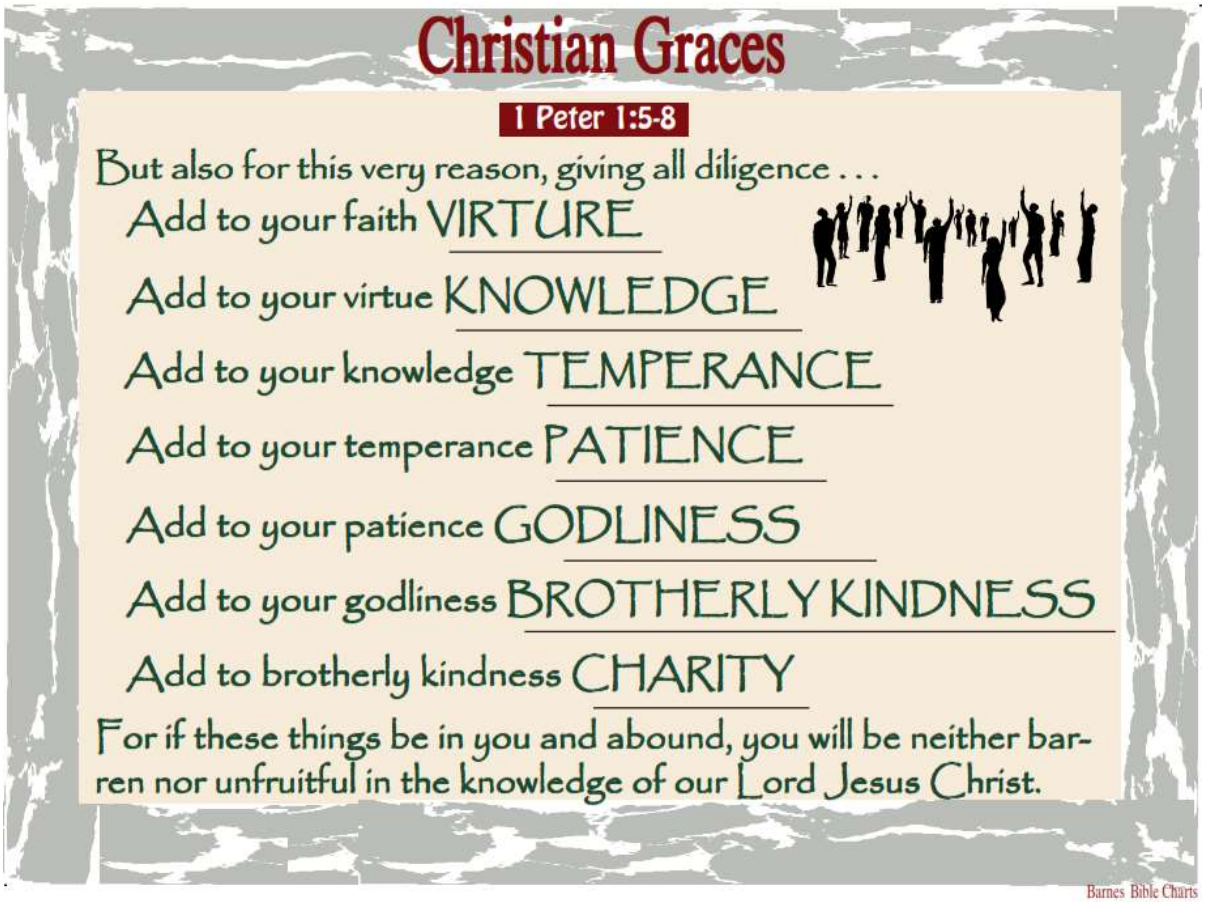
  Ephesians 4;12, 16, 29
  1 Thessalonians 5;11
  1 Corinthians 1:21

The churches of Christ Salute you
Romans 16:16

Barnes Bible Charts

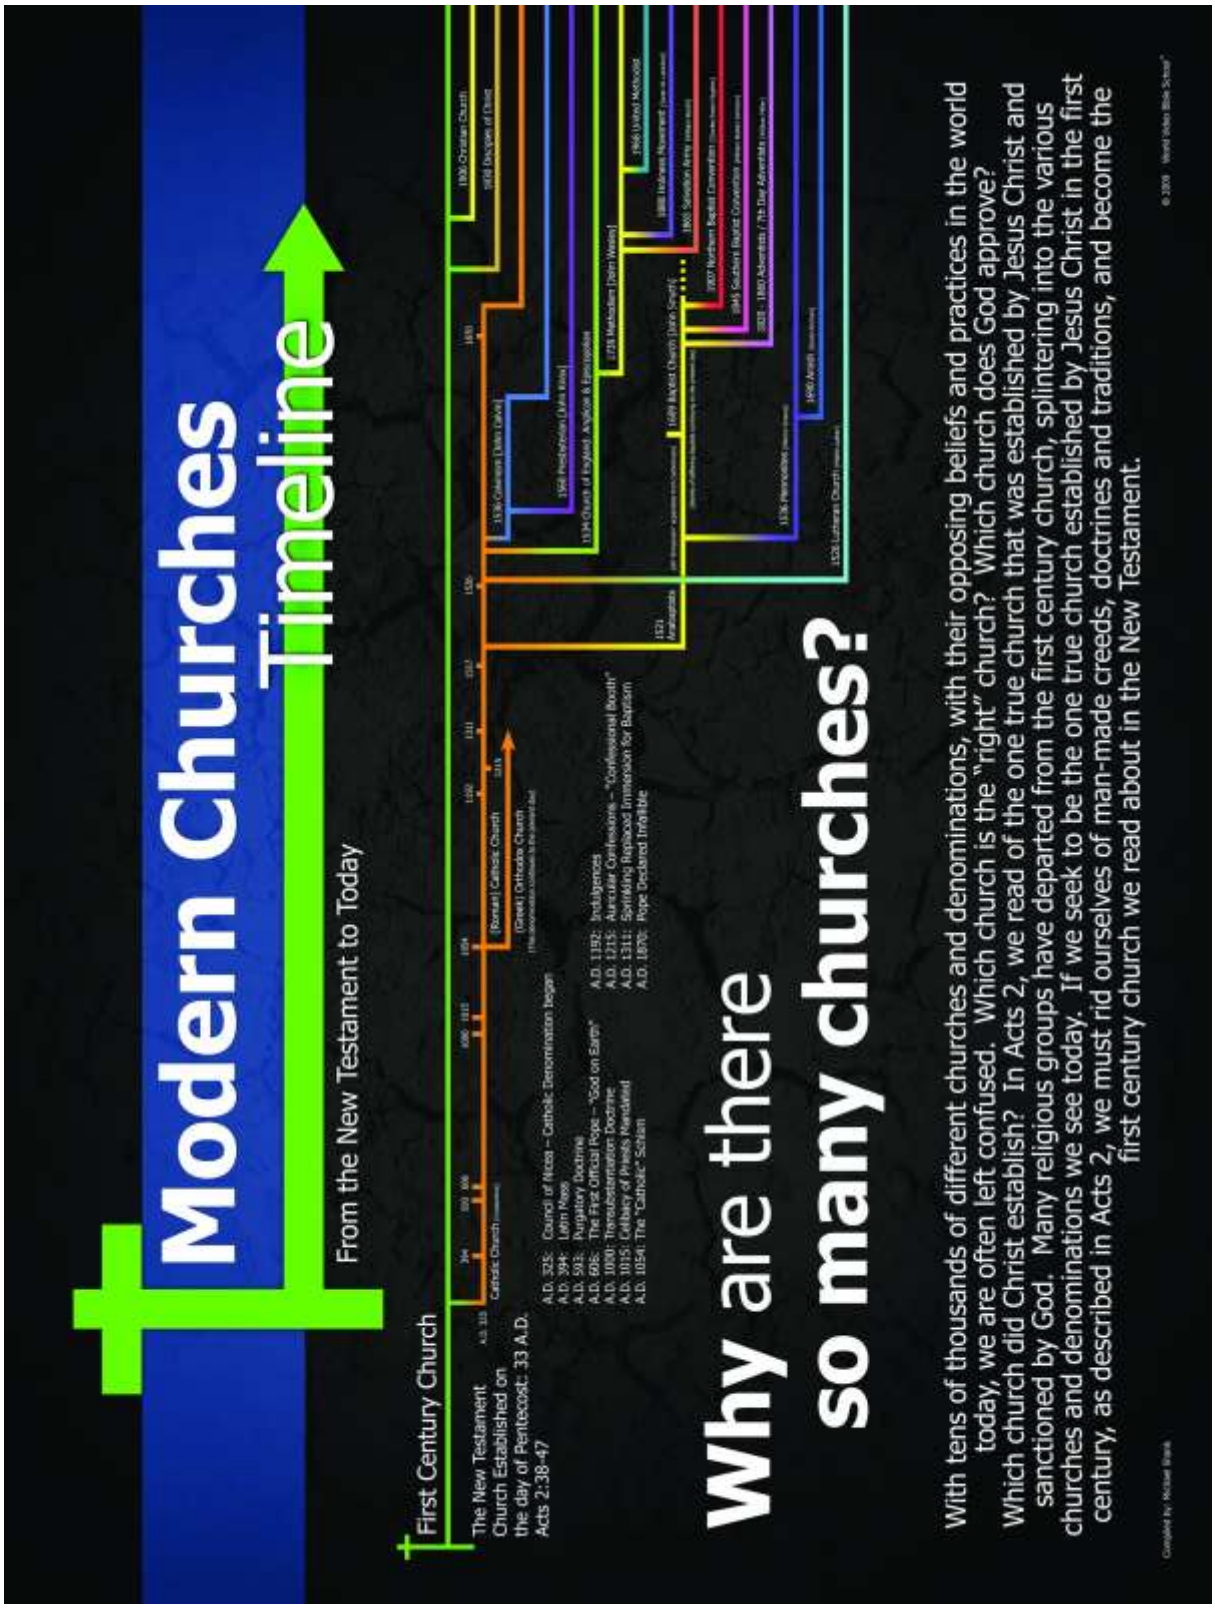
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



A Model Congregation of the Lord's Church

[Source: http://www.biblecharts.org/thenewtestament.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Christian Graces

[Source: http://www.biblecharts.org/thenewtestament.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Modern Churches Timeline

[Source: http://www.wvbs.org/index.php/posters/free-teaching-charts.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Gospel
The Good News
Becoming Born Again

What is the Gospel?

The Plan of Salvation

(Survey of Various Presentations)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

What is the Gospel? (Various presentations)

Scot McKnight: What is the Gospel? [Recommended] (2017)

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=-HdyhUQ3Krs [Video]

Ref: Paul: 1 Cor. 15: 1-11; 2 Tim. 2:8; Peter: Acts 2, 10

Gospel: Tells the story of Jesus:

Jesus lived, died at the hands of sinners unjustly, God overturned his death and raised him from the dead, he ascended and he is coming back to rule. Jesus is the King, Jesus is the Lord.

Everyone that believes in him receives forgiveness for their sins through his name.

[See also: What is the "Gospel"? (Summary)]

What is the Gospel? NT Wright (2013)

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ICHovRHJAYY

Ref: Rom. 1:3-4; 1 Cor. 15:1-11

[2] This gospel he promised beforehand through his prophets in the holy scriptures,
[3] concerning his Son who was a descendant of David with reference to the flesh,
[4] who was appointed the Son-of-God-in-power according to the Holy Spirit by the resurrection from the dead, Jesus Christ our Lord.
[5] Through him we have received grace and our apostleship to bring about the obedience of faith among all the Gentiles on behalf of his name.

re: Paul's charge from God: Acts 9:15 "…this man is my chosen instrument to carry my name before Gentiles and kings and the people of Israel."

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

DA Carson - How do you Explain the Gospel in Five Minutes
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=0RImYisUYxM [Video]

Dr. Ravi Zacharias: What is the Gospel?
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=enXBnnFbDpM [Video]

What Is the Gospel? [Recommended]
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=0maL4cQ8zuU [Video]

Just what is the GOSPEL? [Recommended] https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=i6ZX7ui0Dfo [Video]

Romans 8:9-13

[9] because if you confess with your mouth that Jesus is Lord and believe in your heart that God raised him from the dead, you will be saved. [10] For with the heart one believes and thus has righteousness and with the mouth one confesses and thus has salvation. [11] For the scripture says, "Everyone who believes in him will not be put to shame." [12] For there is no distinction between the Jew and the Greek, for the same Lord is Lord of all, who richly blesses all who call on him. [13] For everyone who calls on the name of the Lord will be saved.

It Will Cost You Everything
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=5JQOBMi4QS8 [Video]

Paul Washer, The Gospel. The most terrifying truth of Scripture [Recommended]
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=TXOWyjB7d24 [Video]

Paul Washer | Confronted with a question
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ydGprxNHyjk [Video]

Full Version:
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=g9rUe-Wcjvk [Video]

What is the Gospel? - Paul Washer
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=9mMQ12nmDow [Video]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Question: "What is the gospel of Jesus Christ?"

https://www.gotquestions.org/gospel-of-Jesus-Christ.html

Answer:

The word gospel means “good news,” so the gospel of Christ is the good news of His coming to provide forgiveness of sins for all who will believe (Colossians 1:14; Romans 10:9). Since the first man’s sin, mankind has been under the condemnation of God (Romans 5:12). Because everyone breaks God’s perfect law by committing sin (Romans 3:23), everyone is guilty (Romans 5:18). The punishment for the crime of sin is physical death (Romans 6:23) and then an eternity spent in a place of punishment (Revelation 20:15; Matthew 25:46). This eternal separation from God is also called the “second death” (Revelation 20:14–15).

The bad news that all are guilty of sin and condemned by God is countered by the gospel, the good news of Jesus Christ. God, because of His love for the world, has made a way for man to be forgiven of their sins (John 3:16). He sent His Son, Jesus Christ, to take the sins of mankind on Himself through death on a cross (1 Peter 2:24). In placing our sin on Christ, God ensured that all who will believe in the name of Jesus will be forgiven (Acts 10:43). Jesus’ resurrection guarantees the justification of all who believe (Romans 4:25).

The Bible specifies the content of the gospel message: “Now, brothers and sisters, I want to remind you of the gospel I preached to you, which you received and on which you have taken your stand. By this gospel you are saved, if you hold firmly to the word I preached to you. Otherwise, you have believed in vain. For what I received I passed on to you as of first importance: that Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures, that he was buried, that he was raised on the third day according to the Scriptures, and that he appeared to Cephas, and then to the Twelve. After that, he appeared to more than five hundred of the brothers and sisters at the same time” (1 Corinthians 15:1–6). In this passage, Paul emphasizes the primacy of the gospel—it is of “first importance.” The gospel message contains two historical facts, both supported by Scripture: Christ’s death and His resurrection. Both those facts are bolstered by other proofs: Christ’s death is proved by His burial, and His resurrection is proved by the eyewitnesses.

The gospel of Jesus Christ is the good news that God provided the way for man to be freed from the penalty of sin (John 14:6; Romans 6:23). But not all people will be saved from hell; only those who place their faith in Jesus will go to heaven when they die (Acts 4:12).

The gospel of Jesus Christ is the best news anyone will ever hear, and what a person does with this news will determine where he or she spends eternity. God is calling you to choose life. Call on the name of the Lord and be saved (Romans 10:13).

NOTE: For issues and details related to Heaven and life after death, as well as covering related topics and including different perspectives (including N.T. Wright) - see my separate “Reference Notes on Heaven” (based in part on the book, Heaven, by Randy Alcorn).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

N.T. Wright: What is the gospel, and why is it the "good news"? (2009)
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=cWoezpvlEz4 [Video] (Clip from Paul Ankerberg Show appearance)

Gospel of N.T. Wright / What Paul Preached – from an Interview (email exchange) (2017) http://uncommonlegacy.com/gospel-ntw-interview/

Excerpt:

What is the Gospel?

The message that the crucified and risen Jesus is the world's true Lord, having overcome all other 'powers' through bearing human sin and its consequences. The early church presented this as a story about things that had actually happened, rooted in the story of Israel's scriptures, things that had changed the world (1 Cor 15.3-11)".

1 Corinthians 15: [1] Now I want to make clear for you, brothers and sisters, the gospel that I preached to you, that you received and on which you stand, [2] and by which you are being saved, if you hold firmly to the message I preached to you – unless you believed in vain. [3] For I passed on to you as of first importance what I also received – that Christ died for our sins according to the scriptures, [4] and that he was buried, and that he was raised on the third day according to the scriptures, [5] and that he appeared to Cephas, then to the twelve. [6] Then he appeared to more than five hundred of the brothers and sisters at one time, most of whom are still alive, though some have fallen asleep. [7] Then he appeared to James, then to all the apostles. [8] Last of all, as though to one born at the wrong time, he appeared to me also. [9] For I am the least of the apostles, unworthy to be called an apostle, because I persecuted the church of God. [10] But by the grace of God I am what I am, and his grace to me has not been in vain. In fact, I worked harder than all of them – yet not I, but the grace of God with me. [11] Whether then it was I or they, this is the way we preach and this is the way you believed. [NET Bible]

[See also: What is the "Gospel"? (Summary)]

See also my other separate references resource*:

The Gospel, Salvation and Evangelism

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Basic Gospel Message:

Everyone is saved who believes in Jesus Christ: that He…

	Died on a cross / for the Forgiveness of our Sins [as foretold by OT Prophets in Scripture],
	He was Buried / then was Raised up on the 3rd day (Resurrection) [as per OT Prophets].
	Witnesses after Jesus arose: Apostles ate and drank with Him; over 500 men/women saw.
	Why Preach? – commanded by Jesus; of first/highest importance; and to warn you that Jesus was appointed [Lord] by God to reign over everything and to judge the living and the dead

NOTE: The order of this information does NOT matter. NO gospel presentation is complete without emphasizing Jesus' resurrection and that Jesus was appointed ruler (Lord) and judge over all.

Exact wording is not required as long as the essence of the Gospel is clear and complete.

The above summary of the Gospel of Jesus Christ is based on Paul's and Peter's (via Luke's Book of Acts) explicit statements of the Gospel (see: 1 Cor. 15:1-11, 20-28; Acts 10:34-38, 39-45 re: Peter's presentation of the Gospel to the Gentile Roman Centurion Cornelius). Other similar statements of the Gospel are found in Rom. 1:1-5; Acts 17:16-34 (Paul's speech at Mars Hill, Athens) and to a lesser extent, 2 Tim. 2:8-10.

["Christ" = from Christos, the Greek word for the Hebrew "Messiah" = "Anointed One of God"; i.e., Jesus the Messiah]

Legend:

	Saved / Believes in Jesus:
	Died/Sins/Scriptures
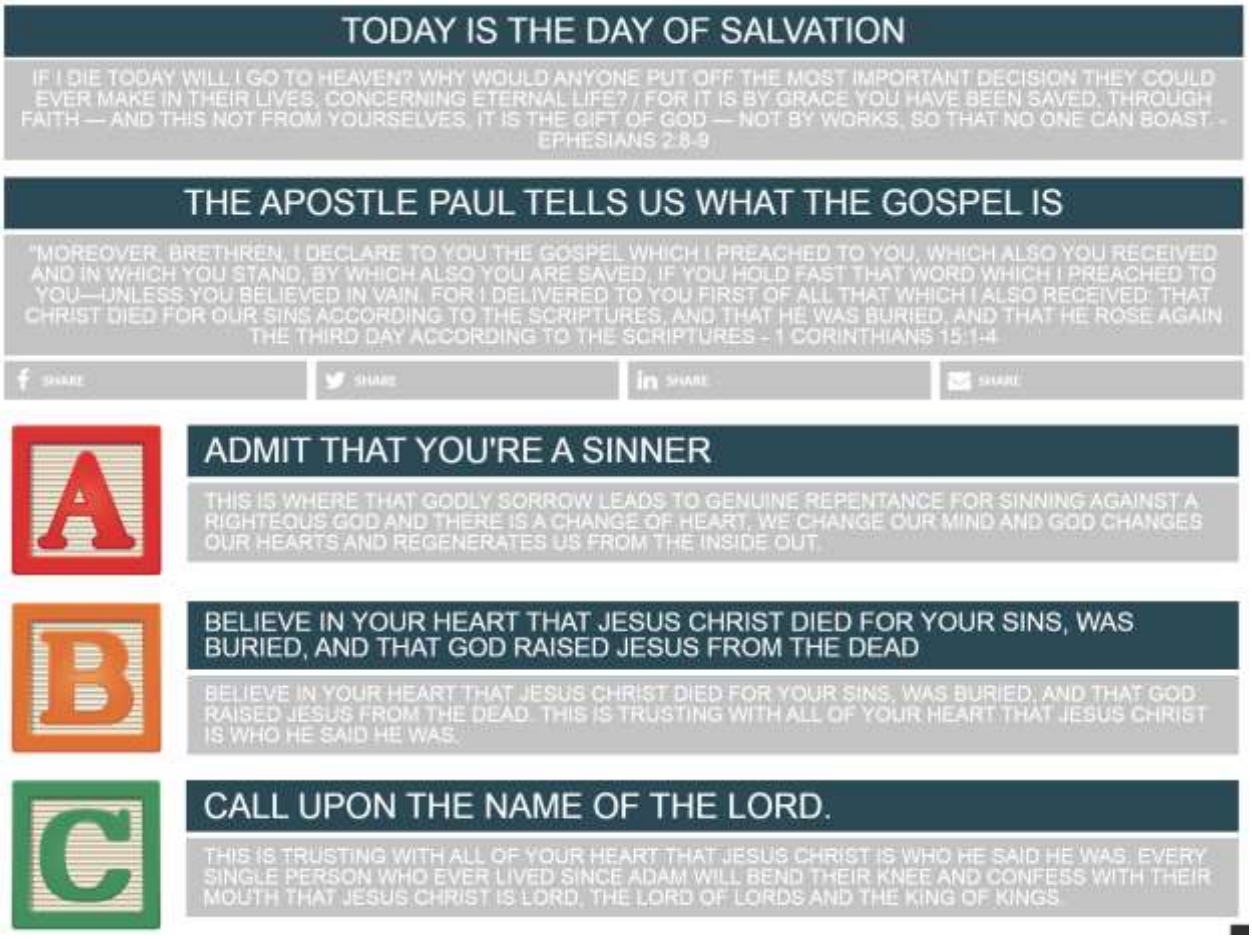
	Buried/Resurrection
	Witnesses
	Why Preach
	Appointed by God / Lord



Submit your comments, suggestions, questions to: gospel@timoninc.com

For details see my other separate references resource*:

The Gospel, Salvation and Evangelism

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The ABC's of Salvation

Source: https://calvarychapelkaneohe.com/abc-of-salvation/

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Plan of Salvation Seen in the Bible

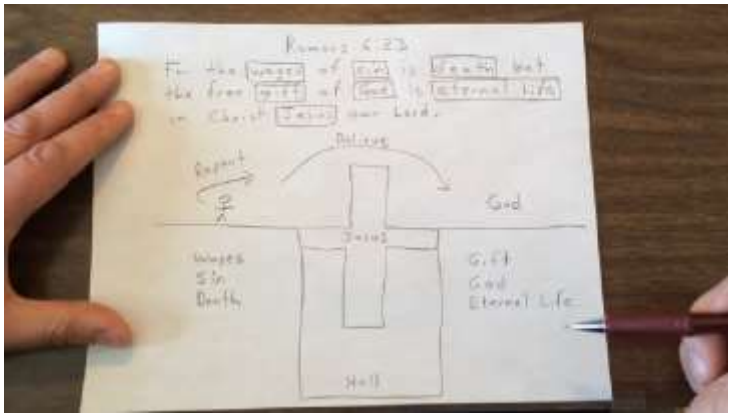
The chiastic literary structure is seen in many Bible books and passages.
Below is a pattern representing the whole Bible.
The Bible is God's invitation through Christ to accept His plan for our redemption.

Earth without form - the abyss (Gen. 1:1) Notice that the first pair items matches the last pair.
Creation (Gen. 1, 2)
The fall from God's image (Gen. 3)
Death begins, a Redeemer is promised (Gen. 3:15)
Call to Abraham - a people chosen (Gen. 12)
God's people in slavery; escape to the wilderness (Ex.)
Restoration of knowledge about God's plan — His law (Ex.)
Christ introduced in the sanctuary system (Lev.)
God's people in captivity for unfaithfulness (Ezek., Dan. and others)
Christ revealed in human flesh (Gospels)
Heaven's greatest gift — redemption through the cross!
Christ revealed through the Holy Spirit (Acts)
Medieval persecution; church in the wilderness (Rev. 12, 13)
Restoration of lost truth — the Reformation (Rev. 12)
Christ seen in the heavenly sanctuary — Judgment message (Rev. 14)
God's people threatened; forbidden to buy or sell; endurance (Rev. 13; 14:12)
Call of the mighty angel; Elijah, Appeal to God's people to come out (Rev. 18)
Resurrection of the righteous to immortal life (1 Thess. 4)
Restoration; incorruptible bodies; like Christ's glorious body (1 Cor. 15)
Earth desolate for 1000 years; Satan in the abyss (Rev. 20)
Creation of new heavens and new earth (Rev. 21)

[Source: http://www.bibleexplained.com/bible-chi.html]

The Bridge Illustration – Simple to Do On A Napkin

http://www.extendgrace.org/PDF/spiritual%20conversation%20tools.pdf



The Bridge to Life – Navigators

https://www.navigators.org/Tools/Evangelism%20Resources/Tools/The%20Bridge%20to%20Life

http://www.ibcberlin.org/blog/wp-content/uploads/bridge.pdf [PDF]

One Verse Gospel Presentation With Bridge Diagram Based On Romans 6:23

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=LAzjWByhBdQ [Video]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

How to Know God Personally

What does it take to begin a relationship with God? Devote yourself to unselfish religious deeds? Become a better person so that God will accept you?

You may be surprised that none of those things will work. But God has made it very clear in the Bible how we can know Him.

The following principles will explain how you can personally begin a relationship with God, right now, through Jesus Christ...

Principle 1:

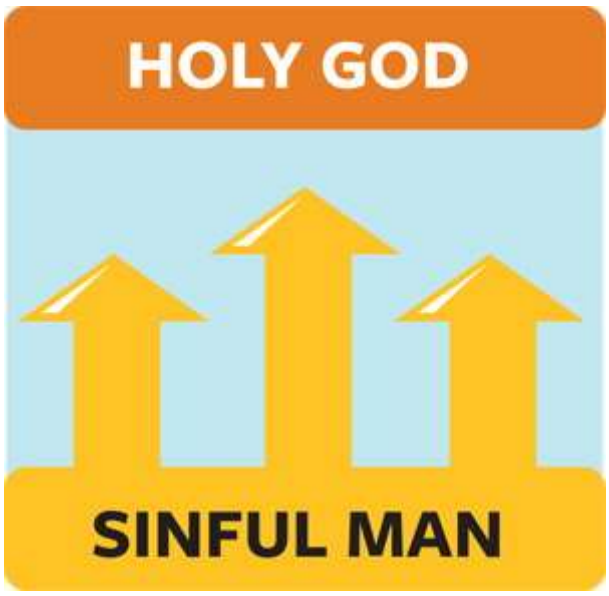
God loves you and offers a wonderful plan for your life.

God's Love
"God so loved the world that He gave His one and only Son, that whoever believes in Him shall not perish, but have eternal life." [1]

God's Plan
[Christ speaking] "I came that they might have life, and might have it abundantly" [that it might be full and meaningful]. [2]

Why is it that most people are not experiencing the abundant life? Because...

Principle 2:



All of us sin and our sin has separated us from God.

We Are Sinful
"All have sinned and fall short of the glory of God." [3]

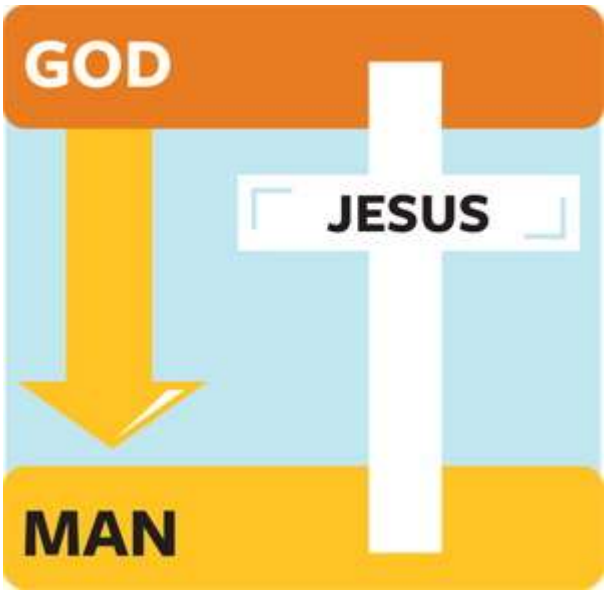
We were created to have fellowship with God; but, because of our stubborn self-will, we chose to go our own independent way, and fellowship with God was broken. This self-will, characterized by an attitude of active rebellion or passive indifference, is evidence of what the Bible calls sin.

We Are Separated
"The wages of sin is death" [spiritual separation from God]. [4]

This diagram illustrates that God is holy and people are sinful. A great gulf separates us. The arrows illustrate that we are continually trying to reach God and the abundant life through our own efforts, such as a good life, philosophy, or religion -- but we inevitably fail.

The third law explains the only way to bridge this gulf...

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Principle 3:

Jesus Christ is God's only provision for our sin. Through Him we can know and experience God's love and plan for our life.

He Died in Our Place
"God demonstrates His own love toward us, in that while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." [5]

He Rose From the Dead
"Christ died for our sins...He was buried...He was raised on the third day, according to the Scriptures...He appeared to Peter, then to the twelve. After that He appeared to more than five hundred..." [6]

He Is the Only Way to God
"Jesus said to him, 'I am the way, and the truth, and the life; no one comes to the Father, but through Me.'" [7]

This diagram illustrates that God has bridged the gulf which separates us from Him by sending His Son, Jesus Christ, to die on the cross in our place to pay the penalty for our sins.

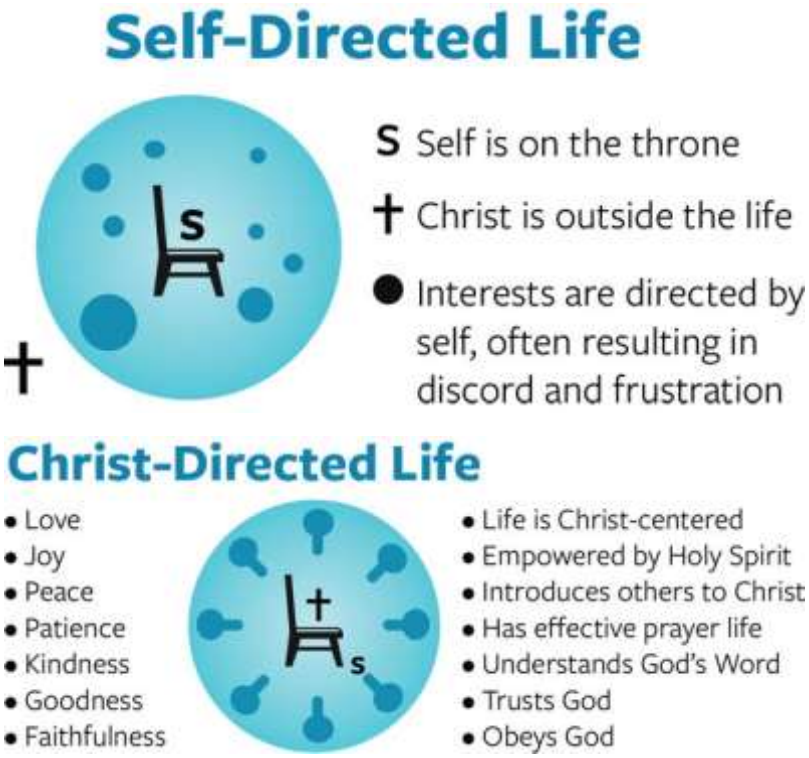
It is not enough just to know these three principles...

Principle 4:

We must individually receive Jesus Christ as Savior and Lord; then we can know and experience God's love and plan for our lives.

We Must Receive Christ
"As many as received Him, to them He gave the right to become children of God, even to those who believe in His name." [8]

We Receive Christ Through Faith
"By grace you have been saved through faith; and that not of yourselves, it is the gift of God; not as a result of works, that no one should boast." [9]



When We Receive Christ, We Experience a New Birth

We Receive Christ by Personal Invitation
[Christ speaking] "Behold, I stand at the door and knock; if any one hears My voice and opens the door, I will come in to him." [10]

Receiving Christ involves turning to God from self (repentance) and trusting Christ to come into our lives to forgive our sins and to make us what He wants us to be. Just to agree intellectually that Jesus Christ is the Son of God and that He died on the cross for your sins is not enough. Nor is it enough to have an emotional experience. You receive Jesus Christ by faith, as an act of the will.

These two circles represent two kinds of lives:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Which circle best describes your life?

Which circle would you like to have represent your life?

The following explains how you can receive Christ:

You can receive Christ right now by faith through prayer

Prayer is talking to God. God knows your heart and is not so concerned with your words as He is with the attitude of your heart. The following is a suggested prayer:

"Lord Jesus, I need You. Thank You for dying on the cross for my sins. I open the door of my life and receive You as my Savior and Lord. Thank You for forgiving my sins and giving me eternal life. Take control of the throne of my life. Make me the kind of person You want me to be."

If this prayer expresses the desire of your heart, then you can pray this prayer right now and Christ will come into your life, as He promised.

Does this prayer express the desire of your heart?

Yes, I just asked Jesus into my life

I may want to ask Jesus into my life, but I have a question I would like answered first

---

(1) John 3:16 (NIV); (2) John 10:10; (3) Romans 3:23; (4) Romans 6:23; (5) Romans 5:8; (6) 1 Corinthians 15:3-6; (7) John 14:6; (8) John 1:12; (9) Ephesians 2:8,9; (10) Revelation 3:20

Adapted from Have You Heard of the Four Spiritual Laws and Would You Like to Know God Personally, by Dr. Bill Bright, co-founder of Campus Crusade for Christ. © Campus Crusade for Christ. All rights reserved.

Download the "Would You Like to Know God Personally?" booklet to share with someone else.

The Four Spiritual Laws (Original Version)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

People Are Sinful

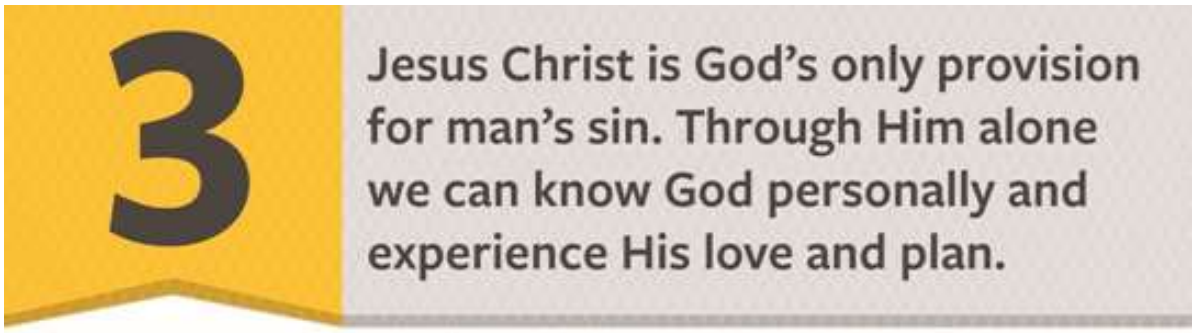
"All have sinned and fall short of the glory of God" (Romans 3:23)

People were created to have fellowship with God; but, because of our stubborn self-will, we chose to go our own independent way and fellowship with God was broken. This self-will, characterized by an attitude of active rebellion or passive indifference, is an evidence of what the Bible calls sin.

People Are Separated

"For the wages of sin is death".
[spiritual separation from God] (Romans 6:23)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Our Condition

This diagram illustrates that God is holy and people are sinful. A great chasm separates the two. The arrows illustrate that we are continually trying to reach God and establish a personal relationship with Him through our own efforts, such as a good life, philosophy, or religion, but we inevitably fail.

The third principle explains the only way to bridge this gulf...

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

He Died In Our Place

"But God demonstrates His own love for us in this: While we were still sinners, Christ died for us." (Romans 5:8)

He Rose From The Dead

"Christ died for our sins... He was buried... He was raised on the third day according to the Scriptures... He appeared to Peter, then to the twelve. After that He appeared to more than five hundred..." (1 Corinthians 15:3-6)

He Is the Only Way to God

"Jesus said to him, 'I am the way, and the truth, and the life; no one comes to the Father, but through me'." (John 14:6)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

God's Response

This diagram illustrates that God has bridged the chasm that separates us from Him by sending His Son, Jesus Christ, to die on the cross in our place to pay the penalty for our sins.

The fourth principle explains it's not enough to just know these truths...

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

4

We must individually receive Jesus Christ as Savior and Lord; then we can know God personally and experience His love and plan.

We Must Receive Christ

"Yet to all who received Him, to those who believed in His name, He gave the right to become children of God." (John 1:12)

We Receive Christ Through Faith

"For it is by grace you have been saved, through faith–and this not from yourselves, it is the gift of God–not by works, so that no one can boast." (Ephesians 2:8-9)

When We Receive Christ, We Experience a New Birth

(Read John 3:1-8)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Our Response

We Receive Christ by Personal Invitation

[Christ speaking] "Here I am! I stand at the door and knock. If anyone hears My voice and opens the door, I will come in and eat with him, and he with Me." (Revelation 3:20)

Receiving Christ involves turning to God from self (repentance) and trusting Christ to come into our lives to forgive us of our sins and to make us what He wants us to be. Just to agree intellectually that Jesus Christ is the Son of God and that He died on the cross for our sins in not enough. Nor is it enough to have an emotional experience. We receive Jesus Christ by faith, as an act of the will.

These two circles represent two kinds of lives.

A life entrusted to Christ. Christ is central and on the throne, and self yields to Christ.

A life without Jesus Christ. Self is central and on the throne and Jesus Christ (†) is on the outside.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Prayer is talking with God

You Can Receive Christ Right Now by Faith Through Prayer

God knows your heart and is not as concerned with your words as He is with the attitude of your heart. The following is a suggested prayer:

> Lord Jesus, I want to know You personally. Thank You for dying on the cross for my sins. I open the door of my life and receive You as my Savior and Lord. Thank You for forgiving me of my sins and giving me eternal life. Make me the kind of person You want me to be.

Does This Prayer Express the Desire of Your Heart?

If it does, pray this prayer right now, and Christ will come into your life, as He promised.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Did You Receive Christ Into Your Life?

According to His promise as recorded in Revelation 3:20, where is Christ right now in relation to you? Christ said that He would come into your life and be your Savior and friend so you can know Him personally. Would He mislead you? On what authority do you know that God has answered your prayer? (The trustworthiness of God Himself and His Word.)

The Bible Promises Eternal Life to All Who Receive Christ

"And this is the testimony: God has given us eternal life, and this life is in His Son. He who has the Son has life; he who does not have the Son of God does not have life. I write these things to you who believe in the name of the Son of God so that you may know that you have eternal life." (1 John 5:11-13)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Prayer is talking with God

Thank God often that Christ is in your life and that He will never leave you (Hebrews 13:5). You can know on the basis of His promise that Christ lives in you and that you have eternal life from the very moment you invite Him in.

Do Not Depend on Feelings

The promise of God's Word, the Bible–not our feelings–is our authority. The Christian lives by faith (trust) in the character of God Himself and His Word. This train diagram illustrates the relationship among fact (God and His Word), faith (our trust in God and His Word), and feeling (the result of our faith and obedience) (John 14:21).

The train will run with or without the caboose. However, it would be useless to attempt to pull the train by the caboose. In the same way, we as Christians do not depend on feelings or emotions, but we place our faith (trust) in the character of God and the promises of His Word.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Fact - Faith - Feeling

Now That You Have Entered Into a Personal Relationship With Christ

The moment you received Christ by faith, as an act of your will, many things happened, including the following:

- Christ came into your life (Revelation 3:20 and Colossians 1:27)
- Your sins were forgiven (Colossians 1:14)
- You became a child of God (John 1:12)
- You received eternal life (John 5:24)
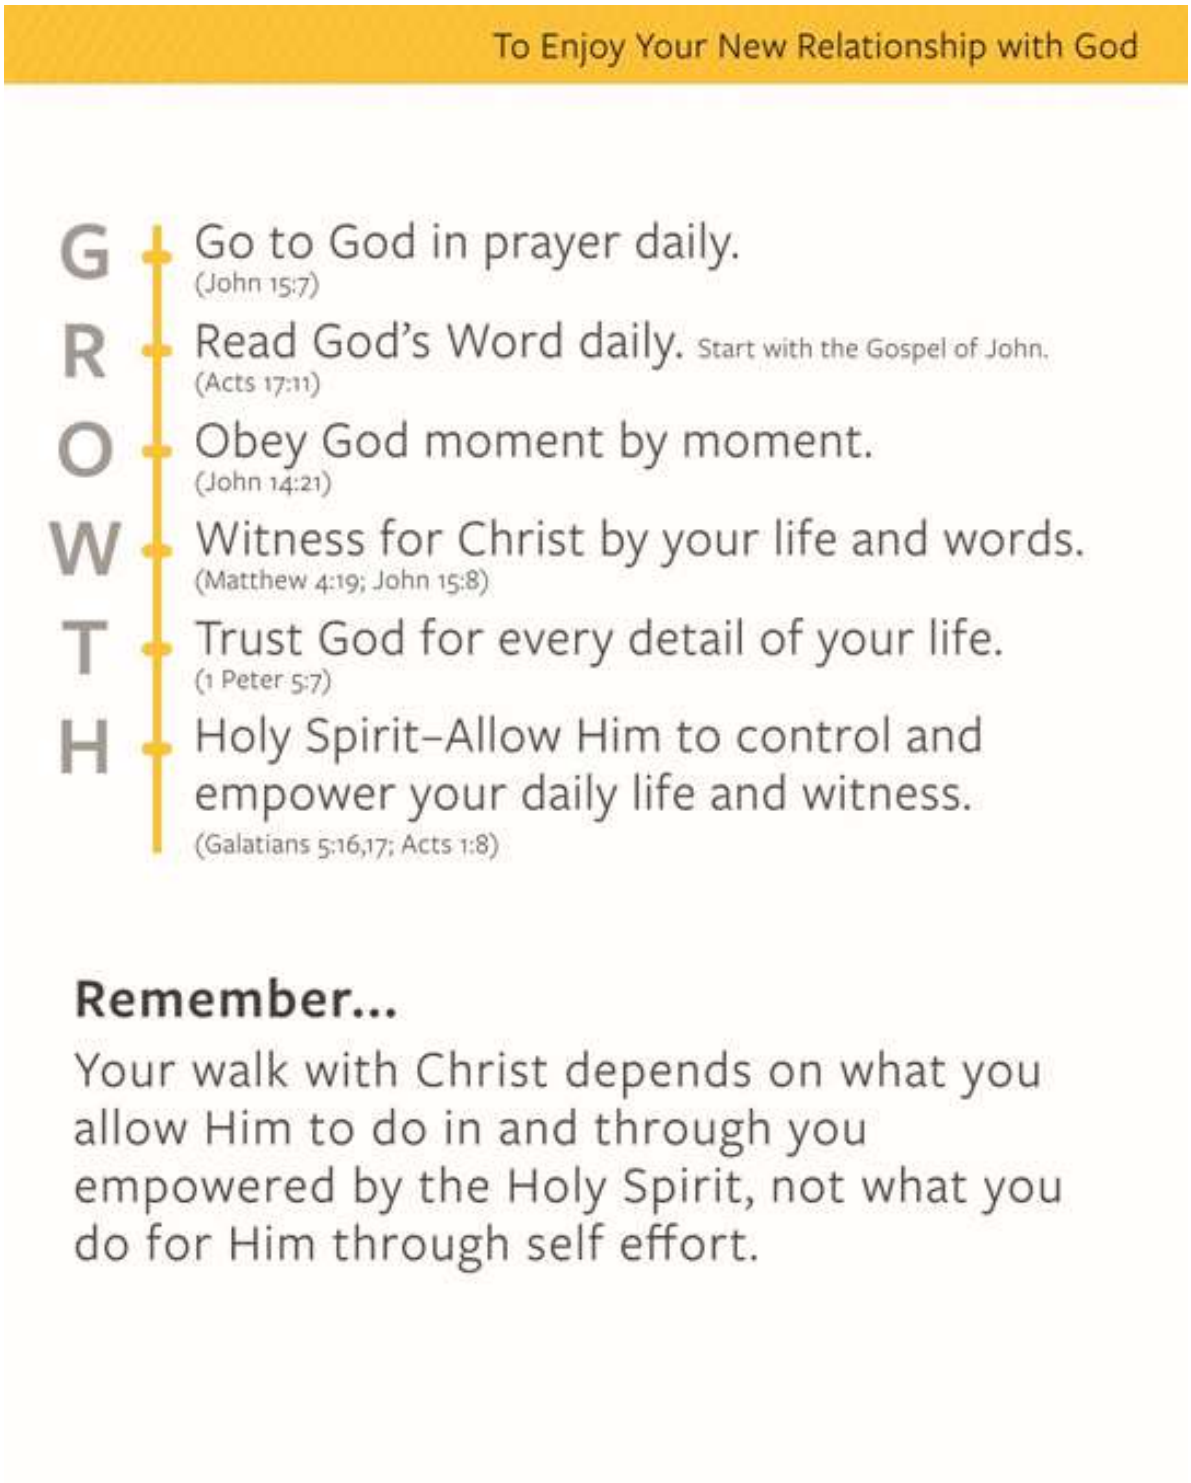
- You began the great adventure for which God created you (John 10:10; 2 Corinthians 5:17 and 1 Thessalonians 5:18)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Can you think of anything more wonderful that could happen to you than entering into a personal relationship with Jesus Christ? Would you like to thank God in prayer right now for what He has done for you? By thanking God, you demonstrate your faith.



To enjoy your new relationship with God...

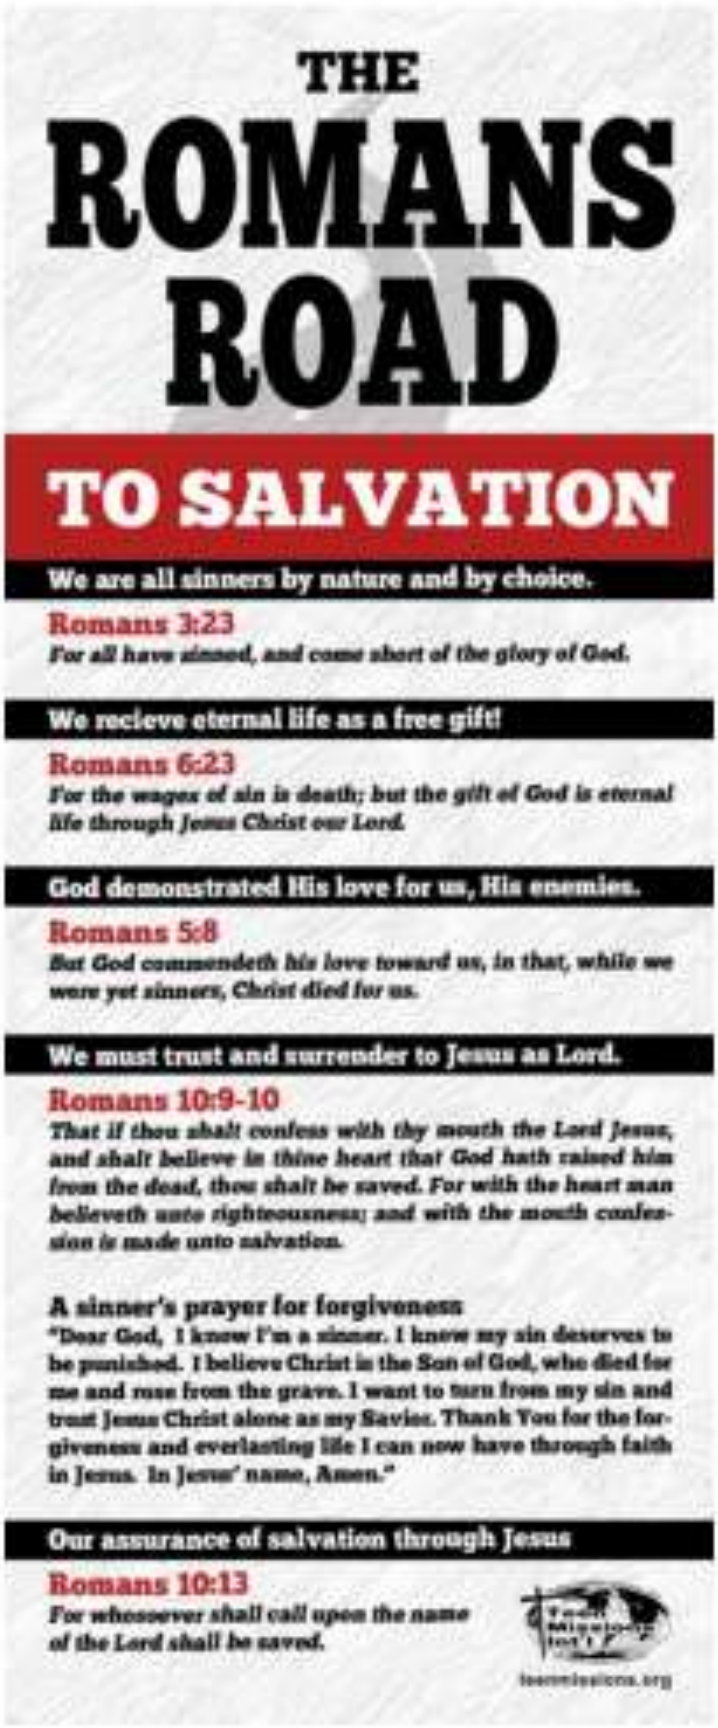
Suggestions For Christian Growth

Spiritual growth results from trusting Jesus Christ. "...The righteous will live by faith" (Galatians 3:11). A life of faith will enable you to trust God increasingly with every detail of your life, and to practice the following:

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

For more information about a relationship with God and growing in your spiritual life, consider visiting:



www.Cru.org
www.EveryPerson.com www.EveryStudent.com
www.StartingWithGod.com

If you found the message in this booklet helpful, please let us know! We'd love to hear your story!

Please email us at Cru@Cru.org

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Romans Road to Salvation (bookmark)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Romans Road

Put your hand over your heart… that small heartbeat is all that stands between you and eternity in heaven or hell! Think about it. If you died tonight, do you know for CERTAIN where you would be spending eternity?

Steps down the Roman Road to Salvation… Read on!

I consider myself a 'good person'… won't that be enough?

Romans 3:23 NKJV – for all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God.

Romans 3:10 NKJV – As it is written: "There is none righteous, no, not one;

Romans 5:12 NKJV – Therefore, just as through one man sin entered the world, and death through sin, and thus death spread to all men, because all sinned–

The creator of the universe is HOLY. God is light, and in him is no darkness at all. 1Jn 1:5 (KJV) He has set laws in place for his creation to obey. What are these laws? They begin with the 10 Commandments. While you might consider yourself 'good' compared to most people, how do you measure up against God's law? Have you ever told the smallest lie? Then you are a liar. "For whoever keeps the whole law and yet stumbles at just one point is guilty of breaking all of it." James 2:10 (NIV) Disobedience to God is sin.

Is sin really THAT big of a deal? If it is… what HOPE is there?

Romans 6:23 NKJV – For the wages of sin [is] death, but the gift of God [is] eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Disobedience to an infinite eternal God deserves an infinite eternal consequence. God shows us His character and his laws in his creation, the world around us. He has also written his laws in our hearts… on our conscience. He has also given us his WORD the Bible. No good judge would let the guilty go free, the criminal go unpunished. Neither can a holy righteous God allow sinful man to go unpunished… but God LOVES man whom he has made in his image and He has provided a way of escape by sending his only son to die in our place.

After what I've done to grieve God… HOW could He willingly die in my place?

Romans 5:8 NKJV – But God demonstrates His own love toward us, in that while we were still sinners, Christ died for us.

For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whoever believes in Him should not perish but have everlasting life. Jn 3:16-NKJV While he died on the cross, he was mocked, spit upon, and cursed. Yet Jesus cried out, "Father forgive them for they know not what they do…" (Lk 23:34-KJV) With such love, Jesus died in your place… knowing every evil act, word, and thought you would commit. What powerful love! He loves you unconditionally even to the point of death when you are at your worst!

HOW can I be saved?

Romans 10:9-10 NKJV – that if you confess with your mouth the Lord Jesus and believe in your heart that God has raised Him from the dead, you will be saved. For with the heart one believes unto righteousness, and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation

You can never be saved by trying to be a good person, nor can you be saved through any amount of 'good works'. Ephesians 2:8,9 says "For by grace have you been saved by faith. And that, not of yourselves. It is the gift of God, not of works. Lest any man should boast. (KJV) You and I can be saved only by confessing our sins and placing our faith in God's son, Jesus Christ who died and paid for our sins on the cross. We must also surrender our life to His lordship… placing him in charge of every area of our life because we now belong to him.

Did God HEAR me? Did He accept me?

Romans 10:13 NKJV – For "whoever calls on the name of the LORD shall be saved."

God promises that "to all who received him, to those who believed in his name, he gave the right to become children of God" (Jn 1:12 NIV) Yes, God does hear and accept ALL who come to put their faith in Him. There is no need to fear death any longer because Jesus BROKE the power of death on the cross with his own blood. The price has been paid in full and it is God's promise to receive all who come to him by placing their faith in Jesus Christ as their Lord and Savior.

What do I do now?

Romans 10:17 NKJV – So then faith [comes] by hearing, and hearing by the word of God.

Your journey as a child of the King of Kings has just begun! You must begin by spending time daily in prayer and in God's Word, the Bible. You must also find fellowship with other believers in a Church that teaches and preaches the Bible. You should also now confess Jesus, your savior before men. Share about your new faith in Christ with your family, coworkers and others whom God has placed on your daily path.

Copyright © 2014, Teen Missions International, Inc. All rights reserved.

New King James Version®, Copyright © 1982, Thomas Nelson, Inc. All rights reserved.
Bible text from the New King James Version® is not to be reproduced in copies or otherwise by any means except as permitted in writing by Thomas Nelson, Inc., Attn: Bible Rights and Permissions, P.O. Box 141000, Nashville, TN 37214-1000.

Scripture quotations marked (NIV) are taken from the Holy Bible, New International Version®, NIV®. Copyright © 1973, 1978, 1984 by Biblica, Inc.™ Used by permission of Zondervan. All rights reserved worldwide. www.zondervan.com

The Romans Road

By David J. Stewart

"The Roman's Road" is popular method of presenting the Gospel using only Scriptures from the Biblical Book of Romans. It is certainly an effective soulwinning tool which every believer should be well familiarized with.

Before I say another word let me WARN YOU that the Roman's Road is a false plan of salvation if you leave out the Gospel, which according to 1st Corinthians 15:1-4 is the DEATH, BURIAL and RESURRECTION of Jesus Christ. I realized recently that many versions of the Roman's Road tract does not even mention the resurrection of Jesus Christ.

The Romans Road should include Romans 10:9-10, "That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved. For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation."

Certainly, a lost sinner can be led to the Lord through many other Books of the Bible, but the Book of Romans is rich in doctrine and a masterpiece of divine literature. Thank God for the wonderful Book of Romans!

I was saved at the age of 13 in Chicago. I remember my first soulwinning experience while going door-to-door soulwinning with other members of our church youth group. An adult women answered the door and after a brief introduction, I asked her, "Do you know for sure if you died this moment that you would go to Heaven?" She replied, "No." I asked her if I could share the Gospel with her and she agreed. I was stumped and didn't know what to say. I froze. So I read to her the Gospel tract in my hand, which was called "The Roman's Road." I couldn't explain anything more to her other than what I was reading.

I remember feeling frustrated and ill-prepared. I recall telling her that she could call my pastor if she had further questions and I pointed out the church's phone number on back of the Gospel tract. I went away sad because I had the opportunity to win someone to Christ but didn't understand it enough myself to explain it. I went home that afternoon and memorized The Roman's Road and was determined to be prepared the next time I went out soulwinning.

Although I was saved at the early age of 13, I didn't receive the blessed assurance of my salvation until I was 20-years old. I lived in constant fear, and cried myself to sleep many nights, wondering if perhaps I didn't have enough faith or maybe I had missed something. I was so afraid of going to Hellfire. Looking back, I now realize that it was my woeful ignorance of the Scriptures and God's plan of salvation that caused me so much emotional fear, worrying and doubt. I was saved, but didn't understand it, and so my mind was filled with many doubts and fears.

As a result of my painful ordeal, I wrote a book called, SALVATION, so I could share with others the wonderful truths which God gave to me to settle the assurance of my salvation. I have never doubted my salvation since. I now fully realize that I am saved, not by my own self-righteousness; but by HIS RIGHTEOUSNESS. It's not a prayer that saves us, but our faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. Salvation is of the Lord. I was focusing on an experience, the words I spoke when I prayed, the degree of my faith, et cetera. I was really worried. Thankfully, those days are forever gone and I know beyond any shadow of a doubt that my name is written in Heaven in the Lamb's Book of Life.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Here is The Romans' Road . . .

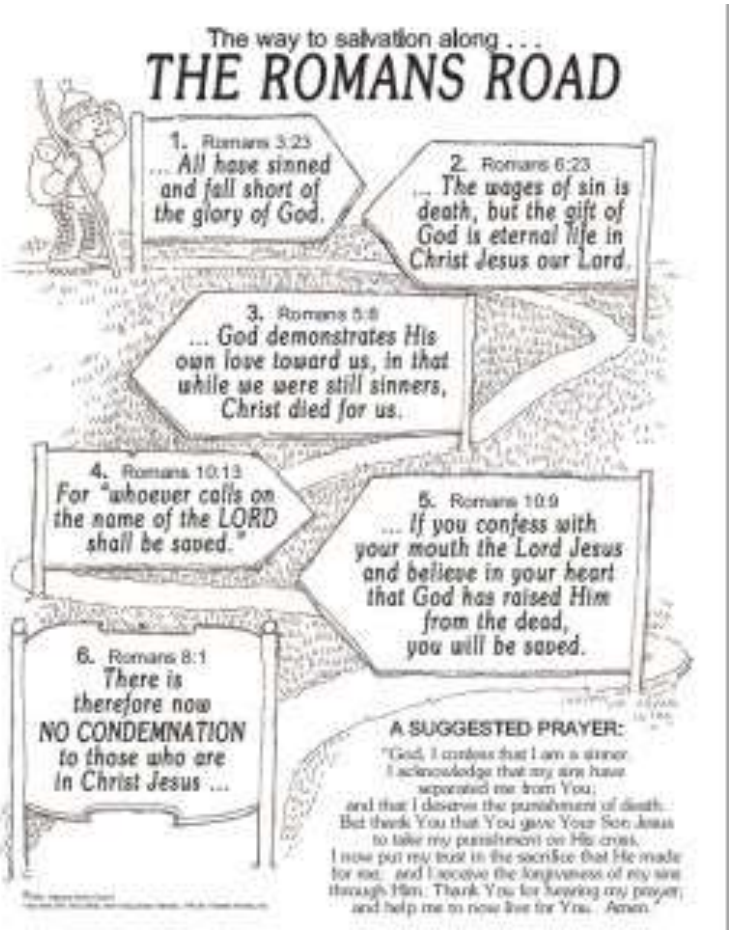
1. All Have Sinned. Romans 3:10 states, "As it is written, There is none righteous, no, not one." And again in Romans 3:23 we are told, "For all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God." Romans 5:12 tells us, "Wherefore, as by one man [Adam] sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned." When Adam sinned, he brought the curse of sin upon all mankind. This is why everyone is born with a nature to sin, it has been passed down since Adam.

2. There is a Penalty for Sin. Romans 6:23 says, "For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." Death is the penalty for sin, Physical Death and a Second Death. Most people confuse spiritual death with the Second Death. We are born spiritually-dead. Adam and Eve died spiritually the moment they sinned, and all of their descendants since have been born spiritually-dead. This is why a person must be born-again spiritually. God's Holy Spirit is that spiritual life. The Bible also speaks of a Second Death, which means being cast into the Lake of Fire forever as punishment for our sins. Just as a person is paid wages for work performed on the job, so does God payback sinners in the Lake of Fire.

3. Jesus Died, Was Buried, And Rose Three Days Later. Christ died for our sins! Romans 5:8, "But God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." What a precious Scripture! God in His love decided to give mankind a chance to escape the wrath of God's judgment. Jesus came and laid down His life for us, knowing just how sinful the human race is. God expressed His love for humanity, paying men's sin debt, knowing that we are so undeserving.

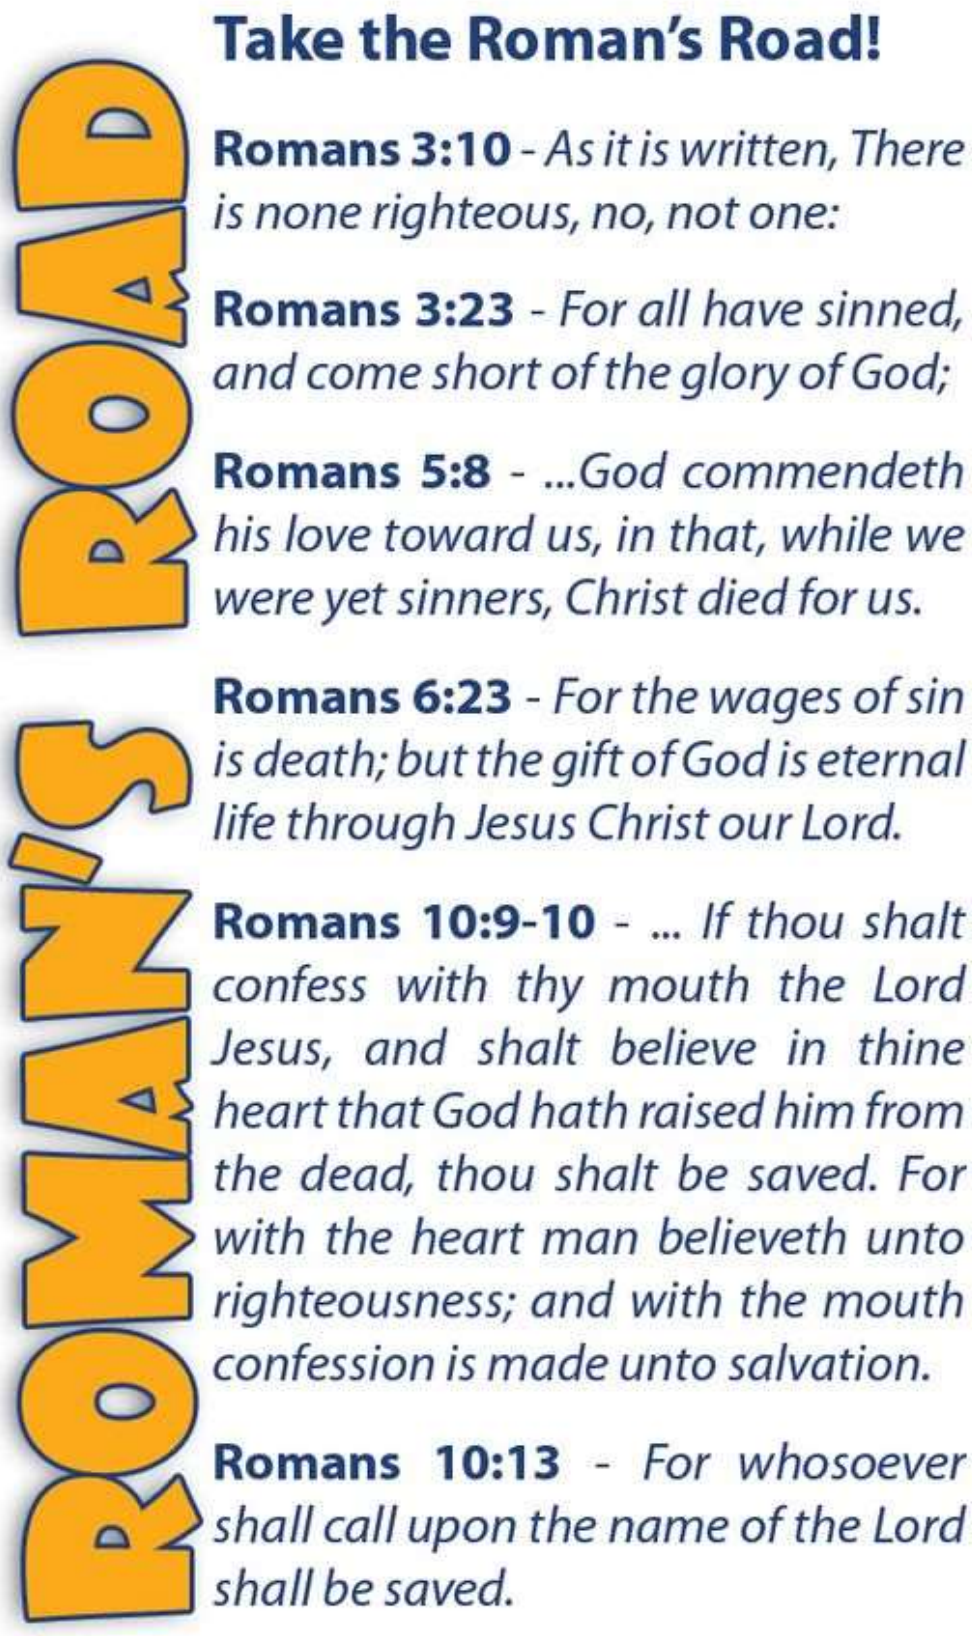
4. Call Upon the Lord Jesus to Be Saved. Romans 10:13 promises, "For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved." The word "call" means "to appeal unto." Lost sinners who come to Jesus for forgiveness of sins, believing that He is the Christ, the Son of God, will be saved. How much faith do you need to be saved? Just enough faith to obey Romans 10:13 and trust upon the Lord Jesus for salvation. Romans 10:9-10, "That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved. For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation."

Jesus DIED, was BURIED and RESURRECTED. This is the Gospel according to 1st Corinthians 15:1-4. If you receive the Gospel as payment for your sins, then you are saved immediately, irrevocably and eternally.



Salvation is the simplest thing in the world, but men can make it so complicated. Some people say that faith in Christ is insufficient to save a lost sinner. They claim that a person must depart from their sinful lifestyle and commit their life to live for God. That is a very complicated requirement for a person who's been living in sin their entire life. Old habits are not easily broken.

The truth is that salvation is a free gift that God offers to humanity. Salvation is receiving; not giving. Notice once again the words of Romans 6:23, "For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." All God requires of us to receive the free gift of eternal life is that we come by way of His only begotten Son, Jesus Christ. Amen!



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Romans Road is a simple presentation of the Scriptures, which soulwinners can use to lead lost sinners to the redeeming Savior. I encourage every believer reading this article to become a soulwinner. If you're already a soulwinner, please keep up the good work! If you've never been saved, then now is the time to believe upon the name of Jesus, the Christ, that your sins will be blotted out forever and you can know that your name is written in Heaven.

[Source: http://www.jesus-is-savior.com/Basics/romans_road.htm]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

How to Know Jesus

In four brief steps, you can come to an understanding of how to find eternal life.

During Billy Graham's landmark 1954 London Crusade, his team developed a simple system to bring people to faith known as "Steps to Peace with God." Since that time, and in various printed and electronic forms, this succinct and clear presentation of how to have a personal relationship with Jesus Christ and experience peace with God has been translated into dozens of languages and shared with millions of people.

"Steps to Peace with God" is natural overflow of the Gospel message Billy Graham has given around the world. It clearly conveys God's love, forgiveness, and plan for each person's life.

STEP 1: GOD'S PURPOSE: PEACE AND LIFE

God loves you and wants you to experience peace and life—abundant and eternal.
The Bible says ...

> "We have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ."
> —Romans 5:1

> "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whoever believes in Him should not perish but have everlasting life."
> —John 3:16

> "I have come that they may have life, and that they may have it more abundantly."
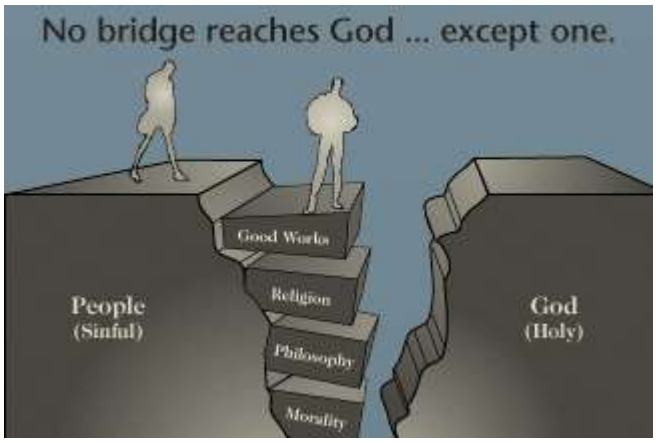
> —John 10:10

Why don't most people have this peace and abundant life that God planned for us to have?

STEP 2: THE PROBLEM: OUR SEPARATION

God created us in His own image to have an abundant life. He did not make us as robots to automatically love and obey Him. God gave us a will and a freedom of choice. We chose to disobey God and go our own willful way. We still make this choice today. This results in separation from God.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



The Bible says ...

> "For all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God."
> —Romans 3:23

> "For the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord."
> —Romans 6:23

People have tried in many ways to bridge this gap between themselves and God ...

The Bible says ...

> "There is a way that seems right to a man, but in the end it leads to death."
> —Proverbs 14:12

> "But your iniquities have separated you from your God; your sins have hidden his face from you, so that he will not hear."
> —Isaiah 59:2

No bridge reaches God ... except one.

STEP 3: GOD'S BRIDGE: THE CROSS

Jesus Christ died on the cross and rose from the grave. He paid the penalty for our sin and bridged the gap between God and people. [continued next page]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Bible says ...

"For there is one God and one mediator between God and men, the man Jesus Christ."
—1 Timothy 2:5

"For Christ died for sins once for all, the righteous for the unrighteous, to bring you to God."
—1 Peter 3:18

"But God demonstrates his own love for us in this: While we were still sinners, Christ died for us."
—Romans 5:8

God has provided the only way. Each person must make a choice.

STEP 4: OUR RESPONSE: RECEIVE CHRIST

We must trust Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior and receive Him by personal invitation.

The Bible says ...

> "Here I am! I stand at the door and knock. If anyone hears my voice and opens the door, I will come in and eat with him, and he with me."
> —Revelation 3:20
>
> "Yet to all who received him, to those who believed in his name, he gave the right to become children of God."
> —John 1:12

"That if you confess with your mouth, 'Jesus is Lord,' and believe in your heart that God raised him from the dead, you will be saved."
—Romans 10:9

Where are you? Will you receive Jesus Christ right now?

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Here is how you can receive Christ:

- Admit your need (I am a sinner).
- Be willing to turn from your sins (repent).
- Believe that Jesus Christ died for you on the cross and rose from the grave.
- Through prayer, invite Jesus Christ to come in and control your life through the Holy Spirit. (Receive Him as Lord and Savior.)

PRAYER

How to Pray:

> Dear Lord Jesus, I know that I am a sinner, and I ask for Your forgiveness. I believe You died for my sins and rose from the dead. I turn from my sins and invite You to come into my heart and life. I want to trust and follow You as my Lord and Savior. In Your Name.
> Amen.

God's Assurance: His Word
If you prayed this prayer, the Bible says ...

> "Everyone who calls on the name of the Lord will be saved. "
> —Romans 10:13

Did you sincerely ask Jesus Christ to come into your life? Where is He right now? What has He given you?

> "For it is by grace you have been saved, through faith—and this not from yourselves, it is the gift of God—not by works, so that no one can boast."
> —Ephesians 2:8–9

Receiving Christ, we are born into God's family through the supernatural work of the Holy Spirit who indwells every believer. This is called regeneration, or the "new birth."

This is just the beginning of a wonderful new life in Christ. To deepen this relationship you should:

- Read your Bible everyday to know Christ better.
- Talk to God in prayer every day.
- Tell others about Christ.
- Worship, fellowship, and serve with other Christians in a church where Christ is preached.
- As Christ's representative in a needy world, demonstrate your new life by your love and concern for others.

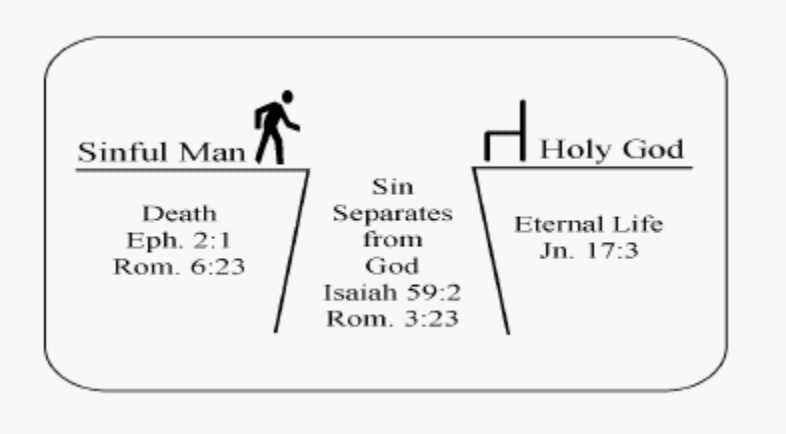
If you are making this commitment to Christ today, please let us know.
We would like to send you Bible study materials to help you grow in your faith.

All Bible verses taken by permission from The Holy Bible, New International Version, copyright ©1973, 1978, 1984 International Bible Society, Colorado Springs, Colo. © Billy Graham Evangelistic Association.

God's Plan of Salvation

> 1 John 5:11-12 And this is the testimony: God has given us eternal life, and this life is in his Son. The one who has the Son has this eternal life; the one who does not have the Son of God does not have this eternal life.

This passage tells us that God has given us eternal life and this life is in His Son, Jesus Christ. In other words, the way to possess eternal life is to possess God's Son. The question is, how can a person have the Son of God?



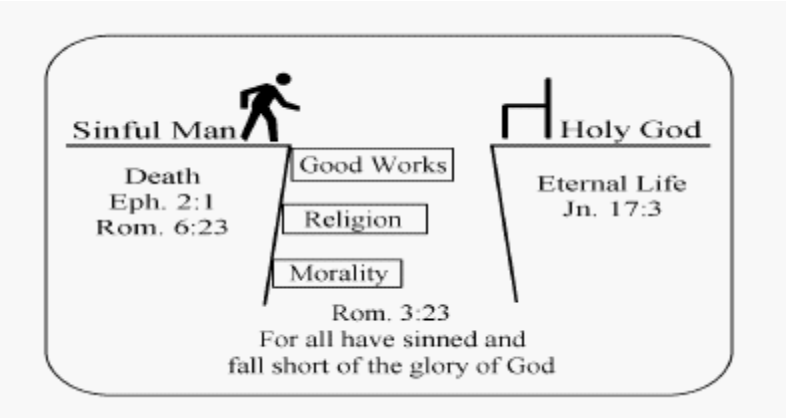
Man's Problem

Separation From God

> Isaiah 59:2 But your sinful acts have alienated you from your God; your sins have caused him to reject you and not listen to your prayers.
>
> Romans 5:8 But God demonstrates his own love for us, in that while we were still sinners, Christ died for us.

According to Romans 5:8, God demonstrated His love for us through the death of His Son. Why did Christ have to die for us? Because Scripture declares all men to be sinful. To "sin" means to miss the mark. The Bible declares "all have sinned and fall short of the glory (the perfect holiness) of God" (Rom. 3:23). In other words, our sin separates us from God who is perfect holiness (righteousness and justice) and God must therefore judge sinful man.

Habakkuk 1:13a You are too just to tolerate evil; you are unable to condone wrongdoing.



The Futility of Our Works

Scripture also teaches that no amount of human goodness, human works, human morality, or religious activity can gain acceptance with God or get anyone into heaven. The moral man, the religious man, and the immoral and non-religious are all in the same boat. They all fall short of God's perfect righteousness. After discussing the immoral man, the moral man, and the religious man in Romans 1:18-3:8, the Apostle Paul declares that both Jews and Greeks are under sin, that "there is no one righteous, not even one" (Rom. 3:9-10). Added to this are the declarations of the following verses of Scripture:

> Ephesians 2:8-9 For by grace you are saved through faith, and this is not of yourselves, it is the gift of God; 9 it is not of works, so that no one can boast.
>
> Titus 3:5-7 he saved us, not by works of righteousness that we have done but on the basis of his mercy, through the washing of the new birth and the renewing of the Holy Spirit, 6 whom he poured out on us in full measure through Jesus Christ our Savior. 7 And so, since we have been justified by his grace, we become heirs with the confident expectation of eternal life.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Romans 4:1-5 What then shall we say that Abraham, our ancestor according to the flesh, has discovered regarding this matter? 2 For if Abraham was declared righteous by the works of the law, he has something to boast about (but not before God). 3 For what does the scripture say? “Abraham believed God, and it was credited to him as righteousness.” 4 Now to the one who works, his pay is not credited due to grace but due to obligation. 5 But to the one who does not work, but believes in the one who declares the ungodly righteous, his faith is credited as righteousness.

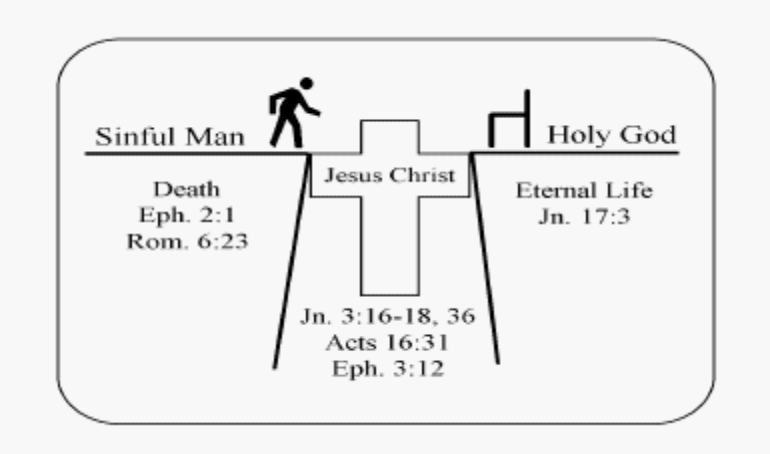
No amount of human goodness is as good as God. God is perfect righteousness. Because of this, Habakkuk 1:13 tells us God cannot have fellowship with anyone who does not have perfect righteousness. In order to be accepted by God, we must be as good as God is. Before God, we all stand naked, helpless, and hopeless in ourselves. No amount of good living will get us to heaven or give us eternal life. What then is the solution?

God’s Solution

God is not only perfect holiness (whose holy character we can never attain to on our own or by our works of righteousness) but He is also perfect love and full of grace and mercy. Because of His love and grace, He has not left us without hope and a solution.

Romans 5:8 But God demonstrates his own love for us, in that while we were still sinners, Christ died for us.

This is the good news of the Bible, the message of the gospel. It’s the message of the gift of God’s own Son who became man (the God-man), lived a sinless life, died on the cross for our sin, and was raised from the grave proving both the fact He is God’s Son and the value of His death for us as our substitute.



Romans 1:4 who was appointed the Son-of-God-in-power according to the Holy Spirit by the resurrection from the dead, Jesus Christ our Lord.

Romans 4:25 He was given over because of our transgressions and was raised for the sake of our justification.

2 Corinthians 5:21 God made the one who knew no sin to be sin for us, so that in him we would become the right-eousness of God.

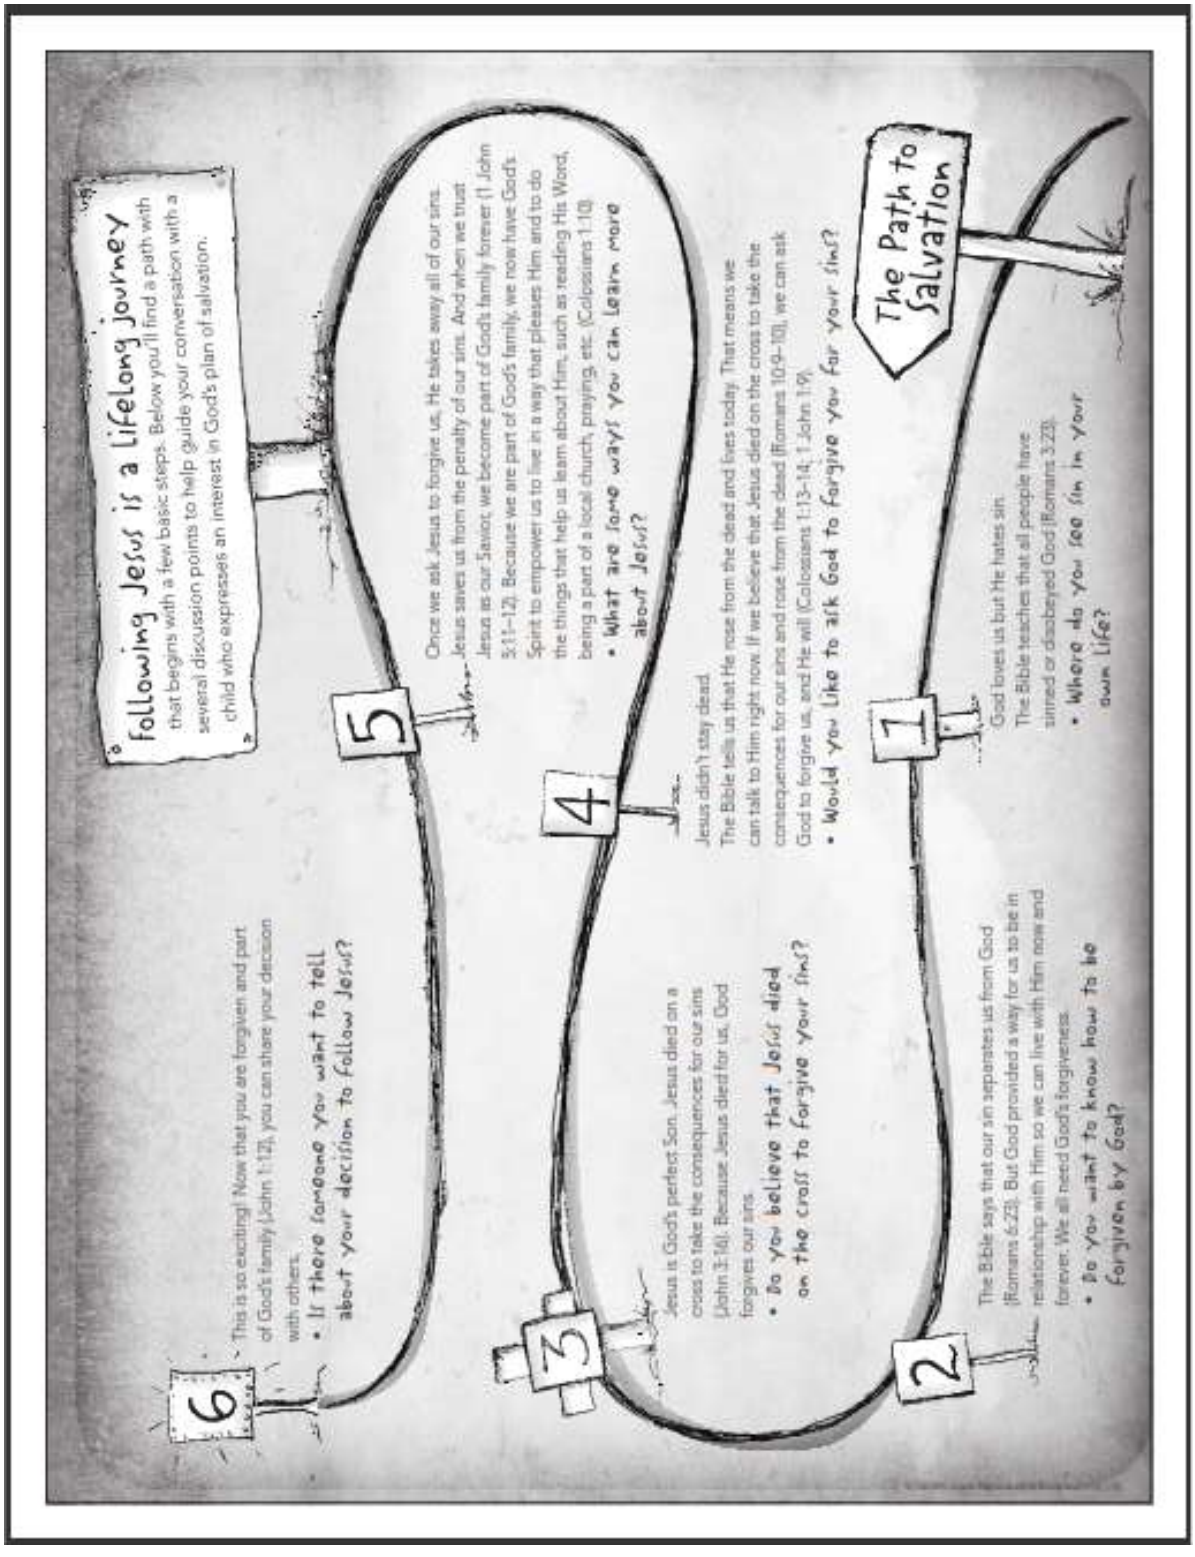
1 Peter 3:18 Because Christ also suffered once for sins, the just for the unjust, to bring you to God, by being put to death in the flesh but by being made alive in the spirit.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

How Do We Receive God's Son?

Because of what Jesus Christ accomplished for us on the cross, the Bible states "He that has the Son has life." We can receive the Son, Jesus Christ, as our Savior by personal faith, by trusting in the person of Christ and His death for our sins.

> John 1:12 But to all who have received him--those who believe in his name--he has given the right to become God's children
>
> John 3:16-18 For this is the way God loved the world: he gave his one and only Son that everyone who believes in him should not perish but have eternal life. 17 For God did not send his Son into the world to condemn the world, but that the world should be saved through him. 18 The one who believes in Him is not condemned. The one who does not believe has been condemned already, because he has not believed in the name of the one and only Son of God.



This means we must each come to God the same way: (1) as a sinner who recognizes his sinfulness, (2) realizes no human works can result in salvation, and (3) relies totally on Christ alone by faith alone for our salvation.

If you would like to receive and trust Christ as your personal Savior, you may want to express your faith in Christ by a simple prayer acknowledging your sinfulness, accepting His forgiveness and putting your faith in Christ for your salvation.

If you have just trusted in Christ, you need to learn about your new life and how to walk with the Lord. May we suggest you start by studying through the ABCs for Christian Growth available online at www.bible.org. This series will take you step-by-step through some basic truths of God's Word and will help you build a solid foundation for your faith in Christ.

[Source: https://bible.org/article/gods-plan-salvation]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: http://www.the-harvest.org/media/71932/TS_2-10_Gods_Salvation_Plan.pdf] [PDF]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Biblical Repentance & Biblical Salvation
http://www.153bigfish.org/Repentance---Salvation.html

Biblical Repentance & Biblical Salvation

If you are willing to turn away from your sins (repent) and to ask Jesus into your heart both as Lord (the one who you obey) and Savior (the one who paid the price for your sin), then pray the sample prayer below. Jesus is not just fire insurance so you don't go to hell, nor is he way to a happy life. But he is the way into heaven and the only way to God the Father and the only way to have the life you were meant to have. He wants to be Lord of your life today, tomorrow, and for Eternity.

The Bible says we have a problem: SIN!

(breaking any of the 10 commandments)

All have sinned and fall short of the glory of God. Romans 3:23

Not a single person on earth is always good and never sins. Ecclesiastes 7:20

All of us have broken 10 commandments but God has a solution: JESUS!!

God so loved the world that He gave His one and only Son, that whoever believes in Him (Jesus) shall not perish, but have eternal life. John 3:16

Jesus' invitation to you.

Come to Me, all who are weary and heavy-laden, and I will give you rest. Matthew 11:28

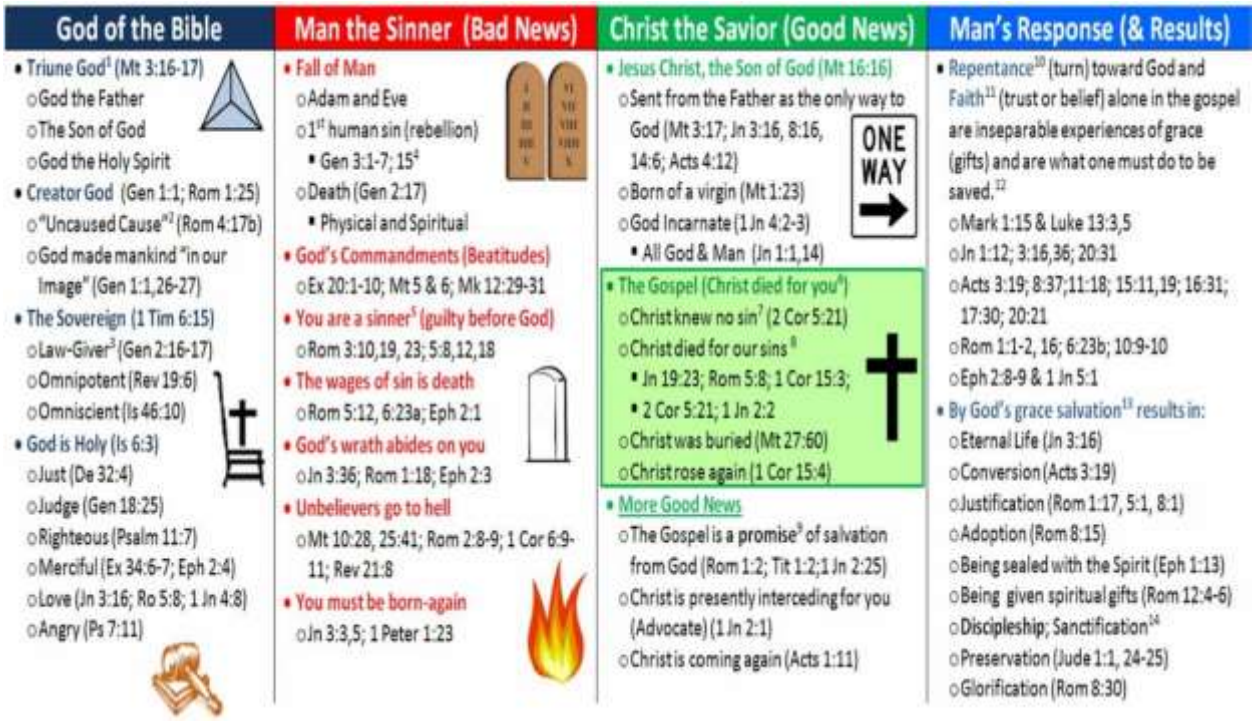
You've been invited, but you must receive Jesus into your heart.

As many as received Him, to them He gave the right to become children of God, even to those who believe in His name John 1:12

And you must receive Jesus into your heart by faith.

By grace you have been saved through faith; and that not of yourselves, it is the gift of God... Ephesians 2:8-9

Dear Lord Jesus, I believe you are God's only son, and that you died on the cross for my sins. I admit I am a sinner and I repent of my sins. With your help I will live my life for you. I open the door of my life, and receive You into my heart as my Savior and Lord. Thank You for forgiving my sins, dying on the cross for me, and giving me a new life now and for Eternity. Amen



Therefore, if anyone is in Christ, he is a new creature; the old things passed away; behold, new things have come. 2 Corinthians 5:17

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

God's Plan of Salvation – Berean Baptist Church

http://www.bbcfnc.org/goodnews.php

Excerpt:

Notes:

1. GOD'S PLAN OF SALVATION BEGAN IN ETERNITY PAST (EPH 1:4; REV 13:8) AND ULTIMATELY WILL END WITH THE CREATION OF A NEW HEAVEN/ NEW EARTH (2 PET 3:7-13; REV 21:1-4).
2. THE TRIUNE GOD OF THE BIBLE IS THE SELF-EXISTENT, "I AM THAT I AM" ETERNAL GOD WHO IS THE ULTIMATE CAUSE BEHIND ALL THAT EXISTS (EX 3:14; JN 1:3; ROM 4:17B; COL 1:16-17).
3. AS THE SOVEREIGN OF THE UNIVERSE, GOD HAS THE RIGHT TO GIVE HIS CREATURES ANY COMMANDMENT OR LAW HE SEES FIT; THE FIRST WAS GIVEN TO ADAM AND EVE.
4. GIVEN TO EVE, THIS IS THE EARLIEST RECORD OF GOD PROMISING A COMING SAVIOR; THE SEED OF A WOMAN WOULD ULTIMATELY BE JESUS BORN OF A VIRGIN, IN BETHLEHEM (IS 7:14; MIC 5:2; MT 2:1).
5. A FAILURE TO ACKNOWLEDGE ONE'S GUILT BEFORE GOD DURING A GOSPEL PRESENTATION MAY BE AN INDICATION THAT THE SPIRIT OF GOD IS NOT WORKING IN THE HEART OF A POTENTIAL CONVERT (JN 16:8).
6. AS OUR (ALL BELIEVERS) REPRESENTATIVE, JESUS—THE LAMB OF GOD—PAID OUR PENALTY AND SUFFERED DEATH IN OUR PLACE TO REMOVE THE WRATH OF GOD, THEREBY RANSOMING, REDEEMING, AND RECONCILING HUMANITY TO GOD; THIS IS THE DOCTRINE OF PENAL (VICARIOUS) SUBSTITUTIONARY ATONEMENT (MK 10:45; JN 1:29; ROM 4:25, 5:19; 2 COR 5:18-19; TIT 2:14; HEB 9:26; 1 JN 4:10).
7. CHRIST DIED FOR "OUR" SINS NOT HIS OWN SINS; CHRIST'S LIFE WAS PERFECT; HE KEPT THE LAW PERFECTLY BECAUSE NO MAN OR WOMAN COULD KEEP THE LAW. (2 COR 5:21; HEB 4:15)
8. ON THE CROSS, CHRIST SHED HIS PRECIOUS BLOOD AND GAVE HIS LIFE TO SATISFY THE WRATH OF GOD, REMIT SINS, AND PURCHASE THE CHURCH (ACTS 20:28; HEB 9:22; 1 PET 1:19; 1 JN 2:2).
9. THE GOSPEL IS A PROMISE FROM GOD OF FORGIVENESS OF SINS AND ETERNAL LIFE TO ANYONE WHO REPENTS AND BELIEVES THE GOSPEL; ONE DOES NOT HAVE TO ASK FOR THIS GIFT (EPH 2:8-9). IT HAS ALREADY BEEN PROMISED TO ALL WHO WILL BELIEVE ON HIS NAME (JN 1:12, 3:16; ROM 10:9; EPH 1:7, 2:8; TIT 1:2).
10. ALL SINNERS ARE RESPONSIBLE TO REPENT OF ANY AND ALL SIN THAT IS KEEPING THEM FROM TURNING TO GOD (REPENTANCE) AND PLACING AUTHENTIC FAITH IN THE PERSON AND WORK OF JESUS CHRIST (THE GOSPEL); IN THESSALONICA, THE BELIEVERS TURNED FROM IDOLS TO SERVE THE ONE TRUE AND LIVING GOD (1 THESS 1:9). IN JERUSALEM, THE JEWS NEEDED TO REPENT OF THEIR FAILURE TO RECOGNIZE JESUS AS THE MESSIAH (ACTS 2:38). SUBSEQUENTLY THE CHRISTIAN LIFE WILL BE CHARACTERIZED BY REPENTANCE FROM SIN (ACTS 3:9, ROM 2:4, 1 JNHN 3:19; REV 3:19).
11. FAITH IN CHRIST IS SYNONYMOUS WITH AUTHENTIC BELIEF, DEPENDENCE, TRUST IN, AND RELIANCE UPON HIM. IT IS MUCH MORE THAN INTELLECTUAL ASSENT; IT INCLUDES FOLLOWSHIP (JN 2:23-24; JAM 2:19).
12. THIS IS THE ANSWER TO THE "WHAT MUST I DO TO BE SAVED?" QUESTION, AND IT CAN NEVER BE UNDERSTOOD TO BE MORE THAN ONE EXPECTATION OR STEP (ACTS 16:30-31).
13. SALVATION IS PAST, PRESENT, AND FUTURE IN ITS TENSES; BELIEVERS HAVE BEEN SAVED FROM THE PENALTY OF SIN, ARE BEING SAVED FROM THE POWER OF SIN, AND WILL BE SAVED FROM THE PRESENCE OF SIN IN THE NEW HEAVEN AND NEW EARTH. AFTER ONE IS SAVED, WATER BAPTISM IS OFTEN THE FIRST PUBLIC PROFESSION OF FAITH IN CHRIST (MT 28:20; ACTS 2:38-41, 8:12, 36-38, 16:31-33).
14. THE CONCEPT OF BEING SAVED WITHOUT BEING A FOLLOWER OF THE LORD JESUS IS FOREIGN TO THE NT (MT 16:24, 28:19-20; LK 14:27; JN 10:27; 2 COR 5:17). SANCTIFICATION IS BOTH INSTANTANTEOUS (1 COR 6:11) AND PROGRESSIVE RESULTING IN BEING CONFORMED TO THE IMAGE OF CHRIST (RO 8:29) BY GOD'S GRACE AND IN THE POWER OF THE HOLY SPIRIT (JN 17:19; 1 THESS 4:3; TIT 2:11-12; 1 PET 1:15; 1 JN 2:3).

BY: SEAN HARRIS 5/21/12 www.bereanbaptistchurch.org

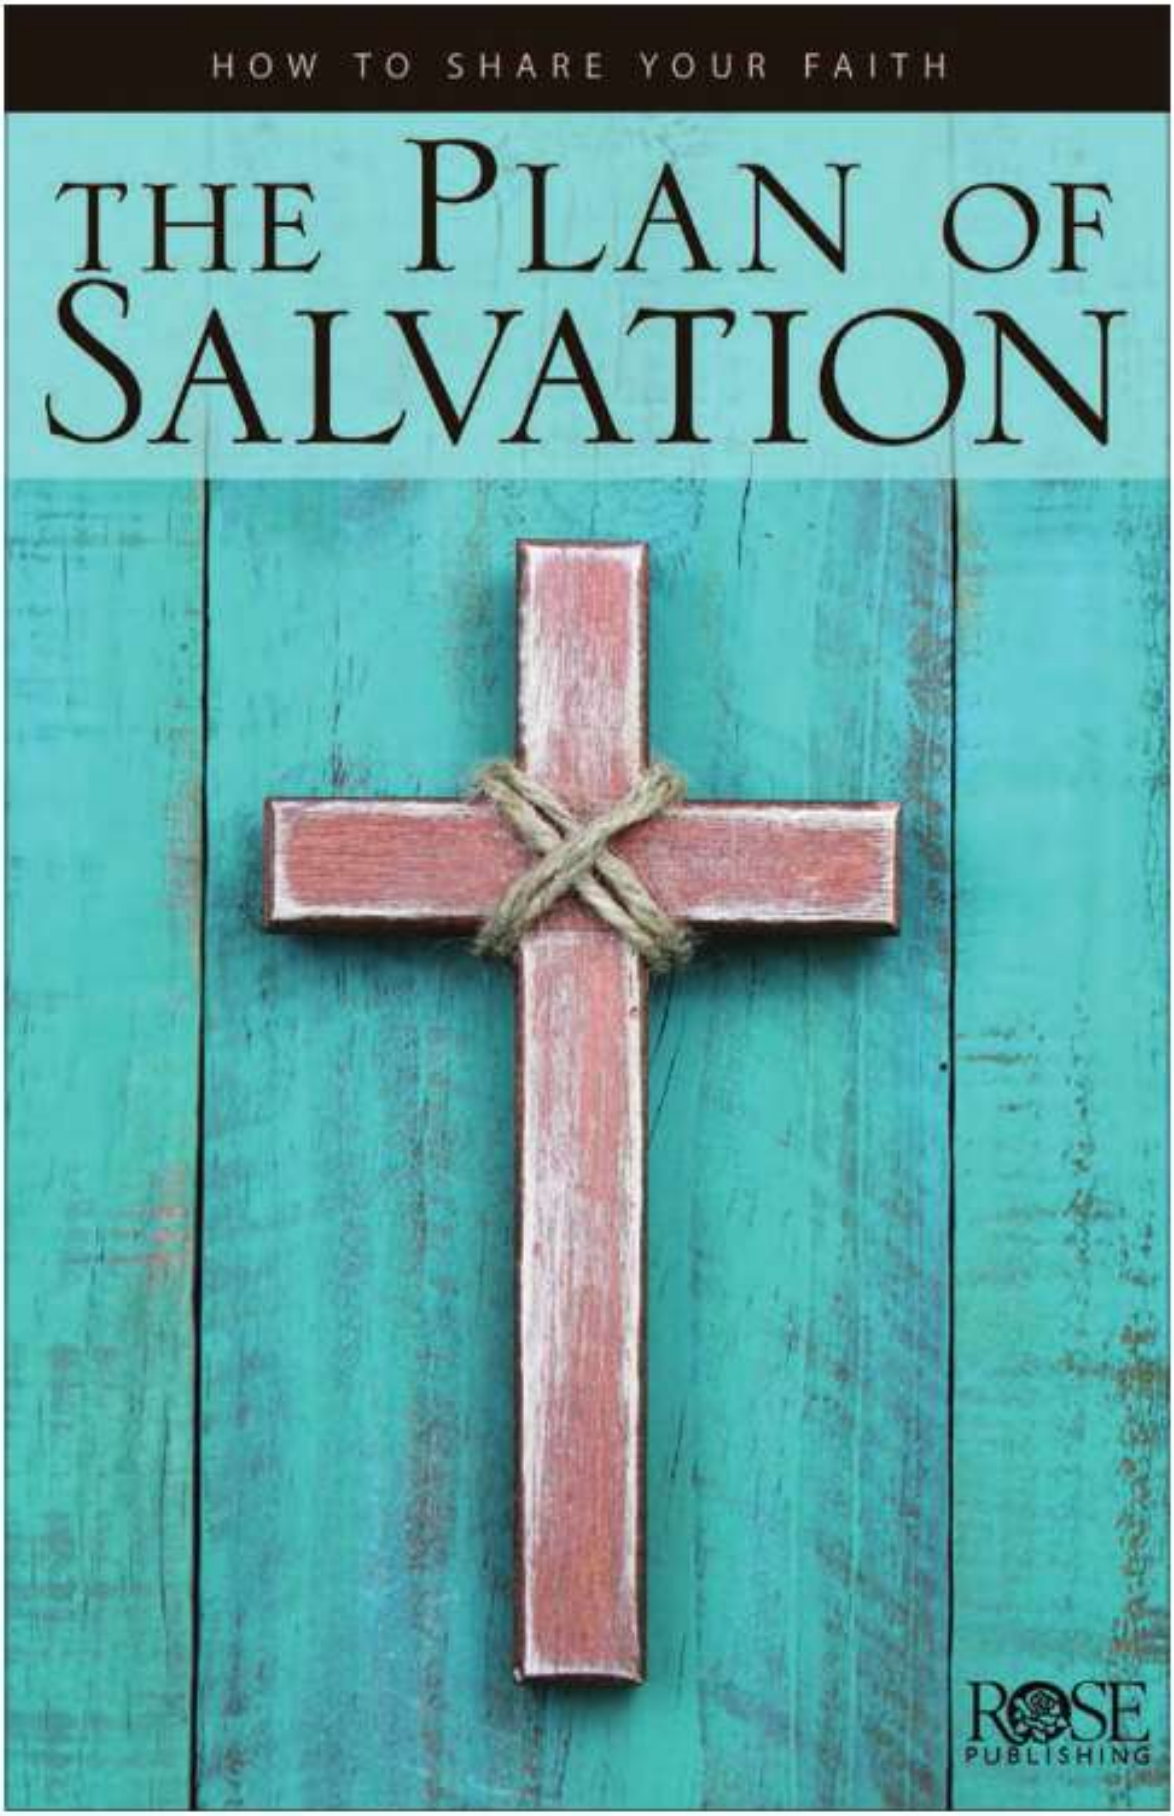
Link to PDF of above Chart and Notes: http://www.bbcfnc.org/goodnews.php [PDF]

Web page has downloadable PDFs for what it means to be born-again and about baptism.

Links also has videos discussing What is the Gospel, the Plan of Salvation, How to Present/Share

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Prayer of Salvation (Example prayer to God):



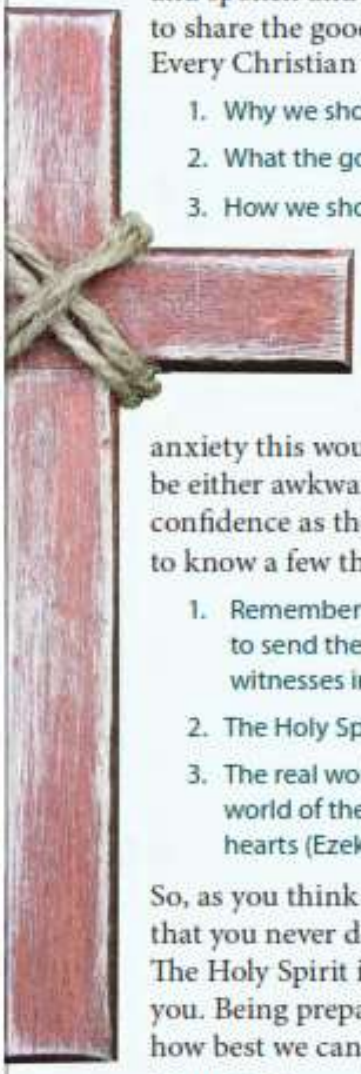
"Father,
I know that I have broken your laws and my sins have separated me from you. I am truly sorry, and now I want to turn away from my past sinful life toward you. Please forgive me, and help me avoid sinning again. I believe that your son, Jesus Christ died for my sins, was resurrected from the dead, is alive, and hears my prayer. I invite Jesus to become the Lord of my life, to rule and reign in my heart from this day forward. Please send your Holy Spirit to help me obey You, and to do Your will for the rest of my life.
In Jesus' name I pray, Amen."

Prayer of Salvation - I've Prayed It; Now What?
If you've prayed this prayer of salvation with true conviction and heart, you are now a follower of Jesus. This is a fact, whether or not you feel any different. Religious systems may have led you to believe that you should feel something - a warm glow, a tingle, or some other mystical experience. The fact is, you may, or you may not. If you have prayed the prayer of salvation and meant it, you are now a follower of Jesus. The Bible tells us that your eternal salvation is secure! "that if you confess with your mouth the Lord Jesus and believe in your heart that God has raised Him from the dead, you will be saved" (Romans 10:9).

[Source: http://www.allaboutgod.com/prayer-of-salvation.htm]

You Are Complete in Jesus Christ? (Christian Biblical Church of God)
[Advocates OT observances, including keeping the Sabbath (Saturday) and Festivals]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

THE PLAN OF SALVATION

Jesus called his disciples to spread the good news throughout the world. Ever since then, Christ's followers have lived the good news and spoken and written about it. Today, the need and responsibility to share the good news is not any less serious, urgent, and present. Every Christian should know:

1. Why we should share the good news
2. What the good news is
3. How we should go about sharing the good news

Knocking on a stranger's door to share the gospel is not for everyone. Some people are simply too terrified with that idea, others do not feel that their lives are worthy of being Christ's ambassadors, and others cannot deal with the anxiety this would cause. Sharing the good news does not have to be either awkward or cause a high level of anxiety. To give believers confidence as they share the good news, it's helpful for all believers to know a few things:

1. Remember that the Holy Spirit is in charge. Jesus promised to send the Holy Spirit to all believers so that we may be his witnesses in the world (Acts 1:7–8).
2. The Holy Spirit will give you the right words (Luke 12:11–12).
3. The real work belongs to the Holy Spirit, who convicts the world of the need of a savior (John 16:8), changes people's hearts (Ezek. 36:27), and transforms people (John 3:5–6).

So, as you think about the call to share the good news, remember that you never do it alone and the timing is not yours, but God's. The Holy Spirit is with you to remind you, empower you, and guide you. Being prepared with the content of what we should say and how best we can say it is, however, always a good idea.

Many believers feel that they cannot share the gospel effectively unless their own lives are perfect. How would you reply to this issue? Do we have to wait until our lives are perfect to represent Christ?

ROSE PUBLISHING

www.rose-publishing.com © 2015 Rose Publishing, Inc. Bible Reference Made Easy Permission granted to the original purchaser to print out. It is illegal to sell, email, replicate, duplicate, or post any part of this on the Internet.
More than 70 Bible reference charts and PowerPoints® available. Download catalog and sign up for Rose Bible e-Charts at www.rose-publishing.com
Title: The Plan of Salvation Pamphlet Product Code: 4070X ISBN-13: 9781628622591

WHY WE SHARE THE GOOD NEWS: CALLED TO MAKE DISCIPLES

We share the gospel because we are moved by the conviction that God called us to do just that: make disciples.

1. Sharing the good news is an intimate part of what being followers of Christ means (Matt. 28:19–20).
2. Despite any nervousness or anxiety we might feel, the evangelistic experience is full of blessings.
3. The world is in need of the good news we have available.

Jesus has called us to become lifelong learners. Think about a child. When a child is born, she doesn't know how to speak, feed herself, get dressed—nothing. All she knows is that she feels hungry, cold, and tired and wants to have her basic needs met. She begins to learn by observing and copying. This begins lifelong learning by imitation. That's a disciple! See? We already know how to be a disciple: We all are disciples: we started out by being followers, copiers of the behaviors we saw growing up. But in terms of sharing the good news, we need to learn to be a more specific kind of disciple: a disciple of Jesus.

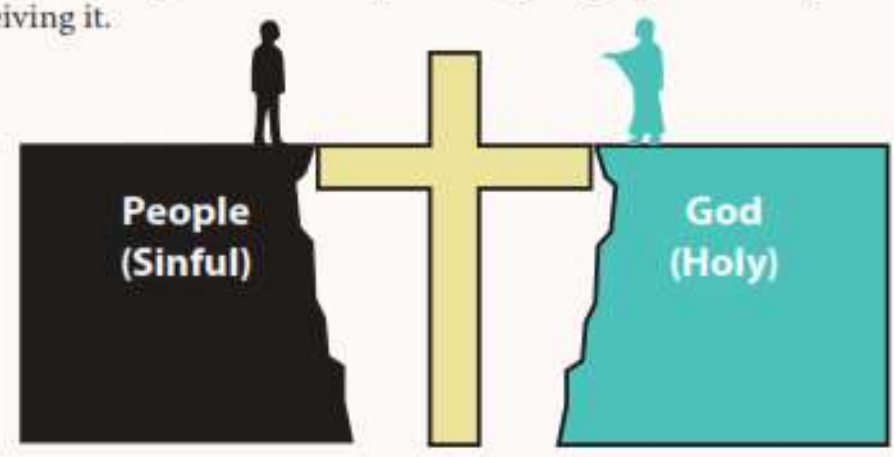
BEING DISCIPLES OF JESUS

Being disciples of Jesus means:

1. We are imitators of Jesus (Eph. 5:1; 1 Thess. 1:6).
2. We learn to see people and the world as Jesus would —with love and compassion (2 Cor. 5:16).
3. We recognize that Jesus is King of our lives and the world (Phil. 2:9–11) and belong to him alone (1 Cor. 6:19–20; Rom. 14:8).
4. We seek to live out the fruit of the Spirit in our lives: "love, joy, peace, forbearance [patience], kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, and self-control (Gal. 5:22–23).
5. We become God's instruments, spokespeople, and envoys to:
   - Testify of his goodness and love;
   - To warn of the dangers of a life away from God and of impending judgment;
   - And to do justice, act with love, and show mercy in a world that is desperate for justice, love, and mercy.

How are you being a disciple of Jesus in your life?

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



WHAT'S THE GOOD NEWS? THE BASICS OF EVANGELISM

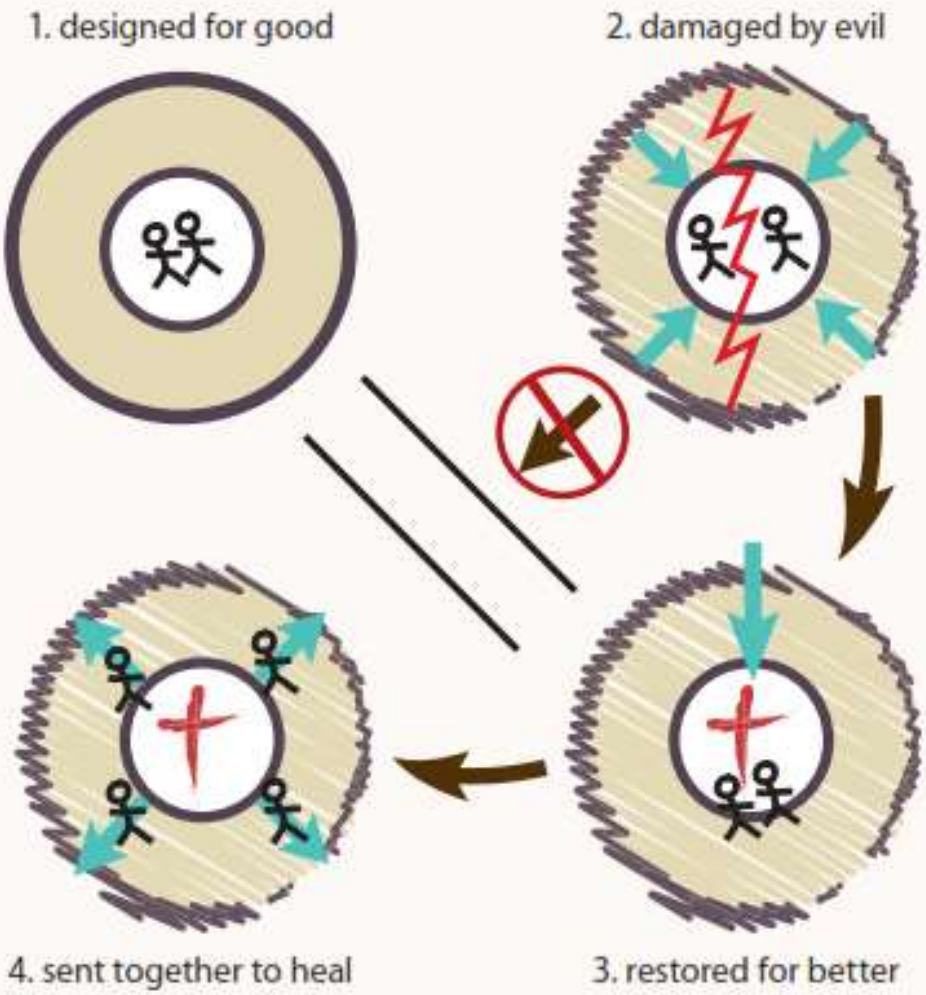
Some people accept the good news after hearing the stories of the conversion experiences of believers. Others find God's transforming love through friendships or by listening to or reading about other people's lives. Others discover it alone while reading Scripture or after going through an unexpected experience. Although the Holy Spirit draws people and opens their eyes in many different ways, the basics of the message are the same:

1. God loves people.
2. People are bound to sin and cannot get free on their own.
3. God sent Jesus to free us from sin and death.
4. Because of God's grace—not our works—we can be assured of our salvation.
5. Becoming disciples of Jesus begins with repentance of sin and a request for forgiveness.
6. As disciples of Jesus, we grow and mature in a deeper relationship with God throughout our lives.

John 15:8: "This is to my Father's glory, that you bear much fruit, showing yourselves to be my disciples."

These are some helpful tools that organize the basic message and are intended to help both the one presenting the gospel and the person receiving it.

This drawing illustrates how Jesus' work on the cross allows sinful people to begin a relationship with God and be rescued from eternal death.



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

THE FOUR CIRCLES illustration, by James Choung, shows God's original intention for his creation. (1) God made humans to be and do good. However, (2) sin affected our ability to do good. We became self-centered and enslaved to sin. Our sin breaks our relationship with God, nature, and one another.

(3) Thankfully, Jesus came to restore humanity. His death on the cross liberated us from the slavery of sin and death.

(4) Being free from sin, believers can become ambassadors of God. God is sending believers to heal relationships by preaching the good news of Jesus to a lost humanity.

Humans cannot move from circle 2 to 4 because sin has opened a gap that separates God from humans. Only through Christ is it possible to reach God.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

THE GOOD NEWS: A LOVING GOD

If we want to share our faith with others, we are best served if we know the details of what we want to share.

GOD LOVES US

Our story began with love and the Garden of Eden. God created all things out of love. The Garden of Eden was a place filled with goodness. Humanity was meant to enjoy God's company in this wonderful place!

OUR REBELLION

But things went wrong. Instead of enjoying and being satisfied with being made in God's image, we wanted to be like God. Rather than enjoying the freedom of love in relationship with God and each other, we became enslaved to evil, sin, rebellion, and death. We turned our backs to God and became enemies of God (Rom. 5:10). In short, the problem was and is rebellion—or sin. We became slaves to sin, evil, and death.

Romans 3:23: "For all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God."

LOVE VS. REBELLION

God's Love	Human Rebellion
• God is love (1 John 4:8). • God's love endures forever (Ps. 100:5). • God cares for his creation (Ps. 145:9, 15–16). • God loves the world (John 3:16–18). • God loved humanity and sent Jesus to bring salvation (Rom. 3:22–24; 5:5–8; Eph. 2:1–10; 1 John 4:9–10). • God loves the church (Eph. 5:25). • God's love allows humans to love (1 John 4:7–12). • God's love is so great that he is ready to forgive the rebellious (Jer. 33:8).	• People do evil (Judg. 2:11). • People are disobedient (Rom. 5:19). • People transgress (Eph. 2:1). • People sin (Lev. 26:40). • People are lawless (Titus 2:14; 1 John 3:4). • People trespass (Rom. 5:15–17). • People are ungodly (2 Tim. 2:18). • People suffer death (Rom. 6:23).

Can you write about a time when you experienced God's love?

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

DIVINE HELP

We all sense that something has gone wrong with the world. This is not the way it was supposed to be! So we look for solutions, and we attempt to solve our basic problem: we try good behavior, social and personal reforms and changes, the guidance of gurus or wise people. But we are unable to find a permanent solution of our own. God has solved our problem. Romans 6:23: "For the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord."

And we realize that to be freed from the bondage that enslaves us, we need help from someone greater than us. We must come to realize that our efforts are futile. Only God can make us free and give us life. Titus 3:5: "He saved us, not because of righteous things we had done, but because of his mercy."

GOD'S SURPRISING SOLUTION

God's solution begins with Jesus becoming human. We can be sure that Jesus experienced the whole range of human life: he suffered, he cried, he rejoiced, he laughed, he was tempted, he became angry, he was disappointed. Hebrews 2:14–18: "Since the children have flesh and blood, he too shared in their humanity. . . . Because he himself suffered when he was tempted, he is able to help those who are being tempted."

A common reason for not accepting God—or his existence—is the mistaken belief that God remains indifferent to human suffering. However, when we consider that God became fully human, then this reason is no longer valid. God cares. In fact, God cares so much that "he gave his one and only Son, that whoever believes in him shall not perish but have eternal life" (John 3:16).

The way Jesus solved humanity's main issue can be seen in at least three different but complementary ways:

1. He lived a life worthy of imitation: he taught us what being a human means, and how to live in the way God wants us to live.
2. He defeated the powers of evil and death: he made us free to serve and love!
3. He substituted himself for us: he died and rose again, and through his death and resurrection, God forgave us completely.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

THE GOOD NEWS: WHAT JESUS DID, IS DOING, AND WILL DO

The good news that Jesus and the apostles proclaimed is that in and through Christ, God has:

1. Established his kingship,
2. Defeated the powers of evil,
3. Forgiven and justified people from their sins, and
4. Begun the ultimate goal of restoring the entire creation.

THE KING HAS ARRIVED!

God is the righteous King. In the human experience, kingship, the right to rule, is a forceful imposition: the strongest rule. Many Jews at the time of Jesus seemed to have expected the Messiah to be the sort of king who would use force and violence to get rid of the Romans and all the other enemies of the Jews. But the kingdom of God is unlike any kingdom on earth. In and through Jesus' life and death, God showed that the kingdom of God was not gained through the use of the sword or any other type of violence. It came through the humble obedience and loving sacrifice of his Son, Jesus.

Jesus showed that the kingdom of God is the manifestation of God's power to free his people from sin and death and to defeat the forces of evil.

In short—and this is part of the good news we should proclaim—the Lord reigns! The kingdom of God is near, and God is the righteous and loving King. Also part of the good news, there is nothing we have to do to deserve this gift. It is God's amazing grace that saves us. We are saved by grace alone. And that is wonderful news!

As you look at your own life, where do you see evidence of God starting his restoration work in your heart and mind?

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

VICTORIOUS OVER EVIL

The Gospels describe the beginning of Jesus' public ministry with his time in the wilderness. There, Satan tempted him, but Jesus came out victorious over Satan and evil. Then, Jesus proclaimed, "The time has come.... The kingdom of God has come near. Repent and believe the good news!" (Mark 1:15).

Jesus' victory in the wilderness was the first glimpse of what was to come. On the cross, Jesus obtained a decisive victory over evil. Did you hear that? Evil has been defeated! The resurrection confirmed Jesus' triumph over the powers of evil and death. The resurrection also restated the fact that God's kingdom has arrived. And, finally, the resurrection confirmed the beginning of a new reality, new possibilities: a new birth for people and for the entire creation and reconciliation with God.

Evil is thrashing, kicking in complete rage, knowing that its final days are coming, trying to destroy and ruin all it can before its final day arrives.

In short—and this too is part of the good news we should proclaim—evil and death are defeated.

Sometimes, when watching the news, for example, it is easy to believe that evil is winning. But as mere humans, we cannot see the future. How should we pray for people and situations that seem to be mired in evil? What person or situation can you bring to God in prayer today?

EVIL

Let's make something clear, evil is a parasite: it doesn't have life on its own; it draws its life and strength from goodness. But, like all parasites, once it gets in and attaches to its host, it can deplete all vitality from it. Evil effectively "rules" over its host. When humanity rebelled against God in the Garden of Eden, they opened the door to evil, to the parasite Evil, and it attached itself firmly to the goodness of creation. It has grown strong and arrogant by sucking out the life of all that is good and desirable in God's good creation. And it goes so far as to claim to be the true owner and ruler of the world! However, God is the true King of all. God is the only one worthy of ruling. Evil is an impostor whose temporary insane rule is waning.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

NEW POSSIBILITIES: FORGIVENESS AND RECONCILIATION

Evil, the parasite, corrupts and distorts: that which was meant to be good becomes distorted or corrupted and used for ill. And evil affected humanity, starting in the Garden. Sin corrupted and distorted the creation that God declared good.

God created us to relate to him, to each other, and to the rest of the good creation he made. Sin, however, spoiled those relationships. Instead of loving and worshiping God, we became God's enemies, and we love to create our own idols to worship. Instead of relating to each other in love and understanding, we would rather dominate and subjugate others, becoming enemies of each other. Instead of loving God's good creation, we abuse it and destroy it.

Sin distorts and corrupts humanity's efforts to be good or do God's will. Sin enslaves humans, making them think, feel, act, and speak in distorted ways. What seems good to us is, in fact, a distortion of what real good is. God grieves that what he intended for good, we turn into evil; what he intended for beauty and pleasure, we turn into ugliness and suffering. And God, as the rightful King of creation, will judge evil and evildoers.

Fortunately, Jesus' death on the cross—his defeat of the power of sin—accomplished several important things:

1. Freed people from the slavery of sin.
2. Removed the weight of sin by satisfying God's requirements of the law.
3. Reconciled people with God.
4. Saved people from condemnation in the final judgment when Jesus returns.

Tell your story of becoming a follower of Jesus, why you felt it was important, what it means to you today. Do it verbally, in writing, or as an art project. Share it with at least one person.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

MAKING ALL THINGS NEW

One of the things that makes the good news so very good is the knowledge that God is committed to make all things new: "Then I saw 'a new heaven and a new earth'" (Rev. 21:1).

When we think about the good news, if we arrive at the cross and stop there, the good news is incomplete. Jesus rose from the dead. That's a huge part of the good news! And what's so good about that is that he is just the beginning of what God wants to do.

Jesus' resurrection began a new era, an era of transformation. God is transforming and renewing people and, through them, his creation. Although his new creation will not be fully realized until Jesus returns at the end of times, the work of Jesus' followers offers powerful glimpses of what that future, glorious, transformed new creation will be like.

And this transformation begins with people. Those who hear the good news and accept and confess Jesus as Lord and Savior experience a transformation, a new birth. This new birth is an anticipation of the final resurrection, a taste of the renewal to come for all of creation. Believers are born again (John 3:5–8).

Is just accepting Jesus really all that is needed? Well, yes and no. Yes, we must accept God's free offer of salvation and restoration. But no, it is not that simple. While accepting Jesus' invitation to be reborn, to be renewed, is a major step, it is only the first step—it is just the beginning. Jesus also invites us into a new relationship: a renewed friendship with God, with those around us—our neighbors. It is here that we become disciples of Jesus. And being a disciple of Jesus is a lifelong project!

What's good to know is that we don't have to work on our project on our own:

"His divine power has given us everything we need for life and godliness through our knowledge of him who called us by his own glory and goodness" (2 Pet. 1:3).

"He who began a good work in you will carry it on to completion until the day of Christ Jesus" (Phil. 1:6).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

PRESENTING THE GOOD NEWS

Presenting the good news is a calling, and every Christian is called to do it. It is also a spiritual discipline. That means it is not something we just know how to do. We must learn how to do it. It might not be easy. It might be intimidating. For some, it might even be terrifying. And for everyone, it is demanding.

However, sharing the good news essentially is a simple thing. And it begins not at a stranger's door or on a bus or out in a park. It begins in your room at home, in your Sunday school classroom, in your small group. It begins with silence before God, not with words to people. Yes, it's true! It begins with:

1. Bible study—The more we know God, about God, and God's plans for humanity, the better we can share what God has done for us.
2. Prayer—The closer we are to God, the more of life we can share with others. An abundant prayer life will overflow our hearts and minds.

Although evangelism can be practiced anywhere and at any time, here we'll focus on personal evangelism, or personal witnessing. In personal witnessing, we must remember that we are just the messengers. It is the most important message anyone could ever encounter, but we need to remember to let the message be and stay at the center of our words and actions. And let the God who created the universe be the one in charge of transforming and recreating people. In presenting the gospel, we assume some responsibilities and God takes the others. It is a partnership that God invites us to be a part of.

APPLICATION

Make a list of people to keep in prayer. Ask the Lord to open their eyes at the right time.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

ROMANS ROAD TO SALVATION

As you prepare to be a witness, there are several things you should keep in mind:

1. Remember that you are bringing good news!
2. Love people and accept them where they are. If your words don't arise from love, then the good news will get muddled with controversies and arguments. God's love heals and transforms.
3. Be mindful of the movement of the Holy Spirit. God is active in and engaged with the world. Be sensitive to the Spirit's promptings and opening of doors to demonstrate God's love to the world.
4. Remember the good news:

We need help!

- "For all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God" (Rom. 3:23).
- "For the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord" (Rom. 6:23).

God provided a solution. And he did it out of love:

- "God demonstrates his own love for us in this: While we were still sinners, Christ died for us" (Rom. 5:8).

God extends an invitation to accept his solution for our problem. It is an invitation to allow ourselves to be transformed and be part of a new life, a life in the kingdom of God. And it all begins with a confession:

- "If you declare with your mouth, 'Jesus is Lord,' and believe in your heart that God raised him from the dead, you will be saved" (Rom. 10:9).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Becoming Instruments of God and God's Promises

Areas to Grow as Instruments of God	Promises of the Holy Spirit
Living and speaking in a way that shows God's power and goodness in our own lives when we have been in need.	Will empower us to be effective witnesses of the good news in word and action (Luke 12:11–12; Acts 1:7–8)
Praying	Will bring our prayers before God (Rom. 8:26–27)
Studying the Bible	Will reveal God to us and remind us of Jesus' teachings (1 Cor. 2:10–12; Eph. 3:3–5; John 16:12–13)
Living a life of obedience	Will empower us for a faithful life (Rom. 8:3–6; 15:13)
Being witnesses of God's love and grace	Will enable us to confess in our hearts that Jesus is Lord (1 Cor. 12:3) and enable us to keep God's laws (Ezek. 36:27)
Living in a way that reflects God's love, mercy, holiness, and power	Will make us free, leading us to salvation (2 Cor. 3:17), will transform us into the image of Christ (2 Cor. 3:18), and will mark us as God's children (2 Cor. 1:21–22)

ROSE PUBLISHING

© 2015 Bristol Works, Inc.
Rose Publishing, Inc.
4733 Torrance Blvd., #259
Torrance, CA 90503 U.S.A.
email: info@rose-publishing.com
www.rose-publishing.com

Rose Publishing has more than 100 Bible reference pamphlets.

All scripture quotations, unless otherwise indicated, are taken from the Holy Bible, New International Version®, NIV®. Copyright ©1973, 1978, 1984, 2011 by Biblica, Inc.™ Used by permission of Zondervan. All rights reserved worldwide.

All rights reserved. It is illegal to copy, transmit electronically, or reproduce this pamphlet in whole or in part in any form. 0106155CG

Printed in the USA. May not be posted or transmitted on the Internet.

Register your pamphlet at www.rose-publishing.com/register

Author: Benjamin Galan, MTS, ThM, Professor of Old Testament Hebrew and Literature.

RELIGION/Biblical Studies/General

ISBN-13: 978-162862-259-1

Stock #4070X The Plan of Salvation pamphlet
Retailers: Package of 5 pamphlets = Stock #4071X (ISBN-13: 978-162862-262-1)

The Gospel Preached by Paul and Peter (summarized):

Everyone is saved who believes in Jesus Christ: that He…

	Died on a cross / for the Forgiveness of our Sins [as foretold by OT Prophets in Scripture],
	He was Buried / then was Raised up on the 3rd day (Resurrection) [as per OT Prophets].
	Witnesses after Jesus arose: Apostles ate and drank with Him; over 500 men/women saw.
	Why Preach? – commanded by Jesus; of first/highest importance; and to warn you that Jesus was appointed by God to reign over everything and to judge the living and the dead.

NOTE: The order of this information does NOT matter. NO gospel presentation is complete without emphasizing Jesus' resurrection and that Jesus was appointed ruler (Lord) and judge over all.

Exact wording is not required as long as the essence of the Gospel is clear and complete.

The above summary of the Gospel of Jesus Christ is based on Paul's and Peter's (via Luke's Book of Acts) explicit statements of the Gospel (see: 1 Cor. 15:1-11, 20-28; Acts 10:34-38, 39-45 re: Peter's presentation of the Gospel to the Gentile Roman Centurion Cornelius). Other similar statements of the Gospel are found in Rom. 1:1-5; Acts 17:16-34 (Paul's speech at Mars Hill, Athens) and to a lesser extent, 2 Tim. 2:8-10.

["Christ" = from Christos, the Greek word for the Hebrew "Messiah" = "Anointed One of God"; i.e., Jesus the Messiah]

Legend:

	Saved / Believes in Jesus:
	Died/Sins/Scriptures
	Buried/Resurrection
	Witnesses
	Why Preach
	Appointed by God

Notes:

Order does not matter.
No gospel presentation is complete without emphasizing the resurrection of Jesus and that Jesus was appointed ruler (Lord) and judge over all.

Exact wording is not required as long as the essence of the gospel is clear and complete.

Submit your comments, suggestions, questions to: gospel@timoninc.com

For more details related to the above chart regarding what is the Gospel that Paul and Peter preached…

See my other separate related reference resources*:

The Gospel, Salvation and Evangelism

For information on the writings of Paul and the New Perspectives on Paul, including Romans and related topics, plus various N.T. Wright (and other scholars) related resources, see "Reference Notes on Paul and Romans (and Galatians plus Ephesians)"

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Evangelism

Evangelism Explosion

Website: http://evangelismexplosion.org

Steps to Life: http://evangelismexplosion.org/resources/steps-to-life/

Answers to Tough Questions:

How do you respond when someone asks about your faith in God, in Christ, your belief in Heaven and Hell, in the Bible? Do you become defensive, do you fight, go into combat mode, become intimidated? None of these extremes are necessary nor are they appropriate.

When presented with an opportunity to witness to the truth you can provide a reasonable answer for what you believe. “And do not fear their intimidation, and do not be troubled, but sanctify Christ as Lord in your hearts, always being ready to make a defense to everyone who asks you to give an account for the hope that is in you, yet with gentleness and reverence (1 Peter 3:14-15). Also Paul says to Timothy: “Be diligent to present yourself approved to God as a workman who does not need to be ashamed, accurately handling the word of truth” (2 Timothy 2:15).

Here is a list of the questions with access to a few sample answers.
http://evangelismexplosion.org/resources/answers-to-tough-questions/

Online (and Downloadable) Tracts

Our Gospel tracts are offered here for your convenience. Feel free to print them out and use them as you share the Gospel with family, friends, and other acquaintances. The information in our foreign Gospel tracts is exactly the same, page-by-page, as our English tract. By simply using your English tract, you guide them as they use their foreign tract. You can also take a look at our web presentation of the Gospel called Steps to Life.

We encourage you to share these tracts with others. (Each tract page has a “Share” link. You may also want to link to one or more of our Gospel tracts from your website.)

http://evangelismexplosion.org/resources/online-tracts/

See also the various Plan of Salvation presentations (previous pages) for links of encouragement regarding how to share the God’s Good News with others.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Outreach vs. Evangelism: How to Tell the Difference

http://www.outreachmagazine.com/features/4923-outreach-vs-evangelism-how-to-tell-the-difference.html

Excerpt:

evangel (-v n j l) n.

1. The Christian gospel.

2. An evangelist.

[Middle English evaungel, from Late Latin vangelium, from Greek euangelion, good news, from euangelos, bringing good news : eu-, eu- + angelos, messenger.]

The root of the word evangelism, evangel, is derived from the Greek word euangelion which is translated good news. From that same word, we derive the word gospel. We find also that many words we use in English are in reality synonymous evangel(ism), gospel and good news all speak of the same thing and find their root in the same word. They speak of the act of spreading the gospel and to the content of the message that is given. This is an important point to note they refer both to the method and the message.

The word euangelion is found in many places throughout the New Testament. The term is often used to express collectively the gospel doctrines; and “preaching the gospel” is often used to include not only the proclaiming of the good tidings, but the teaching men how to avail themselves of the offer of salvation, the declaring of all the truths, precepts, promises, and threatenings of Christianity. It is termed “the gospel of the grace of God” (Acts 20:24), “the gospel of the kingdom” (Matt. 4:23), “the gospel of Christ” (Rom. 1:16), “the gospel of peace (Eph. 6:15), “the glorious gospel,” “the everlasting gospel,” “the gospel of salvation” (Eph. 1:13). (Easton Illustrated Dictionary)

In the Elwell Evangelical Dictionary we read specifically about Pauls application of the term which he used over 60 times and is found in every one of his letters except for Titus. Paul’s ministry was distinctively that of the propagation of the gospel. Unto this gospel he was set apart (Rom. 1:1) and made a minister according to the grace of God (Eph. 3:7). His special sphere of action was the Gentile world (Rom. 16:16; Gal. 2:7).

Since Paul accepted the gospel as a sacred trust (Gal. 2:7), it was necessary that in the discharge of this obligation he speak so as to please God rather than man (I Tim. 2:4). The divine commission had created a sense of urgency that made him cry out, “Woe to me if I do not preach the gospel” (I Cor. 9:16). For the sake of the gospel Paul was willing to become all things to all men (I Cor. 9:22-23). No sacrifice was too great. Eternal issues were at stake. Those whose minds were blinded and did not obey the gospel were perishing and would ultimately reap the vengeance of divine wrath (II Cor. 4:3; IIThess. 1:9). On the other hand, to those who believed, the gospel had effectively become the power of God unto salvation (Rom. 1:16).

Outreach

Unlike evangel, the term outreach is not found in the Bible, though the idea certainly is. Outreach implies action more than message. Perhaps it is best defined as a business term: an act of reaching out, bringing an organization’s services or products out into the community. When a church engages in outreach, it is reaching out to the community in order to meet needs or to let people know of its existence. The Salvation Army is an excellent example. When tragedy strikes, especially in the case of natural disasters, the Salvation Army is often on the scene, providing food, clothing and other necessities. My local church has some excellent and exciting outreach programs.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Unintended Consequences of the Jesus Movement: The Big Decision http://www.patheos.com/blogs/pilgrimsroadtrip/2016/07/unintended-consequences-of-the-jesus-movement-the-big-decision/?ref_widget=related&ref_blog=pilgrimsroadtrip&ref_post=5-yiddish-words-for-christians-video&repeat=w3tc

What is Salvation (In 2 Minutes)
https://www.streetgraceministries.com/2012/09/06/what-is-salvation-in-2-minutes-paul-washer/

Canon J. John

Evangelist Canon J. John Shares the Gospel (2016)
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=fABMxA5Kg-k [Video]

What is an Evangelist? (Canon J. John) (2015)
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=WibKBDJsMBE [Video]

What Happened at God's Funeral (Canon J. John) (2015)
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=8cETa0HpK_Q [Video]

A Man with A Dog (Canon J. John) (2011)
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=TNYGww5MJPo [Video]

C3 Presence 2014 – Bible, Breath, Blood and Bride (Canon J. John) https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=BBHdLdHEB0M [Video]

FYI: To see J. John interact with other Christian notables on his interview program…

Facing the Canon with Tom Wright (2014) [Recommended]
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=8sCoF4uNLWQ [Video]
Wright answers difficult questions submitted to him by John Canon, including women leadership in the church, resurrection, Israel today and returning to the land and the centrality of Jesus for gentiles and Jews, Isaiah 53, prayer, why to bad things happen to good people?, sacraments, why does not Bible address more everyday issues, marriage, sharing the Gospel.

ALSO: check out his interview of Nick Gumble founder of Alpha International [Recommended]

For reference resources regarding N.T. Wright (and other scholars and theologians) related to Paul and Romans, see "Reference Notes on Paul and Romans" (and Galatians plus Ephesians).

For additional details about Repentance, Faith and their relation to Salvation see the separate references resource:

The Gospel, Salvation and Evangelism

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Regarding Salvation…

THE CONDITION FOR SALVATION

A. The Condition. Salvation is conditioned solely on faith * in Jesus Christ. Nearly 200 times faith, or belief, is stated as the single condition in the NT (Jn 1:12; Ac 16:31). That faith must be placed in Christ as one's substitute for and Savior from sin. It is not easy to believe someone whom you have never seen about the most important matter of eternal destiny, but this and only this is the way to be saved.
B. The False Additions to Faith. Through the ages other requirements in addition to faith have been wrongly added. Some of these are:
    1. Surrender to the lordship of Christ. Christ must be Lord in the sense of Jehovah in order to be a qualified Savior (Ro 10:9), but Christ's personal lordship over the individual's life is not a condition for salvation. It should be a consequence of salvation and is a condition for dedication in full discipleship.
    2. Baptism. Baptism is the visible testimony to one's salvation, but not a condition for it. Ac 2:38 is best translated, “Repent and be baptized on the basis of the remission of sins.” Ac 22:16 teaches that baptism followed the arising, just as forgiveness followed the calling on the name of the Lord. The two parts of the verse should be kept distinct. Mk 16:16 is probably not a genuine part of Mark's gospel.
    3. Repentance. This is a valid condition for salvation when understood as a synonym for faith. It is a false addition to faith when understood as a prerequisite, requiring the cleansing of the life in order to be saved.
    4. Confession. Confession is a normal result of being saved, though it may also accompany the initial act of believing. Nowhere is public confession required. In this connection, prayer may be helpful in clinching a decision, but it is not in itself a requirement for salvation.

Source: Ryrie Study Bible Notes

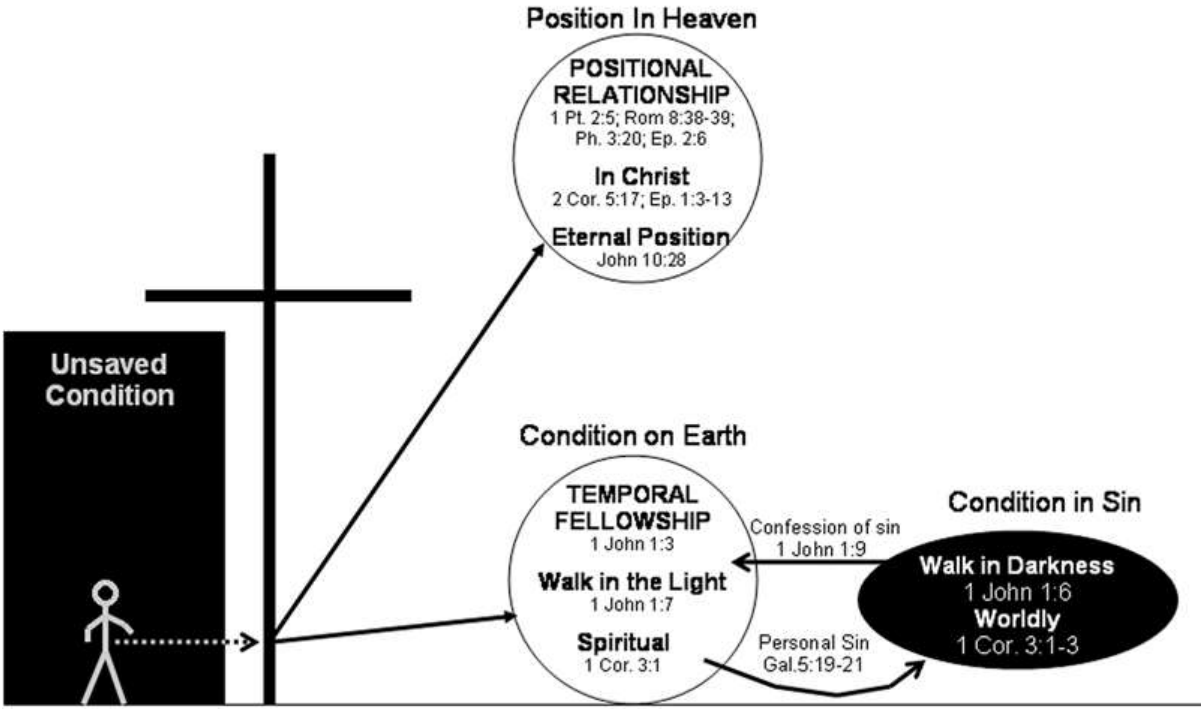
For additional details about Repentance, Faith and their relation to Salvation see the separate references resource:

The Gospel, Salvation and Evangelism

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Difference between Religion and Christianity
http://www.middletownbiblechurch.org/helpseek/religion.htm

The Relationship between Good Works and Salvation
http://www.middletownbiblechurch.org/salvatio/workssal.htm



Two Aspects of Forgiveness (that is needed for Salvation vs Fellowship) http://www.middletownbiblechurch.org/christia/twoaspet.htm

Salvation vs Discipleship
http://www.middletownbiblechurch.org/doctrine/sal-dis.htm

Salvation vs Rewards
http://www.middletownbiblechurch.org/salvatio/rewards.htm

Living by Faith -- Are You Claiming These Facts by Faith?
http://www.middletownbiblechurch.org/christia/livfaith.htm

God's Sovereignty and Man's Responsibility http://www.middletownbiblechurch.org/reformed/sovereig.htm

[Source: http://www.generationword.com/audio_series/basic_doctrine.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Who I am in Christ

I am Accepted...

Jn. 1:12	I am God's child.
Jn. 15:15	I am Christ's friend.
Rom. 5:1	I have been justified.
1 Cor. 6:17	I am united with the Lord (one spirit).
1 Cor. 6:19-20	I am bought with a price; I belong to God.
1 Cor. 12:27	I am a member of Christ's Body.
Eph. 1:1	I am a saint.
Eph. 1:5	I have been adopted as God's child.
Eph. 2:18	I have access to God thru the Holy Spirit.
Col. 1:14	I have been redeemed and forgiven.
Col. 2:10	I am complete in Christ.

I am Secure...

Rom. 8:1-2	I am free forever from condemnation.
Rom. 8:28	I am assured all works together for good.
Rom. 8:31-34	I am free from any charge against me.
Rom. 8:35-39	I cannot be separated from the love of God.
2 Cor. 1:21-22	I am established, anointed, sealed by God.
Col. 3:3	I am hidden with Christ in God.
Phil. 1:6	I am confident that the good work God has begun in me will be perfected.
Phil. 3:20	I am a citizen of heaven.
2 Tim. 1:7	I have not been given a spirit of fear, but of power, love and a sound mind.
Heb. 4:16	I can find grace and mercy in time of need.
1 Jn. 5:18	I am born of God; the evil one cannot touch me.

I am Significant...

Matt. 5:13-14	I am the salt and light of the earth.
Jn. 15:1,5	I am a branch of the true vine, a channel of His life.
Jn. 15:16	I have been chosen and appointed to bear fruit.
Acts 1:8	I am a personal witness of Christ's.
1 Cor. 3:16	I am God's temple.
2 Cor. 5:17-21	I am a minister of reconciliation for God.
2 Cor. 6:1	I am God's co-worker (1 Cor. 3:9).
Eph. 2:6	I am seated with Christ in the heavenly realm.
Eph. 2:10	I am God's workmanship.
Eph. 3:12	I may approach God with freedom and confidence.
Phil. 4:13	I can do all things thru Christ who strengthens me.

My Identity

"Understanding your identity in Christ is absolutely essential for your success at living a victorious Christian life!"

Dr. Neil T. Anderson, Who I Am in Christ
(Gospel Light, 1993)

Satan's Lie	God's Truth
You are a sinner because you sin.	Your are a saint (one declared righteous by God) who sins.
Your identity comes from what you have done.	Your identity comes from what God has done for you.
Your identity comes from what people say about you.	Your identity comes from what God says about you.
Your behavior tells you what to believe about yourself.	Your belief about yourself determines your behavior.

Dr. Timothy Warner, Resolving Spiritual Conflicts and Cross-Cultural Ministry
(Freedom in Christ Ministries, 1993)

Bookmark Front:
Dr. Neil T. Anderson, Victory Over the Darkness
(Gospel Light, 1990)

All references used by permission.
Please do not reproduce. Not for individual sale.

FREEDOM IN CHRIST MINISTRIES

9051 Executive Park Drive • Suite 503
Knoxville, TN 37923
865.342.4000 | info@ficm.org

www.ficm.org
www.freedominchrist.com

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Salvation in the Old Testament vs New Testament

What was the Old Testament way of salvation?
http://www.gotquestions.org/Old-Testament-salvation.html

Excerpt:

Many Christians are a little confused about how Old Testament believers were saved. The first problem we have is that in Old Testament times they didn't know about Jesus' death on the cross. Yet Acts 4:12, says of Jesus, "Nor is there salvation in any other, for there is no other name under heaven given among men by which we must be saved." How could people living in Old Testament times be saved if they didn't know the name of Jesus? The second problem is the place of animal sacrifices. Did those sacrifices take away sin? Were people saved by sacrificing sheep, bulls, and goats? …

Old Testament Salvation
https://bible.org/article/old-testament-salvation

How Were People Saved Before Jesus Came in the Flesh?
https://answersingenesis.org/gospel/salvation/how-were-people-saved-before-jesus-came-in-the-flesh/

How Were People Saved Before Christ?
http://coldcasechristianity.com/2013/how-were-old-testament-saints-saved/

Salvation in OT Times
http://chosenpeople.com/main/jewish-roots/252-salvation-in-old-testament-times

How Were Jews Saved in the Old Testament?
https://www.monergism.com/thethreshold/articles/onsite/otsaints.html

Excerpt:

Between the fall of Adam and the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ, how were people's sins atoned for? Was there true salvation as we know it in NT times? Also, if the Law doesn't save, how did it 'work' for OT believers? Were they trusting in Messiah and didn't know it? I'm confused by all this. Any clarification you might have would be great…

The Old Testament Doctrine of Salvation
https://www.monergism.com/thethreshold/articles/onsite/OldTestSal.html

Are there Old Testament Scriptures that mention salvation for the Gentiles?
http://christianity.stackexchange.com/questions/11288/are-there-old-testament-scriptures-that-mention-salvation-for-the-gentiles [Discussion Forum]

"Salvation in the Old Testament" (in Tradition and Testament)
http://www.ntslibrary.com/Salvation%20in%20the%20Old%20Testament.pdf [PDF]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

How Old Testament Saints Were Saved
http://loveintruth.com/amf-docs/otsaints.htm

Salvation in the OT
http://storage.cloversites.com/gracefellowship3/documents/Salvation%20in%20the%20OT.pdf [PDF]

Salvation
http://www.biblestudytools.com/dictionary/salvation/

The Experience of Salvation in the OT and NT
http://biblicalstudies.org.uk/pdf/vox/vol05/salvation_grogan.pdf [PDF]

What Does the Bible Say about Salvation?
http://www.christianbiblereference.org/faq_salvation.htm

Old Testament Salvation - Could Old Testament Saints Keep the Law?
http://preservedwords.com/ot-salvation-pv.htm
[NOTE: Extreme dispensationalist view, included FYI]

Does Dispensationalism Teach Two Ways of Salvation?
http://www.spiritandtruth.org/teaching/documents/articles/4/4.htm?x=x

61 Bible Verses About Salvation http://dailyverses.net/salvation

Answers from the Bible: On the Way to Salvation http://www.justforcatholics.org/answers_bible.htm

Excerpt:

Do you hunger for a personal relationship with God? Do you long for spiritual cleansing, liberty and peace? The following short articles explore the teaching of the Bible on the way of salvation. Please read them. Earnestly seek God in prayer to open your heart to the message of the gospel. He promises to reveal himself to honest seekers. ‘You will find him if you seek him with all your heart and with all your soul’ (Deuteronomy 4:29).

[Note: Answers questions addressed to Catholics]

For additional details about Repentance, Faith and their relation to Salvation see the separate references resource:

The Gospel, Salvation and Evangelism

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Is There a Different Way of Salvation for Jews? (re: Dual-Covenant Theology) http://www.teachingtheword.org/apps/articles/?articleid=59466&view=post&blogid=5435

Excerpt:

Although this view has recently been touted by leading figures who are popular among conservative Evangelicals, it is completely contrary to Scripture.

Two Wrong Kinds of Covenant Theology

Today, two false brands of covenant theology are leading some conservative Evangelicals to teach false ways of salvation that the Holy Spirit condemns in Galatians chapter one. The false doctrine of dual-covenant theology teaches that Jews are saved by their observance of the Old Testament law, while Gentiles are saved by faith in Jesus Christ. Another aberrant teaching called One Law Theology, embraced by Messianic Jews and tolerated by growing numbers of Evangelicals, teaches that Gentiles in effect must become Jews in order to be saved…

How We're Saved by Faith in Jesus Christ
http://www.biblesprout.com/articles/salvation/

Is Jesus the Only Way of Salvation?
https://www.gci.org/disc/18-onlyway

Excerpt:

People sometimes object to the Christian belief that salvation is given only through Jesus Christ. In our pluralistic society, tolerance is expected, even demanded, and the concept of freedom of religion (which permits all religions) is sometimes misinterpreted to mean that all religions are somehow equally true.

All paths lead to the same God, some say, as if they have traveled all of them and have returned from the destination. They are not tolerant of the "narrow-minded" people who believe in only one way, and they object to evangelism, for example, as an insulting attempt to change the beliefs of other people. Yet they themselves want to change the beliefs of those who believe in only one way…

How Were People Saved Before Jesus Came?
https://faithalone.org/journal/2003i/bryant.pdf [PDF]

Salvation According to the Old Testament: By Faith in Christ or by Faith and Works Apart from Christ? (Responding to One Muslim's Claims)
http://www.answering-islam.org/Responses/Menj/salvation_bible.htm

Can You Lose Your Salvation?
http://www.discoverrevelation.com/Salvation.htm

NOTE: Also contains contains definitions for many theological words/concepts.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

How did people get saved in the Old Testament?

People in the Old Testament were saved by faith just like people today. Three passages to examine in the Old Testament regarding justification by faith are Ezekiel 18:26-28; Isaiah 1:18; and Isaiah 55:7.

The Old Testament system of sacrifices was never intended to be salvific (cf. Hebrews 10:4 and context). What is was intended to show was the seriousness of sin.

An important point that Paul makes regarding Abraham is in Romans 4:10:

> "How then was it credited? While he was circumcised, or uncircumcised? Not while circumcised, but while uncircumcised."

Paul is showing that Abraham was justified by his faith after which God sealed it with a covenant sign (circumcision) which is equivalent to a Christian's baptism (cf. Col. 2:12-13). Therefore, people in the Old Testament were saved by faith just like people today.

[Source: https://carm.org/how-did-people-get-saved-old-testamentsalvation-old-testament

How Were Gentiles Saved in the Old Testament?

Ephesians 3:12,13 states... "That at that time ye were without Christ, being aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers from the covenants of promise, having no hope, and without God in the world: But now in Christ Jesus ye who sometimes were far off are made nigh by the blood of Christ." No matter how alienated or "far off" a person (or nation) may be, "the grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared to all men" (Titus 2:11).

Gentiles in the Old Testament were saved by placing their faith in Jesus Christ, i.e., the coming Messiah. Anybody who sought the Lord sincerely, following what light he or she had, God was obligated to get the truth of the Gospel to them. Man's duty is to obey the Truth of God's Word; God's duty is to get His Truth to those who desire it. No one ever went to Hell who didn't choose to go there. If a person chooses to reject Jesus Christ as their sin offering, i.e., their Savior, then they will die in their sins and go to Hellfire.

Although the death of Christ did break down the wall of partition between Jews and Gentiles (as far as ceremonial law is concerned), Acts 10:43 plainly teaches that people in the Old Testament were all saved the same way... "To him give all the prophets witness, that through his name whosoever believeth in him shall receive remission of sins."

In the Old Testament book of Ruth, we learn that Ruth the Moabitess, and a Gentile, became a Christian. Rahab, Nebuchadnezzar, and Naaman (all Gentiles) also appear to have been saved in the Old Testament. [See more Ruth references/resources in this Appdendix]

There has always been just ONE plan of salvation... "For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God: Not of works, lest any man should boast." Salvation has always been, and will always be, by grace through faith in the blood sacrifice of the Lord Jesus Christ (1st Peter 1:18,19). Romans 4:5 proclaims... "But to him that worketh not, but believeth on him that justifieth the ungodly, his faith is counted for righteousness." We read that Abraham was saved just this way in Genesis 15:6... "And he believed in the LORD; and he counted it to him for righteousness." The only way to be saved is to come to Jesus Christ as a guilty sinner, and to depend on Him to forgive one's sins. Again, Acts 10:43 plainly teaches that people in the Old Testament were all saved the same way...

"To him give all the prophets witness, that through his name whosoever believeth in him shall receive remission of sins."

[Source: http://www.jesus-is-savior.com/Believer%27s%20Corner/Doctrines/ot_salvation.htm]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

How Were People Saved Before Christ? (2013)

coldcasechristianity.com/2013/how-were-old-testament-saints-saved/

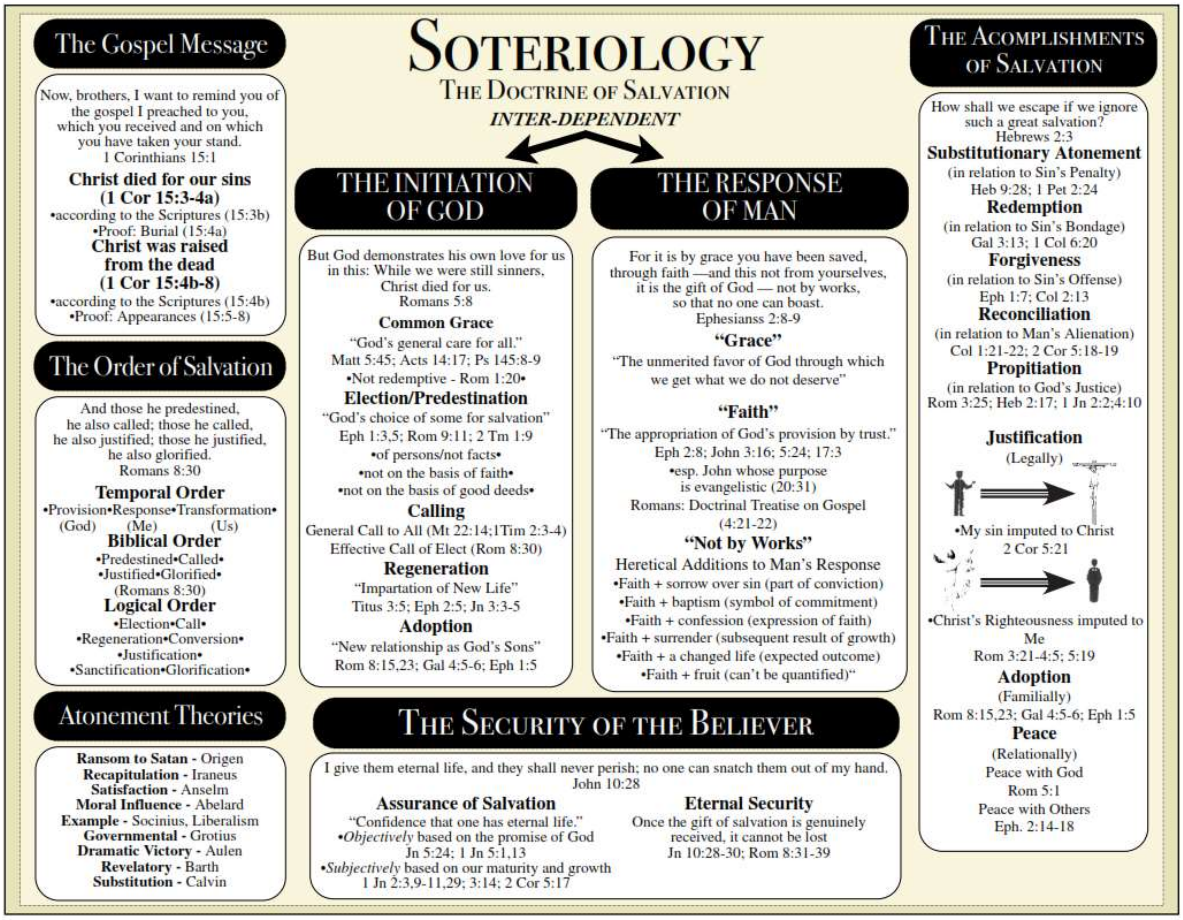
The “exclusivity” of Christianity is a stumbling block for many skeptics. How can Jesus be the only way to heaven? A claim such as this seems arrogant and intolerant in the pluralistic world in which we live. How can Christians believe millions of devout people from other religious traditions will be condemned just because they don’t know Jesus? Several years ago I received an email from a podcast listener who told me he believed all “good” people would eventually be “saved” just like the Old Testament saints. After all, the Bible acknowledges the salvation of devout Old Testament believers even though they lived and died long before Jesus walked on earth. If Old Testament saints can go to heaven without knowing or trusting Jesus, why can’t people today get to heaven by simply obeying the Ten Commandments?

If only that were the case. Unfortunately, the Old Testament saints were just as incapable of following the Ten Commandments as we are today. God provided them with the Law and recognized they would constantly break it. For this reason, He also provided them with an elaborate sacrificial system (to remind them of their shortcomings and the penalty for their continuing sin) and the promise of a Savior. Like us, the Old Testament saints were not saved by their adherence to the Law. They were saved by the grace of God through their faith in the Savior, even though this Savior was only a promise at the time.

They Knew About Grace

These early believers listened closely to the words of God as they were revealed by the prophets and the Scripture. As a result, they understood the nature of grace. David, for example, wrote about God’s forgiveness and grace (Psalm 32:1-5) and Paul later told us that David understood that “God reckons righteousness apart from works” (Romans 4:6-8). All the Old Testament heroes of faith recognized their good works could not save them (read Hebrews 11:13). Even Isaiah knew his “goodness” wasn’t “good enough” (Isaiah 64:6) and that animal sacrifices weren’t going to ultimately please a Holy and perfect God (Psalm 40:6).

They Knew a Messiah was Coming



With the limited knowledge of God given to them at the time, the Old Testament saints understood God would have to do something dramatic to save them. They placed their faith in the coming Savior who was described from the earliest of times. God told Adam and Eve one of their descendants would eventually defeat Satan (Genesis 3:15), and Abraham understood God would provide a sacrifice for sin, just as God provided the substitutionary sacrifice to replace Isaac (Genesis 22:8, Romans 4:3 John 8:56). Job had a similar expectation and hope for a Redeemer (Job 19:25-26), and Moses also expected and believed in the coming Messiah and the reward of Salvation (Hebrews 11:26, John 5:46). Many other Old Testament prophets and wise men spoke about the coming Savior. Enoch, for example, even talked about the second coming of the Messiah (Jude 14)! Old Testament prophets clearly described where the Messiah would be born (Micah 5:2), how He would be betrayed (Zechariah 11:12), how He would die (Isaiah 53:5), and how He would be resurrected (Psalm 16:10, Isaiah 26:19).

Old Testament saints understood their imperfect works would not unite them to a perfect God. They looked forward to the work of a flawless Messiah who would be “pierced through for our transgressions”, “crushed for our iniquities” and chastened “for our well-being” so that “by His scourging we are healed” (Isaiah 53:5). Those who understood and accepted the truth about grace and the coming Messiah were saved on the basis of their faith. The Savior has now appeared and His name is Jesus. We have today what the Old Testament saints only anticipated. Jesus is, as He always was, the Messiah and the only way to the Father.

J. Warner Wallace is a Cold-Case Detective, a Christian Case Maker, and the author of Cold-Case Christianity

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Some perspectives on the Doctrine of Salvation (Soteriology) http://www.fellowshipconway.org/wp-content/uploads/2016/05/Soteriology-Chart.pdf

(http://www.fellowshipconway.org/category/charts/)

See following page for expanded view….

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Forgiveness

C. FitzSimons Allison's Kitten Story http://www.mbird.com/2010/04/c-fitzsimons-allisons-kitten-story/

Excerpt:

From 1962's Fear Love and Worship:

"One reason for the joy in heaven over a sinner's repentance is the unique power which comes with forgiveness. The repentant sinner, having been forgiven and having been taken back like the Prodigal Son, learns a lesson of love that the righteous do not know. On his return the Prodigal knows the power of the father's love much better than he did before he left. This curious and alarming spiritual fact, that a forgiven sinner has experienced a measure of God's love he did not know before he sinned, has upset many people…From the very beginning this fact led some to ask St. Paul, 'Then should we sin that grace may abound?' Of course not, but the alarming quality of this part of the Gospel has led the principle of forgiveness to be denied and the consequent power lost… Christ's burden is light and his yoke is easy only when we ourselves are carried by his forgiveness.

"A sergeant told a grim joke to his trainees during the Second World War, which shows the real flaw in the Pharisaic understanding of Christianity. a man stopped on a dirt road to help get another man's car our of the ditch. The latter was beginning to harness two small furry kittens to the bumper of this huge car when he was asked, 'Mister, you aren't going to try to get those kittens to pull that car out of the ditch, are you?' His reply was, 'Why not? I've got a whip.' The lash of the Law is used in similar spiritual situations. Without the principle of forgiveness our conscience acquires a quality of cruelty that makes the Gospel of Christ anything but the Good News.

"It is perfectly incredible how the unmistakably clear and simple fact of God's forgiveness of sinners has been so frequently denied throughout the history of Christianity. There is a story of a clergyman who had an argument with a vestryman about whether a woman of bad reputation should be made welcome in the church. Finally the minister said, 'Well, didn't the Lord forgive the woman taken in adultery?' 'Yes,' replied the old gentleman, 'but I don't think any more of him for having done it.' …the resistance is always so great that every age needs to discover anew the experience and power of God's free forgiveness which is continually available to all. We can generally assume, regardless of our tradition, that we have not been adequately 'let in on' this part of the Good News."

Walking in Forgiveness
http://www.focusonthefamily.com/lifechallenges/relationship-challenges/learning-to-forgive-others/walking-in-forgiveness

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

What Is Forgiveness?

https://www.jw.org/en/bible-teachings/questions/what-is-forgiveness/

The Bible's answer

Forgiveness is the act of pardoning an offender. In the Bible, the Greek word translated "forgiveness" literally means "to let go," as when a person does not demand payment for a debt. Jesus used this comparison when he taught his followers to pray: "Forgive us our sins, for we ourselves also forgive everyone who is in debt to us." (Luke 11:4) Likewise, in his parable of the unmerciful slave, Jesus equated forgiveness with canceling a debt.—Matthew 18:23-35.

We forgive others when we let go of resentment and give up any claim to be compensated for the hurt or loss we have suffered. The Bible teaches that unselfish love is the basis for true forgiveness, since love "does not keep account of the injury."—1 Corinthians 13:4, 5.

What forgiveness does not mean

- Condoning the offense. The Bible actually condemns those who claim that bad actions are harmless or acceptable.—Isaiah 5:20.
- Pretending that the offense never happened. God forgave King David of serious sins, but he did not shield David from the consequences of his actions. God even had David's sins recorded so that they are remembered today.—2 Samuel 12:9-13.
- Allowing others to take advantage of you. Suppose, for example, that you loan money to someone, but he wastes it and then cannot repay you as he had promised. He is very sorry and apologizes to you. You could choose to forgive him by not harboring resentment, not rehashing the matter with him continually, and perhaps even canceling the debt altogether. However, you might also choose not to loan him any more money.—Psalm 37:21; Proverbs 14:15; 22:3; Galatians 6:7.
- Pardoning with no valid basis. God does not forgive people who are guilty of willful, malicious sin and who refuse to acknowledge their mistakes, change their ways, and apologize to those whom they have hurt. (Proverbs 28:13; Acts 26:20; Hebrews 10:26) Such unrepentant ones become God's enemies, and he does not require us to forgive those whom he has not forgiven.—Psalm 139:21, 22.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

What if you are the victim of cruel mistreatment by someone who refuses to apologize or even admit to what he has done? The Bible advises: "Let go of anger and abandon rage." (Psalm 37:8) While not excusing the error, you can refuse to be consumed with anger. Trust that God will bring the person to account. (Hebrews 10:30, 31) You can also take comfort in knowing that God will bring a time when we will no longer feel the deep pain or hurt that may burden us now.—Isaiah 65:17; Revelation 21:4.

- "Forgiving" every perceived slight. Sometimes, rather than pardoning a so-called offender, we may need to admit that we had no valid cause for being offended in the first place. The Bible says: "Do not be quick to take offense, for the taking of offense is the mark of a fool."—Ecclesiastes 7:9, footnote.

How to forgive someone

1. Remember what forgiveness involves. You are not condoning the wrong or acting as if it never happened—you are simply letting it go.
2. Recognize the benefits of forgiving. Letting go of anger and resentment can help you to keep calm, improve your health, and increase your happiness. (Proverbs 14:30; Matthew 5:9) Even more important, forgiving others is a key to receiving God's forgiveness for your own sins.—Matthew 6:14, 15.
3. Be empathetic. All of us are imperfect. (James 3:2) Just as we appreciate being forgiven, we should likewise forgive the mistakes of others.—Matthew 7:12.
4. Be reasonable. When we have a minor cause for complaint, we can apply the Bible's counsel: "Continue putting up with one another."—Colossians 3:13.
5. Act quickly. Work to forgive as soon as you can rather than letting your anger fester.—Ephesians 4:26, 27.

Note: Above excerpt is from a Jehovah's Witness website…while not condoning their foundational theology, we think this is a good article, nevertheless.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Forgive One Another

STUDY / DISCUSSION GUIDE

MAIN TEXT: Ephesians 4:32

SUMMARY: We will look into forgiving one another. In the Christian life, we get, give, and live forgiveness.

OTHER THOUGHTS

Read Luke 7:36-50 and meditate on God's forgiveness provided for you and His love for you.

GETTING STARTED

Watch the video and answer the following question below:

Video: Fellowship Alliance Chapel 10/05-06/2019 Services [select time] (Skip music, start at sermon)

Question: Is forgiveness a choice regardless of feeling, or a feeling that leads to a choice? Explain.

DISCUSSING THE WORD

Read Ephesians 4:32. According to this passage, how are we to forgive others?

What is so significant about the phrase "as God in Christ forgave you."? Read Matthew 18:21-35. How does this story make it's point?

What are we giving up when we forgive others? How does this remind you of what Jesus did for you? How does forgiveness become an easier choice to make when you remember this?

What makes forgiveness so essential in relationships?

RESPONDING TO GOD

Why is Paul's instruction important for the church body?

Write on a piece of paper a person that you need to forgive (or someone that you know that needs to experience God's forgiveness). You don't need to share this with anyone. Then take time to pray silently for a minute to God for this person.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Prayer

How to Pray

http://christianity.stackexchange.com/questions/2157/to-whom-should-we-pray-to-the-father-or-the-son-jesus-or-the-holy-spirit

http://www.bible.ca/ntx-praying-to-jesus.htm

http://www.biblefood.com/prayer.html

Prayer of Salvation (Example prayer to God):

"Father,
I know that I have broken your laws and my sins have separated me from you. I am truly sorry, and now I want to turn away from my past sinful life toward you. Please forgive me, and help me avoid sinning again. I believe that your son, Jesus Christ died for my sins, was resurrected from the dead, is alive, and hears my prayer. I invite Jesus to become the Lord of my life, to rule and reign in my heart from this day forward. Please send your Holy Spirit to help me obey You, and to do Your will for the rest of my life.
In Jesus' name I pray, Amen."

Prayer of Salvation - I've Prayed It; Now What?
If you've prayed this prayer of salvation with true conviction and heart, you are now a follower of Jesus. This is a fact, whether or not you feel any different. Religious systems may have led you to believe that you should feel something - a warm glow, a tingle, or some other mystical experience. The fact is, you may, or you may not. If you have prayed the prayer of salvation and meant it, you are now a follower of Jesus. The Bible tells us that your eternal salvation is secure! "that if you confess with your mouth the Lord Jesus and believe in your heart that God has raised Him from the dead, you will be saved" (Romans 10:9).

[Source: http://www.allaboutgod.com/prayer-of-salvation.htm]

http://www.salvationprayer.info/prayer.html

The Jesus Prayer (a Prayer of the Heart)

The Jesus Prayer is very simple:

"Lord Jesus Christ Son of God, have mercy on me a sinner," http://www.orthodoxprayer.org/Jesus%20Prayer.html

http://www.goarch.org/ourfaith/ourfaith7104 http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Jesus_Prayer http://www.copticheritage.org/orthodoxy/tradition_of_the_jesus_prayer

http://gravitycenter.com/practice/breath-prayer/

http://www.peterkreeft.com/topics-more/jesus-prayer.htm

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

A.C.T.S.

Consider this acronym for prayer "A.C.T.S.": Adoration, Confession, Thanksgiving and Supplication.

So, ACTS means: Talk to him, telling him how much you love him; confess your sins; thank him for what he has done for you that you could never repay, and pray for supplying the needs of others.

The Lord's Prayer

http://www.jesuschristsavior.net/Prayer.html

Examples of Prayer by Jesus – Learning from the Prayer Life of Jesus

Why did Jesus pray?

One way we can learn to pray is by looking at the prayer life of Jesus. Although the Gospels don't provide a detailed biography of Christ, they do offer captivating glimpses into His prayer life. First, however, it will be helpful to answer the question, "Why did Jesus pray?" This is sometimes puzzling for Christians. After all, if Jesus is God, why did Christ need to pray?

Theologically speaking, there are at least three reasons that Jesus prayed. First, Jesus prayed as an example to his followers. This is an example we continue to learn from, as this article demonstrates. Second, the Incarnation consists of both divine and human natures. From His human nature, it was perfectly natural for a Jewish believer such as Christ to pray. Third, the nature of the Trinity allows for communication between its members. As God the Son, Jesus could pray to God the Father.

Jesus and Prayer

Jesus prayed for others. In Matthew 19:13, we read, "Then little children were brought to Jesus for him to place his hands on them and pray for them." Despite the fact that "the disciples rebuked those who brought them," Jesus said the children should not be hindered "for the kingdom of heaven belongs to such as these" (v. 14). In John 17:9 we read, "I [Jesus] pray for them. I am not praying for the world, but for those you have given Me, for they are Yours." This underscores the need for intercessory prayer.

*Jesus prayed with others.*Luke 9:28 reads, "[Jesus] took Peter, John and James with Him and went up onto a mountain to pray." Jesus prayed alone, as we'll read below, but He also knew the value of praying with others. Acts 1:14 underscores the importance of Christians praying with one another: "They all joined together constantly in prayer …"

*Jesus prayed alone.*Luke 5:16 reads, "But Jesus often withdrew to lonely places and prayed." As much as Jesus understood the value of praying with and for others, He also understood the need to pray alone. Psalm 46:10 reads, "Be still, and know that I am God." Sometimes it's important for us to "be still" before God, but the only way to do this, especially in our hectic culture, is to do so alone with God.

Jesus prayed in nature. Psalm 19:1 reads, "The heavens declare the glory of God; the skies proclaim the work of his hands." What better place to commune with our Creator than among the wonders of nature? Luke 6:12 says, "One of those days Jesus went out to a mountainside to pray ..." He could have gone to a home, a synagogue or if He were near Jerusalem he could have gone to the temple to pray. But there were times when Jesus made the decision to pray where He was, which often happened to be in nature. We are surrounded by so much that is "man made" that sometimes it's difficult for us to remember that this is not our world, but God's world (Genesis 1:1, Psalm 24:1) full of wonders for us to enjoy.

Jesus could pray as a sprinter or a marathon runner. The Lord's Prayer is full of wisdom, but it is short enough to be easily memorized and serve as an example of a sprint rather than a marathon prayer. But Jesus also knew how to dedicate long periods of time to prayer. As we read in Luke 6:12,

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Jesus "spent the night praying to God." We, too, need to be able to offer short prayers, as well dedicate long periods of our lives to prayer.

*Jesus prayed regularly.*This insight is gleaned from a passage cited earlier, Luke 5:16: "Jesus often withdrew to lonely places and prayed." The word "often" is not hidden, but makes it obvious that Jesus prayed regularly. Throughout the Gospels whenever we read of Jesus and prayer, it comes up regularly and naturally. It was simply a part of His worldview, integrated into every aspect of Christ's life. Can we say the same about prayer in our life?

*The prayers of Jesus were heartfelt.*Jesus did not pray in a cold, distant manner, but in heartfelt supplication, demonstrating empathy and a genuine love for God. This is demonstrated clearly in John 17, where Jesus prays for Himself, His immediate disciples, as well as for all believers.

*Jesus prayed based on His knowledge of God and His truths.*The prayers of Jesus were based on God's revealed truths and, as such, were in line with a solid biblical worldview. In John 4:24 Jesus said, "God is spirit, and His worshipers must worship in spirit and in truth." He also said, "the truth will set you free" (John 8:32), underscoring the importance of truth in the life of Jesus and, in turn, our lives. Proper prayer requires us to have a truthful understanding of God and what He has revealed to us through His Word.

Jesus taught persistence in prayer. "Then Jesus told his disciples a parable to show them that they should always pray and not give up" (Luke 18:1). The parable Jesus shared is not meant to depict a pestering disciple who finally bugs God enough that He chooses to respond, but about persistence in prayer and waiting on God and His timing.

Jesus knew that not all his prayers would be answered as expected. This is a difficult prayer lesson to learn, but the fact of the matter is that not all our prayers are answered in ways we expect. Even Jesus knew this hard lesson as he cried out to God the Father from Gethsemane (Matthew 26:36-44). Three times Jesus prayed for God to allow an easier path, but Jesus knew, "Yet not as I will, but as You will" (26:39). Unanswered prayer is such a challenge to the Christian life that we'll address the matter in more detail in another article in this series.

As You Will

When Jesus prayed in Gethsemane, "Yet not as I will, but as You will," He offered a tremendous but seemingly simple insight into prayer: God is in charge. As we learn from the prayer life of Jesus – and there is much to learn – we need to keep this overarching principle in mind. A disciple asked Jesus, "Lord, teach us to pray," (Luke 11:1) and in response was taught the Lord's Prayer. But by studying the prayer life of Jesus, we can learn not only the important truths of the Lord's Prayer, but so much more.

Robert Velarde is author of Conversations with C.S. Lewis (InterVarsity Press), The Heart of Narnia (NavPress), and primary author of The Power of Family Prayer (National Day of Prayer Task Force). He studied philosophy of religion and apologetics at Denver Seminary and is pursuing graduate studies in philosophy at Southern Evangelical Seminary.

[1] Unless otherwise noted all Scripture quotations are from the New International Version of the Bible.

[Source: http://www.focusonthefamily.com/faith/faith-in-life/prayer/learning-from-the-prayer-life-of-jesus] http://www.prayers-of-jesus.info/

http://www.religioustolerance.org/prayer.htm

10 Verses about the Power of Prayer:

http://www.whatchristianswanttoknow.com/10-awesome-bible-verses-about-the-power-of-prayer/

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Praying in Public, Especially at Civic Events (must we end with the words, “In Jesus Name”?)

Point of View: http://www.patheos.com/blogs/markdroberts/series/praying-in-the-name-of-jesus/

Most conservative Christians tend to downplay Jesus' instruction (Matthew 6:5-6) about the importance of going off by oneself and pray alone and in secret. After all, if public prayer is not permitted, then just about every Christian service is seriously in error, with the possible exception of some by the Society of Friends (Quakers). Conservatives interpret Matthew 6:5 as not condemning public prayer. Rather, it criticizes only that prayer in public that is motivated by a desire to show off. Prayer "may be offered in any circumstances, however open, if not promoted by the spirit of ostentation..." [1]

[Source: http://www.religioustolerance.org/prayer.htm]

High Priestly Prayer

The high priestly prayer is a prayer spoken by Jesus Christ about himself, his disciples, and his later followers, as recorded in John 17. This prayer is the special prayer of the Lord, and may be regarded as the sole example furnished by the evangelists of our Lord's method of prayer. The thanksgiving in Matthew 11:25 is the only other instance of any extent in the report of the prayers of Jesus, but even that is brief compared to what is here furnished. The fullness of this prayer clearly shows that it was uttered in the hearing of the disciples.

Their relation to it is remarkable. Auditors, they yet could not share in it. At the same time, it was a profound revelation to them both of the relation of the Master to God, and the character of the work which He had come to perform, and the part which they were to take in it. John gives us no hint as to the place in which it was spoken; John 14:31 indicates a departure from the upper room. But apparently the prayer was offered where the discourses of John 15 and 16 were delivered.

[Source: http://www.religionfacts.com/library/isbe/high-priestly-prayer]

Q: #204. How many times did Jesus pray in the Bible?

A: The Bible records Jesus praying 25 different times during his earthly ministry.

[Source: https://lifecoach4god.life/tag/how-many-times-did-jesus-pray-in-the-bible/]

A: The Bible tells us in (1 Th 5:17) to "pray without ceasing."
While I don't believe this literally means to never stop praying, I would say that Jesus probably came closer to never stopping than any person who has ever lived on this planet. He was continually in a prayer mode.

He is shown to pray:
alone (Mt 14:23)(Mk 1:35)(Lk 9:18)(Lk 22:39-41), in public (Jn 11:41-42)(Jn 12:27-30), before meals (Mt 26:26)(Mk 8:6)(Lk 24:30)(Jn 6:11), before important decisions (Lk 6:12-13), before healing (Mk 7:34-35),
after healing (Lk 5:16),
to do the Father's will (Mt 26:36-44), among other things.

He also taught on the importance of prayer (Mt 21:22)(Mk 11:24-26)(Mt 7:7-11)(Lk 11:9-13)(Jn 14:13-14)(Jn 15:7,16)(Jn 16:23-24)(Mt 5:44)(Lk 6:27-28)(Mt 6:5-15: including the Lord's Prayer)(Lk 11:2-4)(Mt 18:19-20).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

If you take all of the places (in the Bible) that show Jesus praying, you will have a PERFECT outline of how to pray (check out Jn 17).

Below are all of the verses I could find in the Gospels that show Jesus praying.

(Lk 3:21-22) At His Baptism.

(Mk 1:35-36) In the morning before heading to Galilee.

(Lk 5:15) After healing people.

(Lk 6:12-13) Praying all night before choosing His 12 disciples.

(Mt 11:25-26) While speaking to the Jewish leaders.

(Jn 6:11) Giving thanks to the Father before feeding 5000.
(Also see: Mt 14:19, Mk 6:41, Lk 9:16)

(Mt 14:22) Before walking on water.
(Also see: Mk 6:46, Jn 6:15)

(Mk 7:31-37) While healing a deaf and mute man.

(Mt 15:36) Giving thanks to the Father before feeding 4000.
(Also see: Mk 8:6-7)

(Lk 9:18) Before Peter called Jesus "the Christ."

(Lk 9:28-29) At the Transfiguration.

(Lk 10:21) At the return of the seventy.

(Lk 11:1) Before teaching His disciples the Lord's Prayer.

(Jn 11:41-42) Before raising Lazarus from the dead.

(Mt 19:13-15) Laying hands on and praying for little children.
(Also see: Mk 10:13-16, Lk 18:15-17)

(Jn 12:27-28) Asking the Father to glorify His name.

(Mt 26:26) At the Lord's Supper.
(Also see: Mk 14:22-23, Lk 22:19)

(Lk 22:31-32) Prayed for Peter's faith when Satan asked to "sift" him.

(Jn 17:1-26) Prayed for Himself, His disciples, and all believers just before heading to Gethsemane.

(Mt 26:36-46) In Gethsemane before His betrayal. (He prayed 3 separate prayers.)
(Also see: Lk 22:39-46, Mk 14:32-42)

(Lk 23:34) Right after being nailed to the cross, Jesus prayed, "Father forgive them; for they know not what they do."

(Mt 27:46) While dying on the cross, Jesus cried out, "My God, My God, why hast thou forsaken me?"
(Also see: Mk 15:34)

(Lk 23:46) In His dying breath, Jesus prayed, "Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit.

(Lk 24:30) Prayed a blessing on the bread before He ate with others after His resurrection.

(Lk 24:50-53) He blessed the disciples before His Ascension.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

There are also verses outside of the Gospels that show us that even though Jesus is now in Heaven, He is still making intercession on our behalf (Rom 8:34)(Heb 7:25)(Heb 9:24)(1 Jn 2:1).

[Source: http://jesusalive.cc/ques204.htm]

More Facts About Prayer in the Bible…

1. There are 650 prayers listed in the Bible. (Here is the entire list and where they can be found.)

2. There are approximately 450 recorded answers to prayer in the Bible.

3. The first time prayer is mentioned in the Bible is Genesis 4:26 (earlier dialogues where initiated directly by God, e.g., Genesis 3:8-13, Genesis 4:9).

4. The Bible records Jesus praying 25 different times during his earthly ministry.

5. In the Bible, Paul mentions prayer (prayers, prayer reports, prayer requests, exhortations to pray), 41 times.

6. Although prayer can (and should) be done from any bodily position, the Bible lists five specific postures: Sitting (2 Sam 7:18), standing (Mark 11:25), kneeling (Chronicles 6:13;Daniel 6:10; Luke 22:41; Acts 7:60, 9:40, 20:36, 21:5; Ephesians 3:14), with one's face to the ground (Matthew 26:39; Mark 14:35), and with hands lifted up (1 Timothy 2:8).

7. In Jesus model for how his disciples should pray (Luke 11:1-4), he provides five areas of focus: That God's name be honored – the focus on his everlasting glory ("Father, hallowed be your name"); that God's kingdom come – the focus on his eternal will ("your kingdom come"); that God's provision is given – the focus on our present ("Give us each day our daily bread."); that God's forgiveness is granted – the focus on our past (Forgive us our sins, for we also forgive everyone who sins against us.); that God's deliverance will be provided – the focus on our future.

8. The Bible lists at least nine main types of prayer: prayer of faith (James 5:15), prayer of agreement (also known as corporate prayer) (Acts 2:42), prayer of request (also known as petition or supplication) (Philippians 4:6), prayer of thanksgiving (Psalm 95:2-3), prayer of worship (Acts 13:2-3), prayer of consecration (also known as dedication) (Matthew 26:39), prayer of intercession (1 Timothy 2:1), prayer of imprecation (Psalms 69), and praying in the Spirit (1 Corinthians 14:14-15).

9. The word "Amen" (which means "let it be, "so be it," "verily," "truly") makes its first appearance in the Bible in Numbers 5:22. In that passage God commands it to be said by a person who is yielding to his examination.

[Source: thegospelcoalition.org/ May 5, 2014]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Prayer

http://www.generationword.com/diagrams_and_charts.html

Prayer

Human Influence & Responsibility

- "You do not have, because you do not ask God." -James 4:2
- "For no matter how many promises God has made, they are 'Yes' in Christ. And so through him the 'Amen' is spoken by us to the glory of God." - 2 Corinthians 1:20
- "Ask and it will be given to you; seek and you will find; knock and the door will be opened to you. For everyone who asks receives; he who seeks finds; and to him who knocks, the door will be opened." Matthew 7:7-8

Believer/Priest in Christ before God

- "I will do whatever you ask in my name, so that the Son may bring glory to the Father. You may ask me for anything in my name, and I will do it." John 14:13-14
- "Since we have confidence to enter the Most Holy Place by the blood of Jesus, . . . let us draw near to God." Heb. 9:19 (also 1 Pt.2:5, 9; Rev. 1:6)

Types of Prayer (Ep.6:18)

1. Confession-1 Jn.1:9; Daniel 9:5
2. Adoration/Praise-Ps.34:11; 103:1
3. Thanksgiving-Col.4:2; Phil.4:6
4. Petitions/Supplications/Requests-James 1:5-8; Ps.142:1; Heb.5:7
5. Intercession for Others- James 5:16; Acts 8:24; 2 Timothy 2:1

How To Pray

1. Persistence-Luke 11:5-9; 18:1; Ephesians 6:18
2. Boldness/Confidence - Heb. 4:16
3. Reverence-Is. 66:2;Ps.111:9; 89:7
4. Alert - Col.4:2; Luke 21:26
5. Forgiving - Mt.6:12-15; 18:21-35; Ephesians 4:32.

Steps to Prayer

1. Confession - Psalm 66:18
2. Thanksgiving - Ephesians 5:20
3. Intercession - Ephesians 6:18
4. Petition for Needs - Eph. 6;18

Hindrances to Prayer

1. Lack of Faith - Matt. 21:22; Mark 11:24; Phil.4:6 (anxious)
2. Wrong Motive - James 4:2-3
3. Sin - Psalm 66:18
4. Hard Heart to others - Prov. 21:13
5. Strife in home - 1 Peter 3:7
6. Pride - Job 35:12-13
7. Carnal/No Spirit - Eph. 6:18
8. Disobedience/Rebellion- Eph.6:18
9. Against God's General Will - 1 Jn. 5:14-15 (Must know God's Word)
10. Against God's Specific Will - 2 Cor.12:8-9 (Trust Unknown Plan)

Breakdown of the Lord's Prayer

Our Father - close, personal , familiar relationship with God in heaven - his abode and seat of sovereign rule is highest possible hallowed be your name - familiarity and sonship does not diminish our awe, fear and respect of our God your kingdom come - God's ultimate will is the coming of his Son's rulership and kingdom. You desire the fulfillment of this.

your will be done - You desire, first, that God's will be done on earth as it is in heaven - You desire God's will, not the will of man, nor your will, be done on earth in fullness and completion.

Give us today our daily bread - you also have your own will and desires that agree with God's but go beyond his general plan and will

Forgive us our debts, as we also have forgiven out debtors.-Forgive

Lead us not into temptation - Pray for your battle with sin & temptation deliver us from the evil one - reject the counter kingdom of darkness; ask for deliverance from situations

GENERATION WORD GW

www.generationword.com

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Additional Christian / Bible Study Resources

Bookmarks / Favorites

Aramaic Related – Peshitta

Archeology – Biblical – Ancient

Bible Accuracy

Bible Cultures – Tribes – Edomites

Bible Online

Downloadable MP3s

Interlinear Bibles, Septuagint Bibles (online and PDFs)

Bible Study Topics

Apologetics – Answering the Tough Questions

Specific Topics Related to God's command to kill in the OT

Bible Study Recommendations (for Personal Edification /Growth)

Computer Bible Software / Apps

New Testament Greek Study Web Sites

Septuagint (LXX) Web Sites

Interlinear Bibles

Bible Study Guides / Tools

Online / Virtual Libraries and Resources

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Bookmarks / Favorites

Aramaic related - Peshitta

1500 year-old ‘ Syriac ‘ Bible found in Ankara, Turkey

2012 February The Living Torah

A Compendious Syriac Dictionary Free Download & Streaming Internet Archive

AENT – Aramaic English New Testament (Peshitta) Netzari.org TheRefinersFire.org
Review (opposing) of Andrew Gabriel Roth’s Aramaic English New Testament , 5th Edition
A Review (opposing) of Andrew Gabriel Roth’s AENT - Nazarene Space
Aramaic Primer (Part 1) Aramaic Primer (Part 2) [Video]
Note: Roth holds view that Aramaic Peshitta (in original version) has supremacy over Greek texts.

abnsat - Aramaic Broadcasting Network

aent.org Aramaic English New Testament The official Messianic Peshitta Study Bible

Ancient Aramaic Audio Files

Ancient Aramaic Bible translation project notes

Ancient Aramaic Bible Translation Project.

ANTIOCH AND SYRIAC CHRISTIANITY - Aramaic Democratic ...

Apostle Paul a Righteous Jew who loved Torah not a Hellenist or a Pagan or a Christian he was a Netzari Yehudi

Aramaic Bible Translation

Aramaic Bible, Disciples New Testament, Genesis, Exodus, Jonah, Daniel, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Zechariah, Malachi.

Aramaic Democratic Organization

Aramaic Designs About the Aramaic Language

Aramaic Designs Welcome! - Aramaic Translations, Aramaic Tattoos

Aramaic Herald An Aramaic Resource Guide

Aramaic New Testament - Cuil

Aramaic New Testament - Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia aramaic old testament - Google Search

Aramaic Peshitta Bible Repository -- THIS LINK IS TO A DRUID BLOG

Aramaic Peshitta Primacy Proof Online

Aramaic Primacy — Was the New Testament first Written in Aramaic

Aramaic Primacy, Hebrew Primacy & Dump the Greek

Aramaic Pshitta Tanakh in English פשיטתא

Aramaic Publications by the Way

Aramaic Thoughts with Benjamin Shaw on StudyLight.org

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Aramaic

AramaicNT.com

Assyrian Church News

Baruch ben Daniel, showing mercy and lovingkindness without the big user fees!

Beth Mardutho Home ܒܝܬ ܡܕܘܬܐ

Beth Mardutho Home ܒܝܬ ܡܕܘܬܐThe Syriac Institute

Beth Mardutho The Syriac Institute

Bible Code Digest.com - Impressive Code Findings in the Aramaic New Testament bible history and translation

Biblical Aramaic - Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

Bibliotheca Aramaica

Blue Letter Bible - Commentaries - David Hocking - History and Authenticity of the Bible

coYHWHjerusalem Hebraic Roots Version

Did the Messiah Speak Aramaic or Hebrew (Part 2) by E.A.Knapp

Differences of Dialect The Aramaic New Testament

Difficult Verses Explained By the Peshitta Romans 57 Bible GeeksBible Geeks

Does the Aramaic Bible, or the Peshitta, call the God of the Bible Allah

Downloads Peshitta Aramaic-English Interlinear New Testament - SarapanPagi Portal

g06d) [not in] The Eastern Peshitta will brinson ferguson - Academia.edu

Galatia SIL

God's Learning Channel Watch - Magiera interview

Greek and Hebrew Interlinear Bible and Concordance

Hebrew Aramaic Peshitta

Hebrew Roots FAQ's and Myths Scriptures 9a1

Hebrew Roots Feature

Hebrew Streams Transliteration and Translations

History of the Bible

History of the Peshitta

Home

HRV Scriptures

http--aramaicnt.com-articles.htm

http--www.midyatcity.com-articles-syriac_aramaic.pdf

http--www.truth2u.org-2011-04-baruch-ben-daniel-the-aramaic-debate-examined.html

Internet Archive Search subjectPeshitta

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Interpreting Ancient Manuscripts Web

Introduction to Syriac-Aramaic -- Table Of Contents

Introduction to the Book of Daniel

Is the Peshitta Dialect the Same as Messiah's - No Mans Zone

Janet Magiera's PeshittO--Barnes and Noble Books - Peshitta.org

Jesus Spoke Hebrew busting the Aramaic Myth

Learn Assyrian (Aramaic) Language Online

Manuscript Evidence Leave No Doubt Yahshua Is Yahweh

MEI Editor's Blog Aramaic vs. Coptic Language Survival vs. Fossilization, Part I

Messianic Netzarim links to us and you

My Blog

My God, my God, why have you forsaken me The Aramaic New Testament

Netsari Press

Of His Kingdom There Shall Be No End Mashiyach Mashiyach Mashiyach

One Faith One People -

Outline of Daniel Bible.org - Worlds Largest Bible Study Site

Peshitta - Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia - Wikipedia Mobile

Peshitta Aramaic New Testament

Peshitta Aramaic NT

Peshitta Aramaic-English Interlinear New Testament

Peshitta Aramaic

Peshitta New Testament

Peshitta.org • Search

Peshitta.org • View topic - How does the AENT 4th edition compare to the others

Peshitta.org • View topic - Was Jesus Forsaken On The Cross (Part 1)

Please Help Me find OT-NT to read - Peshitta.org

Problems With Peshitta Primacy The Aramaic New Testament

Published scoops - Nazarene Judaism Nazarene.net

Shalom al Yisrael - Resources

Syriac Dictionary Online Translation LEXILOGOS

Syriac Peshitto - Aramaic Peshitta - Spanish Peshitta - Interlinear

Syriac Tools and Resources

Syriac Versions of the Bible, by Thomas Nicol

The Aramaic Bible Targums in their ... - Derek Robert George Beattie, Martin McNamara - Google Books

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Aramaic Bible Targums in their Historical Context

The Aramaic Language

The Bible in Assyrian Neo-Aramaic

The Book of Daniel by Robert I Bradshaw

The Comprehensive Aramaic Lexicon

The Development of the Canon of the New Testament - Peshitta

The Hebraic-Roots Version Scriptures - Institute for Scripture Research

The Living Torah

The Old Syriac Aramaic Gospels

The Original Aramaic Gospels in Plain English - Amazon Web ...

The Original Language of the New Testament Part One

The peshitta of the old testament - Aramaic Thoughts - Language Studies - StudyLight.org

The Refiner's Fire

The Semitic New Testament

The Syriac Language Syriac Catholic Church

the WORD on-line

TheoScholar Janet M. Magiera's Aramaic Peshitta New Testament Vertical Interlinear (3 Volumes)

TheoScholar The Importance of Aramaic in New Testament Studies

TheoScholar The Old Syriac Gospels and Their Relationship To the Peshitta

TheoScholar The Way International's Aramaic-English Interlinear New Testament

Thoughts on Aramaic Primacy — Was the New Testament first Written in Aramaic

Tyndale Tech You too can read the Syriac Bible

Ultimate Online Resources For Bible Scholars

Web Directory Ancient Versions of the Bible

Welcome to Dukhrana Biblical Research

Who are the Assyrians

Why did Yeshua cry out, My God, my God, why have you forsaken me

Archeology - Biblical - Ancient

A New Reconstruction of Paul’s Prison The BAS Library

A1 Finds Noah's Ark, Ark of Covenant and other discoveries!

Akeldama Jewish Virtual Library

arkdiscovery.com - Google Search

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Bible History Online - Pilate Inscription (Biblical Archaeology)

Biblical Archaeological Evidence for the Temple Base Institute

Biblical Decapolis in Jordan

Capernaum - The town of Jesus

Evidence from archaeology for the reliability of the Bible

Former Things Biblical Archaeology. The Historical Accuracy of the Bible

I AM, The Word, and The Comforter Archaeological Evidence Mount Sinai

Items of general Interest

Jerusalem at the Time of Jesus

Likely site of Jesus' trial opens to public - The Portland Press Herald - Maine Sunday Telegram

Location of Fort Antonia

Mt. Sinai Found

Oops! Jesus' Last Steps Are in the Wrong Place - The Daily Beast

Problems with Mt. Sinai in Saudi Arabia

Red Sea Crossing

Site of Jesus's trial may have been found in Jerusalem – archeologists The Muslim Times

Talmudic Evidence for the Messiah at 30 C.E. - Four Unique Events Point to Messiah and His Identity

The Antonia Fortress in Jerusalem Ritmeyer Archaeological Design

The Bible and Interpretation - Home

The Dead Sea Scrolls

Top Ten New Testament Archaeological Finds of the... Christianity Today

Uncovering Herod's Seaside Palace The BAS Library

Wyatt Archaeological Research

▸ Ron Wyatt Amazing Discoveries (Full) - YouTube

Bible Accuracy

8 misconceptions about the Bible

Archaeology Confirms The Biblical Account

Bible and Theology Answers • ChristianAnswers.Net

Bible Errors & Contraditions Refuted

Famous Bible Translation Mistakes Throughout History Parchment and Pen

Gospel Reliability.pdf - Christian Dance Canada

Holier Than Thou - Hebrew Text

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

https--bible.org-article-errors-greek-text-behind-modern-translations-cases-matthew-17-10-and-luke-2345

I AM, The Word, and The Comforter Archaeological Evidence Mount Sinai

KJV Only Debate Blog » Answering John MacArthur on the Ending of Mark

Liberal - Conservative

Physical and Literary Evidence That the Gospels Are Authentic

Rejection of Pascal's Wager Mathematical Errors in the Bible

The Letter Kills -- Literal Interpretation of the Bible

The Synoptic Problem Bible.org

The Verdict A Reply to Josh McDowell

Was the Apostle Paul a Historical Person

Why you shouldn't care what Daniel Wallace thinks about the King James Bible

Bible Cultures - Tribes - Edomites

Edomites

Esau-Edom, and the Trail of the Serpent - II

Ishmael, Edom, and Israel and the 9-11 Attack Upon America - Mission to Israel

Mysteries Behind Our History Was Columbus Jewish - Chuck Missler - Koinonia House

Part 2 of a Series Who Are the Edomites - Chuck Missler - Koinonia House

Bible Online

Downloadable MP3 Versions

Academy of Ancient Languages

Ancient Aramaic Audio Files

Audio Bible

Audio Bibles by Faith Comes By Hearing - Audio Bible MP3 - Hosanna

Bibles.net - The #1 Online Collection of Bibles and Biblical Resources

Free Audio Bible Downloads

Free Audio Bible to Download Listen or Read Online

Free Bible commentaries for mobile users

Free MP3 Audio Bible Downloads

Free MP3 Audio Bibles Download-CD NIV, NKJV, KJV, NIrV, NAB, GNB, CEV, NRSV, NET, WEB

Free MP3 Bible for Download - Perfect for iPod or MP3 Player

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

FREE MP3 DOWNLOADS English Audio Bible

Free mp3 of complete Bible « Noel Piper

Free mp3's Lost Books Bible Apocryphal Enoch

Free World English MP3 Bible Audio Files

Hebrew - English Bible by Books - Mechon-Mamre

Listen to a free Audio Bible online, or download a Free MP3 Bible

NETBible

Peshitta Aramaic New Testament

Read, Listen to, and Share the Bible - Bible.is

THE BIBLE EXPERIENCE FREE DOWNLOAD EXPERIENCE FREE DOWNLOAD THE BIBLE EXPERIENCE FREE DOWNLOAD kjv commentary bible.

The Bible in MP3 Audio Format - World English Bible

The Bible in MP3 Audio Format

The New Testament and Old Testament Bible on MP3 - Listen and Download

The NIV New Testament Bible on MP3 - Free to Listen and Download!

World English Bible New Testament Audio (FCBH)

World English Bible Old Testament World English Bible Free Download & Streaming Internet Archive

'The Book of Job' by Bullinger, E. W. (Ethelbert William), 1837-1913 - Page %CURPAGENUM% of %LASTPAGENUM%

A Faithful Version - Online Original Bible Restored

AramaicNT.com

Audio Bible Online

Best Sites For Online Bible Study eBibleTeacher

Bible Concordances Multi-version, Strong's, Englishman's, NASEC

Bible Exposition from David A Bayliss

Bible History Online - International Standard Bible Encyclopedia

Bible History Online Images and Resources for Biblical History

Bible Study Tools Online - Verses, Commentaries, Concordances, Verses, Parallel Versions

Bible.com - The Bible Online, Bible Prayer Room, Christian Community, Market Place and more..

biblegateway.com A searchable online Bible in over 100 versions and 50 languages.

BiblePlan -- Helping You Read The Bible

biblos.com Search, Read, Study the Bible in Many Languages

Blue Letter Bible - Home Page

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Books of the Bible - Bible - Catholic Online

Books of the Bible

Compare texts - BibleWorks 8 - Guides at Beardslee Library

coYHWHjerusalem - Hebraic Roots Bible

DASV Bible [Digital American Standard Version, 2009]

Deuterocanon Bible Second Canonical Books Deuterocanonical Books

Deuterocanonical Apocrypha

Differences of Dialect The Aramaic New Testament

Dt - BIBLIJA.net - the Bible on the Internet

eBible.org - read and download the Holy Bible eBibleBibles.com File Listing

Faithful New Testament Bible - www.faithfulbible.com-nt-index.htm

Fred Millers Revised KJV -- BIBLE INDEX

Free Audio Bible Download Faith Comes By Hearing

Free E-Books - Nazarene Media

FREE Illustrated Bible

Free MP3 Audio Bible Downloads

Free NET Bible and Thousands of Bible Studies Bible.org - Worlds Largest Bible Study Site

Greek New Testament Editions

Hebrew - English Bible - Mechon-Mamre 1917 JPS

Hebrew - English Bible - Mechon-Mamre

Holy Bible Search Engine Free Online Holy Bible Tools & Website Study Aids

Home academic-bible.com

http--toolserver.org-~magnus-biblebay.php http--www.faithfulbible.com-nt-index.htm

Jewish Bible (JPS 1917)

Joanne's Inspiration Site

John 1 Amplified Bible YouVersion.com

John 11 (ESV) - Biblia.com

Judeo-Christian Research

katapi home page Life Issues Bible - Provides Solutions for Life's Issues

LITV Bible.pdf - TheWordNotes.com

Lost Books Bible Apocryphal Enoch Nephilim

NEW ADVENT BIBLE Genesis 1

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

New Jerusalem Bible - Bible - Catholic Online

Online Bible - JPS Tanakh 1917

Online Bible Commentaries List

Online Bible Study Tools and Resources - StudyLight.org has the largest collection of Bible Study Resources on the internet!!

Online Bible

Online Greek Interlinear Bible

Online Parallel Bible Weaving God's Word into the Web

Online Translations of the Bible

oremus Bible Browser

Original Sources for the Bible - DeeperStudy.com

Peshitta Aramaic-English Interlinear New Testament

Psalm 151 Deuterocanon or the Deuterocanonical Books St-Takla.org

Psalms 151-155, Translated by W. Wright, 1886

Read The Bible Online

Skeptic's Annotated Bible - Quran - Book of Mormon [WARNING]

StudyLight.org - Your Gateway to Advanced Bible Study Tools for FREE

Summa Scriptura For many believers an undiscovered treasure trove of blessing!

Tanakh Hebrew Bible + Samaritan Septuagint Peshitta Targum Vulgate

The Bible Reader's Museum

The Companion Bible Condensed Online Study Bible

The Complete Companion Bible

The Hebrew Names Version of the World English Bible

The New Bible.com

The Schocken Bible - Index

The Tanakh [Full Text] Jewish Virtual Library

Unbound Bible

Untitled Document

Virtual Christianity Bibles

Web Directory English Bible Versions

World English Bible (WEB) by - Books Should Be Free

Young's Translation Publisher's Note & Preface (1898)

תנ״ך The Holy Scriptures A New Translation (JPS 1917) « the Open Siddur Project

6 Version English Interliner NT Bible [PDF]

(Wycliff, Purvey-Wycliff, Tyndale (1534 and 1526 variants), Geneva, JKV)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Interlinear Bibles, Septuagint Bibles (Online and PDFs)

NLT Interlinear

Bible Hub

Mounce Reverse Interlinear NT

Scripture 4 All - TR - Greek

Scripture 4 All - Hebrew

QBible - Hebrew-Greek-Aramaic

StudyLight Interlinear Search

Westcott-Hort Greek [PDF]

Kata Biblon including Septuagint

Greek Septuagint (Parallel English)

English Septuagint (Parallel KJV)

Apostolic Polyglot Bible [PDF]

Apostolic Polyglot Interlinear

NT Aramaic (Peshitta) and Greek

Peshitta (NT) Aramaic-Greek

StudyBible.info

The Unbound Bible

Berean Interlinear (NT)

Septuagent (LXX) Finder

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Bible Study Topics

7 Step-by-Step Bible Study Methods
https://www.olivetree.com/blog/7-step-bible-study-methods/

Interpretation of the Bible
http://www.theopedia.com/Interpretation_of_the_Bible

Biblical typology:
http://www.theopedia.com/Biblical_typology

Exegesis
http://www.theopedia.com/Exegesis

Hard Sayings of the Bible, by Kaiser, Davids, F.F. Bruce, Brauch:
http://crusadefortruth.com/links/PDFS/Hard_Sayings_Of_The_Bible.pdf

The Four Gospels: Some Comparative Overview Charts
http://catholic-resources.org/Bible/Four_Gospel_Chart.htm (PDF is available)

NET Bible - Synopsis of the Four Gospels
http://bible.org/sites/bible.org/files/ntsynopsis_download_ebook.pdf [PDF]

Conflicts between the Gospel of John and the remaining three (Synoptic) gospels
http://www.religioustolerance.org/chr_john.htm

The Synoptic Problem, by Daniel B. Wallace:
http://bible.org/article/synoptic-problem

The Four Gospels are Similar, NOT Identical:
http://www.ecclesia.org/truth/gospels.html

David's Interactive Bible Charts Page
https://biblemegasite.com/bible-charts.html

A few more study resources:

http://www.bereanbibleinstitute.org/

https://www.bereanbiblesociety.org/

http://praisehimnow.com/

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Apologetics – Answering the Tough Questions:

http://gotquestions.org

http://carm.org/

http://www.ecclesia.org/truth/defending.html

http://www.whatchristianswanttoknow.com/

http://www.neverthirsty.org/pp/archive-of-bible-questions/index.html

http://hermeneutics.stackexchange.com/questions/

http://www.answering-islam.org/ (Directled at Muslims, but has some good general apologetics info.)

http://bibleresearchtools.com/textual-criticism/

75 Bible Questions – Your Instructors Pray You Won't Ask http://www.garynorth.com/75_BIBLE_QUESTIONS.pdf [PDF]

Why You Can Believe the Bible
http://www.everystudent.com/features/bible.html

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Specific Topics related to God's command to kill in the OT:

How Could God Command Killing the Canaanites?
http://enrichmentjournal.ag.org/201004/201004_138_Canannites.cfm

Killing the Canaanites: A Response to the New Atheism's "Divine Genocide" Claims http://www.equip.org/article/killing-the-canaanites/

The Canaanites: Genocide Or Judgment?
https://bible.org/article/canaanites-genocide-or-judgment

Canaanite Culture and Religion http://history-world.org/canaanite_culture_and_religion.htm

Canaanites – Bible Encyclopedia
http://www.christiananswers.net/dictionary/canaanites.html

Cana, Canaanites – Catholic Encyclopdia
http://www.newadvent.org/cathen/03569b.htm

God's Just Destruction of the Canaanites
http://www.apologeticspress.org/APContent.aspx?category=12&article=1630

God and the Canaanites: A Biblical Perspective (includes discussion about herem)
https://www.probe.org/god-and-the-canaanites/

The Abominations of the Canaanites (David Padfield) [PDF]
http://www.padfield.com/acrobat/history/canaanite-abominations.pdf

How Many People Did God Kill?
http://godlessgeeks.com/LINKS/godkills.htm

What Made It Okay for God to Kill Women and Children In the Old Testament? [John Piper] Text+Video
]http://www.desiringgod.org/interviews/what-made-it-ok-for-god-to-kill-women-and-children-in-the-old-testament

Why Did God Tell the Jews It Is Okay to Kill the Canaanites?
http://www.denisonforum.org/faith-questions/21-bible/51-why-did-god-tell-the-jews-to-kill-the-canaanites

The Conquest of Canaan

"When you have crossed the Jordan into the land of Canaan, then you shall drive out all the inhabitants of the land from before you, destroy all their engraved stones, destroy all their molded images, and demolish all their high places; you shall dispossess the inhabitants of the land and dwell in it, for I have given you the land to possess." (Nu 33:51-53 NKJV)

God commanded the Israelites not only to march into Canaan and dispossess the existing inhabitants, but to kill them all (Dt 7:1-5). In fact, God warned the Israelites that if they did not drive out the inhabitants, "I will do to you as I thought to do to them" (Nu 33:56). His wise plan: "I will not drive them out from before you in one year, lest the land become desolate. Little by little I will drive them out from before you, until you have increased, and you inherit the land" (Ex 23:29-30 NKJV).

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Rationale for God's Action

Critical scholars and well-meaning contemporary commentators frequently condemn God for these orders and the Hebrews for carrying them out. In a day when we read of the horrors of ethnic cleansing in Rwanda, Bosnia, and elsewhere, what can we say to defend such a course of action? God Himself said that if the Israelites did not remove these people and their idolatry from the land, they would become infected and suffer a like fate (Dt 7:4). Moreover, a study of Canaanite religion reveals that base sex worship prevailed among them and religious prostitution thrived. Presumably in time society would become so depraved and sexually transmitted diseases so widespread that the Canaanites would almost self-destruct.

Furthermore, in the counsels of divine justice, there seems to be a quota of iniquity that God permits before He punishes a people either in a minor way or by obliteration. And it seems that God will deal with a nation when it has reached such a place. This is not pure speculation. In Ge 15 God was having a conversation with Abraham that concerned His promise to give Palestine to Abraham's descendants in perpetuity. In the process, He said that the promise did not mean that the Hebrews would always inhabit the land. In fact, they would be out of the land and held in bondage in a strange land (Egypt) for four hundred years (v. 13).

Finally, at the end of that time, the Hebrews would return to Palestine, "for the sin of the Amorites has not yet reached its full measure" (v. 15:16 NIV). After the four hundred years of bondage in Egypt, the Hebrews left in the Exodus and entered Canaan. Then, God commanded them to exterminate the Amorites (Dt 20:17). Evidently by that time the sin of the Amorites had reached "full measure."

God will clearly judge the sin of the nations when they are "ripe for punishment" (Ge 15:16 REVISED ENGLISH BIBLE). We may wonder out loud whether Sodom and Gomorrah had reached their quota of iniquity when destroyed by divine judgment (Ge 19), or whether Pompeii and the other cities at the foot of Mount Vesuvius had reached that point in A.D. 79. When we learn from the excavations about the degree to which Pompeii was given over to sexual preoccupation, we may conclude that life in the city was very base. We may also wonder about the iniquity quotas of modern cities and countries.

Source: Nelson's New Illustrated Bible Manners and Customs

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Harmony of the Four Gospels (The Fourfold Gospel)

The Fourfold Gospel by J. W. McGarvey and Philip Y. Pendleton, was published in book form in 1914 by Standard Publishing, Cincinnati; it was first issued quarterly in 1905 as Standard Bible Commentary. The expanded electronic version has been transcribed from a copy of the 1914 edition. The electronic text was released into the public domain in 1993 as note files for the Online Bible. This version corrected typographical mistakes of the original and updated the reference system. The editor has continued the editorial process in this edition.

The Fourfold Gospel is an incomparable tool for the study of the life of Christ. The texts of the four Gospels have been woven together. The reader is alerted to the change from one Gospel narrative to another by parenthetical (a) (b) (c) or (d), representing Matthew, Mark, Luke and John respectively. The editor has updated to some extent the grammar and spellings of the original work. Superfluous comments or outdated notes have been eliminated. Occasionally the editor has inserted his own comment on a verse and so indicated by the parenthetical insertion of (JES). The Scripture version is a modernized American Standard Version, i.e., the old English has been modernized. The reader should be aware that no two scholars are in total agreement as to the chronological order of certain incidents in the life of Christ. The lengthy discourses of Jesus have been eliminated from this student version because class assignments will require students to research these discourses on their own.

http://bibleprofessor.com/files/FourGospels.pdf [PDF]

The Complete Sayings of Jesus – Arthur Hinds

This is the original KJV version of the publication you are now reading. Published in 1927, it is in the public domain. Copies of the original KJV version can be freely read online or downloaded:

http://www.sacred-texts.com/bib/csj/ [Online]

http://www.thecarafcentre.org.uk/pdf/complete-sayings-jesus.pdf
(This electronic formatting of the original appears to [arguably] indicate a copyright, however it does provide unlimited 'permission' to freely download and distribute.) [This version provides PDF bookmarks to facilitate jumping around in the book.] [NOTE: THIS PDF VERSION IS MISSING CHAPTER LVIII]

http://www.christsbondservants.org/Church_Alive/wys-Ch%20The%20Complete%20Sayings%20of%20Jesus.ArthurHinds.pdf
(This PDF is formatted differently than the above PDF version. It also is complete, including chapter LVIII; plus, all the words spoken by Jesus are in red.)

You may also be interested in the "Book of Jesus"
www.bookofjesus.com/BookofJesus.pdf [PDF]
("The Book of Jesus", written as a play in script form – labeling the speakers and narrators)

Also, websites focusing on the words of Jesus:

http://thepathtolight.com/What_Jesus_Taught.html

http://www.thewords.com/thewords/table.htm (http://thewords.com)

http://www.preteristarchive.com/Books/pdf/1850_brown_discourses-sayings_1.pdf
(John Brown, 1850, Discourses and Sayings of Our Lord Jesus Christ)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Bible Study Recommendations (for Personal Edification / Growth)

Some Suggested Sets of Bibles:

KJV – King James Version (ideally with a Concordance, or separate Strong's Concordance)
NKJV – New King James Version
YLT – Young's Literal Translation
NASB – New American Standard Bible (ideally with Concordance, or Strong's Concordance)
ESV Study Bible (mainly for the Notes)
NIV Study Bible (mainly for the Notes)
New Living Translation Study Bible (again, for the Notes)
HCSB - Holman Christian Standard Study Bible w/ Life Essentials (by Gene A. Getz) which also has QR Code links to an extensive set of application videos by Getz for passages throughout the Bible.
Net Bible with Translator Notes (make sure you get the FULL set of notes, which are extensive, not the shorter version that comes with the free version)
WEB – World English BIble The World English Bible is based on the American Standard Version of the Holy Bible first published in 1901, the Biblia Hebraica Stutgartensa Old Testament (Masoretic Text), and the Greek (Byzantine) Majority Text New Testament. Several versions are available. (The OT uses Yahweh instead of LORD.) [Web] [Web2]

Recommendation: Especially if you obtain any of the above publications in their interactive digital versions, attempt to get them with cross-references to Strong's Hebrew/Greek concordance.

When exploring a passage in the Bible for personal study and edification, I find myself constantly comparing between the KJV (with Strong's), the HCSB (with Strong's) and the Net Bible (with Notes); then accessing notes of the various versions where clarification is necessary. If you want to stay with the Masoretic and Byzantine texts (as the KJV), then the WEB is recommended.

If you have access to the Internet, there are some excellent online Bible and Bible Study Tools resources available, for example:

BibleGateway.com
BibleHub.com
BibleStudyTools.com
BlueLetterBible.org
StudyLight.org
eBible.org/study/
afaithfulversion.org

The above lists are for the persons who desire studying God's word for personal application.

For the advanced student of the Bible, the best Bible study resources will allow you to study directly from the various Greek and Hebrew (and Aramaic) source texts, utilizing corresponding lexicons, interlinear referencing and historical and non-canonical religious texts (e.g., Josephus, Talmud, early church fathers, etc.) and a variety of commentaries.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Computer Bible Software for your Computer PC, Laptop, Tablet or Mobile Devices:

General Purpose Bible Reading and Study
Laridian.com
OliveTree.com

Note: the above software allow you to buy a publication once for any specific digital device they support, and then install (under your same name and license) on any other supported device for free.

e-Sword.net – Lots of free Bibles and Study Tools available via http://www.biblesupport.com/
The Sword Project - www.crosswire.org/sword/ (GNU public license software)

Bible Reading, Study and Research
BibleWorks.com
Logos.com
AccordanceBible.com

Logos and Accordance are available for Mac or Windows desktop and also have apps for iOS, iPhone and Android (Logos). Once you own, you can run either Mac or Windows.
Bibleworks (for Mac) can run in Wine or Virtualized (Virtualbox, VMware, etc.) on Windows.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

New Testament Greek Study Web Sites

Greek New Testament - No Greek fonts needed to read the Greek NT (NA26)on this site. Select the text by chapter. This site also has a nice search tool.

Biblon 2000 - This is a very nice site that allows you to click on words to see textual variants.

The Unbound Bible - You may choose from many languages and texts including the Greek NA 26, Textus Recptus (1550), and the majority text (Westcot-Hort). It uses the symbol font or Unicode to display the Greek text. Also check out their Greek Greek Parser and Lexicon.

Perseus New Testament - This site displays the Westcot-Hort Greek NT and will parse the Greek words as you click on them. There are many different display options in order to see the Greek text. Click on "Configure display" in the upper left corner to adjust the language and font.

GreekBible.com - (NA26)- You have your choice of displaying GNT passages in Symbol font, images, Athena font, Unicode (Palatino Linotype), or all caps. Includes one-click parsing and definitions.

The Bible Tool - This is a very nice online tool. You can customize the background and display morphology (parsing) and commentary information. To display the Greek texts, 1) click on "Bible Texts" (left sidebar). 2) scroll down to select your Greek text (e.g., Byzantine Majority Text, Septuagint, Textus Receptus, Tishendorf's, Unaccented Modern Greek, Westcott-Hort w/NA27 variants). 3) Enter your passage in the "by verse or passage" box.

The Greek New Testament - The Westcot-Hort GNT with NA26/27 variants. It uses the symbol font present on most computers.

Westcot-Hort Greek New Testament - The Christian Classics Ethereal Library with the Westcot-Hort GNT, (Unicode font)

Olive Tree Greek New Testament - The site has many different online Greek texts, but you must have one of the many Greek fonts downloaded on your machine. Links for downloads are available.

Crosswalk.com - Type in the desired passage in the search box and see both the Greek and English translation of the text. Click on any Greek word and automatically see definitions and concordance information. (You must download their Greek font.)

Interlinear Septuagint Greek and English - This great site provides free PDF's of interlinear texts of each book of the New Testament and Septuagint (Greek Old Testament).

Patriarchal Text (1904) of the Greek Orthodox Church - This text is great because it can be pasted into a Word document with all the accents, breathings, etc.

NT Greek Reading Notes - This site has the entire Greek New Testament in Word form using the Galaxy font. You can download the font from the site. It also looks like it has some PDF files, which don't require the font, but I was only directed to login to a Yahoo account.

HTML Bible - This site has the New Testament in parallel Greek and English versions for each verse. For other online Bibles see the home page HTMLBible.com.

SBL Greek New Testament with critical apparatus - This is the first critical Greek New Testament that has an open copyright for anyone to use.

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Septuagint (Greek Old Testament, LXX) Web Sites

http://ecmarsh.com/lxx-kjv/ - Parallel comparison of Septuagint vs Masoretic texts.

http://septuagint-interlinear-greek-bible.com/ - Interlinear texts of Greek NT and OT (Septuagint).

http://ecmarsh.com/lxx/index.htm - Download whole Bible or select a book to read, search, and play each chapter separately.

https://www.academic-bible.com/en/online-bibles/septuagint-lxx/read-the-bible-text/ - Tests of LXX as well as well as other OT and NT versions.

http://www.kalvesmaki.com/LXX/texts.htm - Septuagint Finder - directory of online resources for the study of the Septuagint and old Greek translations of Hebrew scriptures.

https://archive.org/details/septuagintversio1879bren - Brenton's LXX with the footnotes denoting where the ancient Alexandrian text is different from the given text.

http://unbound.biola.edu/ - The Unbound Bible – Multiple versions/translation

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

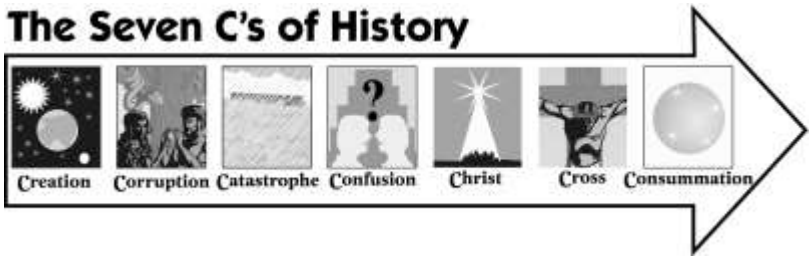
Interlinear Bibles (Online and PDFs)

NLT Interlinear
Bible Hub
Mounce Reverse Interlinear NT
Scripture 4 All - TR - Greek [software versions for Windows Desktop – Basic (free) and Pro]
Scripture 4 All - Hebrew [software versions for Windows Desktop – Basic (free) and Pro]
QBible - Hebrew-Greek-Aramaic
StudyLight Interlinear Search
Westcott-Hort Greek [PDF]
Kata Biblon including Septuagint
Greek Septuagint (Parallel English)
English Septuagint (Parallel KJV)
Apostolic Polyglot Bible [PDF]
Apostolic Polyglot Interlinear
NT Aramaic (Peshitta) and Greek
Peshitta (NT) Aramaic-Greek
The Unbound Bible - http://unbound.biola.edu/

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Bible Study Guides / Tools

7 Step-by-Step Bible Study Methods
https://www.olivetree.com/blog/7-step-bible-study-methods/



The Heart of Wisdom Curriculum – Reading Schedule
http://heartofwisdom.com/Acrobat/Bible1.pdf
(Using Narrated Bible, includes General Bible Timeline)

Skip Andrew's Chronological Reading Schedule [PDF]
(Chronological study of the Bible in a year)
http://www.micoc.org/study/cbrs_jan.php [online]

How to Study the Bible (Grace to You) http://www.gty.org/resources/positions/P16/How-to-Study-Your-Bible

The Companion Bible (Condensed) -- The Bullinger Bible
http://www.companionbiblecondensed.com/
(Downloadable PDFs of each book in the Bible, plus Introduction)

Dr. Constable's Expository Study Notes on the Bible
http://www.soniclight.com/constable/notes.htm
[Dallas Theological Seminary Professor's full expository notes on every book of the bible, updated annually. Downloadable as PDFs]

https://answersingenesis.org/bible-history/

A Brief Bible History: A Survey of the Old and New Testaments
http://www.ntslibrary.com/PDF%20Books/Brief%20Bible%20History%20-%20Machen.pdf

Links to Edersheim (pdf) The Life and Times of Jesus the Messiah:
http://www.holybooks.com/wp-content/uploads/The-Life-and-Times-of-Jesus-the-Messiah.pdf (complete)
Part 1: http://wesley.nnu.edu/wesleyctr/books/1001-1100/HDM1024.PDF (The Life and Times of Jesus the Messiah)
Part 2: http://wesley.nnu.edu/wesleyctr/books/1001-1100/HDM1025.PDF (The Life and Times of Jesus the Messiah)
The Temple and It's Services: http://wesley.nnu.edu/wesleyctr/books/1001-1100/HDM1026.PDF
Sketches of Jewish Social Life: http://wesley.nnu.edu/wesleyctr/books/1001-1100/HDM1027.PDF
Bible History of the Old Testament: http://hopefaithprayer.com/books/BibleHistoryOldTestament-Edersheim.pdf

(Edershiem is an in-depth study. Albert Edersheim (b. 1825 – d. 1889) wrote around the mid to latter 1800's, but his information is still being referenced today. Since Edersheim was a converted Jew, he draws on extensive research (including sacred Jewish documents, such as the Talmud) and personal understanding of the Jewish background in order to help us more fully understand Jesus' Life and the Times in which he lived.)
[I may not always fully agree with some of his theological conclusions, but its good information nevertheless.]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Online / Virtual Libraries and Resources

Online Christian Library
http://ntslibrary.com/

Christian Classics Ethereal Library
http://www.ccel.org/

The Bible Hub
http://biblehub.com/library/

Internet Christian Library
http://www.iclnet.org/

Westminster TS Web Scholarly Research Links
http://www.wts.edu/library/freeonline.html

Fuller – Online Books and Articles http://library.fuller.edu/library/research_help/online_books_journals.asp

Internet Archive (e-Books and Texts)
http://archive.org/details/texts

General Christian (and more) Resources
Bible History
TruthNet Christian Resources (http://truthnet.org/)
Internet Sacred Text Archive (Christian and more)
Internet Archive (religion and more -- "a non-profit library of millions of free books, movies, software, music, and more")
Digital Book Index (large collection of links to sacred and secular books)
Catholic Resources (large library of sacred information, including non-Catholic) Monergism (library of Reformed articles, media content)
Reformed Books Online
The NTS Library (online Christian library of virtual theological resources - Northwestern Theological Seminary)
National Library of Israel Judaica Electronic Resources

Catholic specific and some General Reference publications http://www.ecatholic2000.com/index.php

For example,
Shurer - A History Of The Jewish People In The Time Of Jesus Christ (Two Divisions In Five Volumes):
http://www.ecatholic2000.com/history6/untitled-02.shtml Division 1 Volume 1
http://www.ecatholic2000.com/history6/untitled-03.shtml Division 1 Volume 2
http://www.ecatholic2000.com/history6/untitled-04.shtml Division 2 Volume 1
http://www.ecatholic2000.com/history6/untitled-05.shtml Division 2 Volume 2
http://www.ecatholic2000.com/history6/untitled-06.shtml Division 2 Volume 3
http://www.ecatholic2000.com/history6/untitled-08.shtml Contents

See also:
http://juchre.org/schurer/schurer.htm (Table of Contents with links to online/downloadable volumes on google)

Archive.org [PDF, ePUB and more]

Christianity in Talmud and Midrash, R. Travers Herford http://archive.org/details/christianityinta00herfuoft] (Herford was a Unitarian scholar of Judaism)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

see also: http://unitariancommunications.blogspot.com/2010/12/r-travers-herford.html

The religion and worship of the synagogue - an introduction to the study of Judaism from the New Testament period, W. O. E. Oesterley http://archive.org/details/cu31924029155816 http://archive.org/details/religionworshipo00oest http://archive.org/details/worshipofsynagog00oestuoft

ccel.org [PDF and text formats]:
Apocrypha and Pseudepigrapha of the Old Testament in English, R.H.Charles http://www.ccel.org/ccel/charles/otpseudepig.html [PDF or plaintext]

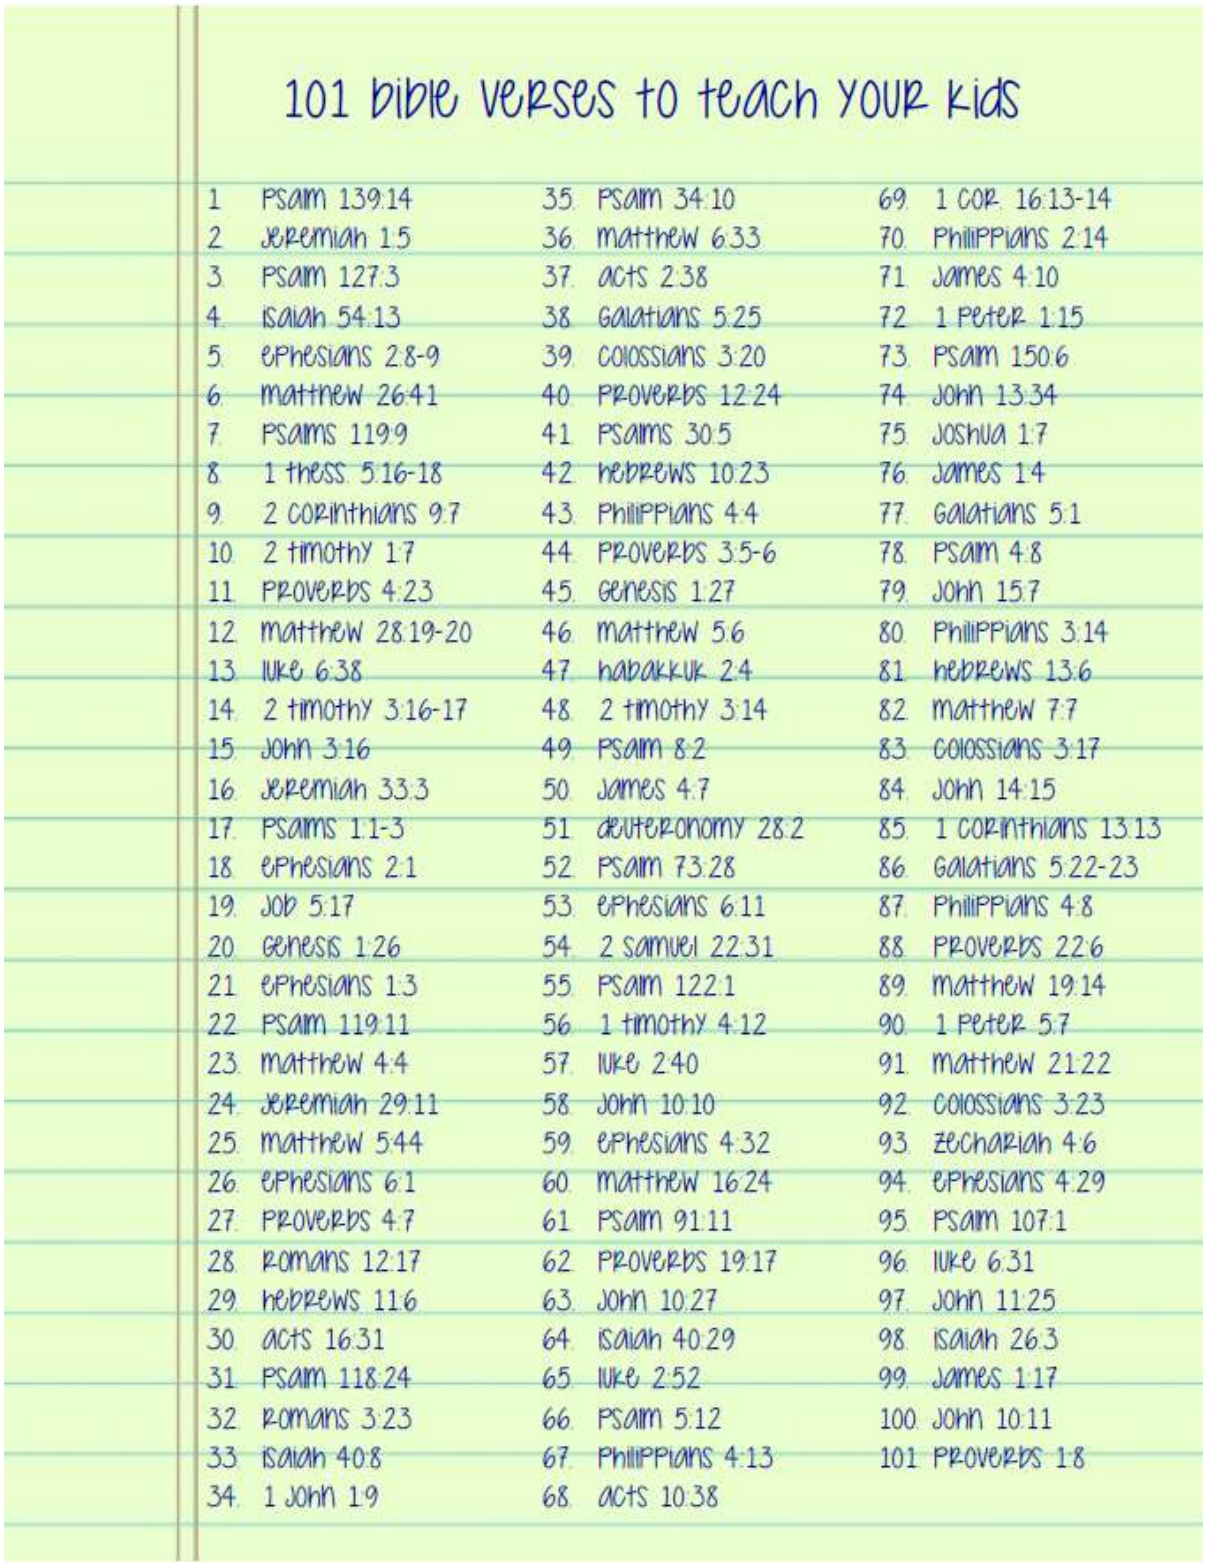
The Works of Flavius Josephus (including The Wars of the Jews, Antiquities of the Jews):
http://www.ncbible.info/MoodRes/History/WorksofFlaviusJosephus.pdf see also: http://www.josephus.org/

Christian Scholarship - Biblical / Theological / Philosophical [PDF] - includes excerpts and resource links to various views/perpsectives toward Christian biblical and theological scholarship, biblical anaylsis and criticism methodologies/developments, church history and denominations, systematic theology, innerrancy, interpretation, newer theological trends, heresies, archeology, theology and philosophy scholars that have impacted Christianity and current society, philosophical beliefs/reasoning/concepts, logic, argument fallacies, futures thinking, classical education concepts and methods, the impacts of Greek philosopy on Paul and the Bible, and more. [Compiled by –LY]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Quick References



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

50 Most Important Scriptures to Memorize

Colossians 2:10 | 2 Corinthians 9:8 | 2 Peter 1:3
Ephesians 3:20 | 2 Corinthians 3:4-5
Hebrews 2:1-3a | 2 Corinthians 2:14
Philippians 2:13 | Isaiah 41:10
Deuteronomy 30:11-14 | Numbers 13:30
Joshua 1:3 | Zechariah 4:10 | 2 Chronicles 16:9a
1 Corinthians 10:13 | Proverbs 24:16
Romans 8:6 | 2 Corinthians 12:9 | Proverbs 3:5-6
Philippians 4:8 | Colossians 3:1-3 | Ezekiel 36:26
2 Corinthians 5:17 | 2 Timothy 1:7 | Ephesians 6:10
1 John 4:18 | Romans 5:8 | Ephesians 3:17-19
Isaiah 26:3 | Joshua 17:17-18 | Joshua 17:17-18
Philippians 4:13 | Deuteronomy 2:24
Ephesians 1:18-19 | Titus 2:11-12 | Romans 8:1
Lamentations 3:22-23 | Psalm 90:14
2 Corinthians 10:4-5 | 2 Corinthians 6:2
Ephesians 1:3 | Ephesians 2:12-13
Colossians 1:21-22 | Psalm 1:1-3 | Psalm 19:7-8
Psalm 19:9-11 | 2 Corinthians 4:7
Jeremiah 29:11 | Galatians 2:20 | Romans 12:1-2

arabahjoy.com

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

101 bible verses to teach your kids

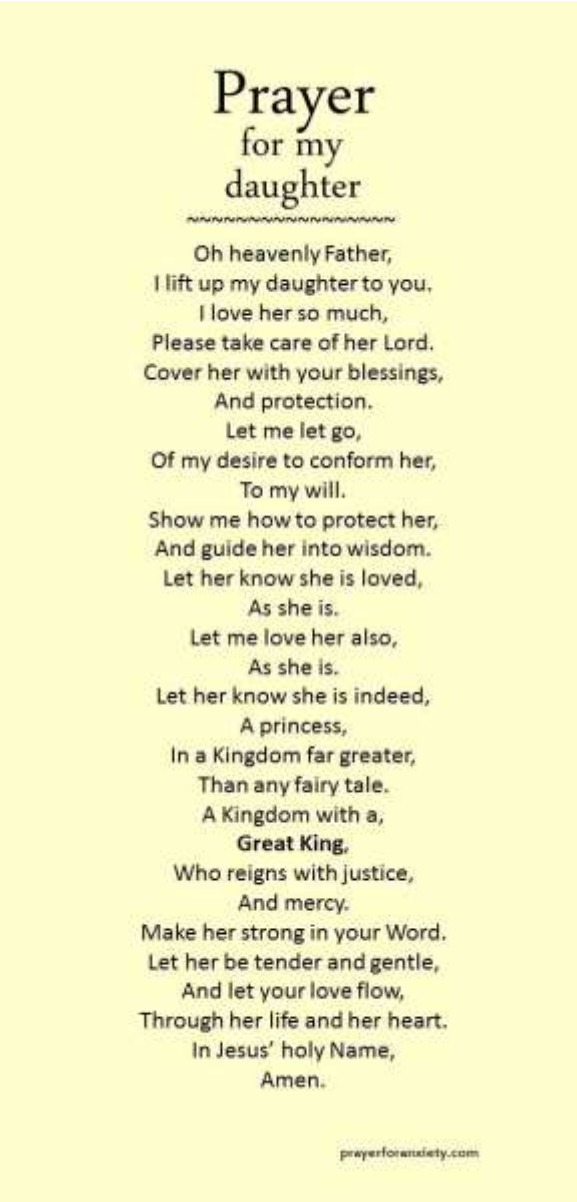
1.	Psalm 139:14	35.	Psalm 34:10	69.	1 Cor. 16:13-14
2.	Jeremiah 1:5	36.	Matthew 6:33	70.	Philippians 2:14
3.	Psalm 127:3	37.	Acts 2:38	71.	James 4:10
4.	Isaiah 54:13	38.	Galatians 5:25	72.	1 Peter 1:15
5.	Ephesians 2:8-9	39.	Colossians 3:20	73.	Psalm 150:6
6.	Matthew 26:41	40.	Proverbs 12:24	74.	John 13:34
7.	Psalms 119:9	41.	Psalms 30:5	75.	Joshua 1:7
8.	1 Thess. 5:16-18	42.	Hebrews 10:23	76.	James 1:4
9.	2 Corinthians 9:7	43.	Philippians 4:4	77.	Galatians 5:1
10.	2 Timothy 1:7	44.	Proverbs 3:5-6	78.	Psalm 4:8
11.	Proverbs 4:23	45.	Genesis 1:27	79.	John 15:7
12.	Matthew 28:19-20	46.	Matthew 5:6	80.	Philippians 3:14
13.	Luke 6:38	47.	Habakkuk 2:4	81.	Hebrews 13:6
14.	2 Timothy 3:16-17	48.	2 Timothy 3:14	82.	Matthew 7:7
15.	John 3:16	49.	Psalm 8:2	83.	Colossians 3:17
16.	Jeremiah 33:3	50.	James 4:7	84.	John 14:15
17.	Psalms 1:1-3	51.	Deuteronomy 28:2	85.	1 Corinthians 13:13
18.	Ephesians 2:1	52.	Psalm 73:28	86.	Galatians 5:22-23
19.	Job 5:17	53.	Ephesians 6:11	87.	Philippians 4:8
20.	Genesis 1:26	54.	2 Samuel 22:31	88.	Proverbs 22:6
21.	Ephesians 1:3	55.	Psalm 122:1	89.	Matthew 19:14
22.	Psalm 119:11	56.	1 Timothy 4:12	90.	1 Peter 5:7
23.	Matthew 4:4	57.	Luke 2:40	91.	Matthew 21:22
24.	Jeremiah 29:11	58.	John 10:10	92.	Colossians 3:23
25.	Matthew 5:44	59.	Ephesians 4:32	93.	Zechariah 4:6
26.	Ephesians 6:1	60.	Matthew 16:24	94.	Ephesians 4:29
27.	Proverbs 4:7	61.	Psalm 91:11	95.	Psalm 107:1
28.	Romans 12:17	62.	Proverbs 19:17	96.	Luke 6:31
29.	Hebrews 11:6	63.	John 10:27	97.	John 11:25
30.	Acts 16:31	64.	Isaiah 40:29	98.	Isaiah 26:3
31.	Psalm 118:24	65.	Luke 2:52	99.	James 1:17
32.	Romans 3:23	66.	Psalm 5:12	100.	John 10:11
33.	Isaiah 40:8	67.	Philippians 4:13	101.	Proverbs 1:8
34.	1 John 1:9	68.	Acts 10:38

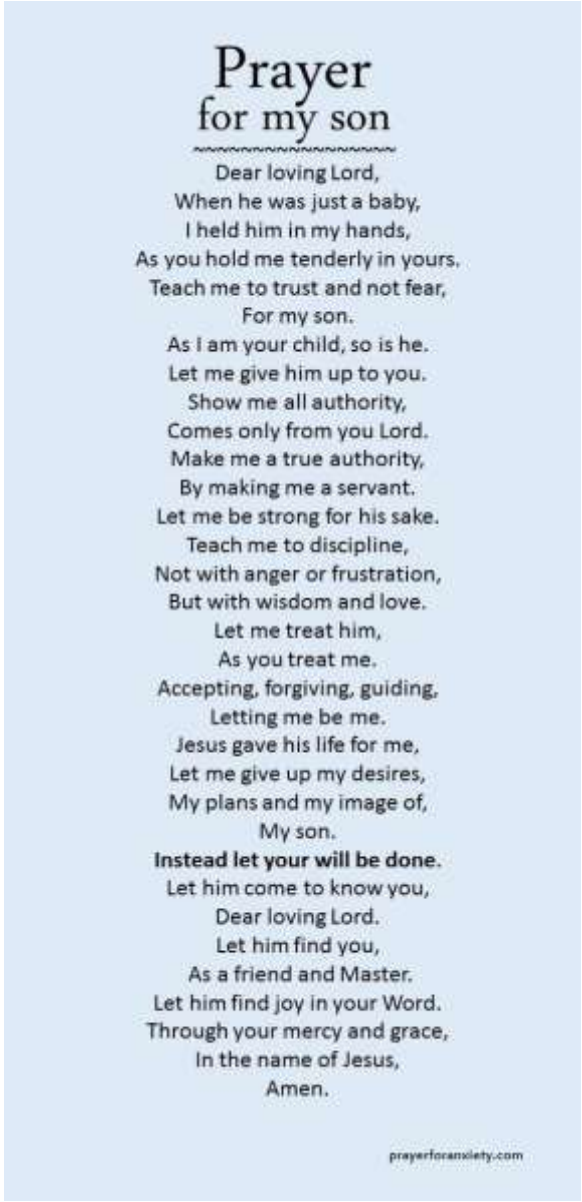
[Source: http://themamazone.com/101-bible-verses-teach-children/]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: http://keepingitpersonal.com/2012/02/pray-for-kids/]

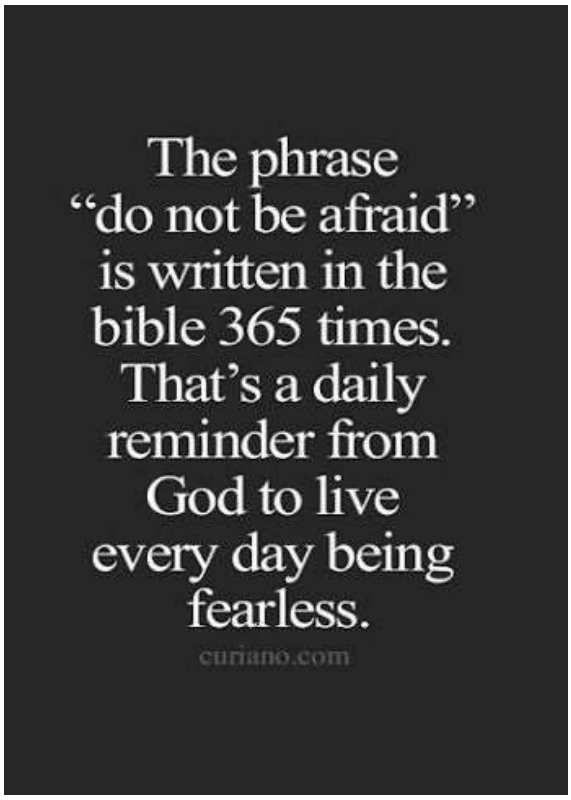
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



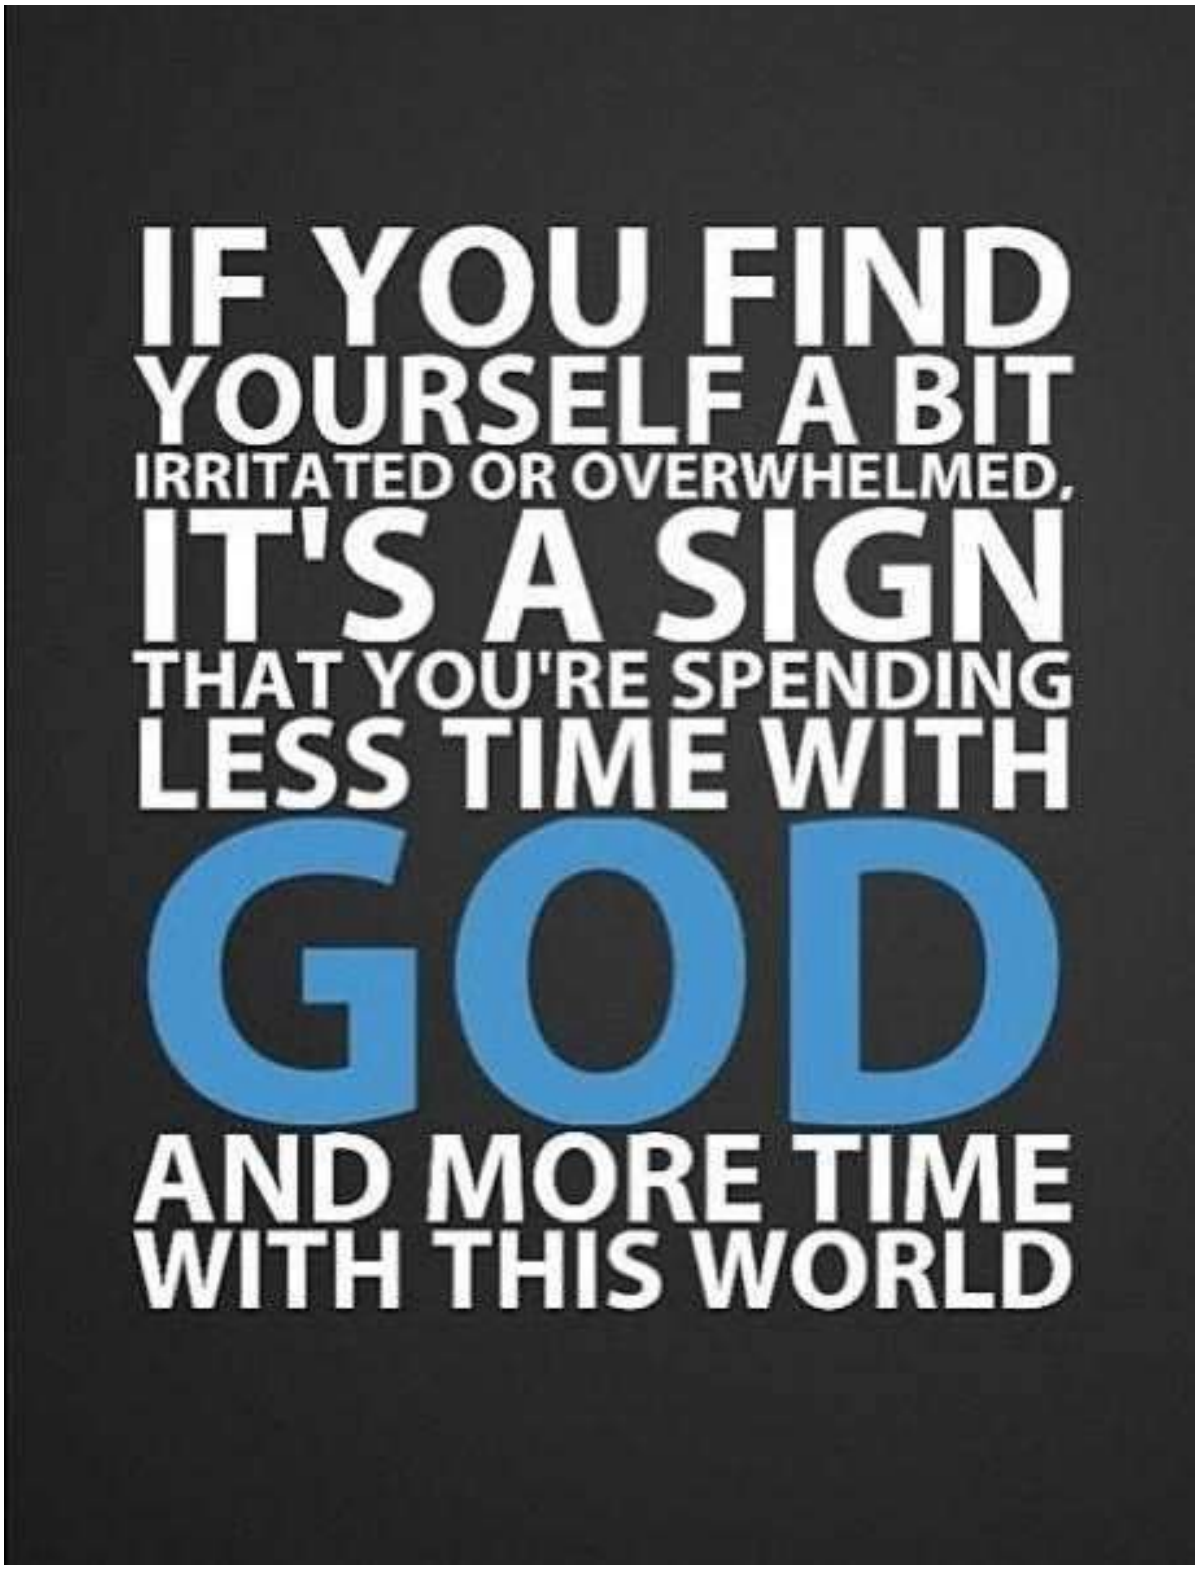


(alternate version of the image on previous page)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

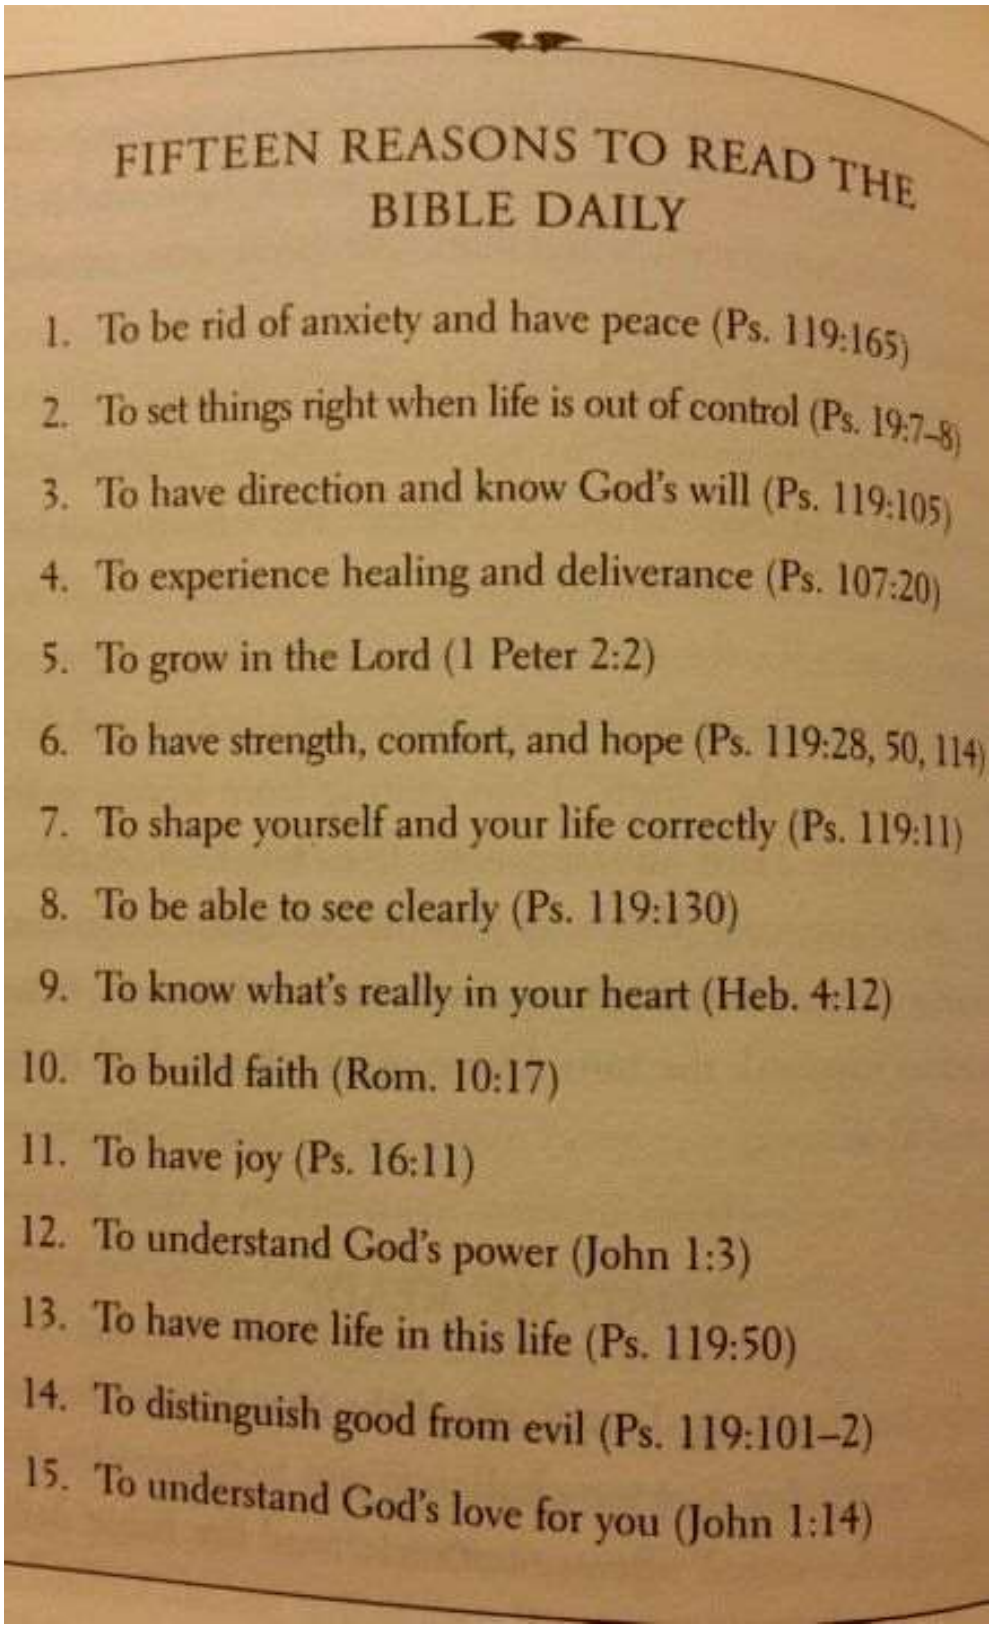


Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

The Phrase, “Do Not Be Afraid”, is written in the Bible 365 times.



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: http://www.babywisemom.com/2013/10/quotable-mondays-on-wednesday-time-with.html]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

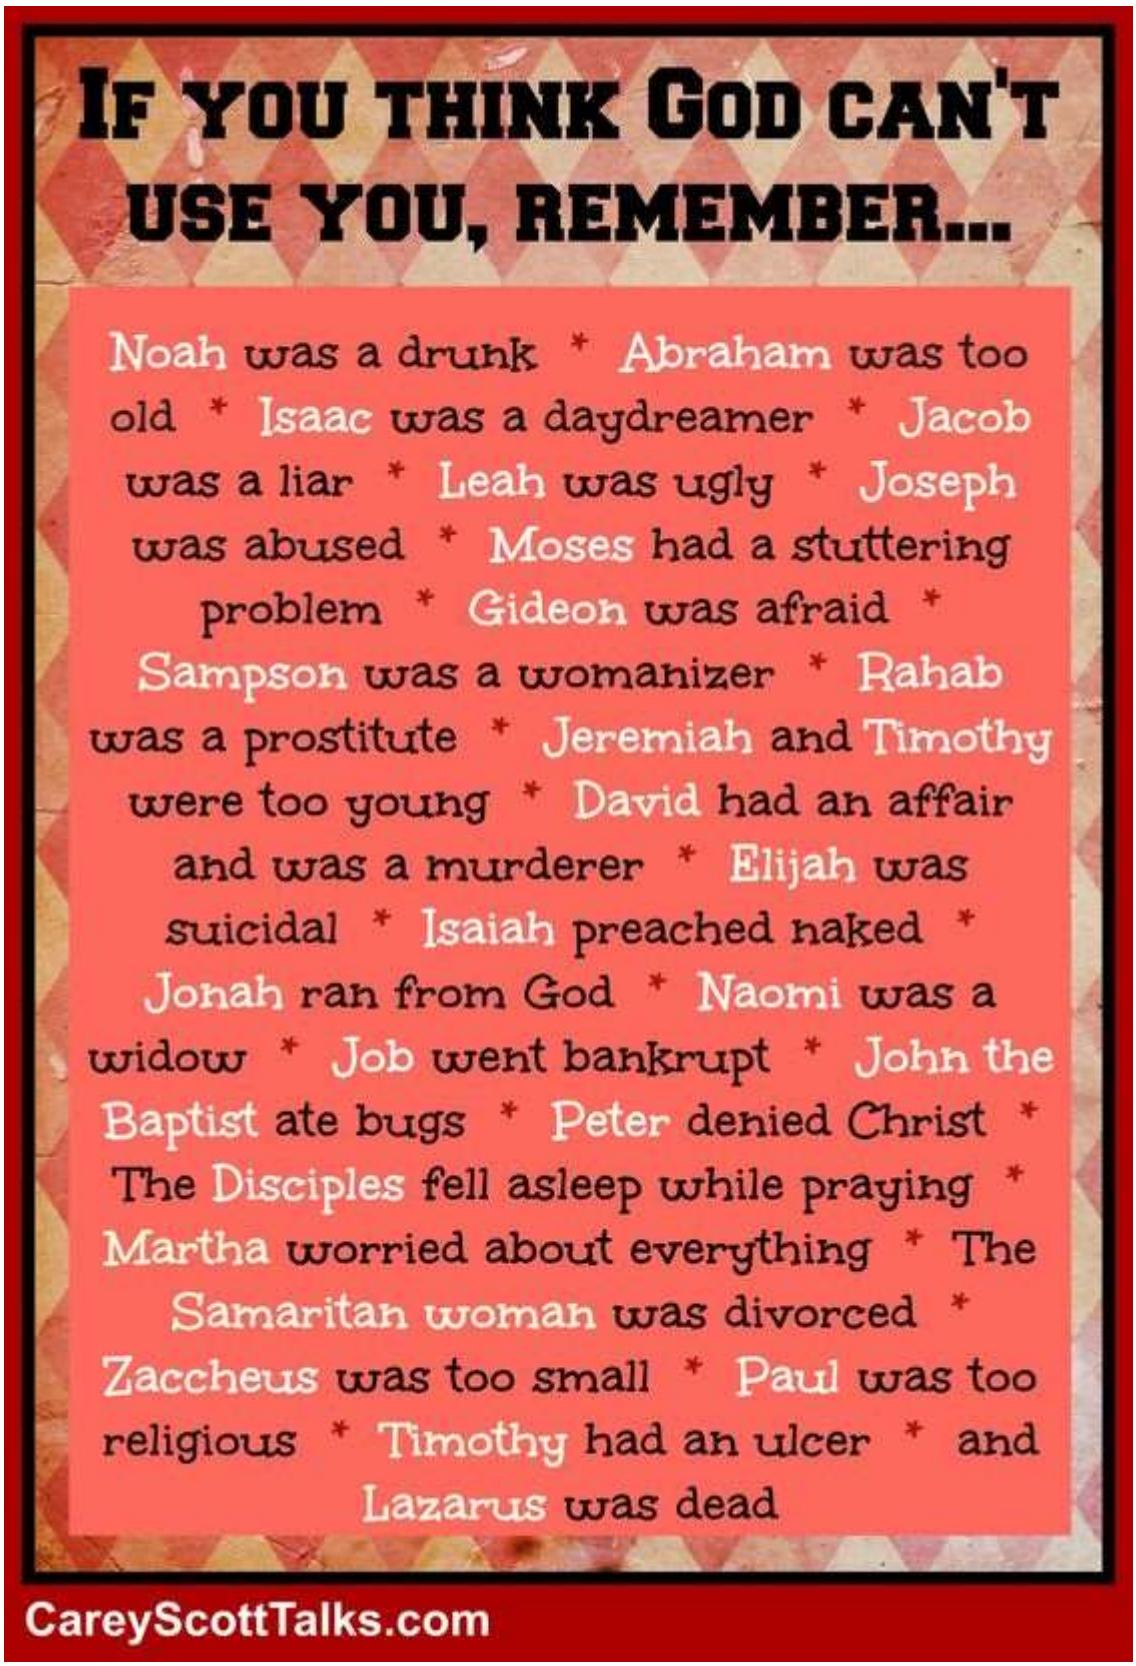
Fifteen Reasons to Read the Bible Daily

FIFTEEN REASONS TO READ THE BIBLE DAILY

1. To be rid of anxiety and have peace (Ps. 119:165)
2. To set things right when life is out of control (Ps. 19:7–8)
3. To have direction and know God's will (Ps. 119:105)
4. To experience healing and deliverance (Ps. 107:20)
5. To grow in the Lord (1 Peter 2:2)
6. To have strength, comfort, and hope (Ps. 119:28, 50, 114)
7. To shape yourself and your life correctly (Ps. 119:11)
8. To be able to see clearly (Ps. 119:130)
9. To know what's really in your heart (Heb. 4:12)
10. To build faith (Rom. 10:17)
11. To have joy (Ps. 16:11)
12. To understand God's power (John 1:3)
13. To have more life in this life (Ps. 119:50)
14. To distinguish good from evil (Ps. 119:101–2)
15. To understand God's love for you (John 1:14)

[Source: http://jesuslivingwater.tumblr.com/post/108143531395]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



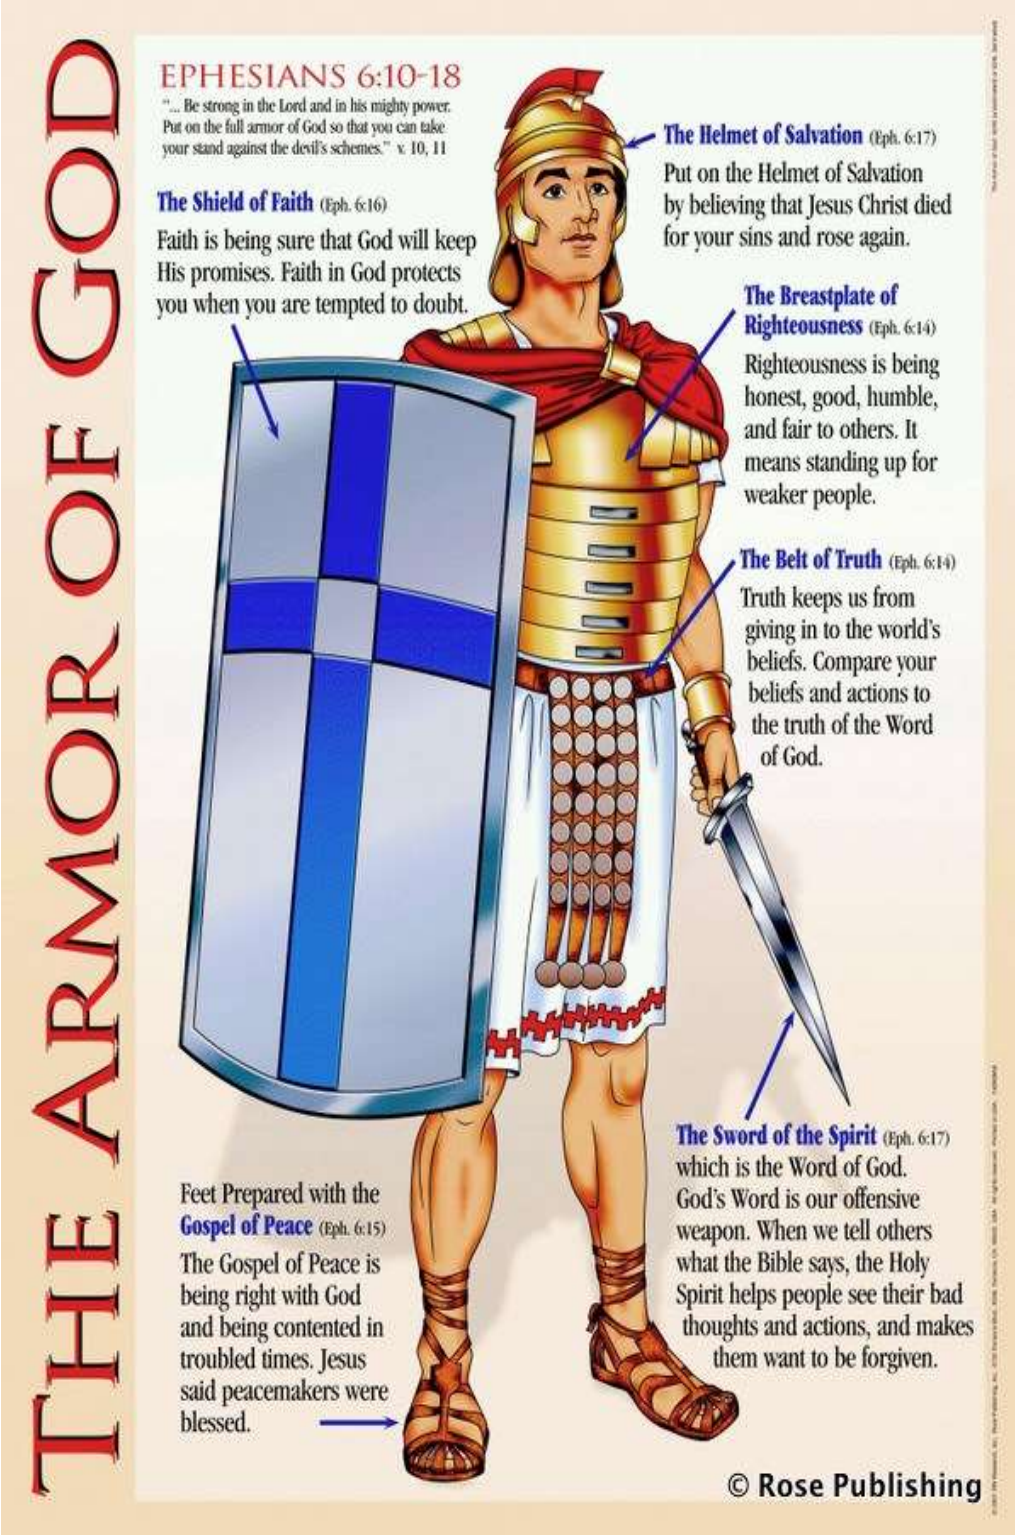
[Source: http://unbrokenbygrace.tumblr.com] "Eight Tests for Decision Making"

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

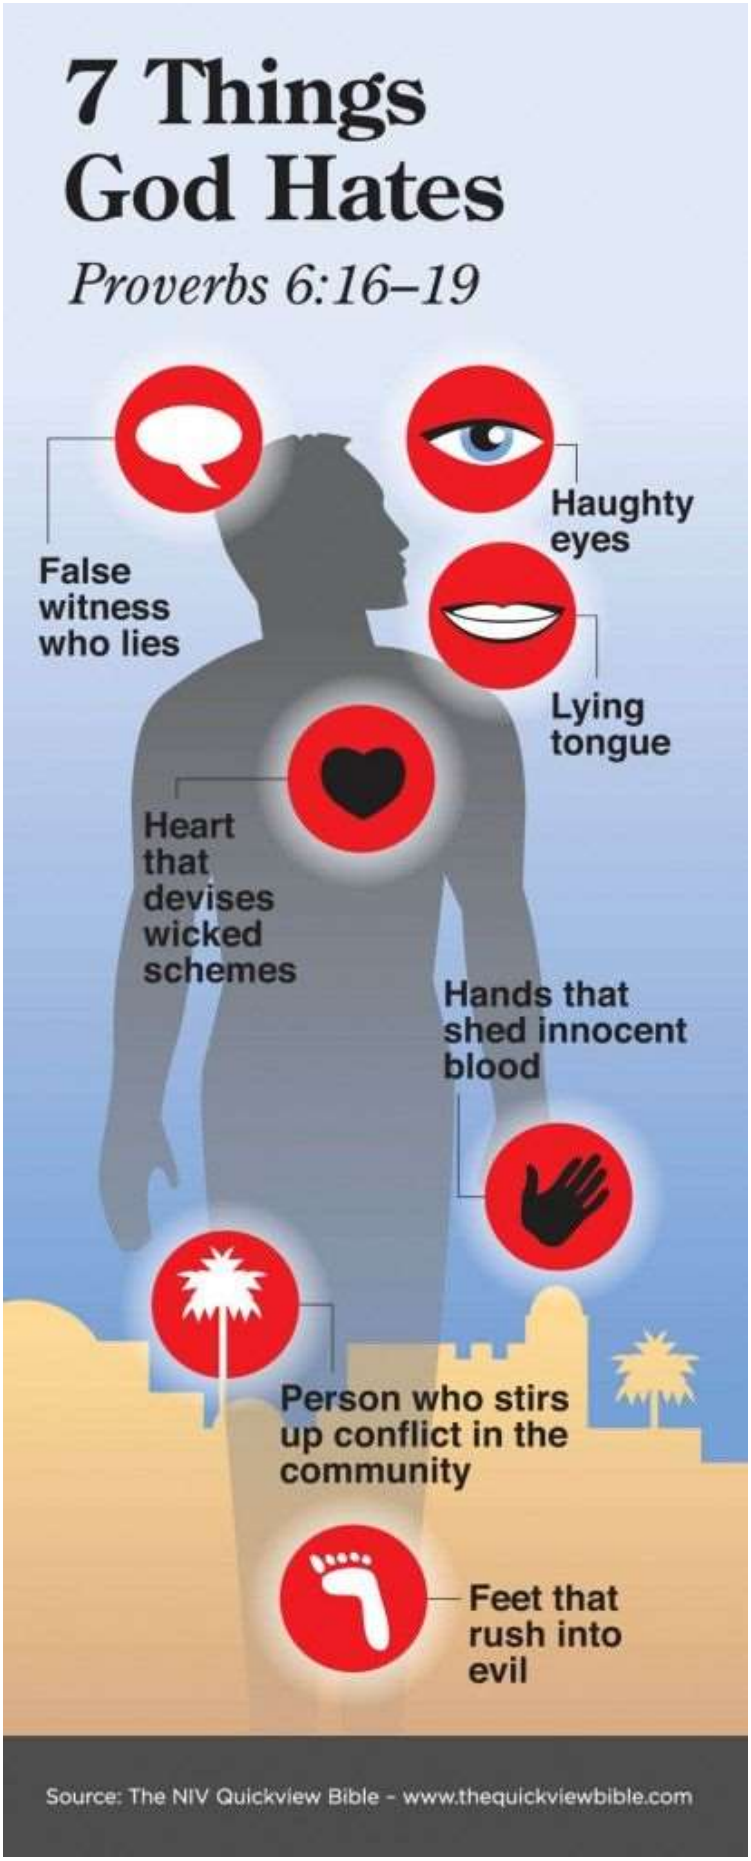
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

If You Think God Can't Use You, Remember…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



Proof that God Can Work Through Anyone

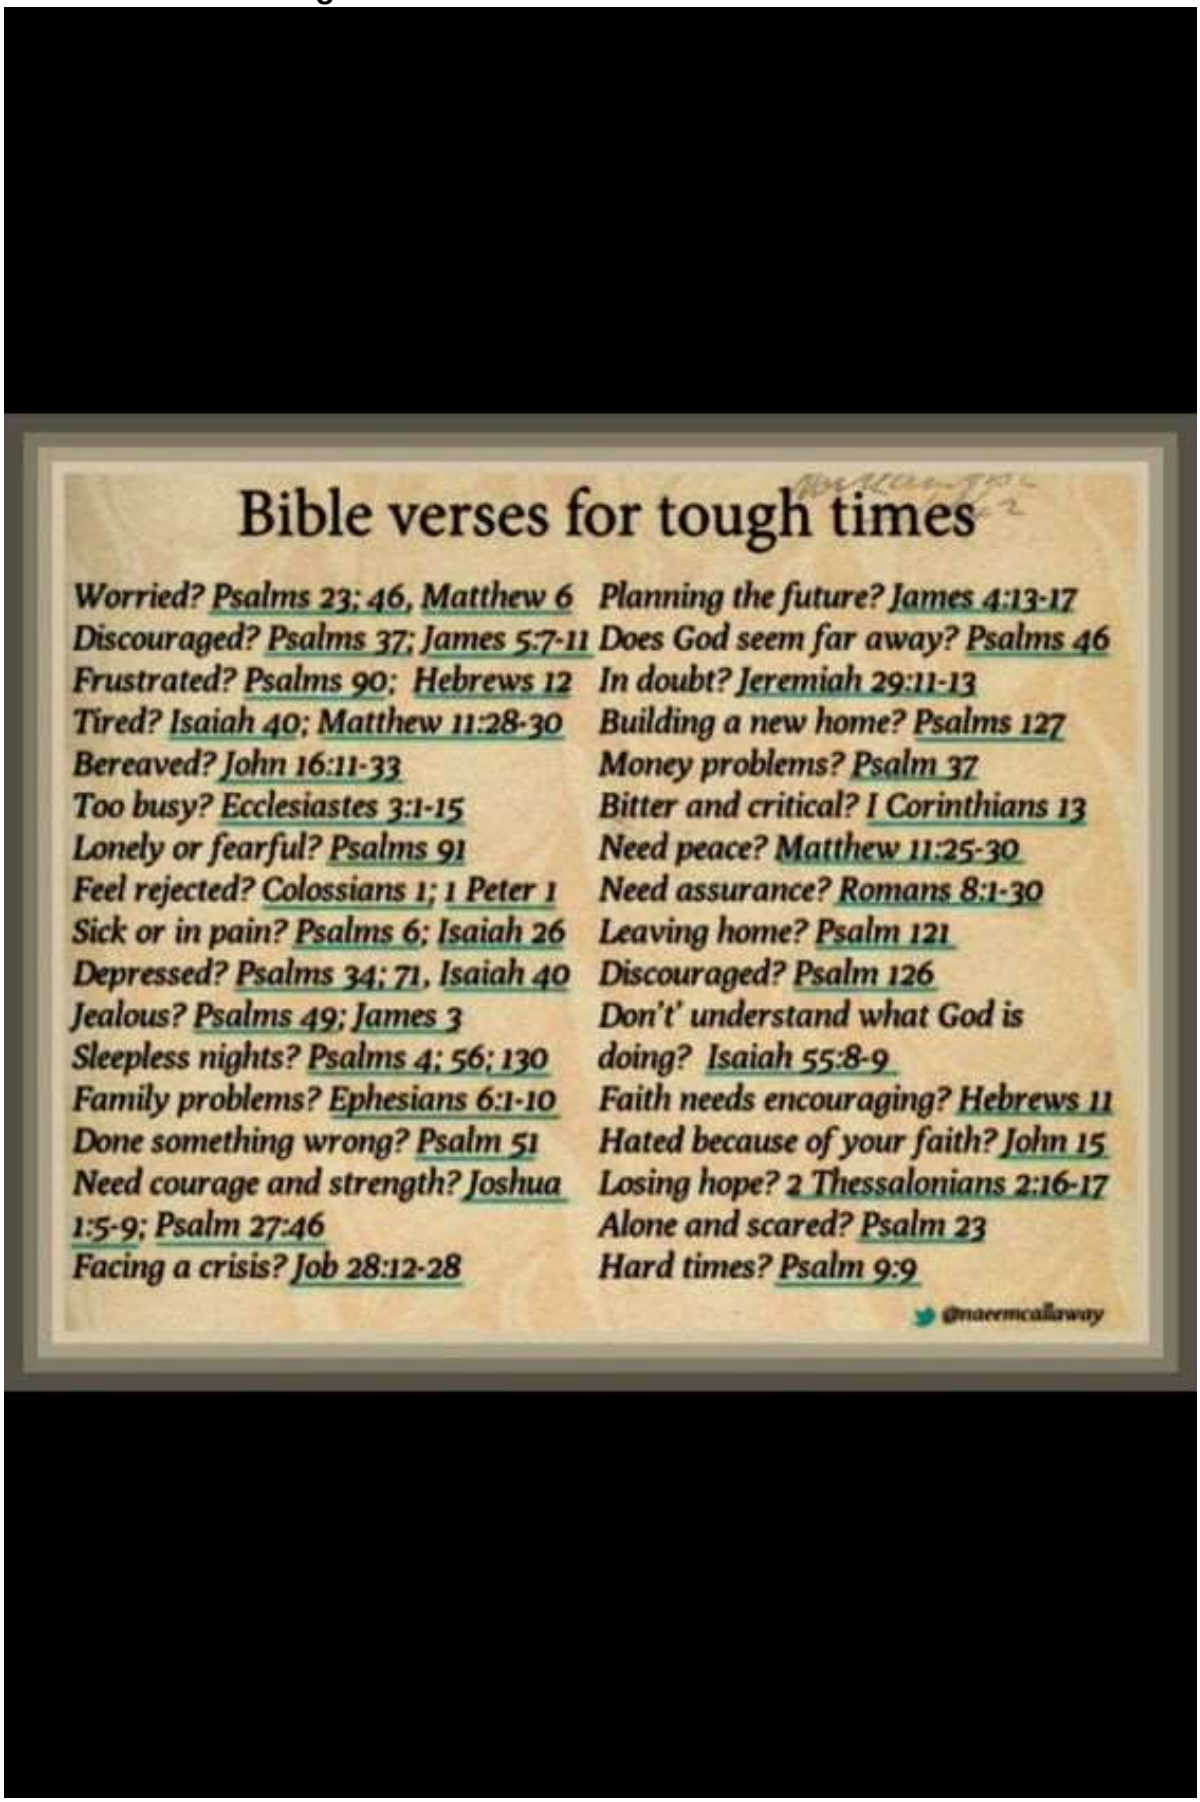


[Source: Pinterest heart-hands-home.blogspot.com]

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

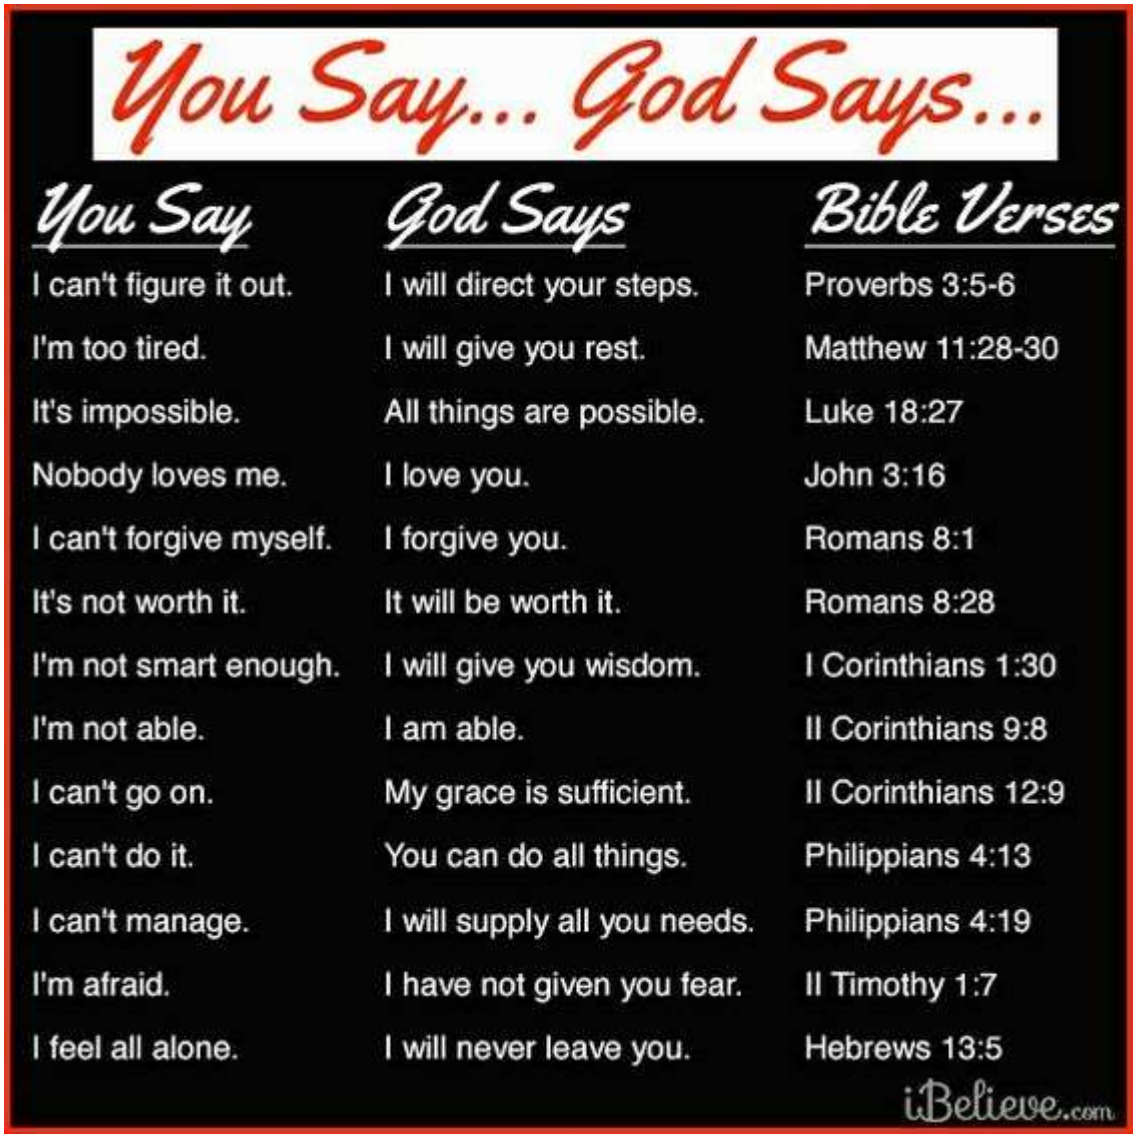
The Armor of God

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]



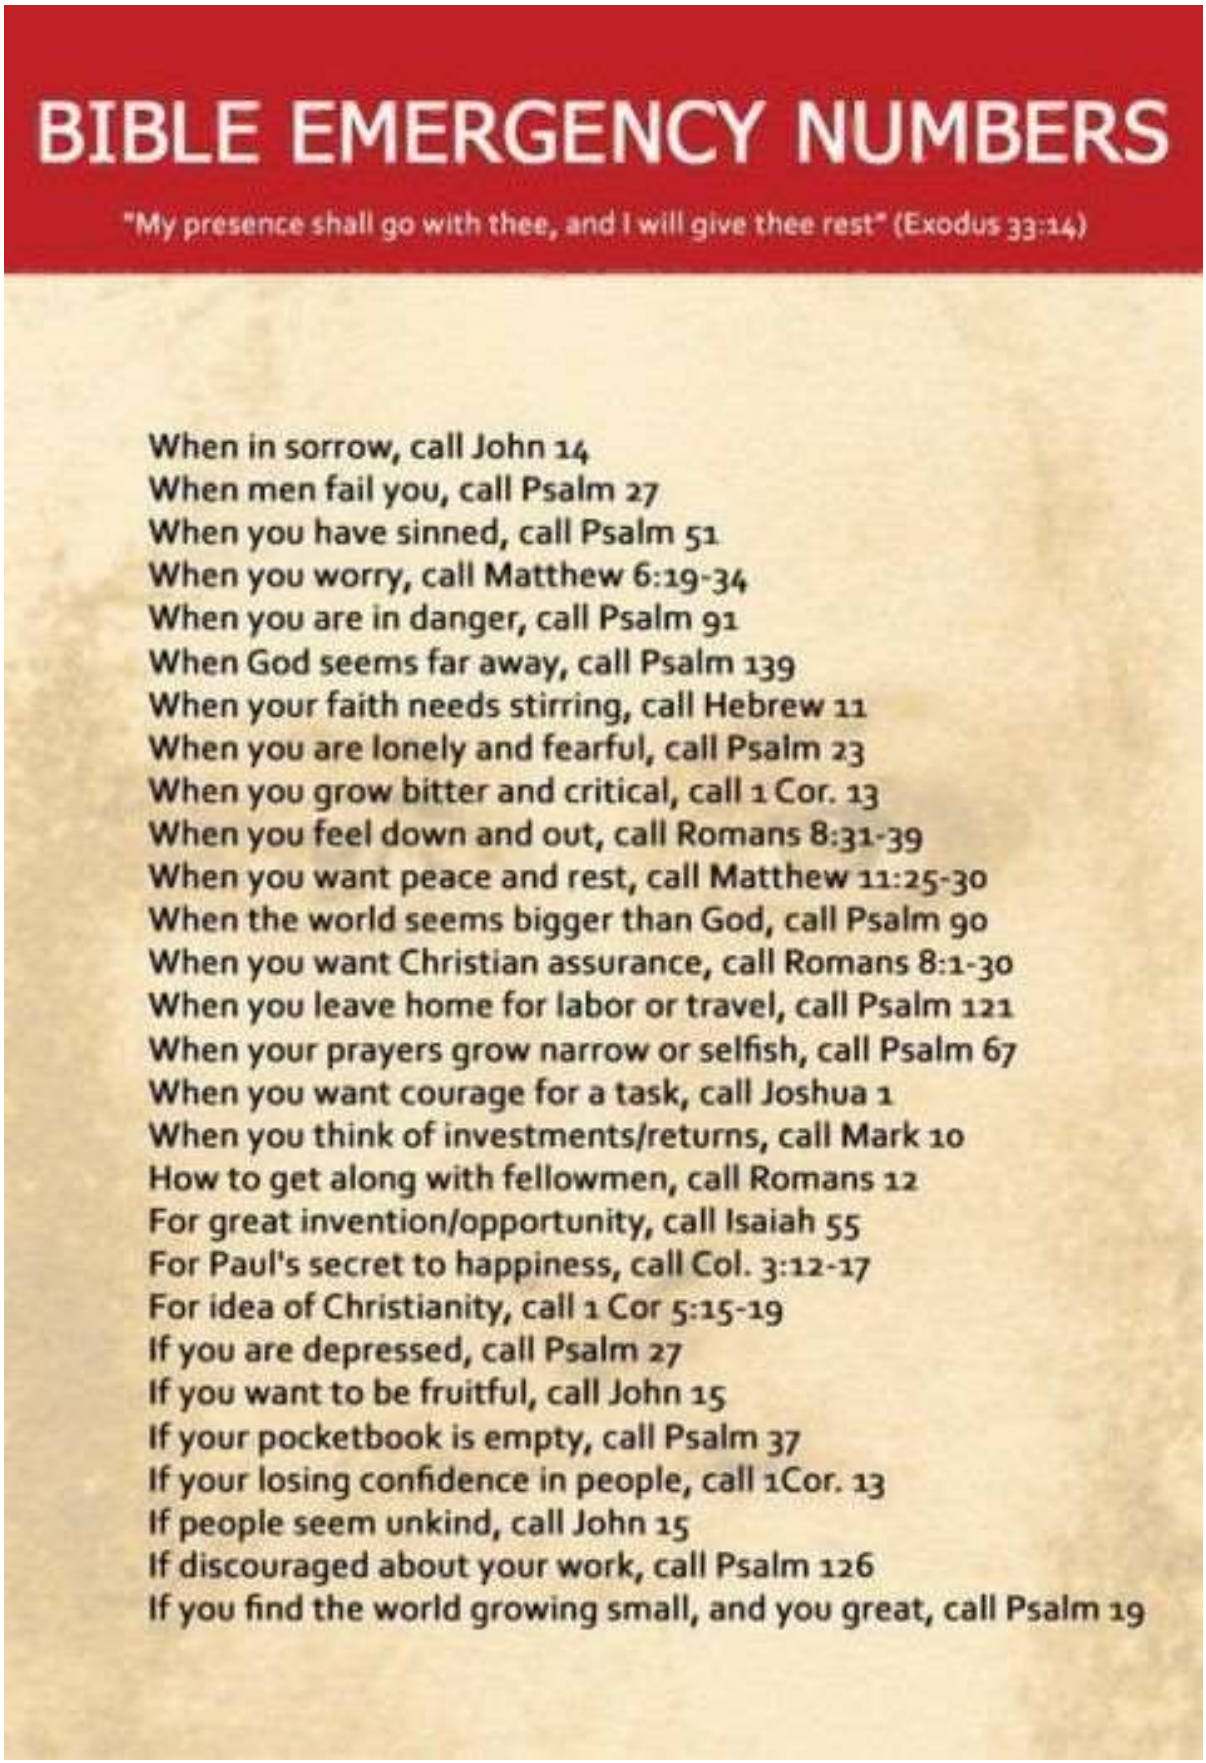
Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

[Source: http://indulgy.com/post/dP1Nj6XOf2/scripture-that-encourages-my-heart-definitel]



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Bible Verses for Tough Times



Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

You Say… God Says…

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Bible Emergency Numbers

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

My Identity in Jesus

MY IDENTITY IN JESUS

BELOVED
"I have loved you with an everlasting love; I have drawn you with unfailing kindness." - Jeremiah 31:3

A CHILD OF GOD
"See what great love the Father has lavished on us, that we should be called children of God! And that is what we are!" - 1 John 3:1

DELIGHTED IN
"The Lord your God is with you, the Mighty Warrior who saves. He will take great delight in you; in his love he will no longer rebuke you, but will rejoice over you with singing." - Zephaniah 3:17

FORGIVEN
"He himself bore our sins in his body on the cross, so that we might die to sins and live for righteousness; by his wounds you have been healed." - 1 Peter 2:24

WASHED CLEAN
"Though your sins are like scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they are red as crimson, they shall be like wool." - Isaiah 1:18

FREE
"It is for freedom that Christ has set us free. Stand firm, then, and do not let yourselves be burdened again by a yoke of slavery." - Galatians 5:1

A TEMPLE OF THE HOLY SPIRIT
"Do you not know that your bodies are temples of the Holy Spirit, who is in you, whom you have received from God?" - 1 Corinthians 6:19

ADOPTED INTO GOD'S FAMILY
"The Spirit you received brought about your adoption to sonship. And by him we cry, 'Abba, Father.'" - Romans 8:15

CO-HEIR WITH CHRIST
"Now if we are children, then we are heirs — heirs of God and co-heirs with Christ." - Romans 8:17

RIGHTEOUS
"For He made Him who knew no sin to be sin for us, that we might become the righteousness of God in Him." - 2 Corinthians 5:21

NEW
"Therefore, if anyone is in Christ, he is a new creation: The old has gone, the new has come!" - 2 Corinthians 5:17

A SAINT
"You were washed, you were sanctified, you were justified in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ and by the Spirit of our God." - 1 Corinthians 6:11

SET APART
"You are a chosen race, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, a people for his own possession." - 1 Peter 2:9

AN AMBASSADOR OF CHRIST
"We are therefore Christ's ambassadors, as though God were making his appeal through us." - 2 Corinthians 5:20

A CO-LABORER
"For we are co-workers in God's service; you are God's field, God's building." - 1 Corinthians 3:9

A SWEET AROMA
"For we are to God the pleasing aroma of Christ among those who are being saved and those who are perishing." - 2 Corinthians 2:15

NEVER ALONE
"The Lord himself goes before you and will be with you; he will never leave you nor forsake you." - Deuteronomy 31:8

A MASTERPIECE
"For we are God's masterpiece. He has created us anew in Christ Jesus, so we can do the good things he planned for us long ago." - Ephesians 2:10

WONDERFULLY MADE
"I am fearfully and wonderfully made." - Psalm 139:14

BOLD
"Since we have such a hope, we are very bold." - 2 Corinthians 3:12

HAVING GUARANTEED VICTORY
"You have given me your shield of victory. Your right hand sustains me; you stoop down to make me great." - Psalm 18:35

HOLDING A SECURED FUTURE
"'For I know the plans I have for you,' declares the Lord, 'plans to prosper you and not to harm you, plans to give you hope and a future.'" - Jeremiah 29:11

WHOLE IN CHRIST
"In Christ you have been brought to fullness." - Colossians 2:10

COMPILED BY BEN MALCOLMSON
ASSISTANT TO THE HEAD COACH
SEATTLE SEAHAWKS

A Storyline RESOURCE

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

My New Identity In Christ

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Who I am in Christ – My Identity

Who I am in Christ

I am Accepted...

Jn. 1:12	I am God's child.
Jn. 15:15	I am Christ's friend.
Rom. 5:1	I have been justified.
1 Cor. 6:17	I am united with the Lord (one spirit).
1 Cor. 6:19-20	I am bought with a price; I belong to God.
1 Cor. 12:27	I am a member of Christ's Body.
Eph. 1:1	I am a saint.
Eph. 1:5	I have been adopted as God's child.
Eph. 2:18	I have access to God thru the Holy Spirit.
Col. 1:14	I have been redeemed and forgiven.
Col. 2:10	I am complete in Christ.

I am Secure...

Rom. 8:1-2	I am free forever from condemnation.
Rom. 8:28	I am assured all works together for good.
Rom. 8:31-34	I am free from any charge against me.
Rom. 8:35-39	I cannot be separated from the love of God.
2 Cor. 1:21-22	I am established, anointed, sealed by God.
Col. 3:3	I am hidden with Christ in God.
Phil. 1:6	I am confident that the good work God has begun in me will be perfected.
Phil. 3:20	I am a citizen of heaven.
2 Tim. 1:7	I have not been given a spirit of fear, but of power, love and a sound mind.
Heb. 4:16	I can find grace and mercy in time of need.
1 Jn. 5:18	I am born of God; the evil one cannot touch me.

I am Significant...

Matt. 5:13-14	I am the salt and light of the earth.
Jn. 15:1,5	I am a branch of the true vine, a channel of His life.
Jn. 15:16	I have been chosen and appointed to bear fruit.
Acts 1:8	I am a personal witness of Christ's.
1 Cor. 3:16	I am God's temple.
2 Cor. 5:17-21	I am a minister of reconciliation for God.
2 Cor. 6:1	I am God's co-worker (1 Cor. 3:9).
Eph. 2:6	I am seated with Christ in the heavenly realm.
Eph. 2:10	I am God's workmanship.
Eph. 3:12	I may approach God with freedom and confidence.
Phil. 4:13	I can do all things thru Christ who strengthens me.

My Identity

"Understanding your identity in Christ is absolutely essential for your success at living a victorious Christian life!"

Dr. Neil T. Anderson, Who I Am in Christ
(Gospel Light, 1993)

Satan's Lie	God's Truth
You are a sinner because you sin.	Your are a saint (one declared righteous by God) who sins.
Your identity comes from what you have done.	Your identity comes from what God has done for you.
Your identity comes from what people say about you.	Your identity comes from what God says about you.
Your behavior tells you what to believe about yourself.	Your belief about yourself determines your behavior.

Dr. Timothy Warner, Resolving Spiritual Conflicts and Cross-Cultural Ministry
(Freedom in Christ Ministries, 1993)

Bookmark Front:
Dr. Neil T. Anderson, Victory Over the Darkness
(Gospel Light, 1990)

All references used by permission.
Please do not reproduce. Not for individual sale.

FREEDOM IN CHRIST MINISTRIES

9051 Executive Park Drive • Suite 503
Knoxville, TN 37923
865.342.4000 | info@ficm.org

www.ficm.org
www.freedominchrist.com

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

What is the Gospel?...

The "Gospel" is the "Good News" that…

Everyone is saved who believes in Jesus Christ: that He…

	Died on a cross / for the Forgiveness of our Sins [as foretold by OT Prophets in Scripture],
	He was Buried / then was Raised up on the 3rd day (Resurrection) [as per OT Prophets].
	Witnesses after Jesus arose: Apostles ate and drank with Him; over 500 men/women saw.
	Why Preach? – commanded by Jesus; of first/highest importance; and to warn you that Jesus was appointed [Lord] by God to reign over everything and to judge the living and the dead

NOTE: The order of this information does NOT matter. NO gospel presentation is complete without emphasizing Jesus' resurrection and that Jesus was appointed ruler (Lord) and judge over all.

Exact wording is not required as long as the essence of the Gospel is clear and complete.

The above summary of the Gospel of Jesus Christ is based on Paul's and Peter's (via Luke's Book of Acts) explicit statements of the Gospel (see: 1 Cor. 15:1-11, 20-28; Acts 10:34-38, 39-45 re: Peter's presentation of the Gospel to the Gentile Roman Centurion Cornelius). Other similar statements of the Gospel are found in Rom. 1:1-5; Acts 17:16-34 (Paul's speech at Mars Hill, Athens) and to a lesser extent, 2 Tim. 2:8-10.

["Christ" = from Christos, the Greek word for the Hebrew "Messiah" = "Anointed One of God"; i.e., Jesus the Messiah]

Legend:

	Saved / Believes in Jesus:
	Died/Sins/Scriptures
	Buried/Resurrection
	Witnesses
	Why Preach
	Appointed by God / Lord

Submit your comments, suggestions, questions to: gospel@timoninc.com

Note: The "Gospels" are books (by four writers) in the Bible that are accounts (reportings) of Jesus' life, messages/teachings (including his "Gospel" or "Good News" of salvation), his death and resurrection. There are four of them in the beginning of the New Testament.

See more*: What is the Gospel (continued)

For details on how the above summary chart was derived see my other separate references resource*:

The Gospel, Salvation and Evangelism

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others. [TOC]

Table of Contents

Appendix TOC

Index of Appendix Main Sections

Major Charts Index

Top – Page 1

See also my other separate reference resources*:

Christian Scholarship: Biblical – Theological – Philosophical

The Gospel, Salvation and Evangelism

Mere Christianity – C.S. Lewis

For information on the writings of Paul and the New Perspectives on Paul, including Romans and related topics, plus various N.T. Wright (and other scholars) related resources, see "Reference Notes on Paul and Romans (and Galatians plus Ephesians)"

NOTE: For issues and details related to Heaven and life after death, as well as covering related topics and including different perspectives (including N.T. Wright) - see my separate "Reference Notes on Heaven" (based in part on the book, Heaven, by Randy Alcorn)

Free duplication permitted with references for personal use. Portions copyrighted LY; NKJV T.Nelson Pub.; others.